The basement will be enlarged and re-arranged so that four new classrooms will be added; the bookstore will be moved to the present site of the ping-pong room; and offices will be shifted to the north side of the basement

EOC Students Initiated Into Sorority

Seventeen new members were initiated into Sigma Alpha Chi during the annual Spring initiation, conducted by President Arleta Nord, senior from Enterprise.

The following women were initiated into EOC's women's scholastic honorary: Carolyn Gudgel, Jane Denison, Nancy Swanson, Carol Thorne, Pauline Whitis, Pendleton; Barbara Myer, Nancy Klomp, Sharon Hill, Jo Ann Beryman, and Barbara Wheeler, all of La Grande.

Thayle Romine, Halfway; Karen Edvalson, Union; Lorraine Tarponning, Milton-Freewater; Jean Edmison, Bend; Hazel Bondurant, Hermiston; Lee Ann Dougherty, Baker; Virginia Wellington, The Dalles.

Sigma Alpha Chi is an honor society for women. The organiation bases its election of members upon scholastic achievement.

Faculty Studies Fill Summer

Enrolees at EOC aren't the only ones who go to school, or so it seems at least, with a formidable list of faculty members who have also been attending classes recently available to prove the point.

Donald Nelson spent the most time away from EOC, as he has been attending the University of California for the past two years. Mr. Nelson returns this fall to resume his duties as head librarian.

Returning from a one-year sabbatical leave at the University of Oregon is Howard Anderson. In addition to his work in the English department, Mr. Anderson has been appointed Assistant Dean of Men.

One faculty member received a doctorate degree this past summer. Dr. Sarah Stein was granted a Doctor of Education degree from the University of Southern California. Dr. Stein is a member of the secretarial science department.

The other member of the secretarial science department, Dr. Leonard Good received his CPA recently from the state of California.

Several others instructors have been attending summer school. They are: Richard Hiatt and Leonard Kimbrell, State University of Iowa; Neil Wilson, University of Indiana; Howard Wilson, Willamette University; Bruce Ryan, University of Washington; Glenn Slabaugh, Oregon State College; Jean Neely, University of Oregon; Archie Dunsmoor, University of Oregon; and Dr. Charles Quaintance, the science workshop sponsored by the Science Foundation at Oregon State College.

Welcome Students

It is indeed a pleasure to welcome the new students and returning students back to Eastern Oregon College. As we embark upon this school year, we are privileged to have the largest student body in the with the new facilities on campus and the increase in the size of the student body come many new opportunities and advantages, but each of us must be willing to share and work together in this new program for the successful year which can be ours.

Freshman Orientation Introduces EOC Life

During Freshman Days the new students have been introduced to school songs, taken aptitude and placement tests, toured EOC's campus, and have been greeted by assembly speakers, including Dr. Frank Bennett, Mr. Howard Anderson Assistant Dean of Men, Mr. Earl Meuli, College Business Manager, and the Deans of Women and Men, Mrs. Dorothy Winters and Dr. Lyle Johnson, respectively.

Thursday morning the freshmen were introduced to the ASB officers, student council members and members of the Ask Me Committee through a skit presented on the theme of "This Is Your Life, Joe Schmock." Mr. Richard Hiatt, Drama Director, acted as MC for the program and Larry DeKalb played the lead character.

As the years were revealed we found that our president, Harold Moore, will become Chairman of the Board of the "Moore for Less" Bathing Suit Company; our first vice president, Josie Ward, is destined to be Miss Kitchy Kitchy, a designer . . . of fashions; Larry De Kalk, our second vice president, will end up as executive vice president of the Halfway Sheepherder's Association; secretary, Bev Donovan, will take over the position of presidency of the society for the protection of the creeping Red Fiscue Weed; and business manager Jean Hunter will become Joe's wife, Tiny Schmock . . . with nine children! Hoke Hall Chairman, Bob Miller, will soon elevate his social position to that of Head Elastic Stretcher for the Munsingwear factory.

During the presentation of the skit, students were introduced to the various campus publications and organizations which acted as sponsors for the program.

Freshman days offically ended Saturday evening with the ASB get-acquainted dance for all new and returning students.

Rallies Planned To Boost EOC Spirit

Everything wonderful has been and will be happening thus putting school spirit on a really high level. Probably most unique among new happenings is the proposed Rally Raid.

The Rally Raid, having been approved by the Student Council and Dean of Women will be held 30 to 45 minutes preceding a home football game. The location of the Raid will be Dorion Hall and any girl in her room at the time of the Raid will be escorted to the game by the Raiders.

Designed to boost team spirit and student audience participare are "all for it" and it's sure to be a "loud" success.

EOC COUNCIL RETREATS

Eastern Oregon College Student Council members spent Sunday and Monday, September 21 and 22 at the Methodist camp near Wallowa lake on their sec ond annual Student Council Retreat.

Council members present for discussions on academic, cultural, and social functions and financial problems for the coming school year were Harold Moore, Madras; Josie Ward, Forest Grove; Larry DeKalb and Laura Young, La Grande; Bev Donovan and Jean Hunter, Pendelton; Marge Talbott, Joseph; Ken Manns, Wallowa; and John Trigg, Myrtle Point.

Council advisors in attendance at the retreat were Mrs. Dorothy Winters, dean of women, and Dr. Lyle Johnson, dean of men and registrar at EOC.

All was not entirely business, however, as the group took time off the busy schedule for short periods of boating and other relaxing activities.

HOKE HALL REPORT

Bob Miller, Hoke Hall Social Chairman, reports that the jukebox has been installed with all the latest hit records in it. Suggestions concerning the music will be gladly accepted and considered by Bob who can be contacted in Hunt Hall.

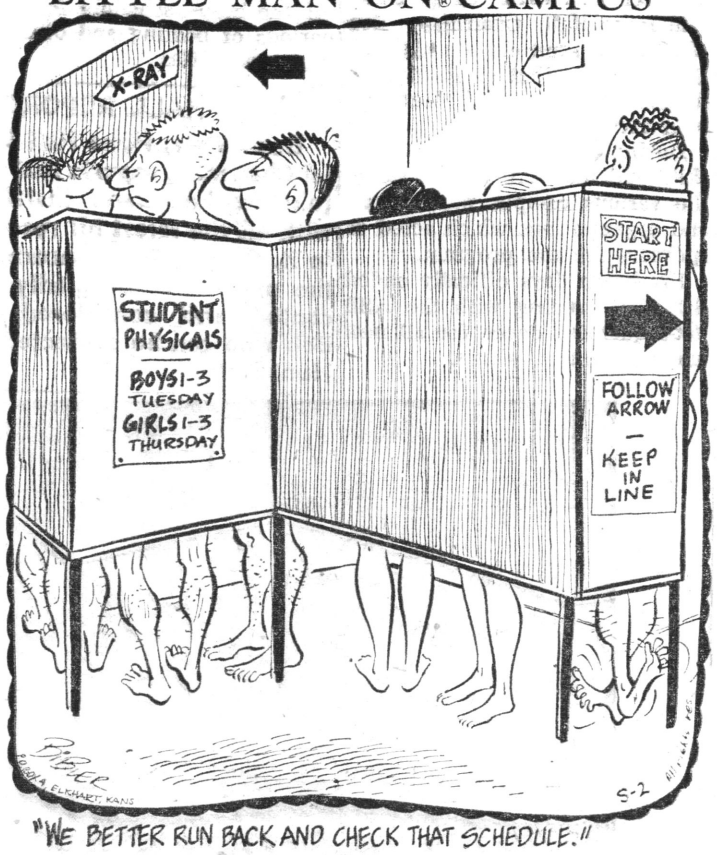
Pay Admission For Dances?



A subject which will sooner or later come up for a vote in student council is the ever present question of charging for school formals. When the council and our representatives vote on this issue a precedent will be set for the whole year; therefore through this media opinions and feelings on the subject are invited in order that those students may truly represent the student body as a whole.

In presenting the question there are two definite sides of the argument. One of these concludes that if an extra admission charge is collected from those students attending the event, it will provide an all around better evening of entertainment when combined with the allotment provided in the ASB budget for that function. This is particularly important in the quality of a band which will be secured to provide the music. If the music is not of the best quality, will the students shun the event and spend that money elsewhere?

On the other hand lies the factor that when school fees are paid an Associated Student Body Card is issued as the admission ticket to all school functions free of charge. Also is the quite obvious problem of the money involved. Very few students have money to squander; a few are tightly pinched in financial matters and those living on the family basis in EOCene and town apaprtments definitely know a need for their finances.

With these charged admissions are we only improving EOC's entertainment schedule, or are we also depriving many of our membership the enjoyment of the formal functions to which they were under the impression they were to be admitted.

TUESDAY

Just one more turn and we will be there! Oh, I can see the dorm—look at all the people, I'm scared. Here comes a boy—what on earth is he trying to do—get in the car with us? I'll hold the door shut and roll down the window before he climbs in, after all there is only room for mom, dad, and me in the front seat—and it looks like that's where he is heading.

Now I see, he is a member of the Ask Me committee and evidently he is going to help me move in—at least I hope that is what he intends to do with my suitcase and clothesbag. Everyone is so friendly but I hope mom and dad don't leave until I finish unpacking—I don't want to be alone quite yet.

The folks are gone and I'm on my own—but with every one eager to help and since they are all so friendly I don't feel homesick at all.

WEDNESDAY

The opening assembly was just what all of us lost 'rooks' needed. Now I feel as if I know where I'm going. Never did I realize that EOC offered so many extra-curricular activities, so many dances, besides all the different organizations! There are so many new subjects I just can't make up my mind. How can there possibly be time for study and for active participation in social functions? There must be a happy medium somewhere—here's hoping I can find it!!

The Freshman Mixer was neat—so many boys! Did you know there are about 60 boys for every 40 girls in the fresman class—those are the kind of odds girls dream about!!

THURSDAY

A clever and informative, not to mention, humorous skit was presented by the Student Activities committee and it cleared up a lot of questions I had about the different organizations.

TESTS— honestly, it has been so long since I've had to think I can't get 'motating' at all—bet I did just terribly!

What a ball!!! The freshman picnic at Riverside Park was a big success. Real informal so you could relax and kid around—let your hair down. This being 'college girl' is going to take time to get used to—feels so good to act like a high school senior again—no strain.

FRIDAY

The College Life assembly in which the faculty members gave us some good pointers and cleared up a lot of questions was really a life-saver. Bless the Ask Me committee! What would we do without them—I bet they are so tired of being asked one continual line of questions they could run and hide when they see one of us rooks coming toward them.

Registration— what a mess I'd be in without all the faculty and student assistance. It went pretty smooth but I'll just panic if I have to rearrange my schedule because a class is full!

I'm looking forward to the dance, a record hop, tonight to take my mind off the registration day jitters.. We still have tests tomorrow but after that we can relax at the ASB dance Saturady night.

It is almost one o'clock and I guess I had better go stand in line to get my choice of instructors——Bye.

Terry Clifton

PS I just love college!!!

Hakim Of Hunt

"Rook on the hook," is going to be the call in Hunt for the rest of the year, as the frosh take on the responsibility of answering not only the main phone, but the floor phones as well.

Now that the female members of the student body have their new barracks, the men have inherited the clapboard structure known as the north wing. It is in good shape, though, and everyone has hopes that it will last 'til the year is over.

Introductions: Hunt's new housemother, Mrs. Tollofson. We look forward to a good year with her. She has had much experience in the housewmother field, so she comes to us well qualified.

The dorm is full, mostly frosh, of course, but several returning students have brightened the surroundings with their cheery mugs. Several new rules, pay attention to them, they will be enforced to the letter. The only one which will hurt some of the returning students is the absence this year of the garbage disposal unit. This facility was widely used last year, but with the rule which prohibits littering of the campus, the windows can no more be used for litter bags.

See you next issue, gorkls.

Dr. Lumsden Joins EOC HealthService Medical Staff

—Dr. Treve B. Lumsden of La Grande has been named to the Eastern Oregon College health service medical staff replacing Dr. Clarence Gilstrap.

Dr. Gilstrap, who has been on the EOC medical staff for more than 25 years, has resigned because of health reasons.

Dr. Lumsden joins Dr. Lewa Wilkes Ager and Dr. William Kubler on the medical staff. The three physicians are retained on a part-time basis with the EOC health service.

Coed Connotations

For those fellas who will be coming over to Dorion Hall with the intent of dating the gals this year-all of you—here are a few mighty helpful hints in understanding the messages this weaker bodied but stronger minded sex doles out.

I'll be down immediately—She'll be down after awhile

I'll be down after awhile—She's not coming.

I'm all dressed—She has her slip on.

I'm all dressed but my shoes—She does not have her slip on.

I don't know, I really didn't encourage him at all—She flirted like mad

There are so many neat things to do tonight—She doesn't like football games.

It's really even too cold for school spirit—She hates football.

Gee, It's too bad you aren't strong enough to play football—You're both going to the movies.

My head aches, my back aches, my arms and legs ache—I think I'm sick—The alarm has just gone off.

I really do need a late leave tonight, some old family friends are in town.

I simply have a million things to do—eat apples and gossip.

No, I really can't go, I'm going to study this weekend — She's been campused.

Gee, you'll really have to teach me how to drive this car sometime — She wants to borrow it tomorrow.

Classes were stinky this morning—She had women instructors.

I think I like biology—A man instructor.

I dearly love chorus—A handsome, young and unmarried male instructor.

I love you, Daddy—She wants a new formal.

I love you, Mother—She wants a new formal.

I love even you, Brother—She has a new formal.

I love you, books—Nothing or no one else around.

Homecoming Coming!

By CAROLYN MULLER and DICK ARENDS
Homecoming Co-Chairmen

Homecoming's sooner than you think. In the confusion of registration and starting classes, let's not forget that Homecoming is only three weeks away.

With our booming enrollment and new buildings on campus, Homecoming should follow suit. This year's Homecoming will get off to a booming start with Alumni registration in Walter Pierce Library, beginning at 4 p.m. Friday, October 17. This will be followed by the coronation of the Homecoming Queen, the Torch Light Parade, the burning of the bonfire, the "O", and we hope something new—Coffee Hours, sponsored by various organizations on campus.

Saturday, the 18th, Alumni and students of EOC again will have a busy day with Alumni registration and the sale of Pom Poms at the library, beginning at 9:30 a.m. This will be followed by a luncheon and the football game with Westminster.

This year we are going back to a practice which has not been tried at EOC for several years, that of having an Alumni banquet and meeting, followed by a Variety Show. Homecoming festivities will be highlighted by the traditional Homecoming Ball at 9 p.m.

To make Homecoming bigger and better than ever, it's going to take a lot of hard work by both Freshmen and campus organizations.

In previous years the Freshmen have had the hardest task and have come through with shining colors. In the weeks to follow the Freshmen will again be keeping late hours building the bonfire, the "O", the Mountaineer, the welcome sign and doing other "fun" jobs such as cleaning up the campus and stuffing envelopes. This may seem like a lot of work but in years to follow these experiences stand out in your memories of EOC. And with success of Homecoming they are appreciated by both Alumni and upperclassmen.

The Frosh aren't the only people on campus expected to work. In previous years the organizations on campus have been shirking their duties. But this year it is hoped that complete organizational co-operation will be achieved. The tentative 1958 Homecoming schedule is one larger than previous years. To be successful each organization has to give freely of its time and money.

In the next few days everyone is urged to be on the alert for Homecoming notices. You Freshmen will soon be having your first class meeting, in which further instructions about Homecoming will be given. A meeting of organization presidents is planned, in which Homecoming plans will be discussed.

Homecoming Set Oct. 18

Mountaineers Dropped By Missionaries, 33-6

A hard-charging Whitman line coupled with the running and passing of an experienced backfield proved too much for the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers to handle here Saturday night as they dropped their season opener, a non-conference game, 33-6.

Five different Whitman backs scored while Gene McKinney tallied the only Mounty TD after taking a 20-yard pass from quarterback Bennie Houk, then going 40 more for the TD.

There were bright spots for the future for the Mounties, one being the hard running Sam Clack who averaged 11 yards per carry. In the last period he moved the ball for first downs for the Mounties, three times in succession.

The Whit line was too big for the smaller EOC front wall, and constantly outcharged the local crew.

Coach Arch Dunsmoor told the Mastermind Club this morning "that we need more experience—the Whitman eleven scrimmaged three times with strong ball clubs before they met us and were a smoother working ball club." The Missionaries had scrimmaged with Lower Columbia Basin JC twice and with the Washington State Penitentiary eleven before the game Saturday.

The Mounties received a pleasant surprise along with their unpleasant loss to the Whits this weekend, however. Jerry Williams, who had an athletic scholarship to the U. of Wash, announced he would turn out for drills starting today. He should be ready for the OCE conference open, Oct. 3, here.

The 190-pound former La Grande High School fullback will be a big help to the Mounties in both the offensive and defensive backfields. He is also a former track man, running the dashes at La Grande High School.

OCE, the Mounts first OCC opponent, lost to Linfield of the Northwest league by a 32-6 count Saturday. They were playing without the services of their main offensive threat, Gene Bowland, however.

This weekend the Mounties travel to Carrol College at Helena, Montana for a non-conference game. They have defeated the Montana crew four times, and never lost a game, in the teams' four previous meetings.

Dorion Doings

By JEAN HUNTER

'It's like a dream come true" was one girl's apt. comment on the new Dorion Hall and everyone seems to agree with her 100 per cent. Along with the new dorm come two new house mothers who seem to be pretty terrific. Mrs. Burnett, the official house mother, who was formerly at Waldo Hall in Corvallis, has some pretty good ideas about how a dorm should be run. Among them is her idea that it should not be the house mother's responsibility to issue demerits. (Looks like we're going to have a good year.) The assistant house mother, Miss Christine Nikoloff, will take over on Mrs. Burnett's days off. She too has some novel ideas for creating a really active social program for Dorion girls and has already announced plans for a girls' dancing line.

Dorion's first house meeting of the year was held Tuesday evening to help acquaint the freshmen girls with Dorion rules and procedure. House president Marge Talbot, introduced Mrs. Burnett, Mis Nikoloff, and the dorm counsellors, Josie Ward, Susan Latta, and Jeanie Edmison.

There have been some strange sights in the old Dorion Hall but nothing ever equalled the one viewed in the new Dorion by several freshmen girls Tuesday evening. What first seemed to be something from outer space turned out to be our ASB First Veep Josie Ward, in her Miss Kitchy Kitchy costume for the freshmen assembly skit. That ensemble is really terrific Jose, but after this how about a word of warning for the unsuspecting freshmen.

Most of the freshmen girls have managed to get settled in Dorion without any serious mishaps and are all set to embark on their college careers. A couple girls fresh over from Hawaii found their luggage was lost somewhere between here and Portland and one frosh from the hills of Wallowa tried to do a fast floor waxing job with a bottle of wave lotion, but the rest of the new crop seems quite normal so all's well in Dorion.

Wednesday evening was Dorion's first open house and it seemed to be a great success. The fellows from Hunt Hall were as sold on the new dorm as are the Dorionites. I even noticed several fellows taking notes in preparation for the coming Rally Raids. These Raids will take place before each home football game, the idea being to get all the gals out for a stronger Mountaineer rooting section. So be prepared girls—you'll only be given 15 minutes' notice before the fellows strike!

3 EOC Students Get Full Tuition Scholarships

—Full tuition scholarships have been awarded to three Eastern Oregon College upperclassmen for 1958-1959.

The awards and the recipients are Eddy Bakeries Scholarship to Jerrold Baxter, Union; Bob McHaley Memorial Scholarship to Deward E. Walker, Jr., La Grande; and Badgley Scholarship to Norman N. Nelson, Boody, Ill.

A College Is . . .

A college is past, present, and future; an amount of ground, buildings, rooms and dormitories; books, blackboards, and learning, bad and good; letters from home and cafeteria food; housemothers and demerits; school nurses and infirmaries; ideas and ideals; money and no money; unironed white shirts and movies; pincurls and proms, term papers and tests; teachers and parents, men and women, youth; tears and laughter; coke dates and after hours gab sessions; grade points and Christmas vacations; success and failure; lecture and notes; typewriter ribbons and coffee; erasures and rewrites; gas bills and cleaning bills; togetherness and aloneness; beauty and some ugliness; sleepless nights and lazy days; corsages and dancing; friends and competition; excitement and disappointment; schedules and freedom; music and silence; sunshine and snow.

College is a beginning and college is an ending. College is freshman days and college is graduation. College is all the wondrous minutes, seconds and months between these two; and all the fun, loves, thrills and heartbreaks between any beginning and ending in life. We loved it and learned from it. We hope you will feel the same after your years at EOC.

Women's PE Teacher Named At EOC

—Miss Christine Nicoloff has been named instructor of women's physical education at Eastern Oregon college, acoording to an announcement by college officials.

Miss Nicoloff, who has been instructor in physical education at Ball State Teachers College in Indiana since 1955, has a B.A. and M.A. from the State University of Iowa. She has done additional graduate work at Colorado College and studied at the Mary Wigman Studio of Dance in West Berlin, Germany, this summer.

In addition to teaching modern, social, and folk dancing, the new physical education instructor will work with the social recreation program with the dean of women.

Miss Nicoloff has also served as playground director, has seven years experience as a camp counselor, and has spent several weeks hiking and mountain climbing in the Tetons and Sawtooth.

She will arrive in La Grande this week.

Dear Dori Ann:

Dear Dori Ann,

I am dying to date a certain freshman fellow. What would be my best approach?

An Upperclassman

Dear Upperclassman,

Your best approach would probably be from the front. However, if that fails remember the freshmen are still green so you might pull a sneak attack from behind and catch him unawares. Another angle might be to offer to iron his shirts for him. Many of the fellows have mentioned their hopes of receiving such an offer. Good luck with your campaign to make the freshmen feel wanted.

Dear Dori Ann,

My problem concerns calling for a girl in Dorion Hall. How do you let a girl who lives on third floor know that you're down in the reception room waiting to see her. My lungs aren't that strong.

Frustrated Freshman

Dear Frustrated Freshman,

The procedure for calling for a girl in Dorion is really quite simple despite your weak lungs. Simply walk through the front door and you'll find a reception desk to your right. There is usually a girl on phone duty at this desk and if you'll tell her your date's name she will call her on the intercom system and tell her she has a guest. If there isn't a girl on duty when you come, Mrs. Burnett will be glad to call the girl for you. Then you simply step into the lounge and wait for the girl to come down.

If you have a problem, let Dori Ann help you solve it. Just write your problem on a piece of paper and leave it in the Beacon room or address it to room 204 and drop it off in Dorion Hall. You must sign your real name but it will not be printed with your problem.

Mountaineers Drop 10-0 Decision To Carroll College

Both the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers and the La Grande High School Tigers took their kicks over the last football weekend—the Mounties dropped a 10-0 decision to Carroll College of Helena, Mont., while the Tigers lost 14-6 to Lewiston, Ida., on Friday night.

Coaches Arch Dunsmoor and Don Campbell of the college, told the Masterminds this morning that despite the loss, the EOC club looked better "generally," than in the opener against Whitman here last week. The Mounties meet Oregon College of Education here Saturday night in the Oregon Collegiate Conference opener.

The Mountaineers fumbled five times in the first half at Helena, Dunsmoor said, with the fumbles nullifying several touchdown drives. Halfback George Alverti scored once but the tally was eliminated by an offside penalty by the Mounts.

The coach told the group that after seeing two games the coaching staff had a better idea of what combinations were working best on defense and offense. He said the work of Alverti, Sam Clark, halfback from Union, and Jerry Williams, former La Grande fullback who turned out for drills last week, was impressive. He said Alverti and Williams are supplying the speed, while Clack has the power, though small. Defensively, EOC used seven different players than last week, with some "good results."

Carrol scored one TD and point in the second quarter, and also added a field goal during the same period. The loss Saturday night was the first in five games for the Mounts to the Montana club.

Haun told the football fans at the breakfast meeting this morning, that "a stunting Lewiston line"—which the Tigers had never seen before added to Lewiston's victory.

Both Haun and Mondale, and fans that saw the game, remarked that two of Lewiston's three completed passes were 'illegal" in that they had hit the ground before the receivers grabbed them. Even Lewiston fans agreed that officials allowed the passes which were definitely trapped."

La Grande's offensive blocking by its backfield was "not good," Haun told the group, "and we'll work on that this week." Ray Westenskow, quarterback, completed eight out of 11 passes for the Tigers in the game.

Looking to the Kennewick game this weekend, the coach told the group that Kennewick is undefeated this year, to date. They have defeated Longview (27-0), Moses Lake, by the same score, and last weekend whalloped Sunnyside by a 33.9 count.

Scout reports indicate the Kennewick line is "big and tough." Three of the linesmen total 223, 222 and 205 pounds, respectively. The 223 pounder is supposed to be the fastest man on the squad.

Three Tigers were injured in the Lewiston game—though how seriously has not yet been determined. Guard Merrill Smutz will probably see no action in the Kennewick game, halfback Jim Driskell injured an ankle and end Buck Corey suffered a pulled muscle. On the credit side of the grid ledger, regular Tackle Dick Turley will be at drills this week. He has been out two weeks with blood poisoning.

The Tiger game will be played at Kennewick on Friday night, the college game will be here on Saturday night.

FACULTY NOTES

Miss Arta Lawrence, who was libarian at EOC for 16 years (1931-1957), was visiting in La Grande for Easter vacation, from Bellingham, Wash.

Dr. Ralph Badgley and Robert McCrosky, pre-engineering advisors, and Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar, recently held conferences with the deans at Oregon State College and the University of Oregon concerning the EOC pre-professional programs.

Dr. Martha Addy, president of the State Association of Higher Education affiliated with the O-EA, served as hostess along with the campus Chapter of SOEA to 36 high school student FTA members. The group, from Bakeer and Milton-Freewater, were treated to a talent assembly program, lunch, and visited campus classrooms.

Dr. Charles W. Quaintance, professor of biology at EOC was selected to attend a special biological sciences institute June 30 to Aug. 9 at Oregon State College. The institute was for 50 selected biological science teachers from colleges and universities across the country and was offered under a special grant from the National Science Foundation.

Nine students have been notified of the renewal of their Parent Teacher Association scholarships which are renewable each year provided the recipient maintains a 2.5 GPA. The following people have had their scholarships renewed: Kay Boudurant, Jean Marie Damon, Betty Johnson, Susan Latta, Barbara Nuxall, Lynette Pershall, Jan Robertson, Sandy Thompson, and Virginia Wellington.

Other scholarship winners are: Dick Arends, $500 Neuberger scholarship; Les Edwards, $500 Inland Machinery scholarship; Norm Nelson, full tuition Badgley Fellowship; Elvin Taylor, Clyde Holliday and Karen Edvalson, full tuition Walter M. Pierce scholarships; Jerry Baxter, full tuition Eddy Bakeries scholarship; Deward Walker, full tuition, Bob McHaley Memorial scholarship; and Barbara Myer, full tuition Grande Ronde Symphony scholarship.

Council Corners

By HAROLD MOORE

As the new school year opens for us on the Student Council, many new ideas and problems have already been considered and decided upon. At our recently held Leadership Retreeat, ideas were planned and proposed in relation to coming policies in various different fields.

In connection with sports program the Student Council has recommended to the councils of Hunt Hall and Dorion Hall that they might be able to plan a type program whereby the men from Hunt Hall would provide an escort for the Dorion women to the home football games.

As the student body increases we have found that there is a need for new offices covering new responsibilities. One of these such offices is that of the ASB Publicity Committee. Janie Denison of Pendleton is the new chairman of Publicity on campus for this year. Her official capacity will be as coordinator of all campus publicity, and in charge of all Student Council publicity. Due to new regulations on posters and other types of publicity, each organization will have to receive Miss Denison's approval before they put up posters, signs, etc. on campus.

Several proposals and recommendations have been presented to faculty committees in relation to academic standards and student representation on various committees.

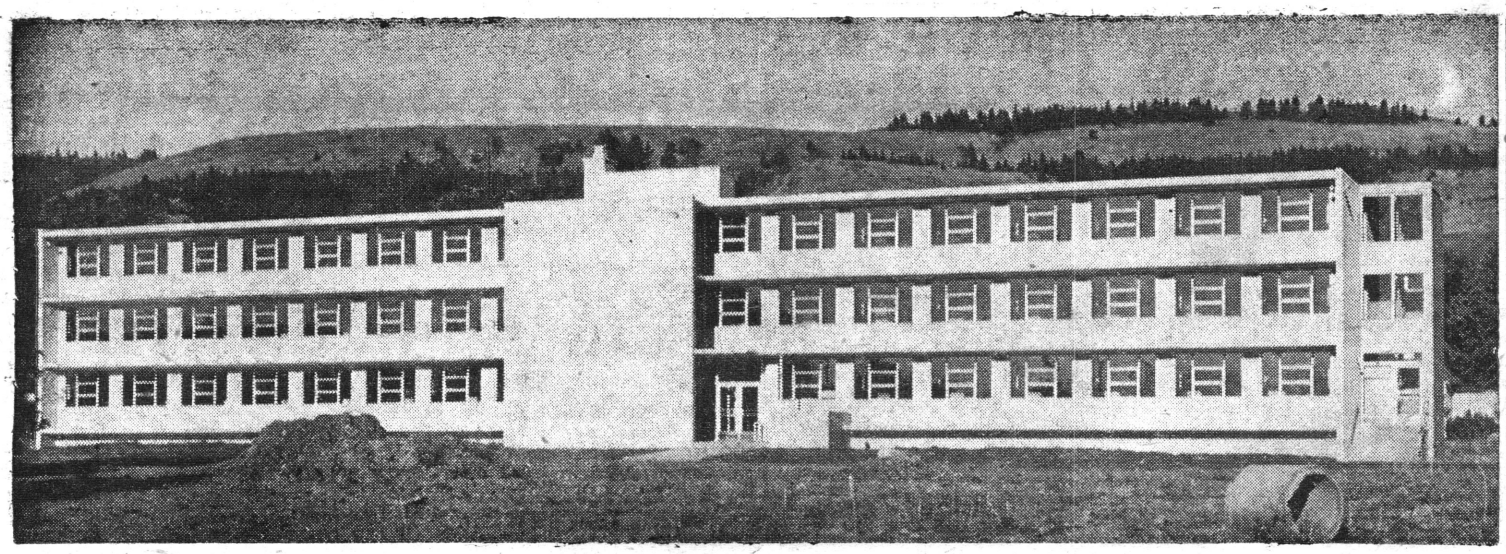
ASB Committee Program Outlined

Introducing four campus personalties who will be important spokes in the student government wheel for the Eastern Oregon College student body this year: Bob Miller, Larry De Kalb, Jane Denison, and Josie Ward.

This quartet will supervise the four permanent Associated Student Committees that plan social functions, student union building activities, elections, and general campus publicity for the Eastern Oregon College student body. As a student you should become familiar with the committees and know the chairmen. Most important, this Fall each chairman will be selecting five members for his committee from the general student body, and freshmen are urged to petition for a position on the commttee of their choice.

Representation from each class is desired, so underclassmen who are interested will definitely be considered. Petitions are to be filled out by the interested party, listing qualifications and past experience. These petitions may be obtained from the student body president or any of the committee chairmen.



A brief sketch of committee functions and about the individuals who will direct these activities puts Mr. Robert Miller, chairman of the Student Union Committee in the spotlight. Bob is a junior hailing from Milton-Freewater, and has been an active participant in dormitory and campus social functions. The Student Union chairmanship is a relatively new position and Bob is already busy planning the Hoke social calendar. Members of this committee will promote and plan the Student Union activities, and will have ample opportunity to come in contact with varied personalities and functions.

The Social Activity Committee will give an interested committee member unlimited opportunities to participate. Mr. Larry De Kalb, a hometown boy, who also doubles as second vice president, serves as this committee head. Larry is an enthusiastic sophomore who already has demonstrated his fine ability for organization on last year's All-School Picnic. Through the year one will find planning for activities varying from formal dances through concerts and plays. You can be sure to be well informed on the social life of the campus and have part in its planning by trying your hand with this committee.

This year you will find clever promotion of EOC student functions through radio, newspaper, personal appearance, skits and various other means that the chairman, Miss Jane Denison, talented junior from Pendleton, will employ. If you are interested in publicity work or are just always eager to know the details of each event, contact Jane for your committee petition.

Running the gamut from queen contest to the search for the Campus Ugly Man, as a member of the Election Committee you will be "in the know!" This year for the first time each member of the Election Committee will assume responsibility for one entire election, therefore you will have a chance as a committee member to appoint your own subcommittees and use your initiative while you are gaining valuable student government experience. Election committee chairman is the ASB First Vice President, Josie Ward.

DORION HALL, WOMEN'S DORMITORY

COLLEGE BUILDINGS NEARING COMPLETION—Gov. Robert D. Holmes took part in the official dedication of three new buildings on the Eastern Oregon College campus Sept. 8. The buildings include Dorion Hall, above $710,000 dormitory which will be ready for women students Sept. 24; a $625,062 physical education building, below, and a $203,463 central heating plant which will serve all campus buildings. The state board of higher education also met on the La Grande campus Sept. 8 and 9, marking the first time in 14 years an official state board meeting has been held at EOC. Board officials participated in dedication ceremonies. President Bennett indicated an "open house," giving area residents an opportunity to inspect the projects, was scheduled for the dedication day.

National Art Honorary Installed On Campus

Gamma Iota, a chapter of Kappa Pi Art Fraternity, has the distinction of being the first affiliation to a national honorary at Eastern Oregon College. Gamma Iota was installed in a ceremony June 8, 1958 in the Faculty lounge. Installing officer was Mrs. earl Heath of Monmouth College. Assisting her was Miss Millie Smith of EOC.

The ceremony was followed by a coffee hour arranged by Miss Leone Golz and Dr. George Nightingale, Gamma Iota advisors. This year's officers are Roberta Lyons, president; John Trigg, vice-president; Thelma Hogg, secretary; and Linda Woodhouse, treasurer. Other members initiated were Naomi Detrick, Virginia Van Blockland, Sandra Spickerman, Leone Golz, William DeMastus, Gerald Stiller, Stan Weigel, and Dr. George Nightingale.

Kappa Pi is a national honorary and is not necessarily social. It is a fraternity which admits both men and women in which active and alumni members may work together. The purposes of Kappa Pi are to promote art interest among college students; to know the work of other students (preferably through exihibits; to stimulate higher scholarship and to recognize and encourage potential professional ability.

To obtain a pledge to Gamma Iota commendable contributions in the field of art must be shown by the individual and one year's active participation in Alpha Rho Tau. Kappa Pi scholarships are available to those showing promise in art who also have a good academic record.

EOC Fall Term Registration Total 758

—Registration figures for the Eastern Oregon College Fall term stand at 758 this week, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

This figure represents an 11.6 per cent increase over the 647 reported as of the same date last year. The registrar's office indicated the greatest singel increase was noted in the senior class with 94 registered compared with 72. A 20.4 increase, 295 compared with 245, was reported in the number of freshman students.

Registrations the remainder of the week are expected to raise the present figure before final tabulations are made. Last year's final enrollment for Fall term hit 663.

Officers Elected At Class Meets

In the class elections held Tuesday noon, Oct. 8, the Student Council gained 8 new members, four presidents and four representatives. Each class elected a male president an da female representative to attend the first official Student Council meeting which was held that afternoon.

Newly elected officers of the senior class are: President, Norm Nelson from Illinois; vice-president, Richard O'Connell from La Grande; secretary, Jean Edmison from Bend; and representative, Betty Roudebush from La Grande.

Those students selected to lead the juniors this year are: President, Bob Miller from Milton-Freewater; vice-president, Bob Marcus from La Grande; secretary, Vad Kelsoe from La Grande; and representative, Carolyn Muller from St. Helens.

Ski Club Members

All those students who ski are invited to meet from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. each Sunday at the Spout Springs ski club area to make preparations for the 58-59 ski season. It is suggested that they wear work clothes and gloves and bring such equipment as shovels, axes and rakes.

A potluck dinner will be served each noon at the lodge. For further information call Don Seavey, Walla Walla, JA-5-3353.

EOC Dramatists Prepare Diary Of Anne Frank

Eastern Oregon College will be one of the first colleges in the nation to produce "The Diary of Anne Frank" when the all-school play opens on November 13, 14 and 15. This play is based on the true story of a young Jewish girl who went into hiding along with her family and four others when Hitler was exterminating the Jews in Holland. This well-known play won the Pulitzer prize for drama and the New York drama critic's award.

Working under director Richard Hiatt are: Jo Ann Berryman as Anne Frank, Mary Jean Riese as Miep, Tom Mercer as Mr. Frank, Larry Wilder as Mr. Van Daan, Ardyce Garrett as Mrs. Frank, Pat Watson as Margot, Bill Ward as Mr. Kraler, Dan Y'turraspe as Mr. Dussell, and Larry Nelson as Peter.

Talent Show; Ernie Fields Head Agenda

Highlights of this year's Homecoming festivities slated for tonight and tomorrow, October 17 and 18 will include a football game with Westminster of Utah, an All-School Talent Show, and a dance featuring the music of Ernie Fields and his orchestra. These activities are designed for the enjoyment of Alumini as well as present students, but there are several events designed specifically with 1958's student body in mind.

These include the election of the Homecoming Queen on Friday, and her cornation this evening at 7:30 in the college auditorium; Noise Parade through downtown La Grande at 8:00 p.m.; the burning of the "O" and Pep Rally in the vacant lot opposite the college colesium at 8:45 and the Record Dance in Hoke Hall at 9:30. An activity which will be handled by the students for the Alums is the building of sites at various places on the campus. These sites will carry out the theme, "Twenty-ninth year of the Mountaineer, Eastern Oregon is great in '58."

The only activity scheduled without any assistance from the host students is the Alumni Business meeting, to be presided at by Eldon Lilly, president and Mrs. Frances Barton, vice-president. At this meeting new officeers will be elected, according to Miss Neva Neill, alumnia secretary.

Since the first days of New Student Week, student committees have been working to prepare this year's festivities. General co-chairmen are Carolyn Muller and Dick Arends. They have been assisted by the following committees. In most instances, most the chairmen have been listed. Dance, Larry DeKalb; Dance decorations, Alpha Rho Tau; Dance refreshments, Sandy Thompson and Delmer Evans; Talent Show, Mike Ferguson, Jan Robertson and Bob Miller; Coffee hour, Carol Patrick; Frosh-Upperclass Sand bag War, Ron Paulson and Jery Baxter; Ushers for game, Lettermen's Club; Alumni Registration and Dance ticket sale, Linda Kane and Bill Harris; Sale of Mums, S.O.E.A.; Sites, Darell Nichols; Judges of sites, John Wilmarth; Publicity, Betty Roudebush, Norm Nelson and Bev Donovan; Noise and torchlight parade, George Taylor; Election of Queen, Josie Ward; Coronation of Queen, Harold Moore; Committee secretary, Marilyn Hilyard; Business Manager, Jean Hunter. Faculty adviser to the group is Harold C. Dorn.

Those wishing to order individual pictures taken for the Mountaineer may do so from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday, October 23 or from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Tuesday, October 28 in room No. 8 in the basement of Hoke Hall. There will be an additional charge of $1 for these pictures.

EOC Host Of Fall Conference

Saturday, Oct. 11, 1958, was the day on which the Oregon Association held their Fall '58 conference. The object of O.A.E.C. (Oregon Association Educational Conference) is to work toward the education of children; promote more general understanding of the values of early childhood education—so available to all; increase professional knowledge so that we may become better and more resourceful teachers.

Miss Meva Neill, assistant professor of education at EOC and state president of the association for childhood education, gave a brief summary of the activities of this year's fall conference of OACE on the EOC campus.

"Wider Horizons for Today's Children" is the theme, under which four different horizons were covered:

(1) Wider Horizons in Understanding other people.
(2) Wider Horizons in Physical Education and Rhyms.
(3) Wider Horizons in Social Science.
(4) Wider Horizons in Literature.

The objects of each of these fields of study are to help give the elementary students as well as teachers an understanding of the importance of these fields of study.

Saturday 11, there was a coffee hour held at the Children's Library in Ackerman. Also Saturday there were various displays—Books for elementary children reading and displays of art done by the children which were also at Ackerman Children's Library.

In the science department at the administration building there were many science projects done by EOC College students on display. These projects are useful in the instructing of elementary children.

The Conference was highlighted by an address by Dr. Frank Bennett, EOC President, and Dr. Ralph Badgley, EOC professor of Science—Dr. Badgley's topic will be "Recent Deevlopments In Science."

Four study group sessions are scheduled for the morning, following the luncheon with Pauline Johnson, La Grande, as speaker, Miss Eva Wear, Associate Professor of Education, will conduct a Rocking Chair "Tour of Eastern Oregon" at the evening dessert concluding the conference.

Quality Or Equality?

It seems to me that one of the finest organizations on our campus, the chorus, has been slighted. Recently the EOC band was allotted the amount of $1,500 for the purchase of a number of new uniforms. These new uniforms are necessary because of the number of new members. One question comes into my mind concerning this sudden swelling in the membership; is it from the love of music or the love of travel? Doubtless word has spread rapidly concerning the fine tour which our band will take this year, through, among other areas, Washington.

On the other hand we have our chorus; its robes, FIFTEEN years old, because there was not enough money for things of that type this year, have been cleaned once more. In contrast with the extensive tour of the band, the chorus will once again travel the familiar circuit of small Oregon towns from whence the majority of our student body hails.

Doesn't it seem illogical to you to send the band on the out-of-state tour where few, if any, students will be persuaded that EOC ranks with the private schooling which out of state tuition would make it comparable to? A good part of this band has been known to leave during the half time of a school athletic event, leaving only a remnant of a musical group to sorrowfully finish the evening's playing; yet all of these members will enjoy the new uniforms and the tour.

It would seem more logical to me to cut our present band down to those most advanced musicians, present membership as an honor and a wonderful tour as a pleasure well earned. In this way the uniforms we presently have, which really aren't so awfully terrible, could comfortably suit the membership for one or two more years. In this manner also, the chorus could purchase its new robes (which the sum of $1,500 would cover completely, while the same amount will only buy 15 new uniforms, requiring additional uniforms to be purchased every year until the membership of 67 is suited). Then when our chorus represents college to perspective students at EOC, they won't think of their future Alma Mater as a frayed, threadbare crew.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"IN ADDITION TO REGULAR TEACHING ASSIGNMENTS — ALL FACULTY MEMBERS ARE EXPECTED TO SPONSOR A CLUB."

Dorion Doodles
by Jean Hunter

Things are beginning to stiffen up a bit in Dorion these days now that the Standards Committee has had a chance to meet. Even though Mrs. B. won't be issuing demerits, you still have to answer to the Standards Committee for those late minutes and loud noises. There have also been ultimatums delivered about such practices as setting off the fire alarm and talking through the windows after closing hours. Sounds rough, girls, but immediate expulsion is the only answer to these little pranks.

Have the fellows from Hunt Hall become mountain climbers as a last resort. I'll be the first to admit that the girls who walked out of the dance the Hunt fellows sponsored last week should have their heads examined, but it really wasn't necessary for that special committee of Hunt representatives to come over and tell them to hang down their heads.

Floor representatives will be elected Friday and we're hoping they'll begin enforcing the quiet hours rule immediately. These halls really start jumping between 10:30 and 12:00 every night. There will be two floor reps on each floor and they will be elected by the girls on their floor only. The objective is to get one rep in each wing of the dorm but a few hopefuls foresee a selection of two representatives who room together clear at the other end of the floor.

Through rain, hail, sleet or snow the classes must go on. But for the life of me I can't remember anything in the constitution that requires Dorionites to have a daily mud bath. We've come close to being snowed in in previous winters but if tthis street in front of Dorion isn't paved before winter, I sadly fear we'll miss classes for real due to being mudded in. Maybe Falk's will have a special on hip boots, girls.

The big job at Dorion right now is getting ready for Homecoming and that includes not only cleaning up the place, but also finishing up where the contractors left off. Marge has had her hands full these past few weeks and deserves a pat on the back for the good job she's doing.

Youth Switch Program Open

Oregon youth who would like expense-paid trips to overseas countries should apply now for assignment through the International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) program.

IFYE is a project for young people, working to bring about better understanding among people of the world.

Young men and women selected for trips will travel abroad in 1959 on spring, summer or fall programs. They will live and work on farms in an assigned country for four to six months, learning all they can about farm life, and taking pictures to bring back home to share with others.

Young men and women, between 20 and 30, who are in good health, single, and familiar with farm life, are encouraged to apply for trips. Applications and information are available at all county extension offices in Oregon or at the State 4-H club office, at Oregon State college, Corvallis. The State 4-H office is eager to get more applications, particularly from young men. Youth may indicate an interest in a country, but final decision is made from the national 4-H club foundation in Washington, D. C. Deadline for applications is October 18.

The IFYE program is conducted by the national 4-H club foundation, and the cooperative extension service, but no government funds are directly involved in the exchange of delegates.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Having read the editorial in the last school paper concerning the subject of charging admission to school dances, these are my thoughts on the controversy.

Charging admission to the dances would be a means to an end! Through this charge, we as students would enjoy better orchestras, a variety in music and influenced by these thiings, the "usual" would become more interesting and a little "flavor" could be added to EOC social calendar.

Although I believe an admission charge would be a worthwhile adoption, it would seem that charging for every dance would soon eliminate student participation in social events. Logically, a compromise would arise. This compromise would institute a charge for one, possibly two dances during the term and leave other dances for the ASB funds to support. Through such an arrangement, the financial strain on the men would be kept at a minimum. Is a compromise, such as this, so impossible?

A Dorion Girl

Seven Foreign Students At EOC

Three countries as well as Hawaii are represented on our campus this year by the arrival of new foreign students. These students are Jose Bedregal from Bolivia, a freshman majoring in engineering, Salem Rashdam from El-Husn, Jordan, a freshman majoring in pre-medicine, and Ken Kyushu, Japan, a freshman majoring in political science.

Also new to the campus are several Hawaiian students. They are Seymour Baybrook from Kamuela, Hawaii, a junior majoring in secondary education; Ellen Uesugi from Wahiawa, Hawaii, a freshman majoring in elementary education, and Mildred Fukuhara from Makawao, Maui, Hawaii, a junior majoring in elementary education.

Drive Carefully!

Hakim Of Hunt
by George Taylor

Well, now, what seems to be the trouble in the girls dorm, or should I say, with the female members of our esteemed student body? The other night at the envelope-stuffing party in Hunt dining room, many attractive females were in evidence. For awhile. The men decided to entertain the girls after all the mail was packed, and set up the dining room for a dance, even providing refreshments for the blithering females. What did the lesser educated ones do? They went to Hoke Hall and had a ball, thoroughly peeving the male members of our esteemed student body. Many thanks, girls for making the evening one heck of a success; we will try to do the same for you some time.

With Homecoming weekend upon us, let us not forget that this happy time is planned for all of us to enjoy, in one way or another, so take advantage of the opportunity to have a good time.

Are you having any trouble studying? Does the guy or gal in the next room have his Hi-Fi turned up full volume? Do people keep dropping in to disturb you? At last medical science has the answer to your problem, the utopic discovery which will eventually change the civilization ways of mankind—Kill Them!

The fabulous Hunt Front has been getting noisier and rowdier every day as a result of having no females living next door. The exchange dinner last Saturday did help the morale, but it isn't quite the same as having them in the same building. Ah, remorse, remorse, the life we lead is so stagnant.

I don't know if it is policy or not, but the phone-duty gals at Dorion seem to enjoy being nasty to the men who wish to call the floors for girls. Perhaps they should be taught the bare radiments of social manners and treat the men more like the guests than street trash. We would appreciate it much more than we do being crudely treated.

Greetings and salutations, people, and now that you are sufficiently stirred up enough to slit my throat, I will leave you with this word . . live and let me live.

Welcome Home Alums

October 2, 1958

Dear Alumni:

Our students and faculty have been deeply engrossed in Homecoming plans for the entertainment of visiting alumni and guests. Our faculty and students join in a cordial welcome. We hope you will find the weekend exciting, pleasant, and rewarding.

The new buildings we promised you last year have been completed. All buildings on the campus are now heated from the Central Heating Plant. Our women students are comfortably housed in our new modern Women's Dormitory. Men's physical education classes are being conducted in the new Physical Education Plant for men, and in Bob Quinn's 30th year, we will play our basketball schedule in our new College Coliseum.

As you view these new buildings, we want you to know that the dormitory is so arranged that it can receive a second addition to the west equal in size to the present unit. This will give us an ultimate capacity for this building approximating 350 women. Also, the physical education building is so arranged that a women's unit can be built on the west side of the Coliseum, and a swimming pool to the south. When these two units are completed, we will have one of the finest physical education plants in the northwest. The State Board of Higher Education's schedule for buildings indicates that we may expect these buildings in the biennium 1961-63.

At 2:00 p.m. a football game is planned with Westminster College. This should prove an exciting and interesting game.

We are happy that you can join us and add your enthusiasm to ours for a delightful weekend on campus.

Cordially,
FRANK B. BENNETT
President

Meet The EOC Men Who Make Up The Mounties

A look at the 1958 Eastern Oregon College football squad. We have included the player's name, high school, class, position and honors won in high school and college.

QUARTERBACKS:

JERRY DeBORDE, a freshman, is a 1957 graduate of Pendleton High School. He lettered three years in football, earning second team all-conference recognition in 1956, as quarterback and linebacker. Jerry also won letters in baseball, and basketball.

JOHN HOUK, a freshman, is a 1958 graduate of Stanfield High School. He has earned letters in football, basketball, baseball and track. He was named All-Conference both in football and basketball. He was selected the most valuable players in the 1958 East-West Shrine game.

JERRY NEWCOMB, a freshman from Scio and a 1958 grad, won letters in football, basketball, track and baseball. Jerry received honorable mention recognition on the All-Conference baseball team as a second baseman, batting .375. He also won school basketball honors as a top rebounder.

FULLBACKS:

THEODORE LACOCK graduated from The Dalles, 1957, and is a freshman. Ted has lettered both in football and baseball in high school. He has prep experience at both halfback and fullback.

HARRY "GENE" McKINNEY, a sophomore, is a transfer from the University of Arizona, and is a 1956 graduate of Union. Gene received the Union High School Athletic Award in addition to letters in football, baseball, basketball, and track. He participated in the 1956 East-West Shrine All-Star game at Pendleton. Gene won an EOC letter in track last spring, throwing the javelin.

DEAN WHITELEY, a 1958 graduate of McEwen High School at Athena, participated in the East-West Shrine game, in addition to winning recognition on the Cayuse conference All-Star team. Dean, who lettered in football, baseball, and basketball, was also named to the Umatilla-Morrow All-Star baseball team.

JOHN WILLMARTH, the only letterman fullback, is a sophomore, having graduated from La Grande High School in 1957. Prep honors won by John include 1957 Shrine All-Star, first team All-Conference, all state second team, and All American honorable mention. John ranked second among the top Oregon Collegiate Conference punters last season, averaging 35.4, which we might add is better this year. He also earned All Collegiate Conference recognition in baseball, pitching, and playing outfield.

HALFBACKS:

BENNIE HOUK lettered at EOC last year in this same position. He is a sophomore and graduated from Stanfield in 1957. He earned prep honors in football, making the All-Conference team, playing in the 1957 East-West Shrine tilt. Bennie also won high school monograms in basketball baseball, and track.

GEORGE ALVERTI, a freshman, graduated from St. Patricks of Walla Walla in 1958, where he won All-State alternate recognition. He also won monograms in basketball, track and baseball. George also holds his school record for the most touchdowns.

JOHN BOTZ, a graduate of Elgin High School, is one of the few seniors on the squad. John was a member of the 1955 East-West Shrine team and won Elgin letters in football, baseball, basketball and track.

SAM "CLICKETY" CLACK, just returned from two years in the army, graduated from Union in 1956, and along with teammate Gene McKinney, was a member of the 1956 East-West Shrine team. Sam, a freshman, earned three letters each in football, basketball, track, and baseball at Union.

DICK CONNOR, a freshman from Weston, graduated in 1958. He lettered four years in football and baseball and three in basketball and track. Dick was a member of the East-West Shrine team. A dash man, he placed in the 100 and 220 at the state meet.

JIM DICKEY, a freshman and a 1957 graduate of Hermiston High where he earned second team All-Conference honors. Jim lettered in football, track and basketball.

BUD DOWN, an EOC letterman in 1954, is a senior. He graduated from Lakeview High School in 1954 where he lettered four years in football, three in basketball and one in track.

STEVE EVERITT, as a freshman last year, saw some duty with the varsity. He is a 1957 graduate of Caldwell, Idaho high school, lettering in football, track, basketball and baseball. Steve, who now calls Baker his home, holds the prep All-Big Six record for the 100-yard dash at 10.2 set in 1956.

HERBERT W. FORBES, JR., is a 1958 Redmond graduate where he played end, tackle, and halfback. Herb, who lettered two years in football and track was named to the Central Oregon Football All-Stars.

EDDIE HUGGINS, a freshman, graduated from Union in 1957 where he won the most valuable player award as a fullback. Ed won monograms in football, basketball, track, baseball and boxing.

JOHN McCLASKEY is a 1958 Madras grad where, as a halfback, he was named to the Central Oregon All- Star team. Mack lettered in football, basketball, baseball and track.

JERRY WILLIAMS, who earned All-Conference fullback honors at La Grande High School last year, has switched to halfback. Jerry also received honorable mention on the high school All-American. He is a top dash man, having earned letters in track along with football.

ROGER THOMPSON, from Bowman, North Dakota, is a 1958 high school graduate. Roger lettered four years in football, earning his school's most valuable player award.

Archie and Don, Mountie Coaches

Archie Dunsmoor is the head football coach at EOC. Arch, who took over the Mountaineers in 1955, coached EOC to the Oregon Collegiate Conference championship in 1956 following his inaugural year which brought Eastern Oregon a share of the OCC crown. Both seasons, with 5-3 records, proved to be the best in 20 years.

Before coming to EOC, Archie coached at Redmond for nine years, five of them as head football coach and assistant in track and baseball. He is a grad of Washington High in Portland and lettered in football and baseball at OCE. The EOC mentor attended Idaho State under the Navy V-12 program and in 1944 was a member of the Miami Naval training center football team.

Dunsmoor, an assistant professor of physical education and head track coach, has a B.S. (1957) from OCE and a M.S. (1954) from the University of Oregon.

Donald Campbell is the assistant football coach. Don,an assistant professor of physical education, is in his second year at EOC after being at Redmond as assistant football, basketball, and track coach. He also coached at Cottage Grove and Watertown, S.D.

Campbell is a graduate (B.A. 1950) of Augustana College, South Dakota and has a M.S. (1955) from the University of Oregon. At Augustana, he participated in football and track. During Air Force service, Don coached the 4th Replacement Depot basketball team which placed second in the 1957 All-Japan Army Air Force tournament. At EOC, Don is also freshman basketball mentor.

YoungRepublicans Sponsor Hatfield

Mark Hatfield, present Secretary of State, and Republican candidate for governor, was a visitor on the EOC campus Thursday, Oct. 2. Hatfield's stop was sponsored by the EOC Young Republican.s

After an informal coffee break in Hoke Hall, Hatfield was introduced by Dick Arends, president of the local young Republicans, in the A.V. auditorium where Hatfield held a brief question and answer period.

Several items of interest in today's political scene in Oregon were discussed. Among these was the opinion of the guest speaker on the Oregon State Game Commission's open season on during deer hunting season, the educational status of Oregon in comparison with other states, how state sales tax compares to personal income tax, why the population of Oregon has decreased in the last year, and finally, what a revision of the state constitution would consist of. He also gave his opinions on Washington's Initiative 202, which concerns labor unions.

Hatfield expressed his appreciation to the group attending and mentioned his delight on being in a campus atmosphere again.

Band, Chorus Reveal Season's Activities

Mr. Neil Wilson, chorus director, and Dr. Rhodes Lewis, band director, have recently released the schedules for the two musical organizations on campus which consist of 124 of EOC's student body.

The band is going to play for the Pep Rally Friday night and for the Homecoming game. They will play for the assembly next Wednesday. The tours this year are still in the planning stage. "But, the band will be on hand for two basketball games at Portland State College in Portland, during the course of their tour," said Dr. Lewis.

A selected, auditioned pep band will play for the basketball games this year.

The members of the band are as follows: Virginia Wellington, Don Cole, Marjorie Talbott, Laurence Christman, John Whiteman, Bob Winkel, Janet Hibbert, Keith Masterson, Phyllis Read, Ron Waite, Keith Metacalf, Vaughn Folkman, Willard Ward, Martin Shattuck, Loren Nebeker, Mike Ferguson, Dean Gover, Bob Patter- Barbara Hodgins, Theresa Rauwolfe, Verna Waterman, Linda Bean, Eloise Reynolds, Alan Sison, Owen Calvert, Jim Davidson, Good, Stanley Sisson, Ardythe Wilde, Barbara Myer, Eleanor Edvalson, Virginia Brown, Bill Coffin, Mary Gray, Juanita White, Bernice Campbell, Doug Ralston, Barbara Paris, Mayben DeGraw Danny Tucker, Marcia MacPherson, Gerald Roloff, Neil Williamson, Darrell Jones, Shirely Hall, Pauline Whiteis, John Wagner, Gary Dielman, Ken Langdon, Faye Ferris, Pat Morton, Clairnel Anglin, Elvin Taylor, Raymond Reeder, Ted Lacock, and Richard Ousterling.

The members of the chorus will make their first appearance at the Thangsgiving assembly. The numbers for this appearance are being selected now. "Messiah" by Handel will be presented December 7 as a public concert featuring the chorus, the orchestra, and solos. "Brigadoon" is planned for winter term, March 11, 12, 13, and 14. The spring tour is planned for sometime in April. They will also perform for Parent's Weekend and various assemblies throughout the year.

The Pendleton Naval Reserve Electronics Unit has a new Commanding officer in Lieutenant Neil E. Wilson USNR who relieved Lieltenant J. R. O'connor USNR in ceremonies Monday evening, September 29, at the Naval Reserve facility Pend-Air Heights.

Lieutenant Wilson read his orders before the assembled unit, orders which were issued by the Commandant Thirteenth Naval District Seattle, and which directed Luietenant Wilson to assume duties as commanding officer of Naval Reserve Electronnes Division 13-25 and as officer-in-charge of the Naval Reserve facility. The unit of 6 officers and 25 enlisted men stood at attention during the reading of orders. Lieutenant O'Connor who teaches at Hermiston High School has served as the commanding officer for the past year but in line with policy of the Naval Service, relinquished his command to enable other Reserve Officers to gain command experienc. Lieutenant Wilson lives in La Grande and is associated with the Music Department at Eastern Oregon College.

Year's Assembly Plans Announced

Planning EOC's assembly program for the year has been completed by the joint Faculty-Student Assembly Committee. The funds with which this committee works are provided by student body fees and state provisions. Some of the budgeted money is also set aside to enable the EOC students to attend the La Grande Civic Music Association concerts. The committee has released some of the coming programs, including:

November 19—the Pierrat Sisters, two French girls, will come to us under the cooperative efforts of the French government and the American State Department. One is a pianist and the other a cellist.

November 25—the tentative date for the Thanksgiving assembly which will be presented by the Inter-faith Council.

December 10—the Christmas Assembly will be presented by the music department.

January 16—Neil Douglas will give a lecture and show a film on Russia.

February 10—Rosemary Clarke, a pianist will appear.

Also appearing on campus during the year will be Theodore Allum, another pianist, who will come from the Artist's League and the Grace Memorial Foundation, and possibly programs on physical sciences, biological sciences and China.

Series Wearies

Be a Brave little Indian and don't think it's a Cardinal sin just because those Yankees beat the Sox (Red and White) off of all the other "Cubs" in the series. Drama Department Prepares Play For November Opening

By Janet Wakefield

Mr. Richard Hiatt, director of the all-school play reports that their production, "The Dairy of Anne Frank," is making excellent progress. This play based on the book, "Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl," is to be presented on November 13, 14, and 15 at the College Theatre.

Realistically depicting the cramped quarters of four make-shift rooms in Anne's Secret Annex has created quite a challenge for all involved in this presentation. Unlike most plays, the characters are constantly in view to the audience. This calls for a great deal of imagination and concentration on the part of the cast. Hiatt commented that he was very impressed with the cast's desire to portray Anne Frank's real story. Many of the cast have already read the book and are doing further reading in effort to effectively interpret their part.

A multi-level set is being constructed under the direction of Mike Ferguson and Gene Todd. Mrs. Elinor Denny, head of the sound effects department, has the problem of portraying the sometimes pleasant and sometimes terrifying sounds of the outside world to the audience who never sees outside the Secret Annex. Sandra Benson is in charge of the lighting. Seven new lighting instruments promise a great improvement in the settings. Sharon Hickey is the committee head responsibile for all make-up. Sharon Noyes is in charge of properties.

Rehearsals have been every weeknight from seven to nine. A November 10. Dress rehearsal Tamashera, third floor representa- is scheduled for November 12 .

OFCL Confab To Be Held December 5-6

The Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders, OFCL, will hold its conference this year on December 5 and 6 at Southern Oregon College.

EOC will be represented at this conference by the organization's Vice-President, Josie Ward, our Student Body President, Harold Moore and two or three other delegates who will be chosen at a later date.

Among the actiivties being planned for the conference, will be discussion groups which will be headed by the student body presidents from the member schools.

"It is through organizations and conferences such as this that our leaders learn how to be better leaders in school, community and nation," states EOC President Harold Moore.

Dorion Hall Holds Council Elections

Recent elections at Dorion Hall have completed the student officials of that organization. Serving with President Marge Talbott, Vice - President Margaret Preston, Secretary Nancy Swanson, and Treasurer Nina Belshee will be the newly elected Standard's and floor representatives.

Those serving on the Standard's Committee with members elected last spring are: Jo Key, senior representative; Kay Bondurant and Pat Ward, junior representatives and Gail Fisher, representative at large.

Floor representatives for this school year will be: Pauline Whiteis and Mary Conklin, first floor; Mardi Thompson and Marilyn Hilyard, second floor; and Lee Ann Dougherty and Carol Tamashera, thir floor representatives. These girls are in charge of maintaining discipline and house rules on each floor. They have the power to give demerits to enforce house regulations and will also present the views, ideas and suggestions of the girls on their floors at the house meetings.

BENNETT TO SPEAK

Anyone interested is invited by the Modern Language Club at Eastern Oregon College to hear Dr. Frank Bennett, president of the College, and Jerry Brown, a student at EOC, present an informative and interesting program on Alaska.

This program will be held on the college campus from 7-9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 3 in Hoke hall.

Civic Music Schedule Set

The Civic Music Concert series this year include a cellist, a baritone, a male quartet, and duo pianists. The specific dates aren't available yet. In November, Gilbert Reese, a cellist, will be with us. January will bring Joseph Boardman, a baritone. A male quartet, The Chancleers, will be here in Fabruary. The Mauney Twins, duo pianists, will perform in April. These two brothers travel around the country side, each driving his own trailer truck carrying his own Steinway grand piano with him.

All full-time E. O. C. students are admitted to these concerts upon presentation of their student body cards.

Hunter, Miller Represent EOC AT SU Meet

Eastern Oregon is being represented in Corvallis this week-end at the regional conference of Student Unions by Jean Hunter and Bod Miller. Both juniors at EOC, the two delegates left La Grande Wednesday to attend the conference which will continue until Satpurday, November 1. While on the OSC campus they are staying at fraternity and sorority houses.

Bob and Jean will attend workshops, discussion labs and lectures on how improvements can be made in the administration of colege students unions. This is the first year EOC has sent delegates to the conference. Bob is chairman of the campus student union and Jean is ASB business manager.

ANNUAL PICTURES

The annual photographer will be here again on November 3 to accommodate those students who were unable to have their pictures taken in October. Don't forget this date, the Mountaineer Staff would like to have the pictures of all students in the annual.

EOC Professor Representative Of NEA Department

Alene Gossage, assistant professor of education at Eastern Oregon College, has been appointed Northwest representative of the National Education Association department of Kindergarten-Primary Education. The announcement was made by Ethel Thompson, Washington, D.C., consultant in elementary education.

Miss Gossage, who is also supervisor of teaching, will be representative for Washington, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho.

Sadie Hawkins Dance To End Campus Dog Patch Daze

Have you been caught yet, men? If not, beware of all females, for today is the day set aside for husband catching at EOC. Much to the dismay of the girls, however, this is not for real, but part of the Sadie Hawkins Day-Dogpatch Daze celebration. Actually, things got rolling yesterday when the fellows went on a non-shaving binge. This rebellion continues today, and the whiskers won't go until after the dance tomorrow night. To top things off, these three days have been proclaimed "Scrounge Days," so any type of dress goes.

All these events are under the sponsorship of the Women's Recreation Association and will be topped off tomorrow, Saturday, November 1 at 8:30 p.m. when the Sadie Hawkins Day dance gets under way. This dance is strictly a girl-ask-boy affair with music by Billy Howell's band from Elgin. Intermission entertainment will be provided, in part, by Johanna Hardwicke, who will sing, and Sandra Benson and Sandra Thompson, who will dance. To top things off, Marrin' Sam will be present to take care of any couples who feel the urge to tie the knot. Also present will be a photographer to take pictures of the various costumes and the prize winners in the Costume competition. According to Nancy Swanson, head of WRA, the grand prize will be a dinner at one of the downtown restaurants.

Nancy also stated that a date bureau has been set up for the dance, and that any boy wanting a date should contact the president of Hunt Hall, Ken Manns.

Co-chairman for the dance are Helen Walter and Mary Conklin, Diane Tanke and Sandra Laney are in charge of publicity.

Sabers Order New Uniforms

Sabers, women's servcie organization, is celebrating its tenth anniversary this month. The club was formed October of 1948. Their most recent addition in the organization is the purchase of new uniforms which consist of white blazers, navy blouses and skirts and white university shoes. These uniforms replace the gray skirts and royal blue V-necked sweaters of past years.

Six new pledges have been taken into the organization this fall, including Jo Ann Berryman, Ardyce Garrett, Betty Johnson, Virginia Wellington, Pauline Whiteis, and Billie Jean York.

Some of the activities Sabers have taken part in include the Heart Fund Drive, the Blood drive ,selling concessions at football and basketball games, serving at the style show and serving the various civic organizations.

This year's officers are Patsy Carpenter, president; Jean Marie Damon, vice president; Carolyn Muller, secretary-treasurer. Miss Jean Neely is the adviser.

Kane Chosen Baker Delegate InArmyContest

Miss Linda Kane, representing Baker District in the Miss Recruiter contest, sponsored by the Army Recruiting Division of Eastern Oregon; left for Boise, Idaho Wednesday, October 23, 1958.

Upon arrival at noon she was then escorted to lunch in Boise. Her escort being Sergeant J. Grice, Recruiting Officer of Baker District, who acted as Linda's official escort. Also from Baker Area was Mr. Danny Peters, News Editor and announcer for KBKR radio station in Baker, who served as one of the judges for the contest.

During her visit in Boise Miss Kane was taken on a tour through the Army Recruiting Center, and given a brief outline of the process by which induction is performed.

Later the representatives from all the various districts spent an hour on Television, Channel 2 of Boise. After which the girls enjoyed watching the Bonnie Walsh Show.

The evening of October 23, Miss Recruiter from each of the many districts were honored guests at a Banquet dinner at which all representatives in the contest were awarded trophies as well as individual gifts to each girl, thus bringing the contest to a close.

Miss Linda Kane is a Junior attending school at Eastern Oregon College here in La Grande.

SOEA Headed By Carpenter

Ackerman Auditorium was the scene the evening of October 8 of the first meeting for the campus SOEA organization. Myron Carpenter, president of EOC's Student Oregon Education Association, presented the officers for the coming year as Jean Edmison, vice-president; Margaret Preston as secretary, Roberta Lyons as treasurer and Susan Peterson as historian. Dr. Martha Addy serves as advisor.

The theme for this first meeting was "Meet the Professional Gang." Myron told of SOEA's place in the teaching profession's organization. Membership in Future Teachers of America in high school leads to SOEA in college. This in turn leads to Oregon Education Association, professional organization for the teachers of Oregon. Representatives from SOEA and OEA, plus their state officers, make up TEPS, Teacher's Education and Professional Standards Commission. There is also a National Student Educational Association as well as a National Education Association and a National TEPS Commission.

Margaret Preston spoke briefly on "What Can SOEA Do for Me", and the greater importance of "What I can do for SOEA." Committees were set up to work on the monthly SOEA radio program over the local radio station and to work on a large picture file t be available to all education students.

The next meeting will be November 2 when the theme will be 'Elementary and Secondary Talk —the hows and whats of elementary and secondary teaching."

Music Department Presents Concert

Wednesday night a concert was presented in the College Theatre by duo-pianists Gail Coffin Swart and Lyle McMullen of the EOC Music Department. This was the first of a program of musical events to be featured by the department.

Mrs. Swart, of Enterprise, was a 1957 graduate of Eastern Oregon Celege. Mr. McMullen is the associate professor of music on campus. This concert has been in preparation since spring.

Included in the program of Bach, Brahams and Dubussy was the Sonnett in C Sharp Minor which was composed by Mr. McMullen.

Best Ever—Class Of '62

For being one of the most enthusiastic groups ever to be part of the EOC campus since we of the upper classes have been here, a vote of thanks and recognition goes to this year's Freshman class. Of the record-breaking enrollment at EOC this class comprises 301 members, more than enough to make or break any project or activity on the campus if they so choose, by merely not taking part or frowning down on the efforts to solicit aid by the upper classmen.

This has not been the case however, these freshmen have taken their 301 strong membership and done something really useful and constructive with it; they comprise the majority of many if not all of our campus oroganizations including the band, chorus, football team and forth-coming all-school play. In Homecoming activities we all were aware of how hard and earnestly they are working to make EOC truly great in '58.

Coming And Going—Thanks

Open Letter—

Students of EOC are to be congratulated for helping to make homecoming weekend a success. Comments by several people ranged from "better than last year" to "the pep parade was the best ever." All chairmen, under the leadership of Dick Arends and Carolyn Muller did an excellent job.

Special praise should go to the freshman class under the leadership of Tom Storm, president, and guidance of Mr. Merrill, class advisor.

To all students, and faculty, thank you for your cooperation—and we're looking toward '59 Homecoming.

Sincerely,
Neva Neill and Harold Dorn,
Homecoming Advisors.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NO YOU CAN'T TAKE ENGLISH AS FULFILLMENT OF YOUR 'FOREIGN LANGUAGE' REQUIREMENT."

Hakim Of Hunt
by George Taylor

The Romans had the plan, building their cities on a hill. Any innocent bystander would have run for his chariot if he had seen the flaming, boistrous mass of humanity descend from the EOC citadel to wreak havoc in the unsuspecting city of La Grande, as the students tramped the main way in a noise parade that set a precedent. The Emperor's police force became slightly perturbed at the amount of noise, the torches, burning piles of plunder left in the streets, the premature burning of the bonfire by the upper classmen, and the subsequent robbery.

Of this robbery, there is little to note. One blustery eve, several students hitched up their chariots, and with the help of the gods (there was no moon) silently stole to the sections of town where the city merchants and apprentices have their villas, and with a mighty cry of battle, raped the city of garbage can lids. Of course, when the emperor found out about all this, he was slightly upset, so he turned the matter over to a lesser governing body, who immediately took action. The dastardly ones were apprehended, and retribution was the merchant's due. The guilty ones were forced to auction off their chariots, tunics, and wives, but at last the provocative lids were paid for, and all the city was at peace.

"Pillage, plunder and burn," was the upper classman crie at the bonfire, as the ailing freshman, having lost many, many brave warriors to their mothers for the weekend, struggled to protect and preserve their altar fire, built in readiness for the sacrifice to the goddess of Homecoming, Gaylene. The uppers had the upper hand throughout theh terrible battle, and soon the sacreligiously built altar-fire was a mass of flame. Having conquered, the uppers ordered the lowers to rebuild the fire, in a more perfect way, to which the rooks responded with gusto, and didn't even have to be beaten.

During the course of the afternoon, the beautiful goddess comprising the court was set upon by vassals, and the Beautiful goddesses comprising the court were set upon by vassals, an dthe beautiful queen was captured by Allaverdizues, who carried her away on wings of blue Mercury. Full regiments of Upper warriors were called to the rescue, and apprehended Allaverdizues and Gaylene in flight. She was taken from the blue chariot by Toma neelius, God of Love, who would have beheaded Alaverdizues on the spot, had not Gaylene put in a plea for his life. The coronation and events of the evening went as planned.

As the Olympic Games reached the mid-point Saturday, a conspiring Emperor placed several 50 pound sacks of gold dust in the center of the arena in preparation for a contest between the Uppers and the Lowers. The legions amassed at each end of the field, and Gaylene gave the sign to begin the fray. Both groups charged, and it was a splendid sight to see two armies, in full battle regalia charging down the arena and meeting in the center with a horrendous crash. Blood flowed free and slaughter was the by-word, to the Uppers. They crashed down the field, carrying all the sacks of gold to their end of the arena, and trampling any Lower forces in their path. It was a moment of glory for the Uppers to look back on the crushed and broken troops of the lowers, and only heaven kept them from going back and finishing off the motly army.

Last event of the weekend was the Royal Ball, which was just that. As Apollo rose in the east next morning, the fun-loving Romanic populace of EOC retired to nurse whatever they had. Great weekend.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the editor:

Being a former member of the choir, I am fully aware of the need for new choir robes. Each year when the choir prepares to tour they dig out their "15 year old graduation gowns" and sew in ripped out hems, replace snaps and make general repairs. In addition to being worn out they aren't even the right color, for they weren't intended to be choir robes in the first place.

Let's get new robes for the choir and make a dream 15 years old come true!

Sincerely,
Lynette Wood

Letter to the Editor

Your editorial "Quality or Equality" concerning the financial aid needed by our chorus compared to the aid already attained by the band has opened many blind eyes to the situation.

We agree, our chorus is being neglected! Isn't there something that can be done about this unfair situation?

The chorus is planning and preparing two very fine productions this year, The Messiah and Brigadoon. They are devoting a great deal of time and effort to them, and yet, we, the student body have turned down their plea for new robes. As was pointed out in the article they are now using 15 year old robes.

Since the article we have been hearing quite a few indignant cries from the "wounded" members of the band. These cries seem to have drowned out the real issue. Undoubtedly the band is also a very loyal organization, and has served our school well. The point is, should they be treated better tthan another just as loyal organization?

Can't we find some way to appropriate money for the chorus? Perhaps the chorus could help out by activiting some money-making plan, if the money could be partially supplied by the student body.

Vad Kelsoe
Sara Workman

We hope the editor will continue to write timely editorials expressing her opinion on pertinent matters; however, we also hope the editor will substantiate any facts she may use in expressing her opinions. In the recent editorial the statement was made, "A good part of this Band has been known to leave during the halftime of a school athletic event, leaving only a remenant of a musical group to sorrowfully finish the evening's playing." This is a reflection on the loyalty of the Band members, since one of the first principles under which the Band operates at ball games is that all members remain at the ball game until the Alma Mater has been played at the end. I have been in the Band only a year and a half and have talked with people who have been in the Band many more years than I, and not one person can recall having seen anybody leave the game before it was over unless excused because of illness or other logical reasons. I can well remember sitting in the stands at football games when it was so cold and the score was so uninteresting that a great number of students departed for warmer pastures while the Band—to a man—remained to the bitter end.

We of the Band have been working hard to make the group one of which we can be proud. Now when the Band begins to show the fruit of our labors, our editor would have us cut our Band down to the point where we again would perform with a lesser membership than the high school Bands in the towns we visit. Contrary to what the editor expressed, no one is complaining about our present uniforms, and as she suggests, are intended to remain in satisfactory condition for more than the one or two years she mentioned. The allotted amount of money, not specifically $1500, is to purchase, not 15 uniforms, but 12 uniforms and 10 overcoats, which is only the bare minimum needed to uniform properly people who are not now properly uniformed. I believe the student council was wise in deciding that it is a case of providing something we do not now have instead of replacing something we do not now have instead of replacing something we already have. However, we will be the first to agree, no one has denied the fact that the choir needs new robes, and we sincerely hope that this can be accomplished in the very near future.

Dorion Doodles
by Jean Hunter

"Darling you are growing old" could well be the theme Dorion played to this week. Birthday parties on every floor and birthday songs at every meal have been the most excitement the inhabitants could work up. Then, of course, there are always those few who feel a birthday song once a month is the least they can do for the unfortunate one who's birthday occurs during the summer months. Nothing but consideration for a fellow traveler.

Wednesday night was big-little sister night. Upperclass girls took their freshmen little sisters to dinner in the cafeteria which proved very good for dorm relations since it gave us a chance to inform the frosh that those meatballs certainly are not made out of PUSS 'N BOOTS! (We deal only with the PARD people.) Later that evening the gals celebrated the blessed event, that of having a new little sister, at a cocoa and doughnuts party in the cafeteria. Surprisingly enough the feature attraction proved to be not the food but a very talented quartet of Hawaiian girls singing some of their native songs. These kids are really good and they have a talent that should be put to more use.

Mrs. Miller met with Dorionites Tuesday noon and answered questions about dorm problems. Seems that eventually we will get such things as mailboxes, mud scrapers, towel racks, clothes lines, etc. We were pleased to hear that Mrs. Miller is trying to get us a range and refrigerator for the second floor lounge. Best news of all though was that the lounge rug (mix bourbon and egg yoke and have its color) will be hidden away till Spring. Some have expressed the hopue that it will meet the fate of Hunt's rubber plant.

Transfer students have been giving us trouble again. Thursday evening one U of O transfer suddenly went berserk, jumped up from the dining table, ran around it, put her tray on the floor, crawled under the table and began eating. We finally got her seated at the table again and sang a soothing son to calm her. Good Godfrey, Mardi, wha' hopponed? (explaination: Mardi was really just following the instructions of her friends who were singing congratulations to her on her recent engagement to Dennis Godfrey.)

OSC reports that their engineers come out of hiding at least once a year for their annual ball. This year the theme was "Sliderule Serenade." Four miles of crepe paper and giant replicas of sliderules were used to decorate the labs for this affair.

From the "Emerald" during their argument on the discontinuance of physical enforcement of traditions: "A tradition is a usage handed down from one student generation to another until by the very weight of a long-lived custom, it becomes the accepted order. A true tradition enforces itself." An apt quotation, don't you think?

Mountaineers Lose 34-14 At Portland

Portland State's Vikings played their best game of the season to defeat the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers in a bruising battle at the Roosevelt High School field in Portland Saturday night, 34-14.

The win gave the Vikings a 1-3 mark in Oregon Collegiate Conference standings while the Mounties dropped into last place in the loop with an 0-3 record. The Mounts have one game left, with Southern Oregon at Ashland November 8.

Portland State's touted halfback, George Kanes, scored two TDs for the Vikings and established a new record of 9.5 yards gained per carry in one game.

EOC scored both TDs in the final frame when halfback Jerry Williams cut off right tackle for one score and Steve Everitt turned in the most spectacular run of the game when he returned a kickoff 92 yards for a touchdown. Jerry DeBorde ran for the first point and Jerry Newcombe passed to Jack Woods for the second PAT.

This morning at the weekly meeting of the Mastermind Football Club here, line coach Don Campbell said "it was a better game than the score indicates although our line played one of the worst games of the season."

Coach Arch Dunsmoor said he used three quarterbacks in the battle—and freshman Jerry Newcombe, 138-pounder from Scio, "came through in fine style." It was Newcombe's first varsity action for the Mountaineers.

Portland State Coach Les Leggett, after the battle, said, "We were due for a decent game. We have lost some tough ones. We didn't cook up anything special for this game — the boys just wanted to win and they did."

This weekend the Mounties travel to Caldwell, Idaho for a non-conference game with the College of Idaho Coyotes. The Coyotes lost to unbeaten Willamette of the Northwest loop, 54-7 Saturday.

Owls Defeat Mounties 26-6

The EOC Mountaineers threw a first half scare into the visiting OTI Owls before losing the game 27-6 as the Owls scored three touchdowns in the second half.

EOC completely dominated the first half and scored early with George Aliverti going over from the two. This gave Eastern Oregon a momentary lead until late in the second quarter when OTI tied the count at 6-6 when Al Everson of the Owls plunged over from the two.

Alan Leach broke the tie in the third quarter when he ran nine yards to give the Owls a lead they never relinquished. In the fourth quarter the victors padded their margin with two touchdowns. Both were scored on passes from quarterback Charley Ganther. One a 4-yard pass to Ardell Hamilton and the other a 30-yard scoring play to Otis Foster.

The accurate passing arm of OTI Charley Ganther proved to be the big difference in the second half as their running game had been completely bottled up.

Mounties Lose Homecoming Game To Westminster

The Mountaineers of Eastern Oregon College, playing in wind and rain, almost won their first game of the season in losing a heartbreaker to the visiting Westminster team 20-12 in EOC's annual homecoming game October 18.

This will mark the first time that the Mountaineers have dropped a homecoming game in four years. However, they lost it in a highly impressive manner. Westminster has lost but one game in the past three years, that one to Oregon Tech 6-0 earlier this year.

After the Parsons of Westminster scored two quick TDs, the Mountaineers roared right back to tally two and the game remained 14-12 until the last 18 seconds of the game when Gil Cordova of Westminster sneaked over from the three to make the final score 20-12.

The game was highlighted by a kicking incident which erupted in the second quarter. Larry Kirkes, Little All-American tackle from Westminster, kicked one of the EOC players after the whistle had blown ending a play. The entire Mounty squad and Coach Archie Dunsmoor immediately ran onto the field and a regular old-fashioned slug-fest ensued as the Westminister players also rushed onto the field to do battel. The incident ended when Kirkes was ejected from the game and Westminster penalized 30 yards for three different personal fouls. This put the Parsons back on their own three yard line.

Minutes later, John Houk pitched out to George Aliverti for the score, the first for the Mounts. LeeRoy Garland's try for point was no good.

Though inspired before the incident, the Mounties seemed to catch fire and added another TD when halfback Jerry Williams plunged over from the two on off-tackle play. Trying for the extra point, Williams slipped on the rain-swept turf and failed to reach the goal line.

Throughout the final stanza the game was a see-saw battle as the Mounties continually tried to score and the Parsons to protect their two-point margin. Led by 205-pound fullback Ken Strong, the Parsons finally tallied their final TD with just 18 seconds remaining to be played.

The Mounties were somewhat handicaped while playing without the services of fullback John Willmarth and halfback Sam "clickity" Clack. Both players should be ready for Portland State.

PIGSKIN POINTERS

By Bill Coffin

Probably the most unheralded football player is the lineman who is never breaking out into the clear and going ninety yards for a touchdown. He is never seen making a brilliant pass reception for the winning score. The only opportunity a lineman has for personal glory is a rare pass interception or the recovery of a fumble in the opponents end-zone.

Spectators seldom see or pay much attention to the lineman who is opening a hole for the ball carrier or taking out a would-be tackler. For the football fan wants to see touchdowns, breath-taking runs and passing. It is natural then for him to focus all attention on the player who is doing the pigskin handling.

There is one particular lineman who undoubtedly never receives due credit for a game well played; the center. The center is one of the most important men on the team. He handles the ball first on every offensive play. The center controls the timing of the team; the essence of any offense. It is his job to see that the ball is passed back flawlessly. Once he has centered the ball, he is expected to carry out his blocking assignment with the same degree of efficiency as any other lineman.

The center is the sparkplug of the line. He is the human dynamo whose leadership, play, and vibrant display of spirit radiates throughout the entire team. This requires a great deal of persistance and initiative.

It should also be mentioned that the center is: (1) the first man to form the huddle, (2) must repeat the signal given by the quarterback, (3) must be the first lineman to line up, and (4) to check that everyone is on side before the ball is snapped.

Remember that the entire football team is built around the center whose responsibility is greater than any other player on the gridiron. A slap on the back and words of congratulations to our center and all centers of football.

MOON DRUGS

Council Corner

By Jean Hunter

The October 7 student council meeting centered primarily on money matters. First up on the agenda was a motion to give the band approximately $1400 for additional uniforms (which, incidentally, had already been ordered, with the approval of a previous council that did not have a quorum, before the October 7 meeting was held). This motion was passed but now we're faced with the problem of future policy on money for the new uniforms the band will need in the years to come. This money can't continue to come from ASB funds.

George Taylor, Rally Squad Leader, appeared before the council to request an increase of $50.00 for the Rally Squad Fund. This woudl give the Squad a total of $100 to work with. He explained that the increase was necessary for the purchase of three rally sweaters for the boy cheer leaders. These sweaters would remain ASB property and could be used in following years. The remainder of the money would be used in part for the song leaders' uniforms and for a travel fund. It seemed that the council was rather reluctant to vote this increase but that could have been the after-effects of the $1400 blow that preceded Taylor's request. However, we finally came to the conclusion that a snappily uniformed Rally Squad probably did as much for good school publicity as the other uniformed organizations on campus and the increase was voted into effect.

The last money matter discussed was that of charging a $2.00 admission to the Homecoming Dance, which will feature $300 worth of Ernie Field music. Although the question of charging for this particular dance was entirely on the hands of the Homecoming Committee, the council was concerned about the same question for future dances. The general concensus of opinion seemed to be that if we could get a good dance band it would be worth an admission price.

Bob Miller, Student Union Chairman, announced a coming Student Union confab to be held in Corvallis the latter part of October. Bob and another student (the council wil lappoint a girl later) will be EOC's offiical representatives at this conference. With EOC presently planning to extend its Student Union faciliites, these people should get many beneficial ideas from this coference.

ASB office hours are being set up so that all students will be able to make use of the facilities we have in the ASB office. Committees are presently working on the purchase of a new duplicating machine and typewriter for the office. These machines will be available for student use for a fee that will include paper, stencils, and duplicating fluid. There will be a member of the council in the office during scheduled hours to help students in their use of these machines.

Coming events for next council meeting will be the presentation of the revised ASB budget by the Student Business Manager as well as a report from the committee working on the band uniform policy problem.

Music Notes

By KAREN EDVALSON

The students of the music department are using their talent to entertain others, as well as to collect much needed community hours. Beginning soon a group of music students will go to Hot Lake every Thursday afternoon to help thegray ladies at the hospital and entertain the patients.

In addition, many students have given up time in the evenings to perform for community organizations. Nola Bubb sang October 15 for the Union County OEA, accompanied by Lee Ann Dougherty. She sang "Someone to Watch Over You." A larger group appeared last Wednesday, October 22, when five students performed at Eastern Star. First on the program was Johanna Hardwick, who sang "Hello Young Lovers" and "We Kiss in a Shadow," both from "The King and I." Alan Sikes and Virginia Wellington played a French Horn-Flute duet, a very unusual combination, titled "Serenade' by Titl. Bob Barrett arrived just in time to close the program by singing "Shanandoah." Bouquets to Ardyce Garrett, the accompaniest for the group. She managed to keep the numbers going in spite of occasional errors on the part of the soloists. Thursday night, October 23, Johanna Hardwick again sang, this time for a small group of Business and Professional Women at Mrs. Bailey's home. Johanna sang two numbers, accompanied by Ardyce Garrett.

A group of 42, composed of both students and faculty, is going to Walla Walla Wednesday, October 29, to the opera "La Traviata." They will go in private cars and return the same evening.

The choir, which is hard at work on the "Messiah," recently elected officers for the year. They are: President, Mardelle Thompson; vice president, Don Cole; Business Manager, Bob Miller; Social Chairman, Sandra Thompson.

That covers the music department for this time. A hint at what to look forward to in the near future: The band halftime show at the next football game, the next Grande Ronde Orchestra Concert, Mr. McMullen's concert, and the coming production of "The Messiah."

ALL-STAR CAT—"Mouzer" (on lap) wandered on to the set of "The Diary of Anne Frank" and became a part of the cast. Playing the lead was Jo Ann Berryman (right) as Anne Frank, with Larry Nelson as Peter Van Daan.

Orchestra, Chorus To Present Handel's "Messiah" Dec. 7

December 7, at 3:00 p.m. is the anticipated date for the presentation of the "Messiah." This concert will be under the direction of Neil Wilson and promises to be a highlight of the Christmas season.

The "Messiah", an oratorio by Handel, is considered one of the greatest works of its kind ever written. The Christmas portion covers two-thirds of the entire work and includes eight choruses, eight solos, and the instrumental overture. The choir is entirely composed of college students. However, the orchestra instrumental ensemble is composed of townspeople and students. Members of the La Grande Symphony are also participating.

A large attendance is expected as people from near-by communities have been invited. It is suggested that you contact Mr. Wilson in advance in order that you may be sure to have a ticket if you are anticipating guests. Tickets will be on sale November 24, both in town and on campus. Students will be admitted free and guests will be charged one dollar.

"Anne Frank" Cast Excellent

By MIKE FERGUSON

A heart-moving story, a well-written script, top-notch directing and a generally-more-than-competent acting job by a generally-more-than-competent cast combined last weekend, November 13-15, to make "The Diary of Anne Frank" one of the best plays to be presented at Eastern Oregon College in recent years. These more obvious traits were coordinated with good set design and construction and a good technical crew to provide a well rounded show.

As Ann, Jo Ann Berryman gave a truly moving performance. At times she was deeply serious and at others revealed the flair for comedy so necessary in any good actor or actress. So convincing was her portrayal of the Jewish girl that she actually seemed to age before the audience's eyes.

Tom Mercer, portraying her father, Otto, was always good and at times gave an excellently moving interpretation of a difficult role.

Her mother, Edith, played by Ardyce Garrett also gave a solid performance, matching Mercer the better share of the time. Miss Garrett was exceptionally fine in the highly dramatic scenes.

Pat Watson's portrayal of Anne's sister, Margo, gave me the impression that every time she started a line it was more or less, "oh, well, here we go again."

Larry Nelson, as Peter Van Daan, Anne's only male companion her age for over two years, seemed to fit the part perfectly. He was at times shy and at other times quite forceful.

Peter's father, played by Larry Wilder, was a basically weak character played by a good and strong actor. The pathos of his emotion when his conscience got the best of him for stealing bread was unappreciated by a snickering audience.

Tarry Clifton, portraying Peter's mother, at times was stilted and unconvincing as the worldly, man-chasing flirt, while at other times she did her job so well that one actually wished something would happen to her.

The performance of Dan Yturraspe, as Mr. Dussel injected a feeling of warmth and humanness into an individual who appeared, from a speaking standpoint, only sporadically.

Bill Ward, playing Mr. Kraler, gave a solid performance, although he had a disconcerting habit of facing the back of the stage. However, this was, in some cases, effective.

In Mary Jean Riese's portrayal of Miep: admittedly, it is hard for an actor to get enthused about a part with only a few lines, but as a famous dramatist, whose name escapes me, said, "There are no small parts—only small actorsm.'

As a rule, the cast was good, although at times they seemed uncertain of their lines. It is my opinion that the most effective scenes were: the first stealing of the bread, with Anne screaming; the Hanukkah scene and Anne and Peter's "love" scene.

Hampered by a faulty tape recorder, sound technicians Les Edwards and Mary Conklin got off to a bad start in the Friday night performance, but got things righted in a hurry. For the most part, the sound effects, arranged by Elinor Denny and Wiley Knighten in addition to the two previously mentioned were very good.

Judy Lutz did a fine job of being stage manager and Sandra Benson handled the lights competently, with one exception. The effect of the last scene of the Friday night performance was hampered somewhat because the house lights were not dimmed on time, but aside from that, the lighting effects were well done.

In summing up, I feel that Mr. Richard Hiatt, the director, and Sock and Buskin, the sponsoring organization, are to be commended for a fine job.

Theta Delta Phi Representative Sent To Meet

Theta Delta Phi, the men's scholastic honorary, held a noon luncheon in Hunt Hall on Friday, November 7. The topic of discussion was the national convention of the organization held November 14 and 15 in Ashland. Four members, Jerry Martin, Long Creek; Warren Hill, Coos Bay; Norm Nelson, Boody, Ill., and John Trigg, Myrtle Point, were designated to attend. A fifth member, Richard Arends, La Grande, was named as alternate for the trip.

The delegation left La Grande on the night of, Thursday,November 13. They attended speeches discussion groups, plus various social functions.

$1,014 Gift Given To EOC

—A $1,014.95 gift from Tektronix Foundation of Portland has been received by the Eastern Oregon College department of physical science, according to Dr. Frank B. Bennett, president.

Dr. Ralph E. Badgley, EOC science - mathematics department chairman, indicated the gift would be used to purchase an electronic analog computer kit. Dr. Badgley explained the computer, which will be assembled by faculty and students in the department, permits engineering or research personnel to electronically simulate equations or physical problems and save many hours of calculations or experimentation.

REPORT ILLNESS . . .

Excuses from classes will be issued to those students who report to the health office or housemother at the time of their illness. This will enable the faculty to rely upon the excuse in case the professor is interested.

No "cuts" as such are granted at EOC. Rest assured!

Initiation of new members of Sigma Alpha Chi, Women's Scholastic Honorary, were held Sunday, November 16 at Hoke Hall. Qualification for admittance into this honorary include scholarship,, specifically a 3.0 for two consecutive terms with a minimum of 14 hours; character, leadership and ability.

Those girls successfully meeting these requirements were: Patsy Carpenter, Betty Johnson, Joanna Hardwick, Dorothy Knecktil and Alberta Wolf.

Officers of the organization are Carolyn Muller, president; Jean Edmison, vice-president; Jean Hunter, secretary. Mrs. Neva Neill is advisor. The next project of the group will be the Yule Candle Light Hour which will be held December 14.

Interfaith Plans Noon Banquet

The first banquet sponsored by the Interfaith Council this year will be presented on Wednesday, November 19 at 12 noon. All students and faculty are invited and urged to attend the event. It will be held at Hoke Hall.

President Myron Carpenter stated that after the banquet there will be a short address and also soloist entertainment from the student body.

Tickets will be sold in the Administration Building on Monday and Tuesday, November 17 and 18, and also in the dormitories by Council members. The tickets will cost 22c per person, and Dr. Bolen, advisor of the organization, urges that if students do not plan to attend the event, they should not purchase tickets, due to the fact that the amount of food prepared is judged by the number of tickets sold.

Sabers Take In New Members

At 3:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 9, Sabers held initiation for five new members. Refreshments were served during a short business meeting following the cermony.

New initiates are Betty Johnson, Virginia Wellington, Jo Ann Berryman, Pauline Whiteis. Those attending were: Patsy Carpenter, Marilyn Hilyard, Carolyn Muller, Jean Marie Damon, Josie Ward, Jan Robertson, Linda Woodhouse, Betty Roudebush, Jean Hunter, Linda Kane, Nancy Swanson, Evadne Kelsoe, Mildred Smith.

SOEA Sponsors Radio Program

Beginning November 12 the SOEA has been sponsoring and will continue throughout the year, a monthly radio program concerning education. These programs will be held every second Wednsday of the month from 7:30 to 8 p.m. Each program will be under the direction of a different chairman.

Attending an SOEA conference in Portland November 8 as representative from the EOC chapter were Kay Bondurant, Patsy and Myron Carpente rand Jean Edmison.

This chapter, the J. H. Ackerman chapter, has recently observed the American Education Week with daily programs over KLBM also. These programs were held the week of November 10 through the 15. John Trigg was chairman of the week. Working with him were the daily chairmen: Dorothy Knechtil, Shirley Hall, and Bill Vickrey, Monday; Elinor Denny and Jean Hunter, Tuesday; Jane Bell and Donna Johnson, Wednesday; Mike Ferguson, Thursday; and Raymond Berry, Friday chairman. Window displays were also featured in downtown business concerns under the direction of Jo Key.

Young ToHead EOC Town Club

Election of officers of the Off-campus students was recently held with Gordon Young receiving president, John Corey vice president and Evadne Kelose, secretary.

The group will have an executive council, to be made up of the president, vice president, secretary, the two off-campus representatives to the student council, and one man and one woman councilor from each class. These eight councilors were elected on Thursday, October 30. from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. with nominations to be turned in by Tuesday, October 21 at 4 p.m.

The members decided that the executive council should meet and draw up a constitution which would be presented to the main body for approval before being presented to the Student Council.

It was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ivie of the General Extension Department have accepted the position of organization advisor.

Those elected as the eight class councilors for the organization were: Carol Patrick and John Heriza, seniors; Sarah Workman and Edsel White, juniors; JoAnn Berryman and John Willmarth, sophomores; and Sharon Noyes and Willard Walch, freshmen.

The lone requirement to get into the organization is that the student not live in either dormitory or EOCene courts.

Study Regulations Made By Dorion

Study table regulations have been set up in Dorion Hall which will apply to all girls on the down list after mid terms. Freshman and sophomore girls will be required to attend study tables, in the Dorion Cafeteria, Monday through Thursday evenings from 7:00 until 9:00. Juniors and seniors who received blue slips must attend study tables at least two nights a week, the nights which they attend may be of their own choice.

A girl must receive permission from Mrs. Burnett to be absent from study table. For each unexcused absence one demerit will be issued. Two library permissions a week may be granted, but only if absolutely necessary.

Education Week . . .

November 9-16 is education week. For more than fifty years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, education as a function of democracy was little more than an expression of ideas from the mouths and pens of a few of this country's great men. At the mid-point of the nineteenth century there were only aout two-tenths of one per cent of the nation's population attending colleges. During the 100 years since, this percentage has increased more than ten fold. Eastern Oregon College, not quite thirty years old, is almost twice as big as the 1850 Harvard College, then nearing its two-hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary.

The advantages of higher education are no longer limited to the gentleman-scholar. Amid the increasing educational conflicts of 1958, our country's leaders in business, government, industry, agriculture, and the professions expect colleges and universities to accomplish many goals that are considered important and vital to democratic citizenship. To millions of students throughout the nation, however, the purposes of education seem to be dominated by the universal drive to prepare for a high-paying job—the compelling urge to climb the ladder to social and economic success. To them this is "Education Magic."

Education week is a good time for us all to think more carefully about why we are in college, to consider thoughtfully the issues and problems of education that for many of us critically involve our future profession, and to examine the basic concepts underlying the exciting search for truth. Throughout the week the library will display representative materials dealing with these goals, issues, and conflicts. If you want to aim your thinking at vital targets, the library will furnish the ammunition. —Donald Nelson

Dorion Doodles

by Jean Hunter

Occasional letters from their Dorion-dwelling daughters keep most doting parents happy and content about their off-spring's welfare. However, these letters must be carefully written pieces of literature to be effective. Following is a list of things you really should mention when writing home:

1. How much you're studying. (Remember, the checks you cash may be your father's.)

. How terrible the food is. (Always good for sympathy and a package from home.)

3. The strictness of closing hours. (Takes a load off parental minds to know you're tucked in at 10:30.)

4. How friendly the kids are. (Prevents worry about you being homesick.)

Even more important, though, is the following list of things you should never mention no matter how understanding your parents are:

1. The mock 'wedding you had at the Sadie Hawkins dance. (Jo Bryant's folks misread the "mock" and drove up to check on her.)

2. The many hours you crammed when the realization of midterms made you wonder why you hadn't read any of your assignments. (They'll hear about the blue slips anyway.)

3. The number of No-Doze you consumed while doing this cramming. (Many parents don't apprecite the miracles of modern drugs.)

4. The system you and your roomie have worked out for getting in after closing hours without getting a campus. (Parents don't appreciate extra-curricular use of the mind in these instances.)

5. The campus you received when the system failed. (They might invite you to finish the term at home.)

Hakim Of Hunt

by George Taylor

From this date forth, the columns will vary, one week being in report form, and the alternate week being in story form.

Someone new to add to the list of repulsive animals; the person who stole the rubber plant from Hunt Hall. WE have to pay for it.

Hi-Fi seems to be the craze this year, several sets have sprung up throughout the dorm, and we are all getting an education in the finer types of music. It is conducive to study, too.

A suggestion for action to be taken; Girls, why don't you go on strike. Unless that dogpatch-type highway in front of your dorm is pved, you will find yourselves missing some friends. It gets so wet here fall term, that whole automobiles have been known to suddenly sink from sight in the mud of our roads.

Dissertation on the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

Though the weather was wet, the students were dry, that is until they dug into the kikapoo joy juice. The whole affair was conducted in the manner fitting the Dogpatch Style. Great news . . . After all these years, Mammy and Pappy Yokum were finally married by Marryin' Sam. Some of those corsages looked good enough to eat, or at least to drink.

Well, kids, how were mid-terms? Hmmmmm? If you haven't gotten any Thanksgiving Greetings, then you can truly give thanks, for you have deserved more than a grade, you have earned membership to the Purple Hearts Club, an organization dedicated to those who have lost their sanity in the battlefields of the classroom. Congratulations. And here is your uniform, the regulation strait-jacket with the formal Greek inscription, "NUT," beautifully inscribed on the back. Now don't you feel exalted?

O.K., O.K., I'm done.

Hakim and a ten-four.

Community Hours . . .

A subject of considerable controversy on campus these last few weeks has been that of the broadening of the community hours program to include those students in secondary education as well as those in the elementary program. The specific requirement is the same for both levels of study—six terms of off-campus work in the community, which includes three terms with children and three terms with adults. These hours are obtained through various experiences, including work with Scouts, 4-H groups, Brownies, and Sunday School classes for the first area; and church choirs, adult classes at the high school, or aiding with community drives for the requirements in adult work.

In the past, although students generally were reluctant to undertake such duties, we have admitted that the experiences were well worth the time spent in improving our abilities to cope with the situations which we will soon be handling in our teaching jobs. Now that the secondary people have been added to this "enforced" list, there seems to bxe some disagreement concerning the value of this same assignment to them. These people feel for the most part that they will have little, if any, contact with the elementary age group; therefore, those three terms of community hours with children are wasted.

Value is readily recognized in the experiences they will meet in working with the adult groups, but the area of selection is extremely small. If one does not sing, and there are evidently many who feel they do not, only community drives and projects plus the high school adult classes would be left. Recently the high school night classes were discontinued, leaving only the community projects.

Granted, these community projects do involve a good number of students when they are in operation, but are there enough of them to give the students the equivalent of the three terms of community hours needed?

The point to be made is that there is something definitely amiss in the secondary community hours pogram—whether it is the fault of the students for failure to participate without question. or the failure of the advisors to provide or permit a wider selection of available sources of possible work areas pertinent to the needs of secondary education students.

In either event, it is evident that if this problem can be worked out and a program established such as that working for elementary students, this medium can be a benefit to both the students and the community and will certainly do no harm to the relationship between the two.

A Case From The Files

The night is dark, from the shadows of the building comes a highly disreputable-looking form. It sneaks into the main lounge of the dorm, and emerges a moment later, a conspicusous bulge under his coat, and wearing a satisfied smirk on his ugly face. The theft has gone off without a hitch.

three days later

"Room check," the announcement is made, and surrepticious glances are cast from man to man, as he contemplated what could be found and what he should conceal. All file or run to their rooms to destroy illicit evidence. That night, around the halls, with foam issuing from his portly lips, comes the check-list avenger. Although not entirely worked into a rage, his ire frightens all, yet all know his superior has forced his hand in hunting for the stolen article. Despite all efforts, the missing article is not discovered, and in the departments of higher education, rapid growth of hostility is in evidence.

two days later

Blood is in the air. No one dares speak to another, they stay on opposite sides of the halls, eat at separate tables. Sweat breaks out on every brow, as the Queen of Sheba and her court jester march venegefully back and forth, instantly suspicious of every wrong move and eevry spoken word. Back in their rooms, tension runs high, men collapse under the strain of punishment for something they didn't do, for the wrath of Sheba can excell even that of the gods.

They roam the halls screeching at every locked door, wrinching the cringing bodies of the lesser fortunate from the rooms and lopping off their heads, the more straight F's, and considered themselves lucky.

It was the last room to be searched and the thoroughness of the inspectors could be compared to the sacking of Troy. Not finding anything, the vengeful ones pulled one of the screaming students into the hall and, shoving a sword to his throat, asked him, "Where is the darned Thing? You know and You'll tell! Quiverng and crying, the poor man whom the investigation had turned into a slob, replied, "Have mercy, I didn't take it, I don't know where the rubber plant is."

Seeing all that went on, the actual culprit, secure in his town apartment, chuckled with glee at the pain others went through for his crime. It was a pretty good trick; couldn't do it now, though, only one arm is functioning. The other is neatly tucked under his shirt.

Janet's Jottings

By JANET WAKEFIELD

Mid-terms hit most campuses and there were the usual remarks about valentines so soon before February. As one wit declared, "Mid-terms are here and gone. Fall is passing. Many of us aren't."

Think you have played some pretty good pranks lately? From Whitman College we hear that tricksters stole all the silverware from the college dining room, resulting in an overwhelming popularity of plastic utensils. OSC featured a "Spaghetti Spook" treat to detract from the tricks on Halloween.

From a recent college paper headline — "Ready to Dye? Reports Show That Women Also Prefer Blondes . . ." Apparently the story was the increase in popularity of dyeing and tinting hair.

While at the U of O, we find a story bemoaning the lack of a distinctive character around campus . . . a dog with personality, that is. It seems tha previous owners of this distinctive character, Ruper, Shannon, and Waldo — have moved.

Some of the current dance themes: "Swamp Stomp" "Street of Dreams," and "Kau Homi O Hawaii."

College Club Completes Season With Victory

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers, so often defeated in the final period in games this fall, found their scoring punch in the fourth quarter against Grays Harbor College Saturday and capped their 1958 season on a victorious note, 20-13.

A handful of frozen fans, plus the EOC band, watched the Mounties score early, drop behind 13-6 going into the final quarter and then score two tallies to ice the game and their season with a win.

Defensively, it's possible the Mounties fashioned their best game of the season—at least on the ground. They held a strong set of Grays Harbor backs to 99 yards via terra firma and held Bill Wieland, who averaged 8 yards per carry in seven games previous to Saturday, to 71 yards in 24 carries.

Ken Feigner, Dean Keefer and John Willmarth led the tough defense, and Paul Schaffeld, John Botz and LeeRoy Garland, three players who finished their playing careers with the Mounties Saturday, were in on numerous tackles.

Sam Clack, Jim Dickey, Bob Salter, Jack Wood and Charles Hughbanks also slashed in to stop the Choker ball carriers before they could get underway in the game. Pass defense again was the Mounts' main weak spot as the visitors completed nine of 17, despite the cold and muddy ball, for 106 yards.

Small but powerful halfback George Aliverti led the Mounty offense as he cracked tor two touchdowns and gained 85 yards on 15 carries—good for 5.1 yards a carry.

Coach Arch Dunsmoor's Mountaineers received the opening kickoff and in 10 plays scored. Starting from their own 35 John Willmarth and halfback Clack carried the ball in five plays for two first downs. Aliverti, starting from his own 46, raced around end to the 10 yard line to set up the first TD.

Clack carried for five yards, then Aliverti sprinted around end for the counter. Clack raced through tackle for the point. Score, 7-0, Mountaineers.

Grays Harbor mounted a drive in the second period and drove from their own 20 yard line to score, with Bill Wieland going for the TD and also running the point. Score at half, 7-7.

The Aberdeen, Wash., team countered early in the third period to take the lead. Quarterback Bill Hanselman pitched a long pass from his own 42 to halfback Dennis Egge on the EOC 27. The Mounty line held firm on the 21 but on fourth down Hanselman passing to Jerry Weber on the five for a first down and three plays later Weber scored. Hanselman's pass for the point was no good. Score 13-7, Grays Harbor.

Early in the fourth period tackle Dean Keefer recovered a Choker fumble—the second of the day for the husky tackle—on the Choker 21 yard line. Dean Whitely carried to the 13 and quarterback John Houk made a first down on the six. Whitely carried to the five, Houk to the two, then Houk, rolling out, went around end for the score. Aliverti tallied the important point on an end run. Score 14-13, EOC.

Late in the fourth period the Mounts scored again when Wood tackled Wieland on the Mounts 33 and the local club took over the ball on downs at that point. Ten plays later the Mounts completed their scoring for 1958 with Aliverti going in from the three. Whitely's try for the point was short.

LAST GAME—Three gridders, John Botz, LeeRoy Garland and Paul Schaffeld have played their last game for the Mounty team. Garland and Schaffeld were named co-captains of the team for last Saturday's game.

Vacation Time Draws Near

Contrary to the wishful rumors about campus, classes will run as scheduled the Wednesday before Thanksgiving vacation. This year's four-day vacation will be November 27 through November 30.

Sometime before this vacation, the dormitories will serve the traditional Thanksgvng dinner. Most of the students will be leaving for home Wednesday afternoon. Many who are not able to go home will be invited to spend the vacation with friends. The dormitories will be open Sunday afternoon, November 30, and classes will resume on Monday. When cases arise of students living so far away from EOC that they would be unable to reach home without leaving early, special arrangements may be made in the registrar's office.

ScholarshipsTo Latin America

By Sandy Laney

Costa Rica! Bolivia! Panama! Venezuela! How would you like to live and study in one of these exciting Latin American countries, roundtrip transportation, tuition and maintenance completely paid for one academic year?

Well, you may possibly be able to have just that if you are a citizen of the United States not more than 35 years of age, have a Bachelor's degree or its equivalent before departure, knowledge of Spanish sufficient to live and study in the country concerned, and good health.

The International Educationaal Exchange Service recently announced that there will be approximately 75 new scholarships added to those offered for 1959-60 under the Inter-American Cultural Convention program.

Applicants will be asked for a summary of their reasons for desiring to study in the country of their choice and for a preliminary plan of their proposed study. Successful candidates will be affiliated with educational institutions in their host country.

Information and application forms may be obtained from the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City, but requests for application forms must be postmarked before December 31, 1958.

OFCL Delegates To Attend Meet

At the second November meeting of the Student Council elections were held to determine those delegates from EOC who will attend the OFCL Conference to be held in Ashland on the SOC campus from December 5 to 7. Those persons selected to attend the meet were Betty Johnson, Bev Donovan and Tom Storm. Also attending will be Josie Ward, vice-president of this Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders, and Harold Moore who will lead a discussion group at the confab.

Language Club Planning Mexican Festival; Pinata

The members of the Language Club on the Campus, are planning a Pinata, to be held early in December.

This Pinata, Mexican Fiesta, will have several Mexican games for all to participate in, one of which is the traditional hanging basket. This basket contains candy and other favors, and is to be broken open by a blind-folded person. After the basket is broken the others attending the party then join in the fun of gathering up all the candy, balloons, etc.

Also on the list of entertainment Dick Walker, President of the club, will give a talk and show a movie of his recent trip to Mexico.

The Pinata Fiesta, as of yet, has no set date. The possibility of the International Relations Club joining the Language Club helping present it, is also being discussed.

Foreign Language Club; IRC Meet

The International Relations Club met on Wednesday, October 22 at 8 p.m. at the home of Wilson Merrill. The president and some members of the Foreign Language club were present to discuss the possibility of a merger of the two organizations because of the similarity of the organization's interests.

The possibility of several panel discussions was brought to the members' attention and a committee of John Wagner, Marilyn Hilyard, and John Trigg was appointed to prepare a list of possible topics for these discussions. This list was to be presented at the next meeting which is to be held on Friday, November 14 at 12:30 p.m. in room 23 of the Administration Building. At this time topics and panel members will be selected.

November 3, was the date of a recent meeting of the Spanish Club, at which Dr. Frank Bennett, President of Eastern Oregon College, gave a talk on his stay in Alaska last summer. Dr. Bennett was present at the time Alaska received its Statehood. Also during the meeting, Jerry Brown gave a lecture as he was showing slides to the group, of his visit in Alaska.

Dr. Frank Bennett Is Chairman Of Accreditation Unit

—Dr. Frank B. Bennett, Eastern Oregon College president, has been named chairman of a visitation committee of the National Council on Acreditation of Teacher Education.

The committee is scheduled for an official visitation at Chico State College in California, Nov. 17-20.

Two other EOC faculty members are serving on visitation teams of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools. They are Dr. Joseph H. Gaiser, visiting Snow College at Ephraim, Utah, and Southern Utah College at Cedar City in the social sicences; and Dr. Leonard Good, visiting Eastern Washington College of Education at Cheney in the secretarianl science field.

Music Notes

By VIRGINIA WELLINGTON

Mid-terms have taken their toll on music students along with everyone else. The community has been deprived of fine talent for the last two weeks while the students hole up with the books. Next Tuesday a group will go to entertain at Grange, but just who has not been decided. As of yet, no groups have gone to Hot Lake although several have been alerted to "Be Prepared."

Dr. Lewis and Mike Ferguson have been hard at work for the last two weeks planning the band half-time show but bad luck in the form of bad weather has cancelled out their well-laid plans. Marching practices were cancelled last week because of rain and it is now too late to work up a show.

The Grande Ronde Symphony concert has been changed to November 23 fo rthe benefit of the students, since it was originally scheduled during Thanksgiving vacation. This concert should be of interest to all students. The soloist, a trumpet player named Wilbur Jensen, is a TV star, having appeared as guest artist on the Howard Miller Show with Art Van Damme's band and on U. S. Royal Showcase in 1952. He has appeared twice as a trumpet player with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, once in 1953 and once in 1957. In addition to this he has played with several famous dance bands. Girls, the best part is yet to come. He is 20 years old and a student at Lewis and Clark College. And boys, if you have any doubts about his talent, use some simple arithmetic and figure out how old he was when he did all this. Your student body card will admit you to the concert. See you there!

KLBM Schedules College Program

A college hour program, Campus Corner, has been provided for in the 1958-1959 schedule of the local radio station, KLBM. This broadcast will take place during the 7:30-8 p.m. hour on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The effort being made, stated Jim Thomas, News Director, is to channel all college interest news, music and general programming into this one time space of which the students may be assured will be theirs. The time will be used in any way which the students wish, including interviews of college personalities, delegates, candidates or panel discussions; and for the music which the students request or send down to have played if they have a particular selection which they would care to share. This musical opportunity is offered with the hopes that a different type of music than the top thirty can be obtained.

The second Wednesday of each month has been requested by the SOEA for its monthly educational emphasis program. This is the only time that has been spoken for specifically.

KLBM will be working with Bev Donovan on this program, any requests may be left in the Beacon box of the Faculty Mail Room in the Administration Building, or if records are submitted for the Campus Corner, she will take them and then return them to the students immediately following the broadcast.

Sophs Eligible For Grants To Scandinavia

The Scandinavian Seminar is accepting applications for its eleventh year, 1959-60. The Seminar will completely pay the fee for tuition, room, board, and language materials for nine dificult but rewarding months in the country of your choice.

College graduates or undergraduates who wish to take the junior year abroad are eligible to apply.

Those who are chosen to go will share in the lives of two different families for a month each, where no English will be spoken. They will learn a Scandinavian language by the natural method . . . living and studying it. They will come tobether with the Seminar members at five week-long courses alternating with family stays and they will become students at a Scandinavian college for six months.

Such special interests as Adult Education, Art and Design, Elementary and Secondary Education, Government, Physical Education and many others may be pursued.

For brochure and application blank write: Scandinavian Seminar, 127 East 73rd Street, New York 21, New York.

Application must be made before late January.

Brette Storkes Elect Officers

October 23 was the date of the first Brette Stork Ski Club meeting for this year. Election of officers was the main business. Officers elected were President, Bob Miller; vice president, Jerry DeBorde, secretary-treasurer, Susan King.

The next item discussed was the Winter Carnival which will be held February 14-15 at Timberline lodge. Representatives from EOC will be elected shortly to represent the school at Portland State in planning the event. The Snow Queen candidate from EOC will be chosen from the student body.

Chorus To Sing For Assembly

Myron Carpenter, chairman of the Interfaith Council, announces that the Thanksgiving assembly is set for Tuesday, November 25, at 10:00 a.m. At this time the College Choir will present three selections: "Let Thy Holy Presence" by Tschesnokoff, "Now Thank We All Our God" by Bach, and a solo, "Bless This House". Also featured will be two interpretative dances by Miss Nicoloff's dancing classes. A pictorial reflection of the natural beauties and attractions offered in Oregon will carry out this year's theme, "You'll remember Oregon." This annual assembly is sponsored by the College Interfaith Fellowship.

Because of this program, all Tuesday 10:00 a.m. classes will be postponed until the following day at 10 o'clock.

Sigma Alpha Chi To Sponsor Yule Candlelight Hour Sunday

Sunday, December 14, will be the date for the annual Yule Candlelight Hour sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi. Given for the public as well as EOC students and faculty, this event oficially opens the Christmas season on campus. The event will take place at 4:15 p.m.

As visitors stand in Hoke Hall amid snow decorated Christmas trees, Martha Jane Colvin, past member of this college women's scholastic honorary will light the Master Candle. This candle has been passed down from year to year by each Sigma Alpha Chi organization. Similar candles were sent to the founders of the EOC chapter of Sigma Alpha Chi, Dr. Amanda Zabel, now residing in California, and Miss Edith Darby, living in Washington. Each year at the same time as the Yule Candlelight Hour on the EOC campus, these candles are also lit in memory of both EOC and Sigma Alpha Chi as well as the beginning of the Christmas time.

After the lighting of the Master Candle, speeches by Mrs. Colvin and Carolyn Muller, president, members of the organization will light the candles at each window. Howard Anderson and Neal Wilson will solo and the Sigma Alpha Chi members will also sing Christmas songs, after which all present will join in carols.

