Doctor's Degree Awarded Professor Teaching Math

Robert Oesterle, assistant professor of mathematics at Eastern Oregon college, has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Education, the graduate office of the University of Colorado at Boulder said recently.

Dr. Oesterle wrote his thesis on the subject, "A study of the Nature and Use of the Handbook as Related to Selected Aspects of the Orientation Program for Student Teachers."

Awarded his B.A. degree by Colorado State college at Greeley, in 1947, Dr. Oesterle completed his requirements for the M.A. degree at that same college in 1948.

Ault, Colorado, is Dr. Oesterle's home. He is a veteran of World War II.

Before coming to Eastern Oregon college as an instructor, Dr. Oesterle taught at Ault high school. He has studied at the University of Denver, as well as CSC and the University of Colorado.

Dr. Oesterle joined the faculty at EOC in 1948.

Dr. Frank B. Bennett

South Salem high school's new football field has been named Frank B. Bennett Field by the Salem school board, information received here said today.

Dr. Frank B. Bennett is president of Eastern Oregon college. He resigned his post as Salem's school superintendent in 1952 to accept the EOC position.

The motion to name the Salem field after the EOC president was passed unanimously, the report said.

Judge Green Named Moderator For Dam Debate

President Frank D. Bennett of Eastern Oregon college said today that Circuit Judge R. J. Green has agreed to moderate the La Grande debate between Congressman Sam Coon (R.-Ore.) and Senator Richard Neuberger (D-Ore.).

R. J. Green

The two lawmakers will join battle on Sept. 29 in the EOC auditorium with Coon supporting the John Day Dam partenrship plan and Neuberger taking the negative. The La Grande appearance is one of a series of debate dates for the pair.

Chamber Of Commerce Welcomes Students

The Chamber of Commerce today issued a welcome to old and new Eastern Oregon College students.

Dave Baum, Chamber president, urged students to drop into the Chamber office in the Sacajawea Hotel lobby.

"The best place to get information about La Grande and Union County is at the Chamber of Commerce," he said. "The staff will be happy to answer any questions about the area."

Baum added that free EOC decals are available at the Chamber office.

Morris McKinnis, John Day, heads the largest club on campus at EOC this year. He is president of Future Teachers of America, J. H. Ackerman chapter.

Movie Making Summer Work In La Grande

Summer is usually a quiet time in a college town. But not so this past summer in La Grande.

Universal International Studios came to town in August to film the color Cinemascope production, "Pillars Of The Sky."

Included in the company of some 150 were Jeff Chandler, Dorothy Malone, Ward Bond and Lee Marvin.

Excitement ran high during the five weeks the film company was here.

About 50 local residents were hired to ride as "cavalrymen" in the film. Among them were many EOC students. Hundreds of local people watched from behind the cameras as scenes were filmed on nearby locations.

Most of the picture was filmed on the Grande Ronde river near Red Bridge park. Other locations were near Union, and some background scenery was filmed in the Wallowa Mountains.

The stars of the film, besides making many friends during their off-duty hours, made frequent public appearances at civic functions. Chandler was appointed an honorary observer during the dedication of the new Ground Observer Corps tower here, and Bond was appointed town marshal at the merchant's Fall Showing talent show.

Universal International executives seemed well pleased with the scenic beauty of the area and indicated it might not be long before they return for another film.

The area proved popular with the stars also. Veteran Actor Bond spent many free hours fishing local streams. Marvin, a fast rising star after his performances in "The Wild Ones," "Bad Day At Black Rock," and "Pete Kelly's Blues," landed a 5¼ pound trout on a nearby stream and spent some free afternoons water skiing at Wallowa Lake.

The picture is from the Will Henry novel, "To Follow A Flag," and deals with a Palouse Indian uprising in the early history of the Northwest.

EDITOR QUITS; TODD ACTING IN KEY JOB

Gene Todd, associate editor of the BEACON, has been named acting editor, upon the resignation of Ces McDonnell, Burns—who has changed her name to Ces Carroll. Gene is from Hermiston, attended EOC last year, and previous to that attended the University of Maryland. He is experienced in newspaper work and at one time was employed by the Hermiston Herald.

Former-editor Ces hopes to be back on campus sometime this year to continue her education.

Ex-Staffer On Formosa

Gordon Young, onetime Beaconstaffer and a student at EOC, is now stationed with the Navy on Formosa. In a letter last week he described that hot-spot. Portions of the communication follow:

". . . I am now living in a modest 6-room house in the residential district of Taipei with another fellow who shares the rent with me. It is very comfortable and a most pleasant change from barracks life. We have two servants; a houseboy who does our cooking, etc., and a maid who keeps the house and does the laundry.

"I am working in a building down town that has been leased by the U.S. Government and I'm doing the same kind of work as when I first reported to Japan (where he was previously stationed—ed.) so there was nothing new there.

.". . . The beach . . . is almost an hour from here.

"Over here the Chinese are positive about one thing; that they can and will take the mainland, although, when is another question. . . . the Chinese will probably have to wait quite a while the way things are going now. It is all rather interesting. "

When he was on the EOC campus, three years ago, Young was a member of Alpha Psi Omega, Sock & Buskin, Young Republicans, and International Relations Club. For a time he served as student conductor of the college band.

NOTICE

The assembly committee said today that college assemblies will run "straight through," without usual time-consuming formalities. All announcements by clubs and other groups or persons are to be made one of two ways this year: (1) by use of bulletin boards, (2) in the new BEACON column labeled "Official Notices." To place a notice in the BEACON column, the notice should be typewritten, double spaced, and left in the BEACON mail box in the faculty secretary's office no later than noon, Wednesday. The notices so handled must be signed by a club spokesman or individual making the announcement.

Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, professor of speech and dramatics, will be chairman of EOC's English department when college opens this fall. Dr. Kaiser replaces Dr. Amanda Zabel, professor emeritus, now living in Long Beach, California.

KOLBABA RETURNS

All-star basketball player Lowell Kolbaba has returned to EOC, following discharge from the service. Kolbaba, a first-rate football player, as well as an expert on the hardwod b-ball court, is expected to enhance Mountaineer title chances in both sports in the Oregon Collegiate Conference.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: ". . . There/ are/ no/ righteous/ war."—Ezra L. Pound (Canto LXVIII)

ASB President Welcomes You!

Sincere welcomes go out to new students and old from many quarters in a week such as this. We wish to join the crowd in the welcoming.

You have chosen to come to EOC in the 1955-56 academic year, have you? What does that mean? Well, firstly, it means that you have decided to pursue (or continue to pursue) a higher education to better your mind, your standing in society, and eventually, your financial position, too. It means that you will probably seek new associations to make present days pleasant and more rich. It means, further, that you likely will choose to partake of the several social events offered by the college each term, making yourself a broader person—a person who enjoys and is enjoyed.

We could go on in the above line of thought for some time, but we assume that you have been aboard that general train of thought for some time anyway, or you would not be with us at present.

Once again, welcome. Changing from the editorial "we" to the personal "I", I assure you that student government will seek now, to serve you as best it can this year. The office I hold is one of responsibility. And I can tell you that it will be a pleasure to serve and work with you this year as we go forward to make our nine months together worthwhile. I am confident that Vice President Don Scharn, Social Vice President Bill Morris, Secretary Roberta Miller, and the other student officers join me in extending you the right hand of friendship and fellowship.

Gary Miller — ASB President

Student Parking Regulations Given By Prof-Student Group

The Faculty-Student Parking Committee has now completed plans for the parking of cars on the campus. Under this plan, all men living in the dormitory are requested to park their cars in back of Hunt Hall on the new lot which has been provided. Women living in Dorion Hall may park their cars in the parking lot to the north. Dorm employees will also park in this area. The drives immediately in front of the dormitory are to be kept free except at times when it is necessary to park there for a short time in calling for students living in the dorms and for the transaction of business.

It is requested that students do not park their cars east of 8th Street. Street area on 8th and to the west will be available for student parking. The area around the flagpole is being reserved for secretarial help, crippled students, and visitors.

It has been noted that some students are parking in pedestrian lanes especially between Hoke Hall and the Library. The La Grande City Police are being asked to cooperate with the collge in th policing of the campus area. Students parking unlawfully may receive traffic tickets from the La Grande Police Department.

Every student is being asked to register his car in the Registrar's office. He will be given a windshield sticker indicating his campus parking permit number. This is to be placed n the lower right-hand corner of the windshield. If more than one car is being driven to the campus, additional windshield stickers may be obtained but all vehicles should be registered in the Registrar's Office. Your cooperation in carrying out these parking regulations will be greatly appreciated and it is felt that it will make for better parking conditions for all.

FACULTY-STUDENT PARKING COMMITTEE

Vacations Of Faculty Are Varied, Pleasent

By Donna Talbott

As the professors and instructors come back for another year of students and classes, many of them will no doubt be remembering the past summer's activities. Traveling seems to have been the major occupation, although a few found themselves back at school either studying or teaching.

After summer school duties were over Dr. and Mrs. J. Lynn Bishop found time to do a bit of remodeling on their home. The remainder of the summer found Dr. Bishop wielding a paint brush "between sessions of fighting drouth and grasshoppers."

Miss Helen Bliss traveled to Colorado where she spent two and a half weeks in Colorado Springs and Greeley visiting relatives. She attended the Pacific Northwest Library Association Conference at Gearhart, and then spent several days on the coast and in Portland. She then returned to La Grande "to rest up from my vacation."

Another traveler this summer was Luke L. Boone who, with his family, visited friends and relatives in Iowa. Mr. Boone found time to go to Chicago where he attended the Sports Section meeting of the American College Public Relations Association Conference at Gearhart, and where he also had the opportunity of seeing the College All-Star-Cleveland Browns football game. The Boones the nreturned home to La Grande after staying a few days with friends in Iowa City.

In June Mrs. Beryl E. Clem went to Gearhart for the Regional Conference of Delta Kappa Gamma. She spent most of her vacation at her home in Lewiston, Idaho. Mrs. Clem also found time to complete chapter nine in the 1956 Yearbook for the Department of Rural Education, NEA.

"What vacation?" was the question posed by Dr. Carlos Easley. Besides teaching at EOC during the summer session, Dr. Easley had two workshops, one in Hermiston and the other in La Grande. Sometime before fall term began, however, he found time for a four-day fishing trip to the Lake Basin.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harris was also on the faculty this summer. Other than teaching, she was able to move into her new home and take a trip to Portland among various other Oregon points.

Working on his master's thesis and "painting, painting, painting (a house, not pictures)" was the way Richard Hiatt spent his vacation.

Dr. and Mrs. Lyle H. Johnson took an eight-day trip into the Canadian Rockies, visiting Lake Louise enroute. Their homeward journey took them through Calgary and Glacier Park and then into Portland where they stayed with Mrs. Johnson's mother. Before returning to work, Dr. Johnson spent eight days at Anthony Lake fishing.

From August 7 to 13, Dr. Al Kaiser counselled at the Boy Scout Camp at Wallowa Lake. He did some fishing in the high lakes and hiked in the nearby mountains. After traveling to Seattle, he returned to the Wallowa region on a special trip through the Wallowa Lake Basin with Dr. Easley and Dr. Good—and Earl Meuli's pack mule.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen left La Grande for a three-week visit with friends and relatives in Seattle, Portland and Albany after Mr. McMullen's summer session duties were through.

After a short trip to Rainier Park, around the Olympic Peninsula in Washington, and down to Seaside on the Oregon coast, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Miller spent a few days in Portland visiting with friends. Upon returning to La Grande, Mr. Miller whiled away a few days in the special elk area in Wallowa County.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Quinn took their older son, Bob, Jr., to Los Angeles for a few days before he traveled to San Antonio where he reported for service in the U. S. Army. Before leaving for home, the Quinns visited with Dr. Amanda Zabel and Miss Morton. They returned via the coast route to Portland and then to La Grande.

Another visitor to Los Angeles was Mrs. Margaret Robertson, the new supervisor for EOC's Health Service. While there she visited her Alma Mater, Occidental College. Most of her vacation, however, was spent at her summer home in Spirit Lake, Idaho.

One of those studying was Ronald Bayes, who attended the summer session at Colorado State College graduate school in Greeley, Colorado. While there he did some study under Rolfe Humphries, a poet from Long Island, who is on the staff at Yale. After returning to Oregon Mr. Bayes spent a week of internship at the chancellor's office in Eugene. Back in La Grande again, he worked for a week as an employe of the Evening Observer and then spent "six whole days of relaxation at home."

Mrs. Betty E. Ryan traveled with her husband, John Ryan, through Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Alabama, Missouri and Nebraska visiting friends and relatives. Highlights of their trip were the two granddaughters in Alabama. In Warrensburg, Missouri, they were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Luke Sterne. Dr. Sterne was head of the Commercial Department at EOC from 1943-46.

With the exception of a few days in Ashland seeing the Shakespearian plays and attending an educational meeting, Dr. Roy L. Skeen spent the rest of his vacation "in the most ideal spot of the United States—the Grande Ronde Valley and vicinity."

After teaching in EOC's summer session, Miss Eva Wear traveled to Washington, D. C., to meet a nephew who was finishing his two years in the army. They did some sight-seeing there and then traveled to Williamsburg, Virginia in the deluge of rain which preceded hurricane Connie. Before returning to La Grande, Miss Wear made some visits in Illinois and Missouri, and met Miss Bliss in Colorado Springs.

Miss Jeanne Scott, assistant professor of voice, spent two weeks at her Topeka, Kansas, home this summer and six weeks in San Diego in choral workshop under Robert Shaw. She discovered that Shakespearean plays were being staged at Balboa park while she was in San Diego. At the theater (a replica of the old Globe) Miss Scott saw "Hamlet," and "Measure for Measure." She reports the performance "professional though done by amateurs." Before the plays there was dancing on the green and ballad singing, reports Miss Scott.

Intermission fare consisted of tea and crumpets and tarts, Miss Scott said.

On her way back to La Grande Miss Scott spent some time in Los Angeles and Portland.

Miss Leona Golz, assistant professor of art education, drove to St. Cloud, Minnesota for a family visit. She reports: "I enjoyed my family and friends, but not the humid August weather. On my return home I visited friends in Lewiston, Montana, who had recently returned from two years in Peru, South America."

In Hawaii for the summer was Miss Jean J. Neely, assistant professor of physical education. She attended the University of Hawaii for six and one half weeks. Says she: "Janice, my sister, and I joined the student tour from Corvallis for a summer of 'Sun and Fun.' Since we are both shutter bugs we came home with colored slides of 'everything.' "

Director of Dormitories Eva Miller vacationed two weeks at Lenoir, N. C., with Mrs. Lucy Comstock Robbins, where she toured about the Smoky Mountains as far as Gatlinburg, Tenn. Mrs. Miller spent some time in Columbus and Springfield, Ohio. She reports: "While here (in Ohio) I was on the Ohio State University campus, visiting one of the newest women's dormitories. I also spent a day at the Ohio State Fair.

Mrs. Miller met a friend from Oregon at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, and they drove across country in her new auto, stopping at Mt. Rushmore, S. D., Corn Palace at Mitchell, S. D., came over the Badlands, visited Thelma Olson in Buffalo, Wyo., and returned to Oregon via Jackson Lake Lodge, the Grand Tetons, and the Craters of the Moon in Idaho.

President Gives Official 'Howdy'

In a statement released to the BEACON today, President Frank B. Bennett extended his official welcome to new and old students. The complete text of his message follows:

"It is a real pleasure to welcome returning students and faculty members each year. We hold it an unusual privilege to welcome those who come new to our college and campus. Opening days always provide exciting opportunities for old friends to meet old friends and for students and teachers to renew thir friendship acquaintance. A genuine thrill may be experienced also, in meeting and making new friends among the new students and new faculty members. We urge you to seek out such opportunities. We urge it not only that you may capture for yourself the pleasure of new acquaintances, but that you may make new students and new faculty members feel welcome on the campus.

"I hope you find many evidences of improved plant and campus conditions. The athletic field, newly seeded a year ago, is now bautifully green. The fencing of the field is now complete. Roofs of the dormitory and Hoke Hall have been painted and much interior redecorating has been done, particularly at Dorion Hall. Some street improvement has been made and some additional paved street provided.

"Current indications are that we will have a substantial increase in enrollment. A number of new courses are being offered as we move into the senior year of our new program in secondary education and general studies. We have been privileged to add three additional staff members to our faculty. These additions will enable us to give new emphasis in certain areas. Everything points to a good year ahead.

"We urge all students and faculty members acquainted on the campus to extend a cordial welcome to all newcomers. We urge our newcomers to join in the friendly campus spirit for which EOC prides itself. We can, if we will, make this a most enjoyable and profitable year.

FRANK B. BENNETT"

Dr. Gordon W. Clarke spent part of his summer doing post-doctoral study at the University of Michigan. Part of his study was in the nature of preparation for the new philosophy courses he will teach on campus this year.

Fourteen plays, and three first downs later, aided by a penalty, Nauman, the Westminster quarterback went over for a touchdown. Delude kicked the point.

In the third quarter Westminster kicked to the 3, where Quinn picked it up and went to the 35. The teams then punted back and fourth, but neither threatened until near the end of the quarter, Westminster intercepted Quinn's pass on their 26. A 35 yard line pass by Delude brought another first and ten, and a 21 yard pass Norman to Brady, made the game's final score.

During the fourth quarter neither team was able to score and the play was very even.

EOC punted five times for 169 yards, an average of 33.8. Westminster kicked four times for 136 yards, averaging 34.

The third quarter was played in a dust storm which reduced visibility to almost zero.

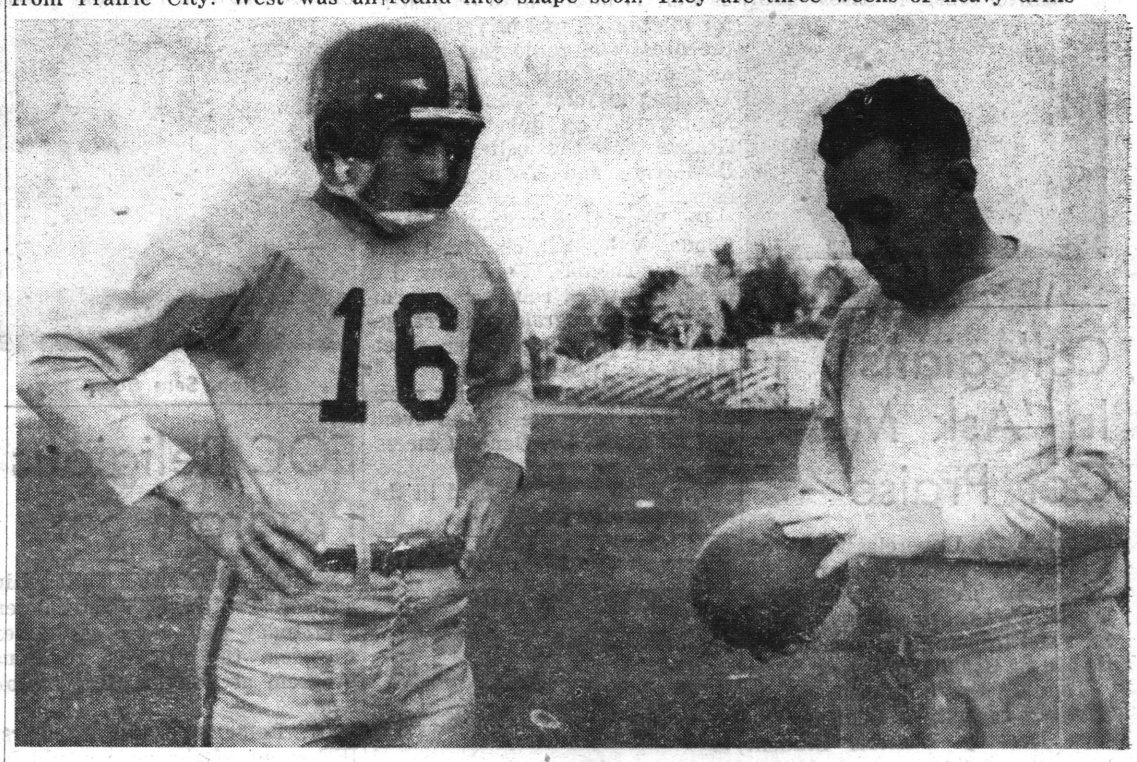
Mountaineers To Open Home Season Saturday



The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers are working hard this week for Saturday night's opener against Yakima Valley Junior College here in La Grande. Several spirited battles for starting positions are shaping up after last week's loss to Westminster College.

Three new players have joined the team. They are returning servicemen Bill West, 210 pound fullback from La Grande and Lynn Pryse, 195 pound tackle from Prairie City. West was an outstanding athlete for La Grande High School, Oregon State College and Eastern Oregon College before going into the service where he also starred on army teams. Pryse attended EOC before his term of military service also. The other newcomer is David Fugit, 165 halfback from La Grande.

Thirty-one players now are listed on the Mountaineer roster. Three are currently on light duty because of injuries but should round into shape soon. They are Ron Lowe, Nyssa; Dallas Johnson of Wallowa; and Paul Revis, Burns. All received their injuries in practice this week.

The Yakima game will be the first home game of the season. With the influx of students for registration this week, considerable interest and enthusiasm is in prospect.

A win against the visitors would start the college year off with a bang. For the team it would mean the culmination of three weeks of heavy drills

HERE'S HOW — Athletic Director E. Robert Quinn, known to most East Oregonians as "Coach Bob," gives an impromptu lesson in ball handling to his son Dick. Young Quinn is playing his second year of Mountaineer ball at Eastern Oregon.

President Bennett Tells of Plans For Neuberger-Coon Fracas at EOC

Eastern Oregon college President Frank B. Bennett said today in an interview with the Beacon that final plans for the La Grande debate between Senator Richard Neuberger (D-Ore.) and Congressman Sam Coon (R-Ore.) will be formulated next week.

Sen. R. Neuberger

The two solons will debate the John Day dam issue. Rep. Coon will speak in the affirmative. Sen. Neuberger will carry the negative argument.

"The debate will be held Thursday evening, September 29," Dr. Bennett said, and continued, "the time of the debate and the name of the moderator, as well as information on seating for the public, will be released to the press and radio just as soon as plans are final."

Acting as joint sponsors of the Neuberger-Coon debate in La Grande are the college Young Democrats and Young Republicans.

Dr. Bennett is contacting Steve Fonda, Vale, YR chairman and Stanley Thomas, Pendleton, LD head, this week relative to formulation of a program and arrangements for the September meeting of the two legislators.

On-the-spot provisions for press and radio coverage of the event will be made, Dr. Bennett stressed.

The debate will be held in the college auditorium.

Rep. Sam Coon

EOC Religious Program Set

(Special)—Interfaith Fellowship advisor Professor Virgil Bolen said today that plans are under way for the 1955-56 regilious program at Eastern Oregon College.

Dr. Bolen said that the first IFF event of the year would be the Freshman Week vesper hour, scheduled for Dorion lounge on Sunday evening, September 25 at 6:30 p.m.

Eastern Oregon college President Frank Bennett will be the featured speaker, Dr. Bolen revealed. The program will include special music and refreshments.

According to Dr. Bolen, "Our second assignment in the near future is that of the annual retreat, scheduled for Riverside park, Sunday, October 2nd, immediately after the various morning church services in the city."

If you are too busy to pray, then you are too busy.

Badgley Holds Doctorate From Colorado

Ralph Emerson Badgley, associate professor, and a member of Eastern Oregon college's faculty since 1931, has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Education by the graduate school of the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Dr. R. Badgley

The information was forwarded to the office of President Frank B. Bennett, recently by the University's graduate school office. Dr. Badgley's thesis was entitled "A General Studies Curriculum in Science and Mathematics for Colleges of Education in Oregon."

Dr. Badgley was born in Los Angeles, Calif. in 1903. He attended elementary school in Kansas and Oregon and high school at Fort Scott, Kan. His training in junior college was at Kansas City. Dr. Badgley received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Kansas in 1923.

In 1940 Dr. Badgley attended the University of Southern California at Los Angeles, and in 1950 he was awarded a fellowship by the University of Colorado, teaching there for the 1950-51 academic year. He also attended the University of Colorado's summer session in 1954.

Other than his teaching at the University of Colorado, Dr. Badgley taught at Deitrich, Ida., in the elementary and high schools from 1926 through 1928. He was at Welborne, Kan., in the high school system for the 1928-29 academic year and has been at Eastern Oregon college in the science department since 1931.

Just returned from Boulder, Colo., long enough to re-pack, the Badgley's reported that they plan to leave today for a week's visiting with Dr. Badgley's mother in San Bernardino, Calif.

Being busy doesn't always mean being useful.

Freshman Adjustment Studied At Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (I.P.)—As an individual experiencing university life for the first time, the entering freshman encounters a significant adjustment period, according to the report of the special committee on fraternity rushing at the University of North Carolina. For many it is the first extended absence from home, the committee points out. For others, developing proper study habits and learning to accept additional responsibilities is a serious problem. The full report on Rushee's Problems follows:

While the length of the adjustment period varies with the background and the maturity of the indiduival, a minimum adjustment is required of all students. In the sense that the first few weeks on campus are important in establishing the tone of an individual's work, it was felt that as little outside pressure should be permitted as possible.

Much of the world's trouble is caused by combining a narrow mind with a wide mouth.

Morris Talks Social Plans

By Jim Applegate

Bill Morris, social veep of the student body, discussed tentative social plans for the fall term at E.O.C. in a special interview with the Beacon Tuesday.

When asked by the interviewer to enumerate the coming social events Bill hesitated only momentarily. "The first sport dance of the year is scheduled for this Friday, September 30, that's tonite, in Hoke Hall from 8-11 p.m. with dancing to the music of Billy Howell's orchestra."

Ther are seven more of these sport dances scheduled throughout the coming year. As to the appropriate dress—the name implies the answer to that question. Sports clothes are the rule. "Everyone is invited. These dances are all school student-faculty functions."

Social activities haven't reached the point of maximum efficiency in functioning smoothly because the Student Council, at the time of this interview, had not met to approve the social activities committee.

Bill volunteered these comments on the annual Whiskerino Dance sponsored by the Lettermen's Club: "In the past, certain students on campus, including myself, have for miscellaneous reasons not carried through the tradition of the Wiskerino Dance. These reasons may or may not be ethical. We would like to hear both pro and con on the subject. The dance is sponsored during winter term. You have plenty of time to decide for or against this activity."

When asked about his organization plans: "I plan to go to the Student Council to get their approval for committees. Committees shall be appointed for decoration, entertainment, refreshment, etc. I believe that this will lead to a smoother operating and more enjoyable social year at E.O.C."

"All freshmen are being counted on both for participation and organizational help in all social activities," stated Morris, and invited interested students to contact him for details.

VESPER SERVICE HELD

By Diana Gilstrap

The annual Interfaith Vesper Service was held Sunday, September 25. Joyce Johnson, as chairman, made arrangements for the service. Dr. Frank Bennett, president of EOC, was the speaker. Music was provided by Diana Gilstrap who sang "Green Pastures," accompanied by Janice Counsell. Introductions of people in attendance were made and refreshments were served.

Dam Talks Pull Crowd

The debate on Congressman Sam Coon's proposed John Day Dam went into action before a capacity crowd in the college theater last night. Participants were Rep. Coon and Senator Richard Neuberger. Coon spoke in the affirmative and Neuberger in the negative. Many representatives of county, state, and national press organizations were on hand.

President Frank Bennett was master of ceremonies and Judge R. J. Green was moderator. Dr. Alvin Kaiser was in charge of stage arrangements and Information Director Ronald Bayes was in charge of radio and press coverage. Stan Thomas, Pendleton, Young Democrat head and Art Hartgraves, Milton - Freewater, Young Republican leader, were assistant timers. Dr. Kaiser was head timer.

The debate attracted national attention.

New Students

By Agnes Thornburgh

Among incoming freshmen arriving at EOC last week was Miss Edna Baua, a prospective elementary school teacher from Waimea Kauae, Hawaii. Seventeen and a 1955 graduate of Waimea High and Elementary School, Edna plans to remain here three years, attending summer sessions to speed completion of her studies. After graduation she will return to her homeland to teach in the elementary school system there.

When asked why she chose this school Edna replied that she had always longed to come to Oregon and chose EOC upon hearing that it is small and student-faculty relations are based on friendly terms. Although she did not know anyone here before her arrival, Edna reports that she is fast becoming acquainted and that students and instructors alike are being very friendly and helpful to her in adjusting herself to campus life.

Edna was born and reared in Hawaii and is making her first visit to the United States.

Success is never final, and failure never fatal; it's courage that counts.

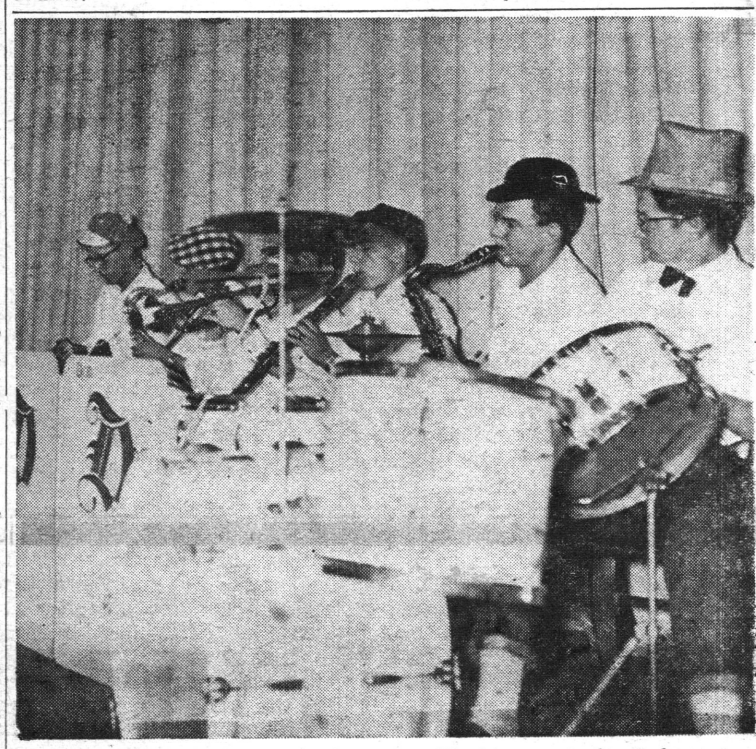
Verse Contest Plans Revealed

The National Poetry Association of Los Angeles has extended an invitation to all college students to submit original verse for consideration in the thirteenth annual college competition for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry. Although no cash prizes are offered in the competition, the NPA points out that the recognition afforded by publication will reflect definite credit on the author, as well as on the school. During the past ten years over 100,000 manuscripts have been submitted, of which about 4,500 have been accepted for publication.

Rules for the contest, as announced by the NPA, are as follows: Manuscripts must be typed or written in ink on one side of a sheet. Student's home address, name of college and college address must appear on each manuscript. Students may submit as many manuscripts as is desired. Theme and form may be in accordance with the wish of the student contributor. In order to give as many students as possible an opportunity for recognition, and because of space limitations, shorter efforts are preferred.

EOC students have several times in the past been successful in this contest.

FA HA LO MEETS



Fa Ha Lo will meet jointly with other young people at the Christian church for a special communion service. Fa Ha Lo is the college organization for the Christian church. The communion service will be held Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. Following that service, Gene Robinson will lead a discussion concerning the background of the Christian religion. All students are invited to attend. The church is located at the end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

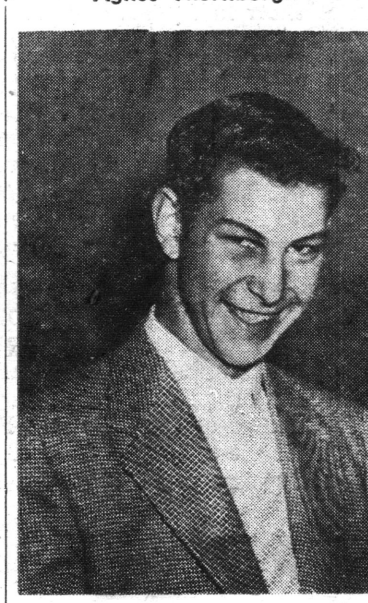
Theme For Celebrants Released

Student President Gary Miller announced today that the co-chairmen for EOC's 1955 Homecoming are Agnes Thornburgh and Jack Rye. Rye is from Elgin and Miss Thornburgh is from Terrebonne. Both are juniors.



Every year there is a homecoming theme. This year the central theme is to be carried out in floats, at the banquet and at the dance, as well as other Homecoming functions. The theme is "Lot's of Jive in '55" and will rely strongly on musical features for its implication.

Homecoming is the weekend of October 29, Miss Thornburgh said.

Students And Faculty Favor ROTC At Colby

WATERVILLE, Me. (I.P.) — College AFROTC poll results, in connection with the Self-Study program sponsore by the Ford Foundation, have been released by Colby College officials. Faculty members, freshman and sophomore men participated in the campus-wide survey. A questionnaire was submitted to a total of 247 men students on which asked: Do you favor continuance of the ROTC program with the first two years required?

In answer, 46 Freshmen and 25 Sophomores voted yes; 97 Freshmen and 78 Sophomores voted no. When the advanced ROTC students were questioned, 15 out of 29 replied favoring continuance. According to the faculty poll, 40 out of 78 wished to see the program continued as a required part of the curriculum; 28 voted to have it elective and 10 members of the faculty disapproved of either alternative.

ESTES QUITS

Dwain Estes has resigned as Beacon Business Manager. The new chief of the Beacon's department of dollars is Verla Garner, an Idaho student and a junior at EOC.

Think twice before you speak, and then say it to yourself first.

Mrs. Harriet Hoyt of La Grande is Dorion hall's new dorm mother. Mrs. Hoyt is not a newcomer to La Grande. For the past two years she was receptionist at the La Grande Clinic, before that she was with Genevieve's dress shop. Mrs. Hoyt has one son, a graduate of La Grande high school and EOC's junior college program. He received his bachelors degree at Willamette University.

Enrollment Hike Seen At College

Eastern Oregon college has a 19.5 per cent enrollment increase, as of the second day of registration.

Late registration will continue for several days and enrollment continues to go up at a steady pace, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

It is now expected that total enrollment will pass six hundred, and it is obvious that previous administrative predictions of a total enrollment of 550 students will be surpassed. New registration statistics will be released as they are compiled, the registrar said.

At the end of the second day of registration 534 students were signed up, compared to 448 for the same period last year. Veterans still comprise a considerable part of EOC's student body, with 113 enrolled at present.

Students enrolled as elementary education majors number 223, with 102 secondary education majors on the rolls. Forty students are registered as studying for the 4-year degree in the general studies and 134 students are enrolled in pre-professional curricula. The two-year terminal programs have attracted 36 students to date.

New freshmen (excluding freshman transfers) number 185. Last year they numbered 183. Total freshman class membership is 226. There are 144 sophomores, 82 juniors, and 76 seniors registered, as well as six special students. Graduate school enrollment has not yet been tabulated.

Sunday Flier Beats Traffic

John Beeson was 20,000 feet from traffic jams when he traveled from Eugene to La Grande Sunday to visit his mother.

Beeson, a geologist employed in Eugene, piloted his World War II training plane at a height usually reserved for larger aircraft and made his return trip in two hours and 50 minutes.

His mother, Mrs. May Beeson of route 1, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Paul Cook, of La Grande, said Beeson's plane was barely visible when it circled the valley.

Beeson attended La Grande high school and graduated from Eastern Oregon college.

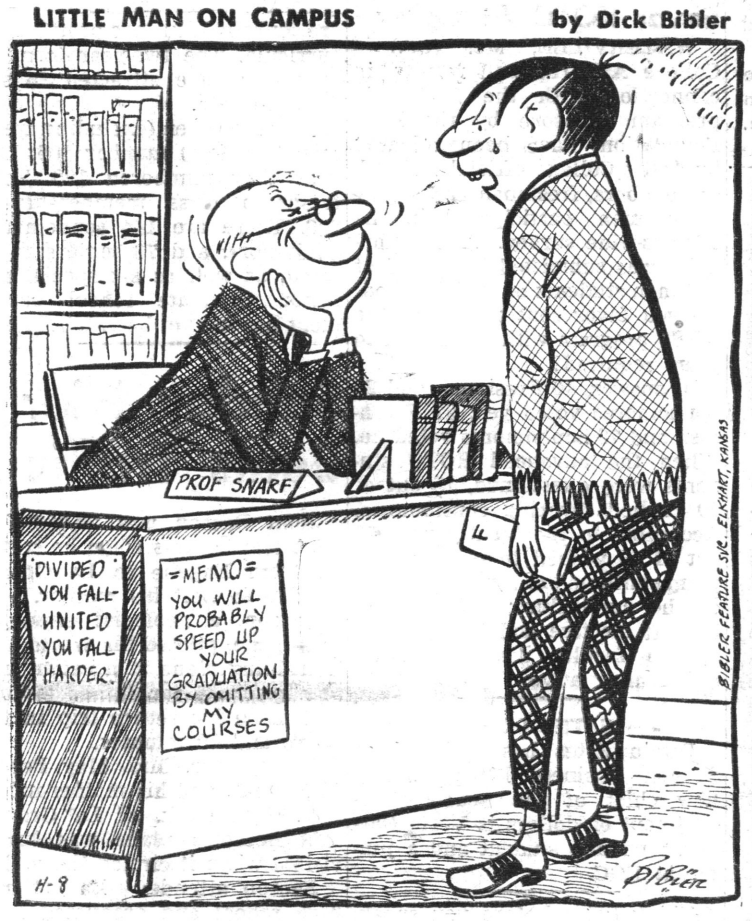
THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: "My mind to me a kingdom is,/ Such present joys therein I find,/ That it excels all other bliss/ That earth affords or grows by kind . . . "—Sir Edward Dyer

And Away We Go

The nation finds itself facing a variety of problems as this paper goes to press. President Eisenhower is recovering from a heart attack, Richard Nixon from an almost-had-to-be-president attack, Wall Street is staggering under a near-crash situation, affairs with Russia and Red China are still strained, U. S. officials are concerned about the Argentine fracas, and Neuberger and Coon are arguing about a dam.

You know, we of Eastern Oregon College are in a fine position to appreciate problems. For, after all, school has started again. Freshmen are nervous and confused. sophomores discouraged, juniors bored, and seniors bored and mildly exuberant because this is their last year. This is indeed a trying time.



Your editor has threaded his way through a maze of registration, classes, labs, meetings, and has even learned the identity of all the trees on the campus (courtesy of the Biology Department). At odd moments during the week he has considered putting out an issue of the Beacon, and at other moments has considered joining the Foreign Legion. At any rate here I am, and here's the paper, and what are you going to do about it?

Here's what I suggest: Let me know what you like about the Beacon and what you don't like about it. I'll welcome any suggestions for improvement, or for that matter, any suggestions. Whether good or bad, I'll print your letters. Inform me of your likes and dislikes of college life and I'll present your point of view to the student body. I need material to make this paper interesting and you can give it to me.

My staff and I and our advisor, Ron Bayes, would like to publish the finest college paper in the state. With your help, I think we can do it.

Hunt Hokum

By Sidedelivery

Well here we are back for another year in the salt mines. Welcome to all the freshmen. We hope you will have a good year with us. Don't move out if you have room mates like mine—one snores and the other won't get up in the morning.

It seems that that old Hawaiian seems quite prevalent again this year—even so there is a very nice crop of freshmen girls this year. You still hear that same old saying, "I sure would like to take her out." Come on boys how do you expect to get well? How about it Ooodles?

The reefer sales just went up as the new students are trying to find something to sooth their nerves, in anticipation of their first day of teaching. All I've heard today is moans of agony and shouts of glee, I wonder why? I hear there are five boys who are thinking of going South.

There seems to be a lot of Vets around the dorm this year—that should give the girls a break, they will take out most anyone or anything. If you don't believe me ask Tom.

Thought for today; Which would you rather do—curl up with a short blonde and a tall drink or with a tall blonde and a short drink?

Well that about finishes things for this week. If Hunt Hokum appears under another name next week you will know I've been had.

Asian Students Flood Colleges

The widely-read magazine, "The Asian Student," reported that the number of Asian students in American colleges would be greater than ever this year. In its special report "The Asian Student" said:

"By plane, steamship, rail and other means of transport, Asian students have been pouring into the United States from the Orient and other parts of the world during the past few weeks.

"It is yet too early to get an accurate aggregate number of the arrivals now for they will continue to arrive. But if the statistics of the academic year 1954-55 constitute a basis for estimation, students from Asia would again top the list of foreign scholars seeking knowledge in this country during the academic year 1955-56.

"According to a survey conducted by the Institute of International Education, of 34,232 students from abroad studying in American institutions of higher education in 1954-55, 9,838 or nearly 30 per cent came from the Far East, and 4,416 or 13 per cent from the Near and Middle East.

"Of the 10 largest nationality groups in the foreign student population, five were Asian: Chinese, Indian, Japanese, Filipino and Korean. There were 2,553 Chinese students. They ranked first among the Asian nationality groups and second among all foreign nationality groups. Canadian students, numbering 4,655, topped the foreign list. Indian students numbered 1,673, Japanese students 1,572, Philippine students 1,476, and Korean students 1,197.

"It is worth noting that Japanese and Korean students have come in greatly increased numbers over the past five-year period. Because of the situation on the Chinese mainland, the number of Chinese students coming to the United States has decreased during the same period, though they still maintained the lead among the Asian nationality groups. There were 3,637 Chinese student in 1949-50 as compared with 2,553 in 1954-55.

"Iranian students comprised the only bloc of students from the Near and Middle East in the top 10 foreign nationality groups during the academic year 1954-55. They numbered 997 while Israile, Iraqi and Jordanian groups were each composed of more than 500 students.

Maureen Halligan, Dublin Players star and director, enacts the prim housekeeper role in G. Bernard Shaw's imperishable classic, "Pygmalion," coming to EOC's theater October 25. All seats will be reserved. Details and ticket prices will be announced soon. Sponsoring the European theater group which is on tour of the U. S. will be EOC's own Sock and Buskin dramatic honorary.

Painting The Town---

By A. Brush

I had a most unfortunate experience a few days ago, one that nearly turned my hair gray. It isn't very often that something will affect me in just that way—usually I'm quite calm. Nevertheless, I feel the need for a strong sedative right at the moment; if you wil lexcuse me while I call a nurse. . . .

Now to get back to my tale. I had just finished my lunch and was at my usual occupation of lolling about in the back yard when I noticed that the sun wasn't as warm as it had been a few weeks before. I can't understand why it took me so long to discover that fact — delayed reaction, I guess. Exerting a little more energy than I normally do, I began to toss the problem around in my mind, hoping for a solution before I became too tired. Not being able to reach any conclusion, I hoisted myself to a standing position and trotted into the house for consultation with the calendar. You could have knocked me over with a well-aimed feather! Unless I had miscalculated, the date was none other than September 2. No wonder the sun's rays failed to warm my little pinkies: it wasn't summer any more. Fall had come and brought with it . . . school! Of all the hideous, absolutely miserable, unnecessary evils—this was the most terrible. I started to shudder and shake as I thought of the thundering herd on registration day and of the innumerable lies formed before the respective instructors. What had happened to the summer? Why, I'm sure that summer vacation started just last Tuesday . . . hmmm, I'm not quite so sure at that. I can't be sure of anything any more, especially not in this state of mind; and wandering into the wrong classroom this morning didn't help any, either.

Anyway, if you should happen to see a poor, confused little brush running around with only one bristle waving in the wind, please be kind enough to direct me to the nearest rest home—never mind the strait jacket, I'll go quietly.

By the way, if you're wondering about the news for this issue, just be patient and wait until next week. Due to deadlines and last-minute assignments, your town reported couldn't find time to track down all the leads. So much has happened this summer that there should be a humdinger of a column next time. Until then, this is A. Brush putting away his typewriter and saying . . .

Dorion Doings

By Mary Joan Russell

Dorion Hall has that "new look." Between the painters, carpenters, electricians and housekeepers, this girls' dorm has a complete new face.

One new face that we hope will become a permanent fixture is that of our new house-mother, Mrs. Hoyt. Mrs. Hoyt has lived in La Grande for many years and has certainly added grace to Dorion's halls.

An outstanding change is that of the lounge. It has been redecorated in two shades of a soft green.

Have you noticed that sparkle of ice going the Fries way? Take a look. Congratulations Mickie!!

Sue Nagai brought a flood of flowers back from Hawaii with her. Including "orchids," gals. Another traveler to Hawaii and back was Miss Neely. She and her twin sister attended the University of Hawaii for six weeks.

Another among the freshmen coming in (and you men will have to admit they are a pretty good-looking bunch) is a Hawaiian girl, Edna Badau. Welcome to our campus, Edna.

Traveling from La Grande to Annapolis for an enjoyable summer visit with some new friends was Kiyoko Yamada. Kiyoko has certainly seen the sights on the East coast. For an interesting conversation on her impression of the East make it a point to talk to Kiyoko. One thing which impresses her was the difference between the people. She likes the people of the West because they are so friendly.

Music Notes

By Doris Rigney

Well, another year of music has begun. The music department is all lined out and ready to go. Here is the low-down on the music organizations.

The Grande Ronde Symphony is in full strength with 67 members. They could use some more cello players. Their first concert is Sunday, Nov. 20th at 4:00 p.m. Mr. Groth is conducting.

The choir is good this year and is planning an evening concert the last of November or the first of December.

The band needs brass. Can you play a trumpet, trombone or sousaphone. If so we need you in the band.

Blue and Gold singers will meet at 11:00 Wednesday to organize. All old members and those wishing to try out are urged to be there. They especially need tenor, bass and alto. Blue and Gold is planning to sing a medley of Christmas carols, some madrigals and for spring term, another musical comedy.

Our men's quartette has found rebirth. Members are: Lee Bolen, Bart Clements, Dick Cook, and Bill Morris.

If any other people on campus are interested in music in any form and wish to find activity in an organization, contact the music department.

Gil Damon, EOC grad, now in the army after teaching a year in the Willamette Valley, visited friends on campus this week. His work with Uncle Sam will bear a top secret label when he returns to duty.

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers open conference play against the Oregon Technical Institute Owl's tonight at Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Last year the highly touted Owls of Klamath scored an impressive 45-6 win over the Mountaineers of Eastern Oregon. The Owls finished first in the conference with a 3-1 record. Eastern Oregon finished last with a 0-4 record.

The scouting reports indicate another winning year in football for the Owl gridmen. The Owl's suffered a 33-6 defeat in their last game against a semi-pro team from Seattle, Washington, but in past history the Oregon Tech grid mentors have conditioned their men for the conference opener with a tough pre-conference schedule.

Head Coach Archie Dunsmoor of Eastern Oregon named the following 25 boys to make the Klamath Falls trip.

Eastern Oregon College's Mountaineers opened their home season Saturday night by losing a close game to a rugged Yakima Valley Junior College eleven by a score of 20 to 19. The game was a thriller from start to finish with the Mountaineers drawing first blood as the clock read 2:10 played in the first quarter.

The score came on a pass play, Bob Brown to Jack Harmon, good for 35 yards and the touchdown. Dick Quinn kicked the extra point.

The next tally came early in the second quarter when Bill West went over from the four, on a play through the line. The try for point failed.

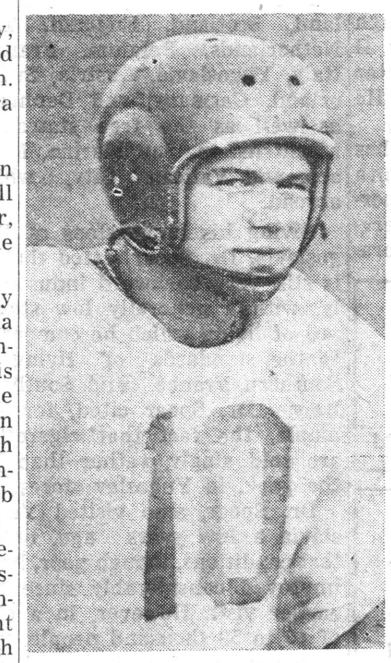
The Indians got their first tally soon afterward, when Ray Abella intercepted Bob Brown's pass, intended for West, and ran from his own 30 for the score. It was one of those spectacular plays in which he was nearly run to earth several times on the way, but finally went across standing up. Bob Winters kicked the extra point.

Late in the quarter, after a series of line plays and several passes that took the ball to the Mountaineer seven, Ron Williams went off tackle for the game's fourth score. The try for conversion failed, leaving the score tied at 13 to 13 as the half ended.

The third stanza saw both teams seesaw the pigskin up and down the field without enough punch to score. Defense on both sides was better than offense during the whole period, several possible touchdown passes being knocked down in the nick of time.

The Indians got what turned out to be the winning score in the fourth quarter when a series of plays including a completed pass, took the ball to the Mountaineer one. Odell Rogers punched through the line for the touchdown, and a fake place kick turned out to be a pass, Randy Moore, to Dean Haubrich, made the game's margin.

The Mountaineers, fired up, drove 80 yards in eight plays for the last score. Elvin Daggett took the score over on a run that went 34 yards. The try for conversion failed, when the defenders hurried the kicker, and the ball went wild.



Statistically, the Indians made 16 first downs, 13 rushing, one passing and one by penalty, and one by interception, while the Mountaineers made 13, nine rushing, three passing, and one each by interception and penalty. The Mountaineers gained a total of 248 yards, 162 rushing, and 86 passing while the Indians gained 209 on the ground and 23 passing for a total of 232.

Indian, Don Crook was injured in the rough contest and was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

The past three years he won letters at Eastern Oregon College at the tackle position in football. He was elected to the co-captaincy during his sophomore year of competition. Last year Gene suffered a shoulder injury and was laid up for part of the season. This year will be his last and we hope his best.

EOC Has Eight New Faculty Faces

Hiatt Shestak Bayes Baish Robertson Groth

(Special)—Eight new full-time faculty members join the Eastern Oregon college staff with the beginning of the 1955-56 academic year.

Mrs. Maxine Shestak, Hood River, will be instructor of women's physical education and health. Mrs. Shestak replaces Dr. Margaret Morris, who is on a year's leave to teach at the University of Iowa.

Mrs. Shestak received her B. S. degree from Peru State Teachers college, Peru, Neb., in 1950. She has been instructor of physical education and health at Hood River high school.

Mrs. Shestak was on the EOC summer session staff in 1953 and in 1954. She has served as physical education consultant for Arlington, The Dalles, and Hood River; is married and has one daughter.

Charles Pierce, who holds a B. A. Degree from Mexico City college and a Master of Arts degree from the University of Maryland, will be assistant professor of languages and social studies at EOC this year.

He has served as instructor in languages at Montgomery Blair high school, Silver Springs, Maryland, and part-time instructor in German and Spanish at the University of Maryland, 1952 through 1955. During World War II Pierce was German interpreter for the Army's G-2 program. He is unmarried.

Mrs. Phillips Robertson has been named instructor in health education, and hygiene, supervisor of the college health service, and supervisor of the laboratory school health instruction. She comes from the elementary school system at Spirit Lake, Idaho.

Mrs. Robertson holds an M. A. from Columbia university and a Master of Public Health degree from the University of Minnesota. She was on the faculty of the University of California at Los Angeles from 1943 through 1949, where she served as assistant professor of nursing.

Richard Hiatt, La Grande native, on the EOC faculty for the academic year 1952-53 when he replaced Dr. Alvin Kaiser, then on leave, returns to the campus this year as a staff member. Hiatt will serve as instructor in English, dramatics, and speech.

He is married and has two children. Hiatt attended EOC, received his B. A. from the University of Oregon, and will receive his M. A. from the university this year. During the year he will direct several Sock and Buskin plays.

Replacing L. Rhodes Lewis, who is on sabbatical leave this year, is Robert Groth, instructor in instrumental music. Groth is unmarried. He received his B. A. and M.A. degrees at the University of Oregon, and served on the University faculty as a graduate assistant for some time. Groth will direct the college band and the Grand Ronde Symphony orchestra, in addition to his teaching duties.

Archie C. Dunsmoor, football coach and assistant professor of physical education, comes to EOC from Redmond high school. Dunsmoor is married and has one child. He received his M. S. degree from the University of Oregon in 1954, prior to which he received his B. A. degree from Oregon College of Education. The new coach replaces Roy Tatum, who has accepted a position as line coach with the University of Arizona, at Tuscon.

Ronald H. Bayes joins the college staff as director of information and instructor in English. Bayes is a native Oregonian. He received a diploma in stenography from Walla Walla Business college in 1951 and his B. S. degree from EOC in 1955. Bayes has done graduate work toward his M.A. at Colorado State college, Greeley. He will serve as advisor to the student newspaper and yearbook.

Henry Baich, who holds a Master of Science degree from the University of Oregon, will serve as instructor in physical science at EOC for the 1955-56 academic year. Baich comes to La Grande from Riverside, Calif., where he was an instructor at Polytechnic high school. His wife will study at the University of Oregon this year.

EOC's Doug Spear Makes Europe Trip

Dr. and Mrs. W. Douglas Spear returned to La Grande on Tuesday after spending the summer in Europe. Dr. Spear is a member of the Eastern Oregon college social science department.

He and Mrs. Spear visited Ireland, Scotland, England, The Netherlands, Belgium, France, Italy, Yugoslavia, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, and Denmark as well as the free states of Liechtenstein, San Marino, Monaco, and Vatican City, while abroad.

Giving his impressions of Yugoslavia, Dr. Spear stated that it is still very backward industrially, with a generally low standard of living which he compared to the standards of living in Southern France and Southern Italy. Dr. Spear cited, for example, the fact that cigarettes are sold singly, rather than by the pack, in Yugoslav stores.

Dr. Spear, who visited Yugoslavia a few years ago, noted that conditions, though poor, have improved considerably since his earlier visit. However, in a city of 40 to 50 thousand people, not a single automobile could be seen on the main street, he observed.

The common people of Yugoslavia lack the gay attitude found in their counterparts in Italy and France, Dr. Spear stated. He noted that no folk singing, dancing, or other sorts of celebration could be observed in the Tito-controlled nation.

"Pictures of Tito were in every shop and cafe window," Spear said. He noted that the Yugoslavs use German as their secondary language, rather than French or English, and attributed the fact to the German influence remaining following the occupation of Yugoslavia by Nazi troops during the Second World War.

Dr. Spear noted that soldiers seemed to swarm over the Yugoslav countryside everywhere. If they were not performing drill practice, they were in work details of one sort or another, he said. And it seemed to the Spears that people were constantly at work in Yugoslavia—little recreation could be observed.

Loyalty to Marshal Tito, Dr. Spear believes, is largely a result of the respect of the people of Yugoslavia for their dictator-president due to his efforts to secure freedom from the German occupation in the Second World War, rather than great improvement in their lot.

As to Yugoslav churches, the EOC social scientist remarked that "Yugoslav churches either seemed vacant or converted to other purposes, for the most part." Very few were in use as places of worship.

"Germany has made the most remarkable recovery of all the nations we visited," Dr. Spear related. He said that the industrious German people worked "from before daylight until after we went to bed," and indicated that the spirit of the German people is one of enthusiasm and eagerness, as contrasted to the attitude in Yugoslavia.

Dr. Spear reports that German industry is rebuilding rapidly, and on a decentralized basis. In an interview with the manager of one of the Krupp plants, Dr. Spear was told that the Germans expect their industrial production to be as good as it was prior to the Second World War within ten years.

Dr .and Mrs. Spear attended the festival of music at Lucerne, Switzerland; the Shakespeare festival at Stratford-on-Avon, England; a performance of the Danish Royal Ballet at the Edinburgh festival in Scotland, and a music festival at Saltzburg, Austria, on their tour.

Tests For Law School Slated

The Law School Admission Test required of applicants for admission to a number of leading American law schools, will be given at more than 100 centers throughout the United States on the mornings of November 12, 1955, February 18, April 21, and August 11, 1956. During 1954-55 nearly 10,000 applicants took this test, and their scores were sent to over 100 law schools.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each law school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Law School Admission Test and when. Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to next year's classes are advised ordinaril yto take either the November or the February test, if possible.

The Law School Admission Test, prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service, features objective questions measuring verbal aptitudes and reasoning ability rather than acquired information. It cannot be "crammed" for. Sample questions and information regarding registration for and administration of the test are given in a Bulletin of Information.

Bulletins and applications for the test should be obtained four to six weeks in advance of the desired testing date from Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must be received at least ten days before the desired testing date in order to allow ETS time to complete the necessary testing arrangements for each candidate.

Lettermen Report To Mountaineers

Three more lettermen have reported for duty with the Mountaineer football squad, Luke Boone reported this morning.

They are:—Gene Bolen, a three year letterman from La Grande; Dick Kofford, with one letter, from La Grande, and Don Greiger, who played in 1953 but left during the season to go into the service.

Prof Calls Students Immature, Capricious

NEW ORLEANS, La. (IP)—"Sometimes I am afraid that I get by at Tulane University in accordance with the French philosopher Bergson's notion of accomplishment through mutual interference," declares Dean of Students John H. Stibbs.

"The editor of the college newspaper decides to improve the university and he interferes with the president and the president ppromptly interferes with me," Bean Stibbs continued.

In dealing with student activities, he added, "You have to contend with the immature and capricious character of student behavior."

Mounties Meet Red Raiders In Make Or Break Tilt

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers, headed by Coach Archie Dunsmoor, will meet the Southern Oregon Red Raiders Saturday night, Oct. 8 in a game that could prove all-important as to the conference standings of both teams.

The Red Raiders also have a new head coach, Al Adkins. Adkins is an ex-Washington State, University of Washington and pro football halfback. He played three years for WSC, transferred to the U. of W. under the Marine training program, and played for Washington in the 1944 Rose Bowl game. Later the 34-year-old coach played pro ball with the Cleveland Browns of the National League, and the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Buffalo Bills of the old All-American conference. He has won honors in pro basketball, semi-pro baseball and in college track—once winning the 100 yard dash in a Northern Division Pacific Coast Conference meet. It shoud be very interesting to see what type of a team a coach of this caliber will produce.

At the present the Red Raiders and the Mountaineers are at the top of the OCC Conference standing. A win for either team could very well decide the outcome of the conference. The odds will be with the grid team from Ashland, who beat a highly rated Portland State team 20-0. EOC fan's only hope comes from last week's surprise victory over OTI. In last year's game the Red Raiders racked the Moutaineers 40-13, but only finished one notch ahead of the last place hill-toppers.

An estimated 125 Boy Scouts and adult Scout leaders from all of Eastern Oregon are expected to attend this first annual Pow Wow.

Various class sessions will be held throughout the day to provide the Scouts worthwhile information to help them complete merit badge requirements.

Mr. L. W. Edwards of La Grande is the General Chairman of this event. Mr. Edwards is an executive for the Blue Mountain Council of Boy Scouts of America. He is assisted by Dr. Gordon W. Clarke, Associated Professor of English and Literature at EOC, as campus coordinator.

The program for the day, as prepared by Dr. Clarke, is as follows.

President Bennett and the P. E. Department have arranged for tickets for the Scouts and their leaders to attend the game tomorrow night. The game pits EOC vs. SOCE in what promises to be a hard fought game.

Dr. Clarke was quoted as saying, "We hope that all students will extend the traditional EOC welcome and courtesy to these visitors."

Portland's J. J. Hassell is new Beacon circulation manager. She is an experienced publications worker and a member of the yearbook staff. J. J. is a sophomore at EOC.

Enrollment Hits 600 Mark, Rising

Eastern Oregon College's 1955 student body has reached the 600-strong mark, according to figures released Wednesday by Dr. Lyle Johnson, registrar. The new figure represents an increase of 18.8 per cent over enrollment at this time last year.

New totals by classes are freshmen, 236; sophomores, 150; juniors, 85; and seniors, 81. To round out the total at 600, there are 45 special and 3 graduate students. Included in the enrollment figure are 351 men and 249 women.

Elementary education majors comprise the largest group with 269 members and a 13.5 per cent increase from last year. A total of 109 students are registered as secondary education majors, an increase of 62.6 per cent. Pre-professional majors form the second largest group, numbering 141 members and showing a 27 per cent jump since 1954.

A 154.3 per cent increase in veterans registration has been reached, with 117 now enrolled as compared to 46 last year. Korean vets, numering 110, are in the majority.

Enrollment totals are expected to rise still higher during the next few days.

Play Tryouts Set From The Bench

Tryouts for the fall term play, "Time Out for Ginger," will begin Monday, October 10, at 4 o'clock in room 25 of the administration building, according to Richard Hiatt, director. The tryouts will be held for three days.

Hiatt, a new faculty member directing his first play at EOC, emphasized that all students are eligible to try out, and that good roles are available for both men and women. No experience is necessary.

NOTICE

For the balance of the term it will be necessary for the Beacon to publish twice monthly. We hope that it will be possible, financially and otherwise, to bring you a weekly Beacon throughout winter term.

Headed for EOC are the two Dublin players shown above. They will appear with the full Irish group in "Pygmalion" by G. B. Shaw on October 25. They will be sponsored by Sock & Buskin players.

Dublin Players To Stage 'Pygmalion'

The Dublin Players, celebrated company of actors from Ireland, will appear in a presentation of Shaw's "Pygmalion" on October 25, in the Eastern Oregon College theater in La Grande. They will appear under the auspices of the Sock and Buskin players of the college, and are the initial theater treat of the college-community theater series, according to announcements from EOC's drama department.

Made up of the finest actors from Ireland's famous Abbey and Gate Theaters, the company is now completing another leg of its fourth coast-to-coast tour of American cities, presenting great Irish and English classics, together with modern plays. Included in the repertoire of the Dublin Players, aside from "Pygmalion," are Shaw's "Arms and the Man," D'Alton's "Money doesn't Matter," and Wilde's "An Ideal Husband."

Rated as "Top entertainment," by Variety, the trade paper of the theater, the Dublin Players have gathered praise from top critics and columnists.

The group has been called "magnificant," "unparalleled," "outstanding," and "great." The players have gained wide attention from the public whenever they have appeared. In their TV appearances in New York, notably on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town," on CBS-TV, the company gained such unusual response that they were asked by Sullivan to repeat several times on his show.

Fulton Ousler, the late American writer, saw the Dublin Players and remarked, in effect, that they were, "Like a refreshing breeze coming into a sad, sick world to inspire us . . ."

Prices for the La Grande presentation of "Pygmalion" have not been announced by managers of Sock and Buskin Players as yet, but Dr. Al Kaiser, general manager for the local production, states that all theater fans will be pleased with the rates and a sell-out of the house will be assured.

FROSH ELECT

Election of freshman class officers was held Wednesday morning, October 5, in the auditorium.

Richard Hiatt, class advisor, acted as chairman until Johnny Botz of Elgin was elected to hold the office of president. Vern Bean of La Grande and Carol Wyatt of Central Point were named representatives for the frosh. Harold Moore, Madras, was elected vice president.

Janet Contrell, who acted as temporary secretary during the meeting, was chosen for the office of secretary-treasurer.

Eastern Oregon College product Christy Hale, who obtained both his B.S. and M.S. degrees at this school, is reported to have joined the staff at the University of Wyoming, on a teaching fellowship. He is pursuing the studies leading to the doctor's degree. Hale is on a year's leave from the La Grande city school system.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: "The world's a bubble, and the life of man/ Less than a span . . ."—Francis Bacon

GREETINGS, SCOUTS!

To the visiting members of the Boy Scouts of America, welcome! We, the students and faculty of Eastern Oregon College, are proud to have you with us.

You Scouts are members of the largest and most outstanding youth organization in the world. From the small group of men and boys who formed the first Scouts many years ago, Scouting has grown across the United States and across oceans to become a colossal international brotherhood. The basic principles of your creed—high morals, preparedness, good health, able citizenship—are respected by men everywhere. Your motto, "Be Prepared," is famous throughout the world.

Many of the greatest leaders of our country have risen to their high positions from a boyhood of scouting. There is no doubt that Boy Scout work is the finest kind of preparation for leadership.

We are not so much older than you that we cannot remember the thrill of Scouting. We admire you for your courage and ambition and envy you your chance for adventure.

Again. we extend to you a sincere welcome to EOC.

Fa-Ha-Lo Barbecue

By Elaine Robinson

You kids sure missed a good time if you did not attend the Barbecue last Sunday. Besides the barbecued beef (which, by the way, was really barbecued.) we had tossed salad, baked beans, French bread, coffee, punch, apple pie, cheese, and ice cream. The beef was barbecued in a deep pit by Dr. Easley and Ed Draper, the mayor of Island City and it was delicious! The rest of the food was graciously donated by the women of the Christian Church.

While hiking in the hills around Cove a woodsman almost felled a tree on the students. You should have heard the shouts of the hikers and the language of the woodman. Better luck next time Mr. Woodsman!

There was a total of about 35 students out and Fa-Ha-Lo is looking forward to a wonderful year.

SALEM TRIP

—Dr. George Nightingale, professor of art education at Eastern Oregon college, and Miss Leona Golz, assistant professor of art education, will go to Salem Friday for a committee meeting of the Oregon Art Education association.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

Painting The Town---

By A. Brush

A. Brush was only able to come up with a few dabs of important information, and these are marriages and engagements of town students.

Tied the knot: Biff Hawes and Alyene Streit; Jack Harmon and Una Mae Leavitt; Gary Webster and Bernice Howard.

Got the ring: Janet Cantrill; Joan Garity.

Having no more news, we have stuffed the column with fascinating information to read if you have time to kill. Giggle.

If anyone happened to look outside at 4:00 a.m. Thursday morning and noticed a hunter come tearing down off Mt. Emily, race across campus wildly waving a gun and disappear over the far horizon, that was Bob Stuart after the deer who got away. What a deer!

The freshman town student strutting up and down in front of the Ad building thumping his chest was Alan Keefer. He got his deer.

Paul Lowe has just accomplished an epic feat. After covering the floor of Hoke Hall with scratch paper, he and Donna Talbott computed the correct answer to a physical science problem. The volume of a cylinder 9 mill. in diameter and 63 mill. in length equals 4485 cu. mi. Well, figures don't lie.

One town student said he had done lots of school work but nothing interesting. He is, shhhh, ray hyde.

One of the most fascinating bits of information is how Bill Hettick spent his summer. How? And I quote: "Selling left-handed monkey wrenches to Eskimos, but the product wasn't in great demand so I quit."

Clara Weigel has a mad passion for T. V. western. She is going to buy her own Wild Bill Hiccup gun and holster set if she can save enough money. Maybe even a toothbrush too.

Jack O'Leary was one of the few boys at the sport dance Saturday looking over the situation. The situation of course being the dance floor—height, weight, color of eyes. (And I could say a few words on the dance, but to be brief—snarl, snap, hiss.)

Walt Bell doesn't usually go around with such a chalky face, but lately he has been painting Dr. Good's garage. Judging from his speed—one slab in 2 hours—he gets more paint on himself than on the wood.

Mystery Serial of the week—One of the shrinking violets who refused to give his name said he had done nothing. NOTHING! Who is this student? We'll bet his professors would like to know too. Clue—he lives close to Walla Walla.

Don't miss next week's exciting Mystery Serial when we will again have an anonymous comment by a town student. Watch for NOBODY SAYS in the next Beacon. (Well, nobody will give me any news.)

NELSON REPORTS ON SUMMER

Don Nelson and sons spent three days at Green Lake in Wallowa County during the summer. The round-trip mountain journey was 28 miles. They enjoyed fishing and swimming at the high lake.

"Larry," reports Librarian Nelson, "collected insects all the way."

"I worked on the railroad for a couple of weeks, just to tone up my muscles," went on Nelson. The Nelsons had various other fishing trips during the vacation.

Music Notes

By Doris Rigney

By Doris Rigney

Say, the orchestra still needs violas and cellos. Can you play either of these instruments? If so, contact Mr. Groth right away.

Did you know that we have a assistant director of the band? We do. Don Swart deserves a great deal of appreciation for the job he is doing. Mr. Groth speaks of him as his right hand man.

Those of you who like to dance should take notice. The Grande Ronde Symphony is holding a benefit ball on Nov. 12 at the Sacajawea Ballroom from 9:00 to 12:00. Billy Howell's orchestra will play. Tickets are $2.00. It is formal dance and any one interested is welcome.

Soon the Civic Music Drive will be coming up. Professional artists come to La Grande each year for performances. EOC students automatically have free admission upon showing their student-body cards. However, wives or husbands of students should see about obtaining a season ticket. More information will be appearing soon.

One of those in the music news this week is Miss Scott who sang several numbers at the Neighborhood Club this week accompanied by Mrs. J. Lynn Bishop. Dr. Bishop will be playing a flute solo at the A.A.U.W. tea this Saturday afternoon. Janet Allstock, of the business office staff, sang a beautiful arrangement of "Prayer Perfect" for the evening service at the Christian Church last Sunday.

Dorion Doings

By Mary Joan Russell

Well, the Brooklyn Dodgers have made the news by winning the World Series, but they aren't the only news being talked about in Dorion Hall.

We have three more girls to add to our engaged list. Agnes Thornburg, Doris Fox and Sally Palmer have now joined that elite circle. By the looks of things they will soon be joined by others.

Visiting with friends in Dorion this past weekend was Doris Woods. Doris is working in John Day and plans to continue her education at EOC next year.

A handsome young man by the name of Harold visited with Mrs. Hoyt this week. He is her son, who came up from Roseburg to do some deer hunting. Too bad he's married, girls.

The usual run of colds have already started to plague the halls of Dorion as everywhere else on campus. Your reporter is included among the casualties.

Tuesday night the girls of Dorion went to the polls and selected their ruling body known as the House Council. Those honored were: President, Verla Garner; Vice President, Grace Furuyama; Secretary, Theda Murray; Treasurer, Jo Ann Glenn; Song Leader, Jean Adamson. Floor representatives, who are "supposed" to make sure that quiet hours are kept on their respective floors, were the following: Basement, Jane Coffman and Beverly Hall, First, Bonita Booth; Second, Sally Jo Edwards and Aggie Thornburg; Annex, Betty Carol Wade, Third, Kiyoko Yamada and Patsy Yoneyama. Best of Luck for this coming year!!

EOC GRAD WRITES

Neva Neil, Alumni Association secretary, last week received a letter from Leonard Kennedy, 1950 graduate of EOC now living in Cheney, Wash.

"Mary and I," writes Kennedy, "with our two daughters, have moved here to Cheney where I have accepted a position of an Assistant Professor of Education at Eastern Washington College of Education. We are now settled and would welcome any letters or visits from friends living or visiting in the Spokane area."

New Students

By Gene Todd

Barrie Edwards of Warrington, County of Lancashire, England, and Union, Oregon, is beginning his first year at Eastern Oregon College. A graduate of Union High, where he completed his senior year after arriving in this country June 1, 1954, Barrie is registered as a pre-journalism major.

When asked to compare the amount and difficulty of English and American high school work, Barrie replied that he had a "rather easy time of it" at Union High last year. He went on to mention that he had completed four years of French and three years of German before leaving England, an item that may help explain his "easy time" last year. Of interest to prospective teachers is Barrie's explanation of the English school system, in which the curriculum is for the most part set by the school administration and in which graduation from both elementary and high school levels is based entirely on examinations.

After completing two years at EOC, Barrie plans a transfer to either Oregon State or the University of Oregon for further work on his journalism major. A career as a foreign correspondent or journalist is his ultimate goal.

Mama Skunk was worried because she never could keep track of her two young children. They were named In and Out and whenever In was in Out was out. And if Out was in, In was out. One day she called Out in and told him to go bring In in. So out Out went and in no time at all brought In in.

"Wonderful," said the Mama Skunk. "How did you find In so quickly out in that great big forest?"

"It was simple," said Out, "Instinct."

TECHMEN LOSE 26-6; HILLTOPPERS GAIN WIN

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers rolled over a highly favored Oregon Tech team 27 to 6 at Klamath Falls.

This was their first conference win in three years and their first of the season.

The first quarter was a scoreless tie without either team able to push the pigskin across the goal line. Terry Ziegenhagen hit pay dirt on a 14 yard jaunt through the center of the Owl line. He had scored previously but the play was nullified by a Mountaineer holding penalty. Dick Quinn converted for the extra point.

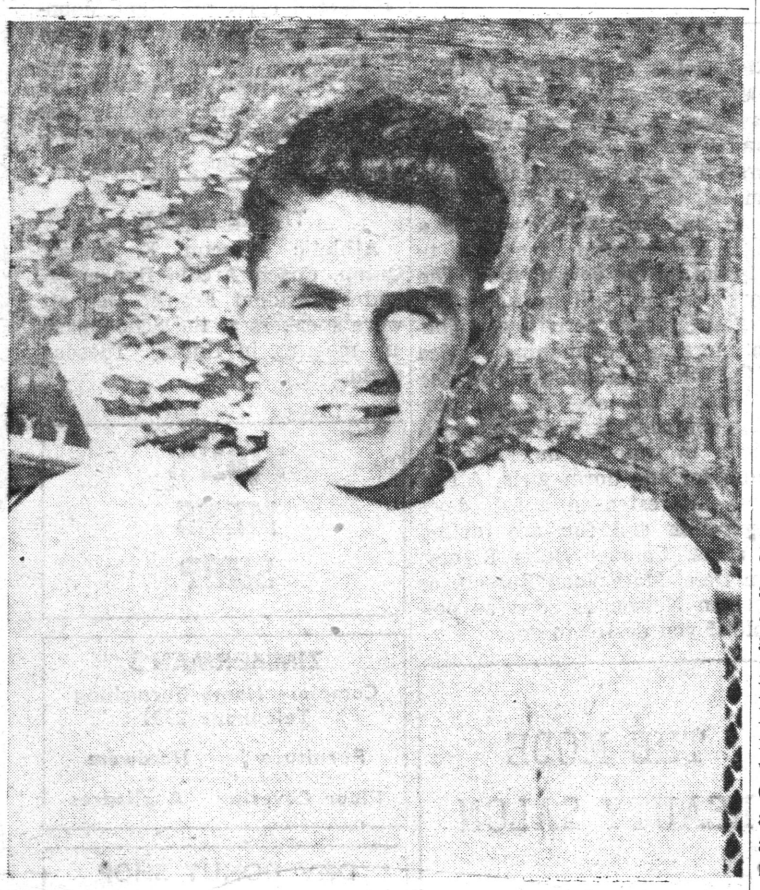
In the third quarter the EOC men received a punt on their own 34 and marched in eight plays to the Owls 13, where big Bill West ran it over for a touchdown. Quinn's kick for extra point was good.

Toward the end of the Quarter EOC was forced to punt and Lowell Kolbaba booted to the OTI eight. Two running plays failed to gain, the Owls punted to Arlen Smith on the 34. Smith returned it all the way for another TD. Quinn's kick split the uprights for the conversion.

The final Hilltopper tally came on a 64-yard run by Quinn. The try for extra point failed.

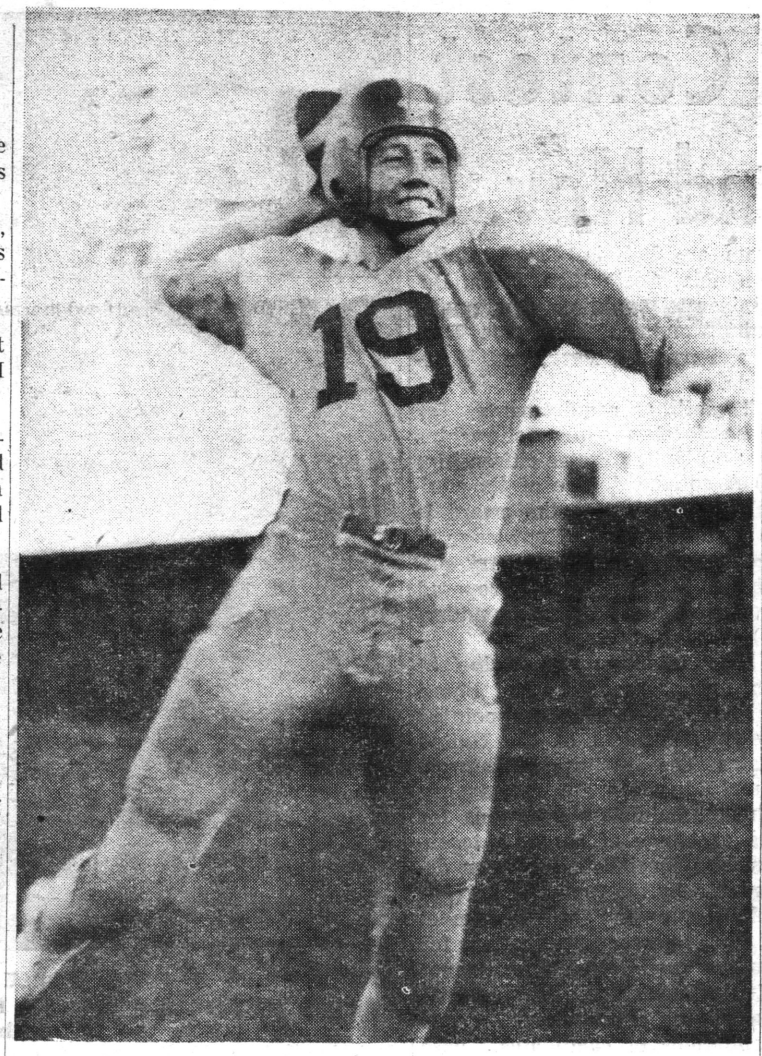
A Mountie fumble on the 50-yard stripe late in the fourth quarter gave the ball to the Owls. They pushed the ball across for their only score.

In the statistical department, Dick Quinn rolled up 145 yards to spearhead the Mountaineer attack.



EOC accounted for 14 first downs, all by rushing and OTI garnered 10 and 6 passing.

The Mountaineers gained a total of 296 yards, 268 rushing and 28 from passing, while Oregon Tech got 78 on the ground and 126 by the air for 204 total.



EOC threw 10 passes, completed four while their opponents passed 14 and completed eight. The only pass interception was made by Eastern Oregon.

PARTY IS FRIDAY

All members of the college yearbook (The Mountaineer) staff will gather at 504 Main Street, at the home of Advisor Ronald Bayes at 8 p.m. Friday (tonight) for a social get-together, Annual Co-Editor Don Swart announced this week. The yearbook's Homecoming Queen candidate will be picked at the special social meeting. Entertainment chairman is Agnes Thornburgh. Serving as co-hosts will be Dr. & Mrs. Gordon Clarke.

MOUNTAINEER STAR—Dick Quinn shown above was a tremendous ground gainer in the game with the Oregon Tech Owls Saturday. He, along with Bill West, Arlen Smith, and Terry Ziegenhagen, accounted for EOC's scores, and set Owls defense reeling.

Lorance "Doc" Savage

One of Eastern Oregon's finest football players, Lorence "Doc" Savage will help coaches Archie Dunsmoor and Doug Spear with this year's squad. In 1954 "Doc" was named to the honorable mention list of Williamson's Little All-American Ballance Poll. He was chosen the most valuable player at Eastern Oregon College and was picked by his teammates as Honorary Captain.

"Doc" led Mountaineer scoring last year with 47 points, making a total of seven touchdowns and five extra points. He returned 11 kickoffs for a total of 287 yards to take runner-up honors in this department to Jack Harmon and was also second in rushing with 45-6 yards per game.

In 1953 Savage was co-captain of the team, selected to the OCC team at halfback and practically dominated the statistics. He was second in the conference in rushing and led the Mountaineers in five departments, rushing, passing, pass reception, scoring and total individual offense. In the latter Lorence placed 19th in NAIA figures and 24th in rushing. He won four letters in football during his career at EOC.

CAMP News

The first Sabers meeting of the year was held in Hoke Hall Tuesday noon. Plans were discussed for Homecoming activities and Roberta Miller, Clara Weigal, Margarite Audet were appointed along with president Evelyn Huston to meet with the I. K. float committee to make further plans. Mary Joan Russell was elected secretary to replace Ces McDonnell. Sabers meetings are to be scheduled for the first and third Tuesdays of each month, it was decided.

Father: "Sonny, I'm going to tell you a story."

4-year-old: "Okay, but keep it clean. The old lady may be listening."

These three Bakerites could play an important role in Saturday's game with SOCE. From left to right Arlen Smith, Darrow Conklin, John "Jiggs" Dodson.

No man would listen to you talk if he didn't know it was his turn next.

Fulbright Contest Slated To End Nov. 1

November 1, 1955, is the closing date of the competitions for United States Government educational exchange grants for graduate study abroad, it was announced today by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City. One month remains in which to apply for awards under the Fulbright and Buenos Aires Convention Programs for the 1956-57 academic year.

Scholarship application blanks are availabe at the Institute, at its Regional Offices in Chicago, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington, or in the offices of Fulbright Advisers on college and university campuses. A brochure describing the overseas study awards may be obtained from the Institute.

The programs under the Fulbright Act and the Buenos Aires Convention for the Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations are part of the international educational exchange activities of the Department of State. They will give almost 1000 American citizens the chance to study abroad during the 1956-57 academic year. Since the establishment of these programs in 1947, over 4,600 American students have received grants for study.

Countries where U. S. graduate students may study under the Fulbright Program are Australia, Austria, Belgium and Luxembourg, Burma, Ceylon, Chile, Denmark, Egypt, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, India, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, the Philippines, and the United Kingdom.

This is the first year in which awards have been available in Chile under the Fulbright Act. In the Asian countries, Burma, Ceylon, India, Japan, and the Philippines, as well as in Greece, only a limited number of grants are available and mature, graduate candidates are preferred. The grants for Ceylon are partial only and supplement two awards offered by the University of Ceylon. Special provision is made in the German program for 25 grants to American graduate students who will serve as English language assistants in secondary schools.

Countries participating in the Buenos Aires Convention Program are Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, and Venezuela.

Eligibility requirements for these foreign study fellowships are: (1) United States citizenship; (2) A college degree of its equivalent at the time the award is to be taken up; (3) Knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry on the proposed study; (4) Age 35 years or under; (5) Good health.

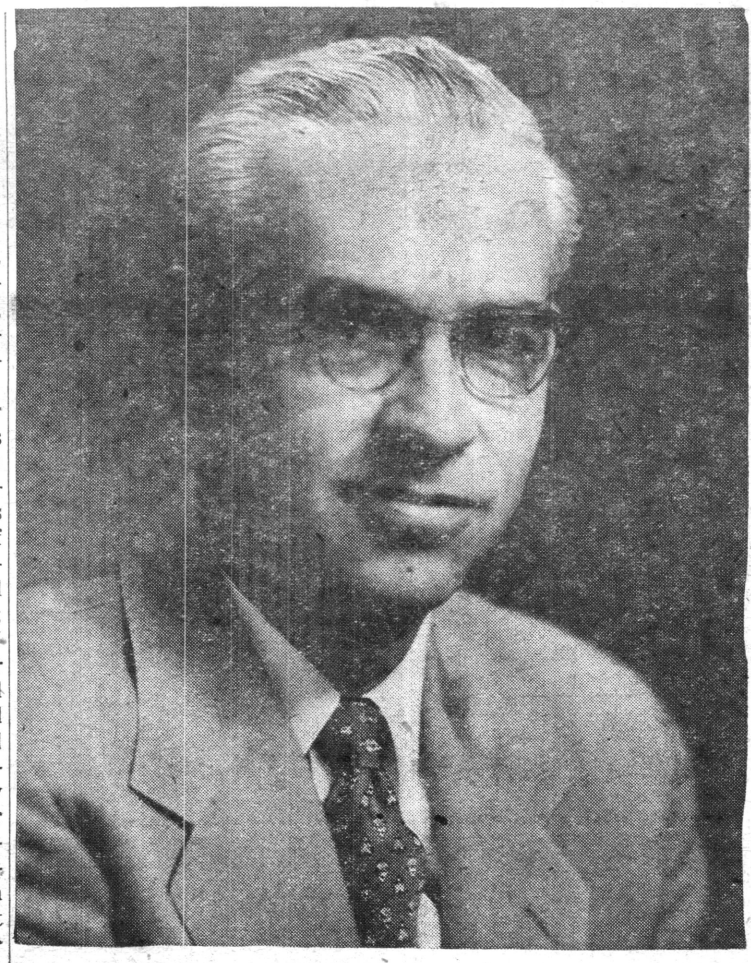
Final selection of Fulbright grantees is made by the Board of Foreign Scholarships appointed by the President of the United States. The Institute of International Education, a private agency which administers programs for the exchange of students teachers, and specialists, has been designated by the Board of Foreign Scholarships and the Department of State to screen applications for study abroad. Under the Buenos Aires Convention, the Institute makes the preliminary recommendations of candidates, with the cooperating countries making the final selection of candidates for study within their borders.

Awards under the Fulbright Act are made entirely in the currencies of participating countries abroad. This Act authorizes the use of foreign currencies and credits acquired through the sale of surplus property abroad for educational exchanges. The awards cover transportation, expenses of a language refresher or orientation course abroad, tuition, books, and maintenance for one academic year. Awards under the Buenos Aires Convention include transportation provided by the United States Government, and tuition and maintenance allowances provided by the host governments.

Preliminary selection for other Fulbright awards, those for teaching, lecturing or advanced research abroad, are made by the U. S. Office of Education and the Conference Board of Associated Research Councils.

OAES Plans Workhop

Elma Adams, vice president of the Oregon Association of Educational Secretaries, said today that "an effort is being made to upgrade educational office personnel throughout the state," by holding a regional workshop for the educational secretaries of Baker, Union, and Wallowa counties.



The workshop will be held on Saturday, October 15, on the campus of Eastern Oregon College.

Vice President Adams said that "A most interesting and worthwhile program has been planned which will encompass many of the problems of the public school secretary."

Speakers on the program will include President Frank Bennett of EOC; Charlotte Parr, President of the OAES; Dr. Lyle Johnson, director of student personnel at EOC; Dr. Leoard Good of EOC; and J. H. Adamson of Baker, who will lead a panel.

Harvey Carter, La Grande educator, and Ray Osborn, principal of Elgin high school, will serve as panel and conference consultants.

We do not need more specialists, but more whole men.

SAVED FROM A FATE WORSE THAN DEATH — Dr. Lyle Johnson, registrar, had promised his office staff, on the first day of registration, to "Eat my hat with salt and pepper on it," in public if Eastern Oregon college's registration did not go above 600 students. It went up to 603 yesterday and is still climbing - - and, consequently, registrar Johnson has a double reason to feel good today.

Off The Bench

Darrow Conklin, rookie from Baker should be commended for his fine line play for the Mountaineers. Another distinction Darrow has, is that he is the only Freshman on the Hilltopper eleven.

Al Atkins, head coach at SOCE, is in his first year with the Red Raiders, as is Archie Dunsmoor with the Mountaineers. This could prove to be interesting Saturday the eighth.

Dick Quinn leads the Mounties in rushing with 211 yards. This gives Dick 63.3 yards per game.

Bob Brown and Arlen Smith have both completed six passes, Brown six for 14 and Smith six for 19.

Mountaineers recently reporting to the squad are Warren Wright, Dwight Kirkland, Dick Kofford, and Don Greiger.

Wright, a center from Pendleton, is a returning letterman from last year's squad.

Dwight is a back from Baker.

Kofford is a returning letterman tackle from La Grande.

Don transferred from Centralia and is playing end. He is formerly from Mossey Rock, Washington.

BULLETIN

Mrs. Elsie Root, only sister of Dr. Amanda Zabel of La Grande, died suddenly in Long Beach, California, Wednesday afternoon. She was 68. Mrs. Root lived the past year in Long Beach. Her home was Valley City, North Dakota. Mrs. Root was born in Paynesville, Minnesota, and was preceded in death by her husband, who died three years ago.

Dr. Amanda Zabel, who moved from La Grande to Long Beach this summer, is her only surviving relative. Dr. Zabel holds the position of professor emeritus of English and literature from Eastern Oregon college.

Women's style may change, but their designs remain the same.

Fa-Ha-Lo Sunday Tour

Members of Fa Ha Lo will be traveling to Wallowa Lake this Sunday for a planning retreat. Cars will leave Dorion Hall at 6:00 a.m. All three meals will be eaten at the lake. There will be a slight contribution required to help defray the cost of food. The day's program will include planning the term's activities, a special morning communion service at the falls, recreation during the afternoon, and evening singsperation and vespers. The group will return in time to meet closing hours for the dorm girls. All of those interested in a full day's inspiration and fun are invited to come. Contact Doris Rigney, Jim Dale, Mary Joan Russell, or Norman Nelson as soon as possible if you desire to go.

Committees Set For Homecoming

Plans for Homecoming are swiftly progressing, according to co-chairmen Jack Rye and Agnes Thornburgh. The various committees have been chosen and are beginning to function.

Committees and members are as follows. Invitations: Donna Snow, chairman, Marsha Belshaw, J. J. Hassell, and Janet York. Making arrangements for the alumni banquet are Carol Saager, chairman, Jo Anne Glen, and Jim Applegate. Phyllis Snider is in charge of registration and working with her are Janis Counsell, Karen McGillivary, Jean Adamson, Evelyn Riggan, and Joyce Johnson. Robert Groth, band director, and Don Swart are making plans for the dance. Plans for the parade are being handled by Ward Thomas and Dr. Joseph Gaiser, assisted by Anna La Kamp, Margaret Bate, and Willie Laughlin. Don Starr is in charge of coronation, with Janice Masten and Clara Weigel comprising his committee.

Larry Syron, EOC yell king, is planning a rally and noise parade. The noise parade is a new idea this year. A contest will be held between organizations to see which can make the most noise in the downtown rally.

The Freshman class has met and have been instructed in its part in the festivities. The newly elected class president, Johnny Botz, has appointed Vern Bean in charge of building the bonfire; Bill Hagley, burning the "O"; Josie Ward, building the alumni sign; and Martha Praether, building the Mountaineer.

EOC Host To Regional FTO Conference

The Future Teachers of Oregon's EOC chapter Saturday played host to the Eastern Oregon regional FTO conference. Representatives of four educational colleges of Eastern Oregon met on campus for the six-hour session.

President Frank Bennett of EOC welcomed the delegates and was followed by Mrs. Marcia Mills of the Oregon Education Association, who spoke on "What Is Leadership?" Mrs. Mills is state consultant to the FTO.

In attendance at the conference were Therese Kremer, Marylhurst College, state FTO president; John Schukey, Southern Oregon College, vice-president; and Pat Ingram, Oregon State College, secretary. Miss Kremer presented a report on the national convention during the noon luncheon. Another FTO official present at the meeting was Evelyn Huston of EOC, who is regional director.

Discussion groups, considering the topics "Better Participation at Meetings" and "Raising Prestige of FTA," met for morning and afternoon sessions. Results of discussions were presented to the final conference meeting by group recorders, one of which was EOC's Doris Rigney.

"The Future Teachers of Oregon organization is made up of all Future Teachers of America chapters in the state," according to Dr. Martha Addy, FTO advisor at EOC and state advisor to FTO. Dr. Addy went on to add that, "Saturday's conference was one of a series that will culminate in the annual FTA convention held in Washington, D. C."

Colleges sending delegates to the regional conference were Portland State, Mt. Angel, Cascade and Eastern Oregon. Exclusive of EOC representation, thirty-two delegates were present.

Frosh Fix Fire, Fight For Fuel

By Patsy Yoneyama

As usual this year the freshmen class are confident that the upper classmen will not prematurely incinerate their bonfire materials. They are planning to post guards at strategic points around the bonfire area to intercept any invaders.

Johnny Botz, president of the freshman class, said plans are not yet definite for the defensive program. "But we'll be ready for 'em!" he added.

With the approach of homecoming October 29th, the freshmen have been given charge of the annual bonfire which will be lit after the queen's coronation Friday night. It will be built somewhere on the school premises. Traditionally, upper classmen attempt to burn it down before the designated time, so that the freshmen will have to gather more refuse at the last minute.

This year's chairman appointed to head committees are the following: Bill Higley, Vale, is in charge of building the "O" on the hillside. Linda Prather heads the group for making a Mountaineer man at the base of the campus flagpole. Vern Bean has charge of the bonfire.

GRADUATE TEACHING

Miss Neva Neil, alumni secretary, said today that announcement has been made revealing the appointment of an Eastern Oregon college graduate, Leonard Kennedy, to the position of assistant professor of education at Eastern Washington College of Education at Cheney.

Eight Lovelies Seek Queen Honors

By Agnes Thornburgh

The various organizations on campus have selected their queen candidates. There are eight charming girls vieing for the honor of presiding over the 1955 Homecoming festivities. From this number three will be chosen in the primary elections Friday to be on the court and one of these will be crowned queen on the 28th.

DONNA SNOW has been chosen by Sigma Alpha Chi, the women's scholastic honorary. Donna is a junior from Pilot Rock and is in Secretarial Science. She is 5' 5¾" tall and has dark brown hair and eyes. Her hobbies are dancing, swimming and horseback riding.

MARCIA BELSHAW is Hunt Hall's choice for queen. She is 5' 2" tall, has brown hair and hazel eyes. Marcia is a second term junior from Mt. Vernon and is in Elementary Education. She is interested in art, music, dancing and sports, particularly horseback riding.

Enrollment Now 608

Eastern Oregon College's 1955 enrollment is holding steady at 608 students at the end of the initial registration period, it was announced by registrar Lyle H. Johnson this week.

The new registration figure indicates an increase of 19.5 per cent over last year's total of 509 students.

BARBARA GULICK has been chosen by the Intercollegiate Knights. Barbara is a 5' 4" blond with greenish eyes. She is a junior from Halfway and is in elementary education. She is interested in all sports including horseback riding and swimming.

BERNICE TRACY is Sock and Buskin's choice. She is a sophomore from Milton Freewater, in elementary Education and likes dancing and most sports. She is 5' 4½" tall and has brown hair and eyes.

JANET YORK is being sponsored by the Lettermen's club. She is a sophomore, also from Milton Freewater and is taking Secretarial Science. She is a 5' 4" brunette with blue-green eyes who likes to dance, sing and swim.

JEAN ADAMSON is the International Relations Club's candidate. Jean is a 5' 8", hazel eyed, light brown haired sophomore from Baker. She is in Elementary Education and likes to sing, sew, or almost anything except study.

CHARLOTTE PARSONS is the candidate chosen by the Future Teachers of America club on campus. Charlotte is a junior from Joseph and is in Elementary Education. She is 5'7" tall, has brown hair and eyes and says she likes to do almost anything.

VERLA GARNER is the Mountaineer and Beacon's candidate. She is 5'6" tall with dark brown hair and hazel eyes. Verla is a senior from Weiser, Idaho, and is in Elementary Education. She likes all sports, music, sewing, dancing and eating.

IOWA SEES CHANGES

AMES, Ia. (I.P.)—Two major changes in administration at Iowa State College will become effective with the opening of the new academic year. These include establishment of an office of Director of Student Affairs and abandonment of the office of Dean of Junior College.

Mounties Will Battle Willamette

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers agreed today to play a late season game with Willamette university at Bend on Nov. 19. Proceeds of the event, after necessary expenses, will go toward development of athletic recreation programs in central Oregon.

In a letter to Dr. Frank Bennett, EOC President, Gilbert Lieser, manager for the program, suggests the game as a natural result of the sudden leap the Mountaineers have taken from semi-obscurity to prominence in league football competition. His message also pointed out the benefits a relatively small college may obtain from publicity resulting.

EOC Coach Archie Dunsmoor said this morning that "we are very happy to have and been able to accept the invitation. We realize that the game will be against one of the teams that has been hard to beat, but intend to give a good accounting of ourselves."

Dr. Bennett, said "this is a real opportunity for both Eastern Oregon college and Willamette university to join the Central Oregon communities in their recreation program. It should be excellent chance for partisans of both schools to see their teams in action."

Dr. Bennett is a graduate of Willamette, and was a member of the board of trustees there for a number of years.

Comparison of the relative prowess of the two teams will be available after EOC's Saturday night contest at Walla Walla, Wash., with Whitman college. Willamette defeated the Washington school, 10-0, in their game this fall.

Willamette's coach Ted Ogdahl will depend on the running of backs Windy Sequeira and Bobby Zoelch, plus the fine passing of quarterback Benny Holt, against Eastern Oregon.

Dunsmoor, of course, will depend on the running of Dick Quinn, Frank Good, Bill West, and Elvin Daggett as well as the passing of Arlen Smith to bring home the victory.

Bob Quinn, athletic director at EOC, praised the effort the team has expended in making the invitation possible and lauded the rebuilding job accomplished by Dunsmoor.

Coming EVENTS

The Ackerman Library will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.

'Mexico And Religion' Group Speaker's Topic

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: "Every one that flatters thee/ Is no friend in misery,/ Words are easy, like the wind;/ Faithful are hard to find."—Richard Barnefield

Academic Freedom

A great fallacy in education is the student who accepts as factual and unquestionable that which he reads in a text book or that which is told him by his instructors. True education must be the result of evaluated information . . . checked and counter-checked before a decision is finally made.

Many questions arising out of class rooms are those which have two or more answers . . . each on a sound foundation and each with extensive backing. Religion, philosophy, political science and the arts are fields of study which demand evaluation and concentrated thought.

If an individual allows himself to be guided toward one answer and does not give other philosophies equal hearing then he has denied himself of the right of academic freedom. An answer based on such a formula is incomplete and borders on indoctrination.

Because an individual's pre-conceived opinion does not jibe with that of his instructors or his text books does not necessarily mean the original opinion is unfounded and false. An honest opinion can withstand criticism and attack. It may even gain stature by absorbing new datum supplied by its attackers.

Intelligent questions deserve intelligent answers. Beware of half-truths, bias and "unquestionable fact." The thin line between education and indoctrination has often been stepped across under the guise of authority.

Only the individual scholar can preserve his academic freedom. In the long run he will be a better educated person.

College Deans At Conference

Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, dean of men and registrar at Eastern Oregon college, and Mrs. Dorothy Winters, dean of women and instructor in English, left Tuesday to attend the annual conference on student personnel in Portland.

"An entire day will be spent in a discussion of freshman orientation programs," according to Dr. Johnson, who is director of student personnel at EOC.

Previous to the conference, Dean Johnson will attend a meeting in Eugene on problems connected with fees for out-of-state students.

Dublinites On Fifth Tour; Critics Say 'Sheer Magic'

Returning here from Ireland after a summer refresher at home, the Dublin Players, who are due to present "Pygmalion" at the EOC theater next week, are now making their fifth coast-to-coast tour of the United States and Canada. More than 70% of last year's sponsors have asked them to return and the current tour is substantially oversubscribed.

Primarily drawn from the Abby and Gate Theatres of Dublin, they play with the great skill and style characteristic of those two classic institutions. There is an indefinable spirit, verve, and smartness about their playing which comprise earnest years of Spartan training and discipline, and the unsurpassed standards of the Irish and British Repertory System. Accordingly, they give a new meaning to the great plays of George Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, Louis D'Alton, Lennox Robinson, Sean O'Casey, William Butler Yeats, J. M. Synge, Lady Gregory, Paul Vincent Carroll and others.

For their fifth tour, the company has changed its repertroire, retaining only "Pygmalion" from last season's catalog, and bringing four great full length plays. The others are: "Money Doesn't Matter" by Louise D'Alton, "An Ideal Husband' by Oscar Wilde, and "Arms and the Man" by George Barnard Shaw.

Opening in the East, the Dublin Players Company make their way to the Pacific Coast for November and December, play the Southwest through January, the East Coast in February and March, thence to the Midwest and North Central States in April, concluding in Canada and New England in May and early June. This is a record season, without a single lay-off, involving more than 30,000 miles of travel, for these intrepid players.

"The finest company to come here in 20 years" says television tycoon Ed Sullivan, and "Sheer Magic in the Theatre,' said Fulton Oursler, Variety's estimate is "Top entertainment,' and other critics from New York to San Francisco have ben extravagant in their reception of these Irish and English stars who play in the greater theater tradition, too little of which has been seen in this country in recent years.

Dorion Doings

By Mary Joan Russell

This past weekend was our regional F.T.O. conference on campus. The week before quite a few girls, mainly Pat McConnel and Emi Komo, were being kept busy making a F.T.A. flag which might well be adopted as a pattern throughout the state. The flag was designed by Rose Seid.

As I was walking to my room the other day a conspicuous bunch of girls were gathering in room 215. You should have heard the Oh's and Ahh's issuing forth. Some lucky girl, Jan by name, received a dozen red carnations.

If going to the assembly this past Wednesday you saw all the different organizations nominations for Homecoming Queen. Most are from the dorm and they include Barbara Gulick, Verla Garner, Bernice Tracy, Janet York, Donna Snow, Marcia Belshaw, and Jean Adamson. The other candidate, Charlotte Parsons, resided in Dorion last year. Many of you will remember her as Charlotte Revis.

The first house meeting to be conducted by the new House Council was held October 13th. Discussion was held mainly on the points of lounge hours for men guests and room check.

This next week will see a distinct change in the appearance of Dorion's Halls. Each door, as in the past, will be decorated to be in the spirit of Homecoming.

EOC Students Attend Retreat

Four students from EOC, together with counselor Helen Bliss, attended the fall retreat of the college Methodist students of Oregon at Camp Magruder on the Oregon coast, returning here Sunday night. The students were Jean Adamson and Evelyn Riggan, Baker, Diana Gilstrap and Lee Bolen, La Grande.

The group heard Dr. Robert Leslie, professor of psychology and pastoral counseling at the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, Calif. speak in the keynote address. The theme for the meeting was "Deepening Personal Relationships."

The EOC students were in charge of the Morning Watch and participated in workshops and meetings.

On behalf of the sixteen delegates who attended the FTO regional conference from Portland State, I wish to extend our deep appreciation for your considerate hospitality while staying on the EOC campus last Friday night and Saturday. I, especially, enjoyed to see EOC for the first time since my attendance there in '52-'53. The remodeled kitchen and dining hall are really attractive.

The whole group immensely enjoyed the inspirational words of welcome given by Dr. Frank Bennett. I believe that upon completion of the afternoon sessions we Future Teachers and leaders of a "free" people saw the import and significance of going the "second mile."

People could say that Coach Archie Dunsmoore has done a fair job with EOC's football team this year.—We think he has.

Looking ahead a little, we think EOC could prove to be a football power next year. There are only four seniors on the 33 man squad and only one of these seniors is a starter.

Eastern Oregon Mountaineers lost their first conference game of the season to Oregon College 20 to 19 at Monmouth, Saturday night.

Hard running Elvin Daggett made the longest gain of the evening as he raced 53 yards for the Mountaineers' first score of the ball game. Quinn converted the extra point.

A Mountie bobble gave the ball to OCE on the 31, which they eventually scored upon. Doug Zitek, formerly coached by Archie Dunsmoor, came back to haunt him as he gathered in a 13 yard pass from Charles Harris. A pass play was good for the extra point. This wasn't the last of Mr. Zitek as he recovered an EOC fumble on their own 25 late in the fourth quarter. With third and 21, the Wolves pulled a tricky "guard special for the final score.

In the second quarter the Hilltoppers made five first downs in a row, with the longest gain being a 33 yard pass from Smith to Harmon. This play placed the ball on the one. Dick Sherrill drove over for the score.

The third quarter was scoreless until after midway through this period the Mounties again drove to the six with Smith carrying it over for the TD. The try for point failed, leaving the score 19 to 7.

Later in the same perod Wyman Gerhart returned an EOC punt 39 yards to the OCE forty. Six plays later he went across for the score. Larry Bass kicked the extra point.

This was all of the scoring except for the "guard special," in the fourth quarter which won the game for the Wolves.

Individual ground gaining honors for Eastern Oregon goes to Elvin Daggett as he rolled up 104 yards in 13 carries.

Mounties Earn Win; Dick Quinn Rambles; Second Conference Win

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers nipped the South Oregon Red Raiders 21-20 for their second conference win.

E.O.C. opened scoring late in the first quarter after end, Frank Good, intercepted a Red Raider pass. The Mounties took the ball on Southern Oregon's 45 yard line and powered to the five where Terry Zigenhagen carried for the score. Dick Quinn converted giving the Mounties a 7-0 lead.

S.O.C.E. dominated scoring in the second and third quarters, scoring on a 37 yard run by halfback Ralph Clarno, and on a pass from quarterback Dick Seymore to end Dick Smith. Conversions were made by John Garrett. The Boys from Oregon's Southland held a 14-7 lead at halftime.

With three minutes gone in the third period, EOC halfback, Dick Quinn, skirted left end for a 23 yard gain and six points. His conversion try was good, thus putting the Hilltoppers back in the ball geme.

EOC's final score came on a pass from Arlen Smith to Dick Quinn. Quinn's all-important point try was good and the Mounties led 21 to 14.

Dick Seymour, SOCE's brilliant quarterback, chucked a perfect strike to end Charles McCoy for the final score of the ball game. The point try was broken up by EOC lineman, Jerry Bristow.

Acting captains for the ball game were Bill West and Dick Quinn.

'Jive In '55' Spirit High On Campus

By Agnes Thornburgh
1955 Homecoming Co-Chairman

Almost everyone on campus is now busily making plans and arrangements for Homecoming. The way things are shaping up it looks like this will be one of our most successful Homecomings. The general committee has been planning and anticipating for weeks and now it is up to you students to make this Homecoming one to be remembered.

All students, from Frosh to Seniors, are beginning to feel the glow of the coming activities. Right now, foremost in peoples' minds are the questions, "How are the floats coming?", and "Who will be our Queen?". Ask any organization chairman about the floats and he'll give you a frenzied look and say, "Fine—I think!" Nearly every organization on campus is sponsoring a float under the theme, "Lots of Jive in Fifty-five", and all are busy thinking of something new and different that will out-do everyone else, and win the grand prize. Busy feet are running everywhere, and according to Ward Thomas, parade chairman, floats are poppin' up all over the place (good ones, too!).

The queen candidates were introduced in assembly last Wednesday. Quite the introductions they were, too. It's a close race. Your vote will count heavily in the outcome so get out and vote today.

This new deal this year, the noise parade, led by Larry Syron, our versatile yell king, is getting noisier by the day! There will be a prize for the group making the most noise in the pep rally Friday night, and believe it or not there seems to be quite a talent to this noise making business.

Gary Miller, student body president, says that half time entertainment is shaping up for the game Saturday afternoon. One of the main features of this year's halftime will be a fiendish contest between the sophomores and freshmen to determine how long the underclassmen will wear their Rook lids. If the freshmen win, they will only have to wear them until Thanksgiving. If not, the hats stay on until the end of the term. Good Luck—?

Representatives of the Freshman class have informed us that a movement for a bigger-and-better-than-ever bonfire is under way. Materials of every kind, size, and shape are being gathered and by the sound of the reports this year's fire will really be a halocaust and by the way, it will burn on schedule! Plans for the construction of the giant Mountaineer and the burning of the 'O' are also being carried out smoothly.

The busiest night of the Homecoming weekend, Saturday night, is filled with everything from eating and dancing to a variety show. Carol Saager, banquet chairman, reports that the theme for the banquet is "Autumn Leaves" and all arrangements for this feature have been completed. The variety show, which will be held directly after the banquet, will consist of a one act play, "Afraid of the Dark," and numbers from many of our talented students. Don Swartz, dance chairman, says that all is in order in his department. Students and Alums will dance out the last chapter of our '55 Homecoming to the music of Billy Howell.

Anderson Reveals Assembly Plans

By JIM APPLEGATE

Mr. Howard Anderson, Chairman of the EOC Assembly Committee, provided the following information about the committee and the coming assemblies in an interview with the Beacon Tuesday.

The faculty representatives on the Assembly Committee are as follows: Dr. E. Anderson, Dr. J. L. Bishop, Mr. R. Hiatt, Miss J. Scott, Mr. L. Boone, Dr. A. Kaiser, and Mr. R. Bayes.

It is planned to have student members on the committee to meet with the faculty representatives in joint discussion. These students shall be selected by the faculty representatives and acted upon by the student council. Any student interested in membership on this committee should contact Mr. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson was quoted thus, "Our philosophy shall be to present the best assemblies we can, both educational and entertaining. Since we want them to be as good as possible we will not attempt to have weekly assemblies."

He then enumerated the following assemblies and dates, some of which are still tentative.

Nov. 16—The Rentons, a tenor and soprano singing team.

Spring Term —Fiddler Beers, "concert fiddler".

"Other assemblies will be principally local talent shows. We expect an all-school talent assembly, a faculty assembly, a Sock and Buskin production, a Band assembly, and one by the Chorus. There will be special assemblies at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter."

A new system for announcements during assembly hours has been inaugurated this year. That, of keeping anonuncements during assembly hours (Wednesday 11 o'clock) to a minimum. Items previously given as announcements at assemblies should be placed on the bulletin board or published in The Beacon.

As a complete assembly schedule has not been completed, Mr. Anderson advised students to "watch for posters in the main hall of the Administration building announcing assemblies."

Princesses Barbara Gulick And Janet York Included In Pretty Homecoming Royalty

By Shrdlu

Marcia Belshaw, Mount Vernon, junior, will reign as Queen of Homecoming. Miss Belshaw was named to the regal position by student voters at Eastern Oregon college in elections on campus this week.

Queen Marcia's gracious attendants will be Princess Janet York, sophomore, Milton-Freewater.

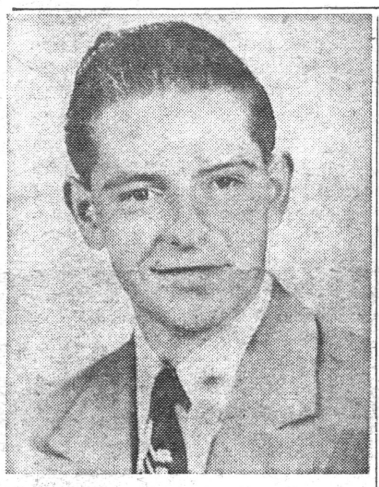
The lovely, brown-haired ruler-for-a-weekend was crowned in impressive rites in the Eastern Oregon Colelge theater at 6:10 p.m. Friday night.

As soft lights played against the velvet curtains of the college theater, student body President Gary Miller, Cove, introuced the Court to Hobart Keeney, The Dalles, Eastern Oregon College Alumni Association president. President Keeney congratulated the court, and the coronation ceremonies were concluded as the sparkling crown of royalty came to rest on the head of Queen Marcia I.

QUEEN MARCIA I

PRINCESS BARBARA

Queen Marcia was presented a gift bouquet of flowers by a representative of Future Teachers of America, J. H. Ackerman chapter, the organization which sponsored the candidacy of last year's Queen Evelyn. This year's Homecoming Queen was sponsored by the college men's residential dormitory, Hunt Hall. Miss Belshaw was a Homecoming princess in 1953.



PRINCESS JANET

The gracious and vivacious Queen Marcia was attended during the ritual by Christine Johnson, crown bearer; Mike Oesterle, Dougie Clarke, and Boyd Nelson, train bearers, Lona Cater, flower girl, and the student president, in addition to her court.

Princess Barbara was sponsored, in her candidacy, by the college's Intercollegiate Knights, a men's service fraternity. Princess Janet was sponsored by the lettermen's club.

Miss Patsy Evans was organist for the coronation.

Larry Syron, EOC's versatile yell king, will lead his rally squad in the Homecoming Parade Saturday. Larry is a sophomore from Lebanon.

Don Swart, Hermiston, is chairman of the Homecoming Dance Committee. Don also serves as as co-editor of the yearbook and student director of the band.

Homecoming Parade Floats Readied; Route Chosen

Following the theme of "Lots of Jive in '55," ten EOC organizations will celebrate Homecoming by participating in Saturday's parade, which will have its start at the foot of Eighth Street hill, at 1:00 p.m. Each float will carry out the theme of a song.

The La Grande National Color Guard will lead the parade, followed by the EOC band under the direction of Mr. Robert C. Groth. The Queen's float will come next with the theme of "Stairway to the Stars." Student body president, Gary Miller, Mrs. Miller, Homecoming co-chairmen, Jack Rye and Agnes Thornburg, will follow close behind. Next in line are the Rally Squad, led by Larry Syron, yell king. Then come the organizations.

Songs both new and old have been chosen by the various organizations and are: "No Business Like Show Business," Sock and Buskin; "Sitting on Top of the World," F.T.A.; "Yellow Rose of Texas," Sabers and I.K.'s; "Popcorn Song," W.R.A.; "The Bad Brahma Bull," Rodeo Club; "Autumn Leaves," Theta Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Phi;; 'Seventeen," Dorion Hall; Hunt Hall is uncertain; "International Waltz," I.R.C.; "Davy Crockett," A.W.S.

The parade will proceed down Eighth Street to Adams, down Adams to Fourth Street, up Fourth to G. Avenue, turning east to the college stadium. The parade circles the inside of the stadium once for the benefit of spectators. As in the past, judges will be selected from downtown business houses, and will view the parade in front of the Sacajawea Hotel.

Ward Thomas, chairman for the parade, and his committee, Margaret Bates, Anna LaLamp, and Willie Loughlin, have been responsible for picking the judges, arranging the line-up, contacting city commission for parade route and police escort, and inviting the National Guard.

It is traditional for the float winner from the previous year to build the queen's float. Dorion Hall, who won with the bedroom scene in "A Typical Day at Dorion" had the honor of building it this year.

'Readings From Literature' Slated

A series of cultural programs entitled "Readings from Literature," begins in Walter M. Pierce Library on Wednesday. The meetings will be weekly. Students, faculty members, and townspeople are invited to attend the sessions, which begin promptly at 3:15 p.m. and will be a half-hour in length. The meetings will be in the library's audio-visual room.

The first program will feature Dr. Gordon W. Clarke, who will present selected reading from modern poets. His presentation is titled "Something old; something new, and something blue." Dr. Clarke is an assistant professor on the EOC faculty and teaches classes in philosophy, English, and literature. He was a member of the editorial staff of the literary magazine, Accent, at one time.

Housing Shortage?

(ACP)—Leaders of the student bodies in Rangoon, Burma, have accused the University authorities of having wrongly failed many students in the recent matriculation examinations. They said that the examiners in a calculated move to keep down numbers at the University where hostel accommodation is limited, had failed many who deserved to pass.

'Autumn Leaves' Banquet For Alumni Planned

Once again as Homecoming rolls around it brings with it the varied activities of an Alma Mater preparing to welcome those previously graduated back to her hallowed halls.

One of these activities is the annual Alumni Banquet held each year afte rthe traditional game as a gathering of returning "Alums".

Carol Saager, Banquet Committee chairman, discussed the committee's plans for this year's Alumni Banquet in a recent interview with the Beacon.

"This year's banquet will be at 6 o'clock, Saturday, October 29, 1955 in the Hoke Hall dining room. Plans are pretty well formulated for the banquet Saturday evening. Our last-minute detail is getting the table centerpieces and other decorations around the room, which can only be completed Saturday. Since we took the theme "Autumn Leaves" our complete decoration will be in the various fall colors. It has been a little difficult knowing exactly how many to prepare for along the food line so our only alternative was to take last year's number.

The theme "Autumn Leaves" was chosen by the committee which consists of the following under the able direction of Miss Neva Neil, advisor: Carol Saager, chairman; Mike McArdle, Dorothy Kelley, Bonita Booth, JoAnn Glenn, and Jim Applegate. Bob King and Avon Love are co-chairmen of the clean-up committee.

The decorations which carry out the Autumn theme are composed entirely of fall flora. The committee will be assisted in the arrangement of the decorations by Mrs. Eva Miller and Mrs. Harriet Hoyt.

Carol released the program for the banquet as follows:

Annual Homecoming Alumni Banquet.

DEAR ALUMNI:

Homecoming should be a delightful experience for all returning ex-students and graduates. The faculty and the student body have made special preparation to receive and welcome you. We hope this day may be a rewarding experience for each and every one of you.

Our new program at the college seems to have engendered new interest at E.O.C. and an increased enrollment. These facts connected with a somewhat better than usual athletic season, has contributed to a real enthusiasm at this homecoming time. We hope you will add your enthusiasm to ours and make this a most memorable weekend.

FRANK B. BENNETT
President

Welcome, Alums!

On behalf of the student body and the homecoming committee we would like to extend to you—returning Alumni—our wholehearted welcome to our 27th annual Homecoming. We are most happy to have you back with us once again to celebrate this occasion. Although EOC is bigger this year and there are many new faces around we know that you will feel at home.

Most of the traditional Homecoming events have been scheduled for your enjoyment and we have endeavored to make each and every one of them bigger and better than ever. We have made only one change in substituting the variety show for the play which is not yet ready for presentation at this time. We hope that this will meet with your approval. Since this is your Homecoming we have tried to plan it as we think you would like it and as you have planned it in the past. Our highest aim is for you to have a good time during your short stay with us—So Enjoy Yourself Alumni!!!

At this time, we would like to also personally thank every one who has worked with us in planning these festivities. We want you to realize how thankful we are to all of you. We hope that everyone will enjoy and remember this Homecoming as much as we will.

Remember our theme; "Lots of Jive in '55" and let's—"Live It Up!"

Painting The Town---

By A. Brush

Homecoming is a grand and a glorious event for all the returning escapees—a coming-home to gloat, no doubt, on the misfortunes of such as we who must yet remain within the cruel, dark walls of higher education. Sort of puts one in mind of the old saying concerning the criminal and the scene of the crime; of course, we know that college students never do anything wrong—why, we're just the sweetest little bunch of eager-learners!

Honestly though, I'm glad so many people can come back for the festivities and I hope everyone has a wonderful time.

Say, as a little reminder: DON'T FORGET TO VOTE! Sure, I know it's hard to make up your mind when all three girls are so pretty, but push yourself, boy—one of them is going to be queen and ifen you wants to have some say in the choice, VOTE!

Important Events: October 15 is a red-letter day for Joan Garity and Jerry Driskell—they got marmied! Congratulations, you lucky people, you.

Soon-to-be-Mr.-and-Mrs. Everett Winburn nad Sharon Wright are engaged — to each other, of course.

Janis Counsell and John Dahlstrom are also among the engaged-elite.

If anyone missed seeing the Dublin Players, he ought to have his head examined. Their performance was absolutely marvelous. The play itself was delightful but it couldn't have ben nearly so enjoyable without the superb acting. If EOC is ever so fortunate to have them back, everyone must make it a point to see them as it is an evening well worth the price of a ticket.

Perhaps you noticed that A. Brush was missing from the issue last week. You didn't!!!? Oh, I'm crushed! Anyway, this little bristle was attacked by that vile thing known as the Cold Germ. I'll try to be more careful in the future as to whom I associate with, and then you, lucky dog that you are, will always have the pleasure of A. Brush's wit and humor. Got to be going now; a sneeze just blew in. See you next time.

Progress Hits Whitman

Walla Wall, Wash. (I.P.)—Although still in purely the discussion stage, much research on the possibilities and practibility of Whitman's changing to a five-dav academic week has been done by Prof. Thomas Howells, director of the curriculum, in conjunction with Registrar Alta Glenny, secretary of the faculty. They have devised a workable plan, which is designed to make more economic use of the academic day, including fuller use of all morning hours, and more use of of the three afternoon hours.

At present there are eight morning sequences for three-hour classes, but Prof. Howells points out that effective use is made of only five of these eight. Under the new plan, there would only be six three-hour morning sequences, but effective use would be made of all of them, thus gaining one sequence in the long run. This rearrangement would leave the 11 o'clock hour on Thursday free from classes entirely, making possible a regular time set aside for assemblies and other extra-curricular activities. The new schedule would involve more afternoon classes, but it is thought that there would be no need to use the four to five o'clock hour.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Most of the alumni are probably wondering about the new face this year in the music department. The new member is Mr. Robert Groth who is a graduate of the Unievrsity of Oregon and hails from Portland. He is teaching the music appreciation classes and directing the band and Grand Ronde Symphony while Rhodes Lewis is on sabbatical leave. Mr. Groth has already made a name for himself by playing numerous violin solos for school and community affairs. He will play solos for the Alumni Banquet on Saturday night, and he and Janice Masten will present a violin duet for the Sigma Alpha Chi brunch on Saturday morning.

The choir has elected their new officers now. Bart Clements will serve as their president, and Naomi Elam will be their secretary. Ward Thomas and Janice Robertson will be the business manager and the new librarain.

This will be the last reminder about the Civic Music campaign which is still going on. All students may attend Civic Music presentations by using their student body cards. Married students must buy a season ticket for their husbands or wives by October 29. These tickets may be obtained by calling 8921.

The male quartet will make three appearances this weekend. They will sing at the banquet, talent show, and at the dance.

Robertson Gives Illness Tips

Margaret Robertson, Director of Health Service at EOC, passes on this advice to all concerned:

"In spite of beautiful autumn weather, colds and sore throats are plentiful. Please report to the Health Service at the first sniffle and sneeze and nip colds in the bid.

"Refer to the Health Service bulletin about permits to see one of the college physicians.

"Please note carefully the procedure for obtaining excuses from class because of illness. It is necessary to report in person or by phone if you have to miss any classes because of illness. Then go to the Health Service office for the excuse when you are well enough to attend class again."

Self-Service Surgery

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (ACP) — This one from the pages of the University of Alabama's Crimson White: "In the interest of public health, the University hospital and Alabama and American Medical Associations wish us to print the following announcement: With the advent of 'wonder drugs' and modern surgical techniques, an appendectomy has become a minor operation. But under no circumstances should students attempt to remove their own appendix."

Council Minutes

Regular Meeting of Eastern Oregon College's Student Council, La Grande, Oregon. Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1955.

The meeting was called to order by President Gary Miller in the conference room at 11:35 a.m. The minutes were read and approved. Roll call was taken with twelve voting members present.

Under old business Dr. Lyle Johnson asked about the results of the poll made last year on the student use of library hours during weekends. A discussion was held on having different hours for both the Pierce and Ackerman libraries. The Secretary was asked to see Mr. Nelson about changing the library hours and to report to the council.

Under new business Don Scharn asked who can submit candidates for Homecoming Queen, the answer being any organization and also the housing units providing the candidate has completed three terms at Eastern Oregon College.

Mr. Anderson asked the council to select five students to serve on the assembly committee. These people were submitted.

Senior—Barbara Blacker
Junior—Bob King
Freshman—Jan Hindman and Barbara Carter.

Don Scharn moved we appoint these people to the assembly committee. The motion was seconded and carried.

The next matter discussed was a committee chairman for record dances. JoAnn Nuss moved we appoint Ron Mills as committee chairman for record dances. The motion was seconded and carried

A discussion was held on the service clubs, the three being the IK's, Sabers, and the Letterman's Club. It was suggested that further consideration be given to the Letterman's Club being included in the service organizations. Gary Miller will first check with Mr. Quinn to see if the Lettermen wish to continue as a service organization.

Don Scharn moved we appoint the IK's to sell the freshman hats. The motion was seconded and carried. The sophomore class will set up the regulations for the wearing of the hats.

Don Scharn moved we adjourn. The motion was seconded and carried.

Roberta Miller,
Secretary.

Bill won nine high school letters for La Grande, three in football, two in basketball and four in track. He was an all-state selection one year in football and two years on the hard courts. West was captain of the cage team also. His college athletic career began on the gridiron at Oregon State College where he lettered twice on the varsity, once when frosh were eligible to play. He transferred to Eastern Oregon and lettered in track, leading the Mountaineers to top honors in the conference meet. Bill took part in service athletics and just recently was released from the army where he was a private first class. West likes outdoor sports of Eastern Oregon.

Mounties Meet Portland State In Homecoming Tilt

Under the able directorship of coach Archie Dunsmoor, the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers will host the Portland State Vikings in EOC's Homecoming Game Saturday, Oct. 29th.

Last year the Vikings racked the Mounties 27-13 and finished third in the Oregon Collegiate Conference standings. Portland runs from the split "T" and single wing formations. Their split "T" squad is centered around four former Class A Shrine Stars: Quarterback, Bob Gill; Halfbacks, Harold Noell, and Curtis Knight; and Fullback, Ken Aberle. Last week the Vikings defeated the Owls from Klamath Falls 18-14. EOCE beat OTI 27-6.

If the Mountaineers win Saturday's game they will have a slim chance of a three way tie for the Conference championship. An EOC win combined with an OCE defeat would throw a share of the crown in the Mounties direction.

EOC's running attack will be centered around Elwin Daggett, Bill West and Dick Quinn. These three "pig-skin" toters combined with the passing of Arlen Smith and Bob Brown should prove to be enough for the Portland State Vikings.

Car Colors Cause Caustic Comment

MINNEAPOLIS (ACP) — If the appeal of 1955 auto color combinations to college students means anything to auto manufacturers, the color splurge will continue in 1956. To find out how college students felt about the radical new color stylings of the 1955 autos, ACP asked a representative cross-section of college students the following question:

How do you like the new colors and color combinations of the 1955 model automobiles?

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
Like very much	28%	29%	28%
All right	36%	38%	28%
No opinion	13%	7%	11%
Dislike them	18%	12%	15%
Can't stand them	5%	14%	9%

There appears to be no difference of color appreciation between the men and women, despite the common notion that the gals are supposed to be more "color-conscious" than the guys. But this doesn't mean that everyone likes the new colors without qualifications. One sophomore coed from the College of St. Catherine (St. Paul) says "most of the two-tone combinations are pretty, but some of the combinations are terrible."

"Some of the combinations are bizarre, but on the whole they're OK," says a Hunter college (New York city) senior, who seems to echo the opinion of many of the college students liking and disliking the new color combinations. Several students indicate that only the colors of one certain make of auto are repulsive.

Many students feel the new colors "brighten things up," give a person a lift. However, a Purdue University (Lafayette, Ind.) freshman thinks the colors are "too detracting on the road." A freshman coed at Regis college (Weston, Mass.) states that "they are too gaudy, they will never last." A graduate coed at Southern Methodist University (Dallas, Texas) sums things up in a philosophical fashion when she says "Some are pretty and some are not, but that's the way with everything though."

CONFERENCE HELD

The Fall conference of the Association of Supervision and Curriculum Development met Thursday in Walter M. Pierce library at Eastern Oregon college.

Dr. William A. Brownell, dean of the department of education at the University of California, was the conference's featured guest, delivering the kick-off speech at a meeting Thursday morning.

Dr. Brownell continued that "you can't assign a problem, or give anybody an idea or a value."

"If one develops an idea it is because he develops it out of his own experience," he said.

19 Yrs. Long Time Whitman Crushed Daggett "Stars"

Archie Dunsmoor's Eastern Oregon Mountaineers completely ruined Whitman's Homecoming by defeating the Missionaries 25-13. This win was EOC's first in 19 years of Missionary-Mountaineer competition.

Mountaineer scoring came in the first, second and twice in the third quarters. Whitman tallied in the first and fourth periods.

The Mounties first score came on a pass play from Elwin Daggett, Sophomore halfback from Joseph, Oregon, to End Lowell Kolbaba. Then after a recovered Whitman fumble, Daggett took a lateral from Arlen Smith and trotted 25 yards to pay dirt and EOC's second score. After a series of running and pass plays by "the Boy from Joseph" Big Bill West bullied his way to EOC's third touchdown. Dick Quinn converted making the score 19-7. Reserve halfback, Terry Zigenhagen flicked a pass to end Jack Harmon for the Mountaineers final six points.

Board Okays Preliminaries For EOC Unit

Chancellor John Richards of the State Board of Higher Education announced yesterday authcrization of preliminary plans for the first unit of a new dormitory at Eastern Oregon college.

Dr. Frank Bennett, president of EOC, arrived back in La Grande this morning after attending the meeting in Portland.

Bennett said yesterday's action granted authority for hiring of an architect to submit plans for the dormitory which would house about 120 students in 60 rooms with all facilities. He said the building would be separate from present dormitories in a different location on the campus.

No date on construction of the building has been set but plans will be drawn ready for possible construction in 1956 or '57.

At the last legislature, the dormitory project was listed among projects within the state's bond margin. If built with bond money, the dormitory would have to provide sufficient income to pay for itself, Bennett said.

The announcement came during a meeting of the board at which Richards said Oregon colleges may have to limit admission to the upper two-thirds of high school graduates and reduce the number of out-of-state students.

College Paper Handles Homecoming 'Mum' Sale

– Agnes Thornburg, co-chairman of Homecoming, said today that "mum" sales will be directed by the staff of the "Beacon," student newspaper at EOC.

Directing sales will be business staffers under the direction of Verla Garner, Weiser, Idaho senior, head of the business department of the "Beacon." The traditional flowers will be sold from Walter Pierce library on campus.

Variety Show On Tap For Friday Night

BY Agnes Thornburgh

Step right up, ladies and gents! Lend an ear while we tell you about the most marvelous, the most stupendous, the most collossal variety show to ever hit EOC's campus. Yessiree, right here in our auditorium at 8:00 Saturday night, you'll see an array of entertainment you'll never forget!

Read on folks, while we give you a run-down of the performers you'll see. First, there's lovely Janice Robertson who'll thrill the throngs with her rendition of "Suddenly There's a Valley." Next comes Ward Thomas, that chuckle-a-second man from La Grande, to tell you stories about his life in the army. A new discovery comes to light this Saturday night when you get a first look at the campus's new trio: Carol Saager, Charlotte Parsons, and Jean Adamson, don't miss 'em! Also new on our list of entertainers is Caroll Ann Wigglesworth, who'll give you an exhibition of acrobatic twirling. Next, a treat for our audience, the men's quartet plus Caroll Saager to sing "Sincerely." More local talent comes in the form of Jackie Shaw who'll do a ballet dance for you. Then there's Bob Stewart and Joyce Johnson, a charming duo to sing a lovely song "Night and Day." A couple of bashful freshmen girls who won't reveal their names are next on the agenda with an exciting tap routine, created especially for this show. A couple of the campus hillbillies have also turned out to give you their arrangement of "Dear John." Our next act has traveled all the way from Hawaii to be with us, pretty Edna Badua will be on hand with some of her native dances. To climax this show of shows will be those goons from the boondocks, the Hunt Hall Boys, and there's no telling what they'll do!

Also a part of the program will be a one-act play entitled "Afraid of the Dark," presented by the Sock and Buskin Players.

That's it, folks, so remember—get there early and avoid the rush tomorrow night in the EOC auditorium at 8 o'clock sharp—See You There!

Nominations Lagging; ASB Faces Dilemma

BY Gene Todd

With thte deadline for nominations of candidates for student body representatives-at-large rapidy drawing near, student government officials are alarmed at the apparent lack of interest shown in the election. For a total of eleven student council seats to be filled not one candidate has been nominated.

This is indeed a dilemna. The Associated Student Body government, which exists solely by and for the students and whose effecttiveness depends on active participation by every member of the student body, is powerless in this situation to do more than urge immediate action by its members.

Student Body President Gary Miller emphasized the importance of the representatives-at-large election with these words:

"It is imperative that the student council comprise an active, energetic representative body around which is built sound student government.

"With the growing enrollment and rapidly expanding scope of student activities, representation of the Associated Student Body must be strong and loyal. You are the hinge, around which our government swings—without your immediate action we will be denying ourselves the right to function progressively."

Representatives-at-large are elected to represent the student body as a whole and must be nominated by petitions containing thirty signatures of student body members. The deadline for petitions is Monday, October 31. Petitions may be turned in to Don Scharn.

Dorms Big Business Says Miller

By Virginia Pyatt

Did you know that the operation of Eastern Oregon College dormitories, including Hunt and Dorian Halls, is a $120,000 a year business? Or that this operation is self-supporting, seeking no help from tax funds? Forty-eight thousand dollars is spent on food alone. Another eight to ten thousand dollars is spent for utilities. Thirty-eight persons are on the payroll, including a large number of college students who work part-time, plus the full-time employment of three cooks and one domestic. Maintenance and repairs are included in operating expenses. The remainder of the money goes into the Sinking Fund which is for the purpose of retiring bonds and additional construction.

Mrs. Eva Miller, director of dormitories, is a native of Grande Ronde valley and formerly taught Home Economics. She plans all meals, buys all food and equipment, supervises all dormitory personnel, acts as hostess for Hunt Hall, and is in general charge of maintenance and repairs. All bookkeeping and accounting are done by the college business office.

This year there are 243 students living in dormitories. Food is purchased on an allowance of $1.57 per person, per day. The largest single item in meal planning is the purchase of meat. Thirty-five thousand pounds of meat are consumed monthly. Dairy products, including milk, eggs, margarine, butter, cheese, and ice cream are the second largest item. Staples and canned goods are the third and fourth, respectively.

Eastern Oregon College is unique in that it is the only state institution of higher education in which men and women eat together in the dormitories. Mrs. Harriet Hoyt is house mother for the women students and Jack Chapman, a graduate student, acts as assistant to Mrs. Miller and is in charge of general activities in Hunt Hall.

An innovation this year is the observance on Wednesday of Guest Night, in which downtown business people are invited to dinner. The occasion gives students an opportunity to dress up for one evening, and promotes good public relations between the college and the townspeople. Bob Howard, his salesman, and their wives were guests one night; Les Keffer and Mrs. Keffer were guests on another occasion. The suggestion, which came through the fellows in Hunt, is proving highly successful.

Rodeo Club Active; Scores At Moscow

One of the fledgling organizations on the Campus that is fast gaining prominence is the newly-formed Rodeo Club which competes as a member club in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

The club as was organized last year was rather inactive but under the capable leadership of new officers and active members has begun to assert itself to a place beside the other organizations on the Campus.

Ray Kinder, in charge of Rodeo Club publicity, gave the Beacon this information. "At our first meting Gary Gaertner was elected as President; Carol Cable was chosen as Vice President, and Delores Webb was selected to hold the office of Secretary-Treasurer."

The club meets every Thursday at 7:00 p.m. in the basement of the library. All interested students are invited to attend these meetings. This includes girl students who are interested in entering any events in competition with other members of the fairer sex.

Four members of the Rodeo club entered events in the North West Intercollegiate Rodeo held in Moscow, Idaho this last week. They are: Gary Gaertner—rodeo clown and bullfighter; Carol Cable—bareback horses and calf-roper; Charles Roach—wild cow milking, and Ray Kinder—bull riding and bareback horse.

Ray summed up their trip in these words, "The boys all looked good at Moscow but the lack of stock to practice on here handicapped them. Cable made a fine ride on Tucker's Sidecar but egged him out of the box so lost needed points. Gaertner roped his calf in 19 seconds flat but broke the barrier and took a ten second penalty which put him out of the running. Roach was disqualified in the wild cow milking contest as he failed to make a clean head catch."

Kinder was the only winner in the E.O.C. contingent, taking fourth place in the Brahma bull riding and thereby bringing home the sole ten points by E.O.C.

Campus Becomes Dogpatch; Sadie Hawkins Dance To Be Friday Night In Hoke

Friday the Eastern Oregon campus will fade out of sight—for a weekend. In its place: Dogpatch.

Yes, it is Sadie Hawkins weekend at EOC.

No man will be safe.

The yearly "Sadie Hawkins Hop" will be in Hoke hall Friday night. The costumed dancers will trot about to the music of Lil' Bill Howell's orchestra.

At the dance, awards for the best costumes will be made, with prizes going to the best Daisy May, Li'l Abner, Hairless Joe, Moonbeam McSwine, Marrying Sam, and other Dogpatch characters.

The dance, of course, is a girl-ask-boy affair and the EOC women have declared open season on men, according (appropriately enough) to the head of the women's recreation association at EOC—the club sponsoring the Dogpatch Dance.

Damp Weather Fails To Halt Homecoming Success

By T. R.

Despite the weather Homecoming was a success this year. Some of us are relieved to have it over with but I think that all will agree that they enjoyed it.

Despite efforts to prevent such a calamity we had a prevue of the bonfire Friday afternoon. The enraged freshmen replaced their first effort with one of the biggest, and I might add the hottest bonfire we've had in years. The Frosh must also be praised for their huge Mountaineer and Welcome sign as well as the "O" they constructed on the hill.

Queen Marcia and princesses Barbara and Janet made their first royal appearance at the coronation Friday night. After that they graciously presided at all the Homecoming activities. I'm sure we couldn't have chosen three girls to handle the royal duties more adequate ly.

The noise and pep parade certainly stirred up more school spirit than those in charge had even hoped for. I'm sure we "let the town's people know we exist!"

The parade was rather a drizzley affair but despite the damage done by the rain the hours and hours of labor that went into the floats was evident. Judging them must have been quite a task but the judges selected the I.K.'s and Sabers "Yellow Rose of Texas" for first prize; with honorable mention going to Sock & Buskin creation.

Somthing new for Homecoming, a football victory, made 55's a Homecoming of Homecomings. After the sandbag fight at halftime it seems the Frosh beanies will be worn for the rest of this term. Congratulations Upperclassmen!

The last three events, the Banquet, Variety Show, and the Dance were all well attended and everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves as Homecoming drew to a close.

I might add, congratulations and thank you, to every one who helped make this Homecoming the success it was.

New Reserve Book Rules In Effect

New library regulations governing the use of reserve books went into effect Monday, October 31. Previous regulations regarding overnight use only are no longer in effect. The new ruling permits students to take a book from the reserve shelves at 4:00 p.m. and does not require it to be returned until 9:00 a.m. the following morning. Reserved books may still be taken for the weekend Saturday at 11:00 a.m. to be returned Monday at 9:00 a.m.

These books can still be reserved for use any hour after 4:00 p.m. For example, a student may place a reserve on a book at 8:00, 9:00 or 10:00 a.m., etc., for use of that book at 7:00 p.m. or for any other hour after 4:00 p.m. and it will be held for him.

The library staff urges the cooperation of students in getting reserved book assignments early and in taking only one book per class when these books are in demand.

The librarians also wish to remind students that unbound magazines can be taken out for one day's use only (on Fridays for the weekend). For all magazines kept longer than that time a fine of 5c per day per magazine will be charged.

Additional Funds Marked For EOC By State Board

Eastern Oregon college was to receive money apportioned for one additional teacher and $9,000 for summer activity today from the State Board of Higher Education in Portland, United Press reported.

The money came from $146,685 in surplus student fee income and the board had requested the governor for permission to spread it over the state's colleges and university.

About $50,000 of the funds were ticketed for additional supplies and equipment.

Eastern Oregon received $1,050 in scholarships from the Oregon State Nurses association, La Grande ($100); Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs reservation ($800) and the Wallowa PTA ($150).

Four thousand copies of a college song book presented by Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Richardson were valued at $177.

CLUB NEWS

The Methodist College Fellowship met at the home of Diana Gilstrap Thursday night for a waffle supper. Dr. Bennett spoke to the group.

Sock and Buskin will soon be selling season tickets for the coming plays. They will be $2.00 and will admit owners to three productions. Students and faculty are admitted on student body cards.

A meeting of all persons interested in Ski Club activities was held October 27 in the Audio-Visual Aids room in the library. Dave Clark, ski instructor, spoke to the group about the coming season. Discussion was held concerning places for the club to go skiing.

Plans were made for another meeting to be held in December. Movies were shown.

Did You Know You Were Being Honored?

We education students have been trudging through classes with dreary regularity. We have taken tests, received grades, and participated in the usual student requirement. No outstanding notice has been taken of us. No great laurels have been heaped upon us. We have just aimed at a goal and then been swept up in a fog of daily details.

However, an honor is about to be quietly bestowed upon the profession for which we are training. The public will wake up and take notice of what we are doing. The time will soon be here when our profession, education, is placed in the limelight.

I am speaking of Education Week, November 6th through 12th. During that week, every phase of our future profession will be publicized. Attention will be focused on schools, teachers, students, and the taxpayer's support.

Let's be active during this week. Let's participate in sounding the voice of education. Let's be proud of the honor we receive.

Doris Rigney

Much Obliged!

Everyone likes to see college activities and celebrations succeed, but very few of us are interested enough to get in and work for their success. Take Homecoming, for example. From a total of over 600 people attending EOC, probably very few more than twenty-five did the bulk of the work, and they're all too often not adequately thanked. In fact many students don't even know to whom they owe their thanks.

The Beacon hereby sets out to change that condition, at least for this time.

Agnes Thorenburgh and Jack Rye, Homecoming co chairmen, did a great job. They spent many hours organizing, arranging and no doubt worrying. Both Agnes and Jack found time to keep the Beacon supplied with stories, pictures and editorials publicizing Homecoming. Both gave themselves wholeheartedly to their jobs.

Committee chairmen Ward Thomas, Carol Saager, Larry Syron, Don Swart, Donna Snow, Don Starr and Johnny Botz, and their committee members all contributed much of their time and effort to give us a fine Homecoming.

To all of you the Beacon offers congratulations and thanks for making EOC's 1955 Homecoming a highly successful and memorable one.

The Editor

The Librarian Speaks . . .

Many of you students and the library staff are anxious to make the most effective use possible of our library. We're all anxious to maintain at least one quiet place in the library. No one wants to interfere with someone else's study on purpose. Everybody wants to have an attractive and well-kept library. We are all in favor of having the library open when it's needed—funds permitting. And there is nothing more exasperating than finding magazine pages clipped (thank goodness this seldom happens) or books, for some reason or another, missing from the library.

Now I think everyone will agree that it will take cooperation of faculty and students alike to obtain the desired results. One project on which the library staff would especially appreciate cooperation is the attempt to maintain absolute quiet in the reading room. Absolutely no talking! If this can be done it should benefit everybody.

By the way, if any of you feel you have to put your feet on something other than the floor, please bring your own footstools. A few heel and pencil scratches are beginning to appear on the furniture which does not look good. Most library problems arise as the result of people not thinking about the welfare of the "other guy." Now student and faculty behavior in our library has been good. It's a lot better than average, but I'm sure that if everyone is willing to work for it, library facilities and study conditions can be improved. And that's what we're after. We want the best for students at EOC. How about your help?

Don Nelson, Librarian.

Buseick Lands Oswego Role

Word has recently been received by the Beacon that Bob Buseick, EOC '55, now teaching at Oswego, is playing a lead part in the comedy "My Three Angels" to be presented in November by the Lake Oswego Community Theatre. The play was recently made into a motion picture under the name "We're No Angels," starring Humphrey Bogart. Buseick plays the part of Alfred, a convict who keeps for a pet a poisonous snake called "Adolph."

"The part of Adolph has not yet been filled," writes Gladys Young, Publicity Chairman for the Lake Oswego Community Theatre, "and it may be some of his Eastern Oregon friends will be able to furnish him a suitable actor for this part—but not alive, please!"

Playing opposite Buseick in the Oswego production is Mimi Haggerty, also a graduate of Eastern Oregon College.

Week Of Action Slated For EOC

By Mary Joan Russell

This next week ought to be of interest to all students and faculty of Eastern Oregon College. November 9-12 has been set aside in the nation as National Education Week. In its observance many plans have been made with the co-operation of Dr. Bennett and our J. H. Ackerman Chapter of the Future Teachers of America.

Mikie Fries with her committee consisting of Joan Nuss, Patsy Yoneyama, Jim Dale, and Jo Hays have been practicing their scripts. They are going to present a play each night at 6:00 over KLBM.

The assembly Wednesday will have as guest speaker Matilda Gilles. Miss Gilles is President-Elect of the National Elementary Principals Association. In honor of Miss Gilles our Future Teachers of America are sponsoring a tea Wednesday afternoon from four to five in Dorion Hall. Here is a good opportunity for all students to meet Mrs. Gilles. At 8:00 the same night the local chapters of P.T.A. in La Grande will meet together to hear her speak.

Certain displays we would like you to notice next week on campus and off. On campus they will be in the Library and the Administration Building. Also, editorials will appear in the La Grande Evening Observer, this issue of the Beacon, and the East Oregonian.

These and many other details have ben worked out in the past month. We hope that you students will enjoy and enter into the activities planned.

Deserving much credit for the work being done are Grace Furuyama, Jan Hindman, Doris Rigney and Bob Valiant and many others who have offered their assistance.

Scenery Subject Of Drama Clinic At College Theater

—A drama clinic for educators will be held in the Eastern Oregon college theater on Nov. 19. The subject under discussion at the clinic will be "Flat Scenery for Setting the Stage."

Registration for the clinic will begin at 9:30 a.m. and run until 10. Following registration there will be a tour of the theater plant on campus. At 11 a.m. the general session will get under way. A special luncheon will be held at noon.

In the afternoon demonstrations will be given. Their respective topics: "Making the Frame and Covering the Flat," "Decorating Scenery—Sizing, Painting, Texturing" and "Setting up Scenery."

A general session at 4 p.m. will serve as a critique and evaluation of the clinic and as a question period, as well.

PLAYBOY of BOP

Bop's trumpeting daddy, Dizzy Gillespie, gives out with his colorful opinions on jazz and and the men who made it in the November issue of Playboy magazine. J. J. Johnson and Coleman (The Hawk) Hawkins join him in discussing Playboy's recent choices for an All-Time All-Star Jazz Band. In a mellower mood is Playboy's new column, "Playboy After Hours." It reviews books, records, movies and plays, and explores those special restaurants and bistros the college man will go for when he hits the big town. Useful to the early-shopping coed is a photo-feature on smart Christmas gifts for her favorite man-about campus.

Praises Mark Open Letter To Student Body

Fellow Students:

I wish to express my appreciation for the wonderful accomplishments of Homecoming. It is a pleasure for me to pass on to you the compliments expressed by alumni, townspeople and visitors who proclaimed this, our EOC Homecoming, as the most outstanding of all time.

In particular, I wish to extend a most appreciative declaration of accomplishment to Jack Rye and Agnes Thornburgh for engineering the successes of Homecoming. Through their manaegrial awareness was brought to our services the fine efforts of a battery of select and able chairmen. Only through their efforts—their LOYAL efforts—were we able to, as a student body, battle the odds of sundry reverses and the opposition of the weather and still present an outstanding Homecoming.

This success, members of the student body, is YOUR doing. You have a right to be proud.

Such spirit as we now may display cannot help but pay off in a more enjoyable and memorable school year.

We are on our way!

Sincerely,
GARY MILLER,
Student Body President

FTA Initiates New Members

By Barrie Edwards

Eastern Oregon College's Future Teachers of America Chapter held its initiation ceremony in the college auditorium on October 26 with some 150 students on hand to witness and participate.

Introduced by Dr. Martha Addy, FTA advisor, Dr. William A. Brownell of the University of California spoke on the topic "Why Teach." "If you can't turn your back on a desk full of papers and go out and have a good time, you're dead!," advised Dr. Brownell. "Never lose your individuality;" he went on, "be a person before a teacher."

Following Dr. Brownell's address, the chapter's officers with Maurice McKinnis as president took over and the secretary presented the candidatees for initiation. Diana Gilstrap, historian, then gave a brief history of the FTA, after which the members took the chapter pledge.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Faculty members in the music department are busily engaged as church choir directors. Dr. Lynn Bishop is doing the job at the Methodist church, with Mrs. Bishop as organist. Mr. Lyle McMullen is director at the Presbyterian church where Patsy Evans is the organist. And Miss Jeanne Scott is directing the Christian church's choir.

Mr. C. Robert Groth has been playing violin solos lately. The Grande Ronde Symphony director played two solos for the alumni banquet and two for the Neighborhood club. Mr. McMullin and Miss Evans accompanied him. Dr. Bishop and Mr. Groth played a flute and violin duet last Saturday at the Sigma Alpha Chi brunch. Dr. Bishop took Janice Masten's place because she was ill.

The annual Symphony ball will be held November 12 from 9 to 12 in the Sacajawea hotel ballroom. It will be a semi-formal affair and tickets are $2.00 a couple. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. C. Robert Groth.

The first college-community symphony orchestra concert will be on Sunday, November 20 at 4 p.m. Students and faculty will be admitted on student body cards. The program will consist of the overture to La Gazza Ladra (Rossini), Symphony No. 1 (Schumann), "March of the Toys" (Herbert), "Last Spring" (Greig), and "Danse Polovetsienne" (Borodin).

An interesting note: Borodine uses an English horn and harp in his "Danse."

Band Will Play

The college band will play in the Veterans' Day parade on November 11 at 11 a.m.

The freshmen hold an edge over other classes in the band. There are 16 frosh members, 12 sophomores, 3 juniors and 3 seniors. This year's majorette is Carol Ann Wiglesworth, Echo. Her two assistants are Margaret Bates and Gerry Schaeffer.

The choir is hard at work preparing music for the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies and a concert they will give at the end of the term.

Dorion Doings

By Mary Joan Russell

My gosh!! Doesn't time fly? here it is November 4th and midterms are for the most part over. You can always tell when midterms are here, too, more people get up for breakfast. Another fact, in case you haven't realized it, is that there are only six weeks left in this term, and then Christmas and vacation for two weeks.

You can't help thinking about Christmas with all this snow. Right now its beginning to remind us of that song, "The Shifting, Wispering Sands." Just substitute the word snow for sand and you have it.

Engagement flash!! Connie Nedman is now the proud possessor of a ring. Congratulations Connie!!

In my last article I mentioned how during Homecoming the girls decorate their doors. All did a good job. Prizes were awarded on each floor. They were: Basement—Room 7, Theda Murray, Bennie Patao, Kathleen Bannister, and Carolyn Rayborn; First—Room 102, Marsha Belshaw and Bev Galbraith; Second — Room 214, Helen Walter and Bernice Opp; Third—Room 302, Kiyoko Yamada, Jean Adamson and Evelyn Riggan.

Harmon was honored with a first team selection as an end on the Oregon Collegiate Conference last year. He led the team in pass receptions last year with 21 catches good for 229 yards. Three passes of that total resulted in touchdowns. The year before as a freshman he was second in pass receiving with six which went for 170 yards and three of them were scoring passes. Jack made 19 points last year to take runner-up honors to "Doc" Savage in that department. As a track participant, he usually takes part in four or five events. "Tiger" has served in the National Guard. He is a newlywed, too, having walked down the aisle this past summer.

Mountaineers Win Homecoming Game; 26 To 20 Margin

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers pulled from behind to win their homecoming game over Portland State by a 26 to 20 margin.

This was the final confeernce game for the successful Mounties as they are second in league play.

The Mountaineers took an early lead as Elvin Daggett took a handoff from Brown and raced 19 yard sfor the score. Quinn converted for the extra point.

EOC hit pay dirt again in the second stanza as Brown tossed a six yard pass to Ziegenhagen for the score. The try for point was wide.

The two teams fought on even terms until late in the third period when the Vikings scored on a 19 yard jaunt by Curtis Knight. This made the score 13 to 7.

A fumble following a kickoff gave Portland the ball on the midfield stripe and eventually scored on an off tackle play by Winterholler. Knight converted to give Portland State the lead 14 to 13 for the first time in the game.

The EOC men came back fast as Jack Harmon took the kick off on the EOC 19, returned to the 31 and several plays later took a pass from Brown on the PSC 41 and ran it over for the score. Quinn's conversion was good.

Hard running halfback, Elvin Daggett set up another Hilltopper score as he dashed 37 yards to the Viking 20. Bobby Brown took the ball on the 15 and faded back to pass. While running to his right, he seemed to be trapped by several PSC linemen but reversing his field picked up good blocking and scooted over for another Eastern Oregon TD.

A late fourth quarter try fell short as the Vikings scored only once more from four yards out with Harold Knell carrying the ball over.

In the statistical department EIC gained 267 yards, 117 was made by passing. Portland State made 295, 85 from passing. The Vikings made 15 first downs to EOC's seven.

Saints Final Season Foe For Mounties

In the last six years Carroll College has been undefeated in conference play, winning 25 straight conference games. So far this season they have a 3-2 win-loss record. They have won their last three conference games.

Last year Eastern Oregon won a close game with the Saints 31-25. Earlier this year Carroll College was defeated by Westminster College 14 to 6. EOC also lost to the Salt Lake City team 14 to 6.

Leading ground gainers for Carroll College are: Terry Radcliff HB, with a game average of 130 yards. Tom Davidson HB, with a game average of 66.5 yards. Students Enter Varied Work In Community Members of Dr. Martha Addy's education courses have again invaded La Grande social life in quest of required hours of community work. Each year education students at EOC spend many hours working in almost all types of community functions, and their help has been called "very valuable" by La Grande community leaders.

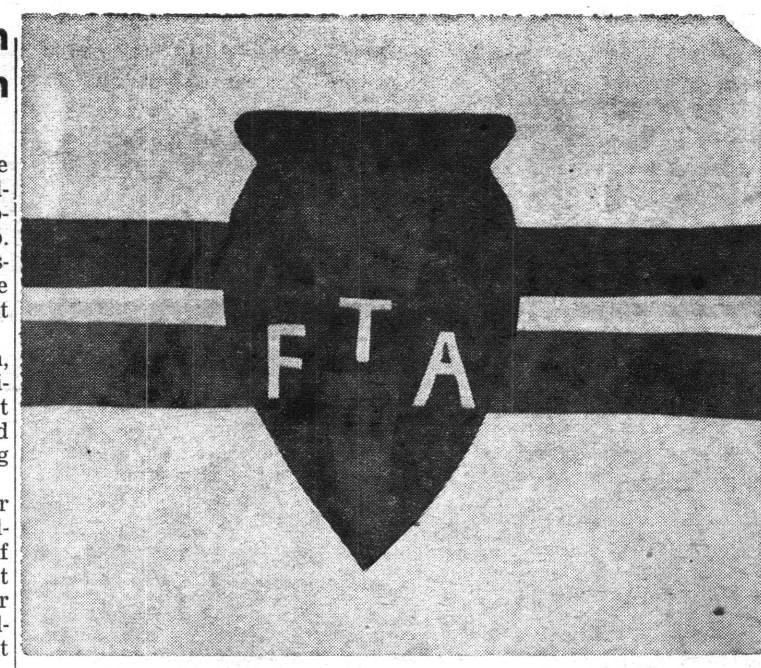
Included in activities being participated in are: church choirs, Sunday school, 4-H work, Boy and Girl Scouts, Ground Observers, and helping with school sports. Work in all types of community drives will be done throughout the school year. Winter term will find many students helping to organize and conduct the student hobby night at the high school.



Young Republican Group Urges Coon To Tackle Morse

— The Eastern Oregon college Young Republican club reportedly third largest in the state, today called on Republican Rep. Sam Coon of the second congressional district to enter the race for United States Senator against Senator Wayne Morse.

Donald Starr, club chairman, issued the call for Coon's candidacy when he released the text of a resolution the club had passed unanimously at a meeting Sept. 19.

