FOREWORD

IN THE ISSUANCE OF THIS 1930 EON
WE HAVE SOUGHT NOT ONLY TO MIRROR
THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OF OUR EAST-ERN OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, BUT TO
FOSTER A SPIRIT OF APPRECIATION OF
AND PRIDE IN THE BEAUTY OF THAT PART OF OREGON WHICH LIES EAST OF THE CASCADE MOUNTAINS.

DEDICATION

WE, THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF
THE EASTERN OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL
DEDICATE OUR FIRST EON TO PRESIDENT
H. E. INLOW, WHO HAS WON THE ESTEEM
OF EVERY STUDENT THROUGH HIS IN-SPIRING INTEREST AND SYMPATHETIC
UNDERSTANDING OF THE PROBLEMS OF
THE INDIVIDUAL AND OF THE GROUP, AND
HIS UNFAILING CO-OPERATION IN ALL SCHOOL ACTIVITIES.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Less than two years ago, where the first building of the Eastern Oregon Normal School now stands, was a sterile promontory extending into and commanding an impressive view of the beautiful Grande Ronde Valley. Unoccupied alike and unresponsive yet to the will and hand of man, lay the rich alluvial valley of the brook where now a college campus awaits the development of future years.

Soon appeared the instruments of surveyor and landscape architect, followed by the busy, directed effort of many workmen in wood, metal, and stone. Where nothing had been but barren earth, arose a structure of strength and grace; broad stairs and stately balustrade made way for traffic before unknown. The physical plant of a new educational institution stood ready for and invited use.

Faculty and students came. In a day a new center of cultural thought and activity sprang into being where none had been before. Classes met; assemblies convened; library and laboratory yielded truth and beauty; social organization emerged responsive to community need; sports and recreation contributed to happy and forceful living; a purpose was born which was to find expression in ideals of service and standards of achievement.

Students and faculty of the Eastern Oregon Normal School in this its beginning year enjoy a distinction which will come to none after them — that of founders, pioneers in a new and challenging enterprise. The fine achievement which has marked every activity of the normal school during the year indicates that this distinction has been interpreted both as an opportunity and a responsibility. In the establishment and development of an educational institution through united effort of students, teachers, and administration agency, that creative genius which is the distinguishing characteristic of civilized man finds highest expression.

The story of these first days as presented in the 1930 EON will prove a source of increasing interest to those whose privilege it is through participation in the life of the school to contribute to that story. It will continue a source of pleasure and of inspiration to highest achievement to all who read it.

H. E. INLOW,
President of the Normal School.

EASTERN OREGON SCENERY

Eastern Oregon scenery — always of the profound, always of the appealing, where lies a response for every mood and a food for every fancy. The hoary mountains, unchangeable, ever-changing, tell of the rugged wilderness which the pioneers found, fronted and furrowed.

Stretches of forests which speak of the Maker, curving, rushing rivers, each with a charm its own, the cool lakes, beauty spots where elk and deer come at eve to drink, the lonely stretches of desert — even the scented sage-brush lends a charm and allure to that part of Oregon where nature has collected her beauties and thrills, awes, comforts, and appeals in all her many capacities. With the rugged rocky grandeur of the mountains, she awes; with the deep, darkened forests, bowed with snow in winter, filled with chattering life in summer, she thrills; with the sparkling falls, the bluest of waters, the brightest of flowers, and the whitest of snow scenes, she delights; with the far reaching expanses of sand and sage-brush, wind-tossed and desolate, she quiets and subdues.

In all these capacities nature is seen, and one travels not far in the viewing. The subtle coloring of the Blue Mountains, the sparkling beauty of Wallowa Lake, the picturesqueness of the many small falls and mountain lakes where wild life abounds, the scenic wonders of the Columbia River Highway, the beauty of valleys of patchwork fields, winding rivers and busy little towns, viewed from high points of Emigrant Hill; none can justly be described. In summer the harmony of greens, blues and golds, backed by snow-tipped peaks, creates a scene which is breath-taking. In winter the dazzling white, the icy blue and the shadowy brown is coldly charming. Yes, truly, Eastern Oregon scenery "speaks a various language," a language fascinating, a language of true beauty.

PLACEMENT OF THE NORMAL SCHOOL

Before the year 1929, eastern Oregon had no institution of higher learning. The people of Oregon realized this need and as a result, legislation, enacted by the legislature of 1925 and approved by vote of the people November 2, 1926, made such an institution possible.

After the appropriation had been made, the Board of Regents was assigned the task of determining the location for the Eastern Oregon Normal School. Following a very careful survey, La Grande was chosen because of its central location according to the distribution of population. The Regents found that La Grande was exceedingly well equipped with the social, residential, and recreational requisites of an ideal educational center.