Refreshments will be served by the group. There is no admission charge.

Clearance Through Chairman Necessary For Sponsorships

Larry DeKalb, ASB second vice president and social chairman for all activities, recently announced that the calendar of events for winter and spring terms will be printed and handed out during registration, January 3. All organizations wishing to sponsor activities during those two terms must submit their petitions to him before vacation begins in order that the events be placed on the printed calendar.

In those instances when the event cannot be scheduled so far in advance as the above mntioned deadline, the requirement for clearance from the social chairman is still effective. In order to be officially placed on the ASB social calendar in the main hall these events must be cleared through Larry at least two weeks before the activity is to take place. If this procedure is not followed, ASB money will not be allotted in the necessary instances, and that organization will not receive priority for that date on the calendar.

These requests for sponsorship may be submitted to Larry through the Social Committee Box which is located in the faculty mail room of the Administration building. The forms to be filled out for this purpose will be distributed through the Inter Organizational Council. Extra copies may be picked up in the ASB office in the basement of Hoke Hall.

EOC Graduate SOEA Speaker

S.O.E.A. met Wednesday evening, November 18, in Hoke auditorium with president Myron Carpenter presiding. The speaker for the evening, Mrs. Bernice Opp Miller, presented her experiences and ideas gathered during her first year of teaching at Island City. She was a member of the 1958 graduating class at EOCE.

The SOEA picture file in Dr. Addy's office was discussed. It was suggested that it be made a project for either the Audio Visual Aids department or SOEA members themselves. The need for the formation of Union County chapter of Future Teachers of America was also brought to the attention of the group.

John Trigg reported on the work and needs of the SOEA radio committee and its program over KLBM, and several members told of their attendance at the state SOEA convention held in Portland in October: Jean Edminson reported that a recommendation was made that each chapter issue a special certificate for each active member of SOEA to place with their credentials. - Doris Lenz stated that there was much discussion on the importance of the teacher and parent becoming acquainted to further knowledge of the child. Kay Bonderant brought back several suggestions including the need for the chapter providing information in the education field to underclassmen.

The next meeting was in the form of a Christmas party the evening of December 10.

IMPORTANT LIBRARY INFORMATION

A significant change in library regulations regarding the return of library materials due before the end of the quarter will be put into effect this term. There will be a penalty of 50 cents per day per item charged for books, pamphlets, magazines, etc. returned after the day preceding the last day ow the quarter (Thursday, December 18). Library materials, however, can be signed for or renewed for use during the holidays either Wednesday or Thursday or the last week of the quarter. The usual practice will be followed in the registrar's office of withholding grades for people who owe fines or have not returned books due.

Students and faculty members who are on the campus during the Christmas vacation will be interested to know that the library will be open as follows:

Dec. 20 (Saturday), 8-12
Dec 22-23 Monday - Tuesday, 9-12; 1-4
Dec. 29-31 (Monday - Wednesday), 9-12; 1-4
Jan. 2 (Friday), 9-12; 1-4
Jan. 3 (Saturday), 9-12

Twenty-Seven Mountaineers Win Letters

La Grande—Eleven freshmen are among the 27 who qualified for football letters this season, according to Arch Dunsmoor, Eastern Oregon College coach.

Monogram awards went to nine sophomores, four juniors and three seniors.

Receiving awards were seniors John Bot, Elgin; LeeRoy Garland, Caldwell, Ida.; and Paul Schaffeld, Vale. Juniors: Ken Feigner, Milton-Freewater; Charles Hughbanks, Prineville; Jack Wood, Elgin; and Bill McCadden, Cambridge, Ida. Sophomores: Bennie Houk and Daryl Corey, Stanfield; Jim Neece and Clyde Holliday, Prineville; Steve Everitt, Baker; Gene McKinney, Union; John Willmarth, La Grande; Bob Salter, Ione; and Bob Smith, Inverness, Miss.

The freshmen include Jerry Newcomb, Scio; Jerry DeBorde, Pendleton; John Houk, Stanfield; Sam Clack, Union; George Aliverti, Walla Walla, Wash.; Dean Whiteley, Athena; James Dickey, Hermiston; Jerry Williams, David Harmon, Dean Keefer, and John Clark, La Grande.

ChangesNoted In Final Exams

Final exams begin officially Tuesday, December 16, 1958. Monday classes will be attended as usual. Final examination schedules may be obtained in the Registrar's office.

It is important that all students understand that it is absolutely necessary for the exam to be given on the day and time listed, and no student shall be excused early, or given permission to take his exams at a different time; with the exception of a student having a death in his family, a sickness, or draft call etc.

In this same way it is also necessary that the faculty instructors give final examinations at the time and day listed, and only in rare cases will an exception be made. This is to prevent a student fom having an exam schedule which may be ovecowded one day, while anthe day may be unoccupied.

There is an important change in the schedule; it is now planned for all the social sciences classes to meet at one time, which is Thursday, December 19, at 7:30 a.m., this includes both Dr. Davidson's and Mr. Merril's social science classes.

Dr. Lyle Johnson, registrar, would like to hear comments as to the number of days given for final examinations. Customarily a total of five days were used for exams, while this "1958" examination period will be given over a total of four days. If you have ideas for improvement, or if you feel we only need the four days or if you disagree, and feel the students need the full five days, let your comments be known, either to someone on the paper staff or Dr. Johnson personally Next term if there are enough comments expressed in favor of the full five days, it may possibly be changed.

Christmas vacation begins December 19, 1958, after the last examination Friday which begins at 1:10 p.m.

The vacation ends January 3rd, and all must be here Monday for registration.

'Who's Who Among Students' Names EOC Seniors; Juniors

Ten EOC students have been named to be included in the 1958-1959 edition of the annual publication, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Judged on scholarship, leadership, cooperation in educational and extracurricular activities, general citizenship and promise of future service, these students were selected by an anonymous faculty-student committee. Students considered eligible for this honor include juniors, seniors and students enrolled in graduate courses.

Seven seniors were nominated to the organization. They included Dick Arends, Myron Carpenter, Patsy Evans Carpenter, Harold Moore, Betty Roudebush, Dick Walker and Josie Ward. Three juniors were chosen: Beverly Donovan, Marilyn Hilyard and Carolyn Muller.

These students will receive certificates of recognition, to be awarded from the organization, by the school from which they were nominated; recognition in the annual publication; and benefits of the Student Placement Service for employment recommendations. They are also eligible to wear the official key of the organization.

According to the organizational creed, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is designed to render greater, though less conspicious service: as a goal to inspire greater effort in those who may not otherwise perform to the best of their ability; as a reminder that time must be used intelligently to bring the best results from one's college experience; as a means of compensation for outstanding effort and achievement; and as a standard of measurement for students comparable to other recognized scholastic and service organizations.

IK's Initiate New Pledges

Intercollegiate Knights, men's campus service organization, recently initiated six members into its ranks. New IK's included: Jim Stuart, Jerry Scott, Floyd Cline, Bob Miller, Don Mings and Dean Stowell.

These pledges began their pledge period Saturday, November 22. Jerry Martin was in charge of all pledging activities. Each man was required to put in 5 hours of work for the organization during this preliminary period. As members this duty will continue to the extent that they will be expected to take active part in every IK project or activity. One of the informal initiation stunts included armor day, which was last Wednesday. Each initiate wore one of the traditional IK suits of armor and guarded his post on campus including opening doors for students. Another of the requirements was that the pledges sing for the Dorion Hall women. This was carried out the evening before their formal initiation, Saturday, December 6.

Formal initiation was executed that night by officers of the group, Les Edwards, Duke and Dick Walker, Earl. A congratulatory telegram was sent to the new members by Don Clauson, regional Viceroy. Formal initiation was followed by a dance for new and old members and their dates. At 9:45 this was opened to the student body.

SNAPSHOT

Do you have a favorite snapshot of one of your pals? If so, why not put your picture into the college yearbook, the Mountaineer. There are several boxes located at different spots on the campus in which to place these pictures. You will find boxes in the library, in the Ad building, in Hoke Hall, in Dorion Hall, and in Hunt Hall. These boxes will be removed December 18, so be certain that you have that "neat" picture of Joe Schmoe and Annie Huppelstein in one of the boxes by then.

Small girl showing bathroom scales to playmate: All I know is, you stand on it and it makes you mad." (Reader's Digest).

EOC Smoking Policy Studied

At a recent student council meeting the smoking regulations on campus were discussed. The main point of concern is the smoking in the auditorium and backstage, since it is felt that this might be a most likely place for a fire to start. According to practice this is one of the areas on campus where students are not allowed to smoke. The smoking policy on campus also restricts smoking at the doorway of each of the classroom buildings and the library. It provides that there be no smoking in classrooms, laboratories, corridors or waiting rooms, but that smoking is permitted in toilet areas, lounge areas and in private offices.

A student committee was set up to further study this problem, consisting of Gayle Fisher, Jean Hunter and Bob Barrett.

Phi Beta Sigma Elects Members

Phi Beta Sigma, educational honorary, recently elected 12 new members into its enrollment. The new members were informally initiated December 8 and the formal initiation was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, advisors, on December 10.

New members taken into the organization included Sharon Batty, Kay Beeson, Patsy Carpenter, Jean Damon, Ked Dejmal, Bill Hawkes, John Heriza, Marilyn Hilyard, Richard O'Connell, Sylvia Thompson, Dave Walsh and Lynette Wood. They were formally initiated by president, Bill Harris; vice president, Norm Nelson; and secretary, Susan Latta.

Membership in the honorary is attained through high standards of scholarship, professional interest and personal campus contributions.

Frosted Fantasy Theme For Tonight's Christmas Formal

Hoke Hall will become a "Frosted Fantasy" for the 1958 annual Christmas Formal to be held tonight from 9 to 12 p.m. Co-chairmen Sandi Laney and Diane Tanke, ably assisted by Sharon Hewitt, Sonya Larson, Joyce Rust, Billie Jean York and LeeAnn Doughty announce decoration schemes consisting of snowballs, sprayed white and blue trees, a back-drop scene and other interesting highlights. The Lettermen have pledged their help in hanging of the decorations and Millie Smith, program chairman reports that programs have been in circulation since Wednesday.

Admission to the dance will be $1.50 per couple with LeeRoy Anderson and his orchestra providing the dancing music.

Patron and Patronesses for the evening are:

Dr. and Mrs. Bennett
Mr. and Mrs. Winters
Dr. and Mrs. Quaintance
Dr. and Mrs. Kearns
Mr. and Mrs. Ivie.

Paving Raving

A question as clear as mud to most Dorionites and as equally steeped in it, is that of the unpaved street before their new dormitory. While city and state hassel over the point of who will put up the money to complete the project, graders sally madly back and forth shoving little piles into big piles; gravel into mud holes; and creating ripples in the fine new "Lake Dorion" which gals attempt to jump, wade through or trapse around every time they make a trip from campus to their dormitory. Not only does this "threat of the dismal swamp" pose a fatal danger to all shoes one may wear, it may even discourage those more indespensible elements under woman's feet — man!

Protests were mild as white sidewalls became coca brown; they grew in volume with the spatter jobs on new polishes; and have finally culminated in the general opinion that lowered cars are fine . . . but surely a foot and a half in mud is a little low!

The facts behind this folly include such points as: Every other street on campus has been paved by the city street department; repairs are made by the city maintainance department; if the project is done by the city, the paving will not be done until the summer of 1959 due to previous city committments; if the paving is done by the city the state will pay a portion of the cost to the city street department.

The argument of the city is that their budget will not allow for this departmental expansion, because of the aforementioned committments. Yet this building program has been in active motion on the EOC campus for two years and tentative before that. Is the college such an unimportant part of this community that this was not taken into consideration? Daily, monthly, yearly this same community is reaping benefits, cultural, social and very definitely financial, which would be a determining factor in many of the business factions, if removed. For example, according to an estimate made in recent years by the La Grande Chamber of Commerce, approximately $365,200.00 were spent by the EOC students. This figure did not include their college expenses, board or room. With the rises in both living prices and in the EOC enrollment in late years, this figure would be even more impressive. Also, this estimate did not take into consideration some sixty members of the faculty and their families who purchase all their commodities from this community, not just such items as toothpaste and hair cuts!

We could easily get into a very interesting argument over who owes whom what, college or city, but we'll leave the arguing to city and state. It makes little difference who pays for the street; after three months of walking on, through and around it, we might even be able to scrape up the money from the weary gals themselves! We realize that we are paying for an education, but must this lesson—dirt plus water equals mud—be carried out so thoroughly?

Simplicity Remains

Again it is time for holly, gaily decorated windows, bright-eyed children, gifts of every description, family reunions, inspiring Christmas music, and mistletoe. Who should ask for anything more?

All of these seasonal blessings would be quie inclusive except for the fact that the one word which woudl be quite inclusive except for the Christmas holidays is not included. There should not be a person who is reading this who could not recognize the omittance. This all-important word is Christ. Too many times, this same mistake is evident. The gaiety and color of our man-made holidays have covered up our real gift in the form of Christ who was sent here to earth by God.

True Christmas could never be a truly 20th century Yuletide if we omitted the gaiety and color associated with this most important date. When we attend the church of our choice this Christmas, let us each and every one thank God from the bottom of our hearts for our many blessings, and just as we place the angel or star at the top of the Christmas tree, let us place Christ on top of our Christmas thoughts. We can never take Christ out of Christmas.

We extend our wishes to you for a safe journey to and from school and a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Dorion Doodles
by Jean Hunter

'Twas the day after blue slips,
And all through the dorm,
The recipients of valentines studied up a storm,
Study rules were posted on the door with care,
In hopes that the study table
wouldn't be bare.

On sophomores, on juniors, on seniors and frosh!
We'll get off that darned down list,
Or die trying, by gosh!

Yes, study tables have been set up in Dorion as a result of the unbelievable number of Dorionites on the down list at mid-term. With 34% of Dorion's inhabitants on the down list, the house council decided drastic measures were in order. A study table committee was quickly organized, and a plan was worked out for a two hour compulsory study table four nights per week for freshmen and sophomores on the down list and two nights per week for juniors and seniors who "qualified." The study table has been in operation for four weeks and has been very successful.

November 19th Dorion played hostess to a tea in honor of Mrs. Burnett, our housemother. Sandy Benson did a swell job of organizing the whole affair and was rewarded for her efforts when everything came off without a hitch. Faculty women and faculty wifes were invited to meet and greet the new housemother and sip a tad of tea as well.

Christmas decorations are cropping up on many of the room doors in an obvious effort to instill the spirit of Christmas in all the grouchy inhabitants. (Even Christmas spirit hasn't a chance with final exams staring you in the face.) Speaking of Christmas, we just got word that Santa has accepted an invitation to the annual Dorion Christmas party. Don't laugh, you doubtors — you've never seen anything like the Santa that shows up in Dorion every year. Don't miss the party this year gals; what with the plans we've heard for a Christmas wedding, Santa may not be the same next year.

Wanted: a new roommate. After seven terms of friendly fighting, cooperative cramming, and frantic fun, Marilyn Hilyard is trading dorm life for wedded bliss and yours truly is without a roommate. How's that for gratitude!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Any student who failed to report to the pre-registration groups on Monday, November 24, should contact his adviser and make arrangements to pre-register for the winter term. Students who have not pre-registered before the end of this quarter will not be allowed to register on January 5 until after 2:00 p.m. These students may ascertain the name of their adviser by contacting Mrs. Cater in the Registrar's Office, with the exception of those students registered in General Studies, who may obtain the name of their adviser from Dr. Roy L. Skeen.

We hope that this will relieve the congestion on the opening day of the term, and that students will be better able to work out their program because of the time available to confer with faculty advisers.

Dr. Lyle H. Johnson,
Registrar

Council Corner
By Jean Hunter

Probably the most important item of business in the past few council meetings has been that of getting the Student Union committee on a functioning basis. At the November 19 meeting Student Union Chairman Bob Miller reported that he had set up sub-committees and was well on the way toward a functioning SU program.

They are:

Dance Committee — through which all dances held in Hoke Hall would be organized.

Music Committee — which would be in charge of obtaining all special musical programs.

House Committee —which would take care of equipment, facilities, welcoming delegations, and act as general hosts for EOC.

Promotion Committee — to handle all publicity and public relations.

The big problem Bob is facing right now is the complete lack of a Student Union budget. In most other colleges the Student Unions have a Board of Directors, comprised soley of students, which functions completely separate from the Student Council and has its own budget with which to operate the Student Union program. In our case, not only is the SU under the jurisdiction of the council, but it also must petition the council for money each and every time there is a Student Union expenditure. Because our SU building, Hoke Hall, is owned by the state rather than by the student body, we do not have the usual source of income realized by other colleges, that is the rental of SU rooms to various clubs and organizations.

Budget or no budget, the committee is going to need full ASB support if it is to be successful. The first project, already under way, is a plan to bring first rate movies to the campus to be shown to EOC students only. Support your Student Union through these movies — it's purpose is to serve you, but without your support there can be no Student Union.

Janet's Jottings
By JANET WAKEFIELD

Despite the many rules regulating school rivalry, original pranks still spice the traditional "civil wars" on the campus scene. Hobos, red pigeons, hijacking a delivery truck were all interesting elements included in the decisive games which closed the football season for another year.

As a result of the 20-0 Oregon win, OSC's student body president, Larry McKennon, is scheduled to appear at an open U of O assembly to pay off his bet to Bud Titus, ASUO president. As agreed, McKennon will appear at the University attired as a hobo, complete with a two days' growth of beard. There he will perform with a rendition of Oregon's fight song, before hitch-hiking back to OSC. Very entertaining for the Ducks. However, we hear that the Beavers still might have a laugh. Could it be that McKennon intends to sing his own school's fight song to the tune of Oregon's?

Southern California and UCLA kept in the spirit of things, too. An entertaining presentation was put on at a UCLA campus rally by the "Kelps," a men's dishonorary. Imitating their rivals football team, it went something like this: The football players were asked to described their Saturday morning pre-game breakfasts. Reportedly, they were fed prunes, bran flakes, and milk of magnesia. When asked if this helped them, they replied, "Well, we have a powerful running attack."

The Daily Trojan staff of Southern Cal really triumphed with their distribution of 8000 phony copies of the UCLA Bruin. The near-perfect fake edition boasted such inspired headlines as "Highly Spirited SC Rates Wide Choice" and "Trojans Get Slight Nod in Bruin Poll." In order to distribute their masterpiece first, SC students had to hijack the Daily Bruin delivery truck and its driver. By the time the real Daily Bruin appeared, the phony copies had been thoroughly read!

Not to be outdone by anyone, Stanford freshmen let a flock of red pigeons loose in California's stadium after the first Stanford touchdown.

Music Notes
By VIRGINIA WELLINGTON

November 20 the first of the music students went to Hot Lake to help the Gray Ladies entertain the patients. Ardyce Garrett and Johnna Hardwick sang old favorite songs, visited the patients, and led group singing, to the enjoyment of everyone.

,n preparation for the "Messiah," Bob Barrett and Vad Kelso, two of the soloists, went to Lion's club for lunch December 1 and sang two arias accompanied by Ardyce Garrett. Mr. Wilson introduced them and explained to the club members about the coming production. On Saturday, December 6, the choir went as a group to another local club to preview the "Messiah" for them.

Nola Bubb and Barbara Myer put in their community hours on December 2 when they entertained at the Methodist church. Nola sang "I Wonder While I Wander" and "Child Jesus" and Barbara played a violin number, both accompanied by Daisy Good.

A seven member flute ensemble played Saturday, December 6, at the Lion's convention. This is composed of: Virginia Wellington, Eloise Reynolds, Daisy Good, Phylis Reed, Barbara Hodgins, Barbara Paris, and Eleanore Edvalson. They played "Minuetto" and "Finale" from Beethoven's Grand Trio for three Flutes. Also on the program was Barbara Myer playing a violin solo, "Canzonetta" by Tschaikowsky, accompanied by Daisy Good. Saturday night, December 6, the bottle-band played also for the District Lion's Convention. This is composed of Mike Ferguson and Elvin Taylor, fifes, and Don Cole, Gerald Roloff, John Wagner, and Gary Dielman, jugs.

Other members of the music department will be featured in the Christmas Assembly and the Yule Candlelight Hour.

And again with the coming of he end of the term, we are blessed to be faced with that invention of some mentally retarded calawag, the final exam. Speaking in dead earnest, (what a weird place to speak from), finals are the all-speaking beings which decide whether or not you return to these hallowed halls and swampy grounds. I can only say, 'extl proglit nors guriduls,' which means, 'God save the humble student.'

During thhe first few moments of the Whitman game, it appeared that theh mighty Mounties would follow true to form and get beat but the industrious team dug right in and turned the massacre into a rout. Whitman will be olng in recovering.

I seem to get in many deep waters with my insinuations, What I mean is that you are to build mud castles. After all, people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, and people who

On the personal side, I would like some comments on the articles I have written. I am open to your suggestions, as I realize that these columns could easily take on many changes. Just write to Hakim, Hunt Hall, Room 208, La Grande, Ore., They may be signed or unsigned. Thanks a gleepot.

IK Smoker Held In New Coliseum

A quick run-down on the I.K. Smoker which was held last Wednesday night in the coliseum has been compiled by Duke of the organization, Les Edwards.

In the boxing Gordon Bee, Jim Steward, and Don Cole were victors of their matches, the contests between Moose Briskey and Jerry Case; and Gene Hold and Dutch Corey were draws. A later match was won by Sam Ledridge.

Both tag team wrestling matches were disqualified because of unsportsman-like tactics. Participants were Jim Neece and Dan Tucker vs. Clyde Holliday and Rick Heilner.

In the blindfold free for all, which lasted five minutes, Henry Garbe and Norm Nelson came out on the top side. Their opponents were Jose Bendrigal and Lou Edwards.

Did You Know

(In each coming issue of the Beacon, the staff will attempt to present interesting facts about our school, campus, faculty and benefactors which students might not otherwise have opoprtunity to know. These will be obtained from various sources on campus, including the President's office, the Business Office, the Library and EOC files and faculty members.)

Did you know that in the month of October 416 loaves of bread were consumed by residents of Dorion Hall? This means that during that month each Dorionite had 3,058 loaves of bread or 67,276 slices. In addition to this amount of loaved bread, Dorion also used 30 packages of dinner rolls.

Did you know that during the month of October the men Hunt hall drank 5,151 quarts of milk, or 27.69 quarts per man? They also used 27 quarts of whipped cream.

Did you know that before the Walter M. Pierce Library was opened the school library was located in the west end of the first floor Administration Building? It occupied rooms 12 and 13, present music department areas. Only in 1950 was the Pierce building opened, dedicated to a former Oregon Governor and State Senator who was most influential in the locating of Eastern Oregon colege.

Did you know that the pictures hanging in the main hall of the Administration Building are of former Eastern Oregon College Presidents? Dr. Frank Bennett, present administrator of EOC is the fifth president of the institution which was founded in 1929. Harvey E. Inlow was the first president. His term in office ran from 1929 to 1937. He is now deceased. Next man to take the office was Charles A. Howard, from 1937 to 1939. Dr. Howard was later President of Oregon College of Education at Monmouth. He retired in 1950 and now resides in Salem. Roben J. Maaske took head office at EOC next and remained in that position from 1939 to 1950. He also is deceased. Roderick G. Langston was the fourth president of our school. He held office from 1950 to 1952. Dr. Langston now teaches at Los Angeles State College. In 1952 Dr. Frank Bennett came to our campus as president. He was formerly the Superintendent of Schools at Salem. Dr. Bennett received his Honorary Degree of Doctor of Education from Willamette University.

EOC Junior Varsity Drops To Whitman

By Mike Pellisier

The EOC J.V.'s traveled to Walla Walla along with the varsity December 2 to play the Whitman College Junior Varsity.

The J.C.'s played very well for their first game of the season, losing a close one to the Missionaries from Whitman, 41 to 38.. EOC led the game up until the their quarter then lost its lead to the Missionaries. The half time score was 20-15 in favor of the EOC J.V.'s.

Individual scoring was as follows:

Perkins	4
Stewart	0
Lear	0
Jones	3
Clarke	0
Woodside	0
Barnhart	5
Miller	2
Shore	2
Seachris	4
Harn	0
Hutton	9

Hutton, Wagner, Perkins, and Barnhart were outstanding players for the Mounties J.V. team. Hutton and Wagner were the high point men for the J.V.'s with 9 points each.

Winter Carnival PlanningMeetHeld

Representatives from 17 colleges in Oregon met the weekend of the sixth at Portland State College to discuss the plans for this year's intercollegiate Winter Carnival. The meeting was to organize the carnival and get things on the way. There will be two more meetings before the big event. Bob Miller and Jerry DeBorde are the representatives from EOC.

The carnival, sponsored by PSC, will be held at Mt. Hood February 14 and 15. At this time a queen will be chosen from among the princesses each school is entitled to send to the carnival. The queen will be chosen on the basis of poise, charm, speaking ability, and various other items. Each member of the court will be given a new ski outfit. EOC students will choose their princess between December 8 and 12.

The carnival offers much excitement and pleasure for evryone. There are races and other games of competitive spirit to get everyone, even the non-skiers, into the fun.

Other Land's Christmas Told By EOC Exchange Students

As the Christmas season approaches, the traditional Christmas decorations are in evidence and the sound of Christmas carols may be heard throughout the county. Shopping reminders, Snow, Santa Claus and anticipator small children lend to the Christmas spirit in America. These things make an American Christmas, but picture a Hawaiian Christmas as described by Ruth Kanda.

"Mele Kalikimaka!" "That is the true Hawaiian way to say 'Merry Christmas'. Our Christmas is not very different from those spent here on the mainland. Perhaps the only difference one will observe is the warm climate with green trees, and flowers in abundance. The spirit of Christmas fills the air with good tidings as bright caroling voices repeat the traditional Christmas carols with melodious feeling. Santa can be seen among a flock of eager children and Christmas trees light every home with happiness. Our Yuletide song is comparable to your "White Christmas' as it creates the same devotional feeling to one's native land.

Mele Kalikimaka is the thing to say
On a bright Hawaiian Christmas Day.
That's the island greetings that we send to you,
From theh land where palm trees sway.

Here we know that Christmas will be green ad bright,
The sun to shine by day and all the stars at night.
Mele Kalikimaka is Hawai's way to say,
Merry Christmas to you!

Yes, Christmas in Hawaii is a time for great joy and happiness, for we, too, acknowledge the birth of the world's Saviour Jesus Christ.'

The following article is written by Salem Rashdan describing the Moslem Christmases.

"In Arabia in 575 AD the Moslem prophet was born. Islam is the system of belief and practice. There are today 300 million people in the world and every seventh man living is Moslem. The Moslems celebrate two important Christmases. The first one, during which they do not eat from dawn to sunset for a period of 30 days is called Ramadan. God asked them to do that to make the richer people feel as the poorer people and to practice quietness and calmness. Duriing this time they will pay two per cent of their income to the government to spend for the poorer people, schools and hospitals.. The second Christmas is the time of the pilgrimage. The Moslem Pilgrimage is made once a lifetime. Whether man or woman, they are supposed to undertake the religious pilgrimage to the Moslem's birthplace, Mecca. God asked them to do this: 'It is their duty toward God; those who are able should visit his house—Ka-abah—in Mecca. The time for this is fixed in the first half of the month of Dhu-al-hijah. Moslems celebrate their Christmases for four days, where they dress in their best and every family gathers together kissing their parents hands, greeting each other and asking God to give them a good year for every new year to come.

During the Christmas season a patient waiting at a clinic for a checkup, noticed there was an air of gay excitement as doctors and nurses, carrying beribboned packages, hurried by toward a certain room. Finally unble to control his curiosity, he asked a passing nurse if there was somethiing special going on. "No," she explained laughing. "It's just that when anyone on the staff gets a 'Do Not Open Until Christmas' present, they bring it down here to the flouroscope machine so they can see what's in it."

Frosh Rally Rousers Get Organization Set Up

RRR, or Rook Rally Rousers has been a familiar saying on campus this year. Ever since some conscientious freshmen entered EOC, and decided the school spirit needed a boost, plans for this organization have been under way.

Officers elected for RRR at a class meeting Wednesday, January 7, were: President, Mike Bowman; V. President, Eilene Marshall; Secretary-treasurer, Mary Jean Riese.

A committee of 15 members met Wednesday night to draw up the constitution. With the help of Josie Ward and Bev Donovan a good framework was completed.

The aims of the organization are to promote school spirit and perform services for the school. Qualifications for membership are to be a freshman, have a genuine interest in promoting spirit, and to prove interest by attending games and RRR meetings. Members of the RRR will sit together wearing special outfits at the ball games and promote pep with an organized cheering section. Any other students who wish to yell and participate in the cheering may sit with the members of the club, but will not have the outfits the club members do.

Dr. Spear met with the committee Tuesday night to review and complete the constitution. The constitution will then be presented to student council, and if it is passed, the RRR will soon be in full swing.

EOC Program Offers Vaccine

EOC students will in the near future be offered once again the special price for polio immunization. Shots will be administered by Dr. Ager in the Ackerman Health Office on February 4, from 8:30 until 10:30 a.m. The cost will be $1 per shot; students are to pay at the business office for each shot and present the receipt at the time they receive the vaccine. Payments must be made and receipts presented before the vaccine will be administered.

For those students who have already had part of the series, vaccine will be ready as they need it in the offices of either Dr. Kubler or Dr. Lumsden at 110 Depot Street. Office hours for their establishment are 10-12 a.m. and 2-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For those students under 21 years of age a letter has been mailed to their parents for permisison to give the vaccine. When this prmisison is received the list will be posted on the bulletin board in the Adimnistration Building.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

One of the students who purchased the ASB sponsored accident insurance in the Winter Term registration line failed to turn in the white card which gives personal information, and most important, name. All those students who purchased their insurance at the beginning of this term are requested to check a list which will be placed on the bulletin board in the Administratiron Building. If your name is not listed, please contact John Trigg immediately.

Enrollment Hits High At EOC

A 10 per cent increase in enrollment for the winter term at Eastern Oregon College is noted in figures released by the office of the registrar. Enrollment stands at 688 and still might hit the 700 mark that is predicted. The report shows an enrollment of 625 at this same time last year.

There are 654 returning studc ts and 34 new students. This is the first time on campus for 11 of this number. The remaining 23 are transfer students.

Curricula-wise, there are 189 in elementary education, 184 in secondary education, 112 in general studies and 203 in pre-professional studies A breakdown of classes show 253 freshmen, 167 sophomores, 117 juniors, and 89 seniors and 52 special students, including 13 graduate students).

At the end of the fall term, there were nine who received degrees form Eastern Oregon College. Those receiving the masters were Elvin Ballou and Rex Mitchell. Receiving their bachelo of science degrees were: Patricia Carici, Bill Burke, Anona Hogden, Harlan Heyden, Watler Fulton, Rudy Sherwood and Robert Good.

This term there are a total of 68 seniors doing their practice teaching. There are 44 in the elementary department, eight in the junior high, and 16 in high school.

EOC Receives Equipment For New Coliseum

Eastern Oregon College's new Colesium already has a good supply of equipment available for use by the general student body, and is obtaining more all the time, according to Archie Dunsmoor, head of the men's physical education department. In addition, the gym, activity room and handball courts are open at various hours for use by EOC students interested in working out. A schedule of the hours during which each of these rooms is open is posted on the main bulletin board in the colesium

At th.e present time, the rifle range is open all day Monday through Friday and on Saturday afternoon. Participants must furnish their own guns, ammunition and targets, although the school has guns ordered. Weapons to be used must be .22 calibre, either pistol or rifle.

Shuffleboard courts are set up on the balcony of the gym and are also open at all time. However, instruction in p.e. classes will begin in this actiivty soon, so it will be necessary to check for available hours. Mr. Dunsmoor stressed that EOC's girls are welcome and urged to make use of the shuffleboard area. Since all equipments must be checked out fro mthe cage in boys' dressing room, it will be necessary to have a boy check out the equipment, but the girls are welcome to avail themselves of shuffleboard courts at any time.

Two more sports soon to go into use on the balcony are aerial tennis and bat tennis. These will also be open to use by coeds.

Intramural basketball is now in full swing, and plans are in the offing for an intramural handball tournament to start next Monday, January 19. All teams must be submitted by 5 p.m. this afternoon, anuary 16. Mr. Dunsmor also indicated the possibility of a volleyball tourney early in spring term.

Jr. Class Sells College Mugs

In order to help finance the Junior prom February 7 the Junior class has undertaken the project of selling college mugs to the EOC students.

The mugs are sold in eighteen and twenty ounce sizes, with a choice of black or white. Imprinted on the sides in gold are the school seal, the name of the school, the student's first name and the year he graduates.

A special table has been set up in the lower hall of the Administration Building and there will also be a table at all of the basketball games where the mugs may be ordered. For those students living in the dorms, a member of the junior class will go from door to door for orders .

"We urge everyone to back the junior class and help make the junior prom the most successful dance on campus this year," states Bob Miller, president of the junior class.

Vad Kelsoe and Donna Seene are in charge of selling the mugs. The price is three dollars apiece.

Drama, Music, Dance Depts. To Present Brigadoon

March 11, 12, 13, and 14, have been set aside for the production of "Brigadoon." Mr. Dick Hiatt, Mr. Neil Wilson, and Miss Nicoloff are directing this performance. Mr. Hiatt is in charge of the casting and speaking parts, Mr. Wilson is charge of the musical work, and Miss Nicoloff in charge of the dancing.

The play is completely cast except for two small parts and work has begun on memorizing parts, songs, and cues to whip it into production.

The principal characters include Tommy Albright, Bob Barrett and Dean Kennedy; Jeff Douglas, Paul Beckett; Jane Ashton, Sharon Noyes; Fiona MacLaren, Kay Hawk and Janice Robertson; Jean MacLaren, Judy Wardell; Andrew MacLaren, Dennis Godfrey; Archie Peaton, Bob Patterson; Harry Beaton, Steve McCowan; Mr. Lundie, Delbert Olson; Charlie Dalrymple, Wes Stephens; Meg Brockie, Lee Miller; Frank, Mike Hanford; Maggie Anderson, Karen Jacobsen; and Stuart Dalrymple, Bob Stewart.

Outside of this cast there are approximately twenty-five chorus members plus the dancers. Patsy Carpenter and Betty Roudebush are working with the principals and choir as accompanists.

Those participating are from the student body as a whole and not particularly from the music and drama departments.

Student Leaders Hold Meet On Oregon Budget Issue

Harold Moore, Eastern Oregon College Student Body President, returned Sunday from Oregon State College at Corvallis where he attended an emergency meeting concerning the budget for higher education in Oregon. Larry McKennon, ASB president, Oregon State College, and Bud Titus, University of Oregon, summoned Moore to the meeting to join with seven other student leaders from the college of the state system.

In a press release this group stated that the primary purpose for the meeting was to point out the great concern of the students in the state institutions in refer ence to the proposed seven million dollar budget cut slated for Higher Education. Naturally this cut would affect the entire State System of Higher Education, although it is estimated that college enrollment in the next 10 years will be tripled.

Eastern Oregon College is an excellent example of enrollment increase. In estimating probable maximum 1958 enrollment the figure was set at 725. 1958 Fall term enrollment figures topped all previous records, and EOC registered 761 students during the past term. There is no doubt continue in this manner, if facilities are available.

The rise in enrollment is no regional trend. For example in the western part of the state Portland State College presently has a daytime enrollment of 3,700, and is expected by 1970 to have an enrollment of 12,000. This is in addition to the current night enrollment at PSC, 4,900, which can also be expected to increase.

At the recent meeting where the budget cuts were discussed, the concerned student leaders pointed out that Ex-Governor Holmes' proposed tax and budget cut would not only affect the present salaries, building programs, and possible tuition fees but would be a definite detriment to the future enrollment and facilities in the state system.

On his return to campus Moore urged that each student become more familiar with the problem that is presently before the legislature concerning the budget cut, and as direct recipients of Higher Education benefits, the student body should help to acquaint the citizenry of Oregon with the current proposals and participate whenever possible in the movements to aid the plans for Higher Education in Oregon.

Nine Top EOC Honor Roll

Nine students earned a perfect 4.00 grade point average for the Fall term at Eastern Oregon College according to the office of the registrar.

Receiving all "A's" were Elinor Denny, Robert Detrick, Frederika Evans, Jean Cuthbert, and John Willmarth, La Grande; Joyce Kay, Pendleton; Eloise Reynolds, Sweet Home; Michael Ricker, Union; and Robert Seevers, Baker.

Also named to the honor roll with a 3.5 average or higher were Richard Arends, Jo Ann Berryman, Nancy Choate, Donna Detrick, Sharon Hickey, Sharon Hill, Dorothy Knechtel, Janet Lundgren, Joseph Miller, Sharon Noyes, Barbara Paris, Susan Peterson, Steve Smith, Gene Todd, Ronald Waite, Neil Williamson, and Bob Winkel, La Grande.

Others were James Anderson, Wilbur Hutton, Gary Deilman, William Lovelady, and Barry Spence of Baker; Mary Bray, Beverly Donovan, Judie Lybecker, and Nels Nelson, of Pendleton; David Collins and Vivian Tarpenning of Milton-Freewater; Susan Latta and Beverly Woolhiser of Redmond.

Jerrold Baxter, Union; Nola Bubb, Huntington; Clifford Babbitt, San Diego, Calif.; Seymour Baybrook, Kamuela, Hawaii; Patrick Cawood, Portland; Patrick Edvalson, Washington, D. C.; Leslie Edwards, Moro.

Jean Damon, Heppner; Valene Mitchell, Nyssa; Carolyn Muller, St. Helens; Norman Nelson, Boody, Ill.; Josephine Ward, Forest Grove; and Virginia Wellington, The Dalles.

Jan. 23 Date For Mardi Gras

This year Theta Delta Phi's dance will be decorated in the Mardi Gras theme as it has been for the last few years, but it will not be a costume dance.

The dance is planned for Friday, January 23 in Hoke Hall from 9 until 12. Semi-formal dress will be used this year because of poor attendance at the costume dances in the past.

Music for the event will be provided by the Gary Winkel band. Masks will be given out at the door and are to be worn by those in attendance. There will be an unmasking at midnight with the traditional kiss all part of the fun. Posters on campus will give additional information at a later date.

The sponsoring organization, Theta Delta Phi, is the men's scholastic honor fraternity.

County Holds Contest For Centennial Queen Candidate

A wonderful opportunity is coming to three girls from Union County when one will be chosen queen and two will be princesses in the coming "Miss Centennial of Union County" contest. These girls will be entered in the state "Miss Oregon Centennial" contest in Portland during uJne. Then, this winner will be sent to the "Miss America" contest will win a trip to Hawaii, and a full tuition college scholarship.

The Union County contest will come to a full head when the court will be chosen and crowned at the La Grande Armory on Saturday, February 14th, Oregon's one-hundredth birthday. Immediately after the crowning a dance will begin and the court will reign over this activity as well as all other Centennial events in this county throughout the year. Two entries have already been received: Sharen Kaye Noyes, a student in engineering at EOC, and Linda Hodge, who was enrolled here last term.

Four candidates will be voted on today in the elimination for a girls are Ardythe Wilde, Marcia MacPherson, Carolyn Sperling, and Marilyn Sperling.

Ten official escorts for the ten finalists in this county contest have been selected from the college. They are: Bill McCadden, John Botz, Dallas Johnson, George Taylor, Jack Pugsley, Mike Hanford, Jerry Case, Cherles Berry, John Willmarth, and John Heriza.

Tickets for these two events, the coronation and dance, will be on sale every Saturday down town on the streets, and a booth will be set up here at the college during the week preceding the dance. Students helping with these activities will receive community hours and may contact Dr. Martha Addy or Sharon Hickey.

Two local chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International sorority are sponsoring these events. Alpha Epsilon is handling the queen's contest while Delta Epsilon is making arrangements for the dance.

Mud Settled—And Issue

In the last Beacon the issue of the unpaved street in front of Dorion Hall was taken into tow and pretty well covered from the students' viewpoint who walk through it perhaps three or four times a day. The street had been fairly well lubricated by three days of steady drizzle and all the old questions which had been answered before about this sore spot crept up. Where there's water there's mud, all one has to do is stir.

Now the street is frozen and the riling has ceased—for the present. But the spring brings the thaw. Our questions have been answered concerning the unpaved street. The reason for printing them now is to prepare students for the days soon when all will not seem so solid. When we understand we can accept.

What we all knew as the nasty rumor, that the street will not be paved until this coming summer, is a fact, but should not be placed in the negative form. The street WILL be paved this summer!

The reasons for the difference in the finishing of the building and the paving of the street before it are explained thus: When the administration presented its request for a new dormitory to the State Board of Higher Education the City Council of La Grande was already in its session, approving the budget for the next two years. It was impossible to request a street before a site which had not yet been approved for building operations; it was equally impossible to have special consideration of the building project by the State Board, outside of any other considerations to be made.

Therefore, the Dorion Dormitory construction was approved by the Board in the spring of 1957, but the request for a street before that building could not be submitted until the City Council again met for acceptance of such petitions, in February, 1958. At that time the college was given as much priority as possible, wider than city regulation streets, and deliverance from much red tape. The mud is settled, as is the issue!

It Affects You...

How much does education in Oregon mean to you? Does it mean enough to write a letter, to contact a friend, to talk with your parents? To try and understand an issue of tremendous importance and make a sincere effort to strive for what you feel is right? To strive by any means which are available to you—the contact with a state legislator, senator, governor, the letter to town editors, the explanation to friends and family, the VOTE?

In my opinion, there is such an issue before us now. In two months it may be too late for our efforts to influence this decision, but this decision may affect and influence us for years. Eventually this issue could mean the migration of both students and professors to other states; it could mean the degradation of the Oregon State System of Higher Education to the point where out of a recent survey of 20 schools of the mid-west, Pacific and Rocky Mountain states, Oregon would drop to seventeenth in a matter of four years, according to recent statistics.

Ex-governor Holmes in his budget, which will be presented to the legislature for vote in February, recommended several cuts because it is felt that the Oregon voter definitely does not want increases in taxes. One of these cuts amounts to approximately seven million dollars from the portion of the State Board of Higher Education. Presently this cut will affect the salaries of professors, the building programs and in the future, the tuition of state institutions will perhaps be influenced. It affects you—the student, the future teacher, the voter.

Never before in the history of Oregon have students combined forces to make an influential movement against a state action. This could well be the year. Our greatest weapon is information, as much and as far as we may spread the facts to uninformed persons. Can you help? How much does education in Oregon mean to you?

Council Corner

By Jean Hunter

By JEAN HUNTER

A rather lengthy Student Council meeting was held January 12 and topics discussed during the two and a half hour period ranged from 1959 Homecoming to Student Union movies on campus. T ere were a few people from the general student body who sat in on the meeting Monday night just to see how the council functions. Members of the council have been urging some sort of on-stage council meeting to be held as an assembly so that the student body might realize just what goes into the functioning of their government. This is not the only way it can be done though; every student enrolled at EOC has the right to sit in on every student council meeting held each Monday evening at 8:30 in the Ad Building.

Monday night Clyde Holiday reported on the progress of the Bonfire Committee which is working on a less dangerous method of burning the Homecoming Bonfire without lessening class competition. Seems they've come up with a solution involving a greased pole, a torch, and a company of all-night guards drawn from the ranks of the faculty. The minutes of the last meeting give more info on this proposed method and they can be found on the bulletin board in the Ad Building.

A report from SU Chairman Bob Miller revealed only a $2.75 loss on the first attempt at Student Union movies "Battle Cry." Tickets sold for $.35 and 77 people comprised Sunday's audience. The SU will be given a loan of $118.00 from the ASB Budget with which to stand any losses that may result from the next three movies scheduled. The plan is fo rthe Student Council to back the Student Union financially until the SU can get on its own feet. The general concensus was that the first movies indicated probable success for future movies and Bob was given the go-ahead on scheduling more of the same.

Mike Bowman and Eileen Marshall, who represented the Rook Rally Rousers, sat in on the meeting to petition for recognition as an organized group on the EOC campus. They will present the constitution for RRR at the next meeting. Bunny Moyer also got in a few words about the need for frequent rally rousing assemblies that touched off a discussion on the advisability of teaching our student body such different pieces of music as the Alma Mater and Fight Song. It terminated in a recommendation that we havee more assemblies of this nature. It was indicated that Rook Rally Rousers will receive the responsibility for these assemblies when they are completely organized.

These are only a few highlights of the council meeting—facts and details can be found in the minutes that are posted every week. Take a good lookat your student council and their functionings—after all, they are using your money, scheduling your time and deciding the policies of your school.

NO SMOKING RULES

These rules have been enacted by the Student Council and a Faculty Committee:

1. Absolutely no smoking in the auditorium, on the stage, or in the dressing rooms used for dramatics.
2. No smoking in classes. This includes the Hoke Hall Lounge when classes or examinations are being held and includes evening classes as well as daytime classes.
3. No smoking in the hallways of buildings.
4. Smoking is permitted in private offices or at the entrances and in rest rooms of the various buildings where ash containers are provided. Smoking is also permitted in the basement of the Library.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Leter to Editor
Dear Madam Editor:

At winter term's opening student body assembly, President Bennett took as his theme for his address to the students the idea of looking two ways through the door of the new year. If I may, I'd like to follow his example for a moment and look backward to my days as a freshman and sophomore at EOC and forward to my days as a faculty member on this same campus. The two-way look through this door is rather interesting, I think.

As I recall my undergraduate days, we had a fire-ball of a red-head named Dale Fallow as our rally squad leader. At pep assemblies and games nothing could keep Dale in his seat. He was all over the place, yelling at the top of his lungs, pulling the pep out of us by its roots. His enthusiasm was downright infectious; we just couldn't help yelling. I don't believe I ever heard Dale tell us we couldn't yell; and perhaps because we'd never been told otherwise, we did yell.

At the assembly the other day, I saw this same psychology applied. A man whose profession is music led the ASB in song. At the end of the first phrase he told us we were pretty good. Personally, that encouraged me so much I sang even louder on the next phrase, and I think others did too. Each time we got louder, the leader would compliment us on the improvement until, by golly, I think we were beginning to sound all right. At least this professional song leader told us we did.

But alas, these encouraging words and their resultant good feeling soon disappated when we were told, no less than six times in five minutes by another leader that we sounded awful, had no pep, couldn't sing and so forth. Since this leader seemed so confident that we couldn't do any of these thing I thought perhaps he would show us how But evidently he was so sold on the idea there was no hope that he remained back stage or out in the hall, doing even less than the least of us.

My thoughts turned back to former years and that dynamite enthusiasm demonstrated by the rally squad leader I had known. I looked long and hard into the future hoping to see some of that same enthusiasm trickle down to us from the present leader. I thought I detected a possible spark; I thiink one of his assistants showed some spirit by bursting forth with a mighty yell, once, But we were all so socked to see this display of enthusiam from him that we didn't quite know what to make of it. Maybe if we are given more chances to see more ally leaders the truth will out: that the spirit is in EOC, as it has always been. It just needs r ore encouraging and less disparaging remarks.

Thanks for permitting a former student to look two ways through a door.

Dorion Doodles

by Jean Hunter

The Sweetheart Ball approacheth! Dorionites are busily planning refreshments, thinking up themes, drawing decorations, and laying plans for talking some unsuspecting fellow into being her date for this annual frivolous frolic. Candidate for Dorion Sweetheart will be voted on at a meeting next Monday evening and through a process of elimination a queen and court of five will be chosen at the dance February 7. This dance, which is strictly for Dorion girls and their choice of escorts, will be semi-formal this year, saving the chiffon and net for the Junior Prom. The fellows in Hunt must also be thinking of the forthcoming Ball for news has reached us that an eager frosh has sprouted lovely orange hair to match the streaks that so recently appeared on the crowns of the female frosh. What could be more exciting than a date for the Ball with a guy as compatible as that. (He's not taking any chances on being left out either, there are about 10 girls who think streaks are wonderful.)

Dear Editor:

Every person on campus who registered a car has received a copy of the EOC parking regulations. These rules were also explained at the house meeting during the fall terms, and copies were posted in both dormitories and and in the Ad building. Ignorance is no excuse for failure to adhere to the regulations. Please print them once more for the benefit of driving students.

Sincerely,
Ken Manns

1. Only student teachers and Hunt seniors are allowed to park in the front parking lot of Hunt Hall.

2 No student is allowed to park in the drive circle before Hunt Hall except when loading or unloading

—o—

Student Parking Regulations

This year we are revising the policy covering reserved parking privileges for students and employees at the college in hope that we may allow for greater felxibility than in the past If we find through experience that the new plan is less desirable than the old, we will hold ourselves ready to modify this new policy as experience indicates We request your full cooperation within the framework of the policy stated below:

1. Parking for Dorion Hall women will be on the street and to the north, east, and south of the building. There should be adequate parking on the diagonal basis provided in these three street areas.

2. Parking for Hunt Hall men will be on the parking space to the back of the dirmitory as in previous years. College staff employees at Hunt will have spaces 6-11 inclusive reserved for them in the old Dorion parking area. The balance of this parking area will be available first to senior men during the term in which they are off campus doing student teaching, and second, to dormitory men as assigned by the Hunt Hall dormitory council.

3. Student parking other than indicated above will be restricted to street parking on or west of Eighth Street except for the one block on the east side of Seventh street between J and K avenues. This area is reserved for our maintenance staff. The new parking area directly north of the College Coliseum will also be available for student and staff employee parking.

FINES

A fine of $1.00 will be assessed for each parking violation. Students not displaying EOC permit on the windshield or locking cars so that registration certificate cannot be read, making it necessary to trace the car owner through the police department, will be fined $5.00. After two violations, a student may be requested to leave his car at home.

Cold Mounties Defeated By Fast Playing SOC Raiders

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers, slack on defense and cold as a cucumber, simply couldn't get in the game and dropped their second straight game 81-57 at the hands of the Southern Oregon College Raiders from Ashland.

Ted Schopf, SOC coach, said, "We played our best games of the current season."

"We've never played so bad nor been beaten so thoroughly in the conference as long as I can remember," said EOC coach Bob Quinn sadly shaking his head. (And coach Quinn has been at EOC more than 30 years.)

That about explains the situation in a nutshell as the Mountaineers were downed in the opening game Friday, 81-66.

The Red Raiders were "hot" both nights from the field while the Mounties were just as cold as the Raiders were hot. In the final game the Mounties could only connect on 25 of 80 tries from the field for a .313 average. The Raiders were hitting, meanwhile, on 36 of 86 tries for a .419 mark. They also hit .41 percent on Friday night.

The Ashland team, which has been working out and playing during the Christmas vacation, was obviously a more coordinated team than the Mounties. Coach Bob Quinn's crew had taken a two-week vacation during the holidays which might explain their poor showing.

Both coaches played mainly reserves in the second half of the Saturday tilt as the Raiders wrapped up the game early when they piled up a 45-23 halftime advantage.

Sketches Of The Men On Mountie Basketball Squad

PASCUAL "PASCO" ARRITOLA, Forward, 20 6'6", 188, Sophomore. Pasco, who is a returning letterman from last year's varsity, saw limited action but showed up well as the season closed. He is a 1956 graduate of Jordan Valley High School where he lettered four years in basketball and two years in baseball.

CHARLES L. "CHUCK" BARNHART, Forward, 20, 6'3", 165, Junior Chuck attended Linfield before transferring to EOC, and lettered as a member of the Mountie baseball team last spring. He graduated from Elgin high school in 1956, lettering in football, basketball—earning All-District recognition — track, and baseball.

JERROLD "JERRY" BAXTER, Forward, 21, 6'4", 200, Senior. Jerry, one of the two seniors with the Mountaineers this season, is a two-year letterman and top rebounder. He set a team record for the 1957 season averaging 13.1 rebounds for each of the 26 games. Jerry, a Union High School grad, also tops the scholastic average; 3.86 grade point last spring And he is one of five married men on the squad.

FRANK B. CHASE, 19, 6'1", 175, Sophomore. Frank did not participate last season He is a 1957 graduate of Gilliam County High School at Arlington and lettered in football, basketball and baseball. Has been showing up very well.

LARRY HOWARD, Guard, 22, 5' 9", 165, Senior. Larry is the top Mountie scorer averaging more han 16 points for the 1957-58 26-game season. His top game last season was a 33 point effort against Westminster at Salt Lake. Larry, a grad of McMinnville, has twice been named to the Oregon Collegiate Conference teams. He is another of the married men.

ELLIS HUDSPETH, Guard, 21, 5'9", 160, Sophomore. Ellis, a native of Madras attended San Jose Junior College before transferring to EOC. As a prepster he earned two letters in basketball and four in baseball.

DARREL L. Jones, Center-Forward, 19, 6'4", 185, Sophomore. Jonesy transferred to Eastern Oregon College after a year at Seattle Pacific. He is a 1957 graduate of Baker High School where he lettered in football and basketball.

TOM NEEL, Guard, 21, 6'2", 195, Junior. Tom ranks second in scoring to Howard. He finished last season with 333 points, averaging 12.8 points per game. Neel also picked up 168 rebounds for the season to rank second in that department He is a 1955 graduate of Condon where he earned All-District and All-Conference recognition three years.

JIM Parson, Center, 22, 6'4", 200, Junior. Jim got a slow start last season but came along strong, scoring 135 points to rank fifth. He is a transfer from Lower Columbia Junior College and a native of Longview, Washington. Another of the married men.

RONALD PAULSON, Center, 21, 6'7", 235, Junior. Ron no doubt ranks as the most improved player on the squad and early season indications are that he will use his height to full advantage. Ron picked up 141 rebounds last season and 116 points. He is a 1956 graduate of Maupin High School.

LARRY SEACHRIS, Guard, 23, 5'9", 161, Sophomore. Larry has moved up from the JV's and is an excellent floor man. Larry is a 1953 graduate of Touchet, Washington, high school and spent two years in the army before coming to Eastern Oregon College. He is also married JACK VEDDER, Guard, 24, 5' 10", 155, Sophomore. Jack at 24 is the Mounties' "Old Man" but doesnt allow that to slow down his floor game. He spent four years in the Air Force following his graduation from La Grande High School in 1952. Jack, along with Baxter, is a member of Theta Delta Phi, men's scholastic honorary. He is married and has a child.

Snow News . . . Is Good News

Students interested in the 1959 Winter Carnival, Feb. 14 and 15, will be glad to learn of the accommodations tentatively made for this big event. The delegates and team members will stay at Timberline Lodge, as will Janet Lundgren and the Snow Princesses from the 17 other colleges expected to be in attendance.

Other persons attending from EOC will stay at the same motel as last year only with improved facilities available.

The cost of this trip will be inexpensive in comparison to other collegiate trips. Five dollars will permit free lift privileges for both days and entrance into all non-ski events plus the dances, the style show and the floor show, put on by Mel Blanc, all on Feb. 14.

IRC Collects Asian Books

The IRC is currently directing a book drive on campus to collect used books which will be sent to Asian countries. The drive is sponsored by the Asian Foundation.

The books requested are textbooks printed later than 1945 and also books by standard authors, such as Dickens. Posters on campus will direct students concerning the pacement of donated books. Boxes will be placed in Dorion, Hunt and Hoke Hall.

IRC members feel that these contributions will strengthen Asian-American relations by strengthening Asian understanding of America, developing democratic ideals, and introducing a wider knowledge of the English language. Asian students are in great need of books and will definitely welcome all contributions.

SU Movies Get Good Beginning

Student Union chairman, Bob Miller reports that an encouraging word is to be said corncerning the presentation of "Battle Cry." This movie was presented in the college auditorium on Sunday, January 11 at 3:00 p.m. and was attended by 80 students and faculty. Additional movies will be presented throughout the term, the next of which is scheduled for 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, January 21 in the auditorium. Admission charge is 35 cents per person and season tickets may be purchased for the remainder of the term for $1.00. Following "Blackboard Jungle" on January 21 will be "Teahouse of the August Moon' which will be presented February 1 at 3:00 p.m. The last movie of this term's series will also be held in the auditorium at 7:00 p.m. on Friday, February 27.

Ski Classes Meet At Tollgate Area

Twenty-four EOC students are now enrolled in ski classes. An evening orientation class was held on Tuesday, aJnuary 6, and the first actual performance class was held at Spout Springs on Friday, January 9, under the direction of Pete Eyraud. The class meets from 12:30 till about 5:30 each Friday. Including today's class, there are eight more sessions scheduled.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor stressed that any students not now enrolled, but interested in the class should enroll for today's session. Any later registration will result in the student being too far behind.

Fees for the class are $10.00 each for instruction and transportation. For students enrolled in the class, equipment is available at about half the regular rate. Skis rent for $1.00, boots for $1.50 and poles for $.25. Tow fees are $.75.

Each week time is given for instruction and also for free skiing. At the end of the course, both written and performance tests will be given.

Vocal Soloist Monday Night

The second in this year's series of civic music concerts, scheduled for Monday night, features Joseph Boardman, baritone. The varied program for solo voice will begin at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

All full-time EOC students are admitted upon presentation of their ASB cards.

The career of Joseph Boardman less than five years ago lay in the realm of popular music. Winner of a Fulbright Scholarship in 1954, he supplemented his American Theatre Wing training at the Hochschule fur Musik in Hamburg, and within a year, was giving guest appearances in Osnabrueck, Germany. The following year marked the real beginning of a distinguished "tour of duty" at the Muenster Opera.

Library Hours IncludeSunday Starting Feb. 8

In reply to a request submitted by the Student Council, the Library Administrators have extended the EOC Walter M. Pierce Library hours to include a Sunday afternoon period. This plan will go into effect directly following mid-winter examinations and will continue until the end of the Winter Term. "This is being practiced on a temporary trial basis. It has been the feeling that these extended library hours would aid EOC students in their studying, and the plan will be fully organized on a final basis only if this trial period is felt to be successful," stated Harold Moore, ASB president.

Mr. Nelson, head librarian, reported that no definite time has been set for these Sunday afternoon hours yet, but that the probable time would be either 2-4 or 3-5. The extended hours will begin on Sunday, February 8.

A new system is also being set up concerning the reserve book loan system. Those books will now be available from Friday aftenoon at closing hours until Monday morning at 9. In the past these reserve books were required back into the library on Saturday morning, unless special permission was given for commuting students.

Miss Bliss stated that although those reserve books checked out for the week-end would not be in the library on Sunday afternoons, other reference materials would be available.

Honor Society Has Initiation

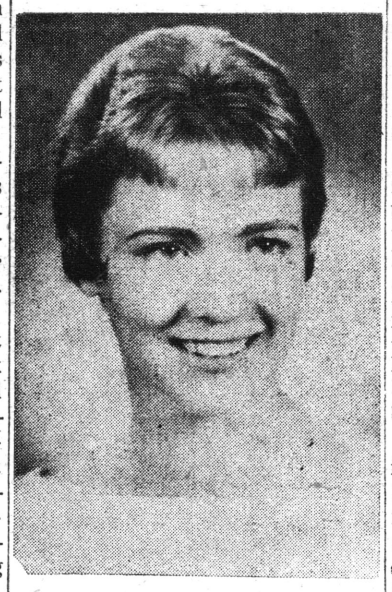
Wednesday, January 28 the Sigma Alpha Chi organization on campus held its Winter Term, semi-formal initiation. New members joining the group were Carol Tamashiro and Linda Rasmussen. Linda Kane and Lynette Wood were re-affirmed as members.

The affair was held in the home of Donna Detrick. A buffet-dinner was served, after which the new initiates were formally initiated.

The requirements for membership in this women's scholastic organization are based on the scholastic achievement first. A 3 point must be made two terms in succession and maintained for continued membership. Also considered are leadership, personality and service to the college.

Campus Chest Drive Plans Underway

Plans are under way for the "Campus Chest" drive tihs year. The drive will be similar to the WUS drives in the previous years. There will be one week of fund-raising activities.



Any fund-raising organization such as Heart, bookdrives, etc. may appeal to the student council for further information. The money earned will be divided proportionately among the different organizations who appeal to the college.

Any campus organization that wants to help with the fund-raising may join the drive for community purposes.

College Students Ready For Winter Carnival At Mt. Hood

With the recent snow and cold weather, many EOC students are eagerly making preparations for the Intercollegiate Winter Carnival. This carnival, sponsored by Portland State College, is now the second largest collegiate carnival in the United States.

EOC's Snow Princess, Janet Lundgren, will make her first official appearance February 6 in Portland. At that time she will appear on TV and on KEX radio, which is the official radio station for the carnival. Also at this time she will receive a complete ski outfit.

MISS JANET LUNDGREN

At last report apprximately 40 EOC students are planning to make the trip to Mt. Hood for the carnival. The trip will be made in private cars, with riders splitting the costs. Chaperones or the trip will be Miss Nicoloff and Mr. McCroskey.

Following is the 1959 Winter Carnival Schedule:

12:45-3:00, Men downhill race, double chair; 2-3, Snow tug o'war, in front of loge; snow shoe race. 3-4, Flying saucer race. 3:30-4:30, queen judging, main lounge of lodge. 4:45, coronation of Queen, main lounge. 5-6, fashion show, main lodge. 6-7, meal hour. 7-8, door prize and entertainment, main lounge of lodge. 8-8:30, ski-torch parade, in back of Timberline. 8:30-9:30, door prizes and entertainment, main lounge of lodge. 9:30-11, dance, Timberline lodge; 11-11:30, intermission (door prizes), Timberline lodge 11:30-1:15, dance, Timberline lodge.

Sunday, February 15:

Saber Initiate CeremonyHeld

On Monday, January 26 at 7:00 p.m. Sabers held an initiation ceremony in the conference room of Dorian Hall. Ardyce Garrett, and Billie Jean York were taken into the organization with President Patsy Evan, V. President Jean Damon and Secretary Carolyn Muller presiding.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served following the ceremony and a business meeting was conducted. Those present were: Sandi Thompson, Nancy Swanson, Linda Kane, Linda Woodhouse, Millie Smith, Gayle Eddy, Marilyn Nichols, Betty Roudebush, Betty Johnson, Jan Robertson, the organization officers, honored guests, and Saber advisor, Jean Neely.

Frosh Select New Officers

Larry Wilder was elected winter winter term president of the freshman class at a class meeting held Wednesday, aJnuary 14 in the Administration Building. Electel to the position of vice-president was Mike Hanford.

The class passed a motion to elect officers for each of the two terms to follow. Immediately after the motion was passed, the new officers were chosen. Pat Page, secretary, presided over the meeting until the new prsident took his office.

Further business was an announcement concerning the Rook Rally Rousers. Mike Bowman, president o fthe organization, encouraged all those interested to attend the RRR meetings during the week.

Sandy Thompson Newly Elected Prexy Of AWS

Election of Associated Women Student officers was held Friday, January 23. Those elected were Sandy Thompson, president; Donna Dooley, vice president; Sharon Noyes, secretary-treasurer; and Eloise Reynolds, representative with Marcia MacPherson as alternate.

A record number of 90 voted at this election in an attempt to get AWS reorganized and in an active position for the rest of this year. This movement was stimulated by an all women student meeting on January 21, and was conducted by Jan Robertson, last year's president. It was stressed that the campus needs an active AWS; it is a major beginning in the campus effort to raise EOC standards. Membership into this organization is not selective. Any woman who is a college student is entitled to belong. At the present, there is a potential membership of 291 women students.

Activities for this year include the annual tea held during Inter-Faith Week and the Coronation Ball.

Representatives from EOC are planning on attending an AWS Conference at the University of Oregon on February 21.

McPherson, Wilde Chosen EOC Centennial Candidates

One of two candidates being sponsored by the Eastern Oregon College student body in the "Miss Centennial of Union County" contest is Marcia MacPherson. A freshman in general studies, Marcia comes from Union where she graduated from high school in 1958. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don F. MacPherson.

Her qualifications for the queens contest are many. She was in various school organizations, Rainbow, and was co-salutitorian of her class. While in high school she was selected "Miss Bay Lynx" by Ronnie Burns, son of George and Gracie Burns of television fame. Marcia is also well known for her singing ability. In 1954 she sang with Frankie Carle while he was here and appeared twice on the "Mr. Talent' TV show in Portland. She has also sung in Salem and now appears with Rhodes Lewis' Combo in Baker each Saturday evening. For the future Marcia hopes to have a career—in the entertainment field, naturally.

MARCIA McPHERSON

And how does Marcia feel about it all? "I think it is a big honor to be selected by the student body and I hope I live up to their expectations.'

The second EOC candidate for the queen of Union County, to be crowned February 14th at the "Birthday Ball," is Ardythe Wilde. Also from Union, Ardythe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Wilde.

She is a freshman in elementary education and works part-time in the office of Dr. Kubler in La Grande.

Ardythe was very active in Union High School activities where she was student body secretary, vice-president of the senior class and worked as the artist on all school publications. A great portion of her time is also taken up as dance director for the Union Ward of the LDS church.

Aside from wanting to become a teacher, Ardythe is very interested in in modeling. She commented on the coming contest: "I'd like to thank the student body for electing me as one of their candidates and I hope that I am worthy of their confidence."

Scholarship Forms Now Available

Reference forms for state scholarships for the 1959-60 academic year have arrived, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar. He urged that all students wishing to apply for scholarships pick up these forms as soon as possible. The actual application and references must be returned to the registrar's office not later than March 1, 1959.

These scholarships pay for the complete tuition, $186, for one year. Other scholarships will be available at a later date which will be published in The Beacon.

Seniors Being Interviewed

Eastern Oregon College seniors are being interviewed by grade and high school superintendents from various grade and high schools for job placement.

The superintendents inquire as to training, qualifications, and preference of seniors being interviewed. The superintendents in turn tell of their school's policies, openings, and opportunities.

Before this interviewing period, seniors fill out certain credentials and references—information concerning their training, interest, and desired location for teaching preference. These credentials are kept on file in the Administration Building, and at such time as their training is completed and they are interested and need a position, the school sends their credentials to the several places they choose.

Often various schools will send a listing of the openings offered and of what grade levels they are to EOC. This is posted on the bulletin board for all seniors to notice. It indicates that if a student is interested, he may write or attend an interview.

It is the County School Superintendent who determines if the seniors inquiring about the position will be placed in his desired location. Notices are posted as to the time and date various superintendents will arrive either at the school or at another location of their convenience.

Dorion Hall Women Schedule Sweetheart's Ball Feb. 6

Friday, February 6, has been set as the date for the annual "Sweetheart Ball" to be given by the women of Dorion Hall.

The dance this year will be held in the cafeteria of the hall, and it has been planned as a semi-formal affair, with the women asking their escorts. The couples will dance from 10:00 p.m. to1:00 a.m. to the music of Dr. Lewis and his band with vocalist Marcia MacPherson. Because of the basketball game scheduled for the same night, special permission for late closing hours has been given by the dean of women. Closing hours for this event will be 2:00 a.m.

Saturday night a queen and her court will be chosen to reign over the night's activities. They will be chosen from 10 candidates already selected by the women of Dorion. The candidates are as follows: Josie Ward, Margaret Preston, Donna Johnson, Jan Thiel, Billie Jean York, Bonnie Bannister, Jannette Egg, Nancy Swanson, Sue Chrisman and Myrna Barreth.

A Penny For Your Life

Students attending the assembly last week were given the rare opportunity to listen to the other side of the nuclear disarmament question.

Dr. Linus Pauing, Nobel prize winner (1954) for his work in Chemistry, is one of few who believes continued nuclear testing is immoral and wasteful and can accomplish nothing constructive. For taking this stand Dr. Pauling has been highly criticized by our government. Criticism was especially harsh when he originated a petition which was signed by scientists of over forty nations asking for an immediate halt of nuclear testing.

Whether or not one is in agreement with Dr. Pauling is unimportant. However, one wonders how many students actually received the full impact of his lecture.

It is always easy to relegate world problems to our political leaders, but as moral individuals can we allow questions of this magnitude to go unanswered?

Dr. Pauling maintains that we can not. "How," he asked, "can nations allow nuclear testing to continue, when each series of tests cause the death of fifteen thousand people and bring about mutations in another fifteen thousand unborn children."

The idea that continued testing will eventually develop clean bombs (low radiation) is plain silly, according to Dr. Pauling. A clean bomb would be so big in size that tactical use of it would be next to impossible. Furthermore there is no guarantee the enem would use clean bombs in a nuclear war and the final result would be the use of dirty bombs (high radiation) by all nations involved.

Dr. Pauling stated at the present time the cost to manufacture a nuclear bomb with the explosive power of twenty million tons of T.N.T. is approximately one hundred thousand dollars.

Should a bomb of this size be dropped on New York City during the day it would kill over ten million people. The cost of this mass homicide would be one cent per person.

If these facts are accurate and we have no reason to believe they are not, this makes killing a cheap business.

Yet money spent on armaments today equals two-thirds of the income of all the people in the world, claimed Dr. Pauling. This waste must not be allowed to continue. Now is the time to reach an agreement with Russia. After all, Russia is not our enemy; war is. Disputes between nations must be settled in the dignity of man.

It would be easy to agree with Dr. Pauling if Russia's attitude had been different in the past. But what garanty do we have, as the nation in direct competition against Russia, that they won't start a war?

Dr. Pauling answers by saying the Russian leaders are realists and they know a nuclear war now would only bring total destruction to their country as well as to the United States. It is now possible, Dr. Pauling claims, that four thousand straegically placed nuclear bomb could desroy all civilization. The United States, he continued, has thirty-five thousand such bombs at the present time.

What then can be done to solve these problems? According to Dr. Pauling, "Stop nuclear testing; cut down the danger of an accident that could start a war; and become a pacifist now, it is just the only thing to do. For should a war start the end result would be total destruction. The idea of a limited war is ridiculous."

Complete agreement with Dr. Pauling is not important but the realization must be faced that a third world war would not be fought like the last two. It would be like playing Russian roulette with a change in the rules. Instead of having one loaded chamber and five empty ones, there would be six loaded ones. The only hope of winnnig would be a misfire.

Music Notes

The band is busily working on their novelty numbers and concert pieces in readiness for their tour. A definite departure date has not been set yet as the schedule is not final. They hope to leave in the last week of February.

Choir, soloists, and dancers have all begun work on Brigadoon. The Brigadoon choir practices on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday while the regular choir practices Tuesday and Thursday on music for their spring tour. The dancers practice at 4:00 every day except Friday. Everything is shifting into high gear in readiness for this production.

The soloist for the next Grande Ronde Symphony concert will again be a young boy, this time a 17-year-old celloist. He is Bert Bailey, the son of the Walla Walla Symphony Orchestra director. This young talent will be something to look forward to. Other numbers on the program will be: Saturday Night at the Firehouse, Mozart's Prague Symphony, Spanish Dance No. 1 and a very pleasing arrangement called Scenes from the Southwest. Let's all turn out for a bit of culture and fine entertainment February 15 in the college auditorium. Your student-body card will admit you.

Janet's Jottings

By JANET WAKEFIELD

Much has been said and planned around campus for raising EOC standards. On this subject is the question of suitable attire for campus functions and classes. Eastern Oregon is not the only one concerned with this matter. Recent features have appeared on other campus newspapers about "what to wear when." Though the OSC Student Handbook — their "Rook Bible"—handles this question, the "Barometer" found it necessary to define their terms again. Wisely they were not rash enough to decree what was proper in feminine wearing apparel. However, for the men they say: Formal means either a tuxedo or a white dinner jacket with tuxedo trousers; semi-formal means a dark suit; informal means a light suit or sport coat, slacks and tie; sport signifies a sport coat with or without a tie; and in their opinion "campus" and "grubby" style were self explanatory. What do you think, EOC men?

With mid-terms February 1 through February 6, we all feel pretty gloomy. However, this bit of news should brighten your spirits. Not all colleges are as fortunate as we are!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Madame Editor:

In approximately two and one-half months some 30 members of our Student Body will be actively engaged in campaigning for an ASB office. Once elected, these people will have control of our campus government for exactly one year, from May 1, 1959 until May 1, 1960. This fact alone advocates wise choices on the part of EOC students as to who will hold the Student Council reigns for that period of time.

Having served this amount of time ourselves, we can add another point for consideration. Ability and the willingness to give of if freely for the betterment of our college are necessary. This time element is a very important factor in an ASB Office.

Probably the most important factor and the most obvious is that of worthiness. Our purpose in writing this letter is to remind the ASB that elections are in the near future, not too far away for consideration and planning. Seek out those worthy persons now who will be most effective in the five executive positions. These positions include, president, official leader of all ASB functions; first vice - president, in charge of all elections and theoretical head of all committees; second vice-president, official chairman of the Social Committee; secretary, responsible for recorded minutes of all meetings and other secretarial duties; and business manager, in charge of finances and the ASB budget. Plan ahead and be satisfied!

Sincerely
Associated Student Council

Who's Wearing The Pants?

A recent effort on our campus has been that of raising the standards of ourselves personally and our college collectively. This has been effected through the higher academic requirements placed on transferring students who are on the probation lists of their former colleges (2.5); it has been noticable in the requirments set up by the Dorion Hall Council concerning attendance of women on the down-list to a study table, and now it is in evidence once more.

This latest consideration concerning standards on EOC's campus has been the surveillance of campus dress habits. A special committee set up to study this problem—and it definitely is felt to be precisely that—has made its first set of recommendations to the Student Council. In effect, this report stated that the wear of levis by the men and slacks by the women, should be severely frowned upon except during the leisure hours, or on special occaions specifically requiring such wear. For the most part, this type of wear should nof be considered as acceptable college dress.

It is the feeling of both the students who wish to truly improve EOC appearance and also the faculty members who are conscious of students apparel that there is a definite need for a change in our attitude and our mode of dress. This ideal has also been expressed by visitors to our campus, parents included.

The women and student teachers generally adhere to more formal dress for campus wear. The main concern is the underclassmen's apparel. Not only are they faithfully and everlastingly supporting levis, they refuse to even listen with an open mind. Very scholarly attitude!

What is the case for levis? According to the men: they are less expensive, they are comfortable, they can be worn longer without cleaning and when cleaned they do not require a cleaning bill.

According to other sources, less defensive and more truthful, the popular and very nice appearing sun-tans are about the same price, comfortable—as well as looking 100% better—and although they are light and cannot perhaps be worn three consecutive weeks without extreme worry, are washable.

The change will be made, the sooner we all decide that it is a step forward for our college and ourselves as well, the sooner we will be considered a full-fledged college and not an extended high school!

Hakim Of Hunt

by George Taylor

"My good grief," said the typcal collegian as he walked across the lawn, "What a crummy campus. Beer bottles from hell to high water around here. You'd think someone would try to keep this place looking half-way decent, anyway." So saying, he followed another of the EOC traditions, unwrapping a stick of gum and, cramming the symmetric hunk of breath killer into his scummy mouth, he let the wrapper fly in the wind. An unconscious act, to be sure, but that, too, is the typical collegian's state of mind, unconscious.

Picture yourself in your own home, dumping an overloaded, filthy ashtray out the kitchen window onto your Mother's prize bed of something or other. She would probably flip her cookie and cleave your ignorant skull the the nearest implement. Not that she wouldn't have just reason. Or lean out the upstairs window and release a glob of nicotine spittle which would light on your Father's back as he laboriously mowed the grass. Do you t ink he would be pleased with you and pat you on the back for being an ideal child? No innocents, you would probably be receiving your mail in the county hospital. Again, your own sloppiness and ignorance would be the factor to be blamed

Why, then do you consist in your idea that this campus is one huge waste basket? Any man or woman with the minimum of gray matter can figure that junk does not aid in enhancing the beauty of our campus or our buildings. I will not call it negligence, or absent mindedness, it is apparent, decrepit asinity. We are all to blame, none of us can say that our record is clean, nor can we point the accusing finger without it bending back toward us. What we can do is call upon our inherent powers of maintaining ourselves, and try to do the same for the grounds we walk upon. No campaign is necessary, and disciplinary action would simply display the ignorance of others in solving problems. It is an individual duty and responsibility, not only to ourselves and ot others, but to our school.

Town Council Active, Awaits ASB Action

Eastern Oregon College's newly organized town council is in the process of formulating a constitution, according to Gordon Young, president of the organization. When the officers have concluded their work, the constitution will be submitted to all members for approval and then will go to the EOC student council for final approval.

In addition to Young, the officers include John Corey, vice-president; Vad Kelose, secretary-treasurer; Laura Young and John Trigg, student council representatives. These students, along with class representatives make up the executive council. Class representatives are Carol Patrick and John Heriza, seniors; Sarah Workman and Edsel White, juniors; JoAnne Berryman and John Willmarth, sophomores; and Sharon Noyes and Dave Harmon, freshmen.

While awaiting final student council sanctions, the council has been active. Over the Christmas vacation, they planned a dance for college students living in La Grande. Last Tuesday, January 27, they participated in a project aiding the March of Dimes.

Frosh For "3 R's"

The "3 R's", or better known as the Rook Rally Rousers, are enthusiastically becoming organized. Their constitution is now completed and will be presented to the Student Council for approval as a campus organization. Discussion on uniforms is still going on. Also, tentative plans are being made to take a bus to the Portland State game, February 27.

Yearbook Scheduled For Fall Delivery

"Due to a study of the trends in colleges throughout our country, the yearbook staff has decided to make two big changes in its policy," said Val Kelsoe, Mountaineer editor, recently.

The first change is that the Mountaineer will not be delivered during the summer, but will be delivered at school immediately after the fall quarter begins. This change will make it possible to include such spring term activities as baseball, track, and Evensong which have not been present in past years, and enable the staff to increase the size to 156 pages from 140. Those students who do not return for the fall quarter will receive their annuals by mail.

The second change deals with the cover of the yearbook. In past years the cover has been padded, but this year it will be hard. According to Miss Kelsoe, only high schools and small colleges use this plan of padded covers to make the annual look larger. The width and length of the book will remain unchanged, however, she added.

Frankly Speaking

By Don Frank

Comment on the OTI series played in the Mountie Gym two weeks ago. Friday night's game was a poor showing of the potentiality of the club. This could have been because one of the three EOC scorers didn't see action. But Saturday night's game was a real thriller for the home town gang. The club looked like a well oiled machine working. Except for a showing of very poor sportsmanship by a visiting player who fouled out, it was a good ballgame. It just goes to prove that basketball is as exciting as the rock 'em sock 'em sports.

Last weekend, EOC took a blow at the hands of OCE, going down by one point in the Friday night encounter. Sure is strange what that little number can do! But, I've heard "one" can be as big as a million. They stormed back the next night though, and evened the mark by dumping OCE, and by more than one point. That makes two weekends in a row the Mounties have taken a defeat Friday night and came back Saturday to even things up. Sure would like to see them take a full series. The games played here this Friday and Saturday would ge a good time to do this little thing.

Since the new gym has been completed, a new sport has been added to the Intramural list. I think if rifle competition is given a fair chance, it will really take hold on our campus. I understand there was going to be a club for intercollegiate competition, but this idea seems to have lost momentum now.

One sport I'd like to see initiated is archery. I know of a few who are interested, and I think it would help them, and if handled right, could help the College.

Council Hears ClothingReport

At the last regular meeting of the Student Council ,the committee recently appointed to make a study of and recommendations concerning improvement of social dress on campus presented its report. The recommendations were approved by the Student Council, but no formal action will be taken until the report is completed. This is one of the many efforts on campus this year directed at the raising of EOC standards.

The recommendations included: Be it recommended that the wearing of levi's by boys or slacks by girls to class on this campus be not done.

Be it recommended that levi's not be considered as acceptable dress for college dances or activities.

This committee will prepare an agenda of approved campus wear which will be published fall term in the Pathfinder. Further consideration of this matter will be given by the committee and the recommendations will be made.

Movie Series Well Attended

The efforts of the student council to improve opportunities offered on campus to the student body by sponsoring a movie series seems to be well received. It was reported that a large crowd attended "Blackboard Jungle." These films are shown in the theater of the Administration Building and a minimum admission fee is charged. Approximate reports show an income of $70 and expenses of $45. Coming attractions are "Teahouse of the August Moon" on Sunday, February 1, and "Caine Mutiny" on February 27.

Polio Shots

EOC students are being reminded to receive their polio immunization shots on February 4 from 8:30 until 10:30 a. m. in the Ackerman Health office.

Payments must be made and receipts presented before the vaccine will be administered. The receipt may be obtained in the business office.

If students miss the clinic, they may receive their shots from Dr. Kubler or Dr. Lumsden at 110 Depot Street. To receive a shot from either of these doctors, students must have their receipt and a referral slip which must be obtained from Mrs. Osterholme. This slip MUST be taken to the doctor with you.

Intramural Activities In Home Stretch

With the varsity basketball season well under way, a look into the intramural basketball season is appropriate.

Eleven teams are entered in this competition with each team having about two games left to play.

The remaining activity pits the Rinky Dinks against the Majors at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 2, and at 8:45 that same night, the Frosh meet the Shockers. Then on Feb. 3, the Alkys take on the Lions in an afternoon contest. On Feb. 5, the Cornballs and the No-Names tangle at 7:30 while on Feb. 6, he season winds up with the Rinky Dinks meeting the Worthesses at 4:00 in the afternoon.

These games are full of excitement and action, and one someimes wonders if the game is basketball or soccer.

Looking at a little tamer intramural activity, we find the handball court is very much in use these days. Many of the fellows have found that this game of handball is not the easy sport they have heretofore imagined.

A complete list of the intramural handball schedule may be found in the Coliseum or in the Ad building. Since this list is subject to change, we advise all handball participants to check it at regular intervals.

Surprise, Surprise— No Surprise

The "Surprise Production" listed on the EOC social calendar for the weekend of February 12-14 will not take place as scheduled, according to Dr. A. R. Kaiser, head of the drama department The performance rights to the play originally scheduled for that date have not been obtained as of this date and Dr. Kaiser is presently negotiating with the publishers. If the rights are obtained, the play will be rescheduled for the early part of spring term, Dr. Kaiser said.

WRA To Host Visiting Teams

The Women's Athletic Association, under the leadership of Nancy Swanson, president, has added a new function to its activities. Working in cooperation with the Student Council, this group will from this time on be the official hostesses at all home games for visiting teams.

Following the first game at EOC, if there are two scheduled, a reception will be given by the WRA for both squads. This will be held in the main lounge of Dorion Hall. Both the council and WRA feel that this will aid the college relationships as well as making visitors to our campus feel more welcome.

The funds for this activity have been provided bythe ASB.

Janette Egg Crowned During Dorion Hall Sweetheart Ball

Following the SOC-EOC basketball game on Friday, Feb. 6, Dorion Hall's Sweetheart semi-formal dance was held in the hall cafeteria. Rhodes Lewis' band, featuring Marcia McPherson, provided the music.

JANETTE EGG

Climaxing the evening was the crowning of Janette Egg as Dorion Sweetheart 1959, by Mrs. Burnett, Dorion Housemother. Janette and her court, which consisted of Josie Ward, Nancy Swanson, Billie Jean York, and Margaret Preston, were presented with bracelets.

Nola Bubb singing "My Love and "My Funny Valentine" and Steve McGowan with a tap dancing routine provided entertainment for the evening. Ardyce Garrett accompanied on the piano.

General chairman for the dance was Margaret Preston; other chairmen were, Jan Robertson—Entertainment; Terry Clifton and Refreshments, Carol Thorne; Programs, Betty Johnson, Virginia Wellington; Clean-up, Mary Conklin. Jan Sorenson served punch throughout the evening.

Playnight To Be Held Tonight

Tonight, Friday 13, the WRA and the Lettermen's Club will be the co-sponsors of a Recreation Night at the coliseum from 7:30 until 10 o'clock. All students are invited to attend the activities and participate in the games. Invitations also are extended to both married and town students as well as the dormitory residents. Faculty are also encouraged to come also.

From 7:30 until 9:30 there will will be a free recreation period during which visitors may participate in the various activities offered, including volleyball, badminton, shuffle board, tumbling, trampoline and the rifle range. Access to all equipment in the activity room will be available. Basketball will not be allowed. All games will be under supervision.

At 9:30 a film on skiing will be shown for all interested persons.

Sunday Hours Meet Success

Approximately 55 students attended the first Sunday opening of the EOC library last Sunday. This was an excellent turn-out, according to the committe assigned to the project. This temporary study provision has been insituted as one of several campus efforts to improve scholastic standards this year.

Opened upon a formal request from the Student Council, the library will continue Sunday afternoon hours of 2-4 until the end of this term. If at the end of that period, the effort is determined to be successful, permanant hours and rules will be set up, stated Mr. Nelson, head librarian.

Campus Chest Drive Set Up

EOC "Campus Chest Drive" will be held March 2 through 6. The "Campus Chest Drive" will be an all-campus campaign to raise funds for various worthy projects. Included in the drive will be the Heart Fund, Easter Seals, Cancer Fund and World University Service (WUS).

Various projects for raising funds for the drive have been planned by a committee. Included in fund-raising activities will be an All Student Body auction to be held during that week in the auditorium. Further plans will be announced through publicity on campus and in the next issue of the Beacon.

"Campus Chest Week" is an effort to consolidate all fund-raising activities within this week thus eliminating a 'never-ending' sream of drives throughout the year.

Brigadoon Cast Prepares Show

By MIKE FERGUSON

With opening night less than a month away, the principals and chorus members of the forthcoming Sock and Buskin production of "Brigadoon" are busy working on dialogue and music to meet their Monday, February 16 deadline. Production dates are Wednesday through Saturday, March 11-14. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. in the college theatre.

One of the highlights of the musical production will be the dancing. Miss Christine Nicoloff of th women's p.e. department is in charge of the choreography.

Four of Miss Nicoloff's students in modern dance have major dancing parts and are doing their own choreography with her supervision. They are Judy Wardell, Steve McGowan, Karen Jacobsen and Nancy McCrae. Nola Bubb and Oran Hutton are working on a duet. Other members of the clss will be the dance chorus which will be an entity separate from the singing chorus. These people are Judy Thompson, Nancy Choate, Terry Clifton, Ardyce Garrett Jerry Martin, Oran Hutton, Bill Lovelady, and Wayne Soward.

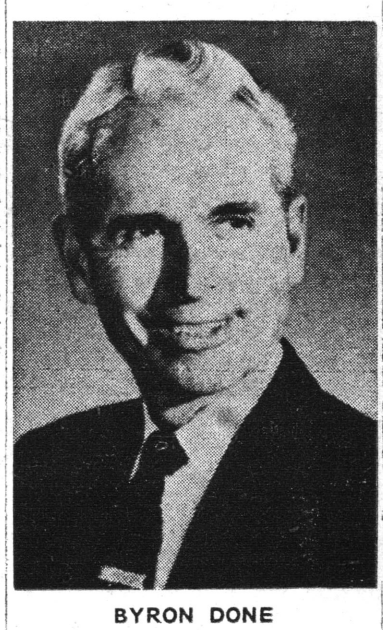
EOC's MacPherson Still In Centennial Contest Running

Marcia MacPherson, sponsored by EOC, is one of ten finalists in the "Miss Centennial of Union County" queen's contest. Selected Monday evening at the elimination judging, other candidates are JoAnn Berryman, Judy Case, Mamie Diedrich, Evadne Kelsoe, Lee Miller, Sharon Noyes, Marilyn Sperling, Sarah Workman and Louise Young. Eight of these girls are enrolled at EOC.

Before a crowd of 150 people each of the 18 candidates entered in the contest gave a short extemporanious talk on "What Union County has to offer." Jane Reynolds, Mistress of Ceremonies, presented the topic to each girl separately after which a panel of 5 judges turned in their ballots. Pat Pridgen and Kay Fallows were in charge of this event. Lovell Howard counselled and staged the evening and John Heriza assisted each girl as she entered. The queen's contest is being sponsored by Alpha Epsilon chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority.

A queen and two princesses will be crowned tomorrow evening at the La Grande Armory. The coronation will begin at 8 p.m. with the judging being conducted by a different panel of 5 judges. Master of Ceremonies for the coronation and dance is Fred Schneider. At 9 p.m. the queen will be crowned by Dr. Carlos Easley, count ychairman of the State Centenial, and will be presented with flowers from Cherry's an a key to the county. Immediately following this ceremony the queen and he rcourt will begin the Birthday Ball. These girls will be escorted by ten EOC students, John Heriza, Jerry Case, Dallas Johnson, George Taylor, Charles Berry, John Willmarth, Don Coles, Dick Cook, Mike Hanford, and Jack Pugsley.

Six Speakers Scheduled To Appear At Three-Day Interfaith Conference



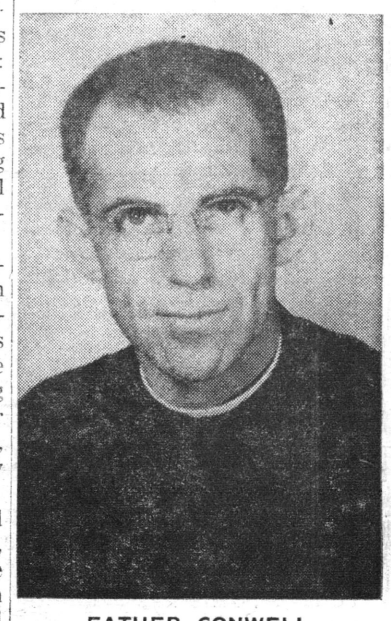
At 10:00 a.m., February 17, Dr. Clifford Maser will give the opening address, "Refugees — Wars' Leftovers," for the 18th annual "Religion in Life Conference" on the EOC campus. This conference is sponsored by the Interfaith Council at the request of the students and faculty. Each year outstanding religious leaders make up the guest personnel of the Interfaith Team. The panel represents the following church organizations: Unitarian, Catholic, Moslem, Methodist, Latter Day Saints and Friends. In addition to assemblies and the traditional banquet during this three day meet, speakers will be available for class lecture, discussions and firesides.

Dr. Ford Lewis, Associate Minister of the First Unitarian Church in Portland, will assist in the conference, speaking before various groups and will give the keynote address for the Wednesday evening banquet. Dr. Lewis is a former college professor at Salem College, West Virginia and the University of California.

Recommended as well-schooled in problems of college youth, comes Dr. Byron Done, Associate Professor of Religion, Brigham Young University. Dr. Done will speak at a La Grande Senior High School Assembly at 1:00 p.m. on Tuesday, February 17.

Miss Alice Lenore Searce, Director of Religious Education, First Methodist Church in Yakima, is the only woman on the panel. Miss Searce is a Danforth graduate of Mississippi Southern College and has been elected to "Who's Who in Omerican Colleges and Universities."

Representing the Moslem faith at our conference is Mohammed T. Mehdi, Director of Arab Information Service in San Francisco. Mr. Mehdi has written many noteworthy articles in Arabic newspapers dealing with social, economic, and political problems of the Arab World. He will be one of the team who is meeting with the International Relations Club for lunch on Thursday.



BYRON DONE

DR. FORD LEWIS

Also visiting the campus will be Father Joseph F. Conwell, S.J., who is an instructor in theology at Gonzaga University. Father Conwell took special studies at Gregorian University in Rome. He is the author of a book, "Contemplation in Action."

Completing the Interfaith Team is Dr. Clifford Maser, Dean of the FATHER CONWELL

School of Business and Technology at Oregon State College. Dr. Maser is a former Director of American Friends' Service Committee Refugee Service in Germany and has recently been honored for his work there by the West German government.

Highlight of the conference is the Interfaith Banquet scheduled for Wednesday evening, Feb. 18, at Hoke Hall. The number of tickets are limited to 160 and students are urged to get their tickets as soon as possible. Most of the key addresses including a special interfaith roundtable will be broadcast.

Dr. Virgil A. Bolen, advisor and sponsor at the local college Interfaith Fellowship, is the director of the 1959 meet. Myron Carpenter is chairman of the organization. His committee members are: Carol Patrick, Bill Vickrey, Thomas Switzer, Deanna Morris, Linda Bean, Dave Walch, John Trigg, Norman C. Nelson, Betty Roundebush, Patsy Carpenter, Beverly Donovan, Jean Hunter, Carolyn Muller, Linda Kane, Roberta Lyons, Ramona Hooker, Linda Woodhouse, Janice Sorenson, Lynette and Jack Wood.

EOC To Share In Loan Fund

Twenty colleges and universities will share $73,393 as Oregon's first portion of Federal funds allocated under the National Defense Education Act. The funds are for distribution under the student loan provisions of the act passed by Congress last year.

Eastern Oregon College will receive $1,135 as their share of the loan fund allotment. Oregon State College will receive $21,399, the largest single allotment for an Oregon school. The University of Oregon will get $14,514 for use in loan programs at the University Medical and Dental schools in Portland as well as at the Eugene campus.

"These loan allotments are a start in the right direction," Senator Richard L. Neuberger said, "but they provide scarcely enough for a start in implementing this new pogrram. Colleges and Universities had applied for nearly $62 million to cover estimated loans and commitments during the rest of this school year.

Money - Money - Money

There has been recently a concern on the part of college students involving the rumors and reports of the termination of tuition scholarships in the sytem of tax-supported colleges. This was evidently proposed by Governor Hatfield and later presented as a proposed Senate bill. If these grants were terminated, it would affect approximately 100 students on the Eastern Oregon College campus.

The purpose of this editorial is to assure students that there is no indication at this time to assure us that the bill has even been referred to a committee, much less acted upon. There is no immediate need for concern, since the deadline for these bills' presentation and allocation to committee work is past. A check has been made in administrative offices of EOC and it has been found that no such bill is listed in the copies which they receive.

In addition to this is the confidence which we must show in our legislators. They have in the past been not only cooperative with the causes and needs of higher education, but have made specific and time-consuming efforts to back us and our institutions.

Danish Gym Team Scheduled By EOC For April Program

The Danish Gym team will be on the EOC campus April 15 at 8:00 p.m. The show will take 2½ hours and will be presented in the coliseum. The 28 members of the team have been selected from many diffeernt parts of Denmark. They are all fon dof gymnastics and folk dancing and have been practicing gymnastics instructors and are former students from one of the famous Danish Folk High schools of gymnastics. They come from different walks of life and have taken 10 months off to demonstrate gymnastics to people of America.

All the members in the team are amateurs. The tour is made possible by private initiative — the members have paid a deposit which will be returned at the end of the tour. They are hoping through performances to cover all expenses of the tour. The tour has the Danish government's support and good will, but not in any financial way.

The program consists of the Entrance March, girls and boys; Fundamental Gymnastics, girls; Fundamental Gymnastics, boys; Rhythmical Exercises, girls; Work in the Stall-Bars, boys; Exercises in Pairs Promoting Tumbling, boys; Courtesy Dances of Olden Days, girls; Danish Folk Dances, girls and boys; Exercises with Ball, girls; Apparatus and Tumbling, boys; and Salutation and Exit March, girls and boys.

Dorion Doodles
by Jean Hunter

Seems like many an inch of Beacon space was devoted to complaint about Dorion's guiding light last year—possibly more than conditions warranted. But now that those admittedly uncomfortable conditions have changed it's about time a few words of approval were forthcoming. The complaint last year was not one of too much discipline, but one of the wrong kind of discipline. Well, we've got what we want this year and I think any Dorionite will enthusiastically agree that the whole atmosphere in Dorion has changed. Discipline we're got, but lets face it, everyone of us likes the security that discipline affords us; in addition to that discipline though, we've been given the privelege of being trusted and therein lies the difference between success and failure. Roses to Mrs. Burnett for recognizing and making use of that difference.

"But Mrs. Oesterholme, I can't have measles! Mid-terms are next week and I can't possibly miss them," came the wail from room 212 a few weeks ago. Mid-terms or no mid-terms, Nance not only could but did have the measles and the rest of the girls in the dorm rushed letters and phone calls home to Mother to see what their possibilities of immunity were. The following week seven of the 20 girls on second floor north were ordered to bed and reports from third and first floors were much the same. It turned out that only three of the many invalids really had the measles, and you've never seen so many people actually happy to have the flu. All's well in Dorion by now though, and Mrs. Oesterholme may be able to get through an evening meal this week without a call from the dorm from some girl frantically imagining spots appearing from toes to nose.

The after-game receptions held in Dorion for visiting teams and our own Mounties have met with much approval from all concerned. Although WRA is sponsoring this function, all of the girls are urged to help make both teams feel welcome One really terrific result has been that both the visiting team and the married members of our own team have been attending the sports dances following the reception in greater forces than ever before. (Congratulations to WRA; you even made Parson's dog feel that the dances weer worth his while.)

The Sweetheart Ball was a big success this year and much credit can be given Terry Clifton and her crew on south second for the time and effort they put forth on decorations. We had a beautiful court this year with Queen Janette Egg and her Princesses Josie, Nancy, Marg, and Billie Jean.

Note to Hakim: Don't promote your clean-up campaign too heartily; you'll ruin the prospering business the Ackerman kids have worked up by picking up those saleable objects that occur in such profusion around your domicile after every weekend.

CALORIE COUNTERS

A comely young matron stepped on the drugstore scales after devouring a giant sundae and was shocked at what she beheld. Promptly she slipped off her coat and tired it again. The results weer still unflattering, so she slid off her shoes. But then she discovered she was out of pennies. Without a momen'ts hestitation the lad behind the soda fountain stepped forward. "Don't stop now," he volunteered. "I've got a handful of pennies and they're all yours."

Drive Carefully!

Music Notes
By VIRGINIA WELLINGTON

The college went all out to help with the March of Dimes Marathon January 27. Besides contributing badly squeezed pennies to hear certain numbers, many of the students donated their valuable time, which is sometimes more valuable than money. Jan Robertson sang, accompanied by Daisy Good early in the program. The Hawaiian girls from third floor made many monies for the cause selling several numbers. Ellen Uesugi sang, with Carol Tamashiro singing and adding the Island flavor playing a ukalalie generously contributed for the occasion by Ginger Brown. Incidently, these same girls sang a few nights later for the Country club.

One of the most advertised numbers on the program was the college professor's quartet. Floor meetings came to a halt in the dorm to hear Dr. Lewis, Dr. Kaiser, Mr. Dunsmoor, and Dr. Easley. The college off-campus organization perhaps donated the most time as they sat in the studio, books in hand, waiting to be called to collect the pledges.

Flutes are regaining their popularity. The member of the music department who gets her name in this column the most frequently, Virginia Wellington, played fo rthe Interfaith Groundhog Luncheon, accompanied by Ardyce Garrett. She and five other flutes, Eloise Reynolds, Barbara Hodgins, Phyllis Reed, Eleanor Edvalson, and Barbara Paris will play Tuesday night for Lion's Ladies Night; Johanna Hardwick will sing selections from "The Music Man," the number she will do on tour with the band.

A note on a local talent we may someday be saying, "I knew her when.' Marcia Mac Pherson brought her talent home to sing for the Dorion Sweetheart's Swirl. Marcia has been singing steadily with Dr. Lewis' dance band since she was a senior in high school. This year she has been going to Baker every weekend to sing with the band at the Elks club and the American Legion. For those of you that don't know her ,Marcia is the cute Freshman from Union who is EOC's nomination for Union County Centennial Queen. With her talent and her looks, she has a bright future ahead of her.

Council Corner
By Jean Hunter

Recommendation: a statement declaring what one recommends or expressing commendation (courtesy of Mr. Webster). Are many irate male students suffering from a case of inadequate vocabulary or are they merely taking advantage of what they consider an opportunity to express their right of freedom of choice? Be it what it may, but before any more daggers are hurled at the Student Council I strongly RECOMMEND that you staunch supporters of the Wranglers company read the minutes o fthe January 19 meeting of the Council and get the facts.

The Student Council did not hand down an edict outlawing blue jeans on the EOC campus. Their commendation of a better manner of campus dress was right in line with previous acts of the Council toward raising the Standards of Eastern Oregon College.

Their previous efforts toward higher academic standards met with hearty approval. Why, then, is there such opposition toward the raising of social standards? The statements that "most of these guys are from small rural areas and have never worn anything but blue jeans" does not suffice. I words show many of these "guys from small rural areas" plan to return to those areas when they've achieved graduation. A good number of them will head for teaching positions near heavily populated areas and even a few will venture down to California. Won't it be a blow when they find that blue jeans and cowboy boots just aren't acceptable apparel for social functions?

The sad thing about all the complaints that have been directed at the council is that most of the complainers not only know when blue jeans are acceptable, but for the for the most part, apply that knowledge appropriately. However, genuine complaints are welcome if you care to take the time to attend a council meeting to voice your opinion.

Hakim Of Hunt

The EOC Politburo has struck again. Now, along with all the veritable refuse we have received from the lovable, irreplacably sensible(?) group of self righteous saints, the male set on campus is not allowed to wear their second skins, levis.

To be sure, the move is a direct attack on the mode of dress of the men, though in the actual decree the dress of the opposite sex was casually mentioned. It tickles my humor to note how ignorant some individuals on this campus can be. The reference to the wearing of slacks by the women is a dip into the incredulous imagination of the writer. What female wears slacks to class? Never have I seen one or more females on the walks or in the classes of this loving school with slacks covering the dorsal and ventral parts of their lower anatomy.

Levis were common dress long before any of we creatures were conceived, and the male concensus of opinion is that they will outlast the living and the yet to be born. In short, they are practical, not having to run the rigors of the dormitory or other washing machines, too often, always being comfortabcle, resistant to fairly strong tugs and tears (which are part of every activity) and usually deecnt looking. Suntans, Ivy leagues, and other atrocious wear will soon die. They cannot withstand the forces of the cleaning machine (they are soon pulled out of shape by the monsters), and they get filthy so often they practically spend their whole lives in the machine or at the cleaners, which, may I add, is highly expensive. I will defend levis to the death, I will not tolerate anyone's nasty comments about them ,and for the un-lovers among the general public, I swear to you that the Western Levis will last, though you be long past maggot bait. Any one who wishes may gripe to me.

Frankly Speaking
By Don Frank

In the preliminary before the last Portland State game, a crew from a little town near Pasco, Washington, Burbank, showed the La Grande spectators that small schools can floor a good ball club. Columbia, the school's name, is coached by Mr. Coates, a former student and graduate of our fair institute. He brought his club here just to show what he had.

If I remember right, the visiting team used just six players throughout the contest while EO's JV team ran two complete units. Still, EO managed just a few points better. I'd say Mr. Coates' club did a good job for for him.

One more comment. I only wish EO's rooting section was half as loud with ten times the voices.

At the last few ball games, I've noticed a new hand sneaking up into the rebounding mess that is part of basketball. The hand belongs to Charley Barnhart, and it gets a fair share of the rebounds, also. Charley is a transfer from Linfield College.

Here is a find of Coach Quinn's who has two years eligibility left, is a fair shot, and isn't afraid to jump.

Basketball Intramurals

The intramural basketball tournament is in full swing for this term. There are 11 teams participating in the tournament with approximately 110 students taking part in the game. It is a single round robin tournament with each team playing 10 games. Students should watch the schedule and come out and watch some of these games, some are pretty good.

Here is how the standings are for the first part of the tourna- r ent:

	W	L
Rinky Dinks	4	1
Kegs	3	1
Worthless	3	1
Majors	2	1
Lettermen	2	1
No Names	2	2
Cornballs	2	2
Alkys	1	3
Lions	1	3
Bluedevils(Frosh	0	3

In other intramurals for the term the handball tournament has been discontinued due to the lack of schedule. The participants were arranging their own schedule but it did not work out so there will be no more of the handball tournament this term.

During spring term there will be tournaments in handball, tennis, table tennis, sofetball, and volleyball and there will be definite schedules set up for these tournaments.

JV's Defeated By LC Normal

By MIKE PELLISSIER

The EOC Junior Varsity lost two games this weekend to the Lewis and Clark Normal from Lewiston, Idaho. Lewis and Clark won the Friday night game in the first half. They outscored the J.V's by 11 points the first half and EOC tied them in the second half with 30 points. In the second half EOC got within 3 points several times but couldn't forge ahead to win.

The Saturday night game was a runaway for the Lewis and Clark boys. The scores for the two games were: Friday night 61-50 and Saturday night 60-41.

The following is a rundown on the scoring of the two teams.

Mounties Split With Raiders

The Eastern Orgon Mountaineers again had to settle for a two-game split this time with the Red Raiders of SOC. The Mounties dropping the first game 80-65 and then bouncing back the following night to trim the crew from Ashland 74-70.

In Friday night's losing effort, forward Tom Neel paced the Mountaineers with 15 counters while his running mate, Pasco Arritola, got 13 and guard Larry Howard tallied 12.

The game opened on an even keel with the clubs trading the lead for the first 12 minutes. Carrigan dropped a long shot through the hoop to put SOC ahead, 17-15, with 9:50 left in the first half and the Red Raiders never trailed again.

The scoreboard read 36-31, SOC, at the half but five minutes after the second half began, EOC on the strength of sharpshooting Neel and Arritola, had narrowed the margin to 42-40.

Carrigan and McAbee teamed to tally eight quick points to put the Red Raiders in control again and the margin was increased as the game progressed.

On Saturday night the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers topped the Red Raiders of SOC, 74-70, in a thrilling OCC basketball clash.

The score was tied seven times in the first half of the game which was close all the way. Southern Oregon held a slim halftime lead of 40-39. EOC went into the lead for good with 18:50 left in the second half when Larray Howard hit a jump shot to make it 43-42.

The biggest gap in the tilt was with 4:47 left in the second half when EOC led, 68-58. SOC closed the gap to 73-70 with one minute to go but failed to score the winning punch.

Guard Larry Howard topped scoring honors with 30 points, 20 on field goals, and 10 on foul shots.

Bruce Bailey Guest Soloist With Grande Ronde Orchestra

Bruce Bailey, cellist, will be the featured soloist to appear with the Grande Ronde Symphony orchestra, Sunday, February 15, at 4:00 p.m. in the collge auditorium.

Born in 1940 in DeLand, Fla., he began studying cello at the age of seven. Residing in Walla Walla since 1945, he has studid piano and cello with his father, who is professor of music at Whitman College, and conductor of the Walla Walla Symphony orchestra. Mr. Bailey's musical studies have also included four years of instruction with the late Otto Huttenbach of Spokane. Presently he is studying under Allen Gove also of Spokane, formerly of Willamette University. A freshman at Whitman College this year, Mr. Bailey is majoring in mathematics.

Last year he was principal cellist on the All-State orchestra and for the past two and one-half years he has been principal cellist of the Walla Walla Symphony orchestra. Also in October of 1958 he was the winner of a music contest in Walla Walla, sponsored by the AAUW. He then appeared as soloist with the Walla Walla Symphony orchestra in November of the same year. As featured soloist with the Mid-Columbia Symphony orchestra on their first subscriptionconcert on 1958-59, in Richland, Wash., he played "C" Minor Concerto by J. C. Bach. In addition to playing the cello, Mr. Bailey has appeared as soloist and in chamber music on the viola da gamba.

Among his other accomplishments he has received many superior ratings in MENC and MTNA sponsored auditions, attended Inland Empire Music Camp two summers on scholarships, and was finalist in the 1958 National Scholarship Examinations.

MISS SCEARCE

— Chaperons —

Those members of the faculty chaperoning ASB activities will be provided with babysitters for the evening, compliments of the student - body, through recent vote of the student council. Babysitters will be selected and paid directly by a committee set up especially for that purpose. Those members of the faculty scheduled to chaperon at such activities may contact Mrs. Winter's office.

WinterCarnival Held At Hood

Approximately thirty EOC students will be at Mt. Hood this week-end for the third annual Winter Carnival sponsored by Portland State College. A ski team, composed of Jerry DeBorde, Bob Patterson, Hal Pierce, and Bob Miller, will race in the Downhill and Slalom events. EOC's Snow Princess Janet Lundgren, will appear on Portland television again today, after making several appearances last Friday. She will then go to Timberline Lodge, where the Queen of the Carnival will be chosen. The Queen and her court of Princesses from 17 major northwest colleges will reign over the two-day festivities.

This year's Winter Carnival is being featured as a main event of the 1959 Oregon Centennial. The $5 tickets for the carnival entitles holders to admission to all events and to unlimited faciilties Other highlites, besides the sports events, will be a ski torch-light parade, a dance Saturday night and a fireworks display.

Around 5000 college students from Oregon, Washington, and Idaho are expected to be in attendance at this year's carnival. It promises to be one of the biggest and best ever held and all college students are invited and urged to attend.

Rosemary Clarke Presents Concert

A morning concert by pianist Rosemary Clarke was attended by EOC students Tuesday in the college theater.

Dr. Clarke, of whom critics expressed, "Comprehensive technical skill . . . expressive intensity . . . command over dynamic shading," has concertized from Iowa to Maine to Florida. She also has appeared with many symphony orcestras playing her own composition, the "Second Piano Concerto." Recently, she made her debut at the New York Town Hall, and at Fullerton Hall in Chicago where critics said of her performance, "Facility and power . . . musicality, coloring, and feeling.'

Among her selections played at the morning concert were The Hen by Rameau, Trarantella from "Venice and Naples' by Liszt, Valse Brillante, Op. 18 by Chopin, Scherzo, Op. 39 by Chopin, Variations of "Stabat Mater" by R. Clarks, Etudes n D Flat Major by Liszt, Citanerias from "Andalucia" by Lecuona and The Harmonical Player by Guion..

The program, also open to the public, was a part of the EOC assembly schedule for winter term.

CampusMovies Set For Spring

Student Union movies, a big success this term, will be continued Spring term. Financially, these movies have made a small amount of money, thus allowing for the better shows in the future

The movies for Spring term have been ordered and the confirmation of these received. The schedule for next term is as follows:

April 10"—The Living Desert," one of Walt Disneys' true-life adventures.

May 1st—"Battleground," starring Van Johnson.

May 22 — "Giant," starring James Dean, Elizabeth Taylor, and Rock Hudson. This is the same week-end as the all-school picnic.

May 29—"Mr. Roberts," with James Cagney, Henry Fonda, and Jack Lemmon.

These movies are open to all EOC students and faculty and are shown in the college theatre. Price is 35c per person.

Coming soon will be a new screen that will take Cinamascope pictures. The new sound system has been in use this term, so let's all back the Student Union in this attempt to provide us with better activities.

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS

REMEMBER!! Scholarship applications are available in the registrar's office. All those who wish to apply for a scholarship for 1959-1960 be sure and pick these up. They MUST be returned to the registrar no later than Monday, March 2nd.

'Junior Miss' Court Names Five Coeds

Five Junior women will reign over this year's Junior Prom, "Fantasia": Laura Young, Linda Kane, Bev Donovan, Vad Kelsoe and Carolyn Muller. The court was chosen by a student-faculty committee, all men. On the night of the formal, the queen, to be officially named Jr. Miss, will be selected by vote of the students attending the Prom. The other four girls will be her princesses. "Fantasia" will be presented on March 7 in the Ackerman Gym. The fairy-land atmosphere will be achieved by the dominently blue and silver decorations. The tickets will be on sale in the Ad Building beginning Feb. 24. From the 24th through March 3 the price of the tickets will be $1.25. From March 4 through March 7, the price will be raised to $1.50. Students are urged to get their tickets early.

A corsage affair, the dance will last from 9 until 12, with the "Pyramids" from the tri-cities providing music. All EOC students from any class are invited to the formal.

The school mugs, sold by the Juniors to help raise money for the Prom, will be here in approximately two weeks, according to Bob Miller, class president. Payment of the remaining $2 for these wil lhelp the Juniors in meeting immediate expnses.

Jazz Topic Of Sunday Coffee

By Sue Switzer

"Modern Jazz" was the topic of the informal discussion led by Mr. Neil Wilson, instructor in vocal music, at the Sunday afternoon coffee hour February 22. About two dozen people attended the discussion. The Sigma Alpha Chi girls assisted in serving coffee and cookies.

This program is the first in a series of coffee hours being planned by the Social Committee of the student body to be presented each Sunday afternoon. They want to provide entertainment for the students and will offer material from the music, dramatics, art departments and many other areas which would be of interest. The committee is hoping for good participation and co-operation on the part of the students. They are open for suggestions as to fields of interest, most convenient times and other information which would be of some help in getting these programs started.

Students Talk At Local Clubs

Six EOC students have recently attended the annual scholarship meetings of the local Rotary and the Lion's clubs, speaking as representatives of men and women on campus who are attending college on grants from these two organizations. These people include Vad Kelsoe, Sue Ann Johnson, Daisy Good, Bev Donovan, LeRoy Garland and Les Edwards.

The purpose of these programs is to present to the members of Lions and Rotary the student'se attitude toward the scholarships which the men in these groups have provided, and the purpose of the meeting in general is to promote further aid by this means.

LINDA KANE

VAD KELSOE

LAURA YOUNG

Noyes Named County Queen

Sharon Kay Noyes, a student at EOC, is "'Miss Centennial of Union County" for 1959. At the coronation Mamie Diedrich was named second princess and Marcia MacPherson as first princess.

The queen and her court will reign over all Centennial activities in the county; also they will attend activities in Portland and vie for the "Miss Oregon" contest. Winner of this will be sent to the "Miss America" contest and will wi na trip to Hawaii and a full tuition college scholarship from Pepsi Cola.

Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Noyes of La Grande, was sponsored by Laurence's Jewelry. Marcia, who hails from Union, was a candidate from EOC, and Mamie is an instructor at La Grande high school, sponsored by the Lion's Club.

EOC's 52-Member Band Tours Northwest, Presents 14 Concerts

February 24, fifty-two members of the EOC band left La Grande on a band tour that will take them approximately 1100 miles.

The band concert will be heard at the following places: Columbia Basin Junior College at Pasco, an evening concert at Yakima sponsored b ythe associated students of Yakima College, Seattle Pacific College, Bremerton or Parkland, Washington, Centralia Junior College, Lower Columbia Basin Junior College at Longview, Washington, and to Portland for the EOC-Portland State basketball game. At this time they will present half of the tour concert numbers at half-time.

The next day they will travel to Forest Grove for the Gay Ninetys Festival and parade and then back to Portland for the second EOC-Portland State game where they will present the second half of the tour concert numbers at half time.

After resting a day in Portland, the group will travel to Prineville High School, on the John Day High School, Prairie City High School, and to Baker for an evening concert. They will return home that night.

Master of Ceremonies is Larry DeKalb repreesnting EOC. His wife is also making the trip; they act as chaperons.

The tour concert will be repeated in an asembly here at school in the near future.

Soloists appearing with the band are Johanna Hardwick, Marcia McPhearson and Paul Becket.

Advisor Forms Due March 1

Applications and reference blanks are now available in the Registrar's Office for the positions of Student Advisers in the dormitories net year. These applications will be due on March 1, in that office.

The position is open to an upper-class undergraduate or a graduate. Choice will be based on experience, maturity and interest to assist in carrying out an effective residence hall program. Responsibilities of the job include becoming acquainted with all students in adviser's sections; aiding Head Resident; distribution and gathering of information; orientation of students; helping to create and maintain a friendly atmosphere on campus; and generally being available to be an advisor, source of information and friend to all students.

Each Student Adviser will participate in a training program and take a course in guidance techiniques. A payment of $75 per term will also be made to each advisor for services rendered, although this is not intended as pay for a certain amount of work, but rather to enable those who might otherwise find it necessary to work to apply.

Selection will be a joint effort among the Director of Student Personnel, the Dean of Women, the Head Resident and a Dorm Council Representative.

EOC Coeds Attend State Conference

Last week-end five members of the EOC student body traveled to Eugene to attend the 1959 Spring Associated Women Student's Conference, "My Fair Lady." Delegates to the meet included Sandy Thompson, president of the EOC group; Donna Dooley, vice president; Eloise Reynolds, student council representative; Jan Robertson and Mrs. Winters. Sharon Noyes, secretary, was unable to attend the conference.

The women attended discussion groups, workshops and speeches centering around the goal of the convention: to prepare individual campus organizations in the planing of activities and events which will be of benefit to their members not only presently as college women ,but also in future positions as career women and homemakers. Featured speaker at the meet was Mrs. Patterson, wife of the former Oregon governor. Ten colleges were represented.

Immediate activities for the AWS ofthe EOC campus, according to Sandy, include planning meetings and a formal installation of officers;

Bulletin Board OkayedBy ASB

Sometime during Spring Term a new fixture will be added to EOC's growing campus. The Student Council has appropriated money for the installment of a permanent illuminated bulletin board, which will be located on the corner by Hoke Hall.

Bob Barrett, EOCenes representative on the Student Council, is responsible for installing the new bulletin board. Barrett said it would cost between two hundred and fifty and three hundred dollars.

The board will measure two feet by seven feet and be enclosed. It will be for the express purpose of posting campus activities and coming events. Not only will the bulletin board be for the convenience of EOC's students, Barrett continued, but it is also hoped the towns-people will find it useful in keeping informed on Eastern Oregon's activities.

Saber Petition PeriodOpened

Women will have the opportunity to pledge Sabers, women's service honorary, during the week of March 4 through March 11. The Sabers organization are sophomore, junior and senior women who have shown evidence of outstanding service and contribution to EOC and have met the grade requirement. Throughout the year this organization is called upon to assist in various social and service projects.

Those girls desiring to petition for membership to this honorary should secure a petition on March 4 and return this completed form to a Saber officer or to the Saber mail box not later than March 11. Present membership will vote n the candidates, considering the following qualifications: service to EOC, campus participation, personality, and willingness to cooperate. Girls wishing to be considered must have a GPA of 2.5.