The resolution lauded Coon for his support of the Eisenhower administration and his defense of private enterprise in the recent series of debates with Senator Richard Neuberger and concluded: "Be it further resolved that this organization go on record as urging Sam Coon to declare himself a candidate for the office of United States senator in the coming election, and hereby pledge our undivided support and . . . loyalty (to Coon)."

Starr said that a copy of the resolution had been forwarded to Coon, but that no reply had as yet been received.

The first of its kind in the state is EOC's new FTA flag. The flag was designed by Rose Seid and made by Pat McConnell and Emi Komo.

Civic Music Picks Concerts For Approaching Season

By Jeanne Scott

Civic Music Association has completed its 1955-56 season ticket sale in La Grande. New students at EOC may ask: What is Civic Music? Affiliated with a national association, the local Civic Music organization brings music and dance attractions to La Grande. The concert series is decided after the season ticket sale; there are no single admissions sold at the door. It is also interesting to note that Civic Music membership admits one to any Civic Music concert in the country; the nearest Civic Music organization is at Pendleton.

How does this affect EOC students? Well, as members of the college student body, EOC students are automatically members of Civic Music, by arrangement of the student council with the Civic Music Association. This means that a student body card will admit one person (and only one, the person whose name appears on the card) to the four concerts in La Grande, as well as to the Civic Music concerts in Pendleton. If it happens that both husband and wife are registered students, and they have but one student body card between them, the wife should see the registrar for a student body card made out in her name.

The concerts announced for this season are Goya and Matteo, a folk dance team (Dec. 7), the Roman sisters, a two-piano team (in January), the air force "Winged Victory" chorus (Feb. 26), and the Knowles Duo, a vocal duet team (March 29). More information will be given for each concert later. Jot the dates down now and plan to make use of that student body card!

Off The Bench

By Jerry & George

Elwin Daggett, Halfback from Joseph, inched ahead of La Grande's Dick Quinn in rushing. Daggett has 66.4 yards per game with 465 yards in seven games. Quinn has 60.4 yards per game with 423 yards in seven games. Big Bill West is third in rushing with 260 yards in six games and 43.3 average.

Eastern Oregon won it's first Homecoming game since 1941. My but spirits were high.

A word of praise to Archie Dunsmoor and his coaching staff. Coach Dunsmoor's grid squad has nailed down second place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference and has possibilities of a three-way tie for first place.

Larry Siren and his group of yell leaders should be commended for their splendid job throughout homecoming this year. NICE GOING, KIDS . . .

Some say that the spirit at the Homecoming game was the best yet. Let's keep this enthusiasm throughout the year.

The upperclassmen and Rooks who participated in the halftime sandbag game put on a fine show. Some fans dared to compare it with the football game played that afternoon . . . FOR THOSE WHO HAVEN'T BEEN INFORMED. THE ROOKS LOST and must wear those "HATS OF RECOGNITION" until Christmas.

Nothing To Say?

AUSTIN, Tex. (ACP)—A freshman at the University of Texas became a little more homesick when he opened his first letter from home and found that his folks had mailed two sheets of blank paper by mistake.

KNIGHTS VOTE

Broadway Hit At EOC

Eastern Oregon College
Vol. XXV Nov. 18, 1955 No. 7

HMMMMMMM, A GIRL football squad member? Does Arch Dunsmoor know about this? Oh, well! It's just Ginger from the cast of "Time Out for Ginger," 3-act Broadway hit currently being produced by EOC's Sock and Buskin players. And don't worry — Ginger knows how to handle these tough football males. Her methods are revealed in the play in the EOC theater tonight and Saturday. Curtain time: 8 p.m. Assisting Ginger (Bernice Tracy) in this picture are admirers Bill West, Dick Kofford, Bud Lewis and Dick Sherrell. (Mercer Photo)

First Concert Is November 20

The first concert of the 1955-56 season of the Grande Ronde Symphony is scheduled for Sunday, November 20, at 4:00 p.m. in the EOC auditorium. College students and faculty members are admitted on their student body cards.

In the absence of L. Rhodes Lewis, who is on sabbatical leave, C. Robert Groth is conducting the symphony this year. The program for the concert includes the Overturne to the "Thieving Magpie" by Rossini, the second, third and fourth movements of Symphony No. 1, "Spring," by Schumann, the "March of the Toys" by Victor Herbert, the "Last Spring" by Grieg, and the "Polovtsian Dances from Prince Igor" by Borodin. This last named work calls for English Horn, marking the first time in the nine year history of the orchestra that the instrument has been utilized. It will be played by Frank Goshorn. Also to be heard in this selection is the harp, played by Dr. Don Otten.

The orchestra is at near capacity strength this year, being composed of 60 members. Fifteen of the members are EOC college students. The year Doris Rigney and Diana Gilstrap, violins; Janice Masten, viola; Barbara Carter, flute and piccolo; Gary Winkel, Karen McGillivray, and Pat Bagley, clarinets; Ray Reeder, oboe; Bonnie Powell, Don Swart, and Elwyn Hug, french horns; Monte Nedrow, trumpet; Eleanor Kuether, timpani; Dave Everett and Patsy Reeves, percussion. Dr. Lynn Bishop has moved from the flute section to the bassoon section this year, and Dr. Lyle Johnson is holding down his usual spot in the trombone section.

Johnson Named Group Treasurer

Dr. Lyle Johnson, registrar, dean of men and director of student personnel at EOC, was elected treasurer of the Pacific Coast Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers at the recent annual conference at Berkeley, California. He reported that the mercury climbed up to the eighties every day, and one da yit was eighty-four degrees, the hottest November day on rec ord in San Francisco. He would rather not mention that on the return trip, he was obliged to spend the night at the Jordan Valley hotel due to heavy snows and closed roads.

The Pacific Coast Association is a branch of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers and includes repreesntation from Junior colleges, both State and private colleges in British Colombia, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho, and Montana. There were one hundred and seventy-eight persons at the conference, and general sessions and workshops were for the purpose of reaching some common understanding among colleges in this area on planning policies, and admissions.

The big problem today is how to handle the ever increasing enrollment of colleges, particularly in regards to housing, facilities, and instruction. Enrollment ranges an increase from seven to thirty percent. EOC's enrollment is up twenty percent.

Next year's conference will be held in Spokane. Every other year meetings are held in the Bay area, and in the intermediate years, one is held in the northern area alternating with conference held in the southern area.

Dr. Johnson left Tuesday evening, November 15, for the annual executive meeting of The Interstate Council on High-School-College Relations being held in Portland.

Bennett Tells Details Of NAM Meet In East

by Virginia Pyatt

Of interest to students and faculty at EOC was the recent trip of President Frank Bennett to New York City where he attended a two-day session of the advisory council to the Educational Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers. The council, chosen from the nation at large and appointed to serve for a three-year term, meets once a year, or more often if necessary, to advise, offer suggestions, and council with the N.A.M.E.C. on 1) policies toward education and 2) support of education, which includes such ramifications as financial attitudes toward scholarship; the apprentice program; and the circulation of literature, presenting and interpreting the manufacturers' point of view to society. The council meeting is an effort on the part of the N.A.M.E.C. to review with a cross-section of educators before finally making decisions or establishing policies.

The advisory council is composed of twenty-six members and includes: one elementary principal, one elementary classroom representative, two high school principals, two high school classroom repreesntatives, two city schol superintendents, two presidents of Teacher's colleges, three presidents of State universities, five presidents of private colleges, two representatives of vocational education, two State superintendents, two deans of departments of business and commerce, and one repreesntative each from educational research and adult education. One negro is in the group, and there are three women, includ Pearl Wanamaker, a visitor to the campus last year and Washington State Superintendent.

President Bennett stayed at the Belmont Plaza while in New York. He reported good flying weather for both to and return trips, adding that he was not on the plane that went down that week. Even though the council worked straight through for two whole days, there was time to become acquainted and discuss the segregation problem, the parochia school problem, and the adult education program. The latter is a long range program particularly directed toward those adults who have made outstanding contributions to their communities, but are lacking in the economic, historical, philosophical background needed in handling management-labor relations.

Miss Morton's Condition Is Reportedly Better

Miss Mabel Morton is reported to be in satisfactory condition since her accident in Long Beach, California, in late October. Miss Morton suffered a fractured pelvis and other undetermined injuries when struck by an automobile about 5:30 p.m. as she stood on a downtown street corner. She will leave the hospital around New Year's day, after being hospitalized for nearly two months.

Miss Morton is a former resident of La Grande where she was society editor of the Evening Observer. She shares an apartment at Long Beach with Dr. Amanda abel, professor emeritus of English and literature, who retired from the staff of Eastern Oregon College last year.

New Editor Has Worked In Many College Activities

By Jim Applegate

Agnes Thornburgh, junior in secondary education has replaced Gene Todd as editor of the Beacon. She graduated from Redmond High School in 1953 although she lives in Terrebonne, Oregon.

Agnes is well known for her versatility on the Campus. Her many successful accomplishments merit her selection as Beacon Editor.

In 1954 she was a member of the Business Staff for the Mountaineer and also a reporter for the Beacon. She handled much of the publicity work for the annual Parent's Weekend. She was also one of the co-chairmen for this event. Agnes received three Journalism credits for her journalistic endeavors last year.

Although the first term was not yet half over, she started out in a big way by being selected os one of the co-chairmen for the 1955-56 Homecoming. As you may have noticed all Homecoming publicity columns had the by line, T. R. Thornburgh and Rye, of course!

Agnes is very socially awake and is on the roll of many campus clubs. She was initiated into Sabers last year and is now a member of W.R.A., A.W.S., F. T.A., and the newly formed Rodeo Club.

She was quoted as saying, "I have a lot to learn about editing a college newspaper and I am expecting a lot of help form the staff."

FACULTY RANK HIGH

According to the latest tabulation, 42 per cent of Eastern Oregon College's staff members hold doctoral degrees.

Ginger Cheered By First-Nighters

By Virginia Pyatt

Don't miss the Sock and Buskin Players' presentation of "Time Out for Ginger," gay, rollicking comedy playing tonight and Saturday night at the College theater. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. Reserve tickets are still available at Falk's department store upon presentation of student body cards. College students receive free admission. Tickets are selling for one dollar for those who wish to purchase them either at Falk's or at the door on performance nights.

"Time Out for Ginger" is the story of a girl who tries out for the football team, not because she particularly wants to make the team, but because she wants to be recognized as an equal with boys, including football players. All she wants is a chance to try out, and she gets the "go-ahead" sign when her well-meaning father makes a speech before the school assembly, stating that no one should be forced to do anything he doesn't want to do. Critic Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times calls it "fresh, warm-hearted and funny." The New York World Telegram says, " 'Time Out for Ginger' is hilarious, but it is also human, warm and touching."

The cast of characters includes the father, Howard Carol, played by Boyd Devin; his wife, Agnes Carol, played by Marilyn Brooke; their fourteen-year-old daughter, Ginger, Bernice Tracy; their sixteen-year-old daughter, Jeannie, Betty Roudebush; and another daughter Joan, age eighteen, played by Anna La Kamp. Other roles include Liz, the maid, played by Linda Prather; Mr. Wilson, Larry Devore; Ed Hoffman, the bank president, Jack Chapman; Eddie Davis, athlete, Bob Howard; and Tommy Green, Ginger's boyfriend, Glenn Hogg.

Credits go to Mr. Richard Hiatt dramatic director; Mary Joan Russell, assistant director; Mr. Floyd Hill, technical director; Patsy Yoneyama and Rachel Gillenwater from the stage-craft class. Doris Rigney and Grace Furuyama are costume mistresses. Dr. Alvin Kaiser and Jim Dale are in charge of publicity and business.

'New Look' Newsletter Goes To College Grads

The first issue of the "new-look" EOC Newsletter: Alumni Beacon rolled from the Observer press Friday, November 11, 1955.

Approximately one thousand copies of the printed Newsletter will be sent to EOC graduates on a quarterly basis. Future copies will be mailed during mid-term and once during the summer session.

The editorial board of the EOC Newsletter consists of Neva Niell, Secretary, and members, Dr. Lee C. Johnson and Dorothy Winters. Ronald Bayes is the editor.

The first issue featured a report to the Alumni and EOC's 1955 Homecoming activities. Another feature of interest will be the new Campus "Beautification" Contest. Teams consisting of an aggregate of five graduated classes will compete against each other to raise money to present cement benches to the college. These benches will then be placed at favorable locations on the campus.

The first edition announced dues for 1955-56 will be $1.50 a year for members and $5.00 for sustaining members.

Beacon staff will meet Tuesdays in the Publications room of Hoke Hall for the balance of the term. Time: 12:30. Day: (we repeat) Tuesday. New Staffers always welcome.

Matter Of College Newspaper Policy Concerns Big Wheels And Little Guy

(ACP)—A question that requently arises at all colleges is this one: What is the place of the college paper in campus life? Editors frequently find themselves accused of being biased and of failing to reflect campus opinion. In a recent issue, Emory University's Emory Wheel explained its position this way. We pass it along because it seems to be a pretty clear and logical stand:

The primary purpose of any newspaper, whether it exists on a college campus or in a large city, is to report the news. That news should be reported in manner free from bias and not slanted; the staff of the paper should not play favorites. That will be the aim of the Wheel this year.

This is by no means a new thing. The Wheel has for many years attempted to report the news about life on campus as clearly and honestly as possible. We believe that we have succeded in this attempt.

Yet the coverage of campus news is not the only field in which the Wheel is active. With each issue we take stands through our editorial pages, on various problems both on and off campus.

The newspaper has, through the years, earned the title of "The South's Most Independent Collegiate newspaper," a title of which we are justly proud. Wheel editorial policy is not dictated by the University. Should the University ever decide to control Wheel policy, our motto would, of course, become a farce. Yet the matter goes much deeper than that.

If a school decided to do away with freedom of the student press, it might as well do away with academic freedom. If it told the newspaper what to print, what would keep the school from telling professor what they should say in class or students what books they could read? We don't believe, however, that such a situation would ever occur at Emory.

The Wheel has never claimed to reflect the opinion of the student body of the University. That would be an impossibility. It would necessitate a poll of every student before taking any major editorial stand. The Wheel attempts to serve the student body, but it will not be reduced to a tool when it feels the majority is at fault. Neither do we propose to assert the policy of Emory University in our editorials when we feel the University is wrong.

Sign Missing From Library

By Patsy Yoneyama

Stolen or borrowed from the reading room of the Walter Pierce Library by some mis-informed student was a "please do not talk" sign last Thursday night, November 10. The Sign was one of those cards put out by the library staff recently to make the library a more beneficial, convenient, and quiet place in which students could study.

The "no talking" rule was discovered to be missing the next morning (the 11th). The amazing part of the incident was that the student who took the sign apparently did so when no one was in the reading room, according to Mr. Nelson.

He stated that the student (if "he" was any particular student) should be "commended for his maturity and deep sense of values" in committing the deed successfully. He added that he was really impressed with that party's "character and ability, resourcefulness, and sense of humor."

The head librarian suggested that perhaps the student had taken the sign to use it in his own room in the dormitory. "Maybe he wants to see what effect it'll have on his guests and roommates," he said.

He said the library will be glad to have the sign returned to them since some students are still not aware of the project. He added that the cost involved in making that sign was enough to buy another for the library.

Mr. Nelson expressed appreciation to the students for their observance of the "no talking" signs around the library. He said the reading room is considerably more quiet than before although "a little stronger effort on the part of some students would be appreciated." He specified that the "no talking" rule also applies when one cannot be seen by the librarian!

Letter To Editor

Editor, The Beacon
Eastern Oregon College
La Grande, Oregon
Dear Editor:

What has happened to this college? Where have these lazy parasites come from? Is this the college that I must refer to as my Alma Mater? It seems to me that every year there are a certain number of these things appear on our campus but this year is the worst I have ever seen!!! and from all the information I have been able to obtain, the worst year in the history of the college. Might I give you a few examples of the very type thing I refer to, assuming that you already know there are 561 students enrolled as full-time students at EOC, which is an increase of approximately 20 per cent over last year.

1. The band has decreased about 20 per cent from last year where it might normally have been expected to increase 20 per cent. I realize that there are years when it may be expected that a smaller number of musicians enroll, but I know there are enough musicians on campus who aren't participating to nearly double the size of the band.

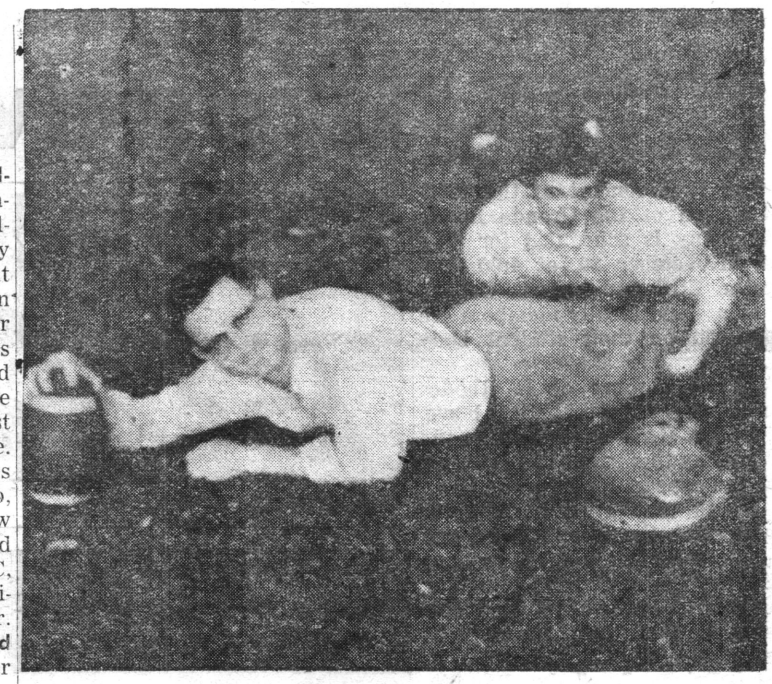
2. The Beacon staff, although I have no figures on this subject, is the smallest it has been in years. (Hats off to the individuals who have the interest and ambition to put out a paper for these parasites.

3. The annual staff is the smallest in the history of the college and if they even manage to put out an annual this year (good or bad) it will be the wonder to end all wonders. This, I think, can be blamed not only on the small size of the staff, but on the participation of the studentbody in general. Here are some figures that may interest you. Of the 561 students enrolled, only 335, which includes some instructors who had their pictures taken, had the ambition to walk to Hoke Hall to have their pictures taken. This is a pitifully small number even for vegetables.

I realize that some students may have had classes all day Wednesday and Thursday but these aren't the only ones that I'm concerned with; the ones that I refer to are the ones who didn't have the money ($2) but still have the money to play poker, go to the show every night or buy a ticket on that bus that leaves for home Friday mornnig.

4. The participation in the dorm (Hunt) is just about gone. Thanks to George Fenton and a few others, that dorm had a float in the Homecoming Parade. The dorm bought a TV set not long ago—Everyone likes to watch, but who wants to pay $1, after all no one is forcing it—We have some good floor representatives, but are there still those individuals???

5. Have you noticed the Freshmen who haven't any beanies, refuse to buy one, and state that they would refuse to wear one if they had it?



6. Election in general:

a. I understand the voting is something that some individuals don't even seem to know the meaning of. I think that a penny match box would probably have sufficed in the elections this year, even if the ballots were on 8 by 10 tagboard.

b. I don't mean to aim this letter entirely at the freshmen, but I know a couple of freshmen made the statement that this was sure a democratic school when they found that there were 11 offices to be filled and only 11 candidates. I would like to remind these ???? that they had the right to petition for candidates and that Tom Mercer was the only freshman elected as a representative. I know that enough freshman knew that they could petition because Mr. Hiatt announced after an assembly that if the freshmen wanted any representation in student council they should get on the ball. (Evidently they didn't).

I think I have proven that the present situation of our school is darn sad and that these parasites should wake up to the fact that this is a school of, by, and for the students. If they don't want to participate in school activities it is their business, but there is no reason why they shouldn't get an education while they are here and school activities (if they haven't heard) is sure as heck one big part of education.

Sincerely,
Don Swart.

WHAT MAKES GINGER AIL? She wants to play football—at all costs. And most of the costs seem to end up billed to her Pop. Above Ginger (Bernice Tracy) proves to the "Old Man," (Boyd Devin) that she has what it takes when it comes to playing tackle. "Time Out for Ginger" finishes a 3-night run in the EOC theater tomorrow night. The second performance goes on stage at 8 p.m. tonight (Friday).

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

This sudden cold weather has really cut down on appearances for the EOC band lately. Last Friday they were snowed out of the Veteran's Day Parade. They didn't put in their usual appearance at the game Saturday night either. None of the band members can get notes to come out of frozen instruments. Too bad they weren't there because they really would have had practice on ictory March.

The male quartet sang at the Railroad Engineer's Thanksgiving banquet last Tuesday night. The members of the quartet are Lee Bolen, Dick Cooke, Bat Clements, and Bill Morris.

Dennis Boatman has been added to the Blue and Gold Singers. The other members of the group are Marilyn Folkman, Joyce Johnson, Jan Robertson, Jean Adamson, Doris Rigney, Bob Stewart, Paul Lowe, and Gary Webster.

The EOC choir lost one of its pianists and sopranos when Janis Counsell left to get married. This also left the freshmen in the majority with 19 members of the choir from the freshman class. The sophomores number 18, and the juniors and seniors have 9 and 10 respectively.

Don't forget the Grand Ronde Symphony concert this Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. All faculty and students will be admitted on student body cards. Baby sitters will be furnished free of charge. The orchestra has a membership of 60 this year, and 15 of them are EOC students. Two members, Dr. Bishop and Dr. Lyle Johnson, are faculty members. Directing the orchestra will be another faculty member, Mr. Robert Groth. An interesting note is thata harp and an English horn are both going to be used. This is the first time that an English horn has been used in the orchestra for nine years. A harp was used two years ago.

NEW STAFFERS

Since the Beacon staff is small this year we were more than glad to welcome three new members this week. Our three new columnists are Mike Johnson, Duane Stiff, and Eunice Thornburg. You will be seeing some of their creative efforts in print the rest of this year. Surely there must be a few more students on campus with literary inspirations who would make good reporters. How about it? Are You interested, Drive with Care!

Take this from a person that know's. It's hard to drive with roads as they are now. It's hard to make out accident reports, so let's all drive with more care this winter. We have a training school with many little children on this campus and we must also watch out for them as we drive. Save lives and save cars this winter.

Sock and Buskin held a meeting Monday night. It was for the purpose of selling the tickets for the coming play, and also season tickets for all three plays. Towns people are being contacted this week.

President Evelyn Huston presided over the regular meeting of the Sabers Tuesday. The constitution committee submitted suggestions for revisions of the old constitution. These suggestions will be discussed and voted upon next meeting. Seven new members were chosen and will be initiated next Monday evening. Carol Saager will head a refreshment committee for the initiation and Katheleen Bannister is in charge of corsages.

Sigma Initiates

Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honorary on campus, held a joint meeting and initiation on November 9 in Hoke Hall. Plans were made for their annual Yule Candlelight Hour.

At that time the following students were initiated into the organization: Luella Bell, Jacquie Shaw, Lenna Herman, Edith Till, Joyce Peeples, Benedicta Patao, Kathleen Bannister, Bernice Tracy, and Barbara Blacker. President Joan Nuss explained to the new members many of the phases and activities of Sigma Alpha Chi.

EOC Grid Team On OCC Throne

For the first time since the Oregon Collegiate Conference was started, the Eastern regon Mountaineers have earned a right to sit on the champion's throne. The Mounties finished in a three way tie with Southern Oregon and Oregon College of Education. The hilltoppers beat S.O.C.E. 20-19 and lost to O.C.E. 20-19.

This years blue and gold grid squad won five and lost three and scored 185 points. Coach Bob Quinn's "37" team won five, lost one and tied one and scored 168 points. EOC's 41-0 score against Carroll College was the second highest score a Monutaineer team has made. In 1937 Quinn's grid crew beat George Fox College 61-0.

The hopes for a good team next year should be high as Coach Archie Dunsmoor will lose only three players via the graduation route.

Mounties Whip Carroll College By 41 Points

By Mike Hoff

The high riding Mountaineers won their final game of the season by romping to a 41 to 0 victory over the Carroll College crew from Helena, Saturday night.

The weather conditions were very much against good football playing, as the temperature hovered around the six above mark. There were numerous fumbles on both sides due to the bad weather.

EOC fought deep into the Saints' territory. After a pass interference penalty boys, Daggett plunged over from the one yard line.

Eastern Oregon was held scoreless after Dagget's one yard plunge, until early in the second period when Daggett again dashed 62 yards, this time for the second TD. Quinn converted successfully to make the score 14 to 0.

The Fightin Saints took the kickoff and returned it to their 29. What seemed to be a rally fell short on the Mountie 40 yard line and the Helena men were forced to punt. Dick Quinn gathered it in on the 8 yard line and raced 92 yards through the entire Carroll defense. Quinn was not through with the Saints as he also aimed true for the extra point.

Mid-way through the third period the Carroll men tried to take to the air only to have the ball intercepted by Richard Sherrill, who raced 66 yards down the side lines for the third EOC counter.

Archie Dunsmoor's men took to the aerial lane as Brown pitched a perfect 20 yard pass to Quinn for the score.

EOC was not through scoring. Mel Victor took the helm guiding the Mountaineers to the 20 yard stripe, where he passed to Daggett for the tally.

The Saints put up a much better battle than the score indicated as they collected 11 first downs compared to only 10 for Eastern Oregon. Carroll gained 143 yards by rushing and completed 4 of 13 passes for 66 yards. EOC collected 209 yards on the ground and passed 15 times, completing 5 for 81 yards. Each team had an interception.

Coach Dunsmoor gave his subs plenty of experience as he substituted freely throughout the game.

The Saints were not to be denied, however, as Radcliffe, Moodry and Tate Fraiser were constantly giving Eastern Oregon trouble throughout the game.

The Rambler

By S. Simon

I was reading one of those travel folders on Hawaii the other day, that told what a "Tropical Paradise" the place was. Knowing that many of our readers dream of taking a trip there some day, I decided to get the real lowdown on Hawaii. Luckily I knew a guy who had been to Honolulu, and he was able to shed some new light on the subject.

To start with, the people that are stuck on the Island refer to it as "The Rock," and can hardly wait to get enough money together so that they can escape to the mainland.

The main source of income for the Islanders, besides pineapples and hula-girls, is gyping the poor tourist that comes over there for a vacation. That's why Honolulu has such a large population, half of the tourists that come over there haven't enough money left to buy a return ticket home.

The girl-boy ratio over there isn't any good at all for the boys. There are forty-thousand servicemen stationed over there, and a guy really has to hunt to find himself a woman. The situation has gotton so bad in recent years that unless a boy has a Cadillac, he might as well give up.

With an environment like this the liquor industry is a big thing in Honolulu. The bars are packed with frustrated guys that can't find themselves a girl, and the Shore Patrol really has itself a time picking up all of the drunk Swabbies.

Honolulu has a few good points too. You can go barefoot if you want, the weather is perfect the year around, you can't beat Waikiki Beach for a place to go swimming, the people are all friendly, and if you don't have enough money for food, you can always climb a coco-nut tree.

YEARBOOK DEADLINE MET

The Mountaineer staff reports that their first two deadlines have been met. Forty-two pages have been completed and sent in for publication. They consist of last Spring and this Fall activities. The third deadline of 21 pages is due December first. The staff is busy with this group, which is faculty and class pictures.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Aggie - - -

So you are to be the new editor. Congratulations, cousin! Of course I'll help you all I can. I'm pleased as can be that you asked me. You know Ag, you'd just be surprised at the happenings I see some days when I'm crossing the campus. Of course, you understand that some of these things we wouldn't dare mention to the public, but there are other things that I think would be real newsy. I'll just try to jot down some of them in a letter to you occasionally, and you can use them in the Beaocn if you want to.

Now for instance, last week I saw the cutest freshman girl come out of the Ad building. It was raining cat sand dogs, and you know what she did? She stooped over and pulled off her shoes, with one in either hand she streaked for the dormitory as fast as she coudl run. Isn't it funny, Aggie, where I came from we always started wearing shoes in the fall when the weather turned bad. I just wonder where that girl calls home.

Say, did you hear about the feuding between Dorion and Hunt? This is the way it was told to me — the boys in Hunt were slow asking the Dorion girls for dates for the Homecoming dance, so the dorm girls retaliated by not asking boys to the Sadie Hawkins deal. Now they are both mad at each other, except of course, the ones who go steady. Those kids in the dormitories better be careful or they will reach a deadlock. Then they will be sorry, what with the year just getting started and all. Just think, no dates!

Have you noticed how relaxed people look after mid-terms are over? Most of them, that is. There were a few who didn't look that way when they came out of Social Science the other day. I wonder what was the matter? Some of the Methods and Materials class looked upset, too.

There are some things about this campus I really like, Aggie. Have you taken a good look at our crop of male student teachers this year? I'd just love to be on a school board and have a private interview with just any one of them. I don't know what kind of teachers they are going to be but gosh, they are good loking.

I heard a remark that I liked real well last week, too. It was made by a member of the English Department. He said that during his residence in La Grande he had never seen any signs of a "minormunity, nor had he seen any evimunity, or had he sen any evidence of race prejudice on our campus. I'm glad we are like this, and I hope we can keep the same attitude as our school grows.

Have you seen the stage in the auditorium this week? Mr. Hill and his stage craft class, aided and abetted by Mr. Hiatt and all the help he can enlist, are really doing a bang-up job in getting things ready for "Time Out for Ginger." Don't forget to plan on seeing the play this week-end. I hear that it is tops.

Did you know Aggie—that Mrs. Winters carries a book entitled, Do You Really Want to Reduce to her English class these days. Wonder what she is teaching those kids? — that Bob Sargent was on time for his 8 o'clock World Lit class twice last week — that Mr. Perry's camera blew a fuse when Marcia Belshaw posed for her picture — that Dick Hiatt's play cast turned out to be mostly Republican which really threw a crimp in the Y.R. plans to go to the convention this week-end. How come, Don Starr? How could you let down the good old G.O.P.?

I have to go now because I have teno'clock. I'll probably see you next week sometime when I'm crossing the campus. In the meantime I'll write you a letter every time I get a chance.

Love,
Cousin Ettie

Painting The Town---

by A. Brush

A Brush hasn't been able to dig up much dirt — errrr news this week, though he surveyed about a trillion town students. The result was the following conglomeration of fascinating facts.

This is a special interest feature. We tell you all the interesting things done by town students. The lockeroom mob consisting of Gay Richards. Mary Beck, Pat Beck, and Naomi Elam report that they have done nothing.

I don't know if you heard about the Halloween prank that happened about a month ago. Half the Ad Building was dynamited into the atmosphere. Kermit Stine says he has done nothing interesting that is printable.

Hunt Hokum

by Side Delivery

I was approached by the editor this morning and in my weakened condition I just couldn't say no, so, looking through blood-shot eyes and sipping freely of my cough syrup I will try to write a few uninteresting lines.

Over-heard on fourth floor, "Do you have a fairy godfather?" "No, but I have a room mate I'm a little suspicious of."

Then there was the gent who stepped into the bar very optimistically and two hours later went away very misty-optically.

By the looks of all the blue slips that came in the mail last week, more books will be opened or the ratio of boys to girls will be better next term. I know that social life comes first but you should spend a little time with the books.

Her feet went up in the air
Her face turned crimson red
She felt both cold and wet
And she wished that she were dead.
Now the moral of my story is Never sit down abrupt
Always look behind you
The seat may still be up.

Which just goes to prove that people that live in glass houses shouldn't.

There didn't seem to be very many students at the record dance after the football game. I did manage to hear a choice bit of conversation as a freshman boy asked a senior girl to dance.

"May I have this dance?"

"I'm sorry, but I never dance with a child," she said with an amused smile.

"Oh, a thousand pardons," he said. "I didn't know your condition."

Speaking of ages I heard this one the other day;

"How old is you?"

"Ah's five. How old is you?"

"Ah don't know."

"Yo' don't know how old you is?"

"Nope."

Does women botha' you?"

"Nope."

"You's fo'."

The other day I met a man who had reached the depths of disillusionment. He had just spent three hundred dollars on a permanent cure of halitosis, only to find out that no one liked him anyway.

Well, so long all you ice cream eaters, see you next issue.

ZANDER TO VISIT

Rey Zander, Pendleton, former EOC student said he would visit friends on campus this week. Zander is well known on campus; is a veteran and recently has been employed as a smoke-jumper by the U. S. Forest Service. On campus he was an active member of Beta Kappa, Young Republicans, and International Relations club.

New Club Is Forming

By Pat Yoneyama

All journalism students and workers on the publications staffs: this appeal is directed especially to you!

The publications honorary which has recently organized on campus is having a difficult time getting started as a functioning group. The main difficulty is that those persons who are eligible and who have indicated interest in joining the fraternity have not been coming to the meetings. It is important to remember that in order to make headway toward becoming an active organization, and especially if the organization is just being formed, members must support it by becmoing active workers.

To the three meetings which have been held since the formulation of the club, at the average attendance has been eight persons.

All persons who have worked on a publication staff for the last two years are eligible to join the fraternity. Upper classmen who have the required amount of experience can immediately join. Under classmen will be pledges until they become upper classmen.

Meetings are being held every Monday noon, 12:30, in the Beacon room of Hoke Hall. The only items of business that have been carried out so far are (1) "fraternity" has been selected as the name for the group, (2 a tentative constitution has been drawn up which will be presented to the group for discussion, and (3) a four-woman committee has been apponited to draw up prospective Greek names for the name of the fraternity, and the members will choose one for their official name. Meetings will continue to be held every Monday until the constitution has been accepted by the student council and until the fraternity has become a recognzed organization on campus.

Mr. Ron Bayes is advisor for the group. Temporary officers are Duane Lindsay, president, and Patsy Yoneyama, seretary.

If more students do not show interest in making this fraternity an active, functional group, it will be forced to dissolve. A special plea is made to all interested persons to please come to the meetings!

College Building Art Collection

A definite allocation of funds, to occur annually and consisting of three hundreds dollars, has been made to the art department of Eastern regon College of Education for the purpose of acquiring a permanent art collection, according to Dr. George Nightingale, art professor.

Dr. Nightingale states that he is tentatively working on the possible purchase of a Karl Morris painting. Mr. Morris is one of the best known Oregon artists, and is currently holding a one-man show in both New York and Portland exhibits. Dr. Nightingale deschribes Morris as "one of the more sensitive painters of Oregon."

Christmas Dance In Hoke Hall

By Virginia Pyatt

"Silver Bells" is the theme for the annual Christmas formal, sponsored by the Associated Women Students of Eastern Oregon College, which will be held tonight, December 2, in Hoke Hall. Billy Howell's dance orchestra will furnish music, and dancing will continue from nine to twelve. General chairman is Milodene Fries, Summerville, AWS president. Mrs. Dorothy Winters, Dean of Women, is faculty advisor. Since this is the big social event of the fall term, all students are urged to attend.

In keeping with the general theme, gay decorations of silver bells, red trimmings, pine and fir boughs will lend a festive note remindful of the coming holiday season. Marcia Belshaw from Mount Vernon is decorations chairman. She has been assisted by the entire membership of Alpha Rho Tau, art honorary, aided by Dr. George Nightingale, advisor, and Miss Leona Golz, coadvisor. Members include Lucille George, Sandra Spickerman, Bonita Booth, Virginia Van Blokland, and Rachel Gillenwater.

Intermission entertainment will feature Jackie Shaw, La Grande, in a ballet number; Larry Syron, Toledo, singing "White Christmas." Margaret Preston, The Dalles, is program chairman.

Other credits go to dance program chairman, Joanne Glenn, Summerville; faculty invitations, Charlotte Vanderveldt, Brownsmead; and Kathleen Bannister, Weston, advertising and publicity.

Proper attire consists of suits for fellows and formals for women. The coffee shop will be open during the dance.

Civic Music Opens Here

Dances of the World, the first Civic Music program of the 1955-56 season, is to be presented next Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 8:15 p.m. in the high school gym. Goya and Matteo will present authentic dances in colorful and characteristic costumes from many countries, including Spain, India, Ceylon, Italy, Cuba, Scotland, and the Latin American coutries.

The EOC student body card will admit the holder (one person only) to the concert. If a joint holder of a card is enrolled in college, he or she must see the registrar for a separate student body card before going to the program.

College Politicos On Portland Trek

By Donna Talbott

The 1955 convention of the Oregon Young Republicans was held in Portland, Oregon, on November 11 and 12 and took place in the Benson Hotel. Most of the colleges and counties of Oregon were preesnted. EOC's delegation was led by Art Hartgsaves, chairman; Keith Flanagan; and Avon Love.

The EOC delegation introduced a resolution, whicn was passed, commending Congressman Sam Coon for his part in the John Day Dam Bill. They also formed a coalition with two other Eastern Oregon Young Republican groups —Union and Umatilla counties— which elected Ron Johnson of Pendleton as State Assistant Chairman and Rey Zander, also of Pendleton and a former EOC student, as Second Congressional District Director. Rey will act as liaison man between Congressman Coon and the Federation.

EOC's delegation helped formulate the successful resolution on education which called for continued expansion of the school boilding program with stress on more functional and utilitarian buildings due to the shortage of available funds.

Jim Hatfield of Salem was unanimously elected president of the State Young Republican Federation.

Highlights of the convention were State Treasurer Sib Unander's noon luncheon address and the address given by Governor Patterson at the evening banquet.

The delegates, who traveled by car, remarked about the poor road conditions but felt that the convention was very successful with many resolutions passed and enthusiasm on the part of all present.

Mike McArdle, EOC was appointed temporary vice chairman of the Oregon YR College League.

The next EOC YR project will be sending a delegation to the state college YR convention in Portland the week after Thanksgiving. It is not known if McArdle will be a candidate for election to a full term at that time.

Art Showing Opening Here

By Virginia Pyatt

An exhibit featuring the oil and water colors of Steve Bayless, former EOC student now teaching at Medford, is now on display in the art gallery of the Walter Pierce library. These paintings are in the contemporary trend, while some are definitely experimental. The fact that there are no titles on some, but only numbers, will save perplexity for viewers; these were not intended to be recognized as subjects.

Dr. George Nightingale, art professor, says that Bayless's work is "stimulating and pleasing, showing excellent color-sense plus sound handling of organization."

Also on exhibit until Christmas vacation, is the Japanese Print exhibit sponsored by Alpha Rho Tau, art honorary, and obtained from the importer, Kitigawa. These include prints of the classical print makers of the 18th and 19th centuries, in addition to some modern prints. The subject material in all are typically and traditionally Japanese.

Prints are for sale and range in price from 35 cents to $2.50. Purchases can be made from Miss Helen Bliss, assistant librarian, Miss Leona Golz, art instructor, Marcia Belshaw, president of Alpha Rho Tau, or Dr. Nightingale.

College Democrats Re-Organize Here

By Jim Applegate

The Young Democrats, after being inactive for the past few years, have reorganized. Last year under the Presidency of Larry Veal they were reactivated. During this period approximately 30-35 members were listed on the roll.

Dan McDevitt was elected President. Stan Thomas was elected vice president and Phyllis Snider was elected to the office of secretary. Roll is not completed so a list of members cannot be estimated.

The first meeting of the year was scheduled for Thursday, November 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Audio-Visual Aids room in the basement of Pierce library.

According to Veep Stan Thomas, tentative plans for out-of-town speakers to speak on the various and sundry political issues have been formulated. He stressed the fact that the college group hopes to work in close conjunction with the local Democratic organization.

Mr. Lloyd Rea, Baker County Judge, visited Thomas last Tuesday. The purpose of the visit To find out how the organization was established and to offer his assistance in the future development of the club. He has offered to speak to the Young Democrats on the Campus shortly after the Thanksgiving holidays.

Religion On Campus

(ACP) — The question of religion on campus has always been a touchy and controversial one. In answer to claims that students may lose their religion when they attend college, Southern Illinois University's Egyptian recently published this editorial:

Some students are often warned by their parents and well-meaning friends that they should be careful that they do not lose their region on a state university campus. These people speak of losing religion as though it were a textbook or a pencil that might be dropped on the campus.

It is impossible for a student to lose his religion on the campus of Southern Illinois University. If, because of the new atmosphere, a student feels that something has been lost it is well to consider what it was that was lost. Perhaps it was not religion at all, but some childish superstition that should have been dropped long ago. Our religious education seldom keeps up with our secular education and we seem to reach physical, intellectual and social maturity long before we reach religious maturity. University students are often criticized by their parents and by religious leaders for losing the faith of their fathers. It should be pointed out to these people that religion and faith can not be inherited and a second hand religion is worse than none. The student who loses his father or mother's religion is usually in the process of finding his own.

Religion can be found on this campus as easily as it can be found on the campus of a church-related school. Religion is the expression of an attitude toward what the individual regards as important in life. Here on this campus a student will find many different expressions of religion. There are no denomination restrictions here and a student can believe by the evidence before him rather than by the creedal dictatorship of some ecclesiastical body. Religion is as indigenous to the intellectual life of the campus as is democracy or the belief in scientific procedure. Religious facts, issues and implications are dealt with in every class where they arise naturally. Of course, there are some students and professors who avoid discussion of religion like prissy old maids avoid mention of sex; but most of the students and the faculty feel free to discuss religion. The constitutional separation between Church and State has been misunderstood as a separation between religion and education. This is one of the social tragedies of our time. Education and religion are inseparable; both can be found on this campus if a person will remember the words of St. Paul: "When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man I put away childish things."

Letter Receives Critical Comment

Dear Editor:

I would like, first of all, to commend you for being able to publish The Beacon with such a small staff. The Beacon is a fine little sheet; one of which every student here at EOC should be proud.

While reading the last issue (November 18, 1855) I came upon a letter written by Mr. Don Swart which was addressed to you. Please permit me to express my views toward that letter.

What Mr. Swart says in his letter is true to the largest extent. I assume that the intention of his letter was to motivate or persuade our student body to become more active in student activities. If I am correct in this assumption, I must say that I believe he went about it in the wrong way. Mr. Swart begins his letter by stating that the student body is filled with parasites. Name-calling has never motivated anyone to anything except the opposite side of the argument or discussion. Mr. Swart tries to persuade us (the "parasites") to become active in student activities. How does he expect to get a positive reaction to a negative approach?

Paragraph five deals with the "beanie" problem. As long as Freshmen are told that they have to wear the beanie, the problem will exist. There are enough older Freshmen nowadays who will not comply with such an order from an upperclassman. These older students will and do sway the remainder of the class with them. The problem will exist as long as the beanie remains an emblem of general inferiority. I will admit that an upperclassman could be superior to a Freshman academically, but in no other way simply by virtue of being an upperclassman.

In regard to paragraph six, the election of Student Body Representatives at large, I would like to say this: Whenever a person writes a paper, a book, or anything for public digestion, he should first do some resarch. It might be well for Mr. Swart to do so before he takes pen in hand again. I did some research at the Registrar's office and found that the class representation of Student Body Representatives at large is as follows:

Mr. Swart may not have meant to aim his letter at Freshmen as he stated in paragraph 5b, but I do believe he could have at least selected a class which is worse off in this respect than the Freshmen. Please do not misunderstand me Madam Editor, I am not making excuses for the Freshmen. We should probably have had more than one candidate on the ballot. I don't understand however, why the Freshman class should be the only class to be blasted for this mistake or lack of interest.

Through Mr. Swart's letter we of the student body have learned that we have a "darn sad situation" in the school. Further, through his letter, every other college in the Northwest which receives The Beacon knows it now. It is good that Mr. Swart was able to identify the situation as "darn sad" but why broadcast it? Wouldn't it have been better o publish a constructive appeal to students to participate in activities?

I sincerely hope that more students begin to participate in activities. I most certainly do not condemn Mr. Swart or anyone else for bringing the situation to light. I do believe, however, that a more constructive method could have been used.

Sincerely,
R. Boyd Devin

RENCKEN TO PORTLAND

William Bencken, Milton-Freewater, student at EOC, has been requested to appear Tuesday, before the Oregon Fulbright Review Committee in Portland, the Fulbright advisor for EOC, Dr. Charles Quaintance, said today.

(To The Editor)

Dear Miss Thornburg:

Some students and faculty members feel that it is time to change certain phases of Homecoming. With all due respect to tradition we are among those that feel that way.

It is our proposal that the Homecoming parade be eliminated from the Homecoming agenda. In its place, we are all of the opinion that some form of activity on campus should be substituted.

The Homecoming parade has certain drawbacks which make our proposal worth consideration:

The campus organizations do not have sufficient finances to spare to invest in floats. Our clubs are hard pressed for money, and to blow even a little on something "here today and gone tomorrow" is foolish.

Only a very small number of students actually pitch in and help. Too much is done by too few.

There are no adequate facilities available—on or off campus—to build floats. Conditions hamper rather than help clubs to build attractive floats.

Because of these and many more reasons, we suggest that the Homecoming parade should give way to some other activity which would be on campus. More students could and would participate, and the campus could benefit more materially from such efforts.

Why not give it some consideration?

Diana Gilstrap
Art Hartgraves

Dear Editor:

Faculty and students, it has been brought to our attention via the journalistic page that a subversive underground movement is afoot to destroy the traditional homecoming parade. Shall this highly traitorous deed be permitted? WE SAY NO!!! This year for example, although the weather was our greatest adversary, SPIRITS rose to a feverish height.

Water, mud, booze, or blood did not hinder one of our most successful Homecomings in recent years. Although only a relatively few students participated in building the floats, the parade succeeded in compacting the remaining students into a closely knit group, which made the parade a wet success. The interest shown, regardless of weather, trials or tribulations, attests to the fact that we must continue to have the traditional Homecoming parade as an annual event.

Building of the floats gives the students a chance to mix informally and, in some cases, this has brought about favorable results. "Right S.T."

Good public relations is a must! How better can we show our appreciation to the citizens of our host city than by giving them a good Homecoming parade, headed by a beautiful and gracious queen and her attendants?

Too much good is derived from the parade to let our thinking be negatively swayed on this important issue.

Yours for continued BIGGER and Better Parades,
Jim Applegate

LIBRARY BULLETIN

The newly-introuced system for checking out reserve books for overnight at 4 o'clock p.m. has received favorable reactions so far, Mr. Nelson revealed last week. He said that the library staff would still welcome further comments on the project from the stndents.

If students have any suggestions, complaints, or just plain gripes, pertaining to the library service and facilities, they are urged to contact members of the student library staff which includes Gary Webster, Donna Talbot, and Doris Rigney.

S. Simon Hears War Chants

OPEN LETTER TO S. SIMON

It is most discouraging when a person whose knowledge is limited about a subject tries to write a "critical analysis" of it.

S. Simon, we think, has certainly made several poor conclusions about Hawaii, particularly, when he has not made the observation himself.

We, as Kamaainas (or native habitats of Hawaii) are very proud of Hawaii for its beauty and hospitality.

Why Mr. Simon thinks that people are trying to escape the islands is beyond logical thinking. If that was the case, the population of Hawaii would be on the decline but statistics prove otherwise; the population is increasing with every pasing year. For your information Mr. Simon, the population of Hawaii is comprised of several nationalities — Japanese, 40%; Part Hawaiian, 17%; Caucasians, 14% (largely direct descendents of missionaries); Filipinos, 13%; Chinese, 6% pure Hawaiians 2%; and others. All of these nationalities make up 500,000. Note Mr. Simon, the Caucasians make up only 14% of the total population.

According to Thrum's Hawaiian Annual, it stated that the few tourists who decide to make Hawaii their permanent residence do so mainly because the ideal climate.

Where boy-girl ratio is concerned, we must admit that the boys are at a disadvantage; but it is not the fault of the girls if they cannot keep forty-thousand servicemen happy. Oh, yes, there are few girls who date only boys with Cadillac, but the majority of the girls are more concerned with the fellows than with his car—after all, what's a Cadillac if the fella behind the wheel is a "drip"!

The liquor situation in Hawaii does not differ from any big cities. We do regret that the servicemen prefer to drown their frustrations in liquors rather than taking advantage of the fine recreational programs that are offered such as: YMCA, USO, Church Fellowship Organizations, Athletic programs, etc.

Mahalo nui loa (thank you very much) for the "few" good points mentioned about Honolulu. May we add a few more good points? Racial prejudice is down to a minimum; good school systems; pleasant climate and beautiful sceneries; and the variet yof kau kau (foods).

These are facts from the Kamaainas—people who lived there and not the impressions of Malihinis (visitors).

Sincerely yours,
The Kamaainas

Music Notes

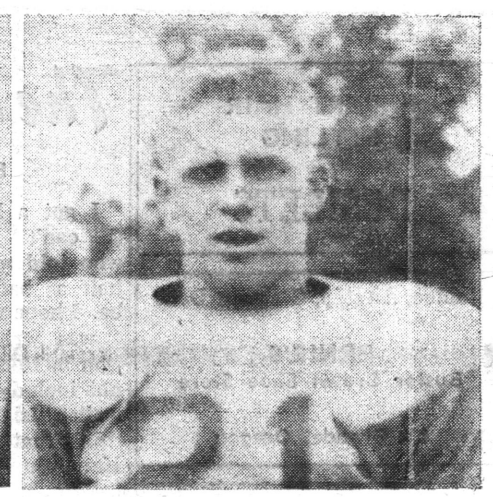
by Karen McGillivray

The EOC choir will present a concert Tuesday night, December 13. They hope that everyone who enjoyed them in the Thanksgiving assembly will come to hear them. The group will include numbers by the choir and several of the smaller vocal groups.

Individuals and groups have been busy performing during the last week. Diana Gilstrap sang a solo at the Methodist Church last Sunday. The male quartet performed at the Union County Historical Society and the Seed Growers Annual Banquet, and the quartet and Carol Saager appeared att he Lions Club. Shirley Best sang a solo at the Elks Club Memorial Services.

Yule Candlelight Hour will be the first chance that many of the students will have to hear one of EOC's noted singers. One of the numbers on the program will be a vocal solo by Mr. Howard Anderson, a member of the English Department.

We've just uncovered a very obscure piece of news. Kay Walker took a trip to New York when she was ten, and while there she ust looked. (I told you nobody would cooperate.)



ELVIN DAGGETT — An 8.2 yard average gained in 68 carries took the ball 563 net yards for the Mounties, as Dagget topped the league in gains.

WELDON LEWIS — Weldon came up fast in his first year of intercollegiate competition to nail down the coveted center spot on the OCC All-star team.

BILL WEST — Bill played so well at his fullback spot that he drew the right tackle position, even though he had been out of athletics for U.S. service.

JACK HARMON — Selected for the honor of all-star berth for the second time, Jack continues the prowess he showed at La Grande high school.

Weldon Lewis, EOC Frosh, Named To OCC All Stars At Center Position

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers landed four places on each of the first two Oregon Collegiate Conference teams selected by the conference coaches, it was announced this morning.

Selection of the teams was made by secret vote of the members who were not permitted to vote for their own players as part of the selection.

In addition to the eight men picked for the first two spots, honorable mention was given to three more EOC players, making a total of eleven men drawing places on the listing.

This is a fine tribute to the team that won no conference games last year, but finished in a tie for first in the loop this season.

Every man on the squad deserves high praise for the achievement, even those who weren't among the top in selections, had a big part in making their teammates great.

As we see the selections, they weren't exactly the ones we might have picked as a whole, but opposing coaches have a slightly different viewpoint.

Listed on the mythical first team were Hilltoppers: Jack Harmon who drew the left end position for the second time; Weldon Lewis whose work at center earned a berth in his first year of inter-collegiate competition; Bill West drew a right tackle spot even though he played fullback all season; and Elvin Daggett grabbed off the right halfback slot, probably by virtue of being the loop's leading ground gainer.

The second string eleven listed Frank Good, Don Poulson, Arlen Smith, and Dick Quinn from the Mountaineers on the roll.

Next in line in the listings was Oregon College of Education, with three players on each team. Portland State College got one man on the first squad, and two on the sub squad. Oregon Tech got two men on the second squad.

Local Grid Squads Feted At Banquet

La Grande's two major football elevens were feted last night at a football banquet given to honor them and their season's efforts.

Wayne Berry, well known La Grande star, who has played professional ball, and is now assistant coach at Washington State College was the principal speaker. He told of the rigid rules regarding player conduct, and training existing in the professional circuits, and stressed that a player is on his own even more than in college and prep circles. Training rules are strictly enforced and slight infractions are likely to result in a fine performer being cut from the squad. Teamwork is one of the keynotes of the game at all levels, he said. He stressed that pro football is "rough, not dirty" and that many problems dealt with on the playing field are similar to ones met in later life.

Berry was introduced by Dick Neely, pinch hitting for Bill Rice, who was unable to attend.

Elvin Daggett received the "most valuable player" award given by the Masterminds to the player voted to receive it by his teammates. The award went to 'Doc" Savage last year.

Announcement was made by Eastern Oregon College mentor Archie Dunsmoor, that Frank Good had been selected to play in the "Christian Bowl" game at Murphresboro, Tenn., Dec. 26.

The Rambler

By S. Simon

I got a letter from somebody (I can't pronounce the name) who told me that Hawaii wasn't half as bad as I made it out to be. I hope my readers realize that I was writing about the situation in Honolulu only which does not include any of the other Hawaiian Islands or cities. I still think that the natural beauty of Honolulu has been commercialized to such an extent as to make a farce out of the tropical paradise idea that most tourists come over there with. It is impossible to satisfy everyone though. And when either a brick or a bouquet is thrown at me I am flattered, because I know that my column is being read.

Gary Woods and Monte (Razor) Gillette, had a hair-cutting contest the other night. They're the only two Sophomores walking around the campus wearing Freshmen beanies. Personally I think Monte got the worst end of the bargain.

Some of these new men's magazines they have out are really great. They cater mostly to readers with one-track minds, and the boys (men) over at Hunt really go for them in a big way. Some of the better known ones like, "Playboy," "Rogue," and "Escapade," not only have interesting stories in them, but have excellent photography as well. "Escapade" in order to attract more college readers even had a feature article on college life in their November issue.

Some of the boys over here at Hunt are still wondering why they weren't asked to that "Shadie Hawkins" dance a few weeks back. I guess it's a good thing that men don't understand women. Women understand women and they don't like them.

With all of those recent engagement it looks like the girls around here really mean business. I just hope that all of you engaged guys know what you're getting into. According to one of the great philosophers of our time, marriage is like a boring dinner with desert served first. And here's a tip for all of you guys that have already been hooked—Alimony is next to worthless on a cold night.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie:

Here we are back in school again after Thanksgiving. Wasn't it fun to go home for a few days and not have a thing in the world to worry about except term papers and book reviews and play production projects and constitution quizzes and biology tests and memorizing Shakespeare? Gosh, what a rest

Speaking of exams, Aggie, I heard about a Freshman who wrote a theme about them. He said as far as he could see tests were just a scheme to see how many unimportant details the student remembered and how well he was able to read the instructor's mind.

Did you hear about Willie Laughlin falling into biology class last week? Some people will do anything to call attention to themselves. Sure, we realize that Willie was happy at becoming an I.K., but the whole class would have noticed his armor without him falling flat on his face to get them to look.

That letter of Don Swart's in the last Beacon really caused some comment, didn't it? I think maybe Don is right about some things. I can't figure out why students don't turn out for assemblies. I think it's just as easy to sleep in assembly as it is in class, easier than it is in some classes. Dr. Lee Johnson just hates for kids to sleep in his history classes, particularly if they snore.

And speaking of assemblies, I'll bet Dr. Easley got some new ideas for mystifying his physical science students when he saw that General Electric assembly last week. Not that he needs any more ideas, those classes of his are the most mystified group on the campus as it is.

This just leads to another line of thinking—our faculty is nothing if not versatile. Sometimes I wonder if maybe they aren't hired for their versatility. You know, Aggie, during cold snaps like the one last week they get together and help thaw out the plumbing in their various homes. I heard that Dr. Clark could just squeeze under Howard Anderson's house this year. The rest were all too, shall we say, plump? I'll bet Mr. Bayes thinks he was hired because he is a good English teacher. I wonder? This probably goes for Mr. Hiatt, too. They are both kinda thin.

That's all for this time, I'll try to write again next week.

Love,
Cousin Ettie

One Man's Opinion

By Duane E. Stiff

Voltaire wrote, "I may disagree with what you say but shall defend to the death your right to say it."

When I read the article in the last issue of the Beacon, written by Mr. Don Swart, I was visibly shaken. I fully intended to write a rebuttal but have since thought better of it.

After talking the situation over with many students I have come to the conclusion that Mr. Swart has achieved his purpose. That purpose, I believe, was to shake the student body into realizing that they were going to sleep. Perhaps the adage, "When children are playing quietly they are up to no good," applies to us.

I feel that Mr. Swart should be complimented for having the courage to print what he thinks. Assuming the role of Campus Cadfly is a very thankless role and even though I don't agree with him, I hope the repercussions are not too great.

I'm beginning to get just slightly confused with all this crazy weather we've been having. A couple of weeks ago I pulled out my longies, all prepared for a long, cold winter. So what happens? I should have left my swim-fins on. I suppose the next thing will be balmy summer weather for a few days, then . . . POWIE!! . . . more from the North Pole. Oh, well, I only have to live here; maybe some day I'll get used to it.

Yoiks and tally ho!! Finals are coming up awfully fast and I am awfully unprepared. What an awful situation. Guess I'd better get to my books and unpack them before they rot away.

Spanish Dancers Open Civic Music

by Virginia Pyatt

"A World of Dancing," featuring Carola Goya and Matteo, versatile Spanish dancers, proved refreshing entertainment to the La Grande audience attending The Civic Music Association's first program of the 1955-56 season.

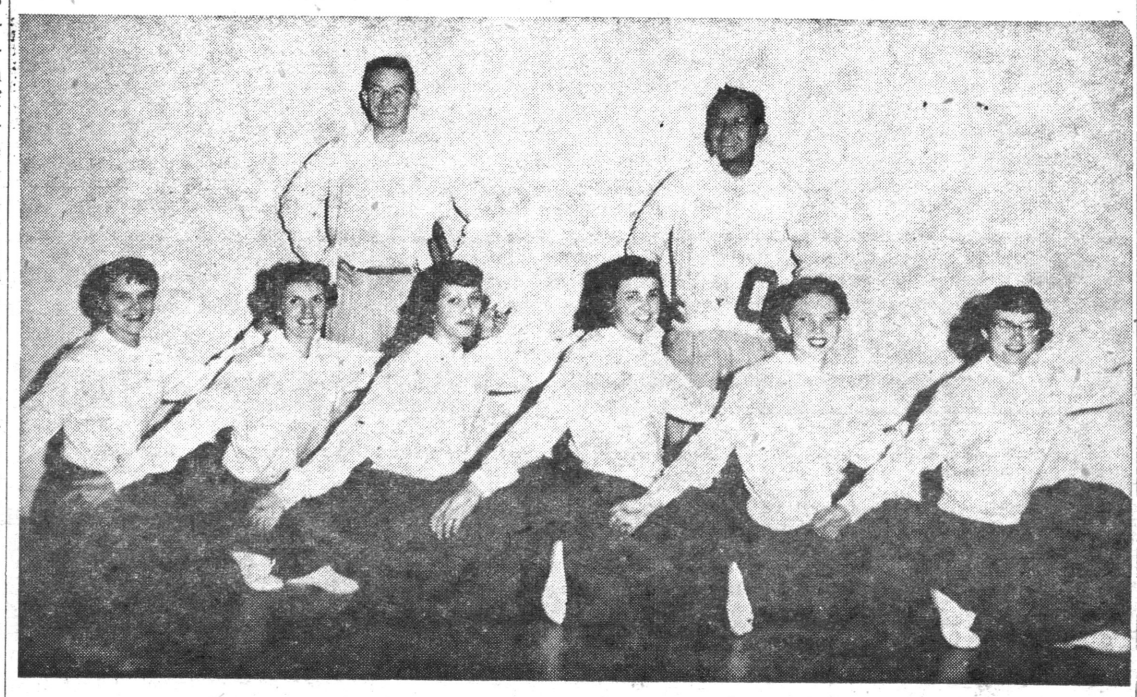
Goya, conceded "the world's foremost virtuoso of the castanets," delighted the appreciative audience with her skill in handling these small pieces of concave wood as musical instruments. (The left hand keeps the ryhthm and also registers the low tones. The right hand carries the high or female tones.) In her dancing, however, Goya lacked the litheness and fire that a younger performer might have displayed. Her dance to Malaguena, by Leucona, was her best number.

The charm of the program lay in informality and the personalities of the two dancers. A running commentary by Matteo, who was as comic as he was agile, explained the ethnic origin of the dances given at this performance. Superstition, religion, philosophy, folklore, role in society, and even costumes can determine the character of the dance. Just as people have different dances, so they have different carriages. An amusing pantomime contrasting the carriage of the Spanish woman who travels all in one piece with that of the American bobby-soxer who travels in sections met with a ready response.

Dances representing Spain, Italy, Scotland, India, and the Society Islands were performed in the evening's program. Colorful costumes and the excellent accompaniment of Raymond Sachse, pianist, heightened the effectiveness of the dances.

Mr. Sachse received a warm applause for his interpretation of "Ritual Fire Dance" by Falla.

Faculty Eenjoys Dessert In Dorm



by Pat Yoneyama

Anybody who failed to attend the faculty "dessert" last Sunday afternoon, the 11th, between 3 and 5 o'clock, really missed a treat! Besides missing out on the eats (which, by the way, consisted of luscious Alaska-pie, mixed nuts, and holiday cookies), you missed out on the highlights of the mistletoe . . . well-you-know-what-I-mean deal! Three guesses on who got who! Dr. Lee Johnson kissed Anna LaKamp, then there were Dr. Addy and Don Starr after each steered the other to a spot under the little green sprig.

The dormitories sponsored the dessert which was held in Dorion lounge. It was resumed this season after being discontinued the last few years, largely through the initiative efforts of Mrs. Winters. The lounge was decorated with branches of pine, candles, ribbons, and the whole atmosphere was very "Christmas-ie." The girls greeted the guests as they arrived, served them refreshments, and talked to them. Behind scenes, were the ever-efficient dishwashers. The faculty members seemed very pleased with the little social hour and appeared to be having a real nice time!

Some local talent of different caliber partook in a program. Larry Syron gave a smooth rendition of "White Christmas." Janice Robertson and Miss Scott each sang lovely solos ;and Mr. Anderson sang "O Holy Night" in his famous tenor. The reception was concluded with the faculty being toured through the first floor of both dormitories.

Mrs. Eva Miller and Mrs. Harriet Hoyt headed the group of hostesses and gave valuable help in carrying through the dessert. The general feeling among those present was: "It sure was a lot of fun!"

EOC Rally Squad Praised For Lively Action And Good Spirit

by Jim Applegate

Now that the excitement of the maple court activity is upon us once again we expect the ultimate from our Rally Squad. The members of EOC's Rally Squad deserve our hurahs for doing a swell job.

As we watch the individual members perform the various routines we are amazed at the intricate steps of the dances. But, how many of us stop to think of the time and effort that goes into making these the success they have been?

Yell King Larry Syron, his able assistant Rudy Clements, and the Song Queens, Donna Snow, Nicki Smith, Agnes Thornburgh, Jackie Shaw, Janet York, Toni Clark, and Betty Franklin practice twice a week for the forthcoming games.

The girls occasionally practice with the band to perfect the dance routines. Incidentally, the routines have been favorably received by the spectators.

A new innovation was the Good Luck send-off rally held in front of the J. H. Ackerman school. This rally was held as the team left to play OCE at Monmouth in an important conference game.

The Rally Squad should be commended for the Pep parade and outstanding spirit shown during the Homecoming festivities.

Looking to the future, we can expect the wonders of comedy to prevail. Larry and Rudy are busily transferring new ideas from paper to actuality.

MANY CLASSES TAUGHT OFF-CAMPUS

During this fall term eight Eastern Oregon College professors are offering extension courses in several different Eastern Oregon communities. The initiative for these courses must come from the people taking the courses, not from the college. If a group of people in a certain area of Oregon desire a certain course, they usually make their wishes known through the county or city superintendent. After the desire for the course is made known, the Field Representative of General Extension for the State System is contacted in Portland. He in turn procures from the nearest college the instructor for most of the courses offered in the Eastern Oregon area.

Instructors offering courses this term as as follws:

Hugh Russell—Ed. 470 (G), Special Education, Burns.

Luke Boone—Ed. 435 (G), Audio-Visual Aids, Vale.

Dr. Martha Addy — Ed. 357, Methods and Materials, Vale.

John Miller—472 (G), Principles and Practices in Curriculum Construction, John Day.

Dr. Lyle Johnson, Ed. 518, Public and Professional Relations, La Grande.

Dr. William Spear, Soc. 203, Sociology, Baker.

Dr. Roy Skeen, Ed. 412 (G), Psychology of Adolescence, Pendleton.

Dr. Frank Bennett, Ed. 576, School Building, Pendleton.

All these courses carry three hours of credit, and once each week for eleven weeks the professor travels to the center to teach the course.

Student Competes

By Virginia Pyatt

William Renken, Milton-Freewater senior at EOC, recently appeared beore the Oregon Fulbright Review committee in Portland as a candidate for the Fulbright grant to do research in marine biology at Zoologisch Station der Nederlandsche, den Helder, (or at station den Helder in The Netherlands). Renken was sponsored by Dr. Charles Quaintance, Fulbright advisor on the EOC campus; the state board, in turn, recommends the application to the national board.

The project Renken has in mind is to test the feasibility of fertilizing in-shore waters in order to increase fish production, resulting in benefits to the food-fish industries. The scarcity, in recent years, of salmon runs in Oregon and Washington, and the almost total loss of sardine runs in California, have made Renken especially interested in this phase of research. He has had experience in the use of nitrogen fertiliezrs applied to land, and feels that the same can be applied to the ocean.

Renken is married and has one child. He spent nine months each in Japan and Korea during the Korean police action.

Candlelight Hour Deemed A Success

by Donna Talbot

The Christmas season was ushered in on the EOC campus on Dec. 4 with the annual Yule Candlelight Hour. This event was sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi, women's honorary, and was attended by students and faculty members and their families.

Mrs. Doren Pierson, representing the alumnae of Sigma Alpha Chi, spoke briefly and then lighted the master candle from which the other Sigma Alpha Chi members lighted individual candles. After this brief ceremony, in which the candles in the windows were lighted, the women of Sigma Alpha Chi, dressed in formals and holding their lighted candles, grouped around the piano to sing "Silent Night."

Throughout the informal gathering ,a musical program was provided which began with a violin solo, "Ave Maria," by Mr. Bob Groth. The Blue and Gold Singers then presented "It came upon a Midnight Clear," followed by Miss Carol Saager who sang "Jesu Bambino."

Later in the afternoon the male quartet, consisting of Richard Cook, Lee Bolen, Bill Morris and Bart Clements, sang "Westminster Carol." Mr. Howard Anderson, singing, and Dr. Lynn Bishop, playing the flute, gave the final number on the program which was "O Holy Night."

To complete the afternoon activity Dr. Bishop led the group in the singing of Christmas carols, topping it off with a carol by the children.

Attention all males! Do you realize that the fabulous event, the Whisperino, is approaching. Of course it's not until next term, but plans are already being made; so get into the spirit of things.

If any of you frosh or transfer students don't know just what we're talkin gabout, go latch onto some uperclassman—he'll know! This event is open to all males—who can urge forth a facial growth of any knid—to grow beards for the great contest, There might be some big prizes!

Faculty Presents Eight Acts At Annual Assembly

by Roberta Miller

Eight super-colossal acts provided a lively hour of entertainment for students at the annual faculty assembly Wednesday, Dec. 7. Mr. Dick Hiatt acted as master of ceremonies.

First number was a flute solo "Nightingale Serenade" by Dr. Lynn Bishop accompanied by Mrs. Lynn Bishop.

Mr. Mulleninsky followed with an untitled piano solo in his own inimitable style. Students of the piano would have found it worth their time to have taken special note of Mulleninsky's technique which consisted of eloquent bows, a well-placed putt with his cane, and energetic gestures which almost landed Mr. Mulleninsky on the floor. Coach Bob Quinn contributed briefly by cleaning up the stage of wet sponges and galoshes.

Mr. Howard Anderson followed with a vocal solo, "Wanting You" and an encore "All the Things You Are."

Dr. Ernest Anderson presented an enlightening lecture on "Worrying" with gestures by Adone Anderson which somehow distracted from Dr. Anderson's lecture. Miss Jean Scott then presented two vocal numbers, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and "Stormy Weather."

Mr. Robert Quinn, distinguished lyceum performer presented a brief lecture on cultural development. He then presented two piano solos, the first vaguely resembling "Three Blind Mice" and an encore depleting his repertoire which called for a unique technique, playing on the bare knuckles. Mr. Quinn then juggled three baseballs until he dropped two, and then followed with a magic feat of a disappearing half-dollar which evolved into a fire-eating spectator with Mr. Quinn's ciragette spasmodically disappearing into his mouth followed by a belch of smoke. Last number on Bob Quinn's revue was a demonstration of what a dumbell can do with Indian clubs.

Wee Bobby Groth offered a bagpipe solo and provided an educational experience on how to disasemble a bagpipe and how not to reassemble it.

The concluding super-colossal act was Dr. Alvin Kaiser's rendition of Hillbilly Jim Beers. Dr. Kaiser presented Stephen Vincent Binet's "Mountain Whippoorwill."

Audrey Snodgrass Speaks To Class

by Virginia Pyatt

Mrs. Audrey Snodgrass, professional short-story writer and "Middle R" enthusiast, spoke to the EOC jounralism class December 12, giving a lively account of her writing experiences.

It was through the casual suggestions of two writer friends, Ernest Haycox and Gifford Cheshire, that Mrs. Snodgrass started writing. She re-wrote her first story forty-nine times before it sold. Then she sold thirteen stories one after the other, which placed her in the professional class. A professional writer is one who has sold more than five hundred dollars worth of material.

She took the surname of Kelsey, her grandmother's name, since she ocnsidered it lucky.

Her advice to young writers is to locate a good agent. He will tell you if your work is saleable, if you have talents as a writer, or if you shoudl continue writing.

Of particular interset to the class was a copy of the La Grande Gazette, August 14, 1885 issue, printed on muslin. That was the day when the news print failed to arrive by team from Umatilla, so editor W. J. Snodgrass went out and bought a bolt of muslin.

Vacation Time At Last

Today we are facing the first siege of the evil tortures commonly referred to as final examinations. These will no doubt be the ultimate factor in determining whether or not this term has been a profitable one for us. When the grades come out some may wish to begin over again and make a few changes here and there.

Speaking of changes, I am wondering just what Miss Gilstrap would suggest as a suitable program for the annual Homecoming. I'm not sure just what Mr. Hartgraves has in mind but it might be interesting to hear what kind of activities he would like planned for him when and if he returns to visit his Alma Mater in '56. I hope my opinion will be shared when I say I think the proposal they presented in their recent letters to the editor is absolutely preposterous. Surely the group that wishes to abolish the Homecoming parade is in the minority on campus! If we begin doing away with the customs peculiar to our Homecoming celebration we may as well do away with the whole practice.

As a whole, I think, all of the social activities on campus this term have been very successful. I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate and thank everyone who has helped plan and schedule the host of events we have enjoyed throughout the term. I don't think any of us can complain that we have not had enough social events because our social calender was more crowded than ever before. School spirit has reached a relatively high pitch judging from the attendance and active participation at all of our ballgames. I hope this enthusiasm extends over into winter term.

Since I have not taken the opportunity to do so previously, would like to extend my personal thanks to the Beacon staff for the help and support they have given me since my appointment to this task of editing your paper. Since the staff is small, each member has a tremendous responsibility and each has completed his assignment in a very commendable manner.

In this hit and miss editorial (editorial?) I almost neglected to wish you joy and happiness over the forthcoming holiday. So, students and faculty, I wish you a MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR on behalf of the staff and myself.

The Editor

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"NOW I KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN BY HIGHER EDUCATION."

Painting The Town

By A. Brush

Everett Winburn and Sharon Wright, both of La Grande, were recently married in the L.D.S. Temple at Twin Falls, Idaho. Everett is a sophomore at EOC.

J. J. Hassell has recently been flashing a beautiful engagement ring. Rumor has it that she is engaged to Jack Bond.

Since A. Brush couldn't dig up any more news, he brings you this story as a little Christmas present. If you read this column regularly, you needn't read the story because you have already done your share, and besides, you may never read the column again.

A light snow was falling when the professor arose from his bed and began preparing for the coming day. The Christmas spirit infused his being, and he felt warm and generous. In a kind-hearted gesture, he decided to give his four children only 20 lashes with razor strap because they had neglected to have his evening paper and slippers ready the prevous evening.

The thought uppermost in his mind naturally concerned what he could do for others—he was very unselfish. At the time, he was planning a Chistmas present for his English Comp. class—a final exam. Should they write a term paper and answer 500 recall questions in the hour and half alloted, or should he give them a break and ask them to merely outline their textbook and write 14 themes—one for every letter in his name. Carefully choosing a slug from his pinball money bank (with a hidden automatic that automatically blew off the fingers of any of his family who happened to need a dime for a glass of milk) he tossed and tails turned up which called for the 14-theme plan. Bitterly he remembered that he had lost his two-headed coin in a crap game at the faculty party.

He glanced at his watch and saw that he would have to hurry in order to be ten minutes early which would make his class ten minutes late which would cost each member the penalty of either a flunk or $.25. With an enrollment of 150 students, he would have enough to buy a new set of brass knuckles, recover his blackjack, and make the down-payment on a new stretching rack.

Meticulously he chose his suit —bright red with white fur around the cuffs and knees, shining black boots, a black leather belt, and a jaunty red stocking cap with a white ermine tassle. Feeling that the suit indeed matched his personality (it was blood-red), he gathered up his supplies for the final exam—a blowtorch to warm up his students, a cat-o-nine tails to hold their attention, and his portable machine to provide incentive for his students to finish in half an hour so he could take his coffee break with all the other jolly old saints on the faculty. As he stepped into his cadillac and shot off down the street and over an old lady with a cane, he couldn't help giving himself a mental pat on the back for the good deed he was going to do today—he was furnishing all the toothpicks for the faculty Christmas luncheon.

Merry Christmas and Happy Finals. See you next term unless I join the Foreign Legion.

TWO MILLIONTH VOLUME

BERKELEY, Calif., (ACP)—The Berkeley campus of the University of California has acquired its two-millionth volume, a valuable Shakespeare First Folio, date London, 1623. Authorities say the book is one of the monuments of western culture. The University of California is now the sixth largest in the United States.

Dorion Doings

By Mary Joan Russell

I hope that you all had an enjoyable Thanksgiving and made the trip safely. Several had trouble due to the roads. The bus that Miss Neely and a couple of others from Dorion were on, went into the ditch near Meacham. No one was seriously hurt.

A very important event happened in the lives of three girls residing in Dorion Hall, they received their engagement rings. Those that can now be added to a still growing list are: Marcia Belshaw to Ed Palmer, J. J. Hassel to Jack Bond, and Janet Hofstra to Stan Thomas. Congratulations to you all. Marcia and Ed have the month of August set for their wedding date.

In room seven, a birthday party was given for Bennnie Patao who has reached the delightful age of twenty-one. The goings-on at the festivity must have been something, to gage from the costumes worn by some.

You might have seen Kiyoko Yamada limping around and wondered at the cause of it. Well, Kiyoko seems to have done the wrong thing in gym the first of the week and landed wrong on her foot.

A word of warning!! Don't stand on the radiator and talk out through the window to your friends.

Most of you have had at least one final test by now. Dorion lounges are the scene of a beehive of activity from one dawn to the next.

For the most part the Christmas activities are over. Last Sunday Dorion Hall intertained the faculty with a afternoon desert. The main lounge was actractively decorated with Christmas trees, candles, and an enticing appearing table. The desert consisted of ice-cream pie, cookies, mints and nuts for your delight, and coffee and tea. From all appearances it went off with a big success.

Our Christmas Party was set off to a bang with the appearance of Santa Claus. With the help of elves in the gift department the presents were soon distributed. There was a mix-up at first when all thought Santa had brought the wrong cle a n - - pardon me, gift bag with him. The entertainment consisted of the song Mele Kali-ki-ma-ka (Merry Christmas) by the Hawaiian girls, Bennie, Sue, Betty, Emi, and Edna.

Many things have happened since this column was last in. One is the engagement news of Marcia Belshaw to Ed Palmer, J. J. Hassel to Jack Bond, and Janet Hofstra to Stan Thomas. You may also have seen Doris Fox scurring around. This was all with good purpose as Doris will be getting married during our Christmas vacation.

There are a group of girls who are traveling to Los Angeles. One in particular seems to be very anxious to be able to stay a couple of nights and take in the night life with that special fellow in San Francisco.

Kiyoko has her foot in a cast. She injured it while taking gym. We hope it will be better soon.

Excitement has been running high and spirited in the halls of Dorion. Must be a touch of the "final fever."

IT'S A MATTER OF DEFINITION

NOMAN, Oklahoma, (ACP)—A recent issue of the Oklahoma Daily listed these collegiate definitions:

COLLEGE: A metal institution.

DIPLOMA: A sheepskin that a graduate uses to pull the wool over some employer's eyes.

SORORITY: A male student's idea of heaven.

UPPERCLASSMEN: Students who are a shining example for freshmen . . shining because they are all either bright, lit up or polishing the apple.

To The Editor . . .

Der Sir:

We wish to make a short reply to the two gentlemen who questioned and opposed our suggestion to substitute something and eliminate the parade from Homecoming events.

The facts have not been changed. The parade is a poor activity from many different considerations. There certainly is something which could benefit the college far more which could be substituted in its place.

The parade is not a credit to E.O.C. You cannot belabor that point. The student body refuses to actively participate to make it a success. Can you refute this? Then why not find something which will be a credit to E.O.C., something which the students will participate in and help make a success?

We suggest that a serious consideration be given our proposal. If there is nothing which can be substituted in the parades place, then our proposal needs no further consideration. However, we think that there could be many things done in its place.

Diane Gilstrap
Art Hargraves

Editor's Note: The editor is not a "Sir."

TO The Editor:

It is the opinion of some people that this squabble over whether or not we should have a Homecoming parade is being limited to a relatively small number of opinionated people.

If someone really wants to find out what the entire student-body prefers, consider a suggestion that the Beacon sponsor an all-school poll.

Sincerely,
Jack Rye

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie—

I just came back from seeing the faculty assembly and were they ever good! I think some of cur faculty are really funny and I mean funny ha-ha, not just funny. Wasn't Mr. Quinn a schream?

I suppose kids have always had trouble getting dates at our college. I was looking at an old copy of the Beacon published in 1939, and I found an advertisement of a date bureau operated by two boys. They were charging ten cents per date. I don't know about the boys that are in school now, but I'll bet lots of girls would have given a dime for a date to the Christmas Formal.

Did you read in the paper last week about Elvin Daggett being selected as the most valuable player on the football team? It looks to me like a certain girl from Baker probably agrees wholehartedly, in fact, I imagine she thinks he is the most valuable man on the campus.

When I was crossing the campus one day last week I heard some kids talking about the number of new babies and expectant couples in the courts. You sort of wonder if maybe the stork might have a nest down there somewhere, don't you?

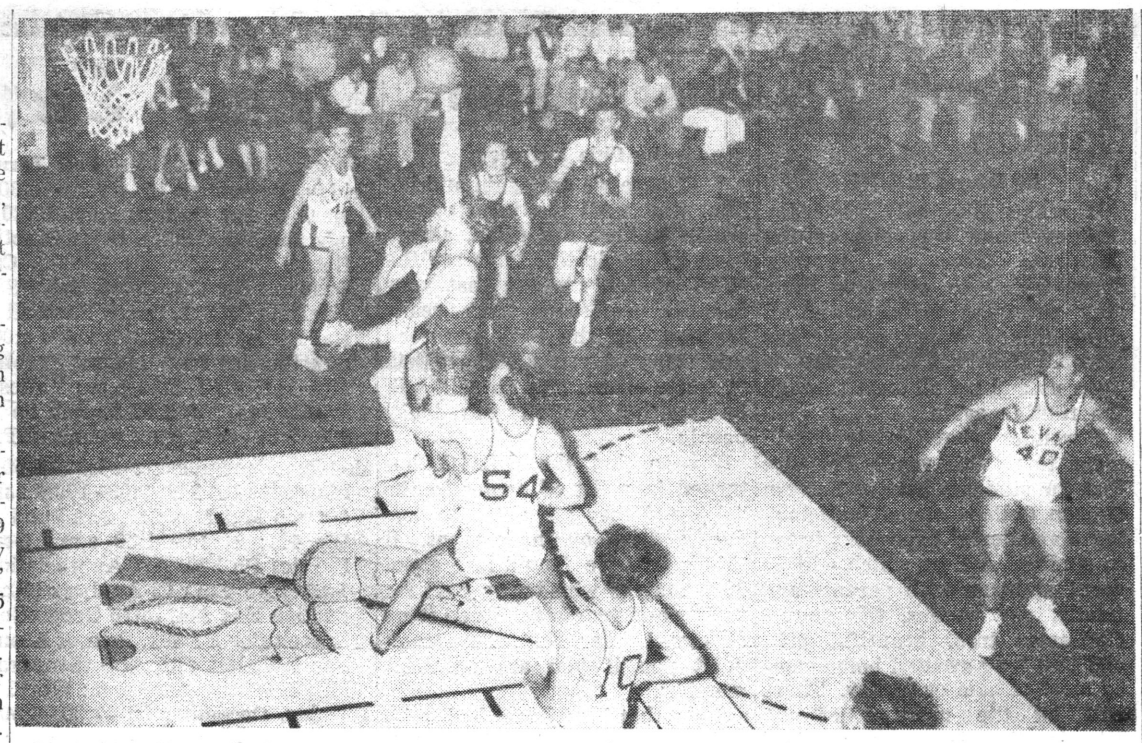
Speaking of babies makes me think of toys and thinking of toys makes me think of Diana Gilstrap. I though she had grown up enough that she wouldn't be haunting the toy departments this year, but I guess I was wrong. If you don't believe it, you just go Christmas-shopping in a certain store basement and see who is selling toys.

Well, Ag, you know how busy everyone is this week, and I'm just like all the rest. What Vern Bean refers to as "sins of omission" have really caught up with me. I swear I'll never leave my term projects until the last of the term again.

Merry Christmas to you and to everyone that reads the Beacon from—

Cousin Ettie

EOC Hoopsters Post 4-1 Record



The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers have won four of their first five games. The Mounties have defeated Whitman 95-80; 78-72, University of Nevada 87-81, 86-81. Their only defeat came at the hands of North West Nazarene by a score of 73-52.

In the first game against Whitman Ted Schadewitz took scoring honors with 26 counters. Coach Bob Quinn cleared the bench trying to find a starting team.

The second game of the season proved to be disasterous for the Mounties. Northwest Nazarene, led by Mickey Dean's 19 points, racked the Hilltoppers by a 73-5 margin. Ted "the schadow" Schadewitz led the losers with 15 points. Ted missed his 36th consecutive free-throw in this game.

The Mountaineers took their second win from the Whitman Missionaries by a score of 78-72. This seemed to be a mixed up night for the usually high-scoring Mounties. Bob Becker of Whitman and John Reinking took scoring honors wtih 20 points apiece. Gary Burton, EOC guard, did a fine job, scoring 16 points and feeding Reinking.

In winning the third and fourth tilts, Eastern was faced with a rough, sharp-shooting, high-spirited quint from the University of Nevada. The boy's from Reno lost both games but gave the Eastern Oregon supporters something to remember. Several times during the Nevada series fists were doubled and elbows were drawn.

off the bench

Larry Pryse's Ione five did a fine job of humiliating a scrub Eastern Oregon College Freshman squad. Larry, all-conference forward, graduated from EOC last year and has done a fine job with his new coaching duties.

It seems that Carrol Cable, transfer from Linfield, won't be with the Mountaineer squad because of his ineligibility due to his transfer.

Intramurals will begin next term and there are going to be some mighty fine teams come from the EOC campus.

The spirit at the EOC basketball games has been superb. Let's keep up the good work.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor seems to have the same inspiration in basketball as he had during football season. His frosh team has lost only one game this season.

Nazarene Next For Mounties

Ted Schadewitz, Eastern Oregon's flashy guard, has totaled 95 points in five games for a 19 point game average.

As a team the Mountaineers have scored 398 points to their opponents 387 points for a 79.6 offensive average and a 77.4 defensive standing.

Eastern's next game will be against Northwest Nazarene College of Nampa, Idaho, in preliminary to the Globe Trotter-House of David game, December 20.

Standout stars for the Nazarene hoopsters are Jay and Mickey Dean. The Dean brothers led thei rteammates to a 73-52 win over the Mounties earlier this season.

Brown Leads Frosh 3-1 Record Noted

The Eastern Oregon College Freshmen have played four games and have won three of these four tilts. The frosh, coached by Archie Dunsmoor, split with the Whitman junior varsity, and won games against the Hermiston and Elgin high school squads.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

The EOC band is sending out a special invitation to all of the musicians in the school. Players are badly needed in all sections. They meet at 4 on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday.

I doubt that very many of you knew that we had such a talented faculty until you saw them in their assembly. You probably will never get another chance to see Prof. Edwinus Licensius McMuntifarious in action again. From now on he will be again known as Mr. McMullen. Our Scotch bagpipe player, Bobbie Grrroth, has also disappeared from the scene. In his place is Mr. C. Robert Groth, violinist, and anxious teacher of jazz in his music appreciation classes.

The Blue and Gold Singers and Male Quartet have been busy making Christmas appearances lately.

Mr. Groth, Mr. Howard Anderson, Blue and Gold, and a flute trio by Dr. Bishop, Barbara Carter, and Mr. Don Scott were on the program for the YWEA Christmas party at the Methodist Church.

One Man's Opinion

by Duane E. Stiff

It seems like only yesterday that everyone was out cutting Christmas trees and running about trying to complete shopping, wrapping packages and all those things which are of the season. However, Christmas is upon us and we all start through the routine again.

I wonder what Christmas will mean to us this year? I'm sure that the students here at Eastern Oregon College are all anticipating a wonderful two-weeks break in studies. A time which will be spent at home with parents and family, gay parties, the annual Christmas tree, beautiful gifts and that long awaited home cooked meal of ham or turkey. There will be the meeting of old friends, the discusson on how good or bad this past term at school turned out, and those many other activities which are jammed into every vacation. These things are all good and warranted, but lets look at Christmas from another view.

Today we Americans take Christmas too much for granted. It has become a day which is so highly commercialized that its true meaning has largely become lost. When the word Christmas is mentioned one generally thinks of the gifts he may receive. The emphasis is not on what Christmas actually means but the gift and its value. No longer is it a special day of worship in honor of the birth of Jesus Christ, the taking of communion, or fasting, but quite the opposite, in my opinion. Perhaps I'm guilty of overemphasis but I don't think so. I think it would be good for us all to reread the Christmas story, with some added thought to its value, before this next Christmas.

I would like to leave you with one thought to think about this vacation time: "What can I do to help put Christ back into Christmas?"

Hunt Hokum

Well here we are again and it's final time. All the term papers are in and we can relax, all we have left to do this term are the short written reviews that your friendly professors have ready for you. By the time you read this some of you will have had it, while others like me will still be waiting for it, you lucky people.

I hear that the O.L.C.C. has turned in a list of names to the AAA and they are about to conduct a drive on the campus. If this is true we should lose about 20 teenagers who try to pass for twenty-one year olds. Keep it up fellows I hear that they won't draft you if you are an AAA member.

I see that Don Swart had quite a little comment on his letter to the editor. In my opinion Don hit the nail on the head. I would like to add a thought or two of my own on the subject. I don't think this lack of spirit and interest is entirely the fault of the students. There are not enough enjoyable social activities on this campus to keep the interest centered here. We have a few very fine campus dances every term but that's about all. The clubs on campus have their functions but that leaves out about 75% of the students. There must be something more that the students can do. It seems to me that there is no reason that a juke box can't be put in the large room in Hoke and have it open to the students three or four nights a week. I understand that Hoke belongs to the students so why can't we use it. Hunt also has posibilities in this respect. I think that the profit from such a venture should go into a recreation fund for bigger and better things. Sure we come here to study and most of us do but I think that hte social phase is just as important as anything that you can learn from books. The sooner we students get behind a move to increase our social and recreational activities the better off we will be.

I would like to leave you with a little story but I have been censored. Till I can revamp the ones I know I'll just wish you all a pleasant vacation and a Merry Christmas.

Club News

By Diana Gilstrap

The Ski Club has begun its new season, with Ron Foster as the President. Classes will be held on Saturdays at Spout Springs, during the Winter term. Miss Neely will advise the class with Dave Clark as the instructor. Any students interested in skiing may register for this course.

The FTA held a Christmas party for the kindergarten classes, last Tuesday. Jim Dale played the role of Santa Claus. The morning section was headed by Clara Weigel and in the afternoon Evelyn Huston. The children had a great deal of fun.

,A pre-nursing group, consisting of those students who are enrolled in nursing is the latest group to be organized on campus. Students leaders of the organization are Mary Steele, Huntington: president; Margaret Bates, Nyssa: vice president; and Molly Yoneyama, Nyssa: secretary. A constitution for the club was drawn up by Marilyn Masterson to be submitted for approval to the student council.

Since its formulation the group of 15 members have had seevral organizing meetings. Miss Slocum of the University of Oregon Medical School in Portland, spoke to the girls at their November 7th meeting about the nursing programs there.

The La Grande Nurses' Association has invited the girls to a Christmas party on Wednesday, December 14th. Mrs. Margaret Robertson is the advisor of the club.

"Human Behavior: Its Implications for Education" was the topic of the 15-minute F.T.A. program which was sponsored over station KLBM as a public service last Tuesday evening (the 6th). Patsy Yoneyama, Nyssa, moderated the discussion among the three member panel which included Carol Kopp, Kent, and Lorraine Tarpenning, Milton Freewater.

The discussion was based on an article in the October issue of N.E.A. Journal. The subject infringed upon the fact the behavioral sciences in reeent years has brought forth the importance of a student's individuality. The nature of his whole academic and social life hinges on whether he is recognized and treated as an individual by his teachers and fellow-students.

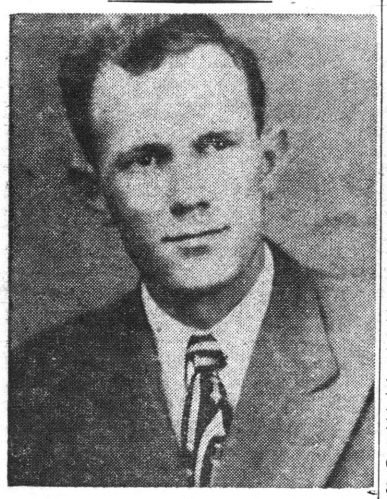
Band Plans First Trip



By E. Thornburg

Mr. Robert Groth, the director of the EOC band announces that he is taking his musicians to Portland on January 27. They are accompanying the basketball team, and will play Friday and Saturday evenings when EOC's quintet meets Portland State in the Lincoln High School gymnasium.

Two concert stops are planned on the way down, one is to be in Echo, and the other is not decided as yet.

Three solo numbers are to be offered during this trip—a baton solo by Carol Wigglesworth, who hails from Echo, a dance number by Jacquie Shaw of La Grande, and a piano solo by Gail Coffin, who fortunately for us is back on our campus again this term. Gail is an Enterprise girl.

This is the first trip out of town for the band this year. Mr. Groth is quite proud of his group, and is sure they will make a good showing for themselves.

Mr. Richard (Bud) Williams of the La Grande high school staff teaches art part-time at EOC this year. Mr. Williams has an M.A. degree from Colorado State college, Greeley.

Winter Enrollment At Eastern Oregon Tops 1955 Figure

—Winter term enrollment at Eastern Oregon college is up 19.7 per cent over 1955's winter term enrollment, Registrar Lyle Johnson said today. The statistics are as of the third day of winter term registration and are incomplete in that respect.

Last year EOC had 452 students enrolled for winter term — this year 541 students are on the books at EOC. There are 324 men enrolled (an increase of 33.3 per cent) and 217 women (an increase of 3.8 per cent).

Class statistical breakdown is as follows: freshmen 209 (an increase of 15.5 per cent), sophomores 147 (an increase of 21.5 per cent), juniors 94 (an increase of 11.9 per cent), seniors 81 (an increase of 72.3 per cent).

Graduate and special students number ten for the winter term.

Students enrolled in elementary education number 235, indicating an 11.9 per cent increase; secondary education majors show a 4.7 per cent increase, with an enrollment of 312.

EOC Receives $870 In Gifts

The Oregon State board of higher education has announced that Eastern Oregon college has been granted $870 for scholarships from three sources.

The La Grande Elks Club gave $600; the Elgin PTA $150, and the McMinnville City council, $120.

The gifts were a part of $248,239.73, accepted by the board at its regular meeting today.

Interfaith Picks Team

by Pat Yoneyama

Interfaith time is approaching E.O.C. and again this year, as in other years, Dr. Bolen has arranged to have distinguished men and women in theological circles visit the campus here. The Religion in Life conference, which is annually sponsored by the E.O.C. Interfaith Fellowship, will be featured during February 21, 22, and 23.

This year's team included Mrs. Wilma Perry, dean of women, Pacific Bible College, Portland; Mr. Boyd K. Packer who is the seminary supervisor for the Latter Day Saints church, Brigham Young University; Dr. Richard M. Steiner who is pastor of the First Unitarian Church in Portland; and Rabbi Julius Nodle of the Temple Beth Israel in Portland.

Father Archibald McDowell, professor of religion and philosophy on the staff of Portland University, is returning for the conference. He was a member of a previous team.

Dr. Bolen, advisor to Interfaith Fellowship, stated that the only remaining team member still to be selected is the representative of the Danforth foundation. He added that that person will be selected very soon.

Presumably, this year's team will engage in the traditional program that previous such conferences have followed on the campus. These activities include an assembly during which the team is introduced before the student body and in which they speak, visiting individual classes, becoming acquainted with students and faculty during the reception which is yearly held in Dorion Hall lounge, and appearing before various civic organizations in town.

Co-chairmen in charge of the Interfaith banquet which will be held in Hoke Hall Wednesday, the 22nd, are Jean Adamson and Evelyn Riggan, both of Baker.

Party Slated By EOC Journalists

Staffmembers of the Beacon and Mountaineer and students who have contributed two years in succession to the Middle R. will gather at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Clarke for the first official meeting of Iota Phi Omicron, new journalistic Honorary. Some of the people will be pledge members and others will receive the title of "full members."

After a brief meeting, which will begin next Tuesday evening at eight, a party will be held and the official club picture for the college yearbook will be taken. All interested persons are urged to attend. Those needing transportation to the Clarke home should contact Mr. Bayes or Beacon editor Agnes Thornburgh and Mountaineer editor Don Swart, according to Duane Lendsay, chairman of the group.

Advisor to the Greek-letter group is Ronald Bayes .

Duane Lindsay has served as chief organizer of the group, heading a constitution committee throughout fall term. Lindsay is ex-Beacon editor.

Two frequent winners in Whiskerino competition are at it again — in white shirt is ex-Beacon editor Duane Lindsay, next to him is Don Scharn, ASB veep.

Kaiser Named As Chairman

Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, professor of English, speech, and dramatics, and head of Eastern Oregon College's English department, has been named chairman of the American Educational Theater Association's national teacher training project.

Professor Kaiser will soon name a national committee to work with him on the AETA's project.

The Eastern Oregon College educator was named to his new post by the recent national conference of AETA, held in Los Angeles, Calif.

Dr. Kaiser has served as AETA's committee on the teacher training project for the past three years.

EOC Alumnus Travels To Spain For Wedding Date

-- Miss Gladys Mink, formerly of Cove and a one-time student at Eastern Oregon college, visited friends on campus this week.

She will leave soon for Spain, where she will join her fiance, Daniel Branzich of Los Gatos, Calif. They will be married upon Miss Mink's arrival.

Branzich is a civilian employe of a private construction company in Spain.

Miss Mink, who attended Eastern Oregon college from 1948 through 1950, was in the business curriculum at the college. Since leaving Cove, she has made her home in Portland.

Until recently, Miss Mink worked for the Special Investigations department of the United States Air Force, in Casablanca, Morocco. She was in that city at the time of recent riots between the French and natives.

After their wedding the Branzich's will make their home in Madrid.

Whiskerino Approaches

From the appearance of some of the males on campus it looks like the annual beard growing contest is well under way. Perhaps some of you should have started a bit earlier, as the date of the big "Whiskerino Dance" is fast approaching. According to the Lettermen, who annually sponsor this event, it will be held in Hoke Hall Friday, February third.

At this traditional Winter term dance, all males attending must be wearing some sort of facial growth or pay a fine as admission. So it might be well for those who have so far neglected to do so to throw away those razors for a while.

Some of the prizes the Lettermen have for this year's contest are really the last word. Some of these will be given for the "longest," "blackest," 'reddest," "scroungiest," and "shortest" beards. So, you see, almost anyone can get a prize.

A word of warning to you girls. "Go easy on the shaggy dog stories" during this trying period. I hear this business of beard growing is a very serious one.

Miller, Mercer, Weigel, Swanson Given Leads

By Virginia Pyatt

Roberta Miller of La Grande, a junior at Eastern Oregon college, has been awarded the lead part in the winter term play, "The Heiress," Richard Hiatt, drama director, said today. Miss Miller, well known to EOC theater-goers, will play the part of Catherine Sloper, the heiress, in Sock and Buskin Players' second production of the year. Presentation is scheduled for Februray 23, 24 and 25.

"The Heiress," a two-act period play written by Ruth and Augusta Goetz, was suggested by the Henry James' novel, "Washington Square." Action takes place in Doctor Sloper's sedate, elegant home in Washington Square in the year 1850. It was the long-gone day of horse-drawn carriages, long skirts, and kerosene lamps.

What happens to a homely, painfully-shy young woman, the beneficiary of a large inheritance, when she suddenly falls in love? Is she loved for herself, or for her money? "The Heiress" presents such a conflict.

Tom Mercer, a freshman from Echo has been cast as Dr. Austin Sloper, autocratic, refined father of the heroine. Clara Weigel, junior from La Grande, will play the part of Lavinnia Penniman, an aunt. Leonard Swanson, freshman from Umatilla, has been cast as the suitor.

Others in the cast include Lorraine Frank, freshman from Pendleton, as Elizabeth Almond; Janet York, sophomore from Milton-Freewater, as Marian Almond; Jim Dale, junior from Newburg, as Arthur Townsend; Patsy Evans, freshman from La Grande, as Mrs. Montgomery; and Maxine Hiatt, freshman from Vale, as Maria.

Do It Yourself Versus 'Let George'

As far as can be seen most of us are willing to sit by and let George do it. He has been questioning the reliability of teacher-made statements; airing his recommendations and sometimes making decisions for us.

Who is George? George is the other guy.

When the smoke has cleared and things are running smoothly, George steps back and we respond with, "We did a fine job."

Oh, but when George is nailed to the cross, as is often the case, we rush to his rescue like rats to a sinking ship.

A recent George — George Swart, in a note to the paper challenged the entire student body to put their gripes into action seeing their gripes displayed for all to see and fearing ostracism from the masses, denunciation of George rang loud and clear.

George Hartgraves is prone to disagree with instructor and student alike. If, in his opinion a matter is debatable or is opposed to his belief he has no compunctions about saying so. He also clears the house of cohorts.

There are other Georges on campus who are equally invaluable to the prolonged life of a democratic school. Over a cup of coffee you give a fine account of yourself. You are truly an oratorical genius. But when the time comes to lock horn with the ol' bull of the woods — If George doesn't do it, it doesn't get done. If he manages to shake the ol' goat loose from his perch you shake his hand—after you are out of sight of the bull, of course. As one might say, "You better get on the ball and start it rolling for yourself, George may not always be around."

Now you, while you are in the process of learning many things, might be wise to learn the importance of speaking your mind. Let us suppose you are unhappy with the way the student government is being run. If you are, let me known about it. Does the college paper suit you? It will never be better until you show us how it should be done. Is your instructor all wet? — I recommend a tempered approach here.

Incidentally, George doesn't gripe, he deals in ideas, frank opinions, and probabilities. He does not pussy-foot across the bridges he must cross nor does he jump them. Collectively, of course, we can make ourselves heard — I don't mean collectively producing social enmities by "booing" at ball games.

An integrated body of individuals contributing, what they believed to be in the best interest of all, founded this nation. It has since proven to be a respectable bit of real estate. George, I understand, was in on some of that. It is nice, I can assure you to sit back and let them (whoever them are) do the work. However, complacency is the chair of widom and a hot seat for those who attempt to sit there at an early age. Therefore, before you get your pockets scorched, you better get off of them.

Hunt Hokum

by Side Delivery

Welcome back to Hunt all you sheepherders, and all you new fellows also. If you think the men in this humble abode are a bunch of scrounges—just sleep in late and join us, for this is the time of year we men relax and let our beards brow.

I understand the girls in Dorion dont appreciate the whiskers very much—relax girls—they tell me that when they get long they start to get soft. If you only knew how much trouble it is to shave, so you wouldn't get your pretty face burned and scratched you wouldn't gripe about letting them grow for a month.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

Phyllis Snider, Clara Weigel and Dee Bolen have had to drop choir this term so they can take Child Lit. These three seniors have been in choir ever since they entered EOC. Choir members who are no longer enrolled in school include Marcia Belshaw, Marcia Wilson and Joyce Johnson. There are ten new members in the EOC choir this term, and one new member, Shirley Best, in Blue and Gold.

The Roman Sisters, a Duo-Piano act, will appear in La Grande on January 23 for the Civic Music Concert. Student body cards will admit all EOC students.

Dr. Bishop, Mr. McMullen, Mr. Howard Anderson, Miss Scott, and Mr. Groth entertained the Kiwanis Club this week. They say the numbers presented were of a serious nature, and not like the numbers they presented to the student body not long ago. Their program included both solos and ensembles.

The EOC band is going to Portland for the EOC-Portland State basketball games at the end of January. They are working hard to prepare concert music for their concerts in Echo and WyEast on the way to Portland. Any musicians in the school are more than welcome.

The quartet started out the new year the same way they ended the last one—by singing. Last week they made their first public appearance of 1956 when they sang for the Union PTA.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie - - -

Well, here we are back in school again after the holidays.

Have you noticed how many new kids there are on the campus this term? I certainly saw a lot of them I didn't know in the registration line Tuesday. There are some of the old ones back too, remember Cary Elwood that used to go out with Janie Vickers? I saw him the other day; he told me he and Janie are being married this summer. I'll bet you were glad to see your old roommate Ces back again; she is Mrs. Jack Carroll now, isn't she?

Speaking of people getting married, there was quite a flock of weddings during the holidays, I hear. I saw Ronnie and Doris Bridges (you know she used to be Doris Fox) in town the other day, and Ronnie seemed quite surprised at the amount of money he had to pay for groceries. Have you noticed how lonely Norm Records looks? That's because he and Holly Isaac were married the day before Christmas and Holly has to stay in Milton and teach school while Norm goes to college over here. Maybe Holly can get a school nearer EOC next year. I hope so. And, my gosh, Aggie, I was surely surprised when I heard Doc Savage and Marilyn Brooks were married, too. I guess they are living down in the courts. I sure hope these couples all have the best kind of luck because I think they are really swell kids.

You know, Aggie, I think its the funniest thing, but I've noticed how often after kids get married and settle down they start getting better grades right away. Did you notice that Jeff Ford made the honor roll this term? I just know he never could have made grades like that if he and Helen hadn't got married last fall.

Golly, this really sounds like the gossip column this time, doesn't it? If you think its too newsy you don't need to put it in the paper.

There is just one more thing I want to tell you. Remember that Side Delivery guy from Hunt that was worrying about trying to have some dances in Hoke or Hunt so the students would have a little more social life. I just wonder if he ever attended a dance in Hunt and saw how disgusting it is for girls who don't have regular dates to sit and wait for the guys to ask them to dance. You know, Aggie, all this doesn't make any difference to me because I go steady with a guy in my home town, but I sure get burned up at the fellows who stand over in one end of the hall and never ask girls to dance. If Side Delivery can figure out some way to get the fellows out on the floor he might work out a deal on the kind of dances he suggested.

I must close — I've got lots of work to do.

Love,
Cousin Ettie

The Rambler

By S. Simon

This term quite a few of the kids that were living downtown in apartments moved up to Hunt Hall. Being curious as to what it was like living out on your own, unprotected by the guiding hand of Jack Chapman, I interviewed some of them.

To my utter amazement the one thing that they all agreed upon was that the meals they cooked were better than the meals at the dorm. Naturally I found this rather hard to believe, but since there is no way to prove otherwise I guess Ill have to take their word for it. Another thing that most of them liked about living out was that it wa sa lot cheaper, each of them saving between fifteen and twenty dollars a month.

After hearing how good it was living out on your own I asked them why they had moved up to Hunt Hall this term. The answers to this question were varied. One of the boys said that he got tired of washing the dishes, another said that his roommates were lousey cooks, and still another said that he moved up to Hunt Hall to get the true atmosphere of college life.

When I asked them what they thought of dorm life now that they are living here, they were somewhat confused. Most of them said they liked the dorm because it gave them a chance to meet more of the students. But some of their gripes were that the rooms ar too crowded and that they can't get used to Hunt Hall's 3 A.M. to 6 A.M. quiet hours.

Dorion Doings

By Mary Joan Russell

Well, here we are back in the same routine as last term. Everyone has changed their schedule at least once, except for a few who always have the darnest luck getting things right the first time. I'm sure that the college was happy to see your New Year's greeting to them.

In Dorion, the suitcases are all unpacked and have been dumped in the storage room. Though a few vacancies were left they have been filled and we are glad to welcome these newcomers to our ivy covered hall. For our adjoining Hunt Hall residents here are a few vital statistics in the form of where, what and when. Diana Gilstrap, a Junior from La Grande, has decided to find out about this "dorm life" everyone is talking about. Janet Arteburn and Mary Lou Sweiger are Sophomores from Baker and joining them are Fleur Robinson, a Freshman from Hermiston and Virginia Temple, in her Sophomore year, from Pendleton. Entering also as Sophomores are Mary Galligan from North Powder and Angeline Manoi from Hawaii. For a colorful sidelight about Angie I think most of you would be interested to know that she was runner-up for the Hawaiian Queen title in the 1955 Ka Palapala Queens at the University of Hawaii. Also, we have two Juniors, June Whitton from Joseph and Gail Coffin from Enterprise, whom we are happy to have back with us.

Some of the girls have left us this term for a different sort of occupation. Marsha Belshaw will be married in the near future and Marilyn Brooke and "Doc" Savage crossed the marriage bridge during the season's holidays. Marcia Wilson is preparing for an exciting journey to Alaska where she will join her folks.

This seems to be all for now. It doesn't look like there's been timef or people to get into too much mischief yet.

One Man's Opinion

by Duane E. Stiff

One of the first things that attracted my attention on returning to campus foliowing the Christmas vacation was the presence of a great number of 5 o'clock shadows. At first I thought it was due to a prolonged New Years celebration but soon realized that the time had arrived for that annual contest of beard growing.

I must confess that I am compelled to view this contest from the sidelines, mainly because I wouldn't stand a chance anyway. But even from the sidelines it is very interesting to watch. I've come to the conclusion that beard growing is a fine art, and even at this early date one can see many a fine beard in progress.

It appears to me that everyone starts their beard basically the same. This being a mat of whiskers covering the face and neck for approximately the first five or six days. On the sixth dayI noticed some of the heavier beards were starting to be trimmed and the various shapes and designs began to appear. It is at this point that I believe we must admit these individuals to a class of artists all their own. It is my opinion that the artistry lies in the trimming, since one little slip of the razor can sink the best laid plans.

The part that troubles me in this contest is the lack of faculty competition. Surely there must be some beard and goatee lovers outside the English department?

Mountaineers Take Raiders To Camp

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers downed the Southern Oregon College Red Raiders in the first of their two game series here last night by a score of 86 to 76.

The game was a thriller all the way with both teams fighting hard. Fouls were the order of the play. Every Mountaineer starter except Ted Schadewitz fouled out before the contest was over. Two of the Red Raider starters went out of the game via the foul route, and two more had four personals chalked up during the fray.

Schadewitz made seven successive field goals during the last part of the first half and went on to total 29 points, 24 from the floor and five from the free throw line. Lowell Kolbaba made 18 from the floor and nine free throws for 27 counters.

Bill Hollingsworth also made 29 points, 18 by field goals, and 11 free throws to lead the SOCE scoring. Lloyd Hoffine tallied 22 for second spot for his team.

Defensively, both squads were at their best and many a shot was deflected from the baskets.

Halftime score was EOC 47, SOCE 38. About the same margin carried on through the rest of the contest.

Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers won their second conference start Saturday night by defeating Southern Oregon College by a score of 95 to 90. The game was a hard fought affair from start to finish, with SOCE taking the lead by a narrow margin at the beginning and holding it until Ted Schadewitz dropped a field goal with 9:46 left in the first half, to put the Mounties ahead for keeps 22-21.

John Reinking was high scorer for the hilltoppers, with 27 points, followed by Kolbaba and Schadewitz, each with 24.

Lloyd Hoffine, and Bill Hollingsworth, starred for the Red Raiders. Hoffine sacked 32 points, despite constant close guarding by Ken Westenskow, and Bill West, Hollingsworth made 23 tallies during the contest.

Defensive work by both clubs was as fine as we've seen this year, and Reinking, Kolbaba, and Schadewitz showed real ability, at the backboards.

Ted Schadewitz—third year on the varsity and holder of numerous accolades for his outstanding play for the Mountaineers. Ted was fifth highest scorer in the northwest as a sophomore with a total of 546 points in 25 games for a 21.8 points per game average, collecting 40.8% of his shots during the season. Then, as a junior he took fourth place in the collegiate scoring race in the northwest with 601 points in 27 contests, hitting 40.6% of his attempts from the floor.

Ted played high school ball at San Andreas, California and had one year of junior college competition at Napa, California Junior College before transferring to Eastern Oregon.

Ted holds several school records, including the individual game scoring total of 51 points which he set at Walla Walla, Washington last year against Whitman College. One of his best marks is at the free throw line where he recorded a successful average of 84.5% of his shots during the season. He wound up the season with a string of 30 consecutive gift tosses made which gave him the title in that department.

Schadewitz finished his junior campaign with rankings of sixth in the nation in free throwing and 25th in total offense, according to final reports of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. He was also third in the OCC scoring race with a total of 297 points and was named to the all-star aggregation for the second year in a row. Ted gathered in 127 rebounds last year, ranking fourth on the EOC squad in that department. A good competitor.

Good Returns From Bowl Game

Frank Good, Eastern Oregon's versatile athlete, took part in the first annual Senoir Christian Bowl. This game was held December 25, 1955 at Jones Field in Murfresboro, Tenn. An All-Star team from the East and one from the West participated in this infant grid classic.

The Senior Christian Bowl was sponsored by the Christian Athletes' Foundation Inc., and was directed by Rev. C. E. (Stoney) Jackson. The profit from this worthwhile tilt was donated to the crippled children's fund. The game was played under the theme "Famous football players do battle that the forgotten boy may know someone cares.'

Frank played in all four of the quarters, three on offense and four on defense. The double-wing system was used so Frank, being one of the fastest men on the squad, played wingback and defensive halfback. The Eastern squad won the game 21 to 10.

Frank stated that he had a swell time. He received a red jacket with a white cross on the chest, was taken to the Grand Ol' Opery, and lunched at several clubs and restaurants, which provided entertainment for the team members.

Frank, being from Eastern Oregon College, represented the smallest school at the game.

Owls Will Show Fast Squad This Weekend

Six foot nine inch Charlie Bogle, 6'2" Jerry Fasteen, and 6'2" John Foster will be the mainstays for the Oregon Tech Owls when they take the floor against the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers here tonight and tomorrow night.

According to word received, Bogle was a 'one man team' in their conference starter against Portland State last weekend, scoring 25 points, with Fasteen dropping in 15 during the fray.

Coach Wally Palmberg is fielding a comparatively green team that will put up a real fight in an attempt to upset the slightly favored Mountaineers.

While OTI has only two returning lettermen, most of the others were high school or J-V stars, who have accounted well in preseason games.

John McCutcheon has started in one of the guard slots, hails from Willamette High School, and is one of the Owls' lettermen.

The other guard position will likely be filled by Ted Fisher, who 'has been coming on strong.'

One of the most active clubs on campus this term is the Ski Club. The ski classes are to be held on Saturdays at Spout Spring, but yiu may see people going skiing most anytime of the week. The snow is good and there is a good turnout of new and old skiers this year.

WRA is holding basketball practices and games on Tuesday nights this term for any girls that wish to play. They are hoping that there will be a town girls team as well as the dorm girls. WRA meetings are held the first Monday of every month at 12:30 in Dorion Lounge.

A meeting of the FTA was held on Jan. 4th. A movie was shown on practice teaching. Discussions were held about conventions that will be held this term. FTA is growing every day and we hope that if you have not joined or paid your due you will do so soon.

Dr. W. Douglas Spear of the college social science department provided the program of the day, speaking on "European Colleges and Universities." Dr. Spear visited several European campuses on a recent tour.

Dr. Charles Quaintance spoke briefly, giving the background of recent state AAUP activities.

Besides the chairman, 1956 AAUP officers included Hugh K. Russell, vice president, and Miss Leona Golz, secretary-treasurer.

EOC Buildings In New Request

In a statement made before the State Board of Higher Education recently, Dr. John R. Richards, Chancellor, said previous estimates of requests for building funds for state colleges would have to be increased.

Eastern Oregon College's portion in the asking would amount to $1,400,500 in the request for and additional $9.5 million by 1959. Included are men's physical education plant, $575,000; classroom building, $460,000; central heating plant, $204,250, and the partial cost of a dormitory at $161,250.

Dr. Richards said the requests would be larger for two reasons, "The first is the larger than estimated increases in our enrollments and the other is the enforced delay in our dormitory building program stemming from budget cuts of the last legislature."

The total appropriation indicated is for $13,576,500 of which $1,666,000 would be for one-half the cost of one new dormitory in each of four institutions.

In his statement, Richards said, "The institutional executives and the board's officials are now beginning extensive studies which will result in detailed construction plans for 1957 through 1963.

The legislature will not meet until Jan. 1957. In the 1955 session the legislature granted about $4 million of the $13,465,000 requested.

Richards said, "Modesty continues to mark our aspirations for dormitories. We aspire to none for Portland State College and plan to house substantially less than half the students on the other campuses. We must face the fact that the cities in which our colleges are located, except, Portland, are rapidly becoming saturated in respect to their capability for providing rooms in houses and student apartments."

EOC's President, Dr. Frank Bennett, attended the meeting at Salem.

Eastern Oregon Administrators Travel To Corvallis For Talks

Administrators from Eastern Oregon college are scheduled to be on the road a good deal this month.

President Frank B. Bennett drove to Ontario Wednesday. He addressed a dinner-meeting of the Malheur county OEA. Last night, he continued on to Corvallis with Dormitory Director Eva P. Miller. In Corvallis the two administrators were to attend the inter-institutional dormitory committee's meeting.

President Bennett will also attend a meeting of the State System's inter-institutional committee on fees, returning to La Grande Friday morning.

Business matters will again call President Bennett to Western Oregon on Sunday. He will spend Monday and Tuesday on business, attending a meeting of the state's retirement board, and return to the campus Wednesday.

Registrar Lyle H. Johnson also took to the road yesterday for Corvallis. Dr. Johnson will attend a meeting on out-of-state tuition at the Oregon State college campus.

On Friday, Dr. Johnson is slated to attend the Elks winter conference in Corvallis. At the meeting of Elks, which will extend through Saturday, Dr. Johnson, who is state chairman of the BPOE's scholarship program, will deliver a report on the scholarship situation in Oregon schools.

Monday, Dr. Johnson will visit the campus of Portland State college, and Tuesday he will attend a meeting on teacher accreditation, with other state and private college registrars. The Tuesday meeting is with the state department of education in Salem.

En route home, Wednesday, Dr. Johnson will address Pendleton high seniors.

College Faculty Group Entertains Kiwanis Meeting

Members of the faculty of Eastern Oregon college entertained the La Grande Kiwanis club at their regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Group selections were offered by Jeanne Scott, Bob Groth, Dr. J. Lynn Bishop and Lyle McMullen. Other numbers were: a violin solo by Groth; two vocal numbers by Howard Anderson; flute solo by Dr. Bishop, and a vocal number by Miss Scott. Charles Pierce, also of the college faculty, was a guest.

Spitting Contest Competition On

COMMERCE, Texas (ACP) — Theer are all kinds and shapes of athletic contests, but it looks as if the East Texas State Teachers College has come up with one to top the mall. They've got a junior down there named John Chapel, who for two consecutive years has won tobacco spitting ocntests.

John won the contest two years ago by expelling a stream of juice 23 feet. A year later he defended his title with a spat of 21 feet, 3 inches. The loss of distance the second time was due to a strong wind.

Now he's going after the title for the third year in a row. This is the osrt of thing the American Tobacco company might get hold of and really exploit.

WHAT PRICE PARKING

LOS ANGELES Calif. (ACP)— Proof of just how valuable campus parking space is was shown clearly at Los Angeles City College. As first prize in a cleanup slogan contest, the Dean of Student personnel gave up his reserved parking space to the winner for the entire semester.

Ron Bayes Named Host For Meeting

- Neal Hines, general chairman of the 1956 convention of the American College Public Relations association for the Pacific Northwest region, has appointed Ronald Bayes, EOC information director, ACPRA host for the annual joint banquet of ACPRA and the American Alumni Council.

The convention of ACPRA and the AAC conventions as well will be held at the University of Washington the last weekend in January.

Main speaker at the meeting will be national ACPRA president Bradford Ansley. The district ACPRA embraces Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and southwest Canada.

President Chides Council Members

Of special interest to all Student Council members. There has not been adequate attendance at the recent Council meetings. If the situation is not remedied the following clause from the ASB constitution will be inforced:

"Any member of the Student Council missing two consecutive meetings without a legitimate excuse satisfactory to the President shall be considered ineligible to continue in his position, and shall be so notified by the Secretary."

Too Much Rah-Rah In College Living?

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (ACP) — The overemphasis sometimes placed on the "rah, rah" side of collegiate life drew this sarcastic bit of writing from Sam Chapman, columnist for West Virginia University's Daily Athenaeum:

What do most people go to college for in the first place? Four years of "college life" of couse, and the old "rah, rah, rah!" Some students want to learn a little something on the side, but this is only secondary. With this in mind, it seems quite logical that observance of freshman rules shoudl play a large part in participation in ohnoraries. Someone who misses pep rallies for such a silly reason as studying for an exam, someone who neglects to wear a beanie, or someone who doesnt happen to like football, shoudl by all means be excluded from honoraries. We should honor those who can quote the "Alma Mater" and "We Want a Touchdown", to enthusiastic perfection.

It is time for the old fogies to realize that this is not an age of books and learning. This is the age of mass production sports and enforced freshman rules.

Pianists Applauded

By Virginia Pyatt

The Roman sisters, talented young French duo-pianists, thoroughly captivated La Grande music lovers with their concert last Monday evening in the Latter Day Saints' church. This was the second presentation of the Civic Music Association's 1955-1956 season.

Seated at two grand pianos (one loaned through the courtesy of EOC), Josette (in blue) and Yvette (in white) delighted the appreciative audience with their unusual technical abilities and sensitive interpretations. The execution of difficult runs in thirds and sixths amazed EOC's own accomplished pianist, Gail Coffin.

The program was arranged historically, showing the developmental influences from the seventeenth century up to, and including the present. Introduced by baroque music, as expressed in the "Sonatas" in D minor and F major, by Pasquini, the first part of the program ended in the classical vein of von Weber's "Grande Sonate, Opus 48," a favorite with the audience.

The second part featured the romantic melodie of Chopin and Camille Saint-Saens. The works of modern composers included Eugene Hemmer's "Introduction and Dance" which Josette naively described as "Hill-billy;" Reynaldo Hahn's "Caprice Melancolique"; and Manuel Infante's "Three Andalousian Dances." A substitution in the program offered the popular "tour de force" arranged by Liszt for piano of "Capanella," or "Little Bells" as is familiarly called.

Encores included a samba rhythm by Darius Milahuo, "Gaite Parisienne" by Offenbach, and "Danse de Feu" by de Falla.

Since making their New York debut in 1950 as duo-pianists, the Roman sisters have become "famous for their perfect ensemble, a rare combination of elegance, wit and solid musicianship."

Josette and Yvette received their first training from their father, an orchestra conductor and pianist. They graduated from the Paris Conservatory with honors, each a concert soloist in her own right. In addition to their combined musical talents, they are modest yet charming and vivacious extroverts.

The EOC music department was enthusiastic in its praise: Mr. Lyle McMullen was more than pleased; Dr. Lynn Bishop remarked they played "as well as men artists;" Mr. Robert Groth said they were "excellent, both technically and interpretively."

Students from the campus expressed genuine enjoyment. Adverse criticisms were chiefly concerned with unfamiliarity of the numbers and the fact that the accompaniment was occasionally overpowering. The small piano being out of tune was just one of those unfortunate incidents.

DINNER MEETING

The Eastern Oregon college chapter of the Oregon Education association held a dinner meeting at the La Grande home of Mrs. Elizabeth Harris last week.

E.O.C. Receives "Great Books"

By Pat Yoneyama

Walter M. Pierce Library has recently (Monday, the 16th) received a set of Great Books of the Western World, worth $249, under a grant from the Mellon Foundation's Old Dominion Foundation. The widely-known set includes 54 volumes including the idea-index and was produced by the Encyclopedia Britannica in collaboration with the Universtiy of Chicago.

According to Librarian Donald K. Nelson, the books are being processed in the EOC library now, but will be ready for circulation soon. He stated that "It is expected that the volumes will be used extensively in connection with courses in upper divisions of the humanities, world literature, and in history of western civilization."

Mr. Nelson said the set spans ". . . Western thought from Homer and the Bible to the 20th century. It totals 32,000 pages and 25 million words."

The 54 volume series, which was distributed by the American Library association, encompasses 433 works by 74 authors. Entire works, rather than condensations or exerpts, are in the volumes. Word has been released that they represent the only publication in the English language (aside from rare and expensive printings) of key works by Aristotle, Hippocrates, Ptolemey, Copernicus, Galileo, Harvey, Descartes, Pascal, Newton, Kant, Fourier, Faraday, Lavoisier, Montesquieu, and Freud. Original writing amounting to 1,200 pages are also contained in the works, including an essay, "The Great Conversation," by Dr. Robert H. Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago.

Two million dollars were expended for preparing the maternal over a period of eight years, involving one hundred scholars. An introduction written by Dr. Hutchins has been included.

The Walter M. Pierce library was awarded one of the 1,600 sets of series which were distributed. Invitations to apply for the grants of books were extended to 30,000 libraries throughout the United States.

The Old Dominion Foundation was provider of the grant. Established in 1941 by Paul Mellon, grants of over $20,000,000 have been made by the Foundation for "religious, charitable, scientific, literary, and education purposes as shall be in the futherance of the public welfare . . ."

Included among the selection committee were G. E. Gscheidle, chief librarian of Chicago Public Library; Mrs. C. Keenleyside, librarian of Roosevelt University Library; Mrs. E. N. La Plante, board of education, Chicago; D. K. Maxfield, Unievrsity of Illinois librarian; and Frederick Wezeman, University of Minnesota.

KING ELECTED

Bob King, Maupin, junior at Eastern Oregon college, was elected chairman of the college Young Republican club at a special election meeting on campus recently.

BALLERINA Jackie Shaw is slated to travel to Portland with the EOC band this weekend.

Honorary Organizes

A new organization on the campus is the Iota Phi Omicron. It is an honorary for journalism students, giving the privilege of full standing to those who have served with the publications group for a year and naming as pledges those who have worked in journalism for two terms.

The first meeting was held at the home of Dr. Gordon Clarke on Tuesday evening, January 17. Officers were chosen at that time. Duane Lindsay was named president, Margaret Preston, vice-president, Patsy Yoneyama, secretary-treasurer, and Karen McGillivray representative on student council.

Dr. Clarke spoke briefly to the group, telling them of the happiness that Dr. Zabel, professor emeritus of English Literature, would feel in knowing such an organization had come into being, since it had long been a dream of hers.

Some very interesting games pertaining to newspaper work were played, and refreshments were served at the end of the evening.

AWS Members Attend Meet

by E. Thornburg

Delegates from Eastern Oregon College to the A.W.S. conference held on the Pacific University campus at Forest Grove on January 17th were A.W.S. president Milodene Fries and Janice Robertson. They were accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Winters.

The theme of the conference was "Today's College Women in Tomorrow's World." The sessions were very much appreciated by the group, and the girls enjoyed especially the talk given at the opening session. They also felt that they gained much from the afternoon forum where problems of small colleges were discussed.

Janice is a Freshman at Eastern Oregon College whose home is in Forest Grove so she found the trip very worthwhile.

Bolen Readies Wild Game

A ground hog will be caught—probably in Prairie City or thereabouts—and that will be the main source of sustenance at the Ground Hog luncheon, February 2nd in Hoke Hall. Of course, other items that'll go along with the main fare are peas, one form of salad or another, coffee and milk; and that'll all be topped off with cake and ice cream. And all this for 21c, kids! Can you beat such a bargain. You'd better not miss that date—look at the meal you're getting, and practically for nothin'!

Guess you all know we're talking about this annual luncheon that Interfaith always sponsors about this time of year. Dr. Bolen, advisor of the organization, says another reason you should come to it, besides to get in on this practically something-for-nothing meal is you'll get a free weather forecast for this spring. You see, folks, that ole' Mr. Ground Hog himself is scheduled to appear and he's going to tell us whether spring is making an early or late debut this year. Guess you all can make use of that information, can't you? being it said that spring is the time when a young man's fancy turns to . . . . etcetera . . . etcetera.

Seriously, folks, you'll find it really worthwhile to come if you've never attended one of these sumptious luncheons before. Interfaith has scheduled the Reverend Wayne N. Metz, Rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church in Ontario, to highlight the luncheon as guest speaker. He was an honor student who graduated from EOC with a BS in teacher education in 1951. Originally from Bend, he was an ex-soldier, was married and had three children. During his schooling here, he lived in the EOCene courts and was active in church affairs; he directed a church choir and was an accomplished pipe organist.

After graduation he decided to become a minister. He transferred to Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio, where he attended Bexley Hall, a seminary in connection with Kenyon. After finishing there, he accepted the rectorship in Ontario, where he now resides with his family.

Dr. Bolen stated the luncheon will be a fine time of fellowship. He also announced that Dave Walch is the chairman of Interfaith for this year.

Pep Assembly Rouses Spirit

by Barrie Edwards

The Pep Assembly on Friday opened brightly with the band playing two numbers and to put the students really in the spirit, along the top of the stage curtains was hung a painting of the OCE Wolf with his tail between his legs. As soon as Gary Miller, Student Body President, had made his announcements and Larry Syron, Yell King had led the students in a couple of yells, the students were entertained by a skit.

The skit was narrated by Jack Rye and using the theme of "Little Red Riding Hood" was successfully aimed at poking fun at Coach Quinn, who after another tune by the band, came on stage to give his confident comments regarding the forthcoming game.

The new yell that the yell leaders had worked out, was received with enthusiasm when introduced to the students for the first time. The band continued with another number and the climax to the assembly came when Gary Miller introduced Becky Haynes of La Grande High School onto the stage.

Whiskerino Approaches

By Gary Miller

Each year an event, "The Whiskerino," calls for all males on campus to compete in a beard growing contest. What is proven by this event is not clearly understood.

The challenge has become a traditional one of several years' standing. It is such an old thing that Daddy Quinn doesn't remember how, when, or why it all started. That's old! No single champ is declared, but more on the order of a dog show, a champ for each breed is chosen. Long hair, short hair, blackest and scroungiest are some of the categories to be judged.

Rules of the contest are few and somewhat flexible: Contestants must be clean shaven on registration day, may be trimmed or customized as you please, ersatz are forbidden; ie artificial coloring, whisker patching, etc., and hair grower is not only legal but encouraged. (Dunsmore-Stringer enterprises are hopefully interested in your success.)

The climax of all this effort will come with the judging at the Whiskerino Dance, February 3. Who the judges will be is not yet known. Will the judging be done by the committee sponsoring the event? By the ladies? By the faculty? Your guess is as good as mine. The Lettermen's club is keeping it a secret.

Prexy Attends Board Meeting

By Barrie Edwards

On Monday, January 23, Dr. Bennett, President of EOC, travelled to Portland where he attended the regular meeting of the State Board of Higher Education and returned to La Grande on the following Wednesday.

Thursday afternoon, he spent speaking to the Girls League of the Pendleton High School. His busy schedule was completed after the evening of the same day, when his time was occupied with delivering a speech to the PTA of Pendleton.

Rodeo Club Plans Dance

The first annual rodeo club dance is to be held in Hoke Hall, February 17. This is going to be a big event, so let's have a big turnout. It's going to be a western dance with a western band. There will be prizes for the best dressed cowboy and the best dressed cowgirls. So dust off your hat, put on your boots and levis, and come to the dance.

The Value Of English

(ACP) — On just about any college campus you can hear some loud laments about the necessity for taking English courses. That necessity was defended recently in this editorial in the Daily Utah Chronicle:

Fall quarter is underway again and with it the annual wailing and gnashing of teeth that always accompanies English A and other freshman English courses.

The student who came to college to learn to be an engineer or a lawyer or a just-plain-businessman raises the question that has been raised by thousands before him: "Why study English?" And he doesn't believe his English teacher, who tried to assure him that it is for his own good, that success in all fields depend on the ability to express oneself in both speaking and writing. No — she is just spreading propaganda because she is paid to do so.

However, the long suffering English teacher is now being supported by one of the largest business concerns in the world—General Electric.

In a pamphlet called "General Electric's Answer to Four Why's" the vital question, "Why stick to your studies?", "Why work?", "Why study English?", and "Why read?" are answered with the lucidity of the business-executive's approach with reasons that should reach even the most practical of vocation-minded students. This is not the English teacher talking, but the voice of big business to whom "progress is our most important product."

Says General Electric: "English is all-embracing in a business organization. Whether we are at the drafting board, desk, machine, or calling on customers, we are involved more or less in communication." They go on to add that "Our business world needs young people whose minds are packed with facts, but with the boldness of imagination to release them in a form that is easy and pleasant to take."

The pamphlet supports its views with an article written for Fortune magazine by Peter Druker called "How to be an employee." Among other things, Drucker says, "This ability to express oneself is perhaps the most important of all the skills a man can possess."

It is time, then, for the wailers to wake up and stop objecting to their education, especially to English. As painful as its study may be in some cases to some people, it is undeniably essential to any profession. No matter how practical that profession may be, English is even more practical. In fact, it is an integral part of that profession.

EOCene Era

The league of married students of Eastern Oregon College held their second Pot Luck dinner in Hoke Hall on Monday evening, January 16, with approximately seventy members present for the organizational meeting.

Norma Lowe acted as chairman for this meeting. The order of business was the election of officers for the group. Oliver Calhoun was elected president with Lorraine Frank as vice president, Ron Frazer as secretary, J. D. Carlson as representative to the student council. Other business taken up at this meeting was the appointing of a constitution committee to draw up a draft of laws for the group to follow in future meetings.

Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Davis were chosen as co-hostesses for the next pot-luck dinner to be held on Wednesday, February 15. All married students are cordially invited to these pot-luck dinners. The order of business scheduled for this meeting will be the selection of a permanent name for the group and the selection of a faculty member to be the advisor.

Nurses' Party Involves Work

by Pat Yoneyama

The night of Wednesday the 11th, was a busy one for the newly organized nurses' club. Ten of the girls met for a party in Mrs. Robertson's office in Ackerman where a little job awaited them. This job involved cutting out four pictures each of the 500 some students in college, pasting one on the health card, sitting two aside for the registrar's office, and leaving one for the public relations personnel. They took three hours and the girls still did not finish. The session ended with refreshments being served.

Mrs. Robertson, the advisor for the group, stated that this year is the first time that pictures of the students are being included in the health records. The girls who helped were: Dot Ann Anson, Barbara Carter, Jean Rosewell, Marilyn Masterson, Mary Steele, Kay Wood, Carol Norby, Molly Yoneyama, Bonnie Powell, and Pat Hamilton.

Officers of the club are Mary Steele, president ,and Molly Yoneyama, secretary.

'Heiress' Coming To EOC Theater

By Boyd Devin

Rehearsal is in full swing every evening in the College theatre for the much awaited production of "The Heiress," a three act drama which will be presented by Sock and Buskin on February 23, 24, and 25.

Much progress has been made toward the perfection of the play under the watchful eyes of Director Richard Hiatt and Assistant Director Anna LaKamp. A fine portrayal of all the characters in rehearsal thus far shows the excellent casting completed by Hiatt and the assistance of the very able Assistant Director.

The tradition of the Whiskerino is really helping out in the make-up line for this play which takes place in the 1850's. Tom Mercer, a Freshman from Echo, will be wearing a beard for his portrayal of Doctor Austin Sloper, the autocratic and refined father of the heroine. Tom comes to us directly from the Marine corps where he had experience in little theatre groups in California.

Roberta Miller, a Junior from La Grande, well known as a fine actress to students of EOC and citizens of La Grande, plays the part of Catherine Sloper, the shy, unsuspecting heroine of the story. Roberta is well qualified in theatre, having done considerable theatrical work in High School and also here at EOC. She will be well remembered for her acting in "Arms and the Man" (1954) and "The Man," (1954).

The dashing and handsome young suitor, Morris Townsend, is very aptly portarayed by Leonard Swanson, a Freshman from Umatilla. This is Leonard's debut in college theater, but evidence is apparent from rehearsals that he possesses that "something" that composes a fine actor.

Clara Weigel, a Senior from La Grande, interprets the character of Aunt Penniman, the peacemaker in the play. Clara really puts her all into playing Cupid between the heroine and the young suitor in the production. She will be remembered for her performances in "The Crucible" and "Our Town," both previous EOC productions.

Pendleton is represented in the person of Lorraine Frank, a Freshman, who plays Mrs. Almond, sister of Doctor Sloper. It is through her that we obtain an understanding of the heroine and her feeling toward her father. Lorraine makes her college theatre debut in this production. She shows up especially well in rehearsal and the audience should be well please with her performance.

Another La Grande girl, Patsy Evans, a Freshman, portrays the character of Mrs. Montgomery, the sister of Morris, the suitor. It is through her that Doctor Sloper is aided in the formulation of his opinions of the suitor and lover of his daughter. This is an important role and Patsy, using High School experience is sure to impress La Grande theatre-goers.

Janet York, Sophomore from Milton-Freewater, is very suited to her role as Marian Almond, beautiful cousin of Catherine Sloper. As this character, Janet has a definite influence on the behavior of the heroine. Janet also makes her theatre debut on our stage.

Maria, the maid of Doctor Sloper, is played by Maxine Hiatt, a Freshman from Vale. Maxine has appeared in High School and Church plays and, as Maria, plays an important connective part in the plot of "The Heiress." This production will be her debut in college theatre.

Jim Dale, a Junior from McMinnville, completes the cast as Arthur Townsend, cousin of Morris. Jim plays the part of Marian's fiance.' He has had considerable experience in theatre and is an active officer of Sock and Buskin.

There is the cast and the directors. What better combination of personalities could be collected for a dramtic presentation? The sure-fire experienced talent and the new "blood" in the cast promise a production that will long live in the memory of theatre goers. Remember the date, February 23, 24, and 25.

Dorion Doings

By An Inmate

Hey fellows—get your sprinting shoes on, the big girl-date-boy formal is coming soon. This being leap year and the dance being sponsored by Dorion Hall, maybe you're in for double trouble!

It seems that twenty-one is a magic age, and anybody who helped Betty Yoshimura celebrate her twenty-first birthday can testify to that. Congratulations, Betty.

Apparently some of the girls in the dorm think that La Grnade is on Mountain time with the amount of late leaves (?) recently. How time flies . . . Huh?

There has been quite a bit of concern about one of the older girls in the dorm, commonly referred to as "granny." She seems to be having trouble swinging down from her top bunk and doing her tumbling acts in her bed. The remedy is more rest, so she has cut down her tedious schedule to only twelve hours.

Looks like the latest rage, Bermuda Shorts, has caused quite a controversy in the dorm. The sextet that was sporting them most frequently seems to be discouraged by all the complaints. Could be the boys are just jealous of those argyles. Do you suppose?

As I sink down beneath the pile of Dorion news flashes which is stacked on my desk, I see they are all marked censored, so it looks like that's all the news for this week.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

The Blue and Gold singers will make an appearance at the YWEA this next week. They also have several other appearances coming in the near future.

The EOCE band left for Portland at 6:30 this morning. They are going to play concerts in Echo and Stanfield on their way. They will also play at the Portland State-EOC games on Friday and Saturday nights. Dr. and Mrs. Lyle Johnson are acting as chaperones for the group.

The concert program which the band is playing has a large variation. Their numbers include "High School Cadets," "Storm King," "Begin the Beguine," "Song of Jupiter, "Barnum and Bailey March, "Under the Double Eagle," "Sh-Boom," "Mister Sandman, "School Musician," and the "Alma Mater." Jackie Shaw will present a ballet during "Begin the Beguine' and Carol Ann Wigglesworth will give her baton number to "Under the Double Eagle." Also on the program will be piano solos by Gail Coffin and numbers by the male quartet.

Those of you who didn't attend the Civic Music Concert last Monday night really missed an outstanding concert. Everyone certainly enjoyed it.

A dance band has finally been formed among the students at EOC. It includes Gail Coffin on piano, Don Swart and Bob Herbig on trumpet, Boyd Devin on alto sax, Leonard Swanson on trombone, and Don Paulson on guitar. Rumor has it they have a lot of swell arrangements and a few surprises in store (For further info. see Don Swart).

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie - - -

You were wondering last week just how I felt about the bearded men on the campus. Well I'll tell you, I think a few of the fellows really look nice, but the majority of them look plain scroungy. However, it is a tradition on our campus so I think we should give the men credit for living up to it.

I've been looking around and here are some of the beards that I think are outstanding in various ways—

Oliver Calhoun—A spotted, sort of polka-dot effect, very different.

Duane Stoleman—The prettiest red beard on the campus.

Bob Sargent—Such a trim little goatee, really becoming.

Bob Valiant—I truly admire Bob for trying.

Lee Bolen and Bill Morris—Handsome men without beards, striking looking with them.

Tony Phelps—I think he is really cute with a mustache.

Don Gillespie—I dont believe he is the type to wear a beard or maybe his beard isn't the type to be worn.

Dave Bean—I'm amazed that a iittle guy like that could produce so many whiskers.

Don Sharn—Beautiful, simply beautiful.

Elvin Daggett — Nicest blonde beard on the campus.

Jack Chapman—Blond but not so nice, too scarce.

Mr. Hiatt—Pathetic, you can actually count the hairs on his chin if he stands in the light.

Gay Saulter—Not too bad, better without.

Stan Thomas—Really improves his appearance.

Mr. Anderson—If I had to pick one to kiss good-night I'd take him.

I've looked this all over, and I think you can put it in the paper if you want to. It's all O.K. except that part about Mr. Anderson. In my psych class I learned that we shouldn't suppress all our desires so I thought I'd better tell you how I feel about him. Every time I look at his beard I wish that I hadnt' promised to go steady with that boy at home and that Mr. Anderson wasn't married. It's really sends me.

Love—Cousin Ettie

One Man's Opinion

by Duane E. Stiff

The fact was recently brought to my attention that while the city of La Grande has been basking in comparatively warm spring weather we in the city of Baker have been in the deep freeze. I didn't realize that forty three miles could make such a difference. When one commutes every day you become accustomed to the gradual temperature change between the two cities, and more or less take Eastern Oregon weather for granted.

However this did not hold true for a certain English instructor from Eastern Oregon College who made the trip to Baker to attend a meeting at my request. Upon his arrival his first comments were on the Baker weather, and how happy he would be to return to the warmth of La Grande.

As the evening wore on and he had completed his part of the program, I noticed a pronounced harshness in his voice, and heard him mumble something about pneumonia. By the time his bus arrived, (10:55 P.M.) to return him to this fair city he was walking around with his hat pulled low and his collar buttoned tightly about his neck.

The purpose of this article is to convey the apologies of the Baker Junior Chamber of Commerce, (who were very grateful for Mr. Bayes' appearance and aid) for the near zero Baker weather, but after a long discussion decided we could not be financially responsible for any illness such as pneumonia.

The true art of memory is the art of attention.

KENNETH WESTENSKOW — fourth season on the varsity, a regular forward since 1952-3, scored 312 points in 22 games as a sophomore (a 13.6 average), hit for 231 points in same number of contests as a junior (managing a 10.5 average), third in rebounds for the club last year with 135. Formerly an outstanding player for La Grande High School. Received honorable mention as a forward on Oregon Collegiate Conference team his junior year.

EO Dumps Foe West Scores 2; Crowd Thrills

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers made it six straight conference victories for the season as they beat Oregon College of Education Wolves Friday and Saturday night, on the La Grande maple. EOC edged out a last second victory Friday night and romped to a 99 to 82 victory Saturday night.

West Tips Winning Two

Bill West was the big gun in Friday night's fray as he made a desperate tip-in with less than 8 seconds remaining in the game. The game was close all the way as neither team was able to pull ahead by a very suitable margin. Eastern Oregons forward Ken Westenskow was deadly from around the key as he potted 10 field goals and 2 free throws for a total of 22 points.

OCE's Cecil Miller was high for the Wolves as he collected 22 counters for the night.

Ted Schadewitz lead the Mounties with a total of 35 points for the Saturday's contest as Eastern Oregon rolled to a 99 to 82 victory. The game looked like a duplicate of Friday night, until midway through the second half, Bob Quinn's men began to roll. Schadewitz was the major point maker as EOC gradually pulled ahead. Lowell Kolbaba garnered 18 points for Eastern Oregon, following Schadewitz in the scoring department.

Zitich was high point man for the Wolves with 16. He was closely followed by Adams and Young who had 14 apiece.

Friday night OCE connected with a 46.3% compared to 37.7 for Eastern Oregon. The Hilltoppers lead from the free throw with a 71.1% while the Wolves were able to connect for 66.7%.

Saturday night EOC lead in both departments as they hit from the field at a 40.4% and 69.2% at the charity line. Oregon College cooled down considerably to a 32.9 field goal percentage and 68.6% from the gift line.

BILL WEST—first year on EOC varsity cage squad, a returning serviceman, played football two years at Oregon State and this fall at Eastern Oregon. A regular at fullback but placed at tackle on first all-conference team. Gained honorable mention listing on Associated Press Little All-American team this fall. Led Mountaineers to conference track title in 1953. All-around athlete at La Grande High School. Big, rugged, making change from gridiron to hard court very nicely. A good prospect.

Eastern Oregon upended Wally Palmberg's crew from Klamath Falls in a weekend series by scores of 84 to 72 and 100 to 66, on the Mountaineer's home court.

Johnny Foster and big 6.9" Bogle lead the Wolves as OTI was able to stay on the heels of the Mountaineers most of Friday night's game. Foster lead the Klamath Falls crew with 19 counters, followed by Bogle with 17.

Scoring honors went to Ted Schadewitz as he poured in 28 points on 10 filed goals and 8 free throws. Lowell Kolbaba followed with 16, while Burton and Westenskow collected 15 and 13 respectively.

The Saturday night fray was all together a different game as the Mountaineers trounced Palmberg's men 100 to 66.

Bob Quinn's men lead all the way as they built up a 42 to 27 intermission lead and continued to build on the lead in the second half. Quinn used his reserves frequently through much of the game.

High man for both squads was Schadewitz with 18 for Eastern Oregon. The leading point maker for the Owls was Fisher with 14 points.

Sigma Alpha Chi Initiates 5

By Pat Yoneyama

EOC's women honorary, welcomed five new candidates into its membership at an impressive evening initiation, Wednesday the 23rd. Among those initiated into Sigma Alpha Chi were: Rena Anderson, Boardman; Dorothy Kelley, Grass Valley; Mrs. Eleanor A. Miller, Enterprise; Kiyoko Yanada, Kyoto, Japan; and Mrs. Eunice Thornburg, La Grande. All of them are registered in teacher education.

Before a semi-circle of older members, the initiation ceremonies were formally conducted by JoAnn Nuss, the president of the organization, with the assistance of Carol Hines, vice president, and Barbara Gulick, secretary-treasurer. Each initiate read a little poem in accordance with the requirements of gaining admittance into the honorary, after which a corsage was pinned to each of them.

The constitution of the society was read and the history of its formulation and development on the EOC campus followed the ceremonies. It was brought out and development on the EOC campus followed the ceremonies. It was brought out that Dr. Amanda Zabel, who retired from the faculty staff last year, and who is now Professor Emeritus of English, was instrumental in organizing and developing the honorary into an active, functioning body. Advisor for Sigma Alpha Chi during her long stay in Eastern Oregon, she was conferred an honorary membership last spring. She is at present residing in Long Beach, California, with Miss Mabel Morton, former society editor of the Evening Observer. Miss Neva Neil is now adviser for the club.

The initiation concluded with refreshments being served and a picture of the group being taken.

The committee who worked on the initiation included the following: key committee: Leona Williams and Rachael Gillenwater; corsage committee: Janice Masten, June Whitten, Sandra Spickerman, and Kathleen Bannister; refreshment committee: Carol Saager, Jo Ann Nuss and Gail Coffin.

Personality On Review

By Diana Gilstrap

Our spot-light falls this week on a La Grande girl.

Her name is Barbara Carter and she is a Freshman this year. Barbara is majoring in pre-psysical-therapy. She is a member of Orchestra, Band, and the Choir here on the campus. She is very active in her church group. Barbara was an honor student at L.H.S., but she is noted for swimming the length of Wallowa lake. You may also see her in the summer teaching swimming.

Barbara is 5' 11" and has blonde hair and blue eyes. She says she plans to attend EOC for two years. She has an interest in drama, but her main hobbies are skiing and swimming.

B. Carter J. Bristow

By Bernard Damon

In our other spotlight this week we find Jerry Bristow, a 19-year-old boy from Ione, Oregon. Jerry was born May 5, 1936 in Nampa, Idaho. When in the third grade he moved to Ione and completed his elementary and high school education. While at Ione, he won 12 letters in sports, was all-conference high school football senior and was chosen alternate for the annual Shrine team.

Jerry likes women, (although he dislikes nice ones), parties, hotcakes, football and Dr. Skeen's classes. His favorite magazines are Rogue and Playboy. Jerry named Terry Ziegenhagen as his main dislike.

Since attending Eastern Oregon he has made a name for himself in football, baseball, basketball, and Dorion. He was chosen on the second team on the OTI all opponent team in football and the second team all-conference in baseball as a freshman.

Jerry remarks that his main ambition at present is to pass World Literature.

Dr. Lyle Johnson Attends Meeting

by Mike Johnson

Dr. Lyle Johnson left for Corvallis Jan. 19 to attend an Inner Institutional meeting concerning the cases of out of state students who ask for a refund of their tuition. While he was in Corvallis Dr. Johnson also attended the Elks Club mid-winter conference where he gave a report on the Elk's State Scholarship Committee.

Monday, Dr. Johnson visited the campus of Portland State, and Tuesday he attended a meeting in Salem, where the registrars of all of the state supported colleges met with the representatives of the State Department of Education. The main topic at this meeting was "The Certification of Teachers."

Wednesday, on his way home, Dr. Johnson visited Pendleton High School, where he talked to the students who were interested in coming to E.O.C. next year.

Dr. Johnson arrived home Wednesday night.

CHAIRMAN NAMED

—Mrs. Lucille George has been named chairman of the Eastern Oregon college art honorary, Alpha Rho Tau. She succeeds Marcia Belshaw, Mt. Vernon, who is not in school this term. Mrs. George was previously vice president of ART.

Rough Riders Form Program

By Gary Gaertner

The rodeo club is a rather new organization of EOC, or of any of the western colleges. Still it is rapidly becoming recognized. Every college rodeo club is a member of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Assn. Many colleges are sponsoring college rodeos, and some of the southern colleges consider rodeo as a major sport. College rodeos are rapidly taking the west. College rodeos are run under NIRA rules. They have a point award system from which a national champion in each event is chosen.

The NIRA has its own rules pertaining to sportsmanship too. Any college cowboy that carries on in an unbecoming manner at any rodeo is put on the black list, and prevented from participating in any recognized rodeo for six months.

This year there is being an attempt made to hold the national convention in Oregon, the first time for any such meeting to be held in the North.

The member schools of the NIRA are divided into regions. Pacific Coast Region—

- Washington
- Oregon
- Idaho
- California

Rocky Mountain Region—

- Montana
- Colorado
- Utah

Southwest Region—

- Texas
- New Mexicon
- Arizona
- Louisiana

The past records of the growth of the NIRA show that there are possibilities that sometime within the next few years, rodeo will become a major sport by nearly all the western colleges.

Humility often gains more than pride.

Since the Winter term is very important to all skiers, I would like to give you the names of the people to see about any ski problems.

The top man in the club is Ron Foster, who is skiing his seventh or eighth season. Right now he is working very hard to help make plans for another trip to Sun Valley. Vice president is "Spud" Howard. Spud has a new car now so you may ask him how to get to the skiing hill rather than how to actually ski, but I am sure he will tell any and all skiers what they may want to know. Another very important person is the girl keeping all plans and notes written down, Gerry Schafer. Diana Gilstap is the Student Council Rep., enough said there. Miss Neely is the advisor and may give you any information needed about the skiing classes.

It is good to see more and more people taking an interest in this wonderful sport.

W.R.A. is having a very good turn-out for basketball. There are three teams that will play games on Tuesday evenings. The first game did not get under way because of lack of enough players. This last Tuesday night there was a good turnout and a game was held between Josie Ward's team and Ces Carroll's team. Although the game was good there was a tie of 16-16. The top scorers were Ces Carroll with 12 points and Diana Gilstrap with 10. Another game will be held next week.

The YR's have elected Bob King their new president and "Spud" Howard, vice president. The secretary-treasurer is Art Hartgraves. The next meeting will be in the near future but as of now date has not been announced.

Dr. Virgil Bolen was at Oregon College of Education attending the 10th Annual meeting of the Northwest Conference on Religion in Higher Education, Feb. 3-4. Among the speakers were Dr. Prentiss Pemberton, director of the Danforth Foundation; Dr. James Stoner, director of the University Christian Mission; and Dr. Nicholas T. Goncharoff of the Student YMCA. Dr. Goncharoff was a Red Army tank commander during World War II, and a prisoner of the Nazis in a forced labor camp. He is presently studying Communist strategy throughout the world for the purpose of developing effective policies of Christian action.

Sweetheart's Dance Slated For Tonight

by Pat Yoneyama

"Who will be Sweetheart?"

While they gaze expectantly at the heart through which Miss Sweetheart of 1956 will emerge, this question will probably be racing through the minds of those kids who attend the Sweetheart's Ball this Friday eevning.

Possibilities? . . . well, the five lucky princesses from which Miss Sweetheart of '56 will be elected are the misses Milodene Fries, Summerville; Verla Garner, Weiser, Idaho; Bernice Tracy, Milton-Freewater; Josie Ward, Forest Grove; and Margaret Preston, The Dalles.

The lucky girl will be crowned by Mrs. Hoyt, housemother of Dorion, just before intermission. She will also be presented with a bouquet, compliments of her housesisters. The four princesses will comprise her highness' Sweetheart Court.

The five lovely candidates were selected by the Dorion girls last week. Votes cast by the guests at th dance will determine whom Miss Sweetheart will be.

Don Swart and his smooth "rhythmeres,' a newly-organized band which has ben drawing a lot of favorable comments since its debut on campus several weeks ago, is providing the music. Linda Prather, Medical Springs, has been scheduled to perform for the program.

Hunt Hall dining room will be decorated along the line of a gay Valentine theme by the girls. This year is the first time the Sweethearts Ball is being held in there. In other years Dorion Hall lounge has been used. Approximately fifty couples are expected to attend tonight.

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE YEARBOOK

Eastern Oregon College Yearbook the Monutaineer has met 60% of its deadlines and it will meet its 5th deadline today. This will leave only one more deadline to be met. The Yearbook, edited by Don Swart, should b available for distribution to students and faculty early in May.

Annual Drive Aided By Shad

By Donna Talbot

The annual March of Dimes drive for the La Grande area got underway on January 30. On that date, beginning at 8:00 p.m., radio station KLBM began a marathon to raise $500. The incentive for this goal was provided by Ted Schadewitz who entered an iron lung, which was placed in the lobby of the Sacajawea hotel, at that time. The agreement was that Ted could not be released until the $500 goal was reached.

When asked for a comment recently about his experience, Ted remarked that "it would certainly be wonderful if everyone realized how important the March of Dimes is to kids who have polio. I hope everyone will support this drive and help to get rid of the need for an iron lung, because that's a heck of a place for anyone to be."

EOC was further represented by the quartet who sang two numbers, "No More" and "Coney Island Baby," before they were joined by Carol Saager for "Sincerely." Another vocalist on the program was Larry Syron, accompanied by Gail Coffin at the piano. Larry sang "Peg O' My Heart" and "Learning the Blues."

Adding variety to the program with a non-musical selection, Ward Thomas gave his rendition of "The GI's Lament."

McLain Heads Review Staff

The college publication which has been known in other years as "The Middle R" is to appear with a new title this year. The name is to be the "Oregon Collegiate Review." The editors have also adopted a new policy of contacting other colleges in Oregon for material which might be used in the magazine. Complementary copies will be sent to libraries of each school that has contributed. March 15 has been set as the deadline for material that is to be used in this year's edition of the magazine.