THE CAMPUS

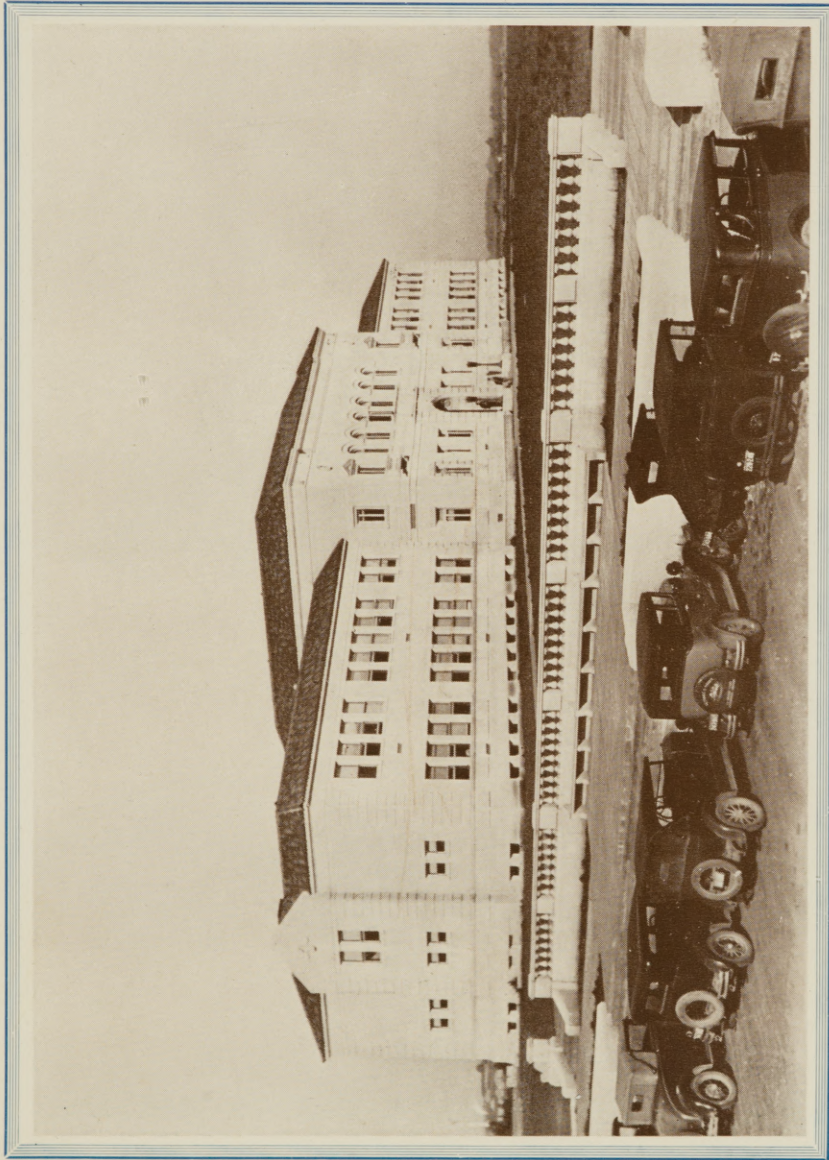

In acknowledgment of its selection for the location of the Eastern Oregon Normal School, the city of La Grande provided twenty-eight acres of ground, overlooking the city and the Grande Ronde Valley, as the campus for the school. Since that time, another acre has been added to the grounds by the Union Pacific Railroad Company and the city of La Grande.

Looming at the head of a spacious, concrete stairway, is the administration building. The structure is of the Italian Renaissance period and has an exterior finish of bug stucco and a roof of terra cotta tile. In addition to the administration offices and the auditorium located on the second floor which will seat 600 people, the building contains 16 classrooms and a well-designed library.

Further plans for the campus provide for a library building, a practice school, a women's dormitory, and a gymnasium. Athletic accommodations will include tennis courts, a football gridiron and a baseball diamond. The grounds around the buildings will be effectively landscaped. A miniature lake will enhance the beauty of the grounds between the main buildings and the athletic field.

We have every assurance that the school will grow to such an extent that all of these proposed improvements and plans may reach fulfillment within a short time.

LOAN FUNDS

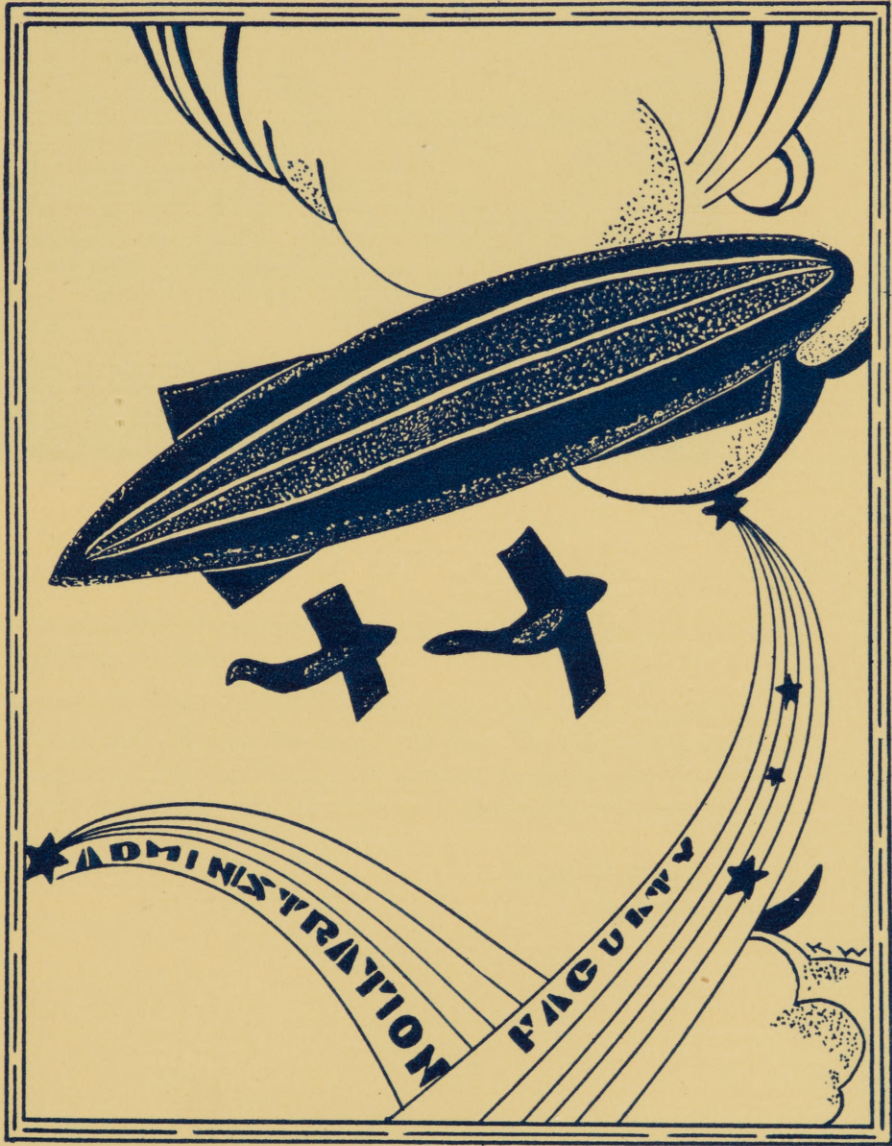

The American Legion Post No. 43 of La Grande, realizing the need for a student loan fund, has established such a fund for the students of the Eastern Oregon Normal School. At the present time the fund amounts to $1,000, but the Legionnaires expect it to grow to several thousand dollars within the next few years.

Other loan funds are also available to students of the Eastern Oregon Normal School. Young women students may receive financial aid from the scholarship loan fund of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs. The Masonic Grand Lodge of the State of Oregon has established a student loan fund for the assistance of sons and daughters of Masons.

These loan funds will be even more appreciated in the future than at the present time, when an increasingly large number of students will avail themselves of this assistance. Through them, students who wish to attend the Eastern Oregon Normal School but have not sufficient funds, may borrow the money, and thus be privileged to continue their education.

Aside from the assistance rendered individual students, the loan funds aid the Normal School itself a great deal by making possible a greater attendance.