Any women who are completing their second term on the campus are eligible for membership. The pledge period will extend through Spring Term with the actual membership beginning before the end of the years. For further information contract one of the Saber officers, Patsy Carpenter, Jean Damon, Carolyn Muller, or Marilyn Nichols. Saber members may also be cantacted. These people will be seen assisting during the Campus Chest drive and the Blood drive.. They will be in the Saber uniform, white blazers and navy shirts.

Other activities of the Sabers include Homecoming site, sponsorship of a queen candidate for that event, selling of concessions at all basketball games, Saber dinner dance and participation at numerous community and campus functions.

Better Every Year

The recent Religion In Life Conference on our campus has topped itself once again, and in so doing has once again proven its worth. But over and above these, perhaps the most important discovery was made by the skeptics—that this religious meet, that the Interfaith Council, that the members of the religious team were not "a bunch of fanatics sitting around praying and preaching to one another." This specific term is used, because not so long ago it was voiced by one of these skeptical students.

Rather, this week was devoted to the study, the discussions, the questions and the answers about religion. The questions were not weighed for their great knowledgeable background, but because the answer was important to someone, and that someone is important to the answer. It was not religion for the Catholics, the Islams, the Protestants, but religion for each person as he views it and practices it.

There are a few times in a college career, in a life, when a man says "I believe . . ." and his conviction is accepted by any listener as a valid statement, not to be disputed or rejected as unimportant. This past week has been one of those times.

True, there may be questions: "Why? "What?" "Who?", but there is never the flat discredit of unacceptance. There is thought and consideration. This is a week of building, of brotherhood, of understanding, of tolerance. It is another year's continuation of one of the finest traditions on our campus. Let's not lose the atmosphere which has been created; it doesn't have to leave with the religious team—they only clear away the haze.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"YOUR ENTRANCE EXAM INDICATES YOU HAVE A HIGH I.Q. — HOW'S IT HAPPEN YOU WANNA BE A TEACHER??"

Dorion Doodles
by Jean Hunter

By Jean Hunter

Faded football jerseys, crusty cowboy boots, thread-bare blue jeans, and shapeless sweat shirts brought back fond memories of past Sunday night suppers in the Hunt Hall cafeteria for many an upper classman Tuesday night. The event for this crude but comfortable state of dress was the Hunt-Dorion "grubby dress" exchange dinner. Many of the freshmen girls were amazed at the conglomeration of oddities the fellows manag ed to squirm into but the older Dorionites only thought back to the good old days in Hunt when grubby dress was a weekly occurrence. Despite the reecnt dress code, we must admit that the past two casual dress exchanges have been much more successful than any of the dress-up affairs held fall term.

Speaking of successful exchanges, the fellows in Hunt Hall deserve credit for a really enjoyable dinner and fireside during Religious Emphasis Week.

Now that the measles are a thing of the past the Social Committee is busily preparing for the tea to be held in honor of all married women students and wives of students. First plans for the tea had to be canceled because of those spotted little demons that appeared in such profusion a few short weeks ago. The new date for the tea is March 8 and we're hoping to see a good turn out of the "better-halves."

Seems to be a mighty feud raging between the frosh on second and the same class on third. Can't decide whether the girls are fighting over who gets possession of that Big Dirty Rock or if they are starting a collective Biology project early. Whatever the case, there have been some mighty water-fighting, door-locking sessions lately.

Council Corner

By Bev Donovan

In past weeks there has been comment concerning the Student Council's actions and recomendations. Labeling them everything from unfair, autocratic and snobbish to plain silly, the "commenting" students have flaunted their grievances loudly and with great rush of arm waving.

They have NOT, however, been to the Council to air the issues; they have NOT written letters through the media of the newspaper; they have NOT begun petitions in objection; they have NOT even presented to the council members formal arguments to be taken to the Council!

Student Council is completely made up of elective positions. The members are using their votes as they deem justifiable. If there is student objections it should be brought out. Certainly there will be no holiday of head-rolling, and certainly there WILL be a positive attitude established on this campus.

Pendleton Branch Student Teaching Being Considered

Due to the increase in student teachers in the secondary education program at Eastern Oregon College, arrangements are now being made with the Pendleton Junior High and High School for some students to do practice teaching there, according to Mr. John M. Miller, director of teacher education. All indications are that the program will start next fall term.

This spring Dr. Easley will begin working with the teachers and administrators who will be concerned with the student teachers. Mr. Miller said that between five and ten students would start next fall, probably in only one or two teaching areas to start with.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

REVISE LEVIS

Dear Editor:

In a recent issue of the Beacon there appeared an editorial entitled "Who's Wearing The Pants" which caused considerable concern with the male students on campus. Subject of said editorial dealt with the Student Council's recommendations on campus dress. More specifically the wearing of levis by underclassmen.

According to the editorial, the Stud ent Council has set up a special committee, to study this problem of western dress, which will make recommendations on how this habit can be broken.

Duly facing their responsibility the committee brought forth the following suggestion; "the wearing of levis by 'boys' (not men) or slacks by 'girls' (not women) to class should not be done, and that levis not be considered as acceptable dress for college dances or activiites." The editorial even went further and stated, "For the most part, this type of wear should not be considered as acceptable college dress."

This sounds to us like the In Group (fat cats) telling the Out Group (lean cats) what they should do and what they should not do. It is true we should all try to raise our standards whether it be in college or o nthe job. But in doing so, we should also trye to remove our prejudice and above all try to keep from being petty.

Let's face reality, Eastern Oregon College is not a Harvard or a Stanford or even a University. But this does not lessen its intellectual or social importance. This college operates in this section of Oregon to facilitate prospective students living in this area.

In many cases students attending EOC do so because they financially cannot afford a University and levis fit in this financial situation. In regards to the argument for sun-tans, true they do cost about the same as levis, but only in the initial cost. To properly wear sun-tans they should be starched and ironed and not worn more than twice. We wonder how many women attending EOC can iron starched sun-tans, let alone the men on campus. Cosequently if proper care is to be given to sun-tans, this will entail a large size laundry bill in nine months. Levis do need washing, often, but they do not need starching and ironing.

One wonders if the Student Council can better fill the need of the student body by concerning themselves with more important problems than the wearing of levis by students. Also it does not follow that a student who wears levis is less truthful, has a less scholarly attitude or is trying to extend his high schol days any more than his fellow students who wear sun-tans or slacks. Furthermore if a student is capable of earning a four point, does he intellectually or socially fall below his peers because he wears levis? We think not!

In final reference to "Who's Wearing The Pants," one could say, "Everyone, We Hope!"

Polio Clinic Set

The second polio clinic on campus will be held March 11. The former date of March 4 has been changed due to the Red Cross Blood drawing scheduled for that day.

Dr. Ager will be the visiting physician. Charge for these shots is still $1. Students will be given the immunization only upon presentation of their reecipt of payment, which must be obtained at the Business Office.

Mrs. Osterholme, campus nurse, stated that if for any reason a student is unable to attend the clinic on March 11, he need only to bring a receipt to the health service office, where he will receive reference to one of the college doctors. With this method, students may receive the immunization at their convenience.

Professor Wins Ceramic Class

Dr. George Nightengale, head of Eastern Oregon's art department, recently won first place in the Class I competition(Ceramics) at the Northwest Craftsmen's Exhibition held in Seattle. Dr. Nightengale entered two pieces of sculptor in the exhiibtion. One called the "Prophet," the other the "Son."

The Prophet stood approximately two feet high on a semi massive base encompased horizontally on two sides of laboriously worked clay. An additional slab of clay face. It was with this piece of two horizontals to form the throne of eternity the Prophet filled. The over all emotional power is arrived at by the use of massive flowing lines which leads to the Prophet's head. Allowing the creative impact to be reached in the face. It was with this piece of sculptor that Dr. Nightengale won first place.

The "Sun" is composed of three figures representing father, mother and child, created in the shape of various bottles to depict sex and personality. These figures are hollow and were slapped gently with a board on the outside surface area for desired texture.

During the past three months Dr. Nightengale has created about twenty six pieces of sculpt. All of which he has made from materials found in the immediate area. To date Dr. Nightengale has made dozens of clay tests, which have included the mixing together of La Grande clay, sand, gravel, dirt, cinder volcanic ash and many others. In addition to the clay tests have been one-hundred and fifty glaze tests of which he said one out of twenty five turn out to be usable.

Dr. Nightengale has also built two outdoor ovens to fire Raku pottery. This type of pottery, developed in Japan, Is famed for its texture. Firing the pottery until it is red hot, the object is then lifted from the oven and placed in cold water. The instant cooling keeps the pottery from breaking and leaves the glaze with a velvety rippled texture.

Dr. Nightengale and family are planning on taking his sabatical leave next fall in San Miguel Allenda, Old Mexico. There he will further his experiences in the creative fields of painting and sculpture.

Blood Drive March 4—Hoke

Wednesday, March 4, will be the campus blood drawing for the Union County Chapter of the American Red Cross. The drawing will be held in Hoke Hall from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. The quota requested by the Red Cross from the EOC campus is 150 pints. Both students and faculty are urged to donate. Mrs. Lumsdon, head of the local organization, stated that donors should allow at least 45 minutes for the complete process of registering, donation and the rest period afterward.

If it is wished by the donor, special replacements may be made for amounts of blood used recently by friends or relatives. Students should signify this at the first desk when they register, then special cards will be made out for that purpose.

Those students between 13 and 21 who cannot obtain the signature of a guardian or parent before the drawing, will be referred to one of the Red Cross women who will be responsible for them.

Frankly Speaking

By Don Frank

MR. COATES

In the last issue of this paper, in this column, I wrote a few comments on the game between the EOC JV's and Columbia High School of Burbank, Washington. I referred to Mr. Coates as being the coach of that club and a graduate of EOC. Since, I've heard some people say that Jack Coates wa snot a graduate. I'll agree that Jack Coates is not a graduate, but his father, Mr. Coates, is. I refered to him only as Mr. Coates because I wasn't sure of his first name. But I'll assure everyone that Mr. Coates, the father of Jack, is a former student and graduate of our fair insttiution.

EOC MAKES BID FOR NAIA

At this time of the year, thoughts turn to major college basketball tournaments in our country. Thoughts on this campus aren't directed towards one of the major tourneys, but at the Oregon NAIA, and this year EOC could be right in the middle of the frey. Here is the deal.

The NAIA tournament is open to the top two clubs from the Northwest Conference and the Oregon Collegiate Conference. These four teams play off, the winner going to Kansas City for the National tournament. But things are a little different this year.

In the Northwest Conference, Willamette and Linfield are battling to determine who will take the conference crown. But no matter who wins Willamette won't go to the tournament. They declared at the first of the season they would not participate in the NAIA Tourney. That leaves Linfield in the top birth. Whitman and College of Idaho are next in line, but they aren't Oregon schools, so the yare ineligible. That leaves Lewis and Clark to take the other NWC tourney birth. Lewis and Clark have not beaten either of the two front-running NWC teams.

If EOC can pick up just one win from Portland State this week-end, they will have split with the OCC top two and have a better league record than LC. It seems as though EO should at least get a play-off game to find out which o fthe two clubs best deserves the tourney birth.

CALLING ALL TRACK MEN, REPORT MARCH 9

Track coach Archie Dunsmoor will call all the track men on March 9 to start training for the Willamette University Relays to be held March 28, and the Oregon Collegiate Conference meet in Portland, May 15 and 16.

"Red" McKinney, shot and javelin thrower, Mike Smith, sprinter, Chuck Berry, 2 miler, and Pat Cawood, miler, are the only returning letterman from last year's tracksters.

New faces will be Larry Lear, miler; John Evley, hurdles; Fred Goodwin runs the hurdles but will not participate until later because of time of transfer. Tom Stamate, miler; Ted Miller, pole vault and high jump; Charley Hughbanks, 220 and low hurdles; Gary Hance, 880; and Dean Kennedy, pole vault.

EOC Dumps OCE Twice

Tom Neel, EOC jump shooter, hit 29 points for the Mounties as they overcame a mid-second half lead to dump the visiting Oregon College five, 66-57, in the first of two OCC encounters with the Wolves. Neel connected on 12 field goals and 5 free throws for his total and high point honors for the evening.

The half time score read 32-31 in favor of EOC as the opening jump between the rival centers began the second half. OCE quickly tied the score on Dave Ward's free throw. At one point, OCE held a 3 point margin. With 7 minutes remaining, the blue and gold tide caught fire. Jerry Baxter tipped in a rebound to even the score, and Larry Howard put the Mounties ahead to stay with another two-pointer.

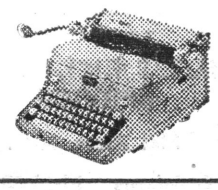
EOC TAKES TWO

Eastern Oregon College made it two Oregon Collegiate Conference wins in a row over the visiting Wolves from Oregon College of Education, as they hit 35 times from the floor and 20 times from the gift line for 86 points. OCE could get only 26 field goals and 13 free throws for 65 points. The win gave EOC an 8-6 OCC record.



Every Mountie who saw action cored in the contest as they came from an early first period deficit and completely outgunned OCE the rest of the game. Larry Howard gained point honors with 25, followed by Tom Neel with 17, and Frank Chase with 15, for the winners.

Elgin Huskies Trounce JV's

Feb. 20, 1959 the Elgin Huskies rolled over the Eastern Oregon Junior Varsity by one point, 47-46. The J.V.'s couldn't hit the basket at all during the game, shooting only 24% for the night. EOC had their chance to win the ball game with about 3 seconds remaining in the game. The J.V.'s brought the ball into play and passed to Jones to have a lay up and the ball rolled around the rim and fell out and the J.V.'s lost by the one point margin.

It was a little diffeernt story Saturday night when the EOC Junior varsity waxed the Evans town team 71-59. The J.V.'s were finding the basket a little more regularly Saturday night, hitting 34%. The Evans town team won the City championship but thew were no match fo rthe J.V's.

Baseball Season Gets Underway

The 1959 Eastern Oregon baseball season gets under way next week when the first call will be sent out for all prospective players to report. Coach Bob Quinn expects only four of the last year's regulars to answer the call. Most of the club will be made up of first-year men.

Although the seasons schedule s not complete at the time this paper goes to press, considering the past seasons, EOC will probably play some 20 or 22 games.

'Valentines' Out— Many Get 'Blues'

By Sue Switzer

There were 80 boys on the down list last fall term of 1958, or 24 per cent of all boys enrolled. There were 40 girls on this same list or 15 per cent of all girls enrolled. The down list fall term, 1957, contained 85 boys or 31 per cent of those boys enrolled. This list had only 28 girls or 14 per cent of all girls enrolled. Comparing these two years, we find a minus 7 per cent decrease in the number of boys on the down list, but a plus 1 per cent increase of girls from 1957 to 1958. There was, however, a minus 6 per cent decrease. The decrease on the down list fall term seems to be almost in direct proportion to the number not admitted to college because they had less than a "C" average in high school work. Eighteen students were denied admission by the new selective student admission.

On the mid-term down list for winter, 1959, there are 124 boys or 46 per cent of all boys enrolled in college here. There are 64 girls or 25 per cent of all girls enrolled whose names appear on the list. The combined list includes the names of 36 per cent of the students at EOC.

Men's Honorary Holds Initiation

Theta Delta Phi, national men's scholastic honorary, held a formal initiation January 23. Accepted into the ranks this term were: Richard Cantrell, Robert Couch, Don Ille, Walter Kirklin, Terry Lorenzen, Melvin Munn, Richard Oesterling, Russel Rhodig, Frank Ricker, Sheldon Strand, Thomas Switzer, and Edsel White. Informally received at this time were: Pascual Arritola, David Collins, John Hall, William Keyser, Steve Smith, James Stewart, Vivian Tarpenning, and James Twitchell.

At a general business meeting held February 20th, Pat Kirklin was appointed chairman of the planning committee for the annual coffee hour held during Parents Weekend.

Norm Nelson, Sheldon Strand, and Mickey Ricker were appointed to the committee for Theta Delta Phi's participation in the Campus Chest Drive.

John Willmarth, Edsel White, Darrell Nichols, and Norm Nelson were put on the professor evaluation committee.

Chest Drive Set For March 2-6

By Linda Kane

Your dimes, and quarters may help some worthy person through medical school in Africa, lend a helping hand to a crippled child or perhaps help provide life-saving surgery for a disabled person.

Throughout the week of March 2-6 the Campus Chest Drive will be asking your help and contributions in a campaign to raise funds for various drives. Percentage appropriation will be made to Heart Fund, Easter Seals, Cancer, World University Service, and Muscular Dystrophy.

At 10:00 a.m. Wednesday, March 4 in the Auditorium an all-student body participation Auction will be held. Student and faculty services will be auctioned. Come to the assembly and participate in lending a helping hand to a not-so-fortunate fellow man.

As for the auction to be held as a boost to Campus Chest Drive at EOC, everything from a woman volunteering to launder and iron EVEN levis, to men's offers to move stray lawn furniture will be bid for under the auctioneering of coach Archie Dunsmoore. Faculty ever get in on the show or some lucky bidders may find themselves the winners of a free meal downtown in some EOC student's abode. All the luxuries of home!

The effort of this campus drive is to consolidate all funds into one for the benefit of the student and the various drives both. Under this plan the students are required to donate only once, yet the money will be divided between all the organizations. So get you money ready, EOC can do a tremendous amount of good as well as have a good time in the process!

End Of Term Sees 7 Grads

Seven students will have satisfied requirements for their Bachelor of Science Degrees in Education at the end of this term. These students are Ellen Carlstrom Branan, Robert LeeRoy Garland, Charles Thomas Greulich, John G. Heriza, Warren Dale Hill, Romona Ann Hooker, and George G. McClandon. These students will officially receive their degrees at the comemncement exercises on June 12, 1959.

Seven other students met their requirements at the end of fall term. These students, William H. Burke, Walter Eugene Fulton, Robert L. Good, Harlan Adolph Hayden, Anona Rae Hodgen, Marilyn Brooks Savage, and Rudy E. Sherwood, will also officially receive their degrees at the graduation exercises this spring.

Fifty-eight students are schednuled to complete requirements for their Bachelor of Science Degrees in Education at the end of spring term.

ASB Election Dates Set Up

Dates concerning the forthcoming ASB elections have been recently set up by Josie Ward, first vice-president. These were approved by the council and will be carried out as oulined below:

April 9—petions are due from prospective candidates.

April 10—names of candidates will be posted on the bulletin beards around campus specifically in the Administration Building.

April 13—signs and posters may be put on campus for campaign purposes, they must abide by regulations from President Bennett's office

April 15—tenative date now set for the campaign assembly

April 17—primary eelctions (this will narrow the candidates to two for each office)

April 20—The names of those to be running in the final elections will be posted on campus.

April 22—a special edition of the Beacon will be published presenting campaign platforms, issues and tpoics of election importance.

April 24—final elections will be held; the results will be announced at a victory dance that night.

Oregon Tour Set For EOC Chorus

In wake of the triumphant return of the EOC Band to the campus, the College Choir will leave on a three-day tour of Ore-

Monday, April 13

Blue and Gold Singers will perform.

The schedule for concerts will be:

Monday, April 13
- Pendleton High School
- Hermiston High School
- Boardman High School

Tuesday, April 14
- The Dalles High School
- Hood River High School
- Oregon College of Education—Monmouth.

Wednesday, April 15
- South Salem High School
- Cascade Locks High School
- Eastern Oregon State Hospital.

The choir will spend one night in The Dalles and one night in Salem, returning to campus late April 15.

Books Due

All library books and materials must be returned to the library by Thursday, March 19. Fines of $.50 per day will be charged after that date, until the maximum fine of $2.00 is reached.

The grades of students violating these regulartion will be withheld until the fines are paid and the materials returned.

Gioconda Smile Set April 17

The Gioconda Smile, a suspenseful murder mystery, has been selected by Dr. Alvin Kaiser to present in the college auditorium April 17th. This play, by Aldous Huxley, will be given as a reading, with the emphasis on oral interpretation rather than acting.

The title of this mystery is significant in that Gioconda was the name of the model for the famous Mona Lisa. This term has come to describe the two characters in one portrayed by the smile in this painting. In the Gioconda Smile, this same characteristic of duplicity is found in Janet, the leading female part. There are also three male and three other female roles.

Readings for this production have been held throughout the past two weeks. Dr. Kaiser has announced that the final selectioi of a cast will be made next week.

Students Eligible In Writing Contest

Undergraduates of Oregon's Colleges and universities are eligible for entrance in reecntly announced contests sponsored by the Fine Arts Committee of the Oregon Centennial Commission. Prizes of $250 will be given for the winning selections in both a poetry and a short story contest. Second prize will be $200 and third prize will be $150. All undergraduates of four-year, accredited colleges and universities in Oregon are eligible. The prize winning selections, as well as other works of merit, may be published in a Centennial Anthology which is currently proposed by the Fine Arts Committee. If a contestant's manuscript is to be published in this anthology, the committee reserves the right to make such minor editorial changes as may be deemed necessary.

There are no limitations on theme or form of entries, however only one selection in each category may be entered by one person. Poems must not be longer than 50 lines and short stories are limited to 5,000 words. All entries must be submitted in triplicate, neatly typed, double-spaced, on 8½" x 11" white paper. They must be the original work of the contestant and not previously published.

Entries will not be returned. Decision of the judges shall be final. All become the property of the Oregon Centennial Commission for the duration of the Centennial Year, after which rights will revert to the authors.

Entries must be in the hands of the local Department of English by May 1, 1959. (At EOC these works may be submitted to Dr. Kaiser.) The Department of English at each school will make arrangements for the selection of the three local entries which are, in its judgement, the best, and will submit them by May 15, 1959.

Extra Library Hours Continue

According to Mr. Nelson, Head Librarian at the campus library as extended library hours, instituted at the mid-point of this term by the recommendation and request of the Student Council, will be continued into Spring Term. These hours will continue to be on Sunday afternons from 2 until 4 o'clock, and they will begin immediately after the beginning of the term, instead of after the midterm examinations. Mr. Nelson stated that this procedure is being tried to allow the staff to determine during which period these extended hours are more beneficial to students.

IK Ball Set For Spring Term

April 11 is the date set for the annual I.K. Ball, the social highlight of the spring term. A semiformal dance, requiring no corsage, the I.K. Ball has, in past years, been a highly successful event.

General chairman George Taylor promises, "something new and delightful for everyone." Dancers will enter through the mighty gate of the castle, and pass into the royal courtroom of the queen, where they will be announced by pages. The queen will make her appearance at intermission for the coronation and knighting ceremonies.

Music Students Attend Contest

The National Federaton of Music Club Student Auditions were held in Portland March 8. Seven EOC students, under the eadership of Neil Wilson, made the trip to Portland for the auditions.

The competition was open to all college age students in the area of the contest. None of those participating from EOC placed in the competition.

Those who made the trip were Bob Barrett, Kay Hawk, Nancy Brooks, Nola Bubb. Piano accompaniment for these people was provided by Ardyce Garrett, Daisy Good, and Barbara Meyr.

Pre-Registration Arrangements Set

Dr. Lyle Johnson announced recently that those students who have pre-registered for Spring Term already with their Winter Term planning, need not repeat the process, but are ready to begin in the registration line March 30. Those students who contemplate changes in the schedules which they took to their advisors in December, however, must make these changes on their schedules for Spring Term and have these approved by advisors before Mafch 20. A list of advisors will be posted on the bulleting board in the main hall of the Ad building.

All new and transferring students must pre-register before March 20 also. Materials are available in the Registrar's Office.

Registration will begin at 8:30 Monday morning, March 30 in the library.

Holbrook Scheduled To Speak April 10; Evening Assembly

Steward Holbrook, nationally known Portland writer, will speak at an assembly in the EOC Theatre April 10, a Friday evening appearance. An Oregon historian, whose books include: "Far Corner, a Personal View of the Pacific Northwest," "Burning an Empire, America's Great Forest Fires," and "Promised Land, Anthology of Northwest Writing," Holbrook currently writes for the Portland Oregonian.

He has lectured at Harvard and Boston Universities and is a member of the American Antiquarian Society.

Holbrook worked in the woods from Connecticut to British Columbia before settling in Portand where he became a reporter and then editor of the "Lumber News," a trade magazine and newspaper. He lives in Portland at the present time, also.

Because of the large numbers of townspeople eager to attend the assembly, and also because to supplement the cost of the assembly, a small admisson price will be charged for seats at this great event. Students may purchase tickets for 25c in the registration line, March 30. Only one half of the auditorium seats can be allowed for students. Therefore it is urged that those who wish to attend this talk purchase their tickets early.

Kelsoe Named Prom Jr. Miss

Vad Kelsoe was crowned Junior Miss of 1959 at the Junior Prom, "Fantasia," last aSturday night. She was crowned by Bob Miller, president of the junior class. Bob also presented her with a bouquet of gladiolas and each member of the court with an engraved bracelet.

Vad's court was made up of four other Junior women: Laura Young, Bev Donovan, Carolyn Muller and Linda Kane, escorted by Ron Tonack, Jack Pugsley, Moe Chester and Ron Paulson, respectively. Don Shore escorted Vad.

Special recognition was given to Donna Sene, chairman of the activity. She planned and carried out the decorations, in blue, pink and silver themes. Some of the more elaborate decorations included the huge globe which hung over the center ofthe floor, covered with over 1,000 tiny pieces of mirror; and the pool and fountain at the extreme end of the Ackerman gym, surrounded by pink and blue sparkled shrubs. This scene was highlighted by the use of colored lights on the mist created with dry ice inthe water.

Miss Golz is the advisor of the class and was also given recognition for her work and support on the activity.

Bachelor Of Arts Available At EOC

Eastern Oregon College has recently been granted the permission to initiate a Bachelor of Arts program. This will begin actively in the fall. With this latest addition, EOC now officers to its students six possible degrees: Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education, Master of Science in Elementary Education, Bachelor of Science in Secondary Education, Bachelor of Science in General Studies, and Master degree in secondary education, and the new Bachelor of Arts degree.

In addition to EOC's degree program, most preprofessional courses and two-year semiprofessional programs in secretarial science, medical and dental assistants and merchandising are offered. There are 730 students enrolled in school this term, 293 being women.

Blood Drawing Held At EOC

The Campus Blood Drive was who turned out to donate blood to aid in the drive. The quota was set at 150, but everyone was well-satisfied at the response. This was a better drawing than there has been for some time. The Red Cross and the local committee were "gratified at the response."

The Sabers and the Intercollegiate Knights furnished help for the blood mobile. They helped to unpack and set up and to tear down and put away. They also canteen workers, and nurses aids.

There were more women who donated blood than there were men.

Gym Team Appears Here

Featuring rhythmical fundamental gymnatsics, stall-bars, courtesy dances, advanced gymnastics, Danish Folk Dances, acrobatics and apparatus and tumbling, a 28 member Danish Gym team will appear in the EOC Coliseum April 15 at 8 o'clock p. m.

Open to the public, the admission prices will be as follows:

Adults—$1.25.

Students—.75 cents (this price support and attend the activity. cards.)

Children—35 cents (grades 1-9)

There will be no reserve seats at the affair, all students and EOC staff members are urged to suppotr and attend the activity.

The team, made up of both men and women from all vocations and professions, is making this ten-month tour of the United States on their own private initiative. Although the Danish Government extends its good will support to the members, there is no financial aid given to these young men and women. All have been former teachers of gymnastics as well as former students of one of the famous Danish Folk High schools of gymnastics.

Advance ticket sale location and time will be printed after Spring vacation. Vad Kelsoe is in charge of publicity.

Headlines After The Deadlines

There will be an Inter-Organizational Council meeting on the first Wednesday after registration, April 1. See Josie Ward for the time and location.

The "ASK ME" COMMITTEE is requested by the Registrar's office to aid in the Spring Term Registration, Monday, March 30. The duties will be the same as those last term, registration will begin at 8:30.

Grade slips will be received by students here at the college at the end of Spring Vacation. The GPA is mailed to the college address because of the shorter period of time between these two terms. Transferring students should make other mailing address arrangements in the Registrar's office if changes are to be made.

At the last council meeting the recommendation of the chairman of the Campus Chest Drive was accepted by a 5-4 vote concerning the breakdown in donation percentage to the various funds. The money earned on campus will be donated 60 per cent to World University Service and 10 per cent each to the Heart Fund, Cancer, Easter Seals and Muscular Dystrophy.

On Monday night, arch 30, at 8:30 p.m. in Hoke Hall there will be a Sport Dance for all college students and their guests. The dance will be a Student Body sponsored function and no admission will be charged.

Bloody Business

Approximately two weeks ago the Red Cross held a blood drawing on this campus. The quota set was 150 pints. There are nearly 750 students enrolled in this school; there are approximately 60 more faculty members. Even considering the facts that some of these people may have given elsewhere too recently to donate again; that some may have been ill; and that a few may be ineligible because of past illness or allergies, the quota of 150 pints still does not seem terribly high. Yet the Red Cross, after nearly six hours of hard work, preparation and clean-up, received only 110 pints from the EOC membership!

Of course, no definite statement can be made for the reason of this deficiency, perhaps some do not believe in this type of medical donation; perhaps some are too young; perhaps some are afraid. The one excuse sounded every year by the older male set on campus is a deep and seemingly everlasting dislike for the Red Cross, especially its methods of operation in the over-seas area. This gripe is based in part upon the fact that the servicemen were required to pay for luxuries sold in emergency Red Cross Canteens, such as candy and cigarettes. How many of us have had some type of association with government organizations and the tremendous amount of red-tape they must go through? Few things are given away free during peace, one can imagine what the situation would be during war!

The best thing for us to do in this issue, it seems, is to view the positive side of the question. No organization, person or idea could please us all, yet certainly all of us must be able to try to see some good in everything. If not—what a sad existence.

Some facts which might be considered are those of the added convenience in the hospitals afforded by the Red Cross program. Not only is administration faster and more inexpensive, the blood or plasma is there, ready for immediate use. In the not too distant past when a transfusion was needed by a patient, his blood was tested, typed; a call was sent out for donors; each of them, when he finally arrived at the hospital, was given a blood test which also was typed. IF and WHEN a like type of blood was found, the transfusion was administered under the direction of both a doctor and a nurse. Needless to say, the whole process took hours, and there can be no estimate of the number who died waiting for the aid.

Today, under the Red Cross program, the situation is considerably different. Blood and plasma supplies are kept at each hospital. When the transfusion is needed, the nurse gets the material and administers them. The patient pays a cost of approximately $10 for the service.The hospital returns $3.50 to the Red Cross to cover its expenses in providing the plasma, including the jars, glass tubes, typing materials and clinical costs. The rest of the money pays the nurse and the hospital for instruments used.

If obtained through pharmacy, this cost is greatly increased; $15 alone is the charge for an amount of plasma, less than a pint. In addition to this are the instrumental and nursing expenses. Quite a difference.

This service of Red Cross is available to anyone at anytime; when a person is dying it makes little difference where the help comes from. Next time we have the opportunity, let's make sure help is there!

The Living Desert

The first Student Union Movie of spring term will be Walt Disney's "The Living Desert." This movie will be April10th in the College Theatre. Prices will be the same as winter term—35c for students and faculty.

COLLEGE HUMOR

Girl graduate: "Four years of college! And whom has it got me?"

College glamour girl to suitor: "By 'secret engagement' I suppose you mean no ring."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear editor

Out of the clamor that has been raised over the levi problem, a chorus of lovely young female voices may be distinguished. These voices are quite like the voices of al lthat we known and love, as soft and feminine except for one thing — the tone. Why does the tone of these voices grate upon our nerves and unsettle our placid thoughts? Here is a diagnosis!

There is a disease which women, and men too, sometimes contact. One which gives their voices a wild,inhuman quality. A disease which paralizes their mind and narrows their thoughts into one obsessive channel. In a way, the symptoms are quite like those of a schitzophrenic because the victims tend to act the part of something which they are not. They have dillusions of grandeur and while under the effect of this they may try to force unthinkably petty restrictions on their friends. This disease is called "unthinging reform.' This is the horrible ——— which changes the soft, tinkling, delightful sound of a few female voices into something that is discordant and unreal.

But why uneral? Since the ladies have to look at disreputable male half of the student body, should they not have a voice in prescribing attire for them? The answer is obviously yes, and they do! If it were not for the ever watchful eye of women followed by an always ready voice of discipline, do you think that any of these naturally slovenly, comfort loving, law defying males would ever dress up?

They would degenerate rapidly and pitifully. Neckties would become a thing of the past; razor factories would collapse; suits would become extinct; unusual odors would soon offend even the most callous nostrils. It would be a horrible thing to behold. Ah! but you ladies hold us in check. We bathe regularly; barring centennials we shave, and when we wish to provide a memorable event for the girls, on which they will remember and delight in for the rest of their lives, we put on suits, ties, and a dash of toilet water in the hope that we will please you. These things you expect from us in spite of ourselves.

Now let's be really practical. What do girls know about wearing pants anyway? They allow foreign designers to change their whole wardrobe; they wear wierd impractical fripperies which certainly must be miserable so that they will look like the girls in the magaines. They notoriously wear torture machines, something aikn to the medieval rack, as undergarments, and they wear shoes that are difficult to walk in and that will ruin their feet. Yet, this same creature who already wields so much power over us, would dictate what we are to wear in our daily work and leisure hours. Hog Wash! I say to her, "Madame, you are impertinate, impracticle, almost impossible, and you don't know when you are well off!"

As for a man who would attempt to tell me what kind of pants to wear, at first I would try to ignore him as any gentleman would, but if he tried to force this down my throat, I would punch him in the nose as any self-respecting man would.

These "nice-looking" pants which we are advised to don, wear out twice as fast, are twice the trouble for a poor bachelor to do up, look baggy after they have been worn an hour, by their very name "Ivy Leaguers' are a borrowed pretension from a culture of which we are not a part, and they are invariably accompanied by the most horrible mantrap ever devised, a Zipper.

Please, girls, leave us some comfort and for those of us who appreciate it, let us loll happily in the security that is offered by a pair of good old button-type levis.

Dorion Doodles

By JEAN HUNTER

Who says men wouldn't make good homemakers? Some of these rooms in Dorion have never been as hiny clean as they were Saturday mornng after the fellows finished polishing them up. Dorionite paid from 50 cents to two dollars for the privilege of having their rooms thoroughly mopped, waxed, dusted, and straightened up by those energetic male members of the student body. As of yet none of the fellows have collected the shirt-roning, lev-washing, or boot-scraping services that the girls volunteered for the Campus Chest Auction but the girls are busily collecting gallon jars of starch and purple boot dye to do the job up well

Sunday was Dorion's first tea for the married women students and the wives of men students and it seemed to be pretty successful. The second one if not far oft and we hope we have the same luck with it.

Dear Bev:

If you will permit I would like to use this column to address a letter to: The Student Body of Eastern Oregon College:

Sometimes I wonder why most of us bother to even attend college. Does it really do any good? What am I getting at? I'm referring to the juvenile disagreements who seem to have been raging around our campus like a flood lately These gripes I have heard concern many things but more specifically the new ASB bulletin board and the "Levi Debate!"

What on earth is wrong with us? When one enters college he usually considers himself an adult and insists on being treated as one but very few act as adults. So you disagree with the banning of levis; so you agree with the idea. What have you done about it? How many students have formally made known their views? I'd venture to say only a handful. Instead of standing around the halls running the student council down -- or, worse yet, lowering your tandards to arguing over cokes and coffee — go to the student council and let your feelings be known.

I'm not writing this letter because Im concerned only with the levi situation. I'm concerned with my future situation that might arise. We are very fortunate to ive in the country we do, a country of social equality. We are very fortunate to be able to attend the chool of our choice. We are very ortunate to have the right to nake decisions concerning our school; the right to be heard and peak freely. All right!! ! Let's use these rights. Speak freely but speak where it will benefit. Our tudent council represents each nd every one of us but how are hey to know what we want if we sit back and call them names. If ou have to say something, say something good but if you can't say something good, at least say t to the people concerned. Let your opinion be known openly. If you can't do this then you'd better keep quiet altogether.

I think the best summary of this dea I've heard was offered by a student here who said "What is all this sniveling about? Why don't these people conduct themselves above the fifth-grade level? Lets raise ourselves above these petty things and do something useful.'

Okay!! Let's. You elect your officers and student council, but remember, they're only human. They will naturally make decisions they think best. If you don't ike these decisions then publicly state the fact. If you agree, then say so. No matter what the opinon, let's act like the adults we nsist we are and back up our chool and council. If we can't do a good job here, how can we hope to be good citizens, husbands, wives, AND PARENTS??

Sincerely,
Sharon Hickey

Council Corner

By Jean Hunter

The response of irate students to the council's blue jeans recommendation indicated that the students of EOC are at last mildly interested in their student government even though not one of them showed up at a council meeting to state their views on the above issue. It will be interesting to see if the forthcoming ASB election will meet with the same sort of apathetic interest. Wouldn't it be far better to begin thinking now of the students who will best represent the student body as a whole than to wait till the votes are cast and then begin writing futile letters-to-the-editor complaining of inefficient student officers?

The election of student body officers for the 1959-60 school year will be the determining factor in the continuance of real student government at EOC. Probably the biggest question right now is who is going to be qualified to take over the presidency of the student body and continue a job that has been more than successfully carried on by the two preceding presidents. There has been a tremendous progress in student government evidenced in these past two years but that progress will have been in vain unless our next student leader is able to not only continue what has been started but also to build new ideas where they are needed. Personality and enthusiasm are important attributes of a student leader, but even more important are willingness and ability to work, unbiased thinking, and a dogged determination concerning student affairs. The president we choose this spring can either continue in the same fine manner of the previous two or he can let the whole thing collapse into meaningless ritual.

In our concern about our next ASB president we shouldn't overlook the importance of the other members of the executive council. Each position involves many responsibilities; each is a big job in itself and will necessitate the election of a capable, dependable individual. The first vice-president's duties have been expanded this year to include the newly formed Inter-Organizational Council, the 2nd vice-president has be cil, the second vice - president has been more active than ever in his capacity as social chairman in setting up many and varied campus activities, the secretary's duties now include the setting up of office hours for the student body office as well as being responsible for communication between counci and students, and the business manager has evolved a definite procedure for issuing student body monies in an attempt at better regulation of student body funds.

Each of these positions must be filled by someone who can carry the existing load as well as the many things that will arise in the coming year.

Naturally enough, the present council is greatly concerned about their replacements. They know that there have been many things this year that could have been done better, but they know also that the re are even more things on which they have worked doggedly and with much success. They are concerned about the continuance of the work they have started this year and hope that the members of the Associated Student Body will begin thinking about their future student leaders now so that they will be prepared for some definite action when the primary elections roll around on Girls, Girls!!

Girls! Now is the time to start giving a lot of attention to that Intercollegiate Knight you know. Remember! At the ifrst meeting the IK's hold next their Queen for the IK Ball. term they are going to select Look your best, girls.

Hakim Of Hunt

Once upon a time, in the land of Yok, there lived two communal groups, one composed entirely of women, and the other all men. These groups had much in common, despite the fact that they lived a great distance from each other and were ruled by a demanding and strict oligarchy. They were each into four major classes: frsh, smores, jurs, and sens. It seemed to be the custom each year for the jurs to sponsor a social event, a dans, which they called the jur rom. It seems that in the year of 1959, the jur rom was a huge success. The dcrashns were all blue, with a mrror ball in the center of the room. For musc, they had a rocrol group. All in all, everyone seemed to enjoy the evening, and spirits were high for a long time afterward.

This dans took considerable preparation, and the jurs had quite a bit of trouble getting their group to do any wuk. A few loyal people came, however, and did all the wuk.

Now, as records indicate, there was another group in the land called the Ykaze, who also sponsored a dans. The origin and purpose of this group seems unclear, but it seemed to be a select one, made up of men. The Ykaze had a good chance, apparently, to have a dans equal to the jur rom, but here, as in the case of the jurs, no one seemed to want to do any wuk. (from what we can gather, all the people in this land were allergic to wuk). The Kkaze were also having internal trouble, and the impending dans problem was not being handled very well. (what happened next we will never know, as here the records end.)

OCC ALL-STARS

Coming with the end of the regular basketball season, is the selecting of the 1958-59 All-Stars in the Oregon Collegiate Conference. Six men made up the past seasons first all-conference club, two of whom are from Eastern Oregon, two from Portland State, and two from Southern Oregon.

Tom Neel, Eastern Oregon, Junior, Condon, Ore.

Bernie Jones, Portland State, Sophomore, Detroit, Mich.

Dave D'Olivo, Southern Ore., Senior, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Larry Howard, Eastern Oregon, Senior, McMinnville, Ore.

John Winters, Portland State, Senior, Portland, Ore.

Gordie Carrigan, Southern Ore., Sophomore, Central Point, Ore.

Also selected on the team as honorable mention were Jerry Baxter, a senior from Eastern Oregon, and Pasco Arritola, a sophomore from Eastern Oregon.

Might mention that Larry Howard was the only unanimous choice to the club. We are still wondering why he didn't at least get mentioned for Little All-American honors.

IK SMOKER

Like to mention that I've heard quite a few favorable comments on the last IK smoker. Seems the people who went felt this was the best exhibition of boxing they had seen at this college in quite a few years. I think the IK's and the fellows who participated should be congratulated for a job well done. Also, while I'm congratulating, I can't leave out Archie Dunsmoor. He was the one who taught them how to protect and jab. Sure improved the smoker over the previous one.

FISHING

The steelhead are finally here! Took them long enough, too. I understand about all that anyone catches steelhead or salmon in this area with, is a spinner and worm, anyway that is the most popular. I'd like to try a flatfish or a wobbleright here, though. I'll bet if you fish the bottom of the stream with one of these two, you'd catch a whopper!

The Mounties from Eastern Oregon College traveled to Portland for their final basketball games of the 1958-59 seasn. The jinx followed the EOC club to Portland again hung over them as they dropped both contests to the Portland State Vikings, Friday, 6242, and Saturday, 61-55.

In the Friday encounter, EOC could not muster a field goal for 16 minutes in the first half. Portland State maintained a tight defense and a roaring offense to jump to a 20-9 lead. EOC managed to connect three times in the period out of 25 attempts They could salvage only a .236 average for the evening from the floor while PSC hit 22 of 57 for a .386 average.

In the second period, Jones of PSC, hit 15 of his teams 18 points during one interval to jump the score 50-27. Jones also collected high point honors for the evening with 28, followed by Larry Howard of EOC with 15.

Saturday Night

The upset minded Mountaineers from EOC played the PSC Vikings on a point for point basis throughout the first period, but lost ground in the last few minutes to drop the last OCC game of the season by a score of 61-55, in the Saturday tilt with the Portland club. Ferguson scored all of his five points in the last five minutes to ice down the victory and the Oregon Collegiate crown for the PSC team.

Larry Howard and Tom Neel combined efforts to jump their team to a 12-8 lead early in the first half. John Winters then tipped two in a row to tie things up. After a tied 29-29 half time score, EOC never regained the lead, but were never far behind until the last fatal five minutes when Fergusno got hot.

EOC Receives First Portion Of Defense Student Loan Money

Eoc Receivr

Eastern Oregon College has been awarded a very small amount, $1,135 from the National Defense Act Program, which is available in the form of student loans during the Spring term, 1959. Applications for these loans are now available in the Student Personnel Office. Although the act allows amaximum loan of $1,-000 per student per year, it is readily apparent that with the small amount of money available, no student could receive a loan in this amount. The Scholarship and Loan committee has, therefore, found it necessary to establish certain policies to guide them in awarding loans to student applicants.

1. In keeping with recommendations of the National Defense Act, the loans will be made only to those students who have accumulative grade point average of 2.-50 or higher. Ordinarily, students with a 3.00 or higher cumulative grade point average will be given first consideration.

2. Applications of senior students would be given first priority, then juniors, sophomores, and freshmen.

3. Priority according to subject majors is established as follows:

a. Teachers in mathematics, science,engineering, and language.

b. Other teachers.

c. Other students in mathematics, science, engineering, and language.

d. Other students.

It is quite probable that with the amount of money available for these loans, it will not be possible to award loans to exceed $150 to $200, except where very extenuating circumstances may be present.

Under the National Defense Act students may obtain loans which are re-payable on a monthly basis starting one year after graduation from college. No interest will be charged on the loan until one year following graduation from college, at which time the rate will be three per cent. Those entering the teaching field may deduct one-tenth of the amount of the loan for each year of teaching experience up to fifty per cent of the total loan.

At the present time, applicants for a loan are required to sign a negative loyalty oath as follows:

"I do not believe in, and am not a member of and do not support any organization that believes in or teaches theoverthrow of the United States Government by forceor violence or by illegal or unconstitutional means."

The necessity of signing this oath has met withgreat criticism from college faculties all over the nation, and four bills are presently in the process of being presented to the Congress to repeal this part of the law. Until such time, however, as congress may repeal this part ofthe law,it will be necessary for students wishing to obtain loans to sign the oath. Eastern Oregon College faculty is on record as oppoosed to the oath, as it is discrimatory, and does not accomplish the original purpose of preventing oCmmunism in higher education.

Lyle H. Johnson, chairman
Scholarship and Loan Committee

Several bills have been proposed to amend the National Defense Education Act:

1 Scholarships—HR 284 introduced by Representative Frank Thompson (D-N.J.) would provide for 20,000 national defense scholarships to be awarded by state scholarship commissions. The scholarships would be worth $750 a year, but up to $750 more would be paid to the individual recipient depending on his need. Similar bills to the Thompson bill are HR 112 Coad (D-Iowa) and HR 4220 Multer (D-N.Y.).

2. Loyalty Oath—The Thompson bill also would repeal section 1001 (f) of the National Defense Education Act which provides that recipients of loans, fellowships, and other individual grants under the National Defense Education Act must take oath that they do not belong to any subversive organization. There has been considerable protest from organized higher education and from individual higher institutions against the use of this disclaimer oath. Some institutions, Swarthmore and Bowdoin Colleges, for example, have refused to partcipate in the program until the disclaimer oath is repealed. Repeal of section 1001 (f) would still leave the requirement that individual recipients of loans and grants take a simple oath of allegiance to the United States. Other House bills to repeaal the loyalty disclaimer are HR 2332 Frelinghuysen (R-N.J.), HR 2437 Roosevelt (D-Calif.), HR 4038 Oliver (D-Me.), and HR 4066 Green (D-Ore.).

3. Loan Forgiveness—HR 3386 introduced by Representative Van Zandt (R-Pa.) would extend the forgiveness provisions so that persons who teach in an institution of higher education will be eligible for 50 per cent forgiveness of loans made under title II of the NDEA. The bill does not specify whether the institution shall be public or private. If the amendment were adopted up to 50 per cent of the loan would be "cancelled for service as a full-time teacher in a public elementary or secondary school in a state, or in an institution of higher education."

McClay Guest SOEA Speaker

Mrs. Doris McClay of La Grande was the speaker at the recent SOEA meeting, March 4. She was a teacher in England during the war and spoke on the educational system in that country under the conditions present in war time.

She pointed out the methods by which children were placed in educational institutes by means of standardized tests. If children passed these tests, at the age of 11, they were placed in academic schools. If the child failed, he was placed in an industrial school.

Mrs. McClay also stated that the government subsidizes education. She was educated at Cambridge, coming to the United States only after the post-war years.

Other meetings of the SOEA have also featured La Grande teachers, among these was Jack Tye, a 1958 graduate of EOC Jack told of his experiences and observation since he has entering the teaching field. He emphasized the importance of knowing the characteristics of the grade level taught and the careful planning which must go behind good teaching. He also discussed OEA, our local organization on the state level. Jack brought out the point that in order to really appreciate OEA one must be an active member, and that the importance to teachers is extremely great.

These meetings are held on the first Wednesday of every month in Room 28 of Ackerman. Visitors are welcome.

Performances Of Brigadoon Bring Receptive Audiences

Featuring a cast of 47 including a chorus and dancers, the EOC production of the musical "Brigadoon" last Wednesday through Saturday, March 11-14 was well received by large audiences each night. Directors for the production were Richard Hiatt, production; Neal Wilson, music and Miss Christine Nicoloff, choreography.

The two sets of leaders were a new feature of EOC productions. Kay Hawk and Dean Kennedy appeared in the leading roles on Wednesday and Friday and Jan Robberson and Bob Barrett played the ertson of Fiona and Tommy on Thursday and Saturday.

These leads were very effectively supported by Paul Becket as Jeff Douglas, Lee Miller as Meg Brockie, West Stephens as Charles Dalrymple and Mike Hanford as Mr. Lundie. These are only the main supportng roles, all other members of the cast did outstanding jobs.

In addition the dancing leads all deserve commendation. Judy Wardell as ean MacLaren, Karen Jacobsen as Maggie Anderson, Steve McGowan as Harry Beaton and Nance McCrae, all of whom had solos, and Nola Bubb and Orrin Huton who performed a duet, were excellent.

A student who was asked by his dean whether he was in the top half of his class replied "Oh, no sir, I'm one of those who make the top half possible."

Sock And Buskin To Present Mrs. 'McThing' Spring Term

MRS. MC THING is the name of the two-act comedy which will be presented by Sock and Buskin May 7, 8, an 9, for Parents' Weekend. Mr. Richard Hiatt will direct the play.

Mrs. La Rue, a wealthy widow, has a son, Howay, whom she tries to shield and protect from the world. One day a little girl, Mimi, climbs the wall of the La Rue yard to play with Howay. Mrs. La Rue makes the little girl leave the yard, after which there are hundreds of humorous escapades occurring.

The cast which first appeared on Broadway which left the people rocking in their seats included Helen Hayes, Ernest Borgnine, Brandon de Wilde, Jules Munshin, and many others.

Sabers Accept Five Pledges

Sabers, the Women's Service Organization on campus announces the acceptance of five pledges for the year. Chosen on the bases of activity on campus, accumulative GPA which must be a 2.50, and general personality, these girls will be initiated in formal ceremony within the month. Pledges are: Myrna Barreth, Tarry Clifton, Gail Fisher, Johanna Hardwick, Suzanne Switzer.

Sabers have operated concessions at all basketball games throughout the year, have actively supported assemblies, contributed to Campus Chest Drive, contributed the Campus Blood Drive and will participate and service activities during Parents' Weekend.

Officers for the club are President — Patsy Carpenter; Vice President—Jean Damon, secretary—Carolyn Muller; historian—Marilyn Nichols.

Principal's Confab On EOC Campus

The Oregon Elementary Principal's Association, Eastern Region, will hold their annual conference on the EOC campus, April 18. This is composed of all the elementary principals of Eastern Oregon.

The program for the day is as follows: 8:30, Registration; 9:15, Nyssa Tumblers; 9:45, Invocation by Reverend Samson, Welcome by Powell Graham, President of the Chamber of Commerce, 9:55; Reports on the state study, "The Gifted Child," a speech by Dr. Glenn A. Purdom Jr.; 10:45, coffee break; 11:00, Group discussions; 12:15, Luncheo in Hoke. There will be a toastmaster, John Cerwak, an Invocation, the introduction of guests, a Report of recent Legislative Action by Miss Florence Beardsley, Director of Elementary Education, and a Message from the State President, Maynard Christensen. At 1:30 will be the Business Session including reports, new business, election of officers, resolutions, discussions of a fall meeting, the door prize, and the adjournment SOEA members will act as hosts and hostesses at morning coffee on two occasions on that day. Coffee will first be served at 8:30 in the Ackerman Auditorium and then in the Children's Library at 10:30. The committee appointed to be in charge included Linda Kane, Kay Bondurant, Beverly Donovan, Josie Ward, Jean Hunter, Donna Johnson, Donna Dooly.

ChesterNamed Duke Of IK's

Elections were held April 2nd for Intercollegiate Knight officers. Retiring officers were: Duke, Les Edwards; Scribe, Henry Garbe; and Chancellor of the Exchecquer, Pasco Arritola. New officers are: Duke, Moe Chester; Scribe, Jim Stewart; and Chancellor of the Exchequer, Bill Lovelady.

The I.K.'s have considerable work to do this term, sponsoring the I.K. Ball, representing EOC with a float in La Grande's Centennial Days' Parade, and a greased pig contest for the same event, and working on Parents Weekend. Twenty-one pledges were accepted at the last meeting.

Jr. Physicals Due Before Term End

All members of the Junior Class planning on beginning their practice teaching next fall must have taken their Junior Physical before the end of this Spring Term. Students who have not fulfilled this requirement will not be allowed to take their final examinations this term until the requirement is fulfilled.

Nurse Osterholm stated that students should come to the Health Office (newly installed in the coliseum) and obtain a reference to one of the college doctors for this examination. Part of the physical will be administered by Mrs. Osterholm. There will be no charge for the physical if it is taken through the college.

Also of concern to Mrs. Osterholm is the amount of students who signed up at the first of the year for school administered polio shots and have not reported to receive them. She ordered supplies to take care of this number of people, and these supplies are not returnable. She urges students to take advantage of this service, paying $1 in the business office and receiving the shots at their convenience upon presentation of this receipt. If taken without this school service program, these shots will amount to approximately $5 each!

IK's Sponsors Of Annual Ball

Tomorrow night, Saturday, the annual Intercollegiate Knights Ball will be held for the student body. Matt Svetich, a branch of Rod Essleton's band, will provide the six-piece band for the event. Highlight of the evening will be the coronation of the I. K. queen. The queen will accompany I.K. officers to Cheney, Washington to compete for regional queen, and to Billings, Montana for National elections. Identity of the queen is kept secret until the moment of her coronation.

The Ball is open to the entire student body, and a special invitation is hereby extended to all members of the faculty and their wives or husbands.

Tickets have been on sale all week, and may be bought at the door. The dance is semi-formal, requiring no corsage, and will be from 9 to 12 in Ackerman Gymnasium.

Tour On Schedule For EOC Chorus

On Monday, April 13, the Eastern Oregon College Choir will leave on a tour extending from Pendleton to South Salem, Oregon. Travelling by chartered Greyhound Bus, the choir will stop in Pendleton at the High School, Hermiston High School and Boardman Public Schools before driving to The Dalles High School, later in the day at Hood River High School and finally at Monmouth (OCE) where they will spend Tuesday night. Wednesday morning they will proceed to South Salem and following the concert will return homeward stopping at Cascade Locks Public Schools and the Eastern Oregon State Hospital in Pendleton.

The musical program will consist of: a Negro spiritual, "Elijah Rock," a Revolutionary War Folk Song, "Johnny Has Gone for a Soldier," "When Rooks Fly Homeward", "And the Glory of the Lord" from the Messiah, "Brigadoon" selections, all of which will be sung by the entire choir. Blue and Gold Singers will present Brahams "Love Waltzes" and the men's chorus will sing, "Doney Gal' and "Cool Water." Ellen Uesugi will be featured soloist singing a Hawaiian number.

EOC Evaluated For AAUW

Dr. Roslyn Cassidy, of the Health and Physical Education Department at UCLA was on campus March 31, April 1 and 2, evaluating Eastern Oregon College to see if we would be accepted by the American Association of University women. The AAUW is a national organization of women graduates of accredited schools of their standards and who wish to join the organization. The women are interested in the cultural and educational background for women.

Dr. Cassidy was observing the facilities and the campus. She was interested in the positions of the women on the faculty, the place of the dean of women, the percentage of the women on the faculty, and how many of them had degrees. She was interested in the women students as a whole, the part they play on campus, and the women's dorm. She observed several classes during her stay. She will turn her report into a special board, and EOC will know in June or a little later whether or not they were accepted by the AAUW.

The Oregon Story Holbrook's Topic

"The Oregon Story" is the subject of discussion to be given by the famed lecturer, author, columnist and historian, Stewart Holbrook. Tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the College Auditorium, Mr. Holbrook will present a gallery of people who were influential in the Oregon Territory and instrumental in the promotion and acceptance of Oregon Statehood.

Tickets will not be sold at the door tonight due to arrangement made for this program. College students must purchase tickets at the Bookstore before 5 p.m. and tickets allotted to townspeople have been sold.

Wilson To Solo At Portland

Neil E. Wilson, Instructor in vocal music at Eastern Oregon College has been selected as baritone soloist to appear with the Portland Junior Symphony in Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana." The work is to be presented Saturday, May 18, at 8:30 p.m., in the Portland Civic Auditorium.

"Carmina Burana" is a contemporary work, having been published in 1937. Mr. Orff is a German, but the work is written in ancient Latin. In addition to Mr. Wilson and two other soloists, there will be a massed chorus made up of choirs from colleges in the Portland area. These will include University of Oregon, Oregon College of Education, Willamette University and Portland University. The entire work is under the direction of Jacob Avshalamov, director of the Junior Symphony.

There's Music InThe Air

Since there is an increasing pressure from many faculty members to curb the spread of activities which necessitate students missing classes and those which cancel classes; and
Since the tradition of singing at college assemblies has been abandoned gradually until at present not even the Alma Mater is sung; and

Since the student body as a whole has failed to display any great enthusiasm for and support of the Evensong tradition; and
Since the music traditionally associated with Evensong is of relatively little musical worth and is not appealing to our present student body:

We, the undersigned, members of the music department, respectfully petition the faculty and the student council to replace the tradition of Evensong at Eastern Oregon College with some other event which would fill the function this tradition holds to better advantage

J. Lynn Bishop
E. Lyle McMullen
L. Rhodes Lewis
Neil E. Wilson

Upon reading the above letter, students were not only shocked and concerned, but immediately trying to evaluate past Evensong ceremonies in the light which might have prompted such feeling from the music department.

The Frosh ask, "What is Evensong?" Some may answer that it is a chore which we endure at the height of social doings Spring Term; others reply that it is a ceremony held on the Grand Stairway at the setting of the sun, signifying the end of the Seniors' careers here, but another place over another hill where the sun still gleams. Other students may say that Evensong is the gathering of all students to sing to the townspeople who sit in the street below. The man on campus may answer that it is a dress-up occasion necessitating the effort of remembering words to sentimental songs about EOC and try at the same time to move where and when you're supposed to!

Each of these actually is Evensong, it is a tradition; it is perhaps somewhat outdated in language of the script; it is practice and more practice; it is anticipated by townspeople and a significant tribute to and part of the graduation of our Senior members. It was written for EOC, by faculty and students—music and script.

There are problems, of course, but eliminating the complete program seems a very unrealistic manner in which to deal with a problem. Let's think this matter over very carefully before taking any such drastic actions. Several possible solutions were discussed in Student Council; perhaps these can lead the way to a workable plan for THIS YEAR'S EVENSONG and all to follow.

1. Using the college chorus as the basic choral group, which would be infiltrated throughout the other singers, lending more confidence to the songs.

2. Using the college band members in the instrumental section rather than city orchestra participants.

3. Obtaining help from the speech and drama departments for the readers of the Evensong script, in effort to accomplish a more enjoyable reading as well as a more understandable one.

4. Obtaining the individual student's actual pledge on a petition to uphold and participate in the Evensong ceremony.

Enough has been said . . . LET'S DO SOMETHING!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Recently, a large portion of both faculty and student body have expressed resentment over students entering activities which require an excessive amount of time. The band trip is an example of this.

Some people have even suggested the requirements be set up for students wishing to take part in these activities. One suggested demand was that participating students be required to maintain a certain G.P.A. Another idea was merely that of leaving the decision up to the individual student. Both of these answers are stupid. They imply solution but fail to attain it.

There should be no stiff requirements for the students entering these activities. The teachers who feel there shoudl be are wrong. When repreesntatives are sent out from the school, we want to send out the best we have. The band trip is a good example of this. What type of impression would this have made if the band was limited to half strength by some foolish rule?

Still there is another idea. Many students find some of the required courses quite hard. These subjcts shouldn't serve to bar them from those whch they not only like but also excel in.

Then there are those students who feel that they should be made exempt from the band trip. They think it takes too much of their time. To heck with that noise! They knew the requirements for band when they enrolled.

However, another angle still reremains to be mentioned. In particular, many of the instructors have criticized the band trip. If they think so little of it, why don't they do something about it? Surely they have some influence in the organization and sponsoring of school activities. If they don't want the students engaging in them, why schedule these activties at all?

I have repeatedly used the band trip as an example. This is because it is representative of most of the school functions in question. What has been said of it is equally applicable to all others.

Let's not merely sponsor these activities, let's support them as well.

Clyde Holliday

Dear Editor,

Recently I read with interest and pride that E.O.C. is now awarding Bachelor of Arts degrees to qualified students. As we have all noticed E.O.C. has made many strides in the types of degrees which are now awarded.

After being enrolled as a pre-nursing student at Eastern Oregon for five terms I transferred to U. of O. Medical School of Nursing. When I graduated in June 1961 I will receive my Bachelor of Science in Nursing from the University of Oregon at Eugene, even though my pre-nursing work was done at E.O.C. and I have never stepped foot on the campus at Eugene.

It is my understanding that the only course which I was not able to take at EOC was "History of Nursing." I will take this course here at the Nursing School.

At this time I have not investigated all the problems involved in the possibility of EOC awarding this Nursing Degree. One problem is that "History of Nursing" would have to be offered at EOC. There are 17 pre-nursing students presently enrolled at EOC—I wonder if these 17 young ladies feel that their loyalty is with Eastern Oregon College and also wonder about the possibilities of graduating from EOC rather than U. of O.

Sincerely,
Janice Ward

National Library Week

The second annual National Library Week will be observed April 12-18 throughout the nation. This has been set aside to focus attention on the importance of the library in all fields including the public, school, scholarly, private and special libraries of the country.

With a slogan of "For a Better-Read, Better-Informed America" this program has been endorsed by many organizations in all walks of life such as PTA, NEA and Jaycees. Five major syndicates in the nation will distribute exclusive articles written by top authors to membership newspapers. These authors include Jean Kerr, John Steinbeck, Meredith Wilson, and Steve Allen.

All school libraries and the public library in La Grande are planning special programs for some means of stimulating interest. Miss Helen Bliss of the college library has been handling the organization of this program in Oregon. Our library will have exhibits in the lobby, showcases displaying a variety of material, along with recent material of general interest that is available.

Mr. Donald Nelson, head of the Walter M. Pearce Library on campus, stated the goals here as an "opportunity for this library to remind students that an important goal of education is the prepara tion of students to work independenty in whatever investigation they need to make and to profit themselves through reading, its enjoyment and the reading habit."

Dorion Doodles

By JEAN HUNTER

What a change in atmosphere! With the spring clothes and spring weather comes a feeling that life's worth living again. We'll admit that some of these get-ups that go with tennis and swimming have nothing on the levis but they are a definite indication that spring has sprung.

That ominous gang of female pranksters from second floor south has split up this term. Methinks they're trying to spread throughout the dorm with some plan of indoctrinating other Dorionites. The move has resulted in a much quieter second floor but the gals on third say it's never been so noisy. Sure hated to see all that liviliness leave second south.

Several girls bit the dust this term but we got three new members as compensation. Dianna Schwab, Jackie Blackwell, and Rosemarie Amato are trying their luck at the risky business of dorm life this term. Welcome gals, and lots of luck!

Dr. Cassidy, representing AAUW, was the honored guest at Wednesday night's dinner. Mrs. Winters, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Burnett, Miss Nicoloff, and the girls on Winter Term Honor Roll were also honored at the dinner. Dr. Casidy toured the dorm and provided some pretty entertaining conversation.

Biggest thing that's happened to Dorion Hall for many a year was the presentation of a stereo hi fi phonograph compliments of Dr. Bolen's Interfaith Council. The gift was a big surprise that still has us tickled pink. It's a beautiful set that we're really proud of and we certainly appreciate the thoughtfulness that made it possible.

There are some pretty talented gals on first floor north when it comes to ballad singing. Ardyce (uke in hand), Virginia, Nola, Ginger, Helen, and Mary Conklin gave out with some pretty good ballads at a coffee break during finals cramming time. Not only do they have a very interesting collection of ballads, but they do a mighty fine job of singing them. Looks like Parent's Weekend material to me.

Council Corner

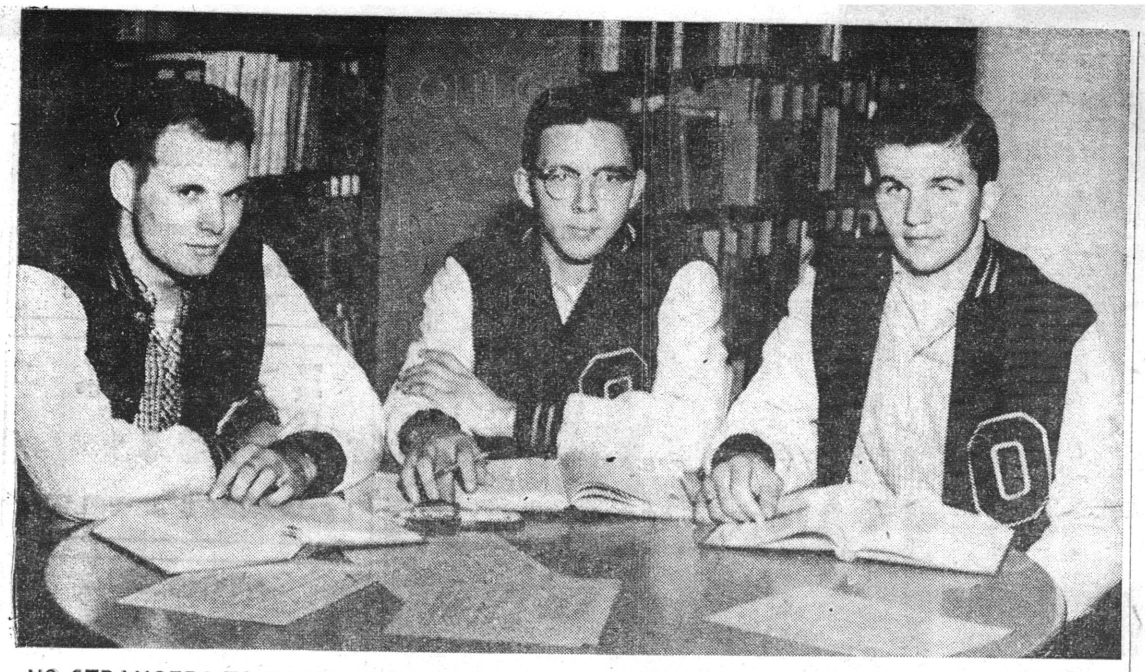
By Jean Hunter

The big question before the council right now is the subsidization of dances with student body funds. A committee has been apponted to look into the problem of private organizations on campus sponsoring an all-school dance using the money alloted for that dance by the Student Body and charging an admission price as well. When the admission has been charged on similar dances the understanding has been that the money for this admission was to enable the sponsors to put on a better dance. Now, however, the problem is one of letting private odganizations use Student Body money to put on the dance and then charge admission with the idea of making a profit for their own organizations. There should definitely be a policy set up concerning this subsidization but there are many things that should be considered before we have a definite yes or no.

Certainly it is not fair to use student funds to help pay for a dance and then charge these students for the privilege of attending the dance unless the added charge is for the specific purpose of making a better dance possible (better orchestra, decorations, etc.). Yet if we ever hope to have erally good dances sponsored by private organizations we are going to have to provide some opportunity for them to build up their treasuries so they can have these dances without Student Body subsidization.

One possible answer to the problem might be to give these organizations the allotted ASB money in the form of a loan. They they could charge admission and if they made a profit the loan could be repaid and the remaining profit could be for their own treasury leaving the original allotment for other ASB activities. If no profit is realized the loan would not have to be repaid and neither the ASB nor the private organization would be holding the bag. The question then arises as to what happens if the profit does not equal the loan. The obvious answer there would be to have the organization pay back as much of the loan as their profit would cover.

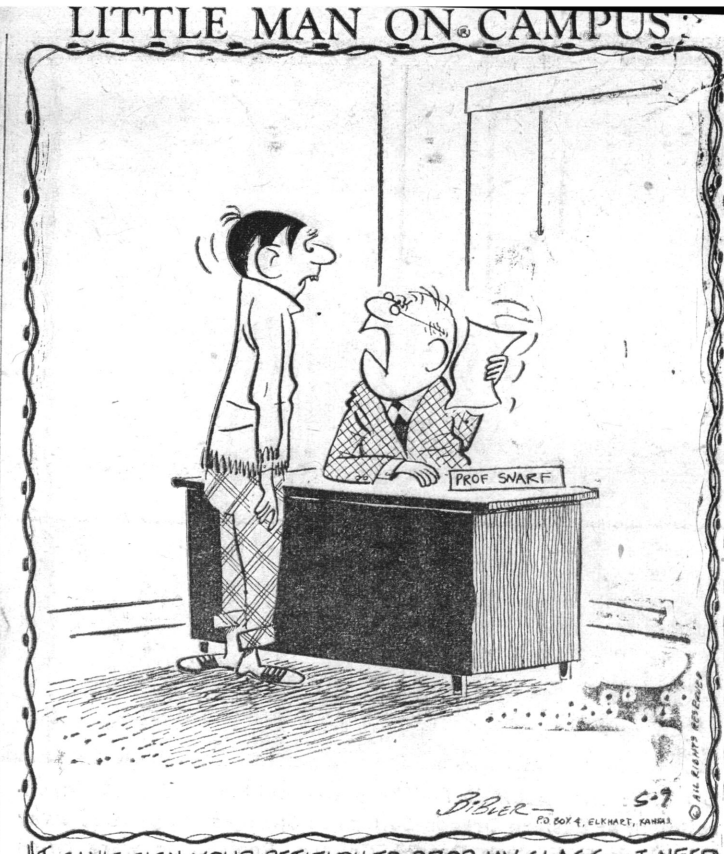
This is just a tentative solution and it would have to be set up pretty carefully in order to be successful. It still stands that we do have the money alloted in the ASB budget for these activities and when this money is to be used for the enjoyment of the whole student body then it certainly should be used. However, when it comes to using funds that belong to the whole student body so that a few of those students can raise funds it's a different story. On the other hand we should remember that these sponsoring organizations are doing the school a real service in taking on the responsibility of setting up a big dance.



It has already become a controversial issue with plenty of strong points. on both sides. The money concerned here is your money since it comes from the ten dollars you pay for your student body card each term. For this reason it's up to you as a student to let your council know how you feel about the matter. Should we allow complete, partial or no subsidization?

Scholarship Demand Outweighs Supply

Applications for scholarships for the next school year have increased more than 50 per cent over those for 1958-59, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.



"The demand now is actually over and above the number of scholarships that will be available," Dr. Johnson said.

He indicated, however, that loan funds are set up, particularly for upperclassmen, and encourageed students to consider this possibility i nthe event a scholarship is not granted.

"I CAN'T SIGN YOUR PETITION TO DROP MY CLASS—I NEED YOUR "F" TO EQUALIZE MY GRADE DISTRIBUTION."

FTA Visitation Here April 22

The Future Teachers of America is a high school organization of young people who aspire to some day become teachers. They will hold their annual visitation of the Eastern Oregon Campus on Wednesday, April 22.

Groups from Stanfield, Vale, Pendleton and The Dalles are expected to come to this campus, along with their advisers. A morning registration is planned in the Administration Building. This will be followed by attendance at the school assembly featuring a program of dance by the modern dance class under the direction of Miss Nicoloff.

The groups will dine at the two dormitories. They will then visit classes of their choice for the remainder of the day.

A committee was named to plan for the annual Future Teachers of America visitation on campus on April 22. Those selected were Patsy Carpenter, Donna Johnson, Kay Bondurant, Josie Ward.

Another term has started, and it promises to be a busy one for all: the sports scene sees track and baseball as highlights, the I.K. Ball, Parents Weekend, Sock and Buskin's "Mrs. McThing," student body elections, All School Picnic, the Coronation Ball, Evensong, and final exams. Sounds hectic, and it will be.

It seems that some of our more considerate students last term didn't know a good thing when they had it. The milk situation was such that we served ourselves and were able to drink as much milk as we wished. However, certain individuals would traipse into the dining room all hours of the day and cart off the expensive liquid in gallon jugs. Thanks to these hogs, we are now issued milk as we go through the line, and are allowed only two glasses, one at a time. It saves on milk, but it is an unnecessary inconvenience.

Who will be the I. K. Sweetheart? No one knows until tomorrow night when she makes her appearance.

The flu bug has struck again, and Mrs. Osterholme is being kept busy nursing her unfortunate charges. Now we can say that it is fairly boring to stay in bed all the time.

I urge all of you to attend the Campaign Assembly next Thursday and attend the Danish Gym Team performance Wednesday.

Ferris Elected To R-up Court

Lynda Ferris, fresman at EOC has been selected by the Pendleton Round-up Association as one of the princesses of the 1959 Pendleton Round-up. Along with Princesses Sylvia Harvey, Ruth Tibbets, Martha Boyer and Queen Vickie Pearson, Linda will help preside over all official R-Up Activities this summer and fall, making appearances at other rodeos and riding in most of the northwest parades with other courts of the area.

Apperances will include: Chief Joseph Days, Caldwell Idaho Roder, Portland Centennial Exposition, Spokane Lilac Festival, and the traditional events leading up to the R-up.

Other EOC students who have been past members of the court are, Susan King, Pendleton, and Gail Austin, Arlington.

College Rodeo Set May 16-17

Eastern Oregon College Rodeo Club and the Pendleton Mustangers are sponsoring an NIRA approved Intercollegiate Rodeo in Round-up grounds May 16 and 17.

Rodeo stock is being supplied by Harley May.

Events are Saddle Bronc, bareback, bull riding, bull dogging, and calf roping. Girl's calf roping and barrel racing.

A trophy saddle to the all-round champion, sterling buckles for 1st in each event, boots or hats for 2nd, jackets or shorts for 3rd, and gift certificates at Hamley's in Pendleton for 4th.

Rodeo will be held at 1:30 each afternoon . . . a full length parade Saturday morning . . . and the Happy Canyon will open up Saturday night with a big dance and the crowning of a college rodeo queen chosen by a secret board of judges from the girls competing in the rodeo.

DOUBLE ENROLLMENT—There was evidence of doubled enrollment at Eastern Oregon College as Spring term got underway this week at Eastern Oregon College. Registering were twins (from left) Robert and Roberta Lyons, Hood River; Marilyn and/or Carolyn Sperling, Laura and/or Louise Young, and Sarah and/or Susan Rich, of La Grande. Marilyn and Carolyn are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. August Sperling, Laura and Louise, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Young, and Sarah and Susan, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. David R. Rich. EOC's enrollment did jump six percent over last spring term, and with final tabulation yet to be made, stands at 600. That includes all twins. (EOC Photo)

Monmouth Site Of SOEA Confab

The Student Oregon Education Association Spring Conference was held at Oregon College of Education, Monmouth, on Saturday, April 4. Two carloads of EOC students made the trip down, leaving Friday noon and returning Sunday. The group included Linda Kane, Carolyn Muller, Donna Dooley, Mike Ferguson, and Ron Paulson, attending as official delegates, plus Darrel Calhoun, Mick Tolar, Maurice Chester, Dick Nusser.

Linda Kane attended thhe conference as this college's candidate for State Vice-president. Although Linda did not become vice president, she was in the run-offs.

At the conference registration was held at 9:30. At the opening assembly the address of welcome was made by Dr. Roy Lieuallen, President of Oregon College of Education. The main speaker was Tom Powers, President of the Oregon Education Association.

Later in the afternoon voting was held on the various offices. New officers fo rState SOEA for the coming year are, president, Preston Butcher (Portland State); vice-president, Dick White (Willamette). The secretary is appointed by the president from the state council. This council is made up of a representative from each of the 16 chapters in Oregon.

Giocanda Smile

The play, "The Giocanda Smile" by Aldous Huxley has been scheduled for Saturday, May 23 at 8 p.m. in the College Theatre, according to Dr. A. R. Kaiser, director. The cast for the reader's theatre production will be announced sometime in the near future, Dr. Kaiser said.

Music Notes

By VIRGINIA WELLINGTON

In spite of the many mechanical troubles suffered by the band, this year's 1959 Oregon Centennial Band Tour was the most successful tour ever taken by the Eastern Oregon College Band. The Band appeared before an estimated 55,000 people throughout Washington, British Columbia, and Oregon. The organization received many wonderful compliments as well as receiving the "Best of Bands" award at the Gay Nineties Festival at Forest Grove, Oregon.

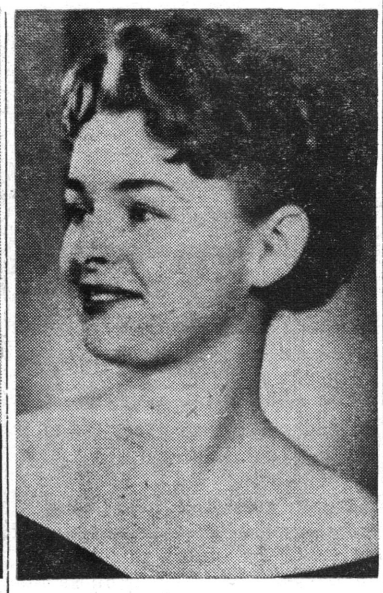
Hunter; Johnson Race For First Vice President Office

JEAN HUNTER
Candidate for first vice president

The most obvious duty of the first vice president is that of filling in for the president in case of an emergency. This is important, of course, but the first v.p. also has definite responsibilities that must be taken care of throughout the year. She is (1) Coordinator of Committees, (2) president of IOC, and (3) a voting member of both Student Council and the Executive Student Council.



In considering these three major duties I realize that our president first v.p. has done a tremendous job with each one, and it's going to be tough to even keep up with Josie's record. But we cant let this work come to a stand-still now. As the enrollment at EOC grows each of these responsibilities must necessarily grow. Let's consider them in terms of future growth.

First, as Coordinator of Committes the First v.p. is responsible of the selection of the publicity, elections, student union and social committees. This selection should be more inclusive—we should reach more students with these petitions for committee membership during freshman days and when returning students first come back to school in the fall. Another method might be more personal contact with a larger number of students.

Another problem that faces the first v.p, since she is also the chairman of the elections committees, is that of getting a larger percentage of students to vote in ASB elections. I think this could be achieved by moving the polls to a more central location. Hoke Hall would be my suggestion since it's the one building that almost every student enters at some time during the day.

Second, as President of the Inter-Organizational Council next year, the first v.p. will be faced with the job of keeping up the work of a group that only began functioning this year. This council is composed of all clubs and class presidents and functions to prevent conflicting campus activities. This group should begin functioning right at the beginning of next fall term with a meeting of the council and the Social Chairman wherein they could set up a tentative social calendar for the entire year. This would lessen chances of conflicting activities and make for a better social program for our student body.

Last but not least, as a voting member of both the student and executive councils my main concern would be with getting more students to realize what their council is dong and why. I would suggest holding regular council meetings in such places as the Dorion aad Hall lounges rather than always in the Ad Building. There is no reason this couldn't be done and I think it would make more students feel free to drop in one these meetings to either voice their opnions or just sit and listen.

BETTY JOHNSON
Candidate for First Vice-President

I believe that better student government and greater student participation may be obtained by the following means.

1) Increase the number of votes cast in the elections and insure you, the individual a voice in student government. To do this I propose better placement of ballot boxes on campus.

2) Place ballot boxes in more than one location on campus.

3) Reorganize the election board so that each class will have a representative on the council. Thereby, your suggestions will be directly reported to the committee on elections.

4) promote better student-organizational understanding through IOC.

I feel that I have the experience and background to represent you as 1959-60 Student body Vice President, all I need is an expression of your confidence. Thank you.

As far as being qualified to fill the position of first v.p. is concerned, I feel that my best qualifications are experience and ability. As Business Manager this year I have been active in the functioning of our Student Council. This experience has not been limited to financial matters alone. I have learned what it takes to make a council function effectively and I feel that this knowledge would be of the utmost value to me if I am elected first vice president. The experience I have gained about ASB finances would also be valuable on our new council next year.

I am eager to be a part of the new council with its new ideas where, with the aid of the background I nave acquired this year, I think I would be able to help develop these ideas. Being a part of next year's conncil is something very special to me—the job of first vice president is one I want very much and one that I would do my best to do really well.

Primary Elections Pronounced Void

The primary elections of the Associated Student Body that were held Friday, April 17, were declared void by the Election Committee upon discovery of a constitutional violation in voting procedure. The uncounted ballots were immediately burned and a second election was scheduled for Monday, April 20.

The violation in voting procedure occurred when a member of the student body presented another individual's student body card and completed a ballot under that individual's name. Under the present ASB constitution there are no provisions for voting either by proxy or absentee ballot. Upon learning of this violation, the election committee met with faculty advisors and pronounced the election void.

One member of the Student Council supported the action of the Election Committee in the following statement. "Because there are no provisions for absentee or proxy voting we must enforce the constitution even though this one violation seemed so minor. The election committee also had to consider the large number of students who were unable to vote because of illness or the baseball trip. These students would have welcomed the chance to vote by absentee ballot but since the privileges was not afforded them it could not be extended to others."

Kane Named State SOEA Secretary

Linda Kane, Eastern Oregon College junior, was unanimously elected secretary of the Student Oregon Education Association at a recent meet in Portland. She will assist President Preston Butcher of PSC and Vice President Dick White of Willamette, in the administartion of that organization in the coming school year.

This meet was a get together of all representatives of Oregon Colleges and Universities for the purpose of setting up the program and policies for the 1959-60 year. The president and vice president were elected at an earlier meet from all representatives at large.

Linda's duties as secretary will include records of all procedings at meetings, attendance records and correspondence between member colleges, officers, and representatives.

LINDA KANE

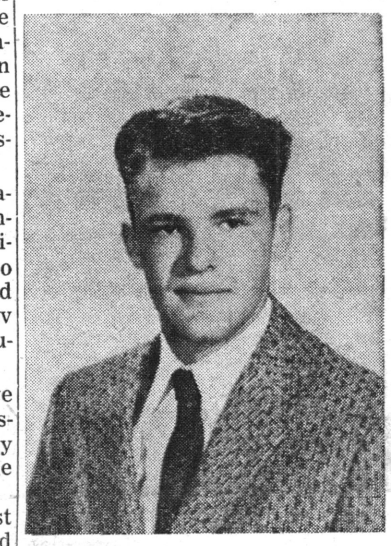
Cole; Donovan Finalists In Competition For Presidency

BEV. DONOVAN
Candidate for President

One ofthe first duties of our new ASB President will be the attendance of the Pacific Student's President Association Conference in Reno, Nevada. When students cast their votes in the final elections tomorrow, this item should be high among the points of consideration. Our president must be able to represent EOC, as well as boost it in the eyes of the other delegates. We of the committee supporting Bev Donovan for ASB President, feel that those qualifications for a good representative agree with those necessary for an excellent president.

First, that person must be familiar with the student government, its characteristics, its policies, its problems. Serving two years on the Student Council and one year as ASB secretary, Bev is well acquainted with EOC student government.

Second, a good representative must be able to meet people easily and with poise. Bev not only can do both of these, but she enjoys them.



Third, this representative must be able to think on her own and provide stable, realistic suggestions or decisions. Bev's work on council and in campus organizations vouch fo rthis quality.

Fourth, this person must not only possess these characteristics, but she must be able to organize these thoughts, decisions, experiences into understandable and forceful expression, and then GIVE VOICE TO THAT EXPRESSION. The campaign speech given at Thursday's assembly places Bev high in this merit.

Fifth, any representative must have original and functional ideas as the basis of her efforts. Bev states that for her term of office as ASB President: "This is government of the students, for the students, and it should be BY THE STUDENTS! I feel that one of the lacking factors in our efforts centers around the limited number of students who actively participate in the administration of our government. This cannot be completely blamed upon the individual, who might well feel that once the 'big wheels' take office, they want free reigns with a hands-off policy as far as the general student is concerned. I do not feel that this should be the attitude; on the contrary, it is our duty as leaders to seek out those students with ideas, abilities, and willingness to work and give them the opportunity to become the next possibilities for ASB offices."

With an attitude like this — even a woman might win!

The Bev Donovan for president committee.

DON COLE
Candidate for President

We the members of the Don Cole for president committee feel that our candidate is the most qualified indivdual running for the office of the A.S.B. President. This can perhaps best be illustrated by listing these following qualifications:

Three years of Student Council in high school, plus the acceptance of leadership responsibilities in many other school organizations. Since coming to Eastern Oregon he has used this leadership ability through the election to the offices of vice-president of Hunt Hall, later to be elevated to president, vice-president of this year's Sophomore Class, President of the college band and vice-president of the college choir. He is also a member of Student Council, the Student-Faculty co-ordinating committee and I.O.C. Last term he was appointed co-chairman of Parents Weekend and became a member of I.K.'s.

Thus it becomes obvious that Don has the qualifications which would, in our opinion, be an invaluable aid to him as an effective student leader. In addition to this Don has suggested a number of improvements which might possibly better our present form of student government. They are:

Improving the means and amount of communication between the Student and student government on the issues of collegiate rating (scholastic and social), school traditions (such as Evensong), and inner school functions, through more effective use of I.O.C. and Student Body advertisement.

Don's insight into Student government and his association with the greater percentage of the student body, has rounded out and fulfilled the important qualification of versatility needed by the student body president. So remember when you go to the polls Vote COLE for Prexy.

DON SHORE
Candidate for 2nd vice president

Hutton, Shore 2nd Veep Men

ORAN HUTTON
Candidate for 2nd V.P.

His qualifications, which include being a member of Intercollegiate Knights, Theta Delta Phi, and having committee experience, at times as chairman, are not many, even if you add to them his familiarity with the Spring Picnic (which is the first big job to face the newly-elected social chairman) and the fact that he will be a junior next year, which gives him the benefit of being able to use his time on the execution of his office as he will not be student teaching and yet he will have two years of attendance at this institution. But after all, the most important qualifications of any candidate for an office such as this are desire and ability and you may rest assured that he has an overabundance of the first, if that is possible, and an adequate amount of the second. It is felt that the total of these qualifications are enough to justify running for the office.

His platform is based on one main "board." This is IDEAS. Among his new ideas for all the students, instead of just dances, which everybody does not attend, are a wiener roast next fall term in the College Coliseum parking lot, a snow party (either tobogan or ice-skating) winter term, and a mutually sponsored carnival, again located in the parking lot, and involving both the college and community. Hurray for community hours!)

New ideas, backed up by enthusiasm and ability. This is his platform. Is it what you, the students, want?

I wish to plead fo rmore student participaiton in college activities. With an increase in student participation even better activities cannot help but come about. For instance, with an increase in student participation a snow carnival of our own could be possible. This doesn't mean that only the people who ski could participate, but that this activity would be for everyone—those who enjoy winter sports and those who just like to sit and drink—hot chocolate! It would also serve as a send off for our Snow Princess and the events at Mt. Hood.

The next item I would plead guilty to is wanting to keep Evensong. This is a ceremony that will long be rembered by each graduate as well as each underclassman. The tradition is not only a bright spot in the student's eyes, but it is also an event anticipated each year by the townspeople.

To most freshmen Evensong is an event that means very little. I know this to be true because I am of that class. In my opinion the only way to find out about Evensong is to participate in it. In this way Evensong not only becomes a definite part of each of our educational experiences, but it also gives the college a stronger tradition.

Another concern to me is the talent which is going unnoticed on our own campus. To tap this reservoir of ability I purpose a talent show which would not only reveal what we as a college possess other than academic skill, but would also bring us closer together as a student body. There was a step in this general direction at the beginning of fall term with the small scale talent show; but I think that it is now the job of the next second vice president to enlarge up this event and make it something permanent andd anticipated.

The previous administration has done a tremendous job. My only wish is that the incoming council will carry on and reach a greater height in student activities than has ever before been attained at Eastern Oregon College.

Spring Calendar

A variety of interesting as well as "fun" events are planned for spring term with something scheduled nearly every day. A few to come include:

April 27-May 1, MID-TERMS

May 8-10, Parents Weekend and Mrs. McThing.
May 16, Gioconda Smile.
May 22, All school picnic.

June 5, Coronation.
June 7, Baccalaureate
June 8, Evensong
June 12, Commencement
June 8-12, FINALS.

Dorion Doodles

By JEAN HUNTER

Guest night last week was quite an experince for Dorion girls, for it provided an opportunity for most of them to meet and talk with some of the members of the Danish Gym Team. The girls had nervously anticipated dinner conversations consisting solely of sign-language but were happily surprised to find that all but one of the Danish fellows could speak fairly good English. After this discovery the poor Danes were bombarded with questions covering everything from Danish dating and engagement customs to their educational opportunities and requirements. The gymnastics performance itself was tremendous but as far as the Dorion gals (and Hunt fellows too) were concerned nothing could beat actually talking with these young people from Denmark.

Our Danish guests were particularly interested in our forthcoming student body elections and asked many questions about the curious signs they encountered with every step they took. The rock'n roll combo that pranced in during the dinner hour took them by surprise but they were quite delighted with that enthusiastic musical (?) group.

Dorion House Council is busily setting up a Dorion Constitution with the hope that it will be ready for next year. Carolyn Muller has been spending a great deal of time on it with her committee and it seems to be shaping up rather well.

There seems to be some sort of competition between floors to see which one can boast the most sick cases at one time. Third floor is leading thus far but second and first are running a close second. The flu bug is responsible for all the croaky voices and pale faces that are cropping up all over, and nothing seems to do any good except complete bed rest. Much to the chagrin of Mrs. Osterholme, the girls would rather pass on to the happy hunting ground than stay completely out of circulation for three whole days.

Dorion and Hunt Hall Councils met jointly last week to hear Mrs. Winters explain a proposal to have the fellows and gals eat together on Saturdays and Sundays. The final outcome is that both men and women will eat in Dorion Hall on Saturday nights and they will all go to Hunt for Sunday dinner and supper for the remainder of the term. This way it will be necessary to have only one cooking staff on duty during the weekends and dorm residents will benefit in that a raise in dorm fees won't be necessary.

Council Corner

By Jean Hunter

Well, you've heard the speeches, you've seen the multitude of candidates' plateforms that are printed in this edition. So now it's up to you—you cast your ballot and you have a new council.

Along with all these posters, platforms, speeches, and campaign antics you've probably heard many of the candidates and their managers say, "It doesn't matter who you vote for just so you vote." This, of course, is just their genuine concern for a better turn-out at the polls, but actually that statement is quite ridiculous. It does matter who you vote for! Merely checking off a a name for each office on that ballot sheet isn't going to do you much good. Granted it will result in a new council for your student body, but unless you do some thinking before you check those names what kind of a council will you have? This is your chance to choose leaders that you feel deserve your support in their future actions when they represent you,, the student body. So listen to those speches and check those platforms for their validity and then vote, not for just anybody but for the ones that you feel are the right ones to lead your council next year.

Primaries Narrow Secretary Candidates To Two Hopefuls

SANDY THOMPSON
Candidate for Secretary

Sandy Thompson is the girl for Student Body Secretary. Sandy is an attractive girl who will do an excellent job.

She realizes and understands the duties and obligations of the office of student body secretary, and is also aware that the job will require the very best that she can give.

Sandy considers leadership, a keen sense of responsibiilty, honesty, and an ability to get along with people as the four most important qualifications. She has all of these. With these she can play a leading part in a smooth-functioning organization.

Although she has never been privileged to have been a student body officer, Sandy has gained necessary experience to handle such an office through a large variety of leadership activities in high school, and here on campus, including snow princess, Dorion Sweetheart, Sophomore class secretary, President of AWS, and a member of the house standards committee.

Sandy would greatly appreciate the chance to serve her college and fellow students through the office of secretary. She will strive to put into this office all that she can to maintain the standards set forth by this year's administration.

If you want a girl sweet like Candy, vote for Sandy!

VAD KELSOE
Candidate for Secretary

There are specific duties set up for the position of Student Body Secretary, but primarily this job is a job of communcations:

—Communication between the student council and the student body.

—Communication between the student body and the faculty.

—Communication between Eastern Oregon and other colleges.

The duties of this office have been carried on excellently for the past two years and I think that politics of putting the minutes of each council meeting in the faculty boxes and of making a copy of these minutes available to each student should be continued. I believe, however, that a more effective and efficient means of notifying the members of the Student Council of the coming meetings could be worked out. It might also be possible to publish the student council minutes in the Beacon.

These items are the duties which I shall strive to uphold if elected your next year's secretary—to you, the students, I pledge my deepest sincerity, my sincere efforts and my lasting loyalty to such an honored position.

GOT THE BUG?

The flu bug is no has-been—but it's certainly evident that he has been here! And with the numbers lying flat on their backs in bed, this institution could well be called the Eastern Oregon Infirmary.

To curb and eventually eliminate "this little man around campus," EOC Nurse Osterholm requested that anyone feeling the sickness coming on please contact the health service immediately, follow the instructions given and stay down until instructed to return to classes.

It will be interesting to note how fast all this fervor about Student Government comes to a screeching halt after elections are over. If the usual holds true, the only ones who will continue their interest in Student Government will be the new officers. Not much fuss will even be made over them until they do something like passing a levi recommendations and then students will once more become aware of their student Council. What happens to all those enthusiastic campaign managers and their candidates after the top five are chosen? They seem to have exhibited a definite interest in Student Government during their campaign but few of them extend and prolong this interest after the ballot is cast. If these people and the rest of you as members of the student body would continue your interest in Student Body government the successful candidates would be less likely to forget their campaign promises and platforms. You can keep your council alert and effective simply by making it plain to them that you expect them to be just that.

Sabers Accept Five Pledges

by Carolyn Muller

As seems to be the custom, Sabers, like other organization on campus, have taken in new prospects for membership. This service organization has accepted five new pledges: Myrna Barreth, Tarry Clifton, Fisher, Johanna Hardwick, and Suzanne Switzer. Pledges are selected from petitions which are made available to all women who have a GPA of 2.50 or better and are interested in being of service to their college. The practice this year has been to take in new members each term, considering those women who have attended EOC at least two consecutive terms with the cumulative GPA given above.

After a specified observation period with individual consideration of each pledge's interest and service, these pledges are voted upon and if accepted, have the right to don the official uniform of the organization: navy blue skirt and sweater and white blazer, and take part in all activiites of the organization.

The most recent activity in which the Sabers and pledges will be participating will be the annual Marbecue Dinner held Saturday afternoon of Parents Weekend. These members can be seen in action at this time in their uniforms, with the pledges attired in navy blue skirts and white blouses.

In honor of the new pledges a Pledge Dinner Dance will be held Friday evening, May 1, in the small ballroom of the Sacajawea Hotel. This event will be only for the members, pledges and their dates.

Clifton, Welo Vie For Yell Leader

TARRY CLIFTON
Candidate for Yell Leader

My overall plan can be broken down into these three familiar letters E. O. C. The first letter is E. It stands for the effort I will put forth to make next year's rally squad an efficient and effective organization. I believe more people, both boys and girls, should try out for rally squad so our student body is assured of getting the best. To bring about larger try outs I propose to have the new students next year fill out cards stating if they have had any association with a previous rally squad. Then I would talk to those who had and encourage each of them to try out. While talking to them I would stress the fact that they would have to set aside time for our frequent practices. The second letter is "O" and stands for organization. This would include organized confusion in the Homecoming noise parade and more all-school pep asemblies. I feel if we had more pep assemblies, well-organized, the student body would become acquainted with the new short yells and feel more at east at games. The letter "C" stands for better communication between the rally squad and student council, the rally squad and the Rook Rally Rousers, and the rally squad and the student body. This is perhaps the biggest job for the rally leader and she would have to be a true leader to be succesful.

E—Effort
O—Organization
C—Communication

The main seam of my overall plan.

KOREN WELO
Candidate for Yell Leader

During the past school year, the school spirit of Eastern Oregon College has experienced a great lift. We have begun to function more as a whole. One of the reasons for this has been the improved caliber of our Rally Squad under the leadership of George Taylor.

My aim, if elected Rally Squad Leader, is to make an even better rally group—one with more precision, new ideas, and more spirit. To achieve this aim I would require that the members selected for the Rally Squad attend the frequent practices regularly and promptly, be at the games and rallies on time, and always keep their uniforms in top condition.

I also feel that the Rally Squad should be able to perform expertly at all times as it is one of our most influential ambassadors.

Oregon Tech Nips Mounts

The Mountaineers got off to a bad season start by losing the opening game of the Oregon Collegiate Conference 7-6 to OTI, last Friday. A costly two-run error in the sixth inning by shortstop Doug Minthorn allowed OTI to break a 5-5 tie and wrap up the game.

The lead changed hands twice during the game but the decision was made in the sixth. EOC was able to grab one more run in the seventh but was unable to muster any more help thereafter.

The Mountaineers have a three game series with the Owls before heading home. A doubleheader will be played on Saturday.

OTI	003 202 00x—7	9	3

Batteries: Miller and Coleman; Rasch and Wilson.

Mounties Wallop Missionaries, 11-2

Smashing 13 hits off two Whitman pitchers gave EOC an easy 11-2 victory over the Missionaries last week. Starting his first game for the Mounties, pitcher George Beeman allowed only two hits and one run in five innings. Veteran Rudy Clements was called in to relieve after Beeman hurt his arm on a throw to first base.

After racking up an 8-0 lead in the first three innings it was a no-contest game from then on. It was in the third inning that the Mountaineers took command by shooting six runs across home plate.

AWS Women Meet Seniors

Sandy Thompson, Janie Bell and Mrs. Dorothy Winters, Dean of Women, traveled to Milwaukie last week-end to attend a tea at the home of Janie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Bell. Given for high school seniors and their parents, the tea was for the purpose of encouraging the girls to attend college. Mrs. Winters gave an informal talk on college life in general and that at EOC in particular. A discussion period followed during which Sandy, president of the Associated Women Students at EOC, and Janie answered questions of the girls and their parents.

Wellington Versus Woodside For EO Business Manager

WOODSIDE
Candidate for Business Manager

There is definite progress on this campus. We're going to need a Business Manager who will be aware of this progress and is able to handle Student Body funds in a realistic manner.

It's my belief that we as a Student Body should get the most for our money. When there is an activity that is good for our campus we should use our money to secure it. In other words, if we have the money to spend we should find the best things to spend it on and get our money's worth. I am not a believer in letting money set idle. On the other hand, I do think student body funds should be for the benefit of the whole student body. So I urge you to vote for a common sense plan of progress. Let's spend our money but let's do it with the benefit of the student in mind. My program is one of progress—progress that is both realistic and practical.

VIRGINIA WELLINGTON
Candidate for Business aMnager

Business Manager is the student body office that entails the most work with the least glory. Fall term $2,900 came in from student fees, a yearly income of almost $10,000, all of which the business manager has to account for and allocate to various activities. This is one job that IS a job, not just glory. We need a Business Manager who is willing to work for our benefit. Virignia Wellington is a girl who is used to workng. She has worked and managed her own money since she was a sophomore in high school. At present she is working part-time for the Music Department and Saturdays at The Town House trying to put herself through school. You may well ask, "Does she have the time to give to the office?" Our candidate is a good student; she has G.P.A. Accum. of 3.4, showing she budgets her time well. Virginia is an active girl, belonging to Sabers, Sigma Alpha Chi, Band, and Orchestra, and is now working as Registration chairman for Parents' Weekend.

Virginia's platform is built around better communication between students and student government concerning business matters. As she said in her speech, you should be concerned how the A.S.B. money is spent because that is your money. Her plan is to require each council member to discuss the issues, particularly money matters, with ten persons not on student council and not personal friends of theirs. This way, new ideas can be presented at council so that the council can do what you want done with your money. Virginia has a sound plan, one that will work. Simply inviting and urging students to attend council has not worked, the council s going to have to go out and ask for help.

Every year the budget needs reorganizing—one activity needs more money, another needs less. This is something that will have to be done with great thought later when the figures for this year are in and an overall picture of the needs can be studied. One problem that definitely needs to be worked out is the Civic Music budget. Under the present system a percentage of the total amount taken in is given to the Civic Music Association to help them bring better artists here. This was originally a fine plan, bringing culture to our campus that the A.S.B. could not have afforded. Now, a very few students attend the concerts so our money is being poorly used. This problem will have to be handled directly through the Civic Music Association and with great diplomacy to retain good relations between the school and the town. Virginia has a plan to ask them for 50 minute programs given by these artists during assembly hour here on our campus so more students will be able to attend. A coordinating committee will have to be set up between our assembly committee and their artists committee to prevent duplications like happened this year with two great piano artists here within a short period of time.

Hello, Mom and Dad

EOC PARENTS' WEEKEND

Final plans for the Eastern Oregon College two-day program honoring visiting parents are checked by student co-chairmen Betty Johnson (center), Portland, and Don Cole (right), Baker, with Parents' Club president, Robert Oesterling, La Grande. The festivities get underway at 10 a.m. Saturday. (EOC Photo)

Campus Building Approved

Final legiclative action Wednesday included a $155,000 appropriation for an addition to Hoke Hall on the Eastern Oregon College campus. The sum is a portion of the $10,062,000.00 approved by the legislature for the higher education building program.

Preparation for final plans for the Hoke addition are underway and it is anticipated that the addition will be ready for use in the Fall of 1960.

Preliminary plans which were approved by the State Board of Higher Education indicated the addition will be attached to the south side of the present structure and will be one-story with the basement having a total square foot area of 9,224 square feet.

This area will include two general classrooms, one engineering drawing room, one biology classroom-laboratory combination, a greenhouse annex, and additional facilities for student activities. The addition would double the present first-floor lounge area.

Included in the plans are provisions to improve present facilities such as the bookstore, dining room, and kitchen. Renovation will include the building's music practice rooms, ventilation, lighting, and correct doorways to meet fire exit requirements.

Cost of the project is estimated at $180,000, with $25,000 of the total being provided from EOC's building reserve.

Once again its time for Parents' Weekend at EOC. This annual event draws more visitors to our campus than almost any other single event. Letters and invitations have ben sent to all parents of students and replys are coming in daily. This year's crowd is expected to be the largest in the history of EOC.

Plans have been in the offing since early Winter term by co-chairmen Betty Johnson and Don Cole. The program this year will be centered around a western theme and all students are requested to wear western garb to the Bar-B-Q on Saturday afternoon. The registration line with Ginny Wellington as committee head will be open from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday for registration of all parents and a central location to obtain tickets to all the events. A coffee hour from 10-12 on Saturday will be held in the library basement. A historic exhibit will be featured as well as an art exhibit. Three luncheons are on the program for Saturday. The band will give a special luncheon for their parents and it will be held in Hoke Hall; Sigma Alpha Chi and Theta Wlta Phi will hold their luncheon in Dorion Hall; all other dorm students and their parents will eat in Hunt Hall. The band and choir will give a combined concert at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday in the college theater. A baseball game between SO Cand EOC will be play-at 10 a. m. The annual Barbicue will be held on the football field from 4:30-6 p.m. The serving will be done by Sabers and the IK's will help in the preparation of the meat and setting up the tables, etc. Entertainment at the annual affair this year will exceed that of any other year in the history of EOC. Besides local campus talent several town groups have been notified. A beard contest for men will be held. Following the play a coffee hour will be held in Hunt Hall for all parents, students, and guests. Sunday morning at 7 a.m. a church service will be held on campus, outdoors near the ranch bell. Rev. O. Rex Lindamood from Baker, will be our guest speaker

Bev Donovan, junior from Pendleton, has been named EOC student body president for next year. She is the third woman in the 29-year history of the college to be named president.

Members Taken By Women'sHonorary

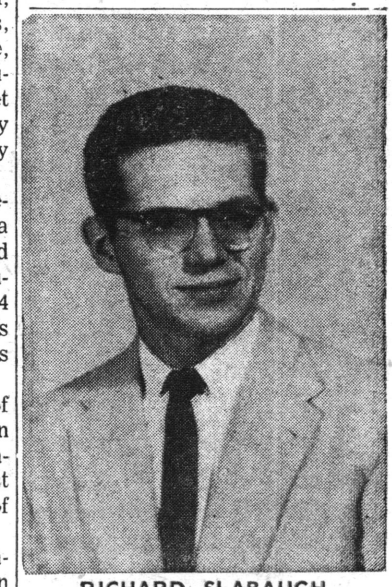
At a recent meeting of Sigma Apha Chi the following were voted to be accepted as members of this scholastic organization for women: Yevonne Bannister, Mary Bray, Nancy Choat, Phyllis Collins, Jean Cuthbert, Janette Egg, Frederika Evans, Beverly Ferguson, Daisy Good, Joyce Kaye, Janet Lundgren, Lenora Mitchell, Valene Mitchel, Sharon Noyes, Barbara Paris, Theresa Rauwolf, Pat Reinecke, Eloise Reynolds, Carol Jean Rudishauser, Suzanne Switzer, Janet Wakefiled, Luessa Willard, Beverly Woolhiser, Jean Damon, and Terry Clifton.

Some of the quafications for becoming a member of Sigma Alpha Chi are that a woman has earned a 3.0 or above for two consecutive terms with a minimum of 14 hours each term and that she has completed two consecutive terms of residence at EOC.

The exact date of initiation of these new members has not been determined as yet, but the initiation will be held either the last part of April or the first week of May.

The main event for the organization at this time is preparation for the annual luncheon given during Parents Weekend, in cooperation with Theta Delta Phi, the Men's scholastic honorary. This year the luncheon will be held in Dorion Hall Dining Room for all members of the two organizations and their parents, Saturday, May 9, at noon. The meal will be served by members of the two organizations whose parents are unable to attend the campus festivities that weekend.

Another activity which Sigma Alpha Chi is planning to do is to held in developing further the Cultural Hour which is in its trial period on campus at the present. Although there has only been one such Hour held thus far, that concerning the development of jazz, it is believed that it can be built into an enjoyable and informative activity for EOC.



New Officers Attend Meet

Two of the newly elected ASB officers, Bev Donovan, president, and Don Shore, second vice president, have been in Reno, Nevada this week, attending the annual Pacific Student Presidents' Association Conference. Held on the Univrsity of Nevada campus, the conference began May 6 and ended the 9th. Student leaders from campuses of the 11 western states, Alaska, British Columbia and New Mexico attended the meet.

The purpose of the PSPA is to aid in the orientation of the new presidents on their forthcoming obligations. This is accomplished through panel discussions which cover every phase of student government. In the informal atmosphere, leaders are also encouraged to exchange ideas, discuss common difficulties prevalent on other campuses, and become personally acquainted with the student leaders of neighboring campuses.

The panel discussions are led by past officers. These are devoted to the practical aspects of executive problems, the running of an office, the use of committees, methods of leadership, planning of a yearly program, the responsibility of student government and the potential of this body of student leaders.

RICHARD SLABAUGH

Former EOC Student Earns Assistantship

Richard Slabaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn W. Slabaugh of La Grande, and former Eastern Oregon College student, has been awarded an assistantship in physics at the University of Wisconsin, according to information received Monday.

Richard will receive his degree from Manchester College (Indiana) in June. The assistantship, for the 1959-60 academic year, provides a grant of $1,875.

Following graduation in June, Richard will be employed at the Argonne National Laboratories until the beginning of the Fall term at the University of Wisconsin.

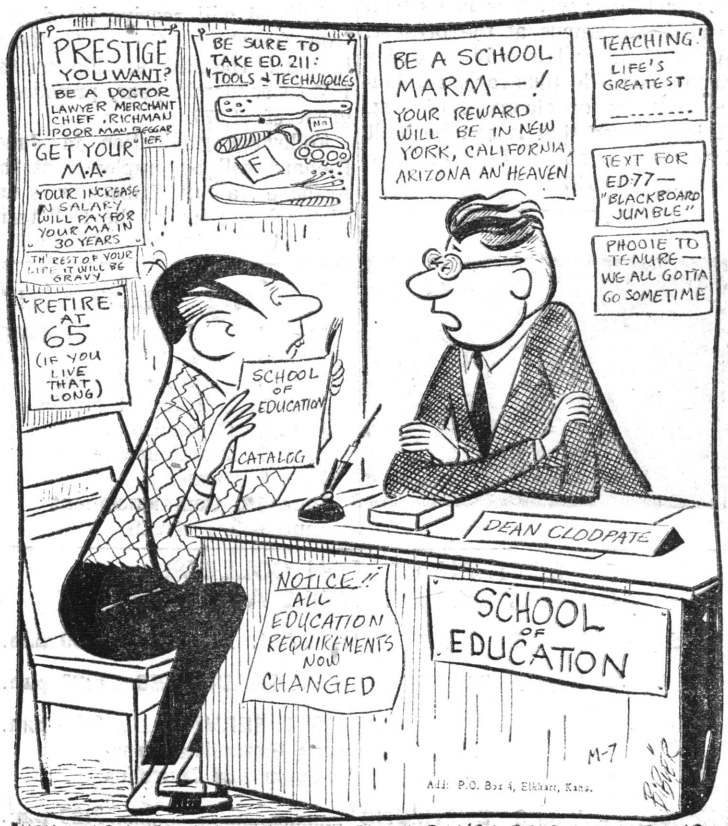
Evensong

By Jean Hunter



The first Evensong practice was held last Wednesday with what was probably the best turn-out of students in many a year. The freshmen were especially strong but the juniors and sophomores are going to have to dig up a few more songbirds in order to hold their own. It's rather paradoxical that the biggest turn-out should be from the class that has had the least experience with and know the least about the Evensong ceremony. Or is it so paradoxical? It would seem that if the Student Body as a whole really does want to continue the Evensong tradition, the strongest support would come from the upperclassmen.

Dr. Bishop's plan for a successful ceremony this year centers around the participation of 90 freshmen, 70 sophomores, and 66 juniors. The Evensong script is being revised and the selection of songs is being altered, but unless each class fills its quota of participants we may as well kiss one of EOC's few real traditions goodbye.

When the members of the Music Department presented their petition for dropping this tradition to the Student Council, the members of the council strongly recommended that the ceremony not only be continued but that it could be greatly improved. This recommendation was made by a council that felt it was truly representing members of the student body. Perhaps they were mistaken.

Or maybe the problems lie in the fact that everyone wants Evensong continued but they just can't take the time to help make it successful. Whatever the case may be, the success of the Evensong ceremony this year will be the factor that determines its continuance or discontinuance next year.

Dorion Doodles

By JEAN HUNTER

Missing phone duty in the past has always resulted in a one-dollar fine but things have gotten tougher this year. (Just ask Sue Ann Johnson and Janette Egg.) suspecting girl misses her phone duty requires the freshman gals to fill out "trade slips" when they exchange phone duties, but even worse is the part of the rule that results in a campus if any unsuspecting girls mises her phone duty without arranging for someone else to take it. Sure is nice to be a junior!

Election of new house officers were held Monday night in Dorion and the results were announced Wednesday night at a dinner honoring old and new officers. Dorion's new president, Carolyn Muller, will be ably assisted next year by vice-president Johanna Hardwick, secretary Darlene DeSouza, and treasurer Eloise Reynolds. New Standards Committee members are Judy Lutz and Jan Frank, seniors; Ardyce Garrett and Connie Baker, juniors; and Pat Page and Reba Carter, sophomores. Counselors for next year were also announced at dinner. They are Carolyn Muller, Sylvia Thompson, and Sandy Thompson. What does the head resident think of our selections? Says Mrs. B., "They are a wonderful group of girls who will do a grand job. In fact all of the candidates were very good."

The place is abounding with animals! Chipmunks, squirrels, guinea pigs, and many other furry fiends can be found on almost every floor as the frosh segment of the hall frantically prepare their biology projects for Parents' Weekend. The really big surprise in all this preparation came a few weeks ago when Brenda Guyll's chipmunk, Alvin, presented her with fixe scrawny little offspring. What a disappointment find that baby chipmunks are born bald.

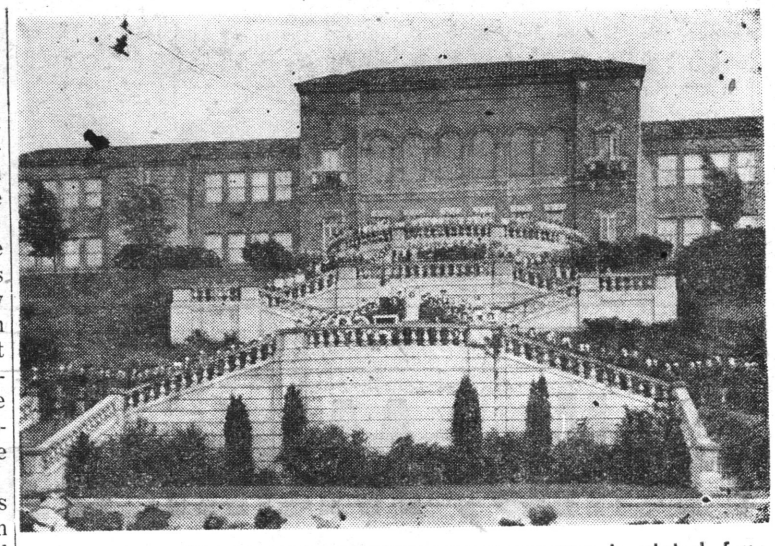
There's a strange ailment appearing among the future grlades of '59 called "senioritis." What with contracts signed and jobs secured the mighty seniors have that feeling of "what's the use" as far as class attendance and assignment go. Must be rough! !

Council Corner

By SANDY THOMPSON

What is happenng in Student Council?

1. May 1, 1957 marked the beginning of a new year with new officers in the council chairs. Already plans are being made for further improvements in our campus government. Bev Donovan and Don Shore have gone to Reno, Navada, for the annual PSPA Conference where they will be in contact with other schools our size with similar prablems. Here our specific concerns will be submitted and new ideas will be brought to us.



2. Evensong has finally gotten on its feet after much controversy. The class officers have circulated petitions for active participation and the practices have been scheduled.

3. As for Parents Wekend, it was urged by the committee that the EOC students wear centennial apparrell during the weekend activities.

4. Regular office hours in the ASB office are being arranged so any student of EOC may drop in to offer suggestions, opinions or simply state their gripes."

The Student Council also extends an invitation to all EOC students who wish to attend the regular meetings. Student opinions and ideas would be welcomed. The Student Council is proud, however, to state that several visitors were present at the first Student Council meeting with our new President presiding.

One cart-pushing husband to another: "I estimate the cost per mile to operate one of these things is around $300!"—(The Reader's Digest)

EVENSONG—The traditional Evensong ceremony is slated for Monday, June 8, at 7:30 p.m. The colorful pageant marks the official beginning of Commencement activities.

A Story . .

Progressive Education

By the "Cove Sheephered"

In a few months I will make my debut as a teacher of our nation's youth. As a typical disciple of the late John Dewey, it will be my duty to channel the urges and inclinations of youth into their proper and most productive outlets. I feel my education has left me qualified to do this with marked efficiency. Early in my career as a student I decided to become well grounded in educational theory so that I would never have to rely on knowledge of subject matter and common sense. One need only look at my college curricula to see that my qualifications are above reproach.

I've studied thoroughly Child Psychology, from Conception to Age Thirty-four; Group Dynamics at the Pre-School Level; Retarded Pupil Excitation; Emotional Insecurity of the Child, Age 2 to 3½; Common and Advanced Nueroses Found in Children Under 4' 8"; Methods of Combatting Thumb-Sucking Among Junior High students; and many more equally important courses.

The wealth of knowledge I've acquired from these courses can not be measured in dollars and cents. Only in their practical application in the teaching field can their true value be assessed.

I've learned among other things that a child crawls before he creeps. This phenomenon takes place in the mother's womb before birth.

I'm fully aware that thumb-sucking among the high-school set is merely a normal emotional outlet common among children who desire attention.

I know also, that since the attention span of a 17-year-old is only 34.8 seconds, one should never lecture to students. It is unimportant that we should teach a student to listen and to think. Rather we should always try to find meaningful situations in which pupils can express their felt needs.

These theories are meaningless unless you can apply them. I would like to illustrate two important theories by their use in practical situations.

The Group Dynamics theory has many practical applications. Say, for instance, your English class seems uninterested in what is being taught, don't ever insist that they start paying attention. All you have to do is find out what they wish to do and do it. In this way, you will be encouraging pupil participation. Perhaps instead of English they want to throw spit-wads. By referring to your Group Dynamics theory, you will be able to organize the class into groups of equal number and firepower and let them shoot until their spit goes dry.

As an additional incentive you can organize the girls in groups to prepare the wads. They can then give them to the boy of their choice. In this way you will be planting the seed of future boy-girl ralationships and in doing so better prepare the pupils for the give and take aspects of married life.

Perhaps the cardinal theory for teachers is that hallowed maxim "find meaningful situations in which pupils can express their felt needs." This theory can be readily applied in a working situation in ninth grade Geography.

You may find Johnny busily carving obscene pictures in his desk top with a switch blade knife. Don't take his knife away and send him to the office as common sense might dictate. After all he is showing industry and to thwart his desire will undoubtedly result in many hours under a psychiatrist's care in later life. You should suggest that, instead of carving obscene pictures, he should carve a globe showing the paths of the westerly winds. Learning will take place and the chances of his becoming emotionally disturbed will become practically nil.

I could go on for hours telling of the wonders of educational theory, but you can surely see with the illustrations I have given, why I feel Progressive Education is so vital to our country's future.

EOC Coeds To Vie For Queen Title

Five EOC coeds will be competing during the next week for queen of the Eastern Oregon Intercollegiate Rodeo to be held May 16 and 17 on the Pendleton Round-up grounds. Candiidates are Lynda Ferris, Pendleton, Joanne Berryman, La Grande, Bunny Moyer, Hermiston, Judy Begely, Joseph, and Kay Sherer, Ione.

The rodeo is being held in conjunction with the Oregon Centennial and is sponsored by the EOC Roedo Club and the Pendleton Mustangers. Colleges from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, California, and Colorado will be competing for NIRA points and awards during the two day show.

