Community Builders Put the Wind in JCF Sails

JCF is funded primarily by people like you, people who understand that having a central connector—across issues and sectors—makes a stronger community better able to navigate uncertain times.

We use this knowledge to help local donors do their best charitable giving individually and as a community. This behind the scenes work is especially critical now when we all need to work together to recover from crisis and rebuild our future.

JCF needs core mission funding of about $341,000 a year to support 3.85 staff members. JCF has charged no administrative fees for the COVID-19 Response Fund.

Every day, the small but mighty JCF team works closely with our local nonprofits to maintain a landscape view of the obstacles and opportunities facing the people of Jefferson County.

Become a JCF Community Builder by pledging $1,000 to $10,000 a year for five years.

Now more than ever, JCF needs to remain responsive to connect people who care with causes that matter in Jefferson County.

COVID-19 Response & Recovery Fund

As COVID-19 abruptly shut down Jefferson County, hundreds and soon thousands of people lost their jobs. Within a week, JCF initiated the COVID-19 Response Fund and weekly cycle of granting awards to non-profits who could quickly provide services to those in need. This is an example of how JCF makes it possible for our community to tackle big issues.

Twelve weeks later, nearly 1000 community members have donated over $575,000. Over 70 applications were received with $560,000 of grants allocated to Dove House, Bayside Housing, Jumping Mouse, the Benji Project, Jefferson County Food Bank and over 20 other non-profits.

Here are some community-driven solutions that received funding:

- ♥ Rapid Response Rental Assistance Fund, to keep temporary setbacks from turning into insurmountable debt.
- ♥ Neighbor Loaves, making 250+ loaves of fresh bread available each week to families in Chimacum by connecting local grain growers and bakeries to the School Meal Program.
- ♥ Online Farmers Markets, making it possible for farmers to sell their produce and products while keeping community safe.

This is the kind of spontaneous creative thinking and response that will not only see our community through the immediate crisis but also allow us to envision and build a new future for Jefferson County, one that is local, sustainable, creative and far-reaching.
