Commitments

"The commitment to love always transforms, heals, and opens new avenues of creativity." Gary Zukav

The desire to relax and create is strong for many, however, many people feel overwhelmed, too tired, or our Inner Critic rears its ugly head and we feel our work isn't good enough. Through our time together, we'll explore a consistent Mindful Creative Self-Care practice which will not only support YOU but also inform your teaching and facilitating in the world. Commitments during training:

Daily: "Morning Musings" Practice

Including 5-30 min of a Mindful Art morning practice in your Art Journal(s)

Weekly: Training Modules

One recorded training module weekly including Trauma-Sensitive Guiding Principles, Mindful Art and Meditation practices, and Facilitator tools and techniques

Certification Requirements:

Complete Training Modules, included Handouts and Mindful Art exercises, as well as scheduled Final Practicum and Review. Additional details in later modules

Optional:

1-on-1 Coaching Calls (if included in your package) and live Zoom Group Call (also recorded)

Module 1

"Creativity is experimenting, growing, taking risks, breaking rules...and having fun." - Mary Lou Cook

Module 1 includes:

- > Overview of the Mindful Art and Meditation Teacher Training
- > Tune-In, Clarify Intentions, and Design your Creative Self-Care Plan
 - > Journaling prompts to notice what Creative practices spark Joy
 - > Life Balance Wheel and Self-Reflective Writing Prompts
- > 8 Creative Struggles that may stop you (or your students) from creating
- > 8 Creative Solutions to support a daily creative practice
- > Required Readings (Articles) regarding Trauma, Art and Mindfulness
- > Recommended Readings (Books) and optional Community Sharing

Highlights of what we'll begin exploring in Module 2:

- > What is Mindful Art and Meditation
- > Benefits of Mindful Art and Meditation
- > Trauma-Informed Principles and the Nervous System