The staff for the new Oregon Collegiate Review was announced at a meeting of the Iota Phi Omicron group on Wednesday. David McLain, who has had two years experience in publishing the Middle R, is to be the editor. His assistants are Duane Lindsay and Eunice Thornburg. Gerald Stiller is business manager.

Shaggy Men Win At Whiskerino

The annual Letterman sponsored Whiskerino dance proved to be a great success. It was held in Hoke Hall February 3 and was attended by a large number of the student body.

The high light of the evening was the presentation of the winners of the beard contest. From the contestants the following proved to be the champions in their respective divisions: Jack Chapman was the man with the reddist while John Heriza took the spotlight with the blackest. Bart Clements took the most-unique division while Verne Schell was voted to have the best all-around. Bob Jensen won acclaim for the scroungiest and the best attempt was awarded to Glenn Hogg. The winners won prizes of shaves and the like from the various La Grande Barber Shops who donated their services for prizes. Dr. Osterly made the presentations of these prizes.

Another most important contribution to the success of the evening was the music supplied by "Spike" Swart and his "Campus Cats." This terrific band is composed of Leonard Swanson, Boyd Devin, Bob Herbig, Don Paulson, Gail Coffin and of course the snappy leader, Don Swart. In addition to the regular instrumental type music they also provided the dances with a vocal which was very much enjoyed by all.

Intermission entertainment provided by Boyd Devin also rates high praise. He gave a musical declamation which delighted the crowd.

Yes sir—the Whiskerino was really a "keen" dance and we hope it is only a sample of what is in store for the remainder of this college year.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

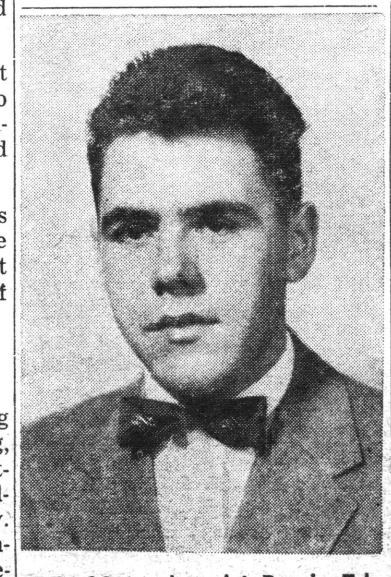
Male Chorus To Perform



The Winged Victory Chorus, made up of 6 talented ex GI's, will appear in concert February 26, at La Grande high school's new auditorium. The concert marks The Civic Music Associations' third offering of the 1955-1956 season.

The chorus is under the direction of Joseph Baris, former sergeant in the 43rd Division and ex-music director of Beacon, New York high school. He developed the group while serving in Germany, and at the personal request of Major General K. F .Cramer, the chorus became a permanent Army unit touuring Europe. High praise accomuanied every performance.

Realizing his GI's were too good to wind up their singing career upon discharge from the Army, Baris re-organized the group into a civilian chorus. Twenty-one of the original group were willing.

Press acclaim has been generous both in Europe and the United States. "Sensational singers!" says Steve Allen, adding, "Spectacular showmen." Robert K. Lewis cites, "The most exciting combination of voice I've ever heard." Even Kate Smith remarks, "Inspired entertainment . . . a magnificent performance."

In addition to their personal appearances, the group have been televised, appeared on newsreels, and made many recordings. Their repertory is large and ranges from the religious music of Beethoven and Mozart to the popular tunes from Dodgers and Hammerstein.

BEACON columnist Barrie Edwards might be called a foreign correspondent — his home is in Warrington, England.

Three-Day Meet Ready

by Pat Yoneyama

Representing their respective churches for the impending "religious emphasis week' will be a Catholic, a Jew, a Mormon, a Church of God Educator, and a First Unitarian.

With this years fifteenth annual "religious emphasis week," the campus Interfaith Fellowship, under the guidance of Dr. Vergil A. Bolen, is observing its Crystal Anniversary. From the time of its conception, the purpose of this special week has been, and still is, to promote more understanding and more tolerance among students toward other faiths and denominations. In striving for this goal, Interfaith annually invites men and women who are distinguished in theological fields and who are of different beliefs to express their religious views and to clarify students' questions

Y. R.'s Ready Future Plans

The YR Club of Eastern Oregon College has a busy season ahead, according to Dr. Spear, their faculty advisor. They expect Jim Hatfield, a candidate for the office of Secretary of State, to be on the campus as a guest of the club during the early part of February. There is also a plan for a Lincoln's Day luncheon as they have had in past years. No speaker has been chosen for this occasion as yet. The club has established contact with Sam Coon and plan to help him during his campaign, and are also trying to achieve a laiason between the campus group and the Union County Republican committee so that they can work with them during the campaign months. They are in receipt of communications from the National Committee for Eisenhower and the Committee for Mark Hatfield.

Dr. Spear also mentioned a tentative plan for a program of political education that might be worked out on the campus. This would be similar to Religious Emphasis Week and would offer instruction to the students in regard to registering for voting and would help to acquaint them with the sample ballots. There is a possibility that a Political Party Day might be arranged in connection with this.

Director of information Bayes also reports that he has had word from Paul Mytinger, a former E.O.C.E. student who now resides in Pendleton, to the effect that Mr. Mytinger is a candidate for delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention and is also chairman of the Eisenhower for President committee in his district.

"Message From The Administration"

In the memorial service for Governor Paul Patterson, the simplicity of the service was striking and the thoughtful balance of choir music, chimes, simple statement of fact, deep moment of reverent silence, and a thoughtful concluding prayer were most impressive. The unusual attendance for a convocation bespoke the high regard with which the students and faculty of this campus held Governor Patterson. It makes one proud to be a member of a faculty and student body who evidenced their sense of debt and appreciation as our faculty and student body did on Friday by their attendance and apparent sincerity.

Personality On Review

By Diana Gilstrap

Personality spotlight number one falls again on a La Grande girl. Her name is Pat Beck.

Pat has lived in La Grande all her life. Since she attended grade school and high school in La Grande, Pat also wanted to go to college here. She is a sophomore this year and is majoring in secretarial science.

Pat is 5'5" tall and has pretty blue eyes and blonde hair.

In high school she was an active member of Tri Hi Y and secretarial science club. Here at EOC Pat is a member of Alpha Phi Epsilon. When Pat was asked what she liked best she said "Oh, any food, but mostly watermelon," and what does she dislike? "Oh, Drrr. J. Oh well nothing." Her hobbies are swimming and trying to ski a little.

Pat is usually seen around campus with Naomi Elam.

By Bashful

Our second personality this week is Dick Quinn. Dick was born in Portland October 3, 1935 and moved to La Grande the same year. In La Grande he attended Ackerman Grade school and La Grande High school. Dick, of course, participated in sports while in high school, lettering in baseball, basketball and football. He was chosen on the all-conference second team in both baseball and football.

Dick is now enrolled in education here on the campus. He is also active in sports and has earned letters in football, baseball and basketball. He was chosen on the all conference second team in football and also on the OTI all-opponent team. Dick also likes hunting, fishing and golf.

Dick likes sports, girls, desserts and anything else sweet. He named Looney Tunes Comics after pondering for some time as his favorite magazine. His dislikes are tests, cold weather and Allen Keefer, who shot him in the leg accidentally. His ambitions are to get out of college and pass his geography classes.

EOCene Era

All married students, and their husbands or wives (as the case may be), are invited to attend a potluck dinner at Hoke Hall Wednesday, February 15th at 6:15 sharp. Bring either a hot dish and salad or a hot dish and a desert, and your own table service.

After dinner a short meeting will be held for reading of the constitution, selection of a faculty advisor, and naming the group. Give these matters serious consideration and don't miss this outing!

Alumni Letter Ready For Mail

By Burton Briske

The 2nd edition of Eastern Oregon News Letter will be mailed February 15, or before. It is the official alumni organ of Eastern Oregon College.

This is the first year that Eastern Oregon College has had a printed alumni bulletin, previously this was a mimeographed publication.

It is under the direction of the alumni association executive board, of which Hobart Keeney of The Dalles, is president.

The College Alumni Committee consists of Miss Neva Neil, Associate Professor of Education, Alumni Secretary; Dr. Lee Johnson, Associate Professor of History; Ronald Bayes, Instructor of English, Bulletin Editor; Mrs. Dorthy Winters, Dean of Women.

Hunt Hokum

By Tony

With all due respect to Dean Woods I will continue his story of Tall Dog and his reign as I have seen it.

I would like to say at the start that any repercussions resulting from this series of articles should be made to me through the editorial staff of the paper as the thoughts and opinions expressed herein are only my own.

Once upon a time in the middle of the deep, dark forest lived a band of people. Now this was a very strange gathering of individuals for most of them could not see the light, for it was, or seemed to be, very, very dark in the forest. Now the reason it was so very dark to these people was because most of them went around with their eyes closed and their mouths open. Now from time to time a stranger from afar, who had seen the light, might wander into their midst.

Now once it was knowed that these evil people were out and about they would be driven off as non-believers and they would go to live with others of their kind at the outer edges of the forest. Now these people at the outer edges of the forest had great concern for the plight of this band but they were in a great minority and it is very hard for them to interject their ideas on unwilling ears.

This great band of individuals is being led by Tall Dog, an outstanding citizen of this band who sees nothing, tells nothing, and does very little. He is assisted in his duties by Wailing Coyote, Bear, and Ruffled Grouse. Now these assistants have seen the light but they are held under duress and their true strength is known only to a few. These able assistants will be leaders in the revolt to come in the spring.

Last year in the spring Tall Dog and his able assistants out did all competition and took control of the government. At the outset of this reign it became apparent to the people at the outer edges of the forest that three of these people had been elected on outstanding merit and ability, while the other had slipped in by being relatively unknown and able to utter only a few witty sayings, which I understand have not improved with age.

Tall Dog, with one deaf ear, always keeps this ear turned toward the outer edges of the forest for fear of hearing constructive comments. This position gives him a starboard list and tends to give him the appearance of having his nose to the grindstone, which has been cause for considerable comment and dispute.

The late Governor Paul L. Patterson was a friend of Eastern Oregon College and of education. His selfless service to the youth of Oregon is herewith recognized in all humility and sincerity. In the words of President Frank Bennett of ECO, when he was informed of Mr. Patterson's death: "We are shocked with this word. Certainly the state has lost an excellent Govenor and education has lost a very constructive friend."

Painting The Town

By A. Brush

"Budget your time," my Ed Psych book says in big bold letters. "Plan every minute and adhere to your schedule conscientiously." These words are a soothing salve to my suffering soul. For the past five weeks I have been carrying so many hours that the thought of fulfilling the requirements of each class have so depressed and overwhelmed me that I always neglect, bypass and ignore my assignments and fall into bed needing twelve hours of sleep so I will have enough strength to worry about the assignments I didn't do last night.

To budget my time is the only answer. My schedule tonight beginning after supper at 8:00 will keep me busy until 7:45 a.m. tomorrow morning, but I will have completed all my asignments. I always start getting sleepy at 9:00 p.m. I'll have to prepare a few devices to keep me awake.

Lets see, I gess I have everything! One pot of very strong coffee, two boxes of very white NO-DOZ tablets, three very sharp pins, four very cold ice cubes, and five feet of very strong rope. I will begin at the beginning and work through the devices.

Slosh, slosh—well, that's the last of the coffee. When I walk I sound like leaky galoshes. The NO-DOZ didn't work, and Now I am immune to pin pricks—the ice cubes melted and I am still feeling very drowsy.

I guess I will have to make one last desperate attempt to stay awake. Ill tie one end of the rope around my head, string it over that hook in the ceiling and tie the other end to the chair. Now I'll stand on the chair. If I go to sleep, my head will fall, pull the chair out from under me, and I will be hanged. The fear of death should keep me awake.

Lets see—ho hum . . . to be or not to be that is the . . . inverse square law of m1 plus m2 over r2 is equal to the cardinal principle of motivation. . . . I can't seem to stay awake (yawn) . . . let's see . . . a sonata is an Italian with a runny nose . . . no . . . zzzzzzzzz . . .

(Editors note: This paper was found among the effects of the late A. Brush who committed suicide last week by hanging himself from a hook in the ceiling of his room. His death was apparently due to despondency over studies.)

Dorion Doings

By An Inmate

After the dilemma of mid-term exams, things are in full swing for the Sweetheart Ball, the dance of the year. Preparations for decorations, entertainment and other committees are being made. We understand that "some of the boys" are making a few preparations for the Sweat Hard Brawl too. We're sure that everyone will have a fine time—it's too bad some of the boys are having so much trouble figuring out who their dates are though. But then thats just the breaks when so many girls ask you and you can't even remember who's invitation you accepted.

Along the theme of Sweet heart's is the news of the engagement of Sally Jo Edwards to Keith Weaver of Wallowa. No date has been set for the wedding. Congratulations to both of you.

We understand the boys are really going to have to rough it now, since the parking regulations are being enfodced. Imagine having to walk from the boys parking lot clear to the dorm now. Oh, life gets tedious, don't it?

The midnight oil is beginning to burn as deadlines loom ahead for term papers. Of course everyone is aware of the rule about no typing after eleevn oclock. But then that towel on the desk works wonders, doesn't it?

We are certain that we have the support of all the Dorion girls as we let out a sigh of relief now that Whiskerino is finally over. We propose special recognition for the gals who for one solid month tolerated those scroungy, read, or whatever the case may be, beards!

As we close this column we look out through the bars on the window and exclaim, "Man, dig that crazy"

Editors Note: Dig that crazy what?

Inmates P. S.: How should I know, I left my glasses at home.

Letter From Ettie

Hi Aggie—

I have doubted seriously whether I would be able to get my usual letter off to you this week. You see I'm still reeling as a result of those terrible midterm exams that our instructors so blithely presented to us during the past few days. Honestly, Aggie, no one would have known they were midterm from looking at them. Finals couldn't be much worse. The really difficult part of it all was the fact that classes went on as usual, and we were expected to turn in our daily assignments and keep up our reading exactly the same as though we weren't having exams. I have met a few lucky people on the campus who escaped the agony by not having instructors that gave midterms, but most of the students seem to have felt just as frustrated as I did all last week. I even managed to trick a couple of the instructors into admitting that they had really poured it on unmercifully. "Well, it's all water under the bridge now, and no use worrying over it, I suppose.

I was pleased to see that so many of the student body turned out for the Memorial Assembly for Governor Patterson. I thought it was a very fitting tribute to our late governor.

I wonder how many of the students happened to be watching TV last week when Dr. Bolen's son, Phil, walked away with a houseful of furniture as a result brain power answering questions on a Quiz program televised in New York City. Phil was a student on our campus several years ago.

Another one of our EOC teacher's ed people was on television last fall. She is Marilyn Chandler, a local girl who is now teaching in the New York City school system.

So you can see, Aggie, our people have scattered far and wide in their upward climb. These bits of information should carry encouragement for us; who knows where we may end in our careers as teachers?

Which brings another thought to mind—I recently heard some friends of Dr. Bennett's offer the suggestion that our own Dr. B. would make a worthy candidate for the governor's chair in the state of Oregon, if he could be persuaded to run. Isn't that something to really bear in mind?

Love,
Cousin Ettie

Plans are being made for the FTA to go to a district convention on the weekend of March 2 and 3. The conference will be held on the Portland State campus. It is hoped that many of the FTA students will be going down to attend. Those students wishing to attend are asked to contact Evelyn Huston or Dr. Addy soon. Jean Adamson was picked to serve on the credential committee representing EOC.

Also on Tuesday night this week a regular FTA radio program was put on the air by Gail Coffin, Joan Nuss and Don Starr. They did a very nice job of presenting news of FTA and teaching programs.

Another basketball game of the WRA program was played on Tuesday night. Ces Carroll's team won over Josie Ward's team on a score of 20 to 5. This was a good game but some fast players were missing. There will be another game this next Tuesday night.

LOWELL KOLBABA — Third season on varsity, a returning serviceman, was a regular for two seasons, one of which Eastern Oregon captured the conference title. Holds individual single game scoring mark in conference play with 42 points, since beaten by Jack Parker of Portland State. Lowell joined squad after football season during which time he played important role at an end position. Recently named to honorable mention on all-league squad. Led Mountaineers to conference track title in 1952.

JOHN REINKING—Second year on EOC varsity, tallest man on the sqaud. From San Andreas, California, where he was a teammate of Ted Schadewitz in high school. Played two years for Stockton Junior College before coming to EOC. Last season he amply filled the shoes of graduated Bob Adrian at center by breaking Bob's field goal percentage mark of 42.2% with one of 47.2% and latching onto 297 rebounds to take runner-up honors in that department for the team. In 28 games he racked up 380 points for a 13.6 average, was ninth in the conference scoring race with a 247 total of 16 games, was 20th among the pointmakers of the northwest and garnered a second team center berth on the OCC all-star team. In 14 games of this season John has scored 184 points for a 13-1 gameaverage. "Big" John leads in the rebounding department with 204 and 14.6 per game average.

Fouls Plentiful EOC Drops 2, Parker Hits 45,

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers dropped two conference games to the Portland State Vikings 112 to 65 and 103 to 85.

Parker Hits 45

Jack Parker, Viking forward, scored 45 points in the first scrimmage, hitting 19 for 22 from the field and 7 for 10 from the gift stripe. Ted Schadewitz hit for 31 counters in the first game.

PSC Shoots High Percentage

In the first game Portland State shot a fabulous 75.9 percent from the field and 80.7 percent from the free throw stripe. Portland State out-rebounded the Mountaineers 48-26 the first night and 44 to 15 the second night.

Mounties Collect Fouls

The Mounties played a much better brand of ball the second night but were quickly handicapped by personal fouls. In this second fray the hilltoppers were called for 32 fouls to 16 for the winners. The Vik's scored 44 points from the foul line while the La Granders hit for 19.

Lowell Kolbaba led the loosers with 32 points.

The first game the Mountaineers shot a .388 percentage from the field and .659 percent from the free throw line. SOCE shot .400 percent from the field and also .659 percent from the gift stripe. The second night the Mounties hit at a .488 percentage clip from the field and .714 percent at foul shooting.

Metz Gives Main Talk

By Pat Yoneyama

"Ground hogs are getting kind of leery nowadays," observed Dr. Bolen, referring to the annual Ground Hog luncheon held last Thursday in Hoke Hall.

"Well," he added, "hope everyone liked that ground hog we served at the luncheon last week. 'Course we didn't have time to remove all the feathers but . . ." Dr. Bolen's remarks preceded his comments on what he termed a "highly successful" luncheon, the Interfaith function at which over 80 persons attended.

Guest speaker, the Rev. Wayne N. Metz of the St. Matthews Episcopal Church in Ontario, spoke on the ecumenical tendencies of the present day churches. Rev. Metz, a 1951 graduate and a honor student of EOC, was introduced by Dr. Addy as a person who has a "truly beautiful philosophy of life."

Rev. Metz said that the different churches of today are striving toward ecumenical (tending to grow together) goals. As an outstanding example of this tendency, he mentioned the Church of the Union of South Africa which was formed in 1947. In the beginning this church, the initial unification of four denominations, was set up on a trial basis of 30 years.

"If by 1977 all the different churches of South Africa have not consolidated their work behind this one big church, the church itself will be only another denomination," he stated.

He said that one person out of 40 in India is a Christian and that Moslems and Hindus comprise the vast majority who profess adherence to any faith at all.

"We in the United States should set the example of ecumeniscity," he declared. He believes that most of the differences among the churches here are over "minor points"; as for example, the polity of the church.

He continued, "Whenever a statement like 'Christianity is a bulwork against Communism is made, we lose a thousand converts in India." He cautioned that Christianity cannot be made a weapon of the west. "It must be a means in itself," he concluded.

Janice Robertson, Forest Grove, sang "Love, Here Is My Heart," accompanied by Gail Coffin, Enterprise, at the Piano.

RETURNS FROM MEETING

Luke Boone, director of the audio-visual aids service at Eastern Oregon college, has returned from Corvallis, where he attended the annual winter meeting of the Oregon audio-visual aids association over the weekend.

Rabbi Nodel Opens Confab

This year's "religious emphasis week" is scheduled for E.O.C. Tuesday, February 21st through Thursday, the 23rd. An hourly assembly to which both the student body and the general public are invited, will be presented each day during which members of the Interfaith team will speak. An informal reception for the team, city clergymen, students, and faculty will be in Dorion Hall lounge on Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:00. The Interfaith banquet, highlight of the three-day conference, is scheduled for Wednesday evening in Hoke Hall, 5:15 to 7:30, at which Dr. Richard M. Steiner, a member of the team, will give an address. Culminating this year's conference at the 11 o'clock Thursday, he will summarize the work of the conference.

Mrs. Wilma Perry, Dean of Women at Pacific Bible College, (Church of God), in Portland, Oregon, will assist in the conference, speaking before various college classes and at the Wednesday evening and at the Thursday assembly. She is the only woman who will appear on this year's team.

Rabbi Julius Nodel of the Temple Beth Israel in Portland, Oregon, will open the conference with the keynote speech at the Tuesday 10 o'clock general assembly which will be broadcast over station KLBM. He will speak at the La Grande senior high school Wednesday at 1 o'clock. The International Relations Club will have luncheon with him Thursday in the small dining room at Hunt Hall.

The Rev. Father Archibald McDowell, Professor of Religion and Philosophy at Portland University, Portland, Oregon, will speak from a Catholic's position of view on matters of religion and on questions of Christian ethics in the modern world. He was a member of the 1955 team; then, he was a guest at the Catholic rectory on Fourth Street. Father McDowell will be chairman of the informal Fireside immediately after dinner Tuesday in Dorion Lounge. He will also address the 11 o'clock assembly Wednesday.

Dr. Richard M. Steiner, minister of the First Unitarian Church in Portland, Oregon, is scheduled to address the Wednesday assembly along with Father McDowell. At the end of the Thursday assembly, he will sum up the work of the 1956 "religious emphasis" conference. He, with Rabbi Nodel, will meet with the IRC immediately following the assembly.

Mr. Boyd K. Packer, Supervisor of Seminaries for the Latter Day Saints Church at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, will speak briefly at the Tuesday and Thursday assemblies and at the Interfaith banquet. Wednesday afternoon at 1, the La Grande junior high school has scheduled him to speak.

Dr. Bolen, advisor and sponsor of the local College Interfaith Fellowship, has announced that the number of tickets to the Interfaith banquet will be limited in number. Students will be admitted to it at the special rate of 40 cents.

The student committee in charge of the conference include the following: Dave Walch (chairman of Interfaith Fellowship), Jim Dale, Lee Bolen, Phyllis Snider, Virginia Van Blokland, Milodene Fries, Marilyn Folkman, Clara Weigel, Karen McGillivray, JoAnn Nuss, Patsy Yoneyama, Evelyn Riggin, Jean Adamson, Diana Gilstrap, and Kiyoko Yamada.

Co-chairman of the banquet arrangements are Evelyn Riggin and Jean Adamson.

Western Week

By Gary Gaertner

This next week will be a real western week for the rodeo club. The week will come to a climax in two different places with two different events.

On Thursday, part of the members will comprise a team to attend the rodeo at Eugene. This is the first annual OSC rodeo. While in Eugene the members will act as delegates to the National NIRA Convention. This is the first time in the history of the NIRA that the national convention has ever come to the Northwest.

Members composing the team for this rodeo will be Carol Ann Wigglesworth, and Agnes Thornburg, both entered in the girls' barrel race. Ray Kinder, bull riding; Jim Waldorf, calf roping and wild cow milking; and Charles Roach, calf roping and wild cow milking.

For the rest of the club the week will come to a climax with the rodeo dance Friday night. This dance will be an all western dance, from dress to decorations. There will be prizes given for the best dressed cowboy and cowgirl. The "Westerners" dance band will furnish the music. There will be some very good entertainment during intermission, also with a western flavor. The dance will last from 8:30 to 11:30. The rodeo club hopes to see a large turn-out and lots of fun.

Foreign Students Arriving Soon

Two new foreign students are expected to arrive on the EOC campus from Korea and Formosa during this month.

Sung Wan Hong is expected to leave Seoul, Korea by plane on February 11, and to arrive in Portland two days later. Sung, the son of a businessman, plans to specialize in Economics but for the rest of this term will do special work in English on an individual basis.

At Kyung Gi High School, Sung was an honor student all the way through and finished 18th in a graduating class of 287. He is also very interested and keen in horse riding activities. He intends to stay in the States until he gets his degree and while staying at EOC will reside at Hunt dormitory.

The second student from the Far East is Tien-Teh Chen and he is expected to arrive from Formosa toward the end of this month.

Tien-Teh Chen

He is to major in English and Physical Education and hopes to become a High School teacher. He is keen on athletics especially on the 100 yard dash and he participated in the Glee Club of his home town. He has also attended the English college in Tan Kang. Before leaving his home country he was required to serve four months in military training.

BEACON
Vol. XXV | Feb. 24, 1956 | No. 13

Finals Set Up

As everyone undoubtedly knows, finals have been set up a few days. Instead of being on the previously announced days, they will be given Friday, March 9th, Saturday, March 10th, and Monday, March 12th until noon.

There are two main reasons for this change. One, to provide more time for the office staff to get the grades out and two, to provide a longer vacation for students.

Former EOC Prof Leads Busy Life

by Virginia Pyatt

(Editor's note: Miss Darby, Professor of Education, taught in Ackerman laboratory school from 1929 until her retirement in 1953. She has been at Whitman college for two years. Friends at EOCE will remember her as an active booster of any worthy cause, particularly in rousing enthusiasm for the basketball and football teams.)

Edith Darby, first Professor Emeritus of Education from Eastern Oregon College of Education, finds that one can be just as busy the other side of the Blue Mountains (She's at Walla Walla Whitman college.) as on this side. Although she is listed as Visiting Professor of Education, Director of Elementary Education would be nearer the truth.

In addition to placing and supervising all cadet teachers, Miss Darby teaches all four courses in Elementary Education offered at Whitman. Last fall she had sixteen cadets whom she met for weekly or semi-weekly conferences. (Teaching a Sunday School class of six-year-olds was just a side-line.)

Miss Darby explains in order to get a general teaching certificate in the state of Washington, it is necessary to have teaching experience on both the elementary and high school levels.

Since Walla Walla is not too far away, Miss Darby often encounters former EOCE students. One of these, Mrs. Ruth Sollars (formerly Mrs. Ruth Greene), is Director of Elementary Curriculum in the Walla Walla schools. Miss Darby had nothing but high praise and commendation for Superintendent Arthur Jones for his "wholehearted support and invaluable help.'

Besides being an ardent TV fan, especially when it comes to baseball and football, Miss Darby finds time to enjoy the cultural and entertainment side Walla Walla offers. There are the Whitman Theater, The Whitman Lecture and Concert Series, the Little Theater Association of Walla Walla, the Community Concert Series, and the Walla Walla Symphony Concerts.

"I miss EOCE and my many friends in La Grande," writes Miss Darby. "What fine people they are no one knows better than I. I wish more of them would come over to see me."

ANY SALARY INVOLVED?

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (ACP)—The Daily Trojan needed some girls to do secretarial work so the paper's city editor, Richard Reid, dreamed up a unique and enjoyable stunt to lure the ladies into the office. He agreed to bestow kisses on the first ten coeds who volunteered for the work.

"It's the least I could do," Reid said. "But ten is my absolute limit."

So far, there's been no report on the number of applicants.

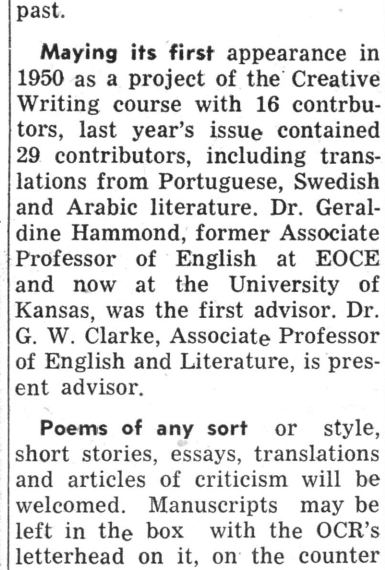
MAXINE HIATT has been named one of ten finalists for the title of "Miss Oregon Press Photographer of 1956," according to word received by Editor Steve Loy of the La Grande Evening Observer. Miss Hiatt is an EOC freshman from Vale. Loy submitted her candidacy from this region, along with that of several other co-eds.

Sweetheart Crowned

By D. L. G.

The annual Dorion Hall Sweet Heart Ball was held on the night of Feb. 10. It was a very successful affair and enjoyed by all. Don Swart and his "Rhythmeres" played for this dance. Linda Prather, of Medical Springs, sang a solo during the program.

The question of who would the sweetheart of 1956 was answered when Miss Verla Garner walked through the big red paper heart to be crowned with a crown of white carnations by Mrs. Hoyt, dorm mother. Verla was followed by the princesses, Milodene Fries, Bernice Tracy, Josie Ward, and Margaret Preston.



Miss Grave Furiama, Dorion Hall vice president, presented Verla with a dozen red roses on behalf of Dorion Hall.

The room was very effectively decorated with gay valentines to go with the theme "Cupid Capers."

BULLETIN

THE BEACON will publish next Friday, March 2, rather than Friday, March 9. This change in the regular publication schedule is calculated to avoid the rush and hustle of Final Exams week.

—The Editor.

Drama Director RICHARD HIATT

Write Today! Submit Soon!

By Virginia Pyatt

The deadline for submission of copy to the "Oregon Collegiate Review" (formerly "The Middle R") has been moved up to April 1, 1956. Dave McLain, editor, urges all EOC students to "come through" to make this six-year-old, and thus far, successful literary experiment as great a success as it has been in the past.

Maying its first appearance in 1950 as a project of the Creative Writing course with 16 contrbutors, last year's issue contained 29 contributors, including translations from Portuguese, Swedish and Arabic literature. Dr. Geraldine Hammond, former Associate Professor of English at EOCE and now at the University of Kansas, was the first advisor. Dr. G. W. Clarke, Associate Professor of English and Literature, is present advisor.

Poems of any sort or style, short stories, essays, translations and articles of criticism will be welcomed. Manuscripts may be left in the box with the OCR's letterhead on it, on the counter at Hoke Hall. All manuscripts must be signed; typing (double-spaced) is preferred. Manucripts may be submitted from other four-year colleges.

Moving from a mimeographed magazine to a printed one is this year's "big new" experiment. It will be produced and published by Iota Phi Omicron, honorary for college journalists and writers. Duane Lindsay is president of this group; Ronald Bayes, instructor in English, advisor. Editorial assistants to Editor McClain are Eunice Thornburg and Patsy Yoneyama.

Each year, editions have been a complete sell-out. More copies will be printed this year due to a larger student body plus the fact the "Review" will be sold on other campuses in the state. Publication date is scheduled for the first week in May. Buy yours early. In these years of inflation, the price is still—twenty-five cents.

Don't look for a friend to be without fault.

Roberta Miller, La Grande, and Janet York, Milton-Freewater, model nineteenth century costumes for their roles in the "Heiress."

First Nighter Praises Cast

By Boyd Devin

First-nighters present at the College Theatre for the opening of Sock and Buskin's "The Heiress" last night were treated to an evening of fine theatrical entertainment.

This story of an unloved, forsaken wealthy woman unfolds amid beautiful 19th century costumes and setting. The costumes, which are under the supervision of Phyllis Snider and Donna Talbott, are worthy of high praise, as is the very effective set, constructed under the watchful eye of Jack Chapman.

Superlative performances were turned in by all in the cast. Roberta Miller in the title role retained her reputation as a fine actress in her interpretation of the shy young heiress, Catherine Sloper. It was also evident that members of the cast who made their theatrical debut possess great talent. Leonard Swanson very favorably impressed the opening night crowd with his performance as Morris Townsend, the dashing young suitor. Tom Mercer was dynamic as Dr. Austin Sloper, the autocratic father of the heroine. Clara Weigel was very effective as Aunt Penniman, the peacemaker of the play.

Supporting roles were excellently done by Lorraine Frank as Mrs. Almond, Janet York as Marian Almond, Patsy Evans as Mrs. Montgomery, Maxine Hiatt as Maria, and Jim Dale as Arthur Townsend.

The bulk of the credit goes to Director Richard Hiatt and assistant director Anna LaKamp, for without their fine efforts another Sock and Buskin success would not have been opssible.

"The Heiress" is a "must" for all La Grande theatre-goers. Don't miss it!

Winters Plans Coffee Hours

A recent innovation on the campus is the coffee hour planned by Mrs. Winters to give the campus girls a chance to get together for a cup of coffee and a friendly chat. The time is arranged to suit the free time of the girls and will vary so that all girls will have an opportunity to attend. Invitations are being sent out, and each girl will have been invited before the end of the year, but Mrs. Winters emphasizes the fact that the girls do not need to wait for an invitation but should feel free to come whenever they can. Notices will be out a few days in advance. The gatherings are held in the Faculty lounge and are very informal. School clothes are in order, and girls may stay for the full hour if they can spare the time, or for only five minutes if they are in a hurry. Two of these occasions have been held so far and there will be another in the near future.

EOC Graduate Returns Before Trip To Paris

Roger K. Brown, graduate of Eastern Oregon college and Art Center School of Los Angeles, visited on campus this week.

Until returning to Oregon early this February, Brown was employed with a design company in New York city.

He is spending several days with his parents in Pendleton and visiting old school friends before flying to Paris, where he will join the staff of Raymond Lowey and Company at that branch office.

The Lucy Case At Alabama

(ACP)—The Autherine Lucy case has become a national issue and a number of college newspapers have carried news stories or editorial comment about it. The Associated Collegiate Press has summarized in the next few paragraphs some of their editorial statements.

From the University of West Virginia's Daily Athenaeum: "It's often been said that those who wrestle with qualms of inferiority are the ones who feel they must fight to prove their supremacy. As far as we're concerned the Alabama students only demonstrated their immaturity, indecency, inhumanity and perhaps inferiority. If the white race were superior (and it is not) it would not have to fight to insure its position."

The Daily Californian had this to say: "One bright light in the Alabama situation appears to be University President O. C. Carmichael, who has been attempting to keep the situation under control. Addressing an emergency faculty meeting, Carmichael masterfully understated the incident, 'This situation could possibly bring disgrace to our university. It might well end in a tragedy.' If the current action of Carmichael and the University trustees are for the purpose of gaining time to consider a plan for integration of Miss Lucy and other prospective Negroes the actions are perhaps the best remedy for the present problem."

From the Iowa State Daily: "One favorable note was detected when only about five per cent of the 1,000 demonstrators involved were students. This comes on the heels of the first report which said that the riot was exploded on the Alabama campus. It was natural to assume that it was an all-student display. It is hoped that this means that the younger generation, for the most part, is using some common sense on the racial issue. It seems that for some years yet the Deep South will continue to have periodic outbursts involving the racial question. We only hope that, ultimately, these generations of southerners will throw off these 'race barrier' shackles and be able to attend classes on a non-segregated basis."

The Tufts University weekly: "The University of Alabama undergraduates have succeeded only in making an abominable mess of the whole affair. Suspension of all involved would not be too harsh for these contemptuous rebels."

And the University of Tennessee's Orange and White editorialized: ". . . . we choose to believe that it is a fact that . . . Negro students have attended graduate schools over the entire South for the last three or four years with very little comment . . . Only one person was reported to leave a class because of Miss Lucy's presence in the room . . . University of Alabama students are not so different from other southern students, who, incidentally, have not rioted when they discovered a Negro in their midst . . . Are the students at Alabama so much more immature, meaner, or any less intelligent than U-T students? The state of Alabama and the state of Tennessee bound each other for 100 miles or so . . . We do hope that either the state of Alabama or the Federal Government does something to break up the 'hard inner core of outsiders' and give the young men and women who attend the University of Alabama a little time to think. If they are allowed to reflect for a while on the whole matter, we think they will reach the same decision U-T and other university students have made."

The Minnesota Daily, commenting on the University's action in barring Miss Lucy from classes, had this to say: "Some may call the University administration's decision short-sighted and unnecessary. The Daily does not agree. It should be remembered, as officials stated, that the tempor of the mob would have resulted in murder. And such an act would mean further, bloodier violence. It would be a mistake, we believe, for Miss Lucy's lawyer to continue his insistence that she be readmitted. Desegregation will not be achieved through force. But the students at the University are to be congratulated for their attitude of common sense and fair play. According to University officials about 150 of them took part in the riot . . . 150 out of an enrollment of 7,000. The rest of the 7,000 remembered to think rationally."

On the other hand, Leonard Wilson, a 19-year-old-pre-law student at the University of Alabama, wrote this letter for the United Press:

"It would be the greatest thing Autherine Lucy ever did if she would withdraw voluntarily from the University of Alabama. The demonstrations show beyond a reasonable doubt that integration will not work. For the safety of herself and of all other students, she should not be admitted. I take issue with a report that the participants in the demonstrations have been outsiders. There were probably some taxpayeing citizens in the crowd. But in the groups I saw assembled there were more university students than outsiders. I don't think Autherine Lucy is responsible for what she is doing. Apparently, she is being backed and pushed by the wretched National Association for the Agitation of Colored People. The only solution to the problem will be for Autherine Lucy to withdraw voluntarily and put an end to all connected court litigation."

At the same time, the Michigan State News observed editorially that the Lucy case is only one incident and suggests that the South's so-called "Magnolia Curtain" is lifting: "Witness these 'quiet' news stories by a correspondent for one of the Detroit papers. '. . . while the angry youngsters in Tuscaloosa were demonstrating against a Negro coed, two more districts in West Virginia integrated their schols for the current semester. There had been dire predictions of race riots in Greenbriar and Raleigh counties in that state. But in both a few weeks ago Negro children were transferred to white schools without incident. In Mercer county, West Virginia, another supposed tension area, the school authorities announced they would integrate their facilities next September. In Big Springs, Texas, the schools were integrated. In Kentucky, where there are already forty school districts in the process of desegregation, it was announced that every district in the state will have started on a desegregation plan by next September. In Nashville, Tennessee, school officials last month began quiet discussion on the desegration problem with parents, on a school by school basis.' Reports like these do not usually rate the biggest headlines, but ultimately . . . if not already . . . they will be of greater import than one spectacular, isolated case of prejudice."

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

Mr. Groth is going around school with his fingers crossed these days. Snow has kept the band home from one trip and stranded several of the orchestra members in Baker last Sunday. The band has planned another trip for next week. They are all hoping that they will get to go to Enterprise, Joseph, and Wallowa next week. The program that the band will present will be basically the asme as the one they prepared earlier this term. One of the additions will be "Stars and Stripes Forever" featuring a piccolo solo by Barbara Carter.

Last Sunday the Grande Ronde Symphony presented their winter concert. The featured number was Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 4 in D Major. Mr. Groth was the violinist and Dr. Bishop conducted this number. The orchestra includes 27 members of the community, 15 members from La Grande and Baker high schools, and 14 members from EOC. EOC students include Gail Coffin, piano; Elwyn Hug, Bonnie Powell, and Don Swart, french horns; Doris Rigney and Diana Gilstrap, violins; Barbara Carter, flute; Ray Reeder, oboe; Gary Winkel, Karen McGillivray, and Pat Bagley, clarinets; Monte Nedrow, trumpet; and Davie Everett and Eleanor Kuether, percussion.

Sunday afternoon the Winged Victory Chorus will present a program for Civic Music. They are singing many well-known songs, and the program consists of several light numbers from both Sigmund Romberg and Rodgers and Hammerstein productions.

The Blue and Gold Singers appeared at the Interfaith Banquet last Wedensday night. Their numbers included "Oh Dear, What Can the Matter Be" and "Sourwood Mountain."

EOCene Era

The newly organized married students club on EOC's campus held their monthly Pot Luck dinner last Wednesday the 15th of February in the lounge of Hoke Hall. At this meeting the name "Ball and Chain Club" was adopted. President Oliver Calhoun called the meeting to order after the dinner. He introduced Miss Adele Buckwalter to the group and she favored them with two tap-dance routines. She was accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Morris Buckwalter.

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Spear were unanimously elected by the group to be the faculty advisors for the club.

The constitution committee presented a constitution to be passed on by the club. It was read, discussed, voted upon and passed by the members present.

Mrs. Ron Loe and Mrs. Victor were appointed as the co-hostesses for the next social which will be early next term.

This club is for the benefit of all married students who are attending the college. The requirements—just come, bring that supper with you, and have a good time.

One Man's Opinion

by Duane E. Stiff

It has been my pleasure to discuss with various students from time to time the topic of religion. These discussions have been over a cup of coffee or in the lounge between classes, and have always been more or less a bull sessions.

Amost always when the questions "Do you belong to any church" or "Do you feel that religion is important to one's life" are asked, the same stock answers are given, especially from those who do not have a church home. Such answers as "No, I don't belong to any group, but I'm shopping around" and "Yes, I believe religion has its place as long as I'm allowed to live it my own way." There are other questions and answers of course, but these will serve as good examples.

It would be impossible to say I'm right and you're wrong in this matter, but I do feel that I can voice an opinion without passing judgment. It appears to me that there is a definite need for everyone to have a church home. To some degree we are all guilty of shopping around, but the question comes to my mind as to just what we are shopping for? Surely it is not more fellowship, this can be found in any organization and need not be a church. Maybe a place where we can put in some time working for our fellow man, one does not need a church to do this either. I'm sure the real answer is that we are looking for a doctrine or policy which comes the closest to fitting our own ways of thinking. To do this we must draw God down to our own level, and this, of course, is absurd. In my opinion this is definitely the negative approach.

One must realize a true need for God's love and the sincere desire to raise and better themselves. This need is realized in many ways and brought to light in different fashion. The sooner we admit to ourselves, and God, that we are not capable of living a good and righteous life without His help, the sooner this need will be realized.

Is religion important to one's life? This is actually a stupid question as the answer is obvious. Yes, of course, it can be the hub, spokes and rim in the wheel of life. Without the integration of religion into our homes, work and play, life would soon become a dull, stale, unprofitable thing to what it could be.

The secret to this, I believe, is through thought and prayer. Do not hesitate to question your friends, minister or priest. They will be more than happy to give all the help they can. It is never too late. God's love is free for the asking, and the asking can be made as easy and simple as you wish to make it.

SPEARS, BAYES SPEAK

Dr. W. Douglas Spear, assistant professor of political science at EOC, and Ronald Bayes, instructor in English, were speakers included on the program of the Hi-Y legislative meeting at the high school this week-end. Dr. Spear talked on "Introducing Your Bill" and Bayes' topic was "Getting Support for Your Bill."

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie—

This will be just a short note because I looked at the calendar, and what I saw nearly scared me to death—gosh, we only have two more weeks until finals so I just don't have time for letter writing.

There is one thing that I must take time to ask about. What in the world are you going to do with those pictures I saw on your desk the other day? You know which ones I mean, the two that were taken over at Dorion during Christmas season. That one of Don Starr all mixed up with that leopard skin is really good. And that snapshot of Lee Clark Gable Johnson bestowing a cinema-like smacker on a cute little coed is almost too good to be true. Where do you suppose Dr. Johnson ever learned to kiss like that? As I have told you before—the versatility of our faculty simply amazes me.

Did you hear what Dr. Spear did to put the emphasis on Religious Emphasis Week? He told his social science class that attendance at the assemblies during the week was not really compulsory, however he would advise his students to be there because he planned to use material from the assemblies in his test. There is more than one way to get students out.

I dropped by Hoke Hall last week when the Ball and Chain Club was having their pot luck dinner and I'm telling you Aggie, I believe half of the people that were there were wearing smocks (the feminine half, of course). If production like that is taking place on every campus we had better hurry and get our education because there is going to be demand for teachers to take care of all this younger generation.

I've got to quit gabbing and get back to those books. I'll see you next week.

Love,
Ettie

One thing that I should have said at the outset of this story is that any simularity to people living or dead is strictly intentional, and if the shoe fits wear it or pick up your pen and defend yourselves.

Now from time to time Tall Dog calls a meeting of the ruling members of the Dark Forest to discuss matters which concern his disinterested band of followers. Now it seems that these meetings conflict with some of the members who spend much of their time teaching the finer art of mind warping and perverse personality development. Then there are those who think more of eating than how the population is run. At times it is not hard to see why Tall Dog takes matters into his own hands. It is very plain to those at the outer edges of the forest that there are many people who would rather give a discourse on the subject than do anything about it, as could be seen by the last election.

It is hard for anyone to work with a group of people who don't seem to give a bark if things get done or not. What this band of people need is a few more infiltrators like Woo-Woof Spike who gets his outside work done even if he has to cut a finger off to do it. Maybe drastic measures are necessary to get our aims accomplished.

There will be an election in the near future and this will be a very good chance for some of you to stop talking and start doing something for a change.

LOY ADDRESSES CLASS

Steve Loy, editor of the Evening Observer, was guest lecturer at the Eastern Oregon college journalism class' weekly session. Loy spoke on problems facing the staff of daily newspapers in smaller cities.

JACK COCHRAN — A Sophomore guard or forward, very aggressive, can hit. Played for La Grande High School and joined the Mountaineers last year. Collected 205 points in 27 games for a 7.6 average to take sixth place in scoring as a freshman. Capable of moving into a starting berth next year.

Mounties Split OTI Wins One Kolbaba Scores

by Jerry Goble

Oregon Technical Institute got revenge Friday night as they dropped Eastern Oregon 74 to 55, but faltered Saturday evening as EOC came back to win the second fray 70-67, at Klamath Falls.

The Friday night game was a ball control game on the part of OTI as they only shot a total of 42 from the field while making 26. The Owl attack was lead by Fasteen and McCutcheon as they poured in 26 and 21 respectively.

Big Lowell Kolbaba and Ted Schadewitz lead the Mountaineers scoring as they garnered 18 apiece for the evening. Eastern Oregon bounced back after Friday night's shellacking to even the series.

This was a close fought ball game until Ken Westenskow connected for eight fast points in succession to put EOC out in front by a 68 to 55 score. OTI fought back as they intercepted Mountaineer passes and monopolized on these breaks to pull within 3 points of the visitors before the final buzzer sounded.

Foster was high man for the game as he hit 6 field goals and 11 of 12 free throws for a total of 23 points. Following close behind was Kolbaba with 20 points to lead the Mountaineers. Westenskow and Schadewitz collected 19 and 15 respectively.

Box score for both nights:

Off The Bench

by Mike Hoff

The Heidelbergs, the IK Majors and the Studs are picked to battle it out for the championship in the Intrumurels basketball tournament. The IK Shockers ended the season with a perfect record, no wins and 12 losses. (They didn't make the tournament.) Maybe the Shockers will taste victory when they meet the Sabers in an annual contest tonite during the half-time of the Portland State game.

If Eastern Oregon wins these two games against Portland State they will cinch a tie for first place in the OCC conference. The Vikings haven't defeated a Mountaineer team on this floor for three years. Why not make it four? ? ?

Wolves Even Score 86-78 'Schad' Hits

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers held true to their usual split on road trips by splitting another series. The Mounties split with the Oregon College Wolves winning the first one 86-78 and losing the second one 98-86.

In the first game four of EOC's men hit in the double figures. Ted Schadewitz shared scoring honors with EOC's Cece Miller, both hitting for 23 counters. Lowell Kolbaba 15, Ken Westenskow, 19; John Reinking 17.

The Mounties hit 35 out of 75 shots from the field for a splendid .467 mark, while the Wolves shot 35 out of 75 for a .365 average.

As was mentioned before John Reinking scored 17 points and he also nabbed 16 rebounds.

With a fairly good chance of winning the OCC conference the Mountaineers lessened their chance by losing a hard fought see-saw battle the second night. Several times during the first period the lead changed hands, but finally when the Wolves from Monmouth gained a 46-44 count they were never to be headed.

Ted Schadewitz again took scoring honors with a fine 34 point cutput. Ron Jones and Cece Miller lead the winners with 25 counters apiece.

Box score for both nights:

EOC	FG	FM	FA	PF	TP
Westenskow	11	5	7	7	27
Kolbaba	11	13	16	10	35
Reinking	14	1	3	7	28
Schadewitz	21	15	17	6	57
Burton	3	2	3	6	8
Cochran	4	2	2	4	10
Cable	0	0	0	2	0

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.

Letter To Editor

The time has come. The day of reckoning has arrived. There are, by my count, 92 illustrious Juniors. But, sad to say, less than half of them have had or handed in their Junior Physical Examinations. The examinations do not cost you an extra cent. They are included in your student health fees. Those who do not have the health blanks may obtain them at the Health Service Office. The first part of the examination will be done there.

A word to the wise is sufficient. These examinations are now due.

COWBOY BAND PACES TROT

By Ces Carrol

Although the crowd was very small, the Rodeo Dance, held Februray 17th, was successful. The music, provided by the "Westernaires," was tops and there was plenty of elbow room on the dance floor.

Hoke Hall was decorated cleverly with saddles, bareback riggns, and the like which created a truly western atmosphere.

At intermission, Gary Gaertner, Rodeo Club President, made the presentation of prizes to the "best dressed" cowgirl and cowboy. Jerry Martin, Longcreek, was chosen for the cowboy and he received a gift certificate for a pair of levis from Falks. A certificate for a lady's blouse from Trotters was given to Ces Carroll, Burns, for the cowgirl prize.

Banquet High-Lights Meet

By Pat Yoneyama

In the middle of much bantering and joking at the Interfaith banquet Wednesday evening at Hoke Hall, things hit the climax during the "debate" of wits between Dr. Bolen, advisor of Interfaith, and the Rev. Gene Robinson, pastor of the First Christian Church, La Grande. The good pastor got in the last word with "I always knew he (Bolen) was in the Lord's place, but I never knew him to admit it before!" Dr. Bolen was speechless.

One hundrey sixty people attended this banquet which highlighted the 15th annual, three-day Religion in Life Conference on the EOC campus. To the immense enjoyment of the guests, Dr. Bolen and his Interfaith team seemed to have exhausted all the joke books that have ever been printed, by the time they finished winding up everybody! A birthday cake for Dr. Bolen for his "39th birthday" the next day (February 23rd) was presented to him. Musical entertainment for the banquet was provided by the Blue and Gold Singers under the direction of Miss Scott and by the men's quartette.

After the preliminaries of everybody razzing everybody else was over, Dr. Bolen introduced each team member to the guests with a rousing speech. The object of each oratory swung back at the minister-and-chemistry prof one way or another by some witty "literary toss."

Dr. Bennett warmly welcomed the team and guests. Greetings were given by Mrs. Wilma Perry, Dean of Women, Pacific Bible College, Portland, Oregon; Mr. Boyd K. Packer, Seminary Supervisor, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah; the Rev. Father Archibald McDowell, Professor of Philosophy and Religion, University of Portland, Portland, Oregon; and Rabbi Julius Nodel, Temple Beth Israel, Portland. D. Richard M. Steinter, minister, First Unitarian Church, Portland, gave the half-hour address.

GRANT MADE

AMHERST, Mass. (I.P.) — A three-year grant totalling $30,000 has been made by the Fund for the Advancement of Education to Mount Holyoke, Smith, and Amherst colleges, and the University of Massachusetts to encourage and assist cooperative educational programs among them.

Team Members Express Views

By Pat Yoneyama

TUESDAY:

"What my religion can do for me, others' religion can do for them," was the theme of Rabbi Julius J. Nodel's keynote address, beginning the three-day "Religion in Life Conference" Tuesday morning on the EOC campus. Before the student body the Rabbi of Temple Beth Israel, Portland, emphasized that ". . . mutual participation in human understanding (in matters of religion) makes for good neighborliness" and that the "betterment of mankind" is the goal of our common working.

Dr. Bolen, advisor of the college Interfaith which sponsors the annual religious emphasis week, introduced the Rabbi to the assembly after the other team members had been presented before them.

A breakfast in Hoke Hall immediately preceded the assembly where the five-member team, Dr. Bennett, Dr. Skeen, Dr. Bolen, and two student members of the Interfaith committee were present. After breakfast, Dr. Bolen gave the speakers their assignments and schedule for the conference.

An informal reception for the team, city clergymen, students, and faculty was sponsored Tuesday afternoon in Dorion Lounge by the Associated Women's Association. Mrs. Winters, advisor of the group, commented that "quite a number came" and she appeared well pleased with the interest shown in it by all guests. Under the direction of Milodene Fries, president of AWS, the girls introduced the team to guests and served refreshments. Dinner in the central dining room and then a fireside, led by Father McDowell, in the lounge, followed the reception.

WEDNESDAY:

Dr. Steiner stated there are significant values in people having different faiths and different religious beliefs, for each faith should then become more dear to the believer because of these differences. "We must not minimize our diffeernces for our faith means much to each one of us," he stated.

The purpose of such a week as this is to "provide an academic platform from which our views will be explained," said Father McDowell appreciatively as he stood before the microphone. He spoke about the foundation of the Catholic Church and some of its basic tenets which provide for its existence and persistence. He traced the beginning, growth, and development of the Church up to the present. He emphasized several times that the "divine love and work present in intellectual honesty, enables us to talk frankly and freely like this."

Personality On Review

This week we find Peter J. Donahue in our personality column. Pete was born in Walla Walla, Washington on November 6. 1930. When he was two years old he moved with his parents to Pendleton. He received his education at the St. Joseph's Academy and the Pendleton High School. After completing school he entered the service. After being discharged from the service in 1953, he came to Eastern Oregon College.

On campus Pete is enrolled in elementary teachers education. He is active in the Intercollegiate Knights and is a member of F.T.A. Pete named steaks and light sparkling beverages as his favorite food and drink. His choice of magazines are any pictorial editions. The only fault he can find with college life is that the college is in La Grande.

JoAnn Glenn Pete Donahue

This week we cross the campus to Dorion Hall where the spotlight stops on a Summerville girl. Her name is Joanne Glenn.

Joanne is a graduate of Imbler High School but she wants it to be known that she is from Summerville instead. She is a junior this year and is majoring in Elementary Education. Her favorite classes are in the education field with her goal being to finish her practice teaching next year.

Joanne is 5'4" tall and has brown eyes and light brown hair.

In high school she was an active member in various clubs and sports. Here at EOC she is a member of Ski club, FTA, Sabers, and WRA. Joanne is also the treasurer of Dorion Hall.

Her main dislike is going to bed at night and getting up in the morning, but Joanne did say she liked to go to class.

She may be seen around campus with Mikie Fries her room mate.

The cure for ignorance is study.

Eight Delegates Go To Model UN

By PAT YONEYAMA

For the sixth session of the Model United Nations "Of the Great Pacific West" which will be held at Oregon State college April 4th through 7th this year, the EOC International Relations Club will send eight delegates. The club will officially represent Bulgaria, one of the 76 member nations of the United Nations. Each college or university that participates in the three-day conference will likewise be assigned a member nation to represent in Corvallis. Approximately 120 schools are expected to participate in the session and delegates will probably total between 1,200 to 1,500.

The Bulgarian delegation for EOC include the following: Gary Webster, La Grande, delegation chairman; Arthur Hartgraves, Milton-Freewater, delegation vice-chairman (and president of IRC); Patsy Yoneyama, Nyssa, delegation secretary (and secretary of IRC); Mary Joan Russell, Nyssa, (vice president of IRC); Don Starr, Joseph; Bob King, Maupin; Bob Fisher, Haines; and Joe Keith, Durkee. Dr. Gaiser, advisor of IRC, and his wife will chaperone the group to Corvallis. The delegation will leave campus April 3rd and return on the 8th.

"Each of the eight delegates has been placed on a committee and each committee has drawn up at least one resolution for committee consideration," said Webster. The delegates have been meeting every Monday and Thursday noon in the Central dining room to discuss the general Bulgarian attitude and interests relating to the UN and to consider resolutions for adoption.

As a resolution of last year's continuations committee reads, "The actions of the delegates are dependent upon interpreting the agenda in the light of the social and political makeup of the nation represented, but with the freedom to interpret these issues as individual students of internationalism."

Delegates will serve on the following committees: Ad Hoc Political Committee: Fisher and Keith; Political and Security committee: Yoneyama and Hartgraves; Economics and Financial committee: Keith and Russell; Social, Humanitarian and Cultural: Starr; Trusteeship committee: King. Webster will be the roving delegate.

Webster stated that the first day of the conference will consist of committee meetings during which resolutions will be considered for submittance to the General Assembly. The last two days will be taken up in the General Assembly which will pass or veto resolutions. He said, "Our own resolutions that we sent in have a good chance of getting through."

This year is the second time that IRC will participate as an ac-

Alumnus Sings With Gleeman

Leon Bolen, alumnus of Eastern Oregon College class of '50, appears with the Boise Elks Gleeman in a concert being given Sunday, March 4, in the new High School auditorium. The concert is scheduled for five o'clock.

Bolen is minister of the Methodist church in Boise and is the son of Dr. Virgil Bolen, professor of chemistry. He is featured in the Gleeman's quartet.

The group, composed of business and professional men from Boise, have won several national contests and at present are en route to Chicago where they will wind up their present series of concerts.

Central school P.T.A. is sponsoring the singers with Mrs. Frank Goshorn, chairman of the affair. Proceeds go toward the new curtains for Central's auditorium.

Annual Nears Completion

by Barrie Edwards

The Annual is now working toward its last deadline, which will be toward the end of the term. Since it will be important for organizations who have not had pictures taken to get them done; they are urged to do so immediately.

Some of these organizations are: Letterman's Club, Dorion Hall Council, Alpha Rho Tau, International Relations Club, WRA, Ski Club, Young Republicans and Democrats.

The deadline for these pictures to be taken, should be noted as on, or before Friday March 2, if they are to appear in the Annual. The organizations should have their chairmen make necessary arrangements with photographers Tom Mercer or Don Swart.

Mr. Bayes, annual advisor, said, "The Year Book is faced with an emergency which will be met. But it will publish.' He continued, "Don Swart the editor has been ordered by his doctor to take a complete rest. This creates a difficult problem for the Mountaineer Staff as it follows recent illness of Bob Phelps, the business manager. We are confident," he added, "that we can count on active co-operation of all campus organizations, chairmen, and advisors as we take pictures for the final deadline.'

He concluded by giving his thanks and praises to the work of the staff including that of Editor Don Swart and Business Manager Bob Phelps.

Addy Serves On Council

by E. Thornburg

Dr. Martha Addy has recently accepted an invitation to serve as a Charter Member of the Council for the Inter-national University Foundation. This group will exceed six members and will consist of leaders selected from many different fields in the United States and fifty-three other countries. Prominent educators, writers, lawyers, business executives and outstanding public leaders are thus providing a nucleus of sponsorship in various parts of the free world.

The purpose of the Inter-National Foundation is to create and foster education institutions—in particular an Inter-National University as a training center for national and international civil servants and responsible leaders in various fields. Such a University would give special attention to training candidates for governmental and diplomatic careers and would offer opportunities for study in theoretical and applied world affairs. Training for journalists radio broadcasters and businessmen in international fields would also be available. Language training and knowledge of the cultural backgrounds of various nations would be part of the curriculum. From such training it is hoped that in a future era the politcial, economical and social benefits of all countries could become mutual, thus helping to establish world-wide unity

Rodeo Team Competes

By Gary Gaertner

The 5 members of the rodeo club who attended the OSC rodeo at Eugene February 17 and 18 managed to come forth with a few points toward the national championship. Agnes Thornburg was the bigwinner, coming home with a first place in the girls barrel race. Carol Wigglesworth also won a third in the same event. In the boys event Ray Kinder was the only EOC team member lucky enough to come forth as a winner. Ray bucked off his bull, but he scraped up enough points to win a fourth in the horseback riding. Other competitors from EOC were Brownie Roach and Jim Waldorf.

There were 12 teams participating at this rodeo, from Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho, Utah, Montana, Colorado, and Wyoming.

The team championship went to Brigham Young University from Provo, Utah. Brigham Young also had the all around cowboy with Dick Smith, who was winner of the calf roping and bull dogging. He also chalked up a few points in the saddle bronc riding and ribbon roping.

GIRL OF YEAR — Miss Mary Joan Russell, junior from Nyssa, has been named International Relations club "Girl of the Year" at Eastern Oregon college. Miss Russell is active in many college activities and has been in IRC for three years.

Costume Dance Stag Or Drag

By Pat Yoneyama

Hey, there! You with your nose in the book . . . got a date for the Mardi Gras yet?!! Better hurry, bud, 'cause that festive dance is tomorrow night (March 3rd) and this is Friday. Wake up and dig up a date! 'Course anyone can go stag and staggette and they're encouraged to do so, if they want. Ahhh . . . come on . . . have some fun before those finals next week!

Yep, fellows and gals, ole' Mardi Gras time is here again. This costume dance is being sponsored by Theta Delta Phi, EOC men's honorary, in Hoke Hall this Saturday night from 8:30 to 11:30. Word is it's really one of the most memorable dances scheduled on the school calendar. A lot of fun and whoop-dee-do is in store for everyone! Maestro Don Swart and his hep cats are providing the music.

Again, we urge . . . drag out those moth-covered get-ups and go. Make this last dance of the winter term a real success!

Jack Bond, La Grande, general chairman of the dance said, "All persons who attend the dance are asked to wear costumes . . . the funnier and more unique the better. Also, we'd like to see couples dressed as a twosome."

Costumes will be judged on the basis of originality by the costume judging committee headed by Jeff Ford. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the following categories: the most "unique" costume, the "funniest" costume, the best examples in dress of the "opposite sex" (male and female), and the "best couple."

Bob Valiant, Baker, chairman of the decorations committee, is keeping the details and what-nots of his interior decorating a cryptic secret. However, a hint: balloons and crepe paper will be used profusely to give out that gay, flamboyant, Pa-ree flavor.

Art Hartgraves, Milton-Freewater, as head of the publicity committee has been busy posting signs all over campus to publicize this dance.

Theta Delta Phi has annually sponsored the Mardi Gras preparatory to Shrovetide for the last five years. Officers of the organization are the following: J. D. Carlson, president; Jack Bond, La Grande, vice president; Ron Frazier, treasurer; and Carl Iseri, Ontaria, historian. Advisors to the group are Dr. Lee Johnson and Dr. Joe Gaiser.

Six Nominated For 'Key Award' In Journalism

Have You Registered To Vote?

Everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it. This idiom has been around as long as politics and may readily be applied to our thoughts and beliefs concerning our political affiliations and civic responsibilities. Voting is not only a civic responsibility but also a privilege which should be respected and upheld.

"As a good citizen it is your responsibility to participate in election by voting wisely." To vote in the forthcoming elections you must be registered by April 17th. It will only take a few minutes of your time to go to the courthouse and register.

Everyone has his own opinions about how government should be run, but if you are not actively expressing your opinions by voting—Who are you to criticize?

Personality On Review

By Cork and Bashful

This week we have picked two persons from the dorm. The spotlight has fallen upon a little but mighty fellow from Hunt. His name is Willis Allyn Laughlin who was born in Prairie City Sept. 11, 1936. He attended school in Dayville and graduated from high school in 1954. While in high school he participated in basketball and baseball and earned six letters.

Willie is now a soph. in elementary ed. and is an active member of the F.T.A., IK's and of the local Ground Observer. He also lettered in baseball in his Freshman year. (Ask him about the time he stole second base.) His favorite foods are hamburgers and brown bottled beverages (?). He has one bad habit, which is talking in his sleep.

Willie says he likes everything about college except the crowded rooms.

Willie Laughlin Janice Robertson

In the second spotlight we go over to Dorion Hall where we find Willie's best friend, Janice Robertson. When Jan was in high school she was a very active student. Jan was a member of the Honor Society, Thespians, Boosters, GAA, Homecoming Princess, Northwest Music conference Lettergirls, Choir, and Senior Play. She received several music awards and says her main interest is music. Jan is a Freshman this year majoring in Elementary Ed. Her hobbies are singing, all sports especially swimming and softball.

She says that most of the student on the campus know her but she is usually with Willie. Jan has brown hair and eyes. She is 5'3" tall and weighs 110 lbs.

Jan plays basketball with the WRA teams and is a member of the choir. When asked if she disliked anything she said "I like everything and everybody."

Chairmen Named For Junior Prom

Bart Clements, The Dalles, junior class president at Eastern Oregon college, has announced his committees for the junior prom, to be held in March.

General chairmen are Milodene Fries, Summerville, and James Dale, Newberg. Norman Trotter and Donna Talbott, both of La Grande, head the entertainment committee. Robert Valiant, Baker, and Diana Gilstrap, La Grande, top the custodial committee.

Invitations to the prom will be handled by Richard Cook, Pendleton, and Roberta Miller, La Grande. Don Scharn, Pendleton, and Barbara Gulick, Halfway, are in charge of refreshments and head the advertising committee.

Miss Leone Golz, assistant professor of art education, is faculty advisor.

Clements said the prom theme would be announced later this month.

NEW COURSES AT SMU

DALLAS, Texas (ACP) — The United States' first privately supported graduate program exclusively devoted to teaching foreign attorneys about the American system of law and government has been initiated at the Southern Methodist University. It's called the Academy of American law and has a $50,000 budget underwritten by the Hoblitzelle Foundation of Dallas.

The first class is made up of 15 students from 12 nations. All have degrees in law and were judges, public prosecutors, legal advisors or practicing attorneys in their own countries. Upon completion of their studies at the Academy the foreign lawyers will receive master's degrees.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

Bill Morris, Dick Cook, Bart Clements, and Lee Bolen, better known as the male quartet, served in a new capacity last week. They judged a music contest at the Mormon Tabernacle on February 20.

The Blue and Gold Singers have two additions to their group. The new members are Maurice Lane and Nancy Dyer.

Mr. Howard Anderson has made several appearances lately. He sang at the Presbyterian Church with the choir which is under the direction of Mr. McMullen and with the Methodist Church Choir under the direction of Dr. Bishop. His numbers included "The Voice of the Lord" by Still and "Sanctus" by Gounod. He also appeared with Mr. Groth and Mr. McMullen at a recent Lions Club meeting.

The EOC Dance Band will furnish the music for the Mardi Gras tomorrow night in Hoke Hall. This group made a big hit with the audiences when they performed on the recent band trip.

Hunt Hokum

By Tony

Well since the Rodeo Club's dance was a flop I hope that all of you fellows will turn out for the Mardi Gras this weekend. I think that even you suitcase students are invited, why don't you try out some of our college activities—you might even like them.

It seems to me that if some of the students folks knew just what their dear children do at college they would get the shock of their life. For example take last weekend, even I got a little shook up over some of the language that was used outside the dorm by some of our esteemed students. I know Ol' Sneaky Pete makes you do some funny things but I have never heard that sort of thing go on where everyone could hear it. It seems to me that some of you could have a little more respect for the girls of Dorion Hall and keep it down or at least in Hunt where some of us are used to it.

In four years here I can see quite a change — the boys get louder and the girls get colder. Well have a good vacation, don't sweat the grades too much, and we'll see you all next term?

Club News

By Corky

Now that Sock and Buskin has presented its Winter term play, they are now getting ready for the Spring term play called "Sing Ho For A Prince.' Also Sock and Buskin will hold an initiation for new members on the first Friday of Spring term.

A group of students representing EOC will leave on Friday, March 2nd, to attend the second regional FTA conference on the Portland State campus that weekend. The director of the conference will be Evelyn Hutson. Many committees will meet and discuss FTA news, problems and future plans. If there are any students that are able to attend this conference they should contact Dr. Addy right away.

Last week another basketball game of the WRA was played betwen Josie Ward's team and Carol Wiggelsworth's team. The score will just mention that Carol's team ran away with the high score. Josie came through to back her own players by being the only one on her team to score. There will be another game this next Tuesday night.

You must know you don't know before you can learn.

Painting The Town

by A. Brush

Once upon a time in a beautiful sunlit valley dwelt a happy, industrious group of animals. They were quite a jolly crew, keeping themselves busy so that they rarely had time to interfere in one another's affairs. Of course, they had a few little squabbles, but they always seemed able to settle their differences.

This happy little band was led led by a group of sincere and loyal animals who had at their help Tall Dog. Now Tall Dog was by no means the most experienced in this sort of leadership, but his eagerness to cooperate and learn was manifested in whatever he did.

Unfortunately in every social group there is always one who can never seem to see the good in things but, due to a distorted vision, can only see the minor ailments magnified to terrifying heights. Such was Snapping Turtle. Everyone knows the disposition of such animals: they are cantankerous, acidic souls who only open their mouths to complain.

Snapping Turtle was rather an eccentric. He had such weak eyes that he had to wear dark glasses to keep the bright sunlight out. Because he had become so used to wearing them, he had forgotten they were there and so the whole world looked dark and shadowy to him. Whenever he looked at a bush or a shrub, his distorted vision gave him a mental picture of a tree. Thus his little brain conceived the idea that he was living in a dark and gloomy forest. The other animals knew otherwise, but, out of pity, they refrained from destroying Snapping Turtles illusion. That is, they refrained until Turtle began to complain of the darkness and to attempt the degradation of the valleys very able leaders. They decided that it was time to show Turtle his mistake and to help him to see the sunlight again. But Turtle's animosity could not be shaken.

Now is the time for all good students to get their stables in condition because the ponies will be running next week. Yes, sir-ree! EOC's academic racetrack is getting a thorough going over for the great event and all up-and-coming jockies are receiving their final instructions.

Place your bets, boys. Who's going to win this term race? It's anybody's guess at this time—some of the old favorites are out of the running and those left are sure to be seriously threatened by a few dark horses who have indicated an inclination for that sort of thing.

Your old reporter isn't going to make any predictions as to the outcome, but watch your mailboxes, everybody. If your petite equine fails to make a showing you'll be duly notified.

So cheer up, gloomy, and remember this: tests aren't so bad but what they could be better.

Some thoughts from the thinkings of a thinker to be thought about: college: a museum dedicated to softening of petrified wood by a selected group of fossils.

Education: the result of an irresistable force meeting an immovable object.

Guess that's it for this term. Better luck next time. Until then, be good and don't forget: spit may work on shoes, but Johnson's Floor Wax is best for apples.

DO AS I SAY— NOT AS I DO!

LONG BEACH, Calif. (ACP)—At Long Beach State College someone tacked an official looking notice up on the bulletin board. It said that all future notices must be neatly typed on cards measuring either 3 by 5 or 4 by 6 inches.

The size of the card announcing the new regulation? Three by six inches.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie—

I have been thinking a lot about our activity during the Religion in Life conference last week and wondering if Dr. Bolen and those responsible felt that it had accomplished all that they hoped for.

I have always thought of these conferences as an attempt to draw people together in a common brotherhood where they could share their various religions and rise above their differences. This year is the first time I have had the privilege of attending classes and hearing the lectures, and somehow I seemed to miss the note of brotherhood and unity that I had hoped to find. In fact, I was inclined to think that it had all fallen a little flat until I read the program over again and gave special attention to the theme. When I though over those words, "All Mankind Working Together With God Toward a Better World," I decided maybe the conference had been a success after all."

Maybe we didn't accomplish much toward drawing people together in a common line of thinking, but I'm sure that the conference did cause a lot of people to do more thinking on the subject of religion than they would have otherwise. And after all, Aggie, we have to think of our religion sort of like a pair of shoes. The shoes that fit me and are comfortable on my feet aren't right for you, and perhaps our spiritual outlook is like that too. Maybe we have to shop around awhile before we find something that fits us and is comfortable to live with. That is just what our interfaith conference did for us, it gave us a chance to look over the field and see what was offered that we might find good for our own personal faith. And in doing that it is living up to its theme.

Well, this has been quite a little sermon, hasn't it? I didn't really plan to go on this much but I wanted you to know what I was thinking.

I won't have time to write again until after spring vacation. I hope you have a good time while you are home and come back all refreshed.

Love,
Cousin Ettie

Dorion Doings

by an Inmate

Where were you on the night of February 13, 1956? Were you in Dorion Lounge, or were you caught in that mad exodus from Hunt Hall to Dorion when the fellows saw the lights go out? But then, if you're not the romantic type, I suppose you'll complain about loss of study time. However, we inmates have come to this conclusion: These modern inconveniences are really swell.

The number of engaged girls in Dorion Hall is steadily increasing. Gayle Grilley and Grace Furuyama have now joined this select group. Gayle's fiance, Bob Taylor, and Grace's fiance, Jack Rye, are students at EOC.

The weather has presented quite a problem to most of us in the last few days. It doesn't make it any easier for Carole Hinds and her tribe of book-toting friends either. At first glance we just thought "twinkle-toes Hinds" had stepped in a snow drift, but we soon found out that's a cast she's sporting. Seriously, we all hope she makes a quick recovery and is back on both feet soon.

Well, quiet hours are approaching so guess we'd better grab that old bass drum and anything else to make some noise and go out in the hall and help observe dorm rules with the rest of the girls.

A sense of humor is the oil in life's engine.

Final Game Won; Six Carers End; Vikings Racked

The Senior-Clad Eastern Oregon Mountaineers closed out their 1955-56 basketball season as they racked the Portland State Vikings 95-83. The game was the second of a series played at Eastern Oregon February 25, 1956.

Ted Schadewitz brought his three year scoring total to 1674 in 76 games, as he contributed 30 points to the Mountie course. Ted averaged 22 points per game while at EOC.

Lowell Kolbaba, Ken Westenskow and John Reinking dominated both backboards as they collected 40 rebounds among them. Big John Reinking's 12 rebounds brought his season's total to 310. This mark established a new high for EOC rebounders.

This game was the last game for six Eastern Oregon varsity players. Gary Burton, Ken Westenskow, Ted Schadewitz, Carroll Cable, John Reinking and Lowell Kolbaba completed their basketball careers for EOC last Saturday night.

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers dropped a close, Heartbreaking overtime game to the Portland State Vikings last Friday night at La Grande. This win gave Sharkey Nelson's Portland Staters a cinch for first place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference race.

Larry Howard, EOC rookie, tied the game at 77-77 with 5:40 left on the clock and again at 88-88 when the gun sounded ending regular play. Howard, playing very little, scored 11 points and was very hot at the right moments for the Mounties.

The game was won after the first overtime period ended. The score was tied at 92 all and Jack Cochran ran into a screen set by Ron Nenow of Portland. Nenow scored his 18th point from the charity stripe and was swarmed by his Viking teammates. The Portlanders won 93-92.

At halftime the Vik's held a lead of 11 points 50-39. The Mountaineers came back in the second half with a great desire to win and the hustle of champions. The Hilltoppers scored 49 points in the second to the visitors' 38 but all in vain.

Portland State, led by Jack Viskov's 24 points, hit 60 of their 93 points from the field while EOC collected 70 points from the field.

tive member nation of the Model United Nations. Representing Egypt last year, ten EOC students (including all of this year's delegation with the exception of King and Keith) went to San Francisco for the conference. The host was San Francisco State College and the San Francisco Opera House, birthplace of the United Nations in 1945, was the site of the General Assembly. The series of discussions and debates among 1,200 delegates, representing some 80 universities and colleges of eight western states, Alaska and Mexico, ended on a highly satisfactory note," according to the host college last year. All delegates were lodged in the Hotel Whitcomb.

Last year's delegation from the campus went to San Francisco via Reno and returned by way of Klamath Falls, Burns and up through Pendleton. Each student returned enthusiastic with viewing at first-hand the sights and events of both trip and big city. Each said he had learned so much more about the United Nations and how it functions by observing and participating in the conference. "Of course," Webster said, "last year we didn't know just what to expect because it was our first time there, but we've got experience to work with now." He said that private cars will probably transport the EOC delegates and that part of the expenses will be carried by the college funds. Oregon State College will make provisions for all delegates' board and room during the conference.

Prexy Attends Florida Meet

By Barrie Edwards

On February 10, 11, 12, President Bennett attended a meeting of the Educational Advisory Council in Florida. The group was invited by the NAM (National Association of Manufacturers) to sit as an advisory council on problems concerning education as a whole.

The persons on the council were selected geographically and so that they covered all areas and phases of education. Chairman of the council was Dr. Virgil Rogers, Dean of School of Education, Syracuse University. Other members who constituted the council included Dr. Willis, City Schools Superintendent of Chicago, Dr. Wanamaker of Washington and Dr. Kaplan of UCLA The two representatives of the Pacific Northwest were Mrs. Wanamaker and Dr. Bennett.

The committee flew from Chicago to Tampa and spent one whole day at St. Petersburgh. They crossed Tampa by Greyhound bus via the Cyprus Gardens to the exclusive Boca Raton Hotel Club. Boca Raton is a Floridan resort 40 miles north of Miami.

"This time of the year," said Dr. Bennett, "the weather is perfect in Florida with a temperature range of 55-80 degrees and a little rain at night." Spending three days at the meeting and one in Miami, Dr. Bennett had "a very pleasant trip."

Futuristic Film Shown Assembly

A small audience of faculty and students was in attendance Wednesday, February 29 when two films were shown for the assembly program.

The first film was one of the great outdoors, showing in color the bands of wild horses in Canada and the work of the cowboys who bring them for the Calgary Stampede.

The second film was the main attraction. It was a Chamber of Commerce Productions entitled "People, Products and Progress 1975." It gave a very comprehensive picture of the changes that we will have reached in the next twenty years. Homes, stores, shcools, methods of transportation, food storage and preparation, and many other phases of our everyday living were shown with their "new look."

Advisorship Interesting

By ROBERTA MILLER

Dr. Charles Quaintance, as foreign student advisor, has many responsibilities, one of which is to screen and respond to requests from community groups for interviews with foreign students. Since 1947 Dr. Quaintance and members of his family accompanied many times by foreign students from the college have given over 150 talks to public groups. Many of the talks are illustrated with kodochromes taken in the American tropics and in the Middle East and Mediterranean area. A number of programs have been panel discussions with several students participating.

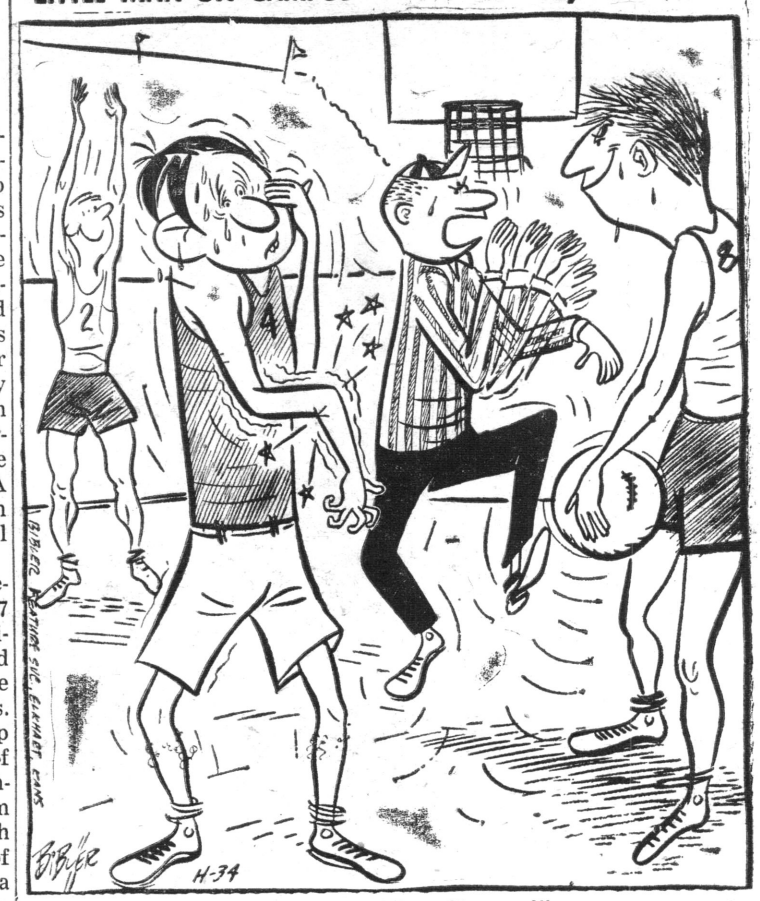
Dr. Quaintance first began presenting these programs in 1947 when he returned from Costa Rica and Panama where he had gone during his sabbatical leave to study biology of the tropics. One of the outcomes of his trip was the arrival on campus of three students from Central America who had contacted him through a friend connected with the state department. One of these students, Bob Albritten, a U. S. citizen, is now teaching in Salem. The other two were Arnold Hoepker from Costa Rica and Rene Diaz, whose father was an ex-presidential candidate of Guatemala. Other students followed from Bolivia and Peru, five being the largest number on campus at one time.

The 1953-54 sabbatical leave taken by Dr. Quaintance in Iraq and the Middle East was indirectly the result of Ibrahim Ayyoub, an Arab student from Trans-Jordan, entering EOC. Dr. Quaintance met Ibrahim through a mutual friend, Ismet Daoud, a Baghdadi who made a surprise appearance at a college assembly last fall when Dr. Quaintance rubbed his magic lamp.

Foreign students on campas at present are Ibrahim Ayyoub, Trans-Jordan; Kiyoko Yamada, Japan; George Hyland, a U. S. citizen from Bolivia; Sung Wan Hong, Seoul, Korea; Tien-Teh Chen from Formosa who will soon enter EOC.

Dr. Quaintance was first given the title of foreign student advisor under former EOC president, Dr. Rod Langston, and was also named Fulbright advisor at that time.

Spring Term Play Named



By DONNA TALBOT

Remember the story of "The Sleeping Beauty"? Well . . .

In keeping with the season, EOC's spring term play will be light, gay and fanciful. "Sing Ho! For A Prince" has been called a "musical fairy-tale for those who are still young enough to remember," and should very definitely appeal to all sizes and ages.

Although planning is still going on, Richard Hiatt, director, has scheduled the play for the Mothers' Day weekend. So all you potential actors and actresses watch the bulletin boards for further development.

Park Addresses Special Assembly

By Mike Johnson

Tuesday, Feb. 7, Dr. No Yong Park, PhD. from Harvard and lecturer at many American universities addressed our faculty and students at a special assembly. The lecture was made possible through the courtesy of the La Grande Knife and Fork club.

Dr. Park was born in Manchuria by Korean parents. He is the author of several books, an expert on Chinese affairs, and a foe to Communism.

Dr. Park's talk was on the relationship between the free world and the world behind the iron curtain. He compares them with two huge battle camps and the earth as a keg of dynamite which might explode any second. The main theme of Dr. Parks talk was that the United States has emerged as the leader of the Free world, and that if the Free world wins or looses depends upon the youth of America. Therefore he warned that it is very important that American youth be taught leadership. He also added that the American school system has failed to teach anything about Asiatic affairs, and that this is probably one of the reasons that we are in the situation we are in today.

"May I have this dance?"

"I'm sorry, but I never dance with a child," she said with an amused smile.

"Oh, a thousand pardons," he said. "I didn't know your condition."

Election Notice

By Black Bear

It is time for the student body elections, so all you campus politicians take notice. The officers elected this spring will hold office for one year beginning May 1, following the election. In order that a candidate's name be printed on the primary ballot, a petition must be signed by five per cent of the student body. Petitions must be turned in on or before the date set for the assembly, at which the campaign talks will take place.

Officers to be elected are President, First Vice President, Second Vice President, Secretary and Rally Squad Leader.

P. S—The deep dark forest is being vacated. Snapping Turtle, where are your candidates?

Vocalists Plan Spring Travels

By Barrie Edwards

The Eastern Oregon college choir, under the direction of Dr. J. Lynn Bishop, will tour Eastern Oregon April 3, and again April 16, 17, and 18, according to Dr. Bishop, who announced his plans to the Beacon on Tuesday.

On April 3, the choir will visit Weston, Athena, and Pendleton. On the second three-day tour the singers will stop for concerts at Baker, Huntington, Nyssa, Homedale, Ida., Ontario, Vale, John Day, Prairie City and North Powder.

Accompanying the choir will be the Blue and Gold Singers, which includes ten mixed voices; the college barbershop quartet; and a girls trio, noted for popular and hit-tune singing. Also on the treks will be: Gail Coffin, pianist, an Enterprise girl who has attended EOC and the University of Washington and has returned to the La Grande campus; vocal soloists Carol Saager, Milton-Freewater; Maurice Lane, La Grande and Bill Morris, Milton-Freewater.

Among the variety of numbers that the choir sings are; traditional songs, ballads, sacred songs, school songs, and lighter numbers characteristic of our day.

Due to the problem of expenses, the chief dilemma of the director is the choosing of 40 voices from his regular choir roll of 60 members for three tours.

En route the men's quartet will entertain the Lion's Club luncheon at Ontario, and after the evening performance in John Day the students will be entertained by the townspeople who offer the hospitality of their homes.

Spring Social Events Planned

By Gary Miller

The social calendar tentatively looks like this:

I. K. Formal—Fri., Apr. 6.
College Carnival, Sat., April 14.
Sports dance, Fri., April 20.
Senior Weekend, Sat., Apr. 21.
Junior prom, Fri., Apr. 27.

A few record dances may crop up to "load-up" the already crowded calendar. There are, as you will see, three formal dances this quarter. Hope the weather doesn't hide the girls' formals under overcoats.

BULLETIN

The I. K. Formal which will be held on Friday, April 6, will be the first of three formals during spring quarter. That is only two weeks away . . . Better get your date books in order as this promises to be a real dandy!

Duo-Recital Presented

Miss Julia Detrick and Mr. Robert Loy presented a duo-recital Tuesday evening at 8:00 p.m., March 20 in the college auditorium. They are both students at the University of Washington music school and are residents of La Grande. Mr. Loy attended Eastern Oregon College from 1948-50, and Miss Detrick has attended many summer sessions here.

The program consisted of a variety of numbers including two selections from the "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart presented by Miss Detrick and two selections from "Les Nuites D'ete" by Berlioz presented by Mr. Loy. Duo selections from Verdi's "La Traviata," and Puccini's "La Boheme" and "Make Believe" by Jerome Kern and "Serenade" by Sigmund Romberg were presented by Miss Detrick and Mr. Loy.

Mountaineer Is Completed

A much relieved annual staff announces that the Mountaineer has been completed. All of the deadlines have been met and advisor Ron Bayes states that the 1955-56 edition will be available to students some time in May. This year's staff is to be commended for successfully completing the big task despite the many obstacles they have had to cope with.

EOC Library Invited To Join AAP Program

Librarian Donald Nelson today revealed that EOC's Walter Pierce library has been invited to become a depository for the American Assembly Association Publications.

The AAP program is a non-profit one, established under sponsorship of Columbia University's graduate school of business. Its purpose is to promote the citizens' ability to make up his own mind on public questions.

Annual Dance Classes Begin

The fifth annual Square Dance Institute opened on Eastern Oregon College campus Monday, headed by nationally known square dance caller and teacher Ed Gilmore and his wife, Drusilla.

Gilmore is a very capable instructor and a noted personality, especially on the West coast, as he is in charge of square dance recordings for Decca records and also does recording for Capitol records.

He and his wife have not only taught square dancing for various colleges and universities throughout the United States, but were instrumental in setting up the square dancing program for the Chicago Park System.

The Square Dancing Institute at EOC began originally as an instruction course for teachers at the summer sessions in 1951. The popularity of this course soon spread, and for five years this had been an annual event for students and adults of this area.

This program has served two purposes. It has not only given enjoyment and recreation to the students, as well as being a useful course for those majoring in education, but has been a major attraction for the adults of La Grande and the surrounding area.

Adult classes are held in Hoke Hall from 7:00 to 10:30 Monday through Friday nights, and students who have had square dancing instruction in previous years are invited to attend. Student classes are scheduled daily from 4:10 through 5:00 until March 30. On the final Friday night of the course a square dance party will be held for all interested square dancers.

Students Elect Eleven

By Gary Miller

The results of the March 7 election of student representatives, who will serve for the remainder of the term, was announced by Student Vice President Don Scharn recently. Scharn announced that the following persons were elected to office: Barbara Carter, Bart Clements, Richard Cook, Bernard Damon, Nick Eddy, Bob Harrod, Carol Kopp, Tom Mercer, Donna Talbott, Bob Valiant, and Gary Webster.

Formosa Student Arrives At EOC

Theodore Chen recently arrived on campus from his native homeland, Formosa. Chen, an English major at Tam Kang College in the capital city of Tai-Pei, is now pursuing a pre-engineering course at EOC on a two year scholarship. He has been hailed as our latest foreign student.

With the aid of a college guide book, found in the American library at Tai-Pei, Chen was able to decide upon this, the college of his choice.

The trip from the Far East, some 7,000 miles, was an enjoyable one for Chen. Departing from Formosa by plane, flying over the South China sea to Japan, and sailing from there to San Francisco was an uneventful but interesting trek according to the young Chinese student. He further stated that he is most happy with his choice to come to EOC.

Talents Travel

by E. Thornburg

The annual E.O.C. talent tour got off to a start last Sunday afternoon, March 18th, when a Cadillac load of students, chaperoned by Mrs. Winters, left La Grande. The first stop was planned for The Dalles, where they performed before a High School assembly on Monday morning. Other stops planned for this trip were Hood River, Maupin, Bend, Prineville, Redmond, Long Creek, Mitchell and Dayville.

The acts this year include two vocal groups—a girl's trio consisting of Nadine Elam, Carol Saager and Jean Adamson and the men's quartet whose members are Lee Bolen, Bert Clements, Dick Cooke and Bill Morris. Dancer Jackie Shaw offered some numbers in interpretive ballet, and Betty Yoshimura presented several Hawaiian dances. Don Swart played trumpet solos, and Gail Coffin acted as accompanist for the group and also played several piano solors.

The entertainers returned to the campus on Thursday.

Bennett Issues Statement On Campus Antics

President F. B. Bennett issued a special statement on effigies to The Beacon today. The complete statement follows:

"This year's rash of effigy hanging at our American colleges is regrettable and a little hard to understand.

"Regrettable because by their very nature such actions are like publicized anonymous letters. The merits or the demerits of the case involved are not apparent; they are only implied. Some injury and great heartache usually results. This injury affects not only the subject person or persons but also reflects against an entire student body and its school.

"Hard to understand because one would hope that maturing students at the college level would strive to conduct themselves on a more thoughtful and judicial plane out of consideration for all others concerned.

"Generally, the American public has understood that such episodes are the thoughtless action of the few and that these actions are often sincerely regretted, after more seasoned reflection but when it is too late, by the perpetrators themselves.

FRANK B. BENNETT"

Football Dummy Hangs On Campus

A dressed-up football dummy dangled from the campus flagpole two nights in succession as winter term closed. A sign on the figure indicated that the prank was directed toward the college dormitory director.

In a statement released to the press and radio Coordinator of Instruction Roy L. Skeen surmized that the activity was prompted, mainly, by the tensions normally associated with final examination week.

President Frank B. Bennett issued a special statement to Beacon Editor Agnes Thornburgh today: the statement deals with the trend toward such campus expressions of emotion and appears elsewhere in this issue of the Beacon!

Student From Peru To Work In Library

A special student from Peru who is studying at the University of Oregon in library administration will work on campus at EOC's Walter Pierce library from March 19 through March 24 to gain practical experience.

A Brighter Tomorrow

Things are looking up for the college graduate. Not too long ago, the graduate had to be satisfied with the knowledge that he had accumulated a well-round education, whether or not he had obtained a well-paid job. The average laborer made more than his educated brother.

Today's average laborer earns approximately $3900 for a 40-hour week. The average new graduate receives approximately $4200 for the same work week. Salaries of $235 to $525 are expected by most graduates, according to a recent survey in the U. S. News and World Report.

The figures are not, of course, wholly accurate, nor do they repreesnt the whole picture. Just what the student has accumulated in the four years he spent before obtaining his degree must be considered, for merely being a graduate means little. In addition to the tricks he needs to know to pick up that extra $300 a year, the graduate should have a well-rounded background which will enable him to make better use of his position.

This means that during his undergraduate career, the student should accumulate as wide a cultural background as possible, at the same time including sufficent technical training to enable him to qualify for the kind of a job he wishes to obtain. Obviously it is to his benefit to do so that he may choose subjects which will be most beneficial to him in his later life.

With this in mind, he has a brighter future to look forward to.

Review Editor Urges Writers

by Pat Yoneyama

"The deadline is approaching hard and fast!" is the warning cry of both Dave McLain, editor of The Oregon Collegiate Review, and Mr. Ron Bayes, advisor of Iota Phi Omicron. The reminder is issued forth to stimulate students who may be thinking about submitting manuscripts for consideration to the college literary magazine, The Oregon Collegiate Review, formerly called The Middle 'R."

April 1st is the deadline for this year's publication. No contributions will be considered after that date. Only student contributions will be accepted and these may be from any student attending any accredited, degree-granting college or university in Oregon. The following is a list of suggestions for contributors:

(1) Contributions may be poems, stories, essays or literary topics, or book reviews.

(2) All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced.

(3) All prose manuscripts are to follow the University of Chicago Manual of Style.

(4) The deadline is April 1, 1956.

The Oregon Collegiate Review is the special and initial project of Iota Phi Omecron, journalistic honorary recently formed on the E.O.C. campus. Published annually as The Middle "R" since 1949 (which came out with sixteen contributors), except during 1950, the literary magazine has been produced largely by the aid of the regular-session creative-writing class. Last year was the first time it was produced solely by campus-wide volunteer contributors.

This year the sixth edition of the magazine will be headed by editor-in-chief Dave McLain, La Grande, with editorial assistants Eunice Thornburg, La Grande, and Patsy Yoneyama, Nyssa. Gerald Stiller, Milton-Freewater, is business manager and Dr. Gordon Clarke is the advisor.

Each year editions have been completely sold out. People in the know say "there always are some people who come up too late, clamoring for more copies." More copies will be printed this year due to a larger student body plus the fact that the Review will be sold on other campuses in the state. The first week in May has been scheduled for the publication date.

The E.O.C. publication department will copyright the name The Oregon Collegiate Review. It has been adopted by Iota Phi Omecron at the suggestion of Dr. Clarke because, for one thing, it will 'better suit the statewide college students' purposes." The Review will be the first college quarterly of its nature to be published by an institution of higher learning in the state. The 'big move" in 1956 is the experiment of moving from a mimeographed magazine to a printed one. Each edition of the magazine will be sold for a quarter.

Editor McLain said that "quite a number of contributions have come in already."

Mr. Bayes reported that other campuses have reacted very cooperatively to the invitation for student contributions, especially the University of Oregon. He added that the University will send in contributions "for sure."

ART HANDBOOK MEETING

Dr. George Nightingale, head of the EOC art department, is back in La Grande after attending a meeting of the State Art Handbook committee at the Salem office of the Oregon State System of Higher Education's library.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Aggie,

Spring vacation was really short, wasn't it? I didn't nearly get caught up on my sleep, and here I am back in the harness with the instructors handing out like mad.

I'm glad the weather has turned nice —spring days always seem to increase the amount of romance on the campus.

Have you noticed how many new diamonds are in evidence since spring vacation?

I think its funny the way romance developed to the diamond stage, don't you? Sometimes it all happens so fast you hardly realize kids are even going steady, other times that coveted ring is the result of long leisurely years of courting, and in some instances it is a case of picking up an old romance where it had left off. But no matter how it happens every one seems happy, and I'm sure we all extend our heartiest congratulations to all these nice people.

One summer when I was visiting in Missouri a boy asked me if all our colleges in Oregon were cow colleges. I tried to explain that we taught just ordinary education courses at EOCE with no particular emphasis on livestock in any form. Lately though, I've been wondering if that is altogether true. I have heard that Meuli insists on keeping his donkey in the dormitory on cold nights. Also, there was an awful lot of talk about the poines that the students used during exams. In fact, someone said he was reminded of a race track when he looked around the auditorium. Dr. Clarke talked about gaited horses in his first lecture this term so the instructors must know something about ponies, too. Perhaps I was mistaken, there may be more horsin' around than I realized.

Well, I'll close now, Aggie. I hope you have lots of news for your paper this term. The campaign for Student Body officers should really get warmed up in the next few weeks.

Love—Cousin Ettie

One Man's Opinion

by Duane E. Stiff

A subject that is becoming more and more prevalent in our every day discussion is the topic of segregation. This is a subject that has a far reaching effect on our way of life, our economy and beliefs.

It appears to me that the problem is no longer a problem of racial segregation but one of law. Those peoples in these United States who are closely concerned with this problem, the powers to be so to speak, are not so much interested in solving the problem as they are worrying about the fact of whether the United States Supreme Court is violating their States' rights by passing down a decree against segregation. Government should be of laws rather than of men. The governors of the States in question swore that they would uphold the constitution of the United States of America which makes the Supreme Court the highest court in the land. The Supreme Court passed down its decision on the matter, yet it is being openly flaunted. These men must be made to abide by the laws of the land before any problem, no matter what, are to be proprely settled.

For my part I do not consider myself qualified to discuss the actual question, but I cannot condone anyone who openly, or in any other manner, violates the law, whether it be Federal, State, or Local. Laws are made to protect the people and are for our own good, not just a formality that is to be broken.

Personally I believe it is the duty of every Christian to believe in the following quotation, "Brotherhood transends the sovereignty of nations" and that "Together we stand but divided we fall."

CLUB News

By Cork

The FTA is making plans to attend the State FTA convention in April. They have picked Doris Rigney as a candidate for vice president of the state organization. Also, the local chapter has a scrap book to be made up by the time of the convention. The next meeting of FTA will be the 4th of April.

Sock and Buskin is under way this term with their musical "Sing Ho for a Prince." This is a children's play but adults will enjoy it. There are both singing and non-singing parts. They hope that many students will take much interest in this production. Also, the initiation that was scheduled for tonight has been cancelled until later in spring term.

Personality On Review

by Gilstrap and Damon

Our spotlights must glow again as we begin a new term. The first beam has stopped upon an inmate of Dorion Hall. Her name is Grace Furuyama. Grace is a junior this year and majors in elementary education. She is 5'3" tall with dark brown eyes and black hair. Grace said she was brave enough to tell her honest weight which is 104 lbs. In her freshman year Grace was E.O.C.'s homecoming queen. Her main interests in school are F.T.A. and controlling Jack Rye. Grace is an active member of Sock and Buskin, Sigma Alpha Chi, F.T.A., Sabers, and A.W.S.

When Grace was asked what she likes best, she said, "to watch sports, dramatics, shopping for clothes and nice, warm, sunny weather." What does she dislike, "Too many little things to tell."

Gerald Stiller Grace Furuyama

This week we find Gerald Howard Stiller in our personalities column. Gerald was born November 9, 1936 in Walla Walla, Washington but shortly later he moved to Milton Freewater where he has resided ever since. He received his elementary education there and then attended McLoughlin High School of the same city. In high school he was active in the Future Farmers of America, Hi Y, DeMolay and journalism.

Following his graduation from McLoughlin Hi, he came to EOCE and enrolled in elementary education. While here on campus he has continued to be active in many organizations, among them, Alpha Rho Tau, Theta Delta Phi, Iota Phi Omicron and is now the business manager of the Oregon Collegiate Review.

In his spare time Gerald likes to listen to records and read magagines, his favorite magazines being the News Letter and the O.E.A. Journal. He names frenched fried prawns as his favorite food. Gerald said his main ambition is to be able to pass as 21, but yet be just 16.

EOC Fashions

by Ces Carroll

Spring term! Easter nearing! Sun shining? Just the time to rush right out and buy a new Spring outfit (should be able to wear it in a few months). Seriously, all the new pretty Spring clothes do make a person drool and pray for those warmer yet days.

Full skirts and matching or complimentary blouses will again make up the major portions of our Spring wardrobes. Something new and really popular is the perfectly plain sheath dress. Some have matching jackets and dusters which make darling outfits.

Loud prints—the crazier the more popular, are still evident this year in the pedal pusher and shorts line.

A.W.S. will have it's annual Style Show April 10th and will give us an opportunity to see various outfits modeled.

By the way, have you noticed the latest in men's shirts?. Mandarin collars, print yokes, middy styles, etc. . . . Say those really are different and look real neat.

Dorion Doings

by an Inmate

Ah yes, here it is Spring Term. When a young man's fancy gently turns to what the Dorion girls have been thinking since Fall Term.

With the beginning of a new term, there has been the usual number of girls moving in or out of Dorion. The dorm (this could probably be applied to either one) welcomes these new girls to the EOC campus. New arrivals at Dorion are freshman Colleen Meacham from Madras, sophomore Dona Pedigo from Hermiston, and junior Phyllis Allen from Baker. All three of these girls are in Education.

Following the theme of Spring is the announcement of three more Dorion girls who are engaged. Sophomore seems to be the chosen class, for sporting diamonds are second year students June Privett, Rena Anderson, and Sherrill Cockburn.

It seems that almost everyone is back in the old rut again, after thee ventful week of finals. With the tedious schedule of studying and exams, almost everyone was just too busy to take even a minute off for any relaxation or leisure time. However, Dorion was fortunate enough to have a few visitors occasionally throughout the last week. The names of the guests have been asked to be withheld (shyness, no doubt—a natural trait for Hunt Hall men). But then with exams and all, you know the old saying—"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Well that's thirty for this week. Just got my grades and it looks like I'll be around again this term. Certainly glad that Basket Weaving and Underwater Flashlight Focusing class came through.

Hunt Hokum

By Tony

Old Snapping Turtle is back again to see if he can get himself into a little more trouble this last term of his not so outstanding college career.

I understand there was a little excitement around the dorm at the closing of last term. Snapping Turtle, being old and badly in need of relaxation, crawled back into his shell for a week's rest so he missed all the fun. Well some of us have been missing out on the good things for years now, maybe that old saying, You can be behind all your life but it only takes once to catch up, applies to this situation.

It looks as if spring might be with us once more, at least we certainly hope so. It's time to shake out all the stiffness and cobwebs that have accumulated through the winter and have some good times. It's funny how hard you work in that first year at college, trying to get the grades or make an impression. Each year passes and you find that your grades are just as good if not better than the year before and you didn't have to work quite so hard. People should spend a little more time having fun and enjoying themselves while they have the chance. A well rounded social life, you will find, is just as important, if not more so, than trying to be an honor student every term.

Well it's about time to get a little Sac time to try and get in shape for April 28th.

MRS RYAN RETURNS

Mrs. Betty Ryan, associate professor of education at Eastern Oregon college, has returned from an Oregon Educational Association assembly in Portland, where she served as delegate from the EOC unit of OEA at a weekend meeting.

Wildcats Drop Mountaineers In Play Off

Big Don Porter and Slim Bill Machamer combined scoring honors to score 65 points as the Linfield Wildcats racked EOC 99-92. The Wildcats won the right to play Portland University in the NAIA tournament at Milwaukie.

The Mounties hit 37 field tries to Linfield's 34, but the Hilltoppers from La Grande again lost from the gift stripe Linfield hit 31 for 51 from the foul line while Eastern hit 18 for 27.

Ted Schadewitz led the Mountaineer scoring with 26 points and helped the team percentage of .411 by hitting 10 for 18 from the floor.

With Porter and Machamer each scoring 16 counters the Wildcats from McMinnville. held a 47-46 halftime lead. Slightly after the intermission the game was tied at 54-54. Then the Mounties advanced and held a slim lead for a few minutes until Machamer, Kofford and Harms hit for Linfield, and again tied up the game at 76-76.

With 8:20 left on the clock, EOC was minus two starters and Linfield one via the foul route. The two teams were tied up at 81-83 and finally at 87 before the Linfield Wildcats pulled ahead for good.

The officials Ed Peterson and Marion Duley called 33 fouls against Eastern Oregon and 18 on Linfield. (As one sports writer put it "There was a lot of contract.")

Y. R.'s Engage In Many Activities

by Bob King

The political scene for Eastern Oregon College Young Republicans has become quite active in recent weeks. A number of activities and events are coming up which the Young Republicans are hoping to participate in. They have attended several speeches made by state notables and candidates at down town metings.

State Senator Phillip Hitchcock, candidate for Republican nomination for U. S. Senator spoke last Thursday at a luncheon at the Sacajawea Hotel. A number of Y.R.'s attended his luncheon.

State Representative 'Ike' Weatherford, who is seeking renomination will speak to the Y.R.'s in the very near future. The organization is looking forward to this meeting to hear this man speak about his campaign plans. A number of members recently attended a breakfast for the Honorable Governor Elmo Smith. Governor Smith gave a fine talk on state matters and his plans for the coming election.

The Y.R.'s are backing Ron Bayes, a candidate from the 2nd Congressional district for representative of this district to the National Republican Convention. They are pledging him their whole hearted support and everlasting loyalty.

The club wishes to contact any student who feels affiliated with the Republican Party regardless of age. Any student wanting to join the Young Republicans here at E.O.C. are urged to contact any one of the following members: Art Hartgraves, Avon Love, Don Starr, or Bob King.

Traveling Profs Conduct Classes

by Pat Yoneyama

A number of E.O.C. professors have been scheduled to teach extension courses in several different Eastern Oregon communities this Spring. Dr. Roy Skeen, coordinator of education, said the schedule is tentative as yet, dependent on whether or not enough people enroll in each of the scheduled classes.

These extension courses are instigated by the initiation of the people desiring them and not by the college. This is usually effected by a group of people interested in a specific course making their request known to the county or city superintendent of schools. With the request the latter contacts the Field Representative of General Extension for the State System in Portland. The representative procures from the college nearest to the community, an instructor for most of the courses offered in the Eastern Oregon area.

Instructors offering courses this term are the following:

Mr. Luke L. Boone will teach Ed 435, Audio-Visual Aids, in Arlington, Friday night and Saturday morning on alternate weekends.

Dr. Martha L. Addy will teach Ed 358, Methods and Materials: Social Science and the Sciences and Ed. 410, Methods and Research Materials, on alternate weekends beginning March 24 at Vale.

Mr. Howard A. Anderson is teaching Eng. 108, World Literature and Dr. Roy Skeen is teaching Applied Mental Hygiene, both in Burns, Friday night and Saturday morning on alternate weekends beginning March 16.

Dr. Virgil A. Bolen is teaching Sci. 203, Foundations of Physical Science in Baker every Tuesday evening, beginning March 20.

Dr. Gordon W. Clarke is teaching Eng. 108, World Literature in Wallowa every Tuesday evening, beginning March 20.

Dr. Frank B. Bennett will teach Ed. 471, School Finance, in John Day every Friday evening and Saturday morning on alternate weekends beginning March 23.

Dr. Joe H. Gaiser is teaching Hst. 203, U. S. History and Government, every Thursday, beginning March 22, in Hermiston.

Dr. Robert A. Oesterle will teach Ed. 424, Measurements in Education, every Wednesday beginning March 24 in Baker.

Dr. Lyle Johnson is teaching Ed. 485, Principles and Practices of Guidance Services, Tuesday evenings, beginning March 20 in Milton-Freewater.

Mr. Hugh K. Russell will teach Ed. 470, Special Education, Friday night and Saturday morning on alternate weekends, beginning March 23 in Heppner.

Mr. John M. Miller will supervise student-teaching in Pendleton, Ed. 415.

Mr. Robert D. Rutherford is teaching E. 358, Methods and Materials: Language Arts, Thursday evenings, beginning March 22 in Pendleton.

Mr. Miller and Mr. Rutherford plan to teach a course for college graduates who are interested in teaching to help meet locally, at least, the emergency shortage of teachers.

All of the courses carry three hours of credit each, and the instructor will travel to the center to meet each class.

EOC Skiers Take Trip

by Sharon Shaw

Good weather and excellent skiing conditions made the EOC Ski Club's annual trip to Sun Valley a success. The members of the Ski Club who made the trip during spring vacation were Dot Ann Anson, Joyce Peeples, Ron Foster, Merton Taylor, and Monte Carnes.

These students left La Grande at 1:00 p.m. Wednesday, March 14, and returned to La Grande at 1:00 a.m. on Monday, March 19. The trip was made in private cars. This jaunt climaxes the Ski Club's activities for this year.

"And a good time was had by all," was the statement Monte Carnes used when asked about the trip.

Inland Radio Gives $159.00 Scholarship!

By Burton Briskey

Eastern Oregon College—Inland Radio, Incorporated, has announced that it will present a full-tuition scholarship to the editor of the EOC Mountaineer, beginning fall, 1956, publications advisor Ronald Bayes said today.

Bayes said the KLBM manager Ken Lillard revealed the plan to him last week. "The scholarship will encourage publication workers a great deal," the publications said, "this award corresponds to the Observer-Beacon scholarship, which goes to the student newspaper editor. It will give a boost to our hardworking editors who receive little else for their pains.

Troupe Tour Much Touted

The group that went on the recent talent tour report that they were very well received at all their stops.

Bert Clements, a member of the men's quartet, claims The Dalles as his home town and was president of the high school student body there at one time. His parents and a group of his friends planned a barbecue dinner for members of the troop on Sunday evening. Gail Coffin also has a sister living in The Dalles, and some of the girls were entertained in her home.

John Cane, Dale Cyr and Doris Woods are former students of EOCE who gave the tour group a warm welcome in John Day. Dale and John are members of the grade school staff, and Doris is employed in an office in that city. Several of the girls stayed in the Woods' home.

Warm, mild weather was enjoyed during the trip which was a welcome change from the hesitant spring days that La Grande has been having.

From all reports we gather that Betty Yoshimura with her Hawaiian dances and Don Swart with his trumpet solos were very popular.

At most of the stops both high school and grade school pupils were entertained.

Students Urged To Attend Meet

By Barrie Edwards

Sometime next week the Student Body Council will announce on the bulletin board the date of its next meeting. The student body is urged to take notice and plan to attend as it is a very important meeting.

The issue which will be brought before the meeting is whether the Council should adopt the policy of assisting, financially, organizations and clubs. If so what is the policy of the organizations soliciting help if the issue is approved?

A debatable point is that the Student Body Council will probably otherwise use student funds to go toward promoting bigger and better functions than are now taking place on the campus.

Student Body President, Gary Miller said, "I am wholly neutral on the problem, and it will be decided what shall be done at the meeting."

Once again the Beacon on behalf of the Council urges the student body to attend the meeting as it is the concern of everybody on the campus.

RIGGAN ELECTED

In a recent Dorion Hall election Evelyn Riggan of Baker was elected vice president and Jeanette Van Horn of Ontario was elected secretary. Grace Furuyama of Nampa, Idaho, ascended to the post of president of the house to replace Verla Garner who is now living downtown.

I.K. Saber Ball Honors Gulick

By Pat Yoneyama

One of "Barb" Gulick's happiest moments in college will be tomorrow night when she will be officially crowned 1956 Sweetheart of I. K. At that time the young miss from Halfway will be attended by all majestic splendor due her by the most valiant young men of knighthood stalking around on the EOC campus! Barb is a vivacious junior who is majoring in elementary education. She was candidate for homecoming queen last fall term under the sponsorship of the I.K.'s.

Barb's coronation will highlight the annual Intercollegiate Knights-Saber-"ball" scheduled for Saturday night, April 7th, in Hoke Hall from 9 to 12 o'clock. It is strictly a boy-ask-girl affair and the fellows are urged to "hurry up and hussle a date" if they haven't done so already. (A gentle reminder: there's only around 24 hours left till maestro Swart strikes his downbeat.)

The dance is annually co-sponsored by the two service organizations on campus. This year the chairmen of the dance and hence, chairmen of the organizations, are Mrs. Evelyn Huston: president of Sabers and Don Gillman: president of the I.K.'s.

A reference was made earlier in this article to Maestro Swart. This means, of course, that Don Swart's increasingy popular band is providing the tempo for the dance. Off the beaten record: his pianist, Gail Coffin, has been sporting a beautiful diamond as of last Friday night. The lucky guy?!!! Don himself.

The I. K. chairmen in charge of decorations and other arrangements for the dance include Tony Phelps, George Fenton, Stan Thomas, Gaylord Salter, and Don Gillman.

Campus Preview Here April 20

by Mike Johnson

All seniors from the surrounding high schools are invited to attend the Senior Campus Preview which will start Friday, April 20, and last throughout the following day. A very interesting program has been outlined for them, which Dr. Lyle Johnson and Don Starr will direct.

Friday evening the visiting high school students will register in the library and then go to a Student Sport dance which is being held in Hoke Hall. Saturday morning they will attend a general assembly in the auditorium with Dr. Frank Bennett as the speaker. After the assembly they will be given a campus tour which will be directed by Dr. Badgley, and then they will have a chance to sample some of the college food. The visitors will wind up the Campus Preview by going to a variety show in the auditorium, after which those students who wish may attend the Eastern Oregon Invitational track meet.

Gov. Smith To Speak At EOC Commencement

President Frank B. Bennett today announced that Gov. Elmo Smith will deliver the commencement address at Eastern Oregon college on June 1.

Gov. and Mrs. Smith plan to attend the EOC senior breakfast, as well as a luncheon in La Grande before resuming their official duties.

Carnival Set For April 14; McGillivray Named Chairman

Karen McGillivray has been appointed over-all chairman for the annual college carnival which is to be held this year on April 14 in Hoke Hall. Mr. Anderson is faculty advisor for the event.

Evelyn Riggan heads the committee in charge of prizes. Working with her are Virginia Van Blokland, Phyllis Snider, Barbara Carter, Betty Guyer, Dolores Buhman, Marleen Galyen, Patsy Reeves, David Walch and Monte Nedrow.

Bob Dawes and Elwyn Hug are in charge of booths. Members of their committee are Larry Syron, Norman Graybeal and Don Bensel.

The publicity committee is headed by Roberta Reagan, with Jean Adamson and Roberta Miller helping her.

A cake auction is to be a feature this year with Eunice Thornburg in charge.

Also new this year is the plan to invite Ackerman Grade School students and their parents to attend.

The proceeds from the carnival are to go to the World University Service, an organization that has branches in Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Middle East and North America. Through these branches needy students of all nationalities are given help consisting of medical care, housing, books, equipment and scholarsips.

Unit To X-Ray EOC Students

Nurse Margaret P. Robertson said today that chest x-rays will be administered to faculty, students, and personnel, free of charge on April 18. "The Oregon State Board of Health is making these miniature x-rays available through the division of tuberculosis control," she said, pointing out that similar x-rays from a private physician would cost between $5 and $12.

"It is important for everybody to take advantage of these x-rays, furnished through the Oregon State Board of Health," Mrs. Robertson said. She added that the unit can accommodate 600 persons from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and that it will remain operative through the noon hour for the convenience of students and faculty alike.

The x-rays are paid for by taxpayers' monies and are not furnished through the Christmas seal sales, as is frequently believed. The state provides experts and equipment: the county health department makes the follow-up. Get the most for your tax dollar: safeguard your health: get a chest x-ray April 18, without fail!

Nurse Robertson stressed that these x-rays are "especially important to seniors."

Committee Sets Parking Rules

It is requested that students do not park their cars east of 8th Street. Street area on 8th and to the west will be available for student parking. The area around the flagpole is being reserved for secretarial help, crippled students, and visitors.

All men living in the dormitory are requested to park their cars in back of Hunt Hall on the lot which has been provided. Men must not park cars on the Dorion parking lot. Women living in Dorion Hall may park their cars in the parking lot to the north. Dorm employees will also park in this area. The drives immediately in front of the dormitory are to be kept free except at times when it is necessary to park there for a short time in calling for students living in the dorms and for the transaction of business.

It has been noted that some students are parking in pedestrian lanes especially between Hoke Hall and the Library. The La Grande City Police are being asked to cooperate with the college in the policing of the campus area. Students parking unlawfully may receive traffic tickets from the La Grande Police Department.

Fines.

A fine of $1.00 will be assessed for each parking violation. Students not displaying EOC permit on the windshield or locking cars so that registration certificate can not be read making it necessary to trace the car owner through the police department will be fined $5. After two violations a student may be requested to leave his car at home.

Faculty-Student Parking Committee.

ORCHESTRA TRAVELS

Conductor Bob Groth takes the Grande Ronde Symphony to Baker for a special concert on Sunday, April 15. The concert is set for 4 p.m. Baker's Elks lodge is sponsoring the appearance of the musical group. The orchestra has 16 EOC students in its membership.

Program Delights

EOC students responded enthusiastically to the delightfully different singing program offered at Wednesday's assembly by the well-known duettists, Dorothy Sayles, lyric soprano, and Arthur Renton, tenor.

This popular husband and wife team were outstanding in the duets, showing a fine blending of the two voices, especially lovely in the high ranges. The solo renditions were finished and polished both as to interpretation and presentation.

Skillfully accompanied by Miss Sayles, the program was arranged to include Early English duets, folk songs, and familiar operatic duets. The two Canzonets from the early period were unaccompanied. This writer especially enjoyed the Three Mountain Ballads, American folksongs arranged by Clifford Shaw. The Cheshire folksong, "I Will Give You the Keys to Heaven," was enjoyed.

The Rentons are well-known names to Southern California music lovers, having appeared in opera, light opera, concert, and radio. Both studied with Homer Samuels and Richard Hagerman, the last mentioned writing and dedicating a number for Mr. Renton, "Miranda," sung as a solo number in Wednesday's performance. The Rentons spent two and one-half years in Europe, in 1949-1951, studying plus making concert appearances. In singing as duettists, they are reviving an art that has been rapidly disappearing from the concert stage.

Bayes Awarded Wilson Fellowship To Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Dean Roy F. Nichols, vice provost and dean of the graduate school of the University of Pennsylvania, said today that Ronald Bayes, instructor in English at Eastern Oregon college, had been awarded a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship to the University. Bayes was selected by the regional and national boards of the Foundation meeting at Seattle and Princeton, respectively. Professor Robert F. Goheen is National Woodrow Wilson Foundation chairman.

The award will provide tuition, fees, and a stipend for the fellow. As a Wilson Fellow, Bayes will study for advanced degree at the University in the field of American literature. The award-fellow may or may not assume a teaching load, according to his wishes.

Since leaving secondary school Bayes graduated from Walla Business College with diploma (1950); and received his B.S. degree at Eastern Oregon college in 1955, cum laude. He studied at Colorado State College graduate school in the area of literature during summer, 1955, and is a candidate to receive the M.S. degree at Eastern Oregon college in summer, 1956.

The award of a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship is a signal academic honor for which no candidate may, in the first instance, apply. Dr. J. H. Gaiser, professor of social science, was Bayes' nominator.

IRC ON THE ROAD

Dr. J. H. Gaiser and the International Relations Club of EOC are on the road to the Model United Nations convention at Corvallis. EOC represents Bulgaria this year. Gary Webster is delegation chairman; Arthur Hartgraves is club president.

MALE DRESS: FEMALE VIEW—

STORRS, Conn. (ACP) — Gentlemen, you're on the defensive. A female feature writer in the Connecticut Daily Campus has this to say about the apparel of the average college male:

"Male students on campus seem to dress mainly for convenience. It may be easier to get up in the morning and throw on an old shirt and a pair of khakies for your eight o'clock class, and who has time to shave, you may say, but have you ever thought of the appearance you present to others?

"The business world stresses neatness and partially judges character by it. Of course it is all right to be comfortable, but this can be accomplished along with a neat appearance.

" 'Just what do you consider proper dress?' you may ask. Here is what a cross section of co-eds on campus think about it.

"The ideal man wears clean, pressed khakies, a v-necked sweater, and please, boys, with a shirt under it, or maybe, on occasion, a suitcoat. The latter, along with a shirt and tie would be greatly appreciated for evening wear in the Student Union by the way. Our "hero" also has his hair combed, or at least resorts to the well known alternative of getting a butch haircut, so that it won't show. To go on, he takes time to shave in the morning. Nothing looks worse than a two day beard. You never have time? Then why not try setting your alarm five minutes earlier for a change?

"You may think that these are rather strong words and that girls have no right to intrude into the Men's world of mannerisms and habits. Think a minute. It is our school, too, you know. Did it ever occur to you that your dress may have something to do with the higher opinions that are reserved for the so-called "Ivy League" schools?

"How about it, boys? The freshmen boys are going to follow your example so make it a good one. It doesn't require a new wardrobe, you know, just a little thought and effort."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS — by Dick Bibler

So what does money have to do with popularity?

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Agnes—

I certainly haven't much that is interesting to tell you this week. As far as I'm concerned this term so far has been all work and no play. The instructors all seem to be possessed with the same idea—that when spring weather finally cames they won't be able to get the students to work for them so they are really piling it on now. I'm telling you, Aggie, Dr. Clarke has no mercy in his creative writing course. I'm so busy writing poems that I can't get any studying done for any of my other courses. I have been trying all day to compose a poem about clouds that would be worth an A in creative writing and could also be used as a weather report in Physical science and get an A out of Dr. Easley. If I can work it out I'll let you know.

Another thing that has me worried is the Background of Eng. Lit. class on Monday night. Did you ever see so many brains herded into one classroom? What chance do girls like you and I have with a group like that?

Did you hear about Dick Cook leaving his pants in John Day or someplace while they were on tour? I wonder if he came home in a barrel!

Do you know what was left out of the last issue of the Beacon? Clara Weigel's name should have been on the honor roll, and through a mistake it was left off. I know just how Clara feels, and I want you to be sure and tell her you are really sorry. When Seniors like Clara still are capable of working hard enough to make a 3.5 or above they certainly deserve a lot of credit.

Oh yes, I wanted to tell you that you missed something worthwhile if you didn't hear the choir sing in assembly Wednesday. I always enjoy their Easter music so much, and this year I thought "Once On An April Evening" was even better than usual. Dr. Bishop certainly can be proud of that group.

I'll be seeing you Monday night,
Love — Cousin Ettie

One Man's Opinion

by Duane E. Stiff

Easter has passed, and to most people forgotten. The only things left to remind them are the colored eggs which still must be eaten, and perhaps a few dishes of Easter candy. It was a beautiful day; the sun was shining and warm, making it enjoyable to dress in our finery and join the parade.

In my opinion Easter is the most enjoyable holidays of the year. Labor Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and all the rest are wonderful days but Easter is something different. It holds a dual meaning for most of us. The most important, of course, is the religious meaning, and secondly its a beginning of something new.

On this holy holiday we seem to change our outlook on life. No matter how cold or miserable the actual day may be, we dress in our finest clothes with their vivid colors and frills, and step out into a whole new world. We walk into a world that is being reborn, or coming to life. All thought of the cold winter winds and snows leave our minds, and we look to the bright sunny skies, the blooming flowers and the ever greening earth. With nature budding all around us we feel that life is worth living and that it can be beautiful.

To me this coming to life of nature and our freshened outlook ties directly to the true meaning of Easter. When Christ was hung upon the Cross the life of man was dark and unprofitable, but Gods' plan was to make life a beautiful thing again and Christ arose from the grave. Each and every year we have this meaning of Christ's death brought home to us in nature, through its coming to life and living again. The beauty and abundance of life is everywhere.

This gives added meaning to by life and I hope to yours. We shouldn't be ready to forget Easter as just another holiday but remembered as a day of all days full of beauty and joy; a day which gives meaning and purpose to life.

TENNIS SEASON OPENS

Tennis was accepted enthusiastically by the students of E.O.C. this spring even though the tennis courts were still partially covered with snow.

A total of 87 students have signed up for the tennis classes which are being coached by Mr. Dunsmoor and Miss Neely. The classes, which consist mostly of beginners, are taught the elementary strokes, how to serve, the rules of the game, how to score, and how to play doubles.

As soon as the weather gets better an intermural tennis tournament will be started for the boys, while the girls, headed by Carol Ann Wiglesworth will have their own tournament in connection with the Women's Recreation Association.

Although E.O.C. has never produced any tennis champions, it is a well known fact that two of our most popular professors, Dr. Skeen and Dr. Gaiser, were a couple of Pancho Gonzales's in their day.

This is the first year that a W.R.A. tennis tournament will be played at E.O.C., and Carol Ann urges all girls who are interested in entering the contest to contact her. Carol Ann says that they will use the ladder system in picking the winners.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

This is the term that the faculty members in the music department would sometimes like to disappear for a couple of months.

The choir just got back from a one day tour, and they will soon be leaving for another one which will last three days. The band is going on their tour the last of this month, and the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra is preparing for concerts in Baker and La Grande. After the tours are finished, spring concerts and Parents' Weekend are on the scene. Next comes Evensong, Baccalaureate, and Graduation. Each of the three large music groups will perform for at least one of these three events. The Blue and Gold Singers, the Quartet and the trio have also been busy preparing for their appearances.

One of the features of the band concerts will be the appearance of Don Swart as guest conductor. He will lead the band in Gould's "Pavanne."

Everyone who attended the assembly Wednesday morning will probably agree with me that it was one of the best ones we have had this year. For those of you who missed it, Dorothy Sayles Renton and Arthur Renton sang a group of solos and duets. They covered music from old English Songs through the folk songs of the United States and several foreign countries, and up to the more popular songs from some of the musicals of the day.

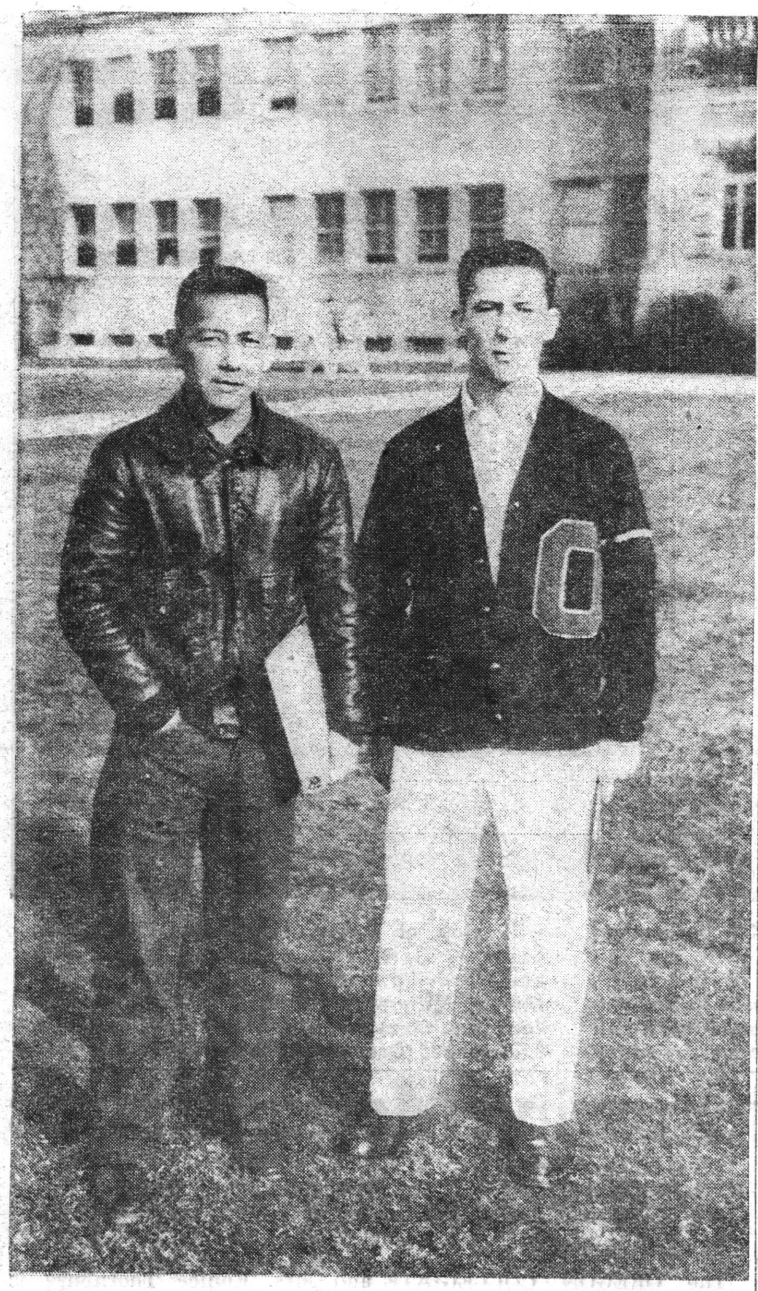
EOC Enrollment Continues Climb To Total Of 526

Enrollment statistics continued on the upswing at Eastern Oregon college this week as registration drew toward a close.



A total enrollment of 526 was noted on the fifth day of registration. This is an increase of 17.4 per cent over last year's fifth-day figure, 448. Registrar Lyle Johnson expects another surge of late registrants within the next few days and final closing of class sections.

There are 316 men and 240 women enrolled. Last year at this time 240 men and 208 women were on the rolls.

A breakdown by year shows: 172 freshmen; 135 sophomores; 103 juniors; 78 seniors; 33 graduate and special students.

English Teachers Slated To Meet

Gordon W. Clarke, Conference secretary, has announced that the first regional conference of Eastern Oregon English Teachers is being held on Eastern Oregon Campus the evening of April 11, at 7:30. Teachers from Union, Wallowa, Baker and Umatilla counties are expected to attend. A program is planned and refreshments will be served. All English majors on the campus are invited to attend. The event will be held in the faculty lounge in the library.

Mounties Lose; Errors Costly

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers lost their second game to Boise Junior College 11-7 in the first game of a twin bill.

Boise scored eleven runs on ten hits and eight errors. Eastern scored seven runs on nine hits and four errors.

"Errors were the deciding factor in all of the games with Boise. The pitching was satisfactory, but the infield needs work," were the comments of Coach E. R. "Bob" Quinn.

Ted Schadewitz did an excellent job for the Mounties on the mound as did center fielder Gary Quyll. Quyll hit two for two at the plate and did a fine job in the outfield.

EOC Fashions

by Ces Carroll

Once again the Easter Parade has passed us by, leaving memories of that delicious dinner, lovely church service and the joy of that happy day. However, not a memory, but something we have to remind us of that day — our new Easter Outfit.

In this week's picture you see Suzanne French graciously modeling her outfit for our Beacon photographer. Let me tell you about Suzanne's suit and the rest of her outfit. Her suit is a light grey trimmed in the darker charcoal grey. At the neck of the tailored suit she chose to wear a pink striped scarf held by a rhinestone pin. She wore matching earrings, a pink straw hat and pink sweater pumps. White gloves and a grey and white tweed coat completed this stunning Easter fashion piece.

This is only one of the numerous suits, dusters, dress and duster match-ups, frilly dresses, tailored dresses and of course the popular sheath dress.

Enough about Easter fashions —let us be thinking about those summer cottons (weather permitting) and oh yes, don't forget — this is the term with two formals so be thinking about what you'll wear. Watch this column for a picture and rundown of the latest next issue — see you then.

P.S. Don't forget the AWS style show on April 10th.

Jackie Shaw Heads Cast

"Sing Ho! For A Prince," Sock & Buskin's spring production, is a two-act fantasy designed to delight old and young alike. Matinee and evening performances will be given May 4 and 5 in the College theater.

The story, written by Joe Grenzeback and Haakon Bergh, is for all who are still young enough to remember the adventures of the six fairies who were, (and the one who was not) invited to a party. It's "Sleeping Beauty," set to music and dance and told from the point of view of a "Half-moon fairy" (Treakle, Jackie Shaw) and her "Full-moon fairy" friends: Fee, Fie, Foe, Fum, and Thustlebump.

When a seventh fairy (Hogal) is not invited to a party for the princess, she curses the royal kingdom so that all will fall asleep if the princess pricks her finger on a needle.

This the princess does, and when the curse takes hold, it's up to the other faries to find a prince to break the spell. Hence the title, "Sing Ho! For A Prince." The comic results of finding four very different princes make up the second act. All, of course, ends well, as a fairy tale must.

Jackie Shaw as Treakle, heads a cast of 18 persons. Included are Maxine Hiatt, Fee; Nadine Elam, Fie; Naomi Elam, Foe; Bernice Tracy, Fum; Diana Gilstrap, Thrustlebump; Anna La Kamp, Hogal; Doris Rigney, the Queen; Shirley Best, the Nurse; Janice Robertson, the Princess; Mary Jo Russell, the Cook.

Jack Chapman, the King; Boyd Devin, Fizz; Gilbert Hascall, the Courtier; Bob Nelson, Prince Hammer; Marvin Merritt, Prince Feeble; Bob Alstott, Prince Plump; and Bill Morris, Prince Valor.

Production staff includes Richard Hiatt, director, assisted by Miss Jeanne Scott and Dr. Lynn Bishop, musical directors. Dance director is Mrs. Mary Hayes, a local dance instructor. Jan Arteburn is costume mistress, and Leonard Swanson, set designer.

Growing Magazine Has MSS From Six Colleges

The OREGON COLLEGIATE REVIEW (formerly "The Middle R") will soon be on its way to the press. This magazine of prose and poetry, published at EOC, should be on sale across the state "late in April or early in May," according to Dave McLain, EOC senior, editor.

Thus far contributions have been received from Eastern Oregon college students and students at Oregon State College, U. of O., Monmouth, Portland State, and Willamette University. Late manuscripts will be accepted through today, if mailed from a distance, McLain indicated.

Now the editing process begins, and in a week or so it will be "to press!" Gerald Stiller is the business manager for the publication and Mrs. Eunice Thornburg is editorial assistant.

"Your last paper was very difficult to read," said the professor. "Your work should be written so that even the most ignorant will be able to understand it."

"Yes, sir," said the student. "What part didn't you get?"

Easter Assembly Colorful; Musical

The annual Eastern assembly was sponsored by College Interfaith Fellowship under direction of Dr. Bolen.

College choir presented two Lentin numbers followed by the reading of the Easter Story from the Bible by Dr. Alvin Kaiser.

The closing number was a colorful and inspirational film, "Desert Symphonies," depicting the glory of spring flowers in the desert and the general theme of new life.

Bean And Nuss Plan Week-End

by Ces Carroll

The time is fast approaching when EOC students will play host to their parents for a week-end. May 4, 5, and 6 have been designated as the dates for our annual "Parents Week-End' and Vern Bean, freshman from La Grande and JoAnn Nuss, junior from Enterprise have been appointed co-chairman for the event. Last year's co-chairmen Jack Rye and Agnes Thornburgh will serve as advisors to this pair and they in turn will serve in the same capacity next year.

A program similar to that of last year, including the Saturday afternoon Barbecue, presentation of the play, and May breakfast is being planned. The various committee heads have been named as follows: Invitations, Donna Snow and Patsy Evans; Registration, Janice Robertson and Margaret Bates; Campus Browsing, Bart Clements; Entertainment, Don Swartz; and Publicity, Ces Carroll. The newly formed married couples group headed by Oliver Calhoun and Evelyn Huston have volunteered to handle the Barbecue and the town club girls, headed by Patsy Reeves and Clara Weigel are to work on the May Breakfast. There will be a meeting of all committee heads Monday, April 23rd at 12:30 in the Conference room to map out plans.

At this time all students are urged to write personal letters to their parents inviting them to attend.

NELSON TO EVALUATE

Donald K. Nelson, head librarian at Eastern Oregon college's Walter M. Pierce library has been appointed as a member of a special committee of educators to evaluate the elementary teacher education program at Portland State college.

Carnival Is Successful

By Patsy Yoneyama

Carnival-goers were enthusiastic about the all-school carnival held in Hoke Hall last Saturday evening, April 14th, 7 to 10:30. Karen McGillivray and Mr. Howard Anderson, chairman and advisor respectively for the carnival, expressed satisfaction with the school project. Mr. Anderson estimated Monday that approximately 100 adults attended, excluding the children, and that nearly $60 had been "taken in altogether." The carnival, an annual affair, had been postponed earlier this year and was not held last year.

Typical comments overheard among the colorful booths suggested that those who were game enough to try their hand at dart-throwing (Women's Recreation Association), penny-tossing (Saber's), fishing (Sigma Alpha Chi), "surgery" "Pre-nursing group), roulette (Theta Delta Phi), bowling (Interfaith' and fortune-telling (Associated Women Students) were especially "challenged" into vying for some of the outstanding prizes being offered by booths. The married students' food stand was a popular stopping station for hungry contestants who filled up on hot dogs and coffee.

Other attractions in the gala-night carnival were the bingo room (Future Teachers of America) and the art exhibit (Alpha Rho Tau.)

Boyd Devins auctioned off half-a-dozen cakes during the evening. The cake-walk, sponsored by Iota Phi Omicron, at 10c a walk, was one of the most popular attractions. Boyd and his colleague, Leonard Swanson, gave a free show, "Queen for a Day," before the house.

One door prize, an iron, was won by Miss Neil (who, incidentally won a cake in the cake walk) and the others, a fishing pole, was won by Mrs. McGlassen. Milodene Fries won a toaster for guessing closest to the correct bean-count in that feature.

Students who spent most of Saturday working on their booths were Larry Syron, Patsy Yoneama, Molly Yoneyama, Helen Walters, Roberta Miller, Clara Weigel, Donna Talbot, Evelyn Huston, Bonnie Powell, Dot Ann Anson, and Bob Valiant.

The clean-up committee who went to clean up all the mess Sunday morning headed by chairman Leora Whitsell, were Karen McGillivray, Patsy Yoneyama, Kathleen Bannister, and Molly Yoneyama.

All proceeds from the carnival will go to the World University Service, an organization that has branches in Africa, Asia, Europe, the Middle East, and North America. These branches's function is to help needy students of all nationalities receive medical care, housing, books, equipment, and scholarships.

PIERCE SPEAKS

L. Charles Pierce of the college language department was speaker of the evening at the Business and Professional Women's club last week. His topic: "Status of Women in Latin America."

McLain Reports Progress To Date

By E. Thornburg

Dave Mc Lain, editor of the campus literary magazine "The Oregon Collegiate Review, reports that he has a fine selection of material on hand and that the spring issue will be ready for the publishers in a short time. The policy of soliciting material from other colleges in the state has proved very successful and contributions have been accepted from the following schools—Oregon State College, Portland State College, University of Oregon, Oregon College of Education, Southern Oregon College of Education, Lewis & Clark College and Willamette University in addition to the material supplied by our own students.

Welcome Seniors

It is my opportunity to bid you welcome on behalf of the students of Eastern Oregon College.

We have tried to make your stay here eventful and hope it will be a most enjoyable experience. The students and faculty have put a great deal of work into organizing this preview of our campus. We hope you take time during your brief visit to observe the cultural, social, and academic assets peculiar to our small but friendly campus.

Again may we bid you welcome and hope you have the most fun possible.

Do You Have A Candidate? If Not–Why Not?

New ASB officers will be elected within the next few weeks. The offices to be filled are; President, 1st and 2nd Vice President, Secretary, and Yell King.

Enthusiasm for the event is lacking. It appears that we don't care if the offices are filled, and if we do care, we are scarcely concerned about who fills them.

Little dignity indeed can be assigned to any office if there is no prestige connected to the office. There can be no prestige if any office is claimed through default.

The ASB officers are those people who control the student budget, provide for social activities and represent the students at Joint Student-Faculty meetings.

In their hands lie the responsibility of making decisions effecting all of us, and it is our prerogative to determine who will represent us.

We must know more about the candidates. We cannot allow any office to be filled by anyone who does not bring a platform before the students.

The positions are worthwhile and can be an asset to the individual candidate, therefore we have a right to demand that he declare himself, and work at gaining the office.

When this is done we must see to it that our candidate is voted into office.

Let there be loud campaigning and enthusiastic voting.

ASB President Gary Miller

McKay Speaks To Assembly

Ex-governor Douglas McKay spoke to an overflowing student assembly Wednesday morning on "The Interior Department." He was introduced to the student body as "Doug" by Dr. Frank Bennett, and as friends of former days. McKay said the Department of the Interior is one of the most important branches in the government because it is so vitally concerned with the nation's people, and their economic, political and social life. He named off its various members and gave the functions of each. He said each member works its cases on the basis of facts concerning the facts concerning the nation's welfare, and not the basis of emotions.

McKay stressed the need of treating Indians like other people. He said in effect, that they have been trampled down too long and that it is about time they are recognized, and accepted, on the basis of their talents and abilities. In the past, McKay has been influential in broadening and extending their educational opportunities.

CLUB News

The EOC campus played host to a group of FTA members from surrounding high schools on April 4. They were invited to that morning's assembly and were then addressed by Evelyn Huston, a regional officer for FTA.

After a luncheon at Dorion, they were taken on a guided tour of the campus which included a side trip through the Ackerman laboratory school.

Painting The Town

By A. Brush

What is that old saying . . . "In the springtime a young man's fancy . . ." Yeah, that's the one I meant. Isn't that just like a man? Such creatures who cater to the whim of the moment Now just consider the female of the species—she's not like that at all. I suppose you could argue that she's caught in a rut just because her thoughts turn in that direction all year long. No wonder there so many "dizzy" blondes" around. Think of what all that revolving does to the brain!

Anyway, what I was leading up to is that spring seems to be here at last—unless the weatherman decides to pull a sneaky at the last minute. That reminds me of something very funny I heard just the other day. Some character—I don't know who he was trying to fool—told me that the weatherman doesn't make the weather. Can you imagine anything so silly? Why, everyone knows that the American public wouldn't pay someone for doing nothing. (It's been rumored that there have been cases of this happening, though.) Anyway, I think it's terrible—a weatherman who can't make weather. Tsk, tsk.

Say, that was some carnival we had last Saturday. WHERE WAS YOU? I guess EOC has to live up to its name—suitcase college. I might mention that the faculty's showing wasn't so hot either. But thanks to the few profs who did lend their support.

Noticed Sam's new haircut lately? A reliable source tells me that them there kind work better than an ice bag—for cooling the head, I mean. Real nice, Sam —I like it.

Gee, we have a celebrity on campus. Well, maybe not a celebrity. She's more the infamous than famous. Oh, well, a little noteriety never hurt anyone (hardly ever, anyway). There's more than 70 ways of getting publicity, isn't there, Roberta?

That's it for this time, folks. Be seeing you around—I hope. If Sam and Roberta inquire, you haven't seen me.

Dorion Doings

By An Inmate

Hats off to the visiting seniors. We of Dorion are happy to have you on campus, and we hope that your stay here is enjoyable.

This being Senior Weekend, we have a few helpful hints for you dorm gals. With the influx of attractive girls on campus this weekend, the local hardware stores have been doing a land-office business. We understand that hand cuffs, the old-fashioned, but practical ball and chain, or just a good strong leash are still the most popular methods of keeping that man of yours in line. These, of course, are being purchased by the girls for their steadies. Naturally they trust them and all, but then you just can't be half safe. But there are still plenty of eligible males around, or so they tell us, so happy hunting, girls.

Looks like that fortunate basement crew was lucky again. Apparently the Easter Bunny was just too good to them, and the present this time came in the form of a Biology project. The baby chickens are six in number, red, blue, green and yellow. In evaluating the project thus far, the unanimous comment from those within hearing distance, is that this coloring project certainly didn't dampen the spirits or the vocal quality of these little dears in any way.

But there is hope in store for those merciless creatures who have been complaining. Shame be upon them, for sadly enough, one of these sweet little chickens has passed away. Yes, one died and we are all hoping for the rest. (Naturally there is only one interpretation of this statement).

This has been a rather slow week around the dorm. Not even an engagement announcement to brighten things up. Guess I'd better close for now. Must rush over and try to get registered as a high school senior again. After all, the poor forgotten dorm girls have got to be tactful if we hope to get a date to the dance this weekend!

Bathing suits modeled by June Privit and Nancy Dyer were an added attraction at the AWS sponsored Style Show April 10th.

By CCS

For the latest I hope you all attended the Fashion Show sponsored by the University women and the AWS. It was really a nice show and one really could see all the latest trends in fashions as they were modeled by our coeds. Along with the modeling they also provided a very entertaining program which included a Hawaiian dance by Betty Yoshimira, songs by the girls trio and a solo by Carol Saager.

Among those eye catching outfits we must give mention to the new new bermuda shorts. These promise to be a campus must this spring as they are seen in solid, prints, and plaids and in a variety of materials. Another popular sports outfit is the pedal-pusher in various styles. The toreador style with their matching middy or fitted blouse are quite popular and eye-catching.

In the category of the school clothes there were many and many and various styles of cottons. Matching skirts and blouses, dresses, frilly or plain, two-piece outfits of complimentary colors, and a score of tricky additions to a basic pattern that will offset any dress and make it outstanding.

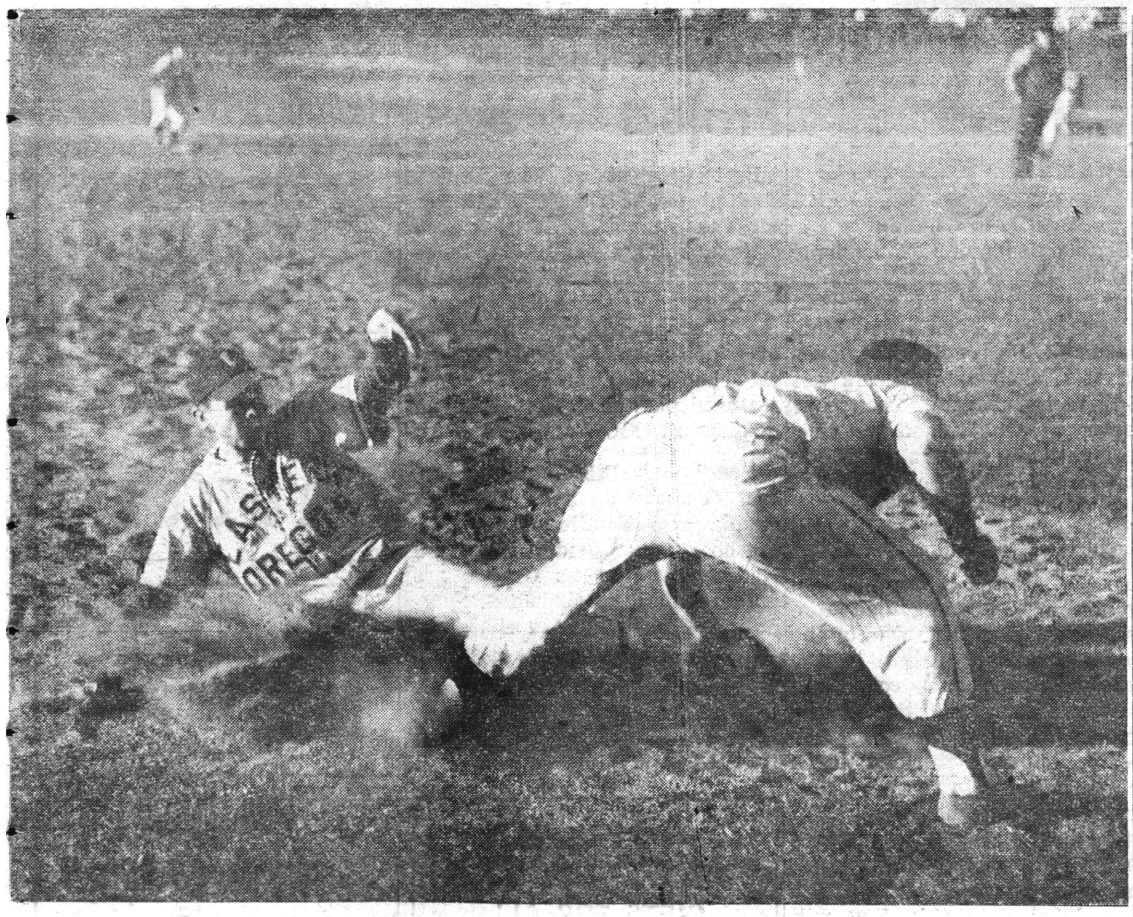
Dressy outfits played a part in this show also, including all types of materials made into stunning dresses, skirts and blouses.

Aside from the everyday scene or commonly seen attires we were also pleased to see swimming suits, pajamas, formals and wedding gowns.

Cottons seem to be the most popular material for the swimming suit, and no wonder with the style and grace with which they are made. The popular pajama seems to be the shortie type, plain or frilly. Formals modeled included the long, as well as the ballerina.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Cousin Aggie—



I thought maybe I detected a slightly sarcastic tone in your last letter when you spoke of my correspondence lacking excitment and interest. Of course, they aren't interesting, how could they be? Northing of interest ever happens around here, or perhaps it is best to say that our students never show any interest in things that do happen. The assembly this morning was an example of that. It isn't every day that those people have a chance to listen to—or, if they don't want to listen, to look at an honest-to-goodness member of the U.S. cabinet. But they don't turn out; you would think there was a likelihood of becoming a social outcast or something on the campus if you turned out for an assembly. It was bad enough to not be there to look Mr. McKay over, but it was positively disgusting to see what a small handful of people stayed over to hear the campaign speeches. And the thing that makes me so bitter is that next year those people who don't take any part in student body elections will be the ones who will howl longest and loudest about the way affairs are handled on the campus. Honestly, it just burns me up when I think about it.

I wonder if it is like that on other campuses. I have heard that elections get pretty rowdy in some places—I think rowdiness would be an improvement over the feeling of apathy that seems to possess most of the students who come to EOCE. It's too bad we haven't got a red hot issue that needs to be fought over, but if we did, there would be three-fourths of the student body that wouldn't even be aware of it.

Well, we have some really fine candidates—I want Howard Evans for president and Patsy Yoneyama for secretary. I'm sure if these two get into office, they will do the best they can to handle things as they should. I'm solidly behind them both, and I wish them the best of luck.

And as for my letters, Aggie, if you don't think they are worth reading, I'll quit writing them. As I said before, if anything exciting ever happens I'll let you know, but it isn't my fault if it doesn't.

Mountaineers Bow To U Of Idaho

Coach "Bob" Quinn's Eastern nine traveled to Moscow Idaho the sixth of April and dropped a twin bill to the University of Idaho.

The Vandals scored seven runs on nine hits and three errors. The Mounties collected four runs on seven hits and three errors.

Dick Quinn led all hitters for the afternoon with a perfect percentage, four for four.

Jerry Bristow—the swimmer?

Anyone For Swimming?

There is doubt in the minds of some as to whether the swimming season is here or not, but this does not daunt the fearless students who have signed up for the swimming classes this term.

There are 44 students enrolled in these classes, and they are divided into two groups, the beginners and the intermediates. The beginners are coached by Miss Neely and their goal is to conquer their fear of the water and by the end of the term they are expected to be able to swim in the deep water and dive from the side of the pool. The intermediates, coached by Mr. Dunsmoor, are perfecting their strokes and when the weather? improves, they will work on diving.

One thing in favor of the swimmers is the fact that the pool at Cove is heated and offers some protection against the cold weather.

State FTA Conference

By Diana Gilstrap

Two car loads of EOC students went to the State FTA Conference last week which was held on the OCE campus at Monmouth. At the conference, election of 1956-57 state officers was held. Doris Rigney from our chapter was nominated for vice-president. She gave a very fine speech and although the votes were close, Portland State College won this office with their candidate Ray Haag. Everyone that went to this conference had a very good time and gained more ideas about teaching. One of the most outstanding points in the conference was a speech given by Mrs. Antonia Crater on the subject, "Challenge to FTA." She gave us much to think about as we go farther into teaching. The conference was climaxed with voting on the State Flag of which EOC's flag, designed by Rose Fied, won over Portland State's flag. At a later date this flag will be put on display. Installation of officers closed the 1955-56 State Conference.

Dunsmoor To Speak At Wallowa Banquet

--- Coach Archie Dunsmoor, assistant professor of men's physical education and health, will be a principal speaker for the Wallowa high school sports banquet.

Bud Lewis and Steve Johnson, 1955 football stars of the "Mounty" team will accompany Coach Dunsmoor on his trip. Both boys are underclassmen who will be on the EOC gridiron in the '56 season.

Arkell Named Project Head

Bart Clement of The Dalles, student public relations director for the annual Eastern Oregon college biology exhibition, today released the names of students in charge of the 1956 project-work, which will be on display by appointment to children of local schools in Union county and a featured part of Senior Weekend displays at EOC April 20 and 21.

Pendleton's Bill Arkell is general chairman and Lorraine Frank, also Pendleton, is grading chairman; Wendell Hogg and Nadine Elam of La Grande are guide committee chairmen. Scheduling of schools is in charge of Steve Johnson, Wallowa and Jane Coffman, Athena; Betty Wade, Elgin, and Harold Moore, Madras.

Yale University has supplied the United States with one president, and five secretaries of state.

Invite Your Parents Now

By Ces Carroll

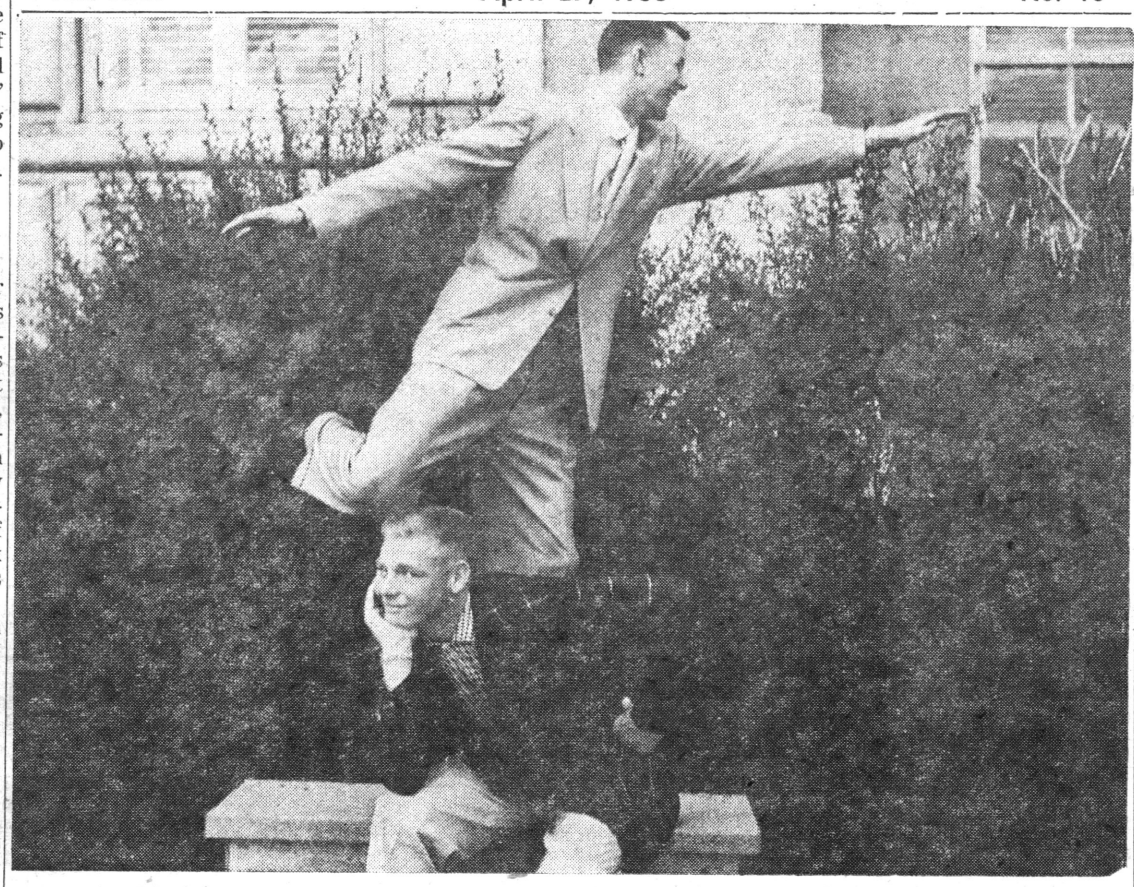
Time is drawing nearer and nearer to Parents Week. Those of you who have not contacted your parents and invited them to the festivities should do so immediately! The formal invitations have been sent and plans are quickly developing for the best week-end ever. Those of you who are commonly referred to as "suit case students" should cancel your home going plans and urge your parents to come visit you May 5, 6, and 7.