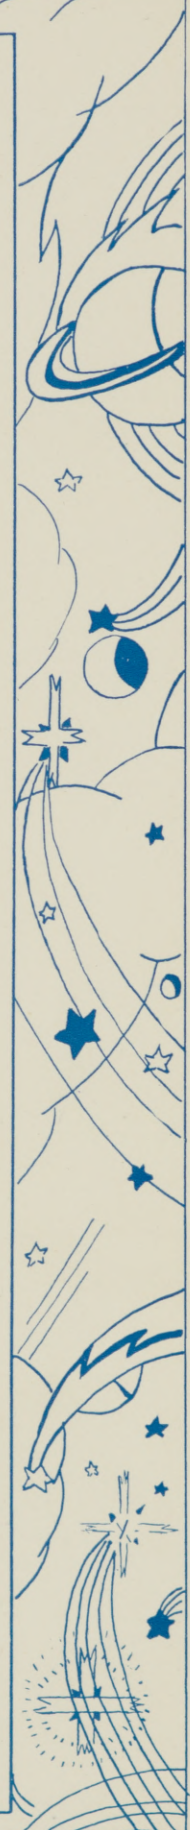

It is often said that a good beginning makes a fine ending. If that be true, our first year presages splendid things to come.

However, there can be no other first class nor first EON. The thrill of starting has been ours, and the joy of laying plans for the future. We have been pioneering together and have learned to know one another through our common problems, and our efforts to achieve fine things for our school. May the memory of this first year remain forever bright in our memories.

HELEN S. MOOR,
Dean of Women.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

*"Who plays with all his heart and skill
Will also play with heart and will."*

One of the best features of our present civilization is the intelligent attention given to play and to all forms of outdoor sports and pursuits. All work and no play is as bad as all play and no work; and we believe we have found the solution by mixing work and play in proper proportions. Besides the pleasure derived from the physical education classes and sports, the department aims to give health classes, playground supervision, and coaching that are of true value. We are hoping to build for the teachers the foundation for themselves and the children they come in contact with, so that they may live their lives at their fullest and best.

MADELINE LARSON,
Physical Education for Women.

ERNEST R. QUINN,
Physical Education for Men.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

The richest inheritance that comes to a people is its language. This language is in constant use; by its use we are judged. The English department first, attempts to train students in the effective use of the English language and second, seeks to reveal to students the glories of English literature.

AMANDA ZABEL,
LENA FOLEY.

LIBRARY

There have been many changes in the methods of teaching during the last decade. These changes have brought into prominence the school library and made it the center of the institution and the laboratory for the classroom. No longer are students taught to memorize facts but instead how and where to find information for themselves. A course in the use of books and libraries is offered to further enable students to get the most out of courses while in school and to continue their education after leaving college.

HAZEL REA,
Librarian.

ART DEPARTMENT

The sense of beauty is as vital to complete living as is a concept of industry. The American people have been criticised for putting far too much emphasis on the latter during the materialistic age in which we are living. However the balance wheel is beginning to swing the other way. Artistic enjoyment is bringing the country back to higher ideals and richer living.

If we neglect this native sense we are unable to find the good and beautiful which exists in everything. Our lives become drab and mechanical and we no longer seek for happiness.

It is the duty of our American schools and homes to keep the sense of beauty alive, to awaken deeper appreciations, and to applaud the faintest sign of the creative genius which always comes in the wake of a beautiful experience.

To this end is our art department established.

CAROLINE WILLIAMS.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Only within the last few years has the educational value of music been appreciated. That it is now being recognized as a study of the utmost value, even to those whose talents lie in other directions, is due to the work of a few far-sighted teachers. Besides the training offered in the teaching of music in schools, in harmony and in music appreciation, a girls' glee club, boys' quartet, and an orchestra have been active in our first school year.

W. W. NUSBAUM.

EDUCATION

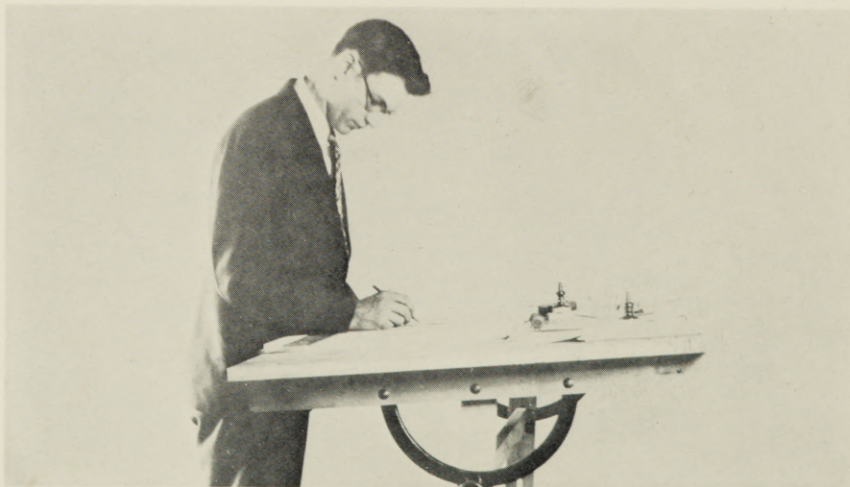

This department attempts to give that professional preparation necessary for effectively imparting information to the boys and girls of the State of Oregon. Courses are given in introduction to education, principles of education, school and community, school organization and management, history of education, and the use of mental and educational tests. Opportunity is given those progressive students who wish to prepare themselves for some special field in the platoon school, the junior high school, individualized instruction, and the administration of an elementary school.

JOHN M. MILLER.

PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

Through courses in educational psychology, child psychology, and educational tests and measurements, it is hoped to instill in prospective teachers an attitude that they are going out to teach children rather than subjects. An appreciation of child nature, an understanding of the principles of child learning, and a knowledge of intelligence, achievement, and diagnostic tests and their proper use and interpretation — these are the objectives of this department.

F. G. MACOMBER.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Society, as the individual, progresses through the examination and evaluation of experience. The present may be understood and the future judged only in the light of the past. History comprises those permanent values which will aid mankind to think and act more wisely in the future. Historical knowledge has a cultural value since it inculcates a keener appreciation of literature, art, music and of life in general.

History provides the laboratory for sociology. The most difficult of all arts is the art of living together. Through the study of man's activities in the past, sociology hopes to accomplish its aim of creating better relationships among men. Thus, social science hopes to promote human well-being and add to the total quantum of human happiness.

EDWARD G. DANIEL.

