

Disclaimer

The frameworks, templates, and materials provided as part of the AI Governance Professional Program for Executives and Board Directors are indicative reference tools developed for professional development and strategic discussion purposes. They do not claim to be exhaustive or universally applicable and should be tailored to each organization's specific context, size, sector, governance structure, and regulatory environment.

These materials are designed to stimulate meaningful dialogue among C-suite leaders, committees, and Boards, helping decision-makers identify critical questions, facilitate brainstorming, and strengthen awareness of AI governance responsibilities at the executive- and board-level. They are meant to support informed decision-making and prepare leadership teams to define operationally demonstrable approaches within their own organizations.

Implementation, adaptation, and any resulting policy or operational decisions remain solely the responsibility of each organization. The content provided does not constitute legal, compliance, or risk assurance advice.

The Program comprises two complementary toolkit parts:

1. Compendium of customizable frameworks and templates: a consolidated guide bringing together overarching principles, concepts, and frameworks.
2. Individual toolkits: individual frameworks and templates for practical use, customization, and internal adaptation.

Additional materials and updates may be uploaded or released periodically to reflect evolving regulatory developments, emerging best practices, and participant feedback.