For President: Bart Clements

Bart Clements, candidate for EOC Student Body President, has an excellent record of school service to qualify him for office. This year he has been representative at large on the Student Council, president of the Junior class, president of the choir, second tenor in the Men's Quartet, and publicity chairman for the spring biology exhibition. He was also chairman of the variety show for Senior week end and chairman of campus browsing for Parent's week end.

His first year and one half in college was spent at Linfield where he served as Freshman class president. Bart enrolled at EOC in the spring of 1955. He is married, works part-time at a local shoe store, and expects to be a proud father in three or four weeks.

Bart expects to graduate next June ('57) with a secondary certificate and a major in the social sciences. His home is The Dalles.



This information furnished by the "Clements for President Committee."

For President: Howard Evans

The desired result of every election for the purpose of chosing student body officers is that of an effective student administration that will serve in the best interests of all concerned. It is with this ultimate goal in mind that I seek the office of Studentbody President.

My program, which is based on the formulation of a new constitution or a satisfactory revision of the one now in effect to better meet the needs of a growing and expanding studentbody is, I believe, the one needed to attain this result.

Candidate
Howard Evans

PRESIDENT—"The Thinker versus The Runner." Candidates are Bart Clements, The Dalles; and Howard Evans, La Grande. Clements standing; Evans seated. (Mercer Photo)

Bulletin To Feature Shakespeare Article

The March issue of The Eastern Oregon English Bulletin, edited and published by Dr. Gordon Clarke, featured an article on Shakespeare's use of language, title "Master Will's Language."

The article is by Howard A. Anderson, assistant professor of English at Eastern Oregon college.

An article entitled "A Place for Old Possum in the Grade School," by Ronald Bayes, instructor in English at EOC is included in the March edition. The article deals with the poetry of T. S. Eliot.

Boss: The man who is early when you're late and late when you're early.

For First Veep: Norman Trotter

"I believe that here at EOC our major problem is the lack of interest in school affairs." This statement was made by Norman Trotter, a candidate for 1st Vice President in the 1956-57 student body elections. Norm is from La Grande, and is a junior at E.O.C During the previous two years, as well as this year, Norm has taken part in sports and other campus activities. He is a member of the Intercollegiate Knights and the Lettermen Club. Norm played freshman basketball, is a two year letterman in track, and is fully aware of the responsibilities expected of an officer here on campus, as he held the office of vice president during his sophomore year. This year the job of being co-chairman for the Jr-Sr Prom has been undertaken by Norm.

When asked about the job he will do if elected, Norm said that he realized that a series of rash promises about carrying out the various duties of this office could not be made because these duties are limited and tend to follow a definite pattern year after year. However, he feels confident that he has the qualifications of this office, and believes that in the absence of the President, he would be able to assume his duties also.

"There is no such thing as a wise and successful leader without the full cooperation and support of his followers." With this attitude in mind, Norm is running for this office so that he will be able to act out the desires of the students and work toward the betterment of our student government.

This information furnished by the "Trotter for Vice-President Committee."

For First Veep: Richard Cook

Dick Cook, candidate for first vice president is a graduate of Pendleton High School and also attended La Grande. He attended Vanport College until serving in the Army and is now a Junior here at EOC enrolled in Secondary Education. His activities to date include: Member of Student Council, Member of Sock and Buskin, Member of Ball and Chain Club, Member of College Mens Quartette for two years, Member of Choir and Band, and Co-Chairman of Invitation and Program Committee for the Junior Prom.

Dick has issued this statement for publication: "If elected to the position of First Vice-President, I will strive to be punctual in performing my duties. I will make sure that everyone knows about the What, When, and Why of all elections. I will do my best to see that every election is completely competitive. I will move for legislation to the effect that all student council activities be posted for general easy inspection. I am in favor of more support for the campus service organizations and will work to that end. I ask that no matter how you vote, support your school and Please Do Vote!"

This information has been furnished by the "Cook for First Vice-President Committee."

REMEMBER THE PROM

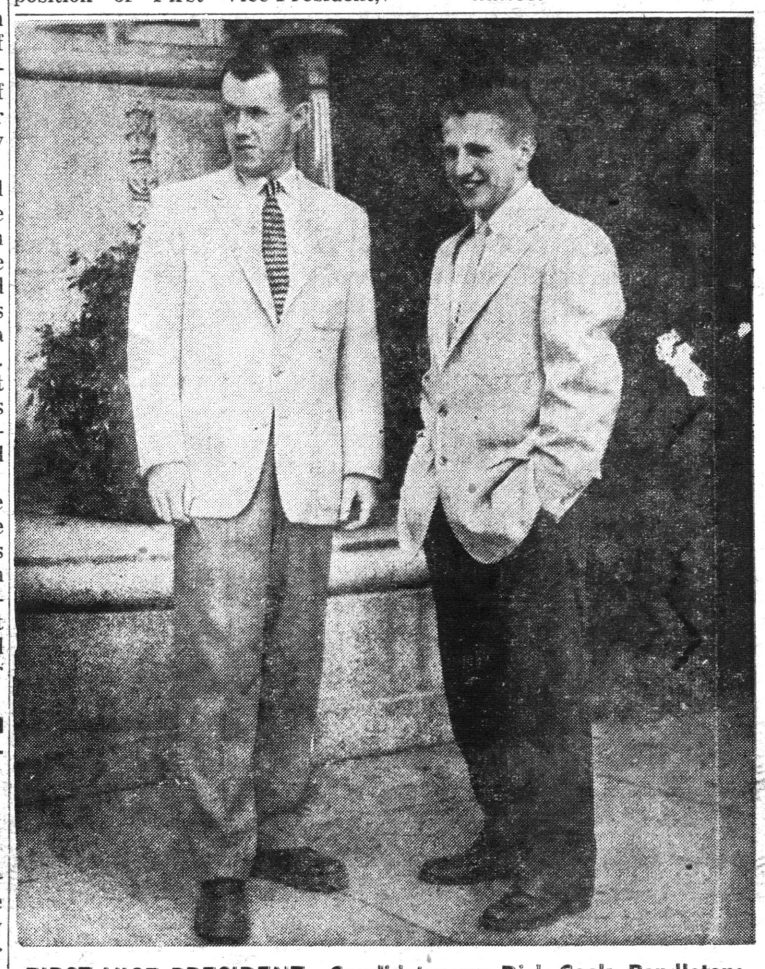
By Barrie Edwards

All preparations are now complete for the Junior Prom this evening. A large crowd is expected to be on hand to dance to Don Swart and the increasingly popular college band, when the "maestro" starts his down beat at 9 p.m.

The theme of the formal is, "Enchanted Evening," and the setting is an enchanted forest with exotic birds and trees and pink moss to add to the beautiful effect.

Under the supervision of Junior Class President Bart Clements, his committees have worked hard to make the Prom a rousing success. Mikie Fries and Norman Trotter have put in a large share of the work as general co-chairmen, and also co-chairmen for the decoration committee.

Others who played a big part in presenting this annual affair are: Dick Cook and Roberta Miller who took care of the invitations and programs, Donna Talbott who is in charge of the entertainment and Diana Gilstrap who's responsibility is the clean-up and the refreshments.



The following is a list of the patrons: Dr. and Mrs. Easly, Dr. and Mrs. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Shestak, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Clements, Mr .and Mrs. John Rapp, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bannister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fries, Mr. Ralf Trotter, Mr. Patrick Staub and Miss Leona Goles who is also the advisor.

SECOND VICE PRESIDENT—Candidates are Agnes Thornburgh of Terrebonne and Bob Valiant of Baker. The second veep's duties are many; include coordination of all social activities sponsored by the ASB. (Mercer Photo)

THE FIRST ROBIN

"York, Pa.—With the thermometer at 10 degrees below zero the first robin of the year was seen in York today. It was found dead on Penn Common."

Call me an old sentimentalist if you will, but this seems to me the most tragic news note of the cold wave. I like people better than robins, and there has been widespread and agonizing suffering. But, you see, this was the first robin. He was by all odds the pioneer of his clan. He flew up from the south days, weeks, and months before any reasonable robin weather was to be expected.

Without doubt the rest tried to discourage him. They spoke of the best recorded experience of bird kind. "Rome wasn't built in a day," some other robin told him. And no doubt he was advised that if he insisted on such precipitate action he would split the group and no good could come of it.

Somehow I seem to hear him saying: "If ten would follow me I'd call that an army. Are there two who'll join up? Or maybe one?" But the robins all recoiled and clung to their little patches of sun under the southern skies. "'Later maybe," they told him. "Not now. First there must be a campaign of education."

"Well," replied the robin who was all for going to York, Pa. without waiting for feathery reinforcements, "I know one who'll try it. I'm done with arguments and here I go." He was so full of high hopes and dedication that he rose almost with the roar of a partridge. For a few seconds he was a fast moving speck up above the palm trees, and then you could not spot him even with field glasses. He was lost in the blue and flying for dear life.

"Impetuous I call it" said one of the elder statesmen while someone took him a worm. "He always did want to show off," another announced and everyone agreed that no good would come of it.

As it turned out, maybe they were right—it's pretty hard to prove that anything has been gained when a robin freezes to death on Penn Common.

However, I imagine he died with a certain sense of elation. None of the rest thought he could get there. And he did. The break in weather turned out to be against him. He just guessed wrong in that one respect, and so I wouldn't think of calling him a complete failure.

When the news gets back home to the robins who didn't go, I rather expect that they'll make him a hero. The older statesman will figure that since he is dead his ideas can no longer be dangerous,(and they cannot deny the lift and the swing of his venture.

After all, he was the first robin. He looked for the spring and it failed him. Now he belongs to that noble army of first robins. Many great names are included. The honor of office and public acclaim, of ribbons and medals, the keys of the city—these are seldom the perquisite of men or birds in the first flight. These go to fifth, sixth, and even twentieth robins.

It is almost a rule that the first robin must die alone on some bleak Common before mankind will agree that he was a hero. And sometimes it takes fifty years and often a hundred. John Brown, Galileo, and those who sought goals before the world was quite ready are all in good standing.

(The man who says, "That would be swell, but of course you can't do it," is generally as right as rain; but who wants to get up and cheer for frustration?) In the long haul the first robin is more right than any. It was his idea. He softened the way for the others. And with him, even failure has its own kind of triumph. He is not the victim of dry rot or caution or doomed eye-strain from too close attention to the ledgers.

"Here I go," he cries, and I wouldn't be surprised to be told that the first minute of flight is reward enough—no matter what follows.

And so, in a metaphorical way of speaking I bare my head and bow low in the general direction of the ice-covered plain that is known as Penn Common. And I think that a brief address should carry the statement, "You were the first and after you will come others. They will inherit the grubs and the nests and the comforts. But yours is the glory —you are the first robin."

Letter From Ettie

Dear Aggie—

Seems sort of funny to be worrying over a Beacon again today, doesn't it? But some means has to be used to try to wake people up and get them to realize that the time has come to choose their student body officers for next year.

I just can't understand why people don't want to vote. I've asked a lot of students why they aren't interested and I have had various answers, but the two I hear most frequently are—that the candidates aren't known well enough, and that voting doesn't do any good because things can't be changed around here.

The first reason—that the candidates aren't known can easily be taken care of. In the next few days these candidates are going to work hard at introducing themselves to the public and let me tell you, Aggie, we really have some good kids running for these offices this year. I just hope people will look around and give them all a generous amount of consideration, then make up their minds and go to the polls and vote! I wish we could have a one hundred per-cent vote of our student body at this election.

The next reason— that things can't be changed on our campus is just a lazy way of getting out of responsibility for student affairs. The only way to find out what can be done to improve conditions is to show enough interest to find out what is going on, and then use your voting privilege to express yourself. There is nothing wrong with any of the candidates for office. They are all good, and if people get behind them and give them a vote they will feel that they represent us.

As for my opinion, you know, Aggie, I think you would be the very best for second vice president. I'm sure our social program would be in good hands if you were in office. I think it's to bad that those kids that were to file for you didn't get it done before they went on the choir trip, but if people will just go out and vote, maybe we can still put you in office.

And, by the way, tell the Mountaineer staff they are really to be congratulated on a grand yearbook. It's all good—cover, illustrations, captions, everything.

Oh yes, don't forget to mention that Howard Evans needs our vote for S.B. president.

Best of luck, Aggie, and tell every one to get out and vote! Tell 'em to pick their own candidates, but for goodness sakes, vote!

Love—
Cousin Ettie.

(P.S., I think I'd better vote for Jo Nuss for secretary because Gail C. will be so busy being Mrs. Don Swart next year that she won't have much time for so many campus activities.

A man who fails isn't a failure until he says somebody pushed him.

For Second Veep: Bob Valiant

Bob Valiant, who hails from Baker, Oregon by way of Portland has been on the campus since winter term. 1954. He arrived here at E.O.C. with a glint in his eye after a brief stint at O.S.C. It is interesting to note that Bob was a leading contender for the office of president of the freshman class at that staid institution.

Soon after arriving at E.O.C., Bob was swept up in campus affairs. He was a successful candate for the office of Yell King. During his sophomore year he became active in F.T.A. and drama. According to Bob, the hardest thing about getting involved in a lot of campus activities is that it detracts from the academic side of the program. He seems to be managing quite well, however, for he has been a consistent honor student.

This past year Bob has really caughtfire. He is a member of Theta Delta Phi, Alpha Rho Tau, Sock and Buskin, and F.T.A. At the present time he is a pledge for the I.K.s. Bob is vice president of the junior class and has served on the student council for over two years.

In his campaign, Bob has attempted to bring to the attention of the students to the many social activities available at E.O.C. It is his contention that if the students knew what were going on they might be willing to take part. He has called for individual social calendars to help solve this. Bob has also stated that he is in favor of an interclub council to coordinate campus aetivities to a higher degree than has been possible in the past.

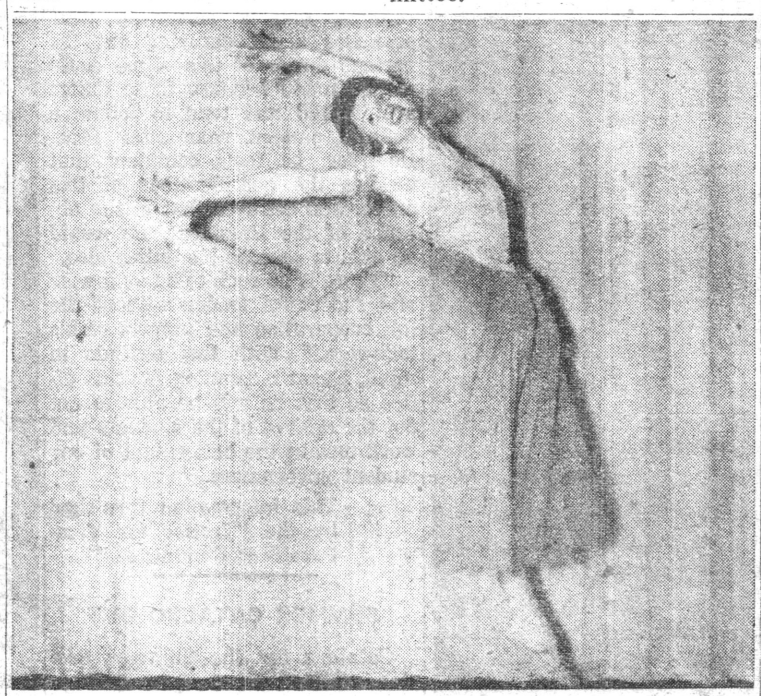
The Rambler



By Mike Johnson

Twenty-two students have enrolled in the golf classes this term. The classes are held each Tuesday and Friday from 1 to 3 in the afternoon.

The first hour the students are given special instruction by the golf pro, Ralph Moberry, who teaches them the proper grip, stance, swing, etc. After the hour of instruction the students are then given a chance to practice what they have been taught. The classes are divided into two groups, beginners and advanced students.

Faculty Members Will Attend Convention

Miss Neill is vice president of Zeta Chapter DKG, which includes Union, Baker, and Wallowa counties. Mrs. Clem is state chairman of the selective recruitment committee.

Painting The Town

By A. Brush

I didn't think that the time would ever come when I would doff my hat to Snapping Turtle, but I guess this is it. Congratulations, old chap, it looks like this round is yours. You didn't say much or long, but you certainly made an impression. You've finally convinced the students around here that we do live in a dark forest—in fact they are so convinced that they won't come out of their holes at all anymore.

Yes, I'm talking about you, the so-called college student — watch it, kiddy, your diapers are showing. Apparently you haven't yet reached the stage of maturation to know that you have to put something in to get something out. It's nothing more than the old slot-machine principle, the difference being the commodity in question. The commodity?

Perhaps I should apologize to the suitcase students I took a dig at last week—at least they have an excuse for not being around. But that leaves you moss-gathering stones; what's your excuse? Sure, I know that you have more than your share of "busywork" to do, but you can't make me believe that it's lack of time that keeps you from attending campus functions.

All right, so I'm a sorehead, but I'm geeting darned sick of the general state of apathy prevailing on this campus. I can cite numerous examples of the absence of student interest, the biggest probably being our ASB elections. I was absolutely disgusted and ashamed of the reaction shown last week. The announcement being made that the candidates would speak at the regular 11:00 assembly resulted in a stampede for the nearest exit. Why even have a student government if no one cares who is elected? You might as well put a moose in the top spot; that would at least be in keeping with the Dark Forest Myth.

You don't think I should be airing EOC's dirty linen? If you can't keep it clean, sonny, don't gripe when it gets pulled out. This has all been said before, to no avail, but I'm inclined to agree with the man who launched the "parasite" theory. If you don't like the tag, do something about it. There happens to be an uncounted number of organizations on campus—how many do you belong to, actively I mean? Stop drooling over your teething ring and act like the intelligent beings science supposes you to be.

I have one last remark to make before sending you back to your comic books and lollypops: I am not blaming you for the entire state of affairs. How many professors do you find at college functions? Is the percentage any better? I think not. I could only find three at the carnival—one for whom it was essential that he be there. No campus can expect much from the students if the faculty remains in a nebulous condition.

Come on, kids, dig your way out. Make this a college instead of an unglorified, class-B high school. Show that you have some spirit left and GET OUT AND VOTE! That first step is always the hardest, but they get progressively easier, so DO SOMETHING.

Speech Contest Held At EOC

The Eastern Oregon Baseball nine traveled to Nampa, Idaho, and dropped a doubleheader to the Northwest Nazarene club. The Mounties lost the first game 7-1 and the second tilt 4-1.

Lylse Young started the first frame and lasted until the end of the sixth inning. Kermit Stine, ace EOC thrower, relieved Young in the last three frames and retired the side three times giving up one hit.

The second game being a seven inning affair saw Ted Schadewitz throwing a six hitter and losing 4-1. The Hilltoppers left eight men on base.

Leading hitter for the Mounties was Catcher Williard Hodgen. Hodgen collected two hits for three times at bat in the first game.

In the second game the EOC nine only muffed three times. The best showing of the year in the error department.

For Secretary: JoAnn Nuss

JoAnn is a junior at EOC this year. Her home town is Enterprise. She attended high school there four years where she was an active member of the student body. She held various class and club offices and was a member of the student council for two years.

Jo Ann has been very active on campus during the past three years. She has headed and worked on many committees. She has been a student council member for the past two years. This year she is a Junior class representative and last year she represented Sigma Alpha Chi. Besides these two offices, Jo Ann served as treasurer of A.W.S. last year and was also Sophomore class secretary-treasurer. This year she has served as president of Sigma Alpha Chi. Jo Ann is a member of F.T.A., Sigma Alpha Chi, Sabers, Phi Beta Sigma, and A.W.S.

Jo Ann realizes the importance of the office of student body secretary. If elected she promises to do her utmost to serve the student body in an acceptable manner. JoAnn feels it would be wise to keep the student body informed on what actually takes place at the student council meetings. She therefore proposes typed copy of the minutes of each student council meeting to be posted upon the bulleton board in the Administration Building. Each member of the student body will as a result, know of the actions and bills passed by the council.

JoAnn has stated, and I quote: "I would like to thank the people that supported me in the primary election. I urge each of you to take an active interest in our student government and vote in this election for the candidate of your choice. I hope your choice for student body secretary will be me."

This information has been furnished by the "Nuss for Secretary Committee."

For Second Veep: Agnes Thornburgh

Agnes is a candidate for the office of second vice-president. This position involves working with Mrs. Winters to plan the social calendar for the school year. To successfully fill this office the candidate should be aware of the social needs of the campus and should be able to work with the faculty to plan these occasions so that the year will be a pleasurable experience for every one. Agnes has all the qualities that this job demands. During the past three years she has served in many capacities on the campus and has been very successful in all of them. Perhaps she will be remembered longest for the glowing success that she achieved with her co-chairman Jack Rye last spring when they helped to make parent's week-end such a memorable occation. This fall she also planned and carried out with the help of Jack a grand program for home-coming week end. In addition to this she has edited the Beacon this year and has proved that she is a very capable newspaper woman. She is a member of the house council in Dorion Hall, an active member of Sabers, a yell queen, secretary of the E.O.C. Rodeo Club, member of the publications committee and an active member of Iota Phi Omicron, the campus journalistic honorary. Just in case these qualifications are not sufficient, may I mention that she has also appeared in movies as one of the leading cowgirls of Oregon. Yes, our Aggie is adept in many fields. Give her your vote and insure a good year for the social events of 1956-57.

This information furnished by "Thornburgh for Second Vice President Committee."

For Secretary: Gail Coffin

Everyone on campus knows Gail Coffin, a gal with vivacious personality and a promising musical talent. She is a candidate for student body secretary of 1956-57. Gail has all the qualifications and drive for the job.

In high school (Enterprise High) she was secretary of the student body and one of her classes. She was active in the student council for two years.

During her three years here at EOC, she has plunged herself into various activities. She was secretary of the Grande Ronde Symphony as a freshman. She has been accompanying the choir and the Grande Ronde Symphony as pianist for three years. She's been active in the Interfaith Fellowship and in Dorion Hall Council. She is a member of Sabers, Sigma Alpha Chi, Phi Beta Sigma, and F.T.A.

The following is her formal comment for publication: "I would like to begin by putting first things first and thanking all those who supported me in the primary elections. If elected I promise to co-operate to my utmost with the student council and thus the student body by keeping accurate and up to date record of council proceedings. In closing I would like to remind you that that the student council is your organization. Support it by getting out and voting for the candidate of your choice."

This information has been furnished by the "Coffin for Secretary Committee."

RUDY CLEMENTS
Campaigner for "Yell King"

For Yell King Rudy Clements

"People know who I am and know what my yell leading abilities are if they have attended this season's games," says our very able candidate for Yell King, Rudy Clements. Rudy 'War-whoop' Clements is a 1955 graduate of Madras Union High where he served as yell king and supported his basketball team at the State Tournament. He is enrolled in teacher education here and has worked with Larry Syron and the rest of the Rally Squad as yell leader this year. We also find his name listed on the baseball and freshman basketball team rosters.

Rudy tells me that if he is elected he plans to make two additions to the rally squad: More girls and More pep! He plans to select two girls as his assistants in addition to a separate squad of song queens, with different outfits for each squad. He will have tryouts at the beginning of the year in which each girl will actually demonstrate her ability before she is admitted to either squad.

"What we really need in the future is more pep rallies and assemblies with active student participation. With an active squad and a lot of new, shorter yells, I think I can plan more activities of this sort next year," says Mr. Clements, "That is, of course, if the students want me and will support me in this election.

This information furnished by "Rudy Clements for Yell King committee."

Fantasy Reigns At EOC Theater

By V. Pyatt

Don't miss "Sing Ho! For a Prince" scheduled this afternoon for 2:30 p.m. and tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the College theater. Tomorrow's performances are at 10:00 a.m. in the morning, followed by an evening show at 8 o'clock.

You will come away with a half dozen tunes running through your head. You'll be humming the prettiest tune in the show, "My Land of Make-Believe," never realizing that Doris Rigney wrote the words. Nor does it seem possible that so many talents could combine so harmoniously in singing, dancing and acting. And that's not all. The art department lent a hand in the silk screen processing of the attractive show cards. The physics lab even developed a magic smoke screen!

Colorful costumes right out of fairy land — wings that glitter, royal robes resplendent with ermine—and just wait until you see thunder and lightning flashing across the stage with Full-moon fairies running thither and yon and out into the audience. You will enjoy every moment of this delightful fairy fantasy, and you'll come away with a deep glow of satisfaction that this may not be the best of all possible worlds, but it's a pretty good old world after all. Parents will enjoy it, and the kiddies will love it.

Who gets the credit? Well, it's Sock & Buskin's spring production. Mr. Richard Hiatt, the director, wanted to bring an unusual show to the campus, something for old and young alike to enjoy. Dr. Lynn Bishop and Miss Jeanne Scott assisted him with the music end of the show. Mrs. Mary Hayes, local dance instructor, assited with the dancing. Leonard Swanson designed, built and painted the scenery. (Leonard also made all the show cards). Jan Arteburn and her crew made the costumes. Clara Weigel and Marvin Merritt were responsible for tickets. (Marvin is also running the lights). The piano accompaniment is by Patsy Evans and Betty Roudebush. And I almost forgot! The assistant director who runs the show, once the curtain's up, is Marilyn Savage.

Just in case you need a reminder; the cast of players include the fairies: Treakle, Jackie Shaw; Fee, Maxine Hiatt; Fie, Nadine Elam; Foe, Naomi Elam; Fum, Bernice Tracy; Thrustlebump, Diana Gilstrap; and Hogal (the bad fairy), Anna La Kamp.

The people of the court are: the Queen, Doris Rigney; the Nurse, Shirley Best; the Princess, Janice Robertson; the Cook, Mary Jo Russell; the King, Jack Chapman; Fizz, Boyd Devin; and the Courtier, Gilbert Hascall.

The princes are: Prince Hammer, Bob Nelson; Prince Feeble, Marvin Merritt; Prince Plump, Bob Alstott; and Prince Valor, Bill Morris.

Be seeing you. Admission is free for students upon presentation of student body cards; adults, one dollar, and children, twenty-five cents. If you miss this week end, the show is going to Union May 11, under the auspices of the Union PTA where it will be shown in the Union High School gym.

PROM SUCCESS

The annual Junior Prom was held Friday, April 27 in Hoke Hall. A large crowd danced midst beautiful birds and delicately decorated trees, to the music of Don Swartz's popular lege dance band.

Several songs and a dance number were furnished for intermission.

Review To Go On Sale

The Oregon Collegiate Review, formerly the Middle R, will be on sale next week. The magazine will cost 50 cents this year instead of the usual 25 cents, because of additional printing cost. In previous years it has been mimeographed, but this year the printing is being done by a commercial printer.

The magazine will contain poetry and stories written by students from the colleges and universities in Oregon. Be sure and get your copy early, because in previous years the editions have been sold out before the end of the first day of sales.

Band Returns From Journey

by Patsy Yoneyama

E.O.C.'s forty-odd member band reported "satisfaction" with their latest tour of Eastern Oregon high schools which took them through Pilot Rock, Heppner, Condon, Ione, Echo, and Stanfield. The high schoolers who comprised the audiences, according to Don Swart, thought the band was "just terrific!"

Mr. Groth accompanied the musicians who left La Grande via bus early Monday morning and returned late Tuesday afternoon. The group stayed at the Condon hotel.

Besides the band numbers, other performances scheduled included Carol Ann Wiglesworth who twirled, Swart's dance band, and Lee Bolen who sang with the dance band.

Several of the most popular numbers includued Grieg Concerto in A Minor, played by Gail Coffin and the band, and the Dixieland numbers played by the dance band. Swart conducted in playing Pavonne by Martin Gould.

Other band numbers were the following: El Capitan March, Greensleeves (an English ballad), The Barnum and Bailey March, Stars and Stripes Forever, Third Street Rhumba, and John Mullin's Trombone Triumphant.

New Officers Assume Duties

Bart Clements, the new 1956-57 ASB President, assumed office May 1. Bart is married and he and his wife are to be parents in the near future.

Dick Cook as First Vice-President will assist Bart. Dick is also married and has two children. Bob Valiant of Baker will act as Second Vice-President and will have charge of the social activities on campus. Bob is not a newcomer to ASB offices but acted as ASB Yell King in 1954-55.

Jo Ann Nuss from Enterprise will assume the responsibilities of Secretary and Rudy Clements of Madras will act as Yell King.

If possible the student council will send two representatives to the Pacific Student Presidents Association Convention in Vancouver, British Columbia. Dick Cook and Jo Ann Nuss will represent the college.

JoAnn Nuss and Vern Bean have served as co-chairmen for Parents Weekend this year. JoAnn is a Junior from Enterprise and Vern is a Freshman from La Grande. Both are to be commended for doing a grand job. (Mercer Photo)

Band Plans May Concert

Music enthusiasts will be treated to a "terrific" band concert Tuesday evening, May 8th, at 8 o'clock, in the college auditorium, according to Don Swart, student assistant in conducting. The program will feature most of the musical numbers which the E.O.C. band performed on their tour earlier this week at several Eastern Oregon high schools. Swart reported that the student audiences "lapped" it up and enjoyed all the selections "tremendously." He and Mr. Groth, director of the college band, expect the same reaction from the audience Tuesday evening. The public is invited, and urged, to attend this last concert of the season.

The program will feature the following: "War March of the Priests" from "Athalia" by Mendelssohn; Tolmage's arrangement of "Greensleeves," an old English ballad; Grieg's "Piano Concerto in A Minor," first movement, which will be played by Gail Coffin, soloist; themes from Stravinsky's "Petroushka," with incidental solos by clarinetist Karen McGillivray and trumpeter Swart; "Trombone Trimphant" by Keller; Bellstedt's "La Mandolinata" with accompanist Coffin, and Swart on the trumpet; Gould's "Pavanne," conducted by Swart with incidental solos played by Jeanne Ramos on thetrumpet and Leonard Swanson on the trombone; Shaw's "Third Street Rhumba"; Sousa's "El Capitan" and "Stars and Stripes Forever," the latter with an incidental solo by Barbara Carter on the piccolo.

Students and faculty have been eagerly waiting and planning for this weekend with you parents. Parents Week-end has become a traditional annual affair on our campus. If the weather holds out and all committees function well it is hoped that this year's program will be the most successful ever.

The Summing Up

I wish to express my gratitude and thanks for the assistance and cooperation shown by the student body while I was your President. To all those people who served on committees, and to those who engineered the big events of the year, I owe a special thanks. In particular I wish to commend Jack Rye and Agnes Thornburgh who organized and presented two of the largest events of the year—an exemplary job.

The learned advice and assistance of the Student Council advisory board, Dr. Lyle Johnson, Mrs. Dorothy Winters and Mr. Howard Anderson was invaluable.

On behalf of Don Scharn, Bill Morris, Roberta Miller, Larry Syron, Duane Estes and myself—It has been a pleasure to serve you!

Gary Miller,
Immediate Past
ASB President.

Journalists Plan Dessert

by Patsy Yoneyama

Final preparations and arrangements are being made for the annual publications dessert which will be held Wednesday evening 6:30, May 9th, in Hoke Hall. The sponsoring organization is the recently-formed journalism honorary, Iota Phi Omicron, which will soon publish The Oregon Collegiate Review (formerly The Middle "R").

All members of the Beacon, Mountaineer, and Oregon College Review staffs are expected to attend this semi-formal affair. Duane Lindsay and Patsy Yoneyama have been named general chairman of the dessert. Margaret Preston will be mistress of ceremonies and Mr. Bayes, advisor to the publications, will be toastmaster.

The program will include the announcements of the following: Miss Mountaineer for 1955-56, honors, the winner of the journalism key, scholarships, editors of the publications for 1956-57, and new officers for Iota Phi Omicron. Bart Clements, new ASB president, will also be present to make his first public speech in office.

The following committees have been set up for the dessert: Food committee: Mrs. Virginia Pyatt (chairman), Gary Gaertner, Duane Stiff, Roberta Miller, Donna Talbott, Diane Gilstrap, Gary Miller, and Barry Edwards.

Serving committee: Josie Ward, Carol Ann Wiglesworth, and Karen McGillivray.

Custodial committee: Duane Lindsay, Burton Briske, Gary Miller, Don Swart, Gail Coffin, Eleanor Keuther, Ron Foster, and Vivian Homan.

Entertainment committee: Margaret Preston, Dr. Clarke, and Mr. Bayes.

FTA Chapter Named After EOC President

Marilee Beach, chairman of the newly-formed Vale high school FTA chapter, today informed college authorities that the Future Teachers' group has been named Frank B. Bennett chapter, Future Teachers of America.

Miss Beach said that the permission to name the FTA chapter after EOC's President had been obtained from the National Education Association.

The name was conferred on the chapter because of President Bennett's inspiration to the future teachers, Miss Beach said.

The greatest mistake you can make is to continually fear you will make one.

Letter From Ettie

Dear Aggie—

I'm glad you are willing to continue our correspondence. I suppose you thought things got a little more exciting during the campaign. Gee, Aggie, I am willing to tell you the news when there is news to tell, and I really got quite excited over the election. But for some reason I didn't seem to pick the right candidates, or at any rate the majority of the student body didn't seem to see eye to eye with me on who should manage student affairs for the coming year. I'm perfectly satisfied with the people they picked, and I wish them all the best of luck.

Oh yes, Aggie, did you see that letter on the bulletin board in the Ad. building? That alone should be proof that at least one person reads my letters when you print them in the Beacon. And I want you to know that I'm sure Lorraine Frank could easily manage a student office in addition to her many other duties. Perhaps she will get a chance some time, who knows?

In the meantime I've had a warning from Ron Bayes that, since my support seems to be the kiss of death for any political aspirant, I'm not to let anyone know that I'm in favor of sending him as a delegate to the Republican convention. I honestly would like to see him go, but don't tell anyone I said so, will you?

Love,
Ettie

Dorion Doings

By An Inmate

"To the roof," is an expression that is often heard around Dorion these days since the weather has cleared up. That dining room roof provides an excellent place to get that desired tan. At one time it was a good place for some privacy, too, but curiosity got the best of some of the dwellers in Hunt Hall. Maybe as the novelty wears off and the boys climb back into their rooms, the sun bathers will be able to feel at ease once again.

Along with the warm weather comes the cotton clothes and with them the problem of keeping them pressed. Please girls, remember to unplug those irons before you leave the laundry room.

With the preparations for the Coronation Ball getting well underway, the utmost thought in the minds of many girls concerns which formal they should wear or why they have to wear that "same old thing."

Girls, be sure to encourage your parents to come to EOC for the annual Parents' Weekend this May 5 and 6. If you haven't already sent off that personal invitation, let's get it in the mail before this week is over for sure. We can all help to make this event a success.

EOC Represented At NCTE Meeting

Eastern Oregon College was well represented at the recent state-wide meeting of the National Conference of Teachers of English. The event was held in the auditorium of Lincoln High school in Portland on Saturday, April 28.

Dr. Kaiser, Dr. Clarke, Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Bayes were faculty members of the English department who were in attendance. Students who were in Portland for the event were Agnes Thornburgh, Patsy Yoneyama, Nicki Smith, Eunice Thornburg, Howard Evans and Paul Butterfield.

The speaker for the morning was Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State University who spoke on semantics. He was introduced by our own Dr. Gordon Clarke.

There's a difference between good sound reasons and reasons that sound good.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

The choir looked more than a little tired when the bus stopped in front of the Ad Building last Wednesday afternon. I didn't see how their concert program for the three days could have had so much wear and tear on them so I checked with Dr. Bishop to see what else had gone on during the trip. After he had talked steadily for an hour or two, I began to see why they were so tired. Any choir member can give you a more complete version of these incidents, but here are some of the main facts.

Among the choir were found several people who had poor table manners. Most of them with a little help from the rest of the choir soon learned better. The guilty ones were Bill Morris, Carol Saager, Barbara Carter, Diana Gilstrap, Don Begley, Dennis Boatman, Paul Lowe, Gary Winkel, Miss Scott, and Dr. Bishop. (Dr. Bishop seemed to forget one of the names included in the above).

There was also a certain choir member who forgot her pajamas and was forced to sleep in the bathtub part of the first night. As soon as she did get to bed, she was promptly kicked out on to the flor. I'll bet she has a better memory next year.

The Quartet seemed to make things pretty rough on Barbara Carter during their first meal. Remember to chew your food slowly after this, Barbara. Anyone who is interested can ask one of the Quartet how you get butterflies in your stomach.

Included on the homeward trek were a snowball fight on Dooley Mountain and several card games. Some of the kids found that it is not too good for the stomach to play cards and ride facing the back of a bus at the same time.

Even with everything that happened, Dr. Bishop said that the choir sang well, and the program at every school was very well received.

Another tour is finished, and more strange happenings will go down in the music department's history. Today I am going to devote this column to bringing the rest of the school up to date on what happened on the band tour.

It seems that on music tours people with bad table manners are punished. Only one person was caught on this tour, and he had to run around the table. Long way around, wasn't it, Mr. Groth? Don't feel too badly about it, because I understand the same thing happened to Dr. Bishop on the choir tour.

I have heard that there were really some goings on in Condon Monday night. What did several of the girls want with a knife to cut pickles at 1 a.m.?

The dance band played for a dance in the high school in Condon Monday night, and everyone really enjoyed it. Our dance band really is making a name for itself. It was one of the most popular parts of the program which the band presented.

If any of you have heard about the luxuries in one of the rooms, please don't believe that we all had them. I don't know how they rated, but one room had both radio and television while the rest of us had neither.

Dave Everett celebrated his birthday in style in Echo. After we had lunch there were several (not just one like everyone else gets) birthday cakes waiting for him. Of course, he did have to share them. Patsy Reeves' family made them for us.

I think that our thanks and appreciation should be expressed for the work done by our chaperone, Mrs. Garity and our bus driver. We also all owe thanks to Mr. Groth for putting up with all of our small (?) and mischievous doings. Of course ,he seemed to be able to make everyone think he was just another member of the band, so he had his fun, too.

Painting The Town

By A. Brush

Another week, another column—but no gripes this time. I'll leave the chip off my shoulder and below the little dark cloud away from over my head to say WELCOME, PARENTS! Sure hope you have a good time as our guests this weekend.

You know, we've really been looking forward to this occasion; it's not very often any more that we can share something with you. No more running home with those pretty Mother's Day cards we made in the third grade; no more letter openers for Pop's desk. But we still think of you, so have a jolly good time this weekend—and don't forget to come again.

Remember, kids, this a once-a-year thing (sort of like Christmas or Easter) so show the folks a grand time and send them home with a good feeling for EOC.

Hey, did you know the end of the term is so close. Oh, my aching eye-balls! I'll never make it. Not with projects and observations and term papers and notebooks and everything else due at the same time. You know something? I have a sneaky suspicion—yeah, I'll bet that's what happened—sure it was—why, it couldn't have been anything else. I'll bet a vanilla wafer that our faculty had a rip-snortin' meeting sometime before this term started (I can just hear the fiendish chuckles) and decided to really throw the books at us.

Can't you just see it? The scene: the faculty lounge at midnight. Dark clouds hovering about a ghostly moon. Candles flickering from grinning skulls (they once were EOC students who fell out of the Death March to the library). Dark, gloomy figures huddled in a circle around a bubbling cauldron, throw ingredients into the swirling mixture: a history term paper, grade D; three physical science mid-term papers, score 25; an English comp. theme with five misspelled words; and various rank, items from the other departments.

The potion gurgles and fumes, finally erupting in a cloud of smoke that spells out "More projects, more papers, more tests, MORE EVERYTHING BUT FUN!" Weird cackles and shrieks split the rancid aid and . . .

Erks! I'd better stop before I scare myself into cat fits. Be seeing you again soon—got to go tote that barge and lift that bale. Yo heave ho—groan—yo heave ho—moan—you heave ho.

Letter To Editor

To the Editor:

Senator John Merrifield advises me that a number of appointments to the Coast Guard's Officer Candidate school at New London, Connecticut, are available to seniors graduating from Oregon colleges in 1956. There is a possibility that from one to three EOC seniors might receive appointments. Further information is available at my office in room 7 of Hoke. There is a deadline on this, so interested seniors should expedite inquiries with all speed.

Respectfully,
RONALD BAYES

EOC Tracksters Win Linfield Meet

Coach Archie Dunsmoor's tracksters won their first meet of the season at the Linfield Invitational Saturday. Eastern Oregon compiled 52½ compared to Portland University's 47. Linfield placed a close third with 41¼ and Oregon College of Education gathered 24¼.

Dunsmoor's team are rounding into shape as they proved Saturday at McMinnville. EOC had a couple of unfortunate mishaps during the meet. Big Bill West was the unlucky person in both cases; first, he was unable to qualify for the discus in due time because of participating in another event; secondly, the officials caught him dragging his foot around instead of over a couple of hurdles. This automatically disqualified him from the race. Bill had finished second to EOC's Frank Good.

First places in the meet went to Bill West, Frank Good, and Lowell Kolbaba.

Mountie Nine Loses Pair To Service Team

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers, faced the toughest hitting team they've seen this year as they dropped a double header to the Mountain Home Air Base Plainsmen. The Mounties lost the first game 13 to 8 and the night-cap 14 to 7.

The Plainsmen had several ballplayers who had played with class C and D professional teams. The airmen's shortstop, a professional, led all hitters for the series with seven hits for ten times at bat.

For once the Quinn coached nine wasn't plagued with fielding errors, but as usual errors in the mental department hurt the mounties.

In the night-cap the Mountaineers showed sign's of a hustling ballclub for five innings. Ell's Wright pitched scoreless ball until the fourth inning when the right fielder for the fly-boy's lifted one over the right field fence. The final score was 14-7.

Off The Bench

by Mike Hoff

Catcher Willard Hodgen was hurt in the second game of a double header against the Mountain Home Air Base. Hodgen tore a three stitch cut in his knee sliding into third base.

It looks as though the Eastern Oregon Track Squad should be a cinch for the Conference title this year. Good luck thin-clads.

Remember the EOC baseball nine will play a three game series here against the Boise Junior College squad. Games will be Friday and Saturday afternoons.

There's been some rumor of starting an intrumural softball league. If this should happen this column would be thankful for any information.

Road Trip Failure

Coach Bob Quinn's baseball squad invaded the Idaho sagebrush land for a double header with the Mountain Home Plainsmen. The Mounties lost both tilts by scores of 7 to 2 and 12 to 4.

The first game was a seven inning game and the La Granders led two to one through the fifth inning. Pitcher Lylse Young held the Airmen in check until errors took toll on the Mounties.

In the second game the EOC ninee took a first inning three run lead, added one int he second and held a four run lead in the fourth. In the fifth the Plainsmen tied the score and went on to win 12 to four. Kermit Stine was the chucker for the Mountaineers and did a very fine job. All but one of the runs off Stine were unearned.

The Mounties were without the services of Catcher Willard Hodgen, who suffered a knee injury in the first series with the Mountain Home squad.

Clara Weigel Elected Queen Of Evensong

By Barrie Edwards

Clara Weigel, senior from La Grande, was chosen as Queen for Evensong from a court of seven radiant princesses at the assembly in the auditorium on Wednesday, May 16.

Bart Clements, ASB President introduced Miss Neva Neill, Assistant Professor of Education, who in turn presented the candidates for Queen. In alphabetical order, they were Barbara Blacker, Kathleen Cooley, Evelyn Huston, Marylyn Muller, Carol Saager, Clara Weigel and Leora Whitsell.

The princesses were judged by their appearance, personality, voice, leadership and contribution to school activities.

After the ballots had been checked and returned, Dr. Bishop led the assembly in the practice of some of the songs that are to be sung for the occasion.

Then came the moment everyone had been anticipating; Miss Neill announced Clara Weigel as the Queen and presented her with a lovely corsage. The attractive senior was near tears as she expressed her gratitude and thanks to the assembly for choosing her as the Queen of Evensong.

The committee in general charge are Mrs. Dorothy Winters, chairman; Dr. Roy Skeen, Dr. Lynn Bishop, Dr. Alvin Kaiser, Mrs. Shestak, Miss Neely, Mr. Meuli, Dr. Nightingale, and Alpha Rho Tau. Give Our Plans A Chance

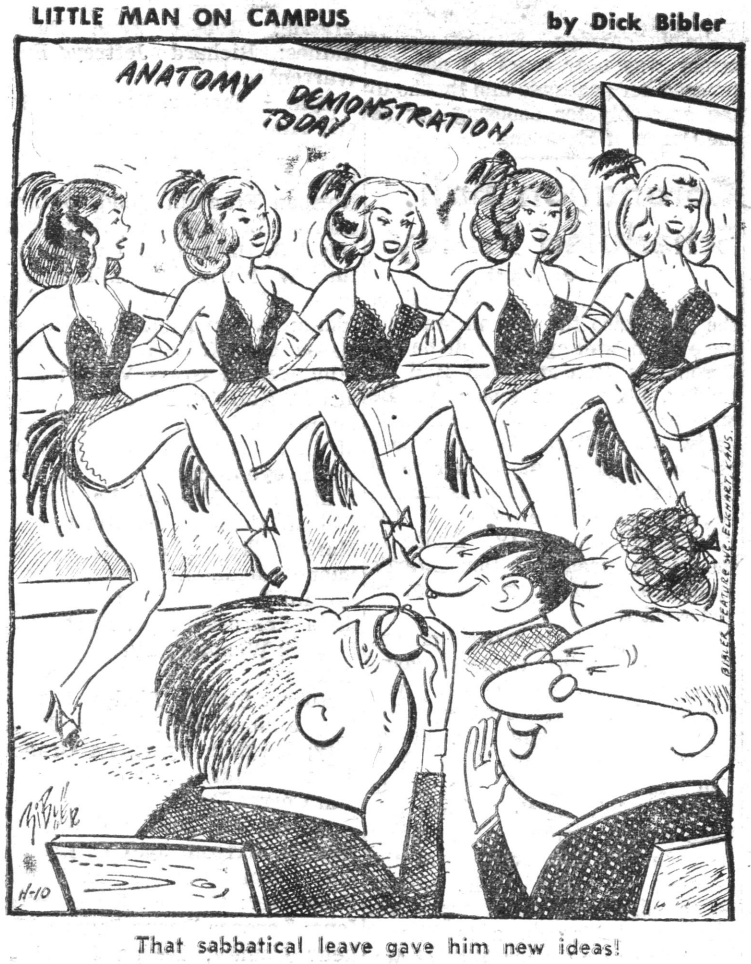
You know and I know that EOC has a problem; the big problem of activating student interest. Before we condemn ourselves too severely, let's step back and take a good look at the present situation. At the last election we had a turnout of approximately 50 per cent. At the Wednesday assemblies the average attendance usually runs around 35 percent to 40 per cent. In other student body activities the rate of participation is about the same. If Oregon or Oregon State had 35 per cent of the student body turn out, they would have a great many students, but their actual percentage of participation would be no better than ours. When we think in percentages instead of numbers, the situation looks much brighter. So here's the scoop . . . EOC is just about average in student interest and participation.

It would appear that our problem has been solved. But, the group of officers you have chosen is not satisfied with "just about average." We think EOC is capable of being far above average and we hope to prove that by this time next year. However, we must have your help to accomplish this aim. Give us a chance to try our plan and together we'll make our school an outstanding one.

Bart Clements,
ASB President.

Dorion Doings



By An Inmate

It looks like summer is here to stay, and before long we'll be packing up our duds and leaving these old stomping grounds. Many of the girls have been planning for their summer wedding, while others are busy applying for jobs for the vacation.

The past few weeks have been busy with a reception for Parents Weekend, as well as making plans for the organization of Dorion Hall government next year. We understand there has been quite a discussion about the suggested idea of a Standards Committee. It has been successful elsewhere, it looks like it might work out all right here too. Seems as if it would be beneficial to give it a year's trial anyway.

These next couple of weeks will be full of activities, and soon the midnight oil will be burning for finals again. Looks like this is the last column so we'll sign off for now with a salute to the girls in the class of 1959. parting words — "Halleluia, no more phone duty!"

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

That sabbatical leave gave him new ideas!

Letter From Ettie

Dear Aggie—

Well cousin, its been a good year and its almost over, isn't it? This has been lots of fun writing letters and finding them in print when you liked what I said. I've been in such a dither with so much to do and all that I could hardly wait for the term to be over, but now that it is this near the end I feel sort of let down.

I always hate to see the seniors leave. They have been with us so long, and they are all such sweet kids. It just won't be the same without them. I always get this feeling along about the time the Evensong candidates are introduced, and it stays with me until the last Senior has lit his torch and the day has finally died in the West. Last year I sat and sniffed during the assembly when the queen was chosen. I felt real bad about it because my sniffles proved so contagious that Dr. Lyle Johnson had to take out his hankie and wipe his eyes a couple of times

To get back to more cheerful thoughts, I hear that Patsy Yoneyama is to be managing editor on the Beacon next year. Two good kids like you should turn out a real good paper.

That was a fine idea of Bart Clements', about publishing the action of the student council in the Beacon. If people will just go to student council meetings so there can be some action we should have a good year.

There is one advantage in having the end of the term so near—the biology projects can be moved out of Hoke. I think they really smelled worse than usual this year, but they were interesting. Those kids in the biology department worked hard to get all that material together, and they deserve a lot of credit for that and for all the trouble they had in showing the grade school youngsters around.

If you decide to print this in the paper I want to take the opportunity to tell all the Seniors best of luck next year in their teaching jobs. I also wish a very happy and restful summer to everyone else, including members of the faculty that we won't be seeing until fall.

Don't forget to write when you get back home.

Love and best wishes,
Cousin Ettie.

Personality On Review

By Diana

The bulb of our spot light has been burned out for several weeks but now it is beaming again as we find Carol Wyatt in the light this week. Carol lives in the basement of Dorion Hall. She is a freshman this year majoring in sec. science.

Carol graduated from Eagle Point High School at Eagle Point, Oregon in 1953. While in high school she was President of GAA her senior year, assistant editor of the school paper and business manager one year. Pep Club was among Carol's various activities. In her junior year Carol was in the class play.

Here on the campus she is very active. She is student council representative for the freshman class She is also a member of Sigma Alpha Chi and WRA. When asked her main dislike she said, "I just hate the top bunk and dorm hours and, well, let's stop there." What does she like? Fried chicken, all sports and her car.

Music Notes

by Karen McGillivray

Most of you know by this time that both Mr. Groth and Miss Scott are leaving EOC. I think that all of the students who have worked with Mr. Groth this year will agree that he has really been a wonderful person to work with. He had a big responsibility to take over this year, and I think that he did a wonderful job on it. He is soon going to depart for the University of Indiana where he will spend this summer and next year. Miss Scott has been at EOC for four and a half years, and she will be in the Beaverton Elementary Schools next year. Everyone who has worked with Mss Scott knows that she is always ready and willing to give a helping hand to anyone who needs one. Everyone will miss Miss Scott, and I hope that the person who takes her place next year will be as ready to help the EOC students along as she is.

I certainly wish that the people on this campus realized how much it means to the music groups when they have their fellow students come to the concerts and given them moral support. The faculty might even enjoy going too. Last Tuesday night the band gave their spring concert. The majority of the people who showed enough interest to come to hear the band were La Grande townspeople. Intermingled among them were enough EOC students to almost fill one of the longer rows. There was also one faculty member present at this concert. Were those few students and Dr. Bishop the only people on this campus who didn't have classes on Tuesday night? Last fall the choir gave a concert; the Grand Ronde Symphony has given three concerts this year. The same handful of students always appear at these. Civic Music concerts are free. The same students go to these. It isn't going to hurt any of you to stop listening to cowboy music for one night and listen to something else.

EOC Fashions

By Ces

For awhile it looked like ole man weather had forsaken us and we were never going to be able to put away our winter duds. Now, with school nearing its close he will undoubtedly let it be nice, in fact there isn't much sense in keeping up this gloomy atmosphere.

With our eyes set on this prospect of good sunshiny weather we should begin taking inventory of our play clothes.

For a summer of fun and activity we should always have handy our swim suit, the new cotton ones are ideal, shorts—either regular or the new bermuda style, carefree T-shirts, blouses and the like. Pedal pushers will be popular, including the very popular torreador style. Middy shirts and an abundance of other new styles will be seen on every beach, resort, backyard and wherever one wishes to look. As far as the foot apparel goes — I imagine sandals with the fewer thin straps the better—anything goes—as long as it has a sole, and occasionally one finds the barefoot rage taking over.

But remember gals, no matter how relaxing we find our swimsuits, shorts and pedal pushers, we shouldn't forget to pretty up now and then. Sun dresses, sheath dresses and numerous other style will be popular for the summer wear.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

The La Grande soroptimist club today awarded a full-tuition scholarship amounting to $159.00 to Grace Furuyama, Nampa, Idaho. Grace, formerly from Nyssa, will be a senior in education at Eastern Oregon college next year. She will be remembered as a former EOC Homecoming queen.

Weekend Trip To Highlight Plans

Many recreation facilities will be available to students attending the EOCE summer session. The following activities have been outlined by Mr. Robert Quinn, recreation director.

The session will open with an all-college mixer for the summer students and faculty. Throughout the following weeks, special assemblies and theatre parties will be provided and movies will be shown in the A-V room each week. The assemblies will present a mindreader, skilled classic-pantomimist, concert singer, Marian Dix—world traveler and lecturer, an expert on the subject of "Alaska," as well as speeches by President F. B. Bennett and alumnus Bill Loveredge.

Highlight of the recreation program is the weekend trip taken by the faculty and students to Wallowa and Lostine. Tours will also be made to Anthony Lake, Wallowa Lake, the Whitman Mission, McNary Dam and Hells Canyon. The summer session will close with an all-school picnic.

Mountaineers Take Twin Bill 4-2, 5-3

The EOC baseball team invaded Idaho for the last time this season to take a twin bill from the College of Idaho Coyotes. The Mounties took wins of four to two and five to three.

Ells Wright was credited with the first win and Ted Schadewitz with the second. Coach Bob Quinn used all of his pitching staff in preparation for the conference tournament this weekend.

In the two game series the Oregonians collected 12 hits and nine runs while the Idahoians collected five runs off of 12 hits.

Coach Bob Quinn was very satisfied with the team improvement and with the errors. In the second tilt the error ridden EOC nine played errorless ball.

These two wins gave the Mounties a season record of five wins and 13 losses for a .278 average. The hilltoppers have won four of their last five ball games.

Off The Bench

by Mike Hoff

Two boys who haven't seen much action on EOC's track squad, but have turned out almost every night, should be given some sort of turnout award. These two never-say die boys are Bill Rodda and John Botz.

The baseball squad seems to have found a way to trap the little spear shaped object and toss it to first base. The Mounties have won four of their last five ball games Might be some hope for EOC in the tournament this weekend.

It seems that four EOC students have found a new and adventurous pastime. Four unidentified bodies were seen riding the waves of the Grand Ronde river in a rubber raft. Some fun, huh?

THERE IS AN OCC TRACK AND BASEBALL TOURNAMENT THIS WEEKEND. LET'S HAVE A GOOD TURNOUT FOR THIS EVENT.

Profs Reveal Summer Plans

By Ward & Shaw

As our thoughts turn to vacation, we find that many of the Eastern Oregon College faculty members have ahead of them a well-planned summer.

After the close of the summer session at EOC, numerous faculty members and their families have planned to travel. Dr. Frank Bennett will attend the School for Executives at the University of Wyoming August 19-25. To complete his summer travels he has plans for a short vacation in Glacier National Park.

Dr. Lyle Johnson is looking forward to a short trip to California in the late summer, while Dr. Leonard Good has chosen the mountains for a little summer recreation in hiking and fishing. Luke Boone will also be on the summer faculty at EOC and he will direct the Audio-Visual Arts workshop July 23-August 3 on our campus Mr. Boone is also planning to visit the Midwest. Another Midwest visitor in August will be Dr. Lynn Bishop, who will travel to Kansas.

Various members of the Summer Session faculty have plans to travel in the Pacific Northwest. Dr. Lyle McMullen will go to Seattle, Portland and the Oregon coast in the late summer and Miss Leona Golz will visit friends in Seattle and Salem between the Spring and Summer sessions. Before Fall term Miss Golz will spend some time at the Oregon coast. Beryl Clem plans to attend a workshop sponsored by Association for Student Teaching at Spearfish, South Dakota at the Blackhills Teachers College from August 6 through 17.

The Shrine football team in August will occupy Coach Archie Dunsmoor's time, as the all-stars meet in Pendleton for their annual East-West game. Mr. Robert Quinn will be recreational director of activities during the EOC Summer Session at which time he has planned tours to Anthony Lakes, Wallowa Lake and McNary Dam

Dr. William D. Spear will center his vacation around showing off his daughter to grandparents and friends in Nebraska and Iowa. In August he will attend Yale University on a scholarship on religion and higher education in the Far East.

Robert Groth will leave for University of Indiana where he will commence work on Master of Music in violin. He will travel via San Francisco, Reno, Salt Lake City, Denver and Kansas City,, where he will visit friends and relatives. He has further tentative plans for a month's trip to Pittsburgh, Washington D. C., and Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Chicago.

Miss Helen Bliss will be working in the library during the Summer Session, and then will be spending her time working on the house that she just acquired. Mrs. Eva Miller will be going to New York as a delegate from the Soroptimist International of La Grande to attend the American Federation Convention from July 29-August 3, and the International Federation Convention from August 6-11 This is the first time the International Convention has been held in the United States.

Students Attend PSPA Conference

by P. Yoneyama

Bob Valiant, new ASB second vice president, and Jo Ann Nuss, ASB secretary, were in Vancouver, B. C., May 9th through 12th, as E.O.C. delegates to the 31st annual Pacific Student Presidents' Association convention. For the first time E.O.C. was represented among the approximately seventy schools of the Pacific Slope which participated in the four-day meet. Valiant and JoAnn attended the leadship conference in place of the president and first veep who were unable to attend.

JoAnn and Bob flew from La Grande to Vancouver on Tuesday, May 8th, via West Coast Airlines. For both, it was their first flight aboard a commercial airliner, and so JoAnn still reacts negatively (i.e. turns green) at the mention of airplanes. Valiant, according to confirmed reports, was so busy watching the scenery (spelled S-T-E-W-A-R-D-E-S-S) that he didn't have time to get sick, let along notice the heaving, rough weather! The two delegates landed in mid-afternoon at Vancouver and were immediately whisked away to the Georgia Hotel in the heart of the city.

Wednesday, May 9, was filled largely by registration of student delegates and a bus tour of the city. The students made a trip up Grouse Mountain chair-lift which JoAnn felt was one of the really high spots of the trip. A business meeting was held until 10 p.m. that evening. But press releases on the agenda have not been issued as yet on the group meeting held in Valiant's room later that night!

All-day conference sessions on student participation, student government, and student-faculty delations were held both Thursday and Friday. Social activities of various orders, including a dance aboard a cruiser in the Straits of Georgia, occupied the evenings.

Saturday morning was reserved for a final plenary session. At this meeting the officers and a convention site were chosen for next year's conference: the University of Arizona.

Both Valiant and JoAnn feel that the trip was one of the "truly outstanding" events of their college career and lives. JoAnn reports that the people she met were "wonderful" and that "much was accomplished through the conferences and the fellowship towards furthering student government."

Valiant, who also attended the P.S.P.A. in San Francisco two years ago, states that this year's convention has given him some "terrific" ideas that ought to help him carry out his job as second vice president. He also reports that he did his best to cement intertional friendship with Canada. At the time ship occupants wonderful whether his endeavors toward that direction had even the remotest connection with the four University of British Columbia coeds he is reported to have smuggled aboard the cruiser.

* The poem "Jamey Purney" was first printed in the 1954 edition of THE OREGON COLLEGIATE REVIEW (then "The Middle R"), magazine of prose and verse published at Eastern Oregon college. "Jamey Purney" was nominated as the outstanding poem from the 1954 publication.

The "R. L." in Bob's name stands for Robert Lee and the poem was particularly significant to him, as its author, as Robert E. Lee is among his ancestors. THE BEACON is proud to reproduce the poem on its pages.

Western Week

by Gary Gaertner

The Inter-collegiate rodeo held at Pomeroy, Washington two weeks ago proved prosperous for the EOC rodeo team. Jim Waldorf was the high point winner of the team with a third in the second go-round of calf roping and then finishing third in the two head average. Carol Cable was the second high scorer when he placed fourth in the first go-round of bareback riding and then fishining third in the average. Ray Kinder was next with a third in the first go-round of bareback riding.

On the twelfth and thirteenth, Kinder and Cable traveled to Moses Lake to take part in the Washington State rodeo. Cable again scored high. He placed first in the second go-round of bareback riding. He then went on to come out third in the average for the second consecutive rodeo.

This weekend the rodeo team will travel to Milton-Freewater to participate in the final rodeo of the Northwest. Those making up the team this time will be Ray Kinder, bull riding and barebacking;; Carol Cable, barebacking, bull-dogging, calf roping, and cow milking; Charles Roach, cow milking and barebacking; Jim Waldorf, calf roping, cow milking, and bull-dogging; and Gary Gaertner, calf roping and cow milking. This will be the big rodeo of the year and the team hopes to make it a fitting climax.

Faculty Con Opens Year

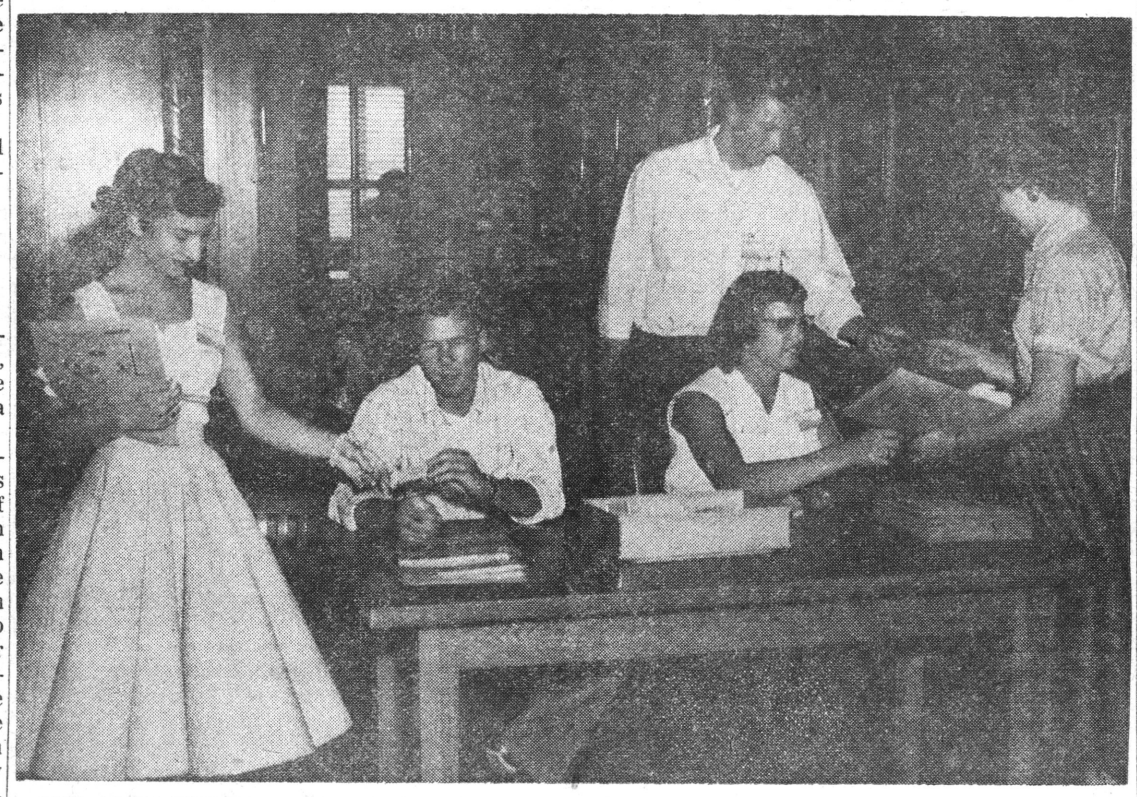
The first official all-school convocation of Eastern Oregon College was held Wednesday morning in the auditorium. Dr. Frank B. Bennett, president of EOC, addressed the assembly.

Following the traditional procession of the faculty in academic regalia, Dr. Virgil Bolen gave the invocation. In addition to the introduction of faculty to the convocation by Dr. Bennett, an explanation of academic regalia was given by Dr. Ralph Badgley.

Dr. J. Lynn Bishop and Mr. Neil Wilson provided the special music for the program.

Since You've Been Away . . .

The Oregon State Board of Higher Education, at its July meeting, changed officially the names of the two colleges of education at La Grande and Ashland.



Eastern Oregon College of Education is now known officially as Eastern Oregon College. The "of Education" was dropped also from the name of Southern Oregon College. The amendment in the names of the two colleges was in recognition of the fact that the two institutions are, and have been for some time, regional colleges, rather than only colleges for the preparation of teachers for the public schools. Local practice in each case has unofficially already shortened the names of the colleges.

Mr. Donald Nelson, EOC Librarian, is on a year's sabbatical leave. Mr. Nelson will pursue work toward his doctorate at the University of California in Berkeley.

Eastern Oregon College presents its first showing of Art Acquisitions in the gallery in the basement of the Library.

We are proud of the Administration in its recognition for the building of a permanent art collection.

The two principal purchases are an oil painting by Carl Morris and a metal sculpture by Tom Hardy. Also included in the exhibit are etchings, lithographs, and wood blocks by contemporary American artists.

Bob Valiant, social chairman on campus, said the all-school mixer held in Hoke Hall last Saturday night at 8:30 was a "great success."

The freshman committee, headed by Jo Belshaw, which decorated the hall along the theme "Autumn Leaves" were: Kathy Craig, Bonnie Fox, Glenda Healey, Marion Wood, Sheri Warren, Mary Scofield, Jane Bell, and Sharon Christianson.

PROGRESS—Telephones on the Eastern Oregon College campus are now dial system and a P-A-B-X switchboard was installed this summer to handle all incoming calls. Shown above is Mrs. Dale Moore at the switchboard. She takes incoming calls and dials the department number. The switchboard is located in the administrative offices of Ackerman. (EOC Photo)

Committees Begin Homecoming Task

Homecoming general co-chairmen this year are Sandra Spickerman and Dan McDeVitt who are already at work planning for the October 12 and 13 (Friday) and Saturday) gala affair. For this last home game of the season, the Mountaineers will play OTI of Klamath Falls. Registration for visitors will be in the library from 4 to 5:30 Friday afternoon and 9:30 to 11 Saturday morning. At this time mums will be sold by the Beacon staff.

The theme for this year is "Get Your Kicks in '56." Organizations will build their floats around any comic strip characters that carry out this motto. The queen's float will be built by the IK's and the Sabers who walked off with honors last year for the best float. Hunt Hall, which sponsored the '55 queen, will present the flowers to this year's queen. Bonita Booth will work with Alpha Rho Tau as chairman of the homecoming dance.

A stuffing party will be held Monday, October 1, 7:30 in the cafeteria, for all freshmen. They will mail prepared invitations to homecoming to EOC alumni. Refreshments will be served and a dance will be held later the same evening.

Sandra said a meeting of all committee heads was held Monday evening at which each one reported his progress on the committee. She said some changes are being made in the intinerary. One change is that a coffee hour Saturday morning will replace the annual afternoon banquet. An alumni activity is being planned for either the halftime at the game which consists of frosh and upperclass "he-men" fighting over sandbags on the football field. The outcome of this endurance test will determine the length of time freshmen must wear their beanies.

The following is a gist of the Homecoming weekend activities: Friday (12th) the queen's coronation; the bonfire and the "O" will be burned; the rally; Saturday (13th) 11 a.m. coffee hour will be held in conjunction with the alumni meeting in Hoke Hall; 1 p.m. is the parade downtown featuring floats; 2 is game time; 8 is the Variety Show; 9 to 12 is the homecoming dance.

Bob Brown Fractures Leg

"Bob Brown has a fractured fibula, which is no fib!"

Those are the exact words of Archie Dunsmoor, head football mentor at Eastern Oregon College, in describing the loss of the Mountaineers' only letterman quarterback. Brown, a sophomore from Springfield, is lost for the season.

EOC faces Whitman Saturday at La Grande but no doubt will be below par, not having fully recovered from the 40-13 defeat at the hands of College of Idaho.

In addition to the loss of Brown, Dunsmoor may only get limited duty from Dick Quinn, speedy La Grande halfback, who was injured in last Saturday's game and has skipped the week's practice sessions.

Filling in at the quarterback post will be Dee Dickenson, Burns freshman; Alan Brown, Boise JC transfer from Corbett; and Jack Coates, Kennewick, Wash., junior.

EOC Enrollment Continues Up; Total Hits 593

Early registration figures at Eastern Oregon College thus far indicate a 6 per cent increase in total enrollment compared with a year ago. Second day totals showed 570 students enrolled as compared to about 535 on the second day a year ago. Final total enrollment in 1955 was 610. Final figures will not be available until next week according to Dr. L. H. Johnson, registrar.

The greatest increase was noted in the freshman class with 258 registered to date, compared to 226 in 1953.

The EOC General Studies program gained 58 per cent over last year's number while a 24 per cent increase was noted in number of students registerd for preprofessional courses.

Dr. Johnson indicated that registration for the several evening courses was still open. These include, Monday — Beginning Accounting, Stenography, 7-8:30, Beginning Typing, 8:30-10 (will also meet Wednesdays), and Weaving, 7-10.

Tuesday—Crafts, 7-10, and Psychology of Learning (graduate), 7-10.

Wednesday — World Problams,

Wednesday—World Problems, 7-10, Stage Craft and Lighting,

Variety Show Try-Outs Set

Try-outs for the second annual homecoming show have been scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, October 1, 2, and 3 from 6:30 to 9:00 in the EOC Theatre, Richard Hiatt announced this week.

"Our plans," said Hiatt, "are to make this the biggest, funniest, and best variety show ever produced at EOC." Anyone who plays any type of musical instrument, or who sings, dances, does comedy routines or record pantomimes, or anything else mentionable is urged to try out. All who try out are requested to bring their own music and accompanist.

Hiatt added that freshmen are particularly encouraged and urged to bring forth their talents in these try-out sessions.

The Variety Show is scheduled as pre-dance entertainment for students and alumni Saturday, October 13, and is a part of the annual Homecoming activities.

AWS Organization Explains Functions

Of special interest to all freshmen women and new students will be the Associated Women's Student organization which automatically includes all regularly enrolled EOC students. It is an organization which serves to bring student-faculty and intra-student relationships closer together and which promotes the general social mindedness of the whole student body.

Some activities which AWS sponsors are the Christmas formal, a reception in Dorion Hall during Religious Week, the spring style show, and the coronation ball.

Grace Furuyama, president of the group, urges all freshmen and new girls to become socially active in it and requests their support.

Other AWS officers are Vice president: Nadine Elam and Secretary-treasurer: Fusaye Hayashi. Mrs. Dorothy Winters is the adviser.

A NEW BEACON POLICY

Another summer is over and another year of school lies ahead of us. This will be a challenging year for all, especially because the college enrollment is at an all-time high. We extend a hearty welcome to everyone and hope this year will be a most successful year for you, both academically and socially speaking.

In particular we hope the freshmen and new students will immediately adopt EOC as their new "home" for the duration of the college career, abide by its student regulations, and learn to love and respect the school as other students throughout the years have done. The faculty and student body comprise one happy family here and members of each will be happy to offer advice and help when you have difficulties. They'll jump to be your friends!

Organizations on the campus ,including The Beacon, are also here to serve you. We hope you will support our publication heartily, offering criticisms and comments freely at any time.

We encourage the student body to send in signed letters to the editor. Our policy concerning letters is (1) the writer's name will be printed unless he designates that it be withheld; (2) the writer may indicate a pen name that he wishes to use. All letters must be signed in order to be considered for publication. All letters will be kept confidential and names of the writers will not be released should their letters be signed with a pen name.

Most of our staff members are new students. Both they and the editor have much to learn about putting together a student newspaper. With your cooperation, support, and loyalty we'll work hard to make this publication one which will serve you and one of which you will be proud to call your school paper.

The Editor.

C Of C Welcomes Students

An official welcome to La Grande was extended to new and returning EOC students today by the La Grande-Union County Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Dave Baum encouraged students to visit the Chamber office in the lobby of the Sacajawea hotel.

"The Chamber will be happy to answer any questions you might have about the community, and can provide you with up-to-the minute information concerning recreational facilities in our area," Baum said.

Sigma Alpha Chi selected their candidate for Homecoming queen Wednesday. She is Nadine Elam, a sophomore from La Grande who is registered in elementary education.

DR. L. RHODES LEWIS, Assistant Professor of Music, returned from sabbatical leave with Ph. D.

EOC End Becomes Father Monday

Jack Harmon, veteran Eastern Oregon College end, may not be quite up to par Saturday night against Whitman's Missionaries. He became a father Monday.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor said earlier this week that he expected Harmon to miss a few practices this week as the Mountaineers prepare for Saturday's second home game of the season.

The Harmons new arrival, a husky nine pound, 13 ounce male, has been named Jeffrey Scott.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Welcome to EOC! This welcome is not only extended to the students, but to the new faculty members as well. The new member of the music departmentt is Mr. N. Wilson. Word has already reacheed EOC that Mr. Wilson is an exceptionally fine- singer. We certainly hope we can hear him in the near future. Mr. Wilson will have charge of the choir, Blue and Gold, and Music appreciation classes. He reports that a fine group of singers are in the freshman class. They have a greater musical background than ever before.

New to the freshmen and sophomores is Dr. Lewis. Dr. Lewis is well known by the upper classmen, and a big welcome home goes to him, too. He spent last year in Iowa studying for his Doctorate. He has brought back many new ideas for the EOC band. Dr. Lewis will also handle the Grande Ronde Symphony and several of the music classes.

For the benefit of the new students, the other two members of the music department are Dr. Bishop and Mr. McMullen. Dr. Bishop teaches the Music Fundamentals classes and handles all of the music in Ackerman. Mr. McMullen teaches piano and Music Theory.

Those students interested in forming small vocal groups should contact either Mr. Wilson or Dr. Bishop soon.

Thanks should go to the freshman pianists who played during Fresman Days, Patsy Walker and Stella Hawk. You girls did a grand job and really helped out some of the busy upperclassmen. The upper-classmen who are still available as accompanists are Betty Roudebush, Patsy Evans, and Gail Swart.

The dance band really did a swell job at the dance last Saturday night. It certainly is nice to have our own dance band here on the campus.

Tenors take note! Dr. Bishop said that the choir still needs more tenors. Contact Mr. Wilson right away.

The only EOC soloist to appear this early in the year is Barbara Carter. Barbara sang a solo at the Christian Church on September 23, and that evening she also played a flute solo at the Interfaith Fellowship Devotional Service.

GIRLS, PLEASE NOTE

CHAMBLEE, GA. (ACP)—The Technician, published by students at the Southern Technical Institue, recently took a scientific view of the female of the species. It printed this description of a woman as seen through the eyes of a chemist:

SYMBOL: WO

ACCEPTED ATOMIC WEIGHT: 120 lbs.

PHYSICAL PROPERTIES: Boils at nothing and freezes at any minute; melts when properly treated; very bitter if not well used.

OCCURRENCE: Found wherever man exists.

CHEMICAL PROPERTIES: Possesses great affinity for gold, silver, platinum and precious stones. Violent reaction if left alone. Able to absorb great amount of food matter. Turns green when placed beside a better-looking specimen.

USES: Highly ornamental; useful as a tonic inacceleration of low spirits, and an equalizer of the distribution of wealth. Is probably the most effective income-reducing agent known.

CAUTION: Highly explosive in inexperienced hands.

Whitman EOC Foe Saturday

Mountaineer Field in La Grande will be the scene of the Eastern Oregon College-Whitman College of Washington game this Saturday at 8:00 p.m., as the Mountaineers play their third contest of the 1956 season. So far the locals have run up a record of one win and one loss. They downed Westminister College 7-6 on the 15th, and last weekend were trampled by the College of Idaho, 40-13.

Head Coach Arch Dunsmoor has 15 lettermen back, including four All-Conference first team selections, and these letter winners have been doing a good job of working a good team into shape for the rest of the season. The four All-Conference returnees are: Bill West, a Senior Fullback from La Grande; Halfback Elvin Daggett, a Senior from Joseph; Jack Harmon, Senior End from La Grande; and "Bud" Lewis, a Sophomore Center from Wallowa.

Luckily, out of the 15 returnees, there are at least two for every position except Center and Fullback.

On the weekend of October 6, the Mountaineers meet Oregon College in the first Oregon Collegiate Conference game for the Mounties.

and Scholarship Money for Your College in Reader's Digest

$41,000 CONTEST

Open to All College Students (Faculty, too!)

Nothing to buy...nothing to write

...and you may find you know more about people than you think!

How well do you know human nature? Can you tell what subjects interest people most? Here is a chance to test your judgment—show how good an editor you are—and you may win $5,000 for yourself, plus $5,000 in scholarship funds for your college.

It's fun to try. Maybe you can top other students in colleges across the country . . . and you can match wits with the editors of Reader's Digest.

Why do far more college graduates read Reader's Digest than any other magazine? What is it that makes the Digest the most widely read magazine in the world — with 11 million copies bought each month in the United States, plus 9 million abroad? Why is it read each month by at least 60 million people, in 12 languages—Arabic, Danish, English, Finnish, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Norwegian, Portuguese, Spanish and Swedish?

Can you spot in a typical issue of Reader's Digest the universal human values that link scholars, statesmen, scientists, writers, businessmen, housewives? Can you pick out the articles that will be most popular with the average Digest reader?

You may find . . . you know more about people than you think!

Here's all you do. Study the descriptions (at right) of the articles in the October Reader's Digest—or, better still, read the complete articles in the issue itself. (But you are not required to buy The Reader's Digest to enter the contest.) Then simply list the six articles—in order of preference—that you think readers of the magazine will like best. This will be compared with a nationwide survey conducted among a cross section of Digest subscribers.

Follow the directions given below. Fill in the entry blank, paste it on a post card, and get it into the mail before the deadline. Additional blanks are obtainable at your college bookstore.

All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, October 25, 1956. Don't delay. In case of ties, the entry with the earliest postmark will win.

Just pick in order the six articles you think most readers of October Reader's Digest will like the best.

READER'S DIGEST CONTEST, Box 4, Great Neck, L. I., New York

In the space opposite the word "FIRST" write the number of the article you think will be the most popular of all. Opposite the word "SECOND" write the number of the article you think will rank second in popularity. List in this way the numbers of the six top articles in the order of their popularity. (Note: Use only the numbers of articles you choose. Do not write the title of any article.) Clip and paste this coupon on a Government post card.

2. On the entry blank at left, write the number of each article you select. List them in what you think will be the order of popularity, from first to sixth place. Your selections will be judged by comparison with a national survey which ranks in order of popularity the 6 articles that readers like best. Fill in and mail the coupon. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, October 25, 1956.

3. This contest is open only to college students and faculty members in the U. S., excluding employees of The Reader's Digest, its advertising agencies, and their families. It is subject to all federal, state and local laws and regulations.

Fall Enrollment Tops Records

By Howard Evans

Enrollment at Eastern Oregon College has come to a close with a total of 667 students, a 9.5 per cent increase over last year's total of 609, and slightly less than the 700 mark that was earlier predicted.

Curricula-wise, there are 236 in elementary education; 140 in secondary education, an area which is growing quite rapidly; 81 in general studies, and 210 in pre-professional studies. A breakdown of the classes gives us a total of 263 freshmen this year, as compared with 258 in 1955, and 226 in 1953; 153 sophomores; 95 juniors, 81 seniors; and 75 special students. The women will be delighted to learn that the men outnumber them 381 to 286, which should lessen the fear of being dateless to a mere worry.

The veterans attending EOC under the various military grants and education bills now boast a total force of 133 or one-fifth of the total enrollment. A hearty welcome to all of them!

It may be of some intereest to know that well over one-third of thhe total students enrolled, 264 to be exact, are on the campus for the first time. Small wonder that so many of the faces you saw looked new and strange.

EOC To Host OTI In Homecoming Tilt

The EOC Mountaineers are host to Oregon Technical Institute on Saturday, Oct. 13 at 2 p.m. for the Homecoming game.

The game should prove to be a thriller since OTI is a much improved team over last year's. They have several new men from Pennsylvania who have helped to account for a record of two wins and one deefat.

OTI has beaten Ricks College of Idaho and Yakima Junior College (who have beaten EOC). Their only defeat up to this point was to Compton Junior College of California. Another reason for their success is demonstrated in their new offensive plan which is played around a "straight T" formation.

However, with this formidable news from Klamath Falls, Coach Archie Dunsmoor of EOC is still confident, although the injury list of the Mountaineers appears to appear pessimistic.

Bob Brown is out for the season with a broken leg. Stan Weigel is still nursing a broken hand, while other doubtful starters are Allen Brown and Gene Bolen.

JEAN RAMOS, Echo, was crowned 1956 Homecoming queen before a capacity audience Friday evening in the college auditorum. Princesses of her court are Janice Robertson, Forest Grove, and Jan Hindman, Weston. Queen Jean's coronation launches an activity-filled Homecoming weekend on the EOC campus for returning grads and students.

Play Cast Announced

Boyd Devin, Mike Ferguson, and Leonard Swanson have been cast as the three "murder for fun" convicts in the Sock and Buskin fall term production, "My Three Angels," slated to open in the EOC theatre November 15. Other major roles in this three act comedy are taken by Bob Valiant as Felix; Liz Baumeister as Emilie; Colette Wardell as Marie, Louise; and Dale O'Grady as eHnri. Sheldon Strand, Dot Anson, and Dick Cook complete the cast.

Show Schedules Top Talent

The Homecoming Variety Show will be held Saturday at 8:00 p.m. in the Eastern Oregon College Auditorium.

The following people will participate: Millie Kawaguchi will do a Hula; Janice Martin will play a violin solo; Dave Skeen will sing a solo; Sanda Benson will do a tap dance; Patsy Evans and Betty Rovdebush will play a duo piano selection; Don Frank, Jim Anderson, Dale Moulton and George Schoedinger will sing as a quartet; Nadine Elam, Jean Adamson, and Judy Lutz will form a girls' trio; Patsy Evans, Leonard Swanson, Bob Herbig, Gary Winkel, and Dave Everett will play the "Dixie Land Combo."

The Variety Show will be sponsored by the "Sock and Buskin Players," and President Boyd Devin will be the master of ceremonies.

As usual, the show is packed full of special events for your entertainment, so make it a "must" for Saturday night!

By Vic Snively

Jean Ramos, Echo, was crowned Homecoming Queen of 1956 at an inspiring coronation Friday, October 12, before a packed auditorium. Her princesses, Janice Robertson, Forest Grove, and Jan Hindman, Weston attended her. The new queen sponsored by Hunt Hall, is a sophomore in elementary education.

The race was a close one in an election which saw a record turnout of EOC voters. The quen wil reign over Homecoming festivities tonight and tomorrow. The Beacon, in announcing the '56 queen, was distributed at the door after the ceremony.

Finding someone to write an article on the homecoming queen candidates is becoming a harder and harder job each year. The girls get prettier and prettier; consequently if a non-participating female were to write the article, it would drip with venom and malice and so influence people that they probably wouldn't bother to vote; on the other hand if some young male were to write the article it would become so ardent that the censors wouldn't print it; and if they did, such an article coming before the unenlightened public would cause more trouble than integration. Therefore the task has been delegated this year to one of the young married persons on the campus, and this person is constantly reminded as he writes this article that his wife may be the proof reader. Thus you are assured of an authoritative, disinterested and unbiased analysis.

The first finalist that finds herself in our journalistic spotlight is Jan Hindman, sponsored by IRC, YD's and YR's. Here we have a picture of petite loveliness that leaves one speechless. Such charm and grace is seldom found in so small a package. A perfunctory poll of eligible, and interested males has been taken and when the question was asked, "Will this girl be a hit or a miss," the cry was almost unanimous and ranged from piercing screams in the affirmative to gurgles of delight at the very mention of the name.

The second beautiful young candidate, Janice Robertson, spansored by Sock and Buskin leaves an observer in a more subdued but equally enamored frame of mind. Here we have a candidate with the beauty of Helen, the grace of a bird in flight and surrounded by an aura of haunting loveliness that makes Mona Lisa blush in envy. This is a girl that your mother would enjoy meeting during Christmas vacation, and our poll shows that your father wouldn't be disappointed either.

The last candidate, Jean Ramos is as endowed with feminine charm as her competitors, and in addition she has a quality that is almost unique in the human female, that is versatility. In Miss Ramos we find a person that is equally charming and at ease gliding to the strains of "A Straus Waltz," or playing center for WRA. She can be found consistently demur while dining at Ritz or at Dinty Moore's. In other words, according to our poll, here is a find, one in a million, Miss Sought After of '56.

Here given as clearly as possible, in the prescribed manner and as pertinent as tomorrow's news are the facts concerning our candidates for homecoming queen of 1956. In the words of that famous American, "We don't care who you voted for, just as long as it wasn't in opposition to our wishes."

Welcome Back, Alums

Hello, alums! We're happy to greet you to our 1956 Homecoming. Let down your reserve and plunge into the "'rah rah" spirit of this campus during your visit. This is your Alma Mater, remember? . . . In those first days you (a frosh) crept around the campus because the atmosphere on this hill was so terrifying pedantic. The halls and classrooms appeared stiff and formal; you thought the grand staircase behind the ad building has a much easier downgrade than a satisfying up-grade, especially for you. Ohh, thinking of grades made you sick, all right! Then one look at your professors' faces, and maybe you thought, "I'm finished!" But you stuck to EOC, your respect and loyalty growing for it every day. One day you were completely for EOC! The traditions, the friends you made among both students and faculty, the classes—they had all caught up with you. At graduation you didn't want to leave.

Well, dear alums, some of our '60 frosh may still feel homesick, lonesome or a wee bit frightened, or be worried about grades—just as you once did. If you happen to run into any of these students, won't you please talk to them—and tell them about yourself when you first came here. Tell them grades are important but not in themselves—that the development of their "social-sidedness," the ability to live with people—is just as important. Give them tips on how to study most effectively. Discuss with them how time may be budgeted to include extra-curricular activities. (Very often, we upperclassmen have adjusted ourselves to these matters so long ago that we cannot easily place ourselves in the freshmen's position. We've forgotten.

Thanks for taking time out to listen to us. We sincerely hope your visit here will be filled with fun. Our committees have worked to make this a weekend you'll never forget. So enjoy yourselves—and come back, won't you!

Dorion Briefs

By Barbara Logan

On the third floor? "Yes, your room will be on the third floor this term." I had a third floor room once before. I lost 20 pounds. Third floor . . . you know where it is. You start running up stairs until you can't run anymore and there you are.

With these thoughts in mind, I charged up two flights of stairs to look over my future residence in Dorion Hall. Not only was it up on the third floor, it was also at the far end of the hall.

Yes, here it is . . . 314 . . . already partially inhabited. The natives were friendly, but something else was on my mind at the moment. I not only lived on the third floor, end of the hall; I also lived on the top bunk.

After I got my breath back, I decided that the logical thing to do was to move in. And so with a minimum of physical effort I transplanted my load to my tree house.

Next I had to make up the bed. Oh yes, forgot the sheets . . . down the stairs and back again. Now how do I get up there to get the job done? You can't just stand on the lower bunk unless you're built like a corkscrew. Besides, it has a yellow spread on it and yellow gets dirty too fast. With the help of two roommates and three chairs I got the job done.

By then it was time to hit the hay. I put on my spiked boots, grabbed my nylon rope and scaled the end of the bed. Eerything was all right until someone turned on the main light. Did you ever sleep with a spotlight? I'll have the best tan in town.

After one night in birdland, I decided to live on the ground . . . anyplace . . . in the hall, on the roof . . . just so I can get my feet on the ground.

We finally did change the room. Now we live like sardines instead of birds. Yes, Mom, it's a great life.

Music Notes

Tenors, please make your presence known. The choir desperately needs more tenors. Any one who would like to take advantage of this offer may see Dr. Bishop or Mr. Wilson right away.

The choir chose thier slate of officers last week. Taking over the Presidency is Dick Cook, and serving as vice-president is Roberta Miller. Rounding out the list of officers are Jean Adamson, chairman; Janice Robertson and Barbara Carter, librarians; Marge Kartevold and Joan Eldridge, attendance; and Maurice Lane and Dave Skeen, co-business managers. Accompanists are Stella Hawk, Patsy Walker, and Joan Eldridge.

Seventeen EOC students are in the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra this term, several of them new to the orchestra. These seventeen are Janice Masten and Diana Gilstrap, violins; Phil Goodwin, Karen McGillivray, and Dot Ann Anson, clarinets; Sonya Tubbs, string bass; Barbara Carter, flute; Monte Nedrow and Bob Herbig, trumpets; Bonnie Powell and Elwyn Hugg, French horns; Don Barr and Leonard Swanson, trombones; Bob Good, Dave Everett, and Patsy Reeves, percussion; and Gail Swart, piano.

September 30 the orchestra spent the afternoon at Westminister Woods near Meachum. A picnic was held, and then a practice was conducted under the trees.

Several of the members of the Blue and Gold Singers are freshmen this yar. Freshmen who have been picked for this group are Jo Belshaw, Bonnie Fox, Marge Kartevold, Nance McRae, Silvia Thompson, Dennis Godfrey, Dale Moulton, George Schoedinger, Dave Skeen, and Larry Swartz. Upper classmen selected are Barbara Carter, Janice Robertson, Virginia Van Blokland, Dick Cook, and Maurice Lane.

Interested students are beginning to start work on ensembles, but none have definitely been organized yet.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What's the story here at EOC? I've always thought a college had a lot of Spirit, school pep. I think a better name for the Eastern Oregon spirit would be SCHOOL PEEP!

Take the EOC vs. OCE game for instance. The first conference game of the season, and possibly the most important, and we find about one-third of the student body there. The few people that did attend gave out a little more than the previous game, where a handful of Whitman cheerers outyelled the complete Eastern Oregon cheering section.

Also, what about the Assemblys? When they introduced the Homecoming Queen Candidates, about one-half our approximate 700 strong ASB showed. What's the deal? Aren't the students here interested in who their Homecoming Queen is?

I understand Homecoming is where all the Grads return for the weekend, look over the Campus, how it's being run, and hope to look with pride. What we of the ASB should want is something bigger and better every year. Something the Alums can look on with pride, and say, "That's my Alma Mater!" To do this we must have 100 percent cooperation from the students, but too many of them think their little bit won't help!!

Another thing, don't the students here have an interest in what their government is doing? When Senator Douglas McKay spoke, there was a minute per cent of the people there, when all of them should have been.

We paid for all this when we received our Student Body Cards. If we don't use them, no one is losing but us! If we went into a cafe, ordered and paid for a steak, would we leave before at least tasting it? That is exactly what is happening here at Eastern Oregon.

Letter to editor ....

What are you going to do when you get out of college? Yes, I mean you and you and you? Are you as a college student going to be able to take your place in the world by being able to converse intelligently on affairs of today and by being able to state the facts because you have been interested enough to acqauint yourself with them?

People often say, "How do you get acquainted with people? What do you talk about?" Well, here's a chance to find things to talk about. What do I mean? We haven't many chances to learn besides our classes. Yes, I mean our assemblies. Go to one and see if you don't find it an interesting affair .

We had a chance to hear a political speaker Friday. Did you hear him? Oh yes, I know he was a Democrat, but if you never listen to the opposition how do you know what they are doing? How are you going to emphasize your points if you don't know what you are opposing? I know one professor of history who ties up his subject matter with world happenings. It might make history a little more interesting if you could enter into the discussions.

It is the college people of today who will run the world of tomorrow. It isn't going to be the ones who are full of book "larning," so to speak, but those who are also well informed on the topics of today.

Who are the people who are going places?

Where are you going to be next assembly? With the know-it-all's in the coffee shop or the want-to-find out's at the assembly?

by P. Y.

Don't forget your mum!

Of all things, remember to get your mums, alumnae and EOC women! (Note: this message is especially directed to the freshmen!) There is a tradition on most campuses that each girl wears a mum on Homecoming, especially to the Homecoming game. We think it is a nice tradition and it is one way of showing loyalty to your college. (Boys, you may as well resign yourself to the fact that you'll probably land up getting your gal one of these fabulous creations.) The EOC mum will be large-size, decked with blue and gold ribbons and the letter "O".

Mums will be sold by the Beacon staff at a $1 each, Saturday, 9:30-11 a.m., in Walter Pierce Library. Students are cordially invited, and urged, to continue upholding this tradition of wearing mums on Homecoming at EOC. In the past even moms have been proudly wearing them

Whitman Nudges Eastern Oregon In Saturday Free-For-All, 32-31

Eastern Oregon College's Mountaineers and the Whitman Missionarys gave the La Granders their first shot of college football of the 1956 season Saturday, September 29, on the Mountie's field in an offensive contest that featured 10 T.D.s and three P.O.T.s. Each team scored five times, but the Whits added two extra points to the Mountaineers one and emerged victorious 32-31.

Elvin Daggett, winner of EOC's Most Valuable Players award and top ground gainer in the Oregon Collegiate Conference in 1955, romped forward 32 times, racking up a total of 213 pards. Daggett was one carry short of packing the pig half the time for Eastern Oregon.

The first of the many scores came early in the first quarter after two Whitman fumbles gave the ball to EOC on the Whit's 18 yard line. After two unsuccessful attempts at the line, quarterback Bob Brown handed off to Elvin Daggett, who in turn scampered into the striped territory for the score.

Six plays later found Sullivan of Whitman breaking loose from his own 45 yard stripe to dash 55 yards in to the end zone. Beck's boot for the extra point was good.

Bill West took the kick and drove to the Eastern Oregon 38 before a swarm of Missionary tacklers brought him down. From there it was just a matter of minutes before the hide was on the Whitman 20. Again Daggett broke loose and scored, his second of the quarter.

On the opening play of the second quarter Daggett brought the EOC fans to the standing position on a spectacular 51 yard run into the striped zone that gave his teammates a 18-7 margin to work on.

Midway in the second quarter, after Kolbaba punted to the Whits on their own 41, the Walla Wallians decided to take to the air, and in two consecutive tries had moved the ball to the Mountaineers 22. Sullivan put the "Little Pig" on the two and Deebach scored on a QB keep.

An Eastern Oregon fumble and a Whitman recover on the EOC's 16 yard mark gave the visitors their chance to go ahead in the scoring column, and they didn't pass it up. Garrett scored the six counters that gave Whitman the edge of 19-18 at half time.

A determined Eastern Oregon bunch took the second half kick and started a march, clmaxed by a pass from the Missionary 18 by Dee Dickenson to Jack Harmon that netted the first T.D. of the secoond half. Daggett took to the end for the extra point.

Again Whitman battled back with a pass from quarterback Deeback that found Shembs in the clear for 32 pards and the score. Jack Harmon busted through thhe line to block the kick for the extra point.

The after-T.D. kick came to an eager EOC band that wouldn't be counted out. With Dick Quinn and Terry Ziegenhagen hitting the line and Elvin Daggett tearing off consistant gains, and Dee Dickenson passing, the ball was moved to the Whit's eight yard line. A pass from Dickenson to Quinn, and some fine running turned in by the latter, put Eastern Oregon up in scoring once more, 31-25.

In the last three minutes of play, Whitman dug in and pushed to the Blue and Gold 4 yard line. Johnson bulled over for the tieing score at 31-31. With all the fans up on their feet, Beck calmly booted the ball through the uprights for the deciding point.

Stan Weigel, junior guard of the Mounties, contributed an outstanding game on the line with 11 tackles.

EOC Whips OCE

The "never say die" lads from Eastern Oregon College fought back from a 12-7 deficit in the last period of play to hand the Oregon College of Education a 20-12 defeat in the Oregon College Conference football opener for both teams. It was a hard fought contest from the opening whistle, but only a total of 25 yards was called by the men in the striped shirts, and all of it for off-side.

Thirty-eight seconds after Eastern Oregon opened the game with the kick-off, OCE's Santee found Berreman behind the Mountaineers defense with an aerial. Berreman took the ball going away, outran the EOC backfield into the end zone for the score. The try for extra point was wide.

Eastern Oregon refused to stay out of the scoring column and immediately fought back. Bill West and Elvin Daggett tore off consistant gains through the line, and a pass from Dee Dickenson to Jack Harmon put the ball on the Wolves' 10 yard line. Bill West bulldozed through the line, over the defense and into paydirt. The extra point was kicked by Dick Quinn.

The third quarter featured another Oregon College score by Gernhardt. He broke loose from his 25 yard line and went to the EOC 37 before West and Daggett overtook him. The next play saw a pass with Gernhardt on the receiving end, and he scooted into the striped territory. Again the try for point was wide.

Quarter number four was the big one for EOC. The period opened with the Mounties in possession on their own 38 yard line. Daggett picked up a first down on the mid-stripe. Bill West broke loose for 15 yards, Daggett went off tackle to the 25, West drove to the 5, and a pass from Brown to Harmon ended the drive with six points. Quinn's kick was good, and the Mounties led 14-12.

On the next series of plays we dug in and held the visitors and forced them to pnt. The ball rolled out of bounds on the Blue and Gold 35. The first play from scrimmage saw Elvin Dagget dancing through the line, evading the outstretched hands of the would be tacklers and hussling 65 yards into pay dirt.

Bill West, defensive line-backer for Eastern Oregon, was an immovable object on defense, and the complete Eastern Oregon line played tremendous ball during the entire contest.

Six EOC Seniors To Play Last Home Game Saturday

The EOC Mountaineers have been going full speed this week in preparation for their Homecoming tilt with Oregon Tech despite the rain which has hit the workouts.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor has been stressing pass defense in drills. EOC allowed but two touchdowns for Oregon College of Education last Saturday, and they were via the air route, before winning 20-12.

The Homecoming game with OTI Saturday afternoon marks the home finale for the Mountaineers this season as their next three contests are away.

Playing their last Mountaineer football before the home crowd will be seniors Bill West, La Grande; Lowell Kolbaba, Ontario; Don Paulson, Maupin; Elvin Daggett, Joseph; Gene Bolen and Jack Harmon, La Grande.

Facing OTI at kick-off time will be Harmon and Kolbaba at the ends; Gene Bolen and Steve Johnson at tackles; Jerry Bristow and Bill Rodda at guards; Bud Lewis at center; Daggett and Dick Quinn at halfbacks; West at full; and Dee Dickenson at quarter.

The Mountaineers have a 1-0 record thus far in conference play, having knocked off favored OCE last week. EOC goes into Saturday's game as a favorite over OTI, but last year's 27-6 EOC victory means little. The Mounties are expecting a tough battle.

Fella's, here's the word-

Every girl wants one. Surely your girl won't be the only one without one. They are a must for Homecoming. What are they?? Why MUMS, of course.

Mums for alums and all EOC students will be sold by the Beacon staff October 13 from 9:30-11 in the library. If the demand is high, they may be sold at the game.

Committee Chosen

Bob Valiant, A.S.B Second Vice President and Social Chairman, wishes to announce the names of the persons who will serve on the social committee for the academic year 1956-1957.

They are Jo Anne Belshaw, a freshman from Mt. Vernon; Mary Ruth Green, a sophomore from Heppner; Jo Glenn, a senior from Summerville; and Norm Trotter, a senior from La Grande.

President Welcomes Alums

Homecoming is always an exciting moment in the school year. Students and Faculty cooperate to show you a true welcome to the campus. We hope this occasion may be a rewarding experience for each and all of you.

Our college now has a new name. The "of Education" has been dropped so that our official name is now EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE. Enrollment continues to mount. We will almost certainly exceed 650 students this year. A new dormitory is now assured. A central heating plant and a new physical education plant are in high priority in the askings of the 1957 legislature.

We hope you will add your enthusiasm to that of those on the campus and have a delightful weekend. We promise you a thrilling football game in addition to all other festivities.

Cordially yours,
FRANK B. BENNETT
President

My Three Angels

On EOC Production Line

by Mayben DeGraw

Another one of EOC's play productions is under way and has the possibilities ofa great success. As has been reported before, the play is entitled, "My Three Angels," a three-act comedy.

Some writers will do anything for laughs and the playwrights of this play are no exception. The talented playwrights, Sam and Bella Spewack make murderers likeable and have them commit murders for fun. Some of the language isn't too, er . . . "Oxford English" shall we say. Of course they do help out some pretty good people.

No one needs more help than Felix (Bob Valiant) and Emilie (Liz Baumeister), his wife, because they are so honest and lend credit to everybody; consequently, they are about to lose the store. Their daughter, Marie Louise (Colette Wardell) is haing her troubles, too. She is in love with Paul (Sheldon Strand), who is a no-good heel and is about to marry another girl. Well, things couldn't be much worse around home. This is the cue for the heroes to come on the scene who are, of course ,the three convicts.

Joseph (Boyd Devin), Jules (Mike Ferguson), and Alfred (Leonard Swanson) are good guys really, but just happen to be murderers. Their ways of helping out, aren't exactly ethical but they do rate laughs. They get rid of Uncle Henri (Dale O'Grady) who is after all, the louse who wants to take the store from Felix and Emilie. They also work very hard to fix up Marie Louise's love affair, and towards the end of the play things aren't looking too bad. (I don't see how.)

Perhaps some of you aren't aware of the work that goes into a production of this type. There are 82 rehearsing hours scheduled for this play plus many hours of home work for the director and actors. If you appreciate the effort put forth to make this play a success, come and see it on November 15, 16, 17. Mr. Hiatt, the director guarantees a top performance.

P.S., One part is not cast. Sock and Buskin is looking for a lowly snake in the grass, to play the same kind of character, Adolfe in the play. Anyone interested, contact Mr. Hiatt.

EOC Meets Pacific U

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers closed out their home schedule last Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Oregon Tech Owls, 25-18, for Homecoming. This weekend they travel to Forest Grove to play Pacific University. Game time is 8 p.m., Saturday, October 20.

Missing from the Mountie lineup for the remainder of the season will be Bill Rodda, a sophomore guard from Moro. According to Coach Archie Dunsmoor, Rodda had some shoulder muscles torn in the OTI game. Also out will be "Cub" Bare, Stan Weigel, Bob Brown and Jack Coates, all with injuries.

Members of the Mountaineer squad who looked particularly good in the OTI game and will be playing in the Inter-League contest will be Bill West, Elvin Daggett, Lowell Kolbaba, Terry Zigenhagen, Jack Harmon, Jerry Bristow, Earl Smith, Gene Bolen, and Dick Quinn.

While not too much is known of the Pacific squad, they are expected to be a tough team, as they are always a power in the Northwest League. Last Saturday, Pacific defeated a strong Seattle Rambler team, 27-7, in a non-conference game.

Hnmorist Rocs Students With 'Homey Humor'

Ed Harding, considered humorist "par excellent," was the featured speaker at the 11:00 convocation Thursday in the College auditorum.

Harding is a native of Washington, North Carolina, and is listed as one of the very few sure-fire humorists in the United States. He is a newspaperman, author, traveler, a homespun philosopher.

No problems are apt to be hatched from anything Ed Harding says, for as he himself speaks of his own stuff, "There ain't an eather-shaking problem in a car-load of it."

Harding can be described as "one of those comfortable rotund, bald-headed, cheerful individuals who likes to see folks enjoy themselves." He used to be in the fertilizer business, but swears he reformed when he became a professional after-dinner speaker. He has been a farmer, a secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and is the son of a minister.

The humorist has D.L. following his name—Doctor of Laughter—and says when he is called a wit, that can be considered HALF right.

Audiences are sometimes admonished to "Come early, come in loose clothing and be prepared for a lot of old fashioned, unhibited laughter for 'Cousin Ed' will be prepared to dish it out by the bucketful."

H C Winners Announced

Sandra Spickermas and Danny McDevitt, co-chairmen of Homecoming, announced that the float awards Saturday went to: (first prize) Theta-Delta Phil-and-Sigma Alpha Chi: "Pogo," (second prize) AWS, and (third prize) Interfaith. Names of the judges were not released. The winners were announced at the football field preceding the game.

Tied for first place in the "best cartoon" portion of the HC contest were "Pogo, the co-efforts of the two honoraries and the Interfaith float. Duplicate prizes of $10 each were awarded to each of the two groups by Alpha Rho Tau, sponsor of this division of Homecoming.

Helen Bliss, president, has called the meeting for all librarians, both in public and school libraries, annd for interested laymen to discuss the development of rural library services in the Eastern Oregon counties of Baker, Union, Umatilla, Malheur, and Wallowa.

The people of this part of the state are lacking in adequate library books and materials. The discussion in the meeting will center around the problem of what can be done for the rural areas which are without library services

Beacon Staff Work Set

by Patsy Yoneyama

Most of the Beacon staff members this year are inexperienced as far as previous work on any college publication is concerned. Under the able advisorship of Mr. Harold Dorn, formerly of Doane University in Nebraska, the staff is meeting, and working on, the problems of writing and publicaction that accompany work on a student newspaper.

At first Mr. Dorn was probably bewildered with the problem he faced as newly-appointed advisor to the Beacon staff. He found himself minus a complete staff: no editor, no staff, no plans for publication that first week as far as staffers were concerned . . . no nothing! As a matter of fact, the editor herself was informed after she'd arrived on campus that she is the new editor for 1956-57. But eventually, things straightened out, and the staff work has been rolling along smoothly since.

Assistant editor is Barrie Edwards (Union), formerly of England, who is majoring in journalism. Barrie covered everything from features, news, and sports stories to fillers last year for the Beacon.

Feature writers include veteran-writer Karen McGillivray ("Music Notes"), Barbara Logan ("Dorion Briefs"), Vic Snively ("Eocene-Reports"), and Dorothy Cress.

Don Frank, ex-veteran, who served sports fans on his high school paper has been named sports editor. His associate is Mike Ferguson, who, besides writing sports stories, has his "Tales of Hunt."

Joosie Ward, strictly the business manager this year (in '55 she wrote features), has as her assocites Marge Kartevold, Jean Graham, and Dick Bondurant.

Reporters who cover all the big and small news on campus are Norma Loe, Linda Kane, Howard Evans, and Janice oye.

Proof and copy readers and typists are Lillis Slaughter, Marge Kartevold, and Jeanie Edmison.

Circulation managers are Cathy Landis and Marge Kartevold.

The editor is Patsy Yoneyama.

Our Policy Again Is...

Misunderstandings about our policy toward letters to the editor still exist. We would like to restate and clarify our policy which was published in our first issue this term.

Letters to the editor must be signed if they are to be considered for publication at all. Letters will be printed in the Beacon if they conform to the following: (1) The writer's name will be printed unless he designates that it be withheld; (2) If the writer wishes to remain anonymous, he may indicate either a pen name or his initials to be used; (3) Letters must not be of a libelous nature, must be of reasonable length considering the subject, and should be on the editor's desk by 2 p.m. Tuesday on the week of publication. All letters will be kept confidential; names of the writers will not be revealed should the letters be signed with a pen name.

It is often said that the three functions of a newspaper are to inform, to entertain, and to interpret. The Beacon's goal is to mirror campus events, informing faculty, students, organizations, and the public of the events occurring at Eastern Oregon College. Columns on the editorial and sports page are aimed at entertaining readers as well as serving to reflect campus news. They do not reflect the consensus of the editor or the staff's opinions, but are strictly the writer's opinion.

Unsigned editorials are written by the editor, who has final responsibility for all editorials; initialed ones are written by members of the staff. Newspapers thrive on controversial subjects; sometimes our editorials will be written for the purpose of stirring up thought. Because we want the Beacon editorial page to be a forum of student thought, we welcome letters to the editor.

Dorion Briefs

by Pinchhitter

I was prevailed upon at the last minute to write this column. seems as though things went slightly amiss down at the printer's yesterday ,as far as getting this gazette out to you is concerned. Anyway, your editor feels lousy today. If you don't believe me, go ask the gal.

Thursday morning our housemother, Mrs. Harriet Hoyt, was hospitalized at St. Joseph's. She hasn't been feeling well for several days now. We hope she will recover and come home to us soon.

One of the Hunt hall guys went deer-hunting last week, and while out in the brush, he lopped off a sliver off one of his phalanges (that is to say in colloquial terms, he lacerated a thumb). Well, I was loping on by him and I heard him mumble, "Well, anyway, I got a sharp hunting knife this year anyway."

The other night a piece of wax fell out of my ear, and the reason, beloved, is because I heard a shriek and then peals of laughing delight. Peals of laughing delight . . . well gee . . . don't that sound poetic though? Well, what I started to say is when I hear peals of laughing delight like that, the wax always drops out of my ear. It's sort of uncomfortable but the ear is cleaned out anyway. This all occurred a couple of weeks ago when someone brought up a white hen to third floor (where my hovel is located). This hen was in a cardboard box, but it eventually managed to peck its way out of it. It was having a high time, slipping and gliding along on the slick floor. One could very, very easily track it down, too, because it left incriminating evidence all along the way.

This morning I saw the cutest gray kitten strolling around in our dining room. Haven't seen it now for a while. Wonder what happened to it.

Diane Gilstrop has been sparkling a beautiful diamond lately. Congratulations, Di, and best wishes to you!

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Are you wondering about those odd sounds in the Ad Building on three afternoons a week? Relax! Nothing is really wrong; it's just the instrumental-techniques class learning to play other instruments. This class is composed of Dot Ann Anson, Bonnie Powell, and Bob Herbig. You just try doing what they are doing, and see how you sound.

If you also hear strange chords coming from the pianos here in school, don't worry. They will improve with practice (Dr. Bishop hopes). The music fundamentals class is learning to play the more important chords in each key, and sometimes they hit a few wrong notes.

Musical talent really made an appearance at the variety show. Quite a bit of it came from the freshman class, too. The final group to appear in the show was welcomed happily by all who had heard it before. Last year's male quartet, composed of Bart Clements, Dick Cook, Lee Bolen, and Bill Morris, sang some of their old favorites. They also included one new (?) one, "Coney Island Baby."

The band and orchestra lost a good member last week when Phil Goodwin joined the navy. Phil is a La Grande boy, and he played in the Grand Ronde Symphony while in high school. Last year he attended the U of O. This year he enrolled at EOC and was a member of the band and SR Symphony.

Barbara Carter and Dave Skeen are both appearing as soloists at the Methodist Church this Sunday morning.

Everyone has probably heard by now that the band is going to the EOC-Portland State game on October 27.

The Civic Music drive is under way now. Remember that you can get in free if you have your student body card. Married students must have a ticket for their husbands or wives. See Dr. Bishop if you have any questions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

All albumbs seemed to be very proud of the 1956 edition of Homecoming; it really was a success and I think special tribute should be paid to the Freshman class. Everyone pitched in wholeheartedly to make this the greatest Homecoming ever staged by Eastern Oregon Collg.

While we are paying special recognition, let's point out some of the various Frosh committee chairmen.

How about that bonfire!!. Ron Palmer and his crew really did a spectacular job. Wasn't hard to start, either. My congratulations on a job well done, Ron.

Bob Mathews, that was a great idea, painting the "Welcome Alums" sign on the road. Really went over with the Grads.

Dick Bondurant and Don Frank, it's really too bad your Mountainers was burnt before everyone got a chance to see him. I only hope the person that is responsible for the deed has a conscience.

The big "O" you saw on the hill was built by Earl Downs and staff. It could be seen from all of La Grande.

The reason for the campus looking as slick as a cue ball was mainly because of Tobb Guilland. He and his crew did a marvelous job both before and after the festivities.

Now, only one person remains to be pointed out individually. That, of course, is the man responsible for, and who worked on all of the committees: George Shodeger, the Freshman Class president. George, you are truly a fine leader, proven by the way the freshmen responded to the many tasks you put to them

All in all, my congratulations to each and every one of the members of the Rook class for their part to make Homecoming the success it was.

Signed D. B.

Marty to the Editor:

As a senior on this campus, I like to think and speak of EOC and its students with a certain amount of dignity and pride. This becomes difficult when a group of "drunken stooges wearing black hats," as a visitor leaving the game called them, act as they did at the Homecoming game last Saturday. The spectacle this group made of themselves and our college is to be shamed. Their actions will no doubt be talked of among the visitors and townspeople present for some time to come as disgusting and entirely uncalled for. How an organization supposedly organized for service to the campus could have allowed its officers and members alike to carry on as they were observed Saturday is beyond reason. The mention of the black hats should be sufficient to name the organization at question.

If this organization has nothing better to do than to drink themselves into a condition above and beyond any semblance of self-control and to make fools of their organization and their school, of what benefit are they to the campus? Certainly, no services they have rendered thus far warrant the overlooking of their action as witnessed at the game.

As a student of Eastern Oregon College, I urge that this group be strongly admonished, and something be done to curb any further activity of this sort on its part.

Signed,

"Marty"

A Riding

Editor's note: the following poem was written by two little girls who attend Ackerman. Their student teachers, Mikie Bolen, submitted it with the authors', consent to the Beacon.

A RIDING

By Janet Beem and Jeanne Fitzgerald

A riding, a riding
Up there to the moon.
A riding, a riding
Away on your broom.

What a queer, queen sight
On a Halloween night.
A riding, a riding
Up there to the moon.

Freshman Days

By Beverly

With wide eyes and slightly shaking knees, the first freshman class of Eastern Oregon College entered the swing of college life last Tuesday, September, 19. (The former title of Eastern Oregon College of Education having been revised.)

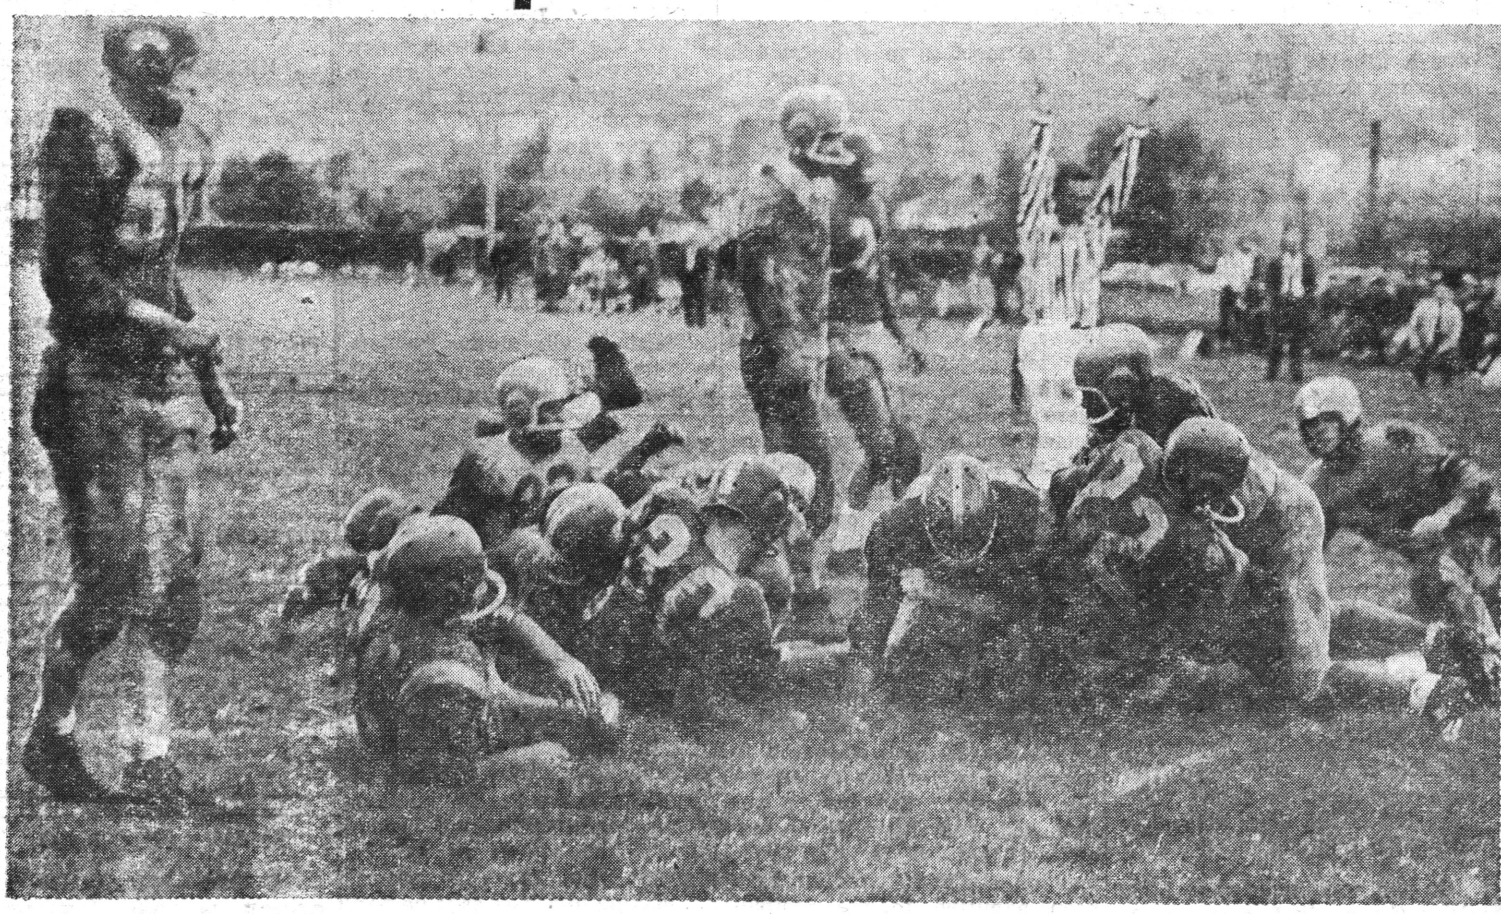
Shakes were soon turned to smiles, however, by the friendly and understanding "Ask Me" committee members, and before the morning was over we found ourselves moved in and practically settled. This left us the rest of the day to get acquainted with our new homes and our roommates.

All new students agreed that the remaining Freshman Days whizzed by in the same busy but happy manner, and that they ended far too soon. Our days were filled with assemblies, meetings of extra curricular activities groups, and parties.

As Dr. Earnest Anderson, Associate Professor of Biological Sciences, explained in his talk Wednesday morning, the purpose of Freshman Days is to familiarize the new students to the college campus, the faculty, other students, and with the traditions and practices of the school.

Our questions were answered by older students and faculty members and then we began answering the questions . . . in the form of placement, vocational, and aptitude tests. We weren't allowed to dwell on these unpleasant subjects for long, though, for the freshman mixer was soon under way and we met some more new friends and talked over our experiences with the old.

Then came registration and the freshman daze really began. But the help of advisors, fellow students and anyone else who was willing and able to give us an answer, we finally made out the last check and really felt like full fledged college students . . . broke!



MIKEROSCOOP

Now that classes have really gotten started for real, everyone is staggering — uh — breezing through the "Halls of Hunt" on their way to or from a class. Beginning about 8 a.m., figures of assorted shapes and sizes of students (?) can be seen dashing for early PE or biology class (or what have you?).

Also starting about 8 a.m., on mornings when he has no early classes, weird musical noises can be heard drifting from Room No. 2, cell of Bob Matthews, premed student from MacHi. Don't worry, he's not practicing an instrument. Bob's a "bop" and "rock-n-roll" fan, with a good collection of Bill Haley records. Now if someone would just think to ask him to bring them, they would make quite an addition to the record dances . . . Eh, what . . . ?

"What, drink water? Never!!" was a remark heard the other night when the soda pop machine was out of order. . . . Sure were a lot of thirsty inmates . . . agreed, men?

EOC Dumps OTI In Homecoming Tilt

The upstetched arms of Referee Walt Roloff signifies the "Little Man" did it again. Elvin Daggett, number 22, goes over for the last score of the Homecoming battle staged in the Mountaineer stadium. An unidentified OTI player is right there trying to hold him, but to no avail. Bill West, numebr 30, Bill Rodda, 60, and Dee Dickenson, 2, can be seen. Eastern Oregon fought off the upset-happy Oregon Tech crew tto come up with a 25-18 conquest.

Soggy Field Hampers EOC Until 4th

Playing before an enthusiastic Homecoming crowd, the Mounties of Eastern Oregon College and the Owls from Oregon Tech met in the last home game of the season for EOC. The OTI aerial attack had the Blue and Gold of EOC stumped until the fourth quarter, when two consecutive T.D.'s by Elvin Daggett gave the Mountain Men a 25-18 victory.

Dick Quinn, 150 pound junior halfback of Eastern, turned in a spectacular run on the opening EOC offensive play. Taking the handoff on his own 32, Quinn moved off the right tackle, outran OTI secondary for 68 yards and the first score of the still young ball game. The first of his three tries for the E.P., two by the toe and one on a pass, was no good.

The Owls, gunning for an upset, came back by stalling an EOC drive on their own 15. With one ground play plus five passes, Van Lewven was in the Mounties' striped zone with the ball hidden in his hands, tieing the score, thus ending the first period.

Stanza number two was a replica of the first in the scoring column, only one thing differed, that being OTI scored first.

Again it was the airlane that provided the punch for the visitors. Patterson and Stoy took turns tossing and Allison ended it from the 10 yard line for the six.

Late in the second quarter, a blocked punt on OTI's 13 gave the Mounties' their chance to tie things up and Terry Ziegenhagen did just that. Skirting the left end, Ziegenhagen saw he was trapped, cut back, rolled off two Owls and went into the end-zone standing up.

In the third quarter the OTI men, still shooting for the upset, moved ahead when Allison broke away from his own 31 and rambled to the EOC 30 yard line before Daggett overtook and hauled him to the turf. Then a pass from Stoy to Van Lewven went to the 12. Allison broke through the Eastern Oregon defense and over for the touchdown. Jerry Bristow blocked the try for the one, leaving OTI up, 18-12.

The final quarter found Eastern Oregon coming to life once more, with Elvin Daggett, Dick Quinn, and Bill West pushing the defense back toward their own goal. Daggett broke away from the 46 and was finally pushed out of bounds on the OTI one-yard line. The next play found the same lad tearing through the line for the game tieing score.

The last score of the 1956 Homecoming game was set up by Jerry Bristow's third interception. He took the Stoy toss on the mid-stripe and zig-zagged his way to the 18 before a herd of yellow uniformed men pulled him down.

Daggett then turned on a one-man show, moving to the ten, the six, a penalty put the ball on the two, and Daggett scored from there. Dee Dickenson ran for the only conversion of the game, sewing it up for Eastern Oregon.

Stoy and Patterson, Owl quarterbacks took to the air 24 times during the contest, completing 8. Eastern Oregon intercepted five, three by Bistow, one each by Quinn and West.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By Don Frank

With the 1956 football season over half finished for Eastern Oregon college, a look into the win-loss columns reveals a record of 3-2 for the Mounties. Two of the five games have been decided by extra points, the first with Westminster College of Utah was won by EOC 7-6. Whitman of Walla Walla squeezed by the Mountaineers 32-31. The other defeat delt the La Granders came at the hands of the College of Idaho by a 40-13 score.

The last two games have been on the home field, both conference, and both won by the Hill Men. These two victories put Eastern Oregon on top of the conference heap, trailed by Southern Oregon with one victory, Portland State, with one-one record, Oregon Tech and Oregon College of Education tied for the cellar with one defeat each.

The next EOC game matches the Mountaineers against Pacific University at Forest Grove in a non-Conference duel. Pacifice downed the Seattle Ramblers last week; therefore both teams are hot off wins and will be trying to keep the streak gonn.

Southern Oregon goes against OTI. SOC is favored to come out on top, but if the Klamath Falls lads are connecting with the aerials, SOCE will have to move to best them. If SOCE does win, they will be tied for the league leadership with EOC.

Elvin Daggett, Mountie halfback is one of the nation's leaders in the three categories of rushing, rushing average, and scoring, although he wasn't listed among the top men in the latest poll. The reason for this is that when a Saturday night game is played, in order to meet the Monday noon dead-line, the peopleries for a 5.4 average would have to hire a jet. Daggett's rushing gain of 527 yards in 97 carries for a 5.4 average which would have placed him high, had we met their date. These figures do not include the OTI game.

The remaining three games for EOC will be without the services of Sophomer guard Bill Rodda. Rodda broke his hand in the OTI tussle and will be out of the lineup for the remainder of the season. Coach Dunsmoor will probaby start Don Paulson, 215-pound senior in his place.

EOCene Report

By Vic Snively

While I was walking home from classes the other day, the rows and rows of diapers struck my attention. Just to be doing something, I counted them as I walked along; and believe it or not, the total count was 18 lines full of nothing but diapers and the other assorted gear that one finds in the company of his baby-friends. It struck me that such astronomical count must be a record; but I found, after inquiring about it, that my particular count wasn't even on washday. It was just a little hand-washing that had to be done. It wasn't idle curiosity anymore; I was beginning to be alarmed, I thought, "perhaps something is wrong with the babies down here; such activity couldn't be normal." Again I began inquiring around, concerning the state of things. By this time people were beginning to regard me rather peculiarly, and I heard one mother refer to me as, "that person that keeps asking about the diapers." Needless to say, I was more than a bit shocked and embarrassed. I was only trying to get to the bottom of the problem, and my findings would have been for the benefit of all. But in the face of such an attitude, since it is such frames of mind that have slowed down medical progress for centuries, I decided to drop my research and let the poor people get along as best they could But just so that people will know who these nonprogressives are, I've decided to list them so that people can read and see who nipped my great project in the bud. By the way, all of the parents listed below have been blessed within approximately the last six monts. If I have overlooked someone, please excuse me; you must not have had your diapers out that fateful day.

WRA Doings

By HELEN WALTER
(Guest Writer)

Starting the many events of Women's Recreation Association was a hike to Morgan Lake on Saturday, October 7. Leaving the dorm at 10 a.m. were Miss Neeley, the faculty advisor, and 13 girl athletes. This year the girls decided to be different and take off through the wilds of the hills instead of taking the road. During their exposition of exploring the wilds, they cut through a certain field; a certain horse, which was in the field, got so excited upon seeing the girls that he had to run over and see what was happening! They (the girls, that is) came upon several little places which they thought was the top each time; but when they got there, they still had more climbing to do.

Last year a car took the food and supplies to the lake. This year the gals packed their own lunch on their backs.

When the girls finally reached the top, a fire was built. They began eating their lunch which consisted of hot dogs, apples, potato chips, and pop.

On the way home they hiked along the road. A garter snake was found and picked up by Kathleen Bannister. Jo Ann Glenn outran the snake. As a matter of fact, no one ever saw Joanne again until they came back to the dorm.

WRA is sponsoring a volleyball and badmitton tournament which will officially start Tuesday evening, October 23. Practice for this tournament started Tuesday night, October 16, with a big tourn-out.

WRA will sponosor a sandwich sale at Dorion Hall after 10:30; this will start sometime this coming week.

Coming soon will be the annual Sadie Hawkins dance which is also sponsored by WRA. Grils are urged to keep a look-out for posters concerning this dance.

Minutes of October 10, 1956
Student Council Meeting

President, Bary Clements, called the meeting to order at 4:00 p. m., Wednesday, October 10, with the following members present: Bart Clements, Dick Cook, Bob Valiant, JoAnn Nuss, Rudy Clements, Larry Applegate, Vern Bean, Tonj Clark, Boyd Devin, Patsy Evans, Mike Hoff, Tom Mercer, JoAann Belshaw, Barbara Carter, Diana Gilstrap, DeWayne Huttelson, Myron Carpenter, Jane Coffman, Norman Trotter, and Carol Kopp.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as corrected and roll call was taken. The meeting was then opened for old business. The tabled business dealing with the question of whether a student body card also allows married students' children into athletic events free of charge was brought before the council. Dick Cook moved that a committee be appointed to look into this situation to find out the number of children that would benefit such an action to warrant any further action on the proposal. The motion was discussed and Boyd Devin explained that so far this year married students' children have been admitted to the football games free. Question was called for and the above motion was carried. The committee will be appointed at a later date.

With no further old business pending, the meeting was opened to new business. Bob Valiant read the names of JoAnn Belshaw, Mary Ruth Green, Norman Trotter, and Joanne Glenn and moved we accept them as members of his social committee for 1956-57. The motion was seconded and carried.

A letter was read from track coach, A. C. Dunsmoor, recommending the following be granted track awards for the 1956 season: Jack Harmon (letter); Lowell Kolbaba, (letter); Frank Good, (letter); Elvin Daggett (letter); Jim DeMastus, (letter); Bill DeMastus, (letter); Bill West, (letter, stripe added); Nick Eddy (sweater); Dick Hilyard, (sweater); Norman Trotter, (sweater). Boyd Devin moved we approve the letter as read. The motion was seconded and carried.

Bart told the council members of the new student council office located in the basement of Hoke Hall. However, he explained money was needed to purchase curtains for the room and possibly, other items. Larry Applegate moved that we appoint a committee to determine what should be bought for the room, estimate as nearly as possible the cost, and report back at the next council meeting so that such funds might be allotted. The motion was seconded and carried.

The business of who handles concessions at the athletic events was brought up for discussion. Dick Cook moved that we allow Hoke Hall Coffee Shop to retain the concessions for the football season and have the concessions open for bids for the basketball season. (Dr. Johnson reminded us that our cinstitution states that bids for concessions are opened for the service organizations on campus which include Sabers, Intercollegiate Knights, and the Lettermen's Club.) The above motion was seconded and carried.

The problem of congested bulletin boards in the Ad. Building was discussed. Various suggestions were offered as to how this problem could be combatted. Boyd Devin moved that the main bulletin board in the Administration Building be relabeled into the following categories: Current, Organizational Meetings, Permanent, Registrar, and Employment, and that half the bulletin board across the hall (now being used for Interfaith notices) be reserved for miscellaneous items. The motion was seconded and carried.

The Winter Carnival, sponsored by Portland State College to be held at Mt. Hood in January for all colleges in Oregon, was discussed. Dick Cook moved that the student council put forth every effort to publicize and back this event. The motion was seconded and carried.

The following names were submitted for approval to comprise the Assembly Committee for 1956-57: George Schoedinger, Josie Ward, Tom Mercer, and Sandra Spickerman. Bob Valiant moved we accept the above persons. The motion was seconded and carried.

No further new business to be brought before the council at this time, the meeting was adjourned at 4:50 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Jo Ann Nuss
ABS Secretary

How To Do It and Win

Oklahoma Daily writer Ed Turner has come up with a new way of college living which, in keeping with the times, he calls "classmansship." Briefly, he says, it means the knack of frustrating a well-meaning professor to such an extent that he will want to quit his chosen profession as an educator and go to work for a munitions factory. Here are some of his rule.s:

"First of all: always be late to class. Upon entering NEVER look meek or apologetic for disturbing the class. Appear surprised as if this section was scheduled to meet at this time or even look hurt that they could go on without you. Many an accomplished classman has caused the professor to thumb quickly through his class bulletin to see if perhaps they should have met at 8:35 instead of 8:10.

Disagree openly with the professor. An economics instructor says in his most profound and sonorous tones: "The theories of Adam Smith are the foundations of our modern sytem of economics." You say in an audible whisper: "But that's so passe" . . . making him look as if he had an old pair of plus-fours and was shouting 23 skidoo instead of delivering a lecture.

When down in the mouth, think of Jonah, he came out all right.

'Three Angels' Being Readied For 15-16-17

Confusion reigned supreme at the Monday, Oct. 22 play practice as the cast of "My Three Angels" rehearsed the first act of the three-act comedy without the aid of play books. The play is being presented by Sock and Buskin on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 15, 16 and 17 in the Eastern Oregon College auditorium.

The play, under the direction of Mr. Richard Hiatt, is concerned with three convicts, a family of three, an unwanted uncle, his nephew, a nosy woman and a French navy lieutenant. The setting of the play is Cayenne, French Guiana in December of 1910.

Members of the cast are: "Joseph," Boyd Devin; "Jules," Mike Ferguson; and "Alfred," Leonard Swanson; cast as the "Three Angels." Bob Valiant is a French shopkeeper, "Felix Ducotel;" his wife, "Emilie," is portrayed by Liz Baumeister. Their daughter, "Marie Louise" is Colette Wardel. The unwanted uncle is "Monsieur Henri Trochard" played by Dale O'Grady. Cast as his nephew "Paul", is Sheldon Strand. The nosy woman and the Navy Lieutenatn are Dot Ann Anson and Dick Cook, respectively.

At the present time, the cast is starting to work entirely without the aid of books, a factor which always provides both cast and director with laughs, for a time anyway. Forgotten lines, misplaced props, worng entrances, "upstaging" or "down-staging" as the case may be, are just a few of the many mishaps which occur during the course of a practice.

The set for the play which is in the interior of a house has been set up for the most part by Mr. Hiatt and his Stagecraft and Lighting class. Within the next week or so, finishing touches will be put on the complicated set.

Tickets will go on sale for the performance Monday, November 12, at Hoke Hall. Prices will be $1.00 or student body ticket.

SH Dance Coming; Grab 'Em Gals!

Highlighting the eve of November 9 will be the annual Sadie Hawkins dance in Hoke Hall. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock with music furnished by the College Dance Band.

Prizes will be awarded for the best-dressed Daisy May, Lil' Abner, and Wolf Gal costumes, so everyone is urged to come garbed in his best "Dog Patch" style. Incidentally, this treat is on the girls. (Fellows are encouraged to eat all they can!) The girl will also furnish her escore with a novelty corsage to be worn for the evening.

According to WRA President, Joanne Glenn, committees appointed for the dance are refreshment committee: Cathy Landis, (chairman), Lillis Slaughter and Mary Lou Pavelcik; decoration committee: Toni Clark chairman), Bernice Opp, Pat O'Malley, Sonya Davidson and Ranona Traville.

SENIORS HOLD MEETING

Wednesday, Oct. 24, the Seniors held a meeting in the Administration Building for the purpose of discussing pictures for the annual. It was voted that they wear caps and gowns for the pictures to be placed in the annual. The pictures will be taken downtown at Perry's Studio. There will be no charge for the pictures for the annual. Watch for notices as to time.

Meet Lauds EOC Plans For 1956 Education Week

Twelve delegates from EOC's Future Teachers of America chapter attended the FTA regional conference at Cascade College in Portand, October 19 and 20.

The main issue of the conference was to work out and vote on a name change for college FTA chapters. Bob Harrod, EOC, moved that a change be made. Monte Fast, Cascade, amended the motion to include the aims of the name change. "These aims," he stated, are to have a more professional name and to differentiate between college and high school organizations." The amended motion was passed.

Jim Dale of EOC then moved that the new name for college groups be Student Oregon Education Association (SOEA). After some discussion this was passed by the group.

These motions will now be sent in the form of a petition to the Oregon Education Association. If accepted, they will then be voted upon by college FTA groups in Oregon.

The conference was broken down into three buzz sessions. "Why Grades" was discussed and almost all agreed that the system of grades could be replaced by something better; but no other solution was offered

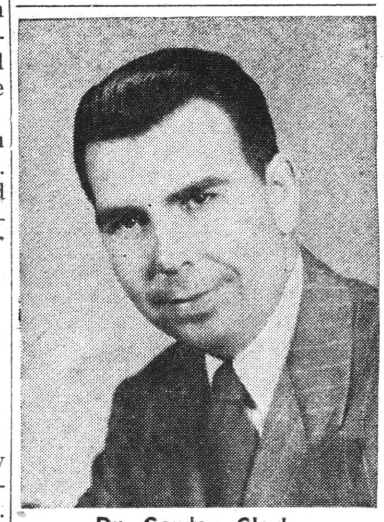
Plans for National Education Week were discussed. It was found that EOC had the most extensive program worked out, which included radio broadcasts each night during the week, displays in store windows and on bulletin boards, and a student-body assembly with a special speaker. Representatives from some of the other colleges expressed their desire to have a program like EOC's and discussed the possibility of joining forces to accomplish this.

Other topics discussed were the Horace Mann Insurance which is available to all prospective teachers at a low rate, and a tentative date for the next regional conference. It was decided that March would be the best month, but no date was set.

Membership was also discussed. The question was, should membership be selective or on all school drive basis. Although it was the general opinion of the group that membership should be selective no decision could be reached. It was decided that the decision would have to start higher up in the NEA or OEA.

The EOC group was received by Cascade college students and all college groups were entertained upon arrival with a comedy program "Curiculum Capers." Those from La Grande who attended the conference were Bob Harrod, Shirley Harrod, Roberta Miller, Evelyn Riggan, Jean Adamson, Phyllis Allen, Donna Dooly, Dorothy Cress, Bob Clark, Vern Shell, Jim Dale and Donna Talbot.

Bliss Heads Librarians' Meeting



The Eastern Oregon Library Association met Saturday, October 20, in the Faculty lounge. Helen Bliss, president of the Association and Walter Pierce Librarian, called the meeting to discuss the problems of library service in the rural areas of this section of the state.

Approximately thirty librarians and laymen interested in the promotion of libraries were in attendance. They represented the five counties of Eastern Oregon.

Of the five eastern counties of Oregon, Malheur and Umatilla seem to give fairly good library service, although the librarians do not claim it is all that it could be. In Baker, Union, and Wallowa counties, only La Grande and Baker public libraries have professional librarians. Much basic work has been done by the Oregon Library Association, the State Library and the Pacific Northwest Library Association to organize communities to meet the problem of library development.

The question which has to be faced is: what can local communities do now? Statistics concerning expenditures for books and salaries show a desperate need for more adequate libraries. In the last session of congress, Public Law 597 was passed, giving Federal aid to libraries. This act should give an incentive to promoting better and more libraries.

Mrs. Mabel Baker of the State Library was present to answer questions on Federal aid and on what the state library hopes to accomplish with it. It was agreed that each county would need to promote greater interest and participation in this program.

Dr. Clarke Running For Commissioner

Howard Evans

Dr. Gordon W. Clarke, professor of English on Campus, has announced his condidacy for city commissioner of La Grande. He is one of ten aspirants vieing for the three vacant comission posts, and his name will appear on your non-partisan city ballot on November 6.

Dr. Clarke has been a resident of La Grande for six years, has taken an active part in civic affairs, and is well aware of the problems that confront the residents of the city. In his statement issued in the La Grande Evening Observer, Dr. Clarke says:

"My election to the City commission would give me an opportunity to do my part in keeping La Grande the kind of city we all want. I only ask a chance to help provide efficient, honest, and fair government for everyone in our city."

If you are a registered voter and eligible to vote in the city election, I urge you to cast your vote for Gordon W. Clarke for city commissioner—La Grande needs him.

SOCK AND BUSKIN

At a meeting held Wed., Oct. 24, various commitee heads were appointed and it was announced that season tickets would be on sale soon.

AWS Group Plans Christmas Ball

The first official meeting of 1956—Associated Women's Students was called to order by President Grace Furyama on October 22. Grace presented a short discussion on past activities of the Associations and mentioned future plans. Ideas for future meetings were discussed and definite plans were made for the next meeting.

Co-chairmen for the Annual Christmas Ball were appointed. Barbara Logan and Linda Kane will serve in this capacity, making plans and arrangements for the Ball which will be held on December 8, beginning at 9:00 p.m.

Following the business meeting, Mildred Kawaguchi entertained the attending group with a Hula dance and Barbara Logan, accompanying herself on the piano, sang several songs.

Refreshments were served immediately following.

Polio Shots Advised For EOC Students

Studies made and reported upon by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. last April show that polio vaccine is 60 to 90 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio. Dr. Francis stated that the vaccine used in the 1954 field trials neither caused polio nor other major reactions. The vaccine will not prevent non-paralytic polio but this is not considered an important health problem. Figures show that polio cases are much lower this year than they have been in previous years.

There are many students on the campus who fall in the age group which are still susceptible to polio, the teen-agers. For this reason it is recommended by the health service of the college that those students in the teen-age bracket have the polio vaccination. Although this will not be done by the college it is felt the money spent for this is a good investment.

The college Health Service suggests that students, not already having this protection, consult their family physicians.

Fenton Attends National IK Meet At BJC

George Fenton, Ontario, returned Sunday from a tow-day national IK's conference held at Boise Junior College October 25th and 26th. Fenton, vice president of the EOC men's service organization, represented the club as a Duke at the 43-member convention.

"The whole convention was geared mostly toward making the regional and national organizations function more effectively as a whole," said Fenton. He felt that his attending the convention was "worthwhile" since he can brief the campus IK's about issues discussed there.

Fenton said the major issue was finances on a national scale. Other business discussed were: ways and means of strengthening the national and regional organizations, devices for the recommendation of incoming finances into local chapters, ways and means of enlarging the national and regional treasuries, recommending the Viceroy's qualifications, enlarging the duties of all national officers, and recommending a permanent constitution of the national organization.

The first delegate from the campus IK's to attend the national convention, Fenton declared, "The EOC IK's were commended by the conference for our in it, exemplified by a college of this size sending a delegate."

He added that "great interest and nods of approval" met the idea of having pledges participate in a jousting tournament during Parents Weekend. The IK's here initiated last spring's pledges into the city by that activity.

Fenton said a banquet and dance held in the Hotel Boise Friday night climaxed the conference.

Officers of the EOC IK's this year are Norm Records, president; George Fenton, vice president; Mike Hoff, recorder; Dick Walker, chancellor; Norm Trotter, historian; and Jiggs Dodson, expansion office.

ASCD Conference Meets At EOC

Eastern Oregon College is again acting as host for one of the conferences of the Northwest Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development. The conference is being held November 2 and 3 with Dr. Marie Hughes, of the University of Utah, as consultant.

The program, which starts at 8:30 a.m. with registration, will deal with the topic "Human Relations in the Classroom." Dr. Hughes will give three addresses during the two days, and there will be two small group meetings. There will also be one panel discussion with Dr. Bennett as chairman and a number of educational leaders from Eastern Oregon participating, to consider important issues which arise.

As an added attraction there will be a no-host luncheon and dinner on Friday, followed by a luncheon meeting to close the conference Saturday.

EOC Educational, Group Meeting, Potluck Held

The Eastern Oregon College Education Association, the campus local of Oregon Education Association, met Monday evening in the home of Alene Gossage, presidents of the group. Potluck dinner was served.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Betty Ryan was chosen as delegate to the Representing council of EOA

Freedom Of The Press In Danger?

The furor which greeted a recent letter to the editor signed with a pen name resulted in harsh criticism aimed at The Beacon for (1- not releasing the name of the writer and (2- for printing the letter. Readers were angry because we insisted on complying with the policy of not releasing names. Then new criticisms were hurled at us along the line that the opinions contained therein were "controversial" and "unfair"; therefore the letter should not have been printed. This leads us to only one conclusion (and heart of the matter): that people are still trying to limit the freedom of the press!

On the surface, resentment centered around our policy of withholding the writer's name. However, the real issue was whether we had the right to print the letter, as evidenced by severe criticisms aimed at us for printing it. Irate readers' attitude seemed to be, "Since this doesn't agree with our views, it should not have been printed."

Informing the public, a privilege and duty of the newspaper, can be accomplished only by uncensored printing of literature. Opinionated articles which appear in the Beacon have by-lines and are the opinions of the authors only; they are not necessarily the opinions of the paper. Unsigned editorials are written by the editor who has final responsibility for all editorials. Letters to the editor inform readers of the writers' opinions and thoughts. As long as these letters conform to the Beacon editorial policy, we will continue to uphold freedom of expression AND FREEDOM OF THE PRESS by printing them.

Each newspaper has the privilege of making its own editorial policy. We ask only that letters to the editor be signed (we need the names for our own protection), of a reasonable length considering the subject, not of a libelous nature, and on the editor's desk by 2 p.m. Tuesday the week of publication—to be considered for publication. Letters may very naturally contain the writers' opinions, for in the newspaper, letters are the medium of self-expression for the public. Since we want a forum of student thought on our editorial page, we encourage readers to send in letters.

The Beacon will continue to observe all year the policy of withholding names upon request and of using a pen name or initials if the writer so desires, a practice commonly followed by many commercial newspapers. We will also continue the policy of not revealing the writer's name to ANY INTERESTED PERSONS. Finally, The Beacon will always honor the FREEDOM OF THE PRESS and the right of the individual to express himself.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK, NOVEMBER 11-17, 1956

By the President of the United States of America—A Proclamation

WHEREAS since the founding of our Nation, our citizens have zealously worked and sacrificed to provide schools and colleges for the education of our children, our youth, and our adults; and

WHEREAS the White House Conference on Education held in 1955, with delegates from all the States and Territories, representing millions of citizens of all races, faiths, and walks of life, reemphasized the needs of the Nation for more and better schools and colleges to the end that our people through improved education may make a greater contribution to the progress and future welfare of America, and to the peace and well-being of the world; and

WHEREAS the setting aside of a special education week each year provides a fitting opportunity for parents and educators and the public generally to visit schools and educational institutions, to express their appreciation of the work of our teachers and school officials, and to exchange views upon educational problems and progress:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the period from November 11 to November 17, 1956, as American Education Week; and I urge the fullest possible participation in the observance of that week by the people throughout the United States. This week of dedication to education and to the efforts and achievements of teachers, school and college administrators, and others in this important area of public service is especially significant during this first year of appraisal, in terms of local community needs and required action, of the recommendations made by the White House Conference on Education. Let us all stress the need for good schools to keep America strong.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and fifty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-first.

Grande Ronde Symphony Calendar

By Norma Loe

Dr. Rhodes Lewis has announced the following new schedule which has been established for the coming year:

Dec. 2—Soloist, Marion Fouse, 1st Harpist with the Portland Symphony.

Feb. 17—Soloist, tentatively a composer, arranger, and foremost Vibraharpist with the U. S. Navy Band of Washington, D. C.

April 14—Soloist, Internationally famous Saxophonist, Sigurd Rascher from New York.

This group of nationally famous artists is to be enjoyed by all. They are artists. The people in this community are fortunate indeed to be able to hear such entertainment since we are rather distant from the large music halls.

Dr. Lewis also announced that there is a weekly radio program called the Grande Ronde Symphony Hour which is presented each Wednesday evening from 7:30-8:30 over the local radio station, KLBM. Various members of the association narrate the program.

If you haven't listened to this program, why not switch on the radio Wednesday evening? These participants practice and put long hours into perfecting their music. One hour of your time each week to enjoy this music isn't much to ask, and you will be surprised how relaxing and enjoyable it will be.

Why don't we show the sponsors of the Grande Ronde Symphony that we appreciate their efforts in bringing these artists to our community by attending these performances. Have you been to one of them? If not, how do you know you wouldn't enjoy it? Let's see not just the students taking music, but a majority of the student body at these performances.

College IK Group To Serve As UF 'Mop-Up Crew'

The Intercollegiate Knights of Eastern Oregon College. volunteered as a "mop-up crew" for the United Fund—Red Cross campaign, according to A. B. (Spud) Olson, chairman.

George Fenton, worthy scribe and Dan Paulson, chairman of the IK group will serve as leaders of the 20 IK members and pledges who will complete unassigned contacts for the U.F.

"In addition to our help in making calls the IK's are also having a UF benefit auction at the EOC cafeteria tonight," Fenton and Paulson said.

The UF total was $16,772.85 after recording the $75 conribution by the Rotary Club.

Character is simply habit long continued.

Note: Re Howard Evans' last paragraph: This does not necessarily express the opinion of EVERYONE in the advanced composition class.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

"Look at that blue sky. I'll bet it's going to be nice in Portland."

That's what we heard at The Dalles last Saturday morning when the band was on its way to Portland. Two hours later we were in Portland. The weather? You can't get that much water out of all the showers in Dorion.

The bleachers on the football field were uncovered, and by the time the band was ready to play everyone was soaked. This undoubtedly is the first time the EOC band has made a 500 mile round trip to play two selections: Victory March and The Star Spangled Banner.

By the middle of the first quarter everyone was sent back to the hotel to change clothes before all of the uniforms were ruined.

The usual number of midnight parties were held, and an astonishing amount of dill pickles, potato chips, candy, cookies, pop, and anything else handy at the time disappeared.

The bus was more crowded on the return trip because of the results of shopping sprees and souvenir hunters. Also on the return trip, food was passed around almost constantly until we got to The Dalles where we had a large dinner. After the trip was resumed, Boyd Devin and Dick Cook conducted laughing exercises and lessons.

On top of the little sleep Saturday night and a large meal a few minutes before, a few people began to turn green. Green? That was the same color as the dill pickles that still hadn't been eaten. These were passed throughout the bus for all to enjoy. Results? More people matched the pickles, (If anyone would like a half jar of dill pickles, see Barbara Carter. She will sell them very cheap.)

At Pendleton no one was ready for another meal, so the stop was limited to five minutes. After the bus started again, cookies and candy began to appear once more.

Thirty-five hours and 50 minutes after leaving La Grande, the first band members began to struggle tiredly into the dorm. No band member had trouble sleeping Sunday night (or during Monday classes either).

Accompanying the band on the trip were Dr. Lewis, Dr. Morris, and Miss Stein.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By Don Frank

The 1956 football season is about to come to a close for the Mounties of EOC. Although the complete record isn't too impressive, four wins in seven starts, EOC has topped every conference team faced thus far. One game is left on the schedule, and it is an all-important one slated to take place at Ashland next week-end against Southern Oregon College.

While EOC was dumping Portland State, the SOC boys were running over Oregon College of Education, keeping their hopes alive for a tie for the conference crown.

If Eastern can whip SOC, the Oregon Collegiate Conference trophy will be in the EOC trophy case, but should the SOC outfit stop the Mounties, the two teams will be tied for the leadership. In other words, EOC, by beating the Portlanders, inched no less than a tie for Conference honors.

Looks as though the J. V. team has some good prospects for the next season's varsity. Fullback Kim Wilson, quarterback Botts, and halfbacks Dick Hilyard and Al Tolar looked good in their two J.V. appearances. Ends Earl Smith and Jack Woods, tackles, Nils Christianson and Dick Cantrell, guards Woody Lewis and Dave Hansen, centers Vic Retherford and Glenn Neswick look good both offensively and defensively. Next year's outlook isn't bad at all.

The Lincoln High school field at Portland, where EOC met and defeated Portland State, was nothing but mud from goal to goal! Not only was there mud two or three inches deep, but water in big puddles all over the field. After the first quarter it was almost impossible to identify not only individual players but which team was which. After a defensive play, I noticed Jack Harmon, Eastern Oregon end, washing the mud off his hands in one of the smaller water-holes.

In the fourth quarter of the Portland State game, Coach Arch Dunsmoor opened the game for his reserves, consequently everyone got muddy. As the game ended, only one person on the EOC bench wasn't mud from helmet to cleats, and that was the manager, Norm Trotter. The whole Eastern Oregon team dragged him across the field, on his back. Then no one was recognizable.

Conference Title At Stake

If Eastern Oregon's Mountaineers can get past highly rated Southern Oregon at Ashland Saturday night they can bring home the conference crown.

It would be the first time in the history of the league that the Mounties have had sole possession of the tile.

But it's not going to be easy to eliminate SOC from the picture. The Red Raiders, who lost only to Oregon Tech in probably the biggest upset of the OCC season, have a 2-1 conference record and can only gain another tie for the title by topping EOC.

Not only will Al Akins' powerful Raiders be shooting to the championship but they'll have a Homecoming crowd on hand to witness the title clash. Having the opposition alumni on hand, plus the regular cheering section to shout encouragement to the enemy, should not effect the Mounties by now. They should be used to it after playing before three Homecoming crowds in a row, only the first one being in their favor. They lost to Pacific and downed Portland State before alumni audiences.

Bill Seymour, nation's number one passer and leader in the NAIA individual offense statistics, is expected to pace the Raiders' attack. The Mountie pass defense which, looked fairly good in the rain against Portland State, will get its toughest test of the season and may mean the difference between victory or defeat.

Seymour not only won first team all-conference and all-Northwest honors but received Little All-American honorable mention ranking last season at SOC.

JVs Win One—Lose One

Eastern Oregon's Junior Varsity have tested their gridiron skill twice this season, once against the JV's of Whitman at Walla Walla, and then against the strong College of Idaho reserves on the home field. The Mountie second string downed the Whits 19-7 but took a 14-12 defeat at the hands of the Idaho eleven.

In the second quarter of the Whitman game, fullback Kim Wilson went through the line, through the defensive secondary, and raced 62 yards for the score. The brilliant run featured good down-field blocking and a sensational run on the part of Wilson.

Eastern's other two TD's came on long marches and both times halfback Dick Hilyard punched over from one yard out. Al Tolar ran the only extra point picked up by EO.

Whitman's lone score came on a 75 yard drive climaxed on a pitchout to Anderson on the EO 31. He went around the end, cut back, and rolled into the end-zone for the counter. The placement for the extra point was good.

The last JV contest, held at La Grande, saw Mother Nature come up with such a strong wind it was almost impossible to pass or punt.

Dick Hilyard scored the first EO touchdown on a scamper from the Idaho 12 yard line, after Jack Wood had claimed a lost C of I ball on the visitors 15.

In the last quarter, trailing 14-6, the Mounties recovered a fumble on the College of Idaho 35. A pass to Smith put the home team on the 25. Two plays, one by Wood and the other by Tolar, put the hide on the Idaho 8 where fullback Bill Rodda, playing his first game as a backfield man, shoved over for six points.