Miss Gertrude Walter was instructor in the Social Science Department in the summer and fall terms. She has been on a leave of absence during the winter and spring terms as a result of an automobile accident. Miss Walter was instrumental in the formulation of the constitution of the Associated Student Body and in many ways she has influenced the life of the students.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The Science Department strives to inculcate the nature and effects of the natural and applied science principles, and to create in the student a widespread interest and pleasure in science as a thing of personal importance. The fields covered are limited to general biology and to general science. In the future, more specialized courses, such as zoology, botany, and probably chemistry and physics, will be offered. The methods of the department are in keeping with modern pedagogy — all participate in enjoyable experiences.

ELMO STEVENSON.

INTERMEDIATE EDUCATION

Educationally, we have come to believe in a program of work which has a personal connection with a child's immediate life. Such a program starts from children's immediate needs and interests and approximates as nearly as possible what to children are life-like situations.

The whole child goes to school. Therefore, the mastery of facts, the acquiring of attitudes and appreciations, habits and skills becomes a problem of tremendous proportions. Freedom, pupil initiative, an active school, and child interest as the orienting factor of the child, are basic principles we must consider.

Freedom to develop into a distinct personality, with a belief in his own ability, that he may ultimately become a clear thinker with an honest purpose, is generally conceded to be the right of every child.

It is the purpose in intermediate education to give students a background of understanding of such a philosophy of education, as applied to this age level, and to put them in possession of some of the knowledge of subject-matter and techniques of procedure that they may carry education forward in terms of human good, human values, and human personality.

KATE L. HOUX,
Supervisor.

PRIMARY EDUCATION

The Primary Division of the Teacher Training Department of the Normal School aims to prepare students to teach efficiently the boys and girls of the primary grades. Through training, the student is led to see that the true measure of efficiency of every teacher must be considered in the light of the child through the developmental changes which the teacher causes to take place in his habits, appreciations, and fund of knowledge. To fulfill this obligation the teacher must realize that the function of the school is three-fold: to give the child facts, develop the best in his personality, and prepare him for high grade human living. Through the varying experiences and activities the student teacher is given opportunity to observe and participate in a training program carried forward with children in a wholesome happy atmosphere which is conducive to the child's satisfying joy in work and play. The student teacher thus acquires, as part of her teaching equipment, an ability to influence the child to take his place as a member of a purposeful cooperative group which is a substantial training for citizenship.

ALICE McDONALD,
Supervisor.

TRAINING DEPARTMENT

The name "J. H. Ackerman Training School" of the Eastern Oregon Normal School has been selected as the official title in honor of the late Mr. Ackerman, who held a long and outstanding record as instructor and leader in school affairs in Oregon. He was superintendent of public instruction in Oregon, president of the Oregon Normal School at Monmouth, and was among the early advocates of a normal school in eastern Oregon. As such, the training school is proud to bear his name.

In addition to the teaching experience the Normal School students receive under the supervision of the training teachers, a preliminary observation course is given in the La Grande public schools. The final preparatory teacher training is also received in the public schools, whereby the students assume the entire responsibility of the schoolroom for a period of time.

FIRST GRADE

*"The things a child can make
 May crude and worthless be;
 It is his impulse to create
 Should gladden thee."*

—FROEBEL.

The creative instinct of the child is a delight and should be given a proper outlet with simple material and occasional direction. With the child as the center of the school, the teacher is the guide who no longer says, "Don't do that," but "Why not do this instead?" This in part explains the happy faces of the children in the first grade of the training school.

ALMA WHITMER,
Training Teacher.

THIRD GRADE

The third grade has as its purpose the building of true citizenship. During the winter months a puppet show was planned and produced from which each child gained the ability of contributing to a group project. Through such activities each child learns to share his ability for the welfare of the whole group.

LULU GRACE ALLEN,
Training Teacher.

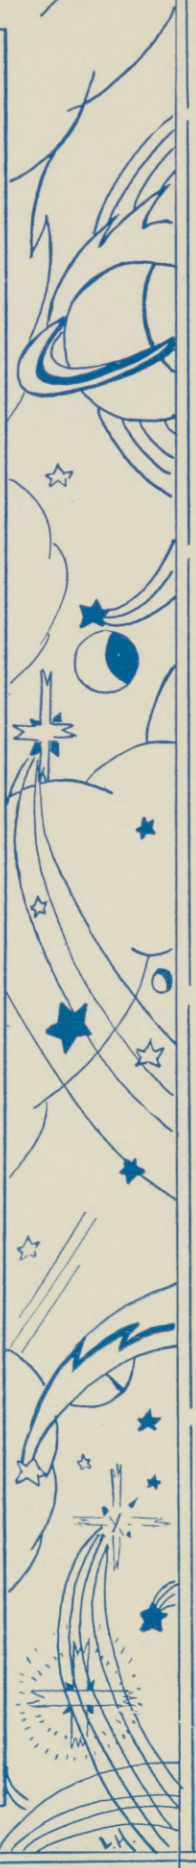

FOURTH GRADE

The children of the fourth grade are interested in problems that emerge from their own lives. Units of work are carried out, some of them being, "An Imaginary Trip Around the World," "The Oregon Trail," and "Bird Life Around La Grande."

In their activity periods, they made a miniature movie in which they recorded some of the most interesting experiences of their journeys. Filled with a desire to create they have enjoyed the opportunities of the art periods to put into expression their creative abilities.

Through working in groups, they have developed a social consciousness, a willingness to submerge self-interests for the promotion of the best interests of the group.

EDITH B. DARBY,
Training Teacher.

SIXTH GRADE

Training in the ability to recognize and practice good citizenship habits has been developed in the sixth grade children largely through the operation of their citizenship club, which meets weekly to discuss room and school problems.

The reading club, organized to stimulate an interest in reading, has held meetings weekly also, the programs consisting mainly of oral book reports. The children have managed a library of their own books in connection with this club.

A newspaper, The Normal Chieftain, containing both news and feature stories, has been published at intervals throughout the year.

Training school assemblies have been given, numerous projects carried out, and various types of lessons have been open to observation.

Feeling the need of an organized student body for the Eastern Oregon Normal School, the students selected a committee to draw up a constitution, which was later adopted December 4, 1929.

The constitution provides for the support of various student activities and sets up a high standard of student participation and of service to the school and state.

The Student Council consists of the Student Body officers, two members chosen from the Senior Class, two from the Freshman Class, and two Faculty advisory members.

During the year 1929-30 the Student Body, under the leadership of the Student Council, has done a great deal in sponsoring various activities. Aside from the regular athletic and social events of the Normal School, it has purchased a Majestic combination radio and phonograph, provided for a field for baseball practice and rented a gymnasium for basketball. The Normal School has sponsored the Moroni Olson Players in "White Wings"; held an oratorical contest for high school students of Union and Wallowa counties, and sponsored the first publication of the EON.