Princess Kay is a member of the Heppner Wranglers and has been riding since she was five. She will be riding her quarter-horse Rocket.

Princess Lynda is a 1959 Pendleton Round-up princess and an active member of the Mustanger riding club. She will be mounted on her sorrel quarterhorse Rusty L. which she has broken herself.

Princess Judy was on the Chief Joseph Days court in 1958. As every horsewoman, she enjoys riding in her spare time.

Princess Bunny was on the Spray Rodeo court in 1958. Bunny will ride her three-year-old quarterhorse Cliquot B. which she broke and trained herself.

Princess Joanne was on the Elgin Stampede court and was a princess of the Union Stock Show. Joanne spends all of her spare time working with her horses and practicing trick roping.

Saturday Results

Southern Oregon 4-4, Portland State 3-1

Oregon College 3-14-5, Eastern Oregon 2-1-6

Eastern Oregon won one of three Oregon Collegiate Conference games from Oregon College here Saturday to hang onto their chances of ending the league season in second spot in the loop.

The Wolves nipped the Mounties 3-2 in the first game, whalloped Coach Bob Quinn's crew 14-1 in the second but the Mountaineers came back to win the third and last game, 6-5.

Southern Oregon took the 1959 OCC baseball crown as they swept a three-game series from Portland State. The Vikings dropped from second place in the loop to fourth as a result of the losses.

In the first game of the seven hours of baseball here—often interrupted by rain—hurler John Willmarth held the Wolves to four hits in seven innings—but lost his own ball game as he overthrew home attempting to put out the tieing run. A second run also scored on the error giving the Wolves the game in the last of the final inning, and with two out.

EOC was leading 2-1 going into the last frame. Done Pillar, OCE second baseman, blasted a single and Terry Smith reached first on an error by shortstop Doug Minthorn. Gilbert, a pinch-hitter, layed down a bunt, Willmarth scooped it up but overthrew to catcher Paul Schaffeld allowing the two runs to come in.

In the second tussle OCE batters jumped on EOC Pitcher Satch Miller for eight runs before he was relieved in the fifth by George Beeman. Dick Murrell clobbered a triple in the seventh for the Mounts and came in to score their only run when the first baseman dropped a ball hit by Larry Coleman. Antonson, OCE shortstop, hit a homer, triple, double and single for the visitors.

In the third game the Mounties scored two in the third and one each in the fifth and sixth, then came from behind with two in the seventh to win the game.

They were leading 4-2 going into the seventih inning but the Wolves scored three runs to take a 5-4 lead with two of the runs coming on an outfield error. However, the Mounties scored two in their half of the seventh when left-fielder Lenen dropped a hard-hit fly ball, by Paul Schaffeld, who was pinch-hitting for the Mounts. Mel Holmes who had singled, and Frank Chase, who was on base on an error, came in to win the ball game for OCE.

Mel Holmes led EOC batters in the three games with five hits, including a double.

Alum Wm. J. Dittrich Gets Fellowship

William J. Dittrich, assistant professor of physics at Western Washington College has received an Atomic Energy Commission fellowship for a years study at the University of Washington.

Dittrich, a former student at EOC, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Dittrich of La Grande.

He received his bachelor's degree in 1948 and his masters in 1951 from the University of Washington.

Science Projects Now On Display

It's spring again, and it has been noticed that many students are collecting specimens—everything from skulls to chicken embryoes. This busy scurrying around and over our local mountains and fields is due to the coming Biology exhibits to be held May 11-15. These projects will be placed in the basement of the library and Hoke Hall, room 2.

The entire organization of the program has been planned and supervised by a student stearing committee under the general chairmanship of Bob Miller.

Outstanding features of the displays include an Armadillo, Kangaroo Rats, aquariums, bee and ant colonies, plus a varied assortment of animal and plant ilfe.

Honor Society Taps 37 Men

Thirty-seven men students of EOC have been tapped by the campus scholastic honorary for men. Theta Delta Phi. The initiation for these men will be held May 29, at 7 p.m. in Hoke Hall. They will be initiated by the present officers of the group: President Dick Arends; vice president, Norm Nelson; Secretary John Trigg; Treasurer Sam Ledridge; and Historian Les Edwards. Dr. Lee Johnson and Dr. Joseph Gaiser are advisors.

The informal initiation (personal philosophy) portion is being tried this term as an experiment to see how it will work on the roup. (It has been tried by the chapters at Portland Sate, Southern Oregon, and Oregon College before.) The intention is to get the initiates to think while they are writing their philosophy and to allow the members and the initiates to become better acquainted with each other during the short question and answer period after the oral presentation of each philosophy.

After the initiation the entire body, including initiates, will elect officers for the coming year. Next year will be an important year for Gamma Chapter because the national convention of Theta Delta Phi will be held on the EOC campus next fall.

Hunt Dinner Dance Features Rhodes Lewis

Friday evening, May 15 at 6:30 p.m. the flower-laden Hunt Hall dining room hosted Hunt boys and their guests for steak dinner and dancing.

The four-course dinner was served between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. after which an open-house was held. Dancing to music by Rhodes Lewis was enjoyed by those in attendance. The featured theme of springtime "Panorama" was carried out in flowers which were to be found throughout the room and was highlighted by flowers given to each woman attending.

Chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mr. Howard Wilson, Miss Chris Nicoloff and Mrs. Tollefson.

Today Is The Day!

Today is the day of the All-Sshool Picnic at Cove. The picnic will start any time after 1:00 in the afternoon. Classes will not be dismissed, but students may leave just as soon as their classes are over.

Each student will bring his own sack lunch. Dorm students will have theirs made for them and may pick them up at the dorm. Ice cream, cake, punch and coffee will be provided at Cove. There will be games played there such as volley ball, horseshoes, and soft ball. There will, of course, be swimming at the regular price.

The picnic will be followed by a movie, "Giant." at 7:00.

Art Group Election Names Millie Smith

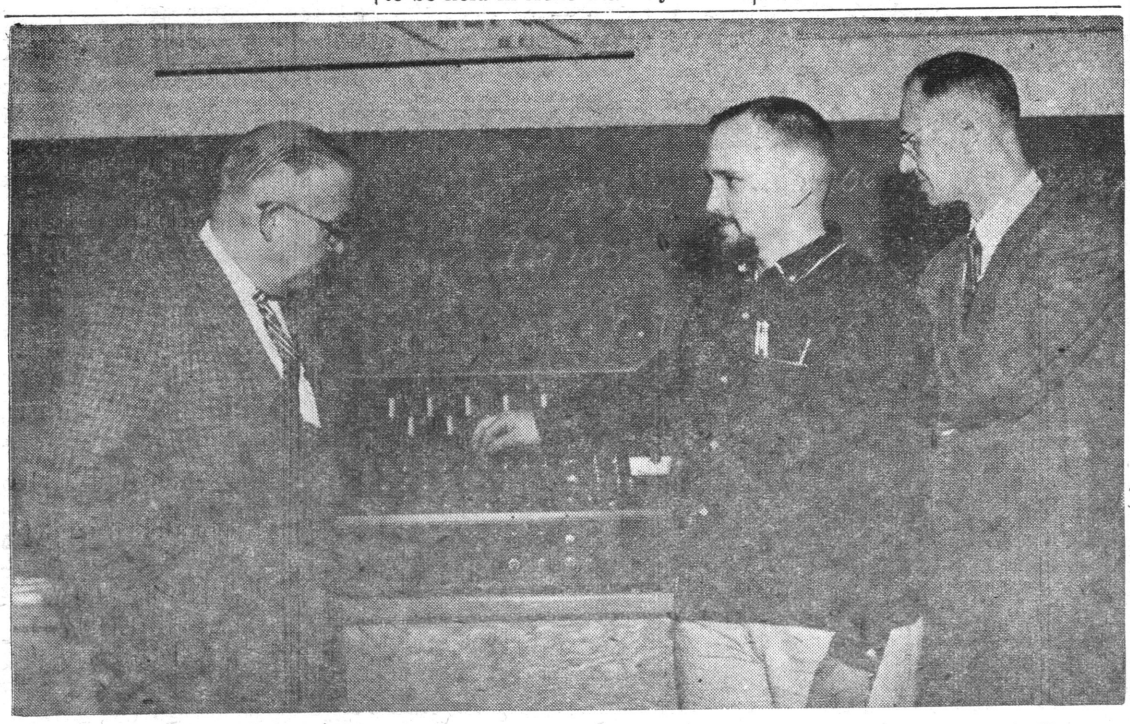
Wednesday evening, May 6, Alpha Rho Tau members met and elected their new officers for the coming year. They are as follows: Millie Smith, President; Bill Carlson, Vice President; Pat Blackburn, Secretary-Treasurer; Pat Ward and Susan Sherrich, members at large.

Pictures for the annual were taken. A discussion of the coronation Ball decorations took place. In charge of it are Bob Lyons and Bill Carlson, co-chairmen, Denny Evans, materials. It is scheduled to be held in Ackerman Gym.

1959-60 Counselors Named For Dorms

The dorm counselors for the coming year 1959-1960 were recently announced by the Registrar's office. The policy of having three student counselors in each dormitory was enacted this past year and found to be very successful.

Dorion Hall counselors for the 1959-1950 years are Sylvia Thompson, Carolyn Muller and Sandi Thompson. Sylvia is a Junior majoring in elementary edcation, Carolyn is also a junior majoring in elementary education. Sandi is a sophomore majoring in elementary education.



Counselors for Hunt Hall are Dennis Godsil, Seymour Baybrook, and Don Cole. Dennis is a Junior majoring in secondary education and is from Portland. Seymour who is from Hawaii, is also a junior majoring in secondary education. Don, from Baker, is in elementary education.

Kane Selected SOEA Prexy

Linda Kane, junior in elementary education from Mosier, Oregon, will be president of the campus Student Oregon Education Association next year. Assisting her will be the newly elected Vice President, Jack Wood; Secretary Kay Bandurant; Treasurer Mary Gray; and Historian Pat Ward.

Linda is also the secretary of the state organization of SOEA this year. Her installation as local president and also the installation of the other officers is planned for the June meeting. Officers for this year have been: president, Myron Carpenter; vice president, Jean Edmison; secretary-treasurer, Roberta Lyons; and historian, Susan Peterson.

SOEA members are encourge to attend the June 2 meeting, which will be a picnic. This will be held from 5 to 7 p.m., location to be announced later. Plans for next year's meetings will also be made. Dr. Martha Addy is the faculty advisor of the organization.

AWARDED $500 SCHOLARSHIP—David Skeen (center), Eastern Oregon College sophomore from La Grande, has been awarded the $500 Inland Machinery Co. scholarship for 1959-60. At left, Robert R. Carey, president of Inland Machinery Co. of La Grande, and Dr. Ralph Badgley, EOC science professor, watch as David explains the electronic computer he is helping to construct. He is majoring in math-science at EOC and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy L. Skeen, La Grande. (EOC Photo)

Wednesday's 10 a.m. Assembly To Present '59 Evensong Court

At the 10 o'clock assembly hour this Wednesday, May 27, seven senior women will be presented to the student body for selection of the 1959 Evensong Queen.

These seven girls, selected by a student-faculty committee, are judged upon scholastic standards, service to EOC, character, poise and personality. One will be elected the Queen of Knowledge by those members of the ASB in attendance. This queen will be crowned at the Coronation Ball June 5. This is the official opening of the Commencement Week Activities. It will be held in the Coliseum.

On Sunday, June 7, the annual Graduates Breakfast will be held in Hoke Hall at 8 a.m. Three o'clock p.m. that same day the Baccalaureate Service will be held in the College Theatre. The faculty will wear academic regalia at this service.

Monday evening, June 8, at 7:30 p.m. the traditional Evensong will take place on the Grand Stairway. Members of each of the four classes at EOC will participate. Instrumental music this year will be presented by the members of the EOC Music Department rather than persons in the local orchestra.

On Friday, June 12, at 10 o'clock a.m., Commencement Exercises will be held in the College Theater.

Piano Students Give Recital

Students of E. Lyle McMullen, associate professor of piano at Eastern Oregon College presented a recital Tuesday night in the EOC auditorium. The program, to which the public was invited, was one of a series to be presented by the department of music this Spring.

Participants at the college level were Erma Puls, Union; Daisy Good, Elgin; Barbara Horn, Nyssa; and Shari Westenskow, Union. High school pianists were Warren Good, senior, Elgin; Jeanne Brechan, junior, Joseph; Pamela Sanderson, junior, La Grande; and Elizabeth Easley, sophomore, La Grande.

Featured in the recital were classic, romantic, and contemporary piano literature.

EOC Students Attend Annual Demonstration

Approximately 150 students from Eastern Oregon College attended the annual "Operation Pulaski' field demonstration trip recently. The outing was held at the Old Pioneer Campground, 10 miles west of La Grande on Highway 30. The students under the direction of Dr. Ernest Anderson, Dr. Charles Quaintance, and Byron Lippert, all of the EOC biology staff, attended a series of outdoor demonstration classes.

Demonstrations were conducted by U. S. Forest Service personnel under the direction of Ranger John Wick of the La Grande District. Other instructors included Tom Schmeckpeper, George Bercheid, Elbur Thomas, Oral Bristow, and Jon Skovlin of the Blue Mt. Researeh Center.

The students were given instructions along with a chance for actual participation in tree planting, pruning and tree measurement along with talks in range management, timber stand improvement, nature study and resource management.

Off-Campus Group Elects New Officers

Candidates for the positions of Off-Campus Representatives on Student Council next year, voted on this week included:

Eocene Courts: Lyle Endicott.

Off-Campus Students: Women—Sara Workman, JoAnn Berryman, Gwen Calvert, Barbara Wheeler, and Karen Welo; Men — Dave Skeen, Floyd Cline, and John Hall.

One representative from each of these divisions will be elected for one year's term in office.

"Gioconda Smile" Saturday Night

"Gioconda Smile," a reading play, will be presented by EOC under the direction of Dr. Alvin Kaiser on Saturday, May 23 at 8:00 p.m. in the college auditorium. This murder-mystery, concerning the death of Henry Hutton's wife, is a different type of play.

There will be some attempt at staging for audience understanding, but the actors will appear as readers and not in costume.

The name, "Gioconda Smile," comes from the portrait of the Mona Lisa by Leonardo da Vinci. Lisa was the beautiful wife of the Duke of Gioconda and with his permission, she posed for de Vinci's painting. Mona means Madame in Italian, so the portrait has one name, "Mona Lisa." But the haunting and subtle smile still lasted, thus giving it the name "Gioconda Smile."

Aldous Huxley used here as his main character a woman who had a Gioconda smile. He is never quite certain of the kind of person she is. Huxley has written all types of literature. He is famous for his novel, "The Brave New World." This play, "Gioconda Smile," originally written as a short story, was transformed by Huxley.

EOC Professors Give Addresses

Spring graduation ceremonies get into full swing this week with several Eastern Oregon College staff members slated for commencement addresses.

The schedule includes Dr. Frank B. Bennett, May 19—Pine Valley, Halfway; 20—Joseph; 25—Irrigon; 26—Weston; 27—Cove; 28—Imbler; 29— McMinnville; 31— Eastern Washington College, Cheney; June 2—La Grande; and 4—Lebanon.

Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, May 22—Umatilla; 29—John Day. Howard Anderson, May 20—Lostine; 21—Spray; 29—Long Creek. Richard Hiatt, May 20—Monument; 28—Boardman. Dr. Lee Johnson, May 28—Elgin. Dr. Ernest Anderson, May 27—Union. Harold Dorn, May 20— North Powder.

Sarah Stein Elected President Of Group

Dr. Sarah C. Stein, associate professor of secretarial science at Eastern Oregon College, has been elected president of the campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Other newly elected chapter officers include Harold Dorn, vice president; Dr. Mary Jane Loso, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Charles Quaintance, Dr. Mary Davison, and Alene Gossage, members-at-large to the executive committee.

A Debt To Be Paid

As this term draws to a close, one cannot help but look back upon this year and wonder at all the numerous things one year could hold. For the Freshmen this has been an experience not quite like any other they will ever have—they are on their own now, after three terms of glorious individual freedom; of worry about the thousand things a student may worry about; and of anticipation of the new doors of life constantly opening.

For Seniors this is an ending and a beginning at the same time. There is perhaps reluctance to leave this way of life, but the future is new and unknown—it must be explored, whatever it may hold.

For the rest of us this has been a year also filled with these things, wonder, worry anticipation, success and ambition.

All of us, no matter what our fields, our interests, our backgrounds, have a debt to this college on the hill. There surely is not one who can truthfully say that he has not gained something good here.

One of the most special ways we pay this tribute each year is in the presentation of the Evensong Ceremony. This is held in honor of our Queen of Knowledge, yes; but she stands for those same principles upon which Eastern Oregon College was founded. We owe a tribute, let's pay it!

Recognition Given

An Awards Assembly was held Wednesday to give recog nition to those students on campus whose efforts have been outstanding in campus activities and whose work for EOC has been above the call of responsibility. Of our student body these few were given the credit due them; we must also remember that for every person called forward there were probably ten who were behind that success, or had a success of their own and went unmentioned.

This is the first year for an Awards Assembly and it was well received. It is the hope that this will grow and increase in its scope each year, and that as it does this, more of the deserving members of our membership here, faculty as well as students, will be honored.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

In regards to the Progressive Education Story in the May 8th issue of the Beacon. . . I thoroughly enjoyed the humor in the story and hope that it becomes the policy of the Beacon to print more "Vincent" type stories in the future. To be sure, the story was exaggerated but it brought out several points that I feel all future teachers in this college should think about and in doing so ponder over their own attitudes toward the profession that in a few years they will be able to call their own. Since I am majoring in Secondary Education this letter will deal with that area and at the risk of being labeled old-fashioned I have the following comments to make:

Why is the present attitude one that places so much stress on the idea that all material presented to the student must be presented in an interesting and entertaining manner? I am in complete agreement with the basic idea but not, and I repeat not, at the expense of the material to be taught. I realize the idea behind it is to make learning easier but just why should learning be made easy for the student? Why should he be led to believe that the only time to learn is when something is easy, for it stands to reason that when he runs up against a tough nut to crack he will be unprepared and will probably ignore the problem.

I maintain that the true process of learning has never been nor ever will be easy regardless of whether one is learning English grammar, multiplication tables, the various sciences, driving a car, or baking a cake. The student is in the classroom, willingly or unwillingly as the case may be, to gain a certain amount of factual and theoretical knowledge and it is the job of the teacher who we hope is there willingly to try and impart this knowledge to the student.

If the student finds that learning in itself is not entertaining enough I feel sorry for him but as a teacher I don't feel it is my duty to amuse him as I feel he gets more than enough amusement from TV, movies and other entertainment media. If I felt it was a teacher's job to entertain I would go to an actor's studio instead of a teacher's college.

I feel this is a good time to bring up the subject of what I call "frilly" courses. I feel that if these courses were eliminated from the curriculum then perhaps the student would have the time to get in the language, science and history courses that he is now bypassing.

First of all, I don't believe that driver's training belongs in the school. I believe that it should be taught in the home and if the parents are not capable then let the students go to a licensed driver's school on his own time and not on the school's time.

For about the same reasons I feel that such courses as shop, home economics, social dancing and other sugh garbage courses do not belong in the school. Let these things which have merit to some degree be taught outside of school time if the student and his parents feel that they are worthy of outside time. As for the classes that teach one to adjust socially and how to "get along" I'll never be convinced that that can be learned from books. To my way of thinking one learns to adjust to life by living it and part of that adjusting, most of it, in fact, is getting out in life and letting life hit you in the face a few times. This won't usually happen till after high school days are long gone and it's only when it does happen that you learn to duck and roll with the punches, not out of books or hearing lectures.

This is rough, and true, one might develop a few complexes in the process but so what . . . It's the complexity of life that makes life interesting and I would much rather be in a society of individuals who have their little neuroses rather than in a society of empty headed, well adjusted people living in a state of "togetherness." We might as well let the student know that there are problems in life as well as in books and that he might as well get adjusted to the fact that he more than likely will never become completely "adjusted."

So I make a motion that less attention be paid to the "thumb sucking of Junior High School Students," less attention be paid to the traumas, neuroses, ids, libidos and the like and more emphasis be placed on the teaching of the three r's. Let's let the driver's schools teach driving, the mothers beking, the fathers corpentry; let the psychiatrists cure the mental disorders and last but certainly not least, let's let the teachers teach!

John H. Hall.

IK NEWS

Delegates of the local "Mountaineer" IK chapter attended the regional IK convention in Cheeney, Washington on the campus of Eastern Washington College of Education. At this April 17, Saturday conference, all the chapters of the region were represent in group discussions of Constitutional changes and budget revisions for the National organization.

The EOC "Mountaineer" chapter was awarded a plaque as "Outstanding chapter for efficiency in this region."

Judi Thompson, EOC's IK Sweetheart, competed in the regional IK Sweetheart contest.

Those delegates attending were Moe Chester, Duke, and Leon Severin.

Spending Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday on the Eastern Montana College of Education campus at the National IK convention were Moe Chester and Leon Severin. Highlights of the conferences for the Eastern Oregon College delgates was the presentation of the "efficiency" trophy which the local "Mountaineer' chapter won at the earlier Region convention.

Conferences, group discussions and assemblies highlighted the daytime meetings with a banquet which was held Friday night, climaxing the conference.

Delegates informed the Beacon that Dr. Spear, local chapter advisor, is now a member of the national advisory board of Intercollegiate Knights.

Student Council Seeks Volunteers

At the next meeting of the Associated Student Council, Monday May 25, chairmen for the 1959-60 Student Union and Publicity Committees will be appointed. Any chairman of one of these committees should submit his or her name to First Vice-President Jean Hunter before the Monday meeting. Jean will, in turn, submit these names to the council where they will be voted upon.

The Student Union Committee began functioning just this year and will therefore involve much time, interest, and enthusiasm on the part of its chairman and committee members next year. Some of the duties involved in the Chairman's job are: ordering and setting up Student Union movies; organizing student talent shows for a Friday Variety Hour in Hoke Hall; coordinating activities that are to take place in Hoke Hall; and working with the Social Chairman in planning activities that in any way effect Hoke Hall. There has been a definite effort this year to make Hoke Hall really function as a student union. For this reacandidates with new ideas and the ability to put these ideas to work.

The Publicity Committee in past years has been faced with the problem of getting members who will remain on the job and take an active part in carrying out publicity responsibilities. The result is usually that the Chairman ends up doing all the work with little or no help from his committee. This year the council would like to appoint a Chairman who has the ability to keep this committee active and effective. This committee is responsible primarily for getting out posters, newspaper stories, and radio information on campus activities. The Chairman need not be artistically talented but should be able to come up with a variety of publicity ideas that this committee could carry out. With the Beacon, our College Corner radio program and the new sign that will be placed near Hoke next year, there are many good opportunities for more and better publicity concerning campus activities. This is an interesting job and a very good chance for students to take an active part in campus affairs.

Petitions for membership on these committees will be issued next fall and members will be chosen by the Chairman appointed Monday night by the Student Council.

After the teacher told a woman that her fourth-grade son had save one of his classmates from drowning at the school picnic, she asked him why he hadn't said anything about it. "Ah, gee Ma," he stammered sheepishly, "I had to save him. I pushed him in."

BATTING AVERAGE

In the past two years, the baseball teams have lacked one great necessity to win games. The hitting during the last two seasons has not been exceptionally sharp. Two years ago, Dick Quinn lead the club with anaverage of some .300 plus record. Last year Dick again gained the hitting title with less than .300. If a team has four or five men hitting around .300, they will win some games, but when only one man is near the mark, the club must play on 90 per cent luck, and this is what has happened in the last two seasons. Only trouble was, Lady Luck didn't smile often.

But this year's club is showing marked improvement. At the end of two Whitman games Tuesday night, the hitting reads as follows: Mel Holmes leaders the club with a .400 average (He can play on my ball club any day); John Willmarth and Paul Schaffeld both have .375 records; Beeman is hitting .300, although he has only been to bat 10 times; and Coleman is hitting 293. The entire club has been to the plate 620 times and hit safely 146 times for an average of .238.

WOMEN

Note on the feminine side. Eastern Oregon College now has a women's tennis team, coached by Miss Neely. So far they have had one match, that being with Northwest Naarene. Donna Sene, Brenda Guill, Sharlene Johnson, and Karen Bellinger make up the club, but unless Old Man Weather looks at his calendar and sees that it is the middle of spring instead of winter, the team won't get the chance to show their "stuff."

—o—

WEATHER

Snow, rain and just cold weather has so far hampered the spring sports at EOC. Baseball games, track meets, and tennis matches have been not only rained out, but snowed out, also.

Dr. Bolen tells of place that was being threatened by an iceberg, so the people got together and passed a law saying icebergs were prohibited. Maybe that is what we of EOC should do about the weather. Either that or supply snow shoes to the athletes.

Mountaineers Win Two From Conference Champs

Coach Bob Quinn's Mountaineer baseball nine bopped the Oregon Collegiate Conference champs, Southern Oregon, two games out of three in a diamond marathon played here Saturday. The scoreboard read, for the three games, 5-3, 0-2 and 5-4.

The pair of victories gives the Mounts a final 6-6 record in the loop—and a possible chance to reach the NAIA playoffs. A vital game between Portland State (6-5) and OCE (5-6) Friday will decide the issue. The two top teams in the loop are eligible for the playoffs.

Only Oregon Tech had been able to defeat the strong Southern Oregon nine until Saturday but three EOC pitchers allowed the Raiders but 13 hits in the three games, played on a wind swept diamond.

The first game, a nine inning stint, started on Friday but was rained out after three and one-half innings and was continued on Saturday morning with the Mountaineers leading 3-0

The Mounts had scored three runs in the first inning of the on Friday, with Bob Olinger smacking a single, John Willmarth getting on after an error, Bill McCadden knocking Olinger and Willmarth in with a double, and Frank Chase cracking a triple, scoring McCadden

On Saturday morning, in the fifth, the Mounts scored two more tallies with McCadden walking, Chase singling, Dick Murrell sacrificing and Larry Coleman and pitcher getting a RBI apiece with a pair of singles.

SOC collected three runs in the same inning. Satch Miller hurled four hit ball for the Mountaineers scattering four singles.

A pitcher's duel featured the second game with John Willmarth of EOC hurling three-hit ball over the seven inning route and Dave D'Olivo of the Raiders allowing EOC only four hits.

The score was tied at 4-4 at the end of the regulation seven innings in the third battle but the Mounts won the game in the eighth on Mel Holme's sharply hit single into center field, scoring Larry Coleman from second. Coleman had walked and been sacrificed to second by pitcher Mike Boyer.

Boyer, who became eligible on Friday, was the winning pitcher giving up six hits over the seven innings. He transferred here from the University of Oregon last fall.

Bill McCadden led batters in the third game with a triple and single in three at bats. Willmarth collected a double and single.

Linescores:

EOC	300 020 000	5	11	1

Batteries: Vannice and McAbee; Miller and Coleman: Winning pitcher, Miller. RBI's, EOC—McCadden 2, Chase 1, Coleman 1. Triples, Chase; Doubles, McCadden.

EOC Nine Closes Year

Eastern Oregon College baseball players closed out their 1959 season with a double loss to Northwest Nazarene, 3-0 and 1-0, in a pair of games that were marked by pitchers' duels.

Only possible chance for the EOC nine to continue play this spring will hinge on the outcome of the Portland State, Oregon College game scheduled for today. If Portland State wins the Vikings will be automatically the entry in the NAIA playoffs since they would finish the season with a 7-5 mark. If OCE wins, then EOC, Portland State and OCE will have 6-6 marks in the loop and a decision would have to be made who would be the second entry in the playoffs. SOC, and OCC champ, has already cinched one berth.

Science Projects Opened To Public

Perhaps the many, many thousand man-hours that went into the annual Biology projects will be considered worthwhile by the 155 Biology students, their instructors and the student committees when they realize that their displays were viewed by approximately three thousand persons from May 9-15. During this period the Biology laboratory, lecture room and even the basement of the library were scenes of much activity not only from the on-lookers but from some of the projects as well! Student guides from the lab classes were present from nine to five each day and reportedly escorted 2389 students through the exhibits. The busiest day other than the opening day on Parents' Weekend was a total of 555 on May 13 where an average of 70 students made the tour each hour.

Sigma Alpha Chi Initiates Sixteen

Sixteen girls were formally initiated into Sigma Alpha Chi, the women's honorary society, Monday night. The girls were told of the ideals and purpose of the club, were given a carnation corsage, and a key to Sigma Alpha Chi. They took the pledge, after which the other members congratulated them and welcomed them into the organization.

Following this, each girl told her name, what field she was majoring in, then read her favorite poem. Refreshments were served after all the poems were read.

The new members wore their carnation corsages all day Wednesday.

Those initiated were: Tarry Clifton, Yvonne Bannister, Nancy Choate, Jean Cuthbert, Jean Damon, Fredrika Evans, Daisy Good, Joyce Kay, Jan Lundgren, Lenora Mitchell, Sharon Noyes, Barbara Paris, Theresa Marie Rauwolf, Eloise Reynolds, Patricia Reinecke and Sue Switzer.

Others who were asked to join and will probably be initiated at an informal ceremony before Evensong are: Mary Clarke Bray, Phyllis Collins, Janette Egg, Beverly Jean Ferguson, Valene Mitchell, Carol Rudihouser, Janet Wakefield, Luella Willard, Beverly Woolhiser, and Hazel Bondurant.

Cal Polytech High In Rodeo

California Polytechnical rodeo team captured the Eastern Oregon College Intrecollegiate Rodeo team-trophy last week May 16 and 17 in Pendleton. Jack Roddy, sophomore at Cal Poly, rode fast and hard to carry away five out of the six events in belt buckles, and a new Sever Saddle for the All-around Champion title. His teammate, Tom Norton won the other event, making a clean sweep for Cal Poly in six events. Lynda Ferris, freshman at E.O.C., won the Barrel Racing trophy andthe Pole Bending trophy inthe girl's events completing the eight events held at the Intercollegiate Rodeo.

Gary Miller of E.O.C. placed in the averages of the Ribbon Roping and is now eligible for the National's to be held at Klamath Falls. Doug Minthorn also E.O.C. placed in the bareback riding

PSPA Confab Held In Reno

Ideas, ideas and ideas are the main product of each year's Pacific Student Presidents Association conference, and this spring's meet was no exception. Two EOC students, members of the newly elected executive council attended along with the 203 other delegates to represent their school. Bev Donovan, ASB President, and Don Shore ASB Second Vice President, were among the delegates from 79 colleges represented, who spoke for over one quarter million students of the thirteen western states and British Columbia. The conference was held in Reno, Nevada this year, on the campus of the University of Nevada.

From May 6 through May 9 every available minute was spent in discussions, debates, regional meetings onthe principles of student government, the role of the student in his college and how this may be more satisfactorily accomplished by student leaders. Discussion leaders were past presidents from colleges and universities of varying size ad location in order to provide a wider area of discussion.

Next year's site will be the University of Arizona at Tucson, with Ed Blessing, the newly elected PSPA President. Ed is from San Diego State College. A limit of four delegates was set by majority vote.

Committee Had Positions Opened

Students wishing to submit their names for consideration in the selection of the "Ask-Me Committee" and the four standing ASB committees of next year, should present such requests to Bev Donovan and Jean Hunter, respectively.

The "Ask-Me Committee" will be selected before the end of this term and the members will be notified before they leave for summer vacation. It is also anticipated that the other committee chairmen will be appointed, in order that they may have the summer to plan their programs and prepare more effectively for the coming year.

Mountaineers Place 2nd At Meet

Eastern Oregon College track and field men tallied 41 points to take second, behind Boise JC with 90 points, at the Boise Invitational Track meet held Saturday. Northwest Nazarene was third with 28½ and College of Idaho collected 12½.

Gene McKinney set this third javelin meet record in four outings with a heave of 191 feet while Pat Cawood captured the other EOC first place in the mile run. Cawood tourned the distance in 4:50 running just hard enough to win since he was scheduled to run in the half mile and two mile runs, also. He took seconds in both of these events.

Versatile John Clark added 13 points to the Mountaineers collection, taking high point honors for the EOC team. Clark took a second in the shot put, second in the javelin, second in the broadjump and third in the high hurdles.

Other EOC pointmakers included Dean Keefer, second in the discus; Mike Smith took third in the 100-dash and Charlie Hughbanks fourth; McKinney took a fourth in the shot put and Hughbanks third in the broadjump.

The 880-yard relay took second while the mile relay team grabbed a third.

Two EOC competitors, Chuck Berry, and Ladd Livingston, were unable to compete in the meet.

Next meet for the EOC team will be their biggest of the year, the Whitman Invitational, on May 9 at Walla Walla.

Mountaineers Fourth At OCC Meet

Six new individual records were estabilshed and one old mark was matched at the meet. Portland State's Len Lukens accounted for two of the new marks.

Portland State won the meet with 101½ points, Oregon Tech finished second with 56½, Southern Oregon third with 45, Eastern Oregon 21 and OCE last with 10.

Biggest disappointment was Gene McKinney, EOC's javelin star, who couldn't get going in the heavy turf and ended second in the javelin with a toss of over 170 feet—his worst mark of the year in competition.

Dean Keefer finished second in the discuss and Mike Smith took a second for the Mountaineers in the 100-dash. Pat Cawood took fourths in the mile and two-mile runs, John Exley took a fourth in the high hurdles, and John Clark took a fourth in the shot put and fifth in the low hurdles.

Coach Arch Dunsmoor said this morning that McKinney and maybe one or two other men would complete in the NAIA meet this weekend.

Results below are winners and EOC marks:

Mile: Len Lukens, PSC; Pat Cawood, EOC (fourth) 4:30 (New OCC record, old mark by Nick Eddy, EOC 1956—4:31.1)

440: Gene Hedrick, PSC 51.3 (New record, old mark by Bob James SOC, 1956—51.5)

100: Clarence Baker, SOC; Mike Smith, EOC (second). Time 10.3.

High hurdles: Dick Hocever, OTI; John Exley, EOC (fourth) 15.2 (Ties OCC Record by Bill West, EOC, in 1956)

880-run: Lance Newman, PSC. Time 1:59.1. (New OCC record, old mark by Larry Gower, OCE, 1956, 2:02.6)

220-dash: Clarence Baker, SOC. Time 23.3.

Two-mile: Len Lukens, PSC; Pat Cawood, EOC (fourth). Time 9.53.2 (New OCC record, old mark 10:16 set by Len Lukens, PSC, 1957)

Javelin: Terry Kramer, PSC; Gene McKinney, EOC, (second. Distance 183-7).

Shot-put: Lee Clark, PSC; John Clark, EOC (fourth) 45-3½.

Broad jump: Stan Sposito, PSC. Distance, 21-7.

220-yard low hurdles: Dick Hocever, OTI; Johns Clark, EOC (fifth) 25.7.

Pole vault: Art Morland, PSC; height, 12-3.

Mile relay: SOC (S. Baker, Dietz, Swingle, Johnson). 3:32.7. (New record, old mark 3:33.8 by OCE, 1957.

Discuss: Pedro Colley, SOC; Dean Keefer (EOC) second. Distance 147-1¾. (New record, old mark, 139-4 by Colly, 1958).

David B. Collins Is Nominated For Fellowship

David B. Collins, Eastern Oregon College senior, has been nominated for a $2500 fellowship to the University of Washington, according to C. Leo Hitchcock, the University department of botany executive officer.

Collins, who will receive his degree from EOC in June, will study plant genetics. He is the son of J. E. Collins, Milton-Freewater, and a 1951 graduate of McLoughlin high school.

Previously, Collins was announced as the recipient of a graduate assistantship to Washington. The new grant, under a program of National Defense Education Act Fellowships, would supply $500 per dependent in addition to the $2500, in lieu of the original assistantship.

Dorms Elect Leaders For Coming Year

Queen And Court To Reign Over Traditional Ceremony On Grand Stairway Monday

Josie Ward was elected Evensong Queen, the Queen of Knowledge, to reign over the Evensong ceremonies this year. Josie was elected at a special Evensong assembly last week. She and six other girls were in a position to be Queen. The girls were selected acording to scholarship, poise, beauty, speaking ability, and service to the school by a special committee of students and faculty members.

The girls selected were introduced at the asembly where they each presented the "Torch of knowledge" speech. Immediately following the speeches, the student body voted and selected Josie as their lovely and well- deserving Queen.

Josie's court consists of six other fine girls: Naomi Beeson, Patricia Carpenter, Jean Edmison, Janis Robertson, Betty Roudebush, and Linda Woodhouse.

Josie will be crowned during intermission of the Coronation Ball, Friday, June 5.

Queen Josie will preside at the Evensong ceremony, June 8, and has the main speaking part during this. She holds the torch from which the seniors light their 'torches of knowledge." After the torches are lighted, the seniors descend the Grand Staircase. The underclassmen then ascend the stairs to the position of their class for next year.

EOC COEDS REIGN OVER EVENSONG

Josie Ward (center), Forest Grove, was named Eastern Oregon College Queen of Knowledge and will reign over traditional Evensong ceremonies June 8. Members of the Evensong Court include (left) Betty Roudebush, La Grande; Kay Beeson, Enterprise; Linda Woodhouse, Baker; Queen Josie; Jeanie Edmison, Bend; Janis Robertson, Forest Grove; and Patsy Carpenter, La Grande. Miss Roudebush is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Roudebush, and Mrs. Carpenter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Evans, La Grande. (EOC Photo)

EOC EDITORS CHOSEN—Editors for two EOC publications have been selected. Suzanne Switzer (left) Condon, will be editor of the Beacon, campus newspaper. Jo Ann Berryman, La Grande, (right), will direct publication of the Mountaineer, student yearbook. Miss Switzer is the recipient of the La Grande Observer scholarship and Miss Berryman will receive a scholarship from KLBM.

Berryman Next Annual Editor

Jo Ann Berryman has been selected by advisor Leonard Kimbrell, as editor of the school yearbook, the Mountaineer, for 1959-60. Jo Ann, who will be a junior next year, is majoring in Math-Science. She is an honor student and an active member in many organizations on campus. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Chi, the women's honorary, of Sabers, the women's service organization, of Alpha Rau Tau, the art honorary of Sock and Buskin, of the Rodeo Club, and several other organizations.

Jo Ann will succeed Vad Kelsoe, editor of the Mountaineer this year. Jo Ann has shown some of her talents this year in several ways. She had the leading role in the "Diary of Anne Frank." She has been on the honor roll all this year.

Switzer Named Beacon Editor

Sue Switzer, Freshman from Condon, has been named by Mr. Harold Dorn as the Beacon editor for 1959-60 year. Dorn is the advisor of the group.

Enrolled in the general studies, Sue has been an active member of the campus this year. She has participated in journalism, acting as assistant to Beverly Donovan, present Beacon editor. She has also been recently elected to the woman's scholastic honorary of EOC, Sigma Alpha Chi. This spring Sue has been selected as a pledge in the Saber organization, woman's service honorary.

Although some reporter positions on the Beacon staff are filled by those students enrolled in journalism classes, these activities are also open to the student body members at large. Anyone interested in working in this area should contact Sue or Mr. Dorn.

Student's Art Displayed Here

Currently on display in the art gallery of the library is the annual Spring Student Art Show which presents the work of the art students for the past year.

Included in this show will be drawings and prints, both wood blocks and lithographs made on the press and stones which are new to the college. Paintings and commercial designs will be presented which will include: mass produced greeting cards, posters, orignial children's books, designs for programs and art education projects.

Pictures To Be On New ASB Cards

When the 1959-60 academic year gets under way in September, a new policy will be admitted to the Eastern Oregon College Campus. Student body cards will feature a picture of the individual student. These pictures will be taken in the registration line. The cards will be stamped each term instead of issuing new ones, although pictures will be taken for new students.

There will be no charge for the cards, but $1.00 will be charged for each picture by the photographer. These pictures will be filed in the annual catalogue and will be used by the Director of Information. The photographer will return two weeks after official registration is closed to photograph late registering students.

How Little We Know

One school year is almost completed—I wonder what it means to each of us. To the senior, it probablly means the feeling of a job well done and a look to the future.

The junior probably sees a lot of responsibility ahead of him. A sophomore might look back on an enjoyable and interesting year, but ahead to a little more seriousness.

A freshman undoubtedly has a wide variety of thoughts. I, as a freshman, certainly do have many thoughts. It is hard to believe how close I feel to every building and line that is a part of Eastern Oregon College. It is ironical to think of how cold and unfamiliar I felt in the auditorium that first assembly during Freshman Daze and how warm and comfortable I feel there now.

It is wonderful to think of all the new people I have met and all the new friends I have made. It is great to think that I have been one of those to help break in the new dormitory. It has been exciting to follow our teams through all phases of sports this year. It has been with pride that I have watched the plays, recitals, and concerts this year. It has been the opportunity of a lifetime to be instructed by some of the greatest professors in Oregon. It has all been an excitingly new experience and adventure. I feel as though I have matured a great deal in my thoughts and actions. I have really been taught to think for myself.

But, the one thing I learned this year and which has impressed me more than anything else is the fact that I know so little. There is so very much to know and as hard as we study and as much as we cover, we are actually scraping the very top of a small amount from a huge amount of knowledge present in this world.

School Picnic On Trial

Since the All School Picnic was voted out of campus activities two years ago, two attempts have been made to plan and carry out some type of workable program for this activity. Last week the second of these plans was put into action and received both criticism and compliments; more frequently, the former.

Some of these criticisms were valid and deserving, a few were not. The thing to be remembered is that these two year's plans have been TRIALS! There has been no allocation of money for the activity and the Student Councils, with faculty advisors, have been trying to arrive at a most workable and satisfactory plan for a growing college. As students, it is our place to be observant, to be dissatisfied and to voice this feeling; but it is also our place to help in any way we may to try and create a more satisfactory picnic.

A committee has been set up to study this problem now, while the facts are still in mind, the efforts, their success or failure. If we have gripes let's submit them to this committee now, while something can be done about next year's plans, and, most important, about next years budget. WILL WE HAVE A PICNIC OR NOT? How about some help?

Professor Named For EOC Session

Dr. Harry E. McPhail, Tulsa, Oklahoma, school administrator, has been named visiting professor for the Eastern Oregon College summer session, according to John M. Miller, director.

Dr. McPhail has his bachelors and masters degree from Kansas State Teachers, and his doctorate from Oklahoma State University. During the EOC summer session, which gets underway with registration June 22, he will teach Educational Psychology, Administration, and Supervision of the Elementary School.

Sharon Lynne Hodgins Earns EOC Scholarship

Sharon Lynne Hodgins name was inadvertently omitted from the list of students receiving scholarships to Eastern Oregon College.

Miss Hodgins received a full year's tuition paid scholarship from the State System of Higher Education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hodgins of La Grande.

Council Corner

By SANDY THOMPSON

1 Business Manager, Virginia Wellington, has set up a Financial Committee to study the subsidation of funds for school organizations that are not included in the budget. Working with Virginia on this committee will be Betty Johnson and Bill Lovelady, the campus representatives, and John Hall, the Off-Campus representative. The advisor for the groups will be Mr. Bob Osterling.

2. Laura Young has been selected the chairman for New Student Days and Mr. Anderson to work with her. They will plan the activities for the week the new students will arrive. The Ask Me Committee will also work with the chairman.

3. A committee has been working on the arrangements for a EOC sign that will be placed on our campus by Hoke Hall. It is to be a lighted sign which may also be used for some publicity.

4. The Publicity Chairman is to be selected for next year, but meanwhile Donna Sene is acting as the temporary chairman. Working with her are Ladd McGowan, Jan Frank, and Ron Hayes. Again, the members of Student Council extend an invitation for you to attend a council meeting to see how your school government operates. Then, too, the Council encourages you to stop a moment by the bulletin board and take time to glance over the Student Council minutes, so you may become informed on the campus issues.

Dorion Doodles

By JEAN HUNTER

Mrs. Osterholm was the guest of honor at the last Dinner Night held in Dorion Hall. She received flowers and a gift from the women and recognition for her many hours of work and effort on campus this year. Serving as college nurse, she has seen her way through all the ills and pills of campus life, plus taking care of her own family.

—o—

Another party given recently in Dorion Hall reversed the usual order of events: rather than the gals surprising someone, Mrs. Burnett honored the counselors and Dorm officers of this past year. Each was presented with a ceramic figurine decorated with the jewel of her birthdate.

—o—

All the tearing out around Dorion hasn't been going on inside with the packing etc.—seems that final week is the logical time to start the tractors and bulldozers on the landscaping work. This past week it's been quite a chore to find a place to study that was both quiet—and cool! At least we have excuses for being lazy!

—o—

Frantic letters are being sent out with instructions for the biggest, "hughest", and most-great containers available to be sent, borrowed, purchased and brought when Father's come to take the remains of a good bank account (now transferred into material objects) home. Wonder how many will make it without the usual high rate of mortality. This must be educational expansion.

—o—

And so Dorion Hall has survived its first year of the college co-ed. Will John Brown return to court Martha Jones? Will the budget cover another clothesline? All these question will be answered in the next thrilling episode of Dorion Doodles—tune in next year for what's new in gold and blue! (KEOC). Ha!

A husband gave his wife a bathrobe for Christmas because, he told her as she unwrapped it." "the moment the salesgirl pulled it out, I could see you in it." With an effectionate hug his wife explained why: She had been wearing one just like it for two years. (The Reader's Digest)

Mark A. Talney Baccalaureate Speaker At EOC

Dr. Mark A. Talney, executive director of the Oregon Council of Churches, will deliver the address at the Eastern Oregon College baccalaureate service Sunday at 3 p.m. The program is scheduled for the College auditorium.

"Does Christ Really Matter Today?" will be Dr. Talney's topic in the service honoring EOC's 76 degree candidates. Dr. Talney, former minister of the La Grande Presbyterian church, has received several national honors, his most recent being the Freedom Award, Valley Forge Freedom Foundation, 1957 and 1958.

In addition, his writings have appeared in Christian Century, the Christian Century Pulpit, "Today," and his sermon on "Christianity and Democracy" was incorporated in the Congressional Record.

New EOC Group Called 'Collegians'

The newest organization on Eastern Oregon College campus is the Collegians, which has recently been organized under a new constitution. The constitution drawn up by the past officers has been presented to Student Council for approval, thus giving the Collegians an official place on Eastern Oregon College's Organization Rosster. The constitution has been drawn up by the past year's officers who are: Gordon Young, president; vice president, John Corey; secretary, Vad Kelsoe; and student council representatives, Laura Young and John Trigg.

The Collegians are planning to sponsor the first all-college dance to be held Fall Term. Election of new officers has recently been completed and those elected to head the off-campus group are: president, Floyd Kline; vice president, Greg Baker; secretary-treasurer, Louise Young; representatives, Dave Skeen and Sarah Workman.

Frankly Speaking

By Don Frank

And so the 1958-59 athletic year draws to a close at EOC. The football games, basketball games, baseball games, and track meets are now history. Maybe in 1969, we will be thumbing through our yearbook, laughing at our mistakes, smiling at our triumphs. Maybe we will look at our children and say, "That was the year that . . ."

We live our moments now, tomorrow they are forgotten. Possibly at this moment something is happening somewhere that future generations will look upon as dynamic, possibly they will never hear of this day. But regardless, we will not forget 1959.

When we look back on the football season, we won't cite the school's record of won and lost, but more than likely we will think of events that took place either before, during, or after a certain game. We will point our finger at so-and-so, and say, "He should have been given more credit. Why, he . . ."

The basketball season, during the Winter Term, will be remembered because of the new gym. "What was the guy's name who . . . " will be our question. As time passes we will forget names, only large, important events will remain in our minds. "Oh yes, that was the night our basketball team played!"

Baseball came with spring fever. "I remember when, during a baseball game, I threw . . . " Our children will smile at us as we reminisce. "And at that track meet when two of us jeered the . . ." We won't remember who did what and where. Our thoughts will be of something else. Memories are made of this.

So, until kickoff time at the first football game of the coming season,, I bid you good luck, good hunting, and God bless you.

JOHN WILLMARTH
OCC All-Star

Willmarth Is OCC Choice

PORTLAND (Special) — John Willmarth, sophomore hurler from La Grande, was selected as a pitcher on the Oregon Collegiate Conference All-star team here Thursday. This is the second straight year the husky hurler has won an all-star berth.

Willmarth was the only Eastern Oregon ball player to make the 1959 All-Conference team. Bob Olinger, EOC third baseman, was selected on the honorable mention list.

Five repeaters were selected from the 1958 OCC team and four were members of the championship Southern Oregon team.

Pitcher Dave D'Olivo, first baseman Larry Maurer and outfielder Phil Sword, along with catcher Jim McAbee, repeated for SOC. Two other SOC players were selected for the first time. They are second baseman Jim Dietz and outfielder LeeRoy King.

Runnerup Portland State won three berths. They went to pitcher Roy Love, shortstop Dennis Heath and third baseman Aay Anderson. The other two positions went to Virgil Winters of Oregon Tech and OCE's Jack Antonson.

Willmarth gained recognition this year with a no run, no hit game against Portland State.

McKinney,Cawood Score At NAIA

During the District 2 NAIA track championship held at Griswald Stadium on May 23, Gene McKenney and Pat Cawood picked up 12 points for EOC. Cawod placed second in the one-mile run and fourth in the two-mile run while McKinney captured a second in the javelin throw. His javelin toss of 192 feet 6 inches replaced the old EOC record of 189 feet 3 inches which was set several years ago.

The championship meet was won by Lewis and Clark College with a total of 104 points against the 54½ points of Linfield, their nearest competition. Nine men were selected from this district to represent it in the NAIA meet to be held at Sioux Falls, South Dakota on June 5 and 6.

InterfaithMembers Named By Bolen

Interfaith Council members for the coming year have beein named by Dr. Bolen, advisor. Named to the council proper were: Beverly Donovan, Carolyn Muller, Linda Kane, Chuck Byers, Wayne Jacobson, Jan Frank, Helen Bertsch, Jack and Lynette Wood, Bob Marquis, Sue Switzer, John Trigg, Nancy Swanson, Linda Bean, Valene Mitchell, Volkert Goebel, Sidney Hiatt, Paul and Fran Schaffeld, Gene Hand, Sandra Thompson, Ron Smit, Don Cole, Virginia Wellington, Betty Johnson, Connie Baker, Mike Ferguson, Ardyce Garrett, and Frank Mathias. Other members of the student body will be invited to help on specific projects next year also but these persons will be those directly responsible for the planning and directing of Interfaith activities on campus.

In its twelfth year of existence at EOC, this Interfaith Council was established as an organizer and coordinator of all religious activities and functions on campus. It is inter-denominational in membership and in projects. The largest activity of this group during the year is the Religious Emphasis Week held each winter term. During this time speakers of authority in each of the main religions are brought to EOC to speak, discuss and answer questions about their particular beliefs. Also included in the functions of the Interfaith Council are all school assemblies and vespers, and the Freshman Fireside during Freshman Days.

EOC SENIORS HONORED—Dr. and Mrs. Frank B. Bennett (center) were hosts for the annual tea Sunday honoring Eastern Oregon College graduating seniors. Roberta Davis (left), La Grande, and Harold Moore (right), Madras, are among the 74 scheduled to receive degrees June 12. President Bennett greets special honored guest, Miss Eva Wear, EOC faculty member, who will retire in June after 28 years on the faculty. (EOC Photo)

Coronation Ball To Feature Crowning Of Queen Josie

The Queen of Knowledge for graduation festivities will be officially crowned at one of the biggest formal dances of the year, the Coronation Ball. This annual event, sponsored by the AWS, will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. on June 5 in Ackerman gym, and admission is free. Music will be furnished by Rhodes Lewis with decorations provided by Alpha Rho Tau.

Senior president, Norm Nelson, will present the Queen and her court, and out-going ASB president, Harold Moore, will conduct the coronation ceremonies. After their coronation, Queen of Knowledge, Josie Ward, and her court. consisting of Naomi Beeson, Patsy Carpenter, Jean Edmisson, Janis Robertson, Betty Roudebush and Linda Woodhouse, will reign over all commencement activities including the traditional Evensong ceremony.

Patrons and Patronesses for the dance are: Dr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mr .and Mrs. Howard Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. Carlos Easley, Dr. and Mrs. Lyle Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Skeen and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Winters.

Hiatt Invites Participation In EOC Event

Anyone in the La Grande area interested in dramatics is invited to participate in "Doctor in Buckskin Clad," according to Richard G. Hiatt, director.

The drama deals with a sequence of events in the life of Marcus Whitman, Northwest pioneer medic, and is scheduled for July 23-25, 30-31, Aug. 1, 6-8, and 13-15.

Hiatt indicated final details will be announced this week following a meeting with Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, author of the play, and officials of the Eastern Oregon College Advancement Association, sponsoring organization.

Holt; Yturraspe Committee Heads

The last official Student Council meeting of the year was held Monday, June 1. Business of primary importance was the election of the Student Union Chairman for the year 59-60. The first ballot cast by the council failed to achieve a mojority vote and following a second ballot. Gene Holt was elected Student Union Chairman for the coming year. Gene, now a third term sophomore, active in IK's, presented his plans and ideas for the coming year to the council.

An item of major importance on the Student Council agenda during the last meeting held June 1 was the electing of a publicity chairman for the coming year, 1959-60. Candidates for the post presented ideas and tentative plans to the Student Council preceding the voting. Dan Uturraspe received the majority vote of the council, thus electing him to the post of publicity chairman. Dan will be a sophomore next fall and was chosen outstanding IK pledge this past year. Dan has had very adequate background in poster, publicity work and presented many interesting plans for the job.

Headlines After The Deadlines

An error was made in the last issue of the Beacon concerning the story on the Dormitory Officers for next year. In Hunt Hall, the newly elected leaders will include Bill Lovelady, treasurer.

A request from the Student Council has been submitted concerning the members of the "Ask Me Committee" and the "Homecoming Committee." Will those people please remember to leave their summer addresses with Bev Donovan before leaving campus for vacation.

Due to the convention of Rainbow Girls to be held in La Grande immediately following the termination of Spring Term on campus, it is requested that all students living in the dormitories be out of their rooms by Friday evening, June 12. These facilities will be needed for that group.

Several openings for summer jobs for interested college students have been submitted to Dr. Lyle Johnson, Registrar, by employers seeking help. Any persons interested in these possibilities should contact Dr. Johnson.

Reviewer Enjoys 'Giocanda Smile'

Members of the EOC student body and faculty as well as visitors from the community were much pleased and enthused with the presentation of the recent Reading Theatre. The "Giocanda Smile" was one of the all too few productions which give their audiences credit for being adult and mature and also something to think about beyond a good enjoyable evening.

Both leads, Nola Bubb and Paul Becket did an excellent job of portraying extremely difficult characters without the aid of stage props or stage movement. Voice expressions and occassional hand gestures were the sole means of emphasis.

Linda Kane's Nurse Bradock was sufficiently sarcastic and all-knowing to light the character in the imaginations of all in attendance. Her part gave the play the desired humor also.

Tarry Clifton extracted from the audience both dislike and later pity through her portrayal of Doris Mead.

Both Larry Wilder and Tom Spencer did well with the supporting rolls of General Spence and Dr. Libbard.

Totally, these people presented one of the most enjoyable evenings of entertainment on campus this year, and we hope there will be more like this in the offing.

Council Approves 'Ask Me' Group

Monday night at the Student Council meeting the ASK ME COMMITTEE for next year was approved. This group, made up of members of the student body chosen at large, will assist in directing activities during Freshman Week. Although this is the specific purpose of the committee, these people also work in the registration lines all three terms and aid in the Faculty Reception.

Student Body President, Beverly Donovan, stated that the positions on this committee are considered an honor, and that several other factors are necessarily considered in the selections, which might curb selections, but are factors which cannot be disregarded. Among these were consideration of campus activity and contribution, ability to easily meet and work with the new students, and area of residence. An effort was made to represent all three major living groups of EOC on this committee. Another factor sited was that of the financial aspect. Since there is no allocation of money for the housing of these people, this amount must be stood by the dormitory budgets.

Those members of the 1959-1960 Ask Me Committee include: The executive council—Beverly Donavan, Jean Hunter, Don Shore, Sandi Thompson, Virginia Wellington and Tarry Clifton; the dormitory presidents — Carolyn Muller and Pasco Arritola; and the dormitory counsellors —Sylvia Thompson, Seymour Barbrook, Moe Chester, and Don Cole. These people are automatic members of the committee because of campus positions.

Two For One, Figures Show

The enrollment this year is very interesting if you are a girl, but it may be a little discouraging to the fellows. The total enrollment of students is 738. Of this total, 441 are men and 297 are women. These figures show that there are approximately 2 men to every woman. Also included in this total are 33 part-time students. The total enrollment last year was 708 opposed to this year's 738. Final figures are not available.

The following is the comparison betwen this year classes and last year's classes:

	'58-59	'59-60
Freshmen	295	274
Sophomores	167	223
Juniors	106	108
Special	94	95
Special	43	33
Graduate	3	5

59-60 Rally Squad Chosen Tuesday

By Tarry Clifton

Two and a half for the best rally squad ever! Hurrah! Hurrah!

Tuesday night in Ackerman gym saw nine nervous girls, three restless fellows and sixteen jittery judges. Why all the tension? Rally squad try-outs for '59-'60 were taking place. The judges: Judy Thompson, Jean Hunter, Mrs. Sharon Skeen, Sue Switzer, Bea Peterson, Evadne Kelsoe, Mrs. Janet Everett, Karin Stewart, Miss Nicoloff, Miss Neely, Bill Lovelady, Al Carr, Oran Hutton, Don Shore, Bob Patterson, and Tarry Clifton. The song leaders were judged by the point system in five categories: Audience Appeal, Appearance, Dance Ability, Creativness,Projected Personality. The rally duke was chosen by secret ballot of the judging committee. Special thanks to all those who were interested enough to participate, spectate and judge.

Oh! Almost forgot. Your new rally square is: song leaders, Ruth Combs, Peggy Elder, Karen Welo, and Bunny Moyer and rally duke is Ron Mungers, who will be ably assisted. Thanks again for the cooperation of all who made these tryouts a success.

First Assembly Displays Faculty In Regalia

October 20 the first general assembly of the year was called in the Administration Building. The purpose of the assembly was to introduce the faculty to the students.

Included in the short program was an opening address by Eastern Oregon College President, Dr. Bennett. Mr. Wilson then sang a bass solo, "The Vagabond." Dr. Ernest Anderson explained the history and reasons for the impressive robes worn by the faculty. Following that, Dr. Bennett introduced the head of each department and they in turn presented the teachers in their departments.

The flowing robes worn by the instructors were very colorful. Each color represented a certain field of study and the school from which they received their degrees.

CLASS OFFICERS CHOSEN

Seniors: President, Don Thompson; Vice President, Melvin Munn; Secretary, Jane Belly; Representative, Linda Kane.

Homecoming Plans Announced

The theme for EOC's 1 Homecoming will slant to the future, but the exact slogan has not been decided.

Quite a few new ideas are being tried this year. One of these is the switch from sites to a parade and floats. Different campus organizations will build and sponsor floats for the Homecoming parade which is to be held at 1:00 p.m., Oct. 24. Letters will be sent to each organization stating the regulations, etc.

Another new idea that is being tried this year concerns the bonfire. It has been suggested that instead of the traditional "fight" at the site of the bonfire, a torch be placed on top of a greased pole and the frosh defend the torch instead of the fire. This is to prevent the throwing of gasoline and the possibility of someone catching on fire.

It was also suggested that either the frosh or the upperclassmen, whoever gets the torch, present it to the Homecoming Queen at the coronation. The Queen would then light the bonfire with the torch.

Halftime entertainment at the game may also be changed. Instead of the traditional sandbag war, there may be a parade of the floats and, perhaps, a band concert in the middle of the field.

Tryouts for the variety show will be held in the near future. A definite date will be announced later. The theme must be decided before anything more can be done on the variety show.

IOC Reports Calendar Revision

The Inter-Organizational Council had its Fall meeting September 29. The IOC consists of the presidents of the organizations on campus and the editors of the student publications. Jean Hunter is president of IOC.

"Report Cards" were made to be used by each organization in putting on any function. These and the "General Information Cards" will give itemized financial reports and general inforamtion concerning materials used, committees formed, etc. for a special function. These cards will be on file in the business office and may be used by the same or another organization as a basis for planning future programs.

The social calendar was discussed and many activities were added to it. Regularly scheduled organizational meetings will also be placed on the calendar which will be out soon. If the members of an organization want to contest for an event, they must do so one month prior to the date they wish to secure.

Many means of publicity are available to us this year. These are the sign board in front of Hoke, KLBM's radio program, "College Corner," and your campus newspaper, the Beacon. See Dan Yturraspe, publicity chairman, about using the sign board. See Ladd McGowan, Radio Committee Chairman, about advertising on "College Corner." See Sue Switzer, Editor of the Beacon about publicising in the newspaper. The above are means of disseminating information to the entire student body.

ART PLANS LAID

At the October 1 meeting of Alpha Rho Tau plans for Fall term activities were discussed. It was decidede that the organization would sponsor a coffee hour for the opening of the art exhibits in the basement of Walter M. Pierce Library. The first being October 6 at 7 p.m. Also discussed were Homecoming and a November initiation. This year the chairman of the Homecoming Dance decorations is Pat Ward, a senior from Sweethome.

What Can I Do For EOC

Here you are "Student of EOC." You are a part of a wonderful college. Why did you come here? Various reasons, of course, but the main one is that EOC can give you what you want. You will secure an education, meet new friends, and be given the opportunity to really get from life exactly what you want. All those dreams you've had for years you are finally unfolding and putting to work. You are really specializing. You are, of course, a part of a great group as a member of this institution, but you must remember you are an individual.

Rather than saying, "What can college do for me," why not say, "What can I do for my college?" Just exactly what can you do for EOC? You can become an active member of your college, joining organizations that are of special interest to you, offering your ideas and suggestions for the betterment of that organization. You can sit in on Student Council, learning more about your student government, perhaps inserting an opinion would do you good. It might also be helpful to the Council. You may present the whole school with your satisfaction of complaint by writing a letter to the Editor and placing it in the Beacon box in the main hallway of the Ad. Building or by putting it in the Beacon mail box in the faculty mail room, also in the Ad. Building. You can give your moral support to EOC by attending the regular assemblies on Wednesdays and the special assemblies at various times during the year. (You will be surprised how self-rewarding this is in itself.) You can also attend the athletic events, plays, music concerts, and recreational social functions.

Here you are, "Student ————," you can give your talent for the ASB talent shows, and give your pep at the ball games.

You see, what EOC offers you is minor as compared to what you can give EOC. Your college considers you, plans for you, then waits for you to do your part. Your part is belonging—actively, loyally, and creatively.

Message From President

Out of some 300 different worlds you have come, the class of '63, to Eastern Oregon College for your education. You are probably proud to be a college man or woman as you look forward to the coming years and the things they hold :the dances, the clothes you'll wear, the friends you'll meet and the impressions you'll make.

They say you should never let studies interfere with your education, but the fact remains that somewhere along the line someone will sneak in a term paper here and a lab report there. So—you also envision the professors, the assignments, the final exams; and still, despite this one black aspect, you feel that you are on the verge of something wonderful and something exciting. You hate to be bothered with all this seemingly unnecessary trivia. You want to get started—and then again perhaps you don't. This may be fun, it may be exciting, but it's also just a little frightening.

Being frightened, you needn't feel alone. Probably each of us in this auditorium and each of those to return is afraid of something which he must face here this fall—this year. Maybe it's student teaching; maybe it is fear of not making the basketball team; perhaps it's a financial problem.

Myself—I fear being a college Student Body President. In this speech I'm afraid I'll slip and make some embarrassing comment; that in my duties I will offend someone or neglect something and eliminate all students' chances for an improvement they may very sincerely want or need; and maybe I'm a little bit afraid also that the fellows will decide that it would be amusing to see how ridiculous or ignorant they could make a woman president look. This might not be too difficult.

If we all fear and apprehend so greatly, why then are we here? Why have you worked hard, saved and now prepared yourselves to spend approximately $5,000 in these next four years? Why are the athletes planning on hours and hours of practice with perhaps no reward? Why did I run for office?

The answer lies, I think, in the fact that we all believe in what we have chosen and in our desires to accomplish it regardless of effort or hazard.

I believe in the power and the worth of stuudent government. The teacher believes in the child's potential. And you—do you believe in education, or are you a part of the estimated 99% of freshmen who enter college to escape work, the service, or some other unattractive alternative?

We would rather assume that you are here today not to escape, but to gain. How much you gain is up to you. God created each of us. He gave us two ends—one to sit upon and the other to think with. Our success in life depends entirely upon which end we use the most.It's heads you win, and tails you lose!

So—you are here for education, but until the time comes when we must define it, this is a pretty evasive subject. To me education means, in part, the ability to appreciate those things which are fine and to acknowledge the less than fine for what they are. The discretion to recognize and value those things which are good; and the discrimination to find the truth and to honor it. Education is that knowledge enabling us to better meet what life holds, and the preparation to take the fullest advantages of the opportunities it may offer.

As you leave this college, your complete education will not appear on the transcript of grades you carry with you, for the classroom is only one area of education. There must also be social and cultural opportunities, there must be spiritual. In any of these areas you may well find disagreeable duties and distasteful requirements, but perhaps it might help to remember that while some people grumble because roses have thorns, others are thankful because thorns have roses.

As we, the student government, on campus endeavor to help bring about desirable qualities and attributes to our college, we will hope to repeat some of the success our efforts met last year. Council was able to back such things as: the raising of the GPA requirements for transferring students on probation; bringing to campus such speakers as Stewart Holbrook and such groups as the Danish Gym Team. Also each year we, as students, have jurisdiction over an ASB budget; this year it will amount to approximately $9,000.

As the largest class to enter EOC, you can hardly be considered un-influential. That is fine with us—the freshmen are usually the most faithful and enthusiastic supporters of the school.

I would say then, that the function of student government is to help keep on this campus those aspects of education which are worth your support, your respect and your loyalty. We will try our hardest. No fear can outweigh a goal if that goal is high enough. We think that this one is. Welcome to EOC.

—Beverly Donovan, President of ASB

Hiatt Announces 'Cadillac' Cast

Sock and Buskin's forthcoming production, SOLID GOLD CADILLAC, has announced their cast and are as follows.

Heading the cast as Mrs. Laura Partridge is Joanne Thurston, with Ralph Jay Hamilton as Big Ed McKeever; JoAnne Reeder as Mill L'Arrier; Melada Lee Doney as Mill Logan; Larry Masterton Dale Conklin and Fred Kelly as reporters.

In addition to these students, four special guest stars will be featured in various roles. These guest stars are people well known to La Grande, especially La Grande theater goers.

This production will be directed by Richard Hiatt, English and speech teacher at E.O.C. The assistant director is Sharon Noyes.

The production date is November 12, 13, and 14th.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb says: Com-on Mac, get yourself out of that Psy. book and help me with this column. Yes I know you're learning about psychoanalysis but we've both agreed that those characters at Dorion are fairly important. Okay then, just ignore me, but I thought you might be interested in the new girls. After all, we fellows should be interested.
Mac says: Did I hear the word "girls"? What's new anyway or should I say who's new? Wait, I bet I'm jumps ahead of you since I know of one new girl who has impressed the Dorionites with her sweet-type personality. Name is Mieko Matai, she's from Akita City in Northern Japan, is a junior here and tauht three years of English in high school in Japan. Nice, nice.

Herb says: Okay, okay, so you know Mickie but I happen to know that Dorion has a new assistant house mother. Didn't know that huh? Her name is Katherine Duncan and she's worked at the U. of Idaho and Montana State as assistant resident and head resident respectively. So now what do you have to say?
Mac Says: What's an assistant house mother? No, skip it, but I will say this, there seem to be a few news freshmen this year. Right off hand I can think of several that I'd like . . . well, that's another story. Sophomores are in full number this year too which isn't bad at all. In fact . . .

Herb says: Mac, law off the girls and let me tell about the dance the girls held in the cafeteria Saturday night. For being a last minute idea it was a pretty fair affair. Everyone there seem to have a good time, nice amount of couples, nice amount of girls, nice amount of girls, good grief, you have me doing it!
Mac says: Juniors are still around, seniors are few but there are some dandys. Speaking of seniors, is . . . oh, she is? Well you can't keep Hunter away.

Herb says: Back to news if you please, hayseed. Floor reps were elected last Sunday night right after the house meeting. The girls, all sophomores by the way, are responsible for keeping things quiet? Well anyway, for third floor, Loretta Herbison, Gail Fisher; for second, Mary Gray, Jean Seavin; for first, Reiba Carter, Juainta White. Now what do you have to say?
Mas says: If something isn't done about that king-sized gravel pile at Dorion I'm afraid the tarffic will get considerably smaller. Dorion swamp is just the name for it. Hey, what are you poking me for?

Herb says: Just saw another Dorion-type girl go by with a Sheely Berman tucked under her arm. Those cats have gone wild for that Berman character which is logical since he's pretty wild. What has he got that I haven't? Don't answer that!
Mac says: If you don't settle down, so help me I'm going to tell that you were one of the four boys that went over to Dorion Sunday afternoon asking for dates to take to the show. The girls I talked to said they were cute, whatever that means, so guess that leaves you out. Pretty fair idea if you can get away with it. Anything to add?

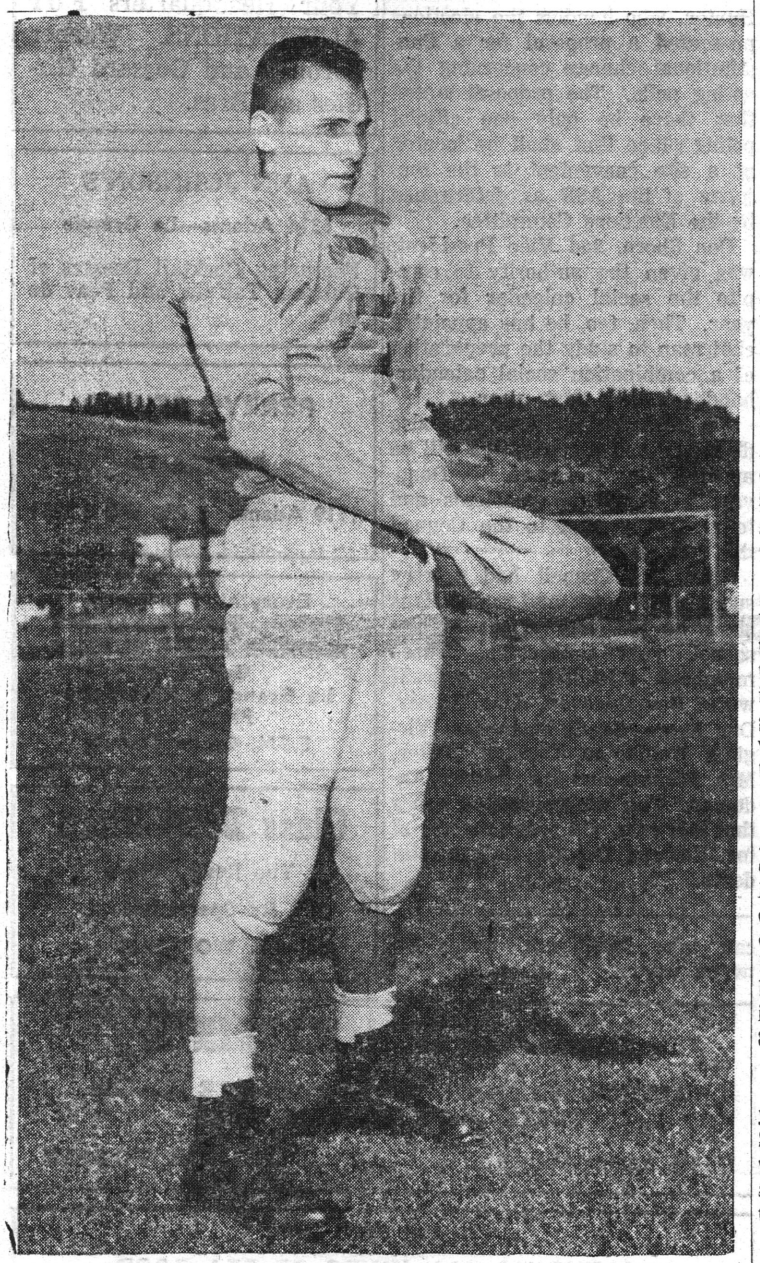
Herb says: I resent that last statement but I'll let it go this time. Probably are quite a few things we left out or forgot but maybe we'll latch on to the swing of things later. How about you?
Mac says: I like this idea of writing about girls but let's quit while we're ahead. My psychoanalysis is getting cold, I've got a cold and my feet are cold. But I'll have some hot leads for next time. Put away the typewriter.
Herb says: I put it way. I'm doing this by hand.

Mountaineers Win; Defeat OCE 28-7

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers finally hitting their stride, scored all of their touchdowns in the first half and roared to a 28-7 victory over the Oregon College of Education Wolves, Saturday night at Monmouth.

The Wolves scored first but the lead was short-lived as the Mounties came right back to tie the score and go ahead. The second half was nip and tuck with neither team able to move across the goal line.

Eastern Oregon scored twice in a 30 second period just before the first half ended. With about 30 seconds left Williams scampered 40 yards into the end zone. EOC kicked off and on the first play from scrimmage OCE fumbled and Wilmarth scooped up the ball and ran 20 yards to paydirt as the gun was sounding.



Aliverti, Williams, and Wilmarth scored for the Mounties with Wilmarth racking up two touchdowns. Porter and Bagnall were outstanding on defence for EOC and McKinney, Whitely, and Wilmarth looked good on offense for the Mounties.

Orientation Provides 'Belongingness' Time

Eastern Oregon College welcomed two hundred seventy-four freshmen and over fifty transfer students during New Student Days, held the week previous to the start of school, September 21-27.

Registration and a program of orientation for all new students began at the opening assembly Monday morning, with Mr. Howard Anderson, Assistant Dean of Men and Associate Professor of English, presiding. Also on the program were Dr. Frank B. Bennet, President of EOC; Mr. Neil E. Wilson, Assistant Professor of Vocal Music; Miss Virginia Wellington, ASB Business Manager; and Miss Beverly Donovan, ASB President.

Throughout the week a series of placement tests were given in English, mathematics, secretarial science, medical-dental, writing, spelling, and physical fitness. Other activities during New Student days were meetings for students interested in various organizations, dances, movies and recreation, sponsored by the 'Ask Me' committee.

MOUNTY GOES FOR YARDAGE

Jerry Williams, with the ball, goes for some short yardage against College of Idaho Saturday night. The Coyotes stopped Williams and the Mountaineers 35-6 in a windy-night victory. Williams gained 78 yards to pace EOC's ground attack. Coming up to assist the unidentified tackler are John Eimers (30), James Culliver (32), and Jerry Williamson (40). (Observer Photo)

SPORTS DESK

The Mountaineers won their first ball game in three starts last Saturday night defeating OCE 28-7 in the first OCC game of the 1959 season. After losing to Whitman and The College of Idaho of the Northwest Conference in a couple of no-count tilts the Mounties soundly defeated the Wolves in a very important ballgame. For a while it looked as though Eastern Oregon was in for another dismal football season, but that was disproved Saturday night at Monmouth.

The Mounties are a young ball club. They lack only experience and they are getting plenty of that now. It was only a matter of time before they found themselves and started winning. One thing that impressed me in the game against The College of Idaho was that the Mountaineers never gave up fighting even when outweighed 15-20 per man in the line and behind 28-0 at the half.

The Oregon Collegiate Conference race is supposed to be even-steven this year with a slight edge going to Oregon Tech which took the OCC crown last year. This week the Mounties travel to Klamath Falls to take on the favored Owls. I think OTI will have a lot of trouble winning over the Mountaineers. Call it school pride if you will but I think that the Mounties will upset the Owls and I also feel that the potential the Mountaineers possess, they can be on top at the end of this season of OCC football. Perhaps I will be be proven wrong but I think that Archie Dunsmoor's charges are a "Can Do" ball club.

The game with the College of Idaho Coyotes two weekends ago gave fans in this area an opportunity to see one of the nation's finest small college quarterbacks in action. Charlie Alvaro, formerly of Hawaii is being mentioned for All American honors this year. Against the Mounties Alvaro ran 37 yards for one touchdown and threw a pass for 44 yards and another TD. He also kicks the extra points barefooted and last year had a 100 per cent average. In the game against the Mountaineers Alvaro was forced to hobble across the goal line minus one shoe when the Mountie line put the pressure on.

In one game this year Alvaro completed 14 passes for a total of 210 yards. That's really throwing the pigskin.

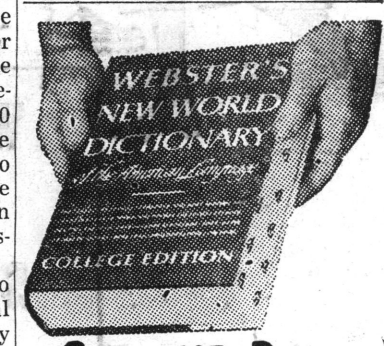
C of I Defeats EOC



The College of Idaho Coyotes led by ace quarterback Charlie Alvar built up a 28-0 half time score and coasted to a 35-6 victory over the Mountaineers in the first home game of the 1959 season at the Mountaineer Field.

In the first half the Coyotes from Caldwell, Idaho scored almost every time they got the ball. Led by tthe running and passing of Alvaro, the Idahoans scored three times in the First quarter and once in the second period. The Mounties were unable to get a drive started and spent most of the first half on defense. The score at the half was 28-0.

The second half of the game was a different story as the College of Idaho ran into a stiffened Mountie defense. There was no scoring in the third period as neither team could move the ball. The Coyotes scored again in the final quarter and the Mounties scored their first touchdown of the season. EOC marched 62 yards up the field and scored on a nine yard pass from Quarterback Jon Houk to End Dennis Bagnall.

Scoring: C of I-Alvaro (37 yard run) PAT: (Alvaro kick) Anderson (44 yard pass) PAT; (Alvaro kick) Shaffer (41 yard run) PAT; (Alvaro run) Gochnour (1 yard run) Lappin (1 foot plunge) PAT (Alvaro run).

EOC-Bagnall (9 yard pass).

Council Corner

By JEAN HUNTER

Constitutional changes, committee appointments, social calendars, council meeting dates, and budget organization are only a few of the weighty problems that have been plaguing your executive council members these past three weeks. Student Council is back in full swing though, and seems to have everything under control.

Permanent Committee members were selected at a selection committee meeting Monday evening and were then approved by the Student Council at the regular Monday evening meeting. Members appointed were:

Publicity: Pat Blackburn, Charles Searcy, Denice McCanse, Barbara Boyle, Karen Stewart.

Social: Oran Hutton, Annabelle Tidwell, Merlene Teasly, Ben Houk, Larry Snook.

Radio: Ted Lacock, Al Carr, Richard Domey, Gail Fisher.

Student Union: Dick Cook, Skip Gregory, Bob Phifer, Bea Peterson, Sally Sturdivan.

Elections: Elaine McNaught, Sue Goodin, Vad Kelose, Pat McKenzie, Judy Folsom.

The selection committee reported that some thirty petition were filed for the fourteen available positions. This committe suggested to the Student Council that the extra petitions be kept on file so that these committees could obtain the help of those petitioners when necessary. It is planned to have these people work on sub-committees throughout the year.

The first conference on the ASB agenda this year is the Regional Student Union confab that will be held on the University of Idaho campus November 5, 6, and 7. EOC will be represented at the confab by the members of the Student Union committee. This is one of the most important conferences we have this year and our student body stands to gain much from it. With the new addition to Hoke planned for next fall it is to our advantage to learn as much as possible about the Student Union programs on other college campuses.

A new policy has been set up concerning ASB dances that will limit attendance to ASB members and their dates. Because of the excessive number of non-EOC people who have been attending college dances we have decided to check student body cards at all future dances. No cards, no dance; If you wish to invite a couple who are not EOC students, just drop into Mrs. Winter's office and obtain a guest card which will admit them to the dance. Alumni are always welcome and any guest of a regularly enrolled student will be admitted.

Gene Holt, Student Union chairman, has announced that we will have a cinemascope lens for a trial period this fall. If we find it to be satisfactory, it will be purchased by the Student Union for campus movies. The first movie will be Oct. 18.

Sue Switzer was named OFCL secretary at the last Student Council meeting. Sue, who was elected unanimously, replaces Betty Johnson, who was elected to this office at the 1959 Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders. Betty failed to return to school this fall due to a previous engagement (to Dale Hill). This position on the OFCL executive council represents quite an honor for our college and Sue is the gal who will insure a good EOC representation.

New 7 A.M. Classes Get Nodding Approval

At the jarring sound of the alarm, students are struggling out of bed and into the class room. It was necessary to offer classes at 7:00 in German, Introductory Geography, and History of Western Civilization.

The general census is that students that are lucky enough to wake up in time to make these classes are even luckier if they can take intelligent notes between yawns.

Publication Announces Essay Contest

In 1960 three Emily Clark Balch Prizes will be awarded by The Virginia Quarterly Review for the best literary or critical essays dealing with some phases of American life or literature. The closing date for submission of manuscripts will be January 1, 1960. The winners of the first prize of $500 and the two second prizes of $250 each will be announced in the Spring, 1960, issue of the magazine and the prizewinning essays will be published in that issue or in a later one.

This will be the fifth year in which the Virginia Quarterly, thanks to the generous bequest of Emily Clark Balch to the University of Virginia, has offered prizes in some field of American writing. The amount of the prizes and the kind of writing for which they will be given will be changed annually, but every award will have as its sole purpose the encouragement of contemporary American writers and the development of new American talents. The contest for 1960 is now open. All inquiries concerning it should be addressed to The Virginia Quarterly Review, One West Ranger, Charlottesville, Virginia.

Student Council Retreat

by Sandi Thompson

The annual Student Council Retreat was held September 17-19, 1959 at Wallowa Lake—with the eight members attending. The The purpose of the retreat was to discuss the forthcoming activities and to work out some of the problems confronting the Student Body this year. Such things as the budket, constitutiona changes, social calendar, Spring Picnic and many others were discussed.

The budget was accepted as presented by Business Manager, Virginia Wellington. It will be posted in the Administration Building for student convenience.

The 1st Vice President, Jean Hunter, who handles the elections presented a proposal for a Canstitutional change concerning the voting polls. The proposal stated that there be only one official poling place that shall be located at a site convenient to the majority of the ASB as determined by the Elections Committee.

Don Shore, 2nd Vice President, was given the authority to compile the social calendar for the year. Then, too, he has appointed chairman to study the preparation of a combination social calendar-handbook for next year.

The ASB Spring Picnic was also discussed and a committee will be appointed by President, Bev Donovan, to study the problems and to present a plan to the Council this fall term.

Thus, the Council had a very successful retreat and many plans shall be put into effect as the school year progresses. These members attending the retreat were: Bev Donovan, Jean Hunter, Don Shore, Sandi Thompson, Virginia Wellington, Carolyn Muller, Mrs. Winters and Mr. Howard Anderson. The entire Council hopes that this year will prove successful for Eastern Oregon College students.

Watercolor Exhibit In Pierce Gallery

The first art exhibition of the season at Eastern Oregon College opens this week and will continue for three weeks in the Walter M. Pierce Art Gallery.

The exhibit, 27 watercolors by Portland area artists, is sponsored jointly by the Oregon Art Alliance and the General Extension Division, State System of Higher Education.

Exhibit hours include 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and until noon Saturday.

BEACON
Vol. XXIX | October 23, 1959 | No. 2

Homecoming Events Schedule Listed

Homecoming festivities this week-end will include a football game Saturday afternoon with EOC vs. PSC, a parade with many campus organizations taking part, the Homecoming Ball featuring Rhodes Lewis with Marcia MacPherson as vocalist, and the all-school Variety Show. These activities are for the enjoyment of the Alumni as well as present students.

The Homecoming Queen will be crowned at 8 p.m. on the steps west of the Ad building. The coronation will be followed by a pep rally at the Coliseum parking lot with the pep band, rally girls, and yell dukes performing. After the rally the bonfire and burning of the "O" will be held. A record dance at Hoke will conclude Friday's events.

Alumni registration in Hoke Hall will be held Saturday morning. A coffee hour and Alumni business meeting will follow.

Student committees have been working hard for this year's festivities under co-chairmen Ardyce Garrett and Mike Ferguson. Bev Donovan is in charge of the Queen Coronation; Tarry Clifton, Pep Rally; Mike Higgins, Bonfire and Burning of the "O"; Gene Holt, Record Dance; Bill Lovelady and Joyce Kay, Alumni Registration; Sandra Thompson (AWS), Coffee Hour; Miss Neil, Alumni Business Meeting; Carolyn Muller, Open House; Al Carr, Don Cole, Tarry Clifton, Parade; Mary Kay Gray (WRA), Coffee Hour; Vad Kelsoe, Bill Ward, Oran Hutton, Variety Show; and Gail Fisher and Ben Houk, Homecoming Ball. Outing Club Views Dr. Kaiser's Slides

The outing club has been whipping up some excitement for those who "love the outdoors."

During the meeting held on October 8, Dr. Kaiser entertained the group with slides of the Wallowa Lakes, and also gave an account of the hiking he did while taking the pictures.

The last meeting was held on October 20 at 8 o'clock in the Audio Visual Aids Department. The program for the evening consisted of a movie, "Troubled Journey" and a talk on steelhead fishing by Bob Sayre, District Fishery Biologist.

All students interested in joining the club are urged to be at the next meeting. Watch the bulletins!

Largest Delegation At SOEA Is From EOC

The second annual Student OEA Fall Conference was held on the Southern Oregon College Campus, Ashland, Oregon, on Friday and Saturday, October 16 and 17. The meeting was conducted by the state officers, Preston Butcher, President; Dick White, Vice President; Linda Kane, Secretary-Treasurer. The keynote address was given by Mrs. Maxine Smith, OEA President and the luncheon speaker was Dr. Turner, Professional Consultant of the OEA. The afternoon consisted of discussion groups and the final business meeting.

Congratulations to the EOC Student OEA chapter for having the largest delegation to attend the conference. The fourteen members consisted of Linda Kane, Carolyn Muller, Myrna Barreth, Verna Waterman, Donna Dooley, Mary Kay Gray, Pat Ward, Mike Ferguson, Moe Chester, Don Thompson, Bill Lovelady, Pat Kirkland, Oran Hutton and Floyd Swanson.

CALLING ALL FROSH!

Join! Join! Join! the ROOK RALLY ROUSERS! The club needs your support. It has been proven that we can out-yell the upperclassmen, if we have the wholehearted support of all Freshmen.

Wednesday, October 14, we elected officers for this year. Those elected were: Fred Kelly, President; Joan Kaufman, Vice President; Bev Trimble, Secretary-Treasurer; and Barbara Boyle, yell chairman.

The TRIPLE R group has accepted the responsibility of making this year's Mountaineer, for the homecoming celebration. We will make the biggest and best school emblem ever.

Remember, Freshmen, the ROOK RALLY ROUSERS need you.

On Thursday, November 10th, the Red Cross blood drive will be held here in La Grande at the armory from 10 A.M.-6 P.M.

There is always a need for blood, and each of us can help fill this need by taking the time to go down to the armory and donate our blood. All students under twenty-one must first receive permission from their parents. These permission slips may be obtained from the health center.

The blood drive will be in Union from 2-6 P.M. on November 9th for those of you unable to attend the La Grande drawing. Dr. Leonard Good is campus chairman for the Union County blood drive.

Are You Prepared If Polio Strikes?

Once again the health center would like to urge all students who have not completed their series of polio shots to do so as soon as possible. The center will gladly answer any questions anyone might have concerning these shots.

Oregon has had a definite increase in the number of polio cases this year, mainly because people failed to receive their shots. The next time you go home for a weekend see your doctor and get your shots; don't become a statistic.

Constitution Amended

Article V. Section XIII which is concerned with Nominations and Elections read as follows: There shall be only one official polling place for any election; it shall be located in the Administration Building. It shall be open at least seven consecutive hours; these hours shall be set by the elections committee chairman. After the election it now reads: There shall be only one official polling place for any election; it shall be located at a site convenient to the majority of the ASB as determined by the elections committee. It shall be open at least seven consecutive hours; these hours shall be set by the election committee chairman.

Article VII Section I which has to do with Student Council merely made an addition to the following: The voting members of the Student Council shall consist of the President, First Vice President, Second Vice President, Secretary, Business Manager, Beacon Editor, two Dorm Representatives, EOCene Representative, two off-campus Representatives, eight class Representatives and Rally Squad Leader.

Ardyce was on the "Ask Me" committee during New Student Days, was Class Representative in her Freshman year and was accompanist for Blue and Gold Singers last year. She is now serving as treasurer-historian of Sabers.

Mike was on the "Ask Me" representative-at-large on ASB in his sophomore year. He plays the tympanny in the school band and takes an active part in Sock and Buskin, where he has held several offices. At present, he is student teaching at Pendleton.

According to Ardyce and Mike, homecoming for this year will be the biggest and best yet, although several changes have been made. For example, the upper-classmen will not fight for the bonfire, but will, instead, fight for a torch which will be resting on a greased pole. If the upper-classmen get the torch, they will present it to the queen and burn the bonfire in their name. However, if the freshmen win, the honors will be all theirs. There will be no rally parade this year, nor will there be homecoming signs sponsored by various campus organizations, but there will be a parade with club-sponsored floats on Saturday afternoon. This year the coronation of the queen will be held on the steps facing "K" street.

It does promise to be the biggest and best yet, and we hope to see you there.

President Welcomes Alumni

We are happy for all of you who have found it possible to return for our annual Homecoming. Students and faculty alike are pleased at your return.

As you move about the campus you will note the additions that have been made since last you visited and the street improvement in progress at the present time. We have an allocation of funds from the last legislature for an addition to Hoke Hall. Work on this project is expected to begin in early spring and be completed with the opening of the school year in 1960. This construction will double our dance floor area at Hoke Hall, it will provide us a much enlarged kitchen with new facilities, it will double our coffee shop facilities, and will provide us temporarily with four new large classrooms. The bookstore will be re-located in the east end of the basement and other fine improvements and renovation will be included also.

Our enrollment has again this year struck a new high at 773 students. This we attribute to the growing interest and enthusiasm for Eastern Oregon College and the extended program that is now offered. This program includes, in addition to the terminal course work, the pre-professional work, and the elementary teacher training work previously offered, the bachelor's degree in secondary education, the bachelor of science and bachelor of arts degree in the liberal arts leading to degrees in the broad general stuudies area, and a master's degree in both elementary and secondary education.

We hope you will join in the activities of the day and become an enthusiastic booster at the 2:00 p.m. football game with Portland State College.

It is a delight to have you on campus.

Cordially,
Frank B. Bennett,
President.

Cast A Ballot, Students

I am beginning to wonder what "freedom to vote" really means. Or is there such a thing? Perhaps voting for one's own rights and choice of leaders is outmoded, strictly "old-fashioned." EOC has had two elections this year. The first, concerning constitution changes which will effect the government of the school for years to come, drew only one-fifth of the student body members to the polls. Only 20% of the students were concerned enough with the future of their college to stop two minutes, produce their student body card, and cast a ballot.

Things could be looking up, however, as the next election drew about 31% of the members of the student body to the polls. This was to elect a Homecoming Queen. Voting was made easier, and the polls situated in a more convenient place for this election. Maybe this was the reason more people voted. Then again, maybe a Homecoming queen is more important than changes in the constitution. However, the first election, (unaware to about 80% of the student body) made possible the convenience in voting for the queen. One of the amendments was definitely concerned with making it easier for you, as a student, to vote.

The indication might be that only 20% of our future leaders will vote for tax bills and amendment changes, and 30% will cast a ballot for president—if she is a glamour queen. Other indications, however, might prove that 10% more of our leaders will vote at each election, no matter what the degree of importance, and will see to it that their ideas and ideals are boosted by their votes. Why not start with your present government and utilize the opportunity to be a part of a great democracy?

Music Notes

By Ruth Combs

Seventeen of the thirty students that auditioned were chosen for the Blue and Gold Singers. They are as follows: Judy Millering, Patsy Hutchinson, Ruth Combs, Jean Erickson, Kay Young, Larry Taylor, Bob Miller, Sylvia Thompson, Sheila Statler, Daisy Good, Beth Combs, Karin Stewart, Dale Moulton, Jim Boatman, Dennis Godfrey, Warren Good, and Lewis Stilwell. They are planning to sing at the Homecoming Talent Show.

EOC Chorus and Men's Quartet are giving their first performance at the Coffee Hour after the game.

Dr. Neil Wilson is soloist at a Voice Recital, scheduled for Wednesday, November 18th at 10:00 a.m. in the College Auditorium. Erma Puls will accompany him on the piano.

Men's Quartet members are Larry Taylor, Bob Miller, Lewis Stilwell, and Dale Moulton. New blazers of navy blue are showing off the EOC Chorus this year. Twenty years ago the maroon robes were purchased for the choir and have been worn (out) until this year.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb says: Hey, Mac, have you heard the latest? Seems there has been a "peeping Tom" in the vicinity of Dorion the past few nights.

Mac says: Sonuds interesting, but what impresses me the most is the Homecoming court for this year; Marcia MacPherson, Gail Fisher, and Judy Wardell. Speaking of Homecoming, Herb, shall we go hunting or go to the dance?

Herb says: Ah, let's go to the dance. It's worth it, even if we get our noses slammed in the door and our girls paper their rooms with pink demerit slips.

Mac says: Things aren't so bad as they seem, Herb. The girls once again have been trusted with the milk machine.

Herb says: How about that! But what about this epidemic of suitcasism that has struck and left its mark on Dorion. Seventy-five girls checked out last weekend with the complaint that there was nothing to do. There were only two dances and a ballgame. What's next Mac?

Mac says: Maybe I shouldn't say this Herb, but confidentially, Dorian's dorm president didn't get in until 7:00 the other morning. Perhaps I should add that Carolyn was among many EOC representatives to the SOEA convention at Southern Oregon. Guess that about winds it up, right?

Herb says: Yeah, I've said all I can. I'm just hoping that Homecoming is a big success.

Mac says: Me too.

Faculty Corner

by Wendy Johnson

Worthy of being in the Beacon Limelight are some of the distinguished faculty members on campus.

Look at Alene Gossage "why," just recently she was elected National Delegate at large for the Kindergarten-Primary Department of the N.E.A. In January she will attend the National Executive meeting which will be held in Washington, D.C.

Important members featured on a panel last week, discussing music and art in the curriculum at an Oregon Elementary School Principals Association meeting were, Dr. Lynn Bishop, Dr. Frank Bennett and Mrs. Leona Golz.

On November 6, Dr. Lyle Johnson will attend a conference of the Northwest College Personnel Association, held in Spokane, Washington. He will also be featured as a panel member discussing the topic of Disciplinary Counseling. Dorothy Winters, Dean of Women, and Howard Anderson, assistant Dean of Men, will also attend this meeting.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Madame Editor:

This article is being written to protest a situation on this campus. The situation of which I speak has been brought about by—for lack of a better name—hoodlums on the EOC campus. It is time for the things occurring here at EOC to be put into print for all to see.

Let me be specific. For example, the chances were bright a week ago to leave Hoke Hall open for dancing on weekends when no social activities were planned. But this week someone broke into Hoke Hall and ruined any chance of our dancing there on those long, boring weekends unless a chaperon is present. And as far as chaperons are concerned, the ASB Social Committee has to really go to find them for scheduled dances. Someone ruined a good thing for the students of EOC.

On the same night that Hoke was broken into, the lady working in the coffee shop attempted to turn at least one light on in the lounge where students were dancing with not a light on. Several of the students dancing there would not allow the light to be turned on, and, in doing so, showed disrespect toward the lady, despite the fact that she is in charge of Hoke at night and above all, she is a lady. Is someone trying now to foul up our privilege of dancing on weekends? If so, this will be a long, boring year.

Another thing ,the initiation of freshman students has degenerated into a farce. There have been cases of clothing ruined and personal items broken or lost because of the way some of the upperclassmen are conducting this initiation. There is no reason for these things to happen. Evidently more control and restrictions are necessary because some people can't conduct themselves in a proper manner.

This year the Student Council asked the Lettermen's Club to enforce the rules of the freshman initiation and they have done just that; except that there are those few individuals, known to every person on this campus, who have chosen to ignore any rules and have turned the initiation into a grim, one-sided battle against the freshmen. The fun has gone from the whole thing, even for many of the upperclassmen, simply because of the actions of this small group of immature hoodlums who will do things as they see fit.

For the freshman student, the initiation has become a tiresome, prolonged experience which seems to have no end. For that small minority of students who have abused their rights as students of this college, it has become a period of bullying, exploitation, and sometimes, drunken fun. The initiation has proven to be a triumph of male muscle over young females. Are you gentlemen proud?

We are not animals. We were given a brain to reason with and supposedly we are civilized. Our purpose for being at EOC is to learn and grow both physically and mentally—together. Senior, Junior, Sophomore, or Freshman; we are all students at EOC. Is is not right for a particular group to have so much control over other people who are equal in every way. This entire situation has lost all proportion. It must be ended, even if individuals are to be named. This year has started badly in several ways. Now is the time to right those wrongs. Only we can do it.

Signed,
Keith Dalton

Closing Date On Fellowship Nominations

Dr. Roy L. Skeen, Eastern Oregon College campus representive for the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, today announced Oct. 31 as the closing date for nominations.

According to Dr. Skeen, the chief purpose of the fellowship program is to offset the critical shortage of qualified college teachers by encouraging college seniors and graduates of outstanding ability to consider college teaching careers.

1000 Fellowships

The Wilson Foundation annually awards 1000 fellowships for first year graduate study at any university of the recipients' choice in the United States or Canada. These fellowships carry a stipend of $1500 plus full tuition and fees, and, in the case of married Fellows, a dependency allowance for wives and children.

Dr. Skeen emphasized that candidates for the award must be nominated by a faculty member, but there is no limit on the age of the candidate or the number of years he may have been out of college. The program is open to college graduates in the natural and social sciences and in the humanities. Both men and women are eligible.

2 Additional Study Courses Added At EOC

Two new courses have been added to the Eastern Oregon College program of evening classes, according to Dr. Roy L. Skeen, director of general education.

The courses are Methods and Research Materials: Geography, Tuesday; and Creative Writing, Wednesday. Both classes meet from 7-10 p.m.

Another change in schedule was noted with Constructive Accounting (beginning) scheduled for Wednesday.

Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar, indicated that persons may still register for the evening courses at the next class meetings. The complete schedule includes: Monday—Psychology of Adolescence; Orchestra. Tuesday—Methods and Research Materials: Geography; Shakespeare; Enameling; Plastic Craft and Painting. Wednesday—Weaving, and Creative Writing.

EOC Professors To Be Featured

Three Eastern Oregon College staff members will be featured on a panel during the Oregon Elementary School Principals Association meeting in Salem Monday and Tuesday.

The panel, "Music and Art in the Curriculum," includes Dr. Frank B. Bennett, EOC president; Dr. Lynn Bishop, professor of music education; and Leona Golz, assistant professor of education.

The theme of the state-wide conference is "Jack and Jean in the Curricular Scene."

In addition to the EOC representatives, there will be large representation of Union County and La Grande elementary school principals in attendance, including Wilbur Osterloh, new Union County school superintendent.

New 7 A.M. Classes Get Nodding Approval

At the jarring sound of the alarm, students are struggling out of bed and into the class room. It was necessary to offer classes at 7:00 in German, Introductory Geography, and History of Western Civilization.

The general census is that students that are lucky enough to wake up in time to make these classes are even luckier if they can take intelligent notes between yawns.

Mountaineers Bow To Wenatchee JC

The Wenatchee JC Knights, capitalizing on a lax Mountie pass defense, took to the air and defeated the Mountaineers 25-13 in a hard fought ballgame Saturday night at the Mountaineer Field.

Passing was the big difference as the Knights, using the fine passing of quarterback, Pete Ohler, rolled up two touchdowns in the second period to lead 13-0 at the half. Ohler completed 11 of 14 passes with three of them going for scores. The Mounties scored in the third period on a 1-yard plunge by fullback John Willmarth. In the fourth period, EOC scored again on an 11 yard pass from quarterback Jon Houk to end Phil Miller. But it wasn't enough as Wenatchee scored also to ice the game.

Scoring;

Wenatchee—Joe Bell (34 yd. pass) Mike Claboe (10 yd. pass) Fred Smith (2 yd. pass) Roy Cameron (8 yd. run) PAT (kick by Jim Martin).

EOC—Willmarth (1 yd. plunge) Miller (11 yd. pass from Houk) PAT Willmarth (kick)

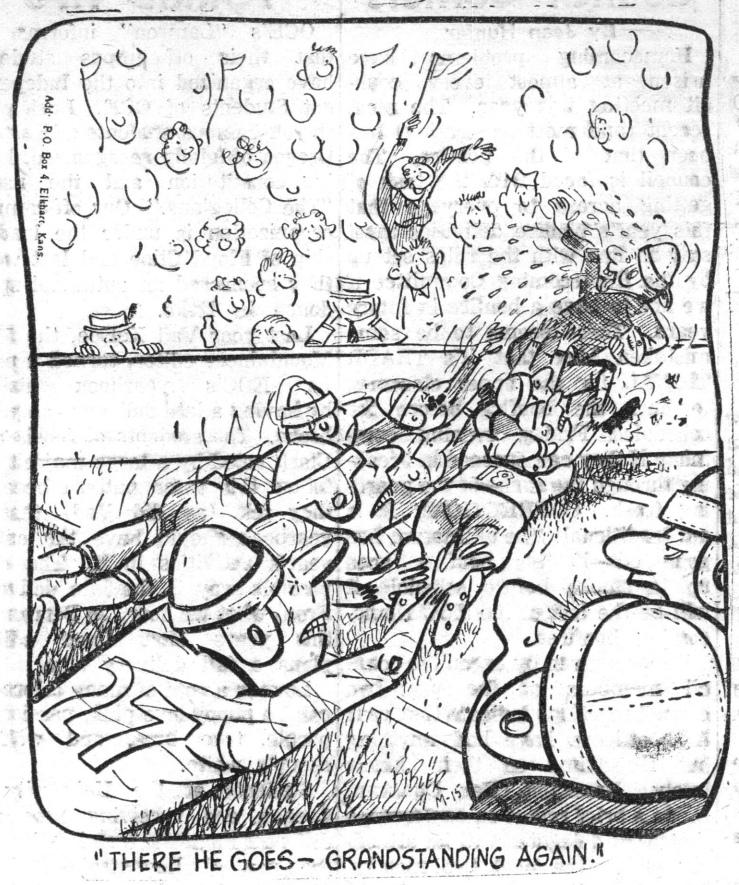
EOC Works On Pass Defense

The Mountaineers sat back and licked their wounds this week following Saturday's 25-13 loss to Wenatchee JC. Two more players were added to the growing injury list as Coach Arch Dunsmoor prepares his charges for next week's homecoming game against Portland State on the Mountaineer field.



Big Bill McCadden, a doubtful starter against the Knights, reinjured his shoulder in the third period and Dave Harmon, 180-pound second-year end, is out with a knee injury. Added to the loss of Jerry Williams and Dennis Bagnall a week ago against Oregon Tech, the Mountaineer picture looks pretty grim.

Dunsmoor was pretty disappointed with the loss to the junior college eleven, their first in three meetings in a rivalry that goes back to 1953. Pass defense, a problem witth the Mountaineers all season, was the big factor in the loss last week.

Pete Ohler completed 11 of 14 passes against the Mounties and Dunsmoor is planning changes for the Portland State game. The Vikings boast a fine passer, like most of the teams EOC has faced tthis year, in Ward Sayles. Sayles at the end of last week's action ranked second in passing statistics.

"Portland State passes well and now everybody will be throwing against us," Dunsmoor said.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

These Are The Mounties

John Willmarth is the 5:11, 197 lb. Fullback of the Mountaineers. Big John is a hard runner and a bruising tackler. He is an honor student in school in his junior year. John is near the top in OCC scoring. He kicks the extra points for the Mounties.

Jon Houk, 19 years old:, the 5:8, 155 Quarterback is a good ball handler and can run and pass the ball equally well. Jon comes from Stanfield.

George Aliverti, the Left Half, is from Walla Walla and stands 5:8, weighs 155 lbs., and is 18 years old. George is a fine runner and has lots of drive. He is hard to bring down when he gets going.

Sam "Clickety" Clack is the sophomore right half from Union. Sam is a fast, shifty runner and not much of a target to bring down. He is 5:7, weighs 165 lbs, and is 21 years old. He gets the yardage when it's needed.

Chuck Hughbanks is the senior left end for the Mounties. He is 5:11 and weighs 160 lbs. Chuck has good hands and is fast. He is one of the mainstays of the EOC forward wall. Chuck comes from Prineville.

Dean Keefer, the left tackle, is from La Grande and is 5:11, 195 lbs., 19 years old. Dean is a tiger on defense and always a tough problem for the opposition to solve.

Junior Jim Neece is 20 years old, 5:10, and 170 lbs. He is from Prineville and holds down the left guard spot for the Mountaineers. Jim can always be counted on to give the opposing team plenty of headaches.

The center is Bill McCadden, who is the old man of the squad and a big man at 210 lbs. "Big Bill" handles the ball well and can be counted on to get that ball back.

Daryl Corey plays Right Guard and is a real cmpetitor who doesn't give up. "Butch" is 5:8, 160 lbs., and is 20 years old. He can be called a "clutch" ballplayer and a real mainstay in the Mountaineer line.

Bob Salter is from Ione and is the Right Tackle fr EOC. He weighs 215 pounds and uses the weight to good advantage. Bob is good on both offense and defense.

Junior Phil Miller is 20 years old and plays right end for the Mounties. Phil has been excellent on both offense and defense and against Wenatchee Valley College made a nice catch of a pass from Jon Houk to score one of EOC's TD's. He is from La Grande.

Head Coach Archie Dunsmoor has been at Eastern Oregon since 1955 and has done a fine job. He attended OCE and the University of Oregon. He has a M.S. Degree and besides coaching Varsity athletics Mr. Dunsmoor teaches Physical Education and Coaching classes.

The assistant head coach is Donald Campbell, who has been at EOC since 1957. Mr. Campbell also has a M.S. from the U. of O. Besides assisting with the coaching chores, he instructs Physical Ed classes.

Dunsmoor singled out Ray Porter for an outstanding game against the Knights and added that John Willmarth did his usual fine job for EOC. Willmarth, as in the past, will be used at both guard and fullback against State.

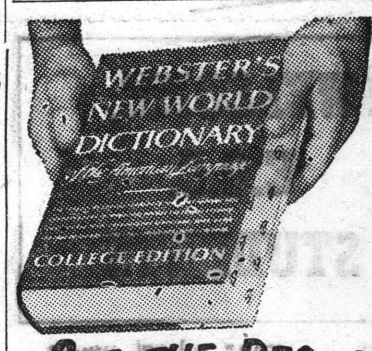
Sports Desk

by Keith Dalton

John Willmarth, the Mountaineers big fiullback, earned a very nice writeup in the Campus Canvass column of the Oregon Journal. The writer, Carl Cluff, commented on the fact that John held the OCC scoring lead for a week but was the victim of a mix-up in statistics. I quote.

"Once in a while a deserving athlete is overlooked, or in this case, the victim of inaccurate statistical work. Eastern Oregon's fine fullback — he's an honor student too — was deprived of his rightful place as scoring leader of the Oregon Collegiate last week when four PAT's were misplaced. In one game—against Oregon College at Monmouth—John produced his single game high point total when EOC rolled up 28 points against the Wolves.



John contributed two TDs and four PAT's for 16 points. He picked up another PAT against Oregon Tech Saturday at Klamath Falls but OTI's Allen Leach moved back into the scoring lead with a pair of touchdowns."

Need more be said? We all know at EOC that John is the best fullback in the OCC. It's nice to see the Portland sport's writers begininng to take notice of EOC. While they are at it, we have a few more ballplayers worthy of note. Sometimes I wonder if the Portland sports writers don't think that Eastern Oregon College is somewhere in the Utah desert judging by the amount of notice the Mounties get.

Ray Porter, Freshman tackle from Pilot Rock, played a fine game on defense against Wenatchee JC. After the ballgame Saturday night, the announcers and spotters were unanimous in their praise of the defensive job Porter turned in. One announcer estimated that the big tackle was in on at least 85% of the tackles. Could he be All-Conference material?

The Mountaineers meet the Portland State Vikings in the Homecoming Game Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. on Mountaineer Field. The Vikings won their first game last Saturday, defeating Oregon College 10-0. EOC defeated Oregon College 28-7 several weeks ago. Saturday's game should be a good one. Be sure and get out and support the Mounties.

EOC Defeated 26-7 By Oregon Tech

Oregon Technical Institute of Klamath Falls scored three touchdowns in the first half and went on to defeat the EOC Mountaineers 26-7 in an OCC game at Klamath Falls.

The passing was the big difference in the game. OTI connected on 8 of 14 attempts, for a passing yardage of 194 yards. OTI picked up eleven first downs to EOC's six. Total yardage for OTI was 296 yards compared to 156 yards for EOC.

Eastern Oregon's lone touchdown came in the third quarter. An OTI punt was returned to the 28 yard line. In seven plays the Mounties marched 72 yards for the score. The seventh play was a pass play from quarterback Jon Houk to end Phil Miller, good for 37 yards and the score. John Willmarth kicked the extra point, his fifth straight in conference play. This loss may cost the Mounties their chances for the conference title because either Oregon Tech or Southern Oregon may go through the season undefeated.

Two EOC starting players were injured and will be out for the season. Dennis Bagnall, freshman end, suffered a broken collarbone in the first half, and halfback Jerry Williams, who was second in conference rushing statistics, broke a leg in the second half.

Outstanding in this game were John Willmarth on both offense and defense and George Aliverti on offense.

Scoring: EOC—Miller (37 yard pass-run from Houk). PAT: Willmarth (kick).

OTI—Leach 2 (92 yard punt return) (34 yard pass-run from Johnson); Tennerson (5 yard run); (Wilson (45 yard pass interception). PATs: Maupin (kick); Wilson (kick).

'Greased Pole' Event For EOC Homecoming

Tradition in the Eastern Oregon College Homecoming festivites will have added another event, as this year marks the inaugural of upperclassmen-freshmen "greased pole competition for the symbolic torch." Festivities begin Friday.

Torch To Queen

The class winning the competition will have the honor of presenting the torch to the homecoming queen at the Friday night coronation. The queen will then light the traditional bonfire. Candidates for queen include Judy Wardell, La Grande; Gail Fisher, Haines; and Marcia MacPherson, Union.

Highlighting the weekend activity is Saturday's game, EOC and Portland State at 2 p.m., preceded by the Homecoming parade at 1 p.m.

The complete schedule: Friday —3 p.m., competition for the torch; 8, coronation; 8:30, pep rally; 8:45, bonfire and burning of the "O"; Saturday— 10 a.m.-12 noon, alumni registration in Hoke; 11 a.m., alumni business meeting; 1, parade; 2, EOC and Portland State; 8, variety show, theatre; 9, homecoming dance, Coliseum.

'59-'60 Rodeo Club Officers Selected

Skip Gregory was elected 1959-'60 president at a recent meeting of the Rodeo Club. Other officers chosen were: vice president, Allan Duby; secretary-treasurer, Kay Sherer; publicity director, Sandra Lenhoff.

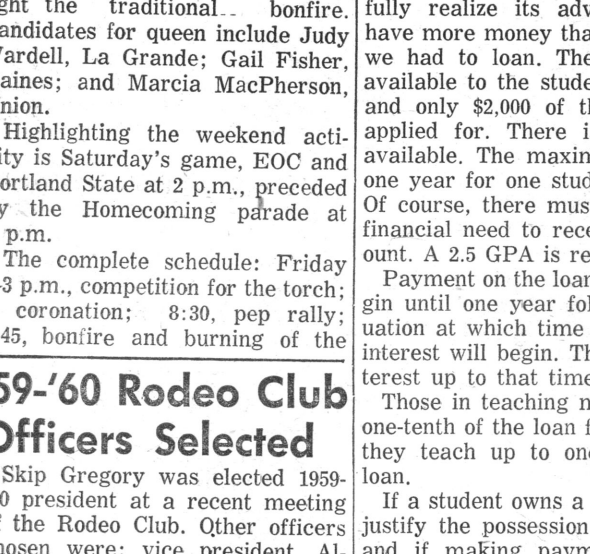
Plans were made for Homecoming weekend and a float committee was chosen.

Rodeo club meetings have been set for the second Tuesday of every month. Anyone who is interested is invited to attend the meetings.

Investigate The Student Loan Plan

Students should really know more about the Federal Loan Plan at Eastern Oregon College and fully realize its advantages. We have more money than we thought we had to loan. There is $10,000 available to the students for loans and only $2,000 of this has been applied for. There is still $8,000 available. The maximum loan for one year for one student is $1,000. Of course, there must be proof of financial need to receive any amount. A 2.5 GPA is required

Payment on the loan does not begin until one year following graduation at which time a 3 per cent interest will begin. There is no interest up to that time.



Those in teaching may write off one-tenth of the loan for each year they teach up to one-half of the loan.

If a student owns a car, he must justify the possession of such car and if making payments on the car, he is not eligible for a loan.

If a freshman wants to borrow before the end of this term, his high school record is used as a basis. About a B average is required.

A student may apply at any time. If someone is interested in applying for the loan or has any questions, he should see Dr. Lyle Johnson.

Council Corners

By Jean Hunter

Homecoming problems have arisen at almost every council meeting this year. The most recent (and most frustrating) has been that of the bonfire. The council is faced with the task of getting across to everyone that this year's bonfire activities must stay in line with the rules set up by the Homecoming Committee if we are to have a bonfire in future years. There seems to be some mistaken idea that it's TRADITIONAL for the upper classmen to burn the bonfire before the scheduled Friday evening ceremony if they can succeed in breaking through the ranks of the guarding frosh. CORRECTION! It is not traditional! The ultimatum has gone out—if this bonfire goes up in smoke before schedule it will be the last of the EOC Homecoming bonfires.

Reports given by executive council members at the past two council meetings indicate that your ASB officers have had anything but free time on their hands lately. President, Bev Donovan, made a brief report on conferences that EOC delegates will be attending within the next two months. Of prime importance were the Student Union confab in Moscow, Idaho, November 5, 6, and 7, and the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders' meeting in Corvallis December 4 and 5.

A little early in the season, but still of interest to council members, was Bev's announcement that Mr. Oscar Porch of La Grande will donate a huge fir tree from his back yard to be decorated and placed on campus for the Christmas season.

Elections Chairman, Jean Hunter, gave a brief acount of the Homecoming elections results and turnout. Some 262 students voted in last Friday's election. The question of setting up an absentee ballot system was brought up and a committee will be appointed to work on this. The need for some sort of absentee voting is becoming more obvious with each ASB election. Students who are required to be off campus for athletic events, student conferences, student teaching, and illness, would be allowed to cast absentee ballots if the committee can come up with an adequate plan. Suggestions from members of the Student Body are welcomed by this committee.

A somewhat self-satisfied Social Chairman, Don Shore, announced that the 1959-60 social calendar has been completed and is now in the hands of EOC students. This is the first year that we have had a printed calendar of this type that includes the dates of activities for the whole year. When more activities are ready to go on the social calendar, Don's committee will issue a supplementary list so they can be entered on your original calendar. I might point out that Don not only worked up a much nicer calendar this year, but he also saved quite a bit of ASB money in doing so.

Virginia Wellington, Business Manager, met with the rally squad last week and finally managed to reach an agreement about the expenditures of rally squad money. ASB funds will be used to purchase skirts, sweaters, and letters for the song leaders this year. Yell Dukes already have their white sweaters which were purchased last year. Tarry Clifton also pointed out that the Lettermen's club had donated $50.00 to the Rally Squad toward the purchase of their outfits.

I'd like to remind you again that you, as a member of the EOC Student Body, have a right to attend any of the student council meetings in which you are interested. Although you will not have a vote on this council, you will always be given the opportunity to express your views and opinions if you attend the meetings. So far this year, we have had excellent attendance at council meetings both by voting council members and by non-voting organization representatives. Even if you have no axe to grind, we encourage you to sit in on at least one council meeting so you can become acquainted with the functioning of your student government. Time, date and place of each meeting are posted on the bulletin boards at least three days prior to the meeting.

TORRID TIPS

OCE's "Lamron" informs us that their off-campus students have organized into the Independent Students of OCE. Last year the off-campus students of Eastern Oregon officially reorganized, having constitution and the name "The Collegians." Our off-campus organization is under the leadership of Floyd Cline and last week they sponsored an autumnal sport dance in Hoke.

Last year Vad Kelsoe, the 58-59 Mountaineer editor, turned a page in EOC's yearbook history by having a late delivery—on yearbooks. The students of Lewis and Clark voted by a large majority to follow this same pattern because they felt (as did Vad) that a yearbook should have the entire year's activities in it. The only possible way is the late delivery. From what we hear, Jo Berryman, this years Mountaineer editor, plans a fall delivery also.

Love is a coat of many colors: It can be puppy-love pink, passionate purple, true blue, and wolf-in-sheep's white.