In the late minutes of the contest College of Idaho had possession on the 45. A fumble in the backfield appeared to be EO's golden opportunity for a moment as Woody Lewis dove for the ball but was beaten to it by a host of Idaho players; consequently the game ended with Idaho in charge on the EO 40.

EO Dumps PSC; Loses One To PU

Archie Dunsmoor's Eastern Oregon College outfit took to the road the past two week-ends, to Forest Grove, where they met and were toppled 13-7 by strong Pacific University, and to Portland for a conference tussle with Portland State. The La Granders took one step nearer the throne as Oregon Collegiate Conference champs by downing the Vikings of Portland 14-6. The victory put Eastern Oregon in undisputed leadership of the OCC with an unmarred slate of three wins against no losses in league play.

At Pacific, the University boys took the lead in the first quarter on the strength of Roff and Heinrich's running. Starting from their own 44, the two alternated carrying and moved to the EO 8 in a dozen plays. Heinrich then tossed into the striped zone to Gaytas for the TD. The attempt for the extra point hit the uprights and bounced back onto the field, leaving the score: Pacific 6, EO 0.

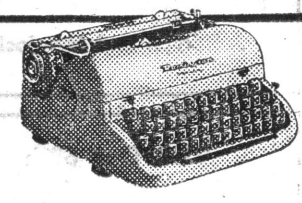
Early in the third quarter Pacific forced EOC to punt and gained possession on their own 38. Heinrich and Baker took it from there and marched to the Eastern 11, where Heinrich continued his one-man show and ran the ball over for the six points. Fisk booted the extra point.

Later in the third stanzo, Pacific had possession on their own 37. Baker and Dixon pushed to the EO 32. Dixon then threw a pass intended for Gayter, but Dick Hilyard gathered it in, side stepped a group of tacklers, picked up blocking and raced 68 yards for the lone Mountaineer's score. Quarterback Dee Dickenson flipped a shortie to end Jack Harmon for the point after TD.

The Portland State game started off a little differently for EOC. The La Granders took the ball on their own 31 and immediately started driving. Daggett, Quinn, and West tore off consistent gains through the line and Dickenson passed to Harmon for 16 yards. From the Portland 24, Dickenson shot a pass to the outstretched hands of Lowell Kolbaba, who in turn scored for the Mounties. For the extra point, Dickenson shot another airial, this time to Harmon, giving EO an early 7-0 lead.

Halfway through the second period, with Portland in possession on their own 45, Neffendorf threw a flat pass to Edwards. Edwards was on the Eastern Oregon 36 before Daggett could catch and drag him down. The next play found Edwards slipping through the EO line and racing the remaining distance into pay dirt. A pass for the extra point was broken up by Dickenson.

Quarter number four found Portland State with the ball on their own 10 yard stripe. As Turner tried the left side of the EO line he was hit hard and the ball squirted from his hands onto the turf. Dee Dickenson fell on it, setting up the last score of the rain-soaked tilt. Dick Quin moved to within inches of the last line on two carries and Dickenson ended it with a line plunge. 'Big Bill West' powered over the middle for the extra point.



In the Portland contest Eastern Oregon threw five passes and completed two. One of the completions was for a TD, the other setting up the score.

Snively Speaking

By Vic Snively

Adlai attributes the president with "do nothing," "defeatism attitude," concerning the H bomb crisis. He believes the president, when faced with a decision, takes his middle of the road policy and sits back to let the cards fall where they may. The President's "white paper" assertion that a simple agreement would allow no safeguards, no control, no inspection, etc., to insure stoppage of H bomb tests, is blasted by Stevenson. He says the violation of such an agreement "can no more be hidden than an earthquake." Perhaps it is overlooked by the exgovernor of Illinois that if an unexpected Russian test took an active form it would be a bit late to reprimand anyone.

In opposition to the tirades of Stevenson, Eisenhower maintains simply that to discontinue our H bomb development and take a pacifist attitude in a definitely aggressive world would be like the proverbial ostrich who stands a good chance of getting booted in the exposed area.

The United States has on various occasions tried to follow an isolated, disinterested policy. It didn't work in the past. How could it possibly work in a world so interrelated as ours today? Personally, I can't believe Adlai believes such a policy will work. It is a wonderful propagandistic tool, and naturally it will have its following, but the aware persons know that now is not the time for military regression. Peace can't be had by ignoring war.

IRC Plans Meet

Mary Joan Russell, president of International Relations Club, announced that a special "membership promotion" meeting is being held tonight at 7:30, in the audito-visual-aids room (library).

"The meeting," she said, "is for anyone interested in foreign affairs, the working of the UN, and politics." She said the regular meetings are held the first and third Thursday of each month.

The group is working toward financing a trip to the Model UN meeting which will be at Palo Alto, Calif., spring term. To do this, the IRC members will sell Christmas cards November 5, 6, and 7 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the ad building.

Other officers of the club are Bob King; vice-president; Carol Kopp, secretary-treasurer; Dick Arlens, parliamentarian.

The sting of a reproach is the truth of it.

Collegians Think Ike Will Win

MINNEAPOLIS (ACP)—By a margin of almost three to one, college students feel the Republicans will take this year's presidential election. Were the students expressing their party preference, however, the Democrats would receive top billing, since the ACP Poll release of October 22 showed that 40 per cent of the college students considered themselves Democrats, 33 per cent Republicans, and 27 per cent Independents or other.

Associated Collegiate Press gathered collegiate opinion on a representative national crosswise preference by sampling from sections of college students. The following question was asked:

Who do you think wil win the presidential election this fall, Republicans or Democrats?

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
Repub.	68%	58%	65%
Demos.	21%	28%	23%
Undec.	11%	14%	12%

A large number of students considering themselves either Democrats or Independents feel the Republicans will win on November 6. For instance, a senior attending Juniata College (Huntingdon, Pa.) considers himself an Independent but feels the GOP will win the election, and then adds: "I don't favor this result personally." On the other hand, few of the students classifying themselves as Republicans feel the Democrats will win.

The vast mapority of students (regardless of their party preference) feel the GOP will win because of Eisenhower's personality and popularity. A Southeastern State College (Durant, Okla.) senior states simply: "Because of Ike's popularity," while a sophomore at Tyler College (Tyler, Texas) says "Ike is still popular enough to win by his personality."

A few students pick the Republican victory because of economic factors, GOP past record, platform, etc. A freshman coed attending the Rochester Institute of Technology (Rochester, N. Y.) thinks Ike will win since the ". . . country has prospered under the Republicans," while a junior at the College of Steubenville (Steubenville, Ohio) says "Ike has a stable platform."

In contrast to emphasis placed upon the president's health earlier in the year, very few students even mention the issue in this polling. And there is not a single mention of the Democratic-Republican, war-peace issue, possibly indicating that college students consider it a phony and/or unimportant issue. There are a fair numer of comments implying that Ike is in general favored by the women, although among college coeds this does nota ppear to be too evident.

One junior attending Ohio University (Athens, Ohio) and calling himself an Independent thinks that ". . . people like the way Eisenhower smiles.'

BAD HOUSEKEEPING

Lady, are you a bad housekeeper?

Now don't get excited! Of course you're not! Your corners are dustless. Your floors are spic and span.

But are you a good housekeeper from the safety standpoint?

The National Safety Council, in reporting that 32,000 Americans were killed by accidents in their homes last year, puts most of the blame on bad safety housekeeping.

Young Demo's Review The Issues

By David Crow
President of Young Democrats

We, the Democratic party, feel that the election of this year is of great importance to this nation and to its people.

We feel that issues, not personalities, should decide who will be the men and women who will run our government.

Some of the important issues are:—

1. Lower farm income—In the past years income of the family-size farmer has continually declined. Lowering farm prices will not cut down on surpluses. If a farmer has to milk twice as many cows to receive as much money as he did four years ago, he will milk that many. It is quite easy to see that surpluses will get larger rather than smaller if this keeps up. In the last four years, the farm surplus has risen from $2 billion in 1952, to $8 billion today. It is interesting to note that the farm mortgage foreclosure rate is at its highest since 1933.

2. Public power—Why should we "give-away" one of the best dam-sites in the world to those who will not develop it to its full potential? After all, if industry is to flourish in the great Northwest, cheap power is needed. That is something that private power companies won't give us! !

3. Inflation—How can the Republicans claim that they are lowering the danger of inflation, when prices today are the highest in history and still climbing?

4. Civil rights—True, ths is a touchy issue, but all the Republicans have done for it is to re-state the laws that are already on the books.

5. Education—Mr. Eisenhower in 1952 talked about 1.1 million schoolless children, but neither he nor the Republicans has done much to help those poor children. In fact, the Republicans voted down a school-aid bill just last summer.

6. Taxes—Do you realize that under our tax set-up, it is possible for a man drawing $5,000 a year from securities to hae to pay $200 tax, while a laborer making the same amount has to pay $600? Is that fair for the working man?

These six points are just a few of the reasons we are voting for, and backing men like Stevenson, Kefauver, Morse, Ullman, Hopkins, Wells, Sweetland, and Holmes. Those are just a few of the Democratic candidates, but we feel that every one of them deserves your vote.

Mounties Top SOC For Championship

★ ★ ★ ★

No School Monday

The news circulated rapidly over the campus of EOC's win over SOC, thus winning the football conference for the first time in EOC's history.

Under the capable direction of Bob Valiant, students planned a welcoming really for the victorious team and their coach.

Student cars were lined up from Gang Loft to the hospital when the bus was sighted.

With a police escort, the boys were ushered through town and to the steps of the William Pierce Library, where Bob Valiant congratulated the team for the whole student body.

Archie Dunsmoor said a few words of praise to the assembled students, followed by cheers. Several members of the team also stepped to the mike and said how proud they were to be members of the winning team.

The students then began the chant "No school tomorrow." President Bennett became the most popular man on campus by affirming the chant, with the restrictions that the holiday be conducted in such a manner as to make people proud of EOC.

The rally girls then led the crowd in cheers for the team, coach, and President Bennett. The evening was climaxed by a record dance at Hunt Hall with 11:00 closing hours for the girls.

Monday morning found most of the students catching up on some much needed sleep. A few brave students visited the library and uncovered material for their term papers.

Most of the students took advantage of the beautiful afternoon by long drives in the mountains or huting treks.

Expressing the feelings of all EOC students, the day was a most rewarding one. Students gave their heartfelt thanks to President Bennett and faculty and a great big "CONGRATULATIONS" TO THE WONDERFUL FOOTBALL TEAM for coming out on top of the conference!

Deans Meet In Portland

Over a three-day period, Nov. 1, 2, and 3 the Northwest Council of Guidance and Personnel Associations including Dr. Lyle Johnson and Mrs. Dorothy Winters, Deans of men and women respectively on EOC campus, accumulated in Portland for their annual Conference.

On Thursday, November 1, the Northwest College Personnel Association met in the Oregon Association Building for general discussions and a business meeting. Dr. Art Glogan, Oregon State College was general chairman for the day, and livewire, informal discussions were presented on such topics as student loans, program advisers, counselling, student housing and other aspects of the entire student personnel field.

Several other cooperating organizations joined forces, including the lady deans for the meetings on Friday and Saturday. The two headline speakers for these conferences were Mr. L. Maynard Catchings whose tpoic was, "Personnel Problems of Minority Groups" and Dr. H. B. McDaniel of Stanford University who gave and evaluation of the Conference.

As reported to the Beacon, "there were four states that were represented at the informal Conference; Oregon, Idaho, Washington and Montana."

THANKSGIVING LUNCHEON

The annual Interfaith Thanksgiving Luncheon will be held in Hoke Hall on Monday, November 19, at noon. Father Fitzpatrick, advisor for the Newman Club will be the speaker. Other added attractions will be the free turkey dinner (19c tax).

OEA Executive Speaks Here

Cecil Posey, graduate of EOC and executive secretary of the Oregon Education Association, was guest speaker at the National Education Week assembly November 14. His talk dealt with education as a profession and the dominant part the teachers of Oregon would play in the new era of education ahead.

Mr. Posey stated that attention was focused on education during this election because the need for education was becoming apparent to cope with the strife, conflict and wars ahead. He added that education is the answer in stopping wars or deciding the victory.

He urged each future teacher to think of the contributions he could make to the teaching profession rather than just what the profession can offer him. In this way, he believes the most interested and best qualified persons would be in the profession, thus raising the standards.

He closed in saying that since Oregon already leads the nation in education it is now the job of Oregon teachers to sell education.

Mr. Posey's talk to the EOC student body was part of the Education Week program sponsored by the J. H. Ackerman chapter of the FTA. Other projects sponsored by the group are displays in store windows in La Grande and nightly radio broadcasts during the week.

IK's Lend Hand In UF Drive

George Fenton, vice president of the IK's, said Wednesday that a total of $128 had been solicited by the Club for the United Fund Drive. Most of the contributions came from individuals downtown, according to Fenton. The IK's took up the UFD three weeks ago at the request of the head office in La Grande, launching their campaign with an auction in the dormitory. The auction, held in the dining room, Oct. 30 during dinner, netted $18; examples of items auctioned off were hats, belts, shirts, diner dates with several IK's (for the girls), knick-knacks, and scarves.

EOC's Intercollegiate Knights, at their regular Tuesday night meeting last week, selected a pledge committee to check the qualifications of prospective members. Students were nominated from the floor to be "pledges." Those accepted were Dick O'Connell of Hereford, Kenneth Manns of Wallowa, John Herica of Baker, Ashley Prince of La Grande, and Louis Parks of Pendleton.

An initiation committee was selected to plan for the initiation scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 20. Following the initiation ceremonies, a dance for all IK members and their guests will be held in Hoke Hall.

ASSEMBLY

Thanksgiving Assembly will be held on Tuesday, November 20 in the auditorium. The program will include lovely music with the College choir on hand to render some selections. Poetry and colorful memoirs in keeping with the theme, "This Amazing Oregon" will add to the spectacle. Everybody is urged and expected to attend.

COACH ARCHIE DUNSMOOR is given victor's (Shirley's) welcome upon the return of football squad from Ashland. (Left) Wally Dunsmoor, Elvin Daggett, Dick Hilyard and Norm Trotter look on.

FTA Proposes Name Change

Wednesday, Nov. 7, a meeting of the FTA was held in the Ackerman auditorium. There was a very large group to hear the reports of the FTA Regional Convention. Miss Roberta Miller spoke on the committes that she attended. One of these committees discussed a name change for FTA. A suggested name was Students Oregon Educational Association, SOEA. During the business meeting conducted by President, Robert Harrod, this matter was taken up and met with favor on this campus. There is now a petition to this effect being passed around. If enough campuses want this name change and petition for it, it will be brought to a vote on the educational campuses in Oregon.

Jim Dale spoke about the OEA and FTA and what standing it give future teachers. The EOC chapter on campus is the largest in Oregon and Oregon stands very high in the nation. Vern Shell spoke on basic principles. 85 per cent of teachers in Oregon belong to OEA. They are pledged to work with any group to better schools. They stay away from any form of politics and do everything to improve education.

The rest of the program was taken over by a group of townspeople working on a panel bringing out "What a community expects of its teachers". Rev. Gene Robinson of the First Christian Church was moderator. The other people serving on the panel were Mrs. E. (Snap) McManus, co-owner of the Rexall Drug, Mr. Fred Schneiter, President of the Union County Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. William Dowdy, local dentist. Different views were expressed and the panel also answered questions that were raised by the group.

FTA is a very busy organization as was brought out in the business meeting. Next Wednesday they have arranged for Mr. Cecil Posey, an alum, to be speaker for the 11 o'clock assembly. There will be a tea held at 4:00 in the faculty lounge so that he can meet with local teachers. They will have an FTA conference on the campus, Nov. 30, and Dec. 1. National Education Week is set up for the week starting Nov. 11. FTA has posters around the campus and downtown and will put on a series of radio programs at 8:30 every evening, starting the 12th of November. Dr. Martha Addy is the faculty advisor of this group.

Christmas Formal Plans Made

The Christmas Formal, which is sponosred by the AWS, is now in the midst of being planned. Wednesday the committee will meet to plan the affair. The important decisions for the committee to make are; the actual date and the theme that will be used.

This event seems to be one of the most popular on our campus. Most of the girls are anxious to model their new formals. It is certainly the most beautiful affair.

Alpha Rou Tau is in charge of the decorations.

EOC's Don Frank New KLBM OJ

Tuesday, November 13, at 8 p.m. Campus Time made its initial appearance on radio station KLBM of La Grande, with Don Frank as host.

The program consisted of an interview with Bart Clements, president of the Eastern Oregon Student body, and music by request. Bart gave a preview of the coming events at the college for fall term. Special attention was focused on the play "My Three Angels," to be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The records were by request. They will be requested by the college students. There requests are to be accompanied by reasons for wanting the record played.

Review Of The Votes

President Eisenhower and the Democratic party shared the honors in the national election.

Probably never in American history has a candidate for President received a greater personal tribute than that extended to Mr. Eisenhower. And yet millions of his supporters voted to deprive him of a Republican Congress, which he said was needed for maximum effectiveness.

The President told the nation his victory was an endorsement of "modern Republicanism." He was too modest to assess the results accurately. The people evidently favor "modern Republicanism" over what is left of the 19th century wing, but many sections of the nation favored no Republicanism at all, with the exception of Ike.

Nowhere in the country was the Democratic party's vote of confidence more pronounced than here in once-Republican Oregon. Robert Holmes will become the first Democratic governor since the depression of the '30's and Democrats will control the State House of Representatives 40-20 and share State Senate control, 15-15. The party was especially successful in races for U. S. House of Representatives, where it will hold three of four Oregon seats.

The Democratic party, with help from thousands of Republicans, provided Sen. Morse with a majority of more than 50,000. This gives our independent senior Senator vindication for his past acts and right to do as he sees fit in the future.

Perhaps such a setback will be good for Oregon Republicans, who now realize their strongest men must be nominated to win in Democratic Oregon. With nothing to feel apathetic about, local Republicans seemed much more content to ignore politics until election dav, while Democrats were more eager to get out and work for their beliefs.

Someone has said that Republican failure in large part is "failure to communicate with the people." Most Oregonians, for instance, got only the Democratic version of Gov. Smith's record. Republican candidates were less colorful and personally appealing.

While local political strategists try to figure out what happened in Oregon, their national counterparts are asking what happened to Stevenson.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that he made some mistakes but that no human force could have prevented the election of a man as universally admired as Eisenhower. The President is so popular that direct attacks backfired, and attacks upon his subordinates weren't considered too important.

At any rate the nation again faces a troubled world more united than ever behind its president.

Well, here we are, back again after an absence of a paper or two, thanks to . . . someone (I'm not sure whom). This, if you don't remember, is a column intended to acquaint various people with the goings-on in Hunt Hall. Let me remind you, however, that the opinions expressed herein by the writer (?) do not reflect the administration of the paper. (They won't have me.)

Insects beware . . . stear clear of the shower room on the lower floor, new section. Seems the fellows have been inhabited by frogs. Yes, frogs. Two of them. Don't know where they came from, but they're there. At least the boys don't have to take showers alone.

The girls are getting smarter. (I think) Used to be when time came for lunch or dinner, the boys would make a mad dash for the door and by the time the gals got in line, they'd be about 60 people back. Now the girls sneak in when the boys are watching TV and the fellows are stuck . . . Darn girls, they let "line-jumpers" in line. Of course, the boy never do! !

Speaking of TV, now that midterms are really over, the fellows are watching more and more. Favorite shows include Ed Sullivan, The Mickey Mouse Club, Mr. Engineer and The Tennessee Ernie Ford Show. Those middle two are very educational, of course.

Well, got to go now . . S'long.

Mountaineer Pic Schedule Set

The Mountaineer is off to a good start this year! Already 35 pages have been completed and sent in. Editor Gail Swart says, "Thus far we have had good co-operation from all the organizations and we hope this will continue. We need their co-operation in making the annual a success."

Members of the staff have been meeting regularly on Monday nights in the annual room. Dick Quinn heads the football staff, Diana Shafer—activities, Jean Edmonson—classes, and Dorothy Cress is in charge of organizations section.

At present most of the seniors have been scheduled on the picture-taking list at the Perry Studio. Other classes will have their pictures taken at Hoke Hall in the Journalism room by Mr. Holman. The following dates have been set:

Nov. 26—9-5—Juniors
27—8-5—Sophomores
28—12-8—Freshmen
29—9-5—Freshman
30—9-5—(makeups)

Students are requested to have their picture taken whenever they have a free class. Individual pictures may be purchased, and students are encouraged to do so as to cover Mr. Holman's expenses, since he is not charging for the annual prints.

Girls should should wear medium to dark sweaters with a collar and any jewelry or accessories they wish. Boys are asked to wear tie and jacket.

All students are urged to cooperate because their is their year-book, and says Gail, "We feel that every student should be included in it."

With plenty of hard work the staff hopes to complete three-fourths of the annual by Christmas.

CLUB News

SIGMA ALPHA CHI

Yule Candlelight Hour will be Sunday afternoon, December 9. The committees for it were chosen at a recent Sigma Alpha Chi meeting and they are now working on the arrangements for the Candlelight Hour. Committees working on this annual Christmas function include food chairman, Luella Bell, assisted by Carol Kopp and Euice Thornburg. The candle committee chairman is Toni Clark, and working with her is Evelyn Riggan. Jean Adamson is in charge of getting the pedestal for the master candle. The Christmas Tree committee is headed by Janice Robertson with Jane Coffman and Kiyoko Yamada helping her. Karen McGillivray is head of the program committee, and Barbara Carter is also working on this committee. Members of the publicity committee are Sandra Spickerman, Bea Calhoun and Lorraine Frank.

Yule Candlelight Hour is a very impressive annual Chistmas function sponsored by Sigma Alpah Chi. Several campus music groups and individuals present Christmas music and at dusk the Sigma Alpha Chi members light the Yule candles. Miss Neva Neill is advisor of this group.

PRE-NURSING CLUB

This is a preprofessional group on the campus at EOC. The term is five quarters for those who plan on nursing and to go on to U. of O. medical school for nursing ad degree. The club started last year and already 2 or 3 have gone on to nursing. Activities last year were regular meetings plus a booth at the Carnival.

There have been several meetings this year. One of these was a party at the home of Barbara Carter on October 2. Miss Guhli Olson of the U. of O met with the club on October 31. She showed slides of school nursing, explaining requirements of the school, and answering the girls' questions.

The president of the club is Molly Yoneyama, vice president, Dot Ann Anson, and the secretary-treasurer is Barbara Carter. The faculty advisor is Mrs. Margaret Robertson.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Robertson, October 14th at 7 o'clock, and will be a social meeting.

A Foreign Language club was organized last Tuesday under the advisorship of Mr. Charles Pierce. The officers are the following: president: Vic Sniveley, La Grande first vice president: Howard Evans, La Grande; second vice president: Duane Stiff, Baker; secretary: Tony Clark, Pendleton. All persons who are interested in foreign language and cultures and in international relationships are invited to join the organization.

The meeting of the Future English Teachers will be held 7:30 Monday night (Nov. 12) in Hoke Hall. Dr. Al Kaiser will speak on the subject of Certification Qualifications and Dr. Carlos Easley will speak on the Mechanics of Practice-teaching.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

It take inspiration to write this column, and I used up all of my inspiration this morning in art class. That plus the fact that this column is due right away really complicates matters for me. I though I had a solution, but Dr. Lewis didn't want the honor of being this column's first guest writer. This put me back where I started—a column to write and no news on the west end of the Ad Building. Mr. Wilson finally got the ball rolling, and after that, news began to slowly accumulate.

Mr. Wilson is anticipating that several students in the music appreciation classes will be conducting polls (he says that totem, barber, north, and south are not included) around the campus. The results will be published later.

The EOC choir will make its first public appearance on November 20 at the Thanksgiving assembly. Numbers to be presented will be Bach's "Now Thank We All Our God" and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" by Brahms.

A male quartet is in the process of being formed. Loren Clark, Mike Ferguson, Sheldon Strand, and Allen Gray make up this group.

The girls trio, Nadine Elam, Jean Adamson, and Barbara Carter, sang at the railroad convention last Tuesday night.

Dr. Bishop was elected College Affairs Chairman at the Oregon Music Education Conference which the music department attended recently in Salem.

La Grande has found out about Mr. Wilson's musical talent now. During the last couple of weeks, he has sung at the Newcomers Club, Eastern Star, Presbyterian Church, and Methodist church.

Jean Adamson will handle all of the arrangements for a reed clinic on April 13. This clinic will featured the internationally famous saxophonist, Sigurd Rascher. Jean will organize the student assistants and publicity. Mr. Rascher will be the featured solist with the Grande Ronde Symphony on April 14.

After scrounging around under the music stands, behind the instruments, and in all of the dark corners of the music room, I came to the conclusion that there is no more news to be found in the music room this week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A big hand to the students who organized the "Welcome Back" reception for the football champs.

Much of the success of the reception can be attributed to Bob Valiant, general chairman; Mary Jo Russell, Diana Gilstrap, Jo Belshaw, Don Frank, and Dick Bonderant who made and distributed "Welcome Back" posters; Ron Paulson who furnished a car for the PA sytem; and the many other students who helped make the team's return a joyous one.

EO Cops Conference Crown

Eastern Oregon College's football team traveled to Ashland the week-end of the 3rd of November to spoil Sothern Oregon College's bid for a tie with the Mountaineers as Conference champs. The lads from La Grande cinched the title as OCC kings for the 1956 season with a 36-27 victory in a tussle that brought the SOC Homecoming crowd to its feet many times. Long runs and passes were numerous, but EO managed to take the lead in the second quarter and hold things that way until the final gun.

The first counter of the contest came in the first period when Steve Johnson claimed a SOC fumble on the EOC 21. The next play found Elvin Daggett breaking away and rolling 61 yards to the defenders' 13 before being dragged to the turf. Terry Zigenhagen, converted from halfback to the QB slot, ended things on a keeper from five yards out.

Just three plays after the kickoff, SOC tied things up on the strength of Bill Seymour's arm. He shot a pass to fleet end Larry Scheweinfurt that netted 61 yards and six points. Garrett's boot for the PAT was good, giving the Southern Hen their only lead of the contest, 7-6.

Eastern Oregon's next big move came in the second quarter when they held and forced SOC to put from the Ashland one to the 23. Three plays later, Zigenhagen scored from the 16.

At the time of Zigenhagen's score, only four and half minutes remained in the first half, but EOC's fired-up pass defense intercepted two, one by Bill West for 61 yards and a T.D., and the other by Jerry Bristow for 15 to the SOC 35. Daggett shoved over from the five for the score.

SOC put together a 75-yard march for the next score early in the third stanza, giving them six more, and Garrett ran the E.P. for the seventh.

But the men from La Grande wouldn't be stopped. They took possession of the ball on their own seven in the foutrh. Daggett picked up three, West went to the SOC 47, then to the 38, and Daggett shot off-tackle for the remaining 38 years for EO's first touchdown of the afternoon.

Southern Oregon came back, scoring in six plays. The drive started on their own 35 and Korns finished it from the one. Garrett kicked the point-after-touchdown.

The next time Southern had possession, Seymour took to the air, trying to gain the lead once more for his team, but Jack Harmon fouled the attempt by snagging a pass on the Home Lads 40. Squirming, side-stepping, and running took Harmon to the SOC one yard line before a host of Red Raiders pushed him out-of-bounds. The defense held for one play but couldn't hold the jarring rush of Elvin Daggett for the score.

Again Southern Oregon pounded back, by returning the kickoff 37 yards to the EO 39. Korns went for 13 yards and a pass-interference penalty against the Mountie, lay the ball on the one. Seymour went over on a QB keeper.

Coach Dunsmoor of the Mountaineers praised the play of seniors Bill West, Elvin Daggett, Jack Harmon, Don Paulson, Gene Bolen and Lowell Kolbaba.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By Don Frank

The new trophy case in the Administration Building with the sign "Reserved for the OCC Football Championship Trophy" seemed to be a good Omen for the Eastern Oregon College football team. By beating Southern Oregon College at Ashland the 3rd of November, for the first time in the college history, the football trophy for the Oregon Cllegiate Cnference can be claimed by Eastern Oregon college.

—o—

Arch Dunsmoor, football coach, says: "The season ended very, very successful. I was very impressed with the team determination in conference games. In every game of the season, they were always in there, fighting until the final gun, regardless of the score, if we were behind or in front. But in the Conference games, they just woudn't get behind. They showed more determination in the SOC game than I've ever seen before from any club."

"I think the big factor was our line play. Although all the other teams outweighed us, had just as much experience, but still our line was able to keep the backs hopping and forcing the quarterback to get rid of the ball fast, causing inummerable fumbles. One man we could always count on was Elvin Daggett. He played his best game when the chips were down. When two yards were needed for a first down, Daggett would useually get it. He is the kind of a player that holds clubs together. He had the spunk, the spirit, and drive to get things finished the fastest and best way possible."

Next's year's squad will miss guys like West, Harmon, Kollbaba, Daggett, Paulson, and Bolen, but players like them are always missed. We have some very strong reserves, probably the strongest bench we have ever had, and all in all, I'm looking forward to another season as successful as this one, next year."

—o—

After losing six of eight lettermen from the 1955-56 basketball team, and five of them starters, this sure looks like a building year for EOC. The JV outfit and the Frosh team of last year have given coach Quinn a little to work with, but EO will have very little experience on the amples this season. Bill West and Larry Howard are the two veterans from last year, but neither were regulars.

We have seven games before the conference season opens, and that will give the coach a chance to see what he has and to give them a little experience, and then we will see them really get down to business against the OCC teams. Right now, about all that can be said about the squad is, "Building Year."

Archie Dunsmoor is coach of the JV squad, and Bud Lewis will assist him with the Frosh squad.

Dear Reader,

This article is a very minute portion of my vacation in California this past summer. Nevertheless, it was a vacation well spent.

It was a breezy Sunday afternoon when I arrived in that so called cosmopolitain amalgam of adventure, excitement and personality — San Francisco! I quickly hailed a cab to the YWCA where I was situated for nine days of pleasure and lots of fun.

With reservations confirmed, I searched the hall for Rm. 208 and to my surprise there awaiting my arrival were two fair complexioned blond-haired and blue-eyed Scandinavian females. After the ceremony we all agree that we were well represented.

Edith Hoffman completed a year of study as a graduate student in Architecture at the University of Oregon. She was quite a traveler as she waited the completion of her visa to the Central American Republics where from Panama, she was to sail home to Austria.

Karin Bruseth who calls home Oslo, Norway, was a tourist in every respect including a critical attitude toward this way of life.

The next day we planned to sight-see together and decided why not see all of it at once. So to the Top of the Mark we went. There, atop of historic Nob Hill lay the magnificent city below—jaunty cable cars, clean white buildings, the sparkling bay, dramatic bridges, towering mountains and the blue Pacific—all blending in a breath-taking panoramic scene.

We arrived with a problem. That of etiquette. What amount of tips were we obliged to leave for the waiter. He was very nice, friendly and even took the time to point out places of interest. I suggested that if we each leave 25c it would amount to 75c and that would be plenty for him. We gathered up the change and poured it on the table inconspicuously as possible. Jingle, jangle, jingle—the pennies twirled on the table, the waiter from across the room watched us and wittingly remarked, "Emptying out your piggy bank?"

From thence, we hopped on the cable car and journeyed down hill to the heart of San Francisco—Fisherman's Warf. There we strolled through the corridor of steaming pits of lobster, crabs, fish, shrimps and salemen anxiously trying to make a sale. It is a fascinating place especially if you like sea-weed either cooked or uncooked, if you do, bless your heart you can eat anything eatable from the ocean.

A little ways from the sea food counters at pier 43 is the restoration of the Balclutha. The Balclutha is the last of the great Cape Horn Fleet and the last of the Clipper Ships to sail through the harbor. We boarded the ship where we visited the staterooms in preservation. These were relatively small. The Captains cabin and the dining room were well furnished with heavy wooden furniture and velvet covered couches. The kitchen situated on center deck still maintains its original utensils. In the hull of the ship were located pictures, descriptions and tools and instruments which were once used on board. Descending into the very depths was like being in a dark deep hole with only one lasting thought—escape.

That night at the "Y" we got to talking on the subject of European Monarchs with special emphasis upon England. As we of-The conversation went on, but to on the subject, two wind-blown, weary tourists entered the room. The conversation went on but to our attention, snickers seemed to have strained off from the other side of the room where the two strangers were busy unpacking. I decided to ask the question. To my amazement through the dimness of the room a vibrating echo shrilled back across the room answering—England! They replied, "It was interesting to hear your opinions!" The likely quest returned to our direction. Frustrated and embarrassed I answered—Hawaii. They replied nonchalantly, "Lucky!"

SH Dance Held Sat.

The hottest band, the craziest clothes, the biggest laughs, the MOST—that was the Howlarious Sadie Hawkins dance Saturday, Nov. 10.

Dixie Trumble, who was chosen the best Daisy Mae, carried out her duties in true Dog Patch fashion. Meanwhile Little Abner (Denny Evans) remained rather quiet and let the girls chase after him. Little Brother (Cub Bare) was not so shy even if he is "only 15½ yars old."

Beware men! That Wolf Gal, Marie Muntjewerff, looked real dangerous, especially with those lower Slobovian earrings and the imported fur piece.

It was hard to decide if Mammy and Pappy Yokum had green faces from eating turnips or whether Don Paulson's corn cob pipe got them. Anyway Lorraine and Bill Frank surely looked like they had just arrived from Dog Patch.

Vern Bean's gold watch and chain added just the note of sophistication he needed to be proclaimed Marryin' Sam.

Cookies and cider were served as refreshments during the dance.

Women's Honorary To Be Hostesses

by Mildred Dawson

Yule Candlelight Hour, the annual social gathering of students and faculty will be held Sunday afternoon, December 9, from 4:15 to 5:15 in Hoke Hall. Hostesses of the affair will be Sigma Alpha Chi women, sponsors of the event, who will greet all guests in formal attire.

Jo An Nuss, president of the organization, said that plans for the Hour are "progressing very well." She added, "We are hoping for a really big turn-out this year because our committees have worked hard to make this a pleasant occasion."

Yule Candlelight Hour was started on campus in 1935 by the members of Sigma Alpha Chi, Women's honorary, and has since become a tradition. It is the family Christmas event for the faculty and students to mingle informal over a cup of tea. It is the custom for faculty and married students to bring their families to the tea.

In 1940, a group of Sigma Alpha Chi Alumnae sent to the Sigma Alpha Chi group here a beautiful Christmas candle that has since been used in the candle lighting ceremony which opens the tea.

The candle, the lighted hearth and the evergreentree, symbols of Christmas, are the background for the occasion which will this year takep lace as usual.

During the hour a musical program will be presented by students and faculty members. The singing of carols by the entire group will end the program.

IRC Campaigns For Model UN

IRC's biggest project of the year, preparing to represent Lebanon at the Model United Nations which will be held at Stanford next April 10 through 13, is now in progress. The club is meeting regularly to discuss problems relating to Lebanon and to prepare for the representation of that country.

The Model United Nations, a collegiate model of the real body, is comprised of college and universities studies in the Pacific Northwest area. Annually each school repreesnts a different member-nation of the U.N. than the year before, and sends delegates to represent that nation at the sponsoring school.

Mary Joan Russell, president of IRC, said that ten delegates and a "possibility of thirteen delegates," will be picked by an impartial committee of faculty members to go on the Stanford trip. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gaiser will accompany the group as advisors.

The Model U.N. is sponsored by IRC, backed by the associated student body, and is open to all interested students. Following is the schedule of meetings for winter term: 6:30-7:30 p.m.: January 21, February 11, 25, March 11, noon meetings (12:30-1:00): January 17, 31, February 7, 21, March 7.

Interfaith Has Thanksgiving Luncheon

The Thanksgiving luncheon, sponsored by the Interfaith Fellowship Organization November 19, was a "great success," according to Chairman Evelyn Riggan.

The tickets cost 19 cents and the lucky purchaser was entitled to a turkey dinner with all the trimmngs, plus a short program.

The highlights of the program consisted of a speech by Father Kirkpatrick, advisor to the Newman Club, and a solo, "Bless This House," sung by Janice Robertson.

Dr. Bolen, advisor of the Interfaith Council made arrangements for the luncheon.

Annual Staff To Meet Deadline

Gail Swart, editor of the Mountaineer, reports that progress is very good. The staff will meet the second deadline December 15, at which time one half of the book will be completed.

"We have received marvelous cooperation from the seniors," Gail said, "however, I wish we could have more under classmen getting pictures taken."

The staff has expressed its desire to have all organization pictures taken before finals or the first week in January. Any organizations that have not had pictures taken are urged to contact Dorothy Cress as soon as possible.

Journalism Club Meets

Iota Phi Omicron, journalistic honorary formulated on campus last year, met at the home of Dr. Clarke, advisor, Friday evening, November 30. Tom Mercer, president of the club, called the meeting to discuss the IPO tentative agenda for the coming year.

One of thep roblems discussed was whether the Oregon Collegiate Magazine, a literary magazine published by the organization on a trial basis for the first time last spring, should be attempted again. Mercer said the club had taken a loss on the project. He asked the ten members present to consider and study the project for a future discussion of it.

The next meeting, a chili-feed, was scheduled in Hoke Hall for Friday evenin, January 11th. Committees were appointed as follows: Food: Roberta Miller, Donna Talbott, Audrey Snodgrass, and Eunice Thornburg; set-up: Patsy Yoneyama; clean-up: Tom Mercer.

GIRL OF YEAR

Carol Kopp, senior from Kent, Oregon, was named IRC "Girl of the Year" this week. Carol is secretary of the club and has been active in promoting the fund-drive for the Model UN trip.

Christmas Theme Highlights Dance

"White Christmas" will be the theme of the annual Christmas formal being held tomorrow night in Hoke Hall from 9 to 12. Alpha Rho Tau, in charge of the decorations, will feature in the hall, a large Christmas tree and many large, falling snowflakes. Don Swart's band will provide music for this corsage- and program-dance.

"This Christmas formal, sponsored by AWS, will be the biggest event and the biggest formal of the fall term," said Frace Furuyama, president of the organization. She expressed hopes that the ball would be well-attended, as "a lot of hard work has gone into making it a really worthwhile dance."

She said a reception line, consisting of Dr. and Mrs. Lynn Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Lyle Johnson, Mr and Mrs. Larry Winters, and Dr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, and herself will be present at the doors.

Some of the musical numbers on the entertainment program will be by a girls' trio (Sandra Benson, Jo Belshaw, and Bonnie Fox) and by Shirley Warren. Piano interludes between numbers will also be featured.

Grace asked that all members of the AWS committees, and any girl, "come out Saturday to Hoke Hall to help decorate for the dance."

Critic Lauds "My Angels"

by Vic Snively

The play in my estimation was a rousing success. I happened to see it Thursday night which was from all reports the weakest performance, but still it was far above the art that EOC is used to seeing.

The choice of play was exceptional. Something that has been lacking in previous years. The casting was good with some fine performances and some that weren't so inspired, but all in all, it was of superior calibre.

Something happened in "My Three Angels," that the theatre doesn't often see. A supporting player rather stole the show. This theft wasn't of the Marilyn Monroe type, but rather the result of good casting and much better than average acting. I am refering to Bob Valiant and his role as the frustrated father and businessman. Lots of time and interpretation went into the performance and I'm quite sure the audience was appreciative of the fact. I am not suggesting that the stars of the play were weak or unimaginati. It is just that one expects superior talent and acting from the so called stars, and anything beyond is definitely a treat.

There were some reports of naughtiness here and there, and I waited hopefully for them, but listen as I might, I didn't hear anything but good old every day English. And I am still surprised when I hear people maintain that they were shocked at times, but if they truly were, it was a good wholesome shock, and one that wasn't detrimental in any way to our basic moral principles.

Sock and Buskin is to be congratulated, and we can all hope for more of equal worth.

Symphony Concert Features Portland Harpist

The Grande Ronde Symphony orchestra, composed of townspeople, high school students, and college students presented the first concert of their ninth season Sunday, Dec. 2.

Sunday's concert featured three orchestral numbers: Egmont Overture by Beethoven; Symphony 101 "The Clock" by Hayden; and Pictures at an Exhibition by Mousorgski, adapted for orchestra by Ravel.

The feature of the evening was Marian Fouse, first harpist of the Portland Symphony Orchestra, who played Introduction and Allegro by Ravel.

College students are admitted to these concerts on student body cards; others may purchase a season ticket for $2.50 which is good for all presentations.

English-Majors Meet English Department

At the first meeting of all English majors on campus November 19th, plans were formulated for monthly group meetings with the aim of bringing the students "closer together."

The thirteen students, who attended the meet scheduled by the English Department suggested, further, that: thme group tentatively meet as an unofficial group, students officers (perhaps a chairman and a secertary) be in charge of the meetings, and the purpose of the meetings might be for a discussion of topics pertaining to English, teaching, and teaching experience.

The next meeting was tentatively sheduled for early next January. Patsy Yoneyama was named temporary chairman for that meeting. She will help plan the program with the department heads.

Dr. Carlos Easley, guest speaker, introduced by Dr. Alvin Kaiser, stated that plans are being made to have a course in secondary education teaching methods taught here. He said the course would follow a learn-as-you-go theory instead of mere theory.

He made a distinction between the B.A. (". . . more of a liberal arts curriculum . . .") and the B.S. (". . . of a technical nature . . . which enables you to teach prior to a liberal education . . ."). In summing up the discussion, Mr. Howard Anderson commented that the degree is "like a union card." He said, "The person you turn out to be makes the difference, not the nomenclature on a union card."

Eunice Thornburg and Patsy Yoneyama, student teachers at La Grande high, summarized their teaching experiences. They said they enjoyed teaching "very much as a whole, despite bad days when everything seems to go wrong."

Dr. Gordon Clarke distributed leaflets pertaining to magazines in the field of English. He spoke about the contents of the various magazines.

The meeting concluded with a social hour and refreshments.

The Beacon staff extends a hearty

"MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR" to all of our readers.

See you next year!

Here And There: A Contrast—

Snow falls—peace reigns—the season of joy and good tidings approaches again. HERE millions will enjoy hobnobbing round the yule log with friends and relatives; gaiety will be supreme. Out THERE—somewhere—a tear drops, a sob rents through the darkness, and sadness reigns. Terror and hopelessness clutch the hearts of those misery-stricken other half. The snow on their land is tainted with propaganda, the horrors of indoctrination, and bloodshed. The people out there turn beseeching eyes upon us; we are regarded as the symbol of freedom and upholder of man's dignity.

We must guard against complacency; the state of their world is our concern. We must not refuse to face reality—that the other half is not so fortunate as we are. Such complacency would corrupt the brotherhood-of-man theory and weaken our own values as a democratic, freedom-loving, and sympathetic people. At the same time, it will disillusion the other half of the world, for such an attitude would portray us an uncaring and unconcerned people.

As the holiday season advances, let us unite heart and prayer for those of the globe's troubled spots. Let us resolve, furthermore, to how them that they are not forgotten or forsaken, that somebody out HERE remembers them. And let us act upon that resolve by helping them in any way possible (via CARE packages, lending assistance on relief programs, etc.) and most of all, by giving them encouragement and hope through our living wholesome, unblemished lives as citizens of the United States.

Snively Speaking

By Vic Snively

The steel shod Russian boots are stamping out the remains of the valiant Hungarian rebels. Desperate pleas from the freedom seeking Hungarians have resulted in U.S. and United Nations admonishments to the Russians. Meanwhile people who are begging and fighting for something we take for granted are being slaughtered in their homes. It is the policy of the free world to be shocked and scandalized by such action and to offer what little aid won't be minsconstrued by the Russians as intervention, but here our usefulness ends.

In the Middle East where Nasser is fighting his somewhat abortive battle for nationalization, the nations of the world, excluding England, France and Russia, are again offering admonishments and hopeful suggestions. Russia at long last is coming out from behind her curtain of vagueness and misrepresentation and declaring herself as an independent backer of Egypt and Nasser.

I'm afaird this is much to the consternation of the rest of the world, who feel or felt that everyone was afraid of everyone else, and no one dared openly declare himself. It is now quite clear that Russia is not afraid. She has declared herself. Now what are we going to do? Face can be lost only to a point, and I am afraid that we are rapidly reaching that point. It is my belief that the already heating cold war is rapidly reaching the point of combustion. Where we go from there, only the greater Powers know. But we do, or should we, know that the time for passive resistance and little slaps on the hand is gone. Now is the time for self assertion.

Interfaith Picks Two Leaders

For the 16th Annual Religion in Life Conference on the E.O.C. Campus, scheduled for National Brotherhood Week in February, two outstanding speakers have already been dated: Rev. Ralph S. Barber, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Vancouver, Washington, who did his apprentice minister under the guidance of Dr. Richard Steiner at the First Unitarian Church in Portland, has accepted a berth on the Interfaith Team.

Dr. Kenneth Crose, PhD., Professor of Religion and Philosophy, Pacific Bible College, Portland, will represent the conservative point of view. He has worked in 38 different foreign countries, and grew up as a lad in the Middle. Dr. Crose's father taught for some years at the University of Beruit.

Are You Eligible To Receive Your Fall Grades

By Mildred Dawson

One of the requirements to enter college is a physical examination. The best time to have this examination is before you come to college in your own home town by your own doctor. Let me tell you some of the reasons this is good.

Your own doctor has a case history of illness, accidents, injuries suffered or surgery performed on you. This information is necessary so that the health nurse can supervise your health, and your health will be the best possible while you are attending college. There may be some counseling with the nurse that will be of vital interest to you. If there is a reason stated in your health examination that limits your physical education, this will be taken care of by the nurse. She will have these reports made up and they will be in the hands of the men's and women's physical education instructor before classes begin.

Another factor of importance in your health examination is that it might reveal something about your physical condition that would warrant a change in your chosen career. Counseling would be given in these cases.

This article is for you students, freshman and new, who have not turned in your health examination. You, too, will benefit from the services of the health nurse, but you have made her job a little more difficult. If you are a transfer from another college, you may ask that college to send in your medical examination. Also acceptable by the college are military service medical discharge health records or vocational rehabilitation medical examination records. A number of students have their health examinations turned in, but the form is not complete. The names are on the bulletin board in a different listing from those who have no examination turned in.

If the ideas mentioned above have not made you feel that a medical examination is necessary, perhaps thi swill — no examination turned in to the health nurse—no grades for the quarter sent out. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

"There's Music in the Air." That seems to be E O C's theme song now. During the next two weeks there will be four music presentations. Sunday, December 2, is the date of the first of this group, a concert by the Grande Ronde Symphony under the direction of Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis. This group is composed of EOC students and townspeople from La Grande and neighboring communities.

The second event will be at the first of four Civic Music Concerts. John Druary, tenor, will appear in La Grande on December 7. Mr. Druary will be the only vocal soloist to appear this year. All full-time EOC students are admitted on their student body cards.

Yule Candlelight Hour will be December 9. This annual Christmas event is sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi. Several members of the faculty, along with al arge number of students, will participate in this impressive ceremony.

The EOC choir will appear on December 12. This program will also include numbers by the Male quartet and Blue and Gold Singers.

Several downtown organizations in La Grande will be entertained by Christmas programs made up of college students and faculty members. Included in this group are the Rotary Club, Y W E A, and Wesleyan Circle.

Years Ago

FIVE YEARS AGO

State Representative Baum spoke at EOCE. He spoke on enlarging the EOCE curriculum to take in a two-year course in agriculture and broaden the liberal arts field. The F.T.A. observed American Education week. Sadie Hawkins season was in full swing. The Sadie Hawkins Dance was held November 30. Jim McCallister was the high scorer on the Mountaineer football team this year, with 36 points.

TEN YEARS AGO

Dick Hiatt was starring as gramps in Sock and Buskins presentation of "On Borrowed Time." November 7, the college started a series of broadcasts over KLBM. Ruth Barlow was the editor of the Beacon.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The second annual Homecoming was held December 18. EOCE was defeated 37-6. A very large celebration was held considering the weather. "The Rivals" was presented by Sock and Buskins December 4. Womens League was planning a dancing party to be held December 11. Lum Rhea was the editor of the Beacon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Just a good word for the Intercollegiate Knights for their United Fund Drive. They put up collection boxes around the school and held an auction at the dorm where various articles were sold. Members also convassed the town for contributions.

Two of the main figures in this drive were Danny McDevitt and George Fenton. The thought behind this drive is worth more than the money, as it shows some of the spirit that EOC is definitely lacking.

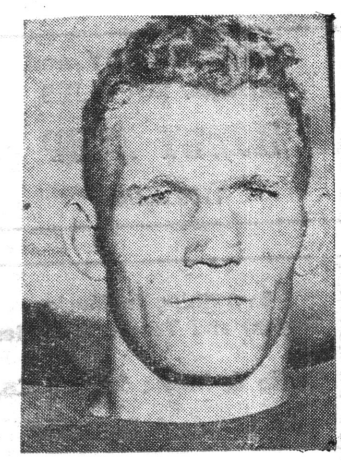
Coaches Name Five Top Mountaineers To Oregon Collegiate All-Conference

Jack Harmon



Weldon Lewis

Jerry Bristow

Bill West

Elvin Daggett.

Eastern Oregon's College football team led the OCC All-Conference selection placing five men on the first team. This team was chosen Saturday by all coaches from each squad. This year marked the first time that it was picked at a meeting instead of a written vote. Coach Archie Dunsmoor said this year's team was probably the best team that has ever been named. Dunsmoor stated that the conference was week on ends, but made up the difference at halfbacks, guards and tackles positions. EOC's squad was the lightest team in the conference but made up for it's handicap by having a lot of desire and a good attitude. EOC finished first in the conference for the first time in conference history. Dunsmoor quoted, "We were possibly a bit stronger this year from tackle to tackle and somewhat faster in the backfield. We were week at quarterback position because our last year's starter, Bob Brown was hurt the first game and was out all season. Our squad had good depth and power but needed a good passing attack"

Those making All-Conference first team include Jack Harmon, end; Jerry Bristow, guard; Weldon Lewis, center; Elvin Daggett, halfback; and Bill West, fullback. Harmon, Lewis, Daggett and West were all repeaters from last year's team. All but West and Lewis were unanimous choices.

Rounding out the first team were ends, Harmon (EOC), and Al Van Leuvan (OTI), tackles, Barry Adams (OCE) and Bob Wheeler (PSC), guards, Bristow (EOC) and John Garrett (SOC), centers, Lewis (EOC) and Pat McManua (OCE; quarterback, Bill Seymour (SOC), halfbacks, Daggett (EOC) and Wyman Gernhart (OCE), fullbacks, West (EOC) and Don Korns (SOC).

Second team selections were ends, Doug Zitek (OCE) and Dave Starbuck (PSC) tackles, Steve Johnson (EOC) and Gene Bolen (EOC), guards, Alvin Jones (OTI) Chuck Romine (SOC), quarterback, Harv Neffendorf (PSC), halfbacks, Dick Quinn (EOC) and Dick Edwards (PSC). Ties were handled by placing two on first team.

Honorable mention went to Gleason Eakin (OCE) and Larry Schweinfurt (SOC), ends, Don Paulson (EOC) Herb Colley (SOC), and Wayne Osborne (OCE), Jack Knudsen (OCE), Phil Klug (PSC) and John La Fountaine (OCE), centsr, Don Baker (OTI), Ray Thiess (SOC) and Larry Smith (PSC), quarterbacks, Harold Santee (OCE), Bob Stoy (OTI) and Dee Dickenson (EOC), halbacks, Terry Ziegenhagen (EOC), Don Lumgair (OCE), Ted Tenney (SOC) and Bill Turner (PSC), fullbacks, Belton Ollison (OTI), Irvin Garrison (OCE) and Chuck Withers (PSC).

EOC loses six starters from this year's squad. Pickin's for next year's team will probably be mighty slim. They lose Harmon, West, Daggett, Paulson, Bolen, and Kolbaba.

Coach Dunsmoor stated that possibly Pacific was their poorest game while Southern Oregon was one of their best.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

Looks like we have a very interesting basketball season ahead of us. With men like Larry Howard, Dick O'Connell, Larry Applegate, Bill West, and Jerry Baxter to mention only a few of them, Eastern Oregon is liable to prove a tough opponent for any outfit looking for a pushover. EO proved the opponent is going to have to hussle to top them against Whitman. But this can still be classed as a building year with only one senior on the squad.

Five of our championship football team has been chosen on the Klamath Falls Herald and New OCC All-Star team, and two of the squad were elected to the second team. This is not the Conference All-Stars. Jack Harmon made his third appearance as an all-star. Elvin Daggett gained unanimous selection, Bill West was there for the second time, Steve Johnson made his initial appearance and Bud Lewis gained the list for the second time. Jerry Bristow and Dick Quinn were selected on the second team.

* * *

Only one college in Oregon is still seeking another victory at football, and that is Oregon State. The Staters go against Iowa in the New Year's Day classic at Pasadena, California, known as the Rose Bowl. Should be a real contest. Oregon State will be running out of the wing while Iowa will have the "T." Shall we pick a winner? Iowa by one touchdown, 21-14.

'56-'57 Mounties Lack Experience

With one basketball game under their belts, the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers have settled down for about two and a half months of steady practice and games.

The Mounties, with a 1955-56 season record of 15-10, are short on experienced players and, in the words of Head Coach E. Robert "Bob" Quinn, will be "playing to stay out of the cellar."

There are only two lettermen back from last year, and they have only one year experience each. They are Bill West, senior center from La Grande and Larry Howard, sophomore guard from McMinnville.

Non-lettermen back from last year are Bill DeMastus, junior forward from Unity; Jack Coates, junior guard from Kennewick, Washington; Dick Quinn, junior guard from La Grande and Ashley Prince, sophomore guard from Wallowa. Two transfers, Owen "Red" Stockard, junior forward from Salem, and Pacific University and Don Persinger from Kennewick, Wash., and Yakima JC add to the total of experience of the Mountie squad. Dick O'Connell, sophomore forward from Hereford and Jerrold Baxter, sophomore forward from Union round out the members of the Mountie squad with any college or service experience.

Three freshmen have been named to the EOC 1956-57 basketball squad. Larry Applegate, guard from Pendleton lead the Blue Mountain Conference in scoring last. Earle Smith, forward from Redmond was a basketball All-Star while in high school. Ron Paulson, center from Maupin is the Mounties' tallest player, standing at 6'7".

The squad averages 6'1½" with seven men 6'3" or over. In addition to Paulson, other Mountie skyscrapers are: Baxter, 6'4"; DeMastus, 6'4"; O'Connell, 6'4"; Smith, 6'3"; Stockard, 6'4" and West, 6'3". The shorty of the EOC squad is Persinger at 5'8".

Whit's Drop EO By 60-48 Count

Pendleton's National Guard Armory was the site of the 1956-57 basketball opener for the Mounties of Eastern Oregon College. The Blue and Gold of La Grande tangled with the Missionaries of Whitman in a contest that proved to be a thriller until the final quarter when the Whie boomed ahead by 10 points and kept things that way until the final gun.

Larry Howard, one of the two returning lettermen on the maples for EOC, accounted for the first field goal of the new season with a driving hook early in the first period. From there the Mounties worked to a 16-18 lead at the end of the period.

The second quarter saw the Missionaries starting to move. They tier the game at 21 all, 23-23, and 25-25. The remaining part of the first half featured the Washington lads outscoring EO by 6, giving Whitman a 29-35 intermission bulge.

The third stanza went much the same as the second as the two outfits scored almost equally up until the three minutes-to-go mark. At that point Whitman got hot. Reserve center Robert Chrisman canned two hooks and forward Ron Karlson hit a jumper.

Eastern Oregon came back as O'Connell hit for two and a gifttoss. The quarter ended with Larry Howard stepping to the free-throw line and hitting for both of the charity throws, leaving EO trailing by seven, 40-47.

Whitman outscored the Mountaineers 13-8 in the last quarter, giving them a 60-48 victory.

Howard was high point man for the EOC five with 12 and Chrisman was high for the contest with 13. Howard left the game with five fouls early in the fourth quarter.

Yule Candlelight Hour Is Held At Normal School

A Yule Candlelight hour, the first ever held at the Normal school, was a Sunday feature between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The event, which will be annual henceforth, was sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi women's scholastic honor society.

Those who attended the affair found the auditorium transformed in appearance by the presence of numerous small fir trees arranged in a circle, within which the guests were served tea and light sandwiches. A program of numbers significant of the Christmas season was presented. Candles and tapers supplied the only light.

After a number of old-time and modern Christmas carols were read by Mrs. Rex Robinson, a series of musical numbers were presented. Solos weer sung by Winifred Case and Billy Cochell, Normal school students, and by Miss Helen Graham, of the faculty. Other music was presented by a trio consisting of Alyce Zimmerman, Betty Martin, and Irene Gilchrist; and by a mixed quartet including Miss Graham, Miss Amanda Zabel, Noah and Joseph Gaiser. Accompanists were Eleanor Hicks, Ola Mae Hough, and Ralph Noah.

The members of Sigma Alpha Chi were assisted in serving by local women who are members of Phi Beta Kappa, National honor society. These were the Miss Edith Darby, Eva Wear, Helen Graham, Jennie Peterson, Amanda Zabel, Mrs. Rex Robinson, and Mrs. E. R. Quinn.

Sigma Alpha Chi members are Georgianna Coleman, Joanne Leslie, Zella Robbins, Marjorie Hindman, Arline Conradt, Joseph McHugh, Helma Karstens, Caroline Moyer, and Louise Moyer.

Rhodes Lewis Tells Of Leave

Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis, assistant professor of music at Eastern Oregon and conductor of the Grande Ronde Symphony, has returned to La Grande Symphony, has returned to La Grande from a year's sabbatical leave. His leave was spent at the University of Iowa completing a survey directed by the Rockefeller Foundation.

His special project took him to 30 cities from coast to coast. Some of the factors considered by Lewis and League officials in selecting the 30 orchestras—from an original list of 170—were geographic location, type of community, financial policies, and degree of success or failure. His comprehensive report on all orchestras he has studied will be submitted to the League and made available to those interested. The research completed by Dr. Lewis counted toward his Ph. D in music, granted by the State University of Iowa in August.

Dr. Lewis, a graduate of Baker University, received his M.S. from Kansas State. His graduate work included the study of music at the University of Hawaii, at which time he played violin with the Honolulu Symphony under Fritz Hart. Lewis also played first violin under Karl Krueger in the Kansas City Symphony Orchestra.

The Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra, directed by Dr. Lewis, attracts volunteer musicians from a wide area, extending 85 miles beyond La Grande.

ROUND ABAUT ... ???

Homecoming events have been celebrated by a number of the colleges during the past few weeks; Whitman, University of Oregon, Oregon State, Portland State, Linfield, and Oregon Technical Institute celebrated this annual tradition. With the conclusion of the Homecoming events comes the realization that the football season is almost at an end. Many of the players are seniors playing for their last season. Maybe that is why Homecoming is so significant to the boys who make the games so outstanding and necessary for this celebration.

From excitement to drudgery —mid-term examinations are all the fashion now. The largest colleges down to the smaller ones are entertaining their students, but the real gratitude for this comes only when the week ends.

Mounties Set For C of I Fray

Ten members of Eastern Oregon college's varsity and a junior varsity squad were to leave today at 12:45 for Ontario where they meet the College of Idaho. The junior varsity will play the preliminary game.

After the games, Coach Bob Quinn said the JV's squad will come home and the varsity team will stay all night in Ontario and then leave for Reno, Nevada, Thursday morning where they play Friday and Saturday night against University of Nevada's wolf pack.

Quinn has been trying out several combinations this week in order to strengthen the weak spots that were brought out in last week's tilt with Whitman. Starting lineup for the Mounties will be Larry Applegate and Earle Smith at forwards, Bill West at center, Larry Howard and Jack Coates at guards.

Others making the trip are Bill Demastus, Dick O'Connell, Dick Quinn, Bob Persinger and Jerry Baxter.

EOC will return home on Sunday and then leave on Tuesday for Nampa where they play Northwest Nazarene College.

J.V.'s Come Close But Lose 60-57

Eastern Oregon College's Junior Varsity club opened the new basketball season at Pendleton with the Whitman J.V. quintet serving as the opponents. Whitman managed to stall in the closing minutes of the contest to protect a three point lead and gain the victory, 60-57.

The EO lads trailed the entire game, sometimes as much as 12 points, but in the closing minutes, started rallying to come within thet hree points, but when the Whitman stall stopped what could have been the winning drive.

Halftime found the Missionaries nine points up, 30-21 and the third quarter didn't aid the Mountie cause any. But the final stanza found the La Granders outscoring the visitors and slowly cutting the Whit's lead. Earl Torris added two and a long pusher, Junior Holman chalked one on a free-throw and Al Tolar jumped one inside the key.

But then Whitman gained possession and refused to let go as the tilt closed, 60-57.

DR. ALVIN R. KAISER

Dr. A. Kaiser Will Attend Educator Meet

- Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, EOC professor of English, speech, and dramatics, is scheduled to give an official report at the national convention of the American Educational Theatre Association.

Dr. Kaiser is the 1956 chairman of the Teacher Training Project of AETA, and will report on its progress. In addition, during the four-day meeting, plans will be made for the coming year.

Dr. Kaiser indicated that the basic purpose of the AETA's Teacher Training Project is the improvement of dramatics in the schools. He indicated that his committee has worked toward the improvement of the teacher training programs in colleges and universities training drama teachers; the establishment of standards for certification of prospective teachers of drama; and the encouragement of some type of in-service training by the colleges and universities for individuals already teaching drama—particularly the non-drama major.

Club To Finish Papers

Alpha Pi Epsilon is a national honorary secretarial society. The purpose of Alpha Pi Epsilon is to stimulate an active interest in secretarial subjects and vocations; to encourage high scholarship; and to keep alive the highest ideals in this field of work.

Membership is based on scholarship, personality, and character. This organization was first formed on E.O.C. campus around the year, 1946. This year Ludetta Wayne was elected President and Patsy Evans as Secretary of Alpha Pi Epsilon at a meeting held in October.

A social activity held by this organization was a Christmas party held at Miss Stein's apartment. 2 An initiation banquet is planned for early in February at which time seven girls will be initiated.

A special activity of Alpha Pi, since it is a service organization, is the typing of student term papers at a minimum charge of 15c per typewritten page. Any student wishing this service is asked to contact either Miss Stein or other members of Alpha Pi Epsilon; Ludetta Wayne, Patsy Evans, Marie Muntjewerff, Reta Glenn and Marguerite Winters.

IRC Plans Agenda

Attending the model United Nations to be held at Stanford in April and participating in panels revolving around Union county's Great Decisions program will be the main projects for the International Relations Club this year.

The Great Decisions program committee, of which IRC advisor Dr. Gaiser is a member, is providing an eight-week program beginning January 20 which will focus attention and provide facts on eight key foreign policy issues which the United States and its citizens face in 1957. A meeting was held Thursday evening at the Sacajawea Hotel which initiated this program. Several IRC members attended.

Interested students attended the first formulating meeting for the Model United Nations trip Wednesday noon. Future issues of the eBacon will include a progress report on trip preparations.

IRC members and those interested in international affairs are invited to attend a social evening at theh ome of Dr. Gaiser, Wednesday, January 16 at 7:30 p.m.

ASC Card Packs With Privileges

by Mildred Dawson

Every term when you register at college, after you have paid your fees you receive a card. This card shows you are a member of the Associated Student Body of E.O.C. and when presented at thet ime of elections, allows you to vote at all regular and special elections.

At various times in the term there are certain entertainments to which you are also entitled as a holder of this card to attend. One of the functions is the play put on by Sock and Buskin; another is the concerts put on by the Grand Ronde Symphony in the E.O.C. Auditorium. Then it also allows you to attend any sport activity which is going on, this term, mainly basketball. The people of La Grande who bring the Civic Music presentations to La Grande have also extended to you, the holder of an A.S.B. card, an invitation to their programs.

Now an added word to those students who are married. At the time you received your card, I hope the person making out the card wrote Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, instead of John Jones, or Mary ones as the case may be. (In case they did not, you may take it to the registrar's office and have it changed.) If you are married you are entitled to two tickets for the play, and your husband or wife can attend the concerts at the auditorium with you. At the games you may bring your husband or wife and also your children.

There is always an exception to everything and in this case it is the Civic Music presentations. Only one admittance is permitted per card.

I hope this information wil be beneficial to all the students and now that you know a little more about these cards, you will attend more of the functions provided for you by your college.

La Grande—Miss Patsy Lee Walker, Eastern Oregon College freshman from La Grande, has been selected as candidate for queen of the Oregon State Intercollegiate Winter Carnival. Miss Walker will represent EOC at the winter festivities which will be held at Mt. Hood, Jan. 26 and 27.

Patsy, daughter of Mrs. Florence Lee Walker of La Grande, was winner among three finalists voted on by the student body. The other finalists were Judy Tonack, Pendleton freshman; and Barbara Gulick, Pine senior.

In addition to the finalists, contestants included Patsy Evans, La Grande sophomore; Carol Ann Wiglesworth, Echo sophomore; and Charlotte Vanderveldt, Brownsmead senior.

Miss Walker, a 1956 graduate of La Grande High School and majoring in science at EOC, will serve as Winter Carnival princess along with the representatives of the other Oregon colleges. All, chosen on the basis of beauty and personality, are candidates for Winter Carnival Queen, to be announced just prior to the official opening of the festivities.

Rotary Guests

Nine EOC students, all recipients of Rotary club scholarships, were guests at a Rotary luncheon in the Sacajawea dining room last Wednesday. Each student spoke briefly to the club and expressed appreciation for his scholarship. The luncheon launched the annual drive for contributions to the Eastern Oregon College scholarship fund. The students present were Sharon Becker, Vale; John Botz, Elgin; Loran Clark, Milton-Freewater; Mike Ferguson, The Dalles; Marilyn Hilyard, Pendleton; Monte Nedrow, Elgin; Allan Tolar, Echo; Robert Steen, Dayville; and Patsy Yoneyama, Nyssa.

Club Sets Luncheon

The annual Gound Hog luncheon sponsored by the College Interfaith Fellowship is set for Monday, February 4th, at Hoke Hall. A brave committee of seventeen have already been dispatched to the Wallowa, Enterprise, and Joseph area in search of the fat and juicy little animal who emerges from hibernation on February 2nd to see his shadow, and then return to hibernation for another dreary 6 weeks of winter.

Him—"I hope you'll dance with me tonight."

Her—"Oh, certainly. I hope you don't think I came down here merely for pleasure."

Players Begin Rehearsal

Boyd Devil, Sandra Benson, Dick Cook, Janice Robertson, Joan Eldridge, Dave Skeen, Mike Ferguson, and Barbara Carter have been cast in the single leads of the musical comedy, "PLAIN AND FANCY" scheduled for a four-day run, opening February 27 in the EOC theatre.

PLAIN AND FANCY, the Sock and Buskin winter term production, being produced in conjunction with the music department, tells the story of what happens when two very fancy New Yorkers (Devin and Benson) spend a week-end among the very plain members of a rural Amish community in the Hamlet of Bird-in-Hand, Pennsylvania.

Richard Hiatt, production director, announced this week that in addition to these eight cast members, casting is now under way for what will ultimately be a Choral direction is being handcast of 40 singers and dancers. led by Neil Wilson, while Lynn Bishop will conduct the orchestra for the production.

According to Hiatt, PLAIN AND FANCY represents Sock and Buskin's most ambitious theatrical undertaking since the EOC production of SING OUT, SWEET Land in 1952. "And the town's still talking about that one," said Hiatt. Besides the complications of integrating actors, singers, dancers, and musicians, PLAIN AND FANCY poses the technical problem of several sets. "Most of them are simple," Hiatt said, "but, to borrow the title of one of the musical numbers, 'How Do You Raise a Barn?'" It seems that the second act opens with a simple little task of building a barn on stage in something like 20 seconds—to music, yet!

Further complications set in the first evening the cast got together to read the play. College actors suddenly found themselves confronted with the idiomatic expressions of the Pennsylvania Dutch. "What, for heaven's sake, does 'ferschplitzen' mean?"

Dick And Hazel Are Wed

From "The Little Church on the Corner" in Hermiston, Oregon, came the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bondurant at 2:30 the afternoon of the 30th of December, 1956. The Man and Wife went to their car, and after taking the blocks from under the wheels, setting off the bombs under the hood, they came to La Grande, to set up housekeeping. The ex-Miss Hazel Nelson now has to cook three meals a day for her hubby, clean up after him, and do all the other joyous things a wife must do for her husband.

Dick, a frosh at EOC, convinced his bride to come to EOC, so now there is a new student among us. Hazel is also a frosh.

EOC Student Chosen Queen For A Day

PENDLETON—Mrs. Bill (Lorraine) Frank, Jr. of Pendleton undoubtedly was one very happy woman last Friday. She was named queen on the Queen for a Day television program.

Mrs. Frank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cy Gallogly, Pendleton, and her husband both were graduated from school here and are students at EOC, La Grande, where she is in her second year and he in his third year.

She was chosen queen from among five contestants, and received a washer and dryer, refrigerator, home freezer filled completely with food, television set, complete living room set, dining room set, $500 certificate, complete wardrobe and many other gifts.

In addition, both Mr. and Mrs. Frank will have their next year's college tuition.

They were in Hollywood as the result of a gift by their parents who provided them a trip to the Rose Bowl as a combined Christmas present and as a delayed honeymoon. Their appearance on Queen For A Day was arranged by a cousin of Mrs. Frank, Sr.

WE APOLOGIZE!

Recently an unfortunate incident occurred on the Mountaineers' basketball court which should be of grave concern to all Eastern Oregon College students. The good name of the school was concerned in the minor fracas. No one seems to know its exact causes or the ensuing details (everyone voices a different version), but in one point, everyone is in agreement: the incident should never have happened. It seems as though one of our players struck a member of the opposing Seattle Pacific team. The coach of that team promptly retaliated by leading his boys off the floor, thus forfeiting the game.

Whether the person who was struck "asked for it" or not is not the point. The point is that in any meeting of varsity teams which have come together in the name of friendly rivalry, individual displays of personal feelings and action on the part of the participants against the other team should not be shown. In the first place, each player is a member of the team and the team represents th school. Whatver acts of behavior which the boys may show are, in a member of the team and the team represents the school. This may not seem quite fair to the rest of their fellow students, since the team comprises only a fraction of the total student body. However, that is how the ball rolls; and that is how student spectators at games judge other schools.

It is therefore of utter importance that not only varsity teams, but campus organizations and individuals of any school, act like adults and extend courtesy to others when they are representing their school. It would be well also for the non-participating students themselves, especially spectators at a game, to act like adults and to respect the opposing team. That team will form an opinion of the school by their reception by the spectators.

We feel it is only courteous as well as ethical to apologize in the name of Eastern Oregon College to Seattle Pacific for the most unfortunate incident which met them here.

GOOD LUCK TO YOU!

Is there any EOC-er who hasn't broken a resolution which he optimistically formulated with such exaggerated care last term? Congratulations to any such suffering person who still hasn't succumbed to temptation—and more power to you.

Probably all of us, with tongue in cheek, resolved to observe at least one resolution throughout the new year, knowing full well the first week wouldn't creep by without it being broken—and without any pangs of conscience, either.

We urge you not to fret, though, because it seems to be a tradition that New Year's resolutions are to be broken, and not kept. However you've done on your resolutions, we wish each of our readers a happy and successful life in 1957.

Club-Pictures Deadline

All organization pictures are to be taken during the next two weeks. Presidents should call a special meeting for this purpose. Notify Jerry Taylor of the time and place of the meeting. Put the notice in his box in the faculty secretary's office in the Administration building. Inclusion of your organization in the Annual depends upon your prompt attention to this matter. If your organization has had its picture taken already, contact Jerry to make sure that it is satisfactory, or needs to be taken again.

Japanese Customs Are Different

by Kiyoko Yamada

It is very interesting that each country has its own customs and anything that is different from the customs is considered "odd."

There is no need for me to explain that people and this earth are all the same basically. The differences were made by environments and opportunities. The customs always follow the people. I probably would not be able to write how American customs are different from Japanese if I were not here to observe and live with the people of America.

Greeting—While Japanese bow their heads for greetings, Americans stand straight and shake hands. I rarely see college students shake hands unless it is a very formal occasion. Japanese bow their heads any time just as Americans say "Hi." They have different degrees to tilt their heads. Every different greeting has its degree. The men tilt their heads to 160 degrees while women tiltt heir heads to 40 degrees. They do not only bow once but three or four times.

The man opens doors but he goes in first. Even if a young gentleman opens the door for the lady, she refuses it and says, "After you." You see, the woman herself does not expect the man to open the door for her. When the man walks on the outside, it is not intentional but it is merely that he happens to be on that side. Very few Japanese men help to take women's coats off and put them. Usually it is opposite that women help to take coats off for men. If a man does this for a woman, people consider him a "Show off."

Courtship—As far as courtship is concerned, it is two different worlds. This is mainly different because of social and economic standards. The Japanese country is very poor. The man has to be a millionaire to have a car or to send flowers to a girl. When the Japanese man asks for a date, they usually meet at certain places, such as the corner of a famous street, or in front of a department store. This is because of difficulty in transportation. In Japan, as in America, the couple goes to the show, dances, eat dinners and share many sports together. It is not unusual for the man to hold the hand of the girl here, but in Japan the couple does not hold hands until they become serious. The Japanese have no custom as a kiss for "Good night."

Eating — The eating custom is very different. Japanese also have three meals a day. At breakfast they eat rice, soup, pickles and tea, while Americans have more starch, foods and milk. At lunch the Japanese eat rice, soup, vegetables, and eggs, while Americans eat soup, salads, and sandwiches. At dinner, the Japanese, too, have a big meal: rice, fish or meat, or vegetables and tea. No dessert is served after the dinner. At ten o'clock int he morning and three o'clock in the afternoon they have time to drink tea and eat cake. While Americans eat with forks, in Japan they eat with chopstick. It is a Japanese custom to say Itadakimasu(1) before every meal and Gochisosama(2) after every meal. It is a type of blessing.

(1) means I receive this food with appreciation.
(2) means hte winner was very delicious.

The director of the Texas Union was speaking recently to a mass meeting of people interested in working with Religious Emphasis Week. At one point he challenged them with the words, "You've got to get out on the campus and give 'em. . ." he paused for effect . . . Heaven!"

WORLD AFFAIRS
By Harold Moore

In the recent months the international scene has been filled with news of revolts, revolutions and hostilities. Many of these conflicts have been developing for the past months in the form of a diplomatic cold war.

Some of the most important trouble points in the world at the present time are Cyprus, Poland, Hungary, Morocco and the Suez region. A few of these have some characteristics in common, while others differ almost entirely. For example on Cyprus the Greek Cypriots are fighting to get out from under the rule of Great Britain, while the Israelis are trying to reclaim some Arabian land which they claim was originally theirs. Although the fracas points indicated previously are not all coinciding in characteristics, they do have a few issues in common.

In all of these conflicts the trouble may be traced to one main motive which is a desire for more freedom and less confinement. This is especially evident in the cases of Poland and Hungary, where they have been under the rulership of the Soviet Union and its dictatorial regimes.

The Suez Crisis is a little more complex in that there are more parties involved. Therefore, it is more difficult if not impossible, to trace its reasons to anyone definite determinant.

First of all, we must realize that since 1948 when Israel was recognized by the United Nations as an independent country, there has been a growing hatred between Israel and the Arab countries which surround its borders.

Secondly, to the Israelis this was a large step in reclaiming some of the land that they had previously occupied hundreds of years before. Once this foothold was gained by these Jewish people, Jews from all over the world began to migrate to Israel at the rate of about 10,000 people a month. Within a very short time Israel has become an over-populated nation in relation to their national production. Therefore, to avoid starvation the Israelites have been continually pressing against the borders of the surrounding Arab nations.

On the other hand, the Arab people have been driven from some of their land, thus crowding many of their nations. With conditions like this existing, Egyptian President Nasser headed a movement of Arab nations to counteract Israel's invasion. Nasser also asked the United States for aid to help protect the Arabs from further invasion. The U.S. refused Nasser's plea; therefore, he had no other alternative but to ask the Soviet Union for the aid which was immediately supplied.

At the present time the United Nations has managed to suspend the fighting in this zone. However, this area is very capable of being the powder keg to World War III due to the increased build-up in arms and supplies. No one knows what this next year will bring, but the Middle East will no doubt hold one of the most prominent positions in 1957 world affairs.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Ron Palmer's music poll in Hunt Hall brought out some interesting facts. He grouped the results by age in the following categories: 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22-24, and 25-32. Popular was first in each group, and rock and roll was very high with the 17 to 20-year olds. After this, it dropped sharply. Jazz hit its highest with the 21-year-olds. It ranked just below popular. Semi-classical ranked high in the 25-32 year group. Ron polled 109 of the residents of Hunt Hall.

Sometime near the end of January, Dr. Bishop, Mr. McMullen, and Mr. Wilson will appear in a concert. Be sure to watch for the date.

The choir has 70 members this term, but more basses and tenors are needed. Anyone wanting to sing in the choir contact Mr. Wilson right away.

The third Civic Music concert will be held January 20. It will feature the Singing Boys of Norway. They have appeared on television lately, and they should be a top attraction.

"Plain and Fancy" tryouts are still in progress. There are three types of people who are wanted. First, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Hiatt are looking for people to sing in the chorus. This is open to all students, not just those taking choir. Also needed are people who want speaking parts only. The third group of students needed includes those who can dance. These students do not necessarily have to be able to sing. Anyone who fits into one of these three categories should contact Mr. Wilson or Mr. Hiatt within the next few days.

Campus Gab

by "Sharpie"

Oooh—winter has really set in! The girls are sporting wool Jantzen sweaters and tight skirts. Some have come out with the ever-fashionable jumpers. Girls, the boys are stealing your thunder; they are also wearing sweaters, but they can't steal the curves.

Say, what were those strange creatures that came sidling into dinner at the dorm one Sunday evening? They couldn't be Burmuda shorts and knee socks, could they? . . . or should we ask the boys?

What is it: men or women walking the halls of Dorion at night? Women, of course, attired in the new, fashionable men's striped pajamas.

In looking over the campus, we are seeing several bright spots —perhaps a new fad: the guys are increasing the amount of red jackets this term.

Seems the girls are escaping the complex problem of keeping their "tootsies" warm by wearing fur-lined shoes.

Are the barbells being used for whittling down in Hunt? And we don't mean like wood. How about it, Duane?

Don't get so sloppy, Georgie boy; milk is expensive.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

Seattle Pacific's coach says they won't play EOC again because of the little incident that took place on the EOC court a few nights ago. The most unsportsman-like event was when the Seattle team left the floor. Coach Quinn had already stopped the fight and sent all the members of the EOC club that were in any way connected with it to the dressing room. Can't see why they didn't stay and finish the game.

Also, the Seattle coach said he had asked the referee to stop the fight. He may have, but that isn't what it looked like to us.

What will happen to the members of the EOC team involved in the fracus? Nothing should. Just how much is a man supposed to take before he blows?

Something very interesting to look at is Larry Howard's free-throw record, compiled following the SOC games. He has hit 50 out of 62 attempts. A very good record in any books. That is an average of 80 per cent, or figuring as a baseball batting average, .807, which is pretty good. If any of you baseball players have an average like that, you are sure to make the Major Leagues.

Eastern Oregon Center, Bill West, is the leading scorer for the Mounties thus far in basketball, with a cumulated total of 144 points in 10 games for a game average of 14.4. Larry Howard is second with 118, and a 11.8 average. Third is Earl Smith with 101 points and an average of 10.1. Next is Jerry Baxter with 80 points and an 8 points average. Then comes Dick Quinn with 66 in 10 games for 6.6. Then Dick O'Connell with 45 tallies and a 4.5 average. Then Jim Cahill with 13 points in 4 games for an average of 3.2. Jack Coates, Jim Persinger, and Leroy DeMastus all are averaging 1.7 per game, although Coates has scored 15 points in 9 games while Persinger and DeMastus have both scored 12 in 7.

In the last issue of Fall Term, we picked the team we thought would win the Rose Bowl game on New Years Day. Our choice was Iowa by one T.D. score: 14-7. Although Iowa did win, but by a different margin than we gave them, we feel the game would have been more interesting had the score been closer to what we figured.

* * *

So far this season the Mounties have compiled a not-very-impressive basketball record of four wins and six losses. The opposition has scored 705 points to the Mountaineers 608. The squad has won one and lost one in OCC competion. But, don't count them out until the blow has landed. EOC may not win the Conference Championship, but after the other teams have played the EO five, they will know they have been in a game. We didn't have the opportunity to watch the games at SOC, but the last Seattle Pacific game, although called with over five minutes remaining, proved the EOC lads have the winning spirit. Seattle won the first contest by 22 points, but the last one was different. They had the biggest team, but West and Baxter were hauling in a good share of the rebounds, enough for EOC to lead the game from before halftime on.

Snow Pageant Set For Jan.

Portland State will sponsor an intercollegiate winter carnival for all Oregon college and university students at Timberline Lodge on Mount Hood, January 26 and 27 (Friday night, all day Saturday and Sunday).

The carnival of winter activities, to which both skiers and non-skiers are invited, will include the Snow Queen competition (of which EOC's Patsy Walker is a candidate), tug-of-wars, free skiing, exhibition skiing, ski races, torch parade, ice skating, bonfire and song festival two big dances, contests of various kinds, tobogganing, fireworks, display, fashion show, free souveniers, and a floor show. Church services will be held Sunday morning at snow altars.

The total amount for essentials is $14. This does not include incidental purchases and refreshments which individuals must pay for themselves. The $14 includes two nights' lodging at the best motel in Rhododendron, transportation in private cars, and a "chit ticket" which admits a student to all activities and free use of all ski lifts at Timberline.

The Winter Carnival events will be given national press coverage through such magazines as Time and Life. T-V and news reels will be there, too.

Students who desire additional additional information about the carnival sshould contact Ron Foster, Dwayne Huddleston, Bob Good, or Pat Good.

EOC And SOC Split Twin Bill

The 1957 Oregon Collegiate Basketball season got into full swing the weekend of January 3 and 4 at Southern Oregon College in Ashland as the Mounties of EOC invaded for two contests. The first game was won by the Eastern Oregon cagers by the slim score of 71-71 and the second by SOC 80-66.

Friday night's game was a see-saw affair as one team would grab a small lead, only to have it tied or broken by the opponents. With 33 seconds left in the game and SOC leading 70-71, Earl Smith, EO forward, took a 30 foot jump shot that cut the hemp for the big two and the game.

Bill Hollingsworth, one of the leading scorers of the OCC last season was held to 14 points while Larry Howard counted 20 and Bill West added 19 for Eastern Oregon.

The second night Hollingsworth hit for 31 points and spearheaded the attack that evened the count at one conference win apiece for the two clubs by an 80-66 count. Smith and Howard collected 15 points apiece for EOC.

Thirteen legations and 64 embassies of foreign governments are maintained in the United States.

LINGUISTS—Eastern Oregon College foreign language students learn to speak like natives. EOC Students Get Laboratory Aid In Foreign Languages

—"How can we lead the free world if we do not understand it, and how better can we understand a people than by understanding their language and their way of life?"

L. Charles Pierce, assistant professor of languages at Eastern Oregon College, believes that foreign language study is the answer.

He has established foreign language laboratory periods for his students of German and Spanish. Their purpose is to develop the student's ability to speak and understand the language which he is studying to a much greater degree than can be attained in larger class situations.

Each student attends a half hour session in the laboratory, in addition to the four regular class meetings, with a "recording and a playback" of his individual drill in pronunciation, articulation, and understanding ability.

Pierce said, "The program will be very helpful in training young people to take their place in a world which is becoming ever smaller and one in which the United States finds itself playing a major role."

The EOC language professor expressed the belief that anyone who has had some background in Spanish or German should not let the opportunity to improve this language ability go by. Registration for the winter quarter is set for Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Students from La Grande enrolled in the program are Norma Loe, Donna Edgar, Dick Slabaugh, Howard Evans, Don Klinghammer, Walt Hutchison, and Barbara Mahoney. Others include Barrie Edwards, Union; Nils Christensen, Summerville; Molly Yoneyama, Nyssa; Betty McGirr, Long Creek; Carol Ann Wiglesworth and Tom Mercer, Echo; Lorraine Tarpenning, Milton-Freewater; Toni Clark, Pendleton; Jerry Hollingsworth and Shirley McPheeter, Hermiston; Glen Best, Hood River; Dalla Haverland, Athena; Glenn Hogg, Stanfield; Duane Stiff, Cora Jane Hill, and Dorothy Cress, of Baker; Priscilla Garcia, Agana, Guam; Leonard Swanson, Umatilla; Kiyoko Yamada, Kyoto, Japan; Jean Edmison, Bend; John Frost, Ontario; and Arleta Nord, Enterprise.

Charles Roach Memorial Fund Set Up At EOC

—A Charles Roach Memorial Loan Fund has been established at Eastern Oregon College according to an announcement by Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, director of student personnel.

The fund, a donation by Charles Roach of Dayville, is established to the memory of his son, the late Charles Roach, Eastern Oregon Class of 1958.

How To Shine For Prof

Editor's note: This articles on the art of apple-polishing is much reprinted and and was borrowed from the OSC Barometer. We feel it might provide indispensable hints to EOC students in these first weeks of school. The fact that they were originally written by a professor at Hunter college should dissolve any doubte as to the plausibility of these tips.

Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. If you don't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.

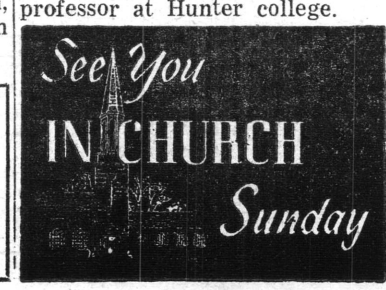
Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't start at it unbelieving and shake it.

Nod frequently and murmur, "How true . . . how true." To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.

Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.)

Laugh at his jokes. You can tell: if he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.

Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask for it.



If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.

Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in match class, match the books for size and color.

Ask any question you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he could not answer and in your brother's second reader, at that.

Call attention to his writings. This produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or an article, ask in class if he wrote it.

These suggestions, incidentally, originally were put down by a professor at Hunter college.

Professors Have Fun

by Janice Foye

As we look back on the Christmas holidays, each year seems the best yet. Christmas finds most at home with their family and friends. Students weer not the only ones who joyously welcomed the vacation; teachers were equally as happy and we find many of them spent the holidays in varied and enjoyable ways.

Mr. Baich spent part of his Christmas vacation in Everett, Washington, visiting a parole officer at Minard State. Mr. Baich says,, "I told him about my students and he told me about his convicts!" Asked if there were any similarities, Mr. Baich refused to comment on this one. From here he went to Seattle and back to Eugene where his wife teaches in the college there. Mr. Baich seems to have had an enjoyable vacation just relaxing, reading and visiting friends.

If you were in the Post Office before Christmas Eve, you may have seen Mr. Hiatt busy at work. His most unusual exprience occurred over the holidays when he took his two small daughters to all the toy stores in town to get an idea of what they wanted for Christmas. On returning home he asked them what they wanted Santa to bring and they promptly replied, "Shaving sets."

Were you in Grants Pass during the Holidays? You weren't seeing double if you happened to see two of Miss Neely. She tells us that she has a twin sister in Grants Pass who also teaches P.E. Miss Neely spent her vacation there visiting family and friends.

Big plans were made for the vacation by Mr. Pierce. He planned to visit Mexico via Los Angeles over the holidays, but his Hot Rod failed him in Ontario. Two of his four passengers continued the trip by bus. Despite the trouble Mr. Pierce had an enjoyable visit with his family and friends in Boise and also visited in Walla Walla. Incidentally, he shopped for a car to replace his Hot Rod.

Aberdeen, Washington was the destination of Miss Stein. She traveled with Dr. Morris to Aberdeen where they visited Dr. Morris' sister and family. From here they went to Tokeland, Washington to visit Dr. Morris' parents. On their return trip they spent the first day of the new year skiing on Mount Hood where they enjoyed the beautiful scenery and pleasant weather.

Vesper Sunday

Following through on the first planned activity for the Winter term, the College Interfaith Fellowship Vespers are set for next Sunday evening at Dorian Lounge at 6:00 p.m. Thirty-seven minutes of fine fellowship, inspirational film, and tasty refreshments are on the program. Everyone is invited.

Students From Many Areas Attend EOC

—Official enrollment figures at the close of the Eastern Oregon College winter term reveal that registered students represented six states and five foreign countries, according to an annoucement by Registrar Lyle Johnson.

The geographical area from which EOC's 688 students came—in addition to the state of Oregon — included Washington, Idaho, Kansas, Illinois, and New York. Foreign countries represented are Japan, Korea, Hawaii, Formosa, Guam, and Jordan.

Twenty-seven of Oregon's counties are included in the state total with Union county listing 275 out of the 88 students. The city of La Grande supplied 26, including special students, of the total enrollments. Cities ranking next according to number of EOC students weer Pendleton and Baker, each with 39. Twenty-one students came from Union, with Wallowa and Milton-Freewater each represented by 19.

The EOC enrollment by counties: Baker 55; Benton 1; Clackamas 4; Clatsop 1; Columbia 2; Coos 2; Deschutes 7; Gilliam 6; Grant 21; Harney 11; Hood River 6; Jefferson 9; Lake 2; Lane 3; Linn 6; Malheur 29; Marion 2; Morrow 19; Multnomah 8; Sherman 6; Umatilla 118; Union 275; Wallowa 49; Wasco 17; Washington 5; Wheeler 1; Yamhill 3; and all areas outside the state of Oregon, 20.

He that knows not, and knows not that he knows not. He is a freshman.

Ullman Will Nominate Boys To Naval, Air Force Schools

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressman Al Ullman today announced that he will be privileged to fill one vacancy this spring at the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He will also be entitled to name seven boys who will compete statewide for three appointments to the U.S. Air Force Academy at Denver.

In addition to the principal appointment at the Naval Academy, Rep. Ullman will also nominate five alternate candidates who would succeed to the first position if the principal appointee or other alternates failed to meet standards either academically or physically.

For the United States Military Academy at West Point, Ullman may make no principal appointment but will name two young men to third-alternate positions. While it is unlikely that the principal and the first two alternates would not be acceptable to the Academy, being nominated would permit the young man to take the entrance examination. Unfilled vacancies in the class are filled by choosing outstanding boys from the list of unsuccessful alternates.

Congressman Ullman said the nominations will be made on a merit basis, depending on the results of a Civil Service examination to be held in his district on Feb. 4. The examination will be based on qualities of character, leadership and scholastic attainment. All nominees will later be required to pass admission tests and physical examinations.

At Ullman's request, the Civil Service Commission has set preliminary examinations for Feb. 4 in the cities of Klamath Falls, Pendleton, The Dalles, Baker and Bend.

Any boy who is interested in competing for an Academy appointment should immediately write Congressman Al Ullman, House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C. With this letter he should forward a letter of recommendation from a school principal, superintendent or teacher. Letters of application must be in the office of the Congressman before Jan. 31 in order to give him time to forward authorizations to take the Civil Service examination.

Pre-nurses Meet With Robertson

The Pre-Nursing Club members were guests for dinner at the home of Mrs. Margaret Robertson, faculty advisor of the club, Jan. 8. This club meets once or twice a month for the purpose of giving professional and social fellowship to the girls entering this profession. Because these girls only attend this college for five terms, it is almost impossible for them to form a club which can become very active in such a short time. Upon leaving this campus they enter the Nursing School at the University of Oregon Medical School.

At the meeting on Dec. 17, Marilyn Masterson talked to the members about her new experiences. She also displayed a Memory Book of pictures which everyone enjoyed.

Those girls belonging to this organization are: Janice Ward, Lianna Phillips, Sonia Tubbs, Janice Foye, Dot Ann Anson, Mary Lou Pavelcik, Bonnie Powell and Molly Yoneyama, president, Barbara Carter, a pre-physiotherapist, is also a member of this organization.

EOC Librarian Attends Meeting

Miss Helen Bliss, acting librarian, attended a meeting of the Library Development Committee in Salem, Saturday, January 19. This committee consists of librarians, library board members, and lay persons interested in extending the services of libraries.

The principal business was with a bill which the Board of Trustees of the Oregon State Library plan to have introduced at the State Legislature.

This bill provides for funds from Oregon to match Federal funds which are expected to be available as the result of the Federal Library Services Act. The purpose of the Federal Library Services Act is to stimulate the development of library service in rural areas.

The funds will be available for a five year period only and will be used to demonstrate the value of library service in areas where such service can later be supported locally.

English Majors Have Meeting

Two English teachers from La Grande high, Miss Haner and Mrs. Molly Newton, were featured guests at the second meeting of EOC English majors held last Monday evening in Hoke Hall. Students, guests, and the English departmental staff met informally before the lighted fireplace to discuss the various questions and problems that arise in the teaching of English in the classroom.

The chairman of the meeting, Patsy Yoneyama, said, "Those who attended seemed to have enjoyed the evening and found it worthwhile. The student teachers, especially, showed a lot of interest and concern in the program." She said that Mrs. Eunice Thornburg was elected to be chairman for the third meeting

'Plain and Fancy' Four-Day Run: Feb. 28 - Mar. 2

Practice moved into the third week this Monday for the second "Sock'n Buskin production of the 1956-57 season, "Plain and Fancy." Presentation dates for this musical comedy are set for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 28, 29, and March 1 and 2.

According to the director, Mr. Richard Hiatt, all lines to songs as well as dialogue lines were to have been learned by last Tuesday. For a few of the eight main leads, there is much dialogue to be learned, while for the members of the chorus, it is mainly a problem of learning songs and entrance and exit cues.

Cast in the leads are: Boyd Devin as "Dan King," a playboy from, of all places New York City: Sandra Benson as "Ruth Winters," Dan's engaged to be engaged girl friend; Dick Cook, as "Peter Reber," and Janice Robertson, as "Katie Yoder," who supply much of the love interest of the musical; Dave Skeen as "Ezra Reber," the big, dumb, good-farmer type; Joan Eldridge as "Hilda Miller," 19 years old, and still unmarried, much to the discontent of her father; Barbara Carter as "Emma Miller," one of the best liked persons of the Amish community, who helps keep things moving throughout the production; and Mike Fergusen as "Papa Jacob Yoder," Katie's father, and one of the pillars of the Amish town.

The setting for the production is the Amish village of Bird-in-Hand, Pennsylvania. As the scene opens, Devin and Miss Benson are lost, looking for the the town of Bird-in-Hand where Dan is traveling to sell some property to Papa Yoder. From there till the final curtain, through 16 scenes, the cast will delight the audience with portrayal of Amish customs, clothing and speech.

The musical features such songs as "It Wonders Me," "Young and Foolish," "Plenty of Pennsylvania," "City Mouse, Country Mouse," "This Is all Very New to Me," and "Plain We Live."

Acting and general production is under the direction of Mr. Hiatt, and his assistant director, Roberta Miller. In charge of the chorus, is Mr. Neil Wilson. Dr. Lynn Bishop is handling the orchestra for the production.

Tickets go on sale Wednesday, February 20th, at Hoke Hall. Students will be admitted on their student body card to the Wednesday and Thursday performances, and admission for others will be one dollar.

The 24-year-old soldier entered the Army in July, 1956.

He is a 1954 graduate of Eastern Oregon College and attended Willamette University. Bennett is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Tickets for the luncheon cost 21c each and will be on sale in the administration building January 31 and February 1.

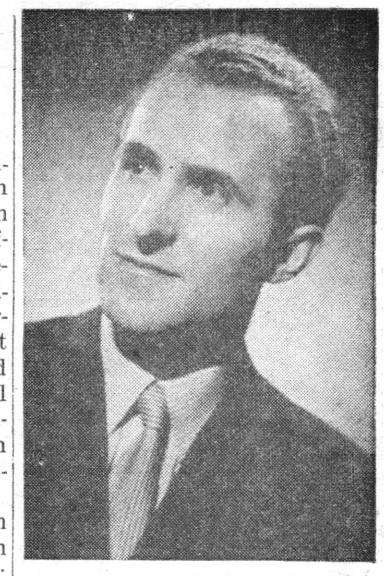
Committee for the luncheon are: Menu: Carol Patrick, Karen McGillivray, and Ray Wolford; set-up: Billie Jo Bond, Patsy Evans, and Rita Glenn; Posters: Patsy Yoneyama and Millie Smith.

"Middle R" To See Print

"The Middle R" will be published again this year," according to Tom Mercer, president of Iota Pi Omicron. He said this decision was made at the supper meeting of the journalistic organization January 11th in Hoke Hall.

"The Middle R," EOC's own literary magazine, was a compilation of the creative writing class, student and faculty, literary efforts which was published and sold on campus for a number of years. Last year IPO decided to take over the project on a trial basis. The name of the magazine was changed to "Oregon Collegiate Review," and students from all Oregon colleges and universities were invited to send original manuscript in to be considered for publication. The final magazines were printed in book-size and sold on campus spring term last year.

At the recent IPO meeting, the group was faced with the question of whether to publish a magazine this year or not. The decision reached was that the club would change the name of the new magazine to the older, more familiar—to EOC'ers "Middle R" and plan to print it again this spring.



Committees for this meeting included Tom Mercer, Valdine Moore, Patsy Yoneyama, and Irene Niemcjak.

Merritt Heads Delegation

Marvin Merritt of Wendell Idaho, was recently elected chairman of the EOC delegation to the Model United Nations scheduled to be held April 10-13 in Stanford. A sophomore in business administration, Mr. Merritt enrolled here this term. For an extracurricular activity he joined the International Relations Club on campus in which he has reportedly been "very active and a good, efficient organizer." He plans to study at Northwest Law school in Portland next year.

Mr. Merritt said that ten students from the student body will be selected by a faculty committee "as soon as possible" to represent the Lebanon delegation from EOC. He said that all students interested in going to the Model United Nations attended an IRC meeting Thursday noon, January 24, to indicate their interest. The names of the delegation will be revealed the first part of next week. Dr. and Mrs. Gaiser will accompany the group to Stanford.

"Ten resolutions must be sent in by February 15," said Merritt. He added that being chairman of the Delegation is a "big responsibility . . . and I want to really try to make the delegation a success."

Hanns Pohl, enrolled this term at EOC, plans to teach commercial arts when he returns to his native Germany.

Pohl Is Latest EOC Foreign Student

Have you met Hanns Pohl yet? Hanns comes to Eastern Oregon College from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City where he was majoring in Political Science. He has been in this country about a year now. Mr. Pohl comes from Germany where he served in the German army from May 1943 to July 1944. From July 1944 to November 1949 he was a prisoner of war in Russia. From March 1950 to April 1953 he served as a cashier for a German company. He then attended the University of Frankfort on the Main from May 1953 to July 1955.

Hanns says he really likes Eastern Oregon. The surrounding countryside is somewhat like his homeland, he says, and he feels quite at home here.

When asked to compare American and German colleges, he said the work seemed about the same to him but it was hard to say because he is learning a comparatively new language. He did emphasize the fact that American schools are so much more free than they are in Germany.

The University of Frankfort, Hanns says, has enrolled about seven thousand students with about one thousand of them being girls. German students dress about like we do in American colleges with the exception that the men usually wear jackets to classes. German professors wear a type of robe resembling the graduation robe that we know. These robes are adorned with decorative pieces for special occasions.

Hanns came to Eastern Oregon in order that he might get acquainted with another part of America before returning to Germany this spring. When asked if he planned to return to America, he said that was a decision he could not make quickly. He said, "I have many friends in Germany and also many friends in America. It will be hard to decide where I want to go most of all." Speaking from the financial point of view, Hanns believes he can finish school in Frankfort much cheaper than in America.

Vesper Hour

The College Inter-Faith Vesper Service was held Sunday, January 13, in Dorian Hall lounge at 6:30.

Evelyn Rigger conducted the opening services. An interesting educational film, depicting the three major religious groups of the modern, was shown. The service closed with prayer, and surprise treats were given to those attending.

WE'RE LONESOME!

Is there no one on campus who cares enough about our journalistic efforts to write us their opinions, comments, or criticisms concerning the Beacon? With the appearance of each issue, we hear guffaws of laughter, snorts of anger, pshaws of disgust, tsk-tsks of complacency . . . or apathy . . . and murmers of the interested. We hear all and get nothing. Please write us your reaction because we'd like to know, and continue to be informed, of our readers' reactions.

People grumble about the poor collegiate quality of the Beacon as compared to other college papers. The staff members realize they can't please everybody but they are doing their best. It might be mentioned here that some of the most scornful grumblers who think the Beacon is NIL are upperclassmen. If these individuals have the know-how and the experience, why don't they help us out? Granted, the Beacon can stand a lot of improvement, but we don't have enough qualified and experienced hands to turn out such a first-calibre paper. We humbly beseech these students to help us out by joining the staff, or at least by writing us advice or suggestions on improving the paper.

Each year the staff continues to be a new assemblage of mostly freshmen, many of whom have had no experience working on any school publication prior to coming to college; the older staff members quit as they advance up the class scale because working on publications consumes a great deal of needed study hours. With these new freshmen we experiment and work to publish each issue.

We again urge you to send in those letters to the editor to voice any complaints, criticisms, comments, or what-have-you. We're lonesome and we'd like to hear from you!

LET'S GIVE OUR DIMES!

January, officially proclaimed the "March of Dimes Month" in the state of Oregon, is nearly over. And still, poliomyelitis has not been ultimately conquered, as revealed by the thousands of new cases added to the stricken in the 1956 outbreaks.

The Salk vaccine has helped achieve a big triumph over polio, but the fact remains that cases still remain by scores. The needs of the handicapped can be relieved immensely by your contributions to this humanitarian organization.

The care, treatment, and rehabilitation of polio victims can be accomplished only through funds. Medical specialists must be trained, and research must be conducted to produce still better weapons against polio—and these can be accomplished only through your help. Give today—and give generously!

FTA News

Wednesday evening, January 9 the FTA chapter met in the Ackerman auditorium at 7:00. Robert Herrod, FTA president opened the meeting and introduced the guest speaker, Dr. John Millar of Portland, who speaks on world problems, public relations, etc., to FTA groups and other educational groups. He spoke on "America, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" or as Dr. Millar said "Time and Our Tasks."

Dr. Millar said we fought for Liberty in the Revolutionary War, Unity in the Civil War, and Democracy in the two World Wars. He said in liberty we should not have the jungle idea of living as I please, or the idea live and let live, but for real liberty we should live and help live. We should help others to live before we can truly live ourselves. The United States is an organism and we know when one part of an organism is affected the whole is affected and that is the way our country is. According to Miller, to have unity we must remember as we solve our personal problems we help solve the country's problems. Democracy means liberty and justice for all and it is up to us to see that this is done.

Dr. Millar's large audience was very enthusiastic and appreciated the way he interspersed his talk with his Irish wit.

During the business meeting, it was announced there were 190 members of FTA on the EOC campus.

Robert Bagley spoke on the meeting he attended in Portland, the Representative Council of the OEA and said we would hear more of their actions in the papers.

Robert Herrod said he had received five ballots on which we were to vote for the name change. A motion was made that a unanimous ballot be cast to change the name to Student Oregon Educational Association, this pertains to college chapters only.

Virginia Van Blockland is this month's radio chairman.

Another Aspect of Arab Affairs

By Ibrahim Ayyoub

We are all aware of the conflict which boils in the Middle East. Many have wondered about the reasons behind the Arab actions in the present crisis. Let us consider a few.

First, the Arabs have suffered long under the strong hand of outside rule. From the sixteenth century until the time of World War I they were dominated by the Turks. Britain promised them self rule if they helped overthrow the Turkish domination. However, when the fighting was done, they found themselves thrown under the power of British and French colonialism. Hopes of self rule became mere wishful thinking.

Ibrahim Ayyoub, senior in secondary education, has been studying at EOC two years. He was formerly a math instructor in Transjordan.

Second, coals were heaped upon the fire by the British release of the Balfour declaration in 1917. This declared that part of the choicest and most fertile section of Arab land be given to the Jews as a national homeland. Arab protests and appeals caused such nations as the United States to investigate this plan. Reports came back that such a venture would be a grave injustice to the Arabs. However, due to Allied ties, these reports had little effect and the United States sanctioned the British plan.

In 1947 the United Nations fulfilled the Jewish dream by creating Israel. In so doing, nearly a million Arab natives were displaced.

These many blows were bearable to the Arabs if they could have been assured of any end to the trouble. However, the problems kept increasing.

Israel, the number one problem ,constantly kept the Arabs aware of her traditional and oft declared aims of spreading her rule over the remainder of Palestine and the whole of Jordan. Also, France and Britain continually objected to any release of their colonial holds upon the Arab nations.

The latest incident, namely the joint aggression on Egypt, deepened the Arab mistrust of the entire situation. By conspiring with Britain and France, Israel furnished the spark which set the Middle East on fire. This conspiracy with colonial powers in order to expand at Arab expense and weaken Arab resistance, has rendered much more difficult the acceptance of Israel in the Arab mind. It has also severely damaged any durable settlement of the Palestine problem. The actions of Britain and France have also caused heavy damage. They constantly express concern over the present conditions. Do they not know that their aggressive policies concerning the Middle East have damaged the hopes and confidence of all peoples of the under-developed world? They placed the United Nations itself in jeopardy by undermining the principles upon which it is founded.

If the West thinks the question of the Middle East is vitally important should they not strive to learn more about these countries? How well informed is the West on the Middle East? How much does the average citizen know about economic, political, or historical conditions of these countries? How many colleges offer courses on these countries as they do for other sections of the world? How many books and sources of information are available concering the Arabic-speaking people? Professor Philip Hitty in his book "History of the Arabs" speaks truly when he says, "Of all the lands comparable to Arabia in size and of all the peoples approaching the Arabs in historical interest and importance, no country has received so litle consideration and study in modern times as have Arabia and the Arabs."

The Arabs are asking Western nations these questions. One, did the Arabs choose to fly to the arms of the Soviet Union or were they driven? Two, was the United Nations solving a problem or creating one by giving Palestine to a minority and driving out the majority? Three, is there any hope for peace as long as powerful nations continue to prey on the weak?

Realistic answers to the above questions are needed before the majority of Arabs can be satisfied that the Middle East situation is being handled in a fair and just manner.

There has been a revision of the Student Handbook. The Student Council voted to have the Pre-professional students sponsor the Whiskerino. Many people are saying "Good Luck" to these new organizers in their first attempt to make this Whiskerino a huge success.

Patsy Walker, EOC's contestant in the Winter Carnival Race for Queen, was in Portland Friday night to be on TV. From the picture in the paper I'd say EOC has no worries as to who will be Queen—Patsy, of course.

A new kind of hair-do has been seen on second of Dorion. Not one, not two, not even three, but four pony tails, A.N.?

It has been said that some of the freshman girls need to practice up on their snowball throwing. You kind of took a beating, didn't you, girls???

Everyone is really going wild over the classy beards on campus. I heard one freshman girl say that she wouldn't mind growing a beard if it would look like George Fenton's. Also Diane Gilstrap is planning to grow a handlebar mustache just for the occasion.

How about the new mail system, certain girls and fellas? It saves stamps, righto?

Cell number 7 in the Dorion cellar has finally been scrubbed and waxed. Nice going 771 alias "JT."

How about that Bikini, Boopsy? Sorry the weather isn't cooperating.

There has been some controversy over Bermudas and knee socks. Who's complaining???

NO STOPPING THIS BASKET—Truman Williams (74) of OTI jumped too late to stop this two points by Dick O'Connell of EOC in some action Friday night. Other players are Earle Smith (35) of EOC and Gary Dorn (71), far left and (76) Ted Fischer.

Favored Owls Upset By EO

A Basketball game that held the spectators on the edge of their seats was played Friday, January 11, between the Mountaineers of EOC and the Owls of OTI on the maples of La Grande. Although EO held a 20 point lead with 10 minutes left, they were naver safe from the hard driving OTI team. With less than a minute left, the visitors had pulled within five points of the home team, 75-70. But ere the Mountaineers gained control of the ball, managed to chalk up two more points, and emerge victoriously, 77-70.

A jump shot by Jerry Baxter was the first basket of the game of the game, and with outstanding ball handling and a 46.9 percentage from the floor in the first half, compared to OTI's 24.4, the Mounties were on their way with a lead never to be surpassed.

Larry Howard was high man with 22 points, which gave him four games where he has reached the 20 point mark in this season. Dick Quinn followed with 21, the majority of which came on jump shots from around the key.

Jerry Baxter combined with Earl Smith to dominate the boards through most of the contest. They accounted for 35 rebounds for the Blue and Gold cause.

OCE Dumps EOC Twice

Eastern Oregon College, playing the roll of visitors to Oregon College of Education at Monmouth, Friday, 18 January, took a 71-56 beating from the OCE boys, their second loss in conference play. The loss knocked them out of the League leadership into a tie with OTI for the honors.

The first half proved to be nip-and-tuck all the way with the lead changing hands four times. Neither club could manage to go ahead more than 4 points at any time. The half ended with OCE leading, 38-35.

OCE came back strong in the last half. After breaking a 40-40 tie, they tore the EOC man-to-man deefnse apart and scored 8 points while the La Granders could chalk but two.

Eastern Oregon, unable to provide the needed scoring punch, dropper still farther back, 63-49 with 9:51 left in the contest.

EOC changed to a zone defense, but the Monmouth five, taking no chances, went into a semi-stall and took only layins and short jump shots.

Earl Smith collected 17 points for EOC to tie for high point man with Cece Miller of OCE.

ONE POINT LOSS

Larry Howard's two free throws with seven seconds left gave EOC their first lead over Oregon College at Monmouth the 19th of January 49-48, but the lead stood only four seconds, as OCE guard Daryl Girod hit a 35 foot set shot to give OCE the contest, 50-49.

The upset, the second in as many nights, dropped EOC from a tie for the league leadership into third place with three wins against three losses.

Bill West coped scoring honors for the night with 19 points, 5 field goals and 9 free tosses. His closest competitors were Woolsey of OCE and Jerry Baxter of OCE with 11 apiece.

The home team had led the entire contest, once by eight points, but in the closing minutes EO began to hit. They pulled within one point and Larry Howard got the free call to the line. He calmly dropped both shots through to give his teammates a one point advantage with but seevn seconds left. But OCE came back in a flash with Girod hitting from way out to ice the contest, 50-49.

Hungary and Freedom

inspired Hungarian revolt for freedom proved to the world there is still a desire for liberty and independence behind the Iron Curtain. But heartbreaking to freedom-loving nations of the world was their inability to give Hungarian freedom fighters anything but moral encouragement, lest other action precipitate a general war between the East and the West.

Associated Collegiate Press sought to gain collegiate opinion on this isue by asking the following question of a representative national cross-section of college students:

Do you feel there is any way, short of war, in which the United Nations can help Hungary regain its freedom?

The results:

	Men	Women	Ttl.
Yes, is a way	51%	44%	48%
No, is no way	30%	24%	27%
Undecide	19%	32%	25%

Roughly half of the students feel there are ways to aid Hungary in its atempt to regain freedom. The most common feeling seems to be that the free world, and especially the United Nations, should exert pressure of various sorts upon the Soviet Union, such as economic boycotts. Others feel diplomatic maneuvers are the answer while some believe another summit conference is necessary. And a few students feel we should go as far as to threaten Russia with war. Here are a few typical responses:

"We should insist that communist satellites be allowed political independence by freedom of choice at the ballot boxes," is the opinion of a sophomore at the Rochester Institute of Technology (Rochester, N.Y.). A sophomore coed at the University of Nebraska feels this way:: "I think Russia is to afraid to start a war and we could do almost anything to free Hungary."

A freshman coed at Jacksonville University (Jacksonville, Florida) believes the answer is "moral support and encouragement by the free nations," while a junior attending the Bernard Baruch Schol of Business, City College of New York, gives this observation: "We should place embargos on Russian trade and send UN observers into Hungary." And a junior attending the Newark College of Engineering (Newark, N. J.) puts it this way: "Exert more propaganda pressure; Russia is highly sensitive to world opinion."

Students who believe that there is no way short of war to help Hungary regain its freedom either feel that Russia is too strong to bully or that the UN is ineffective. A sophomore attending Georgetown University (Washington, D.C.) exemplifies this latter position as he says: "The UN is not able to enforce any deciison it may make because of its internal organization." Here are several comments typical of other points of view:

"Unless Russia would relent, there seems to be no alternative other than war — much as we would hate to witness it," is the feeling of a sophomore coed at Villanova University (Villanova, Pa.). An Ohio University (Athans) senior has this to say: "As one of the two most powerful nations in the world today the USSR will not allow outsiders to change its basic policy."

"You just can't talk with Russia and get anything done," is the opinion of a Yakima Valley Junior College (Yakima, Wash.) freshman, and a freshman coed at Moorhead State Teachers College (Moorhead, Minn.) states bluntly: "Russia has already stated that there will be an all-out war if anyone interferes."

Students finding themselves undecided on this issue generally have the same reason, which is typlified by the response of a sophomore coed at Christian College (Columbus, Mo.): "I just don't know enough about the situation to make a valid decision."

Mildred Yoshimura, otherwise called "Kim," is from Hawaii. She is a freshman enrolled in elementary education.

"50" Magical With Kim

If you had your choice between attending EOC and the University of Hawaii, what would be your decision? This was the problem that faced Kim Yoshimura after she graduated from high school this last year in Hawaii.

Kim decided she would work for one term and then come to the mainland to college. Some of the old timers around campus will probably remember her sister, Betty, who influenced Kim greatly in her decision.

Miss Yoshimura says she is very glad she came to Eastern Oregon. "I have found that the professors and students are very friendly." When asked what she thought of the college bop talk, she readily replied that it didn't surprise her because in Hawaii, it is used all the time.

Kim compared our college with the University of Hawaii by saying that we emphasize sports more here.

What is one of the big desires of a Hawaiian girl who comes to America for the first time? She would like to see Hawaii become the 50th state of the Union. Why "50"? Because it seems to be a magical number with Kim.

Faculty Presents Annual Assembly

The faculty talent show presented on Wednesay, January 16, brought forth a riot of laughs from EOC students.

"Elvis" Dorn ceded the first round of emceeing to the traditional old standby, Mr. Hiatt. He introduced Mr. Neil Wilson who sang an auria from the muiscal, "Don Juan," accompanied by Mr. McMullen at the piano. Mr. Wilson also gave an interesting background of the song.

Not to be outdone, Mr. Dorn and his guitar returned to capture the emcee spot. Just as he was preparing to announce the next number, Mr. Hiatt stepped in and took the honor.

A wide search revealed some new talent that had just been discovered. Dr. Nightingale and Dr. Lyn Bishop played a piano-organ duet.

No show is complete without a commercial, and the audience was aptly entertained by Mr. Evans who showed a marvelous collection of old guns.

The next performers were a quartet group, Mr. and Mrs. Kimbrell and Mr. and Mrs. Merrill, who sang "Careless Love." Evelyn's "sand paper hands" provided the novelty sound effects.

The finale of the show was "Blue Blue Moon" sung in a six-way version by Mr. Wilson. They included impersonations of the following: a senior high student singing at commencement, the song stylist, cowboy singer, opera singer, the simple country boy, and the favorite popular version.

Mounties At LG For Weekend

Coach Bob Quinn's EOC Mountaineers are at home this weekend for a pair of games against the Portland State Vikings. Game time for the Friday and Saturday matches is 8:15 p.m.

With a 3-3 record in the Oregon Collegiate Conference, the Mounties are presently resting right in the middle of the loop. At the same time, Portland tSate, expected to be one of the powers in the OCC this year, got off to a poor start, and is now tied with Oregon College for the cellar with a 2-3 record. Up until last weekend when they dropped a pair to Oregon College of Education at Monmouth, the EOC quint was in the top spot in the league.

Last year, the PSC Vikings led the league, and defeated the locals 3 out of 4 times. Since then, all but two of the 1955-56 Mountie squad graduated while most of the Viking team returned. However, the Mounties have done better than expected while the Vikings have failed to live up to preseason expectations.

Season leaders in scoring for the Mountaineers so far, are Bill West with 193 points, Larry Howard with 174, and Earle Smith with 166. Free throw leader is Howard with 60 in 72 attempts. These figures include last weekend's games with Oregon College of Education.

Quinn is expected to start his usual line-up, including West, Smith, Jerry Baxter, Howard and Dick Quinn.

On Friday night, the Eastern Oregon Frosh will play Helix High School in a preliminary beginning at 6:15 p.m.

On the first two days of February, the Mountaineers again are at home to play host to the Southern Oregon College Raiders. SOC is now sporting a record of 4 and 3 and is in second place in the league.

Speaking Frankly

by Don Frank

Basketball is sure an unpredictable sport! Take for instance Eastern Oregon's two games with Oregon Tech a couple of weeks ago. EOC was supposed to have lost both contests by not less than 10 points, any way, that's what most of the sports writers figured. Considering the win-loss record of both teams, we can see why they figured that way. EOC hadn't even split even in the two columns up to that point, while OTI was rolling along with something like a 10-1 record. But, off the gloomy bench came Dick Quinn to score 21 points, and that wasn't good enough for first place scoring honors. He settled for second, but only to Larry Howard, who that night hit for 22. Howard and Quinn combined to spearhead an attack that upset the favorite OTI boys, 77-70.

Then, to make the sports writers look even worse, they dumped the OTI five again the next night by two points, 73-71. During the course of that game, Earl Smith pumped through 27 points to give him the honor of scoring the most points in any single game thus far this season.

Last week-end, the La Granders went to Monmouth to match wits with Oregon College of Education, but this time EOC was picked to come out on the long end of the score. The Mountaineers dropped both games, one by a score of 71-56, the other by one point, 50-49.

Have we proven our point that basketball is an unpredictable sport?

As for this week-end's game with Portland State, EOC will probably be slightly favored. Eastern Oregon now has a 3-3 record compared to PSC's 2-3 in conference play, but we have come to the conclusion the win-loss record doesn't mean too much. Pick a winner? Not us!!!

Sigma Alpha Chi Holds Initiation Grande Ronde

Dorian Lounge was the scene for the winter initiation of Sigma Alpha Chi, Women's Scholastic Honorary of EOC. The valentine motif was used to decorate the room with lighted red tapers making an additional interesting touch for this snowy Febuary 2, Sunday afternoon. The obligation was given to the three initiates, Miss Virginia Van Blokland, Mrs. Alta Gregory and Mrs. Frankie Fedor by President Jean Adamson, Vice President Carol Kopp and Secretary-treasurer, Miss Josie Ward. The three new members were then presented with white carnation corsages.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served from a flace covered table; it also having the valentine as its theme. President Jean Adamson, presided at the business meeting. During the business meeting a change on the constitution was voted on.

M.U.N. Delegation Chosen For Meet

Nine candidates have been chosen to attend the Seventh Model United Nations meeting to be held at Stanford in April. Candidates are Richard Arends, Robert Bagley, Vern Bean, Robert Herbig, Tom Mercer, Roberta Miller, Harold Moore, Mary Joan Russell, and Patsy Yoneyama. Marvin Merritt is an alternate candidate. Dr. and Mrs. Gaiser will act as advisers on the trip.

At a noon meeting Thursday, resolutions were presented to the delegation by individual members. Several resolutions will be submitted to executive committee for consideration. Only a small portion of the resolutions submitted by participating schools will pass.

Petitions Circulating For ASB Election

ASB president Bart Clements said that six representatives-at-large to the student council will be elected Feb. 15. He said that petitions for the condidates are being circulated "much faster" than he thought they would be. Any number of persons can run for the positions; the only requirement is that at least 35 people sign each petition.

Clements said, "I want everybody to vote . . . All the six representatives have been terrific so far . . . they've been interested in, and have been more than willing to serve on committees to see how the student body feels about certain things.

He urged that "as many students run for representatives-at-large as possible . . . the more the merrier."

AWS Features Dr. Gunther

Dr. Erma Gunther, a representative of AAUW, will speak at an assembly for women students Feb. 13 at 11 o'clock. Her topic will be "one which girls should be concerned about," said Grace Furuyama, president of AWS.

She urged every girl to attend the assembly. She said that a short business meeting will be held briefly to discuss the AWS convention, Religious Emphasis Week, and the coming style show.

Third Deadline Met By Staff

The Mountaineer staff has completed the third deadline as of February 4. The final deadline will be March 15 at which time the annual will go to press. Gail Swart, editor, says that staff cooperation has been marvelous; all deadlines have been met and the annual should be out about May 25.

A new and valuable member has joined the staff. He is Arnie Taylor, from Burns, Ore., who is helping out with the photography.

Success Of RE Week Dependent On Students

Varying reactions greet the subject of religion on the campus today, especially on the campuses of state colleges and universities. Yet many colleges, private and state, plan some type of extensive program devoted to this subject once a year. Commonly the name "Religious Emphasis" week has been attachced to these programs. On our campus Interfaith has annually scheduled its own Religion in Life Conference during National Brotherhood Week. This year's conference is set for February 19, 20, and 21 .

The broad purpose of this special week has been, and still is, to promote better understanding and more tolerance among students toward other denominations and faiths. And in keeping with this goal, Interfaith annually invites men and women in theological fields, of different beliefs, to express their religious views and to answer student questions during assemblies and class interview. The program of lecture and discussions will be aimed toward a peronal evaluation of religion and should be on a level with the student questions.

But the success of Religion in Life Conference is not assured unless the whole college participates in the activities which have been planned. Capable speakers and detailed planning do not alone make a success of these ventures. Students, faculty and community attendance is invited and encouraged. But since this is a student-planned activity for student participation, the success or failure of the Conference will be determined necessarily from the amount of student reaction.

A full schedule of assemblies, discussions, classroom talks, coffee hours, talks before civic organization, and personal conferences have been set up by the Interfaith council. Unless students attend these meetings, and show their interest in the speakers, the conference may soon become just another "emphasis on religion this week" week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Lonesome Editor:

I can't criticize your journalistic effort because I'm not an expert. But I know a lot of efforts has to be made for each issue. Not effort alone. You have to work for it and to spend many hours of your own spare time for a work that is done for all, for our college community. As the newest member of this community, let me say thanks, and that I like all active people who are doing anything for a community, in a club, or in a fraternity, in a church, or in a city. Good luck to all.

Snively Speaking

By Vic Snively

Tuesday night the Language Club had its second formal meeting. The first portion consisted of the social hour which was in the main eating the new and exotic Mexican dishes prepared by Mr. Pierce, the club advisor, and several of the club members. It is an unwritten law that advisors remain as passive as possible in the functions of organizations, but I'm sure that everyone realizes that without the background, willingness and comsumate culinery skill shown by Mr. Pierce our dinner would have left something to be desired.

Our guest speaker for the social hour was George Hyland, who came to the U. S. from Bolivia in 1953. George proved to be a willing and very entertaining speaker. At the risk of causing him home trouble, I might add that the bevy of young members that clustered around him might have added something to his willingness.

We had another guest of honor, Herr Hanns Georg Pohl, from Germany. Since the emphasis for the evening was on Spanish, Herr Pohl wasn't required to speak, but for the next meeting I'm sure he can be counted on to add a genuine touch of realism.

The business meeting saw the election of a new First Vice President, Jane Coffman. The charter Vice President, Howard Evans, had to give up his position when a class conflict forced him to abandon his language study. I'm sure that Jane will carry on in the excellent pattern set by Howard.

The subject of initiation came up, and it was decided that on a designated date each member of the club would be required to wear one article of Spanish or German clothing. The date will be posted so everyone will have time to prepare. Membership and initiation commitees will be chosen and their names also posted. At such time it would be appreciated if they will get in touch with Jane Coffman for more definite asignments.

We closed our meeting with a financial report that showed our books to be slightly in the red, but there are dues still to be collected, so actually we are quite stable. I want to thank everyone that helped with the meeting. If enthusiasm continues as it is now we may well be one of the few actually active organizations on the campus.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Dr. Bishop is busy making arrangements for the Eastern Oregon Music Contest to be held March 23 and April 20. He will soon be contacting students to help with the running of this contest.

The girls in the choir have formed a Girls' Glee Club. This group meets at the same time as the Male Glee Club. Mr. Wilson and Gail Swart direct the two groups. Members of the girls' group are Betty Guyer, Nadine Elam, Sylvia Thompson, Mary Smith, Pat Reeves, Barbara Carter, Liz Baumeister, Marlene Gaylen, Jessical Dunn, Shirlee McKinnis, Dot Ann Anson, Joan Akers, Jan Hindman, Susan Latta, Carol McMillan, Patsy Walker, Jo Belshaw, Karen McGillivray, and Sheri Warren, altos. The sopranos are Diana Gilstrap, Marge Kartevold, Annette Mason, Atrice Hilliar, Pat O'Malley, Ludetta Wayne, Judy Lutz, Elaine McNaught, Mar-Joan Eldridge, Joyce Kroenlein, ion Wood, Jackie Leishman, Carroll Ferguson, Bonnie Fox, Sandra Benson, Linda Kane, Nance McCrae, Mary Lou Pavelcik, Donna Dooly, Mary Jo Russell, Jan Robertson, Lynette Pershall, Virginia Van Blokland, Mikie Bolen, and Roberta Davis. Stella Hawk is the accompanist.

The next Civic Music presentation will be February 18. This will feature a duo-pianist team, Nelson and Neal. This is a husband-wife team, and the last of the Civic Music series for this year. Duo-pianist programs have always been very well liked by EOC students. Many students will remember the Roman Sisters who Frank's program last Tuesday played here last year.

The girls' trio sang on Don night. They sang "Sincerely," which they dedicated to Don, and "Winter Wonderland."

Dr. Bishop played a flue solo, "Nocturne," at the Interfaith Groundhog luncheon last Monday noon.

Everyone who attended the faculty recital last week enjoyed it thoroughly. The people who missed it certainly missed a good program.

Don't forget the orchestra concert on February 17. It will feature Mr. Wilson as soloist with the group. Another feature of it will be the orchestra and EOC choir presenting songs from the musical, "Naughty Marietta." Details about the concert can be found elsewhere in the paper.

Thru The Kaleidoscope

A View Of German Affairs

Editor's note: Mr. Pohl, new EOC student from Germany, was a former prisoner of war in Russia. He has since attended the University of Frankfort on the Main and last year, the University of Utah at Salt Lake City.

BY HANNS POHL

Germany of today is a small, divided country not quite so large as Montana, but populated by more than 68 millions of people. The bigger part of this divided country is West-Germany which has now almost the same size as Oregon with the difference that there are 50 millions of people more in West-Germany than there are in Oregon. The dismemberment of Germany is not only a political one. It is a separation into two states, an economical and mental separation, and even a separation of the hearts.

The separation is stated by the two different governments in East-Germany was erected as so many others in the Soviet satellite states by the power of the Red Army who—as the last example in Hungaria has shown again two different government in East and West. But there is a big dissimilarity in both. The goevrnment of East-Germany was erected as so —not only neglects every free will of the people, but beats it down by their powerful tanks.

The Federal Government of West-Germany was founded in 1949 by a free election of the entire people of West-Germany. Free election, in my opinion, has to be the first step for a creation of a government. It has to be also the first step for the reunification of East and West-Germany.

The reunification of Germany is the most important goal of the federal government, but this is also a goal of the communist government in East-Germany. "Well," you might say, "if it is so as you mentioned ,why do you make so much noise about reunification of Germany? If you want it in West-Germany and the people of East-Germany want it too, then, why don't you sit down together at a table and discuss it?" This is a good advice, but it makes our problem too easy. The reunification of Germany is a real and hard problem to solve. This problem is a follows: The people in East and West-Germany speak the same language, but they don't understand each other anymore because their words have a different meaning in east and west.

As a prisoner of war in Russia, we got political instructions. This was, in real sense, communistic indoctrination, and, in their sense, a part of the well-known "denazification" which was so intensive that nobody could stay away. The political instructors declared the reunification of Germany has to be the superior aim of every German. O.K. What does it mean? It means expansion of communist doctrines and communist government about the whole German nation. It means abolishment of property and of personal ownership, oppression of a free will, and abolishment of freedom of all. It means nothing else than slavery of a whole people in a modern sense.

Let's see what reunification in a West German sense means. It means readjustment of right and order. It means restoration of property and of personal ownership. It means recognition of human rights, and by this, respect to freedom of every person without concentration camps.

These are the facts of a cold war between East and West-Germany which is only a small part of a cold world war between east and west in general.

Dr. Conrad Adenauper was elected to the leader of the Federal government of West-Germany. He is the head of the Christian Democrat Party which reached the absolute majority in the German "Bundestag" in 1953. Adenauer's policy is based on Christian principles with reference to the policy of the Western World so far, that he was called by his opponents—the Social Democrats—to be a chancellor not of the Germans but a "Chancellor of the Allies" of the Western World.

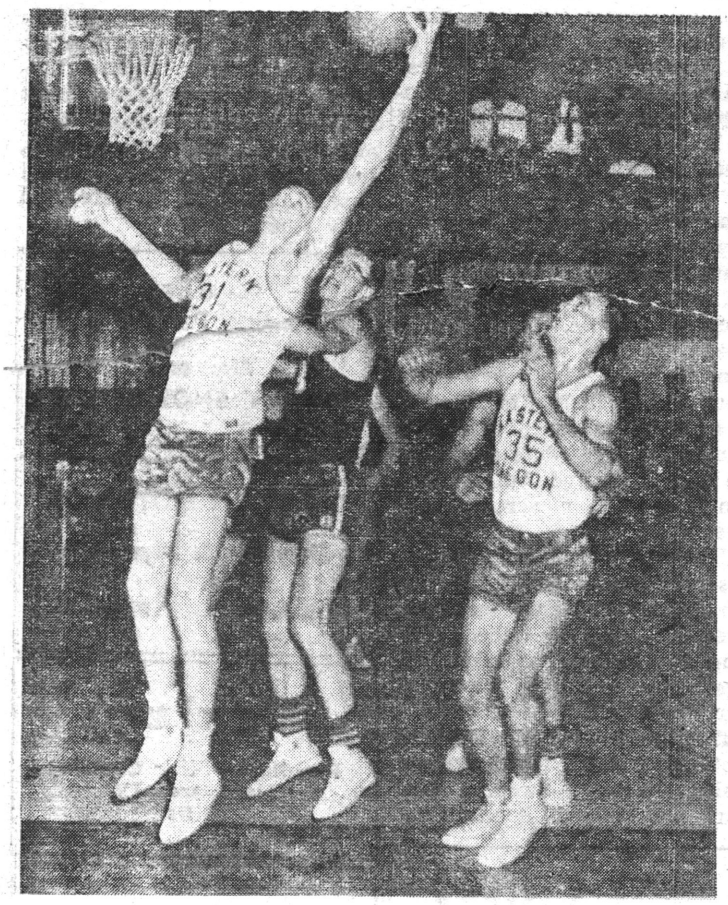
How right Adenauer's policy and particularly his free economic policy was and is, is documented by the rapid reconstruction of Germany after a total collapse in 1945. Many cities were destroyed 40 percent, or 50 percent, even more, and a large part of that what remained of economical power (engines, industrial equipments, patents, etc.) was taken as reparations for the lost war. It was a clearance sale of Germany.

Everybody who has seen my country at that time was deeply affected by the tremendous devastation, by rubbish and ruins, and by hunger and needs of the people. Nobody would have believed that this ruined nation would arise again.

The last eleven years are a bright example for the efficiency of a free people. They are a testimony for a hard work that was done by these people, and they witness a generous help of the Western World, especially that of the United States of America. Not only do I mention private help in clothes, food, etc., I would like to mention especially the "John McCloy Gift"—as one example under so many—to the new dormitory of the Johann Wolfgang Goethe University of Frankfort on the Main. As a student of that university in particular, and as a German in general, I would like to thank all the American people for their help.

I see in it an evidence of friendship that may grow up more and more in the consciousness that we do need each other and that we have to co-operate in order to stand up for a free and peaceful world.

Bolen Attends Meet



Dr. Bolen represented Eastern Oregon College last weekend at the Northwest Conference on religion in higher education in Seattle at the University of Washington. Representatives from 25 northwest colleges were in attendance where various plans for religious emphasis weeks were discussed. The main out-of-state speaker was Dr. Prentiss Pemberton, director of the Danforth Foundation.

Two men were discussing the vexed question of the education of their children. Said one:

"What's your boy going to be when he finishes his tducation?"

Replied the other: "An octogenarian, I think."

EOC Ski Club Spends Weekend At Winter Carnival

Three months of pre-planning and local publicity by the Brette Storke Ski Club committee of Ron Foster, Bob and Pat Good, Sally Stein, sponsor, and the Associated Student Body Council support made possible an enjoyable weekend for 44 Eastern Oregon College students at the first annual Inter-Collegiate Winter Carnival, sponsored by Portland State College at Tiberline Lodge, Mt. Hood, on January 26 and 27.

The Carnival committee had planned many activities for non-skiers as well as competitive racing and free skiing for the skiers. On Saturday afternoon Sharon Becker was first place in the women's snow shoe race, Mollie Newton and Patsy Evans were placed in the first heat. Jim Marks placed second in the men's shoe race and Bill Harris also entered. In the flying saucer race Larry Holmes placed second and Sharon Becker was third; Jim Marks also entered this race.

The ice skating and toboggan races were cancelled for competition due to the extreme weather conditions at Timberline.

A ski team from Eastern Oregon College was not entered in the inter-collegiate races because of lack of sufficient skiers for registration. The individual non-rated skiers, Jim Anderson, Dot Ann Anson, Paul Marlin, and Ron Foster, entered the competition for non-rated skiers on Sunday afternoon. Patsy Walker, Eastern Oregon College Winter Carnival Princess, skied the course but was not timed for the racing activities.

The impressive grand trophy for Student Participation was awarded to Eastern Oregon College by a presentation to the student body representative, Ron Foster.

Most of the students enjoyed the dances held at Timberline Lodge on Saturday evening, but all said the dances were very crowded with students from Oregon State College, the University of Oregon, Portland State College, Oregon College of Education, Southern Oregon College, University of Portland, Marylhurst College, Lewis and Clark and Reed College.

Mounties Dump PSC Twice

Twenty-five and 26 seemed to be a good Omen for the Eastern Oregon Basketball team as they dumped the Portland State Vikings on those two dates in January on the EOC Maples, 62-50 and 58-53. Both nights EOC had to come from behind at half-time, the first night by 8 points, 36-28, the second by one, 29-28.

Larry Howard, EOC's sparkling sophomore guard, broke 20 points both nights. In Friday night's contest he hit 9 field goals and 2 free thows, and in Saturday's game 10 field goals and 4 gift tosses.

Jerry Baxter grabbed 29 rebounds in the two matches, 12 the first night and 17 the second.

Eastern hit 40 field goals in the two games on 115 attempts. The odd part of it was the fact they managed to sink 10 in each half. Portland hit 36 of 127 tries.

EO Tops SOC

Piloted by sophomore guard Larry Howard, Eastern Oregon College dunked visiting Southern Oregon College 76-72 Friday, February 1, to keep alive the La Grander's hopes for the OCC basketball crown. Howard hit for 11 field goals and three gift tosses for a total of 25 points.

SOC took an early lead but EO tied things up on Jerry Baxter's jump shot and then went on to a 40 to 30 half-time lead.

With 13 minutes left in the tussel, SOC cut the EOC margin to one point, 51-50. From there the lead changed hands many times until the 5 minute mark when the Blue and Gold started moving and jumped to a 69-60 lead, and went to a 76-72 victory.

Howard lead all scorers with 25, followed by Crandell of SOC with 19.

Eastern hit 27 of 73 attempts from the floor, while Southern hit 29 of 87. The visitor's lead in rebounds 54-39.

SOC Edges EOC

Eastern Oregon College's hopes for the Oregon Collegiate basketball crown was dealt a severe blow Saturday, February 2, by the Red Raiders from Southern Oregon College as they handed the EO five a 77-69 defeat. The two teams played on even terms throughout the first 18 minutes of the contest, but with 2 minutes left in the first half, the visiting Raiders pushed through 8 points while the Mounties could gather none to give them a 36-29 half time lead. EOC never overcame the deficit.

The big difference in the scoring came at the gift line. SOC hit 29 of 38 while the home lads could connect on only 19 of 36. Eastern led from the floor 25-24.

Jerry Baxter, EOC's rebound ace, turned the table on the defense and chalked up 18 points to lead the losers in the scoring column. He hit 5 field goals and 8 of 9 free throws for his total. Bill Hollingsworth of SOC lead all scoring with 30 points.

Whits Bump EO At Walla Walla

In a non conference basketball game, January 22, at Walla Walla, Eastern Oregon College lost what coach Bob Quinn said was "probably our worst game," to Whitman Missionaries 74 to 55.

A two to nothing score was held by EOC during the first two minutes of the game. Within three minutes after the game had started, the Mounties increased their lead to six to two.

Due to ineffective offense and offensive patterns, EOC started to fall behind and there they remained.

EOC connected with 18 out of 56 field goals to give an average of .269 whereas Whitman hit on 30 out of 72 for a .344 average.

Jerry Baxter was highest in the scoring bracket with 15 points and Dick Quinn followed with 13 points which were tallied by 3 field goals and 7 shots from the free throw line in which he hit all seven.

Play Committee Work Behind Scenes

By Barrie Edwards

The college play, "Plain and Fancy" which is to be presented on Wednesday, January 27, and through Saturday, March 2, is running along smoothly under the able direction of Mr. Hiatt and numerous committees.

Lorraine Frank and Nadine Elam are the wardrobe mistresses and have on their committee to help them such talented seamsters and stitchers as: Mary Ruth Green, Mildred Dawson, Judy Tonack, Linda Kane, Jean & Pat Edminson, Barbara Carter, Janice Foye, Molly Yoneyama, Norma Lowe, Carroll Ferguson, Patsy Reeves and Florence Welch.

The Lettering Class under the careful supervision of Leonard Kimbrell is working with a "silk-screen process" on the production of posters and programs. Incidentally, tickets for students will be on sale on February 20; these tickets will be good for Wednesday and Thursday only.

The biggest headache for the production so far is in the competent hands of the Stage Craft Class members who, apart from building a house, interior backdrops etc., have to construct a barn that can be erected on stage, in front of everybody, quickly and quietly and that can be taken down with as much, if not more, efficiency with what it was erected.

Mr. Hiatt expects capacity crowds every night, so you had better get your tickets early. Remember the dates, Feb. 27, 28, and March 1, 2.

Ground-hog Lunch Features Dr. Bolen

The annual Interfaith groundhog luncheon was held in Hoke lounge Monday noon, February 4th, with approximately 80 students and faculty members present. This luncheon which for the past five years has come to be an annual event, sets the stage for the religious conference to be held on campus in two weeks.

Interfaith includes everyone on campus. There is a council, composed of interested people and delegates from as many faiths as possible, who do the planning.

Evelyn Riggen acted as mistress of ceremonies for the program which opened with the song, "God Of Our Fathers," sung in unison. There followed a prayer, also in unison. Dr. Bishop played "Nocturne" by Sibelius on his flute, accompanied on the piano by Patsy Walker.

Dr. Bolen was the main speaker and chose as his topic "What Price Brotherhood?" "Fellow groundhog lovers, ladies and gentlemen, and all of the others here at this luncheon," was the greeting of the guest speaker, Dr. Viring of Dr. Bolen.

"Rugs are pulled from under the feet of Americans everyday. By this, Dr. Bolen meant that Americans live side by side, work together, and fight and die together, yet some of them are denied rights that are granted.

He likened Americans to the ferns on a rug, some being the white ferns and others being the black ferns. He brought out many instances of things that happen in the United States where the black fern is denied the right to the very thing he or she believes in and even die for. "Can this be the price that is paid for brotherhood?" he asked.

He said that a colored girl wrote an essay on what America meant to her. She began it, "America is like a mother," and won a nation-wide contest, yet she was denied entrance into a hotel because of the color of her skin. An Indian soldier who died during the war for his country heroically was denied the right to be buried in his home town because it was against the law. When former president, Harry S. Truman heard of the incident, he asked that the man be brought to Washington, D. C., and be buried in the National Cemetery.

"The best way to have brotherhood is to wrap it up in a person," concluded Dr. Bolen.

MISS LANE MORRISON, junior in secondary education, Vale, reigned as Miss Dorion Sweetheart of 1957 at the Sweetheart's Ball last Friday evening.

Lane Morrison Reigns Over Sweethearts' Ball

Lane Morrison stepped majestically through a doorway of red and white paper streamers to be crowned Dorion's Sweetheart at the annual Sweetheart's Ball February 15. Mrs. Hoyt, house mother, placed a garland of flowers on Lane's head and proclaimed her to be the queen of Dorion.

A serenade to the queen, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," followed and Lane was joined by her court as she and her escort, Bill DeMastus, danced the first dance after intermission.

The court consisted of four of Dorion's loveliest, Barbara Gulick, "57" Pine, Mary Ruth Green, "59" Heppner, Kathy Craig, "60" Lebanon, and Dixie Trumbell, "60" Milton-Freewater.

The dining room in which the dance was held was decorated in red and white streamers with a large heart full of candy kisses in the center. Each couple had a favor with their names on it. A refreshment of ice cold punch was also available.

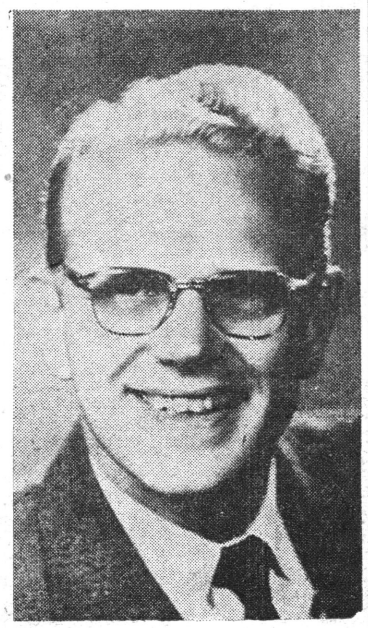
Music was furnished by Don Swart and his band. Special numbers during intermission were pantomines by Kathy Craig and Ron Paulson, "I Wanta Be Kissed by You," and "Let's Take an Old Fashioned Walk," by Linda Kane and Jim Anderson. Sandra Benson sang two numbers, "It Had To Be You" and "Mr. Wonderful." She was accompanied by Sheri Warren.

"Plain And Fancy" Prepares For Opening Night

Rehearsals moved into high gear this past week as the cast of EOC-Sock 'n' Buskin production of "Plain and Fancy" prepared for opening night, Wednesday, February 27. The musical will have a four-day run, February 27, 28, March 1 and 2 in the EOC theatre. Curtain time each night is set for 8 p.m.

According to the director, Mr. Richard Hiatt, the musical, which had a long run during the 1955 season on Broadway, is filled with many delightful musical numbers and a typical musical comedy interspersing of gay and serious scenes.

Heading a cost of 40 actors, singers and dancers are: Boyd Devin, as Dan King, a newspaperman from New York; Sandra Benson as Ruth Winters, Dan's engaged finance; Janis Robertson as Katie Yoder, the prettier half of the love interest of the musical; Dick Cook, as Peter Reber, the masculine half of the usual love interest; Dave Skeen as Ezra Reber, Papa Yoder's choice to be Katie's husband; Barbara Carter as Emma Miller a steadying influence in the community, and mother of Hilda Miller, played by Joan Eldridge, who falls madly in love with the New Yorker; and Mike Ferguson as Papa Yoder, probably the most staunch member of the Amish community.



The musical is set in the little Pennsylvania village of Bird-in-Hand and during the course of the evening's entertainment, the audience gets several different views of the town itself. Included in the production is the burning and raising of a barn. The burning is of course accidental, but the raising of the barn is an old Amish custom.

Tickets are now on sale in Mr. Hiatt's office in the basement of Hoke Hall during the morning and at the La Grande-Union County Chamber of Commerce during the afternoons. Students are reminded that student body tickets will be honored only on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Admission prices will be $1:00.

Grace then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Winters who introduced the speaker, Dr. Erna Gunther. Dr. Gunther is from the University of Washington in the anthropology department. She was here on campus representing the AAUW as a visiting representative to hear our qualifications.

Dr. Gunther spoke on the need for more women to make careers of their teaching. She said she had talked to many presidents of colleges and they are willing to put women on their faculty but there are not enough women qualified for these positions. She said women cannot expect more recognition unless they are willing to put more time into an academic career.

In Search Of Tolerance

(This is published in the interest of Brotherhood Week, February 17-24, just ending, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.)

"All mankind working together with God toward a better world" can indeed aptly describe the sixteenth annual Religion in Life Conference which was held this past week on the Eastern Oregon College campus. The six team members, of different faiths, beliefs, and denominations, offered fine cooperation with both student and faculty in stating, explaining, interpreting, and answering questions based on theological, political, and social matters. If religious leaders throughout the world can meet together as religious conference team members do on a college campus, and discuss mutual problems in a friendly, informal atmosphere, perhaps they can accomplish more toward striving to make a better world.

The Interfaith council is to be commended for the hours of preparation and work which they put into making this year's conference a success. The student body is also to be commended for its interest and participation in the three-day conference activities. The students' enthusiasm enabled the team members to "loosen up" and contribute some real meat of the week via their lectures and particularly the discussions.

All in all, Eastern Oregon College students probably feel that they've participated in as fine a religious conference, with the theme "Brotherhood," as can be found anywhere. But let us not become complacent. Let us, instead, strive to work for tolerance wherever it is abused or neglected.

President Eisenhower said, "America is a great and dynamic expression of equality among men. But America must forever seek a stouter unity among its people, a sharper understanding that none of us can stand alone; that working together, all of us shall prosper in the human goods of body and mind and spirit."

An Unfinished Job . . .

By Bernard M. Baruch

The forces of organized bigotry are being routed in America. Steadily and surely, in education, employment, housing and in all human relations, discrimination is waning. Much remains to be done, to be sure, and Brotherhood Week is a reminder to us that the task is still incomplete.

To discriminate against a man because of race, color, creed or national origin is antithetical to democracy and dangerous to America. In this time of Democracy's testing, we must proclaim our faith in it and live closely by its principles. In these days of danger to America we can permit nothing to undermine the unity which is so essential to our safety. Nothing is so destructive of unity than the hate, discord, suspicion and bitterness which prejudice breeds.

There can be no second class citizens in America. As we expect each man, black and white, Jew and Christian, native and foreign born, to bear the responsibilities of citizenship, so we demand that each share in its rights and privileges and we seek that all shall live in mutual respect, understanding and friendship.

The time will come, and soon I hope, when Brotherhood Week will be a reminder, not of the presence of discrimination in our midst, but of its eradication. Until that time, we must, each of us, work to break down its barriers, fight bigotry wherever we find it and cleanse our own hearts of blind animosity against our fellows.

He (at the movies): "Can you see all right?"
She: "Yes."
He: "Is there a draft on you?"
She: "No."
He: "Seat comfortable?"
She: "Yes."
He: "Mind changing places?"

Mardi Gras—Now U No

by Leonard Kimbrell

Paganism dies hard. Perhaps you have not paid your dues today, but you will. The Maypole dance is yet to come. And Mardi Gras. Two travelling ladies from the North, driving through Southern Louisiana, saw some Spanish moss hanging from the trees lining the highway. "Why, that must be some of that Marty Grass everybody talks about down here," one of them said, without even a snicker from the other. Of course they were from Nebraska. People from Iowa know better. They were surprised to find Mardi Gras a celebration from Natchitoches to Lafayette, to the Crescent City itself. In Louisiana with her Roman Catholic heritage, Shrove Tuesday had meaning. So did Mardi Gras, Fat Tuesday, the last fling before the lean self-denial of Lent. The Church had sublimated the old customs it had found. The people never forgot.

Spring was not far away. Celebration was in order. Over the Northern hemisphere for thousands of years Mardi Gras—Shrove Tuesday—or a date thereabout—has had its celebration. Man lived by the trees that budded, grasses that grew. Death might have swallowed them all. But, if experience were of any value, and if remembered yesterdays would count, the equinox was past and the sun was rising in the sky. Planting time was not far away and ewes would soon be lambing. Everywhere Man had played the miracle play of awakening the foresaken sleeper, of casting the scapegoat into the flames or the water. Sir James Frazer found that on Shrove Tuesday the Slovenes dragged a straw man through the streets with happy cries and threw him into the water. In other places Carnival is killed, Carnival whose Latin name means to put away meat, to fast, symbolizing that austerity of Winter. Carnival, who represents Death, is feted, then killed in effigy. In Italy he was a stucco man, nine feet high, gaily smiling, gaily adorned, and like Macy's Christmas figures, bowing and gesticulating to the crowd. The crowd dances furiously around the cart upon which he rides. They carry cabbage or other leaves, throw them into the air to give rise to a free-for-all fight. Then they give away to drink and blasphemy, intoxicating themselves at public expense. Carnival is taken to the square, stripped of his finery, and burned. He carries the sins of the multitude. With Carnival or Death slain, Spring may come, and with it harvest, life renewed in its accustomer rhythm.

But no one kills Rex, the elected king of the New Orleans Mardi Gras. He is a civic leader. He wears a crown; it is the crowd which wears the mask, which may hide both saint and sinner. The end of the long winters from the unremembered past is celebrated. The hope for the future life has been sublimated. The mighty Mithras upon whom the world have been cast is to be crucified and the straw drenched. Carnival is stripped and burned, carrying the sins of the world with him that spring may return everlastingly has been forgotten. Christ, some forty days later, will have been crucified, buried, and have risen to give hope of everlasting life the church celebrates that promise; the people, slow to forget, remember Mardi-Gras.

Vic Probes Reasons For Shrubbery

by Vic Snively

As usual the Whiskerino was a well groomed success. Although there weren't as many participants this year as I have noticed in preceding years, the quality more than made up for the lack of quantity. I inquired around out of idle curiosity to see just why there was a lack of shrubbery this year, and my research turned up some rather interesting and embarrassing facts. Seniors who usually are responsible for the more luxuriant growths were quite passive this year. Those that are practice teaching in high school said they were afraid to. There class control is as delicately balanced as fine scales, and the least little irregular thing might cause a tilt in the wrong direction. The people that are teaching in junior high said that they didn't think some of their sensitive little 9th grade girls would enjoy nasty old beards. Those people teaching in Ackerman were silent concerning their lack of growth. The somewhat embarrassing side of my study showed that try as they might, some of the freshmen, this year just weren't up to sprouting chin whiskers. For those people I have a message from the Education Department: "Maturation is a constant process, and each individual progressed at his own rate. Each person goes through each stage." All I can offer in the way of solace to those apple cheeked few is, time cures all.

There were the usual awards given this year for the longest, blackest, dirtiest, reddest, and scroungiest beards, and the following were awarded: best beard, Leo McGee; most original beard, Jim Stanley; best faculty beard, Luke Boone; best van dyke, Wiley Knighten; best try, Charles Lybecker; worst looking, Sheldon Strand; blackest beard, Rodger Dalgleish; reddest beard, David Hanson; blondest beard, Leonard Swanson.

All and all, the dance was a rousing success, but I'm sure many will be left with a sense of loss for af ew days.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

The EOC band left at 7 this morning for Portland and the EOC - Portland State basketball games. They will play at both of the games and will come back to La Grande on Sunday.

A new male quartet. composed of Dick Cook, Bart Clements, Boyd Devin, and Alan Gray has been formed. Dick and Bart were members of the quartet which was so popular last year.

Some of you may have noticed that Mr. Wilson played the cello with the orchestra Sunday. He is one of the new members who started playing in the group just a few weeks ago.

Soloists lately have been Stella Hawk and Dr. Bishop. Stella played her tenth solo of the year last week, and Dr. Bishop played a flute solo at the First Methodist Church. The Blue and Gold Singers have also been making appearances lately. Their latest one was for the Interfaith Banquet Wednesday night.

Nelson and Neal, the two-piano team which appeared here last Wednesday night was the last of the Civic Music series for this year. Everyone enjoyed this man and wife etam, and they were called back for many encores. The arrangements of their music were done by Mr. Neal.

The orchestra members for "Plain and Fancy" have been hard at work getting ready for the production. The college students in this orchestra are Patsy Evans, Dave Everett, Bob Herbig, Susan Lata, Betty Roudebush, Leonard Swanson, Don Swart, Dale Waught, and Gary Winkel. Dr. Lewis is also playing in this group.

U. S. Colleges May Face Teacher Shortage

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Department heads of the University of Tennessee's College of Liberal Arts have predicted in a survey that colleges will soon face an alarming teacher shortage which, unless prevented, will do "irreparable" damage to higher education.

The survey is an effort by Dean L. R. Helser and heads of the college's 17 specialized study fields to face the problems of rising enrollments before they get completely out of hand. The study called for greater attention to scholastic standards so that there will be a minimum of wasted teacher time in repeating courses, making arrangements for late enrollees, or struggling with students not interested in learning.

"All are agreed that a good salary scale would in the days ahead give an University advantage in a highly competitive market," the report stated. Emphasized, too, was the immediate need for funds for graduate and teaching assistantships to help win graduate students to the teaching field and give them experience.

At present an experienced teacher and a graduate assistant are combining forces to teach 65 to 90 students in each of five sections of a mathematics course. In physics, a trial quiz section of 45 students is organized on a of time gives each student a rotation plan that over a period front-row seat and recitation opportunity while other students observe.

McCluchcon broke the century mark for Oregon Tech with two free throws, giving them a 101-50 lead. Still the OTI lads managed to push through some more and came out fith a 110-62 advantage.

Fischer of OTI held scoring honors with 22, followed by Rhine with 21. Larry Howard lead the Mounties with 20.

EOC Posts Win; Drive, Spirit Bring Victory

In the first of a dual basketball meet here Friday night, Eastern Oregon College didn't miss former teammates as they made a terrific comeback in the last eight minutes of a game in which they did most of the trailing to beat Oregon College of Education, 62 to 61.

The Mounties opened the scoring with two free throws made by Dick Quinn. Quinn also made the next two points by his famous jump shot

With about 15 minutes left in the first half, the Monmouth lads pulled into the lead. During the complete first half the Mounties were unable to stretch the net or bring down very many rebounds.

A 17-point lead held by the Wolves as the second half started didn't discourage the Mounties.