The organization of the Senior Class took place in the fall term at a Senior mix. The members of the class are those who expect to complete work in January, March, June, or August. It was decided, in accordance with the policy of many four-term schools, to have one Commencement exercise for all members of the class and June 10th was chosen for the date.

While the class, as an organized group, has not had an active part in school affairs, its members have taken a lead in activities, and it is hoped that this class has laid the foundation for worthwhile accomplishments in years to come.

The Woman's League of the Eastern Oregon Normal School was organized for the purpose of encouraging a greater feeling of loyalty and fellowship among the students, and between students and Faculty members, to set up higher ideals of character and social standards.

This organization is composed of all registered women students in attendance at the Normal School.

The first officers of the League, elected during the fall quarter, were:

The Woman's League has been very active during this first year of its existence. During the summer term a very enjoyable informal dancing party was held in the Normal auditorium. Since this was the first dance held by the Woman's League, its success gave a hopeful outlook for future social functions.

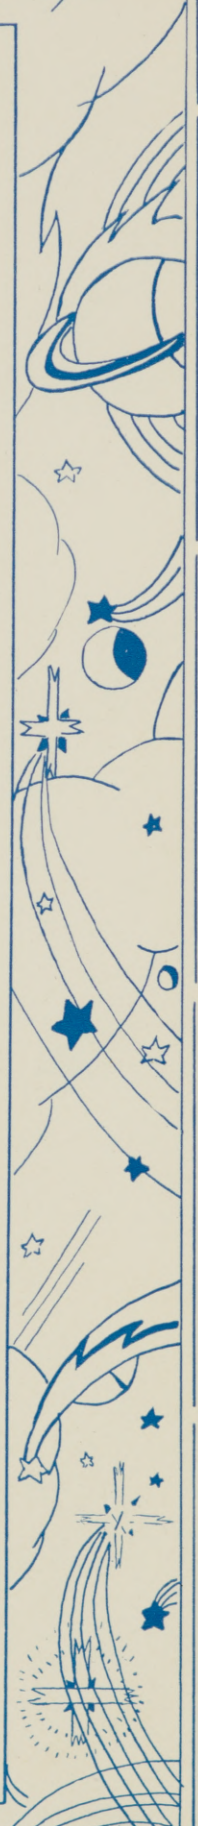

The fall term with the season's amber and gold inspired students to give a Hollywood Frolic at which each guest represented one of the Hollywood stars. Prizes were awarded to the best representatives.

Later two more successful dancing parties were held, one in November and the other a semi-formal Christmas party held at the close of the term. The auditorium was decorated with small fir trees lending the proper atmosphere.

During the glory of the winter season a very pleasant informal dance was held, to which the Willamette University basketball team boys were invited.

A tea for members of all Woman's Clubs in Eastern Oregon was held during the spring term. The reception room was decorated with lilacs and apple blossoms. A very interesting program, which added to the enjoyment of the afternoon, was presented by members of the League.

Besides the social affairs sponsored by the Woman's League, the standing committees have been functioning constantly.

The Class of 1930 will always cherish memories of days spent at the Eastern Oregon Normal School and desires to continue its relationships with its alma mater. Recognizing this sentiment, the president of the Senior Class appointed a committee to draw up a constitution for the association and to make plans for the initial meeting, which will be held early in June.

We hope that this organization will ever be an effective force for the strengthening of bonds between the school and the graduates.

The songsters at the Normal School have not been silent during the brief existence of our school. The Girls' Glee Club has appeared several times in Student Body programs. During the month of March a group of girls in the Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. W. W. Nusbaum, took part in the presentation of programs at Muddy Creek and Cove.

A wide range of dramatic activities has characterized the first year of Sock and Buskin. The name, symbolic of tragedy and comedy, was selected for the organization which was formed early in the fall by a large group of students interested in various phases of play production.

Membership is earned by a point system in which the candidate must do considerable work in the club before becoming a member. Members not only take part as actors, but make costumes and scenery and act on business, property, and play reading committees, so that all are given an opportunity for experience in the different activities in connection with the presentation of a play.

During the year a representative group gave performances at Cove and Muddy Creek, and a few skits have been presented for outside entertainments.

FORENSIC ACTIVITIES

In November, 1929, a determined group of students of the Eastern Oregon Normal School met and organized a club which would sponsor forensic activities, specifically scholastic debates, in the Eastern Oregon Normal School.

Charter members of the organization were: Harriet Ahearn, Elsie Yeck, Vergella Bond, Eva-Jane Erwin, Grace Herr, Lowell Fuller, Eva Woods, Lucille Gant, Bethmyrl Miller, Edna Williamson, Eugene Bowman, Francis Doud, Zelma Austin, with Miss Zabel, adviser.

The first officers chosen were: Harriet Ahearn, president; Eugene Bowman, vice-president; Grace Herr, secretary-treasurer; Vergella Bond, chairman of constitutional committee; Elsie Yeck, chairman of program committee.

The constitution adopted limited the number of members to twenty-five and set a high standard of scholarship and oratorical abilities necessary for membership.

The initial debate took place on March 7, 1930, with the College of Idaho. The question debated was, resolved: That the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, excepting forces necessary for police purposes. Eugene Bowman, Hazel Williamson, Vergella Bond, and Victoria Schweizer, Viola Phillips and Elsie Yeck were contestants of the E. O. N. Forensic Club.

Two further debates were held in which Vergella Bond, Eugene Bowman, Delora Funk, Victoria Schweizer and Viola Phillips took part.

In all debates a splendid showing was made for the Eastern Oregon Normal, and a laudable example for future aspirants was set by the club.

The Educational Club was organized during the winter quarter of school. Students having 45 term hours and who are majoring in education are eligible for membership. All members of the Faculty are honorary members.

The object of this club is to establish the proper and desirable professional ideals and attitudes in those of the teaching profession, to foster mutual improvement towards this profession and to advance the standards of public education by bringing within the reach of all who are interested, valid information and instruction along educational lines.

On March 7th a social evening was held at the Normal for members of the club and for Faculty members.

The following speakers have addressed the club at various meetings: Mr. H. E. Inlow, president of Eastern Oregon Normal School; Mr. E. A. Sayre, Union County school superintendent; Thomas H. Gentle, professor of education of the University of Oregon; and Mr. C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction.

ORCHESTRA

The Orchestra, when first organized, was few in numbers, but everyone gave all he had and his best to put it across. During the fall and winter quarters this organization with the aid of the La Grande High School rendered musical numbers for the Sock and Buskin productions.