Students at the University of Oregon are receiving new and different linguistic training through the use of linguatraining labs. In these labs language students receive almost private instruction from a tape recording played from a main control center. Mrs. Pointon, our French and Spanish instructor, has been looking into a similar "set-up" for EOC.

Boise Junior College's newspaper "The Roundup" tells of charging 25c per person for record dances sponsored by the student union. Think how fortunate we are—we only have to show our ASB cards!

Associated Women Students on the U. of C. campus has abolished study table. This might be a timely article with our mid-terms only two weeks away. Quiet hours are still being enforced though—Hey Dorionites! Don't breathe a sigh of relief, this is only on Oregon's campus. Along with quiet hours, all gals with blue slips will be seen trudging down to study table four nights weekly after mid-terms.

Most interesting! The editorial from "The Pioneer Log," Lewis and Clark, discusses the students not taking full advantage of their library privileges for which they pay. Makes you stop and think. You are paying for your library privileges—are you getting your money's worth?

Don Shore, we're mighty proud of your new step in the right direction — calendar-wise. Which reminds us of our advice to those who are in need—and you know who they are! ! !

TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK

Be wise, and socialize.

More Cast Members Listed For "Cadillac"

The following names were inadvertently left out in listing the cast of the "Solid Gold Cadillac" in the last issue of the Beacon. Those members of the cast are: Robert Schott, Richard Domey, Larry Wilder, Dan Yturraspe, and Greg Baker.

An additional feature is the fact that arrangements are being made with the Visual Aids Department to film some sequences of the play to incorporate them into the performance.

Annual pictures will be taken October 28, 29, and 30 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Hoke, Room 8.

Senior Class Pictures:

Caps and gowns will be provided. You will receive six proofs for $1.00; the school will pay the other $1.00.

These will be taken of all students who did not get their picture taken during registration. For $1.00 you will get two proofs.

Will Speak In Theater Monday A.M.

Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts will speak at 10:00 Monday morning, November 9, in the college theater. La Grande is one of the few places Senator Kennedy will be appearing while he is touring Oregon. He is being thought of as a possible Presidential nominee of the Democratic party. Dr. Gordon Clarke, who heard Kennedy speak at the annual meeting of the League of Oregon Cities, said, ". . . it was the finest speech I have ever heard."

Mr. Kennedy, who was born in Brookline, Massachusetts, May 29, 1917, is the son of Joseph Patrick Kennedy Sr., former U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain (1937-40).

John Kennedy graduated cum laude from Harvard in 1940. He received his B. S. in economics. While still at Harvard, he wrote his first book, "Why England Slept," which was published in 1940. Another book, "Profiles in Courage," published in 1956, was one of the top books sold in the United States last year.

After college, Kennedy served as a lieutenant in the Navy. He was a PT boat oommander, 1941-45 in the South Pacific. For his courageous and heroic deeds during this time he received the Navy and Marine Corps Medal and the purple heart.

In 1946 he was elected to the House of Representatives from the 11th Massachusetts district. At 29 Kennedy was one of the youngest men to be seated in the House. He was a member of the 80th-82nd Congress.

In January of 1950, the University of Notre Dame conferred an honorary Doctor of Laws degree on representative Kennedy.

In 1953 Kennedy was elected as senator of Massachusetts. In November, 1958, he made a Democratic record by being re-elected senator by a majority of 850,000 votes.

He has served on numerous committees in Congress during this time.

And what will he do in 1960? Nobody knows, but perhaps some indication might be given by his address on Monday.

Theta Delta Phi's Meet at EOC

Eastern Oregon College has the honor of having the National Theta Delta Phi convention here November 6 and 7.

According to Pat Kirklin, the local president, Southern Oregon College in Ashland, Oregon College of Education in Monmouth, and Portland State College will be some of the schools participating.

The program will begin today, Friday November 6, with registration from 4:00 to 6:30 p.m. From 6:30 to 7:30 a banquet will be held and from 7:30 to 9:30 will be initiation. At 9:00 a dance will be held in Hoke hall.

On Saturday from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m. a business meeting will be be held to elect officers. Then at 11:30 the convention will adjourn.

SUE SWITZER
State Secretary of OFCL

EOC'ers To Attend OFCL State Meet

The Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders will have its 15th annual convention on the Oregon State College campus December 4 and 5.

The OFCL is made up of all colleges and universities in Oregon. Student leaders of these schools convene each fall to better inter-school relations, discuss problems common to all student bodies, and discover new projects which they might innovate on their campuses. The representatives leave few aspects of student life, government, or publications uncovered.

Eleven colleges and universities attended last year's convention with a total of about 80 delegates.

EOC is planning to send five delegates this year. Sue Switzer, who is the state secretary for OFCL, and who has been corresponding with the other state officers making plans for the 1959 convention, will be one delegate. Beverly Donovan, ASB student body president, is another delegate. Bev will lead a discussion at the meeting. Mrs. Winters will be the chaperone. The other delegates have not as yet been chosen.

Sabers Announce New Fall Pledges

Sabers, EOC women's service organization, recently announced acceptance of seven new pledges for this fall term. These women are: Pat Ward, Joyce Kay, Susan Haines, Judy Wardell, Sharon Noyes, Mary Jean Riese and Jean Severin.

Chosen, among other factors, upon the basis of their service to the campus and contribution to college activities, the women in this group may reach a quota of 10 per cent of the Associated Women's Student Body. President of the organization is Vad Kelsoe.

A recent addition to the Saber uniform of navy skirts and sweaters with white blazers are the gold and navy organizational emblems.

Immediate project of the group is helping with the local Union County Red Cross Blood drive. The drive will be held at the armory, November 10.

Dorion Receives Mt. Hood Picture

Last Tuesday night Dr .and Mrs. Bolen presented a beautiful picture, depicting Mt. Hood at sunset, to the officers of Dorion Hall. Carolyn Muller, house president, officially presented the picture to the girls at their guest night last Wednesday. This picture is now the center of attraction in Dorion cafeteria.

The girls of Dorion appreciate the generosity of Dr. Bolen, who also made it possible for Dorion to receive a stereophonic set last year. The girls thank Dr. and Mrs. Bolen.

Dr. Turner, Consultant Speaker

Notice to all members: Although the meeting, originally scheduled for Nov. 4th, was not held—"Don't get excited and don't be dismayed." The meeting has only been postponed, to be held on Wednesday, November 18, at 7:15 p.m., in Hoke Hall. The special speaker for the evening will be Dr. E. Turner. She is a consultant for professional services for O.E.A. in Portland. According to Student O.E.A. president, Linda Kane, Dr. Turner is a "fabulous speaker and you will really enjoy hearing her!" Better try and make it S.O.E.A. members! Remember refreshments will be served.

S.O.E.A. members worked enthusiastically selling mums during Homecoming Season. Their enthusiasm really paid off, as the results spelled SUCCESS! And that sounds good to any group who tackles a job with vim and vigor!

The 1959-60 hand books have been received which will enable members to know more "scoop" about their organization of S.O.E.A. All they have to do now to learn is to "read and retain."

Be sure you see "The Solid" Gold Cadillac", 8:00 p.m., November 12, 13, and 14 in the College Theater presented by Sock and Buskin.

Red Cross Plans City Blood Drive

The next Red Cross blood drawing will be held at the armory in La Grande, November 10, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

We urge anyone who can to participate in this program by donating a pint of blood, as frequently a supply of blood or plasma that is immediately available means the saving of a life.

Single persons under 21 years of age are required to have parental consent for the blood donations. Blanks for this purpose are available at the Student Health Office.

Appointments can be scheduled with members of the Sabers in Hoke Hall on Monday morning, November 9. Transportation will be available through the Red Cross Motor Corps.

If you have questions, contact Mrs. Osterholme in the Student Health Office, or Dr. Good in room 16, Administration Building.

George Hopkins Plays At Assembly

George Hopkins a noted pianist from the University of Oregon, played for us in our Wednesday Oct. 27 assembly. He played modernistic compositions of Albert Ginastera, who is a promising composer of Buenos Aires. Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Ginastera through corresponding have come to know each other. Mr. Ginastera has sent several pieces to Mr. Hopkins. Those played were, Suite De Danzas Criollas, Sonata, Rondo Sobre Temas Infantiles Argentions, six American Preludes, Milonga, Malamba. The program, though quite different from the usual, aroused an interest in many students, as shown by the large attendance.

5 Delegates Attend Moscow Confab

Five EOC delegates are attending the district Student Union Conference this weekend at the University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho. The confab began Thursday, November 5 and will extend through Saturday noon.

Such topics as the organization, activities and financing of a college Student Union will be discussed, and there will be informal sessions in which delegations can exchange ideas and advice with schools of comparable size.

Miss Chris Nicoloff, attending as advisor, will be accompanied by EOC Student Union Chairman, Gene Holt, and his committee members, Bea Peterson, Sally Sturdivan and Jim Morris.

Coffee or Culture?

Although several people filled the seats of the college theater last Wednesday to hear the pianist, George Hopkins, from the University of Oregon, several were absent. It was reported that Hoke Coffee Shop was literally "crowded" at 10:00 a.m. with students as well as faculty members. It is too bad these people missed this concert, as they would have learned a great deal about music from Argentina and how much of a composer's personality is reflected by his compositions.

The real pity, however, is that these people on campus are starting out all wrong. They are not taking advantage of a wonderful thing. Personalities come to EOC from all over Oregon and from various other states in the U.S. People from all walks of life with different ideas and talents bring these ideas and talents to share with you and to profit you both scholastically and culturally.

Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, a possible Presidential nominee of the Democratic party in the 1960 election, will be on this campus Monday. Everyone should definitely hear this man speak. He is one of the finest speakers you will probably ever hear.

Why not evacuate Hoke coffee shop Monday morning at 10:00 and help fill the seats in the college theater. You will find it well worth your while.

To Whom It May Concern—

I wish to thank the student council, faculty members, and alumni, who, by their advice, cooperation and actual labor, made the 1959 Homecoming successful.

Appreciation is expressed to Ardyce Garrett and Mike Ferguson for the excellent job they did as co-chairmen of Homecoming.

Special thanks should go to the advisors of organizations who contributed their efforts for the parade and to Mr. Merrill for his contributions as freshmen class advisor.

Thank you again.

Sincerely yours,
Harold Dorn.

Keep Your Notes Hot

Here you are, student, at the last day of mid-term week. If you will wander into Hoke, meander through the dorm, or casually stroll through the library, and if your hearing is tuned into the right frequency. you will probable hear such descriptive phrases as "Man, I really tubed that history test," or "I'm going home to bed, one week living on No-Doz-is just too much," or "Don't talk to me about it,"' then occasionally "I don't see how he did it. She barely studied at all, was in bed by 10:30, and aced the test."

Those of you who "Aced" your tests needn't finish reading this editorial, but those who didn't should continue reading . . . with vigor. Now is the time to study. Now and every day up to the time of mid-terms and finals. I was impressed as a freshman during my first days at EOC with a particular statement which was repeated over and over again: "Keep your notes hot." It is much easier to keep up with the few notes you have a day than it is to catch up on all of them right before a test. What kind of a house do you think a carpenter would build if, for weeks, he merely picked up supplies, left them in boxes, and piles, then the week before the house was to be finished, he began building? I guarantee it would not be a very sturdy house. If you are like this carpenter, gathering notes at each class meeting, letting them lie cold in your notebook for half a term, then pull them all out one week before your test, what could you expect your outcome to be?

Perhaps a word to the wise is sufficient. Finals always seem to approach at a much faster pace than mid-terms. Begin studying now. Keep your notes hot.

Club News

By ANABELLE TIDWELL

On November 3, 1959, the Outing Club showed two outstanding films on waterfowl, "Prairie Ducks" and "Behind the Flyways." During the weekend of November 14 and 15, the club will sponsor an overnight outing to Wallowa Lake. The club wishes to announce that in prospect for winter and spring term are a winter sports weekend; field trips to elk winter ranges . . . to sage grouse booming grounds; a winter trip via the Branch Line to Looking Glass; and an overnight into the high lake country.

The Collegians are very proud of the trophy which they share with IRC for having the best homecoming float. Collegians is a relatively new organization and all off campus students are members. The main purpose of the club is to unite campus and off campus students. Collegians meet on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday nights of each month. On the agenda for the Winter term, the club has planned something new in which all students will be invited to participate.

Last Friday night the Junior Class sponsored a Grubby dance from 9:30 till 11:30 at Hoke. Although most of the students were studying or at home for the weekend, the dance was still lots of fun. The "Grubby" theme was well carried out!

The Rodeo Club meets every 2nd Tuesday of the month. The new officers of the club are Skip Gregory, president; Alan Duby, vice- president; Kay Sherer, secretary; and Sanda Lenhoff, publicity chairman. In the spring the Rodeo Club hopes to attend several rodeos and to participate in the inter-collegiate finals at Pendleton. They plan to have a play day, also this Spring, for the whole college which will include barrel races, cow riding, bull dogging, and calf roping.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Lee Johnson, professor of history, has been appointed to the Oregon State Historical Society Board.

Miss Leona Golz is attending, Nov. 7, an executive board meeting of the Oregon Art Alliance at Ocean Lake, Oregon.

Dr. Joseph Gaiser has been on a visitation team this past week for the Northwest Association for Accreditation of Secondary and Higher Schools participating in an evaluation of Portland State College. Dr. Gaiser will evaluate and report on the social sciences.

Girls' Volleyball Winners Are Listed

Intramural teams played volleyball last Tuesday night. The victors were the "Hellcats" (the upperclassmen) over the "Frosh" and the "Offbeats" (off campus) over the "Mummies" (the married women). Both of the games proved to be 'doozers' with the scores very close. Any women interested in playing volleyball in fun-type competition are welcome to the WRA gym night every Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Ackerman gym.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: Have you noticed, Mac, the changed atmosphere in Dorion now that Homecoming is over and mid-terms are here? This week the girls are getting their chance to utilize the books they purchased at the beginning of the term. Back to Homecoming though, what's this I hear about you leading the raid on Dorion?

Mac: Yes, a "few" of my buddies and I decided to take a run over Dorion way to check on the possibilities of acquiring a few personal belongings of the girls. But to quote a well-known paper in La Grande, the "night riders" met with opposition from the heroic La Grande police — and just at the time we were thinking of forming a "human chain to scale the sacred walls of Dorion." For not doing much we gained considerable recognition.

Herb: Glad you brought up recognition because I wanted to thank Dr. Bolen in print for the picture he donated to Dorion's dining room. I'm told it gives the room the "homey" touch.

Mac: I understood elections were held a while back and those girls now elected to serve on the standards committee are Susan Chrisman, Carol Woodell, and Jane Bell. Are we through?

Herb: Just one thing to mull over: suitcasism still prevails! By the way, can I ride home with you this weekend?

Outing Club Likes Wallowa Lake Trip

By WENDY JOHNSON

Can you imagine anyone crawling out of bed in time to meet at Hoke hall by 8 a.m. last Saturday for a hike through the snow? That's exactly what 16 members of the Outing club did! According to reports everyone enjoyed themselves immensely and are ready to do it all over again. To show you why, here are a few of the highlights of the day. Just as everyone thought they would make it to Anthony lake without much trouble, the head car began sliding in the snow. Snow chains helped to solve the problem, but two cars that didn't have snow chains finally gave up and the passengers "hitched" a ride in the back of a pick-up with an elk hunter.

After a hike from Anthony Lake to Hoffer Lake the group stopped to thaw their feet and broil hamburgers for lunch. The boys were the chefs!

After lunch everyone hiked up the mountain to 8,000 feet above sea level where the snow fight began! With everyone a little tired and no one injured the return trip to the cars began.

At the close of the day every one had had a wonderful trip and were full of enthusiasm for the Wallowa Lake Outing.

During the last meeting held on Nov. 3, the members were entertained with two very outstanding films on waterfowl: "North With the Wavies" and "Behind the Flyways."

The program for the next outing, to be held on Nov. 14 and 15, includes hikes, movies, song fest and venison barbeque! You don't have to be a club member to come, but do be interested in exploring Eastern Oregon "God's Country." The club will spend the night at the Methodist church lodge at Wallowa Lake .

Important: Remember the next meeting Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Audio Visual Aids department. Officers will be elected and two movies will be shown: "Autumn Wings" and "Behind the Trophy." Will Brown, regional game supervisor, will give talk on game management.

Council Corner

By JEAN HUNTER

Student council meetings aren't what they used to be. This is not official, but chances are pretty good that your council has set a new record for holding two of the shortest regularly scheduled council meetings in the history of EOC! With an executive council composed of four women and one man this is, to say the least, unusual. Nevertheless, it's true. Our last two council meetings were adjourned within 35 minutes after the gavel banged to call the meeting to order. So your women student leaders have given you fellows proof that they can conduct student body business efficiently and without all the verbal wrangling you might have expected.

But is this good or bad? This efficiency seems to be paying off. We've had so few serious problems with student body affairs this year that it's becoming too good to be true. When a problem arises at a council meeting it is speedily placed in the hands of a committee and Presto! no long drawn out discussion by council members. But I sometimes wonder if a bit more discussion by all of the council wouldn't be a good idea. Perhaps too much of our ASB business is being doled out to various committees without proper consideration from the council as a whole. We are becoming so concerned with avoiding long drawn out arguments in these meetings that in several instances proposals have been voted upon immediately after being introduced, and then when they have already been passed, some doubts arise in the minds of a few but it's too late to throw them out for consideration. This tendency to rush things through started way last spring when some rather controversial financial proposals were pushed through at an unbelievable speed and were soberly regretted at leisure. This is the exception, not the rule, but it should be stopped before it becomes too common. A meeting once each week that lasts from one to two hours is not too much to expect from the officers who seemed to have so much time on their hands last spring.

La Garnde Rotarians have invited the members of your executive council to send a guest to their weekly luncheon meetings in an effort to acquaint student leaders with La Grande's business leaders. During the month of October, President Bev Donovan was the Rotarian's guest at each noon meeting, and reported that it was really a lot of fun and very interesting too. This month I will be representing the executive council at these meetings and will be followed by Don Shore, Sandi Thompson, and Virginia Wellington. This very nice gesture on the part of the La Grande Rotary club seems to be very successful.

The Oregon Collegiate Conference football season has ended. Oregon Technical Institute of Klamath Falls took the crown last Saturday with a 19-12 victory over a stubborn OCE team. That wraps the football season up in a nice package as far as conference play goes. Southern Oregon defeated the Mountaineers 25-7 for second place. All that remains now for the Mounties are two non-conference tilts, both away from home. Next weekend the Mounties travel to Aberdeen to play Grays Harbor. Tomorrow night they play Westminster College of Salt Lake City.

OREGON COLLEGIATE CONFERENCE

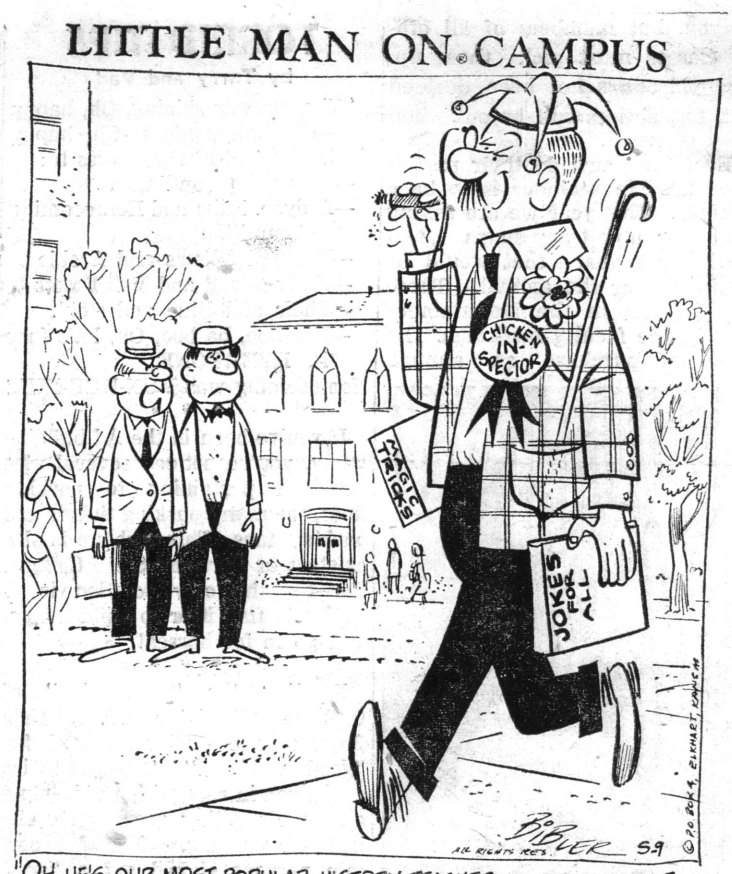
* Final standings.

Mountaineer halfback Sam "Clickety" Clack played a fine game against Portland State two weeks ago. His running spelled the difference in EOC's 7-0 victory. Sam really gave the Homecoming crowd something to yell about when he ran the pass interception back 34 yards to score the Mountaineers lone touchdown.

It looks as though Chuck Becker, freshman defensive halfback from Vale, is a real expert on turning pass interceptions into touchdowns. In a JV game against Whitman several weeks ago Chuck ran an intercepted pass back 75 yards to paydirt. Last Saturday against Southern Oregon Becker repeated this feat by again running 75 yards to score EOC's only touchdown. Chuck was an end on Vale's state championship football machine which has to date racked up 32 victories in a row. It's apparent that Becker is a fine ball player worth watching.

Despite the fact that OTI weathered the OCC football race without a loss, the conference race was much closer than the final standings show. This might very well be indicated by the rough time OTI had in defeating OCE, the cellar dwellers. It was actually a close race and a very satisfactory season on most counts. Here's hoping that next year it is just as close with EOC right on top.



Tackle Ray Porter has really been a defensive stalwart this season. EOC fans were able to see that fact in two games; especially the Wenatchee game and the Portland State game. During the course of the PSC game the comment was made that Ray would probably be a mighty tired boy when the game ended. It seemed that Porter was on the bottom of nearly every pile.

Basketball is just around the corner and by the next issue of the Beacon we hope to have a rundown on Mountaineer basketball for 1959-60.: From all indications Eastern Oregon will have a pretty good team.

Art Education Teacher At EOC To Ocean Lake

Leona C. Golz, assistant professor of art education at Eastern Oregon College, will attend the executive board meeting of the Oregon Art Alliance in Oceanlake Friday and Saturday.

Miss Golz, eastern Oregon trustee for the organization, indicated discussion of past art projects for the centennial would take place. Also included in the two-day meeting will be an illustrated lecture by Donald Sorenson, Oswego artist, and a visit to the Lincoln County Art Center to view the Ford exhibit of works on travel in Mexico.

Dissertation On A Rough Road

By J. M.

The street in front of Dorion Hall is hard on cars. My first encounter with this luxurious avenue was indeed a sorry event for me and my vehicle. I came roaring onto the unpaved car-trap in my auto at a considerable rate of speed. When I felt the impact of one of the baby boulders, I slowed down. My effort was in vain, however, because I broke a tire. My next experience was less costly but still one of remorse. I eased onto the graveled obstacle course more slowly, but still fast enough to shake my muffler loose. Moral: It is easier on cars to date townies than to date Dorion Dolls.

Mounties JV Squad Wins, 20-6

WHITMAN COLLEGE — (Special) — The Eastern Oregon College junior varsity Tuesday night defeated the Whitman JVs 20-6 at Walla Walla.

The young Mounties' scoring plays were of the big chunk variety. Gene Holt scored on a 30-yard run in the second quarter. An Alan Moser to Rice Larson pass, with the play covering 25 yards, chalked up six more, five seconds before intermission.

Dean Whiteley, whose kick for the PAT failed after the first Mounty score, got the extra point by plunging.

Chuck Becker got the third touchdown for the Mountaineers with a 65-yard punt runback in the last quarter. Whiteley again ran for the PAT.

The lone Missionary TD came in the fourth frame on a 25-yard pass play.

EOC coaches Dunsmoor and Campbell were pleased with the JV's performance and made special note of La Grande's Alan Moser who stepped into the quarterback spot—a position he played last as a high school sophomore and did an excellent job. The 170-pound freshman "called a good game" in addition to throwing a touchdown pass.

EOC Posts Win Over Vikings, 7-0

The Eastern Oregon Mounties gave the EOC Homecoming crowd something to cheer about as they pounded to a 7-0 victory over the Portland State Vikings two weeks ago at Mountaineer field.

Mountaineer halfback Sam Clack intercepted a pass in the third period and ran 34 yards to score the only touchdown of the game. Clack carried the ball 11 times for 73 yards and a 6.6 yards per carry average.

The game was rough and tough with the Vikings receiving three personal foul penalties which cost them valuable yardage. Portland State penetrated deep into Mountie territory several times but could not score.

Mountaineer fullback John Willmarth got off one punt which traveled 56 yards and put the Mounties out of danger.

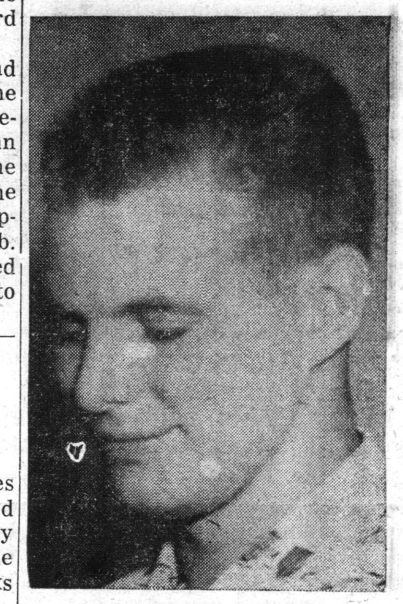
Mounties Defeated By Raiders, 25-7



The Southern Oregon College Red Raiders of Ashland, making use of a potent passing attack, defeated the Mountaineers 25-7 at Coos Bay to wrap up second place in the OCC.

The Raiders scored three of their four touchdowns via the air lanes and pushed over the fourth score on a 1-yard plunge. SOC scored in every period.

The Mountaineers were never a serious threat in the game and could only score once. The lone touchdown came on a beautiful 75-yard run of an intercepted pass by defensive halfback, Chuck Becker.

It was the final conference game for both teams and SOC's victory put them in second place followed by EOC with a 2-2 season record for OCC play.

EOC scoring: Becker, 75 yard run of pass interception. Willmarth (kick).

EOC Student Director Will Appear On Panel

Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, Eastern Oregon College director of student personnel, will appear on a panel "Counseling Practices in Discipline Cases," at the conference of the Northwest College Personnel Association in Spokane Friday and Saturday.

Theme of the two-day meeting is "That Many May Excel." Howard C. Wilson, dean of education at UCLA, will give the keynote address.

Other EOC personnel attending the conference are Dorothy Winters, dean of women, and Howard A. Anderson, assistant dean of men.

Pictures Taken For '60 Annual

Work on the annual has begun for this year. Many of you observant people have noticed this if you took the time to have your pictures taken for the bigger and better Mountaineer. For those of you who didn't, you're out of luck; at least financially, for had the editor been able to turn in all the class pages, we would have received a discount on each one. If you did happen to find yourself staring into some bright lights, hearing the shutter close, and relieving yourself of a one dollar bill, your proofs should be back within two or three weeks.

Seniors, Mr. Holman will be back November 10 to finish your pictures. You must make an appointment for your sitting. Your proofs will be sent directly to you, but members of all other classes must pick them up. The place has not been decided yet, but notices will be out when they arrive.

Everyone must do their part if the 1960 Mountaineer is to be a success. This year we are asking that you submit any snaps taken during the year that would be desirable for the annual. These can be left in the Mountaineer box in the faculty mailroom. Be sure and purchase an annual.

WINNING FLOAT—Roger Holm of Minnesota, student at EOC here, rides winning float during homecoming celebration at college Saturday afternoon. Painted all bronze, Holm holds trophy. Float theme was "Fountain of Friendship." Note EOC band in background. Float was built by International Relations Club of campus and the Collegians, an off-campus group.

TORRID TIPS

by Tarry and Vad

"The sun was shining, Oh, happy day—Oh, happy night—Oh, happy week-end!" EOC rhapsodies to:

—Queen Gail and Court
—Ardyce, Mike and Homecoming Committee
—Football fellows and Archie
—Rally Squad and Yell Dukes
—Choir and Blue and Gold.
—Boo-Boo, ba boo, Oh, let's face it, EVERYONE,

Homecoming was FUN-DER-FUL!

If you've been in the Ad building lately, you've noticed several nice lists—All pertaining to parking fines, too many parking tickets and parking fines. This problem is also existent at Portland State College. Perhaps the only solution is to start "hoofin" it or to build a barn and go in for horses!

Reading the "Barometer" of OSC we noticed the U.S. Weather Bureau gave OSC an award for "good weather." Though theirs was given in recognition of keeping accurate weather records for the last ten years, we feel that certain persons should get a "good weather" award also. (NOTE: Our rally squad leader and football coach were heard making a wager in the faculty mail room—"If you give me a sunny day, I'll give you a winning team." Results—wager fulfilled.)

WRA is now sponsoring a volley ball intramural program. This provides recreation for women students and adds to that little bit of outside activity needed to make college more fun. Linfield's WRA has organized a hockey team which is competing against other colleges. Men, if you look in on these volley ball games each Tuesday night, you might be seeing some of the future women Olympic stars in action—WHO Knows?!?

"Talk about being inclined!" We mean, musical-type. Our band set everyone's feet tapping as they led the Homecoming parade and bolstered school spirit at the game. Glancing in the "Daily Barometer" again, we find their band provided entertainment for their Homecoming Game also. From various reports we are the only school our size to have an active marching band—another important asset of our college.

If you heard students mumbling, "Fine, thank-you, fine" to themselves while you were watching the Homecoming parade you probably soon discovered why—five cute coeds and three marvelous men—the rally squad and cheer leaders! The pep and organization of this group far excells anything we've had in the past. Their spirit and enthusiasm deserve much praise. Whitman has also awakened to the importance of their rally squad and has praised them for their hard work in arousing school spirit. Mountie pepsters, you're grand! (This was my idea, me, Vad, since Clifton is directly responsible for these two groups.)

10K Gold rings beautifully designed for any College, deeply die-struck with hand-polished edges and incisive details. The College name is clearly cut into a well balanced setting centered with a brilliant synthetic stone.—On one shank is the College seal or degree; on the other the year of graduation.

Critic Reviews Gold Caddie

by Mike Ferguson

"The Solid Gold Cadillac," the first offering of EOC's drama department this year was greeted, box-office-wise, at least, with warm response during its three-night run, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 12, 13 and 14. Whether or not the same statement can be made about the actual audience response is open to debate.

A Broadway hit of a few years back, the play deals with a little old lady and the trouble she causes four greedy businessmen. The only problem was that EOC's little old lady, Mrs. Partridge, played by Joanne Thurston, was not too convincingly old in most places. She seemed to be just what she was, a young woman made up to be an old woman and not trying very hard to convince herself or the audience that she was supposed to be old. The big thing in her favor was the near-perfect way in which she handled her lines.

Perhaps the best performances of the evening were turned in by Dan Yturraspe as Warren Gillie, Larry Wilder as Ralph Metcalfe and Ralph Hamilton as "Big Ed" McKeever. The former two turned in their usual flawless performances as half of the conniving executives. Hamilton, a newcomer to EOC drama productions, seemed to be a natural for the loud, but almost honest, government executive who returns to rescue his company from the hands of the dishonest men who took over for him.

As for the rest of the performances, the only thing that can be said is that they were adequate. There were no other outstanding jobs turned in by any of the members of the cast; however some were definitely better than others. Greg Baker as Mark Jenkins and JoAnne Kaufman as Amelia Shotgraven, the "love interest"—if indeed there was any—held their own with no trouble, and at times, showed good potential.

The technical effects were, for the most part, very well handled. Since this was the first attempt at trying to synchronize movies and tape recorders, the lag between the two can be overloked. However, such a small matter as starting the narration in the right spot on the tape should have caused little or no difficulty . . . but, it was botched beautifully at the beginning of Friday night's performance.

As was stated at the beginning of the article, the warmth with which the play was received by the audience as a whole is somewhat dubious. This reviewer enjoyed the play itself, possibly because it was well written, even though some of the performances detracted from the quality of the show as a whole.

OFCL Delegates Chosen Monday

The delegates to attend the OFCL were selected in Student Council November 16, 1959. The convention will take place December 4 & 5 on the OSC campus. The delegates will be the guests of the fraternities and sororities Friday and Saturday night.

The representatives will attend meeting all day Friday and Saturday. On Friday night they will attend a play presented by OSC.

Beverly Donovan will attend as Student Body President of EOC, Sue Switzer will attend as State Secretary of OFCL, and Tarry Clifton, Larry Wilder, and Butch Corey will attend as representatives of the general student body. Mrs. Winters will be the chaperone.

Sadie Hawkins Dance Offers Opportunity

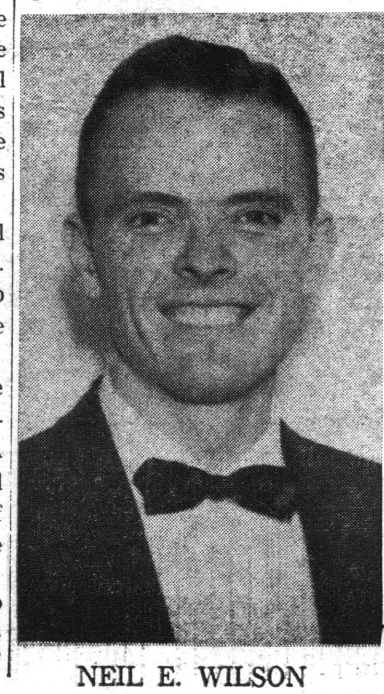
Say Gals! This is yo chance! Yo all can 'onest and truly grab onto a feller and take him to a dance. Ah hear tell this neat-type occashun is going to take place this very day on this very campus—Hoke Hall as a matta'-a-fact, at 8:30 tonight. And it is FREE! Can yo eemagine? As is just gettin' so excited—we can even wear our customary "Dog Patch—Li'l Abner-type" dress.

If you think this sounds good, wait 'til you hear what's to come! All yo have to do gals, is git that little man thru the door, and he's yours. Parson Hanford will be present to marry yo all and present you with the offishul certificate. They will even take pichurs of you newly-weds right right there on the spot.

The whole dance will be one big blast! Loren Frazier will be the MC, and there will be real live entertainment. To frost this cake, let me tell yo, there will be live music by Bill Howell and his band..

O, Ah almost forgot, there will be prizes for the best costumes. Something to think about. Also they are going to serve some Kickapoo Joy Juice.

Do you know who is responsible for gettin' this fabulous opportunity brung to Dog Patch? WRA is the organization being so good to us, under the leadership of Mary Gray and dance committee chairman, Eilene Marshall.



How cud yo go wrong? Yo cudn't! Latch onto that feller, and get yoself a marriage license at the dance tonight.

Mr. Wilson Presents History In Song

Mr. Neil Wilson, baritone, presented a voice recital in the college theater Wednesday, November 18.

His first selections were classical Italian songs from the 17th and 18th centuries; Ferma, Dorinad Mia and Spesso vibra per suo gioco. Next he sang German Lieder from the 19th century; Widmung and Die Mainacht. Arias from Dramatic Music followed after which he presented Avant de Quitter ces lieux. Ueau Soir (Beautiful Evening) was next within the French Chanson from the late 19th and early 20th century. This was followed by Quel galant M'est comparable, and Tout gai. Contemporary English and American songs from the 20th century followed. These included The Cruicifixio and Selections from the Ogden Nash Suite.

His encores were selected from folk, musical comedy, and light opera vocal literature.

Thanksgiving Assembly Features Music, Dance

"Land of Hope and Glory" is the theme for the annual Thanksgiving asembly to be held this year in the college theater at 10:00 a.m. Tuesday, November 24.

The modern dance group will present their interpretation of the Lord's Prayer. Included in the group are Tarry Clifton, Janet Hibbert, Oran Hutton, Sue Switzer, and Judy Wardell.

Also featured this year will be special music by the college choir and a solo by Professor Don Nelson, together with colorful and pictorial scenes from the "Land of Hope and Glory," our native land. The emphasis will be on our Thanksgiving for this vast land of freedom, beauty, and opportunity.

Crowd Of 700 Hears Kennedy

"The next thirty or forty years will be the most challenging to our nation, and we will have the opportunity to lead the defenders of freedom," stated presidential hopeful, John F. Kennedy, Democratic senator from Massachusetts. Kennedy spoke to a capacity crowd of students and townspeople in the EOC theater, Monday, November 9.

Intellectuals must cease to be critics of political form. They should take active part in guidance of state and national policies and share in the burden of statesmanship. Kennedy decried the low state of politics in America today and stressed the need for high-caliber, interested people in the field of politics and emphasized the fact that America must have an awakened electorate.

In making his points, Senator Kennedy said that the colleges and universities of the nation were not stressing the need for strong political science curricula. He said that American politics were not in need of a college-trained elite but rather an educated, intelligent core of thinkers. He also stated that the political ranks did not need the political scholar whose vision was limited and narrow.

Kennedy pointed out the disdain of Americans for politics and politicians. He said most mothers want their sons to become President, but few want them to be a politician in the process.

The point was brought out by Sen. Kennedy that as Americans we must become a thinking nation, concerning ourselves with ideas that America would be at its low point in the next few years and the trend toward bigger government, agriculture, and production.

In the second half of his speech, Sen. Kennedy emphasized the need for strict policing of world policy concerning nuclear weapons. Many nations would have nuclear potential in the near future and any accidental or fanatical attack would be catastrophic. The senator expressed the need for definite policy at the top levels on nuclear weapons and stated that the ban on nuclear tests should be extended past its expiration date of December 31, 1959.

The senator closed his speech by saying that the world would be a much-changed place by the year 2000 and would probably be ruled by the forces of either Communism or democracy. He stressed the need for vigorous and responsible national growth to compete with the forces of Communism.

In a question-and-answer period following his address, Senator Kennedy discussed political apathy on college campuses, the difference in political interest between Latin-American colleges and U. S. colleges, the Taft-Hartley injunction in the steel strike, and the Clare Boothe Luce debate.

In closing he remarked, "All of us must bring candles to help illuminate our country's way."

ASSEMBLIES SCHEDULED FOR EOC:

How Do You Want To Give Your Money

At various times during the year we are approached by such organizations as World University Service (WUS), Heart Fund, Cancer Drive, March of Dimes, Red Cross, and several more. Each of these groups wants us to contribute to their cause.

In past years the money has been secured in various ways. A few years ago a blanket was passed at half-time of the game, and the money donated to an organization. Last year there was a complete Campus Drive under one chairmanship. Such money-making projects as auctioning services of the students, auctioning cakes, passing blankets, etc. were undertaken. The money was divided and given to different groups as the committee saw fit, and as council approved it. However, this was not the unanimous opinion of the group. Several people felt the amounts should have been redistributed, giving more money to those who were slighted.

Perhaps you as a student have an idea as to how to handle this situation. Do you believe a single campus drive is the best method of obtaining this money? If so, how do you think it should be organized, what projects should be undertaken, and how should the money be distributed? Do you believe we should just let them come at any time let separate organizations be in charge of donating whatever and however they wish? Whatever suggestions you have, they will be welcomed at student council, or published in The Beacon. If you have an idea or a possible solution, let it be known.

SELECTED—E. Robert "Bob" Quinn, Eastern Oregon College director of athletics and head basketball coach, has been named to the National Basketball Advisory committee of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. The announcement was made by Chairman Rex E. Pyles, Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, West Va. Quinn begins his 35th year as a basketball coach, his 31st at EOC, this season.

Club News

By ANABELLE TIDWELL

Collegians held their last meeting on November 10 in Hoke. They discussed several money making projects such as giving shoe shines, having cake walks, and washing cars. After the suggestions were all turned in, the members decided to have a car wash on Saturday, November 21. A service station at each end of town will accommodate the cars which are to be washed. It will be held from 10:00 until 4:00 in the afternoon and the price will be only one dollar. If your car is dirty and you think it's too cold to wash it, bring it to one of the stations and let the Collegians wash it for you.

New officers of the Lettermen's Club are John Wilmarth and Charlie Hughbanks.

The Rook Rally Rousers will become active just as soon as basketball season rolls around, and they really plan to give the upperway of cheering. After many suggestions and ideas, the Rook Ralley Rousers decided that all members would wear white shirts, dark skirts or slacks with navy blue suspenders, and eye-catching hats.

Sock and Buskin had a party after the last performance of "The Solid Gold Cadillac," which, incidentally, was a big success and smash hit. While the cast and club members tore down the sets and ate refreshments, they were entertained by the "coffee, tea, or milk" man, Shelley Berman.

Mail Box Move

A new drive-in mail box has been placed on the east side of Eighth Street at the brow of the hill. The box has been placed in a "No Parking" area in order to insure convenient access to the drive-in space.

Dorionites were very happy to see a mail box put in at the corner of Seventh and J. This will certainly be more convenient for the girls who will no longer have to "Run to the Ad Building to mail those letters."

"Hats off Mountaineers, to an old timer" Robert "Bob" Quinn, director of athletics and head basketball coach, as he begins his 31st year of coaching basketball at EOC!

Robert "Bob" Quinn has been named to the National Basketbll Advisory Committee of the National Association of Intercollegiates Athletics, as this year marks his 35th year of coaching basketball.

Dr. Virgil A. Bolen, professor of physical science, was quite busy last week as his speaking engagements kept him "traveling and talking." At the Tri-County Educational Institute, held in the Dalles on Nov. 12 and 13, he acted as science consultant. He featured a series of science teaching projects which his students in physical science have prepared in previous years.

Returning from the Dalles conference on the afternoon of Nov. 13, Dr. Bolen stopped in Pendleton where he addressed the Pendleton Delphian study group on the topic: "The Contribution of Science to the American Way of Life."

Dr. Bolen was also the guest speaker at the annual conference of the Western District of the Idaho Methodist Church, held in Union, Ore., last Saturday evening!

"Ten offertory and Benedictory Responses," composition by E. Lyle McMullen, associate professor of piano at EOC, was released last week and is now available at all music stores, according to publishers.

McMullen, who received both his bachelor and master of music at the University of Washington, has been at EOC since 1946.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Madame Editor:

In reference to a column in the last issue of the Beacon.

It may be true that our ASB Student Council meetings have not been long drawn out processes, but rather to the point; however, business matters appear to most of the Council as being conducted conscientiously and efficiently by active committee members that do not fool around. These committees report to the Council and present their views and recommendations. Then, discussion is open to all members of the Council and they are free to to ask questions or challenge the report. After all, this is a country of Democracy and everyone is free to voice his or her opinion and vote as thought best. This is a procedure one often sees in Student Council. Does this mean that our Student Council is rushing things as has been suggested? Perhaps this merely means that things get done rather than just talked about.

Remember, you as a member of the ASB are welcome to the Student Council meetings to voice your opinions, too. See your Council in action!

Sincerely,
One who is interested.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: I say, ole chap, it was teatime at Dorion November 15 from 3 to 5.

Mac: Oh rally?

Herb: Yes, and I understand it was a jolly good time. Honored guests were the women students from La Grande and their mothers. Furthermore, ole man, the floral arrangements by Mickey Matai were" pip pip." Also to be commended are Elaine "Cuddles" McNaught for welcoming and Linda Kane for refreshments. Say Mac, did you know that crumpets were served?

Mac: Oh rally?

Herb: Should also make mention that Johanna Hardwick and her social chairmen, Tarry Clifton and Sue Switzer, did a fine overall job on arrangements for the tea.

Mac: Oh rally?

Herb: By the way, ole bean, the Bolens, the Crases, and the Badgleys, dropped in for a bit of supper Wednesday, the 11th. And with a bite of supper I'll add a bit of news and say the shoes on the other foot regarding dating customs for this weekend. This is Sadie Hawkins week and the dance is Friday night! Beware boys!

Mac: Oh rally!!

Herb: Mac, I rally think we should close.

Mac: My!

A young gob phoned his station and requested an extension of his pass, but was told to return immediately. "But I can't," he protested. "There are ten of us at this party, and we're having too much fun for me to break it up."

"How come your leaving the party will break it up?" snapped the petty officer at the station.

"Well you see, Chief," said the gob, "nine of us are girls."

Council Confab

By SANDI THOMPSON

In a recent Student Council meeting it was recommended that all organizations be urged to use the radio for publicity purposes. Ladd McGowan and his committee has been doing a wonderful job conducting the radio program "College Corner," and they would gladly welcome any announcements or new items of interest to both the community and the campus.

Do you recall the words, "Coffee or Culture?" The Assembly Committee has put out a lot of effort to bring some very interesting speakers and entertainers to our campus, but what kind of attendance have we had (excluding Senaor Kennedy's Assembly hour)? Poor, to say the least. Therefore, the Council has voted that action be taken to have the Coffee Shop closed during Assemblies. There are some excellent assembly programs planned for this term that will no doubt be beneficial to you, as students, and to the campus. As a Student Body it is our obligation to support the assemblies.

Believe it or not, you won't have to run all over campus in search of Dan Yturraspe, Gene Holt, Virginia Wellington, Jean Hunter, Don Shore, Bev Donovan and many others, because mailboxes will soon be installed in Hoke. The Student Council has recognized the inconvenience of contacting these persons for publicity, committee meetings, requisitions and such, so mailboxes will be a means of contact for Student Body Officers and members.

The Student Council is proud to announce that the Student Union Committee is planning a Faculty Variety Show that is to be presented to the Student Body December 4, 1959. Watch for further notices about it.

It was mentioned at the last S.C. meeting that the Collegians are making plans to put a new and larger bulletin b oard in Hoke Hall. This means are organizations won't have to fight over space to put their posters and meeting notices.

Student Council minutes are posted on campus so you can read about the things that go on in Council, so, stop sometime and read through them. Know what your Student Council is doing!

Mounties Dump Westminster

Rick Larson and Gene McKinney came off the bench to score a pair of touchdowns and pace Eastern Oregon College to a 14-6 victory over Westminster Saturday night.

McKinney hobbled the greater part of the season with a knee injury, scored in the final 30 seconds to provide the clinching points. Larson, a freshman halfback, who was playing third string, scampered five yards in the opening period to put the Mountaineers on the score board.

John Willmarth booted both extra points in the victory. Willmarth has missed only one extra point all season. His only miss was against the College of Idaho.

An honor student at Eastern Oregon, Willmarth set up Larson's touchdown with a pass interception that he returned 35 yards.

The Parsons muffed scoring drives in the second and third periods with fumbles deep in Eastern territory. Westminster tallied in the third period to narrow the gap to 7-6 after a conversion attempt failed.

Westminster went for broke in the fourth period, trailing by one point, deep in their own territory. With fourth down and short yardage, the Parsons went for the first down and failed, setting up McKinney's final sneak.

Coach Arch Dunsmoor was especially pleased with the Mounties defense. EOC held for downs after the Parsons gained a first and goal on the five. The Mountainer pass defense, a weak link all season, held the Parson quarterback to two completions in 10 attempts. Chuck Becker and Larry Snook moved into the defensive halfback slot to provide some backbone to the thin line of defenders.

Dunsmoor was happy with the offensive performance of Larson and McKinney along with Sam Clack and Willmarth in the backfield.

Dean Keefer, Ray Porter, Bill McCadden and transfer student, Keippie May, were singled out for their line play.

The Mountaineers will travel again next week for a contest with a junior college rival.

Movies of the EOC game against Southern Oregon College will be shown at the Mastermind meeting at the Sacajawea coffee shop tomorrow evening.

New Traffic Rules Enacted For Safety

Several new traffic regulations have been enacted concerning Eighth Street and "K" Avenue. It is the hope of city authorities and college faculty that the hazard at the brow of the hill on Eighth Street can be cut down.

The city has indicated "No Left Turns" at three spots. People traveling east on "K" Avenue are retricted from a left turn down the hill on Eighth Street. People coming north on Eighth Street are restricted from making a left turn onto "K" Avenue. People coming up the hill on Eighth Street are restricted from making a left turn into the upper faculty parking lot at the end of the Administration Building.

People in the parking lot may make a right turn going toward town on Eighth Street or may cross the indicated dotted line on the brow of the hill, where they have visibility both ways, and turn south on Eighth Street or west on "K" Avenue. Faculty members using the upper parking lot will probably find it most convenient to come east on "J" Avenue past Hoke Hall and turn north on Eighth Stareet and then into the upper parking lot.

A group of Cub Scouts were talking over plans for a hike. The leader suggested meeting at ten in the morning because it was about a two-hour hike to the destination. One of the boys, a newcomer, paled visably. "You mean we're going to walk?" he asked.

The Reader's Digest

Sports Desk
by Keith Dalton

This writer has erred grieviously. In the last issue of the Beacon he stated that some mention would be made of the forthcoming basketball season. But this is not to be. All that this writer can offer to the avid roundball fall is the schedule for the 1959-60 season. That is small consolation indeed.

This column will then weal with the dying and soon gone football season. It deserves one last look before we cast it aside.

The Mountaineer football story for 1959 was one of mixed emotion and slow improvement. Many people came out to the first home game of the season against the College of Idaho and decided that it would be the last game they would watch for the year. They simply felt that the Mounties were not worthy of support. Well, here's a tip of the helmet to all of those fine, loyal fans who sat in the cold and wind and sun to cheer the Mounties on—win or lose.

As to the improvement of the Mountaineers, it was quite obvivous that the team improved a great deal through the season. Let's face it, they couldn't get much worse than they were in their early games. Several weekends coach Dunsmoor was hard put to field a team because of injuries which hurt a great deal. The men lost key ballplayers in men like halfback Jerry Williams, who started off having a great year before he was injured and end Dennis Bagnall, who was playing well both offensively and defensively.

The Mountaineers had many players who played well over the season. It would be imposible to mention everyone. We will be able to mention the names of only a few, fully realizing that many are being neglected. In doing this we must look first at John Willmarth, the big fullback and guard. John played an exciting and outstanding brand of football all season long both on offense and defense. No matter how badly things were going for the Mounties John was always right in the middle of things. He played every minute of defense and was EOC's top scorer.

Sam Clack, who ran well all season long and could be depended on when the yardage was needed. Many times during the season he brought the crowd to their feet with his running. Dean Whitely and Gene McKinney, who piled up yardage all season long with their fine running. Little Jack Wood, who played a fine brand of defensive ball. Chuck Becker, who really came into his own late in the season and proved to be a fine defensive halfback.

And to the Mounties line which bore the brunt of the season's bruises and bumps. The fine play of players like Phil Miller, Chuck Hughbanks, and Jim Neece who were really tough to move out all season long. Ray Porter, who turned in some really good defensive football. And Dean Keefer and Bob Saluter, who were fine both on offense and defense.

To hear coach Archie Dunsmoor and asst. coach Don Campbell, who did an excellent job all season long. The coaches had a lot of problems and headaches and a tough season, but there is always the old maxim—Wait till next year.

The cry of the Army nurses who came into the hospital wards to give hypo injections was "Bottoms up." One popular nurse's patients chipped in a Christmastime to buy her a present, which they tagged: "To the best rear gunner in the outfit." The Reader's Digest)

I.K.'s Present Annual Smoker

There will be grunts and groans coming from the College Coliseum tomorrow night as the Intercollegiate Knights put on their annual smoker.

The event, which starts at 8 p. m., will offer 30 rounds of boxing and wrestling to one and all. This show will offer the finest collection of bone and muscle ever offered under one roof.

The highlight of the evening will be the free-for-all in which all participants are blindfolded. (There will be an ambulance on call). It should be a highly entertaining evening, and the I.K's invite one and all to come and yell for their favorites. The smoker is open to the public and the admission is $1.00 for adults, $.50 for students, and $.25 for children under six years of age.

Chokers Hold EOC Scoreless, 25-0

The Grays Harbor Jr. College Chokers, using a potent ground game, rolled to a 25-0 victory over the Mountaineers at Aberdeen last Saturday night. The game, played in a cold driving rain saw the outmanned Mounties gain only 54 yards in total yardage.

The Chokers scored once in every period and the outcome of the game was never in doubt. The Mounties could only threaten once as they drove to the Grays Harbor 7 yard line in the third period of play.

This was the final game of the season for the Mountaineers who finish with a record of three victories and six defeats.

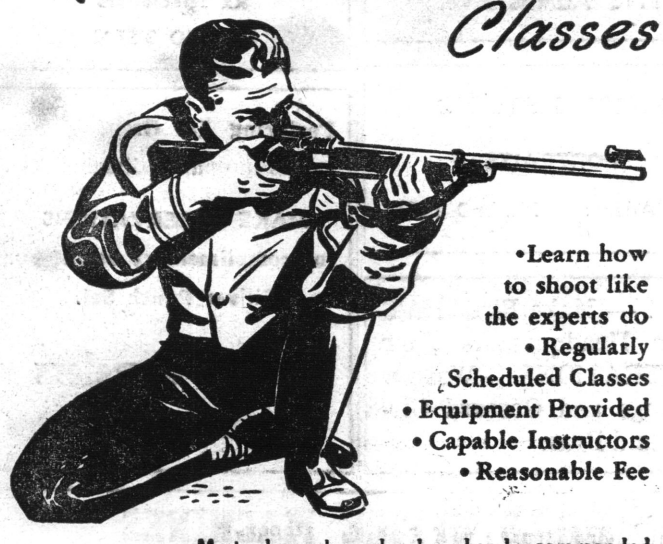
Rifle Teams Need Interested Students

This is a warning to the male students on the EOC campus. Take heed and listen to these words carefully. Coach Dunsmoor has sounded the call for both men and women students to turn out for the rifle and pistol teams which will represent the college.

Mr. Dunsmoor has requested that as many interested students as posisble turn out for the teams. He stated that everyone would have a chance to participate and that the college hopes to field several teams in both rifle and pistol competition.

Tentative plans call for postal matches with Eastern colleges and universities and a match with the University of Massachusetts has already been arranged. A pistol match is one which is fired in actual competition and at a specified time but no travel is involved.

Mr. Dunsmoor said that shoulder to shoulder matches are in the process of being arranged and that perhaps EOC will be able to schedule 20-30 matches depending on the interest and the number of teams. Matches will be for both indiivdual and team honors. Emblems will be awarded to the members of the teams.



One point that Coach Dunsmoor stressed was that the teams were not open to those with previous shooting experience. He particularly asked that those students with little or no experience come out. All interested persons are invited to register any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday between the hours of 3-5. An instructor will be available at that time to help beginners who are interested.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

If you have wondered when reading our column just what the purpose of "Torrid Tips" is, this word of explanation is for you: we, the Beacon Staff, hear from colleges all over the U.S. through exchange and the Intercollegiate Press. At the beginning of this year we decided to share some of the "Tips" with you—thus, OUR COLUMN, "Torrid Tips" (sometimes torrid, sometimes . . .).

OCE with EOC and many other schools is honoring the "Dog Patch" Clan by presenting a Sadie Hawkins Dance. This is, we're sure, especially good-education wise—since it leaves the nail-biting worries of"will I have a date" or "will I get to go to the big dance" up to the male of the species rather than the female.

With those minute flecks of white coming down from the heavens comes talk among ski enthusiasts. At Portland State and Central Washington plans, too, are being made. On our campus Tuesday, our Ski Club, Brette Stroke, met and or-ganized for another year. We know that already all the members are planning for the annual Winter Carnival at Mt. Hood which always promises a REAL COOL TIME.

C of I, OCE and Linfield featured their Fall term plays this week, as did EOC. Mr. Hiatt and cast have been the most talked about group on campus for their hilarious production of "Solid Gold Cadillac."—Mr. Hiatt, cast, crew and ushers—On stage please, for one more round of applause.

AWS at U of O gave a tea as did Dorion Hall Sunday. The tea at Dorion was presented in honor of women students from town and their mothers. The floral decorations were of Oriental design and done by Mieko Matai, student from Japan. Well done, Mickie, and gals from Dorion!

Name . . . Type . . . This cot, please . . . OCE students will hear these phrases so recently heard on our campus All EOC-'ers with that small hole in their arm and one-half pint of ice cream earned the admiration o the rest of us cowards on campus.

Thought you might be interested—Whitman students had to travel to Milton-Freewater to hear Senator John Kennedy speak. We couldn't find any indication of any other schools who had the privilege of hearhim in person . . .

Fraternities at Linfield are giving One-Act plays. The play direction class of EOC has scheduled four one-acts to be presented the first week in December. Better put this on your social calendar!

TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK: WE LOOK TOO HIGH FOR THINGS CLOSE BY.

Singers Sing Dec. 14th

The first civic music program has been planned for December 14th. It will featured McHenry Boatwright, a Negro baritone. Although most of the civic music programs are held at the high school, plans are being made to hold this one at the college theatre.

McHenry Boatwright has a very impressive record. In 1957 he won the Young Artists Auditions in Columbus, Ohio He has won the Marion Anderson award twice. He toured with the De-Paur Infantry Chorus as soloist. Recently he has been touring the Far East on a concert tour.

College students can attend these programs on their student body tickets.

S.U. Convention Proves Profitable

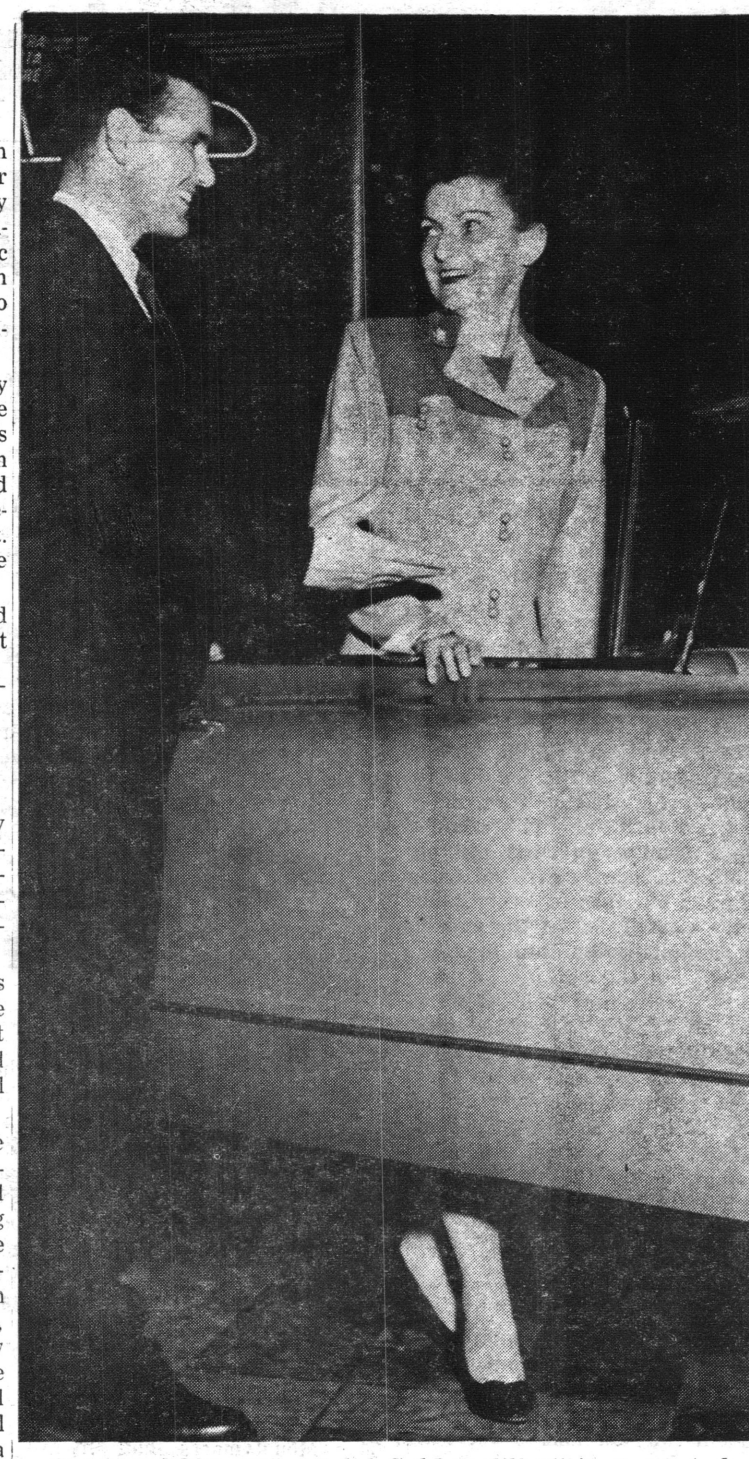
Gene Holt, Jim Morris, Sally Sturdivan and Bea Peterson, accompanied by Miss Nicoloff, attended the Student Union convenat the Uiversity of Idaho, November 5 to 7.

The Student Union governs everything that goes on in the college. Because it is a key part of the college the students should think, talk and decide about all aspects of the student union.

While at the convention the students of E.O.C. attended banquets, panel discussions and small discussion groups. The following main topics were discussed: The Role of the College Union, Personnel and Programing, Problem Boxes, and Program Specifics, such as Food Service and Publicity Techniques. These topics were sub-divided and in these small groups there was first a panel discussion then following was a discusison on that topic.

The convention was over at noon Saturday and the delegates from E.O.C. returned with many new ideas on the Student Union and new things to do.

Town Girls Guests At Dorion Hall Tea



Town girls attending EOC and their mothers were entertained at a tea given by the girls of Dorion Hall last Sunday. The purpose of the tea hich lasted from 3 to 5 in the afternoon was to better acquaint town and dorm girls. Each girl from town has a dorm sister, several of which acted as hostesses at the afternoon tea.

The dining room where the refreshments were served had centerpieces arranged by Mieko Matai. Two of the names given to the arrangements were "Loneliness of Autumn," and "Displaced Beanty."

The tea, the first of several planned for this school year, was well-attended by the town girls and their mothers, as well as the dorm girls.

NOTICE

Students, when you are too ill to attend class, Mrs. Osterholme must be notified in advance if you wish to receive slips from the health center which gives you permission to make up the work you missed.

If possible you should report to the health center, but if you are too ill to go there, Mrs. Osterholme will be glad to call on you. All students living in the dorms should be sure to notify your housemother.

New Art Show Opens At EOC

Refreshments were served by Alpha Rho Tau at the formal opening of the new art exhibit November 17 of Carl Hall's paintings and drawings in the library. The display will continue through December 10.

Carl Hall, from Salem, is Artist in Residence with Willamette University and has had exhibits in all of the major museums of the United States. He has been represented in two Modern Museum of Art Travelling Exhibits and was award an Arts and Letters Grant by the National Institute of Arts and Letters in 1949. Hall is Art Critic for the Oregon Statesman.

During the past summer Mr. Hall had paintings represented in the Northwest Invitational of the Portland Art Museum and recently his ink drawing "Hierarchy" was exhibited with a few other drawings, at Ohio Wesleyan.

The Reader's Digest

A city banker who had spent his youth on a farm persuaded an old neighbor to take on his son for the summer. When the father called to ask how the boy was making out, the farmer declared, "I ain't the one to bandy words with you. If that boy of yours had one more hand, he'd need a third pocket to put it in."

Have Ambition Will Hike

By WENDY JOHNSON

Saturday afternoon's four mile hike up the west fork of the Wallowa River into the Eagle Cap Wilderness area, brought astonishiing "cries" from the hikers as they witnessed the ice encrusted Wallowa falls and ice caps formed in the rushing turbulant river.

For the hungry gang, Club Member Jim Patridge, provided vension steaks and chops to be barbequed for supper. With Don Johnson acting as "Chef" and everyone pitching in to help, it wasn't long before a "crumptous meal was prepared and served by candlelight!

After supper, Pat Searles played the guitar for "Campfire group by yodeling.

Sunday morning two early birds arose before anyone else would have thought of crawling out of their sleeping bag, to take a trip down to the lake, they reported seeing about a thousand Mallards together with a small flock of Canada Geese and a 'watchful" pair of Bald Eagles which were active at the South end of the Lake.

Following a hearty breakfast Sunday morning a stout-hearted band of eight hiked through the falling snow to Aneroid Lake. The group returned to campus late Sunday afternoon.

Last Tuesday evening, Will Brown, District Game Supervisor, showed two very interesting films: "Autumn Wings" and "Behind the Trophy". He also gave a short talk on Game Management and answered questions about how the Oregon Game is controlled.

Officers were elected also at the meeting. Don Johnson, Presdent, Bill Hickey, vice president; Anita Judd, secretary, and Leonard Singhose, treasurer.

The next meeting scheduled will be held on Dec. 8, Dr. Kaiser will be the special guest.

Play Production Class Presents 4 One-Acts

Thursday evening at 8 o'clocw the Play Production class presented four one-act plays in the EOC theatre under the supervision of Richard G. Hiatt. The one-act plays were Sock and Buskin's first added attraction of the EOC drama season. The scripts were chosen, cast, and directed by student members of Hiatt's Play Production class.

The one-act plays were "Good Night, Caroline," a "powder-puff of a farce" about a talkative bride; Noel Coward's "Fumed Oak," a work which the playwright himself terms "an unpleasant comedy in two scenes"; "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," a fiery litle comedy of life in a Mexican village; and "Sorry Wrong Number," one of the most celebrated short plays of radio, screen, and stage fame, which relates a woman's frantic efforts to reach help by telephone, by Lucille Fletcher.

"Good Night, Caroline," directed by Judy Lutz and Tarry Clifton, had a cast of four — Elaine McNaught, Gail Fisher, Jim Morris, and Mike Hanford. "Fumed Oak," directed by Ardyce Garrett starred Virginia Wellington, Nancy Brooks, Connie Graven, and Mike Hanford. "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," directed by Larry Wilder, featured Pat Watson, Bev Botoroff, Bernice Campbell, Karen Garris, and Roger Holm. "Sorry, Wrong Number," directed by Bill Ward included in its cast Tarry Clifton, Beth Combs, Judi Thompson, Karen Welo, Mike Hanford, Fred Kelly, Bob Miller, Jim Morris, and Nels Nelson.

Bill Donahue was electrician and Helen Walters stage manager for the four plays.

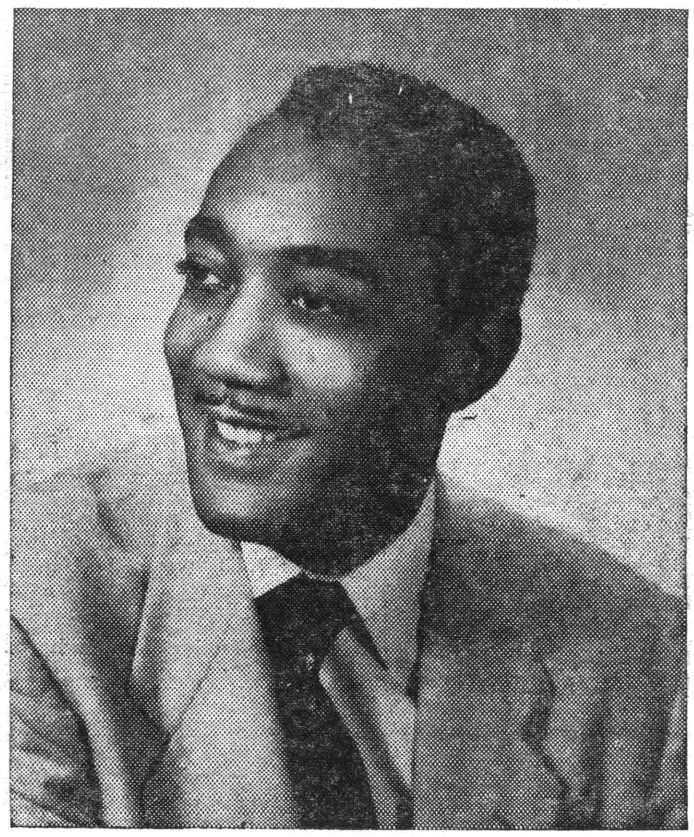
Sigma Alpha Chi Initiates Eight

Fall term initiation was held at two o'clock in Hoke Hall November 22, 1959. The usual procedure was reversed with the serving of refreshments before the formal ceremony. The initiation was conducted by President Lynette Wood, Vice President Daisy Good, and Secretary - Treasurer Barbara Paris. The initiates were: Nina Belshee, Gwen Calvert, Susan Haines, Marcia McPherson, Mary Jean Riese, Beverly Furgason, Valene Mitchell, Beverly Woolhiser.

Following the ceremony the girls were congratulated by the officers and old members, and then each was asked to read her favorite poem.

A short business meeting followed to acquaint the initiates with the forthcoming activity, Yule Candlelight Hour.

NOTICE



The final exam for Wr 111 has been rescheduled for Tuesday night at 7:00 p.m.

No faculty person shall move an exam from the time scheduled for an individual person. Regular final exams will be as scheduled except for the above change.

Exams rotate each day of the week each term. If you have one on Friday this term, don't despair—it will probably fall on Tuesday next term.

Rifle Team Classes Correction Stated

A correction to the article on Rifle classes in the Beacon's previous issue is in order. Instead of reading, "One point that Coach Dunsmoor stressed was that the teams were not open to those with previous shooting experience," that statement should have read that, "The teams are only open to those with previous shooting experience.

McHENRY BOATWRIGHT

Marine Officer Selection Team Visits Campus

The Marine Officer Selection Team headed by Captain R. D. Mickelson will be on the Eastern Oregon College campus today December 11th to interview applicants for the office programs of the United States Marine Corps.

The Marine Corps offers all college students an opportunity to complete their education and earn a commission as a second lieutenant in either the ground component or as a Marine aviator. Successful applicants are commissioned upon graduation and have the option of selecting the program of their choice providing they meet the mental and physical qualifications.

The interview team will be located in Hoke Hall during their stay at Easter Oregon College. Any students interested in obtaining additional information on the officer programs of the Marine Corps are invited to contact members of the team during their stay on campus.

Candlelight Hour Starts Yule Season

Eastern Oregon College's annual Yule Candelight Hour, sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi was held Sunday, December 6, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in Hoke Hall.

The large Christmas candle was first lighted by a past member of Sigma Alpha Chi, and then each present member lit her smaller candle and placed it in one of the windows in Hoke Hall. health center. All entrance phy-At the completion of the ceremony each window boasted a brightly glowing candle and the Christmas season "officially" began on the Eastern Oregon campus.

India Brought To EOC Campus

Eastern Oregon College was fortunate in having Mr. Joerdar, who was originally from India, now a citizen of the United States, speak to an assembly Friday, December fourth on Modern India.

One of the more interesting parts of this speech was on Mahatma Gandi, whom Mr. Joardar lived with during the parts of a few summers. He explained how (if he did) Gandi brought India together. Mr. Joardar also spoke on the India and China dispute, emphasizing some of the influencing factors which have led to the dispute, one of them being the population of each country.

Mr. Joardar is now teaching in the United States so he in his own way can help to build a bridge between India and the United States.

SOEA To Give Christmas Party

Linda Kane, president SOEA, will attend the state SOEA council of chapter presidents in Portland, December 12. The business part of the meeting includes a discussion of the fall conference and the budget plans for the coming year.

Another SOEA activity for this month is the annual Christmas party for the Ackerman kindergartens on Monday, December 14, at 10:15 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. Santa Claus will be present to give gifts to the children. Refreshments are planned and Bob Marquis and Sarah Workman will tell stories.

The next SOEA meeting will be Wednesday, Jan. 6.

The sophomore class has donated $5 for Christmas decorations for campus next year. They challenge any class or organization to match that amount.

Famous Baritone Scheduled By Civic Music

EOC students will have a rare opportunity next Monday evening when McHenry Boatwright, a brilliant young American baritone will appear on our campus. Boatwright is the first artist on the Union County Civic Music Association series. Although most concerts in this series are held at La Grande High School, this concert will be right here on our own campus.

Boatwright has won so many honors in the last decade that we can't list them all. He appeared on the Sullivan show several years ago as the "outstanding vocal discovery of 1954." He has twice won the Marian Anderson award. Under his belt also are the Chicagoland Festival Award, and appearances with the top symphony orchestras of the country. Until two years ago Boatwright toured with the famous DaPaur Infantry chorus as soloist.

ASB cards admit all fulltime EOC students to all the concerts of the Civic Music series. Although this concert falls on the day before finals start it is hoped that many students will take advantage of this unusual musical opportunity, 8:15 p.m. next Monday evening.

OFCL Conference Proves Beneficial

The five delegates for EOC who attended the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders' conference on Oregon State College campus, December 4 and 5, found it to be a very beneficial one. Here, leaders from 13 schools in Oregon met to discuss common problems, various solutions, and to compare notes on student government.

Four of the EOC delegates, Terry Clifton, Sue Switzer, Butch Corey, and Larry Wilder, attended various group discussions. These included Orientation of New Students, Leadership Conferences and Retreats, Encouraging Student Participation, Students' Role in College Administration, Financial Student Faculty Relations, Student Operation of Student Government, Governmental Structure and Organization, and Purpose and Responsibility of Student Government. Beverly Donovan, ASB president, led a discussion group on The Value of Student Activities.

The delegates stayed in fraternities and sororities on campus and attended all the meetings in the Memorial Union. The banquet held Saturay night featured Dr. U. G. Dubach as the guest speaker. Dr. Dubach is the Dean of Men Emeritus, Oregon State College, and presently a professor at Lewis and Clark College. The keynote to Dr. Dubach's speech was this, "The measure of a civilization is man's obedience to the unenforceable."

Sue Switzer was reelected as secretary of OFCL for the 1960 convention. Other officers are: President, Bill Rutherford, Oregon State College; Vice President, Herb Matthews, Pacific University; and Treasurer-host, Murry Smith, Linfield College. As of yet the editor has not been appointed.

The Christmas Oratorio At EOC Sunday

"The Christmas Oratorio" by J. S. Bach will be presented by the Eastern Oregon College department of music, Sunday, with Neil E. Wilson, director.

The program is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Featured in the EOC choir presentation will be Patsy Hutchinson, Union, soprano; Sylvia Thompson, Ontario, alto; Howard Anderson, tenor, and David Skeen, baritone, La Grande; and Mrs. Jack Vedder, La Grande, organist.

Large Chorus

Members of the chorus include Joyce Chandler, Beth Combs, Ruth Combs, Jean Erickson, Bonney Green, Sandra Hawk, Atrice Hilliard, Carolyn Hilliard, Judy Hofmann, Dick Kaiser, Sharon Larsen, Keith Masterson, Velma Miller, Judy Millering, Dale Moulton, Richard Nelson, Lewis Stillwell, Judy Westenskow, and Kay Young, La Grande.

Ron Hunt, Judy Lutz, Bob Patterson, Carla Point, and Larry Taylor, Baker; Karin Stewart and Merlene Teasley, Pendleton; Daisy Good and Warren Good, Elgin; Clairnel Anglin, Pilot Rock; Connie Baker, Boardman; Yvonne Bannister, Weston; Charles Betts, Adams; Barbara Boyle, Huntington; Mike Ferguson, The Dalles; and Gail Fisher, Haines.

8 Seniors, 5 Juniors Named To Who's Who

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, La Grande—Eight seniors and five juniors at Eastern Oregon College have been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," a national publication.

The seniors include Anthony Lyle Endicott, La Grande; Beverly Donovan and Lois Jean Hunter, Pendleton; Michael Ferguson, The Dalles; Linda Kane, Mosier; Carolyn Muller, St. Helens; Mildred Smith, Redmond; and Sylvia Thompson, Ontario. Both Miss Donovan and Miss Muller were selected for the second consecutive year.

Juniors named were Jo Ann Berryman and John Willmarth, La Grande; Wilbur Oran Hutton, Jr., Baker; Pasco Arritola, Jordan Valley; and Virginia Wellington, The Dalles.

Students are nominated on the basis of scholarship, leadership in educational and extracurricular activities, general citizenship, and "promise of future usefulness."

Christmas Formal Planned For Tonight

The 1959 Christmas Formal will be held Friday, December 11, in Hoke hall. It is sponsored by AWS and the decorations will be done by Alpha Rau Tau using the theme "Winter Wonderland."

Music will be presented by Rod Esselstyn's orchestra from Pendleton from 9 to 12 p.m. Tickets are $1.00 a couple and will be sold Thursday and Friday in Ad. The time of these sales will be posted.

Your Choice: EOC

Last week end I was very fortunate to have attended the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders' conference on the Oregon State Campus. Fortunate indeed to be secretary of this organization, but still more, proud to be representing EOC.

The conference was beneficial, to say the least. And I know all of the delegates returned with many ideas concerning student government, freshman orientation, financial possibilities and useful ideas in many other areas.

But, I feel safe in saying that each delegate from EOC returned with a greater knowledge and appreciation of EOC. We have so much more in comparison with various other schools. Of course we have our problems, but next to some of the problems of the other Oregon schools, ours are slight.

One school has absolutely no idea where their money goes. They have no say in how they spend their ASB funds. We manage our own money. Our own Financial Committee works on our budget and it is available for all our students to see.

Another school has very little voice in the government of their school. Whatever they decide in their council is referred directly to the faculty to give the final okay. They have no complete jurisdiction over ASB affairs, or no equal way to talk with the faculty. In our own school the Coordinating and Policy Committee consists of members of the administration, of the faculty, and of the student council. There are also members of the student council on the assembly committee.

Ours is also one of the few student councils with every organization and group represented and having votes in council. In comparison we have excellent student participation, better faculty-student relations, and a higher percentage of voters in elections.

I could continue with various items and interesting bits of information, but I think I have said enough to get my point across. We have a well-organized and rewarding school partly because of you. You are your school. Your interests, ideas, and actions make it what it is today, a fine school of which we can rightfully be extremely proud.

Merry Christmas, EOC; your standards, traditions, administration, faculty and students.

CLUB News

By ANABELLE TIDWELL

There just doesn't seem to be much social news around the campus this month. However, Skip Gregory, president of the Rodeo Club, reported that the club is planning a big Western Dance for the winter term. Everyone is supposed to come dressed a la cowboy, and it sounds to me like it should be great fun.

Collegians are happy to report that their recent car wash was a success in spite of the rain and cold weather.

Seems to me that the informal after-game dances are always enjoyed, and the one after the EOC-University of Nevada game was no exception. I honestly believe that if Mack the Knife is played much more ,we will be forced to buy a new record! We will buy it too, if necessary, because everyone, but everyone likes to dance to it.

Just a note to let al of you club officers know that if you ever want any news about your club published, see Sue Switzer or me, Annabelle Tidwell, and if you can't contact us, write your article up and put it in the Beacon box in the mailroom of the Ad building or in the Beacon office in the basement of Hoke. Everyone wants to know what is happening in your club, so why not let them find out by way of the Beacon.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: Joy to the world . . . after many months of shoveling the gravel back and forth on Dorions freeway, a "group of geef" completed the task of BLACK-TOPING.

Mac: Jingle.

Herb: Ho, ho ho, we heard by way of Santa elves that papers in excess were found in Miss Duncans pad. Like help.

Mac: Bells.

Herb: Speaking of bells, Dorions president, Carolyn Muller, Jan Wakefield, Kay Bonderant, and are hearng the wedding-type over Christmas vacation. Because of cupid, Johanna Hardwick has moved up to the presidency, leaving the office of vice-president open. Elaine McNaught has been nominated by the house council and further nominations are expected at the house meeting.

Mac: On Doner, Dancer and Blitzen. On Tom and Jerry. On King!

Herb: Let's leave Tom and Jerry alone and talk about Carol. Are we or are we not going over to Dorion to "scale the scared walls" with song?

Mac: Deck the walls with fellows.

Herb: The newest thing in Santas visited Dorion Wednesday night at the annual Christmas party. By the shape of her legs and the size of her pack I knew in a moment . . . it must me . . . Donna Dooley. Anything to add, Mac?

Mac: Have a cool yule.

Looks iike Mr. Neil Wilson has been demonstrating his musical talent again. Sunday afternoon, Nov. 29 he was a contestant in the Oregon Metropolitan Opera auditions, held at the Lincoln High School in Portland. Wilson, baritone, placed second in the top five who were recommended for the Regional Auditions to be held in Seattle in January.

Mr. Hiatt addressed the REA Columbia Power Co-op, during their annual meeting, held in Spray, Ore., last Saturday, Dec. 5. Subject topic was "Co-operation in Communication."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dr. Frank Bennett, President
Eastern Oregon College
La Grande, Oregon
Dear Dr. Bennett:

During my four days in Oregon, I particularly welcomed the opportunity to address your student convocation.

On behalf of Jackie and myself, I want to express our appreciation for your warm hospitality.

Certainly, you can well take pride in your students. I thought them a very alert group. Their questions were excellent and addressing them was a real source of pleasure.

Again, many thanks,
Sincerely
John F. Kennedy

Dear Reader,

At the beginning of the year the publicity committee established a method for all campus groups to get their activities on the sign board. In the beginning there were more ads than could be placed on the board, but lately there has been very few. Is this due to discouragement on the part of your group because you went to all the work of filling out a slip and someoen beat you to the use of the sigboard? Or is it just too much work to fill out these forms? I'm quite sure that this is much easier and more effective than to have the Publicity committee run around every day asking people if they are going to have a dance, initiation, party, etc.! To do this effectively, it would require full time employment on the part of someone who has nothing else to do.

If the Publicity committee begins putting up notices for one group without them going through the complicated red tape of filling out a form that says, quote, "YOUR AD AS BRIEFLY AND CLEARLY STATED AS POSSI BLE," it won't be long until the time is reached when everyone will expect the same. As a result of this, campus publicity will become much worse. We have made a few rules, now let's stick to them.

Once again, signboard publicity forms are in the faculty mail room and the box they are to be placed in is labeled with a red label for the benefit of those who can't read. These slips are picked up each morning Monday through Friday and it is advisable to have them in the day before. For activities that are held on weekends the slips should be turned in by Friday morning as it is very inconvenient to change the sign on Saturday and Sunday due to Hoke being closed.

If there are times when you ad is not placed on the signboard feel free to ask why. I am sure there is a logical reason.

Council Confab

By SANDI THOMPSON

There have been several important issues put before the Council lately, one of which concerns the Student Union movies. A good schedule has been presented and a cinemascope lens is being purchased so top grade movies can be shown here on campus. In spite of these facts there has been very poor attendance. Therefore the questions were brought to the Council—1.) are the movies worthwhile to the ASB as a whole and 2.) do the members of the Student Body really want the program? As a Student body it is important these activities be supported so they can be continued. In Council it was suggested that the SU movies be terminated unless a greater interest is shown in them and attendance is improved.

It is good to see the Saber's and I.K.'s on speaking terms again and working jointly on the concessions for basketball games. Since they were the only organizations that bid they were awarded the concessions with the understanding that they would alternate sponsorship at the games.

For the benefit of organizations and classes who want to charge for dances, borrow money from the Student Council or be helped with financial problems or other such financial matters see Virginia Wellington, chairman of the Finance Committee. This committee is made up of representatives from the classes and students living on and off campus. Finances are handled through this committee, then reported to the Council. A written request must be presented to the committee according to specific criteria. For further details contact Virginia.

Finals are fast approaching, school will soon be out and vacation at your own disposal, so, the Student Council wishes you a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR!

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Last lear our music department presented Handels "Messiah" which was received with much applause and commendations. OSC is presenting the same work this year while our college is presenting Bach's Christmas Oratorio.

The Christmas season was officially opened last Sunday with our Annual Yuletide Candlelight ceremony sponsored by Sigma Alpha Chi. The ceremony was lovely and set the mood for the approaching Christmas season.

The Mountaineer staff is in full swing. Editor Jo Berryman said that the class section would be finished by Christmas vacation. Rumor has it that the 59-60 yearbook will be the best ever!

If you have seen students going around mumbling to themselves this past week, the most probable reason is a final speech preparation, a term project, or final report is due. EOC, along with all the other state supported schools, has finals next week. Need we offer any more explanation?

Puzzled by the alternating of male and female workers in the coliseum concession booth? The Sabers and I.K.'s are working together this year to give you the best service, pop, and popcorn.

TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK: To quote a well-known Beacon column, "Have a cool yule" and a frantic first! ! !

Willmarth, Salter OCC Team Choices

PORTLAND — Oregon Collegiate conference champion Oregon Tech placed eight men on the 1959 all-conference football team chosen by vote of the coaches.

One Tech player, quarterback Roy Johnson, won a berth for the second straight year, although in 1958 he was accorded the honor for his defensive work. This season, however, he was named to the offensive team in the signal -calling position along with Southern Oregon's Jack Brown. Since the vote for the quarterback position between Brown and Johnson ended in a tie, the mentors decided to name 12 men to the offensive team. Eleven were chosen for the defensive team.

Tackle Bob Wheeler of Portland State won the honor for the fensive giant from East Pittsburgh, Pa., won the honor as a freshman and a junior. Other repeaters this year were end Norman Hooper and middle guard Frank Wilson of Oregon Tech, and linebacker Phil Sword of Southern Oregon.

SOC place five on the offensive team and two on the defensive unit. Portland State won five berths—three on offense and two on the defensive unit. Portland State won five berths—three on offense and two on defense. Eastern Oregon placed one man on each team and Oregon College of Education won a spot on the defensive unit.

Six players were unanimous choices. Sword and halfback Ron Jolma of OCE won every vote for the defensive team. Ends Gordy Carrigan of SOC and Allen Leach of OTI, guard Dave Roberts of PSC and fullback Stan Glass, the OCC's leading rusher from Oregon Tech, were unanimous choices for the offensive team.

Moving up from honorable mention in 1958 were Roberts and Leach on the offensive team and end Jim McAbee of SOC and linebacked John Willmarth of Eastern Oregon on the defensive unit.

Others winning all-conference berths for the first time were tackles Willie Garner of SOC and Bob Salter of EOC, guard Tony Brauner of SOC, center Mickey Gray of PSC, backs Al Barnes of SOC and Frank McCormack of PSC on the offensive unit. Barnes and McCormack are the only freshmen to gain all-conference recognition. And completing the defensive team were tackle Virgil Winters of OTI, linebacker Earl Kessler of OTI and halfbacks Herb Harms of PSC and Charlie Wilson of OTI.

Winning recognition on the 23 man squad were 11 juniors, 6 seniors, 4 sophomores and 2 freshmen. Three repeated on the honorable mention list — Sam Clack, EOC halfback; Don Habel, OCE end, and Dick Smith SOC tackle.

Mountaineer head basketball coach Robert "Bob" Quinn is an old hand at the roundball game. Quinn, beginning his 31st year as basketball coach at EOC, has been coaching for 35 years and has been at Eastern Oregon since the birth of the college in 1929.

Coach Quinn graduated from OSC in 1926 and in 1938, he received his Master's degree in physical education from the University of Oregon. Quinn has a very impressive record as a hoop mentor. He is ranked 26th on the list of all-time winning coaches with 346 wins against 305 defeats. Mr. Quinn is the dean of Oregon Collegiate Conference coaches and is noted for his knowledge of basketball fundamentals. Last year's Mountaineer hoop squad compiled a 10-16 record overall and an 8-8 conference record.

Besides guiding the Mountie basketball squad, coach Quinn is also Associate Professor of Physical Education, geography, and director of athletics at EOC.

Basketball Lineup Indicates Speed

It's basketball time again and as the season begins to swing into high gear, lets take a belated look at the Mountaineers who make up the cage squad for 1959-60. This years team, lacking height, will depend on speed and hustle as they demonstrated against NNC and the C. of I.

Head coach Bob Quinn, who is dean of OCC coaching has 5 lettermen returning and 2 other hoopsters who saw action last season. The rest of the squad has had JV or prep experience. Coach Quinn wil pin his hopes on Frank Chase (6-0) and Pasco Arritola (6-2) who were the Mounties number three and four scorers last season. Chuck Barnhart (6-2) and Mel Holmes (5-11) are the other two lettermen who should see plenty of action this season. Jack Vedder (5-10) lettered two years ago and then entered the service and now has returned to action.

Ron Hunt (5-8) who was a standout guard for the Boise Junior College Broncos will be ready to go and should be in a starting guard position for the Mounties.

Of the freshmen hopefuls on the team, Dick Turley (6-4) is the biggest man on the squad at 205 pounds and could be a big help on the backboards. Bill Cason (6-1) Dennis Bagnall (6-2), a former footballer, and Scott Dunlap (610) are the only freshmen remaining on the Mountie squad.

Nevada Takes 2, 68-61, 65-56

The visiting University of Nevada Lobos led all the way and coasted to a 68-61 victory over the Mountaineers. It was the Mounties' second straight loss. The Lobos, leading by only a six margin at halftime, were hot during the second half, picking up the baskets whenever the Mounties threatened. Doing most in the fourth period the Nevadeans from Reno led by a 10 point margin. The Mounties just couldn't seem to hit the buckets to catch up.

The U. of N. was led by the dead-eye shooting of guard Val York, who pumped in 21 points. Pasco Arritola led the Mounties again with 20 and Bob Olinger dropped in 12. Ken Longero hit 19 for the Lobos.

The Mountaineers dropped their third straight game and the second to the University of Nevada as the Lobos swept to a 65-56 win over the Mounties Saturday night in the coliseum. It was a tighter contest than Friday's affair, with the Mounties leading during most of the first half only to fall behind at the intermission by a score of 27-26.

Pasco Arritola and Frank Chase led the Mounties with 14 counters each and Bob Lyons paced the Wolfpack assault with 17. The Mounties now boast a 1-3 record for the young season.

'59-'60 Cage Squad Depend On Speed

The EOC Mountaineers, making their 1959-60 debut, rolled to an easy 61-53 basketball win over the Northwest Nazarene Crusaders in a game played at the coliseum. In notching the victory over the visitors from Nampa, Idaho, the Mounties broke a two game winning streak for the Crusaders, who had won two straight over Eastern Montana.

Pacing the Mountaineer attack was Pasco Arritola who scored 20 points, getting eight field goals, mostly on hookshots from in front of the key. Ron Hunt proved to be an exceptional ball-handler and floor leader and tossed in nine points. The score at the half was 28-23 in favor of the Mounties and they were never behind.

C Of I Coyotes Nip Mountaineers, 72-55

The Mountaineers, showing themselves to be as cold as they were hot against NNC, dropped a 72-55 contest to the College of Idaho Coyotes in a home game played before a small but enthusiastic crowd. Frank Chase dumped in 18 points in the losing effort while Pasco Arritola hit for 11 and "Bear" McCadden dropped in 10. High scorers for the game were the two Coyote guards Daryl Hill and Ted Talbot. Hill tossed in 22 points while Talbot got 23 for 45 points, better than half of the Coyote total.

The preliminary game saw the Coyote JV's drop the Mountaineer hoopsters 69-59. Bob Meyers hit 18 points for the EOC JV's.

Pasco Arritola Leads Mountaineer Scorers

With the first full week of basketball activity complete on the Eastern Oregon College campus, Pasco Arritola, Mountaineer center, paces the team in statistics. The EOC team played four games in five days dropping contests to College of Idaho and the University of Nevada and defeating Northwest Nazarene. EOC has a 1-3 record.

Arritola, a Jordan Valley junior, is tops in total points with 65 on 23 field goals and 19 free throws. He also leads in rebounds with 43.

Frank Chase, with 49 points on 19 two-pointers and 11 from the gift line, is second to Arritola in both departments.

Mel Holmes is the most accurate Mounty, hitting on 41 per cent of charity tosses, but has scored only 15 points in four games.

As a team, the Mountaineers have hit 31 per cent of field goal attempts sinking 84 of 270 shots. Their opposition has hit for 104 of 286 attempts for 36 per cent. EOC maintains a lead over their opposition from the free throw line. Mountaineer basketballers have converted 61 of 108 attempts from the charity line for 56 per cent. Three opponents have hit for 46 points in 89 attempts for 51 per cent. EOC also has recovered 193 rebounds to 186 but trails in total points, 233-258.

IK Smoker Draws Small, Ardent Crowd

A small but enthusiastic crowd turned out for the annual smoker sponsored by the Intercollegiate Knights. The smoker, held in the Coliseum on November 21, was characterized by all-out no holds-barred performances by all of the participants. For the crowd of about 100 fans it was an exciting and entertaining evening.

The featured tag team match saw Jim Neece and Alvin Shropshire versus Dale McKrola and Dan Tucker ended in a draw after some fast and furious wrestling on the part of both teams. In the 150 pound class Carl Bellows, Vale, took on Don Cole of Baker and the decision went to Bellows.

In the boxing phase of the smoker, Steve Hunt, 130 pounder from Pendleton fought Bille Tolle and won handily. During the fight Hunt broke Tolle's nose. The 135 pound class bout saw two La Grande slugers, Joe Batty and Norm Lewis going the distance with Lewis gaining the nod.

Of the two 145 pound bouts of the evening, Gene Holt, Pendleton and Dave Curtis, Baker fought to a draw in the first match, both suffered bloody noses. In the second match Wes Lerue of Halfway and Bill Kaiser of La Grande also fought to a draw.

Dennis Gustavson, Prineville, beat Terry Simpson of Pendleton in the first of several 165 pound bouts. In other action in this clas, Don Thompson, Baker, won handily over Lyn Trembly of La Grande. Ted Miller, Elgin, scored an easy victory over Charles Searcy of The Dalles.

Making a second appearance during the evning, Jim Neece of Prineville came back to win over Gene Duncan of Baker, in the 175 pound class. Al Carr, The Dalles, won a wild bout with Bill Hunter of Wallowa. Both suffered injuries; Carr a cut lip, and Hunter a black eye. Paul Shaffield was the official for the wrestling matches and Mr. Dunsmoor refereed the boxing matches. Judges for the smoker were Mr. C. L. Plants of Hunt Hall and Dr. Douglas Spear, Associate Professor of Poiltical Science and History.

One More Shepherd

By Norman

The noon sign blinked rhythmically on and off casting each bolt of illumination across the street and through the dingy hotel window. Its reddish glow intermittently lit the room revealing it to be a typical dollar-a-night flop with dirty wall paper, a hollow closet, a yellowish stained sink and a four-poster iron bed. William Becker stood by the bed staring at the .45 which pressed its weight against the grimy bed-spread and caused the cheap mattress to sag. The neon's light flashed across the bed and for a brief moment he noted the clip and the six rounds of .45 caliber ammunition lying beside the pistol.

"A forty-five, and let's see,—one—two—three," for the thousanth time Becker counted the shells. He knew how many there were but he had continued to count them over and over every night for the last four days. "One pistol, six-rounds and," Becker paused as he thought to himself and pulled out a wrinkled cigarette package. He thrust his finger into the top and ripped it open, "and," he continued, "one damn cigarette." His hand contarcted angrily and without looking he tossed the wadded pack into the corner. The glare of the neon on the dirty pane drew him again to the window, and he stood just within the defense of the shadows and appraised the green fronted building seated under the throbbing beacon.

"Not a hell of a lot to have," he mumbled, "after eighteen months in a stinking straw hut . . ."

"We'll all be heroes." He could hear Charlie's voice the day they had docked in San Francisco.

"Ya," he thought. "But a hero dies hard, and it doesn't take long. Especially when he finds out his wife's a scut and was spending his bankroll on a 4-F while he picked lice and ate watery soup."

The state liquor store front lit up under its sign and Becker watched the bald-headed fat man ring up his fiftieth sale. Becker glanced at the clock on the corner. After four nights of counting you get an average.

"Nothing but cash sales, a till full of money, and a tired, fat, and puffed bald man to protect them. Why not?" He had been home a year now. No job, no money and he had beat this town for a week. He laughed to himself. "It's a depression not a recession when you're the one that's hungry and looking for work."

Becker crossed to the bed, picked up the clip and loaded the six rounds. He then lifted the forty-five and returned to the window. He slapped its barrel nervously against his palm and remembered what one shot from one like it had done to the face of the padded-jacketed Chink that had called him from the rice paddy. After that he had evaded capture for two more days, but, "Always" he thought, "no matter how hard you tried, in the end you lost." He wondered if the fat man's wife was a pig. "He sure looks like he's had it rough." Becker felt the bitterness knot his stomach. "Eighty pounds overweight and forty-hours a week for the last twenty years. I wonder how he made it?" The sarcasm did not ease the pain.

William Becker had stolen only once before, and had been caught. He recalled his father's sermon.

"Son, I'm not going to punish you. Neither am I going to even ask you to return what you've taken. That will be your decision." Becker fushed as he remembered his shame. He had almost forgotton his father during this last year. He had been a tall proud man with piercing blue eyes and dark brown hair. Handsome in his black frock coat and with his German Bible under his arm, his father had missed but one Lutheran service in fifty years, and that one on the morning he died. The next Sunday they buried him. His father had set a good example for him and he had tried to follow. "Remember this, son: When the Lord asked Cain where Able was and Cain answered, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' God did not answer but left the decision to Cain," his father had paused for emphasis, "and to me and to you. I decided long ago that I am indeed my brother's keeper. Not only the keeper of his life, but of his property." The blue eyes had snapped. "If he should lose something, I would return it, neither expecting nor accepting reward." His father had said no more, but Becker had understood. He wondered if his father had ever had to kill a man.

Becker watched the fat man sneak his 9:30 shot from the special bottle he had, and then wiping the sweat from his brow, rehide it in the cluttered wastebasket. Becker jerked the slide on the forty-five and seated a round in the chamber. The store closed in a half hour. At 9:45 the old man would step outside for a breathe of fresh air, then return inside to count the day's take after locking the door. From left to right he would lay out the money—twenties, tens fives and ones. Maybe two or three-hundred dollars worth. Enough until a job could be found. Becker shoved the pistol in his belt, picked his hat and coat from the bed and left the room. When the old man stepped out he would be there to greet him.

Becker waited in the doorway of the hotel until the clock read 9:41, and then stepping out into the drizzling rain he zipped up his weather-beaten jacket and pulled his hat down tight. He crossed the street and noticed that except for the neon the block was dark in both directions. "It was perfect." He though. He had done a hell of a lot more dangerous things for a lot less than this might bring. . .

Some had stolen in the camps, but Becker had never allowed himself to sink that low no matter how hungry he had become. Some had lied, informed and bartered, but he had not. Some had begged and cried and then crawled into a corner and died, but he had not. He had not lost faith, and for that reason wound up in a reactionary camp. A confirmed capitalist the Chinks had called him because he was one of the five per-cent that had resisted. Becker laughed as he though of his empty pockets. "A hell of a lot of capital I've got."

The rain had stopped and Becker, standing against the liquor store front, watched the flashes from the sign bounce off the wet pavement. Then the sign went out and did not blink back on. The fat man was headed for the door. Becker tensed himself, drawing the forty-five from his belt and slipping it into his jacket pocket. The door opened and the fat man's belly preceded him out into the open air. He did not notice Becker standing within arm's length of him in the shadows.

The fat man's head was completely bald and somewhat resembled a bowling ball sitting on an overstuffed large pillow. The old man had no neck that was visible and this, plus the glistening round head, made his pudgy ears look out of position. He stood taking in great gulps of the night air and with each breath he wheezed like a steam locomotive. Becker could not help snorting in disgust a the heap of unhealthy blubber, and the old man, startled, turned to face him.

A-ah-ah." He was frozen with fear. His beady eyes peered over dark bags of swollen flesh and his puffy red rimmed eye lids fluttered like a butterfly's wing. What a contrast. Becker remembered his father, tall, sturdy and healthy like an oak until the day of his death, and he knew that it was this strength that had taken him through the hell of Korea. How unlike this man was to his father who was his brother's keeper. "Without the Shepherd the flock would perish." His father had said this. William Becker suddenly realized that the world needed shepherds not thieves and murders. He relaxed his grip on the forty-five and took his hand from the pocket. The old man swallowed and his third chin trembled like a rooster's wattle. He nervously rubbed his red nose that was mapped with pits and veins. "Wha' —what—ahem." The old man cleared his throat.

Becker smiled a crooked smile, and as the breeze lifted his hat and tuffled his hair, he felt the burden of five days' tension fall away. He walked around the old man, retrieved his hat, and walked into the shadows smiling to himself. "The forty-five will bring ten at at any pawn shop, and heck tomorrow's another day. Who can tell what will happen?"

The old man coughed a hacking sound, shrugged his bulk, entered the store and locked the door behind him, leaving the street in darkness.

Christmas Assembly Features Song

The Christmas assembly, December 9, in the college theater presented the Blue and Gold Singers and the Mixed Chorus directed by Mr. Neil Wilson.

The Blue and Gold Singers were grouped around a dining room table on Christmas day and with Adyce Garrett, the accompanist, presented the following numbers: Lo How a Rose, Shepherd's Carol; A Ceremony of Carols which included Procession; Wolcum Yole; That Yonge Child, featuring soolist, Vad Kelsoe; This Little Babe; In Freezing Winter Night, with soloists, Daisy Good and Sylvia Thompson; and Deo Gracias.

The mixed chorus, with Mrs. Jack Vedder as their organist, sang selections from J. S. Bach's, Christmas Oratorio, which the group will present Sunday. The following numbers were sung: Rejoice and Sing; Prepare Thyself, Zion, featuring Sylvia Thompson as the soloist; Beside Thy Cradle Here I Stand; How Shall I Fitly Meet Thee; and Hear King of Angels.

Your Outing Club

Have you ever seen a trout swimming in a crystal clear stream? Have you ever seen a buck deer looking you face to face with its long graceful legs and its abundantly antlered head demanding you to snap its picture? These things have recently been enjoyed by members of the Outing Club. Why haven't you been seen at the meeting?

What is the Outing Club? The Outing Club is an organization devoted to the enjoyment of the outdoors and its wildlife. This organization has been lying around gathering dust the past several years but it recently has had this dust whisked away. Under the able advisorship of Mr. Black of the biology department and the active leadership of the newly elected officers, the Outing Club promises to be one of the most active and most interesting organizations on the campus. This will be accomplished through color movies, color slides, a weekend outing, at least two Saturday outings, and an interesting speaker or two.

The Mardi Gras Is Tonight!

Tonight promises to be one of the gayest social events of the month. It is the night that Theta Delta Phi presents its annual Mardi Gras dance.

The Mardi Gras is going to be held in Hoke Hall from 9-12 with live music furnished by Rhodes Lewis' band. Admission will be only twenty-five cents per person, and you can attend either stag or drag.

When each girl buys her ticket she will automatically be a candidate for the Mardi Gras queen. A drawing will be held later on in the night to find out who the lucky girl is. In addition to the crowning of a queen, there will be a prize awarded to the best guy in costume, the best gal in costume, and the best couple in costume. Don't stay home if you haven't a costume, because masks will be given out at the door which can serve as your costume."

Gay balloons and other decorations symbolic of the Mardi Gras will help carry out the theme. All in all it promises to be lots of fun; so grab your glad rags and come to the Mardi Gras!

Beacon Submitted To ACP Critics

A file of The Beacon's first-term issues were sent to the Associated Collegiate Press to be criticized. This all-American critical service provides criticism for member papers twice before the deadlines are submitted to ACP for judging. Competent, complete criticisms and honor ratings for those who wish them are given by ACP's staff of judges. College papers are classified into groups to insure fair consideration and comparisons far all. Classifications are made according to enrollment of school and frequency of issue. Judges use the Newspaper Guidebook (1960 edition) to criticize and score each file.

Honor ratings are awarded to all papers whose staffs wish to know how their papers compare o rrate with others. Standards are set by the best paper in each group. These standards in combination with minimum standards of journalistic excellence determine the honor ratings awarded papers in each group.

Student Teachers Are Reassigned

The new term brings forth beginning student teachers. In the elementary division there are 35 intermediate student teachers. Nina Belshee and Dean Bay are new this term teaching the sixth grade.

IRC To Present Panel Discussions

The EOC International Relations Club is a very busy organization. The IRC's have several panel discussions planned for January and February.

A panel on "Segregation in South Africa" was presented to the La Grande Soroptomists yesterday. The program was taped and presented over KLBM at 10:30 p.m. last night. Members of the panel were: George Hyland, Moderator; Bob Byrd; Allen Frasier; and Volkert Goebel.

A panel on "Economic Problems in the Middle East" is to be presented to the Enterprise Soroptomists on January 28. The members of the panel are: Lyle Endicott, Moderator; Salem Rashdan, Wilma McCord, Roger Holm, and Gary Krigbaum.

The EOC chapter of IRC has instituted an exchange panel-discussion program with IRC's of other colleges. Members from each school participate on the same panel representing both sides of the discussion topic. The first exchange is with Portland State on January 23 at Portland. There will be a return engagement within a few weeks' time at La Grande. The first discussion topic is the "Various Reunification of Germans with the Various Proposal Plans." IRC members making the trip to Portland are: Volkert Goebel, John Wagner, Bob Byrd, Wilma McCord, Allen Frasier, and Roger Holm.

"The International Relations Club is open to membership by those EOC students who are interested in current international events and who would like to participate in club activities," said president, John Wagner. "Regular meetings are Monday noons in Hoke lounge."

Lovely Girls Vie For Princess

Sue Chrisman, Donna Sene, and Vad Kelsoe are running for Snow Princess for EOC to represent us at the Winter Carnival to be held at Mt. Hood, February 26, 27, and 28. A general student body election will be held Monday, January 18, for snow princess. She will receive a ski outfit from the club and will appear on Portland TV on February 12. At the carnival she will be a candidate for queen.

Delegates of the EOC Brette Storke ski club attended a winter carnival meeting in Portland on Friday, January 8. This was a planning meeting for the carnival. The competition will consist of a 4-way slalom, downhill, cross country, jumping and other non-ski competition, such as snow sculpturing. There will be 13 colleges represented from three different states at the meet. EOC plans on entering a team in the competition.

Floor Plans Complete For Hoke Expansion

"Floor plans for the expansion of Hoke are completed," reported Dr. Bennett. They will be submitted to the State Board for approval when they meet on January 25-26, 1960. If they are approved, the State Board will present the plans for bids. If a favorable bid is accepted the work will begin on March 15, 1960. This work will not interfere with the regular activities of Hoke as the improvements will take place on the exterior of the building. Work on the new bookstore will begin immediately. The bookstore will be moved down to the ping pong area. The ping pong facilities will be moved to both the Coliseum and Ackerman gym.

Hoke will be closed during the summer session and interior improvements will begin. The dance floor will be doubled in area. Four new class rooms will be added in the basement. There will also be a new Student Council room. The kitchen is to be completely remodeled and the coffee shop is to be enlarged. All of this work will be completed before fall term of 1960.

EOC Tabs Enrollment Increase

Winter term enrollment at EOC presented a 5.7 per cent increase over that of a year ago, with 727 students enrolled as compared to 688 last year. Men outumbered women students 441 to 286. (It can be noted that when "Eastern Oregon Normal" started, women outranked the men.)

Of the total students, 225 are registered in elementary education, 183 in secondary, 142 in general studies and 172 in pre-professional.

The sophomore class had the largest class increase, with 214 enrolled compared to 167 for the previous year.

Winter term a year ago, 34 new students registered, while this year 41 have so far registered. The last day a student may register for winter term is January 16.

Straight A's Top Fall Honor Roll

Six students earned a 4.00 (straigth "A") grade point average during the fall terms at Eastern Oregon College.

Receiving "A's" in all courses were Elinor Denny, Robert Howard, David Walch, John Willmarth, Dick Cantrell, and Jim Manns.

Also named to the honor roll with a grade point average of 3.50 or above were Dean Bay, Janet Bond, Beth Combs, Jean Cuthbert, Evan Halsey, Sharon Larsen, Keith Masterson, Gene Noland, Barbara Paris, Jacob Reese, and Sheldon Strand;

Beverly Donovan, Judie Folsom, Joyce Kay, Orin Hutton, William Lovelady, Elsie Oestreich, Robert Ott, Shila Raley, Judith Savage and Don Thompson;

Yvonne Bannister, Fredric Bornstedt, Sue Goodin, Shirley Walsh, Julie Haun, Denece McCanse, Joy McKrola, Mary Michel, Larry Morgan, May Rampton, Hugh Swaney, Sylvia Thompson, Edsel White, Lynette Wood and Jose Bedregal.

Play Group To Present 'The Glass Menagerie'

"The Glass Menagerie," a two-act tragedy by Tennessee Willims, will be presented by Sock and Buskin on February 18, 19 and 20. The production, directed by Richard Hiatt, will star Mary Coffey as Armanda Wingfield, Collette Wardell as Laura, her daughter, Mike Hanford as Tom the son and Bob Miller as Jim O'Connor, the gentleman caller.

The play holds a mystic and mysterious air as a man looks back on his home—a home of fantasy and unreality. It is flavored with a southern accent of the past and spiced with the slowly-realized grim reality of the present.

"The Glass Menagerie" was first produced by Eddie Dowling and Louis J. Singer at the Playhouse Theatre, New York City, on March 31, 1945 with the following cast: The mother, Laurette Taylor; her son, Eddie Dowling; her daughter, Julie Haydon; and the gentleman caller, Anthony Ross.

Theodore Ullman On Assembly Program

EOC is fortunate in having the noted pianist, Theodore Ullmann, to play here January 20. Mr. Ullmann has presented piano recitals in countries located on every continent of the globe, including performances in each of the fifty states. Formerly a faculty member of Biarritz American University in France and member of the teaching staff under the Hutcheson administration of Juilliad School of Music in New York, Mr. Ullman was winner of more than a score of competitive awards in music

What Is Wrong With EOC?

For days I have been approaching a vast cross-section of college students and members of the faculty with the question, "What is a good topic for an editorial?" The responses follow similar patterns; a blank stare into space, a half-concerned, "Oh, I don't know," then, " I really don't know. There is always sportsmanship or attendance at the games to slam, but that has been pretty good this year. Dorion's road is fixed. We don't seem to have trouble in charging for sport dances. The blue-jeans issue is so trite and it pretty much takes care of itself. Of course, nothing has been said about the Dorion raids . . . "

The fact is, a person writing an editorial looks around for a controversial issue, something that is wrong with the school, or a campus gripe to present to the students via the journalism world. I thought perhaps it was just my optimistic and idealistic nature that made me have to hunt so hard for an issue of this kind. However, I have breathed a sigh of relief that I am still in a state of partial-abnormality and that the majority of the people around me agree that EOC is at present in a fine condition and is continually improving. We actually have to create problems.

After weeks of work spent in creating a problem, our efficient student council dissolves it within one meeting. I feel too many of us are on the defensive . . . Not that a little isn't good, but complete defense and no offense whatsoever could never win a football game and I doubt if it will ever win true happiness and understanding.

Look around and you will see EOC expanding—literally, as in the additions to Hoke hall, and indirectly, in having its students and graduates spreading its "results" throughout the state. Schools all over Oregon are begging for more EOC graduates to teach in their schools.

What is wrong with EOC? I frankly don't know. I sincerely believe that we are the most fortunate school in the state system in our faculty and student government; in activities and academic standing; in organization and outcome.

Dorion Gets Loan Of Housemother

Since the resignation of Mrs. Burnett at the end of last term, Mrs. Tollefson has been Dorion's acting house mother. She is now being loaned to us by Hunt where she has been a housemother for the past year and a half.

There is no question in anyone's mind that EOC needs another housemother, but whether Mrs. Tollefson will stay at Dorion is not known. Mrs. Tollefson said, "If the girls want me I will stay here." So it is really up to the girls whether Mrs. Tollefson stays at Dorion or not. If she does stay at Dorion, I'm sure that Hunt will have a hard time finding someone that will be so well liked and at the same time efficiently fill the position.

EOC Finds A place In The Spotlight

"I was on TV!" That may be an exclamation made by one of several who were included in a feature series on KREM TV, Channel 2, Spokane on December 29. This program viewed EOC as a part of the La Grande community in a series featuring communities within the Channel's viewing area. A ten-minute run is made every Tuesday as a portion of a news cast.

Featured were over-all views of the campus. Included were Dr. and Mrs. Bennett shown at their home. The lounge of Dorion Hall was shown and also the room in which Virginia Wellington and Ginger Brown live. Donna Johnson was pictured having a conversation over the telephone.

In front of Dorion was Kay Sherer and John Houk. Also pictured was Dr. Gordon Clarke, president of the La Grande City Commission.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Just glancing at U. of O. headlines we came across this choice item. U of O's student body president, Gary Gregory, has been placed on scholastic probation because his GPA for fall term was below a 2.0. By Oregon's policy, he must drop all extra-curricular activities until the deficiency is made up. This means he must resign his prexy post.

We thought this was the appropo time to slip in a congrats to our prexy, Bev Donovon, who made the honor roll this term.)

Seems as if all campuses are kicking the new terms off with dances. EOC is no exception with their Mardi Gras tonite. Remember: It is a stag, costume ball—grab your mask and come a'running!

Interesting: Six carloads of EOC'ers followed the basketball squad to Whitman last week. Turned out the Mounties had a better and larger cheering section than the Whitman Missionaries.

U. of O. is featuring a bridge night in their student union. Guys and gals get together with the pros and learn the "jist" of bridge. EOC might be able to profit from them and organize card clubs where mixed company could learn to play bridge, hearts, pinochle, and fun-type poker. This would be a good project for those who complain about the dances.

New Year's resolutions seem to be plaguing students on all campuses. The big decision: Cut down on hours and participate in more social activities or take more hours and avoid socializing this term. Our Advice: Balance them both—keep studies up and support our campus events.

Torrid Tip of the Week: Don't make any rash resolutions!

Where Are The Movie Goers?

Where are the movie-goers?

Our Student Union is trying to put into affect a successful programming of low-admission price movies. The admission price of the movies is merely an attempt to off-set the rental charge places upon us. The Student Union Committee feels it has chosen the highest-grade of movies available to our Student Body. We moved a step higher on the ladder of better films by having access to a cinemascope lens. Nevertheless, despite these fine offerings, we find ourselfes unable to meet the cost of the films.

Is the Student Union Committee at fault in some way for the meager attendance? If so, we will accept your worthwhile suggestions with open arms and stand correct. If we do not hear from you and the sparse attendance continues, we will be forced to assume that the students do not wish for the film program to continue. This assumption will be based on the thinking that when a periodical programming, such as our film-program, is not or fails to become self-supporting, it fails to meet its purpose. We sincerely wish we could offer the films on a no admisison price basis; however, since our funds do not allow such a possibility, we are forced to charge a nominal fee.

In closing, I would like to encourage the users of the seasons tickets to the proper use of said tickets. These tickets are only valid to the person signing the ticket. As a prerequisite, the season ticket must be signed to become valid in any way. To those who have the ability to read, we urge you who use the season ticket to save embarrassment to all concerned to refrain from loaning the tickets or from borrowing another's ticket. Not-transferable is clearly printed on the ticket.

The Student Union Committee would like to see the film-program turn into a stable function. However, if it is used unproperly or remains to have a small following, the program will be forced to cease. On the other hand, we feel that more of us will realize the fine possibilities of this program and begin to take advantage of this function. Throw down the pencils for two hours when the next Student Union Movie can't offer you "Teenage Frankenstein Meets Duracula's Daughter," but we will try to make an adequate substitute.

See you at the next S.U. Movie! !

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: Hi Mac, sit down and listen to my New Years resolutions. Number one, I resolve not to take out any engaged girls. There are now six new ones to add to the fast-growing list: Lynda Masters, Barbara Boyle, Kay Sherer, Pat Page, Susan Haines and JoAnne Bryant.

Mac: That many rings, huh?

Herb: Resolution number two, I resolve to keep my eyes open for the new dorm treasurer. Eloise Reynolds, former treasurer, was married over the holidays, which seems to be the practice among the executive council of Dorion. Joyce Kay and Myrna Barreth are candidates for the vacated position.

Mac: All those girls with diamonds.

Herb: My third resolution is to become acquainted with the new girls in the dorm such as Mardine Baker, Sharon Wade, Betty Funk, JoAnne Berryman, Marquitta Fisher, and Jeanett Pearce, and to renew old acquaintances with former Dorionites who have returned like Donna Sene, Pat Page and Marion Mitchell.

Mac: How much are diamonds these days?

Herb: For my fourth resolution, I resolve to stop throwing snowballs into the girls' dorm. Dorion was overpowered last week by the snowfighters from Hunt with several casualties reported, including Gail Cornwell, who suffered from an injured eye.

Mac: Diamond-covered phalanges.

Herb: Fifth resolution, attend all future Dorion parties after the success of the one Saturday night. There was dancing, games and the "bongo" board.

Mac: Da da dum, oh diamonds are a girl's best friend, scoube de do.

Herb: Well, I can see you're not interested in resolutions. Say, have you hear that Mrs. Tallofson is at Dorion, and from what I hear, she is doing a fine job.

Mac: That's nice. Is she engaged?

Research Assistant To Be Appointed By Senator Neuberger

Senator Richard L. Neuberger has again announced that he will appoint an outstanding young man or woman to his Washington office as research assistant on September 1, 1960. This year, however, the initial appointment will run only until January 1, 1961, for an election occurs in November and the Senator is a candidate. If he is re-elected he will expand the appointment to September 1, 1961.

Each year Senator Neuberger offers to an Oregon graduate who has demonstrated high ability and a sincere interest in the problems of government an appointment to his staff as research intern for one year at a salary of $4,499.50. Three of his former interns have remained in government work and one, Larry Hobart, is now his legislative assistant, so that the program appears to be successful in encouraging superior students to enter government.

Senator Neuberger has appointed a selection committee of which Dr. John Swarthout, Dean of Portland State College, is chairman.

Candidates for this position are nominated by the political science departments of Oregon colleges and universities. Application to them should be made by interested students who are of senior rating or in graduate study in those schools, or by recent graduates.