With about 14 minutes left in the second half, Quinn, Howard and Paulson started dumping in field goals to cut OCE's lead, 46 to 35.

With Smith hitting the Mounties gained the lead, 56 to 55 with about 4 minutes left.

From there on it was any one's game until the last 8 seconds, when Howard fired a jump shot to pull ahead of the Wolves to a 1 point victory.

It was a high-scoring, close-fought battle all the way. With three seconds left in the game Baxter fouled Miller of OCE. Miller took advantage of his two charity shots and tied the score, 76 all.

EOC failed to pick up the needed points in the overtime. Earle Smith lead the Mounties with 25 points.

Franklin And Marshall To Withdraw Athletic Subsidies

Franklin and Marshall College, which has been subsidizing athletes to the extent of $20,000 a year, is planning to withdraw this sum over a four-year period and add it to its scholarship and student aid budget. The athletic grants have heretofore been made to students participating in football, basketball and wrestling, selected by the Athletic Department and approved by the Faculty Scholarship Committee.

The distribution of the augmented scholarship and student aid funds will be controlled exclusively by the Faculty Scholarship committee. Students given financial assistance will be selected on the basis of scholarship and/or need, with emphasis, however, on their qualities of leadership as evidenced by their extracurricular activities.

This decision was taken by the college's Board of Trustees after careful consideration of the alternatives. The college's athletic schedules have called for competition with some teams far more heavily subsidized than its own.

On the other hand, Franklin and Marshall teams have also been competing with colleges offering no subsidies whatever. Three such institutions have recently withdrawn from Franklin and Marshall's schedules and two others have been considering such action. The unevenness of competition with both kinds of teams was obvious.

The trustees ultimately decided that their decision had to be based upon the purpose for which the college exists: to insure the intellectul and moral growth of its students, while duly recognizing the importance of a healthy body and the students' normal desire for physical competition.

Forester Presents Illustrated Talk To EOC Class

The senior biology class at EOC heard an illustrated talk on National Forest problems given by Supervisor Hal Coons of the Wallowa-Whitman Forest, last week.

Coons, with the aid of slides showed the water problems of the Inter-mountain area. He talked of the measures undertaken to prevent serious flood damage. He also showed some pictures from a small area in the Anthony Lakes vicinity that is being treated to stabilize the soil.

Following the talk several members of the class asked pertinent questions on National Forest administration.

New Grading System Used

BETHLEHEM, Pa—Grades based on "performance" instead of on a numerical average have been approved by the faculty of Moravian College. Under the new average system, the "alphabet grade" policy will be retained; however, the basis for these grades will be the performance, relative to the subject material, of the student as determined by his professor.

It is expected that many professors will continue to use a numerical average in determination of grades. In such cases the professor wil no longer be bound to follow a strict plan as in the past. For example, in some courses an averge of "50" might be considered passing while in oters an average of "95" may be necessary for an "A."

The result expected by the faculty is that in courses elementary to a mapor field or necessary as basic credits toward graduation, a high percentage of the final marks will fall in to the "C" or average rating while a much lower percentage will fall into either extremes—the "A" or the "F." In advanced courses a much higher concentration of "A" and "B" is anticipated.

The conditional grade, or "E," has been dropped and no re-exams will be given. Abs. (absent) and Inc. (incomplete) will automatically become "F" unless otherwise graded within six weeks after the final examination.

In determination of the final grades the term mark will county approximately two-thirds and the examination mark no more than one-third. Former policy was to consider the examination mark one-third, no more —no less.

Top Campus Humorist Wins Parisian Trip

The first Campus Cartoonist of the Year Award has been won by William Brewer, 20-year-old student at Chouinard Art Institute, Los Angeles according to judges Grouch Mark, Al Capp and Steve Allen, who along with William Kennedy, president of Box Cards, the sponsor of the search in more than 3,000 universities, colleges, and art schools, will select one student annually, because of his unusual facility in the field of humor and wit, as the nation's "Campus Cartoonist of the Year."

The competition, actually a search designed to discover the top humorist on campus, and then launch the newly discovered wit on an exciting career in humor was entered by 7,400 students in the U. S., Canada and Hawaii. The students submitted a total of 8,000 suggested contemporary greeting cards as entries in the contest.

The winner, William Brewer, as selected by three of the most popular wits and humorists of our times, Groucho Marx, Al Capp, and Steven Allen, receives an all expense paid seven day holiday in Paris, France flown via Trans World Airlines, an opportunity to design contemporary greeting cards for Box Cards and all royalty proceeds from the worldwide distribution of his winning contemporary card entry by Box Cards.

For Bill Brewer, a Danville, California resident who has also attended the Art Center in Los Angeles and the University of California, this is the second time he has been awarded a distinction in art. Last year Brewer won the Irvin Prize for American Wit and Humor. He is also attending Chouinard Art Institute due to a scholarship awarded him last June.

In summarizing his childhood, Brewer briefly stated, "I was born in New York, we lived in Texas, were bombed out of Pearl Harbor, guess that's when I developed a sense of humor, and then finally settled in California. In high school I edited the year book, besides cartooning for the school and hometown paper. Also quarterbacked the football team, ran the high hurdles and was in the top part of our closs."

"Now," the Campus Cartoonist of 1957 concluded, "I'll realize two ambitions. I've always wanted to be a cartoonist, that is, a money making one, and I've always wanted to see if Paris is all it is cooked up to be."

EOC Students Begin Work On Projects

By a Taylor

The biology department of EOC has announced that students are beginning on term projects. The projects are quite varied and very interesting. Last year they ranged from live rabbits that were raised in the dorm to earbones of mice that were not. Most of the biology students are very interested in this project and are planning on doing high quality work.

All the projects will be displayed for a week during the spring term. During this week high school and grade school students in the Blue Mountain area will come to EOC to see these things. This is a highlight for the schools in the spring, and the students always look forward to seeing these displays.

If you see any students trying to sneak up on a bird to take its picture or study its habit, think nothing of it, as it is probably one of Dr. Quaintance's prize students.

Student Teachers View Term Work

All students in the curriculum of education are required to student teach when they become seniors or fulfill the required amount of hours. The required number of hours is 135 credit hours and a GPA of 2 point to student teach in elementary schools and a GPA of 2.5 to teach in the secondary schools.

Student teachers teaching elementary classes are required to have one term of responsible teaching and two terms of student teaching while the secondary level requires one term of responsible teaching, and one term of student teaching.

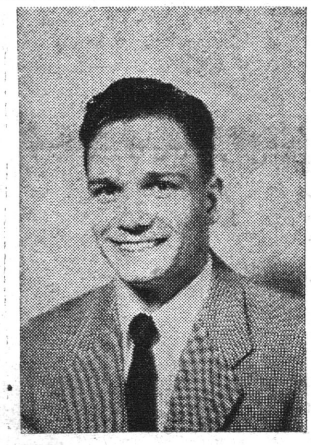
The number of students practice teaching this term are sixty-five in the elementary level, twenty-three in the secondary level, and twelve in the city schools.

Some of the student teachers have expressed their opinion on their teaching; heer are some of them.

Diana Gilstrap: I thoroughly enjoy the children and am happy that I realized I wanted to be a member of te teaching profession. There is no better way to learn and to help than to become a teacher.

Bob King: Student teaching—what a term! Seriously, it is a rich and wonderful experience if you like people, particularly children or young people. If there is a place where you can learn a lot in a short time, student teaching is it.

Carol Kopp: There is no greater gift than the gift of giving. Teaching is moment by moment, day by day, giving of one's inner self toward betterment of individuals and society. I am proud to be a minute part of this process which is education.



Bob Harrod: As you go through the first three years of the education program, you wonder, "What good is all this? What good are the education courses?"

When you begin your student teaching, you will see the value of it. All the work and study of the past three years are drawn together and you see why you took the education courses.

I think you advance more and learn more in the last year, than all the other years put together because you apply what you have learned before.

It is a wonderful experience working with the children and watching how they grow, develop, and think. This can be seen even in the short time of student teaching.

Howard Evans: It is difficult, even after some thought, to list my impressions of student teaching. My first feeling were of mixed elation, fear and confusion, elated because after three years, the time had come to put my teaching principle to use; fearful because I had little idea of what to expect from those students I was to work with; confused because I knew nothing about class procedure, what was to be expected of me, or what methods the coordinating teacher had been using. I am no longer fearful or confused, or even elated. All these have changed to a simple satisfaction of working with students and of making progress in a teaching situation. It has been a rewarding experience. The pupils are a pretty fair group of youngsters—on the whole—and are easy to get along with. I want to praise the co-ordinating teachers and the unlimited help they give so freely to the student teachers in setting up their plans and class procedure.

FTA Changes To 'SOEA'

The SOEA (FTA) will hold its annual state convention March 29-30 either at Linfield in McMinnville or the University of Oregon in Eugene. More than likely, iit will be at Linfield.

FTA will be meeting for the first time under the new name SOET (Student Oregon Education Association). The name was changed last month by a vote of the chapters in accordance with the national name change made at the national convention at Pacific Lutheran College in Parkland, Wash., last June.

The Ackerman Chapter usually takes two or three cars of students to the state convention.

It has 5 delegates who can vote and this is the largest number of delegates due to the large membership. The chapter, at the present time, is the largest in the state.

At last year's convention a state flag was chosen and J. H. Ackerman's entry was the winner. EOC will present this flag with the change from FTA to OSEA on it, this year.

Bob Bagley of EOC was one of the members of the planning committee for this year's convention. At this year's convention EOC hopes to get the constitution changed in such a way that there will be a more fair way of electing state officers.

At the regular meeting on Wednesday, March 6, SOEA discussed plans for attending the convention and chose a candidate which will be put up for the office of State Historian.

Lyle Riggs, Superintendent of Schools, conducted a mock interview with Danny McDevitt and Patsy Yoneyama as candidates.

Pohl Returns To Germany

Hanns Pohl, German student from Frankfort-on-the-Main who has been enrolled this term in EOC, will leave for Germany March 15. Pohl, who has spoken about his country before downtown civic clubs and local organizations, numerous times in the past weeks, will spend one week in Salt Lake City where he will "collect his belongings." He will spend the following weekend in Buffalo, New York, visiting friends; then he will sail on the Christoforo Colombo March 28 to Naples, Italy, arriving there April 5.

"My stay in Naples will be indefinite. . . . I want to travel and look around at everything," said Pohl.

He plans to enroll at Frankfort in early May to continue his study of economics. After graduation he would like to teach in a vocational training or commercial school.

One of his reasons that Pohl gives for returning to Germany is to see his brother who lives in Frankfort and his parents and twin sister who live near the city.

"I really liked and enjoyed my one term here at Eastern Oregon College," he commented. "I would have spent a longer time in Oregon if I knew before what the people and places were like . . . in La Grande."

Pohl, who can speak French, Russian, and Latin, besides German and English, said that "part of my heart will be here. . . . I like America, and I may come back some day."

Student Visits EOC

Carol Norby, one of EOC's former students in the pre-nursing curriculum, was on teh campus a coupel of weeks ago visiting an old classmate.

She is now going to Pacific Lutheran College in Parkland, Washington, continuing in the field of nursing. When asked how she liked it there, she said that in her estimation it was "tops." A resident of La Grande, she was asked if she liked going to ULC better than EOC, her reply was that, it is good to get out of La Grande after going all my life o the La Grande schools.

She commented, "Pacific Lutheran College is nct too large a college and is very modern. I enjoy all my classes and really enjoy my pre-nursing subject. It is a lot of hard work but it is alsos a lot of fun."

Mardi Gras Saturday Features 'Blue-Noses'

Judges To Select Best Costumes, Make Awards

The annual Mardi Gras will be held in Hoke Hall, March 9, at 8:30 p.m. This costume dance will be sponsored by the men's scholastic honorary fraternity, Theta Delta Phi. A grand prize, a $25 radio, courtesy of The Town House, will be given for the best costume. Other prizes will be given for other costumes that express originality and creativeness. Costumes will be judged by Dr. Joe Gaiser and Dr. Lee Johnson, advisors to the organization.

Decorations, consisting of some 550 balloons, and masks of different kinds, will be put up by the whole organization Saturday morning. Music will be furnished for the dance by the "The Blue Noses," a band consisting of 5 pieces.

Gerald Stiller, chairman of the dance committee, is assisted by Bill Arkell and Pete Donahue.

Molly Yoneyama, Nyssa sophomore, has been accepted for nurses' training at the University of Oregon, Portland Medical School. She has been president of the Pre-nursing organization on campus this year.

Molly Yoneyama To Med School Nurses Training

Molly Yoneyama has been accepted at the Portland Medical School and will leave for Portland following her fifth term of pre-nursing on the campus of Eastern Oregon.

She has been an active participant of the pre-nursing club at EOC, serving her freshman year as secretary-treasurer and this year as president of the organization.

Molly had long had nursing as her ambition and plans to complete the three years of training to receive her B.S. degree in nursing. Completing this first milestone in her nursing career, she leaves an encouraging word to those striving to complete the same.

Square Dance Session Set

The seventh Annual Square Dance Institute at Eastern Oregon College, held each year since 1951, will be scheduled Spring term — March 25 through April 5.

The Institute will be under the direction of Ed Gilmore, nationally known square-dance caller and teacher, who is in charge of square-dance music for Decca Recording Company. Mr. Gilmore will be assisted by his wife, Drusilla, also a well known square-dance teacher.

Regular students, with or without square-dance experience, may enroll for one hour's credit, in addition to regular class loads. There will be afternoon sessions for beginners. The fee for the squaredancing is $5.00 for regular students, and $10.00 per person or $15.00 per couple for those people who are not regularly enrolled students and receive no credit.

Special students wishing credit will pay the usual credit hour fee. Students may register for the Institute with Miss Morris on registration day, Spring term.

Characters Cast Clever Comments

"Sleep!" "What's that . . . and when?" Thats the way the week of February 25 started off for the cast and crew of the musical "Plain and Fancy," which was presented last weekend by EOC's Sock 'n' Buskin and the EOC Music Department. By the time the final performance was over on Saturday, March 2, the cry had changed to "Now to get some rest and studying done."

Different members of the cast had different reactions to being finished with work on the play, and here are a few of them:

Boyd Devin, who was cast as "Dan King," said simply, "Thank God!"

Turning a little more serious, Sandra Benson, who played "Ruth Winters," said "I enjoyed being in the play. Although it will seem nice not to have play practice every night, I will miss it. Every minute I worked with Mr. Hiatt and the rest of the cast will be remembered."

Sticking to his part as a man of few words in the play, Dave Skeen who portrayed burly "Ezra Reber," remarked, "The party was great."

Joan Eldredge, smallest of the leads as "Hilda Miller," came out with the longest comment. "It was truly the most wonderful experience I have ever experienced. It took lots of time and work, but everyone was wonderful to work with and very co-operative. It was wonderful and I would do it all over again! It really gave me an insight to the work that one has to perform, especially in Broadway musicals. I hope when I'm seixty I'll still remember 'I'll Show him'."

"Papa Yoder," better known as Mike Ferguson revealed he had planned to sleep all weekend until he remembered all the studying he hadn't done all week. "Oh, vell," said Mike, "thats the vey the vorld schpins, ain't?"

Janis Robertson who was seen as "Katie Yoder," commented "It was lots of hard work but well worth the effort everyone put in on it. I'm glad it's over but would do it all again if I had the chance."

Barbara Carter, after having spent half of the week being herself and the other half being "Emma Miller," just mumbled something about being glad it was over so she could get some sleep.

The male love interest, Peter Reber, or Dick Cook as everyone else knows him, just said "Phew! and thanks to eevryone who worked to put fun into the performances."

All in all, while all of them were quite tired, it can be agreed that practically all of the eight leads and most of the rest of the cast and crew wouldn't have missed it for anything and would probably do the same thing over again, if given the chance.

"The Life You Save . . ."

(Editor's Note: The following timely article first appeared in the University of Purdue Exponent. It is reprinted here in view of the interest of the students. That old saying "The life you save . . ." is a pretty good one to live by.)

Following are some ironbound rules guaranteed to keep one from growing old:

Always drive fast out of alleys.

Always race with locomotives to crossings. Engineers like it. It breaks the monotony of their jobs.

Always pass the car ahead on curves or turns. Don't use your horn; it may unnerve the other fellow and cause him to turn out too far.

Demand half the road—the middle half. Insist upon your rights.

Always speed. It shows people you are a man of pep even though an amateur driver.

Never stop, look, or listen at railroad crossings. It consumes time.

Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more artistic.

Always pass cars on hills. It shows you have more power and can turn out if you meet a car at the top.

Never look around when you back up. There is never anything behind you.

Drive confidently, just as though there were not 18,000,000 other cars in service. b.b.

The Perennial Question: To Cheat Or Not To Cheat . . .

Since finals will be given next week, some people are undoubtedly wracking their brains to discover some sure-proof method of "cracking" (an "A," of course) one or more of their exams. In past terms individuals who have attempted to outsmart professors by snatchcing a privileged "first look" at the final have broken into the professor's locked car, the locked room, the locked desk—all in the hope of securing the final first-hand. The crafty and the deft-fingered have employed the following methods in their desperate hour-and-twenty minutes:

Factual material, such as specific dates, names of legislative acts, and names of individuals, have been copied meticulously in ink on the individual's arm and this priceless information concealed by the carefully rolled-down sleeve; similar factual material have been etched painstakingly onto the pencil; answers have been recorded onto tiny slips of paper which are rolled up and carried in the hand, or pocket; and books and whole notebooks have been carried into the room and utilized to their fullest extent! Of course, the amount of aid gleaned from these ingenious devices depended, and still depend, on the skill, smoothness, and precise timing of the individual in sneaking furtive glances at his pony.

The students who pass their finals via other ways than through previous studying and relying on their ability of recall, may sail with flying colors through college. They may uphold their righteousness by mouthing something about the "survival of the fittest," etc. And the danger is that—in their own little minds, they are right. Since psychology says that a habit (if continual use of ponies may be termed a "habit") is not easily broken, and success creates and breeds a desire for further success, will these people continue throughout life to resort to underhanded methods of attaining desirable ends?

It would be well for each one of us to consider the ultimate of cheating. Grades are generally acknowledged to be the incentive or motive for the process—but how important are grades compared to our own character? Do grades make the man, or does character make the man? In order to answer the question, we have only to think of our individual reaction when we actually witness a person cheating. And we have only to add that particular reaction to reactions of other witnesses. The sum of all the individual reactions will probably not be very pretty; the cheater will have shrunk in our eyes. And thus, the perennial question continues to plague the tempted college student: which is more important: grades or the man?

The EOC band members returned from one band trip with the thought of lots of practice ahead for the spring tour. The day after registration for spring term is the first day of their three-day tour. Concerts will be given at Umatilla and Boardman on the first day. They will play at Arlington, John Day, and Prairie City on the second day. Concerts on March 8 include Vale, Ontario, and Weiser, Idaho.

The program this year will be a show, "A Year in the Life of An EOC Freshman." The Ask Me Committee and the Girls' Trio will start the program. They will be followed by a clarinet quartet, and next will be some of the foreign students. A brass quartet and flute trio will bring the program up to the time of the "band rehearsal." Numbers the band will play will include "Tribute to Benny Goodman," "Night Ride," "Sambalita," "Ado for Drummers," and "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Spring term is always the busy term for the students in the music organizations on campus. The third concert by the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra will be April 14th. This concert will feature the world-famous saxophonist, Sigurd Rascher. The following day, April 15th, the choir will leave for a three-day concert tour. There are also several other performances which these groups will make during spring term.

This weekend Mr. Wilson, Jan Robertson, and Barbara Carter are in Portland for the American Federation of Music Clubs Contest. Barbara and Jan are entered in the student auditions, and they are competing with other college students from Oregon. Mrs. Wilson is entered in the Young Artists contest.

Any individual who is not in choir this term and is interested in auditioning for the group, contact Mr. Wilson during the hours of 10-12 and 1-3 next Thursday or Friday, March 14 and 15.

Now that "Plain and Fancy" is finished, all of the people who worked so hard on it can stop and get a little bit of rest before they begin finals. I think that everyone did an exceptional job on the production. Lots of recognition and thanks should go to the members of the cast, production crew, orchestra, Dr. Bishop, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Hiatt, and everyone else who worked on "Plain and Fancy" for giving us such a good interpretation of a difficult musical.

Speaking Frankly

by Don Frank

Through the long, hard winter months the Eastern Oregon basketball team toiled relentlessly, looking forward to a birth in the NAIA tournament, and possibly the OCC crown. Although this was supposed to be the EOC building year, the Mounties were dumping the favored clubs by pretty good scores.

With only four conference tilts left in the season, the blow fell. Six of the regular ten man traveling squad were lost for the rest of the season. Coach Quinn had to resort to his J.V. club for enough men to finish the season with. All Eastern Oregon had to do to gain a spot in the tourney was to split the remaining contests.

In the first of these four games, things didn't look too good for Eastern Oregon, as last-place Oregon College lead the Mounties by 17 points at half-time. But the La Granders broke loose in the last half and beat the OCE five by one point. The next night the home lads lost by one point in the only over-time played throughout the schedule.

Then came the Portland State series at Portland. One win would give the EOC boys a tourney birth, but the more experienced Portland Staters won both games, thus giving them and Southern Oregon births in the tournament, although OTI won the conference championship. OTI, being a two year college, can't participate in the NAIA tournament.

Eastern Oregon finished the season with 10 won and 16 loss record. Not too impressive, but 7 of the wins came in league competition, while 9 of the losses came the same way.

But now we draw the curtain on the 1956-57 basketball season, maybe we will look back later on and see a lot of mistakes throughout the seeason, some on the teams part, and some on the spectators part, but as all sports writers say, "Wait until next year!"

Enough about basketball for one year. .....

Here is a letter received in this office, Thought you might like to hear how spring training is coming along.

Dear Don,

I've just been a bustin' my buttons to tell you what happened to me last week. Just the other day I was out in the field plowin' back home in Punkin' Creek and today I'm workin' out down in Florida at the spring trainin' camp with the Edmarg Edards.

It seems as how one of them scout fellers saw me pitch a no-hitter against the Mississippi Mugwumps last year and they kinda' eyed me fer a spell durin' the rest of the season. Shucks! I didn't even try very hard either, but if I'd knowed they was lookin' me over, why, I'd probably gone plumb ta' pieces.

It shore is big and purty down here in Foridy. I ain't never seen so many thiny things and fancy gadgets. And the Edards are the gol-durndest bunch of fellers I ever did see. The first day I walked intothe locker room and saw all those big fellers like "Campy" and "Newk" and "Mik" an' everbody, I got such a big lump in my throat I felt like I wern't gonna' be able to breathe. My feet felt like sled runners and when I tried to walk they got all ttangled up. In fact, I was so all tangled up. In fact, I was back behind "Ole Dobin" again.

But ya know, alla them famous fellers just came up ta' me and gave me a great big welcome and wished me all sortsa luck and I felt so proud I coulda' popped!

The first week so many things happened my head's still spinnin'. We suited up every day and practiced hittin', shaggin', pitchin', and taggin'. By noon a feller shore does work up a sweat and eppetite. Why, back home I never thot playin' baseball was anythin' but a game full of fun. Somehow it's different here.

Shore is funny-like the way they shuffle players back and forth here. Must be swappin' season this year. Them managers just up and trade players back and forth and ya' know, they even pay money fer some of 'em! Sorta' reminds me of an auction back in Punkin Creek. But I guess I don't have t' a' worry a spit about me gettin' traded, 'cause I ain't done nothin' yet.

Today at practice "Big Duke" hit fire balls plumb outa' the park and right in a row about a hunertmiles away. Now I think that pitcher fella is gonna' get swapped fer lettin' him waste the balls seein's they never found 'em.

Say, little "Handy Sandy" is my roommate and he shore does tickle me pink. He doesn't talk English so good neither. Why, the other day I throwed him a screwball and he never even gave it a nibble. So I ast him don't he like screwballs, and he said, "Yeah, I lak everbody." The next one he lofted real neat out between short and left, an Campy slapped him on the back and told him his "Texas blooper" was a beaut. Pore Sandy got a puzzled look on his face and come over and ask me what kind a' cow was this "Texas blooper." Yup! These Edards really are a great bunch of Bum.

Well Don, I just wanted ya' ta' know how things are goin' down here at spring trainin'. I never reckoned this woulda' happened a few years back when you and me was kids playin' ball down in the pasture after we used to get through plowin'.

Ed. Note: Since the next issue of the BEACON will not be forthcoming for three weeks, this column was made available before press time so that a reader's comment could also be printed in this issue. The comment appears on this page.

Thursday night I had the pleasure of attending Plain and Fancy. The drama department had bitten off a great deal, and I at first viewed the performance with a great deal of consternation. After Peter Reber's first solo I felt that my pessimism was well grounded, but much to the credit of a good supporting cast, the performance took itself in hand after the initial falter and continued on as well as could be expected when one considers the quality of the play as compared to the depth of talent at the old Alma Mater.

The success that I feel the performance experienced was due to a uniform mediocrity rather than any dazzling performances. Had there been even one accomplished actor or actress-singer, the outcome would have been rather disheartening, but as it was what the audience didn't see or hear they couldn't very well miss.

As far as individual performances were concerned Ruth Winters has at last injected some new blood into a tried and true but rather jaded cast. It was refreshing.

Dan King, as usual, turned in a smooth, very creditable performance. His acting was minus some of the usual effusiveness; not once was I reminded of Mark Antony.

Katie Yoder was one of the two vocalists that didn't once cause my nerves to jangle. Her voice gave the audience confidence: they knew when she started singing they could relax and enjoy it without fear of any strangled high notes or wheezed low ones. The volume difficulty that has been before noticeable has completely disappeared.

Papa Yoder is another relatively new talent that is adding much needed depth to the drama department. His performances are enjoyable because of talent and versatility which balks the stereotype performance that many amatuers find themselves harnessed with. It was too bad he had to sing.

Ezra Reber's was the second voice that showed creditable skill. A bit of re-casting would have added a great deal to Plain and Fancy.

Beyond a doubt Hilda Miller could have had any heart she wanted after her performance Thursday night. She would have had mine, old and solidified as it it. It is unusual to find a person on the stage of Eastern Oregon that can make you laugh with her, be pensive with her, and cry with her in the same evening.

This last bit saddens me as I write it. It would perhaps be better left unsaid. If there is anything an audience hates to sit and watch for an evening, it is a ham, a would-be scene stealer, in short, the bit player who makes a fool of himself. It is to you, Abner Zook, that I am refering.

In closing, it would have been nice if the orchestra had seen fit to wear dark jackets, ain't?

Federal Funds OK'd For EOC Building Plans

Word was received here yesterday that the Federal Housing and Home Finance agency has approved advances for preparing plans for building improvements at Portland State College and Eastern Oregon College. The telegram came from Senators Wayne Morse and Richard L. Neuberger in Washington.

It said: "Wish to advise Housing and Home Finance Agency approved advance of $34,125 for preparing plans for new classrooms building including central heating plant at Portland State College and $15,265 for preparing plans for Physical Education building at Eastern Oregon College."

The PE building is presently fourth on the priority list of askings before the state legislature. Money mentioned above would go for complete planning of the building, college spokesmen said today.

Reply To Snively

Dear "old and solidified,"

I too had the pleasure of attending Plain and Fancy for four nights running, (I was one of those without a dark jacket, ain't) and as I read your criticism, I woundered at your contradictions.

You say: "...a uniform mediocrity rather than any dazzling performances," and then, "Hilda Miller could have had any heart she wanted after her performance..." including yours. Is this mediocrity and un-dazzling? How do you reconcile saying that the performance experienced success, but there were no accomplished actors or actress-singers, (Hilda?) and if there had been, the performance "would have been rather disheartening..." Good performers would make a bad performance? And the end of that sentence, "..but as it was, what the audience didn't see or hear, they couldn't very well miss." You seem to intimate a comparison to the professional recordings or the Broadway production, even though you precisely state the lack of depth at our "old Alma Mater." You use the term mediocrity; mediocre as compared to what? All of these statements indicate a comparison which I feel is unjust. The production must be judged by itself and its effect on the audience, (look at the attendance reports) not criticised and declaimed in unfair comparison.

It is unfortunate that you used the stage names in chastising or eulogizing the personalities (perhaps because of the "better left unsaid" Abner Zook — which one?) for when you say "Dan King, as usual turned in a smooth ... performance," I ask, when have we seen Dan King before? And why Mark Antony? Did you expect to see "Dan King" enter and declaim, "Friends, Romans and countrymen..."?

Your whole criticism seems to rest on the lack of depth in the Drama Department, the old faces and personality dissection. You don't seem to be able to see the play for the people. Let us criticize the actors and parts as they fit into the whole play.

Please, Mr. Snively, if you suggest re-casting, even with the "lack of depth," tell us how it should have been cast. Don't leaves us with our intrest hanging out.

I have tried to take exception only to your arguments presented in the article, but as you dwelled on personalities rather than the play, I feel I must reciprocate. Are you versed in Drama? Have you participated in the EOC Drama Department? In short, do you consider yourself competent to judge a dramatic production or individual performers, or moreover, the casting, re-casting or misscasting, of a show? I suggest that if you can offer this type of advice, you contact the Drama Deportment immediately.

Eastern Oregon Drops Final Game To Vikings

Eastern Oregon College lost its chance to enter the NAIA tournament by being trounced by Portland State College 71 to 41 in EOC's last game of the season at Portland Saturday night.

Portland State jumped to early lead in the first half and were never threatened throughout the game.

State held a halftime lead margin of 10 points at 33 to 23 after using a stall to draw EOC's defense out and then run around it for the score.

EOC never did come even close to the Vikings because it hit only 10 out of 53 field goals for a poor 18.9 per cent. PSC shot 27 for 66 and a 41 per cent.

Going into this game, both teams had a 7-8 record in conference and with PSC wnning, it gave the Vikings an even 8-8 standing and a second place tie with Southern Oregon in the Oregon Collegiate Conference while the Mountaineers wound up with a 7-9 record and fourth spot in the conference.

Both SOC and PSC will play in the NAIA since league-winning Oregon Tech is ineligible to enter the tournament because of its status as a junior college.

Only once did Eastern Oregon come within two points of the Vikings and that being with about 12 minutes left in the first half when Larry Howard, an outstanding star for Coach Bob Quinn's squad all year hit one of his two field goals to cut PSC's lead to 12-10.

During PSC's stall late in the first half, Jim Perkins, who scored 22 points for the evening, held the ball for about two minutes while everybody just stood and talked to each other.

In the free throw department, EOC hit 21 for 32 for a 65 per cent and Portland State connected on 17 out of 22 for a good 27 average.

In rebounding, PSC led also 26 to 23 with Jack Parker taking the honors of grabbing 11 rebounds by himself. Jerry Baxter led EOC with 10 springbacks.

Parker and Perkins led Portland with 22 and 15 points respectively while little Johnny Winters followed with 13 counters.

Dick Quinn tallied 10 for Eastern Oregon and was followed by Howard with nine.

Winter Term Enrollment Up At EOC

– Latest enrollment figures for the winter term, as reported by Registrar Lyle H. Johnson, show more than a five per cent increase in the Eastern Oregon College student body over 1956.

Last year's total of 594 has jumped to 625 for this year. Greatest increase was noted in the area of Secondary Education and General Studies. The students enrolled in the secondary program number 152 compared to 120 a year ago. General Studies students increased from 63 to 79. Pre-professional students number 147, and Elementary, 221.

Figures also indicate an increase in the number of fourth year students, with 90 enrolled. Other classes include, First year, 232; Second year, 164; Third year, 91; and Specials, 48.

Men on the Eastern Oregon campus outnumber the women, 363 to 262.

Assembly

An assembly was held February 27, to acquaint the freshmen and new students with Evensong, a spring time function on the EOC campus.

Dr. Bishop explained the procedures and then directed the audience in singing a group of songs which have been selected for the event.

Book Available

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The answer to college students' frequent question, "What will this career or job pay me?" has been provided by a new book just published by Rittenhouse Press, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.

Title of the book is "What You Can Earn in 250 Different Careers." Based on detailed research conducted by Career Research Associates, this book not only provides comprehensive information on the range of starting earnings for each career and occupation, but also after five to eight years of experience and the maximum earnings possible.

In many cases earnings data are presented for different areas in the U.S.A. in order to show how earnings vary geographically.

Designed to answer career earnings questions posed by college students and their parents, this book is also of great value to career guidance counselors and persons engaged in personnel work.

Career and occupation categories (applying to both men and women) covered in the book include health and medical; engineering, science and technical; financial, business and service; arts, education and community service; office occupations; building trades; electrical and electronic trades; printing trades; machinery manufacturing trades; maintenance and powerplant trades; and federal Civil Service.

A very few examples of specific careers covered are dentist, occupational therapist, registered nurse, psychiatrist, engineers (all types), chemist, physicist, accountant, advertising (all phases), airline hostess, lawyer, real estate, architect, librarian, model, public school teachers (in all 48 states of the U.S.A.), secretary, payroll clerk, bricklayer, electronics technician, photoengraver and drill press operator. Also included is a list of over 150 federal Civil Service occupations with minimum, average and maximum earnings presented for each.

To be revised and brought up-to-date each year, the book is based on surveys and information obtained from such professional associations as American Dental Association, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and National Education Association and by the U. S. Dept. of Labor.

If desired, copies of the book bound in a soft cover are available for one dollar, postpaid, from Rittenhouse Press, Inc., 2401 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Intellectual Freedom

By Leonard E. Swanson

They are no longer sure of anything.
They thought the horse was holy.
Then
The horse was questioned and that confessed.
Now the questioner is silenced.

These lines are an excerpt from Archibald MacLeach's verse play, The Trojan Horse, written in 1952 and produced several times over the BBC.

The play is a cry-out against thought control, guilt by association and punishment by suspicion, which could well strangle the life from intellectual freedom. The horse had been the symbol of Troy in each man's mind until the Greeks left the giant wooden trophy at Troy's door. The wise men decreed that it was a god, that it was the symbol of Troy idolized. Laocoon, who was wiser than all questioned the "god" by throwing his spear, and at the impact of the spear on the wooden horse, a Greek voice sounded from inside the giant. But even that alien voice from the belly of the idol failed to dissuade the wise men and the people from their new god, and Laocoon, "the questioner is silenced."

With the death of Lacoon MacLeish demonstrates the contemporary move toward controlling intellectual freedom. Those who speak against the state; those who speak against accepted beliefs; quite simply, those who speak their minds are the target of this move to eliminate freedom of thought. We have seen the manifestations of this move: the loyalty oaths and their results such as the University of California faculty resignations in 1951, the McCarthy hearings, the stigma of social thought with the propagandizing of "communism" and "socialism."

Any progress in the bettering of human relations (the only progress) is the result of the understanding inherent in intellectual liberty. Control of the human mind has perpetrated the atrocities of history—the Inquisition, Nazism, Russian Totalitarianism. In our age of global transportation and universal communication, the control of the mind might result in the ultimate atrocity—elimination of thinking—so vividly portrayed by George Orwell in his novel, 1984.

But intellectual freedom is not an issue unless there are individuals who think. Robert B. Ingersol, "The Great Agnostic," and an outstanding thinker and lecturer of the latter 19th century said: "There is upon man, so far as thought is concerned, the obligation to think the best he can, and to honestly express his best thought. Whenever he finds what is right, he is less than a man if he fears to express his conviction before an assembled world." And the fear to express is the fear of punishment for thinking. Yet, if we as individual thinkers are in the majority, if we overwhelm the controllers and their bigotry with the objectivity of free thought, control is dissolved by the very assence of thinking, the understanding of ourselves, our ideas, and others and their ideas.

Intellectual freedom is an ideal, and as an ideal it must be moderated by human action.It is not a cure-all; it will not put an end to emotion, nor should it; it is simply the right to employ our minds to better understanding and so reject channeled thought patterns which lead to mass automomic chaos.

The intergal part of that freedom is the individual and his desire and ability to express this thoughs. One of my favorite quotes is by a friend of mine, and might well serve as an incentive to thinking; "The world is only as wide as your imagination." We must emloy our imaginations to encompass our world, not only physically, but mentally, trying within our abilities to accept its paradoxes and alien ideas and people, regardless of their outward appearance. It is not necessary to have an abnormally high I.Q.; it is not necessary to be a scholar or a member of the intelligencia; it is simply a matter of exploring the virgil space around our little cubes of conditioned and accepted answers.

Guam Student Interviewed

Ben Torres of Agano Heights, a sophomore physics major, has recenty enrolled in Eastern Oregon College this term. He attended Oregon State College fall and winter terms this school year and prior to that was enrolled in St. Martin's College, Olympia, Washington. A 1955 graduate of the Father Duenas High school, Guam, Ben served several times in the capacity of student leader. Among his activities he was assistant editor of the school paper and president of the senior class. He also won an all paid scholarship to the Father Duenas school.

Ben said that he has never been to Eastern Oregon prior to his enrolling here last Friday; but that he had "read a lot about it and the school." "I enjoy it here."

He is an accomplished pianist, liking both classical and popular music. Ben has ten brothers and sisters.

Student Council Asks Help

The Student Council announced today that it is in the process of revising the Student Handbook, the Pathfinder. If there are any new organizations that have been formed on the EOC campus since the handbook was last issued, it is requested that these new organizations write a short paragraph, explaining the purpose and planned student activities of their club. These paragraphs should be put in the Student Body Box in the Faculty Secretary's Office, or be given to either co-chairman of this committee, Patsy Evans or Vern Bean. The deadline for turning in these paragraphs is Wednesday, April 10.

April 12 Date Of Polio Shots

Polio shots for all students eligible for the college health services are to be given Friday, April 12, according to an announcement by Mrs. Robertson, supervisor of EOC health services.

Mrs. Robertson stated that already 200 to 300 students have indicated they wish to receive the shots. The cost to the student will be $1.00 per shot, with three shots necessary over a period of time.

An individual may receive his second shot from two to six weeks following the first. The third should be given from seven months to a year after the second.

Students are encouraged to pay their fee now to the business office. Presentation of the receipt to the campus health office will permit the student to get the shot. It is suggested that those receiving the initial shot should pay the additional dollar at the same time, making them eligible for the second, since there would be just the short 2-6 weeks waiting period.

All copy for the "Beacon" must be in the "Beacon" mailbox (faculty secretary's office) by Monday noon or turned in to Patsy Yoneyama the week of publication.

Tryouts Held For S-B Play

Tryouts were held this week for the forthcoming EOC Sock 'n' Buskin production of "The Late Christopher Bean," a comedy in three acts. However, due to the press deadline of the Beacon (and the adviser's non-consent) the names of the members of the cast will not be released in the paper at this time.

The play, by Sidney Howard, is set in the dining room of the old house of Dr. Haggett, a stout, undistinguished rural medical man of fifty. The house is located a few miles outside of Boston. Other members of the cast are: Susan Haggett, a pretty girl of nineteen; Abby, the hired help of the Haggett family—a Yankee villager, aged vaguely between youth and maturity; Mrs. Haggett, like her husband, she is a Yankee and about the same age. She has citified airs which, she feels, brings her above the level of her native village.

Another daughter of the Haggetts is Ada, a girl of twenty-six who fancies her baby prettiness and baby-like manners. The other four men in the cast of nine are: Warren Creamer, the village painter and paperhanger; Talliant, a smoother, youngish and shabbily-dressed New Yorker; Rosen, an oily and too affable Jewish gentleman of middle age and Maxwell Davenport, an elderly and distinguished gentleman.

Practice begins next week and the production dates are set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 9, 10 and 11.

FINAL MOUNTAINEER SALE TO BE HELD

Final copy for the Mountaineer has been sent to the printers. There are still a few copies to be sold. To accomodate tthose who have not bought a copy, Business Manager Carol Ann Wiglesworth will hold a final sale in front of the Business Office April 24.

STUDYING NOW MIGHT PROVE VALUABLE

Now that spring is officially declared and the new term is in progress, it might do us good to sit and contemplate our agenda for the next two months. Probably, the first thought that maybe this time, you can do it (i.e., crack that coveted straight-4 point for the term) may be haunting you in your moments of leisure! Good luck to such aspiring young scholars, and may we drop you a subtle hint: plunge headlong toward your goal now—during all your spare time—instead of just meditating, then, on your ambition!

Most people generally concede that studying is more difficult a pastime to indulge in during spring weather. You remember that spring is the time when a young man's fancy turns to etc., etc., etc. Perhaps it might be well to form the study habit now, whether we're four-point aspirants or not, early in the term.

WHY NOT A TWO-PARTY SYSTEM?

While browsing through the newspapers of other colleges and universities, we find that several of them have already commented editorially on student body election campaigns. Their campus early-bird politicians have officially declared their candidacy for student body offices in the coming spring elections and have announced their platform.

We feel that even on our own campus, now is not too soon to start thinking about next year's student body officers. What leadership qualities should a student leader have? Who, or what persons, are most capable of shouldering the tremendous load of problems and worries that characterize the office? We might start thinking about such matters today so that when petitions for candidates are released later during the term, we will not be caught entirely unprepared or be taken completely unaware concerning likely candidates.

While on this subject of elections, we would like to mention that other campuses have several political parties which each put up their own candidates. For example, Oregon Staters have seen two parties, the Keystone Party and the Peasant Party, crop up recently with their candidacy. These parties have planned rallies for the future. Quoting from the Barometer: "In past years these rallies have proved to be key instruments in the election of student body officers. It is at these rallies that the studentst . . can meet the candidates running for the main positions of leadership in the student government program.

We feel that perhaps a two-party system on the EOC campus might liven up the annual election campaign. Each party can nominate its candidates and write a platform, and students can pool their support for one or the other party. A third party might also enter the picture; it might prove invaluable in creating more intrest in the elections. In the past a third party on other campuses has upset armchair politicians' predictions of definite trends in the race. Also, a third party, as the Barometer suggests, may provide that extra competition that keeps the other two parties honest, provides a basis for stronger platforms, a cleaner race and a greater interest in the future betterment of a college.

This is purely a suggestion, but we hope some good campus organizer will do a little thinking on the issue—and even act upon it.

How Are Your Study Habits

Loren S. Handley, director of student advising at Kent State university, said few students entering college know how to study.

"This includes even top high school students," he said. Hadley said that most students are poor readers, do not know how to take notes and have never taken an exam in which they had to do more than pick the right answer.

He recommended that college students spend most of the daylight hours studying and save the "favorite" subject for study at night.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Do you know what the typical college freshman looks like? High school students in eight Eastern Oregon towns got a glimpse of a typical college freshman—Mike Ferguson. Mike, dressed in a bright striped shirt, a loud red plaid jacket, and an EOC beanie played the part of the freshman in the show which the band presented in Umatilla, Boardman, Arlington, John Day, Prairie City, Vale, Ontario, and Weiser, Idaho. Bart Clements acted as narrator for the show, and he played it straight without adding any of his own comments to liven it up. Accompanying the band on the trip were Nadine Elam, Bart Clements, Patsy Walker, Sung Wan Hong, Barrie Edwards, and Kiyoko Yamada.

On trips like this all participants are reminded that they are representatives of EOC, and all must act accordingly. This includes good table manners, and all offenders are punished by having to go around the table. Only four people, Barbara Carter, Nadine Elam, Kiyoko Yamada, and Monte Nedrow were caught with their elbows on the table during the three days. Dr. Lewis was watched carefully by all of the members of the band, and he should be congratulated on not slipping up even once.

Record dances were held for the group in the John Day Hotel on Tuesday night and the Moore Hotel in Ontario on Wednesday night. These were attended by almost everyone on the tour and everyone enjoyed them. The one at Ontario was very successful, thanks to Gary Winkel's "Kissing Cousin" who helped him organize the dance.

Several members of the group learned that it isn't wise to play cards while riding backwards on a bus which is traveling on a twisting, winding road. The results? Ask Bart Clements. He was the first to advance to the front of the bus. Bart was quickly followed by student body vcie-president who still insists that he was only there to carry out his official duties of giving moral support to our president when it was needed most. We aren't so sure about that though.

The bus broke down at Huntington on the return trip. Half of the band got a ride on a passing Greyhound, and the rest stayed until the bus was repaired. After supper in Huntington, the remaining members of the dance band played in the bus while some of the rest of the group danced along the side of the bus and in the aisles. You should have seen Dr. Lewis and Patsy dancing along the aisle trying to keep their balance on the swaying bus after the trip was resumed. They didn't succeed because Monte Nedrow came out of the deal slightly squashed.

Between Baker and La Grande Dr. Lewis was serenaded with an original song composed by Barbara Carter, Bob Herbig, and Bart Clements. The song, "You Can't Get To Chow Without A Tie," was sung by those students who still had enough energy left to sing it.

All of the students who have not gone on a tour with an EOC group have missed a lot of hard work in getting ready for the tour, but they have also missed out on a lot of fun which more than makes up for the work put into the preparations.

One thing that helped make this trip so much fun was having Dr. Lewis along. He was really a swell person to have with us because he was always ready to add life to the group whenever things became dull. He deserves lot of thanks for putting up with everything that he did put up with on the trip. We really hope that he is fully recuperated by now. This paragraph should get us A's which balance out the F's received for some of the preceding statements.

Don't forget the orchestra concert on April 14. The guest soloist will be Sigurd Rascher, internationally known saxophonist.

We wish to thank Karen McGillivray for turning this column over to us this week so that we could give you a short review of the band tour.

Dorion Briefs

By Vadine Moore

Well, it seems that every thing is back to normal once more in Dorion Hall.

There were a few girls who didn't return this term and they are: Irene Niemczak, Gretchen Glass, and Molly Yoneyama. Evelyn Hill and Liz Baumiester have moved out of the dorm, but they are still attending school.

Only one new girl moved into the dorm this term. Joan Profitt is a transfer from Portland State. We certainly extend our welcome to her.

We see Mrs. Hoyt is busy with the many problems that are brought to her each day. We would like to extend our thanks and appreciation to her for her time and patience.

It looks like spring has sprung in Dorion Hall. The girls are bringing out their spring clothes once again.

We hope this will be a successful term for every one here.

Formosan Student Enrolls At EOC

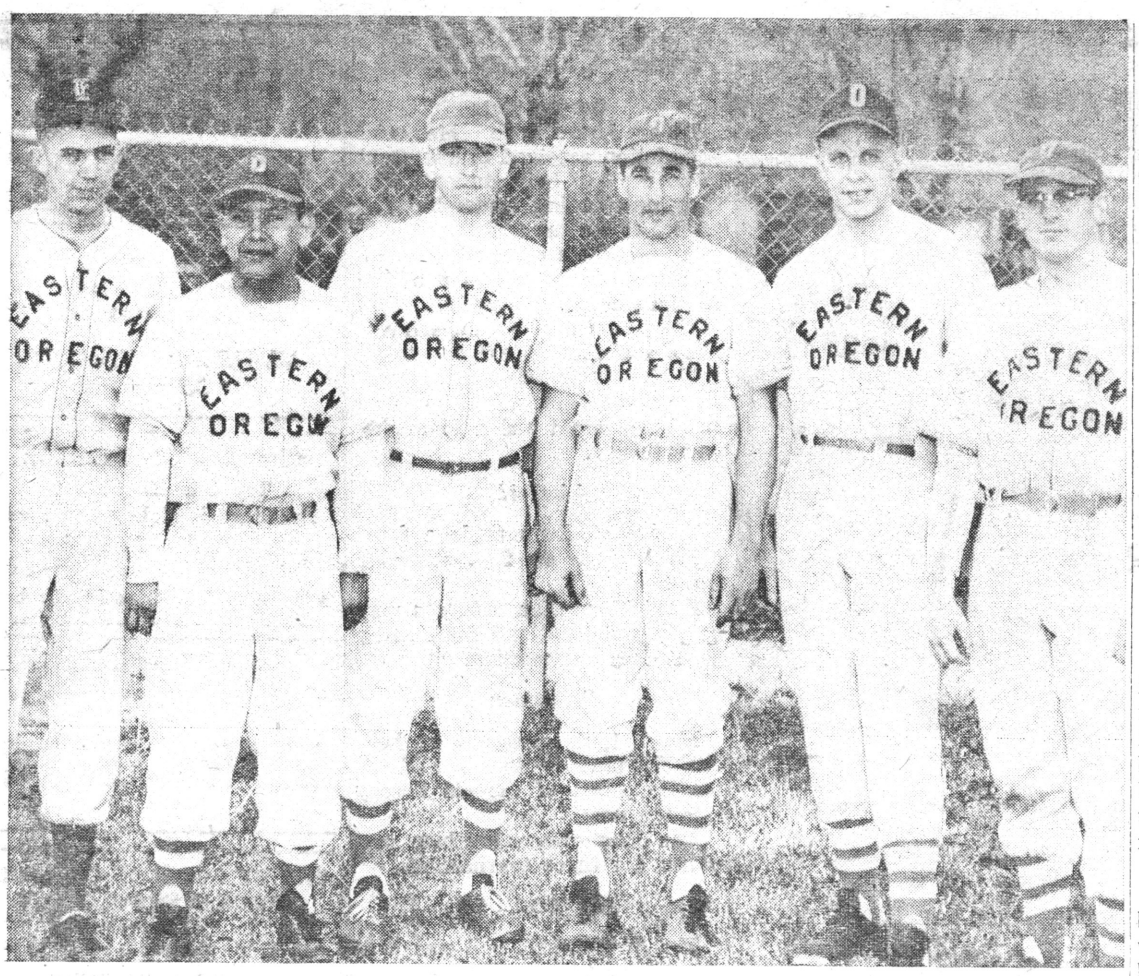
By Janice Foye & Al Abe

From Taipei, Formosa, to the campus of Eastern Oregon College comes Mr. Yu-San Wong, a major in elementary education. Mr. Wong has enrolled here for the spring term.

College is not new for Mr. Wong nor teaching, for that matter. He has previously completed three years at National Nanking College followed by seven years in which he taught Chinese. At Eastern Oregon Mr. Wong plans to complete the course in Secondary Education in which he is now a junior.

Mr. Wong was born 32 years ago in Shuchow on the mainland of China. He resided there with his parents until he was 11 years old. Then he moved to Chunking for his high school education. At the age of 20 he entered the Nanking National College where he majored in education; his minor field was foreign languages. He fluently speaks Malayan, English, his native Chinese, and can understand Japanese.

During the time he was a student the the college, the Communist party began to push their propaganda machine. Via magazines, newspapers, and other mediums, the Communists held that the then existing government was not suitable for the welfare of the Chinese societies.



Mr. Wong said that once during an evening meal at Nanking National College, the Communist students and anti-Communist students held a "scrimmage," using chopsticks, rice bowls, and dishes as weapons in a bitter struggle to "overthrow" the Nationalist domination of the college. In this match of bitter foes, the Nationalists won because they had the support of the majority of the student body. Mr. Wong says that all the Nationalists adherents at the time were in a common, close friendship with each other.

Mr. Wong was the president of the Student Self-government Body for three terms before the Communists finally forced him to leave China. Escape to Formosa seemed to be the answer to Mr. Wong's problem. Unknowingly, he made his first step toward studying in the United States. During this time both his parents were slain by the Communists, and five years ensued before he heard from his brothers and sisters. In Kielang, a short distance from Taipei, he taught for five years in a girls' junior high school.

Four years ago he passed examinations to enter the United States. An economical and family crisis detained his arrival to this country, upsetting his immediate plans. Last year he again took the examinations. Except for a test in American Embassy, which he passed on the second try, Mr. Wong came through the examination with "flying" colors."

Mr. Wong's original plan was to enroll in a large college or university. But an information bureau in Taipei suggested, among others, Eastern Oregon College. He decided to come here.

Mr. Wong says that he feels at ease and at home at Eastern Oregon College. He thinks American customs are "very different," however. He said, "It is not only the town I like, but rather the people of this campus. All of the students are very kind."

Mounties Drop Opener 5-4

Coach Bob Quinn's Eastern Oregon College crew lost its season opener Saturday to the Mavericks of Washington state penitentiary, 5-4, at Walla Walla.

The Mountaineers allowed the Mavericks two runs in the opening inning, but held them scoreless for the next five. EOC scored two runs in the fifth on an error, a fielder's choice and double by frosh Al Tolar. Tolar again helped the cause putting the Mounties ahead in the seventh with another double and a squeeze play by Rudy Clements.

The opener, scheduled as a seven inning affair, was tied and went into the eighth frame. Bristow, Mountie centerfielder, singled and scored on Chase's single. The Mavericks won in the bottom of the eighth when Sturgis got on with a two-base hit, Sonnefelt walked and both came home on Martin's double.

Outstanding batter for EOC was Catcher Tolar with two doubles and a single in four times at bat. The freshman from Echo also batted in two runs. The Mavericks' Herman got three RBIs on the strength of a homer for his only hit in three trips.

A second game got through three and one-half innings before curfew with the Mavericks leading 3-1.

Priscella Garcia Returns To EOC

Priscella Garcia of Tamuning, Guam, a returning student, will graduate from EOC this summer. She was here previously from 1951 to 1953. She is majoring in elementary education. Her husband, Frank, is stationed at Colorado, Springs, Colo.

In high school, she played parts in three plays, was active in the Spanish Club, and was vice president of the home economics club.

She was awarded a full-tuition scholarship to EOC by the Oregon State System of Higher Education in 1951. At EOC Mrs. Garcia has membership in, among other clubs, Alpha Rho Tau, International Relations Club, and the Foreign Language club. In 1955 she was vice president of the Newman's Club.

Her interests range from her hobby, art, and music to sports (tennis).

Mrs. Garcia is "indefinite" as to where she will teach. She said that she will teach in whatever country her husband is stationed.

Speaking Frankly
by Don Frank

The following article was turned in to me the other day, so I thought it might be interesting to print it, especially since it was written by a girl. We are going to try to have her turn in one for each of the issues of the paper for the rest of baseball season.

Spring is sprung and it's raining baseballs! At least it was last week when I climbed into the bleachers to watch the team practice. March 27th was the first inter-squad game and the boys played, and despite the rough spots they looked pretty good and showed lots of enthusiasm.

Coach Bob Quinn was behaving like a pro ump and calling the game despite a small problem. It seems the boys were belting a lot of fouls which slowed practice down somewhat. Coach Quinn made comment on the situation by saying they would have to start using tennis balls pretty soon if they didn't stop curving them toward the courts.

Joe Miller gave me a shock! He's the quiet fellow who sat by me in history class last term. He didn't look anything like a baseball player, much less a pitcher. But there he was at practice in his faded blues. He walked up to the mound and started pitching like a pro. Well, you never know when you're next to greatness.

Larry Swartz also has a hurlin' arm and really put something into his pitching. Ash Prince has possibilities; he looked good on the mound at practice. Rudy Clements, Bill Meade and Lyle Young round out Coach Quinn's able pitching staff.

Big Bob Dawes was on first and certainly did a good cover job. Bob's sort of a Ted Williams to the team. Pee Wee held second real well. Ron (Butch) Palmer held the hot corner and Rudy Clements filled the gap between the bases. Rudy lends his good humor to the club to keep them in good spirits.

Larry Holmes was playing the field along with Jack Woods and Jerry Bristow.

Dick Cantrell and Al Tolar shared the catching duties at practice. "Whitey" Chase was like a race horse on the bases and will probably see most of his action in the outfield.

Saturday the team was slated to meet Boise Junior College at Boise in a double header, their first game of the season. But this unpredictable month of March upset the schedule and the game was called on account of rain.

The probable starting line-up would have been: Dawes at first, Quinn at second, Palmer at third, Clements at short, Bristow, Chase and Holmes in the field, and Cantrell one game and Tolar the other behind the plate.

Librarians Hold Regional Meet

There was a meeting of the Eastern Oregon Library Association members in the faculty lounge Saturday, with President Ralph Secord, librarian of the Umatilla County Libraries presiding.

There were librarians and board members from John Day, Ontario, Baker, Union, Elgin, Wallowa, and Pendleton.

On discussion was the development of city, county, or regional libraries. The group felt that there should be a greater organization of existing libararies, along with the promotion of larger areas of service since the small libraries have difficulty with the meager funds they get.

For the coming year the group elected Mrs. Bernadine Gildersleeve, Senior High School librarian from Baker as president. Mrs. Fleetwood, public librarian also from Baker was elected as Secretary-Treasurer.

Representative Of WUS Visits EOC Campus

Mrs. Gladys Lawther, World University Service's northwestern representative, and a northern representative for the YWCA, visited the EOC campus last Wednesday and Thursday, speaking to different classes about the WUS. In the course of her affiliation with the WUS, she has traveled extensively in southeastern Asia.

The World University Service is an international organization, Mrs. Lawther told her classes, and operates in 41 countries. She said that one of its functions is to help American students (as well as students of other countries) help themselves in terms of obtaining or supplying health services, food, books, and other items.

She said 85% of the Indians in India and Indonesia live in villages, 80% of the population is illiterate, (although literacy is spreading via state and private schools), and the caste system is breaking down due, in part, to modern Hindu thought, Christian organizations, and classless technical employment trends. She added that the pressure of the masses on the educated few for economic and social opportunities is "tremendous."

Mrs. Lawther said that the people of one Middle Eastern country were being aflicted by a disease of the eye, resulting in blindness. The direct cause was infection of the eyes by a certain fly. She said the people of that country did not know that a simple hygiene measure as washing the eyes out thoroughly with boiled water would lessen the effects of the disease. She went on to mention the part WUS played in seeking an agency to explain what sanitary measures could be taken b ythe people to lessen the effects of, or even to cure, the disease.

In conclusion Mrs. Lawther urged all students to think about studying abroad, even if only for a year. She said such an experience would prove invaluable in acquainting and enlightening the student on foreign relations and problems. She said such an undertaking would prove "fun" and "profitable."

IK's Pick Pledges

The annual Intercollegiate Knights' initiation program is now in full swing. The various pledges may be seen doing a number of odd jobs around the campus, done as a service of the organization and to prove that their interest in, and their desire to join, the Intercollegiate Knights is genuine. These pledges may soon be seen wandering around the campus in self-made suits of armor which they must wear for one whole day. The climax of the initiation is the Parent's Weekend program, in which the IK's participate.

Science Fair Attracts 2400 Visitors To EOC

The Regional Science Fair was held in the basement of Walter Pierce library March 30 through April 5. Featured in the exhibit were 150 science displays on the elementary and secondary level from forty schools. Also featured were some 300 elementary - and junior high school - level science teaching projects which were prepared during the winter quarter by Dr. Bolen's physical science classes.

Over 2400 visitors came to the Science Fair, all the way from Hermiston to Huntington.

Dr. Bolen was general chairman of the Science Fair and William Wells of Ackerman was in charge of the exhibits.

Douglas Hiatt and Allen McGlasson, sixth graders in Ackerman grade school, received word that their project placed first in the Intermediate Physical Scieence Division at Oregon State College.

The joint project, a display showing the different phases of stars, past, present, and future, topped over 100 entries in their division from the state at large.

Other Ackerman students receiving mention include Tom Easley, "B" award; John Knight and Philip Jones, "B" award, fifth grade; and Barbara Plauss, "C" award, sixth grade.

EOC Talents Asks Aid

Students and faculty were treated to a local-talent ensemble of EOC students during the 11 o'clock assembly hour last Wednesday. The show, a preview of the individual numbers that were to be presented before the college audience with a special appeal directed to it to donate blood to the Red Cross. The Boise regional Red Cross was on campus Wednesday, operating in Hoke Hall.

Boyd Devid (Condon), the master of ceremonies for the show, said that the EOC quota was set for 150 pints of blood. He said that over 600 students are enrolled at EOC, and urged that they get "bloody." He said the drive had a competition "on" among the four classes to see which would give the most response.

The talent show consisted of the following: the newly organized men's quartette (Bart Clements, Dick Cook, Boyd Devin, and Alan Gray) sang two songs; Stella Hawk played two numbers on the piano; the girls' trio sang "I Got Along Without You Before I Met You, Gonna Get Along Without You Now" and "Sincerely;" Maurice Lane, tenor, accompanied by pianist Patsy Walker, sang "Desert Song" for one of his two songs; The Gary Winkle Combo (Patsy Walker, Leonard Swanson, Bob Herbig, Gary Winkle, and Dave Everett) played "When the Saints Go Marching By" and "Everybody Loves My Baby."

All copy for the "Beacon" must be in the "Beacon" mailbox (faculty secretary's office) by Monday noon or turned in to Patsy Yoneyama the week of publication.

Grande Ronde Symphony Has Saxophonist

Sigurd Rascher and the Grande Ronde Symphony presented the third, and last, of the symphony concerts for the 1956-57 season Grande high school auditorium. Mr. Rascher is the world's leading exponent of the saxophone, and he has performed in most of the leading concert halls around the world. He has appeared with more than 200 symphony orchestras and has had more than fifty compositions dedicated to him since his debut 25 years ago. He has extended the normal two and one-half octave range of the alto sax to four octaves. Rascher was born in Germany, reared in Switzerland, and has lived for several years in Sweden. He and his wife and four children now live on a farm in New York.

The program included: "Ave Verum Corpus" and "Overture to the Opera," "Cosi Fan Tutee," both by Mozart; Lizt's "Les Preludes," Ibert's "Concertino Da Camera" (Allegro Con Moto" and "Larghetto, Poi Animato Molto"). Welander's "Arietta" and Bizet's "L'arlesienne Suite No. 1" ("Overture," "Minuetto," "Adagietto," and "Carillon.")

Middle R To Be Printed This Term

The Eastern Oregon literary magazine, The Middle R. will be published this term. Known last year as the Intercollegiate Review, the magazine has now reverted to its former title.

Stories, poems, and critical articles of all types written by EOC students are welcome. Every undergraduate or graduate student is encouraged to submit his work in manuscript form for consideration by the editors.

Manuscripts may be turned in to Dr. Clarke, Dr. Kaiser, or Mr. Anderson, of the English department beginning today (April 19, 1957) until May 1. Manuscripts should be typed, double spaced, and have the name of the student submitting the work.

Remember, you need not be a literary genius to submit to the Middle R. Those little poems or stories you dashed off in a fit of passion may be just what the editors are looking for.

'April in Paris' Prom Theme

Dancing to the music of the "Blue Notes," many couples were in attendance at the annual EOC Junior Prom with "April in Paris" the theme of the 1957 edition.

Decorations chairman Bob Bagley's committee did a wonderful job on the decorations, carrying out the theme very well.

Dancing began at 9:00 p.m., and at approximately 10:30, intermission was held, with entertainment arranged by Jeanne West.

Other committee chairmen were: Sherill Cockburn, refreshments; Connie Newman, programs; Pat Reeves, orchestra; Jean Adamson, sponsors; Arleta Nord, invitation and Sandra Spickerman, publicity.

Monte Nedrow

By the Nedrow for President Committee

Qualifications are essential for this undertaking and Monte is qualified. He is president of the Junior class, he played a big part in organizing the Junior-Senior Prom, he is vice-president of Theta Delta Phi, the men's honorary society here in campus and he is business manager for the band, and was a Sophomore class representative. As you can see from the long list of duties Monte has held, or is holding, he is very active in to revise certain sections of the student affairs.

If Monte is elected, he would like constitution. He feels there should be more efficient class organization.

Robert Bagley

Presidential Candidate for Student Body President of EOC

Bob Bagley is a junior in education and is a graduate of La Grande High School. Bob has been very active in student government on campus and is now the representative of the junior class on the student council. He is a member of Theta Delta Phi, men's honorary on campus, of Sock & Buskin, of SOEA, and of Intercollegiate Knights. He was recently elected vice-president of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders at their convention in Salem, and his most recent success was acting as chairman of the delegation to the Model United Nations held on the Stanford Campus April 10 through 13.

Candidacy Reasons: "'I entered student government to explore for myself the potentialities of student government at Eastern Oregon College, and I have discovered that a positive attitude and program can aid student government achieve its proper perspective. A candidate for president must be honest, an open-minded person who will work industriously, being prepared to handle current problems that naturally confront him. Student government is currently suffering from a more than ordinary lack of interest. An intensive program of public relations, closer personal contact and optimism must be developed if greater student interest is to be achieved.

Does student government really represent the student? Those in student government benefit the most from it just as those who participate in student activities also benefit if the government is performing its service function, and making it easier for those student activities to follow the interest of the students participating in them. However, student government in far more than a mere exercise in administrative or legislative procedure. Its primary aim should be to represent the students and to help create a satisfactory solution to the needs and interests of the student body.

The president is elected to represent the student body both in contact with the administration and with a multitude of outside groups. The president, in his daily work is in constant contact with the administration. He is therefore fully aware of their policies and opinions. It follows that he must, again through personal contact with the students, make himself aware of their viewpoint."

Dick Quinn Steve Johnson

Steve Johnson
Candidate for ASB President and
DICK QUINN
Candidate for First Vice-President

Editor's Note: The two candidates listed above have joined together in the preparation of a single platform which they are backing in the campaign for student offices. They feel that through advocation of the same program, they will be in an advantagious position towrad carrying out the duties of their offices in the event that they should be elected.)

Steve Johnson, 20-year-old junior from Wallowa, has attended EOC three years, is a member of Intercollegiate Knights, has received two letters in football, and has an accumlative GPA of 3 point-plus. He is a co-chairman of the 1957 Parents' Weekend in May.

While in Wallowa high school, Steve was president of the National Honor Society, president of the student body, a member of the student council for three years, salutatorian of his graduating class, and a recipient of the Certificate of Leadership awarded by the University of Oregon.

Dick Quinn, Johnson's running mate for the first vice-president, has attended EOC three years, is a member of the IK's, and has earned three letters in fotball, one in basketball, and two in baseball.

While in La Grande high school Dick was a member of the National Honor Society and was senior class president.

Principles of Joint Johnson-Quinn Platform

1. Expansion of Student Intramural Program.:

The development of the new physical education plant will open up a great many opportunities for student participation in unorganized athletics. We have received the backing of the Athletic Department for a program of expansion of the Intramural Program.

We feel the Intramural Program is an essential item in the integration of campus life. With the support of the student representatives, the Athletic Department will be able to present to the students a very broad, active program.

II. Advancement of the Campus Social Program

We are not intent on carrying out a crusade concerning social activities, for this falls into the area of the second vice president. However, there is much room for offering support to the Social Chairman who has one of the most difficult tasks in the school government.

We would like to advocate the formulation of a Social Committee whereby the second vice president would be the chairman and would be responsible in selecting those persons to fulfill the committee. This committee would be a great aid to the Social Chairman and would undoubtedly result in a great advancement in the campus social program.

III. Closer Relationship Between Student Council and Students:

A perennial problem of school government is achieving the healthy relationship between the students and their representatives which is necessary in order to maintain a closely student-centered body.

will feel free to bring forth any

It is our hopes that the students suggestions or ideas which they may have. Whether the suggestions are presented to the council in person or presented through the representatives, we hope to give our utmost efforts in satisfaction of these items presented to us.

A MESSAGE TO THE STUDENTS AT EOC

The time for choosing the leaders of our college for the year, 1957-58 is now at hand.

Instead of spending a great deal of space detailing the duties of each officer, I think we would do well to look at the type of person we want for our leaders. There are two traits that this leader could scarcely do without. They are competency and the ability to get along well with others. They go hand in hand, for if a person is extremely competent and cannot work with others, just how effective is he? The most competent person in the world could not handle Homecoming alone. If this person has everyone pulling with him and he still cannot organize their actions, he is equally lost.

Another guide-post to look for in choosing a leader, is that of asking yourself if this is the person that you would choose to represent you and your college. It is often the case that people get their only impression of EOC from their contact with the student leaders. This is important, for if we wish to continue to raise our school above the others in the state, we want people to think well of us.

Before we run completely out of space, I want to pay tribute to the officers that have served so well during the past year. By working together, these people have accomplished nearly every goal set up last spring. I am proud to have worked with the following: Richard Cook, First Vice President; Bob Valient, Second Vice President; JoAnn Nuss, Secretary; Rudy Clements, Rally Squad Leader; and R. Boyd Devin, Student Business Manager.

Thank you for a wonderful year.

Bart Clements,
ASB President.

POLICY TOWARD CAMPAIGN REPORTING

Since this paper is a special election issue, we have tried to cover the campaign fairly, as thoroughly as possible, and without bias. In all fairness to the candidates running for office, each person has been granted space for his biographical and campaign write-up. Efforts have been directed toward canceling any statement of a libelous, slanderous, or discriminating nature. In the succeeding issue of the Beacon, we will endeavor to cover the general election campaign with integrity, thoroughness and fairness.

This year's crop of candidates appears to be a responsible, efficient, and progressive group. From the leadership abilities shown by several of these students in the past, these particular individuals will certainly not disappoint the campus, if elected. If the onlooking voters are not acquainted with a candidate and with the general background information concerning that candidate's leadership qualities, personality, and ability to fulfill the student office, we strongly suggest that they take time and effort to inform themselves about those persons. Who knows—there may be another, better man, more suited for the job than the buddy-buddy.

Everyone cannot win in this race; some will win, some will lose. We congratulate all the candidates for entering the game, for playing the game so squarely, and for campaigning with such zeal and high ideals. We admire them for distinguishing themselves from out of the hum-dum of daily student life in order to voice their plans for an efficient ASB government and for their taking the initiative, for acting upon those plans. Good luck to the candidates—may the best man win!

Billie Jo Bond

By the BJB For Secretary Committee

We, the BJB Campaign Committee, would like to recommend Billie Jo Bond as the promising candidate for the office of Eastern Oregon College Student Body Secretary.

Billie is a hometown student coming to EOC as the salutatorian of the La Grande Hi graduating class of 1955. She is a sophomore majoring in elementary education with a side-kick of Spanish.

Her high school experience includes: business manager of her high school annual; secretary and president of G.A.A., Spanish Club, Ski Club, and Orchestra; secretary of Tiger Guard and Quill & Scroll; and membership in Student Council, National Honor Society, and Tri-Hi-Y. She has been a delegate to the Oregon Press Conference and to three Regional High School Student Council conferences.

On campus, she takes an active part in Sigma Alpha Chi, SOEA, Modern Language Club, and the Interfaith Council.

As a platform she promises to continue the good work done by secretaries of the past. She will try to keep the student body informed on student functions and problems by consistent posting and publishing of important issues. Most important, she promises to attend the student council meetings and keep an accurate record of the proceedings. She will strive to be the best possible representative for the school and promises to serve your—the students'—best interests faithfully.

It is because of this assurance of satisfaction that we recommend Billie oJ Bond as the new Student Body Secretary.

INVEST IN BOND AND SAVE!

Jean Adamson

Jean Adamson

By the Adamson for Secretary Committee

Jean Adamson, candidate for ASB secreary, is a junior in elementary education and is from Milwaukie, Oregon.

We feel that Jean is eminently qualified for this position of student body secretary by virtue of the offices she has held previously in EOC. These offices include being president of Sigma Alpha Chi (Women's scholastic honorary) and president of the Wesley Fellowship (Methodist Youth group).

Foremost in consideration as valuable assets for the student body secretary office are the positions of secretary which Jean has held for the band and the FTA. She is, at present, state secretary of the Oregon Methodist Student Movement. The latter position is especially important since its duties demand, and receive from her, the same keen sense of responsibility and devotion ot duty as the position of student body secretary.

Joan Eldridge

By the Eldridge for Rally Squad Leader Committee

Listen to the Cry!

By JANE COFFMAN

Mrs. Gladys Lawther, Regional Executive of WUS, was on our campus this Thursday, and many of you had an opportunity to hear her speak on world problems and situations. She was also here to stimulate our interest in an organization to which each one of us belongs.

The World University Service was created to help meet the basic needs of universities and other institutions of higher learning and their members, to promote the mutual sharing of knowledge and experience in seeking solutions to practical university problems, to foster the development of international understanding and cooperation between the university communities of all nations.

Did you know that in Indonesia, the sixth largest nation in the world, 91 percent of the population is illiterate, that there is only one doctor for each 62,000 people, that in a survey of 14,500,000 people over 1,000,000 cases of TB were found?

Did you know that a survey at the University of Tokyo showed 1 TB case in every 25 students, that 3,000 students need hospitalization for TB?

Did you know that in Calcutta 3,000 students had no housing (by actual survey), that they were sleeping in streets and railroad stations, that many times they received less than 2,000 calories per day?

These are certainly problems which we can understand and which we must work to overcome. In Asia, Student Health Centers and TB Sanatoriums, stocked libraries and laboratories have been established. Scholarships, medicines and foods are offered to refugee students in Europe. Books and equipment have been shipped to African universities to African universities to help overcome barriers of isolation. In the Middle East, dormitories have been constructed. This is just the beginning, and there is much for each one of us to do, but before we can begin, we must feel a genuine concern for those students over the world who are less fortunate. A willing heart and ready hands will do much to break down barriers which fortune has built.

WUS—to meet the needs of the university community throughout the world.

Round-up Of Campus News

Tuck Men In At Night?

Last time we heard, the University of Oregon males were in quite a calamity over the topic, "Housemothers—Pro and Con." Problem seemed to be that administrators throughout the nation and most mothers' clubs, alumni groups, and fraternity Nationals favor the housemother-for-men in dorms a desirable, and necessary program. According to the U of O "Emerald," one discussion leader reported that "alumni groups, mothers and fraternity neighbors" have expressed some desire for a plan which would give men's living groups "a little less freedom."

Classroom Or Frontier?

Due to the Corvallis centennial celebration which will occur after the term ends, Oregon Stae College professors are trekking to the lecture podium with pioneer-like visages. A requirement among the centennial regulations states that all able-chinned male residents must sprout a beard or purchase a shaving permit.

Going Backward Into Time?

Whitman students and faculty are getting into shape for the "Back to Marc" celebration scheduled for early May in honor of the college's namesake, Marcus Whitman. Garb for the day will include anything worn back in the good old pioneering days of Whitman. The day's activities will be planned to match those of the rugged pioneers.

Door Prize . . .Anyone?

Portland State College's "Vanguard" reported that an all expense paid trip to Hawaii will be the door prize at the Hula Oni Oni, the annual Hawaiian dance sponsored by Kappa Phi fraternity. The winner must be some person connected with PSC and need not be present at the colorful dance. The expense of the $300 trip will be raised through the sale of 25 cent tickets.

Day Of Infamy

From the San Francisco State "Foghorn" comes this item written by a columnist: "Last Friday started out as just another, stupid, but before the final rays of the sun had set . . . many a San Franciscan was consulting the astronomy charts and zodiac maps to discover if the misfortunes of the day had been prophecized by the ancients, or at least hinted at by the scribes. Earthquakes . . . shook the very foundations . . . One professor looked as if he was about to shout "Mio Dios—Caramba!" and a million other Spanish terms before he released his class.

That wasn't the only earthquake . . . the ASB president decided to impeach vice-president for reasons too entangled to detail . . . whereupon the latter promptly got enough signatures on a petition to impeach the president . . . the whole thing is terribly political."

EOC Students Experiment In Biology

If you are wondering why all the biology students are busy catching animals, ants, digging dirt, and doing other activities, you will find the answer here.

Each student in biology has a term project to which he must direct all thoughts and efforts this term. The purpose of this project, which is due May 13, is to experiment with different areas of biology, such as plants, animals and bugs. Among other activities which are being used as projects are stuffing birds and animals, growing plants in different types of soil, raising rabbits on different foods and recording carefully the results, raising ants, and preserving flowers through various methods.

These projects will be on display May 13 through 15, during Parents' Weekend in the biology department of Hoke. The exhibits will be open to the public. Each student in biology will act as a guide for a designated hour. In this capacity, he will lead a group of visitors through the exhibit, explaining and answering questions about the projects.

College 5th In Nazarene Track Meet

The Eastern Oregon College thinclads opened their season Saturday, placing fifth in the Northwest Nazarene College Invitational at Nampa, Idaho.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor indicated that EOC performances were below expectations but that he looks for considerable improvement by Saturday when the annual Eastern Oregon College Invitational gets underway.

Freshman Earle Smith collected seven points for the EOC 15-point total. He took second in the broad jump and third in the 100 yard dash. Lowell Kolbaba took second int he javelin with Elvin Daggett coming in fourth. The Mountaineers also picked up a fifth place in the 880-yard relay.

Whitman College topped the field with 90½ points, followed by Weber, Boise J C, Northwest Nazarene, Ricks, EOC, and College of Idaho.

Coach Dunsmoor stated that some top performers are in the offing for Saturday's Invitational, particularly by Finkbeiner of NNC, Klicker of Whitman, and Storey of BJC, all veteran tracksters. Finkbeiner turned in a 4:31.8 mile, Storey a :22.2 in the 220 yard dash, and Klicker took first in the high jump, broad jump, and low hurdles.

EOC Students Respond To "Vaccine Day"

Mrs. Margaret Robertson announced last Friday that more than 200 students received polio vaccinations administered in her Ackerman office April 12. She stated that all students were receiving inoculations at a special fee of $1 per shot. The second shot, she said, should be administered two to six weeks after the first one, and will be given on the EOC campus Monday, May 6. The third vaccination will be given next year, some seven to 12 months after the second vaccination.

Although polio strikes more often in lower age groups, when it strikes the young adult, it is apt to produce more extensive paralysis. A survey of polio patients using respiratory aids on July 1, 1956, reveal that seven out of every 10 of these patients are over the age of 20. Although polio may appear in its paralytic form at any age, it is vaccination for those up to 40 years that must be emphasized. Only two per cent of the paralytic polio occurs in people 40 years of ager or older.

RESULTS OF THE VACCINE TO DATE

Following are figures on reported cases of polio in the United States over the last few years.

1953	35,592 cases
1954	38,476 cases
1955	28,983 cases
1956	15,400 cases

Reported cases for 1956 were down 47 per cent from 1955 and down 59 per cent for the five year average for 1951-1955.

AWS To Sponsor Tea-Fashion Hour

On April 23 in Hoke Hall, the Associated Women Students of Eastern Oregon College and the local women representing the American ssociation of University Women will sponsor a Tea and Fashion show for the girls of surrounding high schools. Co-chairmen for the fashion show are Josie Ward, Forest Grove, and Mary Ruth Green, Heppner.

Six to eight different categories of a college girl's clothes will be modeled by girls from Eastern Oregon College. The clothes will be those from personal wardrobe of the girls, and they will be shown in an effort to acquaint prospective college coeds with the various styles and the type of clothes worn at college.

A definite theme has not been decided upon yet, but it will be centered around the college coed. Entertainment between scenes will be a featured part of the program.

The fashion show and tea will be largely an invitational affair open to women interested in college fashions.

Myron Carpenter

By the "Carp" for First Vice President Committee

Myron Carpenter is a 22-year-old sophomore from Vale, Oregon. He has always been known for his cool head in an emergency and his willingness to work on any project assigned him. These traits have been evident throughout his high school and college careers.

Since coming to EOC, Myron has been extremely active in Thelta Delta Phi, the men's scholastic honorary fraternity. He has helped organize and carry out many of the functions of this organization since his initiation last year.

Probably the organization which is most thankful for Myron's helping-hand" is the Interfaith Council. He has done everything from washing dishes to selling tickets for the Interfaith Banquet.

Another organization that has benefited from Myron's cooperative attitude is the Student Council. He has not been absent from a single meeting this year and his cool head has preserved the peace at many a Council meeting.

The Intercollegiate Knights, always on the look-out for a person who is willing to work, have asked Myron to join their group and he is at present a pledge.

If past performance is any indication of what a person can do, it should be quite obvious that Myron is the individual who can best serve the Student Body as first vice president. As mentioned above, he has experience on the Student Council. He is the only candidate for first vice president who can say this. Also as mentioned above, he is a hard worker; one who can take the bit in his teeth and get the job well done. We of the Myron Carpenter Committee feel that he is the candidate who will best serve you in the capacity of first vice president. That's why we say "Build with Carpenter."

Dennis Godfrey

Dennis Godfrey
By the Godfrey for First Vice-President Committee

Dennis Godfrey, candidate for ASB first vice-president, announced the following as a basis for his platform:

(1) My major, and first, act will be to promote more interest in student elections on the campus and to help students promote student participation in the affairs of the college government.

Godfrey is a social science major in secondary education; his minor is in the fields of music and physical education. He signs second bass in the choir and in the Blue and Gold. He is a representative-at-large to the student council.

Godfrey was born in Ontario, reared at Huntington, and graduated from Huntington high school. This athlete participated in all sports, was a varsity letterman for three years, and claims that his interests lie in archery, hunting and fishing. Student offices which he held were student body president, junior class president, president of the debating club, vice president of the Lettermen's club, and membership in the National Hig School Studetn Counicl. He participated in drama and also was a drama club member for four years.

Of his campaign manager, Norman Trotter, Godfrey said, "He is the most efficient and sincere campaign manager that a person could hope for. He knows the politics of the campus and can therefore help me get started off right.

Geo. Schoedinger

George Schoedinger
By the Schoedinger for First Vice-President Committee

George Schoedinger, candidate for first vice-president, has lived in dormitories since he was in grade school. For this reason, he feels that he knows the problems that arise in any dormitory. A veteran of the navy, and consequently older than most of the other members of his class, he will be a junior next year. He has maintained better than a 3.5 average in schools.

Schoedinger has held a number of offices in high school, including positions on the dormitory council, the honorary system executive board, senior prefect board, chapel committee and was chairman of the library committee. He was a letterman in four sports: football, swimming, tennis, and track.

He is president of the freshman class at EOC this year and is also on the assembly committee. The following is the basis of his platform in the election campaign:

(1) He not only wants to see the student council run efficiently, but he also wants to try to build school spirit by arousing the interest of the students in the affairs of the school.

(2) He wishes to promote student interest in order to get away from "suitcasiasm".

(3) He is willing to spend the time on such a job in order to see that it is well done. This is shown by the way he handled the freshman homecoming activities last fall, for which he was responsible.

(4) He would like to see EOC get more well-known around this area (Oregon, Southern Washington, and Idaho) as well as at other campuses. This might be done by inter-collegiate activties.

(5) In short, Schoedinger wants to start building much needed tradition.

Mike Ferguson

By the Ferguson for 1st Vice-Pres. Committee

Mike Ferguson, freshman nominee for First Vice-President of the EOC student body, was born in Baker on April 8, 1939, but now claims The Dalles as his home. He graduated from The Dalles High School in 1956.

While in high school, Mike was quite active in dramatics and music, two of his big interests on the EOC campus, also. In addition to appearing in several plays, he held offices in band, choir, Thespians, Hi-Y and Tomahawks, a DHS service organization. In his junior year, he was elected to the staff of the school paper, the Tillicum and the next year was named co-editor and was also elected president of Quill and Scroll, a journalism honorary. Mike was on the ASB council for two years and worked on several committees, gaining experience in the workings of student body government.

On the question of platform, Mike says: "I believe that there should be more class competition, but, of the friendly variety. Take, for instance, the recent blood drawing held on the EOC campus. I understand that it was one of the best held here in recent times, but could have been better. If given the chance, I would strive for more and better student support of such functions as this and also many of the student social functions. In case of representation, I would work to make the office of student representative mean more and better student social functions. In case of representation, I would work to make the offices of student representative mean more than I understand it means now. In general, I will work for more and better representation, more student support of social and other activities, and better student-faculty relationships."

Don Frank

By the Frank for Second Vice-President Committee

Don Frank, Hermiston freshman in business, is a candidate for second vice president. Until he was a senior in high school, he lived at Milton-Freewater where he distinguished himself in extra-curricular activities and in athletics. He moved to Hermiston, where he now resides, during his last year in school. H was an active member of the Thespians' troupe in both schools. He received a scholarship to the Art Institute in Chichago.

Frank is the sports editor on the Beacon this year, and has also been in charge of the EOC radio program at KLBM.

He was in the army for two years. He has the experience and the know-how to carry out the job of the second vice-president.

For the basis of his platform, he says that (1) he will work on getting the social calendar out at the beginning of every term; (2) he will try to arouse more interest in campus social life and create more participation in the social affairs; (3) he will plan more activities for the weekends; and (4) he will try to eliminate some of the suitcase-ism which is so prevalent around here.

Patsy Reeves

Patsy Reeves
By the Reeves for Second Vice-President Committee

Patsy Reeves, Umatilla, is campaigning for the position of second vice-president. The 19-year-old miss was co-chairman for the Homecoming banquet in 1956 and was also chairman of the Parents' Weekend breakfast that same year. She was co-chairman for the band banquet this year. Student offices which Patsy has held are the following: band secretary (1955-56), urbanite president (1956-57), band librarian (1956-57), W. R.A. secretary (1956-57), choir social chairman (1956-57), and junior representative to the student council (1956-57). She is also a member of Sabers, Sigma Alpha Chi, FTA, and the orchestra.

During her high school career in Umatilla high, Patsy was the Honor Society president, Girls' Athletic Association president, band librarian, senior class president, an Order of the "U" president, and a cheerleader.

Josie Ward

BY THE "WARD FOR SECRETARY" COMMITTEE

Josie Ward, candidate for ASB secretary, is a sophomore, who has assumed the roles of a leader and an organizer a number of times on the EOC campus. The Californian-born (San Jose) major in elementary education is at present secretary of Sigma Alpha Chi, the women's honorary, and business manager for the Beacon. She is a member of Sabers, the Dorion Hall council, Iota Phi Omicron, and Future Teachers of America. She was a princess in the royal court earlier this year at Dorion Hall's annual Sweethearts' Ball.

Although Josie's accumulative GPA, 3.56, suggests she might be a bookworm, this supposition is entirely contrary to the real facts! Josie is a studious young lady with ambition, but she also takes an active interest in, and participates in, various social funtions, school activities, and sports.

The 19-year old miss was born September 5 in San Jose. She now resides in Forest Grove. She graduated from Forest Grove high school in 1955, leaving behind her a busy career centered around membership in the honor society, Quill and Scroll, student council, pep club, and Thespians. She was editor of the school annual, a homecoming princess, and also held several class and student body offices.

Josie feels qualified to shoulder the responsibilities and problems that will fall upon any student body secretary. Josie's broad experiences with student problems and relationships gained from serving on student committees, her popularity on the campus, and her enthusiasm are assets to be desired in any secretary.

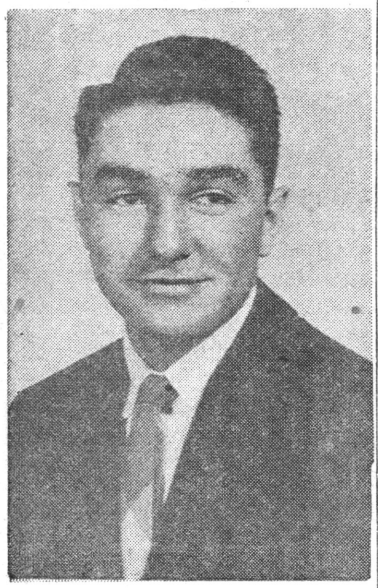
Johnson Wins Top ASB Post

By Barrie Edvard



Steve Johnson, a Junior of Wallowa, was elected the new president of EOC's student body in the elections held here in Friday, April 26. He will succeed Bart Clements of Cove.

Dick Quinn of La Grande was named first vice-president, Don Frank of Hermiston is second vice-president, Josie Ward, Forest Grove, was chosen secretary, and Joan Eldridge of La Grande was elected rally squad leader.

It was estimated that 56 percent of the student body took advantage of their privilege to vote as compared with 50 per cent last year. This shows a six per cent increase in interest over the student body elections of last year which must be attributed to the industriousness of last year's student body executives. On behalf of the student body, the Beacon wishes to acknowledge their efficiency with a hearty vote of thanks for a job well done.

DICK QUINN
First Vice President

The new student body presidency gave the following statements to the Beacon:

President Steve Johnson: "It was a distinct privilege to be chosen by the students of EOC to represent them in their student government by electing me as their Associated Student-body President. This is an honor of which I am truly appreciative of. I sincerely thank each of you who have displayed faith in myself and the program which I presented during the campaign.

"The newly elected officers will begin their operations during this term and carry on until May 1 of 1958. I am sure that we all intend to project our utmost efforts in carrying out the duties of our positions.

"It would seem appropriate that a new administration would make some early effort to announce their inauguration. We have accomplished this by acquiring a juke-box to be placed in Hoke Hall lounge and to be used for evening entertainment and get-togethers. We hope the students will "get together" and make this new addition to our campus a crowning success."

First vice-president Dick Quinn: "I would like to thank the student body for having enough confidence in me to elect me as their first vice-president. I hope that I can live up to the students' expectations of this office."

Second Vice - President Don Frank : "I feel privileged and honored to be chosen by the EOC student body to carry out the duties of 2nd vice-president. I shall do everything in my power to uphold and sustain your faith in me."

Secretary Josie Ward: "I was very pleased to see the tremendous interest shown in the election this year and I am sure you will find your new government one which has a direct interest in your concerns. I am very honored the student body elected me to the position of secretary and I wish to thank all those who supported me and especially Dick Walker, my manager, for his help in the campaign."

Rally Squad Leader Joan Eldridge: "Once again I would sincerely like to extend my appreciation to the students who helped me on my campaign and to those that voted for me. Next year you will have a good enthusiastic rally squad . . . but they are only part of the school's spirit; the student body is the other part. I hope to get cooperation from both sides."

The final results of the elections were:

President: Steve Johnson 224

Bonita Booth Chosen Queen

Miss Bonita Booth reigned as queen during the annual Intercollegiate Knight's and Sabers ball which was held held last Friday evening, May 3, in Hoke Hall to the music of Johnny Reitz of Portland. "Knighthood" was the theme of the semi-formal dance. The pledges for the I. K. decorated Hoke for the dance as part of their initiation. The Sabers also helped to decorate.

The Reitz band, which provided the music, is a noted national radio, television, and recording group. Reitz has appeared at many well known night spots.

The dance was a student body affair and was open to the public. Miss Bonita Booth was crowned queen of the dance during an impressive ceremony.

Dr. Douglas Speak, the I.K. edvisor, was the over-all chairman.

All copy for the "Beacon" must be in the "Beacon" mailbox (faculty secretary's office) by Monday noon or turned in to Patsy Yoneyama the week of publication.

Mountaineer Staff Chosen

Jean Edmison, a sophomore from Bend, has been seelcted to edit the Mountaineer for the coming school year. Assisting her are Karen McGillivray as a junior from McMinnville who will assume the duties of business manager, Arnie and Jerry Taylor of Burns, photographers, and Classes editor, Dorothy Cress of Baker.

Plans are already underway for the next yearbook. The new editor plans on enlarging the activities section and Mr. Kimbrell, advisor of hte staff, suggested that group organizations not only turn in pictures but also a complete article of their purpose and activities. Snapshots of off campus actiivties would be of interest to students and they are encouraged to turn these in to the editor or members of the staff.

This year's Mountaineer is expected to arrive before the end of this term and distribution plans, time and date will be announced later by Carol Ann Wigglesworth. Thus far out of 450 books 40 have been sold to the EOC Advancement Association at regular student prices and 10 copies yet remain unsold. Students are requested to pay for their annuals as soon as possible since next year's order will be based on this percentag.e Mr. Krimbell says that they will try to keep the cost of the annuals within the amount students can accord.

At present there are several editing positions that remain unfilled on the persnt staff. Students who feel they have the time and desire to work on this publication are encouraged to do so.

I.K.'s ELECT OFFICERS

The Intercollegiate Knights elected officers at their last regular meeting, naming Dick Walker, Front Royal, Virginia, as duke (president).

Other officers include Don Holznagle, Hillsboro, worthy scribe; Lewis Parks, Pendleton, chancellor; and Rodger Dalgleish, Portland, recorder.

Welcome To EOC, Parents and Visitors

After several weeks of planning and re-planning on the part of the several committees, Eastern Oregon College is again host to visiting parents in the school's annual Parents' Weekend. The schedule of events which includes tours around the campus, student exhibits, breakfast, lunches, a barbecue, concert and other entertainment, has been especially planned out in detail with an eye both toward giving the parents a good time and giving them a panoramic view of college life at EOC and of student endeavor. In this attempt both the academic aspect and the social life have been worked into the activities.

Eastern Oregon students are proud to welcome their parents to this college. They take pleasure in presenting it to their parents for their interest, inspection, and relaxation. They are proud of its tradition and standards, and hope, themselves, to carry these on into the future. They have worked, both in their living groups and in their campus organizations, to make elaborate and thorough plans in order to show to best advantage as much of a part of student life as possible.

The students hope that when the parents leave this campus, it will be with a sense of accomplishment, of a stimulating, worthwhile weekend, acquainting themselves with their sons' and daughters' lives at EOC.

Most of all, everyone hopes all the weekend visitors will have a most enjoyable weekend and will visit the campus again.

"The Late Christopher Bean" Now Showing On EOC Stage

Eastern Oregon's final public dramatic production of the season, "The Late Cristopher Bean" goes before an expected full-house audience tonight for its second performance. Last night the play drew a good sized crowd, and tomorrow night, many parents, here for Parents' Weekend, are expected for the last performance for the traditional American comedy.

Members of the cast include: Dwight Burtis as "Dr. Haggett"; Diane Gilstrap, "Mrs. Haggett"; Roberta Miller, "Ada Haggett"; Donna Talbot, "Abby"; Leonard Swanson, "Tallant"; Virginia Van Blokland, "Susan Haggett"; Dick Slabaugh, "Rosen"; Ron Voteberg," Warren Creamer" and Tom Mercer, "Davenport."

Director Richard Hiatt said the cast was "a good combination of veterans and new people."

Student director of the production is Jean Rosewall, while the Stagecraft and Lighting class is handling the production end of the performance.

This will be the final Sock 'n Buskin production for the year, so any students who have not as yet seen the play are urged to do so as it is expected to be a very excellent production.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Welcome to EOC and our Parents' Weekend. This week "Music Notes" will try to show you parents what life is like when we belong to one of the music organizations on campus. On the way back to La Grande after the recent choir tour several members of the choir helped me write this column about the tour.

As usual on tours, we left La Grande about the time the birds began to awaken. The first stop was Athena, and this performance went off like a dress rehearsal. Things definitely improved for the Hermiston and Stanfield concerts which were performed later in the day.

Boyd Devin likes "Dark Water" so much that he wanted to sing it twice in the program. He tried this at Athena, but Mr. Wilson discouraged him. He was allowed to sing it anytime he wanted to between concerts, however.

At dinner at Heppner, the first night we heard campaign speeches from Don Frank, Dennis Godfrey, Patsy Evans, Mike Ferguson, George Shoedinger, Jean Adamson, Jan Robertson, and Joan Eldridge. These eight choir members were running for student body offices and were not going to be present for the campaign speeches here at school.

Also at this meal, punishment was begun for poor table manners. Instead of the customary sentence of running around the table, all offenders had to run around the block. By the end of the tour, almost half of the choir had made a trip of this type, and several had made two or three of them.

Between concerts the bus was very lively. Bart Clements, Dale Moulton, and Don Frank brought ukeleles and Mr. Wilson lead songs almost continually. Word games and a wee, wee bit of studying also took place. Laughing exercises were lead by Dick Cook and Boyd Devin. These are only successful when everyone is dead tired; they were exceptionally successful on this tour.

The ninth and last concert was held in Mosier. After the concert Linda Kane' mother treated everyone to cokes and cookies. Thanks to her thoughtfulness, we survived the rest of the trip. At this time the decision was made that everything must keep both elbows on the table at all times. This was the first, last, and only unanimous decision on the whole tour.

Tie clasps were given to the bus driver and Mr. Wilson for being so much fun and such good sports. Mr. Wilson acted just like one of the choir members, and he really added to our fun. We still owe him a lot of thanks for being such a lot of fun.

We returned home Wednesday night about 9:30, and most of us were in bed by 9:32 and asleep by 9:33. Tours are a lot of fun, they also mean a lot of work before hand. Band and choir really aren't this way every day. We do work and we work hard) three or four times a week, as you will see tomorrow afternoon at the band and choir concert.

WUS Whirl

The WUS Whirl held Friday night in Hoke Hall was a big success, according to Bob Valiant, social chairman.

The Gonzaga University choir participated by singing a few numbers.

At intermission Bart Clements announced the results of the Student body elections.

There was a big crowd and the dance didn't end until 12:0 0instead of 11:30, as was scheduled.

The proceeds, $36.00, went to the World University Service.

Show Attracts Record Crowd

The A.A.U. and A.W.S. combined talents and energy to present a tea and fashion show for the senior girls of the surrounding high schools, faculty wives and local women interested in attending. The event took place in Hoke Hall on April 23 beginning at 8:00 p.m. Josie Ward and Mary Ruth Green weer co-chairmen for the fashion show effectively conducted the modeling and narration for the program. The theme featured the college coed, her bid for Joe College and the clothes she might wear to "catch" him. Girls from Eastern Oregon College modeled clothes selected from their personal wardrobes.

Six major categories of clothes for colleges were shown. Cotton dresses for daytime and informal evening wear, sportswear for those carefree tennis games and swimming, semi-formal evening wear for parties, pajamas for that "after - the - dance get - together." Sunday dresses for church and dinner dates, and formals for the big dances were effectively shown. Prompting many sighs from the audience were the wedding dresses modeled by Milodene Bolen and Marg Knight.

Sandy Benson received approving glances from the audience as she modeled her pastel, wide striped, polished cotton frock and Kathy Craig made a charming picture in her yellow-flowered cotton print dress with the matching stole. Ranona Travielle pleased the sports ' ethusiasts when she appeared in pink and white striped Bermuda Shorts and a semi-fitted over-blouse. The latest in swim wear was shown by Sonja Davison who wore a coal black suit with white trim and a novel neckline. An elegant dress in floating lavendar taffeta worn by Mary Lou Swieger presented an ideal semi-formal date dress. Marlene Scott in delicately printed shorty pajamas presented a perfect picture of ac ollege co-ed after closing hours. A sheer dress madef rom red and white nylon modeled by Janet Coffman made an attractive outfit. A light blue, frothy net formal symbolizing the "big formal dance" was worn by Judy Tonack.

The girls who participated in the modeling were: Elaine Mcaught, Sandra Benson, Jean Hunter, Sharon Cupper, Lane Morrison, Janis Robertson, Dixie Trumbull, Kathy Craig, Linda Woodhouse, Ranona Travielle, Marilyn Hilyard, Patsy Walker, Nicki Scofield, Jan Hindman, Judy Tonack, Sonya Davison, Nance McCrae, Arlene Wayt, Letha Sager, Mary Lou Swieger, Mary Lou Pavelchik, Florence Welch, Joan Glen, Beverly Donovan, Marlene Scott, Cathy Landis, Sheri Warren, Billie Miller and Nell Pataopff, Lynette Pershall and Sharon Becker, Sandra Spickerman, Bernice Opp, Donna Sene, Gayle Meek, Jessica Dunn, Donna Johnson, Lillis Slaughter, Bonnie Fox, Jane Coffman, Jane Bell, Jo Belshaw, Linda Kane, Jean Graham, Milodene Bolen and Marg Knight.

Interfaith Has Easter Show

At 10:45 a.m. on Thursday, April 18 the Annual Eastern Assembly was held in the auditorium. The assembly was sponsored by the College Interfaith Fellowship and Evelyn Riggan presided.

Patsy Evans began the program by playing an organ prelude. The Eastern Oregon College choir then entertained with two Easter selections, "Were You There" and "Psalm 150." An Easter prayer was spoken in unison and the film, "I Beheld His Glory" was shown. The film featured the trial, crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus.

Club News

The Pre-Nurses club met May 1, in the cafeteria with President Janice Ward presiding. Members of the group planned a picnic to be held May 17, at Cove. Following the meeting several of the members viewed a film on the principles of first aid.

LANGUAGE CLUB

The Language Club met April 29 at 8:00 in Hoke Hall. The faculty advisor for this group is M. C. Pierce. There was background music of the Latin American variety.

The President, Jane Coffman, presided over the business meeting. The most important business of the evening was the election of officers for the coming year. Those elected were Billie Jo Bond, president; Mayben DeGraw, first vice president; Arleta Nord, second vice president; Dorothy Cress, secretary-treasurer. The new officers will take over for the May meeting.

Mr. Pierce was in charge of the entertainment. He showed slides of the Central American countires. He also gave an exhibition of Voodoo music on the drums.

Refreshments in keeping with the South American theme were served to conclude the evening.

ALPHA RHO TAU

Alpha Rho Tau met Monday at 7:00 p.m. in Hoke Hall. The meeting was for the planning of the decorations for the Coronation Ball. The chairman of the decorations committee is Linda Woodhouse, and her assistants are Gerald Stiller, Bernice Opp, John Trigg and Roberta Lyons.

EO Wins One—Loses Two

Eastern Oregon College's Mounties traveled to Klamath Falls the weekend of April 19th to open the regular baseball season with the Oregon Tech nine. Lyle Young, EO chucker, gave up only four hits, but the OTI men capitalized on three walks and three errors to drub the visitors, 6-2.

One of the Eastern Oregon runs came in the second after Roy Garland bounced out to second and Bob Dawes went down cutting. Terry Ziegenhagen stepped in and clubbed the ball over the left field fence. The other tally came in the sixth when Bill Meade walked, advanced to second on an error by the pitcher, took third when Jerry Bristow lofted one to second, and scored as Garland rolled out to the pitcher.

The next day, April 20th, found the Mounties on the OTI diamond for the second and third games of the trip. The first game of the double bill proved more successful for the La Granders as they pounded OTI's Keppinger for seven hits. EO pushed across one in the first, three in the third, and two in the seventh and eighth.

Miller, Swartz, and Clemens combined to hold OTI to five hits, although they gave up 15 walks.

In the second contest, OTI picked up six hits off Young, seven walks, and four errors, and consequently came through with a 6-1 victory.

Speaking Frankly
by Don Frank

With 15 contests under their belts, the Eastern Oregon baseball club starts their home stand. Only two of the games have been played on familiar grounds thus far, and this may be the reason for the win-loss record. The EO boys have won only two. It is a given fact that a club functions better in front of their own people, not only in college ball, but in the majors too. Although the team lost both of the home games, one by 11 runs and the other by 10, the fact that they are never on the EO diamond could be one reason.

As for the pitching, the chuckers have lost four games by one run. The reason seems to be the fielding. A total of 49 errors have been committed. This averages to 3.27 a game. The number one men have given a total of 93 free passes, averaging out to 6.2 per game.

Part of the pitching trouble could be credited to the La Grande weather: cold. Although the last few days have been good for baseball, the pitchers had to work out in pretty cold weather, and consequently it will take them longer to get their arms in shape than some of the schools located in different climates.

Saturday, April 19, Eastern Oregon College held a track meet on the EO cinders. The team faired pretty well, considering the same thing that has hampered the baseball team, the weather.

Seems as though Earl Smith doesn't condemn his ability to jump just to the basketball court. He came through with a first place in the pole vault with a jump of 11', a first place in the broad jump with 21' 9". Smith also picked up a third place in the 100 yard dash and a fourth in the high jump to give him a total of 14½ points for the afternoon.

Elvin Daggett sprinted to a first place in the 100 yard dash wtih a time of 10.3 and a second in the javelin behind Lowell Kolbaba, who finshed first, with a toss of 188' 5.". Jack Harmon contributed 3¼ points with a third and fourth in the broad jump and the low hurdles. Elmer Bean placed fourth in the high hurdles.

Library Meeting

Miss Agnes Shields, State school library specialist, and Mrs. Sue Morrison, from the Oregon State Library, met with school librarians of this area in Ackerman Library April 29.

Book selections was the main topic with book reviews given for both elementary and secondary levels.

A large selections of new books was on display during the day.

A no host luncheon at Hoke Hall was well attended after the meeting.

MOUNTAINEER IS FINISHED

Mr. Kimbrell, advisor of the yearbook, reports that the Mountaineer is finished and is in the hands of the publisher. He further relates that he has no idea when the printing of the yearbook will be completed.

The Mountaineer staff has set no date as to when students will receive their copy, but they hope it will be soon.

Viking Dump Mounties In Slugfest

April 26 saw the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers and the Portland State Vikings battling out an Oregon Collegiate Conference baseball game on the Portland battle field. A total of 33 hits, 11 of them doubles and one a home run, were given up by five pitchers. Also, a total of 25 runs were scored, 13 by Portland and 12 by EOC.

Terry Ziegenhagen, EO left fielder, hit his second homer in league play in the second inning off OTI starter, Jack Gilland.

Dick Quinn, Mountie second sacker, led the EO nine at the plate with 3 hits for 4 times at bat.

The next afternoon Eastern Oregon tangled with the Portlanders in a double bill, dropping the first 5-4, and the second 10-0. The second was a no-hitter pitched by Gary Lansing of Portland.

Going into the sixth inning of the first game, the Mounties led the home club by a score of 4-2. Lyle Young gave a pass to Kilmer, the lead man of the inning, Hal Davis got on on an error. Then Ton Ferguson pounded one out of the park to give the Portlanders a 5-4 win.

College Nine Drops Three To Portland

Coach Bob Quinn's Mountaineers held Portland State College to no runs for five innings, but dropped the first of Saturday's doubleheader, 5-4. EOC also lost the second, 10-0.

EOC hurler Lisle Young, Echo sophomore, allowed no hits until the fourth frame when Biglow singled. Portland then got to Young for five more in the next three innings. The Mounties bunched three hits in the second to score their four runs. Bob Garland got the only other safety when he singled in the third.

UN Conference Highlights

By Tom Mercer

Delegates to the Model United Nations Conference, held at Stanford University April 10 through 13, came back to the campus April 15 with news of an exciting trip. The eight students attending were: Robert Bagley, chairman; Tom Mercer, Press Delegate; Harold Moore and Vern Bean, Special Political Committee; Mary Jo Russell and Roberta Miller, Social, Cultural and Humanitarian Committee; Dick Arens and Sandra Spickerman, Political and Security Committee. The group was accompanied by the delegations advisors, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaiser.

Five hundred and fifty delegates from sixty-two colleges and universities, representing the 81 UN countries, made up the largest model UN in the world. Representing the five major world powers were: Oregon State College, United States; UCLA, United Kingdom; University of California, USSR; Washington State College, China; St. Mary's College, France. Eastern Oregon College represented the country of Lebanon.

EOC's delegation left La Grande Monday, April 8, at 6:30 a.m. enroute to Reno, Nevada. The group stopped at Mary Jo Russell's home in Nyssa. Mrs. Russell provided delicious fried chickens, which made a very enjoyable picnic lunch at a roadside stop. After a long 12 hours of riding the group arrived in Reno, and spent the evening investigating the night life of "The Biggest Little City in the World."

In Truckee, California, 30 miles from Reno, the limousine's right wheel bearings went out. The wheel and axle came off, and the brake fluid on the hot metal caused a nearly disastrous fire. A California state truck, fortunately nearby, provided a fire extinguisher to put out the blaze before more serious damage resulted.

The new axle and various other parts needed to repair the limousine were available only through the factory, so the delegation proceeded by bus to San Francisco.

Wednesday morning was set aside for registration of delegations and a reception was held Wednesday afternoon.

The first of three General Assemblies was held Wednesday evening. Dr. Tsiang, Nationalist China's U.N. delegate gave the keynote address.

Dr. Tsiang spoke on the continued importance of the United Nations and urged that the free world watch the developments in the Far East with a critical eye. The seven councils and committees of the Model United Nations Thursday morning started a two day debate in an attempt to cover the major areas of contention facing the UN today. After the two-day debate all decisions made by the councils and committees were put before the final general assemblies for approval on Saturday for final approval.

The most important issues facing the Model UN were the Middle East (Suez and Arab-Israeli question) Hungary and Cyprus.

In the third case tried before the MUN International Court of Justice, the United Kingdom asked the court to rule that the actions of Janos Kadar, Perene Muennick and Gyorgy Marosan in putting down rebellion in Hungary was genocidal in nature.

Counsel for the United Kingdom explained that his country felt there is nothing wrong with trying to put down rebellion, but that there are two different ways of doing it—genocidal and by a civilized means. (Genocide equals the systematic killing or extermination of a whole people or nation). The ICJ ruled that the excesses shown in suppressing the Hungarian revolution were not with the intent to abolish races.

Debate in the committes was usually hot and heavy with walk-outs common. The Stanford Daily reported the following: Glass played an amusing role in the ECOSOC committee when after a flurry of debate a sudden lull came over the group. Then someone accidentally knocked a glass onto the floor. After a long silence one delegate said, "I move it be picked up."

One of the big surprise moves was made by the United States (OSC) when they proposed that a special committee be set up to consider the possibility of internationalizing ALL waterways under the control of a permanent UN commission.

No similar proposal has been made in the actual United Nations.

The proposal recognized that continuous trade among the nations was a "necessity" and that "the interests or administrations of nations controlling (vital) waterways may adversely affect this essential flow of trade.

Much argument was made that the proposal was irreverent and that it would not be good sense to bring up such issue at this time. A "extraordinary session" was called for Saturday afternoon to take up this matter and the meeting was limited to one and one-half hours. Saturday morning a United Press release came out which stated that the President of Panama wanted to nationalize the Panama Canal and hoped to do this through friendly negotiations with the United States:

Many attitudes changed on the OSC proposal at that time.

Next year the University of Washington will host the eighth Model UN sessions.

The EOC delegation spent Saturday night in San Francisco seeing the sights and then returned home Sunday by bus. All delegates were pleased with their trip and reported it was well worth the time and money. As the press delegate to the conference I would like to go on record as saying that the Model UN is the most interesting and informative conference I have ever been on. Since the conference will be at the University of Washington next year and since I will be attending the U of W, I hope to see EOC well represented.

EOC Teacher To Attend Art Meeting

Dr. George Nightingale, head of the EOC Art Department, attended a convention of the National Art Education Association, April 15 to 19. This convention, which was held in Los Angeles, at the Hotel Statler, is the first to be held in the West.

Dr. Nightingale participated in a College Educators Seminar held during the convention.

As an added highlight the convention arranged for members of the convention to be guests at some of the major studios. Dr. Nightingale saw a Blondie and Dagwood show. After the show he was shown around the studio and met the cast of the show.

The Art Educators Association held a three day meeting, May 2, 3 and 4, at Kennewick and Pasco, Washington.

Dr. Nightingale, of EOC, was the chairman of a panel, the topic, "Problems on Art Education." Miss Golz, and Mrs. Kimbrell also of EOC Art Department, partcipated together with several members from Washington State Schools.

Umberto II was the last king of Italy.

Parents' Weekend Success Despite Traditional Rain

By Mike Ferguson

The weekend of May 11 and 12 saw EOC visited by many parents and friends of EOC students, all here for the annual Parents' Weekend. The campus also had another visitor, one that was hardly welcome: the apparently traditional Parents' Weekend rain.

The rain caused troubles all weekend. It forced the temporary postponement of the EOC-SOC baseball games which, when finally played were not held on Mountaineer field, but on the Imbler High School diamond. In addition, the rain made it impossible to hold the barbecue on the football field, and it was held in the EOC gym. However, the precipitation did not hurt the quality of the food at all.

The weekend started at 6::30 p.m. on Friday evening with the Mountaineer Band banquet. Saturday morning saw registration of parents, biology and art department open house and the teachers in their offices to meet with the parents. In the afternoon, Sigma Alpha Chi and Theta Delta Phi held a joint luncheon for members and parents. The biology department continued its open house until 4 p.m. when the third annual Barbecue took place. The Intercollegiate Knights and their pledges provided the entertainment during the first part of the festivities. That evening, the final production of "The Late Christopher Bean" was presented in the EOC theatre. The crowd was very large and apparently enjoyed the production. Sunday morning at 8:30 the final function of the weekend began with the annual parents' breakfast.

Have Fun This Summer

This is the final issue of the Beacon for this term and school year. Somehow registration, mid-term, the junior-senior prom, the student exhibits and tours—they have all come and gone. The hours spent in planning, studying, and enjoying of all these different activities have merely left memories. Another term begins this fall and students will be filing onto the campus again and the whole stream of events will occur all over again. But this summer most of us will leave behind clubs, student offices, friends, and professors for destinations known or as yet undecided. And we've come to the last Beacon.

A great many things can be said in the end of any production. Yet anyone confronted with the task finds it difficult to put into cold, concrete words just the proper thoughts. The thought of being overly sentimental is distasteful to him; yet he desires to leave the spectators or readers, whichever term may be more pertinent, with a nice, kind, supposedly lasting thought.

We do not claim to have discovered that magic formula of installing good will in all. Our only words are "thank you, to all for being with us this year." The Beacon staff members have thoroughly enjoyed their work and have derived fun and satisfaction from it. Each one has tried to do his best, and in the process, hopes he has not provoked any antagonism toward either himself or his brother staff members. We humbly thank the readers for their school spirit toward, co-operation with, and support of, the paper. We thank the local merchants for supporting the paper. In our inadequacy to find the right words, may we simply wish everyone a very happy, profitable summer—and may we heave a last congratulations to the graduating seniors!

EOC Students Attend PSPA Convention

Editor's Note: Steve Johnson, ASB president for 1957-58, and Josie Ward, ASB sechetary, attended the Pacific Students President's Association held May 8-11 at Tempe, Arizona.)

By Steve oJhnson

The Pacific Student's President's Association embraces eleven western states, British Columbia, and the Republic of Mexico. All colleges and universities located within its confines are eligible for membership. No fees are charged for membership to this association and recognition as a members is therefore achieved by the attendance of the annual convention by student officers of the institutions.

The primary purpose of the Association is the sponsoring of the annual convention held each spring at a convention site chosen att he previous convention. This convention provides opportunities for incoming officers to meet with student leaders from the various schools and to discuss the many problems which will confront them during the coming year. I felt this orientation was the most important function present at the convention which Josie Ward and I attended this year.

The convention this spring was held at Tempe, Arizona, May 8-11. Essentially the time spent there was divided into three areas; discussion or similar groups, business meetings, and social actiivities.

The discussion sessions were set up in an attempt to cover many specific areas such as Organization problems of presidents, Integration of Student Activities, Human Relations, etc. During these sessions problems and solutions were presented. This is the real reason for such a conference and the information which was derived from the many groups which I attended will prove invaluable to me, I am certain.

The business meetings are held for the purpose of selecting new officers and the next convention site. During these meetings are preesnted any ideas pertaining to the association as a whole, such as changes in the discussion sessions or time the convention should be held.

Social activities are either self-explanatory or too involved to present in writing. I haven't decided which is the true solution yet.

Both Josie and I felt that the experience of this conference was truly worth all the sacrifices which we made in order to attend it. (Norm!) (Eastern Oregon rain!) We only wish we could have staed ay ear or so longer.

Next year the convention site will be at Eugene as sponsored by the University of Oregon. I only hope that we will be able to send more delegates to it in order that the fruits of such a worthwhile occastion might be shared by more of our student leaders.

General William F. Dean was the keynote speaker at the PSPA Conference banquet. His topic was the "Traits of Leadership."

General Dean said that "Leadership is one indispensable item which must be present in any association of persons. We must have leaders today for you can't use mistakes in trusting someone without leadership ability."

He said that integrity, loyalty and enthusiasm seem to be prerequisite for every leader.

MACCAFFREY, '40, is on leave of absence this year from his position at Haverford College, Haverford, Pennsylvania, to study and do research in English history, on a Guggenheim fellowship. He writes that he and his wife hope very much to make a trip to Eastern Oregon in the next summer or two so that she may make first acquaintance with it and he may renew old friendships.

Music Notes

By Karen McGillivray

Since this is the last issue of the Beacon for this year, I would like to thank Dr. Bishop, Dr. Lewis, Mr. McMullen, and Mr. Neil Wilson for all the help they have given me this year in the writing of this column.

All of the music groups around school are going to appear at least one more time before school is out. The first of these appearances will be the choir concert next Tuesday night. The main part of his concert will be the presentation of Faure's "Requiem." Also on the program will be more numbers by the choir and numbers by the men's glee club, women's glee club, and the Blue and Gold Singers.

The next appearance by one of the music groups will be at Evensong at which time the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra will play. At Baccalaureate the band, choir, and a senior girls' ensemble will all perform.

The senior girls in the ensemble include Charlotte Parsons, Mikie Bolen, Jo Nuss, Mary Jo Russell, Charlotte Vandervelt, Gail Swart, Carol Kopp, Roberta Miller, Kathleen Bannister, and Doris Ayyoub.

The Blue and Gold Singers and the orchestra will both appear at Commencement on June 7. Earlier that morning at the Senior Breakfast Diana Gilstrap will present a vocal solo and Doris Ayyoub will present a violin solo.

Last Tuesday night Janis Robertson, soprano, and Barbara Carter, mezzo-soprano held a joint recital in the auditorium. They were assisted by Betty Roudebush, pianist. Their accompanist was Patsy Evans.

Monday night is the annual orchestra picnic in Cove. All orchestra members are urged to attend.

Reviewer Evaluates Spring Play

By Vic Snively

Last Friday night I attended the most polished performance that I have had the pleasure to attend during my four long years at EOC. I'll admit that I went with some preconceived notions concerning what I was going to see. The advance publicity had been very skimpy, and the old stalwarts of Sock and Buskin seemed to regard the play as a necessary stop-gap evil. In fact, a few of the veterans weren't even willing to admit that they were having anything to do with the Spring production. But Chris' proved himself more than a match for a few skeptics.

The play was billed as a comedy, but I am quite sure that many people felt, as I did, that the tragedy and the depth to which it took the characters far outshadowed the bits of superficial humor. This leads directly to my choice of the best performance rendered in The Late Christopher Bean.

It is my personal opinion that Donna Talbott gave an almost peerless performance as Abby. Withoutt he feeling that she was able to create and without her ability to completely cast herself into the role, the play could very well have been a second rate comedy. I saw several of the more subjective theatre goers moved to tears by the last few minutes of Abby's time on stage, and that is a compliment that few amateurs on the boards have the pleasure of seeing.

A relatively new addition to the organization turned in a very fine supporting performance. Dwight Burtis as the frustrated doctor had his moments of brilliance. He also was responsible for the majority of the dropped cues, but perhaps this can be written off to inexperience and the nervous strain that comes from working with such an elite group.

For the most part, the rest of the cast can be grouped into the old pro category. And it is natural that one expects good sound performances from this group. It was a pleasure to note that not one scene was stolen or one Shakespearean stance struck by one of the more effusive members of the cast. Perhaps a word to the wise was sufficient.

A special tip of the topper should go to the stage crew, and the portrait, although I am not a critic of art, was impressive.

If you missed this performance you deprived yourself of a great expeirence.

EO Tops BJC In Marathon

Three errors and a single in the bottom of the sixteenth inning gave the Eastern Oregon College baseball team a 7-6 victory over the visiting Boise Junior College nine.

Going into the eighth inning, EO trailed 5-1, but the club came to life. Dick Quinn led off the inning with a sharp single, Bill Meade followed with another one bagger, advancing Quinn to third. Jerry Bristow sent one deep to the right fielder, scoring Quinn and sending Meade to second. Bob Garland picked up the third hit and second RBI of the inning on a sharply hit grounder through the infield. Terry Ziegenhagen sent one into the outfield for another base blow and an RBI. Rudy Clements was given a free pass and Bob Dawes slapped a grounder past the second baseman, scoring Ziegenhagen from second and sending the contest into extra innings.

The two clubs then steadied for a pitching duel betwen Lyle Young of EOC and Hayes of BJC. The chuckers pitched shut-out ball until the top of the sixteenth when Young gave a walk to right fielder Corbett of BJC. Then clean-up hitter Schaffield drove one for a hit and an RBI, putting the visitors ahead 6-5.

Garland, leading off for the home team, was given life by an error on the first baseman. Ziegenhagen got on when the pitcher fumbled a bunt, Rudy Clements banged out a base hit, scoring Garland, Dawes bounced one to the second baseman, who kicked the ball and Ziegenhagen scored, giving EOC a 7-6 victory.

ALUMNI NOTES

DON SWART '56 and GEORGE RUSSELL '56 each had their instrumental groups get a One rating at the Eastern Oregon District Music Competition. Don's band (Union), and George's band (Umatilla) received the top rating.

MISS ROSE HOOSIER, MS '55, was an overnight visitor of Dr. Margaret Morris and Sally Stein, Friday, March 30. Rose is an elementary teacher in the Stanfield schools.

Speaking Frankly

by Don Frank

Cold weather, batting slumps, and other teams, have combined to push the 1957 baseball team of Eastern Oregon to the bottom of the OCC bucket.

Cold weather hampered the pitchers and may have played a big part in the batting slumps so many of the returning lettermen suffered. It's hard to blame the weather for the pitching when Lisle Young chucked for sixteen innings to beat Boise Junior College, on the home field.

Speaking of Lisle (Strong Boy) Young, his performance against BJC was one of the most brilliant games we have ever seen pitched. Lisle had good backing from his infield, and also from the plate. We would say he held up more than his part, not only in that ball game, but throughout the season.

But now, away from the present, and into the future.

The loss of six lettermen, three of them all-conference, from the EOC champion grid club will undoubtedly hurt next fall's eleven, but, as the old saying goes, "No man is indispensable."

The team will have such favorites as halfbacks Dick Quinn, and Terry Ziegenhagen, all-conference guard Jerry Bristow, all-conference center Bud Lewis, tackle Steve Johnson, and many others back from the OCC champ team of '56. The club will be strong and fast, and hard to beat.

Basketball and baseball are far in the future, too far to make any predictions.

Hope we don't stub a toe, but here are some predictions. We pick the two power clubs in Big League baseball this season. The Yanks have too much power from both sides of the plate for any of the other AL clubs, and the Redlegs have the same in the National. As for the World Series, no comments.

SOC Pitcher Blanks EOC With No-Hitter

Duane Sides, freshman Southern Oregon College hurler, pitched a no-hitter against the Eastern Oregon College here yesterday, and the visitors from the south, second in the Oregon collegiate conference, won the ball game 2-1.

Hurler Rudy Clements of the Mounties pitched himself a nice ball game allowing only two doubles and two singles during his nine inning stint.

The Mounties got their unearned run in the eighth inning when Al Tolar walked, Dawes walked, then Dick Quinn slammed a grounder that the SOC short stop bobbled permitting a run to come in.

The Blue Raiders scored in the fourth when Willie Jones hit a double scoring Nix. Jones batted in the other score in the sixth after King singled and Ron Owings walked. Jones hit a long fly to deep right field scoring King.

The Mounties and Blue Raiders are scheduled to meet in a doubleheader starting at 11 a.m. today. Linescore:

The EOC drama group, under the direction of Dr. A. R. Kaiser, will present a readers' theatre production of the "Ghosts."

Miss Roberta Miller, senior from La Grande, plays the part of Mrs. Alvin, a widow, and Leonard Swanson, Umatilla, portrays her artist son. $1,410,000 Building Program To Get Under Way At EOC Construction plans for three buildings valued at $1,410,000 at Eastern Oregon College are being completed and all indications point to the building program starting late this summer, Dr. Frank Bennett, president, said this morning.

Dr. Bennett said construction bids will be called for in July and are scheduled to be opened August 8.

Earmarked for construction at the college are a physical education building, a central heating plant and a dormitory.

Last week the state legislature approved $7,000,000 for educational construction in the state. Dr. Bennett said that funds for the central heating plant and physical education building were included in that figure.

He said that $220,000 has been asked for the central heating plant and $630,000 for the physical education building at EOC. How much was alloted by the legislature will not be known until figures are released, he said.

The college dormitory to be constructed has been approved by the federal government on an educational bond issue he said. He said the government had approved $560,000 for construction of the dormitory. This building is not included in the state school building program.

Dr. Bennett said plans call for a Mens-Womens dormitory in two units with a common dining room. The approved dormitory will house 146 students. At a future date another unit will also be constructed, Dr. Bennett said. This is not included in present plans.

The college president said the physical education building will include a gym floor—basketball court with a seating capacity of 2,088. It will also include a men's dressing room, a squad room, men's activity room, handball court, four classrooms and several offices.

At a future date 720 seats will be added to the seating capacity and a women's dressing room and activity room constructed, he said. Also at future date, a swimming pool is planned. These two features are not included in the current budget, he said.

Student Teachers In Secondary Announced

Figures from Dr. Easley's and Mr. Hill's offices indicate that 18 students are enrolled in the student teaching program at the junior and senior high schools. At this time last year only 13 students were enrolled in this program, an increase of 38 per cent.

The following is a resume of the students and their classes in the Junior high school: Joanne Proffit, eighth grade history and ninth grade geography; Dale Vaught, nine grade geography and eighth grade history; Bill Frank, eighth grade science and ninth grade science; Nancy Ingram, eighth grade English and ninth grade English; Kiyoko Yamada, eighth grade history and seventh grade English; Lowell Kolbaba, eighth grade history and eighth grade science; Nancy Carter, ninth grade geography and ninth grade English.

The senior high school student teachers and their classes are: Audrey Snodgrass, junior English; Allan Buchanan, United States history and social problems; Glen Bates, mathematics; Frankie Fedor, mathematics; Norman Graybeal, refresher math; Jack Harmon, biology; Connie O'Hara, biology; Duane Stiff, senior English and social problems; Warren Wright, social problems; Mel Victor, United States history; Robert Clark, United States history and world culture.

For the college freshmen beginning their education program the following comments by the above-mentioned student teachers may be informative:

Nancy Carter—So far student teaching has proved to be an exciting and challenging experience—a fitting climax for three years of college preparation in the field of education. However, at times, I wish this were theh end instead of the beginning of the term.

Duane Stiff—Student teaching, to me, presents a challenge. Although the experience is somewhat different than I anticipated, I'm enjoying the work very much.

Frankie Fedor—Student teaching is wonderful. After the first few days of wondering what it is all about, I am now ready to work in earnest.

Lowell Kolbaba—My impression of student teaching so far has been quite interesting as any new experience is. The students, I find, are much more cooperative and interested than I had thought I am enjoying it so far.

SOEA To Host Regional Confab

The local chapter of SOEA (formerly FTA) is to be host to a regional conference on the week-end of October 26, according to Jean Adamson, regional director. Delegates rom seven other colleges will be in attendance. The meetings will be based on the SOEA theme, "Your future depends on your participation today."

The conference will open with a new film entitled "Not by Chance," followed by a coffee hour. On Saturday the group will be concerned with activities in the local groups and the future as related to teaching and membership in NEA.

All SOEA members are urged to attend and any other interested students are invited.

Bards Can Compete In National Contest

The National Poetry Association recently announced its Eleventh Annual Competition. Any student attending either a junior or senior college may submit his work. While there is no limitation as to form or theme of the work, the Board of Judges does prefer shorter works because of space limitations.

Each poem submitted must be either typed or printed on a separate sheet. They must also bear the name and the home address of the student, as well as the name of the college attended.

The closing date for the submission of manuscripts by college students is November 5, 1957.

In addition to the competition for college students, the Association is holding a contest for college teachers and librarians. This is the tenth annual anthology of this type.

There are no fees or charges for either acceptance or submission of verses. All work will be judged on merit alone and will be governed by the same regulations as for students.

The closing date for submitting manuscripts by college teachers and librarians is January 1, 1958.

All manuscripts should be sent to the offices of the National Poetry Association, 3210 Selby Avenue, Los Angeles 34, California.

Local Teachers Plan To Attend State Conference

"That all children may learn" will be the theme for the ACE state study conference to be held at Lewis and Clarke College in Portland Nov. 1 and 2.

Drama Director Announces Cast For Fall Play

The cast has been chosen for Sock and Buskin's first production of the year, "Goodbye, My Fancy," a comedy in three acts by Fay Kanin. The leading parts in the play of 6 males and 12 females are taken by Sharon Christianson, Sandra Benson, George Schoedinger, and Lawrence De Kalb.

The story revolves around Agatha Reed (Sharon Christianson) who has come back to college to get an honorary degree after a career in newspaper work and as a congresswoman. Since Agatha has been on a crusade showing the horrors of war, she decides to show a movie on war, but is told that the movie is too horrible to show to tender minded young college students. The problem of this sort of dictation to the college, plus Agatha's romance with an old college boy friend makes this play not only humorous, but it also gives some food for thought.

Others in the play scheduled for October 31, November 1 and 2 are Virginia Wellington as Ginny Merrill, Marge Kartevold as Amelia, Barbara Nuxall as Clarisse, Nicki Scofield as Mary Nell, Nancy Klomp as Miss Shackleford, Jack McFarland as a telephone man, Jane Bell as Susan, Charlene Britt as Ellen Griswold, Patsy Evans as Prof. Birdshaw, Beryl Colvin as Carol, Sharon Fox, as Jo, Judd vanGorder as Dr. Pitt, Dave Hansen as Prof. Dingley, and Mike Ferguson as Claude Griswold.

Hunt Hall Elects

The annual election of officers for Hunt Hall was held Wednesday, October 2. Officers for the coming year are as follows: President, Harold Moore; vice president, James DeMastus; secretary-treasurer, Lew Parks.

Individuals making nominations gave short campaign speeches for their candidates.

Welcome, New Students

As the new school year begins, many of the old problems in college life begin to crop up again. One of the biggest problems of fall term is that the freshmen and other new students on the Eastern Oregon campus have trouble in getting acquainted with and accustomed to their new surroundings.

First of all, we of the Beacon staff want to wish all new students a very hearty welcome. We realize that this is an entirely new experience for most of you and that you are probably wary of the things going on around you. If, at any time you are confused, feel free to ask questions of the "Ask Me" committee, other upperclassmen and faculty members. In addition, you should know that the different organizations on campus, such as the Beacon, the Mountaineer, the Intercollegiate Knights, the Sabers and the Letterman's club are here to serve you. Please do not hesitate to seek assistance from these student organizations.

Second, we urge you to make friends with the members of your class and also with the upperclassmen. Most of all, don't be afraid of the returning students. They won't bite, and though some of them may look tough and unapproachable, under that rough exterior the greater percentage of them are really very friendly.

Third and last, try to have a good time while you are at EOC. Do not fail, however, to round out your program of curricular and extra-curricular activities so that you can stay around to have a good time for a few years, two, three or four, as you may choose.

Student Council 'Retreats'

EOC's student council at meetings held Sunday and Monday, September 22 and 23 at Wallowa lake evaluated the first annual leadership retreat as having accomplishe five things:

They were: fellowship which fosters leadership; ties up loose ends to get things started for fall working smoothly; gives a chance for the advisors to feel a part of the group; is an opportunity for orientation of the new members of the council; and it gives a feeling to the students that we are organized.

Two meetings were held, one Sunday afternoon and the other Monday morning. Several points of business were brought up at the meetings including the budget and faculty activity cards. In addition to the formal meetings, informal discussions were held. Sunday evening the group sat around the fireplace and sang songs, accompanied by Steve Johnson and his ukuele.

Council members in attendance were Steve Johnson, Dick Quinn, Don Frank, Josie Ward, Donna Sene, Dick Bondurant, Jan Robertson, Patsy Evans, Myron Carpenter, Mike Ferguson, Sharon Christianson and Marilyn Hilyard. In addition, Dr. Johnson and Mrs. Winters, faculty advisors were also present.

Hoke Juke Box Hours Set

The Eastern Oregon College student council recently announced the installation of a juke box in the Hoke Hall lounge. The juke box is intended for use by EOC students every day and each night until 10:30, Monday through Friday.

Plans for the juke box were orginially formulated last spring by EOC's social vice president, Don Frank. The juke box was installed during new student days.

Members of the student council urge students to use the juke box because it was installed as a student service and must become a paying proposition if the machine is to remain on the campus. At the present time a 100-play machine is in use and that machine will stay here unless it is not used enough.

At the present time, the student council is considering plans for possible use of the juke box on weekends also, but these are just in the planniing stage.

A dance is planned for this Friday night to acquaint the students with the advantages of the juke box.

THE FRESHMAN MIXER

The Freshman Mixer under the direction of Social Chairman Don Frank, was held on September 25, 1957.

Get acquainted games were played, followed by dancing. Approximately 200 students attended the traditional function.

Whitman Whallops Mounties 46-0; Wins Peare Trophy

OCC CONFERENCE

SOC 44, British Columbia 0.
OCE 13, WWCE 9
Whitman 46, EOC 0
Boise JC 32, OTI 19.
Pacific 25, Portland State 18.

—Whitman jolted the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers at Walla Walla Saturday night 46-0, leaving no doubt whatsoever as to the rightful owner—for a year at least—of the W. M. Peare Trophy awarded for the first time this season.

The Mounties combined four fumbles with an occasional mental lapse, to aid Whitman in driving and passing to seven touchdowns—one in the opening quarter, three in the second, one in the third, and two more in the last.

The Missionaries chalked up 293 yards rushing to 95 for EOC, and 152 yards through the air lanes compared with the Mounties' 74.

Dick Quinn, EOC's speedy senior halfback from La Grande, was the only offensive bright spot for the visitors as he gained 57 yards on nine carries for a 6.3 average. In addition, Quinn gobbled up 53 more yards on two kick returns.

Two EOC frosh—Daryl Coreny, pint sized guard from Stanfield, and Larry Folston, converted to tackle from a top six-man backfield ace at Mitchell—were brilliant on defense.

The deepest penetration the Mountaineers made was to the Whitman 7-yard line with 20 seconds remaining in the contest. Jeff Ziegenhagen brought EOC to that point with a pass to Bristow for 26 yards and one to Houk for 20 as time ran out.

The first score came with the game less than five minutes old. EOC received the opening kickoff with Bennie Houk returning 16 yards to the EOC 34. Fullback Schaures fumbled on the next play—on the EO 35—and Whitman took over, with Bob Anderson scoring a few moments later. That set the pattern for the evening.

CWB News

EOC's campus organizations and clubs have used this first week of school to acquaint new students with their programs, to re-affirm old members and to get their coming projects under way.

The Interfaith Council, with Billie Jo Bond in the chairmanship, opened fall term activities with a vesper service Sunday evening at Dorion Hall. Dr. Frank Bennett was the guest speaker, his topic being the opportunities and talents revealed to us as students as parallel to the story of Moses.

Next on the agenda for the Interfaith group was the Fellowship Retreat Sunday, October 6. This picnic includes faculty as well as students and was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bolen. It immediately followed the church services.

Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honor group, met Tuesday noon at Dorion Hall and discussed plans for fall term under its new president, Arlita Nord. First of their program will be a formal initiation of new members which will take place Wednesday, October 16 at 8 p.m. Committees for this activity were chosen and also a committee was appointed for the purpose of selecting a Homecoming queen candidate.

Theta Delta Phi, men's scholastic honorary, recently held its first meeting; plans for the dance which they sponsored October 4, were points of busines sdiscussed.

The Sabers, women's service group, met Thursday noon to discuss their part in Homecoming and also the faculty tea.

The men's service honorary, the I.K.'s has selected its candidate for Homecoming and has also taken charge of the Boy Scout Jamboree which was on campus last weekend. They showed the boys around the campus and also direct several classes for them.

The Women's Recreation Association, headed by Marilyn Hilyard, had its first Tuesday night play night this week at the gym. The doors were opened and the girls took part in volleyball, badminton and trampoline stunts. Some of the future activities of this organization include: the Sadie Hawkin's Dance, a hike to Morgan lake, bowling leagues, sled parties, and the intramural program which would take in volleyball, double and single badminton, basketball and baseball.

Alpha Rho Tau, the honorary art society on campus, held an executive committee meeting this week and the first regular monthly meeting was held last Monday. At that time plans for Homecoming dance decorations were decided and also the possibility of giving a coffee hour for the National Art Group which will be visiting EOC on October 26. This group here at La Grande is applying to become affiliated with the National Art Honorary, Kappa Pi, in the near future and this will be taken up also.

The International Relations Committee has also held its executive members meeting and will also meet next week. This group is considering combining efforts and resources with Alpha Rho Tau in the presentation of a Homecoming sight or project. Another point of discussion will be the model United Nations and the possibility of the group attending a similar situation at Moscow, Idaho on the University campus.

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

Welcome to EOC, freshmen, transfers, and returning students. Taking first things first, I guess that I'd better explain this column to the new students. They would never learn by reading it. I'm sure that Mike Ferguson, editor of the Beacon, and Mr. Dorn: Beacon advisor, will also enjoy knowing what I am trying to attempt by this journalistic effort. "Music Notes" appears in each issue of the Beacon (if and when the time comes that I make a deadline on time), and its purpose is to tell the rest of the school what is being done by the music organizations and individuals in school who are interested in music.

Head of the music department is Dr. Lynn Bishop. Dr. Bishop teaches all of the music in Ackerman (except when he is generous enough to give a student teacher the privilege). He also teaches the music fundamentals classes and directs the First Methodist Church Choir. Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis conducts the EOC band and the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra besides teaching music classes on campus. The band is planning a tour to Elko, Nevada this month. You'll hear more about the trip later. You can still join the band so if you are interested, contact Dr. Lewis.

The Grande Ronde Symphony obtains its members from La Grande, the surrounding communities, and EOC.

Mr. McMullen teaches music theory and private piano. He is much busier than this might indicate because his piano students are not just EOC students and La Grande residents; they come from all of the surrounding communities.

General Extension Office Opens

—Charlies A. Ivie is in "Eastern Oregon" . . . so that the people of the state may be encouraged toward life-long learning and may prosper from the advantages of the instructional programs, research facilities, and consultation services of the entire State System."

That statement comes from the Oregon State System of Higher Education General Extension Division and the newly established Eastern Regional office at La Grande headed by Charles Ivie.

Ivie, assistant professor of education, taught and was an administrator in the Billings, Mont., public schools before moving to Oregon in August. He is a graduate of Western Montana College and has a M. A. from Colorado State College, with additional graduate work at Columbia University.

With the opening of this regional office, which is located on the Eastern Oregon College campus, provision is made for closer two-way communication between people of the state and units of the State System. Hitherto, the department of state-wide services has operated from two main offices in Eugene and Portland. In addition to the newly established office in La Grande, offices have been set up in Monmouth and Ashland.

Most of the instructors for courses in this aera are provided by Eastern Oregon College, with some provided by other state agencies and institutions. The program may consist of offerings for credit such as regular courses correspondence study, workshop, institutes and telecourses, and services of a non-credit nature such as are provided by radio, television, films, sound tapes, cultural activities and other special educational service projects.

Communities with courses scheduled, and some already underway, include: Baker — applied mental hygiene, history of Pacific Northwest; Burns—painting, and methods and research materials; Condon — painting; Enterprise—art education or methods and research materials; Fossile — painting; La Grande—shop organization and management; Milton-Freewater—emotional problems of children, or emotional factors in teaching; Ontario—shop organization and management, public and professional relations, world literature, music fundamentals, and biological science survey; Pendleton—the school in American life, methods and research materials, public school administration, music fundamentals, and emotional problems of children or educational factors in teaching.

Ivie emphasized that courses can be offered in all areas of learning and are not restricted to teacher education. He stressed that further information can be had by writing to him at Eastern Oregon college, La Grande.

CHARLES A. IVIE,
Regional Representative of General Extension Division

"WALL STREET WIZARD" POSSIBLE FOR CAMPUS

Some lucky Eastern Oregon College student may get to be a "Wall Street Wizard" before the term is over.

All it takes is an entry blank for Remington Rand's "Share of America" contest, in which the winner gets stocks of his or her choice equal in value to a share of every common stock on the New York Stock Exchange. Remington Rand will pay all brokerage fees. In addition to the first prize, there are 504 other stock prizes.

If the winner has purchased a Remington Electric Shaver during the contest period, from September 30 until December 1, all prizes double. First prize then becomes equivalent to two shares of every common stock on the Exchange.

Entry blanks are at any Remington sales counter and will also be found in advertisements in Life, Look, Saturday Evening Post, Parade and in newspaper supplements and comics.

If Remington Rand had held this contest 20 years ago when it turned out the first of its 20,000,000 shavers, financial authorities estimate that the $156,000 of prize money could have purchased stocks that would have a value today in the millions.

Any student who fancies himself or herself to be smart with the pencil, has a chance to become a tycoon the easy way.

Danforth Foundation Scholarships Set

The Danford Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the seventh class (1958) of Danforth Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1958, for their first year of graduate study. The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Frank B. Bennett has named John M. Miller as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for these fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" throughout the years of graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married Fellows, $2400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $350 for children. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply.

A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship. If a man receives the Danforth Appointment, together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 31, 1958. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with our Liaison Officer.

EOC Play Presentation Announced

By FAY KANIN

Opening night for "Good-bye, My Fancy" directed by Richard Hiatt was set for October 31 in the Eastern Oregon College Auditorium. The play is scheduled to run through November 2.

"Good-bye, My Fancy" employs a cast of eight males and 12 females aside from a large crew working behind stage. This play bas produced many "rave" notices and promises to be an entertaining episode.

The story of "Good-bye, My Fancy" tells of a liberal Congresswoman who returns to her old "alma mater" to receive an honorary degree. Since her wartime experiences in Europe, she has devoted herself to the taks of acquainting people with the actual horrors of war, and this is the reason for a documentary movie that she has decided to show to the young graduates. The movie is considered harsh and improper by the trustees, so Miss Reed has a fight on her hands. The conflict exposes the President, and Miss Reed realizes that he is not the man she supposed him to be. The disenchantment drives her to the arms of a wartime acquaintance who is a Life photographer and has come to cover the event. From there on, it's just one big happy ending.

The cast consists of Virginia Wellington as Ginny Merrill, Marge Kartevold as Amelia, Barbara Nuxall as Clarisse, Nickie Scofield as Mary Nell, Nancy Klomp as Miss Sackleford, Sharon Fox and Beryl Colvin as janitors, Jane Bell as Susan, Sharon Christiansen as Agatha Reed, Charlene Britt as Ellen Griswold, Patsy Evans as Prof. Birdeshaw, Sharon Fox as Jo, Judd van Gordor as Dr. Pitt, George Schoedinger as James Merrill, Larry DeCalb as Matt Cole, Mike Ferguson as Claude Griswold.

QUEEN MARGARET PRESTON

The 1957 Homecoming court, consisting of Margaret Preston, The Dalles, Nance McCrae, Wallowa, and Josie Ward, Forest Grove, will begin its rule over the activities on Friday, November 1. These three girls were the finalists in the primary elections held last Friday. Also running were Linda Kane, Mosier, Jean Marie Graham, Heppner, and Donna Sene, Hermiston.

The agenda for the weekend begins Friday morning when the sites wil be up for observation by the students and visitors on campus. Judging will take place that evening. The high point of Friday night wil be the Queen's Coronation Asembly at 6 o'clock which will be immediately followed by the Noise Parade downtown, and the burning o fthe "O." The play, "Goodbye, My Fancy," will be presented at 8 oclock.

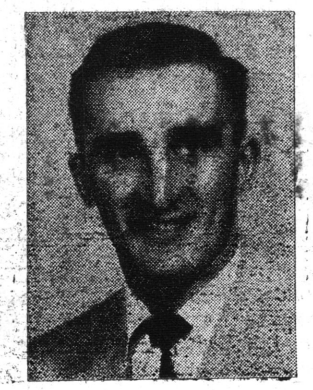
Saturday morning will feature alumni registration until 10 o'clock when the Alumni Tea will take place.

At 2 o'clock that afternoon all will gather at the stadium for the Homecoming Football Game with the Southern Oregon Red Raiders and the annual sand bag fight between the freshmen and the upper classmen during the half.

"Goodbye My Fancy" will once again be presented at 8 o'clock. The Homecoming Dance at Hoke Hall will terminate the weekend's activities.

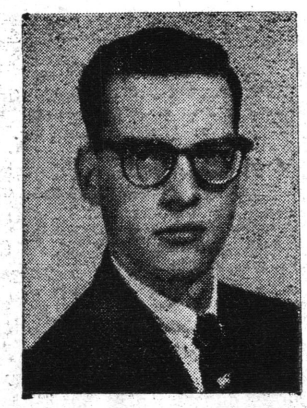
Insurance Plans Given To ASB

Plans for a student accident insurance program are being considered by the Student Council. The plan, submitted by Mutual of Omaha representatives at the Student Council meeting October 28, is similar to those carried by University of Oregon and Oregon State College.



Dr. Frank Bennett, EOC president, has worked previously with Mutual of Omaha for the acquisition o fa group policy for the student sat Eastern Oregon College and in a letter to the Student Council stated that he felt the plan no available to the student body was very satisfactory and should be considered.

A group insurance program, the plan would provide medical reimbursement fo rthe expenses arising from an accident. The plan is broad in scope and covers all accidents whether sustaine dat college, at home or while traveling.



The premium would be $2.20 per term or $6.60 for twelve month coverage. To receive coverage during the summer months it is necessary to pay the initial premium of $6.60. The policy would cover accidental injuries to the sum of $500.

The program is being studied by the council members at this time and will be adopted or rejected at the next regular meeting. If at this time the council endorses the program, the next issue of the Beacon will supply further details about the program and the company will make available some information folder concerning the program which the students may send to their parents or study themselves.

President's Message

DEAR ALUMNI:

Students at Eastern Oregon College have been busily at work planning for your entertainment at our 1957 Homecoming. Our faculty join with our students in our welcome to you for this exciting experience of the school year. We trust you will find your visit to the campus a most pleasant and rewarding experience.

Two new buildings and an addition in which to house a new central heating plant are now under construction. The two new buildings are a men's physical education unit and a new dormitory unit for women students. It is our present hope that these buildings will be completed for occupancy in the fall of 1958. If this can be accomplished, we will be able to use all present dormitory space for men students and the new dormitory facilities for our women students. The physical education plant will house a fine new gymnasium and make a new home for our intercollegiate athletics.

In the afternoon, we will meet Southern Oregon College for our annual Homecoming football game. Our boys are determined to come out of the "cellar" as they meet the leaders of our conference in this important clash.

We are happy that you can join with us and add your enthusiasm to ours for a delightful weekend on our campus.

Cordially,
FRANK B. BENNETT,
President

Charge For Dances?

As an introduction to this editorial let us stress that The Beacon is by no means under the control of Eastern Oregon College's student council. However, on the question to be presented, your editor is in complete agreement with the other members of the council.

At a recent council meeting the problem of charging students for certain formal dances held throughout the year was brought up. The dance in question in the near future is the Christmas Formal which is scheduled for Friday, December 13.

The main reason for wanting to charge for these formals is that it is the desire of the student leaders of EOC to obtain bigger name bands for the special dances than those which regularly play here on campus. It was felt by the council members that most students would be willing to pay the necessary fee to get a band that is better than they are used to.

In the past, such bands as Ernie Fields' and Johnny Reitz's have appeared on the campus and students have been willing to pay enough so that little or no money was lost in bringing those bands before the students. It was also pointed out at the council meeting that EOC is one of the few colleges in the nation that does not chage for all of its formals.

We of the Beacon staff realize that some objections will be raised by students of Eastern Oregon College, Therefore, we invite any and all letters to the editors concerning this topic. Those that we feel are of greatest interest to the student body will be printed in subsequent papers.

Feel free to express your opinions. In keeping with the Beacon's policy, writers of letters may request that their names be withheld, or may use a pseudonym. However, all letters must be signed.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"GOOD GRIEF WE'LL NEVER GET A SEAT—I FORGOT ASSEMBLY THIS PERIOD."

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

WELCOME ALUMS

Really, I am aware of the fact that Mr. Neil Wilon is a member of the music staff. He just got cut out of the last week's column somehow. All of our apologies, Mr. Wilson.

The first orchestra concert of the 1957-58 season will be November 24. They will play Tales from the Vienna Woods by Strauss, Schumann's Concerto of Piano, On the Trail from the Grendcanyon Suite by Grofe, Pavanne by Gould, and Holst's Planets.

Dr. Lewis' dance band will play for the Homecoming dance tomorrow night.

The EOC band has a big show planned for the half-time of the game tomorrow afternoon. I'm sure that few realize the work that goes into a show of this type. Dr. Lewis and the band have really put a lot of hard work in on this performance. It seems that Dr. Lewis can not get all of the band together at once, no matter how hard he tries. There are labs and teaching conferences that conflict everyday. At practice the other day, he told everyone he wanted to make an announcement. After it was quiet, he said, "I want to thank the flute section for all attending every practice." One of the flute players answered, "We thought it was the least we could do. None of us is going to be at the performance on Saturday."

Two loyal members of both the band and orchestra are wondering if Dr. Lewis ever reads this column. If anyone sees him doing this, please contact the editor of the Beacon or the editor of this column. (The foregoing sentence was entered by mutual consent of these two people.)

Mr. Neil Wilson is the newest member of the music department, coming to us last year from New Mexico. He directs the choir and Blue and Gold in voice.

The choir is composed of those students who enjoy singing and can pass an audition. The Blue and Gold Singers are a group of about 12 students who are chosen by Mr. Wilson. They sing at many schools and community activities during the year.

One campus organization which has not been mentioned yet is the newest one, the Faculty Men's Glee Club. This group gave its premier performance at the annual dinner for the facutly given by Dr. and Mrs. Bennett. They also appeared at the assembly last Wednesday. Members of this group are Mr. Kimbrell, Mr. Merrill, Dr. Skeen, Mr. Slabaugh, Mr. Dunsmoor, Dr. Bishop, Mr. McCroskey, Mr. Hiatt, Mr. N. Wilson, Dr. Easley, Mr. Campbell, Dr. Lyle Johnson, Dr. Lewis and Dr. Spear. Others are expected to join as soon as this group hits Broadway.

...And There

by Donovan

For the most part all colleges run along the same pattern: classes, asisgnments, two hour's sleep, classes, assignments; two hour's while looking through the exceptions to this, however, and while lookin gthrough the exchanges we can find some used some used on our own campus and some new ideas, traditions and practices.

Whitman College freshmen also have to prove their prowess before discarding the elegant beanies so cheerfully doled out on registration day. Seems there's a lake nearby over which the frosh and the sophomore men hold a friendly tug-of-war to determine the future of the lower class of life, as far as the dome preservers are concerned Sound familiar?

The freshmen of the Southern Oregon College campus also have certain little duties to be fulfilled—the cleaning of th "O" on a near view point. In this tradition role is taken with NO excuses accepted. Wonder what happens to the late sleepers?

University of Oregon students have been "politely" asked to lay off such extensive room decorating. The townspeople seem too fond of their potted plants, flowers, and other yard equipment to be so rudely parted from them.

Another note of interest on the U. campus is the fact that the winner of the annual Whiserino will win . . . a Remington-Rand electric shaver!

Quite a few of the other papers present a girl and a boy of the week or month. How about an idea like this for EOC?

Another idea which could be used for almost any consideration would be an open letter concerning recent activities called "Cheers 'n Jeers." What do you think?

CAB News

Phi Delta Theta, men's honorary on the EOC campus, will soon be dissolved. The members of Phi Delta Theta are affiliating with Kappa Phi Kappa, a national honorary. The final step will be taken next week when initiation will be held for all members.

Alphi Phi Epsilon held its first meeting of the year last Tuesday evening. First on the agenda was the election of officers. They are: President, Marlene Scott; secretary-treasurer, Patsy Evans; publicity chairman, Lillis Slaughter; and program chairman, Sharon Becker. Marguerite Winters and Lane DeMastus were chosen to work on the scrap book.

Next, the initiation of new members was discussed. It was decided to have an informal initiation on November 11, at 6:45 p.m., at the home of the advisor, Miss Stein.

Club projects and the scheduling of all meetings for the term were also discussed.

The Associated Women Students met at 4:00 p.m. Tuesday, October 22 in Dorion Hall lounge.

Decoration of the site forHomecoming was discussed, and Vad Kelsoe and Janet Sanderson were appointed co-chairmen of the decorating committee.

AWS members decided that the executive counsel and a girl representing each class will choose a "Girl of the Month." She will be chosen at their regular meeting the first Wednesday of each month and will reign for that month.

A suggestion box will be set up in the Administration building so that girls may suggest possible candidates and the reasons for their choice. The "Girl of the Month" will be chosen on the basis of personality, activity and citizenship.

First "Girl of the Month" will be announced at the next AWS meeting, 4:00p.m., November 6.

Plans for the Christmas formal were also discussed. The meeting was adjourned and a coffee-hour followed.

The Mountaineer Chapter of the Intercollegiate Knights has announced that a pledge period will take place during the fall term. Upon satisfactory completion of the pledge, the following pledges wil be taken into the organization as knights: Ron Tonack, Henry Garbe, Richard Garbe, Darrel Nichols, Jerry Martin, Dale Hill, Ray Justice, Al Tolar, oJe Miller, Sam Lederidge and Gary Miller.

The IK's recently assisted with the Boy Scout "Pow Wow" held on the EOC campus on October 5. The assistance during the "Pow Wow," and other activities during the year is in keeping with the Intercollegiate Knights' motto of "Service, Sacrifice, and Loyalty."

As a fund raising campaign this year the organization is selling sandwiches in the dorms each week day night, and would appreciate the patronage of the students.

Dorion Doodles

J. H.

A literary bug seems to have bitten the inhabitants of Dorion Hall these past three weeks. (Fact is, it's giving the flu bug an inferority complex.) There doesn't seem to be any special preference as to the type of material being read, just so it's written by Grace Metalious, the housewife in blue jeans. Her writing has been highly recommended by a few members of the faculty.

Any aspiring psychology major looking for a case study in juvenile delinquency might take a peek into Dorion's underground some night. Seems there's a regular gang running rampant down there. These vandals, clad in Bermudas and confiscated Freshman beanies, managed to cause quite a disturbance at the WRA Playnight last week. They proved themselves useful at half-time, however, when they led the group in an inspirational hymn called "We're of the Underground." There is a rumor circulating at present to the effect that this notorious gang is soon to be disbanded by the authorities, so you psych majors will have to act fast.

More excitement occurred in the basement Sunday night when Room 7 experienced a flash flood. Luckily, the girls in 7 kept their wits about them and soon had everything under control. They not only stopped the flood but also discovered a very good prevention of future floods. It's called spray net and we hear it works wonders when properly applied.

Third deck seems determined to revive last year's reputation for rowdiness. It became too much for one of the girls living on third so she threw in the towel and got married Sunday. Her neighbors consider this quite unsporting, but they want to wish Rose Anna Miles the best of luck despite the fact that she took the easy way out.

If you're looking for something for nothing you might try the free hair styling and dancing lessons being offered on third any time after closing hours. Hair styling is under the competent hands of Sandy Benson in 312, and the free dancing lessons are offered in 308. Boopsie Bell can vouch for the bargain you'll get in the way of new hair style. She was Sandy's first customer and says EVERYTHING came off just fine.