Owing to the fact that there were fewer than ever who turned out during the spring quarter, a quartette of violins was organized consisting of Jennie Neilson, Elizabeth Jackson, Grace Herr, and Mrs. Edna Williamson.

The Orchestra will, however, probably increase and improve as the institution grows.

COACH ERNEST R. QUINN

The first E. O. N. football team played through a very successful season. With a small squad of ex-high school players, who had played under various coaches and systems of play, Coach Quinn developed one of the strongest teams in the state.

The Mountaineers won four games and tied one out of the six games played for a percentage of .800. This is especially notable in that it brought the State Normal championship to E. O. N., and that two Northwest Conference teams were played and defeated.

From the showing E. O. N. made against Enterprise Hi, they were not considered strong, but when the strong College of Idaho team was defeated 19-7, everyone awoke to the fact that the Mountaineers as a team were worth watching.

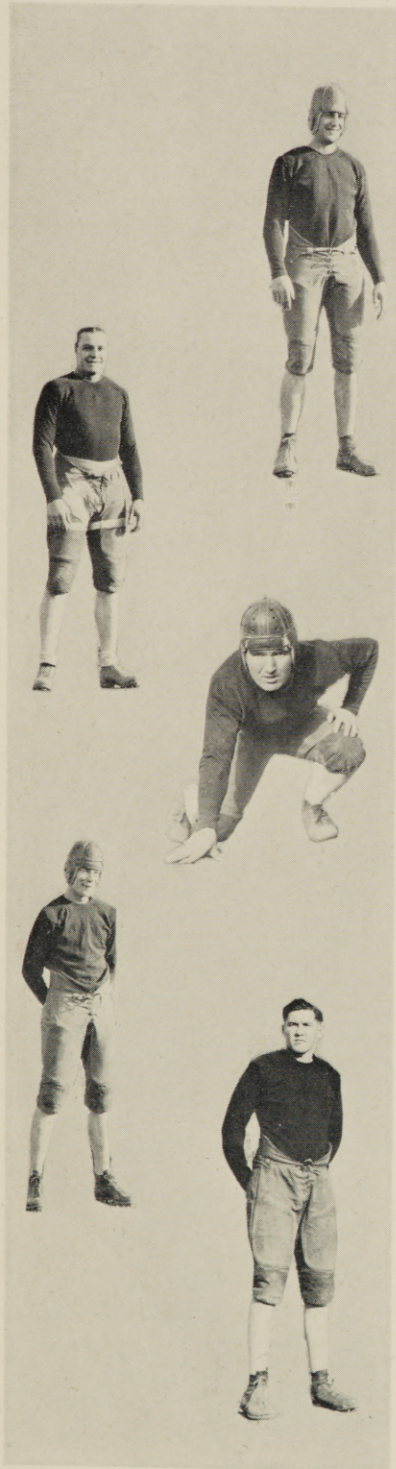

In the next start the Normal was defeated 13 to 7 by the O. S. C. Rooks, but considering the difference in weight of the two teams, the Normal put up a fight worthy of praise.

In the Lewiston game the Mountaineers came from behind to tie the score at 7 to 7, but they were unable to score a second time.

Whitman expected to run roughshod over the Mountaineers, and when they took the ball on the kick-off and ran the length of the field for a touchdown, it looked as if they would run up a one-sided score. But in this game, as in all others, the E. O. N. fought to the finish. When the final whistle sounded, E. O. N. led 20-13. They had out-played and out-scored one of the strongest teams in the Northwest Conference.

In the big game of the year with O. S. N., the Mountaineers were up against a team which had established a reputation of being one of the best teams ever turned out at Monmouth. Both teams played good ball, but the Wolves were no match for the inspired Mountaineers, who won the State Normal School championship by a score of 17 to 7.

A great deal of the success of the team was due to the efforts of Coach Quinn and the support of the school and town.

BARGER, FRANK, "Bat"—Tackle

When the battle was fiercest and when talking would no longer do the business, Bat got his big hands and his 200 pounds of beef into honest-to-goodness action, and things began to happen.

BEARD, ORVILLE, "Bud"—Fullback

"The Mountaineers' Battering Ram" is the title which describes him well. When a few yards were needed badly, the quarterback knew Bud would make them.

BROWN, HILLARD, "Brownie"—Guard

Re-entering the College of Idaho game with a broken finger tells something of the fighting spirit of Brownie. He liked to tackle and knew how to do it.

CARDEN, ALLEN, "Monk"—End

Snaring passes and carrying the ball on double reverse plays were Monk's specialties. Making life miserable for some safety who was trying to return points was also one of his favorite pastimes.

CRAWFORD, GLENN, "Tuffy"—Tackle

Doing his fighting in a cool, efficient way, Tuffy was a hard man to take out of a play, and his offensive work was of high caliber.

DEVANEY, FRANK, "Dink"—Halfback

Not a big man, Dink made up for his lack of weight by his fast shifty style. A very dangerous man to opponents in the open field.

DOUGERY, CHARLES, "Doug"—Halfback

Line bucks, off tackle smashes, and runs, and bullet-like passes were equally well done by Doug. He is just a very, very good football player.

HOUTCHENS, MAX, "Max"—Center

Long of arms, long of legs, and long on fight and lots of ability to diagnose plays—that's Max. Accurate passing was taken for granted when he was in the game.

ERWIN, DALE, "Dale"—Guard

A pair of fast legs and the ability to block, made Dale a very valuable man to the team in running interference. He entered several games with a sore shoulder that would have caused lots of men to sit on the bench.

LIEUALLEN, TOM, "Tommy"—Guard

Tommy, though new at the game, absorbed a lot of football knowledge and before the season was over, did some nice work. He will be a valuable man next year.

MCCULLY, LYNN, "Mac"—Quarterback

Coolness under fire and a wide variety in his choice of plays made him a very valuable man in the quarterback position. Calling the right play at the right time and letting the other backfield men make the touchdowns were some of the things that made him a good field general.

POSEY, CECIL, "Cec"—Guard

With his small stature and his great fighting spirit Cec was a great inspiration to the team. If he missed getting in a single play, his day was ruined.

PRICE, OWEN, "Nibs"—End

An early season injury kept Nibs out of the game for a while but when he got back he made up for lost time. His defensive work was a feature.

