Employer: Posting this notice is not mandatory, unless your organization has a policy prohibiting firearms or concealed weapons at your place of business. According to Ohio Revised Code, schools, airports, churches, government buildings, and establishments that serve alcohol for on-premises consumption (i.e. restaurants and bars) are considered "no-carry" zones, thus owners in these or other no-carry zones should display this notice. If your facility is not within a no-carry zone, you are under no obligation to post this notice and may allow firearms or weapons to be carried at your place of business.