Council Confab

By SANDI THOMPSON

What does the Student Council bring with the New Year?

The first council meeting of the term was held January 12. At this meeting the council members decided to meet on Mondays at 6:30 again this term.

A new addition in Hoke Hall is a set of mailboxes that are located just inside the door. The purpose of the mailboxes is to make it more convenient for students and student officers to contact each other. If you have a message for an organizational president or an ASB officer just drop a note in their mailbox.

The Sophomore Class challenges other classes and organizations to match their $5.00 contribution toward decorations for a Christmas tree next year on campus. This would be a good project to think about during the coming year. Acceptance of this challenge would be appreciated by the council.

Why not make a New Year's resolution and visit your Student Council meeting? It is your government, so, make it your interest.

Visitors are coming to EOC January 22, 23 when OCE's band will be our guest. A full weekend is planned for them. They will arrive Friday, January 22, and will play at the basketball game that evening, after which both bands are having a get-together in the basement of the library.

A luncheon date for Saturday is scheduled for both bands. Saturday night they will play for the basketball game and then afterwards a dance for everyone is being sponsored by EOC band.

Gwen Calvart is chairman of the entire weekend.

Mary Coffee has been selected to play the leading part in "The Glass Menagerie" to be presented February 18, 19, and 20.

Neil Wilson went to Seattle to sing at the auditions for the Metropolitan Opera. He won in his section at the Saturday competition which allowed him to enter the final competition on Saturday. EOC students are sorry to hear he did not win in the final section. Better luck next time.

In Gearhart, December 28-30, Margaret Morris spoke at the Oregon Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation conference. Her speech topic was "Values and Uses of Selected Playground Equipment n the Elementary School." A movie was shown concerning playground equipment.

Visiting several Eastern Oregon communities this past week were representatives of the Oregon State system of higher education. They presented information regarding colleges for Oregon's future 1960-70. The four-man team consisted of Dr. Frank B. Bennett, Harold C. Dorn, Charles A. Ivie, and William P. Wells.

Intramural basketball got off to a flying start this week on campus with games being played last night and today. Many people sell intramural athletics short with the assumption that it offers little in the way of entertainment. Nothing could be further from the truth. For the spectator it offers an opportunity to see some fine former high school players in action. It has been often said, and is many times true that the best players are in the stands, not on the floor. Besides giviing the players a chance to continue playing basketball, it provides the exercise that everyone needs and few get in this nation of milk shakes and apple pie. The best reason though for intramural athletics is that it's fun. So why not drop over to the coliseum some evening and watch some basketball played for the purpose it was originally intended. For enjoyment.

The Mountaineer Rifle team has a full schedule of matches lined up for the Winter term. Coach Archie Dunsmoor has scheduled matches with such schools as SC, WSU, and the U of Arizona na. Although not a great spectator sport, rifle and pistol matches are interesting in their own right. Again we say that if you are interested in firing either the rifle or pistol, you are welcome to contact Mr. Dunsmoor or just drop by the range any evening. No experience necessary.

The way the Oregon Collegiate Conference race looks now, Portland State is the team to beat. With two games under their belt, they lead the conference with a2-0 record. Eastern Oregon should have taken both of the games with SOC but the Raiders from Ashland simply hustled their way to victory over the Mountaineers.

Ron Hunt, the hustling floor leader of the Mounties continues to amaze and befuddle the opposition with his fine play. It was surprisiing to see hiw well the so-called second string of the Mounties kept up with the Raiders last Saturday night. Maybe there should be a little more seen of the "Lost Five." Mark Cornwell, the newest member of the varsity performed very well in his first taste of action. So did Scott Dunlap and Darrell Jones. One more thing of note. Why was "Bear" McCadden kept on the bench Saturday night when it was obvious that the Mounties needed strength under the boards? You tell me.

A college bowling league is being formed for the Winter term. All those interested are urged to sign up. It is emphasized that you don't have to be a 250 bowler to participate. All that is needed is interest.

Mounties Triumph Over Missionaries

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers snapped a seven game losing streak as they raced to a 84-73 victory over the Whitman Missionaries at Walla Walla. The Mounties sparked by the 30 point performance of Mel Holmes captured their season victory of the season.

EOC was behind at the half 36-34 and the game was tied six times in the second period of play. Whitman led for most of the first half but the Mounties came back in the second half to take a 74-52 lead in the fourth quarter. After that the Missionaries could not close the gap.

Holmes, a junior from La Grande set a new coliseum scoriing record, breaking the record set last year by the Mountie Ace, Tom Neel, who scored 29.

EOC—Arritola 18, Chase 20, Barnhart 4, Holmes 30, Hunt 6, Olinger 6. Whitman—Johannes 20, Mize 24, Michaelson 11, Phelps 7, Lillie 5 McCarthy 4 Bogle 2.

End of first week of play.

Eastern Oregon College, led by Olinger and Darrell Jones, fired their way to a 65-54 victory and a split in a series of two games with Southern Oregon. It was a close contest all the way with the Red Raiders theatening throughout the game.

The game, tied eight times throughout the night, saw Jones and Olinger come off the bench to toss in 10 points between them to help ice the contest. Olinger dropped in a field goal in the Fourth period to increase the Mountaineer lead when the Raiders threatened to close the gap.

The win, EOC's third in 12 starts now gives them a 1-1 record in conference play and a 3-9 record on the season.

The Mounties are in Klamath Falls this weekend to battle the Oregon Tech Owls who are on the bottom of the OCC standings with an 0-2 record.

EOC scoring, Hunt 12, Chase 15, Jones 10, Olinger 8, Arritola 6, Holmes 8, Barnhart 3, Cornwell 3.

SOC scoring, Carrigan 11, Vannice 7, Payne 8, Smith 8, Flanary 10, Bernet 2, Lillebo 6, Peterson 2.

The Condon Independents topped the EOC junior varisty 69-55 in a preliminary game. Dick Brandl had 15 points for EOC followed by Dennis Bagnell with 11. Former Mountaineer great Tom Neal was the game's high scorer with 22 for Condon.

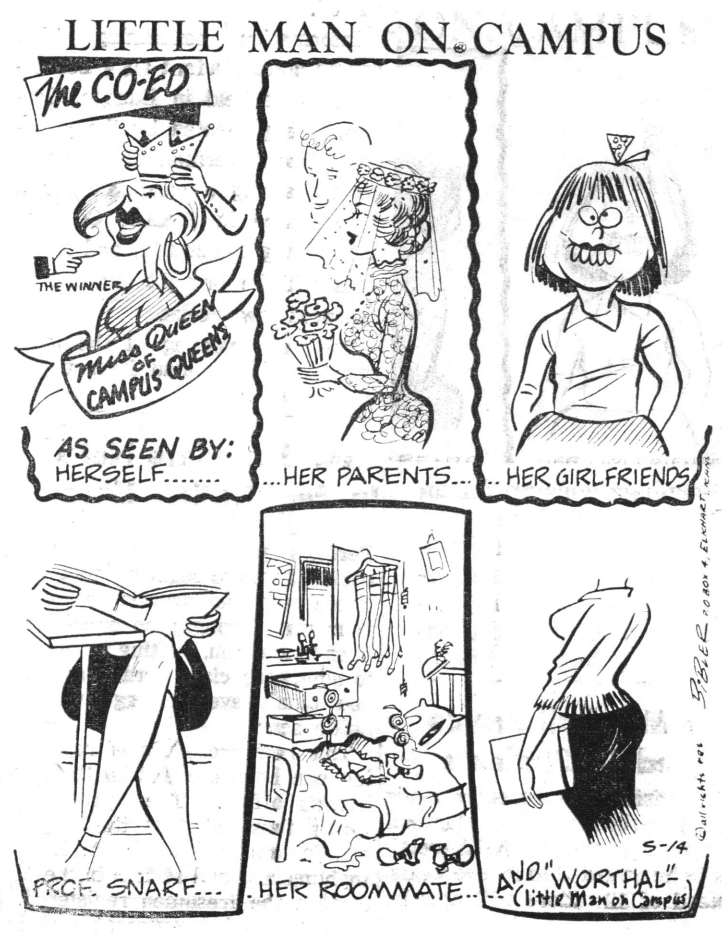
SOC Raiders Over EOC Mounties

The Southern Oregon College Red Raiders opened up a two game series against the Mountaineers by racking up a 62-59 victory against the Mounties Friday night in the coliseum. The bustling Raiders from Ashland came from behind in the Fourth period to catch the Mounties who were seeking their seceond straight victory of 1960.

With a little under seven minutes left to play in the ball game, the Mounties tied the score at 47-47. It was tight for the last few minutes as the Mountaineers and the Raiders traded basket for basket. With just a minute left to play with the Mounties leading 57-56, Gordy Carrigan, SOC's All Conference guard, dropped in six points and the Mounties just couuldn't close the gap.



Pasco Arritola again led the Mountaineer scoring with 18 counters while Frank Chase was dunking in 17. For the Raiders John Payne had 16 and Carrigan hit 15. Ron Hunt hit six and once again showed his ability to do wonders with the basketball.

EOC—Barnhart 4, Chase 17, Arritola 18, Hunt 6, Holmes 6 Olinger 8.

Ryan Gives Talk At Student OEA

"Special Education" was the topic under discussion at the first winter term meeting of Student OEA, Wednesday, January 6. Mr. Bruce Ryan, Director of the Speech and Hearing Center at EOC presented information concerning special education. After the talk there was a question-discussion period.

Information concerning the spring state Student OEA conference to be held in Eugene, Oregon, was presented by the president. The Ackerman Chapter will be sponsoring a candidate for a state office in Student OEA at the coming conference, and nominees will be brought forward in the next few weeks.

The next meeting of the local chapter will be held February 3 at 7:15 p.m.

New Procedure Noted In Registration Lines

Something new has been added! Perhaps you noticed how much easier it was to register this term. There were no crowds to elbow your way through: no extra long lines to stand in, waiting for a prof to sign your class card. Probably you didn't even emerge with a battle scar.

This new procedure of registering can be accredited to the registrar's office. The procedure works thus: at 8:30 the seniors and juniors registered; 10:30, the sophomores; and at 1:30 in the afternoon the freshmen registered.

The main improvement was in the shortened time it took to have the class cards signed and the less confusion generated with the smaller number registering at a time. Crowds did develop in the lines in the basement of the library and in the Ad. building. Here improvement is needed. Nevertheless, the new process of dividing registration into divisions can be an incentive for improvement in EOC's whole registration process.

What Would You Do?

A male or female student, or both, here at Eastern Oregon College may surprise the student body and faculty by winning an all-expense trip around-the-world. It all depends upon what you write in about 30 or 40 words.

The question is "What Would You Do?"

What yould you do if you had invented the invisible ray, demonstrated by Dr. Ulof, a Russian-born scientist, in MCP's exciting new motion picture, "The Amazing Transparent Man." It's a tricky gadget with which one person could conquer the world, become rich, or maintain world peace. What use would you make of it? Why? Where? When? How? These are the questions that will go through your mind. Your answer may be the exact one the Judges rule finest.

"The Amazing Transparent Man," with MCP's "Million-Dollar Movie I.Q. Contest," comes to the Granada theatre in La Grande for one full week, beginning Friday, Jan. 22nd. Every student will have ample time and opportunity to see it. At the theatre students will be given free an official contest entry blank. Simply take it home—do some thinking—then fill it out and mail it in. That's how easy it is to win. First prize, nationally, for the college man's best entry is an all-expense trp around-the-world The same prize will go to some college woman. Other national prizes include a $50,000 furnished home, built anywhere and a new Chevrolet every year for life.

There will be 200 state prizes—4 in each state—awarded of all-expense vacation trips to Hollywood, Disneyland, the Tournament of Roses, Rose Bowl Game, Palm Springs and Las Vegas. The contest offers over 50,000 local prizes ranging from puppy dogs to mink coats. It should prove very competitive and a lot of fun. Pamphlets, giving all details, are available at the Granada theatre. The dates again, January 22-28th.

New Outing Club Sparks Enthusiasm

By WENDY JOHNSON

The Outing Club, one of the first clubs on the campus to get things rolling for the winter term, is looking forward to some thrilling events for the new year.

The bulletin display which was set up in the library during registration to show the student body some of the club's activities, sparked interest. At the very first meeting of the term there were over 40 in attendance. Two ski films were shown: One film was about the Sixth Winter Olympics which have already taken place and the other was a preview of the 1960 Olympic games to be held in Squaw Valley, California, in February.

The club emblem, designed by Don Johnson, was selected from among several good designs submitted by club members. The silhouette of mountains and wildlife suggest some of the club's objectives: "to get to know Eastern Oregon better, and to have fun while doing it."

On January 12, Mr. Hugh Black, adviser for the club, gave a slide illustrated talk on "Live Trapping and Handling Black Bears in New York State." It proved especially interesting to those who enjoy such dangerous adventures!

A snowshoe trek on Mount Emily on Sat., Jan. 16, is the first of the outings planned for this term. This will be followed by a trip to the Elk Winter Range, led by Jim Heintz of the Oregon Game Commission, and a Winter Sports weekend at the Spout Springs Ski area.

Programs slated for the remainder of the term include a slide-illustrated talk by Dr. Kaiser on "Outdoor Photography"; Mr. Hill and Mr. Betrick will discuss Oregon Gem Stones; and Mr. Combs, "the Bird Man" will imitate bird songs and describe some of the birds of Eastern Oregon. A special feature is being planned. Watch the bulletins!

More Marshall Grants Offered To Students

A decision was recently made regarding the number of Marshall Scholarships at British Universities to be awarded in future years. Instead of 12 there will now be 24.

The Marshall Scholarships, introduced in 1953, have in six years come to rival the much-coveted Rhodes Scholarships, which are more widely known.

In order to acquaint prospective candidates of the additional number now to be awarded, the following information is given:

Five hundred pounds a year for two years plus tuition fees, with extra 200 pounds for married men. Available to U. S. citizens only, men or women under the age of 26 (exceptionally 28), who have graduated from accredited U. S. Universities or Colleges. Deadline for receipt of applications, Oct. 31. (Apply to British Information Services, 1805 Exchange Building, Seattle, 4, Wash., or British Information Services, 2516 Pacifiv Avenue, San Francisco 15, Calif.)"

Applicants from the Pacific Region are in a strong position, because the same number of scholarships (6) are awarded as in the other regions, which have a greater number of Universities.

Sen Humphrey To Be At EOC February 8

Monday, February 8, at 10:00 a.m, Democratic Presidential hopeful. Senator Herbert Humphrey from Minnesota will be guest speaker at an assembly in the college theater. It has been indicated that his speech will be nonpartisan and will dwell chiefly on foreign relations.

Other Eastern Oregon areas Senator Humphrey will visit,includes Baker the preceeding Sunday, and Pendleton, Tuesday, February 9.

Song Leaders Give Novelty Routines

EOC's songleaders have started something new this year. Every Saturday night at the home basketball games, they entertain the spectators with a specialty dance routine. The songleaders, Ruth Combs, Peggy Elder, Bunny Moyer, Karen Welo, and Tarry Clifton, Rally Squad Leader, have so far resented thre half-time routines.

The first half-time show was put on Dec. 5 at the U. of Nevada game. The theme was "Beat" and the girls were dressed as beatniks and danced to bongo drums.

At the SOC game on Jan. 9, the girls took their theme from the Broadway production, "Li'l Abner." Five darlin' Dogpatch gals were seen chasin' five handsome hillbilly fellows across the gym floor. Nacherly the females caught them and pushed and pulled their conquests to the center of the floor where they did a short hillbilly dance. Marryin' Sam was waiting to perform the marriage ceremonies before they left the floor.

The OCE half-time was invaded by the "Litttle People." (Really it was only the EOC songleaders again.) A cute dance was done to "Five Foot Two." Wonder how they could see where they were going.

More half-time entertainment will be provided by the songleaders and the modern dance group. At one of the next home games, the modern dance group will perform.

Marine Selection Team On Camus Feb. 8 & 9

The Marine Officer Selection team headed by Captain R. D. Mickelson will be on the Eastern Oregon College campus February 8th and 9th to interview applicants for the officer programs of the United States Marine Corps.

The Marine Corps offers all college students an opportunity to complete their education and earn a commission as a second lieutenant in either the ground components or as a Marine aviator. Successful applicants are commissioned upon graduation and have the option of selecting the program of their choice providing they meet the mental and physical requirements.

The interview team will be located in the Hoke Hall during their stay at Eisatern Oregon College. Any student interested in obtaining additional information on the officer programs of the Marine Corps are invited to contact members of the team during their stay on campus.

Groundhog Luncheon February 1, Noon

On Monday, the first of February, the Interfaith Council will sponsor their Ground Hog Luncheon in Hoke Hall at 12:00 noon.

The Reverend Mills of the Methodist Church will give a short devotional and Barbara Myers will present a violin solo.

Tickets must be purchased in the Ad Building before 3:00 p.m., on Friday, January 29. These tickets are 25c a plate. Also following tradition, a wonderful meal is planned and will be served at this fantastically low price.

SUSAN CHRISMAN, EOC SNOW QUEEN, will represent EOC as a candidate for snow queen at the Winter Carnival at Mt. Hood to be held February 26, 27 and 28. Susan will be provided with a ski outfit and will appear on Portland TV, February 12, as a part of the preparation for the events at the Ski Carnival.

Sue Chrisman Snow Princess

EOC has chosen Susan Chrisman as its Snow Princes to represent EOC at the forthcoming Winter Carnival at Mt. Hood, February 27th and 28th. About 13 colleges will send delegations to the carnival, one of which will be chosen queen. Miss Chrisman will appear on TV with the other delegates February 12th for a short interview.

The queen will be chosen Saturday by dignitaries from various colleges on the basis of poise, charm, beauty and speaking ability. Prior to the final decision, each snow princess will be interviewed and give a speech. All of the princesses will receive a complete ski outfit and will be staying at Timberline Lodge during the carnival.

Portland State College, which sponsors the carnival entirely, has planned many events. Saturday night will be a dance with two bands; one swing and one progressive jazz. Sunday the Castle Jazz band will perform and there will be various amateur groups from the colleges entertaining. The ski competition will include cross country racing, jumping, down hill racing, and slalom. The non-ski events will include snow shoe races, flying saucer races, snow sculpturing, and a tug of war between the colleges.

Betwen 3,000 and 4,000 people are expected to attend the carnival this year. Any college student may attend regardless of whether he's a member of the ski club.

NOTICE ORGANIZATIONS

The Deadline for Organizations to get their picture in the 1960 annual is March 1, 1960. Organizations wishing their picture taken contact Janet Bond or Jo Ann Berryman if they have not done so. Contact can be made through the Mountaineer box in the faculty mail room.

Interfaith Team To Have Six Members

The 19th Annual "Religion in Life Conference" at EOC is to be held during National Brotherhood Week, February 23-25. According to Dr. Virgil Bolen, Chairman, the opening assembly will be the 23rd, with the Interfaith Banquet the following day. The closing conference will be at noon, February 25.

The interfaith team for this year's conference includes: Dr. Francis E. Dart, Associate Professor of Physics, University of Oregon, a member of the Religious Society of Friends; Mr. John H. Hancock, Missionary Volunteer Department, Seventh-Day Adventist Church; Father Kouis Haven, Department of Theology, Gonzaga University; Dr. Daniel H. Ludlow, Associate Professor of Religion, Brigham Young University; E. Shelton Hill, Executive Secretary of the Urban League, Portland, an outstanding Negro leader; and the Reverend V. Leon Bolen, Pastor, First Methodist Church, Pocatello, Idaho.

Besides speaking at assemblies and dinners, members of this year's team will speak in some of the class rooms.

Competition Increases

Intercollegiate competition in four additional sports will be inaugurated at Eastern Oregon College this year, acording to Robert "Bob" Quinn, director of athletics.

He indicated wrestling, tennis, golf, and cross country would begin as soon as the numbers of participants in each sport warrant.

Quinn noted that this brings EOC's number of competitive sports to eight, including football, basketball, baseball and track.

IK Smoker Tonight In CC

Once again the Intercollegiate Knights are presenting their semi-annual Smoker in the College Coliseum. It will be tonight at 8 p.m. Anyone who saw the I.K. Smoker last term will remember that it was very entertaining and was well worth the admission price.

The Intercollegiate Knights have an excellent program planned as usual so come on out to the Coliseum for an evening of bloody boxing and wracking wrestling.

The smoker is open to the public and the prices are $.75 for adults, $.50 for students and $.25 for children under 12.

Pianist Ullman Well Received

Theodore Ullman, pianist, visited EOC campus January 20. He is sponsored by a national council paying much of his expenses. Mr. Ullman has won several national awards in music.

His selections included in chronological order a variety from modern to old classical. The composers are from modern classical, George Gershwin, to Beethoven of old classical.

The audience reaction appeared to enjoy Mr. Ullman immensely, requesting two encores, one of which was "Moonlight Serenade" played in a very interesting fashion.

Nurses' Advice —Pay Heed

With flu beginning its rounds again the health center offers a bit of advice to the students: "When coming down with the flu stay in bed the first two days and be careful to avoid chilling and getting overly tired."

Mrs. Osterholme is glad to make house calls to students living in the dorm, and to those who live within the city limits, if the student is too ill to come to the office. All that is necessary to receive a house call is to notify Mrs. Osterholme's office and then be sure you are home when she gets there.

Sculptress Presents Slide Lecture

Betty Feves, nationally known sculptress from Pendleton, presented a slide-lecture, "Development of a Ceramic Sculputre Artist," Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the EOC auditorium.

Mrs. Feves' art is nationally known. Her more recent and important works of art have been exhibited at the Brussels World's Fair, Museum of Modern Art in New York, Portland Museum of Art, and the University of Oregon.

A reception, honoring the Pendleton artist at the formal opening of the campus exhibition, will be held in the Walter M. Pierce Art Gallery sponsored by the Union County Art Guild. The exhibition is scheduled through February.

Variety at 4:00 Apparent Success

The tentatively titled "Variety at 4:00" appears to be one of the best ideas presented recently for a social activity. A trial run was presented Wednesday, January 20 at Hoke Hall lounge. The coffee shop was kept open so that the students could get some coffee before they settled down to watch student talent. Among talent that appeared were the Hawaiian Girls and contemporaries, the new school combo, the Combs twins, Marcia McPherson and the men's quartet.

The reaction concerning the show was most enthusiastic and it was generally agreed that this should continue. This same sort of "casual" variety show has been successful on other campuses. Difficulty arises though, as to what times to have this show. This is to prevent any conflict with classes. Some ideas have run along the vein that 4:00 is the ideal time, although an evening hour such as 9:00 has been proposed.

Thanks are to be given to Ladd McGowan for his organizing this program, and to Skip Gregory for helping Ladd. Of course thanks go to all others who helped organize and who participated to start a much needed and enjoyed "Variety at 4:00."

Proof Of Talent Of The Profs

On Wednesday, February 3, 1960 the faculty will present a talent show. Dr. Bennett will give a speech and the faculty will work their acts around this speech. Included in the various acts will be a chorus of 15 voices and they will sing three selections and a modern dance done by Miss Nicoloff accompanied by Dr. Bishop on the flute. There will possibly be a comedian act and a juggling act done by members of the faculty. These two acts have not been confirmed as yet.

NOTICE

NO ONE WILL BE ADMITTED FREE TO ANY MORE BASKETBALL GAMES UNLESS THEY PRESENT THEIR STUDENT BODY TICKETS AT THE DOOR TO BE PUNCHED. IF THE STUDENTS FORGET THEIR TICKETS, THEY WILL HAVE TO GO BACK AND GET THEM OR PAY THE REGULAR ADMISSION PRICE! THOSE WHO DIDN'T GET THEIR TICKETS IN THE REGISTRATION LINE MAY PICK THEM UP AT THE BUSINESS OFFICE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

What Are Community Hours?

What are Community Hours? How do we get them? What do they have to do with education? Why do I need them to become a teacher? I would like to tell you briefly what Community Hours are and why they are important to you now and as a future teacher.

A program of Community Experience with children and Community Experience with adults are required for all students in teacher education prior to student teaching. Any student studying to become a teacher should, prior to student teaching, have "a variety of first hand experience with children to better understand their pattern of growth and development and reactions to situations outside the classroom and experience with adult groups to develop a better understanding and acquaintance with adult agencies and working groups in the community."

With the above in mind, registration for student teaching will be dependent upon the student having a balance of such experiences for a period of time equivalent to six terms during the sophomore and junior years before applying for student teaching. The following general principles and procedures will apply:

1. The responsibility for getting these experiences and reporting them is placed upon the student.

2. The student, with the advice of the Coordinator of Community Experiences should select activities to assure a variety of experiences.

3. Participation in an activity should be for a complete year or for the time necessary to fulfill the obligation undertaken. Some activities may demand following them through for a complete year with active participation for short intervals.

The following are a number of suggested activities, organizations, or situations: (Participation is not limited to these listed.)

1. Activities having direct contact with children: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Future Farmers, Future Homemakers, Cub Scouts, Sunday School, 4-H Work, Youth Activities, Coaching, Brownies, PTA, Library Reading to Children.

2. Activities having direct contact with adults; Community Drives, Choir, Church Greeting.

3. Cooperative activities with adults: T.B. Seal Work, Posters, Soroptimist Breakfast, Soroptimist Smorgasbord, PTA, Community Drives.

4. Summer work activities: Playground, Activities (Swimming), Counseling (Camp), Camp Leadership Experience.

Fill out the "Record of Community Experiences" immediately and leave it at the office of the director of Education. The Coordinator of Community Experiences will go over it with you and help in the selection of possible experiences that will serve your over-all understanding. When a community experience is complete you will get a "Report of Community Activity" from the office of the Director of Education, fill out the form, sign it, get the signature of the person responsible for the organization or activity, and file it with the Coordinator of Community Experiences. A complete cumulative record will be kept at all times so that you may complete a balanced program of participation.

Why Are They Important?

You, as a teacher, will be expected to be one of the most, if not the most, civic-minded person in your community. You will be expected to understand and have an interest in all the community's activities. This will include experience in a similar activity, and knowledge yon can apply to the present situation.

To talk more specifically about the present, these experiences are an excellent means to discover whether or not you are really interested in teaching. You might realize after leading one troop of Brownies and teaching one group of Homemakers how to bake a chocolate cake, that teaching is definitely not your chosen occupation. To less extremes, but just as helpful, you might find working with a high school drama class more rewarding than teaching Sunday school to six-year olds. Thus you would decide to major in secondary education rather than elementary.

Working with Community Experiences brings you in closer contact with your home town and with the town of La Grande. Your practical education will not stay compressed between the leaves of a book, but can be applied in various ways to better prepare you for practice teaching and eventually your regular teaching position.

Your Community Experiences, which seldom require more than one or two hours a week, will benefit you as well as the community.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Scanning through the Boise Junior College "Roundup," we noted an editorial and several New Year's Resolutions concerning studying. It seems that most students feel (the night before they take their final) that they should have studied earlier for the course. It is really too bad that this enlightening thought couldn't come earlier in the term, or year and last longer.

Winter Carnival Princesses are being chosen throughout Oregon and Washington. We doubt if many candidates will come near to equaling our lovely Ski Princess, Sue Chrisman. We wish Sue all of the "good things" in her competition for herself and for Eastern Oregon College.

POINT OF INTEREST: Last year's Ski Princess from Eastern Oregon, Janet Lundgren, is this year one of the five finalists vying for Snow Queen at BYU.

The Young Democrats have reorganized this election year with Lyle Endicott acting as their temporary chairman.

The University of Oregon Senate is still in a quandry over their student body president receiving a 2.0. The automatic result was his being ousted from his position. Most Student Body Constitutions don't plan for such catastrophies!

Eastern Oregon's Class of 1960 has had an official meeting and student teachers are in the process of getting their credentials. This must mean that graduation is not too far in the future . . .

February 3, Lindfield College is hosting the Four Freshmen. The Freshmen are the first big recording group that has appeared on the Linfield campus. Two years ago at Homecoming we had Ernie Fields and his Orchestra who recently made "In the Mood" repopular, but since that time we haven't seen any big name talent. When does EOC begin???

TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK: Are you tired of rationalizing? Go play with a plastic bag.

Carousel; Theme Of Dorion Dance

The annual Sweetheart's Ball will be given by Dorion Hall on February 13.

"Carousel" is the theme of the annual Sweetheart's Ball to be given by Dorion Hall on February 13. The dining room will be converted to a ballroom of festive decorations of balloons, crepe paper and lattice work in a valentine air. Through a series of nominations and elections five girls will be on the court for the dance. The evening of the occasion each girl and her date will get a vote for the "Sweetheart of 1960." Music will be by a combo provided by Rhodes Lewis. There will also be entertainment at intermission.

Elaine McNaught, vice president of Dorion Hall, is general chairman for the dance. Committee coordinators are: Decorations, Tarry Clifton; Music and Entertainment, Marcia MacPherson; Programs and Coronation Ceremony, Sue Switzer; and Refreshments, Gail Fisher.

The semi-formal dance will be held following the basketball game with OTI.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: We're all doomed! The plague has struck, Mac. It's measles at Dorion. Sharon Wade and Susan Christman were quarantined last week due to the measle bug. What are we going to do?

Mac: Mid-terms will exterminate all those germs.

Herm: Speaking of bugs, the love-bug scored again. Judie Folsom and Marion Mitchell are engaged.

Mac: How unhealthy.

Herb: Dorion's housemother, Mrs. T., celebrated her birthday Sunday with the guys and gals from Hunt and Dorion. There was cake, girls, ice cream, girls, candies, girls, Mrs. T . . .

Mac: Are mid-terms worth the effort?

Herb: Put on your best smile Mac, the Sweethearts' Ball is coming February 13. This is one of those fun ones where the Dorionites will carry out the leap year custom by inviting fellows of their choice.

Mac: Smile? With mid-terms coming?

Herb: Well, Joyce Kay wasn't frowning the day she was elected treasurer of Dorion.

Mac: If it weren't for mid-terms I'm sure I'd be better adjusted.

Herb: Say, did you know that in order for the Dorion girls to become better acquainted with Mrs. T, a "social get-together with your housemother" time has been set up for a week or so? What are you smiling for?

Mac: Mrs. T. is one of those unengaged ones.

Herb: You can even have a broader grin than that, Mac. Just hear the neat, neat news. Mrs. T. gets to stay! She is our permanent house mother, isn't that wonderful? Where are you going?

Mac: Down to get acquainted. Mrs. T. might have some suggestions for studying for midterms.

CLUB News

By ANABELLE TIDWELL

Sabers seem to be one of the busiest clubs on campus. Over the holidays, the members sent Christmas presents which were joyfully received at Hillcrest. The present pledges of Sabers who have been pledging for one term are awaiting their initiation, which is planned for the near future. Specially designed pins for all members have been ordered. They are entirely new and different, and they should arrive shortly. This year the club has been meeting once a month at Dorion Hall. These meetings are dinner meetings complete with candlelight, and I have been told that they are especially nice.

The Outing Club has really gone all out in promotion. Picture displays and typed literature on the club have been seen on campus, not to mention the attractive seal of the club. On January 30, the club plans a field trip to Elk Winter Range on Grande Ronde in the vicinity of Mt. Emily River Camp. The leader of the trip is going to be Jim Heintz, Biologist, OSGC.

Little news comes to us from the Rook Rally Rousers, except for the fact that they tried awfully hard for a pep meeting before the OCE game. Fred Kelly, Bev Trimble, JoAnn Kaufman, Barbara Boyle, all officers of the triple R, have been working hard to make this year's club a real success.

The Freshman Class meeting which was held recently brought plans for a dance sponsored by the class. Nothing is definite yet, but the planning committees can promise you a really different dance.

Remember! If your club has any news that it wishes to be printed in the Beacon, all you have to do is write up the story and put it in the Beacon box in the Ad building. Let's have more news from your club!

Council Confab

By SANDI THOMPSON

What has been taking place in Student Council?

1. It seems as though there have been many favorable comments about the Winter-Term registration line and its success in a faster registration for most students. However, one complaint was that some students registered at times not designated for their class. Because of much objection to this it was suggested there be a correction and understanding of the times scheduled for various classes before the next registration. It was also suggested that classcards be given out to students prior to registration in hopes of speeding up the process. This may possibly be handled by student advisers as they sign the pre-registration sheets.

2. Virgina Wellington, ASB Business Manager, presented a proposal for re-allocation of such funds as the Path Finder, Homecoming and others to activities like formal dances. It is recognized that the present allottment of $125 for the formal dances is not enough for decorations and a good orchestra which means the organizations have to charge admission in order to clear expenses. The re-allocation would place $100 or more in the budget for such dances as the Junior Prom, Coronation Ball and Winter Formal. This is presently a proposal put before the Council to be seriously considered. There will be further reports.

3. It has been suggested in Council that Student Council meetings be held in Hoke Hall Lounge at 8:30 p.m. Monday to provide an opportunity for persons who are interested to sit in on them.

4. A motion was passed in Student Counicl that EOC hold a campus chest drive and the funds collected will be distributed by the Council to organizations like WUS and the Red Cross and perhaps several others. The co-chairman for the drive will be Larry Wilder and Karen Sutton. They will work with the Council and through various campus organizations and social functions. The date has not been set for the project.

It isn't very often that a girl makes this sport page. But the Beacon sports department would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Sue Chrisman for being chosen Snow Princess. It's our opinion that she will really make a fine representative at the Winter Carnival at Mount Hood. Good luck Sue!

Speaking of the Winter Carnival, the Eastern Oregon ski club. Brete Stork, will enter a team in the downhill and cross-country events. It would really be a boost to them if some Eastern Oregon students could make the trip and cheer them on. The Carnival is the event of the year in Northwest college ski circles. This reporter attended last year and the non-skiers had more fun than the skiers. It's a weekend you'll never forget.

In the last issue of the Beacon, this column raised a certain stir concerning several comments made about the Mountie basketball team. In regard to that column, this reporter must say that everything written under a by-line reflects the personal opinion of the writer, not the paper or anyone else writing or working for that publication.

Furthermore, in stating that this column reflects personal opinion, it must be stated that the comments were not written for the benefit of any one person on the basketball team. It was written for reader interest and, as stated before, to express personal opinion. In the future this column will continue to do just that. It may be liked or disliked, that does not matter. The main purpose is to put items of student and faculty interest before the reader. To serve whatever purpose readers wish to put them.

Bob Olinger, junior forward from Milton-Freewater leads the Mounties in the freethrow department with 22 out of 29 for a rebounding .75%. That's good shooting in any conference.

This weekend the Mounties are at Portland State for a two game date. The Vikings are the top defensive team in the conference and are always difficult to beat on their own floor. The Vikings play extreme ball control and have a string of 17 games without a defeat on their home court. They currently lead the OCC with a 3-1 record.

Don't forget to attend the I.K. Smoker tonight. It will be filled with thrills, spills and pure grunt and groan. It starts at 8 p.m. and no one will leave the Coliseum disappointed.

Basketball Games Remaining

29-30—Portland State Vikings.

February:

5-6—Southern Oregon Raiders.
12-13—Oregon Tech.
19-20—Oregon College.
26-27—Portland State.

MEMBERS OF THE MOUNTAINEER RIFLE CLUB are shown, ready for action with rifles and ammunition. The club has several Marksmanship Meets scheduled, the first one being with Colorado State College, in February.

Rifle Club Shoots Ahead

Out to gain national recognition for EOC, is the Mountaineer Rifle Club as it challenges other colleges all over the nation in Marksmanship Skill.

This weekend holds some special excitement for the members, for they are encountering the first match of the season, EOC vs. Colorado State College. "By the way," Colorado State College has already been rated as having one of the top rifle teams in the United States. Watch for the results of this match in the next issue of the Beacon!

The Rifle Club which is continually growing, has 33 members now, and what's more, Gaylen Searles, adviser for club, says they need more shooters, experienced and unexperienced alike. So don't be afraid if you can't shoot as well as someone else; after all, everyone has to learn. And don't be afraid you'll out do the other—if you're that good the team really needs you!

This year fo rthe very first time on EOC campus a trophy is being awarded to a freshman for outstanding achievement with the rifle or pistol. Girls, you're included, too, because improvement is what counts. This trophy will be revolving each year with only freshmen eligible, so let's get in and try our luck, freshmen!

With this year bringing the first competition with the rifle and pistol on EOC campus, the aim of the club is Marksmanship training and promotion. Remember classes are held in the Colliseum every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from3:00 to 5:00. If you are interested, be sure to stop in soon. Remember, it is not compulsory to attend all classes, but the more practice you have the better shot you will become.

The Rifle Club is one that is progressing right along this year. The officers of the club are: President, Dick Domey; Vice President, Bornstedt; Secretary, Don Curtis; Treasurer, Jim Patridge and Executive Officer, Gaylen Searles.

Mounts Dump OCE Wolves

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers, led by the sharp ball-handling of Ron Hunt and the hookshots of Pasco Arritola led all the way, to defeat the Oregon College Wolves Friday night 86-79 in the Coliseum.

The first half saw a scoring duel between EOC's Bounding Basque, Pasco Arritola and Ron Jones, who is the OCC's leading scorer. Both had 21 points at the intermission. Jones ended the evening with 27 points while Arritola tossed in 23 for the Mounties. Hunt, who has sparked the team all season, brought cheers from the enthusiastic crowd with his deft ball handling.

OTI Rolls Over EOC With 90-65 Victory

The Oregon Tech Owls poured on the steam Saturday night and racked up a 90-65 Oregon College Conference win over the Mountaineers in a game played at Klamath Falls. The win placed Oregon Tech in a tie for second place in the standings with Southern Oregon. Both teams now stand 2-2 while Eastern Oregon is in the cellar with a 1-3 mark.

Bench strength was the deciding factor as the OTI coach threw in fresh reserves and wore down the Mounties who are lacking in bench strength and couldn't quite meet the salvoes thrown by the taller, deeper Owls from Klamath Falls.

Mel Holmes led the Mountis in scoring with 16 points while Ron Hunt tossed in 14 and Frank Chase garnered 13. Gene Branson hit for 22 points and Dennis McKee tossed in 18 to lead the Owls.

Scholarship Applications are now available in the Registrar's office. Any student having a 2.5 grade point average or better may apply. The application blanks should be obtained as soon as possible as they must be in by March 1. These are the scholarship applications of the Oregon State Scholarship Commission and the Oregon State System of Higher Education. Other scholarships available will be announced at a later date.

Oregon Tech Nip Mounts

The Oregon Tech Owls withstood a second half drive by the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers and went on to defeat the Mounties in a close fought game 64-63 at Klamath Falls two weeks ago.

The Owls, seeking their first conference victory in three starts, led by a 39-25 count at half time and had the ball game well in hand during the first half of play.

It was a different story in the second half of the ball game as an aroused Mountaineer ball club narrowed the score down to a one-point edge for the Owls.

The game was decided on a last minute scoring play by the Mounties which failed. The loss, a heartbreaker for the Mountaineers, left them tied for the cellar with Oregon Tech and Southern Oregon. All thre teams have 1-2 records.

How About Sleep During Mid-terms

Just 15 minutes a night can spell the difference between a refreshing night's sleep or a day spent yawing, the February Reader's Digest reports. Enough nights without adequate sleep, it adds, can lead to severe emotional and mental damage.

Reporting on the results of recent scientific studies of the effects of sleep loss, author Robert O'Brien quotes Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman, nation's foremost authority on sleep: "If we do not get enough sleep, we cannot be fully awake during the day." When not fully awake, we are not in our right minds, O'Briend adds.

How much sleep is enough? Says Dr. George S. Stevenson of The National Associates for Mental Health, "All human beings need a minimum of six hours' sleep to be mentally healthy. Most people need more."

Scientists at Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Washington, D.C., have determined that a brain deprived of sleep will make any sacrifice to get it. After a few hours without sleep, the brain begins to "steal" fleeting seconds of slumber. As sleepless hours increase, the lapses become longer, perhaps three or four seconds. In a speeding automobile or on a complex job such lapses ran speed disaster.

Most common result of too little sleep is irritability, O'Brien reports. Frustration may be a major cause of this snappishness, according to Dr. E. J. Murray, a Syracuse University psychologist. When hunger for sleep is frustrated, the effect is somewhat similar to snatching a juicy bone from a hungry dog.

If you are a chronic stay-up-later, the Digest warns you'd better not rely on that proverbial "One Good Night" to put you back in shape.

The article, "Maybe You Need More Sleep," is condensed from Farm Journal.

Up The Mountain Via Snowshoes

By Don Johnson

On Saturday, January 16, the Outing Club experienced a bold adventure up the bleak and snowy unknowns of Mt. Emily. This adventure was a snowshoe trek up the Mt. Emily liikout road.

Under the leadership of Gaylen Searles, fifteen brave adventurers donned snowshoes, the first time for most of us, and began trudging on our way.

We had gone about a mile when Mr. Black was noticed making like a deer with the deer browse. We think he was sampling the deer browse because he needed energy for the hike. Someone suggested he was eating his breakfast. Mr. Black denies he was sampling the browse, but the pictures we took will tell.

About a mile later we looked down over a steep embankment and saw two arms and two legs sticking out of two feet of snow. Now, who could that be. "That's Lewis Stillwell," someone yelled. Sure enough it was. After some slow maneuvering and a few harsh words Lewis was pulled back onto the road.

"What on earth happened, Lewis," someone hollered rather humorously. There was no reply to that, but most of us believe he was trying to lose us so he could have all the food he was carrying to himself. Someone suggested he was getting tired and maybe he fell asleep. Anyway, now he was wide awake.

About 11:30 we stopped by a mountain spring for lunch. Fun was had immediately by all in searching for firewood under two feet of snow. Dick Domey seemed to be enjoying himself hacking pitchwood from an old stump with his hatchet. After our fires were built, Gaylen Searles began preparing a delicious soup. This soup was a mixture of minestrone and tomato. Someone suggested he add some of Mr. Black's deer browse.

The only girls making this trip, Cauline Fanning and Thayle "Flip" Romine, began cooking smokies over the open fire. Smokies are sausages which taste like hotdogs. Several others heated water for coffee and cocoa. I think all of us ate seconds that day.

After our greedy hungers were satisfied we donned our snowshoes once more and continued up the trail for about a mile. At this point we decided to turn back. Of course, we had to leave some proof of our trip so Dick Domey and Gaylen Searles carved the club's initials, the college initials, the date and the snow depth in an old stump. After this we began our descent.

Our trip downward consisted of numerous short cuts, one not so short shortcut and Ron Pettichord kept falling in the soft snow.

Some people may wonder what our trek up Mt. Emily was meant for. In reply to this as Sir John Hunt of the Mt. Everest Expedition has said, "it was there." To me there is a sense of value attached to everything Mother Nature is responsible for. This value is neither seen nor touched, but felt from within. Whether it's viewing water cascading down a mountainside, lightning splitting a tree, a volcano spewing forth its insides, or fleecy white snowflakes falling gently on fir boughs. This sense is always there. To me, this sense is a realization of God's almighty power and beauty.

Before it's put off any longer, the Outing Club wishes to express sincere thanks and gratitude to those faculty and students who were responsible for our success during registration week.

Student Teaching Topic Of Discussion

Wednesday, February 10, the SOEA meeting will be held in Hoke Hall at 7:15 p.m.

The topic of the meeting will be "The Role of the Student Teacher." The speaker will be Mr. John Miller, Director of Elementary Education at EOC. They will discuss what is expected of the student teacher and how the student teacher is graded. A discussion period will follow. There is also entertainment planned for the meeting.

EOC Sweeps By Monmouth, 75-66

Eastern Oregon College made free throws pay off for the second night in a row as they downed Oregon College 75-66 to even their Oregon Colegiate Conference record at 3-3.

The Mountaineers toed the free throw line 38 times and connected on 29 shots to provide the margin of victory. The visiting Wolves hit 27 field goals to 26 for the home team but sank only 12 of 24 attempts from the charity stripe.

EOC trailed through three-fourths of the lack-lustre contest before Mel Holmes tied the contest at 47 all with 9:40 to play. Less than 30 seconds later Ron Hunt dashed the length of the floor to score on a fast break and the Mounties were never headed again.

The Mounties had a 21-20 lead in the first period but OCE pulled ahead 30-27 at the half.

Humphrey Stresses Priority Of Education

Hubert Humphrey, United States Senator from Minnesota and Democratic presidential aspirant, spoke to students, faculty, and townspeople in the Eastern Oregon College theatre last Monday.

A past professor of political science, Humphrey indicated his concern for the education of young people in the United States, comparing it with the Russian system that he witnessed first-hand on his trip to the U.S.S.R. last November. Relating details of this trip behind the iron curtain, Humphrey told of the hundreds of exchange program students and teachers who were being flown into Rusia from Africa and the Orient periodically.

"Instead of bringing 25 foreign students into the United States for three weeks and calling it an exchange program, Russia brings 2500 for six weeks or longer and furnishes them with guides, interpreters and over-all good treatment."

Russia is invading the countries of South America, Africa, and the Orient ideologically through education, culture, and propaganda. While the United States government is telling its citizens to slow down, the U.S.S.R. is "in a hurry," as can be evidenced by her climb to second ranking industrial nation of the world in 40 years.

Stressing the United States lack of incentive to push ahead, the Senator remarked: "While Russia emphasizes culture of youth with vigor and new ideas, the United States puts significance on luxury needs new ideas. They haven't had a new one since they raised the price of the postage stamp."

Mr. Humphrey holds that the best defense is offense in speaking of the rapid growth of Rusian culture.

"The next decade will be dedicated to brain power and the competitive co-existence will be of human values, not economic values." He added that our nation was pacified by saying "We're doing well—look how rich our rich are."

Mr. Humphrey's solution to the United States' lack of incentive is to wake up and know what we're working for.

"We have no plans for the future and we can't win against totalitarianism by accident. I don't think Khrushchev plans to blow up the world. He plans to pick it up piece by piece — Operation Nibble."

Senator Humphrey advocates a priority on education to make the soldiers of peace feel like they're bearing the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Says the Minnesota Democrat, "It is my sincere feeling that we haven't tried to win although we're up to it. No football game was ever won with the quarterback selling popcorn and the coach up in the stands visiting relatives. We have to know the plays of the opposition and occasionally one of our own."

Following Mr. Humphrey's address a coffee hour was held in Hoke Hall where the senator held a brief question-answer session.

What Is The Bond Issue

Slightly over a week ago Dr. Bennett took a half hour of our time to explain something to us that could effect our whole lifetime. He explained thoroughly the meaning of the bond issue, "State Bonds for Higher Education Facilities." Through the presentation of startling statistics and future facts and fears, Dr. Bennett could not overly stress the need for complete understanding of this bond.

To fill you in on some of the details, here are some interesting bits of information about EOC and the state system as a whole.

In 1939 there were 9,238 students in the colleges in Oregon. This year there are 24,581 students. By 1970 a conservative figure for the number of students is 41,000. This means we will need more facilities equalling the size of Lewis and Clark or Willamette campus. This larger enrollment is the result of a higher birth rate from 1942 on and from the increased percentage of high school students wishing to go to college.

The tuition of EOC in 1954 was $120. Legislature had to keep raising the tuition to take care of the expansion, so that next year the tuition will be $234. At Lewis and Clark, the tuition will be $750. The increase has been such that the state provided $627 per student last year whereas in 1958 they provided $695. In 30 years our college has changed from a two-year normal school to one of multiple programs offering Master Degrees. Most of this growth has been within the last ten years. We averaged 450 students until 1953. This year there are 778 and by 1970 there will be 1400.

Our self-liquidating buildings, Hunt, Dorion, and EOCene Courts, will need about two million dollars in the next ten years to meet the demands. Hunt is crowded now, with three men to a two-man room. Dorion will be crowded in 1963. Our tentative construction for a new Science building, a new PE building, a new library laboratory will come to about three million dollars.

What are we doing now to meet the demands? We have increased the tuition costs for both in and out-of-state students. We have a selective admission—2.0 GPA qualification to enter EOC and 2.25 probation for transfer students. How will we meet these demands in the future? We may have to further increase the cost of tuition, have more selective admission, or develop junior colleges as does California.

What Can You Do?

What can you do? You can understand the bond, pass on your information, and vote wisely for the bond. This bond will not cost you extra money! It merely increased the amount of money which may be borrowed to build buildings which pay for themselves through rents and fees. Nearly one-half the state system's buildings, self-liquidating buildings, have been constructed in this way without tax money. The bond should read, "State Bonding for Self-Liquidating Educational Facilities."

At present the state board of higher education may bond ¾ of 1% of the ASSESSED value of the property. The amendment would make it possible for the board to bond ¾ of 1% of the TRUE valuation. The facts above presented for increase can be multiplied by ten for the problems that will be facing Oregon State College, and multiplied by seven for the University of Oregon. If the people do not vote, there is nothing the legislature can do about it. Any aid at all will come from tax funds.

There is another issue on the ballot, "Authorizing Bonds for State Building Program." This is a bonding and will increase the taxes. It gives the legislature $40 million to spend on state buildings; college buildings, which will probably get $23 million, the capitol, and state institutions. The legislature decides where this money will be spent.

This is not the bond we are primarily interested in. We are interested in the one concerning self-liquidating buildings.

There are pamphlets which may be obtained on Colleges for Oregon's Future in Mr. Dorn's office. Pick one or two of these up and send them to your friends and relatives. Tell them of the importance of this issue. Tell them in a few simple words that it will not cost them extra tax money, it will increase the amount available to be borrowed, and it will affect the definite future of Oregon colleges.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

It's just the collegiate caper to have a Sweeheart's Ball. Everybody is doing it! U of O is having their annual heart hop February 13—the same night as Dorion is sponsoring theirs. A new idea to this campus—Oregonites select a king of hearts. (Various women's living groups nominate a felow and at the dance the king of hearts is chosen by popular ballot.)

Boise Junior College has their Valentine semi-formal scheduled for the 12th. The theme is "a very precious love" and is sponsored by the AWS. This group also selects a King of Hearts to reign over the evening. (At EOC each Dorion coed invites her own King of Hearts to the dance.)

Appearing on the front page of the Lamron, OCE's local, we found an article about OCE's band having to cancel the trip they had planned to EOC last weekend. It seems as if the state police advised them that it would be dangerous for the planned ten car caravan to go through the icy mountain passes.

The Mountaineer band had many gala plans for the "lost weekend and went to a lot of hard work. (Even though Old Man Weather wasn't on our side that weekend —Lady Luck was, the Mounties came out on top both games.)

There has been a lot of hustle and bustle on EOC's campus in regard to the coming of AWS elections. Quite a number of campus's are having election of officers for their AWS (Associated Women Students) also. Glancing through the Daily barometer we find that Oregon State is holding elections this week.

Petitions are being circulated at U of O, too. Interesting to note that candidates must have a 2.0 GPA at the University to run for an office and a 2.5 is required at EOC.

Little bit of encouragement for the Rook Rally Rousers. OSC's Rook Bandits (an organization similar to yours) is making a valient attempt to boost school spirit at their last few games. Moral of story: Don't file school spirit away till next year, Rousers, keep at it!

Central Washington College of Education in Ellensburg, Washington, featured a front page run on their drama club—"The Torchbearers." Their group presented a children's play "The Snow Queen and the Goblins" for some 4,000 children. No, there aren't that many children in Ellensburg —the play toured. By touring the group made a lot of children happy and added $100 to their scholarship fund. Any money profited from touring goes into the club's scholarship fund and is given to some deserving drama student each year.

The reason we mentionedt his —we heard via the campus freeway—that spring term our dramatics may tour eastern Oregon with a children's musical.

TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK:

It's nice to be important but it's more important o be nice.

The Ski Club is planning to go to the Winter Carnival at Mount Hood on February 26. The members will go in private cars, and it promises to be a most exciting weekend.

The Collegians presented a Beatnick Dance last Saturday night. Bunny Moyer and Dan Simmons were selected as the best girl and boy beatnicks, and a better selection couldn't have been made.

During intermission, the Rally Squad presented a neat, beat dance, and Mike Hanford let loose with a little bit of "ye old Poetry," Bohemian style. Chuck Byers, Lorin Frazier, and Greg Baker provided us with the beat beat of the bongos and bass, which added to the atmosphere.

Bamboo screens, newspapered windows, pillows on the floor, bar, candle-dripped bottles, abstract pictures, and green and red colored lights helped to convert Hoke Hall into the Cafe Expresso. Oh, yes, we musn't forget o mention the bathtub in on the decorations! All in all, it was a gay affair, and if you weren't there . . . well, you missed a a great deal of fun.

The Rook Rally Rousers are making tentative plans to have a bottle drive so that they can sponsor a trip to Oregon College of Education.

Furthermore, if "they" should take it upon themselves to compose any more "works of art" we hope they consult us first so we can rewrite it.

Mac: Yeah!

Herb: There is something else I'd like to say. Miss coordination of EOC for 1960 dropped a tray on her toe several Sundays ago causing considerable damage: one mashed toe. Being a senior you'd think that by now she'd know we never use trays on Sunday.

Mac: Yeah, Yeah!

Herb: And another thing! You'd think that last weeknd was Girls National Miss Mommy Week. Like there weren't any girls here.

Mac: You're right!

Herb: There was a "beat invasion" at Dorion last weekend, and all those who went home were "out to lunch." That is all I'm going to tell. Those that were there, know; those that weren't there, don't know.

Mac: I was there.

Herb: So you know! Anything else you want to say big mouth?

Mac: That's not all I know. While snopping through the girls' second floor lounge (ah ha) I discovered a stove and refrigerator that wasn't there before.

Herb: A lot of good it will do them! Oh wretched power and light company, O foul misdeed, especially during mid-term week. Breeze comes up, out goes lights. Oh save us from this fatal darkness!

Mac: Don't take it so hard Herb.

Herb: Are we boys plagued? Well, are we? You'd think we were: No one has asked us to Dorions Sweethearts Ball Feb. 13. Well, I just hope I get to go because one of these five lovely maidens will "rein" over the Carousel. The five are: Peggy Elder, Susan Haines, Bev. Trimble, Elaine McNaught, and Sandi Thompson.

Mac: Girls, girls, girls!

Herb: Speaking of girls, there is one girl on campus that doesn't know the difference between skivvies and fatigues.

Mac: How about that Donna Sene. Ha, ha ha, ah ha ha, he he Herb: I hate to say this because it absolutely tears me up, but there has been another engagement. Oh wretched cupid has taken another girl out of circulation; Neva Elliott.

Mac: Oh Lord, Herblet, something is rotten in the state of Dorion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

In The Beacon of January 29 there appeared an item in the "Torrid Tips" column dealing with Linfield College and the appearance of the Four Freshmen on that campus. To quote from the article: " . . . Two years ago at Homecoming we had Ernie Fields and his Orchestra who recently made 'In the Mood' repopular, but since that time we haven't seen any big name talent. When does EOC begin???"

To begin with, EOC will "begin" to have big name talent on the campus at such a time as someone, or some organization, is willing to pay for that talent. In these days of high prices for everything else, quality entertainment, such as the Four Freshmen or the Stan Kenton Band, comes just as high. I cannot quote the latest figures, but about a year ago the cost for a band such as Kenton's or Les Elgart's was a minimum of $1500 for a concert and-or dance on a week night. The price on Friday or Saturday would have been at least $2000. These figures were obtained from an article in the Billboard, a music and entertainment trade paper.

Another point to remeber is that the services of the Ernie Fields Orchestra were obtained at a reduced price because, and only because, Mr. Fields had made arrangements to be in the area on a holiday and was willing to play at a substantially lower price than usual. I am not trying to begrudge you your point I just want to point out that we were extremely fortunate to be able to have this "big name" band for less than usual cost and that this type of arrangement is not normal.

I do not know whether or not you (the authors of the column) were criticizing the policies concerning social activities on the EOC campus; it sounded very much as though you were. If not, then this letter is not to criticize your views, but merely to bring a few needed facts into the open.

I have no absolute solution to this problem, for it does seem to be a problem. I do, however, have some ideas, too numerous to mention here. There is no valid reason, aside from lack of funds, why EOC could not afford to book top nationally-known talent. However the members of the student body must learn to pry themselves away from their money a little more often for this type of function. Until this relatively simple process has been learned, no individual, or group, in his, or their, right mind would attempt such a venture as this. In short, if we want good talent, and it seems as though we do, we are going to have to pay for it! You know, M-O-N-E-Y!!!!

Sincerely
Mike Ferguson

EOC Women To Vie For AWS Offices

The Associated Women Students of EOC are soon to elect new officers. There are plans for reorganization of the group to form an active, functional organization. Therefore, women who were interested petitioned for office, which included President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, and Representative. The requirements were a GPA acum of 2:5 or better and the signatures of atl least 10% of the women students which amounts to about twenty names. The petitions were handed in to the organizational presidents on February 1 0and the names of candidates were entered on a ballot shet for election February 16, 1960. The newly elected officers and the past president, Sandi Thompson, will attend an AWS Conference at Portland State February 20, 1960. This conference includes all Oregon's college AWS representatives who exchange ideas, plans and discuss AWS standards.

The purpose of the EOC representation will be to learn how other AWS groups function, what their activities are and what their stand is on campus. It is hoped that EOC's Associated Women Students will profit from the conference and be able to apply some of their ideas in a new plan for reorganization in order to become a worthy organization on our campus.

THE FOLLOWING SUGGESTIONS FOR REORGANIZATION WERE PRESENTED AT A RECENT MEETING ATTENDED BY PRESIDENTS OF WOMEN'S CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS.

It was suggested that AWS be formed as a coordinating medium for all women's organizations and the women Collegians on campus. This could be done by establishing an Executive Board which would consist of the presidents and a Collegian woman representative. Each of the organizations represented on the Board would belong to AWS rather than AWS being an organization aside from them.

Secondly, the Board would act as a nucleus for setting standards for all EOC women. A women's handbook including information on Sabers, Dorion Hall, WRA, Sigma Alpha Chi and the Collegian women; courtesies, appropriate attire for campus functions and miscellaneous topics could be published through the Board. It would be a better means of obtaining information for incoming freshmen women and also a better means of communication among women's organizations.

Ideas were given as to activities such a Board could sponsor as a coordinating body. A Freshman Week Style Show, for example, where the organizations could acquaint the freshmen with their activities, regulations and membership as well as acquaint them with appropriate dress for campus activities, was suggested.

Then, too, it was mentioned that a campus sister could be arranged between an incoming freshman and an upperclassman. It would then be the compus' sister's responsibility to write the incoming girl during the summer.

It is easily recognized that there are many possibilities for an active AWS. At the present AWS sponsors the Winter Formal and Coronation Ball along with several coffee hours and tears during the year. However, a re-organization is going to be important to YOU as a college woman. First, it will be important because it will build up strength, unity and prestige for women on campus. Secondly, it will be important because our college has been granted membership in the American Association of University Women. The AAUW hold much prestige for a graduate going into any community because it maintains a nation wide respect. In five years our college will again be evaluated by an AAUW representative. The standards we build and the degree of our success as Associated Woemn Students will be of great concern. It is up to YOU, as an EOC woman student, to make the campus AWS active, functional and respected.

Red Raiders Rebound; Win Second-Nighter

The Red Raiders of Southern Oregon rebounded from a 58-51 setback at the hands of the Mountaineers Friday night and rolled to a 76-72 conference victory over Eastern Oregon the next night at Ashland.

The Raiders who appeared cold the night before were the exact opposite as five players hit the double figure in the scorebook. Top scorers for the speedy Raiders were Gordy Carrigan with 19 and John Payne who tipped in 16. Pasco Arritola once again paced the Mountie effort with 20 points. Twelve of the Jordan Valley ace's points came at the free-throw line as Arritola dropped in 12 out of 16 gift shots. Frank Chase and little Ron Hunt both contributed 13 in the losing effort.

Portland State Takes Second Of Two Games

Portland State wrapped up the second game of a two game series by beating the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers 87-58 in the Saturday night game played at the Lincoln High School Gym.

The victory Saturday night put the Vikings in second place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference race with a 5-4 record and dropped the Mounties into fourth place with a 4-6 conference mark. With six games remaining the conference crown is still in the air with only three games separating the first four teams.

Mountaineers Bow To PSC, 57-40

The Mountaineers of Eastern Oregon opened up a two game siate against Portland State Vikings by dropping the first game to the rapidly improving Portlanders 57-40 two weeks ago.

The game, which saw Mountie stalwart Frank Chase on the bench with a severly sprained ankle, was close throughout the first half. In the second period Chase went out and the Vikings widened the gap despite the efforts of the Mountaineers.

Sports Desk
by Keith Dalton

The Oregon Collegiate Conference title is still very much in doubt. Any attempt at trying to name the eventual victor would be foolish at this time. It seems that every time a team gets a comfortable lead, the team currently in the cellar rares back and throws the season. Take for example the Wolves of Oregon College who have won only 2 games in conference play. Both of those victories came against teams that were leading the conference at the time. They were Portland State and Southern Oregon.

Oregon Tech, who sits on top of the standings now started out the season looking as though they had reserved the cellar for their permanent resting place. But now they are currently on top with a 7-3 mark. The trouble is— How long will they stay there. With six games left in the waning basketball season the Mounties could conceivably finish high up on the ladder. The Mountaineers play the Owls tonight and Saturday at the Coliseum in what could be the crucial game of the season.

The I.K. Smoker produced its usual offering of action plus good solid entertainment and none left the Coliseum disappointed. The only exception to this might possibly be the participants who received the short end of the decision or the long end of the arm on the jaw.

Once again in regard to the tight OCC race the Oregon Tech Owls played the Vikings from Portland State last Saturday night with the Owls taking the victory by one point, 47-46. The game was a defensive battle with the Oregon Tech'ers leading all the way. But the Vikings put on a full court press in the fourth period. They almost caught the Owls. The Mounties then would appear to have their hands full for the rest of the season.

They play the Owls this weekend, tonight and tomorrow, and then travel next weekend to Monmouth for two games with Oregon College who is always tough on its own floor. It would seem that the Mountaineers are finishing up the season with a bang. They end the season with Portland State.

This doesn't have anything to do with sports directly but it seems to fit almost anywhere in life. See if you agree with this: "When big people get together, they discuss ideals; when average people get together, they discuss things; and when small people get together they discuss other people." At the risk of trying to sound like the old friendly philosopher, that was thrown in for anyone who might read thtis column — May this be the last time this writer puts something like that in a sports column.

Don't forget the Portland State Winter Carnival at Timberline Lodge February 27-28 and most important of all, don't go home tonight — Go support the Mounties.

BUNNY MOYER AND DAN SIMMONS were selected as the best girl and boy beatnik at the Beatnik Ball last Saturday night. The dance, presented by the Collegians, was decorated with an air of Cafe Expresso and was made complete with the reading of contemporary jazz poetry and an intellectual beat dance routine. Zen never had it so good.

Faculty Talent Provides Variety

The E.O.C. faculty presented its first talent show in the Ad auditorium February 3. ASB president, Bev Donovan, m.c.'ed the program . Miss Nicoloff did a dance to special music by Dr. Bishop on the flute and Mrs. Ivy on the piano. Mrs. Ivy then played a piano solo. Both were very well received by the student body and we would all like to see more of this in the future.

Dr. Bennett gave a talk concerning the increase of enrollment and expenses facing Oregon colleges in the future. Various charts gave the comparisons of the many expenses and of how the increasing enrollment will have to be met.

Following Dr. Bennett's talk the faculty men's chorus sang three well received numbers. It is surprising to find that we have so many talented men in our faculty. The program was concluded by singing the Alma Mater.

Interviews Begin For Teacher Jobs

The student teachers of EOC are on their best behavior now. Superintendents from all over the state will be coming to EOC to interview these students for jobs in the fall. These interviews began last Friday and will continue through March. Each student is interviewed by the superintendent form the school that he is interested in. These interviews are arranged through Mrs. Staker secretary to John Miller the director of placements.

Cake Auction Begins Drive

The campus chest fund drive will begin on EOC campus, Monday, February 22, under the cochairmanship of Karen Sutton and Larry Wilder. The drive will be carried through the month of March with plans for lots of original and interesting means of obtaining money for the worthy organizations among which the funds will be divided.

Monday evening at 6:00 the girls will have a cake auction at Hunt Hall. It is rumored that a special talent, such as a song or dance, will go with each cake.

Friday, the 26th of February, a record dance in Hoke will be sponsored by the sophomore class, the proceeds going to campus chest. These two things will take place immediately. Plans for other fundraising activities will be released at a later date.

Ex-EOC Staffer Author Of Poems

Ronald H. Bayes, former Eastern Oregon College staff member and director of information, is the author of "Dust and Desire," a book of poems just released by Big Mountain Press, Denver, Colo.

The first collection of poems is introduced by Vic Flack, editor of IN/SERT magazine and, according to the publisher, Bayes is "an energetic and accomplished poet" who " .. . speaks with an individual and delightful voice."

Bayes, from Umapine, is currently doing advanced graduate work under a Woodrow Wilson fellowship at the University of Pennsylvania.

Sweetheart Theme To Be 'Carousel'

The annual Dorion Sweethearts Ball, this year given the theme of 'Carousel,'' will be held tomorrow night, February 13, at Dorion Hall. The semi-formal dance will be decorated in gay red, pink and white following the theme.

The queen will be crowned by Dorion's housemother, Mrs. Tallofsen, at intermisison. Every couple, as they enter the dance, will vote for one of the five girls vying for Dorion Sweetheart. The five girls on the Carousel Court are: Susan Haines, Peggy Elder, Sandi Thompson, Elaine McNaught, and Bev. Trimble. The identity of the queen will not be known until she is crowned. Entertainment will be held at intermission. Don Thompson will be master of ceremonies.

Elaine McNaught is the general chairman of the dance. Terry Clifton is chairman of decorations; Gail Fisher, refreshments; Sue Switzer, coronation and programs; and Marcia MacPherson, entertainment.

NOTE

On Thursday, February 25, a team of Internal Revenue Service recruiters will be on the campus to interview applicants for Revenue Officer and Tax Examiner positions. Seniors or juniors and sophomores who do not plan to continue beyond this year in school may find these career positions surprisingly attractive.

For more information on the jobs and a scheduled interview, see Mr. John M. Miller, Director of education.

Kittie May Crockett, assistant professor of children's literature and assistant librarian for EOC, is author of the January leaflet, "The School Library," published by the National Education Association Elementary Instructional Service, Washington, DC.

The four-page article, which includes photographs illustrating the EOC laboratory school library program points out, ". . . the school library has become a vital, dynamic, and exciting center of learning institutions and also aids the children in cultivating "an inquiring mind."

Leonard Kimbrell, assistant professor in art, was one of the judges fo rthe Oregon Scholastic Art Show. Entries for the show sponsored by the J. K. Gill Co., were submitted by junior and senior high school students throughout the state.

Georgia V. Osterholme, director of EOC health service, will attend a state meeting at Salem on Feb. 18. The conference will include all health service directors of the state system of higher education institutions.

Dr. Frank B. Bennett, Eastern Oregon College president, is chairman of an evaluation committee for the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education which will visit Central Washington College at Ellensburg, February 17-19.

Thes NCATE group will observe all phases of Central Washington's teacher education program, during the three day visitation. A formal evaluation report will then be filed with the national accrediting organization.

Glass Menagerie' Reports Progress

On Febuary 18, 19, and 20, "The Glass Menagerie," a two-act tragedy by Tennessee Williams will be presented by Sock and Buskin. The production, directed by Richard Hiatt, is now in rehearsal. It will star Mary Coffey as Armanda Wingfield, Collette Wardell as Laura, Mike Hanford as Tom, and Bob Miller as Jim O'Connor.

On Monday, February 15, tickets for the play will be put on sale. If the students will present their activity tickets at the bookstore during the morning, they will receive tickets for reserved seats.

RICHARD OESTERLING

EOC Junior West Point Nominee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Al Ullman has announced his nominations for the service academies. Included among his nominations was Richard G. Oesterling of La Grande, an Eastern Oregon College junior.

In announcing his nominations, Congressman Ullman stated that this year, as last, he is using the competitive method which gives every boy named an equal chance to enter the academy of his choice. The young man who will receive the one principal appointment to each academy will be selected ont he basis of College Entrance Board examinations and rigid physical tests.

Representative Ullman authorized each applicant for an academy appointment to take a screening examination administered by the Civil Service Commission. The recommendations of school officials and the results of that test were the basis for his nominations.

Mr. Ullman expressed his appreciation for the fine cooperation he received from school officials and other interested persons throughout his District and noted with pleasure the increase in the number of applicants this year.

Elaine McNaught Heads AWS; Officers Attend Conference

New officers of the Associated Women Students were elected last Wednesday. Candidates were introduced at a 10:00 coffee hour in Hoke hall by outgoing President, Sandra Thompson. The newly-elected officers are: Elaine McNaught, president; Gail Fisher, vice president; Louise Young, secretary-treasurer; and Bev Trimble, representative.

These girls attended an all state AWS Convention held at Portland State College last weekend. The girls said they gained much information to help them make AWS a more significant organization for the women on our campus. The new officers are already busy in a reorganization plan and are making plans to help next year's freshmen.

AWS sponsored a tea at Hunt Hall for the Interfaith Conference last Tuesday which was attended by many.

Sharon Noyes Named 'Best Dressed'

Sharon Noyes, EOC sophomore, was selected by a special committee as the "Best-Dressed Girl on Campus." Information and pictures are being sent to Glamour Magazine to enter Sharon in their 1960 "10 Best Dressed College Girls in America" contest.

For the fourth year, Glamour magazine is inviting colleges throughout the United States and Canada to assist them with the preparation of their August College Issue. We were asked to select the "best dressed" girl on our campus, taking the following criteria into consideration: 1. Good figure, beautiful posture. 2. Clean, shining well-kept hair. 3. Imagination in managing a clothes budget. 4. Good grooming—not just neat, but impeccable. 5. Appropriate campus look (she's in line with local customs). 6. A clear understanding of her fashion type. 7. Individuality in her use of color and accessories. 8. A workable wardrobe plan. 9. A neat way with make-up (enough to look pretty, not overdone). 10. Appropriate — not rah rah—look for off-campus occasions.

Sharon, the young woman on our campus who best met these requirements is being entered in the contest. Four pictures of her—in an on-campus outfit, a daytime off-campus outfit, a casual sport outfit, and a party dress—are being submited with the official entry form to the magazine in competition with hundreds of "best dressed" candidates. In March, a panel of Glamour editors will name the ten most outstanding young women the "10 Best Dressed College Girls in America."

The "top ten" will be photographed for Glamour's August College issue and will be flown to New York in June via American Airlines as Glamour's guests.

Blood Drive On Campus March 2

On Wednesday, March 2, from 10-2 the annual campus blood drive will be held in Hoke Hall. The goal for this year is 150 pints.

The La Grande Fruit Company is offering a coupon for a pint of ice cream to everyone who donates a pint of blood.

A special feature of this year's drive is the special emphasis on type O Positive blood between the hours of 1:00 and 2:00. This blood will be flown to Portland where it will be used in the open heart surgery of a La Grande youngster the following day.

All students under twenty-one who wish to donate blood should obtain permission slips from the health center. These slips must be signed by their parents and presented to the officials at the blood drawing.

Sigma Alpha Chi Initiates Four

Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honorary on campus, held an initiation ceremony last Sunday in Hoke. The initiates were Pat Ward, Donna Doley, Vad Kelsoe, and Judy Wardell. The formal initiation took place with two initiates present. The initiates read their favorite poems after the ceremony, a tradition followed by all new members. Refreshments were served. A short business meeting was held.

Membership is based on a 3.0 GPA for two consecutive terms, leadership, and character. Sigma Alpha Chi presents the yearly Yule Candlelight Hour and is of service to various other activities on campus.

EOC Choir Plans Regional Tour

The schedule of engagements for the 1960 choir tour has been announced by Neil Wilson, director. According to Wilson, approximately 40 members of the choir will make the following appearances:

Tuesday, March 1—"up the branch": Wallowa, 9:00 a.m.; Enterprise, 11:00 a.m.; Joseph, 2:00 p.m.

Wednesday, March 2—Morning concert at Prairie City; afternoon concert at John Day.

Thursday, March 3—Two afternon concerts, first at North Powder, then at Union.

This year the annual tour will feature soloists, Ellen Uesugi and Warren Good, and the number, "Songs from Drum Taps," with a baritone solo by Warren, duo-piano accompaniment by Beth and Ruth Combs, and "drum taps" by Mike Furgason.

Numbers will also be presented by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, which are composed of people from the chorus, and by the Blue and Gold Singers. Accompanist will be Daisy Good.

Wilson also announced further plans for the choir, including a March 20 engagement at Pendleton, where the choir will take part in the chorus festival sponsored by the Pendleton Men's Chorus.

The choir was represented twice during "Religion and Life" week here on campus.

Marcia MacPherson

Marcia Chosen IK Sweetheart

Marcia MacPherson has been selected IK Sweetheart by the local chapter of the Intercollegiate Knights to represent them in the Region II Spring Convention. The convention will be held on the EOC campus March 4 and 5. Seven schools will be represented. The girl selected as Regional IK Sweetheart will represent them at the National convention.

Friday evening at 8:00 there will be a Queens Tea in Dorion Hall for the queens and judges. Marcia will act as hostess for the tea. At 9:00 the Queen's Contest will be held in the college theater. The contest is open to the public. Also open to the public is the "Playboy Dance" which will be held at Hoke Hall at 10:00 p.m.

Saturday the IK's will register and have meetings all day. There will be an election of a regional Viceroy and nominations for national officers of this region.

Men's Honoray Initiates Eight

The initiation for Theta Delta Phi was held in Hoke Hall last Tuesday, February 16th.

The initiates for this term are Dean Iverson, Bill Keyser, Nels Nelson, Dean Stowell, Dick Murrell, Gene Noland, John Campbell, and Bob Salter.

A reception immediately followed the initiation at Hoke hall. Coffee and cake were served and pictures were taken for the annual.

Susan Haines Chosen Dorion 'Sweetheart'

The annual Sweetheart's Ball was held in Dorion Hall cafeteria, February 13 from ten to one. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Susan Haines as Dorion Sweetheart by the Dorion housemother, Mrs. Tollefson. Susan was escourted by Jack McAllister. The princess and their escourts were introduced by the Master of Ceremonies Don Thomp-Allister. The princesses and their courts were; Peggy Elder and Tom Embree, Bev Trimble and Allen Duby, Sandi Thompson and Bill Lovelady and Elaine McNaught and Jerry Goble.

Entertainment during the intermission was provided by Nancy Wilson who played a trio of songs on the piano, and Peggy Elder who did a modern dance to Carousel.

The music for the evening was by a Rhodes Lewis group. Mr. Plants and Mrs. Tollefson were the chaperones.

The general chairman for the dance was Elaine McNaught, Tarry Clifton was the chairman for the decorations, the programs and crowning chairman was Sue Switzer, Marcia McPherson was entertainment chairman and Gail Fisher was in charge of refreshments.

Juniors Present 'Twilight' Theme

"Twilight in Purple" is the theme for the 1960 junior prom to be held March 5 in Ackerman gym. Don Saltmarsh's band from Whitman College are highly recommended as being very "collegiate" with their music and style.

Five deserving girls are vying for Junior Prom Miss. The girls are: Johann Hardwick, Sandi Thompson, JoAnn Berryman, Louise Young, and Ardyce Garrett. The Miss will be selected by individual votes of those people attending the dance. They will vote at the door.

The cost for this formal affair is $1.50 a couple.

Posters, Notices, "Sighings"

It has been suggested there be a Central Clearing Office for all signs that are posted. This office would eliminate such things as meetings planned for the same room, misspelled words, and signs of inadequate information.

For example one day last week these signs appeared side by side. "AWS Election—All girls meet in Hoke, Wednesday, 10 a.m." and "Young Democrats and other interested in hearing Senator Monroe Sweetland meet Wednesday 10 a.m., Hoke." Now I realize, of course, that Hoke certainly had the seating capacity for all these people — the two groups were even adequately divided—AWS at the west end and YD at the east. However, voices have a tendency to carry and the clash of pitch, loudness, and timbre greatly vary between a young woman giving a campaign speech and a senator addressing a group of Young Democrats. A central clearing office could have taken care of this.

The same day people were invited to hear a "lectur." I won't say by whom or whom, because if it were one of the political parties I'm sure they thorcughly convnced the people readng ther sgn to stay clear of ther scholars. However the announcement that speeches would be given by young women "runing" for AS office didn't seem to "ruin" the attendance of their meeting.

These things may seem trivial, but how many of you have seen signs (homecoming queen candidates, come to mind at this point) where each person's name was carefully misspelled. How many of you have seen signs for meetings indicating a date and day of the week—which don't coincide. Or perhaps your favorite is a sign that gives all the information except the time on complete detils about every thing but the location.

I know you have all seen signs throughout the year on which have been circled incorrectly-spelled words, errors in grammar, and misplaced marks of punctuation. I'm wondering if perhaps that person has the right idea. As college students, we should be able at least to spell correctly on signs and posters visible to anyone and everyone who enters the administration buiding, library, Hoke, or Ackerman —I might add that your fellow students are not the only ones who observe these signs. The time spent on some of our elaborate posters might be redistributd a little to include some pertinent information incluuding possible conflicting locatons, dates, or times and securing the correct spelling and punctuation.

A Central Clearing Office could aid you in your efforts and attempts. How it would be arranged and organized, I don't know — that would come after some indication of need. I believe we have had some indication.

Religion In Life Most Successful

Im sure we will all agree that the Religion in Life Conference this year was most successfu and well-received. The enthusiasm and cooperation displayed by students, faculty members, the team, and all others concerned was certainly enough reward to those who were mainly responsible, feel thy have done an excellent job. Had any link in the chain been removed, from the planning committee through the students to the team, nothing would have been possible. As it was, everyone had a part in making this truly a wonderful experience. I feel special recognition should be given to Dr. Virgil Bolen, chairman of the Interfaith Council Faculty Committee; Linda Kane and Mike Ferguson, Co-chairmen of the Interfaith Council; all of the Interfaith Council members; and the members of the Interfaith Team. Thank you for making this such a fine conference!

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

"Why Attend College?" was the question asked by the "Linfield Review" editorial February 12. How many of you have asked yourself this same question? The solution offered by the editor is that you must think considering all of the opportunities college offers and then act with all sincerity and will power "to re-evaluate your goals and methods of attaining them." This advise is a morsel for all of us to munch on.

With many of us excited about the Portland State Winter Carnival, we were intrigued by the fact that Central Oregon College, Bend, sponsored a Ski Meet on March 11 at Mt. Bachelor ski area. This newly developed recreational area is located near Bend and was the location for summer Olympic workouts for such USA skiers as Penny Pitou and Renie Cox.

The ability to lead and to be led is perhaps one of the most important attributes of a student leader. We will soon be confronted with ASEOC elections as are the students of OCE now. In our minds we should begin setting up criteria by which to judge our leaders for next year. Think now, so that you will vote wisely later.

Some individuals appear to be disturbed about our inference of two isues ago concerning entertainment on our campus. We realized before writing that column that if we would like to se bigger entertainment here at EOC, money would definitely be a factor to consider—when isn't it! There are ways of getting over this barrier. Each year our student body donates a large sum to the Civic Music Fund. This group brings classical entertainment to this community, but often on week nights. We doubt if ten percent of our students regularly attend these concerts. Couldn't we use some of this fund for something that more students would enjoy and benefit from? There are also students who feel that the ASEOC could "pocket" some money by bringing top grade entertainment here, presenting it in concert form in the Coliseum and advertising it as being open to all who wish to attend and to pay to do so—college and community. We could limit our entertainment to college students only after enough money was put back to warrant such action. Remember students of EOC: TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK: Nothing ventured, nothing gained.

The Sophomore class sponsored an after-game dance Friday night. The admission was twenty-five cents a couple or fifteen cents single. Each ticket was a chance on a stuffed animal, Yogi Bear. Extra tickets were 10c. The drawing was held at the dance. Music was furnished by the juke-box, and all proceeds went to the Campus Chest.

Have pajamas, will wear . . . to the Pajama Dance, was the phrase heard all last week. This "different" dance was held after the Portland State game in Dorion Hall. Admission was reasonable, just one pair of pajamas. Hot chocolate and cookies were served. The dance was sponsored by the A.S.B.

The Rodeo Club is busy recruiting new members into its organization. Tentative plans are being made for a dance and a play day.

EOC President Moderator

Top administrative officials of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana higher education institutions participated in a televised panel discussion on the growing needs of higher education Friday, February 26.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

As political hats are being tossed into the arena across the nation, Eastern Oregon College itself is observing some active political campaigning on campus.

For the past weeks students have been beseiged with signs and posters inviting one and all to attend picture-taking sessions, teas, lectures, teas, coffee hours, teas, luncheons, teas . . .

What is the scoop on all this activity? Is it merely an expression of the excitement which presently grips the nation as a whole, or is it at last a real voice of the college student's interest in politics?

What about the leaders of this movement on our campus? The big question is WHO ARE THEY?

What about the organization of the Young Democrats and of the Young Republicans? Are they merely campus organizations, or are they affiliated at the national level?

Who can become members?

Do these organizations merely "lick party boots" or do they allow a litle thought and discussion of controversial issues?

Most of all, WHY don't these organizations give out with a little more information . . . or are they only for a chosen few?

Sincerely hoping for some answers,

PLEBI POLITI CAL

To The Editor:

Don't Make Me Cry

Why do you need community hours? If you don't understand why you need community hours then you obviously have some serious deficiency in your character. You are probably one of those despicably uninteresting people who spends all his dreary hours studying. And to what purpose? Probably so you will get a mediocre "C" in something.

Or perhaps you are one of those people who are so weak of character that they allowed maudlin circumstances to push them into a premature marriage. Consequently they are burdened with a family during their college years and because of this are reduced to the vulgar status of night laborer at a sawmill or a service station or such. All this for a shallow thing as love which none but the weakest believe in anyway. Everyone knows that if you are stable and strong you can put such things aside.

So for your category I refuse to waste travail. Your situation is hopeless.

Instead, I will speak to those who are at least willing to understand, although they may not realize why. They know deep within that somehow there must be a real reason for this. To reward this attitude I hope to bring out clearly that there are such reasons, so that such thoughtful, logical, faith may continue.

In the first place, if you hope to become a teacher the experience gained through community hours is priceless. Anyone who knows the least bit about the profession realizes that it is impossible to carry out the functions required without knowing how to serve coffee. After all, you will attend and often be a host for at least two to three meetings a week. You will have P.T.A., O.E.A. and L.E.A. consistently, plus faculty meetings, curriculum meetings, salary committee meetings, district potlucks and room parties. In the light of these tremendous responsibilities it becomes obvious that anyone who has not helped to serve at an S.O.E.A. banquet can in no way be properly prepared to maintain propriety at a potluck. So it follows logically that in order to be a good teacher you must have this experience.

Secondly, you get to meet people and this is important to you as a teacher. You must know how to meet people. A case in point. A friend of mine works in a service station. Now you may say that he does meet people as a service station attendant, but there is a fallacy in this. He does not meet the same caliber of people that one may meet in doing one's community hours. The people he meets are all buying gas, none of them are intelligently planning to better their schools, and of course the jokes that he hears are not nearly of the same caliber as those told by the men in the corners at P.T.A. meetings. This friend of mine understands though. Now and then he mentions that his job keeps him from spending enough time with his children, but he doesn't blame this onto community hours because they only take one night a week, and one night hardly makes any difference at all to his children.

For those of you who still don't understand and who insist that the community hours program needs to be tempered with common sense, let me show you how insignificant your arguments are.

You say that they should be tendered only to those who need them and you use statements which smack resoundingly of propaganda and in which no logic may be found to back up your argument. You say that people who have the drive and the ambition to shoulder the load of raising a family and going to college at the same time are proving their worth to society and that it is a shame to burden them more. Hogwash! We all know that words such as "family" and "drive" are graught with emotion.

You say that these people are forced to become an integral part of the community by virtue of the fact that they must work in it, take their children to Sunday school in it, and live in it. Again you lose your point. Most of the people of whom you speak live in the Eocene Courts and everyone knows that this is almost like living in a dormitory! Except for the fact that you shop at the market, prepare your own food, pay rent, clean house, wash diapers, mow the lawn, shovel the walk, and put up storm windows. This is hardly like being a member of the community at all.

So. I say in the face of your puny arguments, consider, just consider for one moment, the terrible effort which would be required to alter the intricate administrative process involved, so that it would help relieve the pressure on your so-called, over-burdened people. Consider this and then abandon your cause. To put it bluntly, you are fighting city hall, and if you have not learned, as a prospective teacher, that your own ideals and principles are nothing in the face of such power, then I predict an early downfall for you in your profession.

Signed, I'll Try Tomorrow.

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: Journalism is doomed! When it takes us hours to write this column and only a matter of seconds for some character to change the whole meaning of our punchline, then it's time to go on strike!

Mac: Oh no.

Herb: When you take "Oh lord Herblet" and change it to "Oh Lord, Herblet" it's almost beyond striking time.

Mac: Yellow journalism!

Herb: Now the brighter side of the news. There is a slight overcast of 1:00 o'clocks on Friday and Saturdays followed by a slight rise in temperatures.

Mac: Fahrenheit or centigrade?

Herb: Present atmospheric conditions indicate that unless those girls have us fellows out of the dorm by closing hours we will be completely washed up by heavy storms.

Mac: Oh puddles!

Herb: But behind every cloud there's a silver lining. Dinner guests at Dorion Tuesday evening were Father Haven, Rev. Bolen, and Dr. Ludlow of the Interfaith team. A fireside was held in the lounge following dinner.

Mac: How warming.

Herb: Hong Kong Hurricane Sutton is due over Dorion next week representing Campus Chest drive with a Chinese cake auction.

Sunday's Concert Featured Roman Sisters

The Grande Ronde Symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis, presented a 4:00 o'clock concert Sunday, February 28.

The selections presented included "Peer Gynt Suite" by Greig, "Finlandia," by Sibelius, "Piano Concerto in E Flat Major for two pianos and orchestra," by Mozart, and "Rhapsody in Blue," by Gershwin, arranged for two pianos and orchestra.

Featured artists for the afternoon were Josette and Yvette Roman, duo pianists. The sisters, natives of Paris, have appeared recently on both the Ed Sullivan and Jack Parr shows. The have received much praise both in the United States and abroad.

Los Angeles Examiner—"Their playing has rhythmic vitality, their tone is at once delicate and brilliant, their attacks are infalliably precise and they phrase beautifully."

Le Monde, Paris—"The remarkable thing about their performance is their 'finish' and perfection and the well balanced synchronization they maintain between the two instruments. It demonstrates a technique that is always precise yet simple; brilliant, yet sensitive."

Council Confab

By SANDI THOMPSON

What is new in Student Council?

1. At a recent Council meeting Virginia Wellington reported that an over-realized income for fall term amounted to $322.90. It was proposed that this amount be used for the ASB picnic which is to be held in the spring. However, it was recognized that if this sum was put in an account for the spring picnic only, it could not be used for any other event nor could it be used in case of an emergency. It was then passed by the Council that the money left in the fund of over-realized income be used upon recommendation for the ASB picnic unless an emergency arises.

2. Jean Hunter, 1st vice-president, announced the members of the new SU committee which are: Movies—Skip Gregory; Variety Show—Ladd McGowen; Secretary and Sign Board—Marcia McPhearson and Gail Fisher; Cultural Hour—Gene Holt; Dances and Juke Box— Dick Cook.

3. The Radio Committee has put slips to be filled out for announcements on "College Corner," in the mail boxes at Hoke. These slips may be handed in on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday by 4:00 p.m. in order that they may be used on the radio program these designated evenings.

4. The co-chairmen for the annual Campus Chest Drive are Larry Wilder and Karen Sutton who no doubt have sent your organization a letter encouraging participation in the drive. The Sophomores have chosen to sponsor a dance and charge for it with intentions to contribute the income to the Campus Chest Drive. Any other organizations wishing to sponsor an activity for the drive may contact Larry Wilder and Karen Sutton.

5. The Council has passed an act permitting clubs who wish to sponsor a dance and charge admission in order to get their treasury started may acquire $5.00 for the juke box from Don Shore. This amount need not be repaid.

6. President Bev Donovan reported that bids will be opened for the remodeling of Hoke by March 1, 1960. Building will actually take place on the exterior in early March.

OCE Over EOC In Second Nighter

For the second night in a row the cellar dwelling Oregon College Wolves dropped the Mountaineers of Eastern Oregon 87-72 to sweep the final two games between the two teams.

Ron Jones, who leads the league continued his torrid scoring pace, hitting 30 points for the second night in a row. Frank Chase hit 24 points for the Mounties. This gave Chase a total of 53 points for the two game series. Steady Bob Olinger hit for 14 points and Ron Hunt tossed in 11.

The only part of the game that the Mounties led in was the free-throw department where they hit 16 for 24.

EOC Victorious 68-61 Over OTI

For the second night in a row the Mountaineers of Eastern Oregon College turned the trick and rolled over the Oregon Tech Owls 68-66 despite a spirited last quarter rally by the Techmen.

With less than three minutes left in the ballgame, the Mounties had an 11 point lead. The Oregon Techers put a full court press on the EOC'ers and nearly ran away with the game. The pressed Mounties controlled the boards and withstood the Tech challenge.

Frank Chase, the hero of Friday night's encounter, led all scorers with 26 points followed by Bob Olinger with 16 and Bill "Bear" McCadden who tossed in 14. Terry Koontz led the Owls with 15 counters.

Mounts Win, 61-60 In Seven Seconds

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers, playing heads-up ball all the way rode to victory in the last seven seconds on the cool free throw shooting of Frank Chase and humbled the league leading Oregon Tech Owls 61-60.

The contest was tied again and again as the two teams fought for the lead through the second half. The Owls from Klamath Falls trailed at the half 28-23 but came back to tie the score and after that neither team could gain an advantage until the last hectic minute when the Mounties pulled out on top.

The game was won in those last seconds when, with Tech leading by one point, 60-59, Chase was fouled by McKee. Steady Frank stepped to the foul line and dropped two free-throws through the hoop and that was the margin.

Sports Desk

by Keith Dalton

The crazy mixed up Oregon Collegiate Conference race which was full of surprises all season long showed no sign of setlintg down until the last horn sounded to end the season. Two weeks ago the Mountaineers went on the floor of the Coliseum twice to face the league leading Oregon Tech Owls. They left the floor twice with close victories under their belts.

Then last weekend the Mounties traveled to Monmouth for their final series on the road. They were facing the Oregon College Wolves, who had rested in the OCC cellar all season long. When the smoke had cleared the Mounties had come out on the short end of the score in two ball games.

This has been the story all through the 1959-60 season. A team will be unbeaten one weekend and as cold as an Arctic nudist the next. The OCC championship was decided this last weekend but the champion was not crowned until the very last week of play.

It has been a long grueling season and one which saw plenty of exciting basketball and some mediocre play. It is with regret, however, that the 1959-60 season is laid to rest in the record books. Although the Mountaineer basketball squad didn't do so well recordwise this year, this column would like to pay a compliment to the team—they were in there trying every minute.

This column would like to give a pat on the back to the JV's. Despite the fact that these boys played before sparse crowds with little support they always managed to come up with a real effort on the hardwood. They played any team they could schedule a game with, from the Lewis and Clark Normal College to the Baker town team. Players like Dick Brandl from Pendleton, Don Shore of Enterprise, Nels Nelson from Pendleton, Dennis Bagnall from Pendleton, Larry Sites of Scio, and Dave Neel from Condon, Bob Myers of Fossil, and last but not least, Gary Kykendahl from Mount Vernon.

Wolves Score 16 In Overtime

The Wolves of Oregon College rose up out of the Oregon Collegiate Conference cellar and rapped the Mountaineers of Eastern Oregon by the score of 93-79 in a game played at Monmouth. The Wolves won the ballgame in an overtime period.

In the final period of play the Mounties were leading 79-77 when Ron Jones dropped in a last-ditch basket to tie the score as the gun sounded. The Wolves from Monmouth tallied 16 points in the overtime period while the Mounties remained scoreless.

Ron Jones, the OCC's leading scorer was the game's leader as he dropped in 30 points. Frank Chase hit for 29 points in the Mounties' losing cause.

Professional Group To Present Play At EOC

Scheduled to appear on campus in late March is The Bishop's Company's presentation of Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

The Bishop's Company, an independent organization named in honor of Bishop Gerad Kennedy of the Methodist Church, has a record of 400,000 miles of touring in 48 states and Canada to present its unique repertoire. Asking the audinece to share in the creation of the play is part of the technique of the Company which uses no sets or props.

The Company, founded in 1952 by Phyllis Benbow Beardsley, is currently on its 7th national tour and second international tour. The two touring units travel from coast to coast 51 weks of the year.

IRC Busy With Panels

The International Relations Club is active in participating in panels for various groups in and around La Grande. Recently a panel went to Enterprise to speak of Middle East problems. Members making this trip were: Lyle Endicott, moderator; Salem Rashdan; Wilma McCord, and Roger Holm.

A panel on South African Seggregation was presented February 20 to the Presbyterian discussion group which is currently discussing Africa. Members of this panel were: Bob Byrd, Moderator; Allen Frazier; Volkert Goebel; and George Hyland.

A panel was presented before the Neighborhood Club on March 1. The topic of Unification of Germany was presented. Members of the panel were Melvin Mun, Moderator; Ladd McGowen, Allen Frazier, and Roger Holm.

The International Relations Club was host to several members of the Interfaith Team at a luncheon in Hunt last Thursday.

A panel is planned for the Lions Club in Baker sometime at the first of spring term. Anyone interested in participating in the panel discussions is welcome to attend the regular Monday noon meeting in Hoke Hall.

Critic Reports On Menagerie

The second production of the season for the EOC Theatre, Tennessee Wililams' "The Glass Menagerie," presented last weekend, February 18-20, proved at least one thing. It proved that an excellent play, perhaps the best to be presented at EOC in at least two years, is not always the best "box-office." Along the same line it proves that the theatre-goers, including students at Eastern Oregon College, have not yet learned to even try to appreciate good drama.

"The Glass Menagerie" is very definitely considered to be one of the finest, most artistically written contemporary American plays. Perhaps it is because the play is so realistic, as are many of Mr. Williams' plays, that the conservative, provincial people of La Grande tend to shy away from it. At any rate, the attendance figures for the three-night run were reported to be well below usual numbers.

From a techical standpoint, Richard Hiatt's production left little to be desired. The very effective use of black, combined with the striking, intricate lighting effects worked out by Mr. Hiatt and his Stagecraft class did much to enhance the mood of the "memory" play.

As for the acting, the overall job was the best that this writer remembers in four years. This statement must be looked at very carefully, however, because the cast—only four—was significantly smaller than any other major production in that period.

Mike Hanford, as Tom, the sensitive son frustrated by a domineering mother, did, by far, the stand-out job of the evening. He handled the extremely difficult part—one which called for abrupt changes of mood—with a great deal of finesse. Not once did he break characater, though some around him did, and he did a very fine job of keping the mood of the play.

Colette Wardell, as his shy, crippled sister, came very close to equalling Hanford's performance. In her first appearance on the EOC stage since fall term, 1956, she showed a great deal of wramth and vibrancy underneath the outwardly retiring nature of the character she was portraying. Miss Wardell and Hanford worked together very well, and together contributed much toward making the production as good as it was.

As Jim O'Conner, Laura's long-awaited and prepared for "gentleman caller," Bob Miller did an adequate job. In a small part, especially with only four members in the cast, his portrayal was at times convincing and at other times extremely flat and uninspiring. In all fairness, however, it can be said that his performance was convincing and, at least fairly polished, if not up to the standards set by Hanford and Miss Wardell.

The fourth member of the cast, Mrs. Mary Coffey, portraying Amanda Wingfield, the mother of Tom and Laura, left more than a little to be desired. One should be able to expect, from a person of Mrs. Coffey's maturity, an acting job of first-rate quality, especially in a part which seemed almost tailor-made for her. Such was not the case, however, and her performance lacked life and color. At no time during the evening did this writer ever fel the least bit sympathetic toward Amanda, and while one is not supposed to fall in love with the character, we should at least be able to feel sorry for her occasionally. So cold and stilted was the portrayal however, that the only emotion felt was one of being repelled by her. In short, this acting job ran a rather sad fourth in a "race" of four.

All in all, however, the play was well done, and the drama department deserves a big hand from those of us who do appreciate some of the finer things in modern American drama. After all, it is not everyone who would try to do something of such an artistic nature as "The Glass Menagerie" in the face of almost-certain poor crowds.

To The Editor . . .

To The Drama Critic and
To the Editor:

After some two years of reading Mike Ferguson's obviously prejudiced reviews of Sock and Buskin's productions, I feel it's time someone offered a rebuttal. I doubt that I'm the one who should do this, but since no one else seems willing, I shall. Let's examine Mike's latest review, his opinions regarding the recent production of "The Glass Menagerie," not to see how entitled he is to express them (we won't dispute that right) but to see how qualified they are to stand as the college paper's only review.

Of necessity, Mike's appraisal of the audience reaction is based upon Friday night's performance only. I'll agree that the acceptance was perhaps different from that desired by the cast. But no cast could have asked for better acceptance of a serious drama than "Menagerie" received Thursday and Saturday evenings. That these two audiences have learned to "appreciate good drama" will be attested to by any member of the cast and crew.

I, too, like "The Glass Menagerie." If I didn't, I wouldn't have directed it. But I would hesitate to call it "one of the finest, most artistically writen contemporary American plays" for fear some thoughtful reader would ask how many contemporary American plays I have read. How many have you read, Mike?

The technical aspects of the production fared rather well under Mike's barrage. But if he is so careful to name the cast individually, could he not give some credit where he feels credit is due? The program, as I recall it, made no reference to the "Stage Craft class," but, rather, to specific individuals, for their various assignments. The class as a class, had practilally nothing to do with the lighting Mike was so pleased with. Ross De Boie did, but his name appears no where in Mike's review. (And while I'm throwing roses—blue ones, of course,— here's a bouquet to Virginia Wellington, Darla Carter, Sharon Noyes, and Pat Morton.)

Everyone is entitled to his own opinion regarding individual performances, so Mike's personal preferences on this point cannot be argued with. But I can't help wonder how competent he is to judge good acting jobs when he makes such statements as "Miss Wardell and Hanford worked together very well." After six weeks of rehearsing "Menagerie" I am racking my memory to find any significant scenes where these two characters had any opportunty to work well together. They appear together only once in the entire show, during the drunk scene on the fire escape landing, and that particular scene is such a one-man show that it hardly serves as evidence of their working well together. At this point I ask the reviewer to be specific and point out particular scenes where these two (who share no scenes) worked well together.

As to what conclusion a reader is supposed to have after having an actor's performance referred to, all in one paraghaph, as "adequate, convincing, flat, uninspiring, convincing and fairly polished . . ." I am at a loss to say. Seems to me the reviewer does a pretty good job of contradicting himself.

Finally, I object most strongly to Mike's appraisal of Mary Coffey's portrayal of Amanda Wingfield. Here I would have no leg to stand on, other than personal opinion against personal opinion, were it not for several people having talked with me after the three performances, people whose opinions and apparisals of acting I confess I respect more than I do the reviewer's. These people were in agreement that in a part that was most demanding (a factor one reviewer took into consideration but the Beacon's boy did not) Mary Coffey was far from "cold and stilted," but rather brought to the part an understanding and sympathy that was most difficult to achieve. To oppose Mike Ferguson's published apparisal of Mary's performance, may I offer my own: "Well done!"

As I said, Mike is entitled to express his views publically, as we all are. My question still stands, though. How qualified is he?

Richard Hiatt.

Medicare, Active Club

Medicare, Latin for "to heal," is a campus organization open to any student in pre-nursing, pre-medical, and other welfare fields.

This year Medicare is quite active, has lots of ideas, and is considering many tentative plans. Several activities are presently being carried through. Information on Medicare pins is being looked into. The girls living in the dorm have taken the responsibility of carrying sick trays, making sick beds, and cheering up the patient as much as possible.

Tentative plans include helping the TAC or Teen-agers Against Cancer Society. Medicare also helps with the X-ray units and blood drives.

The membership is small and everyone eligible is urged to join. It is enjoyable and a rewarding feeling of satisfaction accompanies all of the club's activities.

10 Plagiarists Flunk Course

Ten students have been flunked for cheating in an English course at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The six men and four women were given "disciplinary F" marks by Dr. Robert A. Bone, 35-year-old former Yale university faculty member who joined UCLA last September.

He said they plagiarized standard reference works in reviewing Henry James' novel, "Portrait of a Lady."

The faculty administration committee on student conduct asked Dr. Bone to reprimand the students instead of failing them but he refused. The student judicial board backed the professor's action.

Dr. Bone said there were 20 others in the class of 110 who could be accused of cribbing but added that he took action only against the 10 guilty of "flagrant plagiarism." —LOS ANGELES (AP)

New Procedure In Registration

Pre-registration for the spring began February 29 and will continue through March 11. Every student is requested to see his faculty adviser and have his program approved.

A new procedure is being tried this term. The registration cards and class cards will be distributed to the faculty adviser and the students must obtain these materials in advance. This will save the time now spent in completing these materials on registration day. It is imperative that each student see his adviser and obtain these cards as they will not be available in the library on registration day. The spring term registration is as follows:

March 28, 1960.
Juniors and Seniors 9:00 a.m.
Sophomores 10:30 a.m.
Freshmen 1:30 p.m.

Any student who is not able to register at the scheduled time is requested not to comme for registration until 2:30 p.m.

The students in secondary education having two advisers are asked to pre-register with their adviser in their subject matter area first, an dthen their education adviser.

Spring Term Drama

Spring Term at EOC will bring three dramatic productions to the campus, which, according to Richard Hiatt, director, should be "enough" to keep everyone busy.

The term's activities wil lopen with the Bishop's Players presentation of "The "Devil and Daniel Webster to be presented on Monday and Tuesday, March 28-29. The Monday night-of registration-day performance will be sponsored by the Associated Student Body. Tuesday night's show will be a public performance to which admission will be charged, sponsored by Sock and Buskin.

Second on the agenda for the term will be the activity scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 6-7. This Parent's Weekend production, sponsored by Sock and Buskin, will be a children's musical, "Old King Cole." Hiatt announced that tryouts for this production will be held the first week of the term. He also noted that in addition to the two performances on campus, arrangements may be made with the AAUW to tour the production in area grade schools.

The final production of the term will be a joint project of the music department and Sock and Buskin. On May 20-21, the college will see two one-act operas by Gian Carlo Menotti, "The Medium" and "The Telephone"

EOC Choir To Participate

On March 20 a joint concert, sponsored by the Pendleton Men's Chorus, will be held in Pendleton. The concert, which will probably be held in the Vert Auditorium, is schedule to begin at 2:30. Several groups will be represented. Pendleton Men's Chorus, Pendleton Women's Chorus, Wallowa County Chorus, Whitman College Chorus, the Walla Walla Community Chorus, and Eastern Oregon College Chorus will each have a program. Each group will sing two or three numbers of their own.

A mass choir will have all groups participating in singing three numbers. Eastern Oregon College Chorus, directed by Neil Wilson will have about forty-five members present for this concert.

EOC Band schedules 1-14 col ed

On March 24, 1960, the band will leave on its annual tour. The scheduled concerts are as follows:

Juniors Select S. Thompson 'Junior Miss'

Miss Sandi Thompson was selected to reign as Junior Miss of the Junior Prom, "Twilight In Purple," held March 5 in Ackerman gym. Vad Kelsoe, last year's—and the first — Junior Miss, crowned Sandi with a crown she presented to the Junior Class.

Sandi's court included Louise Young, escorted by Bruce Samson; Johanna Hardwick, escorted by Pat Kirklin, Jo Ann Barryman, escorted by Paul Olsen, and Ardyce Garret, escorted by Oran Hutton.

Bill Lovelady, Junior Class President, presented Sandi with a bouquet of red roses and each girl was given a necklace as a token. For intermission entertainment, Merlene Teasley sang "I Could Have Danced All Night," accompanied by Betty Funk.

The success of the Prom can be accredited largely to Oran Hutton, chairman, and Bill Lovelady, unofficial co-chairman.

The decoration theme was carried out in lavendar and purple. A large sparkling silver star highlighted the throne. On one side of the floor, a ball of cut glass rotated, giving a shimmering effect on the colors. On the other side was a mural of dancers. To the front of this was a sprinkling fountain by which a statue stood.

'Scholar Stomp' Set For Tonight

In keeping with the air of final week, Sigma Alpha Chi is sponsoring a "Scholars' Stomp" tonight in Hoke Hall. The dance is from 9:00 to 12:00 and everyone is welcome. Music will be provided by the juke box and there is possible entertainment at intermission.

The theme will be one of rulers, pencils, and books, but the scholastic atmosphere will be overshadowed by the gaiety and relaxation of it all. Campus dress is in order an dprices are 15c a person or 25c a couple.

Marcia Reigns As I.K. Sweetheart

Marcia McPherson was chosen as the regional I. K. Sweetheart by the members attending the Inter-collegiate Knight's conference at EOC March 4 and 5.

Marcia was selected as Sweetheart Friday night at the college theatre. Her court consisted of Rita Foye from Eastern Washington College at Cheney and Betty Clegg from Lewis and Clark Normal, Lewiston.

The convention opened with the Queen's Tea Friday evening, followed by the Queen's contest and a "Playboy Dance." Meeting for the delegates were held Saturday.

SOEA Selects Wilmarth, Pres.

Election of officers was one of the points of business at the last SOEA meeting. Those elected were John Wilmarth, president; Butch Corey, vice president; Nancy Choate, secretary; Janice Crawford, treasurer; and Shirley Walsh, historian. These officers will be installed at the regular April meeting which will be 7:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Aprinl 6.

Also elected was Terry Clifton, who will run for state vice president at the state convention which will be held on the University of Oregon campus in Eugene on April 23.

Other SOEA activities include the state OEA convention in Portland on March 18. A special feature of this meeting will be the SOEA luncheon at which EOC president Dr. Bennett will be guest speaker.

EOC Band Schedules Annual Concert Tour

Every year various world organizations come to the campus for money. The campus chest is one big drive for money for all these organizations, this year headed by co-chairmen Larry Wilder and Karen Sutton. The money will be divided percentage-wise among these organizations.

This year the goal has been set at $80. Some of the fund-raising projects and the fund-raisers are as follows: The sophomore class held a dance and raffled off a stuffed animal. Hunt Hall sponsored a cake auction in Dorion. Each Saber woman contributed a sum of money toward campus chest. Dorion Hall had a cake auction at Hunt where there was entertainment by Marcia MacPerson and Ruth and Beth Combs. The freshman clas sis planning a "clash" dance this weekend.

NOTICE

Library books and materials are due March 17 and fines must be paid by then. A failure to clear your record will mean that your grades will be withheld. A fee of 50c per day will be charged for overdues. Books may be renewed, however, to be used over the vacation. Take care of these matters as soon as possible as the library staff would appreciate your consideration.

What Is An 'A' Student?

What is an "A" student? Just recently this question was asked to a freshman composition class. The answers were widely varied from, "That is one who gets an "A" for a final grade," to "One who fools his instructor into thinking he's smart."

Not denying that either of these or any of the other answers given are right, I would like to offer my own opinion. It is really nothing more than an opinion. The question itself is as personalized as "Define learning," or "Defend rational learning as being superior to non-rational learning.

An "A" in The "Pathfinder" is defined as being one of four passing grades. Grade points are computed on the basis of 4 points for each term hour of "A" grade. This defines an "A" grade adequately enough, but says nothing about an "A" student. The word, student, is the key to the phrase. An "A" student is consistent, attends classes regularly, completes and turns in daily assignments on time, finishes term projects with originality and perfection, participates actively in class discussion, reads assignments ahead of time outlining each chapter, takes excellent notes (typing them after each class), comes to class thoroughly prepared for pop quizzes, never "skips out" during a movie, goes to class the day after the mid-term, never cheats, copies, or uses a pony, and never has to be asked, but always volunteers.

Considering all these facts, it is quite obvious that a true "A" student is an ideal. I could say more, but I don't have time—I have to cram for a final this afternoon.

Be Thinking

Believe it or not, the time for ASB elections is almost upon us. Shortly after we return from spring vacation you will be suddenly bombarded with petitions, posters, assemblies, primary elections, campaign platforms, and final elections. This hubbub and confusion will last for a period of about two weeks. Two weeks is a short length of time—a small part of spring term, yet these particular weeks are probably the most crucial of the term. It is within this length of time you weigh advantages and disadvantages; it is within this time you learn more about the candidates—their qualifications and plans; it is within this time you elect the men and women to be the officers of your student government.

The X placed on the ballot is an important one to your college. However, that X must be backed by definite knowledge and understanding. That X must represent in your opinion the person best qualified for that office.

Be thinking over spring vacation of some people you would like to see at the head of your student government next year. When you return to school, pass the word around, talk to that person, and if you are convinced he is right, do all you can for him.

Student Cars Banned At SIU

In the 1960-61 year at Southern Illinois University, students driving cars, with a few exceptions, will be a thing of the past.

Officials said that this was necessitated by the pressing national problem: no space. A recent survey of eight major colleges and universities revealed 51,500 cars registered among 70,122 students. Parking spaces were available for only 28,769 cars.

Consequently, some universities and colleges are solving the problem by eliminating the car.

It is not only a college or university problem; it is a community problem in those towns and cities where student cars use expensive streets for off-campus parking and create traffic control difficulties.

Clark Davis, director of Student Affairs at SIU, says "Let's face it." The car contributes nothing to sound scholarship. Gas consumption is a por substitute for the midnight oil of the scholar. A university has more important responsibilities than to spin its wheels on motor vehicle problems."

—From Capaha Arrow, Dec. 10, 1959.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Glancing through the "Pioneer Log" from Lewis and Clark College we see where Governor Hatfield is speaking at their convocation and also to their Young Republicans. Last spring EOC heard Governor Hatfield and the Young Republicans are trying to get Secretary of State Appling to address their group this spring.

From the U. of O. Daily Emerald" we noticed their wrestling team has taken beatings from OCE (19-9) and Portland State (1811). Congratulations to the Mountaineer wrestlers in their victory over Whitman last weekend, (37-7).

Lewis and Clark College has started planning their Parent's Weekend to be held April 22-24. They are calling for all ideas to solve their main problem —the presenting of a program that adequately shows the balance of both academic and social life on campus. Our student council is now considering prospects for chairmanship of Parent's Weekend scheduled for May 6-8). The chairmen will have problems similar to Lewis and Clark, so if you have any ideas—see your student council representative. The efforts of the Chi Phil fraternity of OSC to beat the bongos for 108 consecutive hours was squelched by the Dean of Men's Office and the Student Life Committee for failing to clear the stunt. The fraternity went on the bongo marathon to advertise a beatnik fireside scheduled for the weekend. Wonder why EOC has no marathon?

Following an OSC basketball game was the AWS annual carnival held in the Su. Perhaps our AWS could investigate the possibility of having a carnival—be something new and FUN.

From the Lamron of OCE we found the caption "All-Campus Drive Below Expectance." The column referred to the Campus Chest drive just completed which bagged $220. They expected at least $500. EOC has set their goal at $80 Wonder how they will do?

Torrid Tip of the week: Resist evrything—BUT TEMPTATION!

CAB News

By ANABELLE TIDWELL

On March 2, Theta Delta Phi met at the home of Dr. Gaiser. The members discussed tentative plans for teacher evaluation on our campus.

I.K's are making plans for the I.K. Ball which is to be held sometime in April. New members of the organization are Benny Houk, Butch Corey, Wayne Seward, Bob Salters, Ron Munkres and Bill Ward.

Sabers are already making plans for its annual dinner dance to be held the third week-end in April to honor the new pledges, who will be announced at the beginning of the Spring Term. Sabers is an honorary club and the new pledges will be chosen on the basis of scholarship and service to the school. Each new pledge is voted on by the members before she becomes a member herself.

EOC Art Professor Enters OSC Exhibit

Leonard B. Kimbrell, Eastern Oregon College assistant professor of art, is represented in the current Oregon Printmakers' invitational fine arts show at Oregon State College.

Four lithographs and woodcuts by Kimbrell are included in the exhibition which is scheduled through March in the OSC Memorial Union.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter To The Editor:

A salute should go out to the students and faculty of EOC who donated blood to the Red Cross on March 2. This blood may save many valuable lives and give some person a lift from the depths of death.

Now, don't ALL of you wish you had given a pint? It doesn't hurt. Just look around you. Surely none of the people who gave blood are suffering greatly. The only ill effects they might have is a tiny hole in the arm and maybe a little trouble getting the tape marks to come off. Think about it. You have 6½ quarts of blood; surely you could have spared a pint that will be greatly appreciated. Think about it next time.

An EOC Student.

Letter To The Editor:

Many people such as some whom we have at EOC always seem to find fault with the way things are run. This is fine for it helps the people recognize these things and gives them basis for improvement. Yes, this is very good. Only one thing smells about the whole thing. That is that too many people are content to gripe about the way things are but arent' willing to help work things out so as to benefit the greatest number.

Also I have seen critcism by many people in letters to the editor. But I doubt greatly whether the people doing the criticizing would be willing to help if called on to do so. Even if they were, I doubt, in many cases whether they could do better themselves. On the other hand, I'm sure the organizations and people being put under the gun would gladly accept suggestions and help from anyone willing to volunteer such.

Furthermore, I think it would be wise to remember not to criticize if you can't do better yourself. If you do you may get a chance to prove your criticism and in the process get it rammed right down your throat. Always keep the fact in mind that no one is immune to the FOOT IN MOUTH DISEASE.

Dr. Lyle H. Johnson and Dr. Ralph R. Badgley, visited the University of Oregon and Oregon State College Thursday and Friday to confer with campus officials about the EOC pre-professional program.

Dr. Johnson indicated that the two-day conference with the deans and department chairmen was part of a continuing program of coordinating all of EOC's pre-professional courses with those at Oregon and Oregon State.

Dr. Johnson also pointed out that the cooperative arrangement enables a student in a two- or three-year pre-pofessional curriculum at Eastern Oregon College to transfer to the University or Oregon State program without loss of credit.

On Saturday, March 5, eight members of the EOC science and mathematics departments attended the Oregon Academy of Science meeting held in Eugene.

Those attending were Dr. Ralph Badgley, Robert McCroskey, Glenn Slabaugh, Gerald Young, Howard Bailey, Dr. Ernest Anderson, Hugh Black, and Dr. Charles Quaintance.

Papers in the fields of science and mathematics were presented, and topics which were discussed were the education of science teachers.

Dr. Badgley, EOC professor of Science, was chairman of the Academy's mathematics - science section, and Dr. Quaintance, EOC professor of biology, was chairman of the science education board of the Academy.

This time of the year seems to bring with it many opportunities for the faculty members to represent Eastern Oregon College at special meetings and conferences throughout the nation. To let you (the student body) know who some of these faculty members are and what they will be doing the writer will cite a few of the most important at this time:

Last weekend Dr. Addy and Dr. Clarke represented Eastern Oregon College while they were at the Oregon State College conference on "Improvement of College Teaching." Dr. Addy was moderator for one of the panels.

Last week Dr. Anderson was on the evaluation team for the North West Association of Secondary and Higher Schols which visited Central Washington College at Ellensburg, Washington.

William P. Wells, director of the EOC audio-visual materials center is serving as a consultant at the National Department of Audio-Visual Instruction conference in Cincinnati, February 28-March 4.

Wells, who is a member of the national board of directors of the group and president elect of the Oregon Audio-Visual Association, will be the consultant for the small colleges section at the Cincinnati meeting.

On February 13, Howard Anderson, gave the Keynote address at the Hi Y Pre-legislative assembly which was held in La Grande.

Chase Tops Final EOC Scoring Tally

Junior guard Frank Chase, from Condon, captured season scoring honors at Eastern Oregon College, according to the final statistics of the basketball season, released today.

Chase paced the Mountaineers with 361 points scored in 25 games. He hit for 140 field goals and 81 free throws. Chase missed one game during the season due to an injury.

Mountie center Pasco Arritola had 108 field goals and 94 free throws for 310 points and second place in team scoring. The big junior from Jordan Valley played in 24 ball games. Arritola had the top field goal average of the Mountie regulars, getting 108 out of 244 attempts for a 44.1 percentage. He was also the team rebound leader with 189.

The free throw department was taken by junior Bob Olinger from Milton-Freewater, who hit 47 charity shots out of 62 attempts for 75.8 per cent. He was fifth in the team scoring with 177 points.

Mel Holmes ranked third in scoring with 250 points.

Holmes, a junior from La Grande, was the third leading scorer with 250 points.

All-Conference guard Ron Hunt of Baker, the team floor leader, was fourth in total scoring with 229 points.

The Mountaineers finished the season with a record of eight wins and 18 defeats. Their conference record of 7-9 placed them fourth in the OCC. Hunt, Chase, and Arritola were picked for all-conference honors.

EOC Matmen Top Whitman

Eastern Oregon's first attempt at competitive wrestling was initiated successfully Saturday as the Mountaineers defeated the Whitman Missionaries, 36 to 5 in a practice meet held at the college Coliseum.

The Mountie matmen won eight of the ten wrestling matches with five of the victories coming on pins. The five men who pinned their opponents were Charles La Camp, 175 pounds; Ben Houk, 162 pounds; Jim Neece, 170; Charles Searcy, 175; and Leroy Ott, 180 pounder.