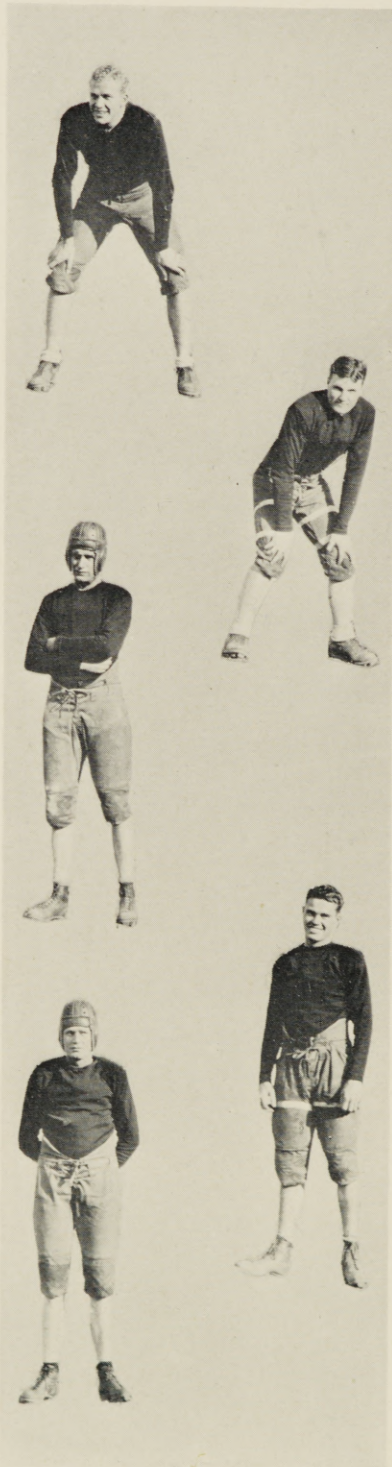

SAYRE, JOE, "Joe"—Center

Though a good center, Joe could also play a guard position as it should be played. Whitman College men will remember him as a very good guard who ruined a football victory for them.

SULLIVAN, FRANCIS, "Sully"—Halfback

Toting the ball on end runs and crisscrosses were Sully's hobbies. He simply outran them and one man never could stop him. His yardage was figured in round numbers.

RUST, REGINALD, "Reg"—Halfback, Capt.

Out-punting every opponent during the season, making more than his share of the yardage, and snapping long and short passes into his teammates' arms were some of the most important reasons for the great success of the Mountaineer's team. A triple-threat man and a good one.

WADE, JEROME, "Jerry"—Halfback.

Going in at either halfback position and filling shoes that were slightly bigger than he had been used to wearing, he filled them right well. He could pass as accurately as any other man on the team.

WAITE, LEO, "Silent"—Tackle

His work was not of the spectacular kind, but he was constantly on the job and could be depended upon to turn in a well played game when called upon.

WAKEHAM, HUBERT, "Hub"—End

Throwing opponents for losses and snaring long passes were his specialties. They never got around his end.

YOUNG, HOWARD, "Red"—Tackle

A regular work horse best described Red. He proved that a good tackle doesn't have to be a big man.

SARRETT, VANDON, "Rat"—End

Whether on his side of the line or not, Rat could always manage to feature in nearly every tackle of the game. He was also a great offensive player. Monmouth will long remember him as a very big reason why they lost the state championship.

MOENS, GEORGE, "Shrimp"—Quarterback

When George wasn't entertaining the squad with his vaudeville patter, he found time to play some real football. He could return punts like nobody's business.

BASKETBALL

E. O. N.'s first basketball team played a strong brand of ball throughout the season. From the small squad of experienced players in school Coach Quinn developed a team that could play with the best in college competition. This is shown by the scores; we lost to the best by small margins and won from others by large numbers of points.

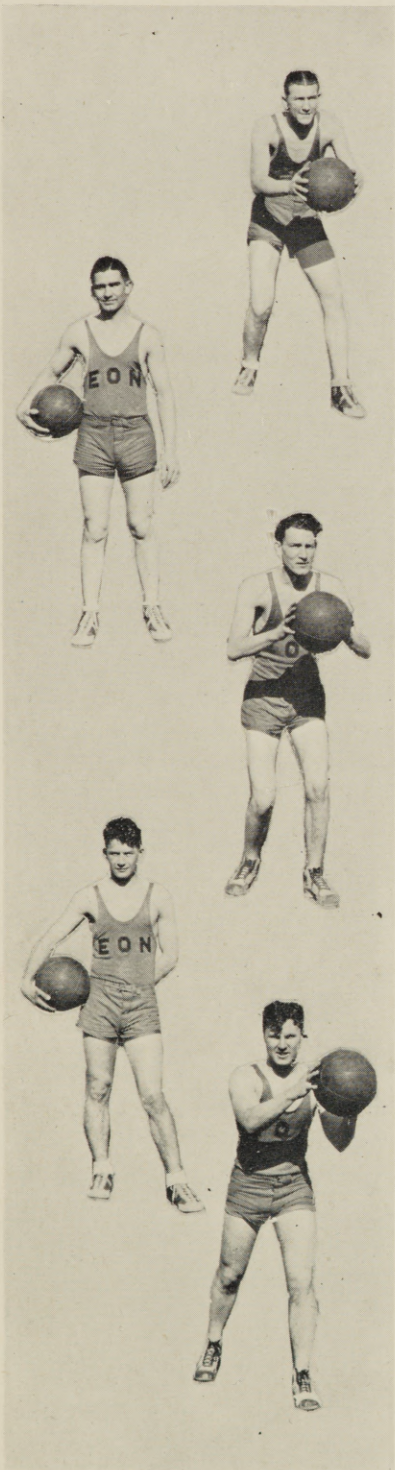

In the pre-season games the Mountaineers defeated strong independent teams by decisive scores, and although we were defeated in several of our college games, E. O. N. put up a determined and dangerous fight to the final whistle.

The opening games of the season were with the Red Devils from Helix, a team which had several times won the independent championship of Eastern Oregon. Regardless of the fact that the Helix team was composed of ex-college stars, the Mountaineers proved to be the stronger team.

The invasion of the Willamette Valley by the Blue and Gold team proved very successful. Our team defeated Albany College and played Monmouth and Columbia University to close scores. This was a splendid record for a road trip.

Willamette University, College of Idaho, Cheney Normal, and Oregon State Normal were played on the home field. These encounters were fast and interesting.

POSEY, CECIL—Guard

Posey played an excellent defensive game and occasionally slipped through for a basket.

PAISLEY, BLAIN—Guard

He had an uncanny way of out-guessing his opponent. He was a good defensive player as well as a good offensive player.

HOUTCHENS, MAX—Center

He was the tallest man on the squad and alternated with Crawford at center. He usually received the tip-off and his left-handed hook shot was very deceptive.

