Summary of Legislation

The bill encourages school districts and charter schools to adopt policies aimed at reducing food waste in school cafeterias and meal preparation facilities. These policies may include:

- “share tables” where whole food or beverage items that students choose not to consume may be redistributed to others;
- donation of excess food to local nonprofit organizations;
- composting; and
- other food waste reduction initiatives.

The policies for share tables may address the foods that can and cannot be shared/reused. Any policy must comply with local, state and federal sanitation and health requirements.

Schools are encouraged to seek technical assistance and grant funding for these policies from the Colorado Circular Communities Enterprise (C3), housed with the Department of Public Health and Environment (CDPHE) and other appropriate organizations. C3 is encouraged to consider reducing food waste in schools through share table programs through its promotions and outreach.

Finally, the bill extends limited immunity from civil and criminal liabilities to staff and schools that supervise share tables and other food waste reduction programs.

State Expenditures

Staff at CDPHE may have an increase in workload to distribute grants and technical assistance to any school that implements these waste reduction policies and requests assistance. Revenue received by the C3 enterprise is continuously appropriated for use by the enterprise and supporting policies such as share tables and composting is within the scope of C3’s current duties. Thus, no change in appropriations is required to potentially support these efforts at schools.

To the extent civil and criminal immunity regarding waste reduction strategies prevents some cases from being filed or brought to the trial courts, workload in the Judicial Department may decrease by a minimal amount. No change in appropriation is required.

School District

School districts and charter schools that choose to implement waste reduction policies will have increased workload to develop these policies, consult with outside organizations, and comply with sanitation and health requirements. The fiscal note assumes that school districts will choose to implement these waste reduction policies if they have the funding available, or the capacity to seek technical assistance and funding to accommodate new share tables, composting and other waste reduction strategies.

Effective Date

The bill was signed into law by the Governor on April 17, 2025, and takes effect on August 6, 2025, assuming no referendum petition is filed.