The dancing lessons on third may soon be a thing of the past. Room 308 has received several warnings about the noise resulting from these lessons. Everyone knows what follows a warning and the girls in 308 simply can't risk another "dermit". One of them already has two "dermits" for failing to get in before closing hours so they have been waltzing lightly lately. Good luck, girls; those "dermits" can really foul up Homecoming Weekend.

Rumor has it that there is soon to be an all-out campaign against poor grammar in Dorion. Some people are hoping it's more than rumor; it'd be a terrible thing" if the language usage presently in style in Dordion, got any badder.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By DON FRANK

The loss to PSC was a hard blow for the Mounties of EOC to take. It was a contest of bad breaks. Two pass interceptions set up the two TD's scored by the Staters. But right through the dark gloom that seems to follow the La Granders this year, is a figure who can't be given enough credit. Dick Quinn, 160 pound halfback, has more just plain old "Go" than any one player we have ever seen before. When that lad starts to move, he goes just as hard, and as fast as he possibly can. He doesn't limit his spunk to when he is mad, or every fourth play, it's every time.

If All-Americans were judged by their fire, Dick would be one of the top backs in the nation. Guys like him just aren't found under every rock.

In football, as in everything else, there is always a great goof. One of the best ones we've ever heard happnd in Georgia. During a time-out, the waterboy raced onto the field to give the team some much needed water, but forgot to get his bucket when he left. Nobody noticed the thing, even when during a freakish fumble-and-pile-up, the ball somehow got into it. Then an alert quarterback grabbed the handle and trotted for a TD, while almost everybody assumed he was merely carrying it off the field. There was no rule saying you can't carry the ball in a bucket—so the touchdown counted.

Kinda' early to get into basketball, but looks like the Mounties are going to floor a contention club this year. Coach Quinn will have the same players he ended last season with, plus some boys who should give him some depth. With Larry Howard as the offensive gun and Jerry Baxter under the boards, looks good for EOC this season.

Finally, after years of trying, one of the Oregon colleges got into the top ten rating in the nation, only to be upset and drop clear out of sight. Well, at least OSC was there for a while. Maybe the U of O will make it now. Would sure like to see one of them stay for a while.

Seems the biggest question in the minds of all sports writers throughout the states right now is, "Who will stop the Sooners?" The Okies, riding a 45 game winning streak, just can't seem to be beaten. It almost happened Saturday though. They were favored by four TD's, and won 14-13. But, when you come right down to it, whether you win by one or one hundred, it still goes in the win column. The team that beats them will probably be a club that hasn't won a ball game in ten years. That's the way football goes.

Mounties Set; Homecoming

Eastern Oregon's Mountaineers square off with the Southern Oregon College Red Raiders this Saturday afternoon at 1:30, in what promises to be a memorable Homecoming football clash.

Playing on the Mounties' home field will be reminiscent of last year's S.O.C. Homecoming for the Raiders, when they were defeated by E.O.C. 36-27.

With an average weight of 193 pounds per man on the line, the Raiders are much larger than the Mounties, and statistics show they are taller. Coach Archie Dunsmoor is working his team on pass defense, since S.O.C. is noted for its use of the airways.

Lance Lack, outstanding quarterback, spearheads a strong S.O.C. backfield which poses a threat to any theam they face.

The Red Raider's conference record stands at 3 wins 0 losses. They defeated O.T.I. 33-12, O.C.E. 21-19, and Portland State 7-6. To date, E.O.C. has lost its 3 conference games and their final chance to enter the conference winning ranks will be this Saturday.

Terry Zeigenhagen will probably be back Saturday to round out the starting lineup.

Probable starting lineup for the Raiders wil be: Lance Lack, QB; Ron Maures, FB; George Jursland, HB; Delmar Brood, HB; Phil Sword, C; Herb Colley, T; Chuck Ramine, T; Marion ack, T; Modesto Pimenez, G; Cy Perkins, G; and Chuck Crandall, G.

Westminster Drops Mountaineers, 12-0

Westminster of Utah downed the Eastern Oregon College Mounties 12-0 October 19, at Elko, Nevada, in a non-conference game. Westminster made both touchdowns in the first half, flubbing the extra points. Total yards gained in runs and passes for the Mounties was 141; for Westminster 259. E.O.C. racked up seven first downs to the opponent's eight.

METAMORPHISIS

Every year at this time a phenomenon occurs among the seniors at Eastern Oregon College. Students that you have been accustomde to see in previous years dressd in levis, bobby socks, sports shirts, saddle shoes and white bucks—the usual campus garb—appear now in the more conservative attir of young business men and women. Personalities as well as clothing change. Notice, for example, the serious meins of seniors gathered in the coffee shop. Gone seemingly are th carefree, irresponsibl attitudes of the frshman, sophomore and junior years. What, you may ask, is responsible for this sudden metamorphosis? Student teaching of course.

Observe the following people care fully, underclassmen. They are doing their student teaching at Ackerman, and this could happen to you. Joan Boone, Bernice Opp, Janis Hettick, Sherril Cockbprn, Karen McGillivray, Margaret Knight, Birginia VanBlockland, Jean Adamson, Patsy Reeves, Joyce Fertig, Janet Wright, Lewis Laird, Ray Dunn, Sharon Ferguson, Arlene Dodson, Monte Nedrow, Delbert Sams, Sandra Spickerman, Maurice Lane, Grace Lewis, Arleta Nord, Rodger Dalgleish, Donald Bensel, Ashley Prince, Gene Erwin, Dick Quinn, Gerald Stiller, June Whitten, Ted Veal, Elizabeth Baumeister, Jean Rosewall, Robert Dawes, William DeMastus, Larry Davis and Gerald Whaley.

Sputnik The First

by Al Parent

The time, the first week in October. The year, 1957. The event, the Russians have successfully launched an artificial satellite into the outer fringes of the earth's atmosphere. The Rusisans have beaten all other nations of the world in the preliminary conquest for outer space.

The Russians have named their satellite, "Sputnjk" or "Artificial Fellow Traveler Around the World." Sputnik is a milestone for now the once "wild dream of contact wit hthe moon and other planets, is no longer a dream but a coming reality.

The Rusisan's satellite travels in a most difficult orbit. Sputnik swings from north to south across the earth's rotation, it needs no nelp from he spjinning earth. The satellite travels at the amazing speed of 18,000 miles per hour or 5 miles per second. Sputnik "beeped" its way over almost every populated spot on the earth, 3 time sa day, at amazing altitudes of 300 to 560 miles "straight up." Maintaining this varied altitude Sputnik circled the earth every "96 minutes."

Sputnik weighs an impressive 184 pounds compared to the United Statese planned missile of 21.5 pounds. The three staged rocket which carried Sputnik to its orbit weighs 400,000 pounds compared to the United States proposed Vanguard, which weighs 22,600 pounds.

Whatever is inside the "Red Moon," it simpressive 14 pounds is a tip-off to Russian progress. The world needs and can use scientific achievements, especially during this I.GY. year. Let's all hope the Russians use Sputnik as a scientific contribuiton to the well-being of mankind and not as an element of destruction.

A Story . . . .

One Ordinary Day Without Coffee

A Story By Vincent

I huddled closer under the scant protection of my turned-up collar as I hurried up the north facade to the administration building. The lovely fall weather dripped down my neck and squished in my shoes. I was warmed somewhat by the inscription over the entrance which was attributed to a single name—Cicero. I suppose that either the inscriber ran out of room, the college had tried to economize, or that it was one of those catchy one-word pseudonyms.

The warmth of the friendly old building finished my transformation back to semi-human status and I entered my first class.

I noticed a good deal of freshman anticipation (or apprehension) in the air ,and since I had had previous acquaintance with the professor and freshmen, I felt an anticipation myself—a sadistic one.

The professor burst into the room and went through his ritual of throwing open the windows and proclaiming: "unwashed bodies and unclean feet." (Sometimes it varies, taking in the quality of the girls' perfume.) He sat at his desk and rifled through the class cards.

"Allwinkle!" he roared.

"Here," came a knowing or forewarned voice.

"Yeah," came the reply.

This was it. I turned around in my seat to watch the show.

"Are you a freshman, Bullfinch?" the professor asked as the color builded in his face.

"Yeah," Bullfinch said.

"Have you ever been taught to say yes?" the professor asked, rising.

"Yeah," Bullfinch said.

"Yes! Yes! Yes! Yes!" the professor demanded. "You're not at one of your cow festivals now (Bullfinch was wearing Levis and cowboy boots); you're not a manure-encrusted individual anymore; you're supposed to be a college student, and college students say 'Yes!' Didn't they teach you the social graces in your high school? I understand that's what they teach instead of English now."

Bullfinch sank down in his seat and was quiet. He knew when he was well off.

I hoped the professor would throw his notes in the air or kick over the wastepaper basket, but he didn't seem to be warmed up to his work. The climax of the performance was only some face-clawing and muttering of "baboon-brained idiots" and "semi-literate morons." I was a little disappointed.

I wandered into my next class in a dejected state of mind, but I was soon uplifted by the frofessor's spirited lecture. I didn't understand most of it although I caught a key phrase, "broad, comprehensive overview," which was interspersed with something about Sir Francis Drake's plaque. Those Englishmen are great for getting awards. I became dejected again when a student got up to give a report. It started something like this and continued in the same manner: "This here book I read was purty good. These guys was goin' out to study some abo . . abori . . natives to see how them natives act . . ." I supposed he was a freshman and forgave him, but I later found out that he was a student teacher and I unforgave him. He was a math major though, so I guess it didn't matter.

I came out of the class with a dry feeling in my throat and headed across the soggy campus to the coffee shop. The shop was empty except for two women sitting in front of a TV set. A greasy-haired, thin - moustached individual was toothily leering from the one-eyed box at them, shouting something about a queen. The ladies were enthralled and I felt as though I were trespassing a religious service. I stood at the counter for a while. No one payed any attention to me. Then I did what seemed at the time a perfectly innocent and practical thing, but which turned out to be blasphemy—I tapped a coin on the counter just when greasy-hair was announcing something about a winner. One of the ladies turned around and "shushed" me with a killing look. I slunk out guiltily.

I took the basement route to my next class so that no one would see my shamed-face. As I passed one of the two-by-four offices I noticed a "stocky" man with a crew-cut standing high on a stepladder taking photographs of a group of young ladies in low-cut formals—at least I think he was taking photographs. I predict that the fellow will go places with his stepladder technique.

I was early for my next class, so I found my seat and spent a few minutes looking over my notes. One read: "An orange does not make a good apple." I decided to commit that to memory as it seemed a logically sound statement which I wass ure would have myriad future uses. There was another about cherry pie and chocolate cake. I wondered if the professor's wife fed him enough, but when he entered the room I abondoned that train of thought.

The professor flipped open his grade book and glanced around the room. He looked sternly at me and said: "You're absent."

I prepared to defend my intelligence, but he said: "You'd better find your seat. If you're not in your seat you're absent."

"But sir," I said, trying my newly acquired logic. "This is my seat. Look, here are my initials that I carved during yesterday's class."

"I didn't mean the same chair, I meant the same order," he said.

I could see that he was in no mood to trifle, but I wanted to clear him up on this point.

"But you said, 'take the same seat every day,' and that's what I did. To take a seat means one thing, to seat in order another—you said 'take the same seat."

He looked at me condescendingly and said slowly as if explaining to a child: "Everyone else understood what I meant by seat."

I had to admit he had me outlogiced, so I shut up.

The class went smoothly as we all intoned a chorus of "yeses" and "noes" when asked questions like: "Is Grant buried in Grant's Tomb?"

Near the end of the class period the professor was trying to demonstrate how mood could be created.

"Picture this," he said pointing to the door. "Suddenly the door opens, a mouldy corpse is standing there. It's eye - sockets are dark hollows; the purtrid flesh oozes green slime. It slowly, ever so slowly, shuffles to the center of the room exhuding its decaying odor and gurgling incoherently in its rotting throat."

The professor pointed at his imagery and asked in a hushed voice: "What is it trying to say?"

"Trick or treat," I said logically.

The class broke up with laughter and the surge for the door as the bell rang saved me, for through the crowd I could see the professor's hands flexing wildly, looking for a certain throat.

I turned up my collar before leaving the building, but the rain had slowed to a sticky sleet. This heartened me and I determined to compete again with the one-eyed monster for a cup of coffee.

INSURANCE-

Council Okays Program At Nov. 11 Meet

By Steve Johnson

During a regular meeting of the Eastern Oregon College student council, Monday, November 11, the proposed Student Insurance Program was formally accepted by a unanimous vote of the council members.

The plan which was presented by Mutual of Omaha representatives Ash Mousel and Robert Miller at a previous council meeting was extensively studied by the individual members and it was found to be sound and reasonable.

Dr. Frank Bennett, EOC president, has worked in conjunction with the Mutual representatives concerning the availability, of a student accident insurance plan similar to the one now functioning at Oregon State College and the University of Oregon. He stated, in a letter to the Council that he felt the plan now available to the Eastern Oregon College student student was an excellent one and shoudl be considered for paproval in the near future.

Information folders explaining the details of the coverage, exclusions and premiums are being prepared by the company so that the students of EOC may study them and get a better idea of the plan.

In the event that the folders are available before Thanksgiving vacation, the Student Council will set up a stand in the Administration Building where students will be able to obtain the pamphlets. In this way, the students will also be able to take them home and talk the matter over with their parents during the vacation. Following Thanksgiving vacation, the Council plans to have a stand set up for one or two days in the Ad Building where the students may purchase the insurance. Cost per term is $2.20 and $6.60 will cover the student for the whole year. It was pointed out at the meeting that even if the plan did not go into effect until winter term, the premium of $6.60 woudl still have to be paid to get the full year's coverage. For that reason, the council decided to try the selilng on an experimental basis during this term to get some idea of how many would be interested. The insurance will also be sold during during the registration time of each new term.

The similar program now being sponsored by the U. of O. and OSC student governments is functioning very adequately and it is the hope of EOC's administration and Student Council that the students here will participate in the program on this campus as well.

Forest Management Demonstrated

Last Friday, U. S. Forest Service personnel, demonstrated forest management techniques to EOC Natural history class, taught by Dr. Charles Quaintance.

Foresters, Ken Knutsen and Ed Barton outlined the multiple use concept in National forest management. Some of the procedures for preparing National Forest timber sales were discussed.

Other items discussed with the class were timber crusing, road location and erosion control. The program also included a demonstration of the use of the Abney and the use of the variable plot or "Prism" method of cruising timber.

Homecoming Highlights

Queen Margaret ruled over a truly beautiful Homecoming celebration Friday night, November 1 and cootinuing to Sunday, November 3. Queen Margaret officially began her reign with a short welcome speech after being crowned at the Coronation Ceremonies held in the Auditorium at 6:00 p.m. Friday night. A very stately occasion was the Coronation as Margaret entered with Student Body President teve ohnson, escorted by her court Nance McCrae and Josie Ward.

The torchlight parade began at 6:30 p.m. the same evening with the Queen and her court present for the assembling of the students and the noise parade downtown. Upon readhing downtown La Grande the noise parade was temporarily halted while the students formed a huge circle in the center of the downtown intersection and cheered EOC. From here the parade moved to the burning of the "0" and the bonfire. The Freshmen, wearing the traditional "Frosh Beanies" did a thorough job of building and guarding the bonfire. Beginning at :00 p.m. Friday night the cast of "Goodbye, My Fancy" presented a second performance of the play.

Saturday morning saw the campus of EOC alive with ambitious students finishing "sites" before the judging was held. Alumi registration was held in the library from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. after which a coffee hour was held in Hoke Hall. "Around the World" playing softly in the background added to the occasion and coffee and doughnuts were served to the faculty and alumni. An Alumni meeting was held following the coffee hour and the co-chairmen of the 1957 Homecoming, George Schoedinger and Dale Gaylord were introduced. The Queen and her court were also presented.

Mountaineer Staff Readies Annual

The 1958 Mountaineer staff is hard at work on its publication. So far, great gains have been made. One deadline has been met met and the second is in sight. Class pictures have been taken, and several organizations have already been "shot" for the yearbook.

This year the Monntaineer will have several snap pages. The staff is asking for snapshots from the student body. The photographs must be clear and in black and white. Boxes will be placed in the dormitories for the collection of these pictures, or they may be given to Jean Edmison.

EOC Studenis Will Visit Brownlee Dam

Fifty students in the Eastern Oregon College pre-engineering program are on a field trip to Brownlee dam today according to Robert M. McCroskey, EOC instructor in engineering.

The group will be guests of the Idaho Power company for the day. The tour will also include the Ox Bow site. Accompanying the tour group will be Howard Wilson, EOC instructor in mathematics.

Jaycees Give Desk Blotters

The La Grande Junior Chamber of Commerce presented desk blotters to students and faculty members at Eastern Oregon College Thursday and Friday, November 7 and 8.

Enough blotters were provided for each student and faculty member. They were handed out in the main hall of the Administration Building all day on both Thursday and Friday. EOC students manned the desk, making sure that each recipient signed his or her name and hometown address.

Due to the fact that not all persons eligible received blotters, there are at this time some available at the bookstore in the Hoke Hall Coffee Shop.

The blotters are yellow with blue printing and contain the important phone numbers of campus offices and phone numbers of several local business firms. In addition, there are advertisements from most of the firms.

Civic Music Opens With Noted Pianist

Ampiro Iturbi, noted pianist, will appear on the first Civic Music program for the 1957-58 season. The concert will be held in the high school auditorium next Wednesday night, November 20. A.S.B. cards will admit all EOC students, but it will not admit husbands or wives.

There are three other programs on the Civic Music schedule this year, David Abel, violinist; James Pease, baritone; and a dance drama group. They will be presented in December, January and April. EOC students are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to hear noted artists sin their local appearances.

Mathematic Teachers To Meet Here

—The annual meeting of the Oregon Council of Teachers of Mathematics is scheduled for the Eastern Oregon College campus Saturday, according to John M. Miller, EOC director of teacher education.

Featured in the morning session will be an address by Oscar Schaaf of Eugene high school and the University of Oregon, "Organizing a Mathematics Program to Allow for Individual Differences." Lesta Hoel, supervisor of mathematics in the Portland public schools will speak on "Arithmetic—The Responsibility of Everyone."

Dr. Frank B. Bennett, EOC president, will be the luncheon speaker. President of the Oregon Council of Teachers of Mathematics is Helene N. Lannon, mathematics instructor in Benson high school of Portland.

Registration for the conference is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in Walter M. Pierce library.

EOC Beep Heard In Hunt, Dorion

EOC radio can be heard weekdays starting at 6:00 p.m. and closing at 11:00 p.m. The station also operates on Sunday starting at 2:00 p.m. and closing at the normal designated time. EOC radio operates on a frequency of 670 K.C.'s. The total power input of radio EOC is a mighty 10 watts.

EOC radio was constructed by Bill McKay and Jack Milliorn during the summer vacation. The station is maintained by them in addition to Jim Kuether and Mike Ferguson.

Radio EOC is a carrier current type radio station and can only be received in Dorion and Hunt Halls. The station soon hopes to have a studio whereby students, if interested, can take part in announcing and programming.

All music played on EOC radio is donated by various students in the two dorms. Students who are interested in the further promotion of radio EOC are cordially invited to visit the station. All ideas and donations will be greatly appreciated by the present staff. Contact Bill McKay or Jack Milliorn if you have materials that would be of aid to the station.

Homecoming 1957 - A Success?

As the school year continues on into the first phases of what may prove to be a long, cold winter, we look behind us at another Homecoming at Eastern Oregon College. This year, as in the past, Homecoming Weekend was filled with activities. The time has now come to evaluate these happenings.

The weekend started off with the crowning of Queen Margaret at a very impressive ceremony held in the Ad building auditorium. As usual, the ceremony was very sparsely attended, especially by students. Due to the fact that it comes rather early in the evening, some people could not attend, but it is those who were able and did not show up that deserve the blame.

Second on the agenda for Friday evening was the torchlight parade and pep rally. The parade segment was good, although a lack of cooperation was shown when students used cars which was contrary to the request from the Homecoming committee. The pep rally again showed the lack of student interest and also the lack of complete planning. Things were rather poorly organized and the EOC band was conspicious by its absence, this not being the band's fault.

The final activities on Friday night went off excellently in comparison to the previous functions. The freshman class is to be complimented for its success with the burning of the "O" and of the bonfire. Certain details in conjunction with the bonfire are already well known and therefore require no explanation.

Saturday arrived very coldly and with the accompaniment of a harsh wind. As the morning went along, however things got better and did not prove to be a deterrent to the activities. In the morning, final touches were put on the sites and these were judged by a group of townspeople. All organizations involved deserve the commendation of the student body for the fine way in which the sites, as a new experiment, were handled.

Other activities of the morning which were handled well by the students for the benefit of the Alumni were registration and the coffee hour.

Saturday afternoon saw the annual Homecoming football game played, this year's edition featuring a 0-0 tie between the Mountaineers and the OCC-leading Southern Oregon College Red Raiders. Halftime of the game was highlighted by the EOC Marching Band's presentation of a show entitled "A Student's First Days At College." This was the band's first La Grande appearance of the year, and according to many students and alumni, the show was well accepted. During the second half of the halftime, the annual sandbag contest was held. Again the freshmen are to be complimented for their fine turnout. At the outset of the contest both sides were comprised mainly of freshmen, some valiantly representing the upperclassmen, most of whom could not find it in their hearts to join the fray. There may have been some good reasons for the lack of sophomores, juniors and seniors, but the almost entire dearth of them seems highly irregular. The winner of the contest, by the way, was for some time in doubt, but the freshmen were finally declared the victors.

The climax of the weeeknd came Saturday night at the Homecoming Ball. The band was good, the decorations pleasing and the floor very crowded. This function perhaps showed the good planning ability of the Homecoming Committee. Although all alumni could not be contacted, those few with whom this editor was able to speak thought the dance was very good.

In closing, let us again take a good look at Homecoming Weekend. Some activities showed a notable lack of planning while others were just opposite. The Beacon expresses its thanks to the Homecoming Committee and the student body of Eastern Oregon College for the fine way in which it handled the weeeknd.

To The Editor . . .

Feel free to express your opinions. In keeping with the Beacon's policy, writers of letters may request that their names be withheld, or may use a pseudonym. However, all letters must be signed.

Dear Vincent,

What has happened to your golden brown beard and your "holy" tennis shoes? I though you had become civilized, a humanitarian, but here you reassert yourself with all your old arrogance, pomposity and conceit. You deserve an Oscar for being the biggest minanthropist of the year.

Your story, and I use the term broadly if not inaccurately, does you justice. It sounds exactly like a piece written by an unthinking individual with the moronic-Monday-morning-blues. Also you must must have a slightly yellow streak down your back or you would have signed your name to your work.

You show extremely immature judgment, too, in the literary form in which you chose to purse your misanthropic activities. Have you never realized the power of satire? Sir Thomas More lost his head partially as a result of his scathing satire in Utopia. Socrates, the great teacher, was forced to drink the hemlock because of the unmerciful treatment he received at the hands of Aristophanes in "The Clouds."

So do be careful, Vincent. Your head would do you no earthly good severed from your body. Also, please to remember statisticians tell us there is a decided shortage of professors, and we should hate to lose any of them.

Signed,
N. A. C.

Dear N.A.C.

I assume that N.A.C. is your full name; you certainly wouldn't cal lme a coward for not signing my work, and then refuse to claim responsibility for your own mature, objective criticism.

To legtimize your mature, objective criticism you resort to name-dropping. I shall let one of the dropped-names reply for me as he replied when he, too, was criticized in a mature, objective manner: "I would rather die having spoken after my manner, than speak in your manner atnd live." (Socrates, in The Apology of Socrates by Plato.)

Vincent

Dear Editor:

Working in the capacity of business manager, I have had the opportunity to deal with many of La Grande's business people. The majority of these people are cheerful and cooperative. They don't mind taking an ad in the Beacon, but most of them do feel it's charity. One long - time Adams Avenue resident said, "Sure we'll take an ad with your college paper. I don't think the students ever read them, but it helps keep the paper going." Probably this is true. I can never remember reading an ad before I was business manager. I'll be the first to agree tht they don't make the most interesting reading in the world, but it we could notice the names of our advertisers and keep them in mind when shopping, we could return some of their consideration. As long as we need gas, shoes and hair cuts we may as well partonize our faithful advertisers.

Janice Ward

Dear Editor:

Do teachers realize how much they influence students? It seems only yesterday that I was listening to a high school teacher say, "If the shoe fits, wear it." He was a great guy for making you own up to things you would just as soon forget. What am I driving at? The story by Vincent on page 4 of the Nov. 1 issue of the Beacon. If rumors can be acknowledged, some of the EOC's professors are objecting to what they feel are insinuations against their teaching methods.

When our senior year in high school rolled around we again listened to a teacher, this one said, "You've been entertained for the last 11 years, that's over now, it's our duty to teach you something, not to show you a good time." May I paraphrase the recent play "Goodbye, My Fancy" and say, "our eminent professor gave up teaching for showmanship years ago." EOC is primarily a college which trains teachers, it stands to reason that our instructors and profs. will serve as shining examples of good teachers to the fledgling student teachers.

The question remains, have some of our professors been insulted? If the insinuations are false, why have they taken offense? If they are true, perhaps it would be better not to admit it.

Footracks On The Notes

From a column in the La Grande Evening Observer, Nov. 5, 1957:

"After perusing the homecoming edition of the EOC Beacon, methinks freedom of the press may be in for a little criticsm. Ye back page carries an almost too-accurate bit by a student about some faculty members." (One Ordinary Day, Without Coffee by Vincent).

"If these faculty members are sensitive, and sometimes faculty members are, the situation may become interesting.

"This is the sort of thing which results in lessons in judgment for future use."

After perusing ye above column, methinks that the writer's idea of freedom of ye press is this: don't have an opinion; if you do have an opinion, don't express it; if you do express it, make it ambiguous enough so that you will not invite criticism.

Methinks that by expressing my opinion of the writer's opinion, me has not learned ye lesson in judgment he suggests. Peradventure some of us never learn to sit on ye fence.

CLUB News

COMMERICAL CLUB

A meeting was held on Wednesday, October 23, to organize the Commercial Club. The first order of business was the election of officers. Those elected were: President, Larry Holmes; Vice-President, Ellis Green; Secretary, Marlene Scott; and Treasurer, Cora Jane Hill. The advisor is Dr. Good. Dues and plans for a Homecoming site were discussed. Ellis Green was asked to form a committee to work on a possible site for the Club.

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

Beacon deadlines! They pop up at the most inconvenient time! There must be a way to dispose of them somehow.

The first civic music program will be November 20, and it will feature Jose Iturbi's sister, Ampiro. She is also a noted pianist. Full time students are admitted free on their ASB cards. Husbands or wives of students are not admitted.

November 5, Mr. McCroskey and Mr. Neil Wilson accompanied a group of EOC students to Walla Walla for the presentation of the opera "Carmen."

EOC students have been making a large number of appearances in the community so far this year. Some of these include Janis Robertson, who sang at the Presbyterian Church; Maurice Lane and Barbara Meyer, who sang and played at Eastern Star, Letha Sager, who sang at the Methodist Church and a flute trio composed of Dr. Bishop, Virginia Wellington and Susan Latta. They performed at YWEA last week.

Don't forget the concert by the Grande Ronde Symphony on November 24. The Symphony is made up of townspeople from La Grande and surrounding community, high school students, and EOC students. Featured on the program will be a piano soloist playing Shumann's Concerto for Piano.

What Others Think . . .

From the editorial page of The Holcad, Westminster college, New Wilmington, Pa., comes this comment on two kinds of colleges.

What a surprise it was to read in Holiday that the Ivy League schools, "dedicated to pure and remote knowledge," are a thing of the past; "The Big Ten will have the future".

Hitting Ivy education, Professor Paul Engle of the University of Iowa writes, "The Ivy League's smallness depends on the Big-Ten's bigness. Never forget; the Big Ten is that massive wall to which that gracious ivy clings."

Such universities as Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois have none of the conformity that makes an "Ivy league campus look as if its students had all gone to the same prep school at Conformity Corners."

Professor Engle does say Ivy is supreme in the limited area of undergraduate education, "But under the conception that the whole state is the campus, the Big Ten is supreme."

The author should be congratulated on his attack at the smguness of the Ivy league schools. Living off the fame and tradition of a past era ,these vine-covered halls of learning have shunned the possibilities of a good education at any other college. The Harvard, Yale or Princeton diploma has been glorified erroneously as the ultimate in education.

The author does stick his neck out a bit far, however, in predicting an end for the Eastern schools. Schools like Yale who can only take one fourth of their applicants and Dartmouth which chooses its freshman class of 725 from 6,000 applicants will continue to get the best potential college material. Schools in the Big Ten are required to take the mediocre students as well as the intelligent ones because they are tax supported.

For Professor Engle to assert that "education for the few, dedicated to pure and remote knowledge is fine, touch and doomed" certainly predicts an end for liberal education as a whole.

And yet, it was Alfred P. Sloan, of General Motors, who said, "Give us educated men. We can train them ourselves, but we can't educate them.

—From the University of Oregon Daily Emerald.

Christmas Opera To Be Presented

The currently popular one-act opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," will be presented on the Eastern Oregon campus December 12 and 13 through the combined efforts of the dramatic and the music departments.

Written by Carlo Menotti for television in 1951, it is the story of a small crippled boy whose poor home is visited by the Wise Men on their journey to worship the baby Jesus. Wishing to give some gift to the Savior, but possessing nothing, he presents his crutch. Through this unselfishness and generosity he is healed and then is able to accompany the Wise Men to Bethlehem.

Jans Robertson will take the lead part of Amahl, Sylvia Thompson is cast as the Mother. The three kings are: Kasper, Maurice Lane; Melchior, David Skeen; Balthazar, George Schoedinger III. The Page will be played by Mike Ferguson.

The chorus of shepherds consists of Lynette Pershall, Letha Sager, Virginia Van Blokland, Evadne Kelsoe, Barbara Meyer, Dale Moulton, Darrell Nichols, Gary Winkle, Wiley Knighton.

The dancers will be Nance McCrae and Edvne Kelsoe and the duo pianists will be Carol Van Blokland and Glynn Zweifel. Patsy Evans will play the organ.

The first performance will be at the student assembly December 12. The next, an evening performance, will be on December 13. Mr. Neil Wilson, music department, and Mr. Richard Hiatt, dramatic department, are co-directors.

Play Average, Says Critic

By NANCY CARTER

As "Goodbye, My Fancy" aptly proved comedy (to be distinguished from satire) is not the vehicle to use if one wishes to promote a serious point. The audience "giggled" heartily at the pseudo-sophisticated humor (some of the jokes in the play, by the way, the Indians kicked Columbus in the posterior for springing) but lost interest during the rather "draggy" serious scenes. If any one of the theater-goes had been asked what the moral of the story was, he probably would have replied that all serious, intelligent, good-looking, young congresswomen should marry "Life" photographers because they like "to catch people picking their noses."

It would seem, however, that "the old and jaded Sock and Buskin cast" had some new blood infused into it. Unfortunately, not all of it was good. Two of the weakest performances in the play were those of Virginia Wellington (Ginny Merrill) and Judd Van Gorder (Dr. Pitt). Ginny, a supposedly intelligent, mature college senior, reminded me more of a confused, unsure adolescent. As for Dr. Pitt—whoever heard of a world-weary middle aged liberal with a crew cut and the cherubic face of a college freshman? (The martini he carried would have looked more in place had it been a large glass of milk.)

Sharon Christianson, (Agatha Reed) and Lawrence DeKalb (Matt Cole) gave convincing performances. DeKalb was rakish and handsome as the rather Don Juan Life photographer, while Miss Christianson was attractive and charming as a "streamlined" still-young congresswoman. Miss Christianson did, though, have a disconcerting habit of dropping words at the ends of her lines.

George R. Schoedinger III (James Merrill) was much less convincing. True, Merril was supposed to be a stuffed shirt, but Schoedinger III was a little overstuffed.

Sandra Benson (Grace Woods) and Charlene Britt (Ellen Griswold) did excellent jobs of playing themselves.

Two bit players stopped the performance Friday and Saturday nights. While not having more than 15 lines between them, Patsy Evans (Professor Birdeshaw) and George Spelvin (Professor Dingley) literally stole the show. It just goes to prove that it's not always the lines that county.

On the technical side of the production the makeup left much to be desired. As Richard Corson says in his book Stage Makeup: ". . . despite common parlance and general belief to the contrary, age and the accompanying sagging of muscles result not in lines on the face, but in increased depressions and prominences. The makeup artist can best represent the depressions by shadows and the prominence by highlights. Any apparent lines are merely boundaries between highlights and shadows." Also it seemed rathed odd that the broken spring in the sofa could have such a disastrous effect on the players the first two times it was sat on but be used with relative comfort for the rest of the show. The set was attractively done. (I would like to see the theatre-goers of Eastern Oregon get into the habit of applauding a good set.)

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By DON FRANK

It's going to be a close battle in the P.C.C. now for the University of Oregon. After their loss last Saturday, things take on a grim complexion. Should they lose their next two games, and one of them is aaginst all-powerful OSC, the ymay see the Rose Bowl game on a T.V. set at Eugene.

* * *

One thing can be said for the EO football club this season. They held the league champions to a 0-0 deadlock. Comment on the seven unglorified mules. EOC's line, one of the lightest in the conference, really buckled down to a good brand of football the last part of the season. In front of the Homecoming crowd, they held powerful SOC to practically nothing.

Twice-and-told-again are the true tales of boys who leap off the bench to tackle a T.D. bound runner. Remember the Cotton Bowl in 1954? Rice's Dick Moegle had broken away and was hitting just the high spots. Then off Alabama's bench slid Tommy Lewis and knocked Meogle to the ground. Alabama had been elading 7-6, but the refs counted the T.D. Meogle woudl have gotten, so Rice won the bal lgame.

Another time at U.C.L.A. a pretty pompon girl ran out and tackled the tackler who was about to tackle the tackle who had picked up a fumble.

Basketball season gets underway the 30th of November on the EO maples against Whitman. Last season the Whits dumped the La Granders. This year may tell a different tale. The Mounties will floor a much more experienced group, with a top OCC scorer and rebounder back from last year.

Teacher Exams Announced

PRINCETON, N.J.—The National Teacher Examination, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 250 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, February 15, 1958.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may taken the Common Examintations, which include tests in professional information, general culture, English expression and non-verbal reasoning; and one or two of 11 optional examinations designed to demontrate mastery of subject matter to be taught. The college which a candidate is attending, or the school system in which he is seeking employment, wlil advise him whether he should take the national teacher examinations and which of the optional examinations to select.

A bulletin of information (in which an application is inserted) describing registration procedure and containing sample test questions may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N.J. Completed applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the ETS office during November and December, and in anuary so long as they are received before January 17, 1958.

Mounties Hold Raiders To Tie

EOC's Homecoming was highlighted by the 0-0 EOC, SOC game played Saturday afternoon, November 2.

Basement vs. attic found the Mounties, nevertheless, confident that an upset would occur, and it happened, even though it was a scoreless one.

Both teams held each other scoreless, but the moral victory belonged to the Mounties. EOC scored 10 first downs to SOC's 8; gained 179 yards in rushing, compared with SOC's 67; and carried the ball 24 times more than the opponent. Dick Quinn, EOC carried the ball a total of 90 yards; 23 more than SOC scored altogether.

The Mounties attempted 7 passes, completing none, while the Red Raiders attempted 13, and completed 7 for a gain of 71 yards.

EOC delivered 54 tackles to the visiting Red Raiders. Leading the list were Ken Feigner and Steve Johnson, with 10 each. ePnalties totaling 42 yards were called against EOC; SOC racked up 25 yards due to red flags.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

After a slow start, U.S.S. HUNTers seem to be progressing in their annual trouble-making. The following is a report of what is going on where in Hunt Hall.

P.A. and L.S., basement, have had to put 13 gobs to bed due to their "upset stomachs," and every flight of steps gets steeper.

As if there isn't enough water outside, HUNTers have to haul it to their buddies' rooms by the been awash for the last week. Someday the whole place will sink.

Along the same line, Hot Lips Harry serenades second deck every night on the fireehoze nozzles. Sweet music, you cool creep.

If and when you see some poor slob crying in the halls, it isn't because he is getting married, he just got a "valentine" in the mail. Most of us will, but don't be ashamed, pin it on your door so everyone can see that YOU are one of the crowd; that YOU are not ashmaed of it; that YOU work hard; that YOU . . . are flunking.

Universal Feeling

After duty hours, HUNTers like to drag a moll to a show or out to park, so show yourselves, gals, books aren't that important.

For a real hot surprise, jump into bed some night and find yourself short-sheeted — after you've run both feet through the sheet. Most of us know how that feels.

Sounds like the 4th of July around this place. Firecrackers have managed to blow holes in beds, erupt in toilets, and break windows, along with scaring certain persons out of many year's growth.

Being a well-painted frosh, I couldn't help but notice the upperclassman in the mess hall who looked like Chief Hot Face. Pretty mad, he was. We held a celebration.

Someone blew the wall out of his third floor washroom with a 12-gauge. It's going to be a cold winter.

Poker games have not taken a back seat to mid-terms. This all-weather sport still lives in several of the little "Las Vegas Clubs" in the dorm. We are informed that these games are just for fun, but after a heavy loss one night, this letter was written: Dear Dad—Having fun, need mon, your son. The almost immediate reply was: Dear Son—How sad, too bad, your dad.

Hint to half-witted HUNTers: Coke bottles, (containers made by the Coca Cola company to hold their soft drink), are supposed to be returned to the empty cases. Several of you with the Ignatz complex should be swinging from the trees and not going to an institute of higher education. If you can't refrain from breaking them all over the halls, you may as well go back to plastic babybottles.

Suggested Improvements

An average of 20, 968,554 dimes go into the HUNT coke machine every day, and the "Two on High" have to make nearly that many trips to their rooms for change. Wouldn't it be easier to purchase a machine for the lounge so we wouldn't have to trouble the "Almighty Ones"?

Do you wake up in the morning in a furnace? Do you return from class to a deepfreeze? Well I do, and I'm getting tired of it. Somebody had better learn how to regulate the thermostat or we'll all steam to death in our sleep. Also, the Library is hot enough to bake a rumsoaked whale, and that would take some doing.

EOC radio station, room 1, Hunt Hall, broadcasts on a carrier current frequency, which means it travels through the wiring in Hunt and Dorion Halls. You will find it at 670 on your dial, every week-day night from 6 till 11. Week-end hours vary. The latest and hottest records are played, along with classics, modern music, and opera.

Fourth floor is conducting ukelele practice nearly every night, Ukes seem to be very jopular in the dorm, and they can be heard any hour of the day.

Word has arrived that the Dorion girls will be invited to the Hunt lounge one night a week to watch TV. All that remains is to decide on the night. What do you think of it, girls? Wednesday and Friday night fights draw a huge crowd of men to the lcung.

Rudy Rudishauser, 305, takes the ribbon as a good barger. For a first-class haircut, just arrange with Rudy. At the rate he is now cutting, he will have a business started in no time flat.

Room 505 holds an evening vesper service each night, and everyone is invited to drop in. The service lasts about an hour, and includes a Bible study and prayers.

A Story . . . .

AN EXODUS TO NOWHERE

IN TWO SCENES

By Vincent

I have always been on the side of the downtrodden masses. At the movies I root for the Indians; at the fights I root for the underdog, sort of a Clarence Darrow type. (Dr. Kaiser take note). But I have learned one pertinent fact: the downtrodden don't always want to be defended.

A couple of weeks ago(before the emancipation on the bloody field of battle) I was coming out of the administration building, thinking about my good fortune at being able to atend an institution of higher learning. Here I could mature, learn to think, rise above the animal and adolescent. I could associate with mature, thinking individuals who would be the future leaders of my community and teachers of my children. I was proud—for ten or fifteen seconds.

On the sidewalk ahead there was a group of students scuffling. This did not seem to be the fruits of maturity, but I did not lose faith. I walked closer to determine the cause of the disturbance; perhaps someone needed help. As I approached I saw there were several boys holding a boy and a girl helpless while others painted the captives' faces with lipstick. Here I lost faith. I saw at once this was a case of the down-trodden, and I strode in to investigate.

"What's going on?" I asked.

One of the captors looked at me appraisingly, and then, as if indicating my acceptance, he said, "Git your lipstick and take a turn."

"I don't have any lipstick," I said sheepishly. (I was caught off guard.)

"No lipstick?" the other said, incredulously.

"No lipstick," I said again, this time a little more firmly.

"But man," the other said, "You're an upperclassman, ain't-cha?"

That was it: the two captives were freshmen and the others were Upperclassmen — Future Leaders.

"Am I supposed to take part?" I asked.

"Look Mac," the spokesman for the UFLs said, "You wanna paint faces, you getcha some lipstick. It's ever man for hisself."

That didn't sound quite right to me. Perhaps I'm a little dense, but I figured it sounded more like personal vindictiveness than organized, freshman initiation.

"Why are you painting their faces?" I asked.

I could see that the UFLs were getting tired of my interrupting.

"They ain't wearin' their hats," the spokesman UFL said. "Now, if you ain't gonna paint—shove!"

The Clarence Darrow blood rose in me and I walked to the captives.

"Let them go," I said, demandingly.

My aggressiveness caught the UFLs off-guard and they momentarily released the freshmen. "Now, go on about your business," I said to the freshmen, "And from now on stand up for your rights."

I don't mind saying that I was a little proud of myself—until I got hit in the eye. I got up from the sidewalk a little dismayed: my attacker was the freshman boy.

"That'll teach you to mind your own business," the freshman-down-trodden-one said.

"Yeah," said the female freshman, "Come on, men, I still got an unpainted spot on my forehead."

I took the hint and went on my way. I was afraid even to reflect on the scene except to wonder what Clarence would have thought.

People's customs change. The last generation always believes that the present generation is going to the dogs. Of course we realize that such an attitude is as untrue as it is perennial. Only the other evening I observed a group of young people defonstrating this.

The dance had been in progress for an hour or so before I got there. The juke-box was blaring a tune made up of drum-pounding and guitar-slappings. A nasal vocalist choked out unintelligable syllables. Couples made struggling motions, oblivious to the bludgeoning noise. I wondered if they would not be just as well off if someone were to beat a washtub with a spoon.

I found a quiet corner, sat and stoked my pipe. (I got left behind when the fox-trot went out). I looked around and felt conspicuous. The seats about me were filled with girls; the boys were on the other side of the room. Perhaps I was violating some sort of unspoken code.

The record scratched off and some of the couples drifted to my corner. Before they got there they split, the boys returning to stag row, and the girls to doe (?) row.

The sound started again and I observed the new generation in action.

One boy started across the room looking at the girl sitting beside me. At the last moment he turned (a feint of some sort) and wiggled his hips to a girl a few seats down. She smiled and got up without a word. Telepathy, I guess.

Another boy crossed, looked off in the distance, turned at the last moment and stuck out his arm to the girl next to me. She stiff-armed him back and they undulated off to the floor.

I was beginning to wonder if the custom of asking for a dance had also passed with the fox-trot when a young man strode boldly up to one of the girls and proclaimed, "You wanna dance?" They left without further conversation.

I heard a few more invitations, "How about it?" "Dance?" "C'mon," though the majority seemed more inclined to hand signals.

They returned after the struggle and swivel-hips swiveled, stiff-arm declined to stiff-arm his partner to her seat, and the verbose bunch mumbled a series of grunts which I supposed to mean, "Thanks."

Another number started. The drummer must have been tired on this one, for the beat seemed about my speed. I felt a little stagefright as I approached the young lady of my choice. I was looking straight at her, but she seemed to take no notice. She probably expected my to cross-buck at the last moment and pounce on her companion.

"I you're not committed, may I have this dance?" I asked without any hand signals.

She looked up a little uncertainly.

"Yeah, I guess so," she said.

I offered her my hand and we went to the dance floor. My two-step is far from the best and I had a little trouble keeping my companion down to my pace. After a moment, though, she seemed to relax and danced quite smoothly.

"Is this your first year here?" I asked, seeking conversation so that I might entertain her while we danced.

"Yeah—I mean yes it is," she said.

"That's fine," I said, "I hope you'll like it. Do you find it much different from high school?"

She looked at me suspiciously.

"You a professor?" she asked.

That was a good one.

"No," I said, "Why do you ask?"

"Well, I just wondered with that 'may I have this dance' bit and all," she said.

"Why does my asking you politely for a dance make me a professor?" I asked.

"Oh, I didn't really think you were a professor, at least not one of the old ones. It's just that only a professor would say something so corny," she said.

"I see," I said, "Do you think that your attributing a 'corny' polite invitation to a professor is a commentary on the professor or yourself?"

"I don't get you," she said.

That ended the conversation and the dance. I seated her and said: "Thank you for the dance. You dance very well." As I walked away I heard her comment to her companion: "What a square."

People's customs change. The last generation always believes that the present generation is going to the dogs. It isn't—it's going to the cast."

National Edition Publishes Poem By Bev Donovan

Beverly Kay Donovan, sophomore from Pendleton, has had her poem, "Who Can Speak of Death," accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

The Anthology, published by the National Poetry Association, is a compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America. According to Dennis Hartman, national secretary of the association, Miss Donovan's poem was selected from "thousands of poems" submitted representing "every section of the country."

Notice of publication was sent to Dr. A. R. Kaiser, English department head, and it expressed thanks for students' interest and cooperation in publishing the Anthology.

The October 18 issue of the Beacon carried the announcement concerning the competition, which ended November 5.

IRC's Panel Draws Crowd

The International Relations Club of Eastern Oregon college presented a panel discussion on "Sputnik and Its Implications" Wednesday in the A.V. room of Walter Pierce Library.

Panel members represented different fields of study. They were; Dr. Badgley of Eastern Oregon College, scientific field, Dr. Gaiser also of E.O.C., social science, Captain Willard Carey of La Grande, military, Reverend Robinson of La Grande, spiritual, and Bishop Bean of La Grande, miiltary and spiritual. Harold Moore, student of Eastern Oregon College, was moderator.

Students of Eastern Oregon College filled the auditorium to capacity.

General conclusions from the discussion were (1) The Russians realized the propaganda reward of getting their satellite into the outer atmosphere first, (2) The launching of Sputnik has not had a panicing effect on the military leaders of our nation. (3) Man must have knowledge of the outer atmosphere since it is part of our environment hence we must experiment in the field of satellites and missiles. (4) We must know our enemy so we can best counter against them. (5) Men of today have a tendency to become too deeply involved in Ethnocentrism.

Amid the scheme of brown and yellow decorations students of EOC spent an evening dancing to the music of Bill Howell and his Decorations were centered around the 'Community Kan" and supplemented by moons, stars and streame s were effectively hung throughout Hoke Hall. Loose straw scattered over the floor coupled with bales of straw along the edge of the dance floor provided a picturesque detail. Large footprints pacing the ceiling in the di ection of the "Community Kan" added a humorous note to the scene. Jugs representing "corn squeezin's" were to be seen around the room and the weekly was was draped over the backyard clotheslines at one end of the room.

Costumes of every type and desc iption were to be seen. Prizes were awarded for the best costumes as follows: Daisy Mae — Betty Johnson, L'l Abner — Joe Batty, Pa Yokum—Lou Parks, Moonbeam McSwine—Beryl Colvin, Wolf Gal—Janet Sanderson and Judy Wardell, Marrin' Sam —Bob Phifer, Mountain Boy— Al Tolar. A special presentation, "Hairless Joe" was made to Archie Dunsmoor by Cub Bare following the "dance theme" awards. A corsage made by Connie Serafin for oJn Hunt was awarded a prize as the most original.

Faculty members present for the affair and judging of thee costumes were Miss Neely, Miss Morris, Mr. Dunsmoor and Mr. Quinn.

Assembly Features 'Wonderland'

Northwest Wonderland was the theme of the annual Thanksgiving assembly held Tuesday. The program included an organ prelude by Patsy Evans, two numbers by the college choir, a reading from "This Is Our America" by Dick Hiatt, a solo by Dave Skeen and a film entitled "Northwest Wonderland". The assembly was faith Fellowship.

JEAN ADAMSON

Adamson Chosen AWS Girl of Month

Attractive and active Jean Adamson was announced as "Girl of the Month" for November at the AWS meeting, Wednesday, November 13. Jean was selected by the AWS committee for her activity, cooperation and friendliness.

A silver charm bracelet with her name and the month of her reign engraved on it will be presented to Jean. She will keep the charm, but the bracelet will be presented in turn to each "Girl of the Month" to wear her charm on. At the end of the year, a "Girl of the Year" will be chosen from among those honored each month and will be presented with the bracelet and a special engraved charm.

Jean is a brown-eyed, honey-blonde senior majoring in Elementary Education. She is student teaching this term, and reports that her second grade class is "lots of fun."

Regional director of SOEA, secretary of Alpha Rho Tau, Sigma Alpha Chi, Phi Beta Sigma, Dorian House Council, Inter-Faith Council and Sabers are among Jean's many activities. As regional director of SOEA, Jean was in charge of the successful regiional conference held here in October.

She attended Baker High school, but now lives in Milwaukie, Oregon.

Next Foreign Film Slated December 3

For a very nominal fee, those who are interested, may enjoy an evening of entertainment by viewing a famous classical film. Throughout this term, three interesting films have been shown in the Audio-Visual Room of the library and in the Ad building auditorium on various Wednesday nights. On December 4 a comedy will headline the performance featuring Alec Guiness "Man In The White Suit." This movie depicts a lowly chemist who perfects an indestructible fabric that repels dirt, thus causing utter chaos in the textile industry.

A committee headed by Leonard Kimbrell has endeavored to bring to the students and faculty of EOC, different types of themes as represented in these films. New equipment is being added to improve the actual showing of the films and this in itself helps to make the showing more enjoyable.

The committee which is made up of Josie Ward, Steve Johnson, Mr. Wells and Mr. Hiatt feels that the films prove more interesting as time goes on. Although improvement is becoming a part of the program, the committee is open to constructive suggestions from faculty and/or students. The schedule for winter term has not been drawn up as yet, but through helpful suggestions and ideas an interesting schedule of performances will be arranged.

As a citizen of a culturally minded world, a personal invitation is extended to you to attend these showings. Making these films a self-supporting enterprise is a goal of the committee and through your attending these movies it will be possible to continue showing them.

On Wednesday, December 4, plan to see "The Man In The White Suit."

Council Says 'Yes'

By DON FRANK
ASEOC Social VP

Probably the first thought when the headline was read, was, "Why should we pay to go to one of the college dances? I thought our student activity card covered all social activities the college holds."

When you went through the registration line at the first of he term, you paid ten dollars for an activity card. The student body got only part of it. The rest went to the Ahleic department. The total received by the student body was set up in different accounts; such as sports dances, Homecoming, and the Christmas Formal. Some of the events, being recognizably smaller in scale, weren't budgeted as much as others.

In the past, the Christmas Formal has always been one of the bigger and better dances of the school year. This year the Student Council would like to make it bigger and better than ever before. They felt one sure way to do this was to get a "Big Name Band." Scheduled to play for the dance this term is Rod Esselton of Pendleton, one of the better bands in Eastern Oregon. Because he has a good band, he charges more; more than is budgeted for the Christmas Formal. In other words, the Student Body couldn't hire Esselton without charging for the dance.

The Student Council, representing and elected by the students of Eastern Oregon College, felt the students would rather pay a little and dance to a "Big Name Band" than not pay and dance to one the students are used to hearing.

Eastern Oregon College is in a trend. The college is trending from small to large. The larger colleges, Oregon State and the University of Oregon, charge for their formal dances. Their student bodies are so much larger than ours they can have the best bands in the land. Due to our smaller student body, we must settle for the best band in Eastern Oregon.

Any sentiment about charging for the dance is encouraged in a letter to the editor, talking to a council representative, talking to the Social Chairman, or coming direct to a council meeting.

New York Dancers To Appear At EOC

Considered by the dance critic and authority, Louis Horst, as "one of our forward-looking and versatile companies," the Munt-Brooks Dance Company will present an unusual and stimulating program.

This noted group will be on the Eastern Oregon College campus for a regularly scheduled assembly program. However, due to the nature of the performance, it will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, December 3 at the Administration Building Auditorium.

In 1948, Maxine Munt and Alfred Brooks opened their school in New York City, and since that date they have given many concerts to audience acclaim throughout the United States. Graduates of the school, and now professional dancers, who will dance here are Martha Cutrufello and Nachum Glick, both native New Yorkers, and Richard Bull, who comes from Detroit. Both Miss Munt and Mr. Brooks hail from the Middle West.

An exciting new project for this talented pair is the new musical adaptation of the John Steinbeck story, "Of Mice and Men," opening in New York in January.

Thankfulness

". . . We thank thee for our creation, preservation and all the blessings of this life . . ." Once again on this eve of Thanksgiving we should stop to consider the phrase above and to try to determine just what we have to be thankful for.

There are, of course, the usual things which we think of each Thanksgiving. The quotation that opened this editorial pretty well covers that. However, there must be many more things for which we should give thanks, things that affect our daily living immensely.

The first thing that comes to mind is that we should be thankful for the opportunity to attend an institution of higher learning such as Eastern Oregon College. Some of the students, or is the proper term enrollees, at EOC would say that we should give thanks for the holiday, but this would show their lack of interest. We must remember that in most other countries we would have to pass rigorous examinations to get into a school even the size of EOC. The fact that we are able to choose our school and course of study is also something for which we should be extremely thankful.

Another thing this writer believes we should be thankful for is the fact that we are not at the present time involved in a global conflict. During the past few years there have been several occasions that it looked like we might become embroiled in a war. Luckliy, and probably through the efforts of our government, we have remained at peace.

A third thing for which we should be giving thanks, although cynics would laugh, is Sputnik. This may seem strange, but its advent has been the impetus that really moved the United States' missile program into high gear. By doing so, we have helped secure peace, an uneasy one to be sure, for the time being. In the future, things may get worse, but for the present time we are in a state of semi-easiness as far as the world situation is concerned.

Looking back, we should take stock of our blessings and really give thanks for those things which are good for us.

Your Feet Are Killing Me!

Students at Eastern Oregon College have usually been very considerate in using sidewalks, thus making it possible to maintain our lawns in excellent condition. Of late it has been noted, however, that a few students are beginning to make paths across the lawns. This is especially true from the Administration Building to the Library. We of the Beacon staff sincerely hope that EOC students will stop and think before crossing on the lawn next time. Remember, the lawns are here for the beautification of our campus.

Typical Vacation– Does It Fit You?

Anxiety and excitement is in the air when Thanksgiving vacation rolls around at EOC. The college student is not thinking of the real meaning of Thanksgiving; the pilgrims and their first Thanksgiving, or the people of the world giving thanks for their gifts.

The primary purpose of Thanksgiving, is the vacation of four days. For weeks now the student has planned what he will do. Joe Smith utters to himslef, "I will sleep for 12 hours, then I'll eat some of Mom's delicious home cooking, then sleep for a while and eat some of Mom's cookies, than nap a bit more. The last night I'll liven up this town a bit.

The final day of classes becomes a reality and Joe Smith leaves for home, and a well earned vacation. When Joe reaches home and that bed he has dreamed about in flytieing, instead of listening to Professor Snodgrass's lecture, is no where to be found. He hits the phone and after a few words that are indistinguishable, Joe zooms off and is seen no more until 3 in the morning. Joe is laid out for a few hours, then is up and gone again.

What has happened to all that sleep Joe was going to get, and that delicious food he was going to eat? Heck, Joe can squeeze such as that in between exams next week at EOC. After all, what are vacations for if you don't celebrate.

Does the preceding description fit you? Happy Thanksgiving.

To The Editor . . .

Feel free to express your opinions. In keeping with the Beacon's policy, writers of letters may request that their names be withheld, or may use a pseudonym. However, all letters must be signed.

Dear Sir,

It has always been dismaying to me to note how often those who are most wililng to speak are least willing to serve. I speak in reference to Miss Carter's article of the past week in which she discussed the mediocrity of Sock and Buskin's latest release. However, it was not her criticisms of the players which interested me most. It was the fact that apparently Miss Carter is a student of the art of stage make-up. Coupled with this is the fact that although eligible for membership Miss Carter refuses to join the "old and jaded" Sock and Buskin group and demonstrate her skills. Indeed it would be quite interesting to see whether or not Miss Carter could transform her mental acruity into diigtal dexterity.

George R. Schoedinger, 111

To Vincent, et al:

We (editorial "we"), like many others, we are sure, have grown weary of the "much ado about nothing" which Vincent initiated in the Homecoming edition of the Beacon. However, we, in general wih our sex, hate to see Vincent have the last word without a struggle and hasen, therefore, to pu in our two-bit's worth.

Surely, Vincent, if you have learned anything at all at this institution of higher learning (and we wonder, since apparenly everything offered must be filtered through the fine screen of your egocentric reaction), you must know that to take certain words out of context often grossly distorts he whole of a given composition.

For instance, the classic example of the accusation of having Communistic leanings earned by quotation of selected passages from the Declaration of Independence! This principle is applicable to personalities, also. By holding up to ridicule certain unimportant mannerisms and figures of speech typical of certain professors, you have very unkindly caricatured individuals of really large stature. Any one of these professors would be a very fine addition to the faculty of any college or university anywhere which offered courses in their respective fields. You would realize this if you ever attended college elsewhere (assuming in the meantime a certain amount of maturation, the lack of which another correspondent pointed out) Our first reacion was that it was paricularly unfortunate that your smart aleck harangue appeared in the Homecoming edition of the Beacon. However, we soon realized that the fairly unanimous reaction of the homecoming alums was, "What's the matter with these kids at EOC now? Don't they know a good thing when they have it?" Like most unkind and uncalled-for criticisms reflected on the critics rather than his victims.

Your little piece was undeniably clever, diabolically clever, but misguided. Any one of your victims could easily cut you down to size and make a monkey out of you (publicly, as you ried to do to them), though no one of them would stoop so low.

Now that we have warmed to our subject, Vincent, we cannot let your critics go unscathed. Your highsounding, Plato-Socrates - Quotation-studded argument with NAC does not suggest that either of oyu are learned scholars. It is easy to quote. The fellow who quotes, glibly, from the Saturday Review and the Atlantic Monthly is not necessarily any smarter or learned than the fellow who really gets something out of an article in the Reader's Digest. And as to the suggestion, or inference, of misuse of "freedom of the press" from a member of the staff of a local newspaper, did he not circulate the very material he criticized to a much larger audience? By seizing upon that particular article, did he not also "take from context" or cause the whole to be judged by a very small part and present a false picture of the Beacon as well as of Eastern Oregon College? (Which conversely points up how important small things are public relations-wise.) Regrettably it is the sensational and the contraversial which attracts attenion and thuse makes news—hence the widespread publicity given through newspaper articles and radio broadcasts of such incidents as the publication of this article, hangings in effigy, basketball scandals, panty raids, and the like. Such is poor publicity for EOC and poor public relations (both ways). Lest we be accused of criticizing in exactly the manner of those we criticize, let us hasten to pay tirbute to the very fine jobs that both newspapers and radio have done in promoing much that is good at EOC as well as publicizing it.

And as to you, Vincent, why don't you try using those very real talents you have at something more constructive?

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

Any EOC student who missed Amparo Iturbi, the guest star on the first Civic Music program, certainly missed a top performer. We don't bet a chance to hear an artist of this calibre very often, and I think that all EOC students should take advantage of all of the Civic Music programs. This is the only chance you will ever have to go to this type of program without having to pay anything at all.

In addition to the concert the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra gave on Sunday afternoon, they appeared in two concerts in Pendleton on Friday. The guest soloist with the orchestra was Mary Johnson of Salem. She is a former member of this group. EOC students who appeared with the orchestra are: Mike Ferguson, tympani; Don Cole and Dave Everrett, percussion, Karen McGillivray, clarinet; Gail Cork and Barbara Myer, violin; Clarinel Anglin, French horn; Lauren Potts, trombone; Alice Edvalson and Virginia Wellington, flutes; Shirley Hall, bass clarinet; Dan Tucker and Paul Beckett, trumpets; Dick Oesterling, tuba; Patsy Evans, piano; Sonya Tubbs, string bass.

Two choruses of women's voices were heard in the background in Holst's "The Planets." The members of the choruses were: Jan Robertson, Judy Lutz, Effie Roberta Davis, Ardyce Garrett, Vad Kelsoe, Linda Kane, Nancy Brooks, Letha Sager, Susan Donavan, Sylvia Thompson, and Johanna Hardwick.

Evadne was one of the soloists at the song service at the Christian church last Sunday evening, and she also sang at the Neighborhood Club this last week.

A girl's quaretet has been formed now. Members are Jan. Robertson, Barbara Myers, Linda Kane, and Evadne Kelsoe.

The flute trio performed at the Railroad Employees Thanksgiving Dinner.

The cast of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" is hard at work getting ready for their performance in December.

Grover Cleveland, while President of the United States, in 1893 underwent a secret and successful operation for cancer of the mouth. In the October Reader's Digest, Donald Culross Peattie explains the surgery was performed aboard a yacht in Long Island Sound to avoid alarming the nation then beset with a serious business depression. The cancer did not return and Mr. Cleveland lived 15 years more, became a trustee of Princeton University, and died at Princeton, N.J. on June 24, 1908.

Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

"Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink" may well have been the cry of the girls in room 312 last Sunday night. A most unusual thing had happened that night: the girls were in bed and quiet by 12:30. Then one of that troublesome trio decided she wanted a drink (100 per cent water) before calling it quits for the downfall of all their good intentions to set proper examples for the freshmen because, somehow, the drink found its way to the bedding of teh lower bunk and dampness soon prevailed. The girls were just beginning to really enjoy their early morning water frolics when the "great silencer" appeared at their door. In keeping with the atmosphere created by these fun-loving inhabitants of 312, she proceeded to "dampen" their spirits byissuing three dainty pink demerit slips. See what an innocent drink of water can lead to, freshmen?

The end to the disturbance on third floor didn't mean that Dorion was settled down for the night. The girls in room 9 in the basement thought it was their turn for a bit of fun, so they decided to have a blanket party. (It would be a bit difficult to have the conventional type of blanket party in Dorion at any time so these girls invented a new kind.) The object of this blanket party seemed to be to see how much of a mess you could create with your roommate's blankets. All of the girls were pretty experienced at this game and it wasn't long 'til the "blanket" part of the party was concentrated in the middle of the floor. With such revealing evidence as this, the girls didn't have a ghost of a chance of working up an excuse when the house mother made her entrance. This fiasco in room 9 ended in much the same manner as the earlier one in 312. Sandy, Judy, and Marilyn are all richer (or should we say poorer) by one demerit.

All of the girls in Dorion Hall want to express their thanks to that wonderful bunch of Hunt Hall Grenadiers who so thoughtfully serenaded us on Halloween. Their selection of musical renditions was clearly indicative of the thought and planning that so obviously preceded this serenade. Not only were their vocal reditions unique, but the complicated drill patterns executed by this skilled team as they moved from position were exquisite. That memorable night has been marked down in the diaries in Dorion as one of those rare and beautiful occasions that too seldom occur in the life of an EOC co-ed. ((It was even worth the risks the girls took while running from room to room in an attempt to keep the "happy wanderers" in sight.)

With Homecoming Weekend a thing of the past, Dorion girls are bask at the old grind (studying) again. Evidence of the concentrated study being carried on in this hallowed hall can be seen on the rather uique signs that appear on several of the room doors. Room 7 announces "Three term papers in the process" while room 9 commands "DO NOT DISTURB—Genius at Work." A poetical plea appears on room 8 as follows:

Do not pause by this here door
Do not tread hard on that there floor
For Jean's hard at work behind this wall,
And a theme for Dr. Johnson sure ain't no ball.

So please tread lightly and consider poor Jean,
Cause her brain's fuzzy and tired's her bean!
She'll appreciate your kind, loving care,
But to help her get done you might add a prayer.

This is a good example of the condition Dorion girls are in after the ordeal of mid-terms. Ah well, there's something to look forward to; as the song goes, "Glory, glory exaltation, one more day until vacation . . ."

Quaintance Speak To Language Club

Dr. Charles W. Quaintance was featured speaker at the Modern Language meeting of October 28. Dr. Quaintance showed his slides After the showing of his slides, there was a question and answer period at which time Dr. Quaintance supplied the answers to several questions from the members of theh club.

The members of the club then retired to Hoke Hall from the A-V aduitorium in the library where the slides had been shown. At Hoke, several French songs were sung. They were "Frere Jacque," "Il Elait une Bergire" and 'Au Claue de la Lune." After the singing, refreshments were served, consisting of croissants and cafe ou lait, which is coffee served in the French style, half coffee and half milk.

Guests who added to the enjoyment of the group were Mrs. Larry Seachris from Puerto Rico, Supandi Redjann from Indonesia, and Ibrahim Ayyoub form Trans-Jordan.

The next meeting of the club is tentatively set for December 9. It is slated to be a Pinata Party featuring South American countries and customs. Any interested perosns, whether a student of foreign languages or not, are welcome to attend.

Officers of the Modern Language Club are Billie Jo Bond, president; Maybe DeGraw, first vice-president; Arleta Nord, second vice-president, and Lorraine Tarpenning, treasurer.

University of Oregon—An idea which might be a good one for EOC: each fall their paper prints a Student Dicipline Code including the policies and procedures followed by the disciplinary committees in such cases. Might be helpful to know when you should expect expulsion and when just suspension, eh?

Oregon State—A "grubby day" was observed by the junior class members recently when they all attired themselves in anything and everything available—provided, of course, that it had that "grubby" look. The day was ended with a spaghetti feed, which would be a good idea, for once you wouldn't have to worry about getting . . . grubby?

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By DON FRANK

The 1957 football season came to a dark finish for the Mounties of EOC last Saturday. The hard-running, blocking and tackling Seattle Ramblers dealth the home lads a 52-0 trouncing. We noticed the semi-pro team had terrific down-field blocking. One thing can be said about the Eastern Oregon eleven; they held the "Giants" from Seattle a few times.

EOC Tumbles In Last Fray

Eastern Oregon's Mounties took a sound 52-0 drubbing at the hands of the semi-pro Seattle Ramblers before the home fans of La Grande last Saturday. Despite the score, the much undermanned EO elevn put up a terrific battle and played a good ball game.

Six of the La Granders played their last ball game for the college. Dick Quinn, Steve Johnson, Jerry Bristow, Captain Bud Lewis, Terry Ziegenhagen, and Stan Weigel wll not be back next season via graduation. The loss of these six will show on the next's year's squad.

The over-all power and experience of the visitors proved too much of a handicap for the Mounties. Most of the Seattle team was made up of ex-college players who just play the game for the love of it.

Roy Dotson picked up two T. D.'s, Bob Lydum scored one and and E. P., Len Randall scorbit on a 27 yard pass. Frank Bly hit from three yards out, Ed Johnson score from the three, Dale Lamb bucked from one yard out, and Len Hawkins caught a 23 yard pass for a T.D.

The loss wrapped up the season for the Mounties. They have an overall season record of one win, five losses, and one tie.

Oklahoma Finally Fell! It took Notre Dame to do it, but they tumbled. It got to looking like they would never get the small end of a score, but they did. Thought for a while the Sooners would beat the Irish, but "Lady Luck" didn't smile. (Maybe that was the trouble with the Mounties this year).

We are looking forward to a big year in basketball this season. We have great hopes for the La Granders. The club shouldn't finish any lower than second in the OCC. Let's hope anyway.

Although the Oregon-OSC game will already be played when this paper hits the stands, we would like to say something about the game. This will be the first time in history that the PCC Championship hangs in the balance of the "Civil War." Oregon has never held an undisputed championship, although they have been co-champs a few times. If the Ducks do whop the Beavers, they will be the undisputed PCC crown holders. If they lose, the two clubs will share the crown.

Book Week Held On EOC Campus

The week of November 17-23 was National Book Week, with the theme "Exploring With Books" in conjunction with the International Geophysical Year.

A series of events were held on campus in recognition of Book Week. A project of the Child Literaure and Library class was the Book Bazaar held in the basement of the library. The display included Newbery and Cadecott award books, classics, Mother Goose and Christmas books, and new books for age groups 5-16. Also on display were shadow boxes, moving pictures, and murals made by Ackerman boys and girls, based on books read to them by by their teachers.

A meeting of Eastern Oregon school and children's libaraians was held on Tuesday, November 19. The morning session was devoted to evaluations of new books, with Mrs. Sue Morrison from the Oregon state library in charge. A display demonstration was held in the art room at Ackerman in the atfernoon under the direction of Mrs. Morrison and Miss Leona Golz of EOC.

The Ackerman PTA visited the Book Bazaar at their meeting on Monday, November 18. In addition, all schools of Union County were invited to visit the Book Bazaar during the week.

The Methods and Materials and Child Literature classes read stories to groups of Ackerman children in Bohnenkamp's window from 10-11 and 3-4, Monday through Friday. Radio programs were presented by these classes on Tuesday and Wenesday nights, telling of the importance of reading in the home.

Nurses... Around The World

Assisting in surgery, preparing and giving medications, charting; these things are done in every country that has nurses. Sometimes, however, necessity or custom dictates a procedure which seems unusual to us. For instance, in Free China the nurse is taught to use an army rifle effectively. When she graduates from school she is a military officer as well as a nurse. The Chinese nurse does the traveling for her public health nursing on a bike; and she knows how to prepare both Chinese and Western diets.

In the province of Voralberg in Austria, the busy district nurses travels on skis in the winter and wears heavy mountain boots in the summer. In Micronesia (the Marian, Caroline, and Marshall islands in the Pacific) nurses travel from one family to another by boat. Nurses in El Salvador must use rain water for bathing patients and for drinking water. The sanitation and sewage facilities are of a most primitive kind. Nurses often must walk miles on hot, dusty roads to give assistance to suffering patients.

Our health nurse, Mrs. Robertson, related an experience she has had in our own country, traveling on horseback in North Carolina and going from barge to modern America we find condibarge in East Side New York visiting the sick. So even in our tions which necesitated using old customs.

A Story . . . .

A DIALOGUE

By VINCENT

Claude lay back on his bed in the small, college dormintory room. He drew his long, Levied legs up, placed his right foot on his left knee and admired his spit-shined cowboy boots. After a moment a frown crinkled his homely face and he turned to his roommate.

"You 'spose it's 'cause I'm a hick?" he said.

Claude's roommate, Marty, sat grimacing in a hand mirror, surveying his pimpled face. Monkey-like, he clawed over the lower left side, espied a ripe mound and dug at it.

"S'pose what's 'cause you're a hick?" Marty said as he popped out a yellow core.

"The girls," Claude said. "They don't take to me."

Marty glanced at Claude and quickly returned to his picking. "An't that, a ain't the boots," he said.

"Been here two months," Claude said. "I ain't been out once. Must'av asked fifty a hunnert girls, let's go out.' Anl I get the freeze."

"Ain't the cowboy boots," Marty said.

Claude raised up and looked at Marty. "I know it ain't the boots. You said that. What I want to know is, what is it?"

Marty was contemplating another extraction.

"Don't like to say," he said.

"Look, Marty," Claude said, "you're my best buddy; you can tell me."

"Don't like to say," Marty said. "Man, it's like you had bad-breath or sumpin. Don't like to say."

Claude swung his legs to the floor, sat up and gripped the edge of the bed. "You gotta tell me Marty," he said. "I'm tired of bein' a nobody. I'm tired of sittin' in stag row."

Marty reluctantly set the hand mirror down and nervously unwrapped a large chocolate bar.

"Sure you want me to?" he said.

Claude looked at him eagerly and nodded.

"Well man," Marty said through a mouthful of chocolate, "it's like you ain't one of the boys; you ain't with it."

'What you mean?" Claude said.

"Like last night," Marty said, continuing in a chocolate nasal, "was fourth-floor's night to squirt the firehose down the hall and what did you do?"

'Studied," Claude said slowly.

"That's it man," Marty said. "Studied!" Here we was out runuin' that ol' firehose down the hall like mad, and squirtin' everybody an' gettin' everything wet an' really raisin' the roof, an' what was you doin'? Studyin'!"

"But I had a test today," Claude said.

"That's it," Marty said. "That's your square attitude. You ain't with it. You ain't one of the boys."

"You mean that's why I ain't pop'lar, 'cause I don't squirt the firehose?" Claude said.

"That ain't all," Marty said. 'That ain't the half of it. 'Member last week a wall was blowed out down on first? Man, we had a ball. We loaded that ol' shotgun up with everything but the kitchen sink an' we rared back an' blowed a hole in that wall you could drive a tank through. Man, that was me did it. That was me pulled that crazy ol' trigger. You notice how I was chasin' women with a stick last week? Well man, that's it; you gotta be with it. You gotta know how to be pop'lar. You gotta know why you're in this ol' school."

Claude lay back on the bed again, puzzled.

'You mean we ain't s'posed to study?" he said.

Marty giggled and nearly choked on the last of his chocolate bar.

"Man, you're a riot," he said, "a real hick."

"Don't call me no hick," Claude said, threateningly.

"See," Marty said. "Like I was tellin' ya, ya had bad-breath, already you're gettin' mad. I always said, 'ya can't tell nobody his faults, 'cause he don't appreciate it.'"

"Alright, alright," Claude said. "What else?"

"It's your whole outlook," Marty said. "Ya gotta change. But it ain't enough to change, ya gotta be creative, ya gotta have imagination. Lemme tell ya what I mean.

"Couple weeks ago a bunch of us was out livin' it up. Ya know, really havin' a ball. Well, that's okay, I mean that's the right attitude, but we got imagination, 'specially me. "Stead of just restin' on our laurels of a real crazy night (which really impresses the women) we barrels up to school 'bout two 'clock an' here's where we really lives it up. We takes these bottles an' throws 'em all over the lawn. Then we busts a bunch in the streets an' on the library steps. Man, by that time I'm really with it. I tells the guys to 'watch this,' and' I pitches one right against the ad. building. Man I was real creative. Carzy!"

Claude broke in: "Ya mean ya broke bottle in the street an' threw 'em on the school lawn? Why?"

Marty blinked stupidly. "It was a ball."

"Why," Claude said.

"Look, man," Marty said, "you want me to help ya or not? Ya want me to, don't ask ignorant questions. Ya got to think big. Ya gotta be a big man. Ya gotta show 'em."

'Show who?" Claude said.

"Everbody," Marty said. "The creeps; the women; the square professors—everybody."

"You mean they like it for ya to blow holes in walls an' throw bottles on the lawn?" Claude said.

"Sure man, they think it's crazy," Marty said.

"Don't they do nothin' to ya when the catch a?" Claude said.

"Who catches au?" Marty said. "But s'pose they did. They wouldn't do nothin'."

"Why not?" Claude said.

"Man," Marty said, "we paid our loot. 'Sides, it's only a few cornballs don't like it."

Claude didn't understand. He rolled the paradox of destruction and popularity over in his mind. It seemed true. Marty was popular although he was one of the poorer students, academically. How much trouble you got in; how much water you flooded the halls with; how many bottles you could throw on the lawns, those were the things that seemed to count. What was the comment he had heard so many times after one of Marty's demonstrations? "Boys will be boys?" Funny, if someone blew a hole in a wall of a public apartment building, or turned a firehose loose, he would probably be arrested.

He had been studying for two months, staying out of trouble, trying to get an education. And what had his efforts got him? Unpopularity.

He remembers his Old Man telling him to study hard and get the edgucation that the Old Man never had. "Watch yerself," his Old Man said, "they won't stand fer no foolishness. Them colleges is full of edgecated people an' they's there to make a man outa ya. You do like they say. You try to be like them."

Like Marty?

"Well man," Marty said, "you got it?"

"I guess," Claude said. " I guess I have. I got a test tomorrow. I'm gonna study."

"Are ya kiddin'," Marty said. You must be, nobody's that square."

Claude rose from the bed menancingly.

The door burst open and a group of Marty's friends barged through with a roar of noise. The first two proceeded to squirt everything in sight with toy squirtguns.

"Crazy," Marty said. What's on?"

"Firecrackers," one of the mob said. Firecrackers and toilet bowls."

"Thumbs down," Mart said, "Strictly square. We done that last week.

"Look, I just got a flash; a real killer. Here's what we do. We all git on Levis and tee-shirts; you know, all the same, like a disguise. Then we git masks. Here's where we really have a ball. We git on all this year and 'crash', we take over the women's dorm; tear the place apart; panties—anything!"

The mob went wild.

"Man," Marty said. "We'll be heroes."

They started to squeeze through the door again. Raucous laughter announced their progress.

One of the mob yelled at Marty: "What about your creepy friend, he comin'?"

Marty began to giggle uncontrolably.

Claude frowned for a moment, then his face went blank.

"Yeah," he said. "I'm comin'."

Candlelight Hour Held Sunday

Hoke Hall was the scene of the annual Yule Candlelight Hour sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi. Approximately 100 people enjoyed the traditional candle lighting and carol singing ceremony. Joan DuBosch, alumna, lit the master candle which was given to the local group by the State Sigma Alpha Chi. Arleta Nord, president, was first to light her candle. Each member then lit her candle and placed it on one of the windows. The girls sang "Silent Night."

The guests were informally served tea and sandwiches while the remainder of the program was given. A violin solo, "Ill Be Home for Christmas," was given by Barbara Myer. A selected group from the choir sang "Draw Night Immanuel" and "Beside Thy Cradle."

Members of this group were: sopranoes: Elaine McNaught, Jan Robertson, Linda Kane, Bonnie Fox, Johanna Hardwick and Lynette Pershall; altos: Barbara Myers and Nancy Brooks; tenors: Darrell Nichols and Mike Ferguson; basses: Bob Barrett, Paul Beckett and Gary Winkle. Nancy Brooks sang "White Christmas," followed by a flute quartet consisting of Alice Edvalson, Ranona Traville, Janice Bendshadler, and Virginia Wellington. The Faculty Men's Glee Club entertained the group with several traditional Christmas melodies. Robert McCroskey sang "O Holy Night," accompanied by Mrs. Lynn Bishop. To end the afternoon eveone joined in to sing favorite carols.

Committees were: posters, Virginia Van Blokland, chairman, and Susan Latta; refreshments, Sherrie Cockburn, chairman, Karen McGillivray and Thelma Hogg; candles, Betty Roudebush, chairman and Jan Hettick; program, man, and Jan Hettick; program, Robertson; Christmas trees, Kyoko Yamada, chairman, Janice Ward and Barbara Mahoney; mantle decorations, Sandra Spickerman, chairman, and Bernice Opp.

Ackerman Party Features Santa

On Friday, December 13, the SOEA chapter of Eastern Oregon College will sponsor a Christmas Party for the children in kindergarten at Ackerman. Two parties will be held, one occurring at 10 a.m. and the other at 2 p.m. Mike Ferguson will assume the role of Santa Claus, passing out gifts of books and balls to each child. Refreshments of jello, cookies and punch will be served. Joyce Kronelin and Nicki Scofield will present Christmas stories during the parties.

Committee members for the party are: Sandra Spickerman, chairman of table decorations; Margaret Preston, chairman of refreshments, assisted by Josie Ward and Delores Duus. Serving refreshments at the 10 a.m. party will be Elaine McNaught, Judy Lutz and Jean Adamson. Serving for the afternoon party will be Janice Robertson, Sharon Cupper, Marilyn Hilyard, Bernice Opp and Margaret Preston. Wrapping ping gifts were Kay Bondurant, Virginia Wellingtton, Marie Potts, Annette Mason and Sharon Cupper.

'Amahl' Presented Thursday At EOC

by Beverly Donovan

The first performance of the Christmas opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," was presented yesterday afternoon to the student body and the faculty. This has been the first Christmas observance of this type presented on the EOC campus and it was received exceptionally well. The main performance will be tonight. A sellout is expected.

Mr. Neil Wilson, music department, and Mr. Richard Hiatt, dramatic department, co-directed the one-act production written by Gian-Carlo Menotti. Janis Robertson, junior, portrays the small crippled boy. Amahl's home is visited by the Wise Men on their journey to Bethlehem. When he learns of their mission he wishes to present a gift of his own to the Savior. Having nothing to give but his crutch, he humbly presents this one possession. Through this unselfish act the boy is healed and is able to join the pilgrimage to worship the Holy Infant.

Sylvia Thompson has the part of the mother; the three kings are: Maurice Lane, David Skeen, and George Schoedinger III. Mike Ferguson is the page.

The chorus of shepherds consists of: Wiley Knighton, Dale Moulton, Barbara Myer, Darrell Nichols, Lynette Pershall, Letha Sager, and Virginia Van Blokland.

The dancers are Evadne Kelsoe, Nance McCrae and Gary Winkel. Duo pianists are Carol Van Blokland and Glynn Zweifel. Patsy Evans accompanies on the organ. Alice Edvalson has the incidental flute solo.

OFCL Confab At Portland Last Weekend

Josie Ward, ASB Secretary, was elected Vice-President of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders at the 15th Annual Convention of OFCL which was held December 6 and 7, at Lewis and Clark College. Over seventy-five delegates from ten colleges in Oregon were present at the two-day gathering.

The Conference, which is held annually on the campus of one of the member schools, groups together student leaders for the purpose of discussing problems involved in the administration of Student Government. Sessions concerning mutual campus problems are held in order that the delegates may profit by the procedures and views presented by delegates from other colleges. Discussion sssions held at this Conference were Promotion of Student Activities, Budget Procedures, Campus Publications, Improve Student Participation, Orientation and School Spirit, and Leadership Responsibilities.

The Conference opened Friday with a luncheon and opening address by former Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, Phil Hitchcock. The luncheon was followed by seminar sessions and a Get-Acquainted Tea. The Conference really got rolling Saturday morning with a Student-Body President's Breakfast and more discussion groups. The afternoon was spent in Delegation Caucuses and the Business Meeting at which the next year's officers were elected and a revised Constitution for the Federation was presented and adopted.

The rest of the officers chosen, in addition to Miss Ward, were president, Jack Barry of Pacific U.; secretary, Sandra Roarke of Willamette U.; and host-treasurer, George Olson of SOC. Southern Oregon College was selected as the site for the 1958 Conference.

A banquet at Amato's Supper Club in Portland put the finishing touches to an already highly successful week-end. A very inspiring and thought - provoking Keynote Address by Dr. Dubach, Professor of Political Science at Lewis and Clark, was the highlight of the banquet. Dr. Dubach, who was formerly Dean of Men at OSC for 23 years, spoke on the subject of, "If I Were Young Again," and stressed the importance of youthful leaders who realize their importance and responsibilities in the rapidly changing world today.

SANDRA SPICKERMAN

Sandra Spickerman Named by IRC as 'Girl of the Year'

Miss Sandra Spickerman, Eastern Oregon College senior, this week was named "IRC Girl of the Year."

The selection of Miss Spickerman, by the International Relations Club, was made on the bsis of personality, character, scholarship, and service to the organization.

Miss Spickerman, majoring in both elementary and secondary education at EOC, is a graduate of The Dalles High School. She is president of Alpha Rho Tau, art honorary, and is a member of Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honorary, and Phi Beta Sigma, teaching honorary. She is also secretary of the International Relations Club, the Sabers, and the Ski Club.

Audience 'Poor,' Dancers Good

There is nothing worse that can happen to a group of entertainers than to give a performance before an unresponsive audience. The audience which attended the performance of the Maxine Munt - Alfred Brooks Dance Company Tuesday, December 3 in the college auditorium were not only unresponsive, they were rude. If the dancers had lacked talent, which they did not, the rudeness might have been warranted. The audience, as a whole, exhibited a common human trait — that of scoffing at or ridiculing something that they obviously didn't understand.

Not all of the numbers presented were equally good. The least well done, I would say, was the dance entitled "Each of Us—And Together." Despite an explanation of the dance given beforehand by Maxine Munt, the idea which the dancers were trying to portray remained hazy and unclear. Also, the symbolism which was attempted through change of attire hindered rather than aided interpretation.

Of all the dances presented, the last, "After the Bomb" and "Before the Bomb," was the best. As the title suggests this number contrasted the life of a group of individuals before and after a bomb has fallen. This piece was strikingly dramatic and well executed. The irony and tragedy inherent in war was apparent.

The "spark plug' of the dancing group was Maxine Munt. In her words: "I dance because I like to," and this was well illustrated by the skill with which she executed the various dance numbers that she was in. The performance got off to a slow beginning, but largely because of Miss Munt's vitality, enthusiasm and talent, the rest of the members of the dance group were drawn up to a higher level of performance by the end of the program.

In my opinion the Maxine Munt —Alfred Brooks Dance Company provided an evening of enjoyable and stimulating entertainment. I should not be unhappy to see more like it in the future.

Cram For Those Exams

Once again that joyous time of the year known as final week has rolled around. For some on the Eastern Oregon College campus this time of the term is looked forward to with feelings of fear; fear that this term may be their last at EOC. For others, it is a happy time, because it will mean a vacation. There is probably still even another group who have mixed feelings about finals, some happy and some sad. These feelings, however, do not directly influence the theme of this editorial.

The problem for most Eastern Oregon students to decide right now is whether or not they are going to wait until the last minute and then study all night (i.e. cramming) or if they will study a little at a time over a period of several days.

Undoubtedly, there are things to be said in defense of cramming. A person might have several finals on one day that would require all his time and then would force him to devote one night to a single test to be held on the next day.

However, there surely are not too many cases of this type. Therefore, cramming should not be prevalent. It will be, though. From previous experience, this writer knows that if a person stays up all night studying for a test, his thought and reaction processes are slowed. The degree to which they are affected depends on how many nights that person has been studying late. Many of the sophomores, juniors and seniors will agree that it is better to spend a few hours studying in the afternoon and early evening, get to bed early and get a god night's rest; then get up early and review the material again. This way, the facts are rather firmly implanted in your mind and you should stand a better chance of passing, or even "acing" your finals.

This is just one idea on how to study for finals without cramming. There are other theories on studying, because each student differs in his opinion on that sometimes—annoying topic, but this is at least a start toward formulating some ideas of your own.

Dr. Joyce Brothers, psychologist and winner of $134,000 on the TV quiz show, "The $64,000 Question," offers four points of advice to avoid flunking exams:

1. Always read the question carefully before you start. So many students come into class with a preconceived notion of what the questions will be, and answer according to their own ideas, no matter what the subject really is.

2. Look over the whole exam before you start, and apportion your time. Then you'll avoid spending all your time on the first few questions and missing the last ones.

3. Don't depend on last minute cramming. The curve of forgetting dips most sharply in the first day or so, and after that it levels off. That is, you forget most of what you've studied almost immediately, unless you go back and review, over a period of time.

4. If you're stuck on a question, go on to the others and then come back. If you're really stuck for an answer, your first hunch is most likely to be correct.

The choice is yours as to whether you will cram for exams or not—make it!

To The Editor . . .

Feel free to express your opinions. In keeping with the Beacon's policy, writers of letters may request that their names be withheld, or may use a pseudonym. However, all letters must be signed.

Dear Editor:

Not having heard Mr. Skeen sing since his performance in last winter's production of "Plain and Fancy" I was amazed at the improved quality of the singer's voice when he appeared in the Thanksgiving assembly. He is beginning to sound more and more like his voice teacher, the talented Mr. Wilson. I am sure the improvement of Mr. Skeen's voice resulted from long hours of tedious practice and careful instruction. Such diligence is a rare quality in one so young. My whole hearted admiration goes to Mr. Skeen.

N.A.C.

To Schoedinger, III,

In your letter to the editor which appeared in the last issue of the Beacon you referred to the "old and jaded Sock and Buskin group.' I would go one step further and call that particular organization archaic. Perhaps at one time Sock and Buskin did perform a useful function on campus, but that time is obviously "long gone."

I have worked with Sock and Buskin members in several college plays. They are generally willing to serve in theatrical productions as long as there is some glory connected with their services—specifically acting. As for the more dull and mundane jobs such as costuming, working on the set, prop management, etc. there is not only lack of enthusiasm but complete apathy. (I refer you specifically to the last meeting of Sock and Buskin.) As far as I am concerned the majority of the members in Sock and Buskin belong to the club only for the social prestige it gives them rather than through any sincere interest in the theatre, per se. Theatre on this campus would not suffer if Sock and Buskin suddenly ceased to exist. I hope this sufficiently answers your question as to why I don't belong to Sock and Buskin.

Furthermore, I rather suspect that even without belonging to that "illustrious" organization I have put in more hours on stage work than many of the Sock and Buskin members.

As for being "a student of the art of stage make-up," I claim no such distinction. Critical comment does not necessitate superior skill in that area being evaluated. I am sure readers of a New York newspaper would be vastly amused if a Broadway critic after writing an unfavorable review of an actor's performance were attacked by that irate actor with words to the effect "that if you think you're so smart, try it yourself and see if you can do a better job."—Nancy Carter.

Razor's Holiday Begins Jan. 6

By AL

Attention Freshmen. Get your cherubic faces in condition for the annual Whiskerino which will begin with registration for winter term. If your faces are not matured to the point of cultivating whiskers, try anyway; you never know what can happen; there's a prize for tring. Upperclassmen realize the state of immaturity which many afreshman faces in connection with the Whiskerino. Buddy up to your favorite upperclassman; he may lend ou his razor to shave our legs in search of false whiskerhood; no need to face embarrassment, get with it.

One problem which faces many a male at Whiskerino time is his favorite female. The female is an element of distruction to many a fine beard. She will constantly nag at her be-whiskered Bo until he either must surrender to her loving charms or decide if he is a man of whiskered elegance or a smooth-faced slave. So when that certain female begins her plan of attack on your proud whiskers hold your ground and your whiskers; they've been known to try and pull them out—by the roots.

The Whiskerino is climaxed by a very fine dance at which prizes are awarded to the best in beards. The growing of the beards has come to be an annual event at EOC and is looked forward to with much anticipation.

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

Don't miss Amahl and The Night Visitor!

The musical aspect of Christmas was quite evident at Yule Candlelight Hour last Sunday. Entertainment during the afternoon included a violin solo by Barbara Myer; a vocal solo by Nancy Brooks; a flute quartet composed of Virginia Wellington, Alice Advalson, Ranona Travaille, and Janice Bendshadler; the faculty men's ensemble, a vocal solo by Mr. McCroseky; and a vocal ensemble from the choir.

As the Christmas season is underway, many members of the student body and the faculty are making appearances at civic groups. The flute quartet will play at the annual physician's dinner at the St. Joseph Hospital next Tuesday night. Susan Latta played a flute solo at the Baptist Church last week, and the faculty men's ensemble sang at the Faculty Christmas Dinner.

Glynn Zweifel and Carol Van Blokland did a great job on the behind-the-scenes work on Amahl. They spent many hours at the piano practicing with the cast.

The Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra has started practicing for its concert on February 16. Featured on the concert will be a harpsichord soloist. This will be the firset time that a harpsichord has ever been on the Eastern Oregon College campus, and it will be the first time that many of the students have had an opportunity to hear one being played.

Next Tuesday night is the Ackerman Christmas Program. Dr. Bishop has been working hard on this program getting everyone ready on time. He has had help (and probably hinderances, too) from the student teachers. Don't be surprised if in the next few days you see some small angels running around campus. They aren't for real, believe me. They are only one of the mny different groups which have a part in this program. You'll probably see many more costumes, too. I thought that maybe with finals coming up you should all be warned so that you wouldn't think you were having halucinations from too much study.

Nevada Racks MountiesTwice

The wekend of December 6 and 7 saw Nevada University invade the high school gym in La Grande to sweep a double bill from the Eastern Oregon College Mounties, the first night by a decisive 21 points, and the second night by 8.

Saturday the 7th, a completely different style of ball was played by the home team, who held the lead until early in the second half when the visitors splurged from a 5 point deficit to a 6 point lead. EOC managed to stay in contention the rest of the contest, but was unable to regain the lead.

The home team started out in a man-to-man defense, then changed to a zone Friday. They seemed to fall apart for a few moments as they changed, and the Nevada boys jumped to a big lead. La Grande stuck to the zone the rest of the contest, but Nevada was able to penetrate. In the closing moments, the visitors racked up 8 points while the Mounties stayed stagnant in the scoring division.

Larry Howard was the big gun for EO Friday night with 24 points. Jerry Baxter took individual honors the second evening with 15.

Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

Mice in the basement and an unlockable door on room 1 is about the extent of printable happenings in Dorion Hall this past week.

The end of Thanksgiving vacation found Dorion girls flocking back to these hallowed halls for the last few weeks of bitter struggle before Christmas. The struggle began a bit prematurely for Nicki and Sharon when they returned to find their room locked up tight. After several unsuccessful attempts with key and knife, our chief carpenter resorted to a hammer and saw. This method brought a little better results and the girls were glad to get back in their room after a night in that infirmary. The identity of the door-locking culprit is still a mystery but we do know for sure that it was "human fingers what done it."

Several mice have been sighted in the basement lately and the underground gals have decided they must go. (The mice, that is). Mousetraps haven't been very effective so we're devising other methods. Of course, these methods are secret but we've heard something concerning cafeteria food as bait. The mice must have heard it too, because we haven't seen any since the weekend.

With final exams starting next week quite a few of the girls are beginning to think about next term. Winter term will find a few familiar faces missing from the monthly house meetings, and, of course, there'll be a few new faces added. From the basement comes word that Room 8's Nonie Travaille is making plans for spending Winter term in Miloxi, Mississippi. This may not bring her any closer to that precious B. S. Degree, but it certainly cinches her MRS. Degree. We're all going to miss her but we're certainly glad she gets to go.

Another gal we'll miss next term is the floor rep who has been doing such a noble job in the annex. Jean Marie finally got the best of the United States Army and is planning a December wedding. Her roommates can't imagine why Jean Marie would even think of giving up that huge annex room (it has four closets) to live in her 6x4 apartment but then we all have our little idiosyncrisies.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Dorion females have beat a beautiful path across the lawn to Ackerman. Tell me, girls, is this all you have time to do?

Thanx for the great spirit at the ball games with Nevada. It just goes to show what you can do if you try.

Snow was an asset for a while. There was more in Hunt than outside. Lots of broken windows, too, which is fun until you have to pay for them.

Over the holidays, men, let's think up some beaky stunts to pull on the girls and on each other. These old things are getting overworked.

I'll see you next term, or will I. Neither of us has taken our finals yet.

MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAP-HIC-HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Club News

The Pre-Nurses Club met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Robertson for their Christmas party, December 11. Special guests were senior girls interested in nursing from the La Grande High School.

An interesting, informal talk was given by Mrs. Elsa Hammond, R.N. She spoke on "Surgical Nursing." Games and refreshments ended the evening.

DICK QUINN, senior halfback, is the leading ball carrier for the Mountaineers, averaging better than 4.4 yards per carry all four years. Quinn is from La Grande.

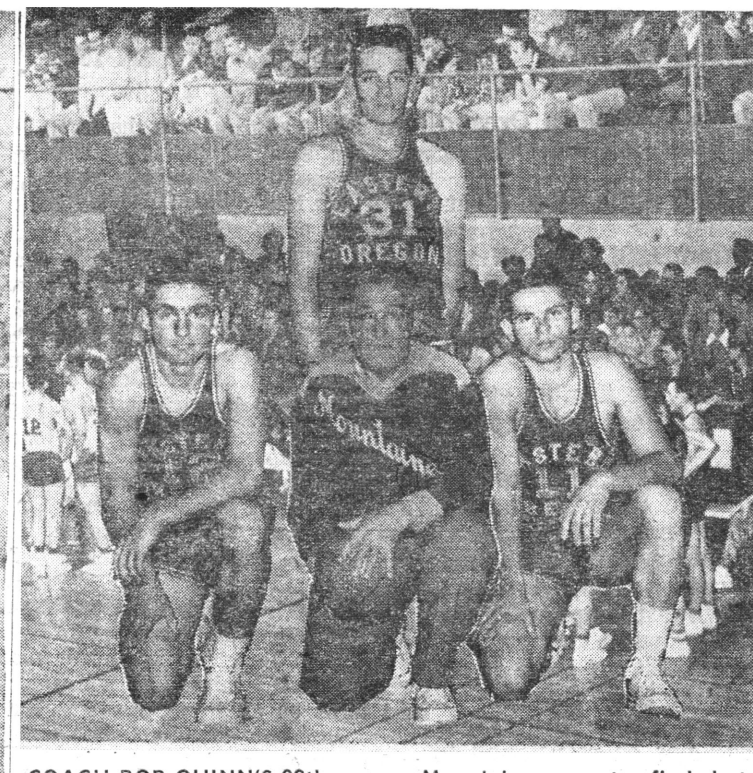
Hustlin' Halfback Dick Quinn Ends EOC Football Career

—To call Dick Quinn a "workhouse" might create the wrong impression only in the sense that the Eastern Oregon College halfback stands 5-feet 10 inches tall—with football cleats—and weighs 160 pounds.

But Dick, a 21-year-old senior and leading ground gainer for the Mountaineers, was the "workhorse" in spite of his "pony-back" stature.

He carried the ball 143 times for 519 yards in the Mounties' nine games this season—and Dick's nearest competitor for "most called-on" title was teammate Terry Ziegenhagen with 52 carries and 156 yards.

Quinn has not only performed brilliantly this season; he ends his four-year career with 4.4 yards per carry. His record for the four years:



Rushing: 309 carries, 1381 net yards, with 4.4 average. Pass Receiving: 20 for 293 yards. Kick Returns: 56 for 1050 yards. Pass Interceptions: 5 for 71 yards. Touchdowns: 10 with 24 conversions for 84 points.

Quinn, who is the son of EOC Athletic irector E. Robert "Bob" Quinn, is majoring in elementary education and can match his academic record with that on the gridiron. Dick is also first vice president of the EOC student body.

And now that football season is over, he continues his "workhorse" role, reporting, as one of three returning lettermen, for basketball. Next spring, Dick Quinn no doubt will play his fourth year of baseball, too.

Dick Quinn, Eastern Oregon College senior halfback, was an unanimous choice for All-Conference halfback, first team selection, voted by football coaches of the Oregon College conference last week.

Mountaineers erceiving Honorable Mention include Jerry Bristow, senior end; Ken Feigner, junior tackle; Jim Neece, freshman guard; and Jere Ziegenhagen, freshman quarterback.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By DON FRANK

After losing four games in a row, the first four, people might think EOC won't have a very good basketball club this season. But just because they have gotten off to a rather bad start, don't thumb them down now. They are a young bunch of boys. Remember, only one senior, two juniors, and two sophomores compose the nucleus of the maple shinners. With a little more practice and more team work from the club, still might be hard to take them when the DCC starts.

Comment on Tom Neel.

We've heard Neel is another Schadewitz with the ball. (If you don't remember who Tom Schadewitz is, check the records of the EOC basketball club of about two or three years ago.) We would venture to say Neel is the best all-around ball player on the club. He may not be the scorer Schadewitz was, but he has three years, including this one, to develop his shooting.

Watch Neel work the boards sometime. He seems to be part kangaroo. When he goes up for a rebound, he really goes up! We have great expectations for Tom in the coming season and years.

Who will be the big gun in the conference this season? Probably OTI, Portland State, OCE. They seem to be winning the most ball games. OTI, the conference champs last year, have almost a completely veteran squad, while PSC can't be counted out yet. We pick OTI and PSC as the teams to beat this season.

Now Is the time . . .

Recent activities in the men's dorm at Eastern Oregon College have been, to say the least, somewhat unbecoming to college students.

The problem is not new, however. It is not hard to determine that certain various little mischevious activities have been taking place for some time in Hunt Hall. The difficulties apparently originally started soon after the hall was put into use back in 1946. The normal temptation of pulling the fire alarm is hard to resist in any setup where a group of men and/or boys is located.

It should be pointed out that part of the trouble at the Dorm has been caused at times by enrollees who are not residents of Hunt Hall.

From the fire alarm, things have progressed, or digressed, as the case may be, to throwing water at other inhabitants in any available container, bet it a glass, pan or a mop bucket. A subtle variation on this type of revelry calls for the use of the fire hose for retaliatory purposes. These types of amusementsare usually loked upon by most people with the attitude of "boys will be boys." Once in a while that attitude is all right, as it is normal for people to let off steam from time to time. That does not mean all the time, though.

This year, however, things have got just a little more rambunctious. Specific incidents will not be mentioned to save ebmarrasement to the parties involved. However, those concerned know about what, if not whom, we speak.

The first really bad incident this term occurred approximately three weeks ago. The distressing thing about it was the attitude of some members of the faculty. "Good for them" and "'Shows they have some guts" were just two of the comments. It is our feeling that this is entirely the wrong attitude. At the time those comments were made, to our knowledge, no action of any consequence, if any, was taken. Those involved were simply warned against doing anything on that order again, and little more was said. Sure, boys will be boys, but should men, as a number of the residents of Hunt Hall are, be boys too? Let's hope not.

It is because of this, at least partly, that last weekend's activities took place. This time, evidently, those involved went too far. While we do not want to see anyone hurt unjustly, it is about time disciplinary steps were taken.

Words of Wisdom

By Coed 4

To the freshmen who haven't yet been able to enter into the college schedule or those who wonder if this hectic mess could possibly be a schedule, words of disdom from the knowledgable upperclass survivors: It's all in the way you go about it . . . first plan a schedule, Provided it doesn't interfere with trips to Hoke, extended telephone conversations, or the various social activities (after hour feeds and parties) so absolutely necessary to the "well rounded" person's life. In the typiacl student's day a pattern is soon discerned. Take for instance the example set by there four coeds.

In the early morning darkness CoedI knocks glass bowl off of chair while thrashing around in dreams; Coed 2 thinks it is alarm and turns on all lights, ready to arise (with some dificulty); Coed 3 make wry observation that it is 5 a.m. and Coed 4 politely (?) requests that aforementioned lights be extinguished. Appropriate words of early morning cheer are exchanged and the sweet silence of sleep prevails.

At 6:30 the alarm raises its timely threat to peace on earth and the four joyous room-mates fall gracefully out of bed to begin new and exciting day in the endless but vastly fascinating pursuit of knowledge here on Eastern Oregon's shining (glaring) campus.

With eyes still shut tightly, lest any fragment of brightness enter and blindness set in, the jolly quartet dons appropriate garbs and heads for the shower room. Coed 3 take wrong turn and ends up in broom closet.

Once in scalding warmth afforded by the trickle that with a reasonable expansion of the truth might be called a spray of water, some degree of consciousness is attained. Coed 4, attaining faster than the others, blithly throws glasses of cold water on Coeds 1, 2 and 3. The day is begun with zest, eagerness and hatred as they chase down the hall to avenge their goose bumps.

Once dressed, the trek to the cafeteria is completed, whereupon some misfit never fails to come up with that everlastingly pseudo comment, "Good morning." But this slip of etiquette is passed over and eyes contract with that indescribable inner tension caused by the sight of the generous portions of sacrifice offered up on the altar. Breakfast is passed with ease: Coed 1 likes the oranges which Coed 3 detests and they make the exchange of oranges and muffins while Coeds 2 and 4 switch bacon for eggs. Such compatability!

Assignments and goals for the day are set over the seven cups of commee, during which all eligible males of any account have passed in an dout under the most studious concentration of the Four. Coed 1 settles for the same old rut: hanging on to the one she has already trapped; Coed 2, ever eager for new horizons has caught sight of two new prospects and is readyp for the battle; Coed 3, being faithful to some OSC surplus, vows aid to Coed 4 who is with great finesse (flirting outrageously) trying to put an end to a "steady" problem which bothers her. She also has an eye on a "problem" that isn't so steady but also bothers her.

Classes, of course ,must be attended, but never letting them interfere with the ducation wa sa lesson early mastered by these four ladies of determination. During the day Coed 2 spots one she missed at 7 a.m. and her goal is changed. Other than that all remainst constant and it is agrede that the last one to get a date has to sweep the corner behind the pipe next cleaning day.

At 7 p.m. all is well, vast preparations are made for the approaching evening — shoulder pads, knee pads, hip pads, all sorts of padding.

At 10:30 the popcorn popper is put to work and the provisions obtained thru sweet talking the unsuspecting males are set forth. Coed 1 brought ice cream and Coeds 2 and 3 furnished coke. Coed 4 forgot the time and had to beat it back to the dorm before closing hours.

Such is the life, kids, once you get into the schedule!

Oregon College of Education— The OCE campus went all out for the United Fund Drive this year with a vauleville show put on by the students, fololwed by a carnival and a dance, all proceeds going into the fund. They had an excellent turn-out to the bingo games, throwing contests, penny tosses, cake walks and al lthe old fashioned frolics with some new ones added such as jail house and telegram booth games. Record requests also helped bring in the money.

Central Washington College of Education — Uniqueness was the word for the programs at their Sadie Hawkin's dance, they were made of old blue jeans. Other souveniers were pictures behind L'il Abner and Daisy Mae cut-outs.

Christmas Formal Features Top Band

The theme for this year's Christmas Formal was "I'll Be Home For Christmas," with the music of Rod Essleyton's band from Pendleton. There was a nominal fee of $1.50 to help cover the cost of the 'imported' music.

The decorations were somewhat different. They consisted of a Christmas tree, a rug, rocking chair and a fire in the fireplace, a semi-false cealing of Christmas cards and a mobile in the center of the hall. Co-chairmen for decorations were Joyce Kroenlein and Millie Smith. They wish to thank everyone who so generously gave of their time and efforts to help put the decorations up. Also they extend their thanks to Dr. Nighengale, and Mr. Kimbrell, the advisors of Alpha Rho Tau.

Snow Carnival At Mt. Hood February 8-9

By BOB GOOD

The second Annual Oregon Intercollegiate Winter Carnival will be held this year at Timberline Lodge, Mount Hood, on February 8 and 9.

The Winter Carnival is under the sponsorship of Portland State College, and is promoted for the benefit of all the colleges of Oregon. This year approximately 25 college will participate. For the first time the carnival includes several out-of-state colleges, from Washington and Idaho. Timberline Lodge and Government Camp lodging and facilities have been reserved for the event.

A state-wide student planning committee has scheduled a full agenda of activities, including ski and toboggan races, snow sculpture, two Saturday night dances and Sunday church services at outdoor altars. Non-skiers should have as much fun as skiers.

Many distinguished guests have been invited, including the governor of Oregon, the mayor of Portland, and the presidents of the participating colleges. The guests, ski teams, and student body representatives will be housed at Timberline Lodge free of charge.

Expenses to the student for the weekend will be: five dollars for two nights' lodging, five dollars for transportation, plus approximately ten dollars for meals and spending money. Two breakfasts and one dinner will be cooked at Eastern Oregon's motel, provided by the dorm cafeteria for dormitory students. A charge of about two dollars will cover the cost of these meals, for out of-dorm students.

EOC's group will leave the campus at approximately 2:00 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7, and return by dormitory closing hours Sunday. *

The Winter Carnival this year will be bigger and better than last year, and with Washington and Idaho colleges participating, competition for the various trophies will be stiff. Eastern Oregon College won the participation trophy last year and we should win it again. Let's load up, storm down to Mount Hood and bring back a carload of trophies.

'Religion In Life' Slated Feb. 18-20

Billie Jo Bond, chairman of the College Interfaith Council, announces that Plans are complete for the 17th annual Religion In Life Conference, on the Eastern Oregon College campus Feb. 18-20, during Nationl Brotherhood Week.

The Interfaith Panel for the 1958 conference will feature representatives from the Catholic, L.D.S., Protestant, and Hindu faiths. As usual the high point of the conference will be the all school Interfaith banquet held during the week, and scheduled this year for Wednesday evening, February 19th.

Coming from the Catholic faith is the Rev. Father Thomas Pitsch, priest at the Church of St. Joseph, Vancouver, Washington. The L.D.S. church will be represented by Dr. Dale Tingley, Director of Seminaries, Brigham Young University. Dr. Dave Seaman, pastor of the Community Federated Church at Richland, Washington, will present the case of liberal Protestantism, with Professor A. Elwood Sanner, Head of the Department of Religion, Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho, representing the conservative Protestant view point.

Dr. Anand Malik, presently teaching at the University of Idaho, but whose home is New Delhi, India, will represent the Hindu faith. Dr. Malik has recently finished his doctorate at Columbia University.

Imbler Superintendent Speaks at SOEA Meet

The monthly meeting of SOEA was held Wednesday, January 8 in Ackerman Auditorium. President Bernice Opp called the meeting to order and introduced the guest for the evening, Mr. Haller, Superintendent of Imbler Schools.

The objective of the meeting was to give the students an idea of the requirements a principal or superintendent would desire when hiring a teacher. Mr. Haller was assisted by Jean Adamson and Jim Dale who played the role sof prospective employees.

Name Millie Smith December's Girl

The Girl of the Month for December, as chosen by the members of WRA, is Millie Smith. Millie claims Redmond, Oregon as her home town, is a Sophomore in the field of Education and maintains a part-time job in the Audio-Visual aids Dept.

On campus, Millie has proven her abilities through commendable work with the art organization, Alpha Rho Tau, and also in Sabers.

A notable feature of every dance is the decoration and the original ideas featured at the Christmas Formal and the Homecoming Dances were accomplished with the help of Millie. WRA and AWS are also on Millie's list of activities.

EOC Whiskerino Set For Friday

With only one more week to go, Eastern Oregon College's annual Whiskerino moved into high gear. The dance marking the end of the event will be one week from tonight, Friday, January 31.

This year, the EOC Letterman's club is in charge of the festivities and according to reports, plans for the dance are progressing at a rapid clip. As is traditional, prizes for the best beards in several various categories will be awarded. These sections include: goatee, darkest, and best attempt. fullest, reddest, scroungiest, best

Ground Hog Lunch To Feature Alum

Contributed

During the Christmas holidays while Myron Carpenter was scrounging around the Vale and Nyssa wilderness in search of fat, juicy woodchucks for the College Interfaith Fellowship luncheon scheduled for February 3rd at Hoke all, he inadvertently wandered across the Snake into the wild, rugged terrain of Idaho. Ambling on down to Boise, the famous Western frontier settlement, he contacted the Rev. Virgil Leon Bolen, E.O.C. '50, and pastor of the Whitney Community Methodist Church and persuaded him to be the speaker for this famous annual uncheon.

Upon his graduation from E.O.C. in June 1950, Rev. Bolen enrolled at Iliff Theological Seminary, Denver, Colorado, and three years later was assigned to the Boise church. During his pastorate in Boise his church has trebled in membership numbers and a new $100,000 building program has been completed.

While at E.O.C. Mr. Bolen was active in music circles, having been a featured soloist in various choir concerts. In addition to his devotional talk at the Ground Hog luncheon he will present a vocal solo.

All students and faculty are invited to the tune of 21 cents to attend the luncheon and enjoy the fellowship. Incidentally, Leon is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Bolen of the college faculty.

There Should Be Some Changes Made

The evening of Friday, January 10, witnessed one of the most colossal flops, attendance-wise, of some time on the Eastern Oregon College campus. We refer, of course, to the Faculty Reception.

The idea of such a reception is basically a good one, as it is designed as a formal meeting for students and faculty. However, the time for it is not during the first week of the second term of the school year. This fact was very aptly shown by the poor attendance at that function.

Originally scheduled for the first part of Fall term, it had to be cancelled because of the epidemic of Asian Flu that hit the campus. It is obvious that because of the chance of spreading the flu at such a gathering, it could not possibly have been held then. But it should have been rescheduled for as soon as was feasible, or cancelled altogether.

Another idea instituted for this year, mainly for an experiment, was that of having a dance immediately afterward. This probably would have been all right except for the fact that the reception was formal. There was some disapproval expressed by some of the girls because they could not see putting on a formal to go to the reception, then go to the dance "stag," is it were. Conversely, those who did not plan to attend the reception, but only go to the dance, did not feel it was worth it to dress up when there was no special occasion for it.

Something that might have solved this problem would have been to make the reception and dance semi-formal. As it was, there was quite a bit of confusion as to dress, and some of the faculty members were not attired "formally." Perhaps it would be even better to just require that those planning to attend "'dress up." This would save a lot of trouble. Doing this undoubtedly would have drawn more unescorted girls who would not have minded so much to attend the dance attired in such a manner. In addition, it would probably have brought more couples to the dance.

Another possible solution might have been to have the reception line at Hoke Hall as has been done in the past and have the students have to pass through the line before the dance started. This would also allow the faculty members to attend the dance as long as they wished, rather than not being able to arrive until late.

One more suggestion that might solve things is to have separate receptions for each area in Education and General Studies. That is, informal coffee hour-type affairs to be held in various places on campus with the faculty members from each department meeting interested students. The divisions might be primary, intermediate and advanced in Elementary; English, math-science, social science and music in Secondary; and pre-medicine, pre-dentistry and pre-nursing, and pre-engineering in General Studies, just to name a few. These are all possible solutions to the problem.

The question remains, why was the reception even held this late in the year. Surely, the student council was not in favor, at least entirely, of such a move. Neither, according to informed sources, was a greater percentage of the faculty. Why, then? Apparently a certain faction of faculty members cannot bear to see a year go by without a reception. This view is all right, but the matter should be taken care of early in the year, possibly even the last day of New Students Week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN EDITORIAL

I have a question which I feel should be brought tothe students of Eastern Oregon College. It has become apparent to me that certain students have already done some thinking about it. That is, when does a student theatrical production cease to be one for and by the students of EOC?

I refer specifically to the cast of the forthcoming EOC production "Inherit the Wind." As the cast was recently announced, the names of three faculty members were quite prominent on the list. Not having been on campus as long as some, I don't know if that is standard procedure for Eastern Oregon College, but I doubt it.

When the announcement for tryouts was made, the sign said something to the effect that they were open to "regularly enrolled students." This would make it a studen producion. Since when are faculy members considered students? In addition, inclusion of faculty members in the cast destroys, at least partially, the principle of Educational Theater, supposedly the purpose of theater on any campus.

Could it be that the director feels that the parts awarded to his colleagues are much too difficult to be handled competently by such an inferior group as students? If so, I am of the opinion that he should never have attempted to do the show. The fact that at least one and possibly two of the faculty members were "asked" to try out even makes the sting worse. With such talent gracing the stage, the production should be by far the best in EOC's history.

Some students on the campus have already expressed their disapproval of this action. Maybe other interested students should do the same. The opinion has also been expressed by a few that if this continues, the student tryout for such productions will get smaller and smaller because they will always be faced with the threat that the parts might be given to some more experienced and talented faculty member.

M. F.

Ed. Note: Due to the fact that The Beacon will not be printed again for two weeks, time was given before publication for the editorial to be read and a reply written.

IN DEFENSE OF "EDUCATIONAL THEATRE"

Dear Mike—

So much has been said, mostly to our detriment, in recent editions of The Beacon, regarding Sock and Buskin productions, that I hope you won't mind if the faculty advisor gets his licks in.

I shall leave NAC and her (his?) like to the past and make comment on your editorial in this issue. You have a point—if you insist upon considering only your side of the question. May I present another side? This year, six productions have been scheduled in place of the usual three. This means MORE students, not less, will have more oportunities to participate than ever before.

More important, perhaps, is a consideration of what is really meant by the term you used, "educational theatre." Education for whom? The comparaively smal lnumber of students actually engaged in the production of a play, or the students, faculty, and towns people who attend? Is Sock and Buskin's goal to turn out professional actors or more-experienced amateurs, or is it, to quote from a source which should be familiar to you, "to improve the quality of dramatic interpretation in this college"?

You argue that "Inherit the Wind" should not have been done if student talent alone was not sufficient. I argue that a play with a message such as "Wind's" comes along so rarely that it almost demands to be done, and done as soon as possible. The fact that the great majority of colleges and universities, whose reputations as "educational theatres" cannot be challenged, make it a regular practice to incorporate student and faculty talent, is another argument on my side, I think.

Finally, Mike, isn't it possible that faculty members might be just as big a hams as students?

Sincerely,
Richard Hiatt

Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

Winter term life in Dorion started off with a rather frustrating problem in the basement Sunday night. It seems that he underground's obstinate fire hose simply refuses to stay in its proper place on the rack. It keeps jumping off and seems to have a tendency to head toward room 9. However, since the threat of a $25 fine was explained the hose has, strangely enough, remained right where it belongs. How about that?

The number of Dorionites remains the same this term despite several transfers. Nine girls left this hallowed hall for better (?) things (preferably marriage) at to end of Fall term but their empty niches were quickly filled by the nine new-comers. Third floor welcomed two new girls into their rowdy midst; they are Nola Bubb in 316 and Sharon Livingston in 310. Naomi Frost, a first-term Freshman from Baker, is living in 214, and 208 has Dinah Penland who is a soph transfer from the U of O and comes from Pendleton. First floor made room for Jo Ann Anderson in the infirmary so there is a movement afoot to add a rule against Winter term illness to the house rules. Presently being initiated into the fun-loving life in the underground are Karen Jacobson ,a second-term Freshman from Oregon State who hails from the great Round-Up City; Betty Roudebush who is in room 4 while her parents are vacationing; LaVonne Tuck in room 9 who decided college life might be a bit more interesting as an inhabitant of Dorion; and Phylis Hrestu who is a Frosh transfer from the U of O and was lucky enoug hto be moved into room 8. Greetings to all of you new girls, and a special and sympathetic GOOD LUCK to those on Third and in the Underground.

Fall term GPA's seem to have had a rather sobering effect on most Dorionites and things have been unusually quiet this term. We've even heard the news that one member of room 7 has decided to become a conformist after all so there goes one source of much amusement in the basement. The present peace and tranquility can't last though; it's against tradition!

There have been several interesting inquiries about the new course in target shooting that's supposedly being offered in Hunt Hall this term. I wonder if this column's somewhat questionable competition could enlighten us on the subject? How about it, Hakim?

Annual WUS Week Billed Jan. 21-31

The week of January 27-31 will be known as World University Service Week on the EOC campus. This organization aids the under-privileged of the world. By contributing to the World Universiyt Service we aid the poverty stricken and in return raise our standards of living.

The proceeds of the Ugliest Man on Campus Contest, Faculty-Student Auction, and the Whiskerino, will go to the World University Service.

Be sure and participate in the week's activities. Back the World University Service Week.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Careful, men, I know the term has just started, but please don't blow us off the face of the campus until we at least have a chance to get you first. Those little foreign gems are dangerous. At that I don't care, do you?

If you have noticed the occasional squadron of males entering Dorion via the lounge, this is just to let you know they aren't panty-raiders or maniacs, just the improvement suggestion committee. They are going over Hunt and Dorion to plan out the arrangement for next year, when he whole stup will be a men's dorm. Your favorite girls are safe.

A Suggestion; Don't read the Dorion Hall column in this paper.

Reason; It is yellow journalism of the first caste, is scandalous and condescendent mental rot.

Cause; The author.

Cause of Cause; Author's parents.

Great revelation. The T.V. set is fixed. No we can all begin staying up late and keeping Mr. Wilson awake.

Forthcoming Junior Varsity games with Redmond High School (Feb. 28, and March 1) may well be a double header not to miss. Coach Don Campbell will be battling his efficient and capable Mounties against his old students, as he came to EOC this year from Redmond High. The RUHS Panthers have been a state tourney team three times in the past three years, and defeating them would hike everyone's ego a few notches.

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

Several new faces can be seen in the various music groups this term. Carol Van Blokland has joined the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra. New band members include Pat Morton, trombone; Karen Edvalson, clarinet; and John Wagner, cornet. Old members who have returned after a term's absence are Dale Vaught, tenor sax; and Sharon McClellan, cornet. Added to the choir are Charles Berry, Nola Bubb, Sue Daniels, Dolores Duus, Ardyce Garrett, Dennis Godsil, David Hansen, Dean Kennedy, Arlene Patterson, Dinah Penland, Nancy Swanson, Cherie Toomb, Donna Sone, and Don Sanford.

David Abel, 22-year-old violinist, will appear as soloist on the second Civic Music program. It will be tonight, January 24, in the high school gym. All full time EOC students are admitted on their ASB cards. If anyone has any questions about the Civic Music programs, contact Dr. Bishop.

Last Wednesday night the band and choir presented a joint concert in the college auditorium. Included in the program were numbers by the band, choir, flute trio, and brass quartet. The final number of the evening was "Vincent Youmans Fantasy" featuring both the band and the choir, and Johanna Hardwick and Robert Barrett as soloists. The flute trio is composed of Alice Edvalson, Virginia Wellington, and Janice Bendshadler. The members of the brass quartet are Danny Tucker, John Wagner, Gerald Roloff, and Pat Morton.

The band is planning a week long tour at the end of February. Their planned concerts and stops will be announced at a later date.

EOC Downs OCE Twice, 73-65, 64-53

Eastern Oregon College picked up its first win of the 1958 season Friday, January 17 as they downed Oregon College of Education on the Mountie court. Four of the EOC regulars hit in double figures, while three of the Oregon College first five managed the ten or better. The win broke a 13 game losing streak for the Mounties.

EOC hit 44 per cent from the floor and grabbed 24 rebounds. OCE hit 41.7 and took 22 from the boards. Jerry Baxter was high man in the rebounding department with 10.

The Mounties broke a 13-13 tie midway in the first half as Dick Quinn canned a gift shot. Larry Howard, Tom Neel, and Quinn added to the score to help the local club lead at half-time, 35-23.

Midway in the second half, Brown got two and Buss one to cut the gap to two points. But Neel hit for three quick ones and Quinn added another to put EOC out of reach.

Came from Behind

EOC came from behind in the last five minutes of play Saturday night to down the OCE five for the second time is as many nights. The La Granders scored 11 points while holding the visitors scoreless in the last three minutes to take the contest 64-53.

As the clock hit the halfway point in the second half, EOC trailed by eight points. But a steady bombardment of the basket from the home team soon saw the score read 53-51. They Larray Howard drove for the bucket, was picked up and thrown on the floor. He stepped to the line with two shots coming. Two times in a row he cut the hemp to tie the contest up. Dick Quinn added to the score with a jumper, Arritola hit two gift shots and Baxter hit for five to put the Mounties out in front 64-53 as the final horn sounded.

Quinn led all scorers with 15, folowed by Neel and Howard with 14 and Baxter with 13. Milton was high for OCE with 13.

Poll Discusses Student Auto

MINNEAPOLIS (ACP)—If college students have anything to say about it, cars are on campus to stay. A recent Associated College Press poll shows that only about one-sixth of the students interviewed favor placing restrictions on car driving among campus-dwellers.

ACP put the following question to a cross-section of American college men and women:

"Since so many students now drive their own cars, some universities and colleges are unable to provide enough parking space to handle them all. To solve this difficulty, it has been suggested that schools should forbid students who live on campus to have cars. Do you agree, or disagree, with this thought?"

Agree	17%	15%	16%
Disagree	77%	83%	79%
Undecided	6%	2%	5%

Many of those disagreeing feel it would not be fair to students living on campus if their driving was restricted. A sophomore at Indiana Technical College (Fort Wayne, Ind.) sums up this position by saying "The student who lives on campus should be allowed privileges closely parallel with those he might be accustomed to in residential living quarters." Others who disagree feel there would be better ways of solving the problem. A South Georgia College (Douglas, Ga.) freshman offers two possible solutions in his comment on the question: "If the problem becomes serious, the under-classmen should be restricted from this privilege, in proportion to the seriousness of the problem. Grades might be used as a basis for selecting those to have cars." Both of these views received quite a bit of support among those interviewed.

A Wayne State University (Detroit, Mich.) sophomore on the other hand agrees that, if the problem becomes serious, students living on campus should be forbidden to have cars. He reasons that "commuters have a need for cars. If everyone from Knox College (Galesburg, Ill.) feels that cars are an unnecessary evil, except on large or spread-out campuses."

Undoubtedly the most vehement of any persons answering the question was a freshman from the North Dakota State School of Science (Wahpeton, N. Dak.). He disagreed with the statement, and added, "Did you ever try walking a girl to the movies when the snow is about three feet deep and it's five below zero?"

Jayvees Win Seven To Date

By GEORGE TAYLOR

Under the capable coaching of Don Campbell, the Jayvee basketball squad is working on what may well turn out to be an excellent season. The all-freshman team has played ten games to date, drawing wins seven of those times. Tomorrow they face Huntington high school at Huntington.

Nine games remain on the Jayvee schedule:

Jan. 25, Huntington, there.
Jan. 31, C. of I., there
Feb. 4, Helix, there
Feb. 8, Cambridge, Ida., here
Feb. 10, Northwest Nazarene, here.
Feb. 21, Condon, here
Feb. 22, Elgin, here.
Feb 28, and Mar. 1, Redmond, there.

The junior team has defeated Co. of I. J.V.s, 61-60; Elgin High, 67-27, and 56-27; Helix High School, 60-55; and Arlington, 36-25. In addition, they beat C. of I. JVs and Huntington High school last weekend.

Practicing every day at 11 a.m., the team hopes to be in prime condition to cop all their remaining games, especially the last two of the season, with Redmond. Coach Campbell has special interest in these games, as he came to EOC directly from Redmond High, and would enjoy the taste of victory over his former students. It will certainly be a game to see.

Champion automobile race driver of the world is a 46-year-old Argentine named Juan Fangio, according to Reader's Digest. He has won more than half of 173 perilous races in 23 countries but is a very careful driver, never passes on hills or curves, and in New York prefers to ride in taxicabs. His wealth is more than a million dollars.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

After 13 straight losses, EOC finally broke into the win column with not one, but two victories. Friday night they came out with the determination a college ball club should have. Halfway through the first period they broke from a 13-all deadlock into a lead that was never overtaken by the Oregon college five.

Then Saturday night a different story unfolded fo rthe local fans. Not until just five minutes remained in the contest did they look like the same team that had defeated the OCE outfit the night before. The first half, the Wolves hit a torrid pace from the floor, while the Mounties couldn't keep the lid off the bucket. The second half, Oregon College managed to stay from eight to two points ahead. With the score 53-51 and a little more than five minutes to play, Larry Howard stepped to the gift line and promptly canned both shots to tie the contest up. Seconds later Dick Quinn broke intd the open from a five-man-weave for a cripple that broke the visitors' backs.

Comment on the whole club Friday and Saturday nights. They looked like a ball club. They looked like a well-oiled group who had been winning for a year instead of loosing. Maybe the juice of victory is in the blood now.

To compare Ron "Stretch" Paulson of 1958 with the Ron Paulson we saw last season would be useless. The big guy has really started to work. He is after almost every ball that comes off the boards, and won't give up without a fight. He may not be able to outjump some of the other OCC centers, but few of them can outreach him. Stretch is going to make a great ball player if he keeps improving as he has in the last few games.

Pasco Arritola, a 6'3" rook, has been playing excellent ball for the Frosh and the varsity. He has shown good rebounding strength, plus steady nerves. In the Mounties' two wins over OCE, Pasco came up with six points in the first and two in the second game. He seems to have a knack of slipping through the defense for close shots.

"Moderation is the only virtue," says Charlton Ogburn, Jr., in the October Reader's Digest. "The other so-called virtues are virtuous only in so far as they are joined with moderation. To be overcourageous is to be foolhardy. To be over-thrifty is to be parsimonious. To be overloving is to be doting. To be too unselfish is to weary the world with the spectacle of your martyrdom. To give a child, a mate or a friend too much attention or too little is equally disastrous. Self-abnegation and self-glorification are both vices. To be thoughtful is to be incapable of action, and to be overactive is self-defeating and likely to prove fatal. Moderation is what counts.

WUS Week Activities...

WUS STANDS FOR

By JOSIE WARD

WUS, World University Service, is an international student organization backed by colleges and universities across the United States and throughout the world.

WUS was organized three decades ago as college students made an effort to provide opportunities for higher education in as many countries as possible. Shattered universities were rebuilt and destitute students recived aid as WUS made an effort to re-kindle hope for international peace and understanding. The focus of the program was in the free mind of the student.

However, before the vision could be fully developed, the clatter of war again spread over the world. WUS continued its work, not in reconstruction, but in relief—"in order that learning may not die—". Eventually the world was again at peace and WUS began a full scale program of mutual aid rather than charity. The recognition has emerged that man's mind and spirit are unconquerable, but we must strike to keep them free.

American college students know that if they are to communicate intelligently with foreign countries whenever the need arises, these other students must also have opportunities for education.

Last year college students raised over a million dollars for WUS. From that, in addition to air overseas, hundreds of Hungarian students were given scholarships to American unievrsities. Now we are asking you to join with students from other campuses in Cregon and across the nation to help finance WUS. Similar projects are going on at OSC, U of C, Willamette, and Pacific, and we are sure EOC can hold its own as we help support World University Service.

Assembly

by John Trigg

E.O.C. students have a treat in store for them at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, January 29th. The student council is sponsoring "World University Service Week" with one of its highlights being the W.U.S. Assembly to be held in the Auditorium.

The program will have both its serious and comic aspects, but the emphasis will be on comedy. The master of ceremonies will be none other than E.O.C.'s Archie Dunsmor. Everyone who has watched him in action before knows of his ability to perform in this capacity.

Among the things to be looking forward to are the presentation of the trophy to the "Ugly Man" Contest winner. Be sure to be present to see who you, as students, will choose for this new distinction.

Other events will include an auction of abilities or services of both faculty and students. Some of the items to be looking for are a comedy entertainment act by several faculty members, privileges of a dance at the Whiskerino with a faculty member or his wife, girls from Dorion to clean several rooms in Hunt, fried chicken dinner, the availability of a slide showing for groups by Dr. Spear, car washes, laundry services, and men to run the floor polisher in Dorion. Among items on the possible list is a juggling or magic act by a talented professor.

Everyone come prepared to bid on what you want or if you don't want anything come just to get into the spirit of things. Any money taken in will be donated to World University Service, which is a very worthy cause.

Ugly Men

As a part of the World University Service week, student council is sponsoring an Ugly Man contest on campus.

Each organiatzion is being encouraged to sponsor a candidate, and any independents who wish to may also sponsor a candidate.

January 24 is the deadline for turning in the names of the candidates, along with the required $1 entrance fee to Josie Ward, or the student body box in the faculty secretary's office.

Voting will be done on Monday and Tuesday, January 27 and 28, in th hall of the administration building, by placing money in the designated jar, for your candidate. The winner will be determined by the amount of money in the individual jars. The "Ugliest Man" will be crowned on January 29, at an 11 o'clock assembly.

Some of the candidates thus far announced and their sponsors are: Howard Wilson—Sabers; Ron Paulson—Choir; and Steve Johnson—Student Council. Each of the floors of Dorion Hall is sponsoring a candidate, one being Whitey Chase, sponsored by the annex.

All proceeds of this contest, including the entrance fees, and money collected as votes will be donated to the World University Servicee.

EOC Special Curriculum Course Set

—A special course, Principles and Practice in Curriculum Construction Education 472, will be offered this term through the General Extension Division, according to Charles Ivie, regional representative.

The course, for three hours graduate credit, begins Thursday, Jan. 23, on the Eastern Oregon College campus. Classes are scheduled 7-10 p.m. in room 19, Administration building, and will be conducted by Dr. Carlos E. Easley, associate professior of education and director of secondary student teaching.

Biology Magazine Has Article By Dr. Quaintance

— Dr. Charles W. Quaintance, EOC professor of biology, is the author of an article appearing in the January issue of Turtox News, national biological magazine.

The article, "Who Set Up The Curriculum For Biology Teachers?" discusses Oregon certification requirements for high school instructors, and makes a comparison with standards in other states.

Lancelot vs. Draggin---Line

by N.A.C.

Once upon a time there was a college student at B.C.L.A. whose name was Lancelot. In his sophomore year Lancelot became tired of being a very small portion of a very big spoke in a very large wheel. Therefore, he decided to transfer to a smaller college where he would at least have the chance of becoming an entire spoke in not such a big wheel. As Lancelot liked both outdoor and indoor winter sports he determined to go to a school in the Pacific Northwest. Consequently, Lancelot went to the college library and began looking through the catalogues. His choice finally rested with Eastern Morgan College located somewhere in Oregon. The school has such a pretty picture on its summer catalogue.

Bright and shining Lancelot appeared in the registration line at E.M.C. on the sixth of January. Old pros at the registration game had told the new student that he should get in line early if he wished to get all the classes he wanted. So Lancelot placed himself at the foot of the library steps a 7:30 A.M. (already there was quite a crowd). For a half-hour Lancelot shivered on the steps before being admitted through the portals of the library.

Once inside Lancelot was advised that he should see Dr. Fyle Fohnson as the first process in registering. As Dr. Fohnson was very busy Lancelot had to wait another 45 minutes before he had an opportunity to confer with him. Since Dr. Fohnson didn't have Lancelot's folder he asked the student if he would go over to the administration building to get it. This took Laneclot another 30 minutes. Upon returning with the folder Dr. Fohnson advised the boy to see Dr. Hardly for help with his schedule. Now, as everyone knows who goes to college E.M.C, Dr. Hardly is a very busy man. Lancelot stood in line for another hour and a half. After talking with Dr. Hardly 15 minutes Laneclot had his schedule completed and needed only the signatures of the professors (and Mr. Hardly's initials) to be admitted to classes. Unfortunately, however, the registration line closed at twelve (time out for lunch), and Lancelot was informed he would have to come back at one to get the necessary signatures.

Lancelot, slightly disillusioned now, returned to the library at one and by 2:30 he was on his way to the administration building to pay his fees. Lancelot waited in line for two and half hours before he even got close to the office. There the secretary told him he lacked one signature—that of his advisor Dr. Hardly and he was sent back to the library.

After having Dr. Hardly's initials placed on his card, Lancelot returned to the line at the administration building. But fate was against him. The line closed down before he got through.

The next day Lancelot was charged a dollar extra for registering late. By this time he was very disillusioned. At B.C.L.A. with a student body of 25,000 students it had taken him not quite half a day to register (E.M.C. has about 600 students).

Lancelot, being a thorough individual, extremely resented being charged an extra dollar for late registration. The following term, therefore, Lancelot returned to B.M.C.U. where as far as I know he went to college happily ever after—sans line.

EOC Winter Enrollment Increase Noted

—Winter term enrollment figures show almost a five per cent increase over the 1957 winter term at Eastern Oregon College, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

Registration reached 625 by the close of the term's first week, compared with last year's 597. Greatest percentage of increase was noted in new freshmen, with 20 registered from Oregon high schools and two from other states. The 1957 winter term total listed nine from Oregon with three from other states.

In addition to the new freshmen, there were 31 student transfers from other colleges in Oregon and 10 from out of the state.

Of the 625 total, 388 are men and 237 are women. Enrolled in elementary education are 205; secondary education, 154; pre-professional, 144; general studies, 86; and two-year terminal curricula, 36.

Acredition Group Visits EOC Campus

by Pat Ward

E. O. C. is to be re-evaluated by the Northwest Association and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, on Thursday and Friday, February 6-7. This evaluation is taking place at the request of E. O. C., and is a part of the normal development of education on the higher and secondary levels. These visitors are on the campus every five years to help the faculty pick out our strong points as well as our weak points of the institution.

The members of the faculty have in preparation for the visitors. The faculty welcomes the opportunity to discuss their offerings with faculty from a number of different institutions.

The guests will look into different aspects of college including: course offerings, the library and facilities, the administration, the classroom procedure, and the student activities.

The visitors on the campus will be Dr. T. S. Kerr, Moscow, Idaho; Father Clement H. Regimbal, Gonzaga University; Dr. John R. Roberts, Pacific University; Dr. Fred Knapman, Western Washington College of Education; Dr. Eugene B. Chaffee, Boise Junior College; Dr. Graham M. Dressler, Eastern Washington College of Education; Dr. Don S. Patterson, Eastern Washington College of Education; Dr. Roy F. Ruebel, Central Washington College of Education; Mr. Dick Sorick, Director of Teacher Education and Certification; Dr. William Sampson, Southern Oregon College; and Dr. Walter Snyder, Oregon College of Education.

The E. O. C. students wish to express their welcome to the visitors on our campus. We welcome you.

Dr. Anand Malik

Lady-Kneeder Of The Dough

English is the "craziest language" and the only one in which a spelling bee can be held, according to Dr. Rowland M. Myers, recognized etymologist who addressed the Eastern Oregon College student body at an assembly Friday, January 31.

This is because, he said, "in no other language is the spelling so completely insane that you can make a game out of it!"

Dr. Myers, a graduate of Dartmouth, with a Ph. D. from Johns Hopkins, and who has studied in the universities of France, Germany, Italy, Spain and Mexico, also believes there is no problem in a language that can't be solved if the people really want to.

The speaker emphasized that "what is correct (in a language) is what is actually acceptable."

During his presentation, Dr. Myers, a product of "13 generations in Brooklyn," gave several examples of word origins in the English language. He indicated that some are "fascinating, amusing and sometimes unbelievable," and noted the origin of "lady"—"the kneeder of dough."

Dr. Myers stressed the importance of Ameircans learning some —any that is available—foreign language.

EOC Constitution Faces Revisions

The constitution of the E. O. C. student body is now undergoing some revision. A student committee made up of student council members are submitting changes to the student council for approval. These revisions will enable the constitution to fill the study body's needs. The student council hopes to have the revised constituion completed by the end of this term. bee re-evaluating their offerings to the college for several months

Sock and Buskin Initiates Thirteen

Thirteen is often considered an unlucky number by superstitious people. Probably all 13 of the Sock and Buskin initiates felt suddenly superstitious Tuesday, January 28, as they watched the gleaming-eyed, mouth-watering "old hands" explain the "Treasure Hunt." The initiates and members were divided into groups of three or four to search for clues hidden in or around the theatre

After an hilarious hour of crawling up ladders, looking in fuse boexs and searching for the "King's Throne," the winners fuse boxes and searching for the losers entertained the rest of the group by dramatizing charades of play titles. The pop machine was opened and brownies were served.

New Sock and Buskin members are: Judy Lutz, Virginia Wellington, Sharon Fox, Barbara Nuxall, Nancy Klomp, Larry De Kalb, Juddd Van Gorder, Janice Ward, Barbara Mahoney, Bob Phifer, Wiley Knighten, Gary Winkle, and Glynn Zweifel.

NOTICE

Student tickets to the Interfaith banquet are available for $.40 (forty cents.)

M. A. in Secondary Available at EOC

Eastern Oregon College, along with Southern Oregon College and Oregon College of Education, has been granted the privilege of giving the Master of Science Degree in Secondary Education with 24 hours of work in the field of education and 21 hours in a subject matte rarea. This step was taken by the Oregon State Board of Higher Education after careful study by the three colleges during the last two years. According to John M. Miller, Director of Teacher Education, the granting of a program in secondary education for the Master of Science Degree will make it possible for the Eastern Oregon College to offer courses to high school teachers who are interested in working for a Master degre in the broad areas of science-mathematics, social science, and humanities. It also will provide the work necessary for full certification of high school teachers in Oregon. It was a part of this request that this program would be started in the summer of 1958. In order o offer this program many new courses will be added to the college offerings.

'Inherit Wind' Set Mar. 6, 7, 8

Are These Changes Necessary?

For the past two weeks, the Eastern Oregon College Student council has been working on the EOC Associated Students' constitution, making proposed revisions in the document. This program will undoubtedly take several more meetings before the revised constitution is ready to go before the students for approval. At that time, there will probably be much criticism of the revisions. However, now is the time to face the problem and ask, "Are these changes necessary?"

One of the major changes, and one which will bring possibly the most repercusions from the student body as a whole is that wherein the method of representation would be changed. It is the plan of the student council to do away with representatives-at-large and institute representation from the various living groups at EOC. At the present time, one representative is elected for every 100 students. This plan was instituted several years ago to get away from the possibility that the student council had become a clique. However, that is just as possible with the present system. Under the new plan, one representative would come from each of the dorms, one from EOCene courts, and one each from the male and female groups living down town. The only problem envisaged by this system would be the election of the town representattives, but the council is presently working on a plan to alleviate any difficulties there.

Another major change would affect the working of the executive council of the student council. The president's position will become a little more clearly defined. The first vice-president will become "'Co-ordinator of Committees" ratther than just the head of the elections board. The second vice-president would be strictly a social chairman and would not become first vice-president in the event that that person became president. Instead, an election would be held to replace the first vice-president. The secretary's job would be a little more clearly defined. The student business manager's position would cease to be an appointive one; rather, he would be elected and become a voting member of the council without salary. Finally, the Rally Squad Leader would remain an elective position, but that person would lose his or her vote, the council feeling that he or she is elected on the basis of ability to lead yells rather than the ability to be an administrative officer.

These are just a few of the many changes being made in EOC's student constitution. They are probably the most controversial of the lot, and deserve the most attention by the EOC student body. Other changes will be presented to thte students from time to time, both through the Beacon and at assemblies. As voting members of the student body, it is the job of all of us to consider these changes and decide whether we want them made or not.

CNB News

Alpha Pi Epsilon has two new members this term. They are Cora Jane Hill and Patrica O'Malley.

The sorority has scheduled its metings for the second and four Mondays of each month. Every second Monday will be devoted to a social meeting. Mr. Welo from the Social Security Office is going to speak at the next meeting on U. S. Government Civil Service ratings and the jobs that are available in that service.

For a mnoey-raising project, candy is being sold every Thursday night in Dorion Hall.

The sorority is also planning a weekend field trip next spring to visit some prominent business in another city. Businesses have been contacted in Lewiston, Spokane, and oBise. No definite plans have been made yet.

Winter Carnival Starts Saturday

The 1958 Winter Carnival will be held this weekend, February 8-9, on the slopes of Mt. Hood. The students from E.O.C. will compete against other state colleges for the Championship in Winter sports.

Many activities have been planned, skiing, tobogganing, a torch parade, and the highlight of the carnival, the crowning of the 1958 Winter Carnival Queen.

The E.O.C. candidate will be Miss Sandra Thompson, '61. Chosen by the members of the Ski Club, she will compete against candidates sponsored by the other state colleges.

The Ball And Chain

By SHARON HICKEY

So you are busy! You play in the orchestra or sing in the choir or have so many extracurricular activities you just don't have time to study. You can't understand how some people budget their time. Of course it's difficult to study in the dorms. I know; I've tried. Well don't complain until you've heard the side of a married student.

You rise at 6 a.m. (or earlier) with your family to care for. Next comes breakfast after which you stack the dishes and prepare for school. The children are packed off to school or to the baby sitter and you head for your 8:00 clas (late as usual.) You attend classes, classes, classes, all morning long with nary a coffee break, but then comes lunch. A rest period? Nosiree! ! Time to do your dishes, make the bed and do general housework.

Then off to your part time job (necessary to make financial ends meet) where you finish at 5 p. m Next, to the grocery store you head, for you haven't had a chance to buy food for dinner. After seeing that all your family is present and accounted for, you fry dinner (you've no time for anything complicated), and off to work at 6 p.m. goes your husband.

While he's at work you play with your family until their bedtime anywhere between 7:30 and 9 p.m. Then naturally you have the whole house to clean again for there are no greater destructors to a house than children.

By now it's 9 or 10 and you begin to study. At 10 your husband returns and he diligently cracks the books too until the crack of dawn (literally). Then for a catnap and back to the same old grind. No rest on Saturday or Sunday either! There's friends and family to see, shopping to do and numerous other items to attend to besides all the school work you've let slip by in this perpetual rat race.

And then you decide to chuck the whole business, but you begin to think of the rewards when you receive that slip of paper reading "Graduated from Eastern Oregon College." It's worth it. Yet fall behind in a subject and try to expain to your instructor and what do you hear? "But remember, 35 per cent of the student body is made up of married students." No sympathy there! So you struggle through knowing that it means the future for your family. College is no cinch for anyone.

So I say to the single students, "Hark! You think you're busy!!!"

The Chain

P.S. To Married Students: We want your ideas and this is a chance to be represented. Let us have your views.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

All quiet on the Hunt front, for a change. The place is as dead as Grant.

In response to Dorion queries, yes, the men are occansionally known to partake of a meager amount of target practice. For further information, write to Hunt Hall, Room, 410.

Come the mighty mid-terms. Yes, we all fell in at least sixteen courses. His Highness is a wee bit ticked at the outcome of his math tests. That is life, though, and we all have to live with it (and others).

Slow down, men, those crackers are against four Oregon laws. They cause much damage, and many complaints. People may be injured. Windows may be broken. Sleep may be lost. Noise may be made. And they are a lot of fun to raise heck with. Most of us are out of them anyway.

Explanations are in order. Why only one sheet this week? I understand this is to continue. It seems there are just now enough sheets left after some of the children in the dorms finish taking their quota home on the weekends.

Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

Despite the warning against winter term illnesses in the last column, Dorion has had it's share of under-the-weather days. with the exception of one case in the Annex, most of the trouble has been the return of that old flu bug. What kind of bug bit you, Nance?

Second floor has been having a bit of trouble with greased seats, snitched light bulbs, and short-sheeted beds lately. The people who are responsible should in all fairness be warned: those kids in 214 have nothing but sweet revenge in mind. They aren't worried about what might happen to their room in return; seems they have the Johnson & Thompson Cleaning Service scheduled to come in this weekend.

There have been some mighty strange goings on in the underground this week and we would like to think that evil spirits are responsible. (Reason: you can't sue evil spirits.) Two rather odd incidents occured Tuesday night. The first was the sudden disappearance of all the light bulbs. Total darkness prevailed until our chief handyman decended to right the wrong. With the help of an understanding Room 7-ite, light was soon restored and that's when the second oddity occured. Seems a room-to-room check found all but one of the girls in their own rooms, and (here's the strange part) it was only 1:30 a.m. The missing girl was, of course, none other than the Underground Gang leader. J. T., how many times must we tell you: "Either stay in your own room after quiet hours or make sure there's a closet within jumping distance."

There may be "strange things done in the midnight sun," but even stranger things get "done" on Third floor. Future cheerleaders of EOC (a new organization on campus?) have been practicing in the hall and rumor has it that they're making up their own lyrics. Unfortunatly, these lyrics aren't printable but Connie and Glynn might be able to give you the low-down.

The girls in the Annex were pretty disappointed over their Ugly Man candidate's loss. After all that enthusiastic campaigning in the cafeteria they thought Whitey had it cinched for sure. Guess there's not much you can do about an opponent's "natural" abilities though.

The faint tolling of wedding bells could be heard in Dorion a few weeks ago, but they were mysteriously muffled out before they had a chance to really get going. Can't decide if there really was sickness in the family or if it's just that Bristow and Ziegenhagen hate to disolve their notorius partnership.

One Dorionite definitely does not share the common opinion that the weekends fly past all too quickly. Happy campus, Nicki, and here's hoping your future weekends are a bit brighter.

Before closing I'd like to add a short footnote. (FOOTnote because it concerns a HEEL). You fans might just disregards Hakim's comments concerning "Dorion Doodles." Hakim Taylor is quite obviously the victim of circumstances, and had the doctor known what the end result of those circumstances would be, methinks he'd never have given baby George that first disastrous spanking.

Portland St. Edges EOC, 69-61

Portland State College escaped from the cellar in the OCC race Friday, January 25 as they downed the Eastern Oregon College five 69-61 at Portland. Only once during the contest did EOC tie things up, and never did they lead. EOC stayed in contention all the way, knotting the score at 49-all midway through the second half, and closing the gap to within one point twice. With two minutes to go, Portland dumped in six free throws and Stan Weber tipped one in to ice things for the Viks.

PSC hit 27 out of 61 shots from the floor for a .443 average. EO connected on 25 of 70 for a .357 average. Larry Howard of EOC hit 10 fields goals and four free shots for 24 points, high for the evening. Howard was followed by John Masters with 19.

The La Granders, standing third in the conference with a 2-4 record going into the game, still held their league position, but the Portlanders were only half a game behind. Oregon Tech closed the gap on idle Southern Oregon, slapping Oregon College 74-43.

ONE POINT

A free throw by John Winters with 24 seconds remaining and the score tied at 64-64 gave the Portland State Vikings their second victory in a row over Eastern Oregon College January 25, at Portland.

The Viks lead off the affair as if they were going to break some kind of a record. They led 14-1 at one time. Then the Mounties caught fire and by half-time had narrowed the margin to 37-29.

In the second stanza the Mountaineers came on to grab a 49-42 lead with a little over 14 minutes left. Then Larry Howard, Tom Neel, and Jim Parson went to the shower with too many personal fouls. The Portlanders took the break as a good omen and tied things up with 24 seconds remaining. Then John Winters stepped to the line and added his 32nd point of the night to break the game open.

Winters' total of 32 points gained him high man for the night. He connected on 10 field goals and 12 free throws. Neel was high man for EOC with 20 poitns on 9 floor shots and 2 gift tosses.

Neubergers Give $500 For EOC Scholarship Fund

—Senator and Mrs. Richard L. Neubcerger have donated a $500 scholarship fund to Eastern Oregon College, according to an announcement by college officials.

Specifications with the scholarship are that funds are to go to "students with a particular interest in government and politics, either from the standpoint of direct participation in government activities as a career, or to teach political science and government as a subject."

Senator and Mrs. Neuberger indicated that the donation comes from honorariums both have received for speaking engagements and magazine articles.

SOC Dumps EOC Twice

Eastern Oregon College blew a 3-point half-time lead to Southern Oregon College Friday, February 1, and got pinned again, this time by a score of 78-71. After six minutes of play in the second period, the Raiders took over the driver's seat to hand the Mounties their seventh OCC defeat.

The La Granders took the lead late in the first half as Dick Quinn sank a freethrow and a field goal to break a 35-35 tie. A bucket by Hollingsworth and a counter by Jerry Baxter sent the clubs to the dressing rooms with EO up, 40-37.

After intermission the Raiders caught EOC and tied things up at 47-47. SOC started a full-court press and hit 10 quick points while the Mounties couldn't break the ice. The Ashlanders held a 5 to 10-point lead the rest of the contest.

SOC's five starters accounted for all but one of their points. All five hit in double figures, two of them breaking 22 points. Tom Neel, Larry Howard and Quinn were the only Mounties to break the twin figures.

Bill Hollingsworth, high scoring SOC center, dumped in 25 points to gain the individual spotlight. He was followed by Dave Oliva with 18, and Mountie Dick Quinn with 171.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By DON FRANK

With only eight games left in the 1958 basketball season, the local fans have only one thing to look forward to: 1959. Things haven't gone too good for the college club this season. They come home this week-end for a two-nighter with Oregon Tech. The Owls are shooting along with a 9-1 Oregon Collegiate Conference record, but they are matched for top honors in the conference by Southern Oregon College. The Mounties are one step out of the cellar with a 2-8 mark.

—o —

As we've said before, one senior, two juniors, and two sophomores make up the nucleus of the maple club this season. In other words, four of the five regulars will be back on the roster next season. But the one senior is Dick Quinn. Quinn is averag- better than 10 points a game, a feat only two other EOC men are doing. No matter how we look at it, there is no one on the J. V.'s or on the second five of the varsity who will be abel to step into Quinn's place next season. Coach Quinn is going to have to do some mighty good combing to come up with someone.

—o —

The Oregon Journal carried a write-up of the Portland State game that sounded more like the Portlanders played EOC's 5'10" McMinnville start than the whole Mountie team. "It was the Viks game but Howard's show." Sounded like they were ready to give Howard their vote for All-American. Howard came up with 24 points that night, and that sure didn't hurt him. The article is good for any man's scrap book.

Swanson Receives Award

by Linda Kane

For an outstanding act of heroism in rescuing Ralph Shaffer from drowning, EOC junior Leonard E. Swanson has received a national meritus award.

On August 29, 1954, while swimming in the Pacific Ocean at Oxnard, California, Shaffer got into difficulty being caught in the tidal current. Swanson hearing his cries of distress swam to him and towed him toward shore. Coming within 225' of shore, Swanson who was by then near collapse, was assisted by three other men in taking Shaffer to dry land.

As a reward for his deed, Leonard is the recipient of a bronze medal and an educational fund of $250.00 given him by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

WUS Week Well Received

by Jean Hunter

The Whiskerino Dance, Friday, anuary 31, marked the end of WUS Week as well as beard-growing on the EOC campus. Highlight of the dance was the announcement of winners of the various beard-growing contest categories. Larry DeKalb walked off with Best All Around Beard honors and was followed by Dave Hansen, reddest beard; Don Cole, blackest beard; Roger Tiller, scroungiest beard; and John Pembrook, who had the most honest attempt.

Other events of WUS Week were the student-faculty auction and the Ugly Man Contest. The Ugly Man Contest was officially opened Monday when the candidates began their race for securing the largest amount of money for WUS. Dewey Flower, sponsored by Hunt Hall, came up with the biggest contribution and was crowned EOC's Ugly Man of 1958 at the WUS assembly January 29.

Prior to the coronation, auctioneer Archie Dunsmoor sold the services of faculty and students to the highest bidders in what proved to be the most entertaining assembly of the year. Dunsmoor auctioned everything from Pizza dinners and room cleaners from Dorion to a dance with his own wife (which, incidentally, Norm Trotter picked up for $1.35). Neil Wilson brought forth the largest single contribution when the audience offered $16.40 to hear his "cultured - Presley" version of "Jailhouse Rock," "You Send Me," and "Because."

Japan Topic Of Language Club

"An Evening in Japan," a program of unusual interest was enjoyed by the Modern Language Club Monday, February 3, in Hoke Hall with Kiyoko Yamada, our foreign student from Kyoto, Japan acting as hostess, cook, and master of ceremonies. Oishi mazegohan, a dish made of rice mixed with exotic vegetables and mushrooms was prepared and served in Japanese style with a "different" kind of soup and tea. Chopsticks were given to each member and guest, and no one was allowed to use knife, fork, or spoon. Japanese music was played during the meal. Before the supper two filmstrips were shown and commented upon by Kiyoko.

In January the club enjoyed a Mexican program of songs, games, dances, and a talk on Mexican Christmas customs by Lorraine Tarpenning. Highlight of the evening was a pinata, a papier mache rooster suspended from the ceiling. Different members were blind-folded and each in turn tried to break the pinata. When it finally broke, it proved to be full of candy. After the pinata a supper of chili, tacos, hot relishes, and chocolate was served. The committee for making the pinata was under the direction of Billie Jo Bond.

March 3 the group plans to put on a program on Indonesia. Supandi, a high school student from Sumatra, will be in charge of the program. He promises a movie on Indonesia and something unusual in the way of refreshments.