MCCULLY, LYNN—Guard

Alternated at either guard position, McCully featured in the scoring in several games.

WADE, JEROME—Forward

Wade played in several games and gave a good account of himself.

SARRETT, VANDON—Captain, Guard

Playing the running guard position, Sarrett was a good defensive player, and in addition, was high point man in several games.

SULLIVAN, FRANCIS—Forward

With his speedy shiftiness and clever floor work he easily outshone every other man on the floor in nearly every game.

PRICE, OWEN—Forward

With his quick break on offense, Price featured in most of the games in scoring.

CARDEN, ALLEN—Forward

Carden played hard, clean, fast basketball and when he was "on" he was a hard man to stop.

CRAWFORD, GLEN—Center

Crawford played a good game all season and usually started the rallies with his long clean shots from near the center of the floor.

 Front row, Posey, Lieuellen, Rae, Waite, McCully

BASEBALL

With only five or six experienced players in school it looked as if it would be impossible for Coach Quinn to develop a strong team.

When we scheduled a game with Whitman, a team which had won the Northwest Conference championship two years straight, victory for us seemed impossible. Their team had played several games. This was the first game for the Mountaineers. The final score of 6 to 4 in favor of E. O. N. is record of the game they played.

In the second game E. O. N. played the Mission Indians from Umatilla. This was a fast and closely contested game; but the Mountaineers were not to be denied victory. The game was won in 10 innings with the score 4 to 3 in favor of E. O. N.

The first game with the College of Idaho ended with the Gem State team leading 8 to 6. The Mountaineers put up a fight throughout the game, but were unable to overcome the strong lead which Idaho made in the first inning. The second game with the College was also won by the Caldwell team.

What E. O. N. will do against Monmouth and the other schools on the schedule remains to be seen.

MADLINE LARSON
Coach

W. A. A.

The W. A. A. of the Eastern Oregon Normal School was organized and a constitution adopted during the winter term of 1930, under the supervision of Coach Larson.

The following were elected as first officers of the W. A. A.: Emma Karstens, president; Arlene Byrd, vice-president; Charline Faus, secretary-treasurer; Marie Young, historian; Emily Poust, Senior sports manager, and Betty Jack, Freshman sports manager. All members who attended the first meeting were charter members.

Baseball, basketball and speedball constitute the major sports in the point system, while tennis, hiking, volleyball, endball, handball, horseshoes, swimming and horseback riding constituted the minor sports.

The awards given this spring quarter will be a sweater to Audrey Beymer, and a few letters. Five hundred points must be earned to win a sweater, and two hundred and fifty points to win a letter.

Under the direction of the class managers, the Freshman and Senior classes each sponsored a basketball team, the Freshman team winning the finals. This was the most active sport of the winter term, and, with the guidance of Miss Larson, these girls played a good, clean game.

BASEBALL

Baseball equipment was laid aside only for the winter term to pass, and spring finds it back with the same interest. A game with the Faculty was the only challenge this group played.

SPEEDBALL

The most vigorous sport of the winter term was speedball. Much endurance and sportsmanship were displayed by the players.

HIKING

The hiking class met at 5:30 A. M. and spent an hour each morning visiting spots of interest and enjoying the early morning air. Much credit is due these girls for their splendid record, and the sportsmanlike attitude.

VOLLEYBALL

The four classes in volleyball staged a most active tournament with the three o'clock class winning high honors. Endball was played in rainy weather, but finals were not played.

FOLK DANCING

Folk dancing brings the history and customs of the different nations to us in such a way that we are able to experience them ourselves. However, the element of fun and relaxation derived from this activity adds greatly to its popularity.

HORSESHOES

One of the minor sports of the spring term is the pitching of horseshoes. It is a fascinating sport and quite popular among the girls. The horseshoe tournament is one of the chief features of spring term athletics for women.

Bob Wakefield: "Yeh, that track man is so short-winded that he can't blow his own nose."

Charline F.: "So I shall have to take an anesthetic. How long will it take before I know anything?"

Miss Larson: "Now, don't expect too much of the anesthetic."

Vivia: "What would you do if a horse fell into your bathtub?"

Mabel: "I'd pull the plug out."

Margaret Town: "My father weighed only four pounds when he was born."

Glen Henderson: "Gosh, did he live?"

TEACHERS PLEASE NOTE

Rita Burres (to fourth grader): "Leslie, how much is three and four?"

Leslie: "I'd like very much to tell you, teacher, but I think it would do you more good if you looked it up yourself."

LITTLE SLIPS

A little slip of a pen may cause a man much expense, but a little slip of a girl may cause him much more.

CONTRIBUTORS

La Grande, as the metropolis of Eastern Oregon, offers many advantages to the members of the Eastern Oregon Normal School in many lines. Whether it be the need of recreation, professional service, necessities, or luxuries of life, the business firms are ably fitted to care for them.

The Normal School is exceedingly fortunate in enjoying the support of most of the business firms of the city as evidenced by their aid in helping to make possible the publication of our first year-book, the EON. We are confident that the students and faculty members of the school will evince the same cooperation by patronizing the various business firms hereafter mentioned.

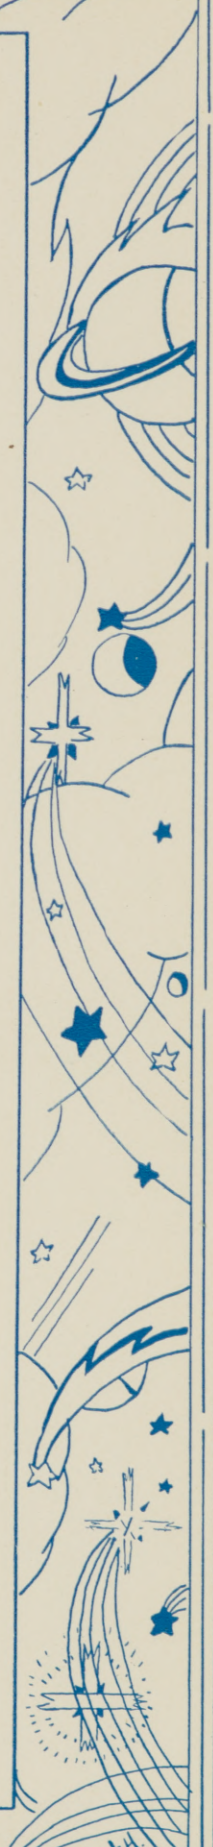

The clothing stores of the city, under courteous management, manifest willingness to render the best of service.