The only Mountaineer loss was suffered by Gene Holt, 155 and Daryl Corey came out of his match with a draw.

The three other Mountie victories were taken by Sid Hiatt, Tom Patterson, and Scott Bannister who scored wins by decision.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor's wrestling team travels to Walla Walla this Saturday for a return practice meet with Whitman.

EOC Scholarship Award Students Entertain Lions

Eastern Oregon College scholarship award students entertained members of the La Grande Lions club at their regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Sacajawea.

Warren Good presented selections on the piano, a trio composed of Ruth and Beth Combs, and Marcia MacPherson presented vocal numbers, and Denice McCanse and Janet Bond told club members of the value to them of the scholarship grants.

Following the program, Carlos Easley, chairman of the club's scholarship committee, briefly told of how scholarships were given and launched the club's scholarship fund raising activities.

Club guests for the day were Leonard Selby and William Smith. George Tiss was program chairman.

Mountie Rifle Team Evens Year's Record

Eastern Oregon College evened its rifle match standings at 3-3 as they defeated Washington State University and San Jose in a three-way meet while dropping a match to Colorado School of Mines last week.

Dick Domey and Gaylen Searles continue their expert performance as they finished one-two in both matches. Domey fired a 289 to lead the win over the Spartans and the Cougars. Searles finished second with 287.

In the match against Colorado Mines, Searles was the top gunner with 284 and Domey second at 282.

The Mountaineers fired a 1409 total to San Joe State's 1383 and 1391 for the Cougars from Pullman. Scott Kennedy was the top Spartan shooter with a 281 and Ron Bates had a 282 for Washington State.

Colorado Mines topped the Mountie squad's 1375 with a 1398. Bob Freese had a 284 to tie with Searles for top individual honors.

Dr. Bennett Addresses NASSP Annual Confab

Dr. Bennett spoke to the 44th yearly meeting of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. Cliff Robinson, director of secondary education for Eugene public schools and president of NASSP, opened the convention , which then heard a defense of American education combined with a challenge to the principals, voiced by President Frank B. Bennett of Eastern Oregon College. Dr. Bennett declared that criticism of the American school system is "principally drawn from selected cases and more particularly from non parallel data."

Relating his own experiences he reported: "In 1915 I graduated from an excellent high school. In 1918 my wife graduated from another excellent high school. We have five children. At every turn they were better taught and better scholars.

"Their schools game them the subject content and depth for success and mastery in some of the toughest graduate programs of our day. Two sons are M.D.'s, one son is a Ph.D. in physics and one is a public school teacher."

Referring to one brand of criticism of schools, the president declared:

"In 1906 approximately ten per cent as many students graduated from high school as there were children 17 years of age. In 1956, there were about 60 per cent as many students graduated from high school as there were children 17 years of age."

"To be fair, comparison of the graduate of 1906 should be made with the top ten per cent of 1956. Such a comparison today would place the graduate of today head and shoulders above his compeer of yesteryear."

In evaluating criticism of the content of American education, he pointed out that, although Russia produced the first earth satellite, the United States produced Salk vaccine.

Dr. Bennett also quoted Dr. Werner von Braun, noted rocket expert, as saying:

"I believe the professional quality of a young American phycisist or engineer, fresh from the university, is at least as high as that of his Russian counterpart."

At the same time, Dr. Bennett said more recent criticism of American schools comes from their friends who "see possibility of improving that which they already thought good." He gave the Portland school system a pat on the back "for leading a great surge of inquiry, search, and study."

He challenged the principals to be "frontiersmen" in seeking ways to improve education.

In closing, the president declared that the American school system is unique in undertaking to "open opportunity to each and every person regardless of wealth, class, race, creed, or color." He said every great civilization of the past strove, instead, to educate "the few at the expense of the masses."

'Twas

It was the week before finals and all through the dorm
The students were busy, but not to keep warm.
The books were opened with awareness and care
In hopes all the answers would be there somewhere.

The goofballs were sweatig about this term's grades
While the straight "A" students were sharper than blades.
The finals were nearing with incredible speed
All to do now was read, read, read, read.

They studied their Lit., History and Chem.,
In hopes of getting an "A" for them.
But the week's preceeding will eventually tell
Which students made it and how many fell.

About 3 in the morning they all hit the sack
To get some rest from the torture rack.
And while they sleep they have one bit of cheer.
They're dreaming of The Vacation that soon will be here.

Ball And Chain Socialize At Chili Feed

The latest rumbles indicate that the chil feed sponsored by the Ball and Chain Club was a smashing success. The chili was delicious and the dishes were quickly disposed of by the joint efforts of all able bodies present.

Corn aided by Miller (Cliff and Herb to most) spread around the somewhat dampening news that dues were due, but the scene was brightened again by the flash bulbs popping for pictures for the annual and the many colors of the juke box while it played music for dancing.

Entertainment for the evening was furnished by Mr. Wilson with a presentation of variations on Blue Moon. Rumor has it that some babysitter goofed and someone's little girl slipped in for one chorus.

In all seriousness, the Ball and Chain Club meets on the second Tuesday of every month. All married students are invited to attend. The socializing is fun for all and student husbands say it is good especially for giving wives who don't go to school a closer contact with the school. Says one, "My wife really enjoys the meetings . . . of coure . . . I never take her anywhere else . . ."

Council confab no guide col ed ...

1. Larry Wilder, co-chairman, for the Campus Chest Drive, reported to Council that a total of $33..00 was made from the two cake auctions—$15 being contributed by Dorion and $18 being contributed by Hunt. Other organizations and classes are encouraged to contribute also to Campus Chest. The total sum collected will be distributed among several worthy organizations such as Red Cross, World University Service and Cancer fund.

2. Representatives from the Mountaineer Rifle Club met with the Council in request of funds to cover traveling expenses to a National Collegiate Rifle Match in Pocatello, Idaho. The club has reported several victories over various colleges and universities in the nation; therefore, they stand an excellent opportunity for national recognition. Since they are not a money-making organization and also carry a heavy individual expense they were granted $50 to aid them in traveling expenses. There will be a team of five fellows and posibly two girls representing EOC at Pocatello, March 18, 1960.

3. There has ben quite some concern in Council about the abuse of the auditorium during SU movies. It has been reported that smoking has taken place resulting in burned spots on both the seats and the carpet. The Faculty-advisory Committee has stated that if this continues to occur Student Union movies will be abolished completely. Therefore, the Council asks your consideration for your campus and for your fellow students. Respect school facilities and keep them in the best condition possible. After all, our school is what we make it, and keep it.

4. It has been suggested in Council that the ASB Council and officers for 1959-60 hold a retreat early spring term for the purpose of clarifying and studying the campus problems that have been encountered. The year's accomplishments will be evaluated and culminated to "tie the knot" for this year in preparation for new officers.

5. It is time again to remind the ASB of Eastern Oregon College that elections for student officers is coming soon. It is important that you think about it now and make it a point to attend Student Council and prepare for an office in which you are interested. Any Council member would be glad to help you and acquaint you with Student Government.

6. Parent's Weekend is an event on the agenda for Spring Term. The Council is now open to suggestion for persons who would be interested in co-chairmanship. Anyone interested in such a position please contact Bev Donovan.

7. There has been considerable discussion about buidling on a Student Union fund over a period of years with the intention of having a student owned Student Union. Virginia Wellington reported that it is possible to "ear-mark" a fund for this purpose. However, this fund can only be used with the approval of Dr. Bennett and can only be used for Student Union.

8. Not only may we eventually have our own Student Union, but we may also have an elective office for another vice-president, in addition to the present offices, who will be responisble for the Student Union. In previous years the Student Union Chairman has been an appointive position. There is a study committee working on the possibility of having such an office. After careful study and recommendations a proposal will be presented to the Council and to the Student Body. There will be further reports.

A Story . .

Once upon a time, in the great country of Ohreegone, there was a little principality of Eeawk. It wasn't very large; in fact there were only about seven hundred people there.

These individuals who lived in Eeawk were basically peaceable—only carrying on occasional skirmishes against the neighboring provinces of Soockee, Ooteye, Oosee, and a roving band of Vikings. Even then the Eeawkians usually didn't fight unless attacked first.

They were also a very democratic people. The prince of the province and his sixty-five nobles even allowed the serfs to have a government of their own. Once a year all of the commoners got together to elect a new group of leaders. They usually elected a group which was dominated by men, but one year something happened and women were elected by a large margin. So strong was their victory, in fact, that only one man was elected to a major office.

All these women in public office could only lead to one thing—trouble. As you can probably guess, there was trouble, and this trouble went down in history, known as "The President's Revolt." Let's go back a few hundred years and listen in on the weekly town meeting.

". . . And furthermore, Madam High Potentatess, I feel that I should have been consulted before a final decision was made on the resolution to recommend that a joint noble-commoner committee investigate the possibilities of having certain commoners released from such trivial obligations as working and paying taxes. After all, it was my idea in the first place, and since, as Coordinator of Commoners' Committees, I've appointed myself to head the committee to pick these commoners, I think it would have been proper to find out if I had picked my committee yet. It's only been six weeks since I made the suggestion, and I am awfully busy, you know."

"Well, yes, Madam Prima Presidentae, thank you for your views. We shall try to consult with you before we make any more decisions. Now, for committee reports —Mr. Secondo Presidentis, does the Social Committee have a report to make?"

"Yes, we do, Madam High Potentatess. In our last meeting we discussed the possibilities of . . ."

"Pardon me, Mr. Secondo Presidentis, but as Coordinator of Committees I would just like to say that I think your committee is doing a very good job. However, I do think you need someone with a dynamic personality on your committee. Now, if you'll just tell me when your next meeting is, I'll do my best to be there to give you a few of my ideas. Madam Keeper of the Diary, I want all this in the minutes—it's very important."

"Thank you, Madam Prima Presidentae. Now, Mr. Secondo Presidentis, what were you about to say when the Coordinator of Committees interjected her statement?"

"Never mind, Madam High Potentatess, I've forgotten what it was."

"Well, Mr. Secondo Presidentis, if you remember what it was, don't hesitate to tell us. Now, Madam Keeper of the Funds, does the Commoners' Finance Commitee have a report?"

"I'm sorry, Madam High Potentatess, but all the members of my committee have been put on so many other committees and there were so many other meetings scheduled that there wasn't any time for a meeting. Besides, no one could have been there, anyway."

"Just a minute, Madam Keeper of the Funds, I take that as a personal slam. You know that only the best people can be on these committees, and just because I only have a few friends—er—because only a few people applied and they had to serve on at least four committees each, is no reason to insinuate that there's anything wrong with the way I run the committee appointments. I think you should apologize to me."

"But, Madam Prima Presidentae, I didn't mean to insinuate anything. I only . . ."

"Don't tell me what you tried to say. I know what was in your mind better than you do. And that isn't all—I think you need some expert advice on the way the budget should be handled. As past Keeper of the Funds, I think I'm the one to do it, so if you'll make an appointment to see me, I'll be glad to help you out."

"Now wait ust a minute, Madam Prima Presidentae, you're not as good as all that. In fact . . ."

"Ladies, ladies! Please try to control yourselves. Madam Keeper of the Funds, there's no need to apologize. Do try to have a meeting soon, so you can straighten out the books from last year. As soon as some of these committees report we'll need some money."

"Yes, Madame High Potentatess, I'll do my best."

"But that isn't good enuogh, Madam Keeper of the Funds. You just aren't up to it; after all, I've had more experience than you have and . . ."

Madam Prima Presidentae, "One more outburst from you and you will have to move outside the circle and sit quietly until we've finished."

A Fable Galley II college ed ...

"You do that to me, Madam Potentatess, and I'll walk out on this meeting. Then see how much you accomplish! You know the town council can't function without me."

"All right, Madam Prima Presidentae. Now, is there a report from the . . ."

So it went, meeting after meeting, week after week, nervous breakdown after nervous breakdown. Finally, the officers got a little tired of the behavior of the Prima Presidentae—and took a little action. Let's take a look at that meeting.

". . . And furthermore, Madam High Potentatess, I think that you are running this council all wrong. Now, if you'll just let me take over, I'll show you how it should be handled."

"Madam Prima Presidentae, I've taken the last bit of interference from you that I'm going to take. Now sit down and shut up, or get out!"

"All right, Madam High Potentatess, I'll leave. But don't come crawling when you get into trouble and need my help to get out of it!"

"Now is there a report from . . ."

Suddenly there was a change; even the nobles noticed it. One day the prince was talking to the High Potentatess of the Town Council. Let's listen in.

"I must say, Madam High Potentatess, that your council is really functioning properly now, and getting something done. What did you do to them?"

"Well, your majesty, we just got rid of the element that was causing dissension, and . . ."

A Worm's Eye View

By Connie

My name is Beatrice Bookworm. I make my home in a U.S. History book. A few days ago I happened to overhear a conversation. The conversationalists were talking very excitedly. From what I could gather they were talking about the band tour. At the band's first stop, which was at Nyssa, Oregon, the band seemed to have a little bad luck. One of the vocalists was sick and consequently was unable to sing. Professors are not the only absent-minded people, which was very apparent an hour before concert time. Several people had forgotten to bring their music. The concert went on as scheduled regardless of the handicaps.

The next two days and nights seemed to be the highlight of the entire tour. These two nights were spent at Stead Airforce base about 12 miles from Reno. After the concert at the base they had their choice of either going into Reno or staying on the base and attending a dance at the Service Club. Of course, you can guess where the majority went.

NOTICE

"A Knight in the Woods" is the theme of the annual IK Ball to be held Saturday, April 9, from 9:00 to 12:00 in Hoke Hall. The music is by the "Tone Dusters." It is semi-formal and free. Don't miss it.

New Bookstore

The new EOC Book Store was completed during spring vacation and opened for spring term. In addition to the regular line the bookstore tentatively plans to carry soft goods, such as jackets and rainwear, sporting goods, and a drug line. Plans are also being made to extend the present line to include paper backs and magazines.

The interior is a soft blue with fixtures of birch. The shop personnel constructed the fixtures. When the expansion on Hoke is completed, another door will be added to the bookstore so the one door may be used for an entrance, while the other will serve as an exit.

General comment on the bookstore has been favorable and Bob Oesterling has expressed his pleasure with it.

Election Events

April 8—Candidates' names officially posted.

April 11—Campaigning officially begins.

April 14—Assembly for campaign speeches.

April 15—Primary Election —Results posted 5:00 p.m.

April 21—Special Edition of the Beacon containing final candidates' pictures and platforms.

April 22—Final Election— Results announced at Inaugural Ball.

IK's Name Severin

March 31 was the election of the new officers of the Intercollegiate Knights. Those elected were, Leon Severin as Duke, Hill Walker as Scribe, Walt Wolfe as Chancellor and Butch Corey as Historian. These officers will preside during the 1960-61 year.

Old King Cole Cast Chosen

"Old King Cole," a children's musical presented by Sock and Buskin, directed by Richard Hiatt, will have six performances during May. The cast selected as follows: Crunch, the royal fiddle polisher, Dick Domey; Grog, a man with many jobs, Mike Ferguson; Nick, a nice young lad, Richard Clark; Old King Cole, Dan Yturraspe; Penelope, the lovely young princess, Judy Millering; Mrs. Smedley, the royal castlekeeper, Judy Lutz; Tic, Tac, and Toe, the royal fiddlers, Tarry Clifton, Karen Sutton and Sue Switzer. Black Smith, self-explanatory, Jim Morris; his wife, Lock Smith, Valene Mitchell; the messenger, Ron Munkres; Amelia, Celia, and Arabella, the ladies in waiting, Judy Hockett and Elaine McNaught; court members, Richard Nelson and Wayne Sowards, the piano accompanists are Warren and Daisy Good.

The first perforances will be held Parents' Weekend, Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7. There will be an evening performance in Imbler, May 13, and an evening performance in Wallowa, May 14. The matinees are at 2:00 p.m. and the evening performances at 7:30 p.m. The matinees in La Grande and evenings in Imbler and Wallowa are under auspices of AAUW as fund raising for scholarships.

Library Receives Book Donations

A special gift of six volumes, "Marine Sail," an exhaustive history of merchant ships, has been received by Eastern Oregon College library, according to Don Nelson, librarian.

The six volumes, written by William A. Fairburn, naval architect and marine engineer, were donated by the Fairburn Marine Educational Foundation, Inc., Center Lovell, Maine.

The work is dedicated "To the student who is seeking, as the author vainly sought in his youth, to learn the truth regarding ships and their relation to the development of the American colonies and the United States."

The work is described as ". . . one of the really great contributions to our knowledge of remembered and forgotten ships."

Students Should Bring Immunization Program Up To Date

The results of the survey conducted in the registration line show that the students of EOC are sadly lacking in up-to-date immunization.

This lack has caused a great deal of concern at the health center, for while the diseases occur much less frequently than in former years, they still occur. The shots you receive as a child will not protect you forever and it is the hope of the health center that each student will bring his immunization program up-to-date as soon as possible. The smallpox booster should be received every five years and the tetnus, whooping cough, diptheria, every three years. Everyone should have at least three and preferably four polio shots.

Other notes from the health center include a request for the return of all the nosedrop bottle that the students might have.

NOTE

There will be an International Relations Club meeting Monday night, April 16. The meetin will be at 7:30 at Jo-Ann Berryman's home, 1501 Adams. The purpose of this meeting is to elect the officers for next year. This meeting is very important and it is urgently requested that all members possible be present.

Join AA Before It's Too Late

By joining AA at EOC immediately you will receive its benefits just that much sooner than if you wait to join later. Those who already belong will vouch for the success and feeling of satisfaction that accompanies membership. AA will have an immediate effect on you, yet will not stop there—you will feel like an entirely new person—the buoyancy and wholesome feeling will last you for a long time to come.

By AA I mean academics and activities. Now is the time to join, academically speaking. If you are heading for the honor roll or raising your GPA, to begin immediately wouldn't be too soon. An "A" student is one who is consistent, not who says, "I'll really have to redeem myself after mid-terms." Get into the academic swing—keep ahead of the race and don't let it catch up with you.

Activity-wise, this is an excellent time to plunge forward. Organizations have new spring ideas. Election of new officers is in the process, all with more and better plans. Be a part of those plans and help move toward improved clubs, organizations, publications, and productions. You get so much more benefit from anything to which you have contributed.

So, make spring term more worthwhile by joining AA.

To The Editor:

On Reprimanding Students

One of the worst things an educator can do is to allow anger to dictate his actions. Many situations arise in the lives of all educators which may require a carefully studied reprimand, but the educator's position of influence and respect is misused, and his effectiveness weakened when he abandons himself to anger and willfully uses his superior ability and position to hurt one of his students.

I would be the last to say that students never need to be straightened out in their thinking and actions. It is this need which has created the profession of education, but normally this is done without hurting the student, and often done, in a disciplinary way, without any undue attention being brought to it. The student and the instructor are both better off if tact and respect are shown. The student won't be defeated because he has been publicly robbed of his prestige and the instructor will be respected more by all of his students for having shown this thoughtfulness. Leadership and a sense of public spirit are difficult to find in students, and tendencies toward both may be effectively killed by verbally cutting a student to pieces before the public in a fit of anger.

I think we must all agree that protecting these important characteristics in a student is, alone, enough reason for controlling one's temper, but this is also a wise course from the standpoint of the welfare of the instructor himself.

Every instructor is, or should be, deeply concerned with maintaining a high degree of effectiveness. A student who is ashamed or angry as a resuult of a clash with an instructor is one who will be in no mood to cooperate in any learning process. Also, the instructor who is known as in intemperate hothead will have difficulty in gaining cooperation from any student. In a grade school the students would make his life miserable, in high school he would be chased out of the classroom, and in college he leaves himself wide open to criticism from the students, which, if it is intelligent, could prove to be very embarrassing.

For these reasons it is my contention that discipline of students at any level should be carefully considered and under no condition should public damage to the student be done unnecessarily.

A Sympathetic Pedant.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

While it was snowing about a week ago one of our professors predicted that "Spring was here!" He said that in a week we would be seeing the evidence: today the evidence has arrived—the sky is blue, the lawns are green and the students have fever—spring fever.

A year ago EOC Women Students were on edge for the AAUW evaluation committee was on campus. At the University of Portland women students are now going through this ordeal. We hope that they meet the organization's qualifications and are accepted as we were. The American Association of University Women attempts to provide an outlet for the graduates of approved universities through intellectual activities and cultural experiences.

Field trips are being taken on all campuses. EOC biology students are in the process of looking at "whistling swans," the natural history and ornithology students are to view sage grouse and OTI Diesel students made a trip to San Francisco to view equipment firms.

A Voter's guide is being prepared for the students at OSC this year. This Guide will provide written material and photos paid for by each candidate. With our elections before us let's THINK about what we want in an ASEOC officer and THINK about what the ASEOC neds in an officer, and plan to VOTE.

TORRID TIP: Il faut qu 'une porte soite ouverte ou fermee. (One must decide one way or another.)

Dorion Fun & Fact

By HERB AND MAC

Herb: Mac, chalk up another victory for Dorion. In an impressive ceremony after Wednesday dress-up dinner last week, Lorna Umpleby announced her engagement. It is hoped by the girls that this will become a tradition at Dorion Hall.

Mac: Pass the aspirin.

Herb: I hate to be bearer of sad news but I hear by way of the ivy that Dorions' assistant house mother, Miss Duncan, is leaving at the end of the term. It appears to me that she has been excellent in her position and I'm sure she will be missed by the girls.

Mac: It's time for a teed.

Herb: This is the dorm, girl-type.
Mac: Dum, de dum dum?
Herb: Time, Tuesday, April 4, 1960, 6:56 p.m. The following facts were just received from headquarters: Case: Dorian tea. Crime: invitations not sent. Outcome: postponement.
Mac: Oh da da, None for tea, you for me and this is corny, la da do.
Herb: Case; six new girls join gang. Given information lists their names as being Janice Gipson, Dixie Lew, Naomi Hooker, arie, Celeste Williamson and Pat Wade. Crime: competition. Outcome: one never knows.
Mac: Let's have a rumble.
Herb: Case: one fat, chubby, pink elephant missing from 316. Crime: kidnapping. Information: no leads as yet.
Mac: I get a kick from champagne, do de do.
Herb: Case: one new diamond acquired. Crime: stolen heart. Subject involved: Mearlene Teasley.
Mac: This is the end!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ED'S NOTE: As our paper is published only bi-monthly, it has been the policy of the paper for several years to allow any interested student or faculty member to read an article or letter before it is published and write a reply if interested. Very often the interest is lost over a two-week span on a particular issue.

Dear Madame Editor:

In view of the recent criticism of EOC's student administration this letter may seem to be quite tame.

Mr. Nero Ranochio's comments, be they good or bad, were(lacking in one thing—praise for one particular indivdual of that council who most certainly deserves it.

Being a senior, I have seen the workings of four student governments and will see a fifth group in the next few weeks. I have seen many improvements, some "backsliding," and some "standing still" on the parts of all these. But without a doubt one particular office has taken on a real meaning to this year's occupant. I refer to the office of Second Vice-President and the tremendous job that Don Shore has done. Perhaps, to Don, it seems as though people are always dragging their feet, not enjoying or benefitting from the program that he has set up. But in my opinion, and I know that I do not stand alone, he has done an outstand-in job and deserves more recognition than he gets. With a great deal of help from Don, EOC has lost much of the "little college on the hill" look, and is actually beginning to feel and look more like a big college campus.

I could say much more but I think that each of us should look back over the past two years and evaluate the social activities set up by Don and enough will be said.

To Don, from those who appreciate the great job he has done, especially under the trying conditions of a student council headed by females (not that this is bad, but did you ever try to get money for social events from a woman)—THANKS.

An EOC Senior.

To:
My Friend Richard;
The Editor.

I would like to congratulate my friend Richard for his encouraging words of advice to our student who wrote a criticsm of the play "The Glass Menagerie." His method of showing the student-body where our student-critic is wrong is very effective and worthy of every congratulation from us. However, I am worried because of some comments I have heard about my friend Richard's well intended advice. It was stated by some recalcitrant students, that in the first statement of his article the "obviously prejudiced reviews" were not so obvious and that furthermore it tended to discredit our critic, not on logical grounds but on personality. After all, if journalists and politicians can resort to the tactics of deliberately confusing personality with ability, why should not my friend Richard?

How can anybody possibly criticize my good friend Richard, for as a teacher, he even in some instances, magnanimously agrees with our student-critic. This is real generosity on the part of my friend Richard, for after all, shouldn't the view of the student be subjected to the views of the teacher, because of the teacher's superior wisdom and knowledge?

Some persons would even criticize Richard because he quite obviously had access to our student-critic's commentary before the publication of the paper, since both commentary and rebuttal appeared in the same issue. Here again, I ask, is it not really the privilege of any teacher to review critical material written by college students for their own paper?

I would therefore, like to make the suggestion that from now on the faculty members of this school take their turn in writing for the students' paper the various critical materials which stem from student activities such as plays. I make this proposition because, as was inferred by my good friend Richard, college students neither have reached the stage in life, nor have the necessary experience, to make constructive criticism.

signed—
Richard's friend.

M. Nero Ranochio
Top O'Discreet
Eeawk, Ohreegone
Dear Sir:

My first reaction to your recent article was that it was not even worthy of reply. Since you have obviously offered a challenge, however, I certainly will not retreat even though we must meet on your grounds, the gutter.

First allow me to congratulate you upon your completion of the course in Advance Composition. Few people have made such an outstanding termination in the field. I believe that study is also known under the title of Creative Writing; may I inquire, sir, whether you ever considered the meaning of that particular word?

Your writing, in fact, reminds me of the "talented" pen of another American contemporary who published her book approximately two years ago. Both of you selected the small town situation as a background for your illustrious delvings into other person's lives and business. I imagine both the publications were as avidly read, but I do believe the famous author's work was more thoroughly as well as more understandingly read. (Certain pages, at least.) It is unfortunate that the majority of the student body did not read into the article the meaning which you intended in your "creativity," but perhaps it only evidences the fact that most EOC minds are functioning on higher levels. As in the case of the formerly mentioned author, one always wonders how you writers can so aptly describe these situations. In the case of the woman's publication, we won't question the authenticity of the scenes; but, "Mr. Nero Ranochia," how on earth did you ever manage to boost your imagination to the lofty heights of your "A Story?" (Most creative title, by the way . . .) You have not, to my humble knowledge, attended a Student Council meeting since just before elections last year. However, I am always pleased to note that those once interested in student government do not let these tendencies wane with minor discouragements. I likewise hope that the failure of this first publication will not deter your future creativity, providing of course, you DO look that word up.

In closing, I would like to add one small bit of jouranlistic advice: we must always be POSITIVE of our information in this business. As they say in this scientific age, where there's smoke, there isn't always fire. Even if there were, what were you doing, Nero? Fiddling?

Since it seems to be the contemporary writer's practice to anonymously submit, I follow suit.

Sincerely,
A Student Body President

NOT SAFE HERE

This College of Idaho player is finding that he got more than he bargained for when he tried to get home past Mountie catcher Larry Coleman. After this picture was snapped, the Coyote trying to score ran into a brick wall and the umpire raised his hand and called: "You're Out!" By KEITH DALTON
Observer Staff Writer

The Eastern Oregon baseball team, with only a week's practice behind them, opened their 1960 baseball season yesterday by dropping both ends of a doubleheader to the tough College of Idaho Coyotes on the Mountie diamond. The scores were 6-5 and 5-1.

The first game was close for the entire seven innings with the Coyotes in front all the way and the Mounties never quite able to catch up.

EOC almost did tie the score. They pushed across single runs in the final three innings but the Mountaineer rally was nipped and the score showed them a single point behind.

Brandl, Holmes Single

Eastern Oregon went scoreless through the first two innings while the team from Caldwell, Idaho was pushing across two runs in the top of the second. These came on two walks given up by Mountie pitcher Larry Folston, followed by a long double by Coyote catcher Frank Vasquez.

In the bottom of the third, Hunt walked, and a pair of singles by shortstop Dick Brandl and second baseman Mel Holmes drove across two runs.

The Coyotes led after five innings 4-3. In the Coyote top of the sixth, the visitors pushed across two more runs on base hits by Ted Talbot and Don Barnes.

Applegate Slaps Triple

The Mounties came right back in the final two innings and narrowed the Idaho margin to 6-5. A Mountie rally in the seventh, topped by Larry Applegate's long triple which drove in the final EOC run, fell short as the Coyotes managed the final putout.

The second game of the double header was an abrieviated contest, called after five innings because of darkness. The final score was 5-1.

The Mountaineers opened up the scoring with a single run in the bottom of the first inning. Hunt, the leadoff man, walked, Brandl flied out to the center fielder, and then Mel Holmes singled into left center to drive in Hunt with the run.

College of Idaho didn't score until the third frame when they picked up a single run. They added two runs in both the fourth and fifth to lead by four runs when the game was called.

Coyote pitcher Bill Neff handcuffed the Mounties with a single hit in the shortened game. That was Holmes's single in the first inning. He had six strikeouts.

EOC Golfers Top Coyote Golf Team

The Mountaineer golf team of Eastern Oregon College won their first intercollegiate match of the year yesterday, dropping the College of Idaho 6½ to 5½ in matches played on the La Grande Country Club course.

Pat Elgin of EOC had the best hole of the day with an eagle three on the par five second hole. Elgin was also medalist for the day with an even par 72 for the match.

Results: C of I, Tom Pierson (76) 1½ points, Keith Stanwood (83) 0, Dick Beem (78) 1, Paul Baumann (80) 3. Total 5½ points.

EOC, Paul Olson (77) 1½, Dick Cook (75) 3, Pat Elgin (72) 2, Bill Berg (86) 0. Total points 6½.

The next match for the Mountaineer golf team will be this Friday at Walla Walla. EOC will play in a triangular match with the Whitman Missionaries and the College of Idaho.

The Stone of the Sepulcher

By Susan Coolidge

"How shall the stone be rolled away?"
Thus questioned they, the women three,
Who at dim dawn went forth to see
The sealed and closely guarded cell
Where slept the Lord they loved so well.
First of all Easter sacrifice,
The linen and the burial spice,
They carried, as with anxious speech
They sadly questioned, each to each:
Still, as they near and nearer drew
The puzzle and the terror grew,
And none had word of cheer to say;
But lo, the stone was rolled away!

"How shall the stone be rolled away?"
So, like the Marys, question we,
As looking on we dimly see
Some mighty barrier raise its head
To bar the path we needs must tread.
Our little strength seems weakness made,
Our hearts are faint and sore afraid;
Drooping we journey on alone.
We only mark the heavy stone,
We do not see the helping Love
Which moves before us as we move,
Which chides our faithless, vain dismay,
And rolls for us the stone away.

"How shall the stone be rolled away?"
Ah, many a heart, with terrors pent,
Has breathed the question as it went,
With faltering feet and failing breath,
In the chill company of death,
Adown the narrow path and straight,
Which all must traverse soon or late,
And nearing thus the dreaded tomb,
Just in the thickest, deepest gloom,
Has heard the stir of angel wings,
Dear voices, sweetest welcomings,
And, as on that first Easter day,
Has found the dread stone rolled away!

Faculty Corner

by Wendy Johnson

While collecting bit o' information for the "Faculty Corner" this writer found some things which might prove interesting if "ye" read a bit further.

First thing of signifiance was that Betty Molgard Ryann, associate professor of education and supervisor of teaching at EOC, has written a book for children entitled SALLY ALLIGATOR, which the T.S. Denison & Co. of Minneapolis, Minn., has announced will be published this fall.

This color illustrated story is the second book which Mrs. Ryann has written. Her first book SOCKS, about a curious kitten, was published in 1949.

Glenn Slabaugh is in the Beacon "lime light" this week, as he has received a National Science in chemistry at Oregon State Foundation Fellowship for study in chemistry at Oregon State College this summer.

Hugh Black has also received a National Science Foundation Fellowship for study at Oregon State College this summer. He received it for study in Biology.

Don Campbell is attending the American Association for Health and Physical Education and Recreation Northwest District Conference this week at Sun Valley, Idaho.

Dr. Bennett participated in the regional meeting of the American Association of School Administration in Spokane last week.

ON TO WASHINGTON — Virginia Wellington, EOC junior, and John Hall, president of EOC Young Republican Club, look over letter notifying Virginia she will take expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., to attend Republican Women's Federation convention. EOC Student Gets Free Trip To Washington GOP Confab

While the state was raptly waiting for Gov. Mark Hatfield to choose a replacement for the late Sen. Richard Neuberger, the governor made another selection vitally important to a 20-year-old Eastern Oregon College student.

Last Friday, Gov. Hatfield pulled out of a hat the name of Virginia Wellington, EOC junior from The Dalles.

The luck of that draw will send Miss Wellington on an expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., where she will personally meet high ranking members of the Republican party.

Miss Wellington was one of six girls from Oregon colleges and universities picked by the Young Republican Club of the College League to attend tne Republican rally in Salem.

Her name was chosen by lot from among the six.

She will accompany Mrs. Collis Moore, Moro, state Republican committewoman, on the trip to the Republican Women's Federation six-day convention in Washington, beginning April 1.

On April 3, Miss Wellington will attend a reception for Vice President Richard Nixon. GOP cabinet members and their wives will be in attendance.

She will also attend a Republican rally the next day which will honor all women appointees chosen during the Eisenhower administration. The President, vice president and other officials will be there.

Miss Wellington is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wellington, The Dalles. She is a major in secondary education and English at EOC.

Those that went into Reno enjoyed nightclubbing and "such."

Those that stayed at the dance were given refreshments and the girls were given corsages. The biggest portion of Saturday was spent in Reno. Many things happened. Among these were the winning of a diamond ring and two marriages.

That evening the concert took place at the Sierra Ordnance Depot at Herlong, California. After the concert they returned to Reno for more nightclubbing and more "such." On Sunday morning they ate dinner in Reno and said farewell to Reno. They then traveled to Winemucca where they played a night concert. Nothing very exciting happened there except one of the trombone players decided to take a chair with him. His belt got hooked on the chair.

The next day the band played at Jordan Valley and that night the concert was in Mt. Home Airforce Base in Idaho. After the concert they went to the Service Club where the dance band had a little jam session. Here they were fortunate to hear an excellent Negro quartet sing. Mr. Anderson also got into the act. He sang a couple of spirituals.

The next day the band was back in good old green Oregon. They played at Vale, Huntington and Baker. They spent the night in La Grande. They played an afternoon concert in Heppner the next day. That evening the dance band played while both the high school and college students danced.

On the last day of the tour, concerts were held in Ione and Boardman.

Wow! ! what a trip! I wish I wasn't a bookworm so I could have gone. I have eavesdropped quite enough for one day. Besides class is over and they are closing the book so I can't hear anyway.

Children Of Ackerman Learn Languages Early

"Why should foreign languages . . . make their appearnace long after a boy or girl has lost full capacity for language?"

Personal Statement By Ichabod

"Ichabod" is not a member of the Beacon Staff. His opinions do not necessarily reflect the thoughts of the staff. —Ed.

I haven't not ever writ an article for a newsey paper before but due to the fact that every graduating senior should make some kind of a contribution, I thought I would come forth.

The other day us educated seniors had to prepare our application and credential papers so's we could hire out in some communicable operation. They asked where bouts we's like to locate so's I put down 3 places; Lapover, Spout Springs, and Starkey. You have 6 choices but I just chose the 3 as I'm pretty interdependant. If these communities doesn't want me as a teacher, where I can present problems during the week, I'll go back to my old loggin' job and be a problem on Saturday night.

One of the papers we had to fill out was our personal statement. I had to lie like blazes due to social pressure. Fer instance, It ask us what our special interest were? You know, I couldn't put down girls. Mrs. Nicoloffenhauser doesn't know it, but I'm auditing the modern dance course thru the keyhole. My, I wish I would have studied the subject matter more in my freshman, sophomore and junior years so's I could apply the unlderlying principals in my senior year. Oh well, I just put down dancing as a special interest.

We were supposed to tell about our hobbies. My hobby is wasting time such as drinking old cider, discussing the virtuosos of my colleagues and watching my home brew. I had to write that my hobby was decerebration.

Now, here's a goodun—what special ability do you pozess? I'll admit that I haven't taken advantage of the free inexpensive materials around the campus, but there you are and here I am. I just put down that I have special ability in writing as any fool can plainly see. Don't worry—I'm not going to graduate Magnum Come LOUD.

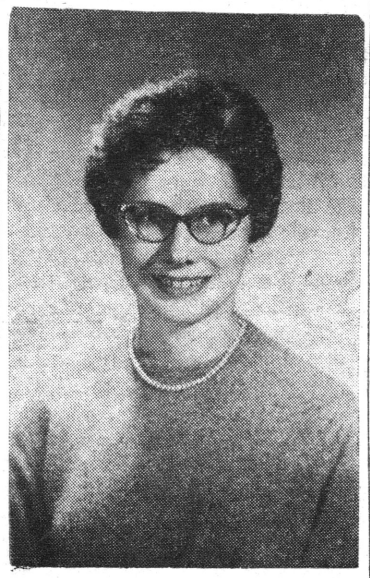
GREG BAKER
Candidate, First V. P.

Designated through our ASB Constitution, next year's first Vice President will carry specific duties to office with him. I would like to emphasize the need for a person with the interest and ability to handle the problems and duties that arise which are not strictly defined in our consitution but are very realistic in any student government.

In the past week of campaigning you have had the opportunity to assess the qualifications of the various candidates. This Friday at the polls a final decision will be made regarding those you believe to be the most promising for our student body offices.



I would ask you to evaluate the candidates in these criteria: background, interest, ability, and sincerity. I want to express my thanks to those who made it possible, by their votes, for me to enter the finals.

If elected I will give to the First Vice President all that my thought and energy can produce.

GAIL FISHER
Candidate, First V. P.

When we submitted our names for Student Body offices, we did so, not because we were seeking glory, but because we were seeking a way to serve our fellow students, our school, and its government, while at the same time preparing ourselves to become better citizens both now, and when we leave EOC for other communities. This is what I believe should be a chief objective of each individual who is running for an office. For it is with such an objective and even thereafter. This was my objective when I submitted my name for first Vice President.

One of the duties of the office is that of being chairman of the election commitee. It is encouraging to note that EOC has one of the best voting records in Oregon colleges Nevertheless, we are still looking for improvements. An amendment of our constitution states that there shall be ". . . one central official polling place for any election . . ." Thus, the election locale can be moved as seems profitable. But I feel that the new addition to Hoke will draw more students, so that the most centralized place would be Hoke.

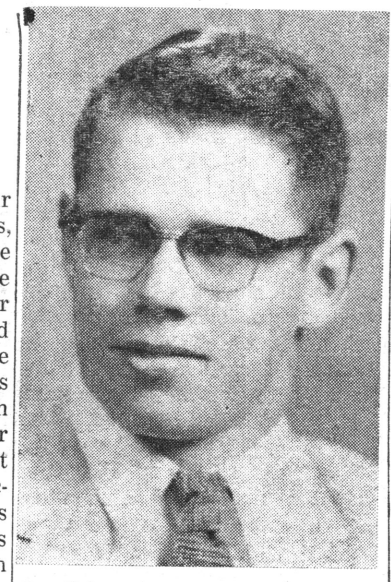
DR. HARRY McPHAIL

Oklahoman Gets EOC Position

Dr. Harry E. McPhail, school principal in Tulsa, Okla., has been named visiting professor of education for the Eastern Oregon College summer session, according to John M. Miller, director.

Dr. McPhail has his B.A. and M.A. from Kansas State Teachers College and his Ed. D from Oklahoma State University.

The 1960 summer session at EOC is scheduled for June 20-August 12.



Parents' Weekend Set For May 7-8

Plans are under way for Parents' Weekend to be held May 7 and 8. Co-chairmen for this year's event are Ben Houk and Gail Fisher. The committee heads are: invitations and registration, Donna Sene; entertainment, Ruth and Beth Combs and Butch Cory; barbecue, I.K.'s and Sabers (Leon Severn and Vad Kelsoe); coffee hours, Alpha Rho Tau and Dorion Hall (Milly Wagner and Johanna Hardwick); Sunday breakfast, Tarry Clifton; campus tours, Sue Haines; programs, Loretta Herbison; and publicity, Dan Yturraspe.

Parents' Weekend is one of the year's biggest events in that it draws many families and friends to our campus. It is speculated that this year's will be one of the best.

NOTICE

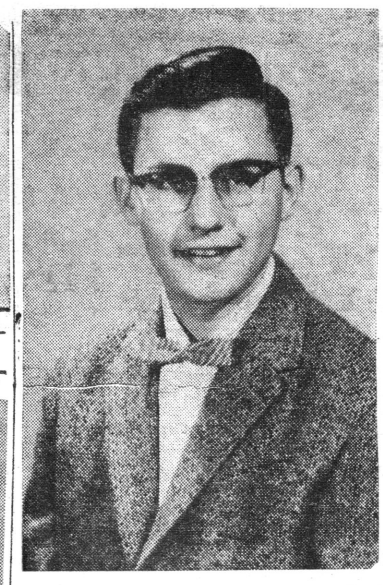
THE NEW BOOK STORE HOURS ARE 8:30 TO 11:30 AND 12:45 TO 1.45 FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE.

Candidate for Fist V. P.

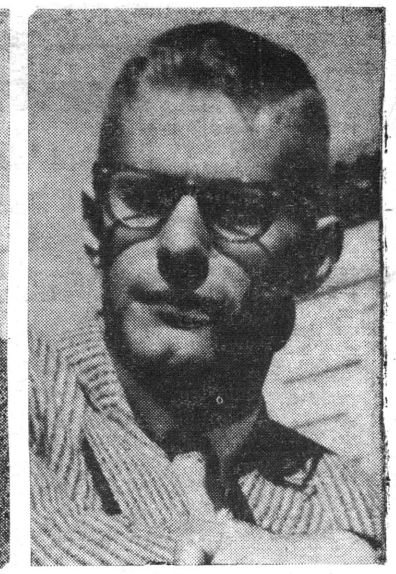
Allan Carr's platform consists of arousing more interest in campus politics, equal representation in all classes on student body committees, and more cooperation between officers themselves for successful student government.

Nevertheless, in warm weather more students would probably vote if the polls were set up outside.

Recently EOC had its first absentee balloting. I believe that this is a great improvement, as this matter has been under consideration for a time. Presently, the regular procedure of voting is applied, with the ballots being sealed in an envelope and not opened until the regular election ballots are being counted. Any loopholes in this parculiar method should be ironed out, or a new method should be devised. Then the procedure should be entered into the constitution at the approval of the student body.



Another improvement can be in the listing of the dates for the student body elections on the social calendar.



A need for improvement was noticed at the campaign assembly. An alternative could be to have an evening assembly—with an intermission. (Of course you students may also have some suggestions as to what can be done and I encourage you to make your suggestions known.)

As co-ordinator of committees, I suggest that the first V.P. select the Publicity and Radio Chairmen by petition and personal inquiry of those who have expressed interest, then have the Student Council approve her choice. These two committees could function more efficiently by meeting once a week to map out a tentative program.

I have been informed that IOC (Inter Organizational Council) did not have sufficient strength this year. It met once a term and when an occasion required its meeting. Perhaps by questioning last year's members as to its faults and assets, a more effective organization will result.

These are my specifics. Yet, while I have, I am still inquiring into the problems that confront this office, and I am seeking solutions to these problems, while at the same time preparing myself for those that are yet to arise. This, I believe, is an indication of my interest. Interest, along with my wish to be of service to EOC constitutes my main qualifications. For they have not been merely of the past, nor are they in effect only now, but they also will be in the future.

Lovelady, Dahlstrom Vie For ASB Presidency

As is stated in the A.S.B. Constitution, the President "shall be the official representative of the ASB and shall maintain official correspondence for this association." To function resourcefully in these capacities requires a solid background of our student government operation and a knowledge of situations on our campus, both good and bad. In my capacity as Junior Class President, I have held a position on Student Council for the past school year which has afforded me an invaluable opportunity to observe and participate in student government. Also, my active membership in several campus organizations has given me much insight into the origin of the many issues and problems which are brought before the Student Council. It is my opinion that only with this type of background can an A.S.B. President function most effectively on campus and as an official representative of the campus at the many conferences which he must attend.

The underlying purpose of the collegiate-leader conferences which the President attends is to provide him with answers to the particular problems confronting his campus. These conferences can be of most value only when the President is sufficiently prepared with the questions requiring answers.

If elected your next A.S.B. President, one situation I would endeavor to improve is the communication between a highly functioning Student Council and the general student body. From the Student Council come a multitude of all-important policies and decisions which affect us all as A.S.B. members. Many students pass an entire year without realization of what has been accomplished by the Council. This situation could be improved in several ways. Increased communication could be accomplished by publishing more of the pertinent happenings of Student Council in the "Beacon." In addition, continuation of public Student Council meetings in Hoke Hall might prove to be very worthwhile, if more interest can be created through better advertisement. Also, more widespread availability of the minutes of Student Council meetings would help inform the students of Council action.

I also advocate a program of increased support to E.O.C.'s many organizations which send delegations to both intra- and inter-state conferences and meetings. Financial support would be, necessarily, within the limits of the A.S.B. budget.

The attendance of such meetings is of infinite value to our school as well as the separate organizations. With many competent students representing us at these conferences, E.O.C. will gain more recognition and prestige, with the indirect result of advertising this institution to future college students. This is not to disregard the vast benefit of the individual clubs.

I believe it is the personal duty and obligation of the A.S.B. President to encourage the tremendous amount of potential leadership existing on our campus. People with special talents and abilities may, without encouragement, remain dormant and pass unnoticed.

Campaign Platform — JOHN DAHLSTROM for A.S.B. President.

We, the campaign committee for John Dahlstrom as Associated Student Body President, present our candidate's qualifications for this office.

He does not wish to stand on a pedigree of past honors, but only on his sincerity to represent the students. As many of you know, John is married and has maintained a full time job while attending school. However, during his senior year, he has arranged for lighter working hours and, if elected to office, his senior year (60-61) will be devoted to the betterment of Eastern Oregon College and the fulfillment of presidential duties.

John's platform is "Publicity" and "Scholarships" for EOC. Under "Publicity," John has suggested several methods which would convince qualified students that EOC could meet their Educational and Social needs. This plan includes organizing a team of representatives to visit surrounding communities and present information concerning curriculum advantages at Eastern Oregon College.

John and this committee feel that we can and will draw more students since agriculture has been added to the list of courses available. To capitalize upon this, more high school seniors must be informed as to its availability. The purpose of this publicity movement will be to increase EOC enrollment. Since the State Board of Higher Education regulates, to a great extent, college curriculum and attainable degrees according to enrollment increase, this will tend to improve EOC faculty, curricular, and social standards.

John is also working to secure a scholarship for an attending student at Eastern Oregon College. He is attempting to secure money that a local organization has available—this money would be used to further a student's education. Under John's plan, the fund would replenish itself each year, We, the commitee, feel that John Dahlstrom has the ability and initiative to put this plan into effect.

In addition to thinking of EOC's future, John is concerned with EOC's present. John feels that an assembly improvement program should be carried out which would result in assemblies of greater in terest to the students. John would work closely with this committee to see that the students' interests are expressed.

From John's views you can see he is sincerely interested in the welfare, growth, and interests of the student body, and he has definite plans for Eastern Oregon College's advancement and improvement. Therefore, we, of the committee for John Dahlstrom for President, urge you all to turn out at the polls and cast your ballot for a man that will get the job done with full organization.

New Book Store—A Preview

Student teachers and those with straight morning classes are probably breathing sighs of relief now as the book store will be open for an hour in the afternoon. Of course, it is on a trial basis. If business is boosted, the longer hours can be kept. If there is no increase in business, the book store will be open only in the morning again.

I don't think there is much chance of business falling off or staying static. As Hoke is expanded, the college expands, the interest expands and noteriety expands. With all this increase how could there help but be an increase in the book store business.

The expansion of Hoke is only a preview of what is to come. EOC is growing. Many plans are in the making. The EOC folders which have a map of the campus shows several "projected" buildings. Year by year these "projected" areas are filled in. In 1958 there was the addition of Dorion Hall, the coliseum, the new heating plant and the parking area. In 1960, the addition to Hoke. What will be next? A new class room building? A new women's dorm or play area? A swimming pool? A new laboratory school? We don't know, but whatever it is, it will be soon and will be another feature making EOC a better college.

SEN. WAYNE MORSE
(Ross De Boie Photo)

Senator Morse Stresses Peace

"We have to amend and expand the charter to the United Nations to carry a peace offensive against Khrushchev." This is what Oregon Senator Wayne Morse, Presidential hopeful, considered most important in his address to the student body.

Before the senator talked of his domestic and foreign policy issues, he mentioned his reasons for running for the Presidency. He said the voters are entitled to have their elected officers serve them as students and not as politicians. He said that he stood on a 16-year record of no compromise. "You can't compromise principles and have principles left." The senator is running for presidential nomination of the Democratic party in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Oregon.

Senator Morse stated that what we do in our generation will tell if our great grandchildren will be free. We must face the problems objectively. It is the United States and Western Powers vs. Russia and its Satellites. "If the Nuclear armament race continues, we can't live." There will be a simultaneous attack and the radioactivity effects will last for several hundred years.

Morse stressed the importance of International Justice through law in the United Nations. We have to put the ideal to work. Most nations won't agree unless it goes through the United Nations.

A great deal of information was given by the Senator concerning the conference the Foreign Relations Committee had with Khrushchev. He was very well informed on the members of the committee and on lots of the activities of the U.S. He too, was afraid of a nuclear war and mentioned five times that he wanted to compete economically.

This led the senator back to his main purpose—that of making the students see the importance of carrying on a peace offensive.

Elections! Elections! Elections! Pick up any paper—collegiate, state, or national and you read about elections. This month is at its peak as far as collegiate elections are concerned. From Lewis and Clark we find frantic promises from hopefuls in their forthcoming election. Would do our candidates no harm to read these other college papers to discover platforms of other aspiring leaders.

The Siskiyou from Southern Oregon brings news of a Spring Sing and Carnival. This is a full evening of entertainment with everyone participating. The theme of the sing is "International Serenade." The carnival, following the sing, has booths sponsored by various organizations with a small charge. This is SOC's first carnival—will be interesting to see how successful it is.

Whitman College featured "Tanana" as the theme of their Junior Prom. The atmosphere was reported as festive with jangling earrings, and gypsy-covered wagons. Even though it's not in the same catergory, the news is from the same paper so decided to stick in this newsworthy item—12 Whitman seniors were tapped by Phi Beta Kappa at a recent convocation ceremony.

Woodell, Versus Yturraspe For EOC Business Manager

DAN YTURRASPE
A.S.B. Business Mgr. Candidate

In electing Student Body officers, the qualifications of each candidate should be carefully considered. We feel that our candidate for ASB Business Manager Dan Yturraspe, has all the necessary qualifications to do an excellent job of serving the Student Body of EOC.

Dan graduated from Jordan Valley High School in 1957 with top honors of his class. The following fall he attended business college in Boise, Idaho. Dan is now a sophomore, majoring in Pre-Veterinary Medicine. Since he has been at EOC he has become a member of the Intercollegiate Knights, and Sock and Buskin. Last Spring he was elected chairman of the ASB Publicity Committee, giving his valuable experience in student government. As a result of this experience he is familiar with many of the problems, financial and otherwise, that have been faced this year.

The Financial Committee, is growing with leaps and which is headed by the Business Manager, has not been very successful this year, but since it has tried only one year, Dan feels that it should be strengthened and given another chance to succeed. By a different method of organization this committee can be more closely associated with Student Council. Another problem brought out in the campaign assembly by Dan was that of alloting money to organizations over the amount allotted to them in the budget, or to clubs who have no money alloted at all. In the past it has been very common for organizations to come to Student Council asking for money to attend conventions for dances, etc. Some of these organizations have been successful while others have not. Since some students have felt an inconsistency on the part of Student Council, a definite policy must be established so money will be allotted fairly to all circumstances.

A major point in his platform is to make the budget familiar to every student. This can be done by having copies available and/or publising them in the Beacon. By doing this students will be able to make suggestions before the final budget is drawn up. This would provide for greater efficiency in the use of student body money throughout the year.

Considering the points in Dan's platform and acknowledging his fine scholastic record and his student council experience, we know you will reach the conclusion that we have—Dan is the man for Business Manager.

Signed: The Dan Yturraspe for Business Manager Committee.

CAROL WOODELL
A.S.B. Business Mgr. Candidate

The responsibility of the finances of the ASB belongs to the Business Manger. It is his job to head the financial committee and co-ordinate the budget for all activities and organizations on campus.

The financial committee is on a trial basis for another year and it has a chance to show how adequately and effectively it can function. With a new policy from this committee toward organizations needing appropriations for traveling, a stronger budget can result. This is my platform and if elected, it will be my goal.

EOC CONFAB SET SATURDAY

Alene Gossage, assistant professor of education and supervisor of teaching at Eastern Oregon College will give the main address Saturday at the regional conference of Oregon Elementary School Principals, according to John M. Miller, region executive secretary.

Theme of the conference, scheduled for the Eastern Oregon College campus, is "Kindegartens as a Part of the Oregon Curriculum." Elizabeth Rader, supervisor of elementary education with the state department, will also address the conference.

Others on the program include Florence E. Beardsley, state department director of elementary education, and Robert Wendt, Grants Pass, second vice president of the state organization.

Scheduled for special reports at the conference are Gerald Hamann, Portland; William R. Rogers and Valdez Bates, Pendleton; Matthew Doherty, Hermiston; Louis Morello, Milton-Freewater; Frank Ellis, Vale; and Frank Schroeder, Baker.

Attention Women Students

The A.W.S. organization is sponsoring a Campus Sister Program. All women who would like to communicate with a new incoming woman student are to fill out the form below and deposit this form in the box provided at newsstands in Hoke, the Administration Building, Pierce Library, and in Dorion Hall.

After these forms are collected, a meeting will be held for all interested women, where further information may be obtained. Notice of this meeting will be posted on the bulletin boards. Watch for it! The chairmen of this program are Ardyce Garrett and Louise Young and they will be glad to answer any previous questions.

Eastern Oregon To Host Annual Invitational

La Grande — The Eighth Annual Eastern Oregon College Invitational track and field meet is scheduled Saturday, and according to Mountie Mentor Arch Dunsmoor, "we're planning on good weather."

Track workcuts at Mountaineer field were hampered last week by "occasional snow." The EOC cindermen did, however, travel to Boise Thursday for the BJC Invitational and score 43½ points for second place behind the host school.

EOC's John Clark, who took high point honors at the meet, scored firsts in the broad jump, javelin, and shot put, and a third in the high hurdles, and can be counted on for heavy duty Saturday.

Dunsmoor listed other performers, and places in last week's competition, who could help the Mountie cause: Ted Miller, 2nd pole vault, 3rd high jump; Ron Robinson, 2nd discus, 4th shot put; Dave Conklin, 2nd mile and 2-mile; Warren Good, 4th discus; Leroy Ott, 3rd 220; and Gene McKinney, 2nd Javelin.

McKinney, who holds the EOC Invitational record in the javelin, has been far off his record toss of 201' 11½" and might be "on" Saturday.

Council Confab

By SANDI THOMPSON

At the Student Counccil meeting April 4, 1960, Pat Kirkland, Chairman of the Student Union Study Committee, reported that he had received much correspondence concerning the recent proposal for the election of a 3rd vice-president to head the Student Union. Most of the colleges contacted felt this would be a worthless appointment and would be repititous of the 2nd vice-president's responsibilities. Therefore, the committee's recommendation was that we not consider a 3rd vice president position in an ASB office, but rather that a Student Union Chairman be appointed under the 2nd vice president.

There has been much discussion about a Student Council Retreat this spring for all members of Student Council and the committees immediately connected with it, including the Social, Election, Student Union and Publicity Committees. The temporary date is April 30 and May 1, 1960. and Lehman Springs has been considered for the location.

The Evensong Committee report was presented to Council by Chairman Joyce Kay. The committee submitted several recommendations and suggestions for a better Evensong event this year. The proposals were: 1. The Evensong committee be composed of both students and faculty. 2. The Queen be chosen at an assembly from all senior women with GPA of 3.0. Previous selection of the Evensong Court has been by a student-faculty committee. They chose the seven most outstanding women according to scholarship, campus participation and such other requirements; then, the entire Student Body elected the Queen from this court. There was some contrast of feelings about this proposal and there will be further consideration before a final decision. 3. It was also recommended that the Coronation and Evensong Ceremony be combined followed by the Coronation Ball (preferably on a weekend for the convenience of parents who may wish to attend). 4. It was suggested the Queen's speech be left out of the ceremony and the ABS president and senior class presidetn write their own speeches. These four elements are recommendations and will be given further consideration.

Don Shore, 2nd vice president, reported that the ASB picnic is scheduled for May 27, 1960.

Eastern Oregon College is unique in that we now have Absentee Balloting for persons who will be off campus or due to emergeny will not be able to vote at the designated election. The procedure is being tried for the Elections of 1960, for the first time.

Combs Against Moyer In Race For Rally

RUTH COMBS

As everyone knows, our world is expanding in almost every field, everything has stepped-up halftime in this busy world of ours. EOC has a shining example of this expansion: Hoke hall is being remodeled, and will be twice its present size. Most of all, the school spirit at EOC bounds. This is exemplified by the extensive campaigns which can be illustrated in any sign-plastered hall on the campus. Terry Clifton, last year's rally leader, played an important role in projecting this expanding spirit that was just waiting to be turned loose. I feel that it is the duty of this year's Rally Leader to keep this huge ball of ideas rolling, and if I have a chance to do this, I will put forth my very best effort. Some of my ideas to add to previous ones are: more really rowdy (well planned) rallys, a better relationship between competitive colleges, and better organized cheering sections. I also feel that we should plan more activities honoring our hard-working teams, such as, banquets, parades, dances, etc. I don't think many of us realize how much time they spend practertainment is concerned, I feel that many clubs and outside resources should perform instead of a steady diet of just one or two.

I loved every minute of helping you cheer our teams and traveling to out-of-town games. If I am elected I would like to try my hardest to make you feel that YOU are actually out on the floor cheering the team on. Since this office is represented by a student council seat, I might add that this office is influential in your affairs. Choose the best representative that will display your needs as a college chucked full of expanding ideas. Most everyone knows my qualifications by now, so I have given you a few of my ideas instead. I certainly hope you will think and vote, for heaven's sake, VOTE.

BUNNY MAYER

I would like to take this opportunity to give you a few of my ideas concerning a Rally Squad Leader and the promotion of school spirit at EOC.

I think EOC's Rally Squads in the past have been very good, but there are many things that could be done in the near future in the way of improvement.

One thing that could be developed is the use of flash cards in the cheering section. This would make more of the students feel they had a part in the cheering section instead of just a certain group. Flash cards are showy and fun to work, and perhaps would draw larger attendance at the games.

Another objective that is worth a try is J.V. cheerleaders. This would not only boost the moral of the J.V. players, but would also help train cheerleaders and give them experience for a better Varsity Rally Squad.

The last thing, and the one I feel is most important has to do with traveling to other schools and encouraging them to come to EOC. This would build friendship and more competition between schools.

I realize, through experience, that the Rally Squad sets the pace of enthusiasm for the cheering section. Because of this I feel that an enthusiastic Rally Squad is important to promote school spirit.

New pledges and officers seem to be big news around campus just as the past elections have been.

The I.K.'s seem to be just about the busiest organization on campus. Last week they announced the following new pledges: Jim Voyles, Johnny Ross, Gordon Myers, Burton Smith, Billy Johnson, Bob Johnson, Hugh Swaney Mike Smith, Gayle Coleman, Jerry Lankford, Jim Morris, Bill Cason, Earl Miller, Charles Becker and Charles Le Camp. This past week Leon Severing, new I. K. Duke, along with Wayne Soward and Bill Ward left with the I.K. Sweetheart, Marcia MacPherson, for the national convention in Pocatello, Idaho.

The Saber dinner dance will be held April 29 in the Sacajawea Hotel. After a Smorgasbord dinner, the members and new pledges with their dates will enjoy dancing. New officers of Sabers are: president, Ardyce Garrett; vice president, Sue Switzer; secretary; Gail Fisher; treasurer Tarry Clifton. Last Thursday and Friday the new pledges ate breakfast and lunch in the boys dorm. They also promoted the election by wearing signs which urged everyone to vote.

The new Saber pledges are Ruth Combs, Beth Combs, Bev Trimble, Carol Woodell, Anita Judd, JoAnn Alstott, Shirley Walsh, Lou Ann Lee, Marcia MacPherson, Barbara Paris, Karen Sutton, and Darlene De Sousa.

Theta Delta Phi is planning the initiation of its new members who will be announced for this term, and the future elections of its officers for 60-61.

International Relations club elected their new officers last week. They are Alan Frazier, president; Roger Holmes, vice-president; and Gary Krigbaun, secretary. JoAnn Berryman has been selected IRC girl of the year.

Elections were held in Hunt Hall last week for the dorm officers for 1960-61. Those elected were: Butch Corey, president; Jim Voyles, vice president, and Jim Grooms, secretary-treasurer.

MOON DRUGS

Snook, Trimble, Finalists In Competition For 2nd Veep

Beverly Trimble

The principal duty of the second vice president is to promote social activities on campus. After almost a year of observation concerning our social program I have been afforded with a working knowledge of our present system, and also an opportunity to gain some insight into possible improvements.

First, I believe our social program should be flexible, allowing for the needs of our students. Therefore, my first proposal is concerned with the individual student and his desires. These desires could be gained through the use of a suggestion box placed in Hoke Hall. This box would be open for use this term, thus enabling the social committee to review your ideas and incorporate some of them into next year's social program.

Another activity arousing a great deal of interent this year was the talent show. These were characterized by excellent acts, stimulating variety, and good entertainment. This being the opening year for these shows, certain problems necessarily arose. However, these talent shows have strong potential, and with more planning and development they can be very successful. Our own students' talent should never go unnoticed, for it has an interest which is non-existent in outside entertainment. We will strive to our utmost to make these talent shows successful.

The social calendar made up by our second vice president received many compliments this year. This calendar is good, but there are certain improvements that could be made. For example, it would be beneficial if a complete term was printed on one side. This would enable the student to view the term's activities as a whole.

When mentioning social activities one must always consider dances. With our new Student Union these dances will take on an increased importance. Therefore, dances must be carefully planned and scheduled to coincide with other campus activities. A few dances in the past were failures simply because of lack of foresight in setting the date. To add variety to this program, especially in the winter months, I would like to have a few dances at Dorion and Hunt. These could be preceded by a sleigh ride and refreshments. I believe this variety would improve our dances, both entertainment and attendance wise.

I believe our second vice president, as well as all others concerned, have achieved much of the best for Eastern Oregon College. I only hope in the next year we can make this best, better.

Submitted by Larry Snook
Candidate for 2nd Vice President

As a candidate for the office of A.S.B. 2nd Vice President, I would like to submit my ideas on how you can have a more complete social calendar.

The duties of this office will be greatly increased next year following the completion of the remodeling of Hoke Hall. With the new facilities which will be available to us I feel that it will be my duty to make available and to introduce new and different social activities to you which have been impossible in the past. I feel that it will be my job to assist the various organizations on campus and to help them plan different activities which they themselves would like to sponsor. Instead of making promises of what I will introduce in the way of new activities, I believe it would be my job to suggest activities to various organizations on campus and help them to make every function a success. By this method I feel that you, the students, will have an opportunity to have new activities which would be of greater interest too, because they would be of your own choosing.

I feel that a few very important additions to our Social Calendar for next year would include Exchange Talent Assemblies with other nearby colleges, winter outdoor activities such as a hayride party and bonfire ice-skating parties. However, the first item in my Social Committee would be a successful and long-remembered school picnic, held in a location that is the pick of the students themselves.

I thank you for your permission in allowing me to submit this platform.

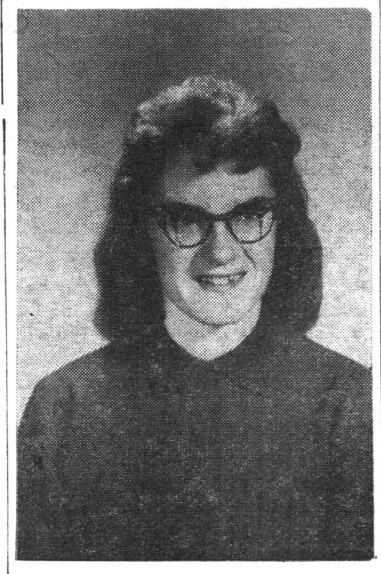
Faculty Corner

by Wendy Johnson

Guess what the faculty members are now in the process of doing. They are making plans. Whiie some are making plans for this weekend others are making plans for the summer.

Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, professor of English, is making plans for this weekend. Tomorrow he will address the Oregon Meeting of the National Council of Teacher of English, in Portland.

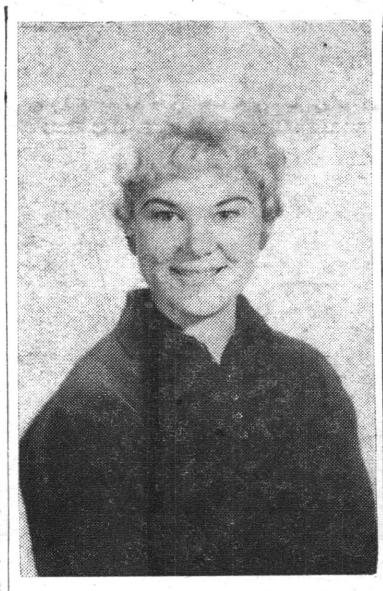


Dr. Kaiser will explain the steps of the ((Sequential Tesas of Educational Progress) writing test and their use with the entering freshmen at Eastern Oregon College.

McNaught, Switzer Running For Secretary Position

Sue Switzer, our candidate for A.S.B. Secretary, is certainly qualified for this position. As editor of the Beacon she has had a voting place on student council and is familiar with student government. Also, in her capacity as editor she has had fine experience in communication. She was secretary of Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders last year where she widened her knowledge of student government problems and how to solve them. She did such an excellent job she was re-elected secretary at this year's conference.

Sue is very active on campus. She is a member of Sabers (of which she was recently elected vice president), has been on the radio committee, is a co-social chairman of Dorion Hall, is secretary of IOC, performs in dance concerts, is in a host of other activities, yet still keeps her grades up and is a member of the women's honorary, Sigma Alpha Chi.



Her platform can best be expressed by using excerpts from her campaign speech.

"A family I would like all of you to meet has a last name, Success. The father of Success is Work. The mother of Success is Ambition. The oldest son is Common Sense. The oldest daughter is Character. The baby is Opportunity. The newly-adopted twin boys, the 'C' brothers are Communcation and Cooperation. This family, combining their efforts can apply these efforts to all the various peoples and jobs.

"The office of secretary has communication as its basis—communication between students and faculty; student government and student body; and EOC and other colleges. These communications are current and often done through the student council minutes and correspondence. Yet, there can be definite notices in designated places stating the particulars of the next student council meeting—when and where it meets, special topics of discussion, and the minutes of the previous meeting. This might also carry an agenda of the next four or five meetings. This could be placed on the bulletin board in the Administration building and on a possible new bulletin board in the new addition to Hoke (a board I feel certain we should have). Minutes, duplicated immediately after meetings, can be placed in the faculty mail boxes (which has proved satisfactory in past years) and in the secretary's box in Hoke so they will be available to any and all interested. Minutes should also be given to the Beacon for partial publication.

The student body office itself could be improved. We will have a new office in Hoke which I think should carry with it new ideas, a better-kept file, a ditto machine in working condition, And a typewriter.

My platform for A.S.B. Secretary consists of five goals which I believe are most essential for this office, and which I would most definitely wish to accomplish if elected.

1. First of all, I would strive for a detailed written account of each student council meeting. Year after year these minutes are constantly being referred to and therefore, it is my wish to see that these minutes are accurate and as specific as possible.

2. Besides the posting of the regular minutes on all of the bulletin boards on campus, I would also see that copies are distributed to each of the faculty mail boxes in the Ad Building, as well as those organizational mail boxes in Hoke Hall. In this way, the faculty and the organizations will be aware of student council action.

3. As you know, there is a column called Council Corner in the Beacon. As Secretary, I would pick out the high points from the minutes of the student council meetings and submit them to the paper to be printed for your convenience.

4. Next year with the remodeling of Hoke Hall, we will have a brand new A.S.B. office and Council Room. I would see that each council member be designated a time to be in the office so that the duplicating machine would be available to organizations and students. Also I feel that this might help create an atmosphere for students to come in and see the council members during their office hours when they have a certain problem pertaining to student government.

5. Lastly, I would like to initiate the idea of keeping a book of all official minutes over in our college library to be on file and made available at all times for the students to look at or turn to for reference purposes. Then, for example, if someone wanted to find out whether a motion had been passed or not, they could immediately go to the library rather than hunting down a student council member.

—Elaine McNaught

There should be office hours set up and strictly kept by members of the student council, so anytime you want something in the office, a person will be there to assist you.

In addition there should be an idea board or box which would make it possible for anyone to have any of his ideas, opinions, or suggestions brought before the council.

Another thing that should be furthered is the keeping of official diaries or journals by the executive council and delegates to various conferences. These amount to resumes of the position or conference, special problems overcome, and personal comments. These would be a great aid to the people holding the same position or attending the same conference at a later date. This communication could pass from year to year.

The above-mentioned family of Success working together could do several things to improve EOC. However, this family requires one member more—an outlet—a gnown personality on campus to be elected ASB secretary. I would feel privileged and honored to be this addition to the family. I would, by my sincere efforts, try to tie the family together, make it more meaningful, and to fulfill the obligations it offers as efficiently as I could."

—The Sue Switzer for Secretary Committee.

Four Earn 70-Word Pins

Four proficient and speedy typists of the advanced typing class at Eastern Oregon College earned the coveted 70-word per minute Gregg Competent Typist Award pin during the winter term. Joyce Chandler and Connie Roe, La Grande, Vicki Hickox, Baker, Lynda Masters, Pendleton.

To earn these Gregg Award pins the students must type the current Gregg Competent Typist copy for ten minutes with five or less errors. All contest papers for speeds above 40-words per minute must be submitted to the Gregg Awards Department in New York.

The winners of the 60-word pins were Patricia Emmons, Enterprise, Judy Hofmann, La Grande, Judy Patterson, Canyon City. For typing 50 words per minute the following students were awarded Gregg certificates: Barbara Boyle, Huntington; Karen E. Holmes, Dixie Lew, Rose Mary Rogers and Sally Hilary, La Grande; Luanne Lee, Baker; Linda Long, Pendleton; Shila Raley, Baker; Lynda Thomas, Halfway. Three students earned the 40-word Gregg certificates: Charlotte Hought, La Grande, Marie Kenville, Wallowa, and Mary Jane Riese, Wilder, Idaho.

The average speed for the typing class during the term was 57.5 words per minute on the Gregg Competent Typists tests. Dr. Sarah S. Stein, Associate Professor of Secretarial Science, was the instructor.

Parents' Weekend Plans Complete

Plans are being completed for the two-day Parents' Weekend to be held May 7 and 8. The general theme is that of 'Progress.' Invitations have been sent to all parents and replies have been coming in daily. As this is one of the year's big events, plans are to try to make this weekend more meaningful to both the parents and students. This year, a brief history of the college will be inserted into the program along with a sketch of the advancement being made. For a touch of the "Ivy" thought in college, the chimes are to be played right after noon. A few sites are to be erected on the campus to further welcome families and friends. It is also hoped that by next year a welcoming sign can be placed downtown.

NOTICE

The Publications Board is now interviewing students interested in the position of Beacon editor next year. See Mr Dorn in Hoke Hall for further information.

Chancellor Richards Speaks On Oregon Schools

President Bennett introduced to the ASB at an assembly Friday, April 29, the Chancellor of the Oregon State System of Higher education, Dr. John R. Richards. Dr. Richards began his talk by saying that all colleges in the state system were put under a board with an elected administration. He said that Orespend 1960 to explain higher education to Oregon.

He told us why many scientists are coming to Oregon. Oregon was one of the first two states to adopt a coordinated form in the area of higher education. The need was realized for a long range plan for students. At the present time there are 22,000 in the Oregon system. He stressed the necessity that quality of education must not be neglected. The Anderson Report Program changed normal schools to Liberal Arts with emphasis on education, with a great emphasis on arts and sciences. There is a lower per captia rate at Oregon State College because it is the center of population. It also offered uniformity of opportunity.

Dr. Richards said that they wished to increase the student population by 67 per cent and foremost increase the quality of the students. He said we must stress upon people the importance of a higher education. The year of 1960 will be used to sell Oregon. He concluded by saying that "inOregon we want excellent institutions. We will not settle for the average."

Delegates Attend Mock Convention

Five delegates attended the Mock Democractic Convention that was held at Willamette University April 22-23 1960. The delegates were Allan Frazier, Larry Fuller, as chairman of the delegation, Douglas Black, John Campbell, and Joe Jarvis.

EOC represented the states of Texas and Oklahoma. The delegation members served on several committees; the platform, the credentials, the planning, and the permanent committee. When the civil rights bill came up before the convention, the Southern block, including Texas and Oklahoma, walked out.

Texas nominated L. B. Johnson for President. The nominating speech was given by Allan Frazier. Seconding speeches were given by delegates from Virginia and Tennessee. Stevenson was elected by the convention after the Southern state made a "deal" with the North in trading votes. The South would vote for Stevenson if the North would vote for Johnson as his running mate.

At the convention, twelve schools were represented. Each of these schools represented at least two states.

The next convention will be held in 1964. Meanwhile, a permanent committee has been set up to plan for the 1964 convention.

Five EOC Girls To Enter Pageant

Eastern Oregon College students attend state and national conferences, enter rifle matches and golf tournaments. This year five co-eds are participating in an event to represent EOC in a different light.

Pat Watson, Bunny Moyer, Judy Witherell, Donna Sene, and Tarry Clifton are vying for the title of Miss Pendleton of 1960. These girls were screened and selected to appear in the pageant, which will be held June 24 in the Vert Memorial Auditorium in Pendleton.

The winner, judged on beauty, poise, talent, and personality, will then go to Seaside for the Miss Oregon contest.

Traditionally Speaking

At our last band concert an Alma Mater was played at the closing. The question was raised as to whether the students should stand for this song. The question was brought to student council. They explained that this particular song was composed by Dr. Lewis, but is not the official school Alma Mater, so students are not required to stand.

This seems like a trivial matter to many, but it is rumored that several of the alumni were surprised at the conditioned response of the students to stand when they heard "Alma Mater", without considering whether or not it was EOC's Alma Mater.

Alumni are funny people—they are crazy about tradition. They like loyalty to the college, respect for the Alma Mater, and traditional events on campus. As a matter of fact, many of them look forward to such things as Homecoming, Parent's Weekend, and Evensong. Even the regularly-attending students on our campus are strange—they like these events, too.

This year several new ideas are being added to liven up the remaining two traditions of spring term. Parent's Weekend, under the co-chairmanship of Gail Fisher and Oran Hutton promises new twists to old ideas ranging from a more thorough program and guide book to better use of the grand staircase in front of the Administration building.

Evensong, under the chairmanship of Joyce Kay has been almost completely reorganized. This committee has been working all year on the reorganization and recently presented it to council for approval. New speeches will be composed by the individuals taking part in the ceremony.

The choir will sing some songs by themselves, then combine with the other students for different songs. Evensong will be on a weekend, making it easier for out-of-town parents and friends to attend. To make it even nicer, the Queen's Ball will be the same night as Evensong. The official coronation will be at Evensong.

I would like to hop on the band wagon with our alumni urging you to take part in our traditions—traditions that are better and better each year.

Student Council Holds Two-Day Retreat

April 30 and May 1 student council members attended the Student Council Retreat which was held at Lehman Springs this year. The purpose of the retreat was to enable the council to meet and summarize the past year's work or review it in order that recommendations could be made to the new council. Officially, it was when all books and reports of the outgoing executive council were handed over to the newly elected officers. Those attending were: Beverly Donovan, John Dahlstrom, Jean Huntter, Virginia Wellington, Dan Yturraspe, Sandy Thompson, Sue Switzer, Oran Hutton, Gene Holt, Anita Judd, Bill Lovelady and Bob Taylor. The advisors present were Mrs. Dorothy Winters, Dr. Lyle Johnson, and Howard Anderson.

CHAPTER PRESIDENT—Dr. Gordon W. Clarke, Eastern Oregon College professor of English and literature, has been named Oregon chapter president of the National Council of Teachers of English.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Even though the ASB elections have been completed with a record of 61 per cent of the Student Body voting and a new Student Council is in office, I think there are a number of people, students and faculty alike, who should be commended for the time and effort they expended on these elections.

The Elections Committee, composed of Elaine McNaught, Sue Goodin, Pat McKensey, Judie McGowan and Vad Kelsoe spent two hectic weeks setting up voting schedules, arranging for the campaign assembly and radio appearances, publishing campaign information and counting ballots after each election. Even though these things are part of their duties as members of this committee, each person voluntarily did far more than was expected of her.

The I.K. and Saber pledges are also to be commended for the help they volunteered in getting students to vote. The I.K.'s, under the direction of Bob Miller, were especially helpful in getting campaign posters and devices cleared away immediately following the final election.

If anyone on campus deserves a vote of thanks from the Elections Committee, it's Mr. Harold Dorn, who has always been willing to help us out as faculty advisor for ballot counting. His help has been greatly appreciated by the Elections Committee. Other students and faculty members who have given their time and assistance for election activities are Mr. Bob Oesterling, Mr. Richard Hiatt, Mr. Robert Crase, Roberta Strickland, Don Shore, Gordon Meyers, Bob Miller, and all those people who manned the polls.

To all of these people who have helped make this election year so successful, I'd like to say "Thank You."

Jean Hunter,
Ex-Election Chairman.

Voting Turnout May Set All-Time Record High

The percentage of student voters in the 1960 ASB spring elections may have set a voting record on the EOC campus. Because no records have been kept in the past, this is not official but with 54 per cent of the total student body voting in the primary elections and 61 per cent in the final elections it can be safely stated that this is well above the average voting turnout.

Absentee balloting was tried for the first time in an EOC election this spring as a recommendation of the elections committee with the approval of the Student Council. Twenty two absentee ballots were cast in the final election by students who were unable to be on campus during the regular voting hours due to conferences, athletic events, etc. An Election Committee report indicated that the absentee balloting was considered very successful and worthy of consideration in future elections. If it is to be used for future ASB elections, it must first be presented for the approval of the entire Associated Sudent Body in the form of a constitutional amendment.

The Election Committee's report also included commendations for the excellent participation of Saber and Inter-collegiate Knight pledges in campaign and voting activities. Both groups wore signs reminding students to carry ASB cards and generally encouraged a good voting turnout. One I.K. pledge, Hugh Swaney, further endeared the organization in the hearts of faculty and students alike by removing all campaign signs from the campus immediately following the closing of the polls.

CLUB News

By ANABELLE TIDWELL

The Outing Club met last Tuesday night. Slides of scenic Wallowa-Whitman National Forest were shown by T. L. Griffith, acting forest supervisor of Wallowa Whitman National Forest. The Outing Club meets each Tuesday night at 7:30, and all visitors are welcome. On the weekend of May 28, 29, the club is planning a weekend outing at Wallowa Lake.

The Saber Dinner Dance which was held last Friday night was a big success. A smorgasbord dinner with turkey and ham as the main course was served. Tables were decorated with green, blue and yellow candles and baskets of pear blossoms. Around the walls were colorful travel posters. During the parents weekend the Sabers are going to help with the barbeque on Saturday.

The Collegians nomniated new candidates for the 60-61 officers at their last meeting. They are in an all-out campaign to recruit new members. If you are an off-campus student, you are automatically a member of this organization, and you are urged to attend. Help support the club, and come to the meetings each Tuesday night at 7.00.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Elementary Student Teachers experienced their LAST DAY of student teaching April 29. This means classes will begin for them now, but they'll go into them feeling that their hardest chore—and most inspiring—is behind them . . . studying will therefore prove difficult. Those in seoondary will remain until the "bitter end" of school. Everyone is looking forward to next year and of his own class, but our look into the future tells us that there will be many hours of reminiscence next year and many times these teachers who are still students will wish to be student teachers agan.

The ASOCE are filming a movie which follows that taken on our campus last year at Evensong. This movie was shown to freshmen last fall to give them an idea of our campus and its traditions. OCE's movie is also being shown to its new prospective students as alumni.

Our I.K. Sweetheart Macia Mac Pherson made a fine showing at the National I. K. Conference in Moscow recently. Marcia entertained with her original arrangement of "Fever" and represented this reign of I.K.'s to the utmost.

Throughout the state new Associated Stpdent Body Officers are being elected. Our new officers and old officers under the leadership of John attended a student council retreat to Lehman Springs. We hear that those present on Saturday did a goodly amount of swimming . . . was it until 2:30 a.m. or 2:30 p.m.?

On every campus seems to be coming the cry of the dramatist. For out Parents' Weekend entertainment the EOC Players are presenting "Old King Cole" while variety is evident when we viewed, at Central Washington College of Education a musical is one-act plays are being presentlooked forward to and at OCE they are greeting William Shakespeare. Although "Old King Cole" is advertised as a children's musical, we are sure that you your parents will find it enjoyable and bright—especially that stage combinations of diamonds, squares and circles.

Parents, this is your weekend and we welcome you to our campus. See all of the sights, become acquainted with other parents and our friends and MOST IMPORTANT—ENJOY YOURSELF!

A Challenge

By a very healthy margin, the final returns of the 1960 ASB elections transformed John Dahlstrom, EOC student, into John Dahlstrom, ASB president. There is to be little resemblance to the life led by the former, and that of the holder of the most coveted of student elective offices. That two week skyrocket ride to fame has changed your life whether you like it or not, John. Are you ready for it?

You have been a hard worker, a good husband and father. Your cute wife, Janis, your two hardy boys, and the manager of Rexall Drugs will attest to that. (Where you have worked the past four years.) You have been a good student. Theta Delta Phi membership reflects that. But will you be a good student body president, John? Only you can decide that.

There will be social obligations you can't evade. You will attend more good and bad assemblies, well and poorly attended dances, athletic contests, committee meetings, conferences, and council meetings than you ever imagined occurred on this campus. You will have to appease irate faculty, listen to student opinion, advise and critcism, learn to call everyone by their first names, and even attend a few classes in your spare time.

There will be times when you will feel like relaxing at home with the wife and kids on Monday nights, but you will go to the council meeting anyway. And when all the work you do is not recognized for what it is, and you are criticized for doing what you felt was right, you will wonder who talked you into all this, but you will continue to do your job. And there will be times when you will want to throw up your hands and say, "To hell with it," but you must lower them, your voice, and your feelings and go on ahead with your job.

Yet there will be brighter times, John. You will feel a crawling, tingling sensation as you face the incoming horde of freshmen next fall, and at the same time you will be glad that you are the first EOC student to greet them and welcome them to our school. (You will hope they like you; and that you impressed them, for you represent EOC, John.)

Janis will beam with pride as you place the crown on next year's Homecoming Queen, and Evensong Queen, and as you stand high on the steps one evening late in the spring and say to her, "These are the things we hold of dearest worth - - - ."

Yes, you have a year ahead of you that will not fade from memory as the years roll in, but will shine brighter and brighter as the most thrilling, trying, and enjoyable experience in your life. And you will look back and wonder if you were equal to the faith the students had in you. You will wonder if you might not have done more if you had just had more time; and most of all you will hope there will never be a time when EOC will have forgotten that you were once the ASB president.

It is quite a challenge, John.

SOEA Delegates Attend State Meet

"Your Career in Teaching: A Lesson Plan For Life" was the theme for the spring convention of the Student Oregon Education Association on April 23rd at the University of Oregon campus in Eugene. The main part of the program was a panel discussion on "A Conceptual Design for the Teaching Profession" which was suggested by the Oregon Education Policies Commission. The possibility of raising the status of the teaching profession and promoting greater recognition of professional educational organizations was emphasized.

The delegates attending the convention were Maurice Chester, Nancy Choate, Tarry Clifton, Mary Gray, Floyd Swanson and John Wilmarth.

Theta Delta Phi Holds Initiation And Elections

On April 20, Theta Delta Phi had its tri-annual initiation of new members.

In addition, officers were elected for the coming school year of 1960-61.

Pres.—Hill Walker
V. Pres.—John Willmarth
Treas.—Nels Nelson
Publicity officer—Roger Holm

Dr. Lewis Plays In String Quartet

A Chamber Music Concert was presented by a string quartet in Pendleton on May 1. This quartet consists of Dr. Lewis on first violin, Mrs. Betty Feves on second violin, Mrs. Martha White on viola and Mrs. Tierney on cello.

Several numbers were played that were written especially for the String Quartet. One number was played for the String quartet and Flute, the flute being played by Mrs. Ada Elliot. A number written for the piano quintet, The First movement of Dohnanyi, in which the piano was played by Miss Ann Mahoney.

The Concert was sponsored by the Pendleton Chapter of American Association University Women, who served refreshments during the intermission. This concert was held in the Vert Club room, and had a wonderful turn-out.

A like concert will be held in La Grande in the last part of May.

AAUW To Honor Senior Women

For the first time, senior women graduating from Eastern Oregon College are eligible for membership in the American Association of University Women.

To take note of the occasion, the La Grande Branch of the Association will honor senior women graduating from EOC at a breakfast on Saturday, May 21.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Velma Phillips, dean of the College of Home Economics, Washington State University, Pullman, Wash. Dr. Phillips' wit, charm, and wide experience with college women have made her a stimulating speaker in demand throught the county.

The breakfast is scheduled for 9 a.m. in the Presbyterian church parlors.

Biology Exhibit Planned At EOC

On May 7-14 the Eastern Oregon College biology department will present "A Look at Life," a project exhibit to be prepared by approximately 150 students under the direction of Dr. Charles Quaintance, Dr. Ernest Anderson and Hugh Black.

A variety of plants and animals have been selected, studied and prepared for display.

E. ROBERT "Bob" QUINN

Quinn Named To Hall Of Fame By NAIA

E. Robert "Bob" Quinn, Eastern Oregon College director of athletics, has been selected as a charter member of the District 2 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Hall of Fame.

Quinn, for 31 years EOC athletic director, is also Mountaineer basketball and baseball mentor. This past year he was named to the National Basketball Advisory committee of the NAIA.

The NAIA Hall of Fame Awards banquet, at which Quinn will be inducted, is scheduled for Portland May 21. Also scheduled to be inducted are Roy S. "Spec" Keene, Oregon State College athletic director, and Henry Lever, former athletic director at Linfield.

Symphony Presents 'Cafe de la Musica'

A concert was presented by the Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra on April 29 at 8:00 p.m. in the college coliseum called "Cafe de la Musica."

There were two selections before the first intermission. Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn and some My Fair Lady selections by Loewe. During each intermission refreshments were served by the Beta Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority.

During the second part of this concert, Adagio For Strings by Barber, Un del di (from Madame Butterfly), and Summertime were played. Brunetta Mazzolini sang during these three selections. The next three parts, Oklahoma selections, Strange Music (from Song of Norway) and I'll Go Home With Bonny Jean were sung by Dean Lieber. The second intermission followed these selections.

After the second intermission Mazzolini and Lieber both came back to sing selections from The King and I, O soave fanciulla, and Will You Remember.

The concert ended with the song May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You.

Mounties To Play Basketball Series With Alaska Teams

The Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers have scheduled a basketball series with the University of Alaska for the coming season, according to E. Robert "Bob" Quinn, director of athletics.

Quinn, who will begin his 32nd year as head basketball mentor at EOC, indicated the Mounties fly to Fairbanks for two games, Dec. 16 and 17. Both the U. of Alaska squad and EOC will then fly to Anchorage for a rematch, Dec. 19 and 20. A month later, Jan. 23, 24, the Mounties will host the Alaskans for a two-game series in La Grande.

The Mountaineer schedule: Dec. 2, 3—Nevada at Reno; 9—College of Idaho at Caldwell; 10—College of Idaho at La Grande; 16, 17—Alaska at Fairbanks; 19, 20—Alaska at Anchorage.

Jan. 2—Whitman at La Grande; 6, 7—Southern Oregon at Ashland; 13, 14—Oregon Tech at La Grande; 20, 21—Oregon College at Monmouth; 23, 24—Alaska at La Grande; 27, 28—Portland State at La Grande; 31—Whitman at Walla Walla.

Feb. 3, 4—Southern Oregon at La Grande; 10, 11—Oregon Tech at Klamath Falls; 17, 18—Oregon College at La Grande; 24, 25—

Eastern Oregon's longtime coach and athletic director E. Robert "Bob" Quinn will be honored this month by being inducted into the District 2 NAIA Hall of Fame in Portland.

Quinn, who has been the school athletic director since it's founding in 1929 is beginning his 35th year of coaching. He has been basketball coach at EOC for the past 31 years and also serves as the coach of the Mountaineer baseball team.

The veteran mentor will be officially placed in the Hall of Fame on May 21 at a banquet to be held in Portland.

Two other top sport figures of the state will be honored at the same time as Quinn.

Miller Tops Slugging

Phil Miller, currently leads Eastern Oregon College's baseball team after 15 games. The tall slugging left fielder has appeared in 14 games and is slugging the ball at a .364 pace. Mel Holmes is second in the hitting department with a .349 batting average.

Loud Signals

One of the members of the Moounties baseball team has some classes in signal recognition to attend. The player, who shall remain nameless and blameless was firmly entrenched on base when Bob Quinn gave the signal to steal. On the next pitch the player remained planted on the sack. Quinn repeated the signal twice more and still his errant baserunner remained qlued to the base.

Finally, seeing that words seemed to speak louder than action, Quinn stepped to the baseline and requested in a convincing tone, the following: "would you please go down on the next pitch,"

On the next pitch the runner went down—and made it!

Mounties Drop Pair To C of I

CALDWELL (Special) — Eastern Oregon College dropped a pair of non-conference baseball games here today to the College of Idaho. The score of the first game was 7-1 and the second game ended 5-2.

Folston pitched the first game for EOC and was relieved by Laurence in the fifth. Bagnall went all the way for the Mounties in the second game.

The one big blow for Eastern Oregon came in the first game when Nelson, the centerfielder hit a booming double in the escond inning.

The Mountaineers are now 7-13 for the season.

KLAMATH FALLS (UPI) — Southern Oregon won an Oregon Collegiate Conference baseball game from Oregon Tech Tuesday 12-2. The Red Raiders got 17 hits off three Owl pitchers.

PARENTS' WEEKEND

A Story . .

ASB Comedy Funniest Ever

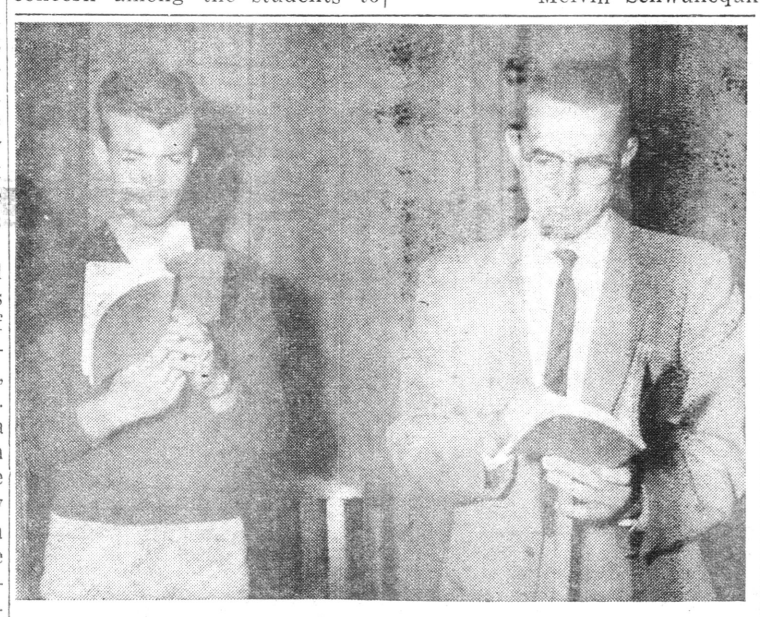
Each spring our campus bristles with activity as the ASB presents its annual comedy entitled, "Student Body Campaigns." The 1960 production proved to be the bristliest ever presented. Though the majority of the cast was young inexperienced, and not altogether qualified for their parts, they flew into their roles with a fervor which, in most cases, redeemed their performance.

The campaign assembly, usually the climax of the show, was this year overshadowed by the frantic antics of the last week of campaigning, but neverthless provided hilarious evidence that the show was underway and would bear watching. The curtain was raised on a clever note as the past director pretended to admonish each member of the audience for not showing greater interest in the farce to come. But knowing this to be the traditional opening, the audience responded per usual and settled back for the first scene.

And what a show followed. It featured a clever portrayal of Billy Sunday turned politician; a satire on backwoodsian English grammar, given by an evident expert on the subject; a 20-minute monologue by a campaign manager pretending his candidate was so unqualified (presumably because she was from ahick town) he was afraid to introduce her; and, in general, a laugh was provided for all.

But the assembly merely served advance notice of greater things to come. During the last week of the running, a group of students, eager to keep interest alive, tossed an equine into the show. It looked as if it were to be a race down to the wire, a pipe on the inside rail but the darkhorse moving up fast; it seems likely the horse would have won by a nose, but he turned tail at the last minuute and showed the voters what they were really getting. And so the "Committee in Favor of the Abolition of Cigarette Smoking as an Unorganized and Indistinguished Habit" was declared the winners. (Head for Choate's men before they're all sold out.)

Right down to the last night, the directors of the show kept the audience guessing as to what was in store for them next. At various stages the following attempts at increasing attendance were tried: Illegal voting in the form of the absentee ballot. (The directors claimed it was really legal because the constitution did not say they couldn't have it. (The traveling ballot box was tried, since it was believed the students would consider it a chalienge to hunt the shifty critter down. (The motivation was evidently sound, for the percentage of voters participating is believed to be the highest ever recorded on campus. That is, if there were any records).



The cleverest stroke of all was one for which no one seems to take the credit. Rather than announcing the dance, the traditional innauguarl stomp at which the winners would be announced, no notice was splaced on the ASB billboard, thus creating enough concern among the students to inquire as to whether the dance had been cancelled. Attendance was excellent; all the winning candidates were present.

Judging from the success of this year's presentation, it appears as if "Student Body Campaigns" is here to stay. And rightly it should, too, for it adds some humor to the stuffy, academic atmosphere of Eastern Oregon College. As long as there remains on this campus a few unpathetic aspirants willing to try out for parts each year, not for glory or fame (Heaven forbid!!), but thinking only of the good of the school and working diligently to help make EOC a more beneficial and enjoyable place to spend four years, future generations will be able to speak avidly of the comedies they were treated to by the ASB.

The next issue of the Beacon will feature a critical essary entitled, "The Girl and The Scholar, or You'd Better Switch to Football, Brother."

'King Cole' Set For Opening

Four performances of "Old King Cole," a children's musical presented by Sock and Buskin will be held Parents' Weekend. On May 6 curtain times are 2:00 and 7:30. There will be a morning matinee on May 7 at 10:00 and an evening curtain at 7:30. An evening performance will be held in Imbler on May 13 and one in Wallowa on May 14. The curtain time for these performances is 7:30 .

Richard Hiatt is director of this technical musical. The cast includes Crunch, a man with many jobs, Dick Domey; Grog, royal fiddle polisher, Mike Ferguson; Nick, a nice young man, Dick Clark; Old King Cole, Dan Yturraspe; the queen, Judy Westenskow; Penelope, the lovely princess, Judy Millering; Mrs. Smedley, royal castle-keeper, Judy Lutz; Tic, Tac, and Toe, the royal fiddlers, Tarry Clifton, Karen Sutton, and Sue Switzer; Black Smith, Larry Wilder; Lock Smith, his wife, Valene Mitchell; the messenger, Ron Munkres; the ladies-in-waiting, Amelia, Celia, and Arabella, Judy Hocket, Peggy Elder, and Elaine McNaught; court members, Richard Nelson and Wayne Soward. The piano accompanists are Daisy and Warren Good.

This delightful comedy is full of music, dancing, magic, and surprises. It is a story of the amazing sequence of events occurring when the King wants to have a party and finds that someone has faddled the fiddles.

WRA Selects

New officers were selected for WRA Tuesday, May 10; these girls will preside for the coming year. President, Nelda Huber; Vice President, Karen Bellinger; Secretary Treasurer, Eilene Marshall and the town representative, Darlene Johnson. The EOC representative will be elected sometime in the near future.

The outgoing officers are Mary Gray, president; Loretta Herbison, secretary treasurer; Karen Bellinger, town representative and Mrs. Frank Scheffield was the representative from the EOC courts.

Picnic

The annual picnic for the WRA members will be held Saturday, May 21, at Cove. Transportation will be provided for the girls going and a small fee will be charged of 25 cents.

Trophy

Each year the participation trophy is given to the class in WRA that participates the most. This year the sophomore girls won it by completing the volley ball tournament in first place.

During winter term Brenda Guyll won the singles in the badmitten tournament.

Scholarships Go To EOC

Three recipients of La Grande Rotary Club scholarships to Eastern Oregon College for 1960-61 have been announced by Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, EOC director of student personnel.

The three, high school seniors, are Carol McClure, La Grande; Dina Rae Stirewalt, Kimberly; and Marcy Marie May, Pilot Rock,

Changes Noted In Evensong

This year changes have been made for Evensong, to be held June 3, to make this traditional event better.

One of the main alterations is that the coronation will take place during the Evensong ceremony, rather than at the dance. Then the dance will be held in nne evening. The dance, which has been called the Coronation Ball, will be changed to the ceremony was completely written. This year, some of the speeches will be written by the students. As a new addition, the choir will sing some of the numbers.

It is hoped that the majority of the students will participate in the colorful event, even if they can't sing. For the main object is the overall appearance and a mass of students is needed to make the setting spectacular.

If it should rain Friday night (June 3), the dance will still be held, but the ceremony will be Saturday night.

Dates to remember for the Evensong are: June 18, assembly in which the Evensong candidates are presented and the Queen of Knowledge is selected: June 1, assembly in which the songs will be practiced; June 3, 9-1 practice on the Grand Stairway, 7:00 Evensong, 9:00 Queen's Ball at the Coliseum.

Chamber Music Concert Set At EOC This Sunday

Chamber music will be furnished in a concert scheduled Sunday at 8 p.m. in the EOC faculty lounge of the Walter Pierce library by the newly-organized Eastern Oregon Spring Quartet.

Members of the quartet are Mrs. Betty Seves, violinist; Martha White, viola; Dorothy Tierney, cello, all of Pendleton, and Dr. Rhodes Lewis, violinist, La Grande.

Ann Mahoney will accompany the stringed instruments on the piano. The public is invited to attend the concert.

Many Honored At Awards Assembly

EOC's annual awards assembly was held Wednesday in the college theater. It was held in combination with the election of the Evensong queen.

Bev Donovan, past president, installed John Dahlstrom who in turn installed each of his new members of executive council; Greg Baker, first vice president; Larry Snook. second vice-president; Sue Switzer, secretary; Dan Yturraspe, business manager; and Ruth Combs, rally squad leader. John presented Bev with an award in appreciation for her outstanding service to the college, and she in turn presented awards to her outgoing executive council; Jean Hunter, Don Shore, Sandi Thompson, Virginia Wellington, and Tarry Clifton.

Be In Evensong . . . . If You Don't Evensing

It is that time of year again when the music professors run around frantically, the student council members get that worried look, and everyone on campus is at least remotely aware of Evensong. Why the frenzied and haried looks? Merely because they are all on campaigns—campaigns to get you to participate in Evensong. They try almost everything to make you aware of this beautiful tradition and to try to spark your enthusiasm.

I have heard many things this year in the line of persuasion—this is a sampling: It is going to be bigger and better. The band plays. The choir is going to sing the special songs and will do the harmonizing on the others. They have changed it to the weekend—same night as the Coronation Ball. The queen is going to be crowned during the Evensong ceremony. They have a new song this year. We owe it to the seniors—they have to come. I heard it was in honor of them. It's the only really fine use we have for our grand staircase—the only time it is utilized and the public is aware of it. Some of the old-fashioned speeches are being removed. Many of the officers (student body president, senior class president, queen, etc.) make their own speeches. There is a new song. It is a lovely tradition belonging exclusively to EOC. There is a new song.

Yes, all of these interesting bits of information have been tossed around for the last few weeks. But, the one that impressed me the most, the one I felt should be a sure-fire enlister of EOC patriots into the service of Evensong was the statement made by Dr. Bishop at the recent Evensong assembly, "You don't have to know how to sing. We need you for appearance. We have to fill up those steps."

Now, I ask you, fellow students. who among you can reruse to comply? Are there any of you or your friends that will not fit into the category of either musician or "space-filler-upper"? This is a direct cry to all of us nasal-tone, monotone, inarticulate, tremulous creatures who have an inferiority complex feeling about taking our places on the grand staircase. The time is here for us to shine. So I urge you, "Participate in Evensong if you can't Even sing!"

NOTICE ALL STUDENTS:

In order that we may make plans concerning student loans under the National Defense Act for the college year 1960-61, it is requested that any student anticipating securing a loan during next year obtain an application form from the Registrar's Office and file it with that office before leaving the campus this spring. The Loan Committee will attempt to make loans to students who apply this spring, but can not guarantee that enough money will be available to satisfy the financial needs of students who do not apply until next year.

If a student applies for a loan now and then later finds that he will not need the loan, it will be possible to cancel the request for the loan. It is, therefore, well to protect yourself in this matter by applying now.

Lyle H. Johnson,
Registrar.

Council Quotes

By SUE SWITZER

What has student council been doing?

1. Student council presented a letter of recommendations for improvement of the Hoke Coffee shop next year to the administrative committee.

2. The constitution is being revised under chairmanship of Beverly Donovan.

3. Plans are being made for a new revised and corrected student handbook, the Pathfinder, which will be ready by the first of next year.

4. Student council representatives are being elected from the off-campus groups, Collegians, and EOCene courts.

5. There will be no school picnic this year due to lack of an appropriate time to have it and size of the student body.

6. Any cancellations or changes of date for scheduled events must be given to the ASB president at least one week ahead of time.

7. Steps are being taken to improve campus publicity within the city of La Grande.

Club News

At the last meeting of the Collegians new officers were announced. They are as follows: president, Darrell White; vice-president, Jo Ann Kaufman; and secretary-treasurer, Susy Beauchamp. The organization is having a picnic and swimming party tomorrow night, May 21, at Lehman Springs.

The Outing Club had a slide entitled Spring Flowers of the Blue Mountains last Tuesday night. Their overnight outing at Wallowa is scheduled for this weekend.

Sunday afternoon the Sabers installed their 17 pledges. White carnation corsages were given to the new members. Congratulations new Sabers!

Thanks are to be given to the L.K's and Sabers for their hard work to make the Parents' Weekend a big success, and all the others who participated in the activities.

Tuesday night AWS initiated their new officers for 1960-61. The initiation took place in the Faculty Lounge and those initiated were president, Elaine McNaught; vice-president, Gail Fisher; secretary, Louise Young; and representative, Bev Trimble.

Faculty Corner

On Tuesday, May 10, Neil Wilson, assistant professor of vocal music, presented a voice recital in the EOC auditorium. Erma Puls, Union, was the accompanist.

According to Dr. Frank Bennett, four of our faculty members have received advancements in academic rank.

Those receiving promotions are Dr. Margaret R. Morris, to professor of physical education and health; John W. Evans, to assistant professor and assistant librarian; Robert M. McCroskey, to assistant professor of engineering and mathematics; and Bruce P. Ryan, to assistant professor and director of the Eastern Oregon Cooperative Speech and Hearing Center.

The five new appointments to the faculty for the coming year include: Ronald H. Bayes, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, instructor in English; Kendall W. Baxter, Corvallis, instructor in vocal music; Frank G. Nelson, Ellensburg, Wash., instructor in audio-visual aids, and George W. Van Vechten, Corvallis, assistant professor of botany and biology.

Drive Carefully!

PSPA Attended By John, Greg

The Pacific Student President's Association met beginning May 11 though May 14. This organization is made up of student body officers of 13 states west of the Rockies. The convention is held annually to acquaint the new presidents and vice presidents with problems with which they will be faced and methods to solve these various problems.

John Dahlstrom and Greg Baker represented EOC. They left Tuesday morning by plane and were in Tuscon, Arizona, 11:30. At midnight that night it was quite warm—between 75 and 80 degrees. Wednesday, the day began by moving out of the hotel into a motel. There was a special luncheon. That evening at a banquet Dr. Hyink spoke to the group. He is a professor at the University of Southern California. After the banquet a caucus was held to select candidates for the presidency of PSPA for next year. Oregon, Washington and Canada were in one of these groups.

Thursday the presidents went to the University of Arizona for discussion on general topics. Later in the day they went out to a dude ranch for more discussion. There was also recreation, such as swimming, tennis, and so on. That evening they ate at the ranch and later planned political strategy for the candidates running for office.

Friday the discussions got down to specific problems of each individual school. In the evening a banquet was held. Officers were then nominated for the coming year. There were meetings following the nominations with each candidate talking to each group. There were question and answer periods for these candidates.

Saturday the officers were elected. The candidate nominated by the Oregon-Washington-Canada group was selected president of PSPA for this coming year. He is Bill Slemco from Whitworth College in Spokane. The vice president will be Dick Davis from Harvey Mudd College from the Los Angeles area. The convention site for next year was chosen as San Francisco. After the business meeting several of the representatives went to Mexico because the plane did not come back until Sunday morning.

Mr. Dahlstrom's personal feelings were that this meeting was a "great experience." One gets to hobnob with leaders of many colleges and swap ideas, thus gaining many ideas. This convention helps build enthusiasm forstudent government and the problems they have to face. All the discussions, meetings, and so on will be summarized and put into a bulletin for all the colleges to refer to. Mr. Dahlstrom feels that the personal contact with the other student body presidents will help greatly in the coming school year. The four day convention is valuable to both the student body officers and the general student body.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Ever hear of a "Hobo March?" At BJC the Tau Alpha Phi fraternity members grow beards, don hobo garb and spend a day on the campus and downtown Boise asking for handouts. This year 22 fellows tallied $532.25 at the end of the day. This money is to be used for a vocational scholarship.

Members of the Whitman College Outing Club climaxed an active year by climbing Mt. Hood. Thirteen made the trek successfully in nine hours. It is their hope that they might climb at least one major peak a year.

The Tri Delta chapter of OSC honors senior women with a "Pansy Breakfast" each spring term. This custom began 26 years ago in California and is of special interest to engaged seniors. Engaged girls enter through a heart made entirely of pansies. Special feature is a show of latest bridal fashions sponsored by down town shops.

Mounties Drop Final Games To Nazarenes

Eastern Oregon's Mountaineers closed out their baseball season Saturday by dropping a pair of games to the visiting Northwest Nazarene College team by narrow margins of 3-2 and 4-3.

Dennis Bagnall went the distance for the Mounties in the first game. He gave up three runs on six hits. A two base error by EOC set up the second NNC run in the fifth inning.

Isacson was the winning pitcher for the Nazarene team, giving up two Mountie runs on seven hits.

Coleman Singles

Eastern Oregon scored first, getting a run in the second inning on a single by Nels Nelson, a walk to Bob Olinger, and a single by Larry Coleman which drove in Nelson with the run.

NNC tallied single runs in the fourth and fifth. The visitors scored the winning run of the game in the top of the seventh on a single, double, and another single which drove across the clincher.

EOC came back in the last of the inning to score on a single by Ron Hunt and a single by Mel Holmes to bring across the run. The Mountie rally was choked off as the next two men up flied out to the outfield to end the game.

No Rain

The doubleheader was played in cloudy weather which threatened rain during the afternoon, but for the first time in many months, the Mountaineers played a game without rain falling on the college diamond.

The second game of the twin bill went nine innings before NNC managed to bring across the winning tally on a back-to-back single and double.

The Mounties scored in the second and fourth innings and led going into the seventh when NNC tied the game at 3-3.

Folston was the losing pitcher for EOC, being relieved by Laurence in the seventh. Manley was the winner.

Cascade Ski Area Open This Month

BEND, Oregon (Special)—Collegiate who want to take a final fling on the powdery snow of Cascade slopes on the first long weekend of the summer can do so at Bachelor Butte on the last weekend of the month, reports Jop Morgan, manager of the Central Oregon ski resort.

The Bachelor Butte Mardi Gras recognizes the ski season's end May 28, 29, 30. A carnival atmosphere is expected to make this weekend one of the most exciting of the year. Morgan said. Monday, May 30, will mark the fnial day of skiing at the Butte, located 20 miles southwest of Bend.

Monday is also Costume Day, Morgan said, with prizes going to visitors with the most novel attire. All lift and lodge facilities will operate through the entire weekend, he said.

Ideal for late-season skiing because of its geographical location on the east side of the Cascades, Bachelor Butte provides a variety of challenging runs for either novice or expert skiier, the resort manager said.

Skiing and sunning are synomous this time of year, Morgan explained, with temperatures hovering in the high 70's and low 80's. Over half of last year's visitors on the final weekend picked up healthy suntans by wearing swimsuits and shorts on their final dashes down the slope, he added.

Bachelor Butte will combine approximately 15 feet of powdery snow with the latest in modern lift equipment to provide ideal ski conditions for the weekend. A Pomalift ascends to above timberline on the 9060-foot peak, while a T-Bar and two rope tows provide tarnsportation at the lower levels.

Over 50 motesl and hotesl in the immediate Bend area provide accommodations for the three-day weekend. Special rates are available to ski parties. Many fine restaurants open at near-dawn to cater to early-rising skiers.

JOHN WILLMARTH
Student-Athlete

Willmarth To Be Honored

Top student — top athlete. This rare combination of talents will be honored this weekend as Eastern Oregon College's John Willmarth is guest at a banquet for, among other things, the top students and athletes from schools in the Northwest.

Willmarth and eight other athletes will be presented at the District 2 NAIA Hall of Fame banquet in Portland on Saturday.

The big Eastern Oregon representative was an OCC all-conference selection in football and baseball. He was a standout fullback for the Mountaineers and was a top pitcher in the OCC baseball race last year. A conflict with studies curtailed his baseball this spring.

Willmarth was recently elected to the position of presidency of the International Relations Club and maintains a straight "A" average in school.

Being honored with Willmarth as student-athletes are Phil Adolf, Portland State; Omar Pabst, University of Portland; Francis Trosler, Oregon College; Ted Picknell, Linfield; Charles Nevi, Southern Oregon; Bob Burnside, Pacific; Ed Grossenbacher, Willamette; and Pat Clock, Lewis and Clark.

Sabers Initite Seventeen Girls

At 4:15 Sunday afternoon, Vad Kelsoe's home was the scene of Saber's initiation and installation. Sabers is an honorary service organization for a select group of women students on EOC campus. This year there were 17 girls initiated into the organization.

Following the initiation ceremony the 1960-1961 officers were installed. Each of the old officers presented the new officers with a candle symbolizing their office. President Vad Kelsoe presented the new President Ardyce Garrett with the candle of service; Vice President, Virginia Wellington, presented the new Vice President, Sue Switzer, the candle for leadership; Secretary, Lynda Kane, presented the new secretary, Gail Fisher, the candle representing loyalty; and Vad Kelsoe presented Terry Clifton the candle of ambition, symbolizing a two-fold job, Historian and Treasurer.

Hunt Top Mountaineer Hitter During Season

Ron Hunt, Eastern Oregon's hard-hitting right fielder topped the hitting department for the Mounties this season with a .306 average.

The pocket-sized junior from Baker slapped out 22 hits in 72 times at bat as leadoff man for the Mountaineers. He appeared in 22 of the 23 games on the EOC schedule.

Rangy Bob Olinger led the team in homers with two. The junior third baseman from Milton-Freewater also contributed three doubles and one triple to Eastern Oregon's cause. Olinger hit .260.

Holmes Top Stealer

Second baseman Mel Holmes, junior from La Grande, led the team in stolen bases with seven. Dick Brandl, sophomore shortstop from Pendleton was credited with five stolen bases and led the errors total with 20.

The Mountaineers finished the season with a record of seven wins and 16 losses. In Oregon Collegiate Conference play, EOC wound up in fourth place with a 3-7 mark.

Bagnall Effective

Dennis Bagnall had the best earned run average on the Mountie hurling staff with a total of 3.2 runs per innings. Junior, Larry Applegate turned in the best won-lost record with two wins against a single loss. Bagnall hurled the most innings on the Mountie staff with 74 innings pitched. Larry Folston, another of coach Bob Quinn's fire-line chuckers turned in a mark of 3-6 and tossed 50 innings of ball for an ERA of 5.0.

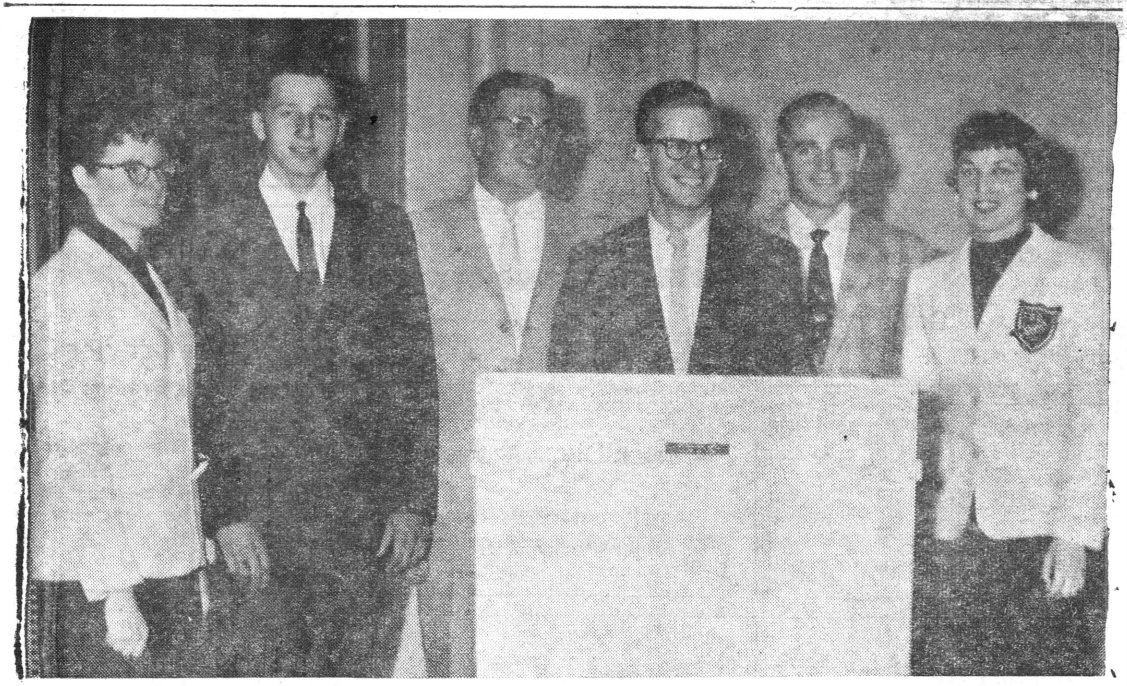
Scholarships Given

A number of EOC students have received scholarships for the coming school year. John Dahlstrom received one from Inland Machinery; Joyce Kay, Valene Mitchell ,Arleta Myers, Jo-Ann Berryman, Yvonne Bannister, Sandi Thompson, and Thayle Romine all received Oregon Congress of PTA scholarships.

Those students receiving state partial tuition scholarships were Beth and Ruth Combs, Gary Dielman, Daisy and Warren Good, James Grooms, Charles La Kamp, Norman Lewis, Jack McIntosh, Nels Nelson, Byron Rudishauser, Robert Salter, Steven Sayre, Leon Severin, Lawrence Snook, Hugh Swaney, Merlene Teasely, Lynda Thomas Walda Thompson, Robert Tolar, Lynn Trembly, Herbert Voledman. Hill Walker, Shirley Walsh John Wilmarth, Allen Wolfe, Dan Yturraspe, James Manns, and Robert Howard.



Those students in elementary education who received full tuition scholarships were Jo Allstott, Sharon Batty, Pat Blackburn, Dixie Bowman, Sharon Buxton, Al Carr, Reiba, Carter, John Clork, Tarry Clifton, Don Cole Dale Coles, Daryl Corey, Darlene DeSouza, Sharon Hodgins, William Keyser, Mary Komp, Judith Lybecker, Wilma McCord, Pat McKenzie, Connie Massey, Velma Miller, Lenora Mitchell, Marian Murrell, Theresa Rauwolf, Judy Savage, Ben Simonton, Lynn Snuffer, Sue Switzer, Barbara West, Carol Woodell, Janet Bond, and Carla Point.

After Mr. Yturraspe maniled a picture of himself as a "kingly" Old King Cole, this reply came on monogrammed stationery:

Dear Dan:

I owe you an apolgy you are the finest looking Monarch I have even seen and the prettiest tiro of Court Jestresses also. Thanks fo rthe dandy picture. I will put it up with my gallery of famous people. I write lettesr to crowned heads some of them don't stay crowned long enough to naswer my letters. They crown them one week and scalp them the next. I have letters from Eisenhower, Nixon, Sec. of Treasury and our governor. Eisenhow and and I have them framed, the pictures I mean.