Winter Term Play To Run March 6-8

By KAREN EDVALSON

"We can disagree basically, yet the fundamental principle of each being able to think as he wants to think, believe as he wants to believe is the basis of our whole society," seems to be the crux of the forthcoming production "Inherit the Wind," according to Dr. Alvis R. Kaiser, director.

The title of the play is based on Provers 11:29, "He who troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind and the fool shall be servant to the wise in heart."

As the play goes into the final phase of rehearsal, Dr. Kaiser reports that the unusually large cast of about 40 has created some rehearsal attendance problems, but on the whole the play is coming along excellently.

Richard Hiatt is technical director and is in charge of the stage setting. An interesting aspect of the setting is that, in addition to the regular stage, the area in front of the stage will be utilized for the courtroom scenes.

Cast as Henry Drummond, lawer for the defense, is Leonard Swanson, Umatilla. Howard Wilson, Salem, plays Matthew Harrison Brady. "Inherit the Wind" is a dramatization of the Scopes Monkey Trial of 1925, and the characterizations of Drummond and Brady are based on Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan, the two "legal giants" who clashed in the case. Other key figuers in the cast are Linda Kane and Robert Darnielle Mosier.

Also in the cast are Jim Eidsen, Naomi Frost, and Lyle Endicott, Baker; Ronald Voetberg, iBll Vickrey, Jo Ann Berryman, Gary Kaiser, Marge Cuthbert, and Richard Hiatt, La Grande; Earl DeBok, Pilot Rock; John Buseick, Echo; Jean Rosewall, Enterprise; Lynette Pershall, Vale; Mayben De Graw, Union; Mike Ferguson, The Dalles; Gene Flower, Kimberly; and Robert McCrosky, Seattle.

The production is slated for March 6, 7, and 8 in the Eastern Oregon College theatre. Tickets will go on sale Monday, March 3.

Dance Drama Unit To Appear Feb. 20

On Thursday evening, Feb. 20, the Civic Music Association will present the Dance Drama company at the La Grande High School. The performance, scheduled to start at 8:00 p.m. promises to be one of the most unusual one of the series. The company of eight performers was singled out for the International Award for the Finest Dance Program on Television in 1956.

The featured dancers are Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder, who made a New York debut as a dance duo in 1950. The Duo's first programs had a special warmth and quality which made their art somehow more understandable, and because the many Americans who were seeing a dance program for the first time responded so enthusiastically, the demand for this kind of program began to increase. The Duo opened a school of dance, toured Europe and appeared at all the major Dance Centers and Festivals all over the country.

EOC students are admitted upon presentation of their ASB cards at the door.

Sigma Alpha Holds Initiation

On February 10 beginning at 7:45 in Dorion Lounge, the women's honorary society, Sigma Alpha Chi held initiation ceremonies for six new members. Ruth Shaw, Ruth Johnson, Gayle Eddy, Alice Edvalson, Kay Wood and Linda Woodhouse were presented with the Sigma Alpha Chi key and corsage by Arleta Nord, Carolyn Muller and Sharon Becker. As a part of the ceremony required for initiation, each of the new members presented her favorite poem to the group.

Jean Adamson Dorion Sweetheart Of 1958

Jean Adamson, escorted by Don Holznagel, was crowned Dorion Sweeatheart for 1958 at the annual Sweetheart Ball last Friday night, February 14. Jean, a senior in elementary education, was presented by Mrs. Harriet Hoyt, Dorion Housemother, during the intermission of the dance. Her court was: Sandy Thompson, freshman, escorted by Gary Winkle, LaVon Tuck, freshman, escorted by Chuck Berry; Elaine McNaught, sophomore, escorted by Paul Marlin; and Johanna Hardwick, freshman, escorted by John Cuthbert.

JEAN ADAMSON

As Mrs. Hoyt announced the court, which was a surprise to all, the girls walked through the streamer covered door and were received. Jean was crowned with the tradtional red carnation Sweetheart Crown, and was presented with a bouquet of red roses by last year's queen, Lane DeMastus.

Jean then gave each member of her court one of the roses as a keepsake.

The court was entertained by Karen Jacobsen who performed a ballet and Jo Hanna Hardwick who sang to the accompaniment of Ardyce Garrett.

The dance, held in the cafeteria of the Hunt-Dorion Dormitory, took place from nine until midnight, the girls having two-o'clock late leaves. It was formal, non-corsage.

The cafeteria was decorated in red and white. Streamers created a false wall across one side of the room; red hearts were hung from the ceiling at varying lengths and at the far end from the entrance was a huge valentine before which couples could have their pictures taken.

Tuesday Assembly Features Seaman On Brotherhood

The seventeenth annual Religion In Life Conference began on the EOC campus Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with an introductory assebly. Billie Jo Bond, president of the Interfaith Committee, presided at the meeting. Josie Ward, representing student government, welcomed the Interfaith Team, composed of Dr. Dave Seaman, Pastor of the Central United Protestant Church, Richland, Washington; Dr. Dale Tingey, director of Seminaries, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah; Professor L. W. Ratzlaff, Dean, Pacific Bible College, Portland, Oregon; Father Thomas Pitsch, Priest at the Church of Saint Joseph and Superintendent of Catholic Schools, Vancouver, Washington; and Dr. Anand Malik, Senior Lecturer, Government Training College for Teachers, Jullundur, India.

Dr. Seaman gave the opening address, centering his thoughts on the idea of universal Brotherhood. He pointed out that if man were concerned with his brothers all problems in the world today would be solved. His remarks elaborated on the ideas of developing a strong responsibility toward our fellowman by securing a mature faith, one which would satisfy our personal needs and also give us the courage and willpower to strive for the furtherment of brotherhood in every possible manner. His closing: "The furure is a glorious opportunity—perhaps with some 'giants,' but as Caleb would say, 'Fear Them Not.'," was the note one which EOC students, faculty and guests embarked upon the week-long session in religion and its meaning to us.

The members of the Interfaith Team were on campus until Thursday, giving addresses to the student body as a whole in assemblies and also speaking in the various classes. A banquet was held in their honor Wednesday night at Hoke Hall.

SYMPHONY CONCERT

On Sunday, February 16, 1958, the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra held its annual winter concert under the direction of L. Rhodes Lewis. The guest performer was Mr. Stanley R. Plummer, harpsichordist. He played Adagio and Rondo and demonstrated the harpsichord during intermission.

The Symphony played pieces written by Bach, Weinberger, Handel, Mozart, Gould, Rogers, Tchaikowsky, and Valerius-Kindler. The program was well presented and the variety of favorites held the audience's attention.

EO Sends 24 To Carnival

by Mayben DeGraw

Twenty-four students from EOC accompanied by Mr. McCroskey and Miss Neely enjoyed the Winter sports and fun at Mt. Hood Feb. 8, and 9. The occasion was the second annual Winter Carnival sponsored by the Portland State College.

The activities were many and varied. Skiers and non-skiers alike participated in the fun. A slalom and a down hill race were the main attractions for skiers, while sleds and "saucers" were provided for others. Other attractions were a dance held Saturday night and a fireworks display that evening.

Seventeen colleges participated and competed. Each had a queen candidate, and as you know Sandra Thompson was our candidate from EOC. Dr. Bennett was also there to enjoy the fun.

Pajama Dance Slated March 1

When was the last time you were dancing—in Pajamas? Whether such an entertainment is a commonplace occurance in your life or if you've never been a part of such a unique experience, Hunt Hall is extending an invitation to all college students to join together for a gala evenings.

Dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m. on February 28, Friday at Hoke Hall. In keeping with the theme of informality, the music will be provided by the jukebox and in order to gain admittance, you must wear pajamas. Awards will be made for several different categories of pajamas, according ot co-chairmen, Don Cole and Don Thompson.

Whether you are alone, married or simply bringing a date be sure to attend the Pajama Dance.

The other day I met a man who had reached the depths of disillusionment. He had just spent three hundred dollars on a permanent cure of halitosis, only to find out that no one liked him anyway.

What Are You Doing?

While the subject for the editorial this week may seem rather hackneyed to some on the Eastern Oregon College campus, I feel it is one that is once again deserving of attention by the students at EOC. I refer specifically to the lack of student participation and cooperation at the various functions held on campus.

The most glaring incident was the very conspicuous lack of students at the EOC-OTI basketball games the weekend of March 7 and 8. Granted, the first evening's performance was not one particularly conducive to wanting to return, but that is beside the point. No team, be it high school, college or professional, can perform to its best abilities when it is apparent that the group whom it is supposed to be representing does not even care enough to attend the game. Undoubtedly there will be excuses offered by those who did not attend, and some of the excuses might even be legitimate. But it is doubtful that the greater majority of non-attenders had anything better to do. Sure, there are movies to go to and studying to do, but movies run all day Saturday and the ball games don't take up so much time as to work a hardship on those who feel they have to study. When you start to complain too loudly, think of those of us who have to attend, like it or not. I refer to the band members and the individuals on the rally squad.

Speaking of the rally squad, is it right that they should have to do all the yelling by themselves? Surely those students who do condescend to show up at the ballgames could also put forth with a little more energy and give them a helping hand during the yells, organized and unorganized. After all, you elected the rally squad leader and gave her power to choose her staff.

Another public function that was very poorly attended by students was the recent band and choir concert. True, lack of publicity hindered the cause somewhat, but when almost as many townspeople as student turn out, something is definitely wrong somewhere.

Another function that was very poorly attended was one on which an editorial has already appeared. It is also the subject for a letter to the editor in this edition of The Beacon. I speak of the Faculty Reception. As previously stated, it is my opinion that some changes should be made, but we cannot escape the fact that the students failed to cooperate to make the event a success.

One lighter note can be found in the atendance of the assemblies this term. Both special assemblies were quite well attended although this may have been because of the added attractions. Due to early press dates no observation can be made on the Interfaith Religious Conference assemblies, but it is my hope that these can be made a success.

The real problem is in finding a solution to the difficulties. This is not something that a concrete plan of action can deal with; it takes the concerted effort of the students and faculty members who, by the way, have not been the active group they were in past years. In closing, we can only urge that students and faculty members alike try to support Eastern Oregon College's activities more than they have in the recent past. A lot more!!!

To The Editor . . .

Dear Editor:

I would like to see more of "Vincent" or N.A.C. in the columns of the Beacon, or at least reasonable facsimiles. Although articles of this nature are not always "good" or pleasing to me, at least they create interest and a degree of thought.

In its average form or state the Beacon receives a compliment if it is compared to the La Grande Evening Observer, which ,in turn, is about as interesting and representative of the people's interest as a piece of milque toast left for one week in the cat's dish.

Sincerely yours,

P.L.T.

Dear Editor:

Regarding "PLT's" comparison between Beacon and La Grande Evening Observer, might we make this comment. Isn't it somewhat apparent that anyone who deigns to spell milk "milque" is just too, too, too sophisticated to bemean himself to read an ordinary news paper let alone the Beacon or the the Observer.

PLT should stick to either Vogue and Saturday Review or more likely, to "True Love" comics.

Yours truly,

Casper Milque—Milch-Toast

The Ball And Chain

By SHARON HICKEY

Whew! ! ! Midterms are over and we're halfway through this school year. How time flies. And now for flying into the views of the ball and chain part of the student body.

Seems many couples (especially the femal side) are up in arms this year about the February dance which excludes many students—single and married. General opinion is that it's odd that there's an affair of this size that's not open to everyone. We all pay the same tuition and everyone works as hard as the next. Why should there be discrimination at the social functions? If it was just the family couples not allowed we'd feel that we "old folks" weren't wanted. Maybe we should get up an annual affair exclusively for non-residents of the college campus! ! !

Speaking of February, I wonder how many fellows remembered their wives on St. Valentines Day? Before you take that big plunge down the matrimonial ilse it seems this day for swethearts is a big things . . . dinner dates, cards, candy and flowers. Now? Well, that's a different story. You're too used to the little lady. Remember, though, you're still sweethearts to each other, and what woman doesn't like to think her husband's a little romantic? If you forgot this year, mark it down for 1959; make it a special event.

On a general note, I'd like to discuss this column. It's written from the opinions of the married set for everyone on and off campus. We want to be represented and our views presented. Instead of having to write an editorial we now hold our own special position in the Beacon. So let's take advantage of it. Anything you have on your mind get in touch with Mike Ferguson, or myself. Or write a note and drop it by Mr. Dorn's office. We can show our appreciation for this opportunity only by giving our thoughts and making it something worthwhile. But this needn't be for the wedded students only. If any of you single guys and dolls want to voice your opinion to us you're welcome to. So let's hear it! ! !

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

Special notice to Beacon Editor and Beacon advisor—this column is in on time! It's such an unusual occurrence that when it happens I definitely want it known.

The Eastern Oregon College Band is getting ready for its tour fast and furiously now. Accompanying the band on the tour will be Johanna Hardwich, Barbara Nuxall, Naomi Frost, and Barbara Myer. Besides numbers by the complete band, the concerts will include the flute trio, a violin solo with band acompaniment, a cornet solo with band acompaniment, a number featuring the tympani, a dance band with vocals by Johanna Hardwich, brass ensemble, and a bottle band.

The band will make appearances at Burns, Lakeview, S.O.C., Roseburg Veteran's Hospital, O.C.E., Cascade, Hood River, The Dalles and Stanfield during its week-long tour around the state. Saturday, March 1, they will march in the Gay Ninties Parade in Forest Grove. Majorettes with the band are Barbara Nuxall and Naomi Frost.

"What vould you do if I kissed you?"

"I'd yell."

Silence. A kiss. Silence.

"Well?"

"I'm still hoarse from last night."

'The So-Called Flop'

TO THE EDITOR:

It seems that there are some on our campus who insist upon spouting words of criticism. First and foremost, for any criticism to be of value it should be given in a constructive manner, free from all maliciousness. In all sincerity, I feel that the Faculty Reception should be re-evaluated and this time with a look at the other side of the coin.

As mentioned in the editorial appearing in the Beacon, January 24, 1958, the reception had originally been scheduled for the first or second week of the fall term. As this campus social function is an annual affair, there was a great deal of planning and work that was needed for it to get underway. First, a questionaire was sent to the alumni requesting infomation concerning the value of the reception. This poll revealed that former students were all for its continuance. Secondly, at the time of rescheduling the reception the matter was brought before the student council for approval and as has been evidenced, the reception took place showing their approval. If all the council were not in favor, we at least know that it was a majority, and after all, the majority rules.

Publicity may have been at fault concerning the misconception of dress since no assembly was available at the rescheduled time. The original publicity stated that it was to be semi-formal with party dresses and suits as the accepted attire. Any one attending the reception could have seen all forms of dress represented and certainly no one should have felt out of place. In the strictest sense of the word I can't say I have seen an entirely formal student activity on the campus.

The attendance lag cannot only be attributed to the Faculty Reception but to almost every student activity this year. The Whiskerino Dance, the Choir and Band Concert, and the Interfaith Groundhog Luncheon are only a few of the most previous "so-called flops" due to this attendance lag. If changes are to be made, they will have to be made by the students, and not by altering our college's traditions.

Maurice Lane

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Shouldn't the heads of Dorion Hall be keping a watchful eye for men coming into the underground through the new ditch? Maybe it was a planned thing to put the crevasse at that point so the Dorion Doodler could catch a man. After all, it leads right to her unlocked window.

Speaking of the Grand Canyon exetnsion recently cut across our soggy campus, the plans call for a two inch pipe to be placed there. Great Expectations.

Male representation at the games with O.T.I. was a hundred percent greater than that of the females. Where were they? At the show. Not even taking enough interest in the school to attend the games. Women, pttooeey.

Talk about a marathon, some of the Hunt men played poker 45 hours last week. Many are wearing cashmere sweaters now and some tote barrels and 29 cents suspenders.

Valentines are out, and, appropriately, they came just before February 14. What a heap of mail. Blue slips, red eyes. Half the dorm is listed in the little black book with the gold "F" filigreed on the front. Quite a select group, to be sure.

New, entertaining music can be heard on KGO, 810 on your radio dial. Those San Francisco stations have it all over the locals. Lively entertainment.

Can you Dorionites hear the TV set? Men's hearing must fail in the later hours, and the sound has to be volume. It's enough to rot anyone's eardrums. Those old Boris Karloff and Gloria Swanson movies aren't that good, surely.

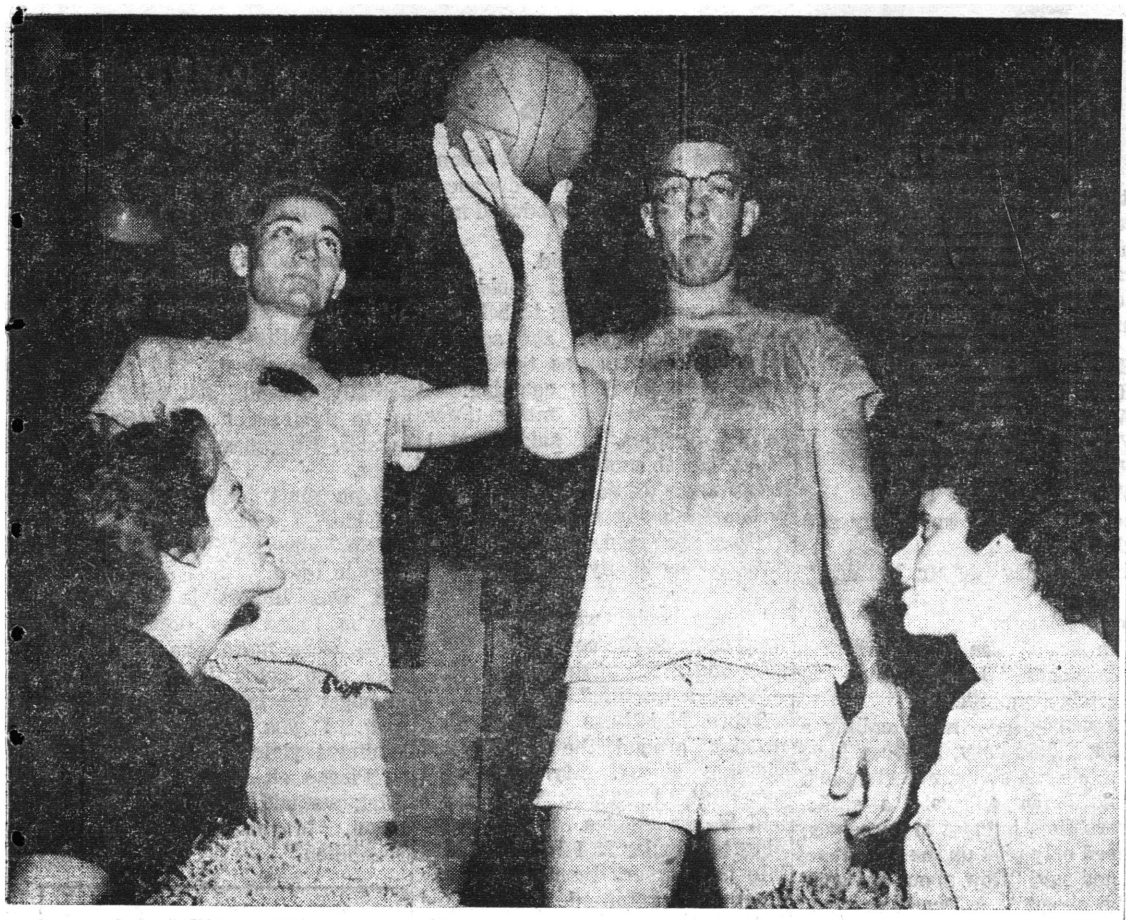
The big problem, men, is how to get across the Erie Canal after a big weekend night.

There are several alternatives. 1. Have someone carry you across; 2. Try to find the bridge; 3. Take a big run and hope your momentum carries you across; 4. Crawl down into the pit, wade across, and crawl up the other side; 5. And last but not the most futile, pass out on the Dorion steps and spend the night there.

Let's all try to bring our grades up a point or two during the rest of this term. That's what we are here for, primarily, and you will never regret good grades.

I'm glad to see that the Sweetheart Ball was a big success. The men worked hard arranging dates for their buddies and past buddies.

Dorion Doodles



By J.H.

After the weekend at Mt. Hood things threatened to be rather dull around Dorion while the victims of the Snow Carnival recuperated. This didn't prove to be the case though and life has been as lively as ever in this hallowed hall. Things may seem a bit more subdued up on third and in the annex than they were in the past. This is due to the departure of Sandra Benson on third and Faye Ferris from the annex. Reports are that Sandy plans on whiling away the remainder of the term just resting up at Wallowa. (Didn't know people went to Wallowa to rest.) Faye is at home with her parents right now but has wedding plans for the very near future.

Life in Room 8 just hasn't been the same since Winter Term registration brought a new roommate in the form of a frosh transfer from the U of O to this humble abode. A new roommate always takes a bit of getting used to but is a constant source of amazement to her two roomies. They still can figure out which fellow on campus was so smitten by her charms that he dug that somewhat obvious tunnel to her window. I wonder if there is any connection between it and the new bottle of Channel No. 5 that just recently made its appearance on the dresser.

Although the traditional color scheme for Valentine's Day is red, many distraught Dorionites found themselves confronted with cute little baby-blue valentines this week. Most of the girls agree that these "valentines" had a rather dampening effect on an otherwise cheerful day, and would like very much to return to the cheery red ones that do much more for the morale.

Even though it has not been asked for, I'd like to extend a bit of advice to my arch rival, Hakim of Hunt. George, when one finally attains the position of second term Freshman at EOC one should have ones mind made up as to whether one is going to become a window washer for the dorms or an errand boy for the girls in the dorm. Now George, if your talents tend toward being an errand boy (because they certainly don't tend toward being a columnist) I think the least you could do is to learn how to keep the hamburger orders straight. It's most disturbing when a hungry Dorionite orders a cheese-burger and gets a steak-burger; especially so when you go so far as to forget the onions. Oh well, you can always learn fly tying.

JERRY BAXTER AND RON PAULSON, two of EOC's "giants" are pictured displaying their height to Gayle Austin and Donna Sene. Jerry, Ron and the rest of EOC's Mounties face off against Portland State this weekend for the last home games of the season.

NWN Flattens EOC, 99-74

Hitting at a tremendous pace rom the court the first 20 minutes, the Eastern Oregon College ne and the Northwest Nazarne team battled in a Kings-X game on the Mountie court. The wo teams were tied at 38-38 af- 17 minutes of action. Then the OC club went cold, while the isitors pushed on to a 99-74 win.

Larry Howard, again the gun EOC, canned 16 points in the irst half, but hit only 8 in the econd. Ron Paulson came hrough with some fine tips dur- the course of action.

One thing can be said for the ome lads: they held Crusader Dave Gardner to a "trifling" 11 oins. Gardner is second in indiidual scoring in the Northwest. He follows Seattle's fabulous Elin Baylor.

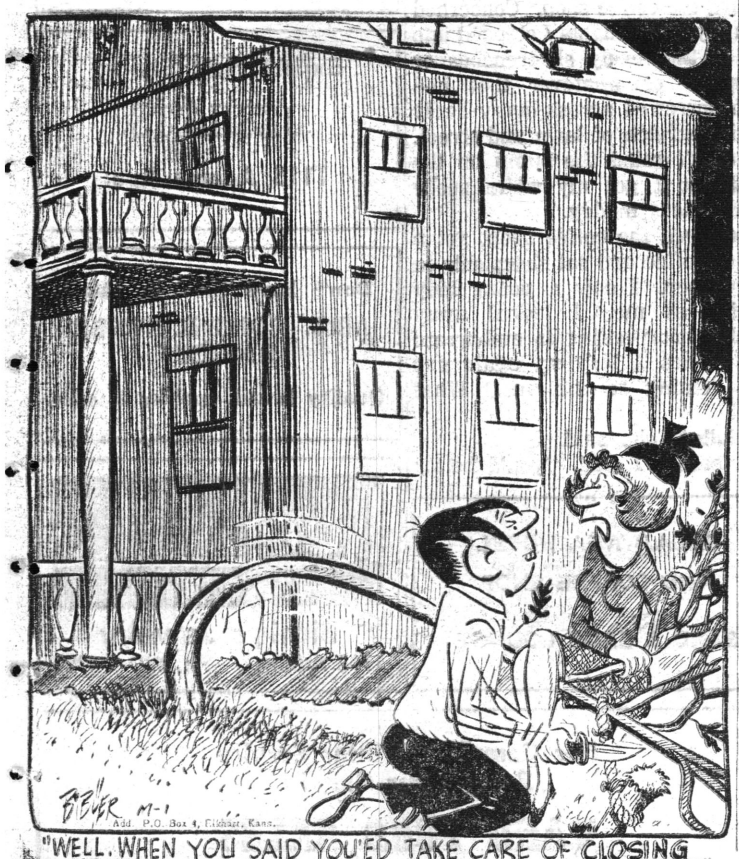
EOC TAKES 2 FROM OCE

La Grande's own Eastern Oregon College basketballers broke into the win column once more with two wins over Oregon College of Education, taking Friday night's game 79-70, and Saturdays 72-64.



Friday night the Mounties had to come from behind, as they were down 32-23 at one point during the first half. But they came on to gain a 35-34 half-time lead.

Again Saturday night they were fighting an uphill battle most of the first frame. With OCE leading 21-13, they came to life and tied things up at 21-21. From there it was smooth sailing for the Mounties.

Tom Neel hit 30 points Friday for scoring honors, followed by Larry Howard with 23. Saturday night Neel and Howard tied for the honors with 18 apiece. They were followed closely by Dick Quinn with 17.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

EOC Professor's Article Appears In National Journal

--An article, "Art and the Image of Man," by Leonard B. Kimbrell, EOC assistant professor of art, appears in the January issue of Social Education, a national journal.

In the article, Kimbrell emphasizes that "Art unifies the history of man. Despite the mistake that may be made in interpretation, the art itself remains. It speaks a silent language . . . human frailty and human triumph tied up in a work of art . . . Thus history can hold up a mirror to catch a reflection of our former selves."

Social Education is the offical journal of the national council for the social studies published in collaboration with the American Historical Association.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By DON FRANK

Watch Tom Neel. He has been driving for the bucket, his jump shot is improving, and he plays a good, heads-up game. The OCC teams better take notice of the EOC lad. He's going to cause them trouble. In the last two games he chalked up 48 points. Of course, someone could pick two other games he didn't hit 20 in, but he couldn't show us a team in the OCC that has a 6'2" man scoring and rebounding like Neel.

OTI Dumps Mounties Here

Charlie Bogle of Oregon Tech dumped in 18 points in less than eight minutes Friday night to send his team into a lead the Eastern Oregon club could not overcome. The Owls burned the nets the first half, leaving the floor with a 53-29 margin, then didn't let up the second stanza and ended with a 90-53 triumph over the Mounties.

The La Granders led off the contest and after three minutes led the visitors 8-7. Then Bogle cut loose, and that was all for EOC.

The highly polished Owl club hit a hot 59.3 per cent from the floor. John McClutcheon hit 9 to lead all scoring with 22. Bogle hit 10 from the floor and 1 gift toss for 21. Jerry Baxter led all Mounties with 14.

SATURDAY NIGHT

In the second tussle of a two night stand against the Oregon Tech Owls, the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers went down by a count of 77-58. After 12 minutes of play, the score stood 16-16. Then Owl John Rhine hit for three buckets to put his team out in front to stay.

The Mounties showed a much tighter defense than the night before, and made a game of it all the way. Half-way through the last period they pulled to withing seven points of OTI, 57-50, but John Mc Clutccheon canned three quickies to ice things.

"How old is you?"
"Ah's five. How old is you?"
"Ah don't know."
"Yo' don't know how old you is?"
"Nope."
Does women botha' you?"
"Nope."
"You's fo'."

What did you think of the "Referees?" at the Southern Oregon-Eastern Oregon game? They were really "Jewels." Especially like the way the SOC man crawled on Larry Howard's back and rode from half court to the free throw line and didn't draw a foul for it. Granted the Refs can't see everything, but they should be able to see something! !

Baseball season is just around the corner. Too bad Coach Quinn can't have the services of Bob Barrett. Barrett is a lanky catcher who holds the Northwest batting record in Junior Legion playoff games. He hit .727 in three games against a California club, a good share of them for extra bases. He then played for a service team that finished second in the Air Force, and from what I'm told should have been the champs. After that he signed a pro contract that made him ineligible for college ball. A foul-up in handling of his contract in a trade fixed things for him, and he is now a student at EOC. He would be a great help in any line up.

Student Poll Gives Evaluation of TV

MINNEAPOLIS (ACP)— Answers to a question in a survey conducted by Associated Collegiate Press as part of its yearly study of student opinion indicate that, by a slight margin, college men are more satisfied with programs available on television than are coeds. Thirty-eight per cent of the men interviewed rated television's general fare as "excellent" or "good" as compared with thirty-six per cent for the coeds. Fewer men than women would rate television programs as "fair" but proportionally more men than coeds thought the programs were generally "rather poor." About equal proportions were undecided on the issue.

Associated Collegiate Press obtained this information by asking the following question of a representative group of American college students across the nation:

How would you rate the general run of programs appearing on television today? Would you rate it excellent, good, only fair or rather poor? Why?

Following is a complete tabulation of the results:

	Men	Women	Total
Excellent	3%	7%	5%
Good	35%	29%	33%
Only fair	38%	42%	39%
Rather poor	18%	15%	17%
Undecided	6%	7%	6%

In separating the favorable categories of "excellent" and "good," it becomes apparent that, although men are generally more favorable, coeds hold a proportionally slight edge on their male classmates in rating programs as "excellent." The men interviewed contributed to their overall favorable attitude largely by their great numbers of "good" answers. The largest perecntage of both gave a rating of "only fair" to the material presented by television.

One notion seemed consistent among those who felt television's programming was excellent. A Wayne State university (Detroit, Mich.) sophomore pretty well summed up the feeling by saying "There is everything you want want on television—whatever your taste calls for." A freshman coed at thhe University of Nebraska (Lincoln) made a little broader comment. She supported her "excellent" rating of television with the statement: Programs are well planned, enjoyable and varied enough to fit everyone's taste."

A Bradley University (Peoria, Ill.) sophomore coed feels just the opposite from those who thiink television in general is excellent. She gave a "rather poor" rating for the reason that television programs "show little imagination." A senior coed at Chatham College (Pittsburgh, Pa.) agrees with the "rather poor" rating but for a different reason. Her idea is that television programs in general are "geared too low for the intelligence of the average viewer." She evidenced complete disagreement with those giving excellent ratings by saying, "not enough dual preference."

In the "only fair" category there was a ride range of comments. A University of Vermont (Burlington) sophomore remarked that "the good programs are few and far between" and a sophomore from Florida State University (Tallahassee, Fla.) supports his "only fair" rating by saying that on television "there is too mucch for entertainment." He concludes: "It should be more educational." A freshman from Indiana Technical College (Ft. Wayne, Ind.) summarized the feelings of many others by stating flatly "Too many horse operas."

A senior at Juniata College (Huntington, Pa.) is among those who consider the general run of programs to be "good." "Television offers a rather good variety of programs. There is a type of program which suits everyone" was his reason for choosing this rating. Another senior—from the University of Nebraska (Lincoln)—also feels television programs are generally "good" because "the prokrams have made much improvement over the past ten years." A sophomore from Bradley University (Peoria, Ill.) supports his "good" rating by stating that,although "westerns seem to be dominating television," still "most of them are good programs."

A Story . . . . .

by Vincent

After three unsuccessful attempts to get a date I decided that the telephone was not the medium in which I was most persuasive. The last call had been a masterpiece of Hemmingway dialogue.

"Hullo," she said.
"Hullo," I said.
"Who's this?" she said.
"Vincent," I said.
"Vincent who?" she said
"Vincent nothing," I said.
She thought that was funny and laughed.
"I don't know you Mr. Nothing," she said.
I didn't laugh.
"I'm sorry," she said.
"It's alright," I said.
The telephone clicked.

Telephones have made calling a girl for a date easy, but they have also made it a static, unfeeling act. We need not cultivate a smile, conversation, interest in ourselves; we need only pick up the telephone, dial and say, "How about ups goin' to the show?" A "yes" or "no" results like a business transaction.

I decided to be brave and walk into the girls' dormitory, introduce myself, engage a young lady in conversation and, with a grand gesture and sweep of the arm, ask her out.

The dorm looked ominous as I approached. Long evening shadows covered the old building like prehistoric beasts, hulking, sinister. I had never entered its innards before and after walking through several doors and dimly lighted pasasges, I was confronted by a kindly lady who suggested that I retrace some of my steps. I assured her of my ignorance of the rules, but I'm not sure she was convinced.

I asked for a certain girl whom I had admired from a distance. She appeared and I introduced myself.

"I'm Vincent," I said.

"Yes," she said. I could see that she was not going to help the conversation much. She seemed as cautious of me as the kindly lady. Perhaps it is catching.

"I have seen you many times on the campus," I said, "but I could find no mutual acquaintance to introduce us, so I took the liberty of introducing myself."

"Yes," she said, backing away a little. The kindly lady hovered near.

"I was hoping we could take a walk or go to the coffee shop for a coke and get acquainted," I said.

"Just a minute," she said.

There had been several girls peeking around the corner and giggling at us. My companion joined them. There were more and higher giggles. I was beginning to wonder if I had stumbled into the nursery by mistake. My companion returned. She looked indignant.

"No," she said.

"Perhaps another time?" I said.

"No!" she said.

"Was it something the Giggle-Group told you?" I said. I shouldn't have said that. She turned and left. The kindly lady glared. I left.

I wondered how large the Giggle-Group was. I had noticed no semblance of social life on the campus and that usually means a large Giggle-Group. Maybe as high as fifty per-cent of the girls are still imbued with high school minds and grade school attitudes toward men.

I decided to go to the men's dorm and find out how bad the situation really was. I entered and knocked on the first door I came to. Four boys lay in their Playboy-Pictured room.

"What's doin'," I said.

"Nothin'," one said.

"Let's get up a party," I said.

"Great idea," one said.

"We better call the women now," I said. "It's getting late."

"Women!" they all said. "We don't need no women!"

"You don't like women?" I said.

"Naw," they said.

Then what are those pictures doing on your walls?" I said.

I left quickly. Perhapus the Playboy - Picture - Group was as large as the Giggle-Group. Where did that leave me? Nowhere. I had been out in the world and done wordly things and no good Giggle-Grouper would be caught dead with me.

Feeling sorry for myself outcast among the provincials I walked forlornly across the dark campus toward the coffee shop. Concerned with my out thoughts I stepped into one of the lovely slit-trenches or cesspools or whatever that had been burrowed across every likely looking stretch of lawn and street.

I didn't mind the bump on the head but I got my white suede tennis shoes muddy.

I entered the coffee shop, got a cup of coffee and sat sheepishly in the corner. I saw a young lady looking at me. I looked away quickly not wanting to embarrass her. When I look up again she was coming toward me. What now?

"Hullo," she said.

"Please," I said, "you'd better not be seen talking to me."

She looked surprised. "Why not? I wanted to meet you, but no one will claim knowing you."

"No one will claim knowing you if you don't go away," I said.

"I'm new here," she said. "I don't know the rules."

I was unnerved. The girl had actually, simply, naturally come up to a stranger and introduced herself. No gigles. No embarrassment.

"You must be from the Great Outside," I said.

"No," she said, "I'm from right here in town."

It was impossible but true. Maybe there was hope. Maybe there were more like this young lady who could find a maturity amongst the labyrinth of childishness. I was overjoyed. I fact, I almost gigled.

"Please sit down," I said. "I think we will find much to talk about. Maybe even discuss a revolution."

EOC Winter Enrollment Increase Noted

—Winter term enrollment figures show almost a five per cent increase over the 1957 winter term at Eastern Oregon College, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

Registration reached 625 by the close of the term's first week, compared with last year's 597. Greatest percentage of increase was noted in new freshmen, with 20 registered from Oregon high schools and two from other states. The 1957 winter term total listed nine from Oregon with three from other states.

In addition to the new freshmen, there were 31 student transfers from other colleges in Oregon and 10 from out of the state.

Of the 625 total, 388 are men and 237 are women. Enrolled in elementary education are 205; secondary education, 154; pre-professional, 144; general studies, 86; and two-year terminal curricula, 36.

Constitution Changed by Election

Eastern Oregon College
BEACON
Vol. XXVII April 11, 1958 No. 10

Revision Accepted By Large Majority

In a special election held Monday, April 7, the associated students accepted by a large majority the newly revised ASB constitution which was proposed by the Student Council. Several major changes in the student government will become effective under the new document that the Council feels will make for a more efficient and effective campus government organization.

One of the greatest changes made will be in the representation to the Council. The formulation of an active executive committee comprised of the president, first and second vice-presidents, secretary, and business manager, will set up a group which will be responsible for most of the executive duties. It will be the job of this group to plan the agendas of business for the Council meeting and, generally speaking, assume the major role of seeing that student government is organized and functioning properly.

The position of business manager has been changed from appointive to an elective office. He will assume the duties of being in charge of student finances and financial advisor to the Student Council.

Other alterations in the representational setup are: In place of the policy of choosing representatives-at-large, the positions will be the beacon editor, one representative from EOCene Courts, two representatives from the off-campus students, a representative from each of the dormitories, and two representatives, a man and a woman, from each of the four classes. It was hoped by the revision committee that this form of representation would prove to give a much more complete campus-wide selection on the Council.

Several alterations in the duties of the executive officers were included in the revisions. Probably the major one was the additional duties given the position of first vice-president, which heretofore had consisted only of being the election committee chairman. Under the new constitution he will also act as coordinator of committee chairman and will have equal power with the president in the selection and appointment of all committees.

Eligibility requirements for the positions of president and first vice-president increased from the two terms in attendance at EOC and a cumulative G.P.A. of 2.25 to now read that the candidates must have been in attendance for at least five terms and have maintained at least a G.P.A. of 2.50.

A change was made in the section concerning vacancies in the elective offices which was deemed imperative by the present council. Under the old regulations, in case the first vice-president should assume the position of of president, the second vice-president would take over the duties of both vice-presidents. In the revised constitution, provision is made for special election in the case of vacancies occurring in any of the ASB offices.

Many other changes were made to compensate for conflicting passages that occurred as a result of revisions. A great deal of time and effort has been spent by the present Student Council during the year on this project and in general the group was highly satisfied with the end result.

Richard Arends Awarded EOC Scholarship

Two students of outstanding grade point averages have recently been named as recipients of fellowships here at Eastern Oregon College. These fellowships differ from scholarships in that the recipient works with the instructors of his field, thereby gaining further knowledge and experience.

Richard Arends of La Grande has been awarded a $500 fellowship sponsored by Senator and Mrs. Richard Neuberger. Dick is a junior in secondary education and will be affiliated with Dr. Spear and Dr. Gaiser in the social science department. His accumulative GPA is 3.7. When asked about his reaction he said he was very happy to receive this further opportunity in his field of study and would especially like to thank the scholarship committee and Mr. and Mrs. Neuberger.

Inland Machinery has also allotted a $500 fellowship naming Leslie Edwards of Moro as winner. Leslie is a sophomore in preprofession as a math-science major. His average GPA is an outstanding 3.8. As of this time Leslie was not available for a statement. He will be associated with the department concerned with his major.

Campus Political ActionApproaches

April will see a flurry of action on the Eastern Oregon College campus as the approaching ASB primary and general election campaigns get in full swing. First Vice-President Dick Quinn has announced that many asiprants for the top jobs in student government are beginning to emerge at this date and urges those that have not acquired peitions to do so immediately.

In accordance with the newly revised Associated Students constitution, the positions open for election will be: president, first and second vice-president, secretary, business manager, and rally squad leader. Petitions for these offices will be available until April 14, at which time they must be in the hands of the election chairman, Quinn.

Candidates will have the opportunity to appear before the student body at a general student assembly at 9:00 a.m. Thursday, April 17. At this time the candidates will give their campaign talks and tryouts for rally squad leader will be held. Primary elections will be on April 18 when the candidates will be narrowed down to two for each position.

No further assemblies are planned before the general election on Friday, April 25, but the finalists will have ample opportunity to do a little individual campaigning. In place of the cabaret dance which is scheduled on the social calendar, there will be a sport dance and the winners of the final elections will be presented at this time.

The new student body officers will assume their duties on May 1,

Spring Term Play Cast Selections Made Known

Tryouts for the spring term play, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," by Liam O'Brien were held the first week of school and rehearsals have begun for the production which will be presented May 8, 9 and 10, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. This will be a major feature of the annual Parent's Weekend on the EOC campus. Director Richard Hiatt will have as his student assistant, Mike Ferguson, sophomore.

The three act comedy deals with the dilema resulting when, through a visit of a young man, Horace J. Pennypacker III from Philadelphia to the home of Horace J. Pennypacker Jr. in Baltimore, it becomes evident that there are two himes and two families in the respective cities possesesing the same free thinking father. The effects of this knowledge upon the members of the family and other immediately involved people comprises the remainder of the light, fast-moving plot.

Larry DeKalb takes the lead part of Pa Pennypacker with Sherril Cockburn playing opposite him as the Baltimore wife. Other members of the cast include Mayben DeGraw, Mary Conklin, Judy Lutz, Patsy Evans, Earl DeBok, Janet Sanderson, Judd Van Gorder, George Schoedinger III, Byron Rudishauser, Ron Voetberg, Les Edwards and Mike Ferguson.

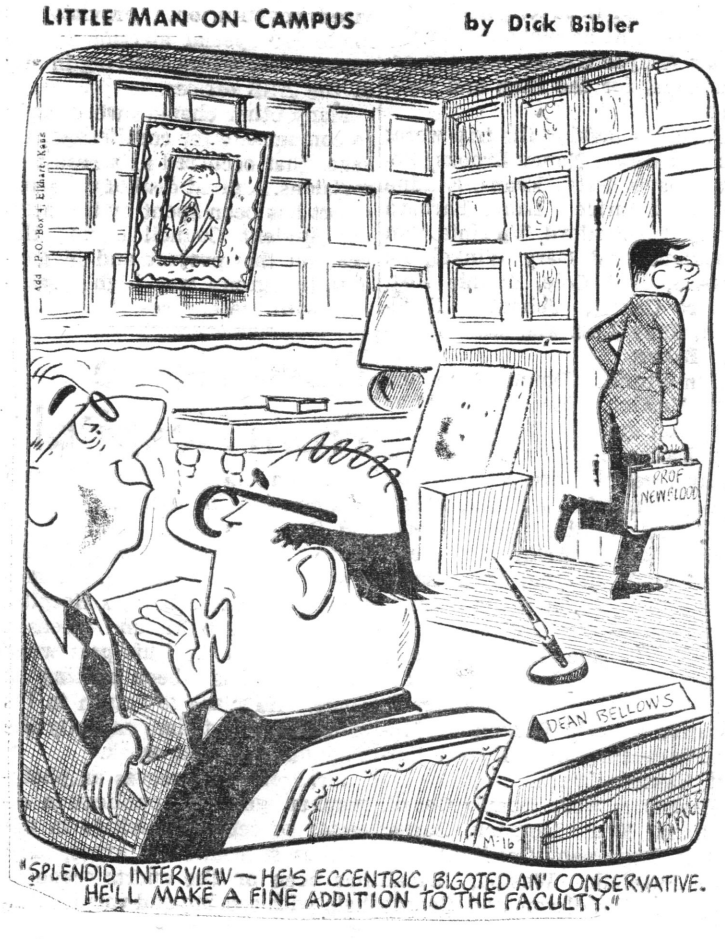
Think—If You Can

By the time this is read, the ballots of the vote on whether to pass or reject the revision of the Eastern Oregon College constitution will have been counted and results made known. We can only say that we hope it passed. It is the opinion of this editor that all the changes made in that document were for the betterment of EOC and this year's student council deserved your voote of confidence by supporting their revisions of the constitution.

The next important matter facing EOC students, if they wish to be called participating students, is the forthcoming election of student body officers for the 1958-59 school year. By this time, many of you will have been approached by some inspired-looking individual with a piece of white paper clutched in his hand asking you to sign his petition for this or that office. Go ahead, it's your priviledge and duty as a student at EOC. But think while your doing it. "Does this person actually have the qualifications for the office he is seeking?" If he does then sign it. If he does not politely refuse. If you refuse, though, try to think of someone you feel has the proper qualifications for the office and try to get that person to run for it.



In the past, although it is not common, people did not think very much and some individuals were nominated and even elected to high office in EOC student government when they had no business even thinking about such activities. True, most individuals who run for student body office know what they're doing and why they're doing it, but it's that person who is seeking office just on a dare or a bet that may get elected and because he lacks the qualifications for the office does not contribute anything to EOC student government.

After the petitions are all signed and in, the next step is to vote for the various candidates in primary and general elections. You will have a chance to hear what each candidate stands for, or thinks he stands for. Listen to what they have to say, then decide for whom you will vote. Again we urge you to think. Many times a candidate will say things which sound good but are actually negligible in their value. This is a time when thoughtful consideration is necessary.

Again we say, sign the petitions and vote. But THINK if you can!

Here we are again. Another term, almost another year. Do you feel you have something to show for it? Better take stock now because in just ten weeks it will be too late, and possibly another $180 wasted.

Just a note to "S.B.S." whoever you may be (these people who won't sign their names!!). I agree with your statement in answer to this column about the inattendance of social functions, which read ". . . here's your opportunity to attend—why gripe, it looks like you've dug your own social grave." Okey, except for one thing. Let's change that "you to "we." No one individual can make or break a dance but several of these individuals can. I can't decide how to take your postscript "at least you're willing to get some activity going down there in 'Stork Acres!'" Compliment or otherwise? It's immaterial anyway because we're taking our hats off to ourselves. Building bigger and better students for EOC is no small job!

It is a new term now so let's all try to be bigger and better students of EOC and not wait for our children. We all can make the coming spring activities a great success by working together. And there are certainly a variety of things coming up.

Was so happy to see the Ball & Chain Club's name on the social calendar for this term. (note: S.B.S.). Now why not get a list of all married couples names enrolled at EOC and send invitations to them to participate? A really good crowd could turn out.

Am signing off for now but hope to see letters simply pouring in this term. Let's get enthusiastic!

Fellow American TV viewers, arise! The Revolution has Come! Beginning late this year Soviet films will be a regular fare for foreign motion picture aficionados! . . . Enthusiasm is riding high, wide and handsome through college history, literature and mythology classes across the country as students grapple for incidents to use in the $2,000 Mennen Playboy ad-writing competition. Even profs are lending a helping hand . . . Run, do not stroll, for your copy of RCA-Victor's wicky, wacky album starring Al Kelly singing "Rock 'n Roll From outer Space" . . . Add to pictures no artist could paint: Steverino, the greyhound on the Steve Allen program, having a wail of a time joining with 10-year-old twins Linda and Michele Braccidioenta in singing "Happy Birthday" to the national youth organization, the Camp Fire Girls, on their 48th birthday. (The twins are representative of the better than 500,000 Camp Fire Girls in more than 3,000 communities from coast to coat.) . . . Every top vocalist is rushing to record the "sleeper" song hit of 1958 "It's a Wonderful, Wonderful Feelin'," by Pinky Herman and Johnny Andrews . . . Whoever wrote Bert Lahr's material for the comedian's recent George Gobel guest appearance must be fond of "The Wizard of Oz." And whoever is Bert's best friend should tell him gong-gong and one-note facial mannerisms are old enough to be turned out to pasture . . . Just 20 years ago Imogene Coco and Danny Kaye were appearing in short subjects for Educational Films . . . Perhaps the real reason why "Father Knows Best" is ever-popular is because it's Robert Young at Heart. . . Buss in Hollywood circles these ayems is that George Burns, who is delighted with the sincere receptions accorded Jack Benny when that poor man's Heifritz plays in concert halls, for worthy causes, is toying with the idea of duplicating Fast Buck's success. Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

Most Dorionites will agree that starting Spring Term on April Fool's Day was a delightful idea. We approved of it whole-heartedly and made the most of it while it lasted. In that good old college spirit (so prevalent here on the EOC campus) Dorionites from all floors displayed their ingenuity in their attempts to kill—oops! that is fool—their roommates. What with missing doors, Spick and Spanned floors, and grease applied in most effective places, wary girls were quite careful not to leave their rooms unguarded. Despite the fact that the basement ended up being the scapegoat (there are now special punitive amendments to the house rules that apply only to the underground) for all the somewhat mischievious merriment, everyone agrees that it was a most successful evening.

While on the subject of April Fools Day, here's a tip of the EOC beanie to Mrs. Hoyt and Mr. H. Wilson; both were quite sporting about the various tricks their fun-loving charges directed at them.

Although Easter weekend is usually looked forward to with happy anticipation, a couple of our fellow inmates didn't share this holiday spirit last weekend. Judy and Jan looked forward to a nice quiet weekend in the dorm. Gosh but a weekend of Dorion confinement can be dull. Jan tells us she's thinkiing of investing in a black and white striped suit for Easter. What with her record-breaking list of demerits it might not be a bad idea! Elaine decided to keep her holiday happy and postponed her campus to a later date.

April second was a history making day for two Dorion coeds. First came the stupendous news that Sharon Christiansen has been accepted by United Airlines for stewardess training. Chris will begin her training July 7 in Cheyene, Wyo. This is really a thrill for Chris because she's long been interested in such things as airplanes and pilots and flying and pilots and travelling and pilots and—!

The second big event in Dorion was the unbelievable news that Marilyn has actually passed her spelling test. Eurkea, Hilyard, we thought you'd never do it. You done good!

Winter term final week was pretty rough on all Dorionites, but the kids in room 8 had an especially heart-rending week. They were forced to leave their beloved room 8 so these "hallowed" halls could become "hollowed" due to the new heating system. That poor old room just isn't what it used to be; at least we didn't ever go so far as to tear up the whole floor. And are those boards across the windows really necessary?

It just wouldn't seem right to close this column without some comment on that astounding columnist, Hakim of Hunt. I wonder if the EOC student body realizes how lucky it is to have such a talented young writer on the Beacon staff. The next time you read Hakim's column you might pause for a moment's silent thankfulness that George is letting us share a small portion of this talent twice a month in that vitally interesting column, Hakim of Hunt. (He also writes poetry!)

Puerto Rican Feast Featured

Meat pies wrapped in banana leaves, candied papayas, guavas, and orange peel were some of the exotic foods from Puerto Rico enjoyed by the Modern Language Club at their meeting Monday, April 7, in the basement of Walter M. Pierce Library. A beautiful color film on Puerto Rico was shown, and Mrs. Larry Seachris, a native of Puerto Rico and wife of one of our EOC students, told the group things about the food, animals, industries, and weather of her native island. She described the calm, matter-of-fact way in which the people prepare for an oncoming hurricane but said that coming hurricane but said that most of the year the weather is like spring. Postcards and picture folders were shown while the group listened to Puerto Rican music played on the pronograph.

One of the most interesting parts of the program was the dinner of unusual foods which Mrs. Seachris' mother had sent to her for the occasion. Pastels, gandules, arroz, dulce de lechosa, orejones de naranja, and pan were the menu. In English this is a meat pie wrapped in banana leaves, a dish of pea-beans, rice, papayas, candied orange peel, and bread.

The next meeting is set for May 5 when a program on Hawaii is planned with Carol Tamashiro and Kim Yashamura in charge.

Bob McCroskie, mathematics and engineering instructor at Eastern Oregon College was the speaker at the regular Monday noon luncheon meeting of the La Grande Lions Club, at the Sacajawea Hotel.

McCroskie told club members of his experiences with the army's educational program for military dependents in Germany and also showed a series of colored pictures which he took on his travels through several sections of Germany and Holland.

Dr. Bolen Back From Science Meet

Dr. Virgil A. Bolen, professor of physical science at Eastern Oregon College, attended a conference of the National Science Teachers Association at Denver, March 26-29.

Theme of the national conference was "Improving Classroom cience Teaching," and included 22 clinics dealing with such topics as scien fairs, conservation of natural resources, research grants, and encouraging future scientists.

Nearly 3000 science educators attended the conference. Twenty-one science tours to scientific labs and installations in the Denver area were planned for the group.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

I received a letter from a love-lost female who resides in Dorion, requesting information as to how she could get the pins out of her basement window who let the boys inside. Here is my answer:

Dear J. H.,

I took an inventory of the men to find who would like to help you remove the bothersome pins from your troublesome window. I found 129 who would gladly donate their pliers, hammers, wrenches, or glass cutters (via the ditch) to help you in your strategic mission. Write to me for further information concerning which male you prefer. Unless, of course, "you know who," reads this mess and you find yourself spending three years in solitary with bread, water no light to study by and no men. Good luck.

P.S., Have you noticed? Honker is singing now, Swanee.

Relay Team Places Fourth

EOC's track team traveled to Salem, Oregon, for the Willamette Relays Saturday, April 5. The team took fourth place in the two mile relay and fifth position in the javelin throwing contest.

Don Thompson, Hilton Perkins, Pat Cawood, and Gary Holmes comprised the Mounties' relay team which placed fourth in the two mile relay but failed to place in the mile relay.

Gene McKinney, Union, tossed the javelin and placed fifth in a field of ten.

There were over 2,000 athletes participating in the Willamette Relays meet. By looking over the results of how EOC placed in this meet it looks like coach Archie Dunsmoor and his track team will go far this season.

The 1958 track schedule for EOC is as follows:

April 12- Northwest Nazarine-Invitational.

April 19- EOC-Invitational.

April 26- Boise Junior College-Invitational.

May 3- Open. Yet to be scheduled.

May 10- Whitman-Invitational.

May 23-24- Conference at SOC.

May 30-31- District NAIA at Portland.

EOC Sports Bloomer League

Jean Hunter

The move of a big league team to California isn't he only thing new in baseball this spring. We now have on the campus of EOC the greatest thing ever in baseball —a Bloomer League. The girls in Dorion are getting the ball rolling, so to speak, and at the present time they have the opening game tentatively scheduled for next week.

The idea of a Bloomer League started with the girls in the basement of Dorion. After rounding up the nucleus for the Underground team they posted a challenge to all comers with an added urge to the Annex and Third floor. Their challenge was quickly accepted by the pros on Third and a time and date for the game is being discussed. The girls in the Annex are trying to find a few more players to round out their team and then they, too, will accept the challenge.

This League is not restricted to dorm girls only, so they are urging the town girl to give them some competion. They even expressed the hope that the Chain part of the Ball and Chain club would form a team. Right now it looks like lots of fun so let's see as many girls turn out as possible. If any team would like to be included on the schedule of the Bloomer League, their manager should contact Marilyn Hilyard in Dorion Hall. Many of the teams need more players and there are even a few openings for water girl so don't let your talent go to waste this spring. Let's PLAY BALL! !

What Others Are Doing

PULLMAN, Wash. (I.P.) — A program for the superior student and for maintenance of academic standards has been outlined at the State College of Washington, according to Dr. S. Town Stephenson, dean of the faculty.

The program is the product of a two-year study by a special committee composed of representatives from the Educational Policies and Graduate Studies Committees. Formation of the special committee was prompted by concern that the pressure of numbers resulting from the anticipated future expansion of enrollment would be apt to decrease the attention given superior students, and to impair academic standards for all, Dean Stephenson said.

Consideration of possible revisions in admission requirements has been postponed until the current enrollment picture changes. Recommendations that consideration be given to use of effective new instructional techniques, to greater emphasis on a limited number of degree requirements, and to reducing the number of duplicating and highly descriptive courses offered, were among highlights of the committee's report.

Warning against expansion in too many academic directions, the group advised "serious consideration" of the possible effect of expansion into new academic areas on aedquate provision for superior students and on academic standards.

Every effort should be made to assist the superior student in realizing his potentialities, the committee said. Among specific points in the program are: Excusing superior students, on the basis of excellent performances in placement examinations, from required elementary courses, permitting them to take additional electives or pursue special individual studies.

Consideration of special class sections for superior students; more exceptions relative to requirements for superior students and fewer exceptions for inferior students; more emphasis on demonstrated student performances in comprehensive area examinations and less "on the mere accumulation of credits per se." Provision of adequate scolarships for outstanding undergraduates and fellowships for excellent graduate students.

To provide more effective utilization of faculty time and talent, the committee proposed that adequate secretarial, technical and teaching assistant help be provided as funds may be available, and that administrative or quasi-administrative functions currently performed by committees be reduced and the work handled through administrative channels.

ighest quality faculty attainments would continue to be emphasized in connection with appointments, promotions and grants of tenure.

All faculty members "should exhibit an increasing sense of intellectual and academic responsibility and should require of students rigorous standards of Hperformance," the committee said. Students, it advised, should be encouraged to accept more responsibility for advancing their own academic and intellectual accomplishments.

Dr. Mary Davison To Instruct Local Air Force Reserve Unit

—Dr. Mary H. Davison, assistant professor of social studies at Eastern Oregon College, has been named instructor of the newly formed Air Force Reserve flight in La Grande.

Miss Davison, who has had four years active duty in the Air Force, will instruct the La Grande flight, offering paid training to airmen, and officers will receive the opportunity to earn retirement credits.

Lt. Col. Robert Van Wagoner, commander of the Boise Air Reserve Center, and Maj. Cyril S. Morrison, director of training for the center, will meet with reserve airmen and officers interested in the program, Monday, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall.

The Boise Air Reserve Center is sponsoring the La Grande Flight, which was formerly under the Spokane Center.

DR. MARY DAVISON

Airmen who join the flight will receive pay for attending weekly meetings and for two weeks of active duty in the summer. Uniforms will be provided for airmen. Reserve officers may earn points only for retirement and will provide their own uniforms. Airmen will receive the same rat eof pay for reserve duty as that of airmen on active duty.

Under the program, airmen have an opportunity to gain a commission. The announcement also indicated that the La Grande Flight must gain new members if it is to survive as an active unit. Presently, the nearest active Air Force flight is in Baker.

Future Plans For Hoke Revealed

EOC has the prospects of a partly remodeled Hoke Hall by November 1959. Plans have been laid in rough form and by this summer estimates will be submitted to the State Board of Higher Education for approval. If the plans are approved by the State Board, they will be submitted to the State Legislature for appropriation of funds.

The most spectacular change will be enlargement of the floor in the present lounge and dance hall to nearly double the present capacity.

Kitchen and dining room facilities will be increased in the east end of the hall so that at least 100 persons can be seated and served at one time.

The basement will be enlarged and re-arranged so that four new classrooms will be added; the bookstore will be moved to the present site of the ping-pong room; and offices will be shifted to the north side of the basement addition.

Easter Program

The annual Easter Assembly was held in the Eastern Oregon College theater at 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, April 2.

After an Organ prelude by Miss Patsy Evans, the EOC Choir under the direction of Neil Wilson sang "Agnus Dei" (Lamb of God) by Kalinnkkof and "All in the Morning" by Katherine Davis. Then the entire audience read the prayer. Following this, Richard Hiatt read the portion of scripture dealing with the Easter Story, Matthew 28. Mr. Hiatt's selection was followed by Miss Janis Robertson singing "Come Unto Him," a soprano aria from The Messiah by Handel, accompanied by Miss Evans at the organ.

The highlight of the assembly was a movie, "Journey Into Faith," telling the Easter Story. Following the movie, Billie Jo Bond, chairman of the Interfaith Fellowship, the sponsors of the assembly, urged everyone to attend the annual Easter Sunrise Service held in the EOC theatre.

Clarke Reveals Assembly Plans

Spring term, 1958, promises to be a good term for assemblies. In addition to the special assemblies arranged by the Assembly Planning Committee, there will be several general assemblies concerning election of ASB officers and Evensong Queen plus the Evensong practice assemblies.

Dr. Gordon Clarke, chairman of the Assembly Planning Committee, reports a variety of special assemblies for April and May. Thursday, April 10, Stephen Hero, violinist, was featured at a special 2:00 o'clock assembly. He is to be followed by a ballad singer, Earle Spicer, May 2 at 10:00 p.m. May 28 is the scheduled date for a speaker from the Du Pont Company who will talk on the future of science. No definite time has been set for this assembly. Dr. Clarke also mentioned the Committee's efforts to arrange a campus appearance of a Knife and Fork Club speaker who has recently completed a bicycle trip across Australia. Her talk would probably center on her Australian excursion.

On April 17, 9:00 a.m., the candidates for ASB offices will be introduced at a general student assembly. There have been no dates set for Evensong practice assemblies; however, the Evensong Queen candidate assembly will be set for sometime in April.

The Assembly Committee has already begun work on next year's assemblies. Present plans include a speaker from the faculty of the University of Dubuqe in February, a possible fine arts festival on campus, a series of good foreign and American films, and programs by the Association of American Colleges.

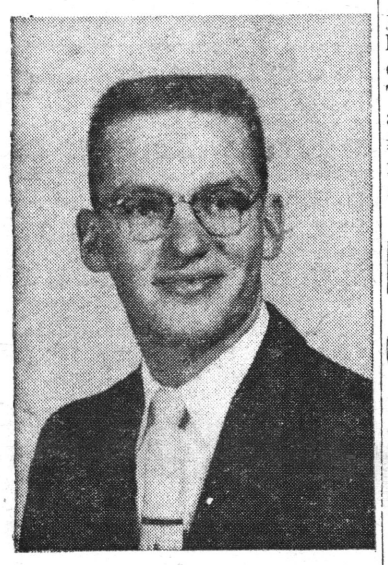
Moore, Arends In Finals



Eastern Oregon College
BEACON
Vol. XXVII April 24, 1958 No. 11

Tomorrow is the day to vote in the General Elections. We don't care how you vote; just do! Last week in the Primary Elections, over 370 EOC students voted. Let's try to better that figure this week in the most important elections of the year. Campaign platforms appear on all pages of this issue of the Beacon. — The Editors.

Campaigners List Platforms For Election

by the Moore for President Committee

The office of A.S.B. president is one of an administrative representative. A person in this capacity has to understand people and has to have enthusiasm to the point that it is infectious to all who come in contact with him, has to have a desire to serve, and has to have a demonstrated ability to get things done.

HAROLD MOORE
"Prexy" Candidate

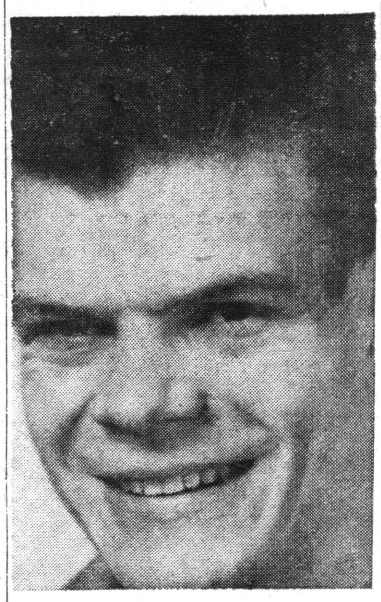
We feel that Harold Moore is one person who combines all these prerequisites. He is well liked, hold many offices and can follow as well as lead. He holds positions where he is required to both direct and follow. These he does equally well. Harold's scholastic record is exemplary and his record of acomplishments in his offices is also excellent. One of the most striking things about Harold is his effervescent enthusiasm. His desire to serve, dependability and excellent training for the job make him my choice for the President of EOC's studentbody.



In considering characteristics for the office of A.S.B. president, we would like to explain Harold's attitudes and policies on the various issues. One of the main duties of the A.S.B. president is to direct and coordinate A.S.B. activities in an efficient program which is geared to meet the needs of the students. Harold adds that he will work with and support the second vice-president in his planning of all social activities to the best of his ability.

Some of the policies which Harold will work for in the coming year are: (1) a greater unification of student participation in activities, (2) an immediate planing committee on the problem of campus facilities for off-campus students, (3) a study committee on registration procedure which has already been cleared by Dr. Lyle Johnson, and (4) an increase in duties of our Hoke Hall Student Union Committee.

by the Arends for Prexy Committee

Richard Arends, candidate for president, is a junior majoring in political science in secondary education. Dick was the recent winner of the Neuberger Scholarship for interests shown in his major field. Dick has a fine sense of organizaion and he ability to get along with people. He is Secretary of Theta Delta Phi Vice President of international Relations Club, a member of S.O.E.A., and was a delegate to the Model United Nations in 1957. His ability to do scholarship work plus his participation in college activities qualifies this candidate for the office of ASB President.

The key word of Dick's campaign has been UNITY.. Dick's platform includes better understanding between dorm and off-campus groups, a social program more mature, and more participation of married students. His ideas include such things as a "wive's club" to bring about more participation by married students, a "president's club" to keep various organizations informed, and an "opinion poll" to obtained student preference on important decisions. Dick advocates extended library hours, a more efficient registration policy, and a baby sitting agency.

Campaign Assembly Draws Record Crowd

By JOHN HALL

The 1958 campaign assembly had one of the best attendances in many years. As Steve Johnson, student-body president, said, "This is the first time there has been more people watching than speaking." During the two hour long assembly 18 candidates and their campaign managers gave their speeches for the six elective offices of president, first vice-president, second vice-president, secretary, business manager and rally squad leader.

Janet Sanderson, the girl "with the pep and go a rally girl should show," started the campaigning off by leading the assembly in "Go Get'em Mountaineers." Janet, running on the Unity slate, was introduced by her campaign manager, Jane Bell. Gerald Roloff introduced George Taylor as the second candidate for rally squad leader. George wants to organize a rally drill team consisting of three boys and five girls. Campaign manager, John Willmarth, introduced Sarah Lee Workman for rally squad leader as "the little girl who will do a big job." Her platform was for modernization of next year's rally squad.

A new elective office authorized by the revised constitution is the office of business manager, whose main duty will be that of financial advisor of student affairs to the student council. Delemar Evans, whose campaign manager was Ron Tonack, advocated as part of the Unity platform that the student body "pull together" more. Campaign manager Mike Smith introduced Jean Hunter, the second and final candidate for busi-

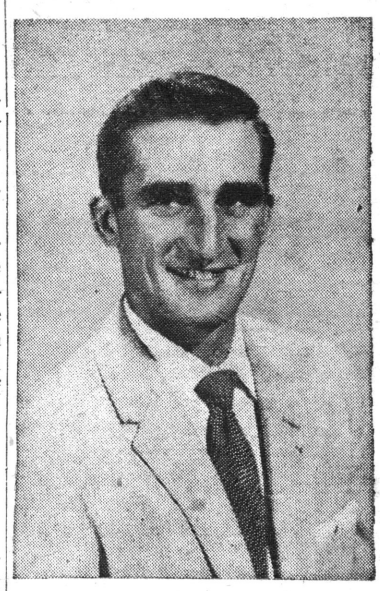
Sigma Alpha Chi Initiation Held

Sixteen new members were initiated into Sigma Alpha Chi April 15 in Hoke Hall. The Spring term initiation conducted by President Arleta Nord, Vice-President Sharon Becker, and Secretary Carolyn Muller admitted the following girls: JoAnn Berryman, Hazel Bondurant, Janie Denison, Lee Ann Dougherty, Jean Edmison, Karen Edvalson, Barbara Myer, Thayle Romine, Carolyn Gudgel, Sharon Hill, Carol Thorne, Barbara Wheeler, Pauline Whiteis, and Lorraine Tarpenning.

Primaries Cut ASB Eligibles Down To 12



Amidst "poster-plastered walls" and general campaign confusion, the EOC Associated Student Body primary elections were held Friday, April 18. The polls were open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and the results were announced about 5 p.m. Friday evening. Although it was a very tight race, those elected to run in the final elections on Friday, April 25 were: president, Richard Arends and Harold Moore; vice-president, Dale Gaylord and Josie Ward; second vice president, Lary Dekalb and Bob Miller; secretary, Bev Donovan and Marilyn Hilyard; business manager, Delmer Evans and Jean Hunter; and rally squad leader. Janet Sanderson and George Taylor.

Results of the final election will be announced at the Inaugural Hop in Hoke Hall, Friday.

Barbecue Pits Readied For Use

At the April 7 meeting of the Eastern Oregon College student council, that group voted to appropriate money to provide lids for the permanent barbecue pits to be located behind Hunt Hall. Mrs. Dorothy Winters, Dean of Women and adviser to the student council presented the ideas to the group stressing the need for immediate action on her request.

The pits are used every year during Parents' Weekend for the barbecue which will be held this year from 4 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, May 10. The Class of 1957 started a fund to establish the permanent pits and it was propsed by the administration that as long as the construction crews were on campus at the present time, the pits could be dug and and finished so they could be used this year. Thef und was lacking money enough to buy lids and it was felt by everyone concerned that there was a definite need for covers to the pits. This would eliminate any chance of having someone fall into the pits and being injured. It was also deemed wise to have the covers heavy enough to deter anyone from trying to steal them. With the money provided by the Council, adequate covers will be provided.

A Farewell To Office

No ASB president could say goodbye to the position he has held the past year without feeling that he has received, through the graces of the students who supported him, an experience beyond expression. I am saying farewell to this office only with the deepest regrets and yet with a satisfaction of knowing that another is about to profit from this experience as I did. Whoever he may be, I pray that he will receive a like amount of satisfaction.

Many thanks are in order for the help I received this past year. No president has worked with a more cooperative, competent, and enthusiastic Student Council than I was blessed with. My thanks go to each of them. I could not rest easy without giving special acknowledgement to the ASB secretary, Josie Ward, for the time and energy expended on her part. I am sure that there has never been a more able assistant to the president in the history of EOC student government.

Contrary to some opinions that have appeared in this publication, I feel that the students of Eastern Oregon College should be congratulated for the fine job of participation in various activities this year. I will grant that some activities could not be termed successes, but on the other hand, I cite such examples as assemblies, dances, and elections that were given better support than I can ever recall in the four years I have been on this campus. On behalf of this year's council, I thank you. As the interested alumnus I am about to become, I urge you, who will return to maintain this spirit which has shown itself and which is necessary if we are to be truly proud of having attended this institution.

As a student leader, I am proud of the job done by this year's student government. However, I am not vain enough to overlook the fact that, as humans frequently do, we made some mistakes? My message to next year's student leaders is, correct these mistakes, carry on anything that has proven good, and you will feel the same satisfaction of a job well done.

It is impossible to put all your feelings into words made of print. I am sorry to give up the position of ASB president, yet glad that another will have the opportunities that I have had. The work is over, the memories prevail, and the honor bestowed upon me by the students of Eastern Oregon College will be utmost in my mind through all my life.

JEAN HUNTER

by the Hunter for Business Manager Committee

Jean Hunter is a sophomore from Pendleton, Oregon ,and has been quite active in campus activities. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Chi, Sabers, Dorion House Council, ASB Publicity Committee, and is secretary of the Associated Women Students.

Jean realizes that the Business Manager must not only be familiar with all aspects of student finances but also be alert to all student body activities. She is primarily concerned with revising the budget to include three major changes. They are: (1) providing sufficient funds to get the Student Union functioning on a par with those of other colleges; (2) denying complete subsidation of school dances by the student body through an organization sponsorship program that would make for bigger and better dances; and (3) insuring sufficient funds for traditional activities such as Evensong and the All-school picnic, that are presenly crippled by a lack of funds.

Jean feels confident that she can handle this efficiently and will cooperate in every way if she is elected.

GET OUT AND VOTE

JOSIE WARD

by the WARD FOR FIRST VICE PRESIDENT Committee

Experience is the keynote of our candidate' campaign qualifications. As a campus leader she has shown her initiative in organization; she currently is president of the Sabers, upperclasswomen's service honorary, as well as possessing a fine background in the workings of student government. Miss Ward held the position of Student Body Secretary this year, and in addition to serving in this capacity was a delegate to the Pacific Student President Association conference in Arizona, and later was elected to the vice presidency of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate leaders for the 1958-59 school year.

She has organized a platform that calls for three major plans of action. First she advocates the formation of a type of "Panhellinic Council." This would consist only of organizational president who would meet together at least once a month. This organization would coordinate organizational and student body activities to a better extent, and would be useful in planning each term's social calendar.

Secondly as committee coordinator she seeks to expand the opportunities for leadership in student government by choosing members for the four committees specified in the constitution from the general student body, not only from the Student Council.

Finally she wishes to develop the Student Union Committee and work with the administration in organizing this committee in regard to their future plans for the expansion of Hoke hall. Previously our Student Union Committee has been almost nonexistent. By sending delegates to the Northwest Student Union conference that is really for the students, she hopes to remedy the present situation.

In conclusion we wish to say that the position of first vice president is one that demands organization, experience and some one who knows the students. We feel Josie is the one for the job.

MARILYN HILYARD

by the Hilyard for Secretary Committee

Marilyn Hilyard, a candidate for ASB secretary, is a sophomore in secondary education from Pendleton, Oregon.

We feel that Marilyn has many qualities which make her best suited for this office. She has been very active in all phases of campus life. She is currently president of Women's Recreation Association, vice-president of Sabers, a member of the Student Council, publicity chairman of the student body, and a member in good standing of Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honorary.

She has a few ideas which will make the duties of secretary more efficient. She feels that the secretary and the ASB president should meet together before Student Council meetings to plan an aagenda which would be printed and given to the council members prior to the meetings.

She also feels that to have a better informed student body the secretary should see that a portion of the Student Council minutes be printed in the Beacon.

Marilyn believes that the current policy of printing the minutes and having them available to all is very important and should be continued.

BEV DONOVAN

by the DONOVAN FOR SECRETARY Committee

Platform for Secretary of the Associated Student Body of Eastern Oregon College.

Bev's platform is based primarily on the principal of a closer working relationship between the students and the student government. She feels that the main barrier to be overcome in effecting this is a more complete understanding on the part of the students concerning the government, its facilities, aims and legislations. If this understanding and awareness could be accomplished, she feels that interest would naturally be promoted and progress would result.

Some of the means by which she would effect this promotion and interest would include: the posting of an adgenda before the student council meetings, in order to allow those affected or interested by the issues to be discussed to plan to attend the meeting, to give the council members themselves time for advance preparation for discussion and to insure more efficient and effective student council meetings; the posting of minutes after the council meetings with the added idea of giving more details of discussion and legislation in cases where the issues are of major importance; and the promotion of a closer working relationship between the council members themselves and the organizations to which they belong and represent.

Bev recognized that it is the duty of the secretary not only to hand down to her fellow students the legislations of the council, but to carry back to the council their opinions, questions and desires. In all aspects of the office, from those functions in the social representative capacity through the routine duties and into the basic dealings and fulfillment of her position in the council itself her "every effort would be toward the highest quality of work I can attain for EOC."

Platforms from Larry DeKalb, and Janet Sanderson, all candidates on the Unity slate do not appear in this issue of the Beacon bedause of deadline misunderstandings.—The Editors.

DALE GAYLORD

by the GAYLORD FOR 1st VEEP Committee

When one considers the duties of the ASB first vice-president—fill in for president in his absence, run elections, coordinate between committees and be an active voice in student government—he can determine the necessary qualifications to be character, enthusiasm, cooperation, coordination, and consideration.

Dale's character is unquestionable. He is of high moral standards, has integrity, and is sincere. His enthusiasm is hard to equal as demonstrated by his hard work with any organization or committee with which he has been associated.

His means of coordination between eommittees is simplified by being tactful, cooperative, and considerate. His ability in this type of work is reflected in the success of his job as co-chairman for the 1957 Homecoming and as chairman of the biological science exhibtions, also in 1957.

When elected, Dale promises to do his utmost to find solutions for the outstanding problems of EOC. His belief of the campus problems at present are: locker and study space for "day students"; better attendance at athletic and social events; improvement of the street of EOCene Courts; the registration line; and, the feeling of unhappy rivlary between the campus and offcampus students. Dale's proposed means of coping with these problems were given in his campaign speech at the assembly.

It is truly a rarity when a person of Dale's capability and ambition comes within the region of service to the ASB of EOC. Don't let this asset to the campus go unused. Cast your vote for the MAN WHO CAN. Vote for Dale GAYLORD.

BOB MILLER

by the Miller for Second Vice-President Committee

Bob Miller, candidate for Second Vice-President, is a sophomore in General Studies. Last year he attended Oregon State college where he was a freshman class counselor and on the social committee of his fraternity house. He therefore comes to our campus with a wide variety of social knowledge and ideas. Bob has served this year as member of the Hunt Hall executive committee, and as a member of the social activities committee. He is no stranger to the workings of social planning and organization.

Miller hails from Milton-Freewater, a graduate of Mac-Hi. His senior year in high school he was president of his class and a runner-up in a regional Elks Leadership Contest. From this, he has the leadership ability required for the job of 2nd Vice-President.

As for Bob's platform, he favors three main points: (1) A diversified social program to meet the needs of all students, regardless of beliefs; (2) the charging of a small admission price for the larger dances held throughout the year, in order to provide better music and save A.S.B. funds; and (3) better coordination in social activities between dormitory, married, and local students.

Bob feels qualified and able to take on the responsibility of 2nd Vice-President ,and we of the Miller for 2nd Vice-President committee believe that he will do the kind of job that you want done.

Scribe Views 'Stoobid Gooberment'

By STENSON

This spring will be the fourth time I've been around this place while the SOB election campaigns have been going on and each year the whole hullabaloo gets more mixed up to me. It always flabbergasts me to see everyone get all worked up over something all of a sudden when they don't know anything about it and haven't given a hoot all year to find out. Then all of a sudden they get the notion that it is an honor to hold an SOB office, besides looking good on the records I've been told.

Those candidates can sure think up a batch of cute little ditties to confuse the voters into going for them, thought. Take the campaign last year, for instance. You couldn't walk across the campus without some goon running to you yelling, "keep our campus alive by electing these five." Guess we should have done it because we only elected four of them and this place was as dead this year as Benny Boneyard's Crematorium. Or better still, there was a little guy hopping around crying, "throw your samsonites away, Suitcasism is on its way out." That was the best news I'd heard yet because I hadn't had my shot yet and they say it was catching.

The campaign assemblies are always the best. The one last year was by far the most enlightening that I had ever seen. They tell me that I missed some of the fun by arriving late, however. It seems some guy didn't like one of the candidates, so he stood right up out of the crowd and told his friend note to vote for the guy. Well, that didn't crack the other guy's campaign manager just right so he told everyone to vote for his candidate if they thought Gina Lollobrigida was neat. His candidate swept the final election, so I suppose everyone misunderstood him and thought he said if his candidate was elected he would bring her to EOC as a rally squad girl next year.

I did make it in time to hear and I sure am glad I did because I didn't know either of them and was sort of out on a limb as to which one to vote for before I heard their platforms.

The first guy seemed to have been a member of the Stoobid Console before and was basing his platform on that. His slogan was, "experience will in time ultimately rise to discern itself in the apathetic position of distinguishable timeliness." However, the guy who followed him came back with, "it an't necessarily so because football won't last all year and whats more I don't plan to do no student teaching besides."

Well, I can't say as I agreed completely with what either of them said, but I voted for the last guy because I didn't think football should last all year either and I figured that if he could keep it from happening he must be all right.

Anyway, I sure hope the people running for offices this eyar can think things out as well as they did last year. If they do, I wouldn't miss that assembly for all the coffee in Hoke.

DELMER EVANS

by the EVANS FOR BUSINESS MANAGER Committee

Delmer Evans is a married student living in the EOcene courts, and is a scholarship student in elementary education. Delmer is publicity chairman for International Relations Club. He is well known in the city of La Grande, and has several business contacts dowtown. Delmer is also presently employed in a La Grande business.

Delmer Evans was the Unity slate's candidate for the office of Student Business Manager, and if elected to this post, he will strive to carry out that slate's policies. He feels that the one big way to improve the social conditions on campus, as well as the Studet Government, is for the different factions of the studentbody to unite and work together. Delmer also realizes that unity is not the end itself, but merely an means to an end, and that other areas must also be improvement, if this student government is to function smoothly.

Bloomer Game Washed Out

The date of the first Bloomer League game has been postponed until April 22 due to rainy weather, election campaigns, and studious team members. Practice however, is continuing whenever the weather permits and reports are that all three teams are really shaping up.

The April 22 game will see the teams of Hell (Dorion underground) and Heaven (third floor) battling it out to the finish. The winners of this game will then meet Purgatory (Second floor) the following week.

"To the victor goes the spoils" is the motto of the Bloomer League and the winning team of the first game will receive the spoils the following night in the dorm cafeteria. Seems the girls have agreed that the losing team must present their desserts to the winners en masse at 6:15 the evenning after the big game. With stakes like these the game should be quite interesting and we're looking forward to a big turnout to cheer the players on in the "Battle of the Belles."

SPEAKING FRANKLY

By Don Frank

With all the gadgets people have been inventing ,it seems as though someone would come up with something to control the La Grande weather. How can we be expected to have a good baseball or track team if they can't practice? Or maybe we should just invent a new sport! How about instead of a 100 yard dash, having the contestants line up at one end of the track with one water bucket per man and let them go. The man who gets his bucket full first, without dipping any off the ground, wins. Or maybe instead of wearing spicks, the baseball team should be issued life-jackets.

Noticed in a Portland paper where one of the California teams that had dropped out of the PCC said one of the reasons for their dropping was they wanted to play schools of their academic records. Seems to this writer that the Oregon schools have always made their athletes maintain a passing grade or they didn't lay. I can remember when Oregon States had the tallest man in college basketball, and he flunked out of school! Also, I haven't seen any of the Oregon schools being put on probation for paying their players under the board. Maybe instead of criticizing, the California schools should be taking note of what the Oregon schools do.

* * *

With the Major leagues finally invading the West coast, we should see more emphasis put on high school and college baseball in the next few years. In the past, the only way a person could catch one of the big-time scouts eye was to pitch three seasons of no-hit ball or hit above .500 for a few seasons. Now, with them right in our back yard, the coaches will be looking for more than just a "kid to fill the gap at third." They'll be after someone who can field and hit. Then they will train him for more than just the league he is playing in.

Track Team Places Sixth

The EOC track team traveled to Nampa April 12 to compete in the ninth annual Northwest Nazarene college track meet. EOC placed sixth in a field of seven. In the 440 yard dash Don Thompson placed third and Hilton Perkins placed fourth. Gene McKinney placed second in the javelin throwing contest. Denny Winn placed fourth in the discus throw.

The seven colleges that competed were: Whitman of Walla Walla placed first, Weber of Utah placed second, Boise Junior College placed third, Northeast Nazane College took fourth, Ricks placed fifth, EOC held sixth position, and College of Idaho was seventh.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor's statement: "We don't have very many boys out for track this season. All of them that are out are freshmen and Sophomores. If we get a break in the weather I am sure we will improve greatly. There are several boys looking good now and by the end of the season they will be looking very good."

Assembly Draws Crowd

ness manager. Jean said that she would like to have some charge made at the dances so as to leave money for campus activities other than dancing.

Linda Kane was the next campaign manager who introduced Beverly Donovan for the office of secretary. Bev Donovan said that she would like to bring "student government to the students and more students to student government." Marilyn Hilyard, running for secretary on the Unity slate, was introduced by Norm Stoddard. Besides Marilyn Hilyard's platform of "Unity," she felt that the secretary and president of the student-body should be more of a team than at present. Betty Roudebush said that if she were elected as secretary, she would do her best to be as capable as the present secretary, Josie Ward. Myron Carpenter acted as her campaign manager.

Larry DeKalb, of the Unity Slate, was the first candidate for second vice president to speak before the assembly. He felt that there should be closer cooperation between married and single students in student affairs. He also promised that if elected he would see to it that there were more activities that all the students could participate in. His manager was Jane Bell. Campaign manager Myron Carpetner introduced his candidate for the second vice presidency, Mike Ferguson. Mike had three main points to his platform: better publicity for social activities; charging for all formal dances; and more events for the non-dancers. Bob Miller, third candidate for second vice president, wanted to see more coordination between dormitory, married and off-campus students. Don Thompson was his campaign manager.

Dale Gaylord, candidate for the office of first vice president, was introduced to the assembly by Les Edwards. Dale Gaylord said if elected he would advocate a better system of registration, more student participation in campus activities, and close cooperation between the business manager and the various committee chairmen. Jerry Goble introduced Norm Wilson as the Unity slate candidate for first vice president. One of the first things Norm Wilson would attend to if elected would be to make it standard procedure before every election to give each student a voters' pamphlet. Dick O'Connell, introduced by his campaign manager, Bud Lewis, advocated more cooperation between single and married students. Josie Ward, present student-body secretary, was the final candidate presented for the office of first vice president. The main points of her speech were regular meetings of the first vice president with the presidents of the various campus organizations; more student participation in student government; and the development of a better student union .John Rice was Josie Ward's campaign manager.

The last three candidates to speak before the assembly were for the office of student body president. Dick Arends was the first to speak, and his campaign was handled by Darell Nichols. The Unity slate's candidate had five major points to his platform. He would like to see more cooperation between the dormitory and off-campus students and a better understanding between the faculty and student body. He also advocated regular meetings between the student body president and organization presidents, extended library hours, and a more efficient registration policy. Joe Miller, introduced by his campaign manager, Bud Lewis, thanked all the people who were helping him run for office. Harold Moore, the final candidate of the assembly, was presented by his campaign manager, Dick Walker. Harold had a five point platform which he presented to the assembly. His first statement was that he would cooperate with the second vice president to his utmost ability. He said also that he advocated a united student program and a better student union. If elected he would create two committees for the purpose of making a survey of registration procedure in the various colleges of EOC's size, and to find out how to bring the off-campus students toward better participation in school activities.

GEORGE TAYLOR

by GT for Rally Squad Leader

Stating Progress as his platform, George Taylor, candidate for rally squad leader enters the competition with considerable experience, having been yell king and head of the rally squad this junior year in high school, and yell king on the EOC pep team this year.

George is interested in improving the rally group and modernizing the routines, outfits, and types of yells delivered by the squad.

He believes that the system of instilling pep on the campus must be completely re-vamped for the new year.

George hails from Redmond, and is a freshman in Elementary Education.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Election time, again, real hot campus. Remember, YOU have the power to choose who will serve you next year. Use your choice wisely.

Scandal; certain Hunt men have been seen canvasing the new women's residence, Dorion Hall. What they are looking for I don't know, but they have complete blueprints of the place, as well as a list of vantage points to the sun-deck. Humma Humma!

A prediction as to who will win the elections: The Democrats, if this recession doesn't end. Speaking of politics (and the FBI will probably investigate me), they may as well run a donkey against an elephant, one of them may be able to help the economic development.

Time to sign, creature, but remember, if things go as planned, you won't last more than a hundred years.

Biology, Art Departments Show Projects

Exhibits from the Art department and projects from the Biology department will be up for public viewing during this Parents' Weekend. The viewing hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the basement of Hoke Hall, the Administration building and the Walter M. Pierce Library and the main hall of the Ad building. Heads of the departments have released more details concerning these exhibits.

The following is a list of the projects prepared by students in the Biology Department this year. They hope that they are of interest to you, and that you will come and see them. The projects are: Embrology, Aquatic Life, Insects, Skeletons, Taxidermy, Fossils, Earbones, Visual Aids, Charts and Models, and many others. There will be about 175 projects in the basement of the Library and the Biology Lab, in the basement of Hoke Hall. The exhibit will be open to all visitors and guided tours will be given from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. throughout the following week.

The student committees are: General chairman, Mickey Ricker; School Scheduling chairman, Reba Clark and Elvin Taylor; Publicity co-chairman, Karen Edvalson and John Wilmarth; Student Guides co-chairman, Thayle Romine and Frank Mathias; Arrangement co-chairman, Nancy Klomp and Norm Nelson; Sub-chairman, Bob Smith, set-up and Bob Marquis, clean-up.

An Art exhibit will also be held during Parents' Weekend in the halls of the basement and first floor of the Administration building and in the Art Gallery in the basement of the Library. There will be projects in painting, drawing, weaving, and ceramics made by the students of the Art classes this year.

The exhibit will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 10 and we would like to invite all students and parents to attend.

Spicer Sings Old Folk Songs

On May 2, Mr. Earle Spicer, noted authority on ballad singing, gave an hour long presentation to the students and faculty in the EOC auditorium. Mr. Spicer said, "that ballads were century old songs sung by the people for the people." He als said much of the classical music was based on ballad melody, and quite a bit of poetry was based on ballad words.

Some of the ballads and folksongs Mr. Spicer sung were: There Was an Old Woman, The Story of the Golden Vanity, Barbara Allen, the Story of the Little Mohee, That Good Old Mount in Dew, Gilbert and Sullivan's Nightmare song and Frankie and Johnny Were Lovers.

Mr. Spicer also gave the assembly a Shakespeare quiz and called on the male members of the faculty to sing the chorus on a parody of a Gilbert and Sullivan Tune.

Band-Choir Give Enterprise Concert

Eastern Oregon College's band and choir will present an 11:00 concert at Enterprise high school on May 14. Featuring two band-choir combined numbers, "Brigadoon" and "Tamale Joe," the program will be the same as the one given on Parents' Weekend.

Scribe Likes 'Pennypacker'

By LINDA KANE

As I observed opening night of "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," I was impressed by the stage and costumes. The set was representative of the 1890's and lent much to help the audience capture the "feeling" of the play during the first scene, in which an adjustment was difficult. Perhaps part of this lack of communication with the audience can be attributed to opening night; perhaps to failure of the majority of the performance to become a part of the Pennypacker clan.

As the play progressed the audience was drown into the situation with the appearance of Aunt Jane played by Pasty Evans. The complete characterization of Aunt Jane successfully carried throughout the play was further substantiated by George Schoedinger as Grampa Pennypacker. The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker portrayed by Larry DeKalb was well represented and the audience found no difficulty in realizing the personality of this man. Earl DeBok gave a subtely humorous picture of Wilbur Fifield, a young minister and a good representation of the part. The relaxed attitude in the part of Henry Penneypacker as played by Judd Van Gorder provided pleasant enjoyment to the audience and helped the audience, at times, to recapture the spirit of the play. Ron Voetberg as Dr. Fifield, Janet Sanderson as Kate Pennypacker, and Sherril Cockburn as Ma Pennypacker gave efficient performances and were adequately supported by Judy Lutz as Eliabeth, Mary Conklin as Laurie, Les Edwards as the sheriff, Mayben DeGraw as Horace J. Pennypacker III, and Byron Rudishauser as Mr. Quinlan.

Having never been to rehearsals nor even having read the play, my impression of opening night was that the performance went smoothly with no obviously noticable errors. The cast and crew would probably not agree.

THE BIG SIX—The newly elected student body officers for 1958-59 are shown on the Grand Stairway at the north side of the Ad building looking toward a bright future in their respective offices. They are, from left to right, Jean Hunter, business manager; George Taylor, rally squad leader; Bev Donovan, secretary; Larry DeKalb, second vice-president; Josie Ward, frist vice-president; and Harold Moore, president.

Record Vote Elects Moore '58 President

A record 407 students turned out in the final ASB elections to elect Harold Moore, a 20-year-old junior from Madras, Oregon, as ASB president for 1958-59. Other successful candidates in the recent elections were: Josie Ward of Forest Grove, first vice-president; Larry DeKalb of La Grande, second vice-president; Beverly Donovan of Pendleton, secreary; Jean Hunter of Pendleton, business manager; and George Taylor of Redmond, rally squad leader.

The newly elected executive officers, with the exception of the rally squad leader which is no longer a council position, assumed their duties on May 1. Their term of office will last until May 1, 1959.

As close as could be determined the turnout of 407 of the members of the Associated Students, which figured out at a whopping 70.3 per cent of the student body, is the highest figure every reached in an EOC campus election. It is hoped by the incoming officers that this show of interest marks an upturn in interest in stuetn government that might carry over inot all campus activities for the coming year.

WeekendPlans Many, Varied For Parents

Many varied activities are planned for this Parents' Weekend, according to co-chairmen Jean Adamson and Norm Trotter. Committee heads were named during the third week of the term and have been working rapidly toward the completion date of Friday, May 9, today. Although most parents won't arrive until tomorrow, everything is in readiness for those who can make it to La Grande early.

Friday night, the drama department and Sock 'n' Buskin will present the second performance of "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" at 8 p.m. in the College Theater. Mr. Richard G. Hiatt is in charge of the production, and hopes that all parents will attend either the Friday or Saturday night performances.

At 9 a.m. Saturday morning, the Biology, Art and Physical Science exhibits will go on display to the parents. The biology projects will be on display in the basement of Hoke Hall and in the basement of the Library, while the physical science projects will be shown in the lab at the east end of the Administration building. The art projects will be on display at the west end of the basement of the Ad building as well as in the main halls and the Art Gallery in the basement of the Library. These exhibits will remain open until 5 p.m.

From 10 a.m. until 12 noon registration of parents will take place in Walter M. Pierce Library. This registration is under the direction of Kioko Yamada. At last report Theta Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Chi were planning to hold a joint coffee hour for members and their parents during that time.

The EOC Band will hold its luncheon in Hoke Hall during the noon hour. This traditional event is for all band members, parents and alumni of the band. During the luncheon the winners of the EOC Band and John Phillip Sousa awards for the most outstanding band members will be announced, according to Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis, director.

Neil Wilson and Dr. Lewis will share honors with the EOC Choir and Band when those two organizations hold forth in concert at 2:30 p.m. in the College Theater. Several popular numbers are planned with two joint band-choir productions scheduled.

Hoping for good weather, Mrs. Dorothy Winters, faculty adviser for Parents' Weekend has scheduled the annual Barbecue for Mountaineer Stadium, south of the Ackerman Training School. However, if the also traditional rains put in their appearance, the proceedings will be moved indoors where the IK pledges will be able to perform in the comparative dryness of the Gym. Jean Damon and Jerry Goble are the students in charge of plans for the Barbecue.

Saturday night will see another performance of "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," at 8 p.m. in the theater. Immediately following the play, a coffee hour will be held in the dining room of Hunt Hall, with Carol Patrick and Phyllis Collins serving as co-hostesses.

Jan Robertson and Betty Roudebush are serving as co-chairmen for the Parents' Weekend Breakfast to be held in Hoke Hall at 8 a.m. Sunday, May 11. Dr. Frank E. Bennett, president of EOC, will speak and entertainment will be provided by Jan Robertson and a clarinet duet, Elvin Taylor and Gary Dehlman. Following the breakfast, students and parents can attend the church of their choice, or do whatever they wish.

Welcome, Parents!

Hello Mom, Dad, how are you?" That should be a familiar phrase around the EOC campus this weekend, the annual Parents' Weekend. Each year, Parents' Weekend is held in conjunction with Mother's Day.

We of the Beacon staff would like to take this opportunity to welcome all the parents of the EOC students who have taken time out to come to our campus and visit with their offspring in what has become their natural habitat for about nine months of the year. We realize that your time is valuable and you would like to spend as much of it with your sons and daughters as you can. However, all the activities have been planned with you in mind, and we hope you will attend as many of them as possible so that you may get the true picture of college life as we know it. There are several activities planned, so you will have a wide choice of activities.

Support Evensong

Evensong time is again fast approaching us! This year, as in years past, it appears that the turnout of Eastern Oregon College students, specifically the male of the specie might be low. If so, one of the oldest and best-loved traditions at EOC will be on the brink of plummeting into the vast chasm of discarded EOC events.

Last year, only six freshman boys participated in the activities which this year are scheduled for June 9. I hate to admit that fact, being a member of the class, but I can agree, after having looked around at the various assemblies during which we practiced the traditional songs. Perhaps it is the time for these assemblies to which the non-participants object, but that does not seem too plausible an excuse, because most of those who cannot be bothered to join the rest of us usually spend that free time in their pastime—doing nothing. This may sound somewhat harsh, but then, the truth always hurts.

When one analyzes the situation, it is fairly easy to see that the time spent in assembly will not impose too greatly into the study time of most EOC students. Not only that, but the time spent is for a very good cause. If the lack of participation is as great this year as it was last, there is a very good chance that the faculty advisers will cease to give their support to this very worthwhile event. Surely if they can give up some of their free time to help us, we can reciprocate and cooperate with them.

Those of you on campus who have not participated in this activity before have a really thrilling experience before you. Just ask the Juniors and Seniors for confirmation of this fact. Don't bother about the greater majority of the Sophomores, they wouldn't know! In addition, you can ask the Alumni of Eastern Oregon College. It is fairly certain that they will tell you they feel Evensong is one of the most highly treasured memories of EOC.

In conclusion, I can only say, Support Evensong!

Riddle Me This: Name the TV star, the radio-TV columnist, the TV producer and the TV correspondent who share the ownership of the gelding Cutpurse, now running in New York. (Answer: Arlene Francis, John Crosby, Les Midgelly, and Charles Collingwood.) . . . Those TV performers who wail when they have to work twice a month in a play bore me. Evidently they have never heard of Sabiha, the Pakistani motion picture star, who works in 12 pictures simultaneously! . . . Numismatists the country over have been calling our attendtion to the fact that Steverino, the greyhound on the Steve Allen show, who is a philatelist, might be interested in the fact that a coin of the acient Roman Republic, issued about 50 BC., by the Postumius family, shows the head of Diana on the obverse . . . and a running greyhound on the reverse! . . . Calling All Gourmets: among the courses served at the 12th annual Awards Dinner of the Mystery Writers of America were Clammed-Up Chowder, Schnitzel a la Holster, and Limb Stew en Casserole! And, speaking of mysteries, most every TV personality around is reading Macdonald Hastings' enchanting book, "Cork in the Doghouse." Shirley Temple is also in the book news. 'The Shirley Temple Storybook," a collection of classic stories, makes its bow in the bookstores on September 25th with an initial send-off of 75,000 copies! . . . It's getting so nowadays that one doesn't know whether a clothing store or a recording emporium for men's wear. You see, the singles coming out today deal in the main with articles of apparel and accessories. Like "Black Knee Socks"; "Blue Bow Tie"; "Six Button Benny"; "Leather Jacket"; —and "High School Sweater"! . . . Making mention of discs reminds us that the RCA-Victo recording of "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," by Jerome Hines, is the top selling religious number in the country. It was written by Geoffrey O'Hara. (You old-timers will instantly recall that Geoff wrote "K-K-K-Katy" long ago and far away.)) . . . Next time you're around Croton Lake, N.Y., watch out for Mrs. Lucas' "Ground Floor," a hotel where all the rooms are above it! It's the away-from-it-all hiding place for a flock of New York telepersonalities as well as Hollywood celebs who go there to learn their lines when booked in Manhattan for TV personal appearances!

Ball And Chain Have Pancakes

The Ball and Chain Club, composed of the married studens of EOC, met in Hoke Hall May 3, for a pancake feed. In the kitchen, such world renowned chefs as Dale Vaught, Leroy Garlands, Bob Barrett, and many others performed their usual talented bit. They turned out pancakes, sausages, and coffee enough for all.

After everyone finished eating, the children were chaiend in another room with the baby sitters, and a short business meeting followed. During elections, Bob Barrett was elected as Vice-president and Beryl Anderson was elected secretary for the coming year.

As the people left Hoke, each family was issued one buckwheat and one sour-dough pancake to be used as tire patching, door mat, pin cushion, or for any other utilitarian purpose. All in all, evcryone left.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Feel free to express your opinions. In keeping with the Beacon's policy, writers of letters may request that their names be withheld, or may use a pseudonym. However, all letters must be signed.

Editor's Note: This is a letter from the sixth period Junior College Prep English class.

—o—

Dear College Children: ....

We are aware of the advanced age and regressed mentalities of some of those students who are so eager to learn the alphabet that they must build "O's" from "L's".

Such behavior as this is not expected of the High School students, much less of college students. If this is the mental tone of EOC students, have we any reason for attending this college? Have we any gain to make by attending EOC?

If as much energy were displayed in your studying as was displayed in trying to change our "L", your college would rank second to none in the nation, scholastically. As we understand it, your reason for being in EOC is poverty. If this is not true show us that you have learned consideration as well as subject matter by leaving our "L" alone.

We would like to see you grow up so we are asking the editor of this paper to print the alphabet. ("L" comes before "O" in the alphabet as it does on Table Mountain.)

Yours sincerely,
6th Junior College Prep class.

Dear Editor:

I certainly hope that the new Student Council has more of what it takes, when making tough decisions than do some of the members of the old council. I refer to the action taken by the old council with respect to their decision to pay the La Grande High School Letterman's Club $20 for the restoration of the "L" on the hill. However, six of the old council felt that the college did not owe the high school anything. Rather, that the EOC students responsible for the face lifting should make restoration. I commend the action taken by those six who voted against paying, and at the same time am curious to know why the other seven voted to use part of my money to pay for damages done by the few supposedly "young adult" college students.

Other "young adult" college students have caused the college to shell out money for their actions on campus. As a part-time maintenance man I have often had to assist in repairing some of this damage. I refer to such things as cleaning broken glass from sink traps, trying to keep the inter-com in the dorms working, which is difficult at best when phones are torn from walls, and replacing the outside glass in the street lamps. For each replacement glass for the street lights the college puts out about $20.00. I have personally aided in replacing four of these glasses, and have noted that at least three more should be replaced. At $20.00 a "shot," that amounts to quite an added light bill. While not all of these broken street lamps can be attributed to the action of college students, certainly some of them can. And certainly the destruction of dorm property can be laid right at the feet of our own students.

There are those persons who know they are responsible for these destructive acts, but evidently are reluctant to come forward because society frowns on a stool-pigeon. However, the difference between being a stool-pigeon and not, is often times the mature realization of respect for another's property.

Music Notes

By KAREN McGILLIVRAY

After an absence of several weeks, "Music Notes" is here again to plague you. I don't know what the qualification are for writing this column. Apparently they include being a member of the band (clarinet section of course where the columnist is within easy reach of the tympanist's stick) and having the name Karen. Anyhow, here goes.

First the news from the faculty.

Mr. E. Lyle McMullen served as an adjudicator for the piano solo division of the Idaho Region 2 (Southern Idaho) Music Festival in Twin Falls April 25. The piano selo adjudicator for the Eastern Oregon Music Competition held here on campus that same weekend, was Adelaide Wayne from Boise, Idaho. Must be a moral in that, somewhere.

Mr. McMullen's Senior and Junior High pupils will give a recital May 20 at 8:00 p.m. in the Auditorium. Everyone is welcome, and your attendance will be rewarded with an evening of fine piano music.

The faculty recital this coming Wednesday will feature, I'm sure, polished and pleasing performances. BUT, I can't help but be disappointed when I see that the Male Faculty Glee Club has been slighted. Surely after their performance at the last assembly, they couldn't be considered as anything less than experienced.

Speaking of the assembly, evidently EOC's appreciative reaction to balladeer Earl Spicer's folk music is one shared by others. Newsweek, May 5, reports that foreign newspapermen on a U.S. visit, treated to country music favorites such as "Mountain Dew" called forth enthusiastic comments. A typical one—"Jolly good," from a London correspondent.

In closing a word to the bopsters. Remember—this is National Be Kind to Beethoven Week.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Well, now, you jolly things, how were the mid-terms. My guess would be that many of us discovered the hot weather takes its toll.

Ninety for the baseball team. Coach Quinn has a winning group out there this year. If they aren't careful, EOC will win a conference championship this year hands down.

Speaking of sports on the campus, what happened to the bloomer league, lose their bloomers? Tennis seems to have kept its standard number of students out of classes. It could be a better game if the court didn't resemble gravel pits.

This is Parents' Weekend, and the committee in charge has gone all out to provide a good time for our visiting parents. Let's all cooperate in any way we can. Don't miss the Bar-B-Q tomorrow, the I.K.s are having a jousting contest for your entertainment. Donkeys and pillows.

The men are working frantically, trying to complete their Biology projects for today. HUNT smells like an operating room, with chunks of skin, dead animals and birds, and numerable bones scattered about the rooms and halls. You should have seen the Sunday night mob coming back from home early to work on their Psychology papers last week. I could hear the clickity-click of typers and would-be typers until the wee hours.

Freshman English papers should all be in by now, where's yours?

With all the big projects due this week or next, it would seem that the load would be lighter for the rest of the term, but wait and see, creatures.

Hakim—over and out.

Mountaineers Ball Club Sweeps Viking Series

Eastern Oregon College swept a three game series from Portland State College Friday and Saturday to tie Southern Oregon College for first place in the Oregon Collegiate conference baseball race.

The leaders have 6-0 records.

The Mountaineers defeated the Portland State 9, 4-3; 2-1; and 11-2.

The game Friday was tied 3-3 in the 10th-inning when Dick Clemens doubled and scored on a throwing error.

EOC scored twice on three hits in the second and once in the sixth as Dick Quinn trpiled and and scored on an error.

The Viks' three runs came in the eighth, one three singles, a walk, and a sacrifice.

In the first game Saturday, Rudy Clements pitched a six-hitter for EOC and won his own game with a fourth-inning single scoring John Willmarth.

EOC exploded for five runs in the opening inning of the second contest. Terry Zigenhagen, the first batter, singled and then Dick Clemens tripled. The third hitter, Dick Quinn, hit a home run and from that point on the outcome was never in doubt.

Friday's scores:

PSC 000 000 030 0/3	6	4
Lave and Harding.
EOC ....020 001 000 1—4	7	3

Mounties Lose Invitational

The EOC invitational meet with Whitman College was held here April 30. We had the misfortune of losing the meet 90 2/3 to 42 1/3. The individual results are as follows:

440 yard dash—Hilton Perkins first with a time of 51.3 and Don Thompson third with a time of 51.7.

880 yard dash—Pat Cawood placed second with a time of 2:-07.6.

One mile run—Gary Holmes placed second, his time was 5:13.1. Chuck Berry placed third with 5:22.

Low hurdles—Wayne Seim held third position with a time of 28:-05.

Javelin—Gene McKinney first with 172 feet, 3½ inches.

Shot put—Gene McKinney second with 38 feet, 5 inches.

Bob Salters third with 38 feet, 4 inches.

Discus—Denney Winn placed first with 119 feet, 11¾ inches.

Pole vault—Tie for first between Ted Miller and Dean Kennedy at 10 feet, 1 inch.

High jump—Ted Miller tied for third at 5 feet, 6 inches.

Two mile run—Chuck Berry second, his time was 11:49.7. Dean Kennedy third with 13:01.6.

Hilton Perkins broke the Oregon Collegiate Conference record in the 440 yard dash by .2 of a second. Don Thompson was only .2 seconds off the record so we should do very well at the conference May 23 and 24. This record doesn't count for it has to be at a conference meet to constitute a record. However, nobody else has broke the record this season so good luck to you Hilton and Don.

EOC Sweeps OTI Series

Eastern Oregon College came from a 2-1 deficit in their first OCC baseball game to defeat OTI 3-2 as Jerry Mellinger bunted Whitey Chase in from third with the score tied at 2-2 in the seventh and last inning of play.

EOC got off to a good start in the third inning as Terry Zigenhagen singled, moved to second on a wild pitch, then was singled home by Dick Clements. OTI came back in the fourth to score one run on Jim Cox's single. OTI scored again in the fifth when Davison was hit by a pitched ball, moved to second on an error, then scored on a long fly ball.

Then came the last of the seventh with the home lads trailing by one run. Doug Minthorn reached first on an error, Whitey Chase singled Minthorn in after he had moved to second on a pass ball. Then Pitcher Mellinger squeezed Chase home from third to win the ball game.

Dick Clemens, EO catcher, led all EOC hitters with a single and double.

First Game:	R	H	E
EOC .....001 000 2—3	5	5
OTI .....000 101 0—2	4	1

Batteries: Mellinger and Clemens: Hesner and Wilson.

SECOND GAME

In the second game of the doubleheader, the two teams battled to a 7-7 dead lock at the end of the regular game, and went into the ninth before the Mounties could come up with the winning run. Whitey Chase walked, moved to second on a fly, and came home when Dick Clemens drilled a single into center field.

EOC tallied the first run of the contest in the first, added five more in the sixth, and one in the seventh. OTI was shut out until the sixth when they picked up three and four more in the seventh.

Second Game	R	H	E
EOC .....100 005 101—8	11	2
OTI .....000 003 400—7	8	5

Batteries: Clements, Willmarth (6) and Hansen: Rauch and Allessio. Winning pitcher: Willmarth.

SPEAKING FRANKLY

EOC HAS A WINNING BALL TEAM!!! No foolin'. The baseball club is right at the top of the OCC standings after whipping OTI and Portland State three times each. At the time this column was written, the standings were not available, but SOC was on top, unbeaten in six with EOC right behind unbeaten in four.

In the Portland series, two of the game were won by one run, and in the OTI series, two of the games were won by one run. Also, two of the games went into extra innings, and both times the Mounties have pulled it out of the fire.

One noticable thing is the club can hit in the clutch. When the chips are down, they are able to come through with some hits.

—o—

I've seen some mighty fast men run the 100 yard dash and some pretty good ones run the 200, but I've never seen anyone as fast as Jim Puckett. There is something moret han being able to run 100 yards in :09.5 that makes a good athlete. What it is, I'm not too sure, but I think it has something to do with attitude towards people. One thing I would like to mention, I've never met Jim Puckett.

I got to wondering haw a young man with as much publicity as he has had would act when a person he didn't know congratulated him. I figured he would be so conceited he would just look at me with a "don't you wish you were as good as I am" look.

I waited until the perfect time to do it. He had just fimished the relays. Cove was running next to last when he took the baton as anchor man, and he couldn't make up the ground. I started to walk up to hi, but his Dad beat me. Then the sprinter gained one more fan when he said.

"Dad, I just couldn't catch them.

But I walked up to him anyway. I spoke to him, he looked at me and smiled, slapped me on the shoulder, and thanked me. Not with a half hearted laugh, but with real meaning. That is the mark of a person who deserves to be good, one who has the right attitude.

—o—

Read not too long ago where the girls of the dorm have started a bloomer league and one of the teams challenged anyone who would play them.

The wives of the married men promptly got together, got them a coach, and started practicing to take the challenge. They now have a full fledged softball team, they have challenged two of the teams, and will challenge the other. The understaning I got was they wanted to make it a four team league.

—o—

Noticed during one of the ball games that one of the EOC ball players kept spitting. I though for a while he had a bug in his mouth, but then I came to the startling conclusion he was chewing "Bubble Gum." I'll not miss a game now! I'll always be waiting for a foul tip to hit the mask and knock that wad down his throat. (Not that I'm morbid or anything, I'd just like to watch it).

Bloomer Gals Set Contests

News has reached the Beacon office that the games scheduled for last Tuesday night were played as planned. Purgatory (Second Floor) beat the Ball and Chain Club 7-5, while Heaven (Third) trounced Hell (Basement) 19-7 in 3½ innings at which time the game was called.

Busy schedules plus the added load of mid-term tests last week once more necessitated postponement of the Bloomer League opener formerly scheduled for April 28. The new date for this game between Heaven and Hell (third and basement teams) has been set for Tuesday, May 5 at 6:00 p.m. on the Ackerman softball field. VIP of the League, Marilyn Hilyard, says this game "definitely will take place come rain, hail, sleet or a World Lit. test."

At the present time there are only three teams in the League and they are all from Dorion Hall. The Ball and Chain Club, however, have reported a joint effort to set up a women's team for this league. The women will be coached by several of their husbands, while the rest of the male population in Stork's Acre will be organized as a cheering section.

A definite schedule of games has not yet been possible due to the weather but the three dormitory games will be played this week with the top team meeting the married gals next week. There should be some pretty stiff competition now, because those married girls have had lots of practice at throwing.

EOC Students In Concert

Sunday, April 27 saw the third and final concert of the season by the Grande Ronde Symphony, and featured four Eastern Oregon The Symphony, under the direction of Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis, played a program of selections ranging from classical to modern popular numbers.

The opening piece was the "Waltz from the Opera Eugene Onegin" by Tschaikowsky. It was followed by a modern number by Samuel Barber, "Essary for Orchestra." EOC students, Barbara Myer and Alice Edvalson were featured in the third number of the program, "Brandenburg Concerto No. 4 in G Major," by J. S. Bach. They were part of a trio Barbara playing the violin and Alice the flue. The third member was the Symphony's first flutist, Lee Atkinson.

After intermission the Orchestra returned to play another modern number, "Mediterranean Fresco" by Paul Durand. Le Roy Anderson's "Sandpaper Ballet" was was next on the program, with sandpaper solos played by Ray Dunn and Mike Ferguson. The third number in the second half of the program was "The Song from Moulin Rouge" by Georges Auric. Selections from Richard Rodgers' "The King and I" rounded out the afternoon's scheduled presentation. However, the group played "Laura" by David Raksin for the encore number.

Several other EOC students participated in the concert. They were: Carol Van Blokland, cello; Phil W. Cuthbert and Sonia Tubbs, string bass; Virginia Wellington, flute; Shirley Hall, bass clarinet; Dan Tucker and John Wagner, trumpet; Clarinel Anglin, French horn; Dave Skeen and Pat Morton, trombone; and Richard Oesterling, tuba.

'58 Evensong Proceedings Made Known

Evensong Queen will be crowned on the Grand Staircase June 9 as underclassmen dedicate to her, her court and her fellow graduates "Queen of the Mountain" and other traditional EOC songs.

The queen, a senior chosen for scholarship, beauty, personality, and her contribution to the college, is to be selected at the Evensong Assembly June 4. At that time the student body will be presented with the finalists as chosen by the student-faculty committee. Voting will take place immediately following the girls' speeches and the results will be announced at the end of the assembly. The remaining finalists will comprise the Evensong Court.

After her official crowning at the Evensong, the Queen will present the traditional speech to graduating seniors and present them with their torches as they file down the stairs to the area below. They will then form a line to receive the congratulations of parents, townspeople, faculty, and fellow students.

The schedule for the program and its preparation includes:

May 26—First rehersal of songs.

June 2—Second rehearsal

June 4, Evensong Assembly and election of Evensong Queen.

June 9, Practice of procedure and songs in the morning Evensong.

Officers Attend PSPA Confab

Four EOC student body officers, Josie Ward, Beverly Donovan, Harold Moore, and Steve Johnson, attended the 1958 Pacific Students Presidents Convention at the University of Oregon May 7-10.

One-hundred eighty student leaders from colleges and universities in eleven western states and British Columbia were present in Eugene to participate in this annual convention which has two expressed purposes; to foster friendly relations between the member schools and the officers of these schools, and to discuss the various problems confronting student governments in the various schools. The four days were packed with discussion groups, luncheons and banquets, business meetings, and a variety of activities such as water skiing and sailing, dancing and canoe racing on the U. of Oregon millrace.

This year's convention marked Ward's and Johnson's second appearance at the annual affair while Donovan and Moore were attending their first. All but Johnson are incoming executive officers for 1958-59 Johnson was participating in the convention this year in the role of a discussion leader. His topic was "Problems of Incoming Presidents."

Band-Choir Party At Wallowa Lake

Wallowa Lake was the site of an outing held by EOC's band and choir Wednesday, May 14, as a climax to a busy season of appearances. A concert for the student body of Enterprise High School had started the proceedings for the day.

Approximately 70 band and choir members and their directors, L. Rhodes Lewis and Neil Wilson, spent the afternoon playing softball, football, boating, swimming and eating. After everyone was thoroughly tired out, the group retired to the Eidleweiss dance hall where they danced to a juke box and a group of band members who held jam sessions from time to time.

At 10 p.m., the group assembled and returned to La Grande in two chartered buses, arriing at the college abotu 12 midnight.

Essylton Plays For IK Ball

"Castles in the Air" plus "heavenly music" by Rod Essylton and his band, set the scene for the Saber-I.K. semiformal ball on Friday evening, May 16. Interesting decorations consisting of a blue and white background surrounding the queens' thorne, I.K. shields, axes, Saber emblems, and a uniquely built castle mounted over the fireplace completed the theme.

Feature of the evening was the crowning of the I. K. Sweetheart LaVone Tuck by I. K. Duke, Al Parent. A crown of white flowers and a bouquet of pink carnations were presented to La Von during intermission.

Guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hiatt, Dr. and Mrs. Doug Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wilson.

The "Prologue from "Pagliacci"' by Leoncavallo was theh first number performed by Mr. Wilson, accompanied by Mr. McMullen. Wherefore Wert Thou?

Throughout the campaigns for student body officers this year, there was a great hue and cry for more coordinated participation between students who live on campus and those who live off campus. This was especially pushed by the candidates backed by the married students. In addition, the revised EOC student body constitution changed the representation system from one of representatives-at-large to one representative from men living off campus, one from women living off campus and one from the EOCene courts in addition to the on campus representatives.

However, during recent petitioning for these representative positions, only two petitions were turned in, one from the men and one from the women. There were none from the courts! Yet these people seemed to be pushing hardest for off campus representation. What reasons can be given for the failure of this supposedly interested group to bother to petition any names for their representatives? Could it be inefficiency on the part of their leaders, or has the group suddenly grown disinterested?

According to reports from a reliable source, the constituition of the newly-reorganized Ball & Chain Club provides that their president shall be the representative, with a vote, in the Eastern Oregon College student council. However, since the Ball and Chain Club encompasses those married students not living in EOCene courts, this is in direct conflict with the EOC constitution as revised by this year's student council. To further darken the picture the leader of the Ball and Chain Club is an ex-student council member and should have been aware of the provisions of the constitution.

The elections for this office were held after press deadline, so as yet, no results are known. However, unless an extensive campaign for write-in votes was made, it appears that the EOCene courts will be without the representative in student council they feel they need so badly. Perhaps they are just getting what they deserve if they do not care enough to get leaders who will look into the legal aspects of electing their representatives. Maybe the constitution should again be revised to insure election of a representative with the possibility of the total loss of that representative vote if all qualifications are not met. MF

Memorial Day was first observed in 1869 by members of the Grand Army of the Republic at the command of General John A. Logan. It was set up to honor the dead of the Civil War. Since then it has become a day to honor every person who has passed away.

One big problem which Memorial Day creates is that every year the traffic fatalities increase, thereby adding to the dead to be honored. This year as we travel to our homes for this holiday, let us remember to try not to add our names to the list.

Girls' Dorm Hours Extended For Term

Adjustments suggested by the Dorion Hall Standards Committee concerning the dormitory regulations of hours and late leaves were recently approved by Mrs. Winters, Dean of Women and Mrs. Hoyt, Dorion Hall House Mother. The seniors will have late leave privileges unrestricted in number and not limited to specified nights. Late leaves will be restricted to the nights of Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday for all other students.

Students whose GPA for the previous term was 2.5 or better were granted a maximum of eight late leaves per term. Those whose GPA for the previous term was less than 2.5 will be granted only the former three late leaves. This will be the standard for first-term freshmen until their scholastic standings can be established for their second term.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Listen, dear children, as I render my speil, of dear old Jean Hunter and her writing appeal. She has none, that is clear, she can't write worth a darn, her spelling's the worse and her column lacks charm. We'll dispense with the matter, no more to be said, just one last good dig, Dorion's column is dead!

Mother's day cards were out just previous to the Happy sunday, and the blue color gave everyone a dimmer outlook for some time.

Some weather. At least it has aided the intramural softball (not to mention the "bloomer league"). Speaking of the panty bunch, where are they? The bloomers, I mean. All I see are peddle pushers,, shorts, and wranglers, not a recent pair of bloomers in sight. Good case of false advertising.

Ponder this: only two more weeks of school, and one of those is a week of finals. ooo-eee-ooo-aaa-aaa-looks like we are going to have a garpie of a time.

At long last, the term papers are in, the Bio projects have had the course, all the birds are hunted, so let us look to the future, to what may well be the turning points in many of our lives — FINALS!

The school picnic was a success-a dry success. It was well attended, the day was pleasant, there were loads of things to do and at last we ate the rest of the Bar-B-Q.

You may expect something unusual in this column next time the paper comes out. LOOK FOR IT!

Ten-four

...And There

by Donovan

Elections are booming on every campus and as usual, the races for the offices are much like those here at EOC. Some new ideas are being suggested in their platforms which we might find helpful on our campus.

The Whitman College Pioneer in publishing the regulations and qualifications desirable in election campaigns included the following points which we might find interesting or useful: one picture and a list of the qualifications of each candidate were posted in one central area; an open forum was held before the primary elections to enable students to question candidates on their platforms; and each candidate was allowed one column in the school paper in which to further express himself.

Both SOC and OTI have in the past made use of a "Council's Corner" and a "President's Corner" in the newspaper respectively in which student couuncil business and ideas were discussed and explained.

Another method of promoting student participation in government has been used effectively by the SOC student in their opinion polls. These included such questions as: Are student council meetings open to students?; Should the student union be left open during assemblies?; Should the hours of the library be extended on weekends?; Is dormitory food and service satisfactory?; and where does the student council get its money?

At Boise Junior College this term, preparations are being made for a spring term television production, "A Well Remembered Voice." All students were eligible for the tryouts and as many as possible will run the production.

The Linfield campus recently sponsored a Parents' Weekend, "COD" (Come on Down). This was only their second year in the carrying out of this function. Their program included classes for the guests, panel discussions, a style show of campus fads, and the preentation of "Mikado," the well known Gilbert and Sullivan musical.

Dear Editor,

As I read through the May 9 Beacon I received yesterday, my attention was drawn to the "Support Evensong" editorial. I was disturbed when I realized the seriousness of the attendancee situation. So often we take our school, its impressive traditions, and beautiful campus for granted. Believe me, there is nothing more exciting than planning a trip back to visit your college. You may start planning the first of May how to get away from anatomy and bacteriology long enough to get to La Grande for EOC's Evensong, then you remember the uncooperativeness and indifference shown toward Evensong practices and you realize how little there is holding this significant tradition together.

It may not mean much to you now but when you leave EOC you will want to come back to a college which you are proud of because of its meaningful traditions, a college with enthusiastic, interested, alive students. Students who are not only preparing for a richer, more useful life through education but students who have enough maturity and insight to realize EOC is giving them something beside a formal education. She is giving them tradition, which they can enjoy now and for the rest of their lives. Students of EOC, you have an obligation to your College, maintain and improve Evensong, make it something you will want to return to someday with your family and friends.

Sincerely yours,

To The Editor:

We realize that campaign platforms are not to be taken too seriously, but we would like to have a matter concerning "student-participation" brought to the attention of the newly elected student council. There were differences in all of the campaign platforms in the past election, but one point they were all in agreement with was more participation in student activities by off-campus students.

If this is the desire of the administration and student council then why, may we ask, were off-campus students being turned away from the Coffee Hour at 10 p.m. Saturday night on May 10th? We do not know if other students encountered the same situation as we did but after having seen the play Saturday night we went over to the dorm dining room for some coffee and were told by Mrs. Miller, Supervisor of Dormitories, that unless we had our parents with us we were not allowed inside. The schedule printed for Parents Weekend started, "10p.m.—Coffee Hour in Dormitory Dining Room for all college students and their guests." Now, many students were able to have their parents here for Parents Weekend but what about the students whose parents live to far away to come, or the students such as veterans, the majority of non-reisdent off-campus students, who are no longer so closely dependent on their parents? Are these people any less students of EOC? Obviously they must be if we are to accept what happened on Saturday night.

We do not feel that this can be tossed off as a mistake or error as Mrs. Miller is in a position of authority on campus and was very clear in her statement made to us. We off-campus students are as much for student participation as the rest of the on-campus students, but can you blame us for perhaps being a little cynical about "student participation" when doors are shut in our faces?

John H. Hall

Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

At ease, fans — this column hasn't been discontinued. It's just that the editor thought it only fair to give Hakim a chance for a few issues. However, due to popular demand, Doodles is now back to stay and Taylor will just have to stand the competition. (Or perhaps he'll turn to poetry since he's done very little in the way of prose.)

This spring weather has hit Dorion with a bang. Many of the gals are spending their leisure hours sun-bathing and quite a few have acquired that rosy glow that results from over-exposure. Pardon the pun, but there are many "burned-up" coeds roaming this hollow hall.

With term papers and science projects safely in the hands of their learned professors, Dorionites began planning for next year by electing new house officers. Next year's prexy will be Marge Talbot (famous for her umpire handling ability). Assisting her in her official duties will be Marg Preston, vice-president; Nancy Swanson, secretary; and Nina Belshee, treasurer. Congrats, gals; hope you have a successful year!

Have you noticed the frequent treks across campus to the site of our new dorm being made by the future inhabitants of said building? Most Dorionites have made two or three tours of inspection through this latest campus addition and agree that uniformity seems to be the keyword of the architects. It brings to mind a row of houses built from the same plan—if the girls aren't extremely room-number conscious next year they may wake up some morning to find they've spent the night in their neighbor's identical room. Another thing they all agree on, though, is that those huge windows all over the place will really be terrific. Actually, we're all quite anxious to see the finished product and will be glad to be the first ones in that new dorm.

Incidently, word is out that Mrs. Hoyt will no longer be Dorion's head drill master next year. She hasn't said what her plans are but we hope her future occupation will be a bit more peaceful. Seriously, I'm sure every one of us will miss her next year.

Last weekend proved to be the greatest for that old tradition of EOC called "suitcasism." The dorm was almost bare all weekend! There was one staunch Dorionite who proved her loyalty though. Boopsie Bell refused to leave the dorm for a minute all weekend. Come now, Boopsie, isn't that called loyalty above and beyond the call of duty? One would think you were campused or something!

To Hakim: George, I had an extremely descriptive poem composed about you for this edition, but after much though I've realized every one of our readers already know all I could say about you. However, the same doesn't hold true about me so let's just let sleeping dogs lie. O.K.?

EOC Blood Drawing Falls 48 Pints Short

"Considering the ratio of students enrolled, the girls responded more wholeheartedly than did the boys," was Dr. George Nightingale's comment on the Red Cross blood drawing held in Hoke Hall April 30 from 10-4. The drawing fell 48 pints short of the 150 pint quota set by the Red Cross.

Dr. Nightingale felt this failure to meet the quota was due to several misconceptions about the use of the bood as well as the function of the Red Cross. He pointed out that last year Union County drew almost as many pints of blood from the Boise Blood Bank as were donated by the people of this county. He also explained that the approximate price of $13 per pint charged to the recipient of Red Cross blood was not for the blood but for the cost involved in processing and administering the blood. All of the nurses who worked on the drawing were unpaid volunteers.

Concerning the tendency of veterans to refuse blood to the Red Cross due to pervious experiences with the organization, Dr. Nightingale said that the Red Cross has a standing invitation for veterans to present their grievances in the form of a petition to any Red Cross office and they will be glad to reimburse those veterans who had to pay for other Red Cross goods or services. He said the Red Cross is anxious to clear up these misunderstandings and will be glad to cooperate with the veterans in doing so.

In further comment on the recent drawing, Dr. Nightingale expressed his appreciation of the services volunteered by the Sabers and IK's. Sabers provided canteen workers, receptionists, and nurses aids to help in the actual drawing, and the IK's were on hand to set up and dismantle the Red Cross equipment.

The following people are EOC students and faculty who donated blood at the April 30 drawin:

James Perry, Nancy Klomp, Jacquie Blackwell, Karen Edvalson, Bev Donovan, Duane Epling, Judy Tonack, Judd VanGorder, Karen Jacobson, Dale Klitz, Alice Edvalson, Liz Baumeister, Millie Smith, Norm Nelson, Susan Latta, Bill Lewis, Lynette Pershall.

EO Trackmen Compete Twice

The Eastern Oregon College track team traveled to Walla Walla May 10 to compete in the Whitman college invitational. EOC placed fourth in the meet.

The results of the meet are as follows: In the javelin Gene McKinney placed fifth. Don Thompson placed fourth in the 880 yard dash Hilton Perkins nailed down a first in the 440 yard dash. In the two mile run Chuck Berry took fifth. The EOC relay team, composed of Don Thompson, Hilton Perkins, Pat Cawood and Gary Holmes, placed first by two other teams disqualifying.

May 15 a dual meet between Northwest Nazarene College and Eastern Oregon was held on the college track. EOC lost the meet 69 9/10 to 61 1/10.

The results are as follows: In the 100 yard dash Milke Smith placed second and Don Thompson held down third position. Mike Smith placed second and Hilton Perkins third in the 220 yard dash. In the 440 yard dash Hilton Perkins placed first with a time of 52.5 seconds. Don Thompson placed second in the 880 yard dash. Gary Holmes held second position in the mile run. In the high hurdles Wayne Seim placed second. In the discus throw Denny Winn placed first with a distance of 122' 3½" while Gene McKinney was third. EOC controlled the throwing of the shot with Gene McKinney, Bob Salters, and Chuck Berry placing first, second, and third respectively. Gene McKinney and Don Thompson placed first and second in the javelin. In the pole vault Dean Kennedy and Ted Miller tied for first at 10 feet. Miller, Perkins ,and Thompson tied for third in the high jump. Perkins tied for third in the broad jump. Berry placed first and Cawood third in the two mile run. NNC aced the EOC relay team out by a few steps in the mile relay.

The EOC track team left May 23 for Ashland to compete in the Oregon Collegiate Conference track meet.

EOC's hopes were shattered as far as records were concerned, but several of the boys brought home the honors in their events. The results of the conference meet will be in the next paper.

Hell Captures Bloomer Lead

Hell, Dorion's underground team, captured the lead position in the Bloomer League April 23 when they proved victorious over Second floor's Purgatory (0-0). The same evening saw Heaven slip into a second place tie with Ball & Chain when the married gals defeated them (0-0.)

Six other regularly scheduled League games have been played during the mid-weeks of April with fair weather prevailing. April 6 saw Third floor's Heaven trounce Hell in a three inning game by a score of 17-9. Second floor's Purgatory also proved top-dog the same evening when they squeezed out the Ball & Chain team 7-5. Other games played April 13 and 15 were: Hell vs. Ball & Chain 28-1; Heaven vs. Purgatory 8-6; Hell vs. Purgatory 19-12; and Ball & Chain vs. Heaven 12-8.

The next Bloomer League games scheduled for Thursday, April 27 will feature the top team, Hell, pitted against second place Heaven, while Purgatory challenges Ball & Chain in an attempt to leave that unpopular cellar position.

Although no team can claim any extremely skilled members, none of them are lacking in team spirit. Both games played April 15 proved this when several heated arguments broke out from time to time. Heaven registered a complaint about the male coaches of the Ball & Chain team, and Casey Swanson, who captains Heaven proceeded to let Mr. Barrett know the source of her grievance. No sooner had this ruckus quited down than a near-riot broke out due to Slugger Bell forgetting to apologize when she slid into pitcherry Dianna Gilstrap Vickery.

The game between Purgatory and Hell was a bit quieter except for a third inning interruption when Purgatory's captain took time out to tell umpire Denny Winn how much she admired his umpiring technique. All of the games have proved quite interesting as well as amusing which might account for the increasing number of onlookers.

Present team standings:

	W	L
Hell	3	1
Heaven	2	2
Ball & Chain	2	2
Purgatory	1	3

Errors, OCE Beat EOC

An error-plagued Mountie team dropped three games to Oregon College and also their tie for first place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference. OCE pounded the Mounties 6-0 Friday, May 6, and 10-2 and 3-1 on Saturday.

The three losses by EOC gave both teams a 6 win - 3 losses record in OCC competition this far in the year's conference season.

The Mounties committed nine errors in the first game Saturday as the Wolves made 10 hits from loser Jerry Mellinger.

In the second game, hurler Rudy Clements held the Wolves to five hits. EOC collected their lone run in the fifth when John Willmarth led off with a single, Fred Chase singled and Barnhart hit a long sacrifice fly to score Willmarth.

BJC * EOC

EOC was dropped by BJC for two games Tuesday, May 6, EOC making 5 errors and only 10 hits for the two games. The Mounties were beaten 3-1 and 4-1.

EOC scored first in the opener when Dick Quinn tripled and came home on a passed ball. He hit two for three to lead the Mounties in the game.

In the nightcap Terry Ziegenhagen singled and moved to second on a single by Doug Minthorn and Jerry Bristow singled Zig home for the score.

Rudy Clements took over for Bill McCadden in the second inning and held JC to three hits until the fifth and then the roof fell in on EOC; — 4 hits — 4 runs.

The New Look

By STENSON

Rise up ye student leaders and shake from your wrists the shackles of servitude placed thereon by those docile members of your constituency who refuse to lift their hands on their own behalf. Is the purpose of leadership that of providing bigger and better social activities for the slovenly portion of a student body who will extend no personal efforts to provide these things for themselves? I say no.

Student government at EOC is in a rut and will remain there until each and every student on this campus is rid of the warped sense of student leadership that prevails here. In direct contrast to the utilitarian purpose our present government serves there is present on other campuses a dynamic and challenging movement to encompass the vast scope of the entire college community. Shall we benefit by this trend or remain stagnant and wait for it to sift down to us as too often the policy of this student body?

Part of the answer to the question issued above rests in the hands of the faculty and administration, partly in the hands of the incmoing student leaders, but most of the answer will have to be provided by the student-at-large. It is this last faction of our college community that I I challenge. Why does student government have no meaning, important, or value to you? Perhaps you care not a whit about the kind of education that you receive from this college. If you are sincere concerning the educational opportunities proided by this institution, then this new emphasis placed on the academic portion of college life by student government should be of very special interest to you, for this is the very heart of the new look.

Or maybe you do care, but are one of those shallow-thinking individuals who share the opinion that student leaders are merely puppets that provide a sounding board for faculty and administration views and programs. If you are, you are all wet. In fact, the direct opposite is true. Intelligent student leaders and an activetive student government provide the most accurate media of communication by which student feeling, thought, and ideas can be passed on to the college administrators. There is virtually no end to the ways student goveernment can benefit the total ed to. We need only to look sincere integrity is closely adhercollege program if a polcy of around us at other educational institutions to cite example of this. For instance: at Arizona State College at Flagstaff the student leaders there have instigated a program of faculty and curriculum evaluation that has played an integral part in raising the academic standards of that school; at San Fernando Valley State College the student government was asked to recommend the type of man they would like to have as their college president.

There needs to be a change in the philosophy of the student leaders on the Eastern Oregon College campus. Need we continue to feel that the sole purpose of our student government is to sponsor dances and other social activities for the benefit of students who either attend or don't attend as they wish, and then criticize unconstructively as their mood dictates? I feel that we should now drop this narrow viewpoint and develop a sound philosophy based on the improvement of each and every phase of our college community.

We at EOC need leaders who have the foresight to realize that the most vital issue at stake now is not whether the Coronation Ball is well attended, but whether this year's graduating seniors will look back at the past years spent here as having been a beneficial expenditures of time. I want to feel proud of having attended Eastern Oregon College, how about you?

If you do, then accept this challenge and become a part in trying to make this school a better one and your stay here a more enjoyable one. If you don't, then remain in your holes and issue forth scathing commments about a a puppet student government that fails to provide all the acti vities your whimsical mind concocts.

I do not mean to affront any special group of the student body, but rather hope to touch a sore spot on each and every individual on this campus in hope of kindling a new trend of thought. If there is one individaul, willing to go all out in an effort to improve the whole scope of life here at EOC, now is the time for him to rise from the lethargic throng and lead the way to the New Look.

Music Notes

By KAREN EDVALSON

There was a hot jam session going at the dance on the band-choir trip to Wallowa Lake. The personnel changed so often I was never quite sure who was playing what, but at various times Dean Kennedy, Dan Tucker and John Wagner got in their trumpet licks.

Gary Winkel was a steady on the clarinet with Elvin Taylor joining in later on. Gerald Roloff got a rest from playing theh trombone when Donna Sene took oer for a few slides.

A string bass (one-string only) seemed to hold a fascination for Richard Oesterling and Bob Hicks. Another steady was Nancy Brooks on the ivories. Dean Kennedy joined her occasionally to make a duet of it.

Howeer, the most popular instrument seemed to be the drums, with Jan Robertson, Ray Dunn, Mike Ferguson, Jerry Brownstein and probably many others all trying their hand at it. Somebody was also slapping the bongoes, but he was in a dark corner behind the piano and I couldn't quite make out who he was.

Even the spectators and dancers got in the act with our own special rendition of "Don't You Just Know It?" Lead vocalists (?) were Gary Winkel and Dean Kennedy. I never thought I'd like rock and roll, but this once it was fun!

—o—

I didn't get to the faculty recital, but all reports I have heard said it was very good. Seems to disprove that old saw that says, "those who can, do; and those who can't, teach."

Late Review

Pennypacker Production Remarkable

By N.A.C.

In my opinion, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" is the best thing I've seen done at EOC since "Inherit the Wind." "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" is essentially the story of a man who has two families, one in Philadelphia and one in Wilmington, Delaware. This of course, isn't right because Mr. Pennypacker isn't from Utah nor is he a Mohammeden. What I liked best about "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," however, was that it was funny because it wasn't philosophical and didn't have any message.

George Schoedinger III, as Mr. Pennypacker, Sr., was just darling and especially his whiskers. You knew right away he was an old man as he had gray hair and gray whiskers. He was surely terrible, just like my grandfather.

Larry De Kalb was a natural for the role of Mr. Pennypacker, Jr. He is so cute anyway. I do think he would have looked better, though, if he hadn't worn those horrible short pants.

The role of Ma Pennypacker would have been more effective if the actress, Sherril Cockburn, had been more presentable. She looked too much like a housewife, and I'm sure the handsome Mr. Pennypacker couldn't have loved (even though they had seven children) such a drab woman.

Earl De Bok as the young mortician was excellent. He seemed to be waiting for someone to die all the time.

Janet Sanderson as Kate Pennypacker just had to be good because she had such pretty old fashioned clothes. I thought her wedding dress was darling.

Patsy Evans in the role of Aunt Jane practically stole the show, but I think she was rather stupid to want to go to Philadelphia and take care of all those awful children.

I would certainly like to comment on everyone's performance, but space simply won't allow it. Do let me say, however, that I think you were all magnificent.

As for the set, it was so quaint and charming. It reminded me exactly of my great aunt's parlour. I should really like to know where Mr. Hiatt found that delightful wallpaper.

My congratulations to Mr. Hiatt, cast and crew on their superb production of "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker."

Forty-Three Graduates Sign Teacher Contracts

Contracts to teach in various Oregon and California schools have been signed by forty-three of the seniors in the 1958 graduating class. Many of the grads still haven't decided just where they will be teaching next year and are doing some serious thinking before they sign that all-important contract. Those who have signed are:

Jean Adamson—Parkrose, Oregon. Patricia Bagley—Castro Valley, Calif. Robert Bagley—Castro Valley, Calif. Elizabeth Baumeister—Salem, Ore. Glen Bates — Union, Oregon. Don Bensel—Salem, Oregon. Billie Jo Bond — Springfield, Ore. Nancy Ann Carter — Concord, Calif. Sherril Cockburn—Pendleton, Ore. Dick Cook—Hermiston. Elvin Daggett—La Grande, Ore. James Dale—Newberg, Ore. Rodger Dalgleish—Russelville, Ore. Robert Dawes—Castro Valley, Calif. Jim De Mastus — Herford. Bill De Mastus — La Grande. Jacqueline Denny—Portland, Ore. Howard Evans—The Dalles. Norm Graybeal — Redding, Calif. Jack Harmon — The Dalles. Nancy Ingram — Maupin. Steve Johnson—Seaside, Ore. Lewis Laird—Mapleton, Ore. Maurice Lane—Parkrose. Dennis Mahoney—John Day. June Whitten—Pendleton. Janet Wright — Pilot Rock. Warren Wright—Pilot Rock.

Whether they have signed a contract or are still looking for that exactly right job, the seniors are beginning to realize that it's now up to them to put to work the knowledge they've been soaking up for four long years. Several of these future teachers were asked how well they felt they were prepared and what suggestions they have for next year's senior. The foliowing answers were given:

Jean Adamson: (Jean will be teaching a second grade class in the Parkrose system.) "I feel adequately prepared to teach. I feel that student teaching is the best preparation you can get. You should try to teach any sub-

Dorion Handbook

Along with a new dormitory and a new housemother for the year 1958-59, plans are being made for a new handbook which will be given to freshmen girls upon entrance to EOC. This handbook will contain some helpful hints for the newcomer to EOC Campus and will be written in an entertaining manner.

'Thanks'

Looking back at the past year at Eastern Oregon College from my position as editor of the Beacon it becomes very easy to reminisce about various things that have happened. However, I see no need in going over things that have already been covered.

Let me say that above all I want to thank all the staff members who have put up with me during the year. Without them, we could not have offered you, the students, what we, at least, feel was a newspaper worthy of your attention every two weeks.

Another whom I must thank before I finish this final editorial is the Beacon adviser, Mr. Harold Dorn. He has supplied me with many good ideas over the past year and has listened to me gripe when things were not going well.

All in all, I can only say "Thanks" to all those who have helped me in putting out the Beacon during the past year, and wish the best of luck to next year's editor and staff.

Student Government's Purpose

Many times we are confronted with the question of "just exactly what is the purpose of student government and how well are we achieving these goals or standards?"

Defined in a broad sense we can say that student government works mainly in three different areas. It works as an implement through which student interests are satisfied, it acts as a liason between administration and students, and it gives students an opportunity to work in leadership roles where the main essentials are policy making and governing. An evaluation of our student government at EOC in relation to this definition points up many important aspectcsc to us as students.

When we mention meeting the needs of students, immediately we think of the social needs, which is very important; however, the academic need is another important need. This phase includes such activities as guest speakers, panel discussions, civic music and other cultural activities of this sort which would suppliment the actual "book learning" of our curriculum. This area has a great potential that we can and should expand in the future.

One of the most important duties of student government is its relationship to the faculty and administration as a representative of the students. In the past this has been one of the strongest aspects of student government. Besides it being a great benefit to the students, it has been able to aid the administration in several areas of planning and policy making.

The education that a student gains through participation in the various phases of student government can prove to be one of the most valuable experiences in a student's college work. For example, I recently heard a fellow make the comment, (after his initial experience in student government), that he, ". . . never realized that student government presented such an excellent opportunity to work with people as an administrator and a follower." This of course is just one area of achievement that student government does provide for students.

In the coming year we are going to look to student government for work here and service there; but we must remember that this student "impliment" works only as efficiently as you and I are willing to labor toward. We as students must all do our part by participating and supporting the various committees and groups on campus if we are to have the type of governmental efficiency that we all desire.

This above experience may appear to be a unique situation, but it isn't anything more than a student becoming aware of how he can fit into this machine of student government. Perhaps this awareness that each member of the student body can participate in the government of EOC is the first step to a real successful year.

Harold Moore.

Hakim Of Hunt

By HAKIM TAYLOR

Here we have it, kids, the last issue of the Beacon and my last chance to educate the masses.

From the world of scientific improvement comes the word that the greatest scientists have at last taught a caterpillar how to dive. The versatile bug can't dive in exhibition, though, he has no hips and his trunks keep falling off.

The crust of Hunt held a surprise birthday party last week for James Stewart. Eleven persons were present, and Mr. Stewart served. He was presented with a 62 ounce brandy snifter and a German beer mug.

Memorial weekend on campus was as dead as Roosevelt, though their utmost to liven things up a bit.

I've enjoyed writing my mess this year, and I hope it has caused many of you to lose sleep, wondering what I was going to say about you. Cheers, til next fall.

Students, she said, with a gleam in her eye,
Spring finals are near, they'll be here bye and bye,
So sit yourself down with a beer,
bread and jam,
and Cram, fellow Mounties, cram,
Cram, CRAM!

Housemother Plight Told

Stillness covers the three story building and lights begin to flick out. The showers are turned off, the doors cease slamming and the voices down the hall slowly fade. Night air and dreamy sounds float through open windows as the world inside stretches out to sleep. Not quite; at this peaceful moment a mop bucket is dropped off the third floor stair well. Simutaneously the fire alarm goes off in the basement. Sleep? Slumber finally settles in and all is wonderful until a light tap is heard on the outer door of the apartment. The knock stops, pecks away, moves to the inner door and then blasts mercilessly at the brain struggling to awaken. Occupant two of 103 has a severe sunburn from falling asleep on the back lawn tthis morning. She is in mortal agony. Her roommates anticipate death in fifteen minutes. Shall her parents be notified?

A pint of lotion and two sleeping pills administered, the Saturday night cat nap resumes. Clang! What? 6:30. Who could be ringing the doorbell at this hour? Feet out of bed, through the hall, down steps, eyes open, door open. . . .ah yes! The one who goes home on weekends and returns early Sunday to teach a Sunday School class for community hours.

Three years, 500 late leaves, 800 room inspections, 12,000 demerits, 3 billion practical jokes and half a million problems later Mrs. Hoyt has almost finished her term as Dorion Hall Housemother. She has had experiences probably no other mother is ever subjected to and has survived admirably. All the experiences were novel, and not all were distasteful. Off setting the shrill fire alarms at 3 a.m., the water fights, the unpleasant scenes and the disciplinary punishments necessarily applied were the fireside sings of 120 happy voices, a silent thank-you after tears had been dried by a talk and some understanding, the surprise parties held to say "we're sorry we've been naughty, we'll probably do it again, but let's forget it tonight," or the first efforts at cooking carried 50 miles for her sampling and approval.

The happy memories seem to outlast the unhappy and as she leaves the EOC campus Mrs. Hoyt smiles and says "Girls, you are going into a new dorm with new officers and a new housemother. I hope you have a truly grand year."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Feel free to express your opinions. In keeping with the Beacon's policy, writers of letters may request that their names be withheld, or may use a pseudonym. However, all letters must be signed.

I have read several times in the editorial column your views on why a campus activity fails or succeeds. I cannot say that I fully agree with your haughty attitude toward the subject. Here is my answer to you and your cohorts who believe that the fault lies entirely in the general student body.

The first point, which is being corrected next year, is that no moves were made to include either the EOCene courts or the downtown students in most of the functions. Instead, diverse attacks were made upon them and they weren't considered equal members of the student body.

Secondly, the enthusiasm which is so necessary to attract people to a function was totally lacking. Not because the students were not entirely disinterested, but because the organizers of the functions were not themselves enthused. They expected the students to come to them like so many ants to honey. It doesn't work that way when we are all individuals.

My third point, which may seem immaterial at first, is the lack of a rival school to EOC. All of us come from a school that has had some rialry with another school, and we cannot deny the fact that it played an important part in upholding the school spirit. This can be corrected by cultivating a rivalry with Whitman College, for instance. I haven't the space to outline the steps, but they are within reach of everyone here at the college.

Perhaps next year, when EOC is re-organized for the new additions, we can bluff the freshmen into belieing that EOC has always been a lively, spirited campus. That is, if we will all take the initiative to develop the college life so typical of living people, not the zombie existence we have led this and past years. We can all help, but first we must shed the superiority complex so evident to the normal persons. Everyone on campus is equal, that is one of the wonders of EOC, and I think that idea should be maintained.

CLUB NEWS

Alpha Pi Epsilon has added five new members to the role book through its spring initiation. Three members were initiated May 14 at Hoke Hall: Nancy Hall of La Grande, Lucinda Simpson of Pendleton, and Karen Jacobsen of Pendleton.

Following the initiation ceremony was a banquet, after which Dr. Good, the guest of honor, spoke to the group. Dr. Good recently received the honor of being selected National President of Alpha Pi Epsilon.

A special initiation was held May 21 for two other initiates who were unable to attend the regular initiation. They are Gail Austin of Arlington and Mary Jean Henry of La Grande.

Eligibility for membership in Alpha Pi depends upon scholastic achievements and personality characteristics.

Alpha Pi also traveled to Boise, Idaho, May 2 and 3 on a field trip. The sorority visited Syms York Company, which is a prominent office furniture and equipment concern in that area. A very interesting and enjoyable trip was reported by everyone who went.

Dorion Doodles

By J.H.

That old flurry of cramming for final exams has hit Dorion full blast again. Desks piled high in books, papers, and food are in evidence in every room. Dorionites are making that last attempt at redeeming themselves before those fatal grades are sent home.

Things may have been quiet in Dorion over the Memorial Day holiday but like certainly wasn't dull for the few faithful who held down the fort last weekend. If nothing else, the food served in the dorm this last weekend made life seem quite unlike the regular order of things in the dorm. The fried chicken was so good that many of the diners weren't even aware of the "fallen" condition of the angel food cakes.

The gals in the Underground have been in a bit of a social whirl these past two weks. Their parties began May 26 when Phee was the hostess at a surprise birthday party. The following evening another birthday party was given for Chris who is now just twelve short months from legallity. The gals couldn't bear an evening without a party after starting the week with such a bang so they proceeded to win the Bloomer League Championship and celebrated Wednesday night with a cake baked by the Ball & Chin Club. (Those wives are terrific cooks.) The gang in the Underground topped off their two weeks of partying with a surprise farewell party for Mrs. Hoyt. This time the cake was baked by Judy Tonack with a small bit of assistance from Betty Crocker.

Last Monday night was Dorion's last house meeting of the year. What with all that money in the Dorion treasury, we decided to have a farewell party for Mrs. Hoyt. Past president, Billie Miller, presented both Mrs. Hoyt and Mrs. Pointon with corsage sand Marge Talbot gave Mrs. Hoy the going away gift for all the Dorionites.

The girls on third floor say they have a good car radio they'd like to sell before the end of the year. This radio is in good working order and if they get a good offer for it they'll even throw in the rest of the car to boot. That's right . . . the eight owners of the shaking, shimmering jewel in the parking lot are anxious to convert it into cash (at least $5.00) before school closes. They guarantee that the radio works perfectly but would rather not go into detail about lights, horn, tires, etc. Anyone interested can contact Swany or Boopsie on third floor.

Since this is the last issue of the Beacon, this is also my last "Doodle" for the year. I've heard that this column is destined to "mature" a bit before it's printed next year so you'd better preserve a couple of back issues of the Beacon for I fear "Doodles" has had its day at EOC.

Hope you have an educational (?) summer, and don't forget the Pendleton Round-Up.

Drive Carefully!

Bloomer Games End; Dorion's Hell Triumphs

The Bloomer League season officially ended Tuesday, May 27 when Hell defeated Heaven in a 20-11 victory to clinch the Bloomer League championship. The other game scheduled for that same evening was forfeited to the Ball & Chain club when Purgatory failed to produce enough girls for a team. The final team standings show Hell in first place, Ball & Chain second, Heaven third, and Purgatory in cellar position.

Wednesday night an unofficial game was played betweenn Hell and Ball & Chain due to a protest over their first contest of the season. The Underground gals had a non-Dorion resident in their line-up for the first games so the game was played over with much the same results score-wise. Hell came out on top once again with a 28-1 score that left no doubt as to what team was the rightful Bloomer league champ.

IRC Elects Slate To Hold Offices

The International Relations Club met at Dr. Spear's home on Friday evening, May 3, and elected the following officers: Lyle Endicott, president; Melvin Munn, vice president; Barbara Wheeler, secretary; and John Trigg, student council representative and publicity agent.

It was decided by the I.R.C. members that Tuesday nigt would be the permanent meeting night. The first of these meetings was held on May 6.

Of the several plans discussed for next year's programs, the one best liked was the type in which one member leads a group discussion on some international topic. Other topics discussed were the Model United Nations to be held in Los Angeles, the Boran Conference at the University of Idaho, and the Town Meeting in Portland.

There were several guests present who discussed some of the foreign countries they had lived in or visited.

ject that you are unsure of while student teaching In order to make yourcelf confident in that area. You only get out of student teaching as much as you put into it."

Steve Johnson: (Steve teaches History and English next year at Seaside.) He doesn't feel that he is as well prepared in terms of subject matter as he should be. "There is too much concentration on education courses and not not enough on subject matter courses." Steve's advice to next year's seniors is to "get the text books you'll be using and acquaint yourself with what you'll be teaching next fall."

Sherril Cockburn: (Her job will be First grade of Kindergarten in Pendleton.) Sherril feels that she is adequately prepared to handle her teaching assignment and feels that her term of responsible teaching was her best preparation. She suggests that "Child Literature should be taken before the actual practice teaching begins so that the student will be able to use the material tought in this course."

Berniece Opp: (First and Second grade teacher in La Grande next fall.) Bernice feels she is adequately prepared to teach but has this to say about others who are in education: "Take your education courses more seriously. You don't realize their importance till you actually start teaching, but they are extremely important. Those picture files and the free and inexpensive materials you compile for Dr. Addy aren't just a lot of busy-work. Take your speech correction courses and special education courses if you possibly can because you'll run into problems in these fields in the public schools."

Sandra Spickerman: (Sandy has a Sixth grade class at Redmond next year.) She also feels that she has the preparation necessary to succeed with her teaching assignment but she feels there are certain courses that all education majors shouldn't miss. Sandy says that the Audio-Visual Aids course was one of the most helpful she took and she feels it should be a required course in elementary education. "I've used it much in my student teaching . . . especially a knowledge of movie projectors and bulletin board arrangement."

Jack Harmon: (Jack has signed to teach a Ninth grade math course next year at The Dalles.) Jack says he has confidence in his preparation for teaching but has this to say to the under-classmen: "Too many students feel they can just slip through their courses as long as they get passing grades. If you're taking a course you should LEARN it instead of merely passing it. For secondary education majors there should be more subject matter courses and not so many education courses. It would also be more helpful if these education courses were taught from a more practical standjoint rather than from one of ideal situations."

Faculty Reception Scheduled Oct. 1

Faculty and students will meet formally for the first time on the evening of October 1 at 8 p. m. when EOC holds its annual Faculty Reception. The event will take place in the College Coliseum. Although informality in manner is stressed this year, cocktail dress and suits will be in order.

This year the traditional faculty line which received students has been changed to small informal groups of faculty which will be seated around the gym. Members of the Ask Me Committee and the Student Council will be serving as hostesses and hosts as they guide groups of students around and introduce them to the teaching staff for a few moments of informal chatting.

In addition to the reception of students by the faculty refreshments will be served and students will be guided through the new building..

Receiving the La Grande Eagles Lodge scholarships were Herbert William Forbes, Jr., Redmond; and Walter Allen Wolfe, Stanfield.

Scholarships given through the La Grande Lions club by area firms, include Pioneer Flouring Co. to Suzanne Katheryn Switzer, Condon; Marcus Roesch Scholarships to Gerald John Lequerica, Union, and James Chapman, La Grande; and Dorothy Eloise Reynolds, Foster.

Future Plans For Hoke Revealed

EOC has the prospects of a partly remodeled Hoke Hall by November 1959. Plans have been laid in rough form and by this summer estimates will be submitted to the State Board of Higher Education for approval. If the plans are approved by the State Board, they will be submitted to the State Legislature for appropriation of funds.

The most spectacular change will be enlargement of the floor in the present lounge and dance hall to nearly double the present capacity.

Kitchen and dining room facilities will be increased in the east end of the hall so that at least 100 persons can be seated and served at one time.
