Final Reading
April 4, 2017

1 Policy Research estimated that women in Colorado will not receive equal 2 pay until 2057 if progress continues at the same rate it has since 1960;
3 and

4 WHEREAS, The wage gap is not only discernible by sex but also 5 by race and ethnicity; and

6 WHEREAS, When comparing the earnings of women of each 7 racial and ethnic group with the earnings of white men, white women in 8 Colorado face the smallest gap, earning 77.7 cents for every dollar earned 9 by the average white man, followed by Asian/Pacific Islander women at 10 70 cents, African American women at 64 cents, Native American women 11 at 58 cents, and Latina women at only 53 cents; and

12 WHEREAS, As women age, the pay gap widens significantly:
13 According to the American Association of University Women, one year
14 after graduating college, women earn only 82% of what their male 15 counterparts earn; and

16 WHEREAS, Over a working lifetime, the average woman will lose 17 over $418,000 to the wage gap; and

18 WHEREAS, Equal pay policies can be implemented simply and 19 without undue costs or hardship in both the public and private sectors;
20 and

21 WHEREAS, There exists a strong business and public-interest 22 case for equal pay for equal work; and

23 WHEREAS, Closing the pay gap between men and women
24 strengthens the security of families today and eases future retirement 25 costs while enhancing the American economy by circulating an additional 26 $482 billion from increased wages; and

27 WHEREAS, Equal pay would cut the poverty rate for working 28 women in half, lifting almost 3.1 million women out of poverty; and

29 WHEREAS, Tuesday, April 4, 2017, symbolizes the time in the 30 new year in which the wages paid to American women catch up to the 31 wages paid to men from the previous year for the same work; now, 32 therefore,