Uncle Charley

Viewer Notes Versatility In 'Buskin Permormers

EOC Sock and Buskin performers once again proved their versatility with the recent presentation of the Grenzeback and Bergh Children's Musical, OLD KING COLE. Directed by Dick Hiatt, it was one of the highlights of Parents' Weekend.

Probably the hardest task of a viewer or critic trying to observe the production objectively was to divorce it from such previous more dramatic works on campus at INHERIT THE WIND, BRIGADOON and the GLASS MENAGERIE. Observed in the tone and pace which were completely its own, OLD KING COLE stacks up with the best. As the first Sock and Buskin production to tour this year, it was surely a convincing presentation of talent as well as an excellent representative of EOC, joining with our touring chorus and band.

Working against a background beautifully planned, although bordering on optical consternation, the production could hardly have been lifeless. This confusion of diamonds, circles, colors, etc,! was the contribution of the stagecraft class, composed of BarbaraArnoldus, Darla Carter, Ross DeBoie, Bill Donahue, Don Kline, Larry Wilder and Nancy Wilson. It was also obvious that Ardyce Garrett, Costumer, was not to be outdone by the setting, for the costumes were a credit to anyone's imagination and creativity. And the only possible complaint one could make concerning the accompanists was their invisibility. At the rate of some of the musical selections, we all would have liked to have seen it done!

Stealing the show completely were the three Royal Fiddlers who spiced everything and everyone up with their fiddle-faddle. Played by Tarry Clifton, Karen Sutton and Sue Switzer, these three really kept things rolling.

Old King Cole, Dan Yturraspe, was pure delight as the ruler of Haw! and the bouncing gaity of His Majesty epitomized the whole stately atmosphere. Crunch was able to save the pomp and dignity of the court in a few instances, and as Dick Domey flashed back and forth trying desperately to keep everyone in line with his regulations, the amusement was heightened.

Another excellent performance was turned in by Mike Ferguson as the sinister Grog. This was probably best proven by the screams of the children attending afternoon performances last week while some of the rest of us were attending classes.

Dick Clark was everything a Nicholas of Nowhere going somewhere should be. His ability to put across the songs added tremendously to his performance. Two others who were more than convincing were Lock and Black Smith, played by Larry Wilder and Valene Mitchell.

Of the remainder of the parts, Apabella, Elaine McNaught, was given the biggest boost with the naivete as interpreted by its performer. The two other Ladies in Waiting, Peggy Elder and Judy Hockett, were also as charming as ladies in waiting should be.

Mrs. Smedley, Judy Lutz with her bulstling; Mrs. Cole, Judy Westenskow, with her simpering; Penelope, Judy Millering, with her sweetness; and Messenger Ron Munkres all turned in equally creditable performances to complete the last Sock and Buskin production of 1959-60.

Neil Wilson Gives Recital

On Tuesday, May 10, Neil Wilson presented a recital sponsored by the music department. He was accompanied by Mrs. Erma Puls. Later in the program Mrs. Puls presented two numbers by Chopin and a piece by Poulenc. Mr. Wilson's presentations were generally short and the concert lasted just over an hour. He gave two encore numbers, the final piece being "Joey" from the stage productoin "Most Happy Fella." His last recital this year was received by an audience who enjoyed all of his program.

Who Are You?

Here it is again, the end of another term, the end of another year of college. It certainly went fast, didn't it? What do you see when you look back? Has it been a worthwhile year?

As I look back, I see a blur of Beacons, U.S. History notes, physical science projects, formal dances, ball games, campaigns, rain, meetings, and glorious weekends. This, combined with the buildings on campus, the professors, school chums, golf and community hours, are a part of my college career. All these things are a part of me—some I like, others I dislike, yet they all belong. These are a part of me as a citizen, as a student, and as an individual. I am the same as many of you, yet entirely different.

This brings to mind a thought given to us by Dr. Bennett during those first few frightening freshman days. I don't know if he gives this thought every year, but I do know it was one of the main ideas I have kept ever since I heard it. He said:

"I am I—If I am not I, who is I?
"I am me—No one can keep me from being me.
"If I am not me, all is kaput."

Pause And Evaluate . . .

When each of us receives his grades this term, in some cases we may be quite pleased, while in others, disappointed. These grades do mean a lot to most of us—even if for some, a chance to get back in school. Yet along with these letter grades we should also evaluate what we learned from each class.

Of course, the obvious objective of a class is its subject matter and we are usually graded on how well we grasp that subject. But did you realize that in a particular class you perhaps also learned to think more for yourself and express your own opinions? Did you find yourself doing (at least a little) outside research on your own because you wanted to? Perhaps this research was conducted by conversing with another class member and here a friendship was formed.

Perhaps as we realize this, other such outcomes will become evident and we will realize that we are not just developing minds here at college, but also individuals—ourselves. And in doing so we should realize how important it is to attend classes, and to take an active and honest part in them. As the finals arrive next week, you who are taking them for the last time and you who will have more to take—evaluate yourself and your classes and see what they have done for you.

Ron Phair Addresses EOC Group

Ron Phair, Klamath Falls, Republican candidate for Congress from the Second Congressional district, addressed students at Eastern Oregon College yesterday on "Youth A Natural Resource."

Phair emphasized the importance of service to humanity, committee and family and said that today's young people are better equipped to serve than before.

Drawing from his own background, Phair said students today faced a great economic opportunity, especially in the various industries.

He also expressed the belief that the political arena is one area where young people should serve, not necessarily as political candidates but as informed voters.

Here to meet with county Republicans following his Republican primary victory, Phair appointed to his country chairman Walter Bean, retired Army colonel and active community leader.

Phair will face Democratic Congressman Al Ullman, Baker, in November. Phairf polled 1,498(unofficial) votes in Union and Wallowa counties. Ullman polled 2,888 (unofficial) votes.

Faculty Corner

by Wendy Johnson

Do faculty members sit on the stool of Do Nothing while the students bask in the limelight? "Nope," not at EOC. The faculty members are being caught in the limelight also. To cite a few examples let us take a look at the faculty election results: Dr. Kearns was elected to the honored position of Faculty chairman, while Gertrude Geraets was selected as the secretary and treasurer. Those faculty members who make up the advisory committee to the President are: Dr. Mary Jane Loso, Dr. Margaret Morris, Harold Dorn, Dr J. Lynn Bishop, Dr. Ralph Badgley, Dr. Lee Johnson, and Dr. Douglas Spear.

Kitty Mae Crockett, assistant librarian, has been made President of the Eastern Oregon Librarian's Association.

Donald K. Nelson, librarian, was appointed chairman of the Legislative Committee Library Development and Legislation Committee.

Two of the faculty members, who want more education, have been granted a year's leave of absence from EOC in order to continue work on their Doctorates. They are Leonard Kimbrell, who is going to the State University of Iowa and Neil E. Wilson, who will be at the University of Indiana.

Returning from leave to resume duty next fall are Dr. George Nightingale, who has been studying in Mexico and Howard Wilson, who has been studying at the University of Illinois.

EVENSONG

Be sure to attend Evensong, Friday, June 3: Evensong Ceremony, 7:00, Grand Stairway.

TORRID TIPS

By TARRY AND VAD

Through the bewildered eyes of incoming freshmen the EOC campus appeared foreign and formidable. The buildings—especially le bibliotheque appeared as a twisted spider web, a hopeless maze. They were soon made to feel at home by debonair sophomores, sophisticated juniors and carefree seniors by casualty greetings of "have you heard Shelly Berman" or "did I, or did I not see you at the Round-Up this year?"

Now after three successful terms of college life the Ad building is an old friend seen through bleery eyes at 7 o'clock many a morning and the library is the term paper headquarters and social hotspot of the campus.

As the frosh check out this year they won't remember the hectic nights and frantic papers. They will remember their first college football game, their first college formal and their first final week.

TO THE SENIORS WE DEDICATE OUR TORRID TIP OF THE WEEK: WISE TO RESOLVE AND PATIENT TO PERFORM.

OH VAD
WELL TARRRY
IT'S BEEN A GOOD YEAR

Oh, Those 7 O'Clock Classes

Nineteen-sixty has been an eventful year at E.O.C. Myriads of improvements, innovations, and experiments have leapt forth from the minds of astute, grey-templed sages in our administration. One of these diabolical brainstorms, undoubtedly resulting from masterful contortions of the psyche, was a peculiar form of campus daylight savings time. Of course I refer to the seven o'clock class.

The fortunate student is awakened by the melodious chiming of his alarm clock at 6:55 a.m. followed by a resounding crash as it ricochets off the far wall. He throws back the covers and with an affectated manner, gropes for his thongs and other assorted habiliments necessary for a proper appearance in class. As he proceeds to apparel himself he indulges in his deep breathing exercises accentuated with the practice of the individuals under-breath vocabulary, generally consisting of three and four letter words (often in Bohemian), in preparation for cheerfully greeting his professor as he bounds nimbly to the podium.

Our hero dashes to the bathroom and, resembling somewhat a hibernating bear since he can only shave on week-ends (this is an allusion to upper-classmen obviously), splashes his bloodshot orbs with cold water. His toilet finished he attaches to his person the largest book in his library, (for purposes of obstructing his face) and pair of dark glasses, (in case the book should slip). He then braves the perils of the Hunt Hall turnpike. Passing on the left is allowed and rather safe (sort of), but if our reverend fathers should ever advocate six o'clock classes we're in a hell of a fix.

Obviously some form of direction light will be in order.

There is time for one pass through the cafeteria for a gulp of coffee and a piece of cold toast and then off to class where the student passes the better part of an hour making a semblance of taking notes between snatches of sleep. The student is finally aroused by the sweet music of scuffling feet, then arises as in a trance and by instinct staggers to his room. He sits on his bed to rest a minute and awakes at 11:30 bright-eyed and refreshed after having slept through three other classes.

Such are the perils of a 7 o'clock class!

Council Quotes

By SUE SWITZER

1. The constitutional revision is the main issue in council now. The new constitution would propose a more democratic way of government. It would resemble the system used by the United States and by the state of Oregon. There would be three branches: executive (cabinet), legislative (senate), and judicial (court). The proposed constitution will be discussed and considered this summer, then will be brought for a vote before council at the beginning of next fall term.

2. Equipment is being purchased for the new ASB office next year. Purchases will include a typewriter, paper cutter, stapler, and various other office supplies.

3. Next year student union movie tickets will be sold for $1 per term.

4. Committee chairmen selected for next year are: Homecoming cochairmen, Tarry Clifton and Hugh Swaney; publicity, Marquitta Fisher.

5. A student hospitalization plan offered by Mutual of Omaha, the same company with which we have accident insurance, is available to us and if enough students are interested, it will be offered next year. Materials will be distributed containing information and Mr. Bob Miller will be here soon to talk about it.

6. The students are requested to spread the word around informing people of the bond issue and to vote yes on 6 on the ballot.

7. The library has requested council's help in asking students to return all materials which haven't been checked out to the library. Boxes will be placed in the Ad building and in both dorms in which these materials may be placed. The approximate loss is $200. Having to replace this much worth of old materials would make it impossible for us to secure much of the new materials we need. There is also a possibility this could lead to a closed stock library.

8. Any freshmen who have suggestions for improvement of freshman days next year through your experience this year are welcome to offer these suggestions to Howard Anderson. This will help him a great deal in planning the program for next year.

9. The Ask Me Committee has not been chosen as yet. Notices will be posted later as to how you may apply for this committee.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"BY GEORGE, IT'S THOSE ARMY BOYS AGAIN — WE MUST BE GETTING AROUND TO FINALS."

BASEBALL

Eastern Oregon's baseball team ended the season in fourth place in the OCC and compiled a season record of 7-16. Shortstop Dick Brandl, rightfielder Phil Miller, and catcher Larry Coleman were named to the OCC honorable mention list. The players are, front row, left to right; Nelson, Klitz, Coleman, Hunt, Brandl, Laurence, and McConnell. Back Row; Coach Bob Quinn, Applegate, Miller, Bagnall, Foston, Hanford, Holmes, Searcy and Olinger. (De Boie Photo)

Dunsmoor Selects Six Mountaineers For Track Awards

Six Eastern Oregon College track men have been recommended for letter awards by Coach Arch Dunsmoor.

. Included are, for third award, Gene McKinney, Union, senior; second award, John Clark, La Grande, sophomore; first award, John Exley, La Grande, and Ted Miller, Elgin, sophomores; and Ron Robinson, Union, and Dave Conklin, Monument, freshmen.

Clark was season high point man for the Mounties, and placed fifth in the District NAIA 220-yd. lows and the 440-yd hurdles. In addition he holds the school shot put record at 45' 4".

Also at the District NAIA, EOC's final action for the season, Exley took a fourth in the 120-yd highs, and McKinney placed fourth in the javelin. McKinney's javelin toss of 203' 1½" last year is still a school record.

MOUNTIE TRACKSTERS

EOC Invitational

The Whitman Missionaries, getting their points in the dashes and distance events won the Eighth Annual Eastern Oregon College Invitational track meet last weekend at the Mountaineer track.

Whitman topped the scoring with 57 5/6 points followed by Boise Junior College with 52 1/6 The host team EOC was third with 26½ followed by Northwest Nazarene with 23½. The College of Idaho was fifth with 11 points.

Gene McKinney won the javelin throw with a toss of 192'. The mark was still below his best toss last year of 201'.

Dave Conklin of EOC captured first place in the grueling two-mile run with a time of 11:36.6.

Two marks were set during the invitational meet. The high jump mark of 6-1 set last year by Gary Bonar of BJC was broken by Mounty Sharp of NNC with a jump of 6-2. Bonar finished third this year.

Bonar broke his old record in the discus set last year, with a toss of 148'4". The old mark was 140' 4".

Dr. Education

I sat there, in a chair opposite Dr. Education, who was advocating my enrollment in more education courses. He was right; I wasn't putting enough emphasis on filling my schedule with them. They were the most important . . . they taught a person how to teach . . . when to teach . . . where to teach . . . what . . . why . . .

"Dr. Education, you're right; this is the best of all possible education systems," I finally agreed. Why hadn't I realized this before? In fact, I was comparable to Garantua; he lived in "the best of all possible worlds" and I learned in the best of all possible education systems.

"I'm glad I put this point across to you in time," Dr. Education replied. "So many of our students don't realize the importance of these education courses; they don't take all that we offer."

Yes, I had seen many of those students go out into the world to teach . . . some with only four, five, or possibly six years of learning beyond high school. My education was going to be different though; I would be fully ready to teach. I was going to spend five years, about the required time, just taking education electives.

Looking out the window, I saw Dr. Humanities. He had helped me a great deal too; he had talked me into taking an additional four years of study in my major teaching field. He had told me of the vast number of students going out to teach, and then finding they weren't prepared for it, coming back full of regret . . . sorry they hadn't listened to him . . . sorry they had been more eager to teach than to learn . . . sorry they had been so greedy for an income . . . sorry they hadn't spent enough time in school . . . sorry.

Sure it was true that they had met the standards of the state . . . the state only asked for four years of general education though . . . they had fulfilled the qualification of the teacher's college too . . . that wasn't much though, just a few special requirements, community hours, a few extra hours of literature . . . two years of foreign language, and a course in early child development for prospective high school teachers. The school and the state left the real problem up to the advisors though; it was the advisor's job to make students aware of the importance of spending several additional years in each area of study.

Jane Insight, I remembered her as the stupid girl who had made the foolish complaint to an advisor, "But I can't take all these courses; I'm going to teach grammar and I don't understand it myself yet. Couldn't I take a course in grammatical principles?"

"No, it is best if you do as I tell you," her advisor had replied. "Don't worry about it; you'll pick it up sometime in the twenty years of study that I've outlined for you."

However, foolish Jane hadn't listened to her advisor . . . she had wilfully taken a class in principles of grammatics . . . wilfully graduated in a mere four year.

Girls Dormitory Elects New Governing Group

Elections for the officers of Dorion Hall were held Tuesday, May 3, at Dorion Hall. The following girls were elected for the 1960-61 term. President, Sandi Thompson; Vice President, Loretta Herbison; Secretary, Shirley Walsh; and Treasurer, Luanne Lee.

The Standards Committee members were also chosen at the same time. Seniors: Ardyce Garrett and Johanna Hardwick; juniors: Nelda Huber and Reba Carter; sophomores: Roberta Strickland and Barbara Boyles.

Wallowa Country Hosts Outing Club Members

Again the Outiing Club has roughed the wilderness. Being the last trip of the school year, the 15 members chose Wallowa Lake for this Memorial Day weekend. At the lake we engaged in hiking, fishing, skin diving, dancing, and enjoying life.

Camp was set up in one of the Methodist lodges on Friday. Early Saturday, several early birds went on a bird hike. Another nature lover climbed a great mountain to observe the sun rise. After breakfast a small group hiked up the East Fork of the Wallowa to Aneroid Lake. Snow was encountered about half way up the trail. Here several of us turned back, while three lads braved the snow-covered trail to Dollar Lake. The result was 30 fine trout.

Meanwhile, back at the lake, several went skin diving. What they discovered wasn't revealed. Was it a sunken treasure or hundreds of suckers?

Saturday evening a movie was shown on the winter wonderland of the Wallowas. Following the thrilling movie we feasted on tasty stew. The sleeping bags were the next destination for many, while card playing and "bull shooting" entertained others. A couple of guys went to a dance at Enterprise. Reports one of the dancers, 'Man, whatta stomp."

The next day a select group hiked to Aneroid Lake for more fine fishing. Dollar Lake and its sister lake Aneroid yielded more brook trout. Harry Ketchem stated, They just weren't biting like yesterday." The six men group caught about 50 fish.

We returned to the campus stiff and sore not to mention sunburned from the reflection of the sun on the snow. Even with the after effects most of us were talking about going back next year. Join the Outing Club and see if we have another good time at Wallowa Lake in 1961.

Men Students Evicted On U of O Campus

Wednesday, May 25, the University of Oregon evicted all upperclassmen from the campus dormitories. Why? Because with the great increase in Freshmen enrollment there simply is not enough room. Will this happen to all of Oregon's colleges? Will this affect Eastern Oregon College? Not if the students are willing to help. In November, there will be a bill on the ballot entitled State Bonds for Higher Education Facilities listed as No. 6. This bill is in the form of a Constitutional Amendment, yet is unique on the ballot. This bill costs the taxpayer no money! Its purpose is to increase the amount that can be borrowed from a bonding company against the state. The present amount is three-quarters of one per cent of the "assessed value." The bill changes "assessed value" to "true cash value" and will allow another 39 million dollars to become available for building. These buildings, as were all other buildings built under this plan, are self-liquidating. Only buildings that are able to pay for themselves can be built with this money.

It is imperative that the voters know that this, in no way, increases taxation, but only increases the value of the necessary collateral needed to continue furnishing housing for the students of the future. The last building that can be built with the available funds will be started next fall. Any building after this can be built only as other buildings are paid for.

If we want to afford the opportunity of a college education to our brothers, sisters, and children, we must inform the voters of the importance of this measure. Therefore, your Student Body President asks your help in telling your parents and friends about this bill and in encouraging a "yes" vote for 'ballot No. 6."

VOTE YES—6.

Dr. Laurence Nye Baccalaureate Speaker Sunday

Dr. Laurence E. Nye, First Methodist church of Portland, will deliver the address Sunday at the Eastern Oregon College baccalaureate services. "The Enemies of Right Values" will be Dr. Nye's topic.

The Rev. Nye is chairman of the Commission on Christian Higher Education, Oregon Methodist Conference, and will be a delegate to the Methodist World Conference in Oslo in 1961.

Are You Guilty?

As needless and wasteful as it is, it still happens. Each year the library is forced to spend $150 to $200 for replacement of missing library materials. This money is taken directly from the tax funds which you and your parents pay. At least 90 percent of this expense could be avoided if all students (no exceptions please) would sign for the books and magazines they wish to take from the library. Now if some feel that accountability for these materials is too much to ask, your college will be enforced to employ restrictive measures that will be both unpleasant and expensive. The only alternative will be to check all people leaving the stacks and reading room. Without full accountability, effective library service breaks down.

Personally, I still have faith that when students understand and appreciate these problems we can count on nearly 100 percent cooperation. Won't you (everybody) please help make a fresh start now and next fall! First, return as soon as possible all library material that you have.' Second, look around very carefully for other library books, magazines, encyclopedias, etc., and put them in the boxes placed in the main building and dormitories for that purpose. Finally, put pressure on yourselves and your friends to make absolutely no exceptions in signing for material taken from the library. The full resources of the collection can be available only when it can be accounted for 100 percent.

Signed,
Donald K. Nelson
Librarian

EOC Women To Begin Little Sister Program

At a meeting May 25 a new plan was proposed to the women students of EOC called the Little Sis Program. A list was made of probable freshmen women for the Fall 1960 school year and each girl signed up for two or more girls to write to this summer. These freshmen will be told what to wear, what is expected of them, and generally an insight as to what EOC is like. The purpose of this program is so the incoming freshmen will know someone when they arrive this Fall, and to raise the standards of EOC. Anyone who would like to write to Freshmen girls, contact Ardyce Garrett or Louise Young.

Three Girls Selected As Dorm Counselors

The new counselors for Dorion Hall have been selected. Sue Switzer, a junior, will be the counselor for third floor. Shirley Walsh, a senior, will be available for advice on second floor. Sandi Thompson, also a senior, will be the counselor on first floor. These girls were chosen on dependability, interest, maturity and ability to get along with people. They were rated by students and the final decision was made by a faculty committee. These girls wil be on the Ask Me committee to greet the freshmen next fall.

Highest Praise Earned By 'Medium' Performers

Gian Carlo-Menotti's "The Medium," as presented on the stage of the EOC Theatre on Friday, May 28, replaced, in the opinion of this reviewer, "The Glass Menagerie" as the best production of the year. However, the two differed in manner of presentation and because of this they cannot really be compared.

This was the second opera to be presented on the Eastern Oregon College campus in three years. The other was Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Those students who missed the opportunity to see a "serious" vocal work made, I feel, a mistake.

Because of the diversity of the parts it is quite difficult to pick one of the singers as better than another. Nancy Brooks as Madame Flora, the Medium, did an excellent job in what was perhaps the most difficult part. She showed great potentialities in her singing and in her fine dramatic work.

The other singing lead, Patsy Hutchinson, as Monica, had what could be called the feminine romantic lead. In a vocally-taxing role she displayed a depth of ability not normally found in college-age sopranos.

To have a feminine dramatic lead there must, normally, be a male dramatic lead. Although his was a non-singing part, Oran Hutton, as a deafmute, Toby, did a stand-out acting job.

Brother and sister, Warren and Daisy Good, were pleasing as Mr. and Mrs. Gobineau, two individuals who visit Madame Flora to take part in a seance in an attempt to meet their dead son. As the third member of the seance-seekers, Ruth Combs did a good job, especially when one considers that she had been working on the part only a little over 10 days, having taken over at the last minute for Sylvia Thompson.

The production was under the direction of Neil E. Wilson, who with Beth and Ruth Combs, had a hard task to pull together the two-piano score and make it match the dialogue on stage.

One of the most magnificent parts of the whole production was the stage setting. As executed by the members of the Stagecraft class this masterpiece did much to enhance the whole production. The members of the class are Barbara Arnoldus, Darla Carter, Ross DeBoie, Bill Donahue, Don Kline, Larry Wilder and Nancy Wilson. They worked under Richard G. Hiatt, technical director.

Off Campus Delegation Selects Representatives

A special election was held last Friday, May 20, for the off campus students to elect their representatives for the next year. The election was held in Hoke Hall from 9 to 4.

The following are the representatives for next year: Male representative, Gene Hand; Female representative; Nancy Choate. EOCene Courts' representative is Herb Miller.

Previously elected as the town officers are: Darrel White, President; Jo Ann Kaufman, Vice President; Susie Beauchamp, Secretary-Treasurer; and Butch Whieman, publicity chairman.

EOC SPEAKER — Dr. Laurence Nye, First Methodist church, Portland, will deliver address Sunday at EOC during Baccalaureate services. The program will honor 88 degree candidates and is scheduled at 3 p.m.

BEACON

Vol. XXX | October 7, 1960 | No. 1

Gray Selected Editor

MARY GRAY, a junior in elementary education has accepted editorship of the college yearbook, The Mountaineer. As a staff has been selected, work is now getting underway on the yearbook which will come out next fall so it can contain spring activities.

EOC Given $17,247 In Student Loans

Nineteen Oregon institutions, including Eastern Oregon College, have been allocated $671,164 in the National Defense Student Loan program.

EOC's share is $17,247, according to Sen. Hall Lusk, Democrat of Oregon.

Highest amount made available to an Oregon institution was $225,441 to the University of Oregon. Lowest amount went to George Fox college, Newberg, $3,127.

Entitlement for funds is based on student enrollment and demand for student loan funds.

Homecoming

Homecoming is one of the exciting events held each year at EOC. To honor the returning alumni, big plans are being made for November 4 and 5.

This year's plans include a semi-formal dance with Rod Esselyton's band from Pendleton. The dance will be the Saturday night of Homecoming.

Tall Story, the currently popular play is also scheduled. It will be presented Thursday through Saturday nights by many talented EOC students under the direction of Mr. Richard Hiatt.

Another activity to anticipate is a Saturday afternoon football game betwen the EOC Mountaineers and Hamilton Air Force Base. During the halftime the "sandbag war" will take place. This is a battle betwen the freshmen and the upperclassmen to determine whether the freshmen must continue to wear beanies or not.

Coronation of the Homecoming Queen and her court is also an important part of homecoming. Reigning with the queen will be two princesses. The court is selected from a group of girls who are sponsored by each of the school clubs.

These are just some of the arrangements being made by the homecoming committee, Co-chairmen Karen Sutton and "Hu" Swaney, their advisor Mr. Hill, and various committee heads and members.

Watch For 'Night Train'

Due to the incentive of some E.O.C. members, the college will be entertained by Buddy Morrow and his "Night Train" Orchestra, October 13 from 9 p.m.-1:00 at the College Coliseum. Girls of Dorion will be granted a late leave, as the 13 is a Thursday evening.

This is the first time the college has been fortunate enough to be able to book a big name band such as Morrow's, so it is to be stressed that this is not a date affair. Thus, admisison prices have been set at $1.50 per person.

Morrow has made popular "Night Train," and his trombone solo on the record "Tara Theme" from "Gone With the Wind" is among other songs he has made popular, Morrow has insisted on versatility. As such, his song repertoir includes a range from early dixieland, to rhythm and blues, to progressive jazz.

'Language' Teachers To Meet Here

A regional conference for foreign language teachers is scheduled for Eastern Oregon College, Saturday, according to Dr. Paul M. Arriola, consultant, State Department of Education.

Folksongs Featured

One of the highlights of the first Wednesday assembly was a solo by the new chorus director, Mr. John Cobb. He sang the beautiful "How Do I Love Thee," by Elizabeth Browning. Later in the program, he sang "Yondro" and "The Riddle," accompanying himself on the autoharp. He was joined by the group in singing "The Blue-Tail Fly." Dr. Bishop then led the group in singing "In the Evening by the Moonlight," and an old Negro spiritual which is quite popular now, "Oh Mary. Don't You Weep."

New students were welcomed by Dr. Bennet. He also spoke of two other important items, the increasing enrollment and the tenative date for the completion of Hoke Hall.

Dr. Speare gave a brief resume of the future assembly speakers which the committee hopes to bring to E.O.C.

New Student Daze

The opening convocation for the new students of Eastern Oregon College took place Monday, September 19, at 9:00 with Dr. Frank Bennett presiding. Members of the faculty were presented in regalia depicting their degrees. Colors, degrees, robes and hoods were explained to the students and the assembly was closed with faculty singing the "Alma Mater."

Dr. Lyle Johnson, Director of Student Personnel, spoke to the group on "Adjustment to College" at an asembly at 10:30 Monday. He emphasized the fact that students should work hard and do their best, regardless of the outcome of their grades.

A freshman mixer was held Monday night at which games were played and dancing followed.

Tuesday, September 20, returning to EOC presented a skit entitled "This Is Your Life at EOC." The huomorous skit gave new students a chance to become acquainted with the organizations on campus.

Coach Archie Dunsmoor introduced the football players and Dr. Bishop and Ruth Combs, Rally Squad Leader, closed the assembly with college songs and yells.

A New Students Picnic was held Tuesday evening at Riverside Park fololwed by a songfest and a movie, "The Mating Game."

Wednesday a recreation night was held at the Coliseum for all new students interested.

Thursday, September 22, Students were acquainted with places of interest in La Grande by Mr. Ken Lillard, President of the La Grande-Union County Chamber of Commerce.

New students got a chance to see freshman talent Thursday night when a talent asembly was presented. Deanna Talbott and Nancy Miller were chairmen of this event.

Friday, September 23, concluded the New Student Week with preregistration during the day and a record dance that evening.

Pictures To Be Taken

Senior pictures for the annual will be taken October 18, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., with Class pictures being taken October 19, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Six poses will be taken of the seniors in caps and gowns. One dollar down payment will be charged for both senior and class pictures. The total cost of the class pictures will be $2.00.

Upperclass students be sure and have your pictures taken or the annual staff will use an old picture of you in its place.

EOC Welcomes New Faculty

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, La Grande — Five new faculty members at Eastern Oregon College officially began their duties this week as classes got underway. This brings the number of EOC faculty to 66.

New staff members include:

RONALD H. BAYES, instructor in English. Bayes has his B.S. and M.S. from EOC and has done additional graduate work at Colorado State College. Last year he studied as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1955-56 he was instructor in English and director of information at EOC. He has also been lecturer in English and speech for the University of Maryland.

KENDALL W. BAXTER, instructor in physical science. Baxter has his bachelor of science degree from EOC and his masters from Oregon State. He has done additional graduate work at the University of Oregon and OSC. He taught physics and chemistry at The Dalles high school.

JOHN L. COBB, instructor in vocal music. Formerly an instructor in vocal music at Mt. Pulaski, Ill., Cobb has a Bachelor's degree from Illinois Wesleyan University. He has a master of Music from Indiana University.

Hoke Hall Nearing Completion

Notice something new, returning students? Yes, a paved street in front of Dorion! After two years of raving, the job is finally completed. And now another project is nearing readiness. That is a Hoke Hall. This building serves a vital purpose in addittion to having class rooms—that is of being our "student union." The Student Body Office and, now, the Organizational Rooms are downstairs, as is the college publication room and Bookstore. Upstairs is the lounge-study-dance-room which is now twice as large, since remodeling. Folding doors have been constructed, dividing this large hall into part-lounge, part-study room. For some dances and other occasions, the doors merey have to be drawn up and the full capacity of the hall can be utilized. For the nighty (and, oh, how they're mssed now) dances, the lounge segment of the hall will probably be used. And speaking of missing something, many, many of the faculty and students have been observed to be quite at loss without the coffee shop in operation. Soon, things should be back to normal, as it is scheduled to open soon. From the indications this will be a lovely section of Hoke. It shoud be known one can relax from the tedious assignments of the day. But it should be remembered that it isn't a place to stay away it should be remembered that it isn't a plac to stay away from, and ignore, those assignments.

Do take advantage of the double purpose of Hoke. It was put there for YOU.

Local Leaders Attend Retreat

By SUE SWITZER

The time and date? 6:00 p.m. September 16, 1960. The place? Baker Methodist Cabin, Wallowa Lake. What? EOC student council retreat. Who? Numerous members and advisors of this group. Why? Now, that's a good question. Oh, to discuss plans for the coming school year.

The time was ideal—just right for boating, swimming, and fishing. The place was perfect—close to the lake. The excuse was excellent—it sounded so legitimate. The group was fabulous—ASB president, John Dahlstrom; first vice president, Gerg Baker; secretary, Sue Switzer; rally squad leader, Ruth Combs; Dorion Hall president, Sandi Thompson; and advisors, Mrs. Winters and Mr. Anderson. The reason was logical—it sounded noble and concerned.

As a matter of fact, many things were accomplished despite the interruptions of fishing excursions and charcoal broilers. Maany plans were made concerning freshman days. Plans were made to contact the Buddy Morrow Orchestra to have him on campus October 13. Plans were made to furnish the new ASB office and organizational meeting room. The Homecoming Orchestra, Rod Esselton, was approved. A new publicity chairman JoAnn Alstott, was appointed. Plans were made to change the orientation skit presented during the freshman assembly presenting the various organizations on campus. As a matter of further fact, there was general discussion on student council and student body activities both in the past and in the future. Many fine ideas were jotted down mentally to be called upon at the appropriate time during the school year.

Summary? Fun, fact, fish, and future formations.

Council Confab

By SUE SWITZER

1. In starting a new year, student council had many duties to perform. The main interest at hand now is the selection of new furniture for the new ASB office and Organizational Meeting room. Money from the president's reserve fund will be used to purchase the furniture. A committee is working at present on styles and types of furniture needed.

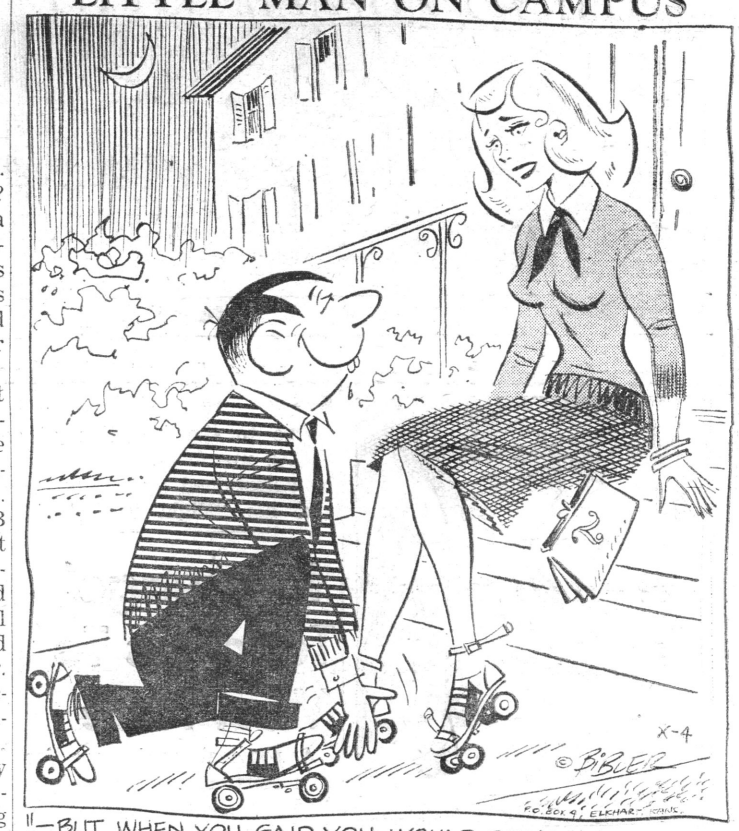
2. Dr. Bennett visited council at the first meeting and explained various things about new Hoke. He explained how it was going to be in a week and how it would be several years from now. The latest heard on opening dates was: the coffee shop, October 10 and the first big dance, October 13 or 14.

3. Homecoming plans are progressing rapidly. Almost all committee heads have been selected. Rod Esselton will play for the dance.

4. Student Council is sponsoring a dance October 13. Buddy Morrow's 14 piece Night Train orchestra will play from 9:00 to 1:00. The dress will be coat and tie for the fellows and dressy dresses for the girls.

5. The new ASB budget, under business manager, Dan Yturraspe, was approved in council for 1960-61.

6. The new publicity chairman is Jo Ann Elstott. The new radio chairman is Al Carr.



7. The social calendar is being worked on, over, and wtih, and should be printed before too long.

8. Plans and policies are under discussion for the management of the juke box this year. Nothing definite has been decided as yet.

"Well, Doc, was my operation a success?"

Column Needs Name —

By SHARON HICKEY

Hi! Well, here we are for another year, and here I am for another column. A column without a title. Have you any bright suggestions? If so, let me know.

Today is going o be nothing but ramblings as I need your help to write this. I NEED COPY!! This will be your column to say what you like. Have you any gripes, complaints, news, etc? Then let's put it in. Expound on anything—anything gooes (within reason, that is). If we get into hot water at least we will have raised some interest; it wouldn't be the first time this column has had someone in hot water. Whatever it may be, let our editor, Gail Fisher, Mr. Dorn or myself know, or drop it in the BEACON box in the mail room, and I'll put in in. Remember, the deadline will be Mondays.

Have you started your pin money to pay $1.50 for a ticket to see Buddy Morrow and his show? Yes, he'll be here on campus Thursday, Oct. 13th. This is NOT strictly a date affair—come on you stags. It will be campus dress so come one and all. Get those tickets beforee they're all gone (John promised if we ran out he'd have more printed, but he might pull the big "Foi-Paux"). Besides, EOC needs the money.

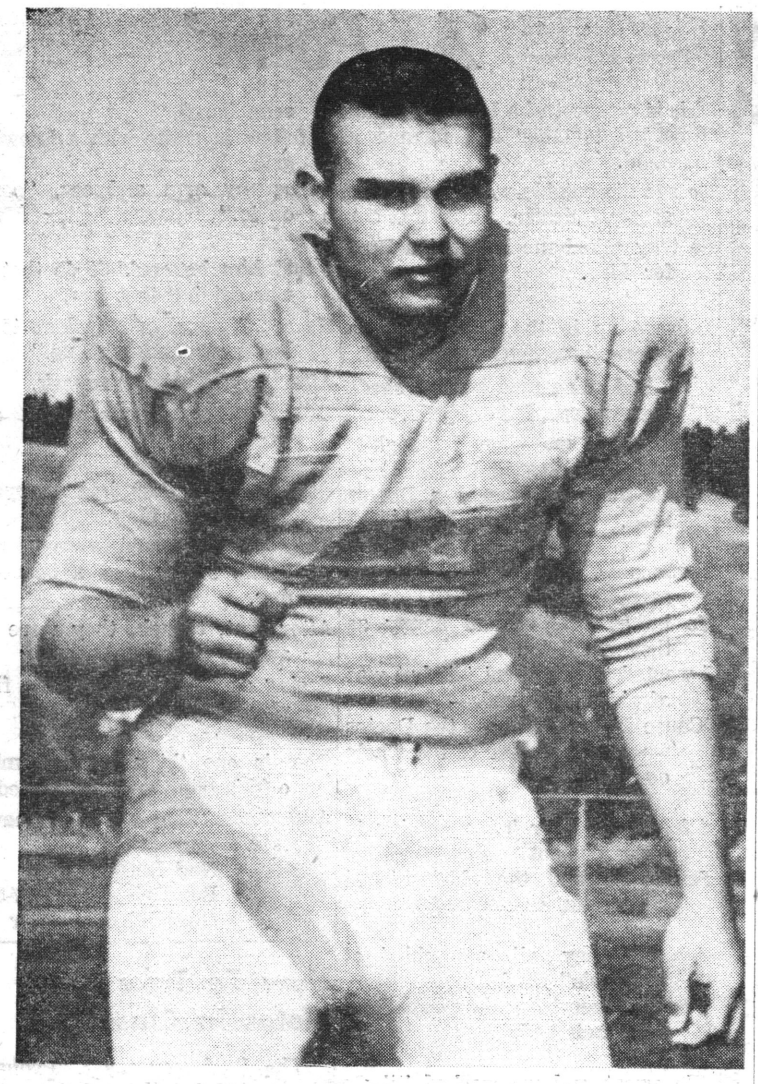
I had a question thrown at me the other day that I couldn't answer to the individaul's satisfaction. He is an upper classman who took a real PLEASURE in painting up the poor Freshmen (especially female). He said, 'Why should the Freshmen wear benies." That's a good question. He didn't like my answers, maybe like yours beter. Let's straighten this boy out'.

Read your next issue; let's get some copy coming in here.

Dorion Doings

By SUE C.

"Dorion full — every room? Gees, I can't believe it!" But it is true and no one knows better than Mrs. T., for she did the jiggling and juggling to find each girl a little nook to call home. For the first few days it was not an unfamiliar sight to see ten girls appear at the cafeteria door wearing very weary expressions and tremendous appetites. And who could blame them, after trudging up the hill to get their meals. However, after all the noses were counted it was discovered there was room for the "Tired Ten" to join the Dorion ranks. Welcome back gals!



A house meeting was held in the Dorion Hall cafeteria Wednesday night to inform and discuss the old and new rules. After a run down on the rules and suggestions for that nasty task of phone duty a humorous skit was presented starring Judy Young. That girl is a riot!

Well, that just about winds up the news for this edition but remember girls — Too Much Rest is Rust!

Idaho Tops EOC

Eastern Oregon College's Mountaineers suffered their second gridiron setback of the present '60 campaign, on September 24 at the hands of the College of Idaho Coyotes by the score of 13-0.

The Coyotes from Caldwell, Idaho, showed their sport fans a well-balanced attack, both on the ground and through the air. They piled up a net of 289 yards. 139 by rushing and 150 through the air. C. of I.'s main stay in their offense was their star fullback Bill Smith. Smith rolled up over 100 yards in rushing.

The Mountaineers offense, despite the score, was sparked by their quarterback Bob Brown. completed nine of 17 passes for 109 yards and a better than 50 per cent of completion. The team showed surprising improvement over the previously week encounter with the Whitman Missiounaries. "With the passing of Brown and the pass catching of Pat Hammond and Phil Miller the team offense moved more steadily than it has all season," expressed Coach Archie Dunsmoor.

Eastern Oregon showed vast improvement in their defense with the added strength of two-year letterman linebacker Ben Houk and the outstanding performance turned in by End Phil Miller, Guard Butch Corey and Linebacker Jerry Haugewood.

Ron Robinson, the Mountaineers kicking specialist, averaged 42 yards for nine punt and is showing why he i considered one of the best punter in the conference.

College of Idaho scored their first touchdown mid-way in the second quarter on an off-tackle smash by their fullback Bill Smith. They scored their second touchdown after a fumble by the Mountaineers on their three yard line. A few seconds later fullback Smith scored his second touchdown of the night on an off-tackle smash, making the score 13-0 in favor of the Coyotes. Although the Mountaineers tried in vain, and never counted themselves out of the scoring and EOC went down to defeat.

As for the future of the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers Coach Dunsmoor voiced "with the injuries to several starting players, the team will not be in full strength for the game this Saturday with OCE.

In games to come; on October 8. the Mountaineers play OTI, here at EOC. Then for three successive weeks they travel to Yakima, Portland and Ashland. Then they are home on November 5 for the homecoming game with Hamitlon Air Force Base.

ATTENTION: FRESHMEN, SOPHOMORES, JUNIORS & SENSENIORS!

If you do not come under this classification, then you needn't read this. But if you do, PAY HEED!!!!

October 18th is the date—9 a. m. to 3 p.m. are the hours, and YOU are needed to have your chest X-RAY and SKIN TEST. All Freshmen or new students that have not had these please do so. Juniors are required to do so as part of their physical. must have either the X-Ray or Seniors that are practice teching Skin Test. All minors or those not preregistered, and Seniors practicing teaching in Pendleton, please contact Mrs. Osterholme at her office in the Colliseum. Minors will need their parental or guardian's signature unless they are married.

It's beautiful weather now but winter will soon be upon us—so will the flu bug. When it hits, it will hit hard. The "Old Timers" will remember how fast it travels through the dorms and classes. To prevent this GO now to the Business Office and pay your 50c, take your receipts to Mrs. Osterholme, and have your flu shot. This is especially necessary for those who have repeated infections.

Remember!! Polio shots are essential—boosters are in order. These may be obtained in the same manner as the flu shots.

Let's get these shots now at this low price. Later it will cost you a great deal more. Let's keep EOC healthy and happy.

"John dear, I'm to be in an amateur theatrical. What will people say when I appear in tights?"

"They'll probably say I married you for your money."

Wolves Trim Mountaineers

Halfback Bob Pennell, a 5'9", 175 pound sophomore scatback, scored three touchdowns in leading the Oregon College of Education Wolves to victory over the Eastern Oregon College Mountaineers by the score of 34-0 before a jam-packed crowd at the Mountaineer stadium in La Grande.

Pennell, from Mapleton, smashed through the defense of the Mountaineers on scoring jaunts of 13 and 19 yards. His third touchdown came on a 14 yard pass play from teammate quarterback Chuck Burns. Pennell rolled up a net of 143 yards on 34 carries for a 4.2 average per carry.

The Wolves, sticking mainly to a fast running attack, were able to pound the Mountaineers' defense for a net of 279 yards on the ground and 68 yards through the air.

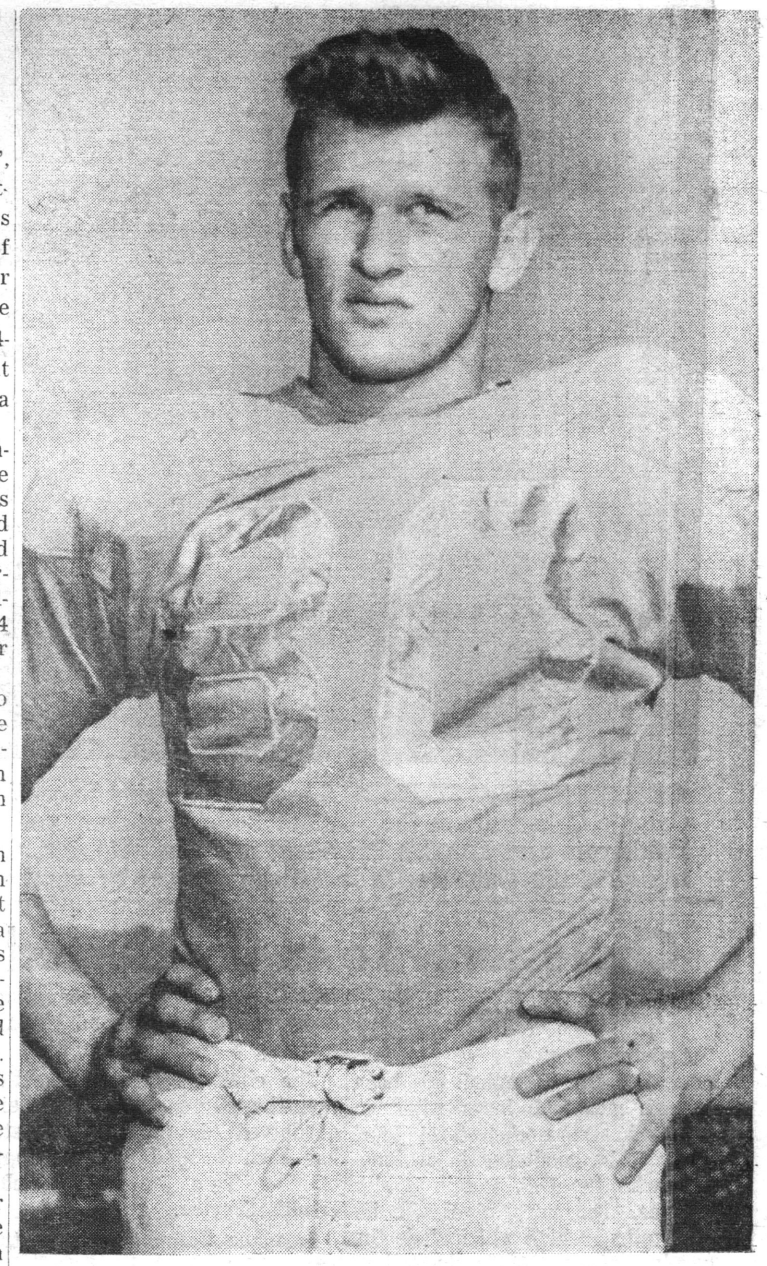
OCE scored its first touchdown midway into the first quarter on a 13 yard end run by their fleet halfback Pennell, capitalizing a 65 yard drive. The PAT was converted by George Ross. Pennell broke open the game in the second quarter when he scored his second and third touchdowns. The first came on a 14 yard pass from Burns and the second came on a 10 yard sprint through the left side of the Mountaineer defense.

The Wolves drove 60 yards for its fourth touchdown, about one third of the way into the fourth quarter and was capitaiized by a two yard smash over the right tackle spot by their big fullback Dave Mansfield, the PAT was added by Ross, his third of the night. Oregon College scored their final touchdown of the night when Frank Colburn went over from the four yard line.

As the fourth quarter was coming to a close, a mild rumble arose on the field when an un-Eastern Oregon College player was struck by an opposing player from Oregon College. The Mountaneeer coach, Archie Dunsmoor, rushed onto the field to protest the outcome of the rhubarb. Coach Dunsmoor was then struck by an anonymous OCE player. The scuffle ended shortly thereafter.

Eastern Oregon was plagued throughout the entire game by pass interceptions and numerous penalties. However, quarterbacks Branaugh and Dickinson showed the fans some brilliant passing as they completed 11 out of 26 for a net gain of 124 yards. Ends Larry Snook and Dennis Bagnall trned in excellegant performance, snagging several timely passes to sustain the EOC drives.

Next Saturday the Mountaineers play host to the powerful Oregon Technical Owls, from Klamath Falls, here on the Mountaineer gridiron.



A 200-acre restoration of the pioneer west called Knott's Berry Farm and Ghost Town, Reader's Digest reports, is now a $9,800,000-a-year business at Buena Park, 22 miles from Los Angeles in Southern California. Part of it is a make-believe mining camp with bearded prospectors panning gold.

Missionaries Victors Over EOC

On Eastern Oregon College's first encounter of the 1960 pigskin season, Coach Archie Dunsmoor's gridsters, wer downed by a powerful Whitman Missionary club, 45-14, September 17, under the lights of Mountaineer Field.

Entering the game with just nine practices under their belts, Coach Dunsmoor's squad showed little strength on offensive and had some trouble on defense.

Whitman had two stalwarts in their offensive power, Monohaun and Beck, both quarterbacks, their combined effort of passing and running kept the well-balanced attack of passing and running kept the well-belanced attack of the Misisonaries out on top throughout the game.

Pat Hammond, fleet-footed halfback, rushed for 64 yards in eight carries to lead the E.O.C. ground game. Hammond also scored one of the Mountaineers two touchdowns.

Also getting into the scoring coluumn was fullback Jerry Haguewood on a two yard smash. John Willmarth scored both extra-point attempts.

"With 20 lettermen and lots of experience bench strength, I predict that Whitman will win the Northwest Confernce," voiced Coach Dunsmoor. "They are not a big club but have lots of speed to make up the difference."

E.O.C.'s punting specialist Ron Robinson, was chosen "lineman of the week" for his outstanding line pay on both offense and defense. He also booted seven punts for a 37 yard average.

E.O.C. gained 100 yards on the ground to Whitman's 279 and in passing the Missionaries completed eight for 16 for 119 yards to E.O.C.'s four for 15 for 16 yards.

"I feel the club will come into its own in a week or so" expressed Coach Dunsmoor.

Cholesterol Tests Conducted

By Ron Cooper

Assistant professor of physical education Don Campbell has been named principal investigator in a blood serum cholesterol level study to be conducted in conjunction with the U.S. Public Health Service. The purpose of the investigation, which will include the services of some 140 male student volunteers from Eastern Oregon College, is to determine if a strenuous physical exercise program influences the blood serum cholesterol level in young adult males.

Volunteer participation in the cholesterol level study will require little deviation from normal college life. Preliminary testing of the 140 "human guinea pigs" consisted of pulse recordings, body measurements, and an early morning 5 cc blood sampling.

The cholesterol level investigation, the only one of its kind being conducted in the United States, has been granted a $3,000 appropriation from the U.S. Public Health Service.

Assisting Campbell in the study are Mrs. Georgia Osterholme, college health nurse, Archie Dunsmore, chairman of Eastern Oregon College's physical Education department, and Dr. Treve B. Lumsden, college physician.

None of the test conductors will receive any portion of the $3,000 government appropriation.

Cholesterol, the main object of the test, comes from foods as they are broken down by the body's digestive system. Large quantities of cholesterol have been found in the blood of persons suffering from circulatory disorders such as strokes, hardening of the arteries, and heart attacks.

Conclusion of the investigation is scheduled for the end of the fall quarter. Final results of the cholesterol study are anticipated by September 1, 1961.

'Tall Story' Casted

A popular hit among moviegoers is scheduled for the EOC college theater the first week-end in November. It is "The Tall Story," featuring drama with a light undertone.

The story features Professor Soloman (Leroy Moble), who teaches, and lives by, Modern Ethics, in Custer College. Professor has had trouble securing a position in a college, as he firmly believes in flunking students that deserve to be flunked. Just before the big basketball game of the season the Professor flunks Ray Blent (Dick Clark-, the star basketball player. Several of the town's citizens, including the college president, attempt to persuade the Professor to relent, which he refuses to do.

Unknown to the professor, Ray Blent, in refusing to accept a bribe to lose the game, purposely flunks Modern Ethics in order to be ineligible to play. The bribes continue, so Ray Blent decides to play, and win for Custer College. After discussing he problem with the Professor, Ray Blent takes a make-up examination during half-time, and goes into the game.

Others in the cast include:

For excellent entertainment, see "The Tall Story."

3 EOC Teachers To Attend Confab

Three Eastern Oregon College faculty members will serve as consultants at the north central educational conference in The Dalles, Oct. 6-7.

They are Dr. J. Lynn Bishop, professor of music education; Leona C. Golz, assistant professor of art education; and Gertrude J Geraets will be consultant in elementary school social studies.

Participating in the conference will be teahers and administrators trom Hood River, Wasco, Gilliam, and Wheeler counties.

LINDA RODGERS, Helix, Don Traw, Richland and Randi Johnson, La Grande are dressed as in preparation for the Buddy Morrow Dance, slated for October 23,, 9 p.m. — 1:00 at the College Coliseum. Dressy dress is the attire, with the women wearing dresses simudress is the attire, with the women wearing dreses simular to those pictured and the men wearing suits or sport suits. This is not a date affair, so if you invite a guest who s not a student at E.O.C. you must acquire a quest pass from the Dean's office. Admission is $1.50 per person.

'A Poem'

This is a report of a Mountain Clan
What got together and formed a band.
To see the outside world was their greatest desire,
So they asked me if I had a Bust for hire.

I drove up in the mthar rills to where their settlement stood,
They had some nice looking sheds back there in the woods.
When I first met them I though it twas an ailing clan,
'Cause their Pappy was a Doctor man.

I was surprised 'cause the kids all seemed to me
To be as healthy and happy as they coudl be.
I wanted to ask about tris but was afraid I'd be rude—
'Cause it seemed to me the Doctor wa sthe ailingest of the whole durn brood.

I found out later 'twas nothing to wdorry about.
Seems he had the old-fashioned rheumatiz, or a new-fashioned gout.
Anyway—they all assembled at "Pappy's" shed,
Packing everything they owned except their bed.

We sweat and we worked 'til we got it all the road.
Then we crawled on opr old crate and we hit tre road.

I learned quite soon—and I learn-with mease—
That this here Doctor man was hard to please.
At first—when the road was was straight and smooth—
I heard nary a word—in fact he took a snooze.

When the road started going straight up and then straight down,
And instead of being just crooked they cam stright around;
Tre bus and I were both slaving to stay out of a wreck.
And there's Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis looking right down my neck.

He watches a while and then frowns and then says to me—
"Let's hold our average speed at about sixty-three."
We were doing fine on our average —or at least so I thought,
But all of a sudden we had to stop.

The boss man had me stop so quick it led me to think
That Karen must have really been suffering for lack of a drink.
No moonshine was allowed on the trip, but Dale was rurting for some;
The closest he could come was some candy that had been flavored with rum.

Jokes were flying like fury through the air.
Some brought laughs—some blank stares.
If a joke happened to be trick or a little wiley.
Mike took an hour and a half to explain it to Smiley.

Speaking of jokes—that reminds me of Steve Running around like a sailor on a one day leave.
Looking for books or ideas—it was really a fight
To have a new joke for the concert tonight.

After he finds one re thinks wil ring the bell
He worries then as to whether it's fittin' to tell.

We stopped one place back down the line
Where everyone wa sa little bit off in the midn.
"Here's where we lose hald our crew," that's what I thought.
But everybody showed up right on the dot.

I though I'd go in and take a last check around,
But that wa sa mistake, I durn soon found.
A fellow in white with a knowing grin
Takes my arm and sez, "come on in."

I told him he couldn't do that—I was driving that bus,
He sez, "yeh, I'm Napoleon too—best you come with us."
After such a narrow squeak.
I've been a nervous wreck alll week.

At one town they had everyone marching to play.
They were supposed to wear overcoats, since 'twas a beautiful day.
After that, though, they were all awfully stuck up
Seeing as how they won the first place cup.

There's one thing I'll remember o fthis trip that I've learned;
And that's "that a Benny shaved is a Benny urned."

How To Take Notes In Class

The Professor says? "Probably the greatest quality of the poetry of John Milton, who was born in 1608, is the combination of beauty and power. Few have excelled him in the use of the English language, or for thatm atter in lucidity of verse form, Paradise Lost said to be the greatest poem ever writen."

You write down: "Milton-born 1608."

The Porfessor says: "When Lafayette first came to this country he discovered America, and Americans, needed his help if its course were to survive, and this he promptly supplied them."

You write down: "Lafayette discovered America."

The Professor says: "Current historians have come to doubt the complete advantageousness of some of Roosevelt's policies."

You write down: "Most of the trouble and problems that now face the United States are directly traceable to the bungling and greed of President Roosevelt."

The Professor says: ". . . it is possible that we do not completely understand the Russian viewpoint."

You write down: "Professor Mitchell is a Communist."

The Professor says: "Pages 7 through 15 are not required but will prove of unestimable worth to the student for the term examination."

You write down: "Omit pages 7 through 15."

The Professor says: "The class Friday will probably be the most important of the year since we will throw it open to a general discussion of the main problems which have come to our attention throughout the course. Attendance will not be taken."

You writer down: "No class Friday."

Who's Who In Queen Candidates

With homecoming drawing near, the various organizations are selecting and campaigning for their chosen candidate. Friday, Oct. 28, the preliminaries will narrow the court to three. From the three, a queen will be selected. The candidates and their representing organizations are:

Alpha Rho Tau—Elaine McNaught.

Hunt Hall—Sue Chrisman.

I.K's—Bev Trimble.

Lettermen—Peggy Elder.

Rodeo Club—Bunny Moyer.

Sabers and Collegians—Beth Combs.

Theta Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Chi—Sandi Thompson.

Assemblies

A variety of assemblies have been scheduled for fall term at EOC. As all assemblies have not been planned, arrangements are still underway to bring what is hoped by the assembly committee to be a fine selection of programs.

The committee has stressed that the assemblies are planned for the interest and betterment of the students, so they wish to solicit their support at the assemblies.

Assemblies scheduled thus far include:

Nov. 2 Homecoming Assembly

Nov. 9. Philip Hanson: Portraying the rebels of various characters in American Literature

Nov. 16. President Strand, OSC; A talk about Agriculture and Technology

Nov. 23. Thanksgiving Assembly

Hoke Coffee Shop Completed

After four weeks without the coffee shop, students and faculty are finding that its opening is now at hand. The room has been lengthened and varoius seating arrangements have been situated to add to the capacity of the shop. Two dining rooms have replaced the old site of the bookstore in the coffee shop.

The general color scheme is of turquoise and natural wood paneling. Drapes and the cushioned benches and chairs predominate the tourquoise scheme. All equipment in the coffee shop is new. This includes the furniture as well as the equipment in the ktichen.

Anew system of picking up order has been devised, enabling those who merely want coffee or other short orders to be served more quickly, as there will be specific places for ordering short orters and sandwich orders.

Class Officers Chosen

Last year's officers relinquished their positions Tuesday, October 11 to incoming officers. The seniors elected Ben Houk from Stanfield for their president. Ben, a letterman in football, is majoring in elementary Ed. Leon Severin, better known as "Sev" or Gallon" was elected vice-president. Besides senior V. P., "Sev" is Duke of I. K.'s a dorm counselor, and V.P. of Newman Club. Leon comes from Milton-Freewater and his major is Secondary Ed. Elementary Ed is the major of their class secretary-treasurer, Louise Young. Louise comes from Baker and she is also A.W.S. secretary. Bill Lovelady, student council representative, is majoring in Secondary Ed. Bill is a member of I. K.'s and comes from Baker.

A Second Ed major, Al Carr, is the junior class president. Al plays in the band and is a member of I. K.'s. The Dalles is claimed by Al Carr as his home town. Larry 'Hawk" Coleman from Pendleton was elected vice president. Active in sports, Larry is catcher on the EOC Mountaineer baseball team and is majoring in secondary education. Taking minutes for the class will be Eloise "Bunny" Moyer. Bunny comes from Hermiston. Two years ago, her freshman year, she was crowned Intercollegiate Rodeo Queen. Carrying the vote for the junior class at student council will be Loretta Herbison from Condon. Loretta also serves as vice president of Dorion Hall and is an Elementary Ed. Major.

All-around athlete, Dennis Bagnall, will lead the sophomore class this year. Pendleton is the home of Bagnall. He is working toward his degree in Secondary Ed. Assisting the president is another Pendleton man, Ben Symington. Elementary Ed. is his field. Bev Trimble was elected secretary treasurer. Sabers, SOEA and AWS top the list of her many activities. Bev is majoring in Elementary Ed. Roberta Stickland from Nyssa will represent the Sophomores in Student Council. "Bert" as she is known, is majoring in Elementary Ed.

Mayard Pullen from Wallowa, is the new freshman class president. He is majoring in Pre-Veterinary Medicine. Baseball player Kick Willem from Madras was elected vice president. Celeste Wayne was chosen as their secretarytreasurer. She is from Ontario, is active on the Beacon and she is majoring in Elementary Ed. Ron Cooper is the freshman student council representative. Ron is active on the Beacon. His home town is La Grande.

Crash Kills Two EOC Students

A spectatcular sports car-cattle truck crash shortly before noon yesterday west of La Grande resulted in the death of the two EOC students.

The victims were identified as Irvan Jay Campbell, 21, Pilot Rock, killed outright, and Thomas L. Nolder, 22, Pendleton, who died at a hospital. Both were EOC students here.

The crash occurred on Highway 30 about one-half mile west of the Hilgard Junction road when the small sports car in which the two rode, failed to negotiate a curve, lost control and skidded approximately 50 yards into the left front section of an oncoming cattle truck.

The truck was owned by Dale Standley of La Grande and driven by Cleo Petersen, Alicel. Petersen received minor nose injuries.

Petersen was traveling west on the highway when he first observed the car coming around a curve at the top of a small incline at a fast rate of speed, he said.

The car first struck the gravel at the outside edge of the road then swung back onto the highway in a skid, coming into the oncoming lane of traffic and striking the truck. Petersen edged his vehicle off the highway into the ditch to avoid the small car "but an accident was inevitable," he said. "I could see it coming but I couldn't do anything about it."

Nolder was taken to a local hospital by Dempsey amublance.

Dorothy M. Winters, EOC Dean of Women, was named vice president-elect of the Oregon Deans of Women and Counselors Association at the recent State Conference held at Sea Side, Oregon.

The annual meeting was attended by some hundred counselors of Oregon colleges and high schools.

WITH the remodeling of Hoke's interior, its "face" also got a lift. The most evident new features are the three doors leading to the lounge-dance floor area, new windows in the same area, wider side entrances and a new paint finish. (Beacon Photo)

College Is What You Make It

We are college students. As such, we are expected to conduct ourselves as mature individuals. Yet we are often stereotyped as young "social butterflies," seeking mainly pleasure and getting through the studies the easiest way possible by "pulling the cover" over the various professors' eyes.

You are college faculty. You are expected to foster the future leaders of the world. Yet you are sometimes also stereotyped, depicted as absent-minded individuals, little concerned with your students. In some cases these stereotypes may be valid. But for colleges to function effectively, there must be a situation in which the faculty works for the students and the students work for the faculty.

In classes, for example, the professor is working for the student by supplying him with information and exercises to help him on his career. The student, in turn, is working for the professor by displaying his abilities to do that which is assgned him. Students should not get the idea that research papers—citing an instance—were invented to hinder them. To the contrary, a vast amount of knowledge can be obtained from such a paper, by securing information on the particular topic, being able to translate, evaluate and summarize that information, then forming own opinions on that data, and finally being able to transpose those opinions into an organized paper. Not only does this help you write better, but it also helps you think better.

The two and two situation is not only concerned with studies. It is prevalent in activities also. Each student organization has a faculty advisor through which to work. The faculty are willing to give of their time, while we students give of ours.

Certainly, it is quite easy to sit back and let others do what we should be doing for others and ourselves. Yet inevitably comes the day when we say, "What have I received from my life at college?"—then we should let these words enter our thoughts . . . college makes of you, both faculty and students, only what you make of it.

Sharin' With Sharon

Are the "so-called" adults of this world still children? Upon observing the affairs of this nation and others one would think so.

Let us take the last session of the United Nations where we allowed Khrushchev to turn the session into turmoil, or the last Kennedy-Nixon debate when our future leaders quibbled about whether we would defend the Quemoy Islands in the event of a Chinese Communist invasion. Is not the end result at the U.N. to be peace? Are not our future leaders the voice of the public? Why, the, this petty bickering?

To this reporter it seemed a great waste of time to quibble over issues that should be obvious to every adult American. We should not allow the communists to use the Quemoy Island, or a part of any country, as a stepping stone to power and the extinction of democracy. We cannot allow someone such as Khrushchev to tunr the U.N. into pandemonium.

In solution to the problem, why can't the representatives of the Western World treat Khrushchev and his associates much as Nehru did in a recent U.N. debate — when K. lowered himself by childishly pounding on the table, Nehru stared in disbelief. Must we lower ourselves to their plain of diplomacy? These issues, as said before, are obvious. We have already seen East Berlin, Hungary, China, part of Korea, and probably Cuba, to name a few, drift into the communist block. It would seem that we should have profited from past infiltration of the free world —was World War II of no avail?

Let us hope that in the future, the leaders of freedom wil take a more adult plan of action in dealing with one another and in dealing with leaders of other countries.

Council Corner

By SUE SWITZER

1. The 1960 OFCL Conference is going to be held at McMinnville on the Linfield College Campus on November 4 and 5—unfortunately the same days as EOC's Homecoming. It is undecided at present who will attend this conference from EOC to discuss situations and problems common to all Oregon schools. Twelve other Oregon schools will be represented.

2. The furniture has been ordered for the new ASB office and the organizational meeting room. It follows the style used in the Hoke lounge.

3. A student-faculty committee consisting of Dan Yturraspe, Skip Gregory, Dr. Easley, Mr. Meuli, and chairman, Dr. Gordon Clarke, is working on a policy for sound equipment to be used in Hoke. Specifications will be presented Mr. Burton and Mr. Fallow, so they can present bids to student council for installing the jukebox and sound equipment.

4. Several letters have been mailed to other schools to get an idea of how to improve faculty-student communication. Faculty mail boxes prove very successful, but there is a need for better communication when faculty members want to conact students.

Larry DeKalb is the new Student Union Chairman.

6. Regular council meetings will be every other week; executive council meetings will be held on the alternate weeks.

7. The Johnny Rietz orchestra will be here Tuesday, Nov. 22.

8. There is a possibility student council may purchase some flood lights for their use and for the use of all organizations on campus. There is a committee working on this.

9. Council is paying $4 for every $3 spent by students on Civic Music tickets. This amount turned out to be more than had been expected, so a different policy will be followed next year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

All of us have responsibilities; some great, others not so great. But, whatever they are, we should carry through with them. Take, for nstance, the responsibility of attending student council ... Here is a duty many people shirk. Every organization on campus has one representative. The Collegians have two representatives. EOCene courts has two representatives. Each class has two representatives. Both publications have representatives. There is a representative from Dorion and one from Hunt Hall. The permanent committee chairmen have places on council as do the student body executive officers.

The average council meeting should have anywhere from 25 to 40 members, which isn't really very many when you consider they are making the policies for the whole college—you included. Have you been to a council meeting lately? Probably not, but you should go, if you belong there. One hour every other Thursday isn't too much time to give to your college and student government. That one hour may affect something that is to happen for the rest of the year. Bring a guest, if you like. Council meetings are open meetings and guests are welcomed.

How about your responsibility? How about Thursday, October 27, at 12:30?

Sincerely,

An interested party.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Dorion Hall has been the scene of many interesting and exciting events during the last two weeks. One of the most important events was the election of a new treasurer and new floor representatives. Linda Thomas was selected to handle the money for the next year and those girls chosen to keep order in the dorm are Ellen Uesugi, Kit O'Callahan, Eileen Marshal, Judy Witherall, Nelda Huber, and Jo Alstott.

Another event that took place at Dorion last week was the lipstick fight staked by an energetic group of students. After watching this exposition it was evident the rivalry between upperclassmen and freshmen is on the move.

The third affair staged at Dorion was the Big and Little Sister Party held Sunday night. The purpose of this affair was for the freshmen and transfer students to become better acquainted with the girl which was selected to help and guide them through their first year at EOC.

Only three happenings have been cited here, but in the halls of Dorion many unusual things have taken place. Beds have been filled with cereal and sugar, toothpaste has covered the windows and clothing from drawers has been scattered in all directions.

In closing, it may be well to remind you that even though pranks such as these are more fun than studying we should take heed to a sign two girls in Dorion have placed on their door that reads, "There comes a harvest time when all must reap what they sow."

Torrid Tips

By BUNNY MOYER

The University of Oregon had Buddy Morrow and his "Night Train" playing for their Homecoming dance. To fit in with ther theme "Ivory and Brass" they will also have a concert by Roger Williams.

OCE (along with EOC) has problems with an unfinished student union. The happy times when they open will make up for all the inconveniences though.

Buddy Morrow is really getting around in Oregon. Besides playing at EOC and the U of O he will be at OSC October 14 to play for their sophomore Cotillion.

Lewis and Clark is launching a friendliness campaign with the theme to be "Hello Around the World." During 'Hello Day" students and progressors will make an effort to meet each other.

That's all for this week . . . don't forget to give the Mounties scme support at their next game.

Class Routine Change Noted

By AL CARR

Returning students to the EOC campus were somewhat surprised, this fall, to find the class routine, to which they had accustomed themselves, had undergone radical change.

Classes, which previously had begun on the hour, now start on the half hour. Speculation on the plausibility of the new schedule was a main theme for group discussion or bull-sessions all over the campus.

Following a three week adaption period the concensus of opinion is favorable to the system. A limited verbal survey has divulged the apparent reasons for this acceptance of the new schedule as opposed to the previous one.

Many of us, having experienced the seven o'clock class last year, are only too happy to take advantage of that extra half hour sack time which is offered now.

Concerning the eighty minute class on Tuesday and Thursday I would like to be perfectly frank. Some classes, in the minds of most students, are'nt worth attending three times a week. There are, on the other hand, those classes from which the individual feels there is something to be learned, and it is often advantageous to all that subject matter should be concentrated into two larger periods than into three fifty minute periods.

If I may interject my personal opinion from the psychological view, I find that class time passes faster than under the old system.

Finally, Dr. Clarke nformed me that it is required of the administration of this college that they strive to attain, as closely as possible, equal use of all classrooms. The eighty minute class has done much toward achieving this goal.

The only disadvantage I have discovered in my inquiries stems from the scheduling of classes through the noon hour. A small group of unfortunate souls are forced to forego lunch because of schedule conflict. This being the situation in only a few cases, I found those students and faculty members, whom I approached, to be quite satisfied with the new system. Most agree that it is an improvement over the schedule of previous years.

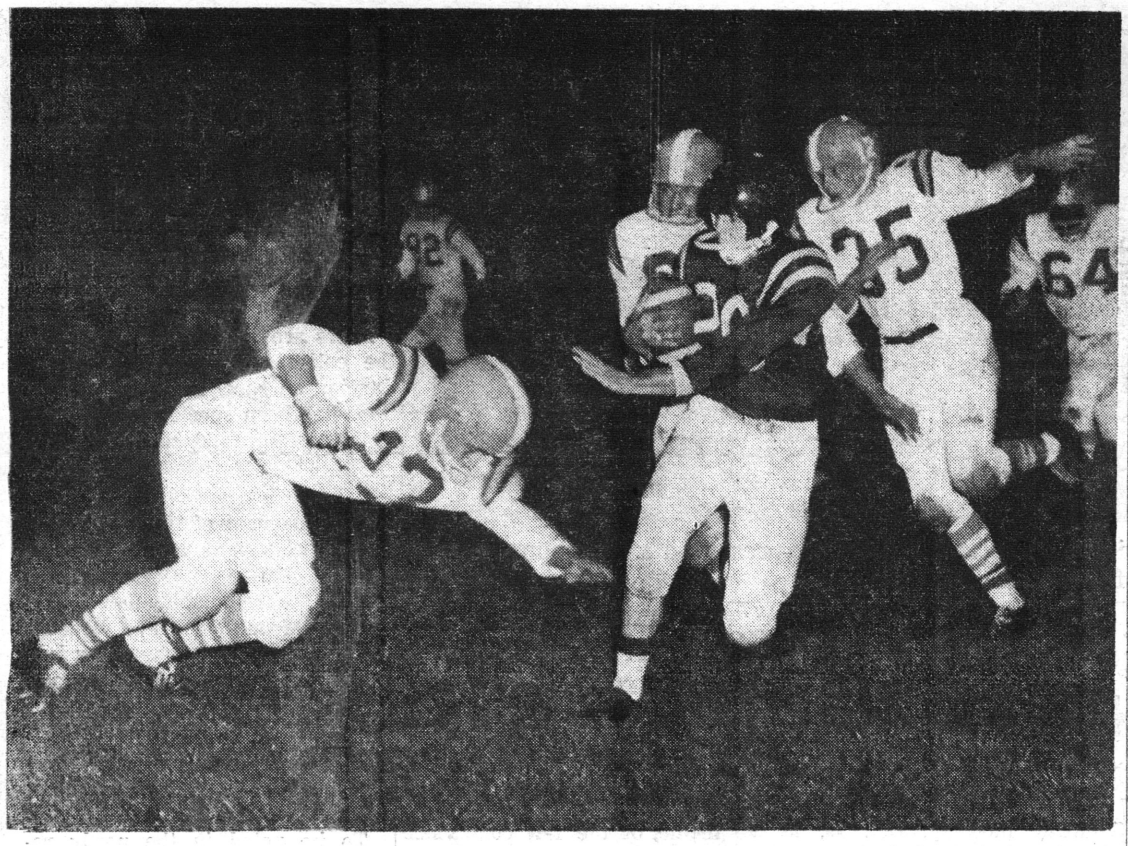
NOTICE

All students who have not turned in their information cards to Mr. Dorn, do so at once.

Remember Measure No. 6

Editor's Note: As it is imtant that ballot number 6 be approved in the November 8 election, this editorial from the Canby Herald, published August 25, 1960, is being run in the Beacon to restress the important of a YES vote on issue number 6.

Remember Measure No. 6



Among the measures which will appear on the November 8 ballot, No. 6 bears the ballot title: "State Bonds for Higher Educa tion Facilities." This title will inspire almost automatic NO votes unless every voter understands exactly what it means. When they do, practically all of them will voter YES.

Measure No. 6 merely provides a higher bonding limit under which Oregon universities and colleges may build dormitories and other structures which will pay for themselves without a cent of tax money. Only the self-liquidating facilities are included in the terms of this constitutional provision.

Practically all of Oregon's nine higher education institutions are short of dormitory space and are faced with an increase of 16,400 in enrollments during the next nine or ten years. Taking state-appropriated tax money to build self-liquidating structures will reduce the funds available for education and result in a drain on taxpayers. Yes, students cannot go to college without places to live.

The proposed amendment merely changes the words "assessed valuation" to 'true cash value" in setting the bonding limits. The change will make approximately $8,000,000 more available each biennium for buildings which will pay for themselves through rents and fees.

Both houses of the 1959 Legislature passed Measure No. 6 unanimously. As a constitutional amendment it must be referred to the people for a vote. It has the support of the Oregon State Grange, the League of Women Voters and of organized labor, among others. A committee named Colleges for Oregon's Future has been organized to conduct a campaign which will explain clearly the purposes of the amendment and the fact that it will not increase taxes. This should be all the explanation necessary, for nobody is against Ballot Measure No. 6.

Oregon Tech Keeps Record Clean With Easy 51-6 Win

Fumble-stricken Eastern Oregon College suffered its fourth straight setback of the season at the hands of the Oregon Tech Wolves, before a jam-packed frost bitten crowd on the Mountaineer gridiron Saturday night, October 8.

The Wolves were led to victory by their quarterbacks Dick Olivas and Roy Johnson. They completed 8 out of 18 passes for 199 yards. Ardell Hamilton, their brilliant end, caught four of those passes for a gain of 102 yards. The Wolves capitalized on numerous fumbles and miscues made by the Mountaineer squad. "We stopped their running attack. but it was our pass defense which was the main factor in our loss," voiced the Mountaineer coach, Archie Dunsmoor.

OTI scored their first touchdown on a run by halback Ken Lewers, which capitalized a 60 yard drive. Their second and third touchdowns came after a recovered fumble and a blocked punt. The Wolves scored once again mid-way into the third quarter and added their final score of the night on a 40 yard pass interception by Olivas.

Although the Mountaineers suffered the defeat, they showed surprising strength in their running attack. The EOC backs rambled for a net of 179 yards which was their highest output of the season. EOC entered into the scoring column on a ten yard plunge by freshman halfback Gary Betts. Outstanding performers for the Mountaineers were halfbacks Jerry Haugewood and Benny Houk along with lineman Ben Salter, Gordon Meyers and Ron Robinson.

As for next week's action, the Mountaineers travel to Portland where they will clash with the Portland State College Vikings.

Cobb Directs Musical Group

This year's Blue and Gold singers are under the direction of Professor John Cobb. Those included in the group are James Boatman, Stan Case, Dick Clark, Betty Combs, Beth Combs, Jim Cornett, Louie Dick, Jean Erickson, Daisy Good, Jim Lee, Marta Murphy, Karin Stewart, Larry Taylor, Merlene Teasley, and Ellen Uewugi. The singers will be presenting a large portion of the Christmas program this year which will be on December 7. The music they are presenting comes from both ancient and modern sources.

Drive Carefully!

Young Republicans Active

Pre-election activities, it appears, will keep the Young Republicans quite busy. "Not only are we interested in the Nixon - Lodge ticket," says Chairman Hugh Swany, "we are particularly interested in Ron Phair for Congress from the second district, Klamath Falls, and Chris Christensen for State Legislature." Terry Edvalson has been elected campus chairman for Christensen and Jim Sisemore campus chairman for Phair.

This year's State Convention for Young Republicans is to be held Dec. 3-4 on the University of Oregon's campus.

Members of the campus Republicans hope to stir up interest so that La Grande High School students may also organize as Young Republicans in the near future.

Co-advisors for the Young Republicans, Dr. Spear and Mr. Ron Bayes, extend a cordial welcome to all students interested in becoming members. All meetings are announced in advance.

Football Standings Reported

Bob Pennel, Oregon College of Education halfback, took over the rushing lead of the Oregon Collegiate conference this past week by one single yard. He replaced last week's leader, Bud Maupin of Oregon Tech.

Pennel has gained 263 yards in three games while Al Barnes of SOC moved into second position with 262 yards gained. Maupin is in third place with 242 yards.

Dick Olivas of Oregon Tech jumped ahead of SOC's John Buck in the passing department. Olivas and Bob Grant of PSC are tied with the most completions of 22 but Olivas has gained 369 yards to Grant's 361 and has tossed 55 times to Grant's 58.

SOC's Howard Hartman continues to lead the pass receivers with 12 receptions for 183 yards. Pennel also moved out into the individual scoring lead with four touchdowns for a total of 24 points. EOC's Ronny Robinson continues to maintain his punting superiority. He has averaged 36.5 yards on 20 kicks.

Only one change turned up in the team statistics. OTI took over first place in pass defense, having yielded only 97.7 yards yer game. Tech is also first in total team defense, having given up only a net of 210 yards per game. SOC still leads in total offense by gaining 314.0 yards each game.

"Back of the Week" honors went to SOC's Doyle Branson, 18-year-old sophomore halfback. Branson averaged four yards per carry against Portland State last week and scored two touchdows to help lead his team to victory.

"Lineman of the Week" went to another sophomore, Don Anderson, of Oregon Tech. Honorable mention went to backs Benny Houk, EOC; Roy Johnson, OTI; Bob Pennel, OCE; and Bob Grant, PSC. Linemen receiving votes were Bob Salter, EOC; Tom Morris, and Howard Hartman, both from SOC; Herb Hermann, OCE; and Mickey Gray, PSC.

DRESSED in appropriate attire for the Homecoming Dance to be held November 5, are Tony Keller and Beth Combs. Dress for the dance is semi-formal. The men will choose suits, while the women will select among after five dresses, generally in silk, satin, taffeta, or similar materials. As simpicity is the essence of fashion, it is to be stessed that simple jewelry should be worn to complement the dress of the women, rather than clusters of sparkling jewelry. (Beacon Photo)

Scheduled Hikers Visit Morgan Lake

Saturday morning, Oct. 15, at 7:45, twenty-two students were gathered in front of Hoke Hall. Their purpose was to go on a hike to Morgan Lake, near La Grande. Leading the hike, which was sponsored by the Outing Club, was Dr.Quaintance and Dr. Van Vechten.

After piling in a pickup and three cars, the "hikers" were off, led by Dr. Van Vechten in his tiny Volkswagon. When the halfway point was reached, the hikers jumped out of the cars and pickup and began their biological excursion through cow pastures and timberland, up the steep mountain to Morgan Lake. About every fifty feet, Dr. Van Vechten could be heard, "stop for a minute and look back or you will miss the wonderful view."

When the jaunt to the Lake was completed, Dr. Quaintance and Dr. Van Vechten got out their fishing poles, letting various students try their luck, while other students explored the lake, gathering various weeds to spray for winter bouquets and decorative pine cones and ponderosa pine branches to put in their rooms, Other students built two fires to heat the coffee, cocoa and tea on.

At 2:00, the hikers started back, while Dr. Quaintance explained how the valley was formed.

Students Attend SOEA State Conference

"It's Our Profession: Leadership Through Participation" was the theme of the fall conference of SOEA held at Lewis and Clark College, Saturday, October 15. The keynote address was given by Margaret Knispel, a member of the NEA "New Horizons" Project Committee. She explained that the project was to promote autonomy in the teaching profession. Mrs. Knispel said that one of the goals is to have education groups issue teaching licenses instead of the state.

The conference divided into discussion groups. The topics discussed were communications, membership, programs, regional meetings, professional organizations and the New Horizons Program.

At the luncheon, Milo Cameron, OEA president, spoke to the group. He stated that education is the most important profession. Also he said that a teacher has to be smart to keep ahead of the "kids" who are rather ingenius in devising ways to outwit the teacher. Then he humorously told the group about his experiences and demonstrated several items that a teacher might encounter in school, such as squirt guns hidden in a hollow of a book, and a pen in the shape of a cigarette.

Those attending the conference from EOC were Val Mitchell, Mary Gray and Nancy Choate.

Hoke Re-opens

As Hoke re-opens, students will again be able to enjoy the coffee shop, dancing, lounging and studying in a new atmosphere.

The upstairs lounge is conveniently divided by folding doors to make it a study room and at the same time a lounging room.

Doors are merely drawn up and the entire hall can be used for dancing on special occasions. The floor has been specially varnished so that coffee and cokes will not stain the floor, allowing such to be used in the lounge.

The basement of Hoke Hall features such rooms as the Student Body Office Organizational Rooms, college publication rooms for the Mountaineer and Beacon, the Bookstore, a Photography laboratory, a Biology laboratory and an acoustics room with new pianos for practice by students and faculty not accessible to other pianos. Downstairs there are also a number of classrooms.

To be noted in the newly remodeled lounge is the bandstand in the center of the floor and a vivd color scheme.

Homecoming At EOC Promises Varied Program

A full program of activities has been planned for the Eastern Oregon College Homecoming, Nov 4 and 5, according to Karen Sutton, Hermiston, and Hugh Swaney, Klamath Falls, student co-chairmen.

Highlighting Friday's events will be the crowning of the Homecoming Queen at 6:30 p.m. This will be followed by the torchlight parade and the traditional burning of the "O."

Scheduled for Saturday at 1:30 p.m. is the football game, EOC vs. Hamilton Air Force Base. The pre-game schedule includes the alumni coffee hour and official meeting, and the downtown parade of campus organization floats at 12:30. Alumni registration set for 9:30 a.m. The Homecoming Dance Saturday night will compete the two-day festivities.

Both Friday and Saturday evenings will feature in addition the EOC drama group's production of "Tall Story."

Queen Beth Will Reign

Eastern Oregon College
BEACON
Vol. XXX November 4, 1960 No. 3

Three Lovelies On Court

Beth Combs, Sue Christman, and Sadi Thompson were selected to reign over EOC's 1960 Homecoming November 4th and 5th.

Beth Combs is a sophomre from La Grande and is majoring in Music Education. She proves her musical talent by her active participation in Blue and Gold, band, choir, and dance band. Brown-haired, blue-eyed Beth is known for her sweet personality. Beth is sponsored by Sabers of which she is a member.

Another member of the court is Sue Chrisman, a junior from Wallowa. She is majoring in Elementary Education. Sue's poise and fine personality last year won her the honor of being Snow Princess at Mount Hoood. Sue is very active on the Beacon staff. Miss Chrisman is being sponsored by Hunt Hall.

Sandi Thompson, a senior majoring in Elementary Education is from Halfway and the third member of the court. Sandy has been very active in her four years of college. She has been ASB secretary, AWS president, Princess of Dorion Hall, Snow Princess, and Junior Miss. This year she is Dorion Hall president, a counselor, and an active member in Sabers. Sandi's friendly smile has become well known around the campus. Sigma Alpha Chi and Theta Delta Pi are sponsoring Sandi.

Mock Election Held

By RON COOPER

Republican Vive President Richard M. Nixon received a 9 vote plurality to defeat his tousle-headed Democratic opponent, John F. Kennedy in a mock election held November 3, on the Eastern Oregon College campus.

A total of 351 votes were cast in the hotly contested white house race for the two presidential nominees in the sham election sponsored by the young Democrat and Republican clubs.

Of the 351 students casting their votes in the election, 180 selected Republican vice president Richard M. Nixon to fill the chief executive position.

Massachusetts Senator John F. Kennedy, a speaker on the Eastern Oregon campus a year ago November 9, failed to equal the Nixon total by 9 votes receiving 171 of the 351 vote total.

At the state level, Maurine Neuberger, wife of the late Oregon senator Richard Neuberger, thwarted Republican Elmo Smith's bid for a senate seat 190 to 164.

Ron Phair, Republican hope to unseat incumbent Al Ullman as second district representative, suffered a 121 to 222 vote defeat.

Howell Appling Jr., received 184 votes to defeat his Democratic opponent for secretary of state, Monroe Sweetland with 155.

Republican candidate for state treasurer, received the narrowest margin of winning votes cast when he edged Democrat Ward Cook 167-165.

Robert Y. Thornton, present attorney general of the state of Oregon, defeated Republican Carl Francis 219 to 123.

Alumni: Welcome To Homecoming

Dear Alumni:

We are pleased so many of you are with us for Homecoming. Both students and faculty join in this welcome.

We invite you to tour the campus, revisit old haunts and explore the new. We especially invite you to visit and enjoy Hoke Hall as it is now remodeled. We know we are going to enjoy it greatly and hope you also are pleased with it.

We have again struck an all-time high in enrollment. Our count at the close of registration is 831. Last year's high was 778. We are initiating our new lower division program in Agriculture this year. Last spring we had our first Bachelor of Arts degree graduates. Our Secondary Teacher Education program and General Studies program, initiated in 1954, are now strongly established.

Please join in the activities prepared for your pleasure and enjoy the renewal of old friendships and the chance to make new ones.

We are happy to have you on campus.

Cordially,
FRANK B. BENNETT
President

Autumn

As the last leaves cling to the trees and the ground is blanketed with a carpet of reds, yellows, oranges, and browns; and as the days become increasingly shorter and the nights crisper—the melancholy personality of Autumn has replaced the happy personality of Summer. Seasons do tend to possess personalities, or at least, man has integrated it into them.

Winter has acquired the symbol of the finale and even death. It is often depicted as a bleak, dreary period, with barren trees and clouded skies. But this is not always true. For winter does possess a serene beauty, in its clear blue skies and in its "diamonds" sparkling form the crystals of snow.

After winter comes the Spring. It is the gay season, young and free. The sun begins to warm the cooled earth and children step out of their winter wear, eager to romp again among the grass and flowers. Newly foliaged trees greet their new tenants as the birds find new homes. Spring, then discreetly passes into Summer.

Summer is matuure and like its days, its personality is warm and glowing. Nature is to be at its finest.

Autumn arrives and with it, comes a contemplative, melancholy personality. The landscape is serene and beautiful. Life tends to become quiet, waiting for the first acknowledgement of winter. Yet, here and there is the chatter of a squirrel, busily gathering his winter dinner. And from the south, one can hear the faint cry of the birds as they travel to their vacation land.

Pathologist Is Selected

Bruce P. Ryan, Eastern Oregon College speech pathologist and director of the Eastern Oregon Cooperative Speech and Hearing Center, will attend the national meeting of the American Speech and Hearing Association in Los Angeles, Nov. 1-5.

Featured at the meeting will be results of the latest research in the field and special reports by Wendel Johnson, professor of psychology and speech, pathology and audrology, and other authorities.

Also scheduled during the conference are separate group meetings of directors of speech and hearing centers, state directors of public school speech correctionists.

1. The social calendar this year would cost too much money to be printed by the same printer who did it last year. Larry Snook is going to duplicate the social calendar for the rest of the fall term, and fine a less expensive printer to do the calendar for winter and spring terms.

2. The members of the election committee are: Elaine McNaught, chairman; Dale Decker; Anita Judd; Barbara Boyle; Darrell White, Hugh Swaney, Susie Beauchamp, Earl Miller, and advisor, Mr. Dorn.

3. Recommendations have been made to present bidders for sound system and juke box in Hoke Hall.

4. The TV is in room 25, Hoke Hall.

6. Due to lack of interest and overlapping activities of EOC students, it was decided not to have a student body—constructed student council-sponsored float in the Homecoming parade. This will be considered next year.

7. Two desks for the ASB office have arrived. Much of the other furniture will be here soon, so equipment scattered various places about the campus may again be centrally located.

8. Regular Student Council meetings will be held every week, rather than alternated with executive council meetings.

9. Delegates representing EOC at the annual OFCL conference are Sue Switzer, Joann Allstott, and Loretta Herbison.

10. The mail boxes are up in Hoke. There are boxes for each member of the executive council, the publicity chairman, the radio chairman, the student union chirman, the Beacon, the Mountaineer, and the Off-campus representatives.

Hanson To Perform "Moby Dick"

"I come before you an actor without scenery, without costumes, without fellow players and—without a play." So speaks Philip Hanson of his unique talent to be displayed soon at the EOC theater. Armed with a bench, a chair and a harp accompaniment for the songs of the sea he will sing) Philip Hanson presents the dramatization of Herman Melville's famous novel "Moby Dick." Many will remember the talented actor from his last appearance on EOC campus. Last year Mr. Hanson brought excerps from Shakespearean writings called "Kings and Clowns." He has revealed the acting ability displayed in "Kings and Clowns" in the Shakespearean Repertory Festivals of Ashland, Oregon, and San Diego, California. He has played in roles as varied as Richard II, King John, Malvolio, Dogberry, and many others. In the play "Moby Dick" Philip Hanson brings all the poetry, vitality and warm salty humor that has made the novel so popular, and adds rare songs of the sea and of heroic drama. "Moby Dick" will be at the EOC theater, Wednesday, November 9. Tickets will be $1.00 for adults, $.50 for students. The American Association of American Women are sponsoring the production.

Alumni Loan Fund

The National Defense Education Act-EOC Alumni Loan Fund has reached $464.50, according to Neva Neill, Alumni secretary. Competition beteween classes produced some fine results, it was reported.

The class of 1937, credited with a $45.50 (plus $40.00 credited to it from La Grande Greenwood PTA), leads all classes in amount donated; second is the class of 1951 with 42.00; and third is the class of 1943 with $40.00.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Dorion Hall has taken on a new look as the Homecoming Queen candidate signs deck the halls and lounge with a spirit of gayety. The posters are most attractive and range all the way from the Chinese theme to the western cowboy mood.

Homecoming seems to be the most loudly spoken topic this week nearly everywhere on campus. Dorion is in keeping with the excitement as they prepare a float for the 1960 parade. Judy Witherall, float chairman, and her committee have been working very hard to prepare a float that will represent Dorion Hall and help make this Homecoming a real success.

Many girls are trying to diet so they can wear the neat dresses they bought this summer for the Homecoming dance. This is quite a task however, since the new food vendor was installed. The machine has a better variety on the menu than some restaurants with hamburgers, barbecue beef, chocolate milk, apples and pie.

Another new attractive and convenient addition to Dorion are the bulletin boards for each floor. The floor representatives can now place all announcements and reports concerning the particular floors without running from room to room to see each person.

That just about wraps up the Dorion news for this edition but remember as Homecoming comes around the one true way to be happy is make yourself useful and be a part of all the activities offered to you.

Sabers Select New Pledges

At the October 24th meeting the Sabers accepted seven new pledges for Fall term 1960. The following girls were included: Barbara Boyle, Jean Erickson, Mary Gray, Linda Long, Roberta Strickland, Merlene Teasley and Judy Witherall. The Sabers organization is a women's invtational club dedicated to service to campus and community. It is the counterpart of the IK group at EOC. The new pledges along with the old members of Sabers will be participating in our Homecoming activities.

Dean Winters Selected

F.T.A. Convention On EOC Campus Nov. 11 and 12

"Time Is the Essence" is the theme for the annual F.T.A. state convention to be held at Eastern Oregon College November 11th and 12th. Friday, at 5 p.m. there will be registration at Hoke Hall. Dr. Kaiser and Dr. Bennett will speak and show slides at 7:30. The SOEA, Student Oregon Education Association, of EOC will then give a mixer for the F.T.A. It will be followed by an announcement of the final slate of candidates.

Saturady at 7:30, an advisor's breakfast will be held at the Sacajawea Hotel. Late registration will be from 8:30 to 9, followed by a general assembly. The spearker for the assembly will be Ewald Turner, the NEA president. During the assembly will be a business meeting, entertainment by the SOEA, nomination speeches, a speach by Eileen Hadley, roll call and elections, buzz sessions, then regional meetings. The final assembly will be held at 2 p.m., Saturday afternoon.

Some of the buzz sessions will include: Help the handicapped, Teacher Observation, How to Choose a college, FTA activities, the life of a teacher beyond the classroom, Teaching opportunities, and College Life

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"ANOTHER THING—DON'T BE TARDY— HE HAS A WAY OF EMBARRASSING YOU WHEN YOU COME IN LATE."

Mountaineers Open Drills With 6 Veterans On Hand

E. Robert "Bob" Quinn began his 36th year of coaching and his 32nd year at Eastern Oregon College today as the 1960-61 edition of the Mountaineer basketball team gathered for its first organized practice session.

Quinn, who received his B.S. from Oregon State College (1926) and his M.S. from the University of Oregon, (1938), has been director of athletics at EOC since the institution was founded in 1929.

On hand to greet Quinn for the initial workout of the season were six proven lettermen, one transfer and five men up from last year's Jayvee team.

Quinn, openly optimistic, said today, "This is the best bunch of prospects we've had in five years."

Included in the letterman group is Tom Neel, a 6-3 forward from Arlington, who landed a spot on the Oregon Collegiate Conference all-star team during the 1958-60 season. Neel laid out of school last year but is expected to be one of the main cogs in this year's "Mountie Machine."

Another letterman, 5-9 senior guard Ron Hunt, who made last year's all-conference team, will not be available to the Mounties until after Christmas because of scholastic difficulties.

Quinn is naturally hopeful his prize guard will be on the eligibility list when the Mountaineers kickoff their conference play January 6 at Southern Oregon College.

Other lettermen who will be vying for starting roles are Mel Holmes, 6-0, senior guard from La Grande; Scott Dunlap, 6-0, sophomore guard from Beaverton; Bob Olinger, 6-2, senior forward from Milton-Freewater, and Pasco Arritola, 6-2, senior forward from Jordan Valley.

Much-counted-on transfers to Eastern Oregon are Larry Applegate, former Pendleton High star who comes to the Mountie camp from Grays Harbor J.C. and Don Nelson, a 5-9 guard from Boise Junior College.

Up from assistant coach Don Campbell's Jayvee team are Don Shore, 6-0, Dennis Bagnell, 6-2, who currently is the starting end on Coach Archie Dunsmoor's football squad, Dick Brandell, and 6-5 Walt Wolfe, who saw action two years ago but laid out of athletics last season.

Also expected to be in the thick of things for a first-string berth is 6-5 Dick Turley, a sophomore from La Grande, who showed a lot of promise last year before running into scholastic trouble during Fall term.

Quinn indicated the first week of practice will be limited to fundamentals but he said yesterday, "The boys have been working out on their own for some time now and I expect them to be in good physical shape for so early in the season. We'll probably work on fundamentals for a while but those kids will be eager to start scrimmaging. They all want to make that Alaska trip," Quinn explained.

The Mounties, after opening against Nevada and College of Idaho on successive weekends, will make a ten-day trip to Alaska, playing the University of Alaska in Fairbanks December 16 and 17, and in Anchorage Dec. 19 and 20.

In addition to the already announced hoop hopefuls, Quinn is counting on an as yet— undetermined group of freshmen to turn out with most of them expected to be placed on the Jayvee team.

While Quinn indicated the Mountaineers may come up as the best team seen here since the days of Ted Schadewitz and company, he's approaching the long season with a note of caution.

"We should have a pretty good club," Quinn said yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Eastern Oregon Mastermind Club, "but the other teams in the conference look as if they may be better off this year too." "I look for a real good, well-balanced league."

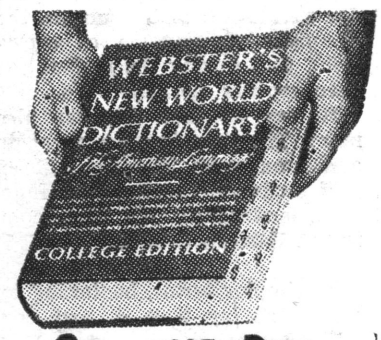
Once beaten Southern Oregon mauled defenseless Eastern Oregon College 47-0 last Saturday night, October 29, in Ashland, Oregon for their third victory of the season.

Showing the fans their superiority both on the ground and through the air, the Red Raiders turned the game into a routine workout while almost clinching second place in the OCC standings behind front-running Oregon Tech.

SOC, led by their two quarterbacks Eldon Francis and Doug Olsen, took to their passing attack for four of its seven touchdowns. The Raiders piled up 241 yards while completing 21 out of 32 passes. Francis connected with end Howard Hartman, SOCs leading pass receiver, on touchdowns of 10 and 58 yards; while Olsen passed to George Moses from the ten and to Gregory Carrigan from the 34 yard line.



The Raiders' ground attack was spearheaded with touchdown runs by Branson and Barnes from the one and five yard lines. SOC gained 135 yards by rushing and added with their 241 by air netted 366 yards for their night's work.

As a result of Saturday night's loss to Southern Oregon, Eastern Oregon still remains in last place in conference standings. The remaining games to be played are with Hamilton Air Force Base, from California, which is to be played tomorrow at 1:30 and on the following week with Wenatchee, there in Washington.

Still Progressin'—Homecoming Theme

According to an expert on the subject, "Homecoming is a mass physical and emotional explosion that erupts annually every year during the fall and results in the complete destruction of everything that during the rest of the year appears normal."

It may be that but it's also more. The time is upon us again and soon mass hysteria will en gulf students, faculty, and innocent bystanders. It's Homecoming at Eastern Oregon.

Tonight

In simpler terms, beginning tonight, Friday Nov. 4, and continuing through Saturday, EOC will gratefully toss aside the books and the worries. The reason . . to welcome back her old friends—the Alumni.

Take a pleasant fall weekend, old grads and undergrads, give them a lot of things to do, and you have the recipe for a weekend of fun for everyone.

Homecoming will get underway at 6:30 tonight with the coronation of the girl who will reign over the weekend festivities. The 1960 queen will be crowned on the steps south of the Ad building.

Immediately following the coronation, all of EOC will march, run, and stumble through a torchlight parade that will end, one way or another, at the bonfire and burning of the "O" at 7:45 p m. The scene for this event will be the open area behind Mountaineer Field.

College Comedy

At 8 p.m. director Richard Hiatt and the dramatics group, Sock anw Buskin, will present the hilarious college-life comedy, "Tall Story" in the college auditorium.

For those not too exhausted by the evening's activity, Friday's Homecoming events will wind up with a record dance in Hoke Hall from 9-12 p.m.

Tomorrow

Saturday, the big day will be gin with Alumni Registration in Hoke Hall from 9:30 to 11 a.m. At the same time, there will be a coffee hour and alumni meeting in Hoke beginning at 10 and lasting for an hour.

Gathering momentum, Saturday's activities will really begin to move with a Homecoming parade through downtown La Grande at 12:30. Various college organizations will be vieing tomorrow to come up with the best float in the parade.

Mountaineer Field will be the scene of the Homecoming football game between the rapidly improving Mounties and the airmen Hamilton Air Force Base. The game should prove a real test for the Mountaineers, coached by Archie Dunsmoor.

Following the game, a coffee hour in Hoke Hall will provide a break in the whirlwind of activities. This is set for 4 p.m.

"Tall Story" will get off its third performance again tomorrow night at 8 p.m. n the auditorium.

Highlighting the busy Homecoming weekend will be the semiformal ball in the college coliseum from 9-12. Music will be provided by Rod Esselyton and his Orchestra.

Wonder why co-chairmen Karen Sutton and Hugh Swaney didn't have any events scheduled for Sunday? Why that's a day for recuperation and recovery. And you'll need it.

HOW THE STUDENTS CAN HELP FACILITATE MAXIMUM USAGE AND ENJOYMENT OF:

COFFEE SHOP

The students can help by remembering:

1. The general pattern is to permit as much self-service as possible.
2. An individual wishing only coffee or ice cream and other confections may enter the line of service at the most easterly opening and then move east past the cash register.
3. Those wishing the regularly prepared luncheon may enter the middle opening and then move east past the cash register.
4. Those wishing sandwiches and orders from the grill may enter the extreme west entrance and then move east past the cash register.
5. Those wishing condiments (catsups, relishes, etc.) for sandwiches or water will serve themselves at the condiment counter and water dispenser after mvoing past the cash register.
6. It will greatly facilitate the work if students will return all dishes to the dishwashing area in the southwest corner of the coffee shop.
7. We realize that students will disarrange chairs to accommodate their needs. Please return the chairs to their orderly arrangement when leaving the tables.
8. The two small conference rooms to the north are available for reservation by student or faculty groups and-or student-faculty groups by arrangement with the coffee shop cashier. These rooms are available for general use at any time when they are not reserved.
9. A pay telephone will immediately be installed in the main entrance to the coffee shop area. Students are asked not to request the use of the kitchen or bookstore telephones since these lines must be kept open for incoming and outgoing calls related to the coffee shop and bookstore use.
10. Bulletin boards will be installed in the vestibule areas for your convenience.

LOUNGE AREA

1. The north half (the old lounge area) will be generally reserved for lounge area purposes. The grouping of the furniture will be made in and rearranged into a set pattern by the custodian.
2. The south half will be arranged by the custodian principally for a study area.
3. For the evening hours when dancing is authorized, the custodian will arrange the furniture to leave the southwest portion of the lounge area clear for dancing with the floor treated for dancing.
4. The custodian will sweep and rearrange this area to the original pattern for study purposes after each use before the next school day.
5. The multi-fold doors will be kept partially closed during each school day because of the sound, as a convenience to those who wish to study.
6. If the television set is used it will be used in the lounge area on the dais so that it will be viewed by the centered grouping. The television should be kept at a subdued volume, lest it disturb the classes in session and students in the study area.
7. For regular school dances, as much lounge furniture in the north half as can be accommodated will be placed along the north wall. The study tables will be placed along the south wall. The study chairs and the balance of the lounge chairs will then be placed in front of the study tables, clearing the floor for dancing. The custodian, upon proper notice, will make this arrangement and will replace the furniture to its stated pattern prior to the next day's school usage.
8. It will be permissable to bring food from the coffeeshop into the lounge study area. It is requested, however, that all dishes be returned to the dishwashing area and tables left in a clean and orderly condition.
9. Students bringing their lunch from home and wishing to eat either in the lounge or in the study area are privileged to do so. It is especially requested that those doing so deposit all refuse at the dishwashing area.
10. Policy governing the jukebox and facilities for amplification for orchestras or other sound equipment is being worked out by a faculty-student committee. It will be released later. The small piano will be used by dance orchestras for accompaniment. The grand piano will be used for formal program purposes.

These above suggestions on the use of the Coffee Shop and Hoke Hall Lounge are not intended as a set of crystalized regulations. Rather they are initial guides as we explore the desirable uses of the facilities we now have.

All of us, working together, can make our new facilities useful and delightful. We ask your full cooperation.

A Story . .

Jack Doberman sat upon a stone bench in front of the administration building casually dropping kernels of popcorn at his feet. Coing pigeons greedly waddled towards him pecking vigorously and glancing occasionally up at their provider. Suddenly he kicked out at the nearest bird sendng a mass of fluttering wings into the atmosphere.

Coming down the sidewalk, Doberman's roommate called out a cheerful, "Hi Jack, coming to the assembly?"

"No" replied Jack, not looking up at his roommate.

"Better come, it's going to be a swell show, Madam Nipperbacker is playing Bach's 3rd concerto in E minor. Won't you reconsider?" His roommate noticed that Doberman still had on his pajama tops.

"No!" replied Jack.

"Well okay, Jack, see you at lunch time."

"No!"

Doberman's roommate hurried on to the auditorium; he was one of the gentlest people who ever lived.

When lunch time came around Doberman decided he was hungry and trudged over to the dining hall. His roommate was sitting by a rubber plant, chewing on a tuna fish sandwich. Doberman went over to him with his lunch and ast down in silence.

"Gee," sair his roommate, "I thought you weren't coming to lunch." He noticed that Doberman still had on his pajama tops. "Bob, oh boy, you should have heard Madam Nipperbacker play. "It was great." He took a sip of milk and added, "Say you have tapioca pudding. They didn't have tapioca puddng when I went through the line, only butterscotch."

Doberman looked at him. "Youd' prefer tapioca pudding to butterscotch pudding?" he asked clodly.

"Er . . . I guess so." said his roommate, a little afraid of the look in Doberman's eye. He took another sip of milk and added. "I like tapioca pudding."

"So you like tapioca pudding, eh?" Doberman said, his voice loud. His roommate started to rise from his chair and run. Doberman grasped his roommate's collar and coaxed him back into his chair. "So you like tapioca pudding, eh?" Doberman repeated, hs voice now screaming. He picked up the dish of pudding and pushed it flat and hard in his roommate's face. Then wiped his hands on the napkin and walked out of the dining hall.

Crossing the street, Doberman walked towards his apartment house, up the steps to his room, picked up the 'phone and dialed. "Hello, Elena? . . . I won't be coming over this weekend . . . No it's notstudies . . . It's just that I can't tolerate your insistent, whining, bickering voice. Now you sound like your mother, but why bring the Civil War into this? . . . I know you were a perfect fool to become engaged to me, but I didn't know it at the time."

Dropping the 'phone back on its receiver, Doberman turned and emptied his dresser, hurriedly stuffing clothing into a worn leather suitcase. Then went to the closet, grabbed his tennis racket and left the room.

Later Doberman's roommate cautiously peered through the door only to find himself bewildered at the absence of Doberman and his belongings. He stepped to the middle of the room, licking his upper lip, tasting the clinging tapioca pudding. His gazing turned to the floor only to find a crumpel envelope addressed to Jack E. Doberman. He stooped to pick it up for closer inspection and read. LOCAL DRAFT BROAD, SELECTIVE SERVICE UNITED STATES ARMY.

Ullman Speaks

Al Ullman, representing the second congressional district of Oregon, spoke to all interested EOC Students at 12:30 Thursday in the Hoke Hall lounge. Speaking on behalf of the national Democratic ticket he discussed foreign relations, the situation in Cuba and federal aid to education.

Before the meeting in Hoke the Young Democrats met with Mr. Ullman for lunch and discussion. Earlier that morning he appeared at the La Grande High School.

Johnny Reitz And Orchestra To Appear

Johnny Reitz and his orchestra will appear on EOC's campus Tuesday, November 22 at Hoke Hall, with entertainment lasting from 9:00 to 12:00 p.m. Admission for this dance will be seventy-five cents per person.

The orchestra will play selections ranging from traditional Dixieland, to Cha Chas, on to solid jazz. Reitz and his orchrestra have appeared with the Bob Crosby revue, had a feature spot at the Oregon Centennial, and last Fall were present at the opening of the Portland-Sheridan Hotel.

Sadie Hawkins Day; Pity The Poor Male!

Hey you Daisy Mae's! Have you caught your L'il Abner's yet? There is only a few hours to go until the Sadie Hawkins' Day Dance. Things have been buzzing and rolling all week. The fellows have been in competition for the best beard and the whiskers can't come off until after the dance tonight. The gals are sighing with relief as they sew the last stitch into their ripped jeans or polka dot gingham.

The Sadie Hawkins Dance is under the sponsorship of the Women's Recreation Association and will get under way tonight, Friday, November 18, 9 p.m. This dance is strictly a girl-ask-boy affair with music by the Blue Mountain Riders. The girls in modern dance will provide the evening's entertainment at intermission. To top things off, Marrin' Sam will be present to take care of any couple who feels the urge to tie the knot. Prizes will be given for the most original (1) Daisy Mae (2) L'l Abner and (3) Mammy Yokum costumes.

Nelda Huber is president of W.R.A. and Tudy Dicks is the publicity chairman for the dance.

Hanson's 'Moby Dick' Very Well Received

Wednesday, November 9, Philip Hanson presented his interpretation of "Moby Dick" for the citizens and students of La Grande. His performance was held in the college theater. Mr. Hanson spectacularly portrayed various characters of the famous book. The presentation was given at 8:00 p.m. In the morning at assembly Mr. Hanson gave various characterizations of famous people in American history for the students of Eastern Oregon College.

Outing Club Designs New Constitution

EOC Outing Club is now an official school organization since the ratification of its constitution by the student council November 17. Officers have been elected, including president, Bill Hickey; vice Preseident, Joe Jarvis; Secretary, Adrienne Hansen and Treasurer Besty Owens. Dr. Van Vechten is is the club's new Advisor.

This week end an outing to Wallowa Lake is planned. In the past the members have climbed Mount Emily and have gone hiking and fishing at Morgan Lake.

New Sun Dial Finds Use In Two Courses

The handsome sun dial in front of the Administration Building was given to EOC by Dr. and Mrs. Bolen. It is intended to enhance the beauty of the campus and will be used in the astronomy and physical science courses when the principles of telling time are covered.

The basic fundamentals of the Sun Dial probably originated when man first began to associate the direction and length of shadows with time. It has been used in one form or another since Biblical times and was used as late as 1900 by the French railroads for checking and setting watches.

Because the position of the sun varies each day in relation to the position of the earth, the time difference between it and the clock is anywhere from one to sixteen minutes except four days out of the year. These days are April 15, June 15, September 1 and December 24.

Dr. Bolen, Professor of Physical Science, has also donated several pictures to the school and the stereo set which is in the main floor lounge of Dorion Hall.

BloodmobileTo Pay Visit On Campus During December

Your Blood Could Help Save A Life

Soon (early in December) college students will have an opportunity to participate in the Red Cross blood program by contributing a pint of their blood. The purpose of such a contribution is to have the blood collected, typed and stored, ready for emergency use wherever, and whenever, it is needed. You can provide protection for yourselves and members of your family by helping to keep this reserve supply constant, and you can render a real service to others by making this suply available for them.

Blood Needed

During the past year there were three emergencies in La Grande that required tremendous quantities of whole blood for transfusion. One was the result of a gunshot wound, one an automobile accident and one an open-heart surgery. Two of these lives were saved because blood was available. The other was lost—but not for lack of available blood and blood donors.

The supply of whole blood for transfusions (and plasma and blood derivatives) is made available to hospitals through the regional blood centers of the American Red Cross. Local hospitals try to keep a constant supply of the various blood types on hand, and trade supplies between themselves in emergencies. They also have very ready access to additional supplies on short notice from the Boise Regional Blood Bank. The collection of pints of blood throughout the region not only provides the whole-blood supply, but also supplies blood derivatives such as: gamma globulin, serum albumin (to combat shock), fibrinogen (to stop hemorrhage), red cells (to treat anemia), and frozen plasma (to treat hemophiliacs).

Get A Form

Anyone between the ages of 16 and 60 is eligible to contribute a pint of blood if he meets blood and health standards, except that those under 21 are required to present a statement of parental approval for the donation. The approval forms are available in the EOC Student Health Service office. You are urged to pick up a form soon and have it signed by one of your parents (if you are under 21) and be ready to contribute a pint of blood when the Mobile Blood Unit is in La Grande early in December. You might save a life — and it might be yourown!

Thanksgiving Assembly To Be Nov. 23

This year's Thanksgiving Assembly November 23 will be centered around faculty and students alike.

Also featured will be a short Thanksgiving message given by Rev. Wallace W. Hastings from the local Christian church.

Of particular interest to students and faculty will be several numbers presented by the college choir as they make their first official appearance this year under the direction of John Cobb.

Also highlighting the Thanksgiving theme will be reading of poetry by Ronald H. Bayes and special interpretation of the Thanksgving theme given by the modern dance classes under the direction of Christine Nicoloff.

The committee directors were appointed from the members of the Interfaith Council. The committee consists of Don K. Nelson, Dr. W. D. Spear and Howard Anderson. The committee wishes to express their desire for both the faculty and students to join in the expression of the Thanksgiving spirit as they prepare to celebrate Thanksgiving in the homes of families and friends.

Thanksgiving Reminder

Students who feel that they need to leave early on Wednesday for Thanksgiving should see either Mrs. Winters or Mr. Howard Anderson. If they determine that a student has a bona fide reason for needing to leave early, they will give him a card to show his professors. This card will say in part ". . . we recommend that he be permitted to make up work missed because of this absence."

Please remember that at no time does the Dean's office excuse a student from classes. It's function is to serve as a clearing house to save the faculty the necessity of making decisions on whether a student has just cause to be permitted to make up work missed.

Howard A. Anderson,
Dean of Men.

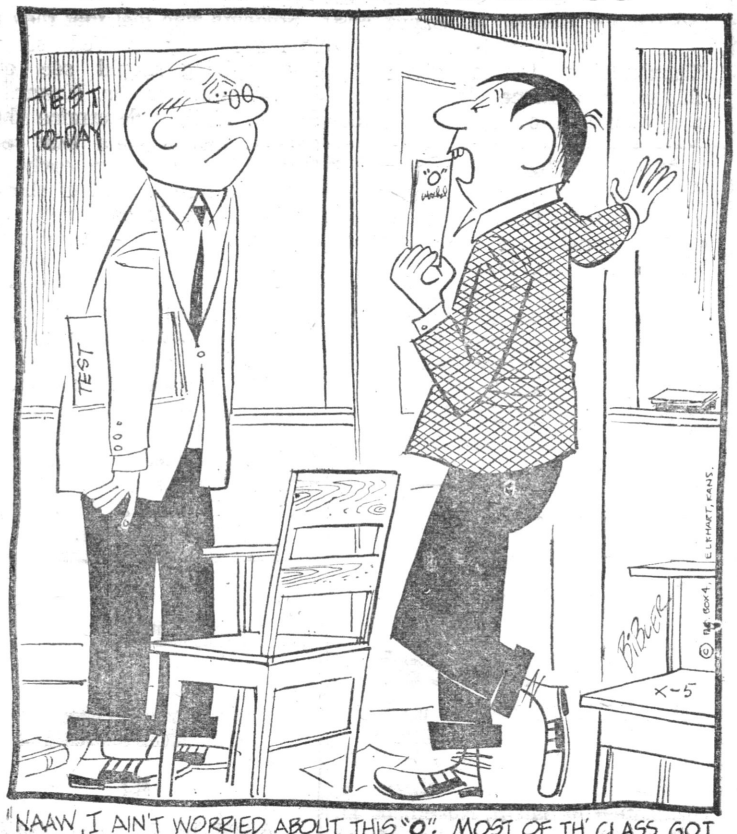
Homecoming Praised



And with the ending strums of the final song at the Homecoming Ball, the 1960 Homecoming was over . . . but it was not completely final. For Queen Beth and her lovely princesses, Sue and Sandi, it perhaps is a beginning. A beginning of the wonderful thoughts that nad not had time to enter in the rush of activities over the weekend.

For co-chairmen Karen Sutton and Hugh Swaney and all those who helped so much on the homecoming activities, there was certainly a sense of satisfaction, for this year's activities were exceptionally well organized. This, of course, took weeks of preparation. And the participation was at an optimum. Most students took an enthusiastic part in helping with every aspect of the weekend. With this greater enthusiasm and participation, more students had a better time—for THEY were part of the activities in welcoming the returning Alumni.

One cannot overlook the job done by the faculty either. Dr. Floyd Hill spent many hours with the co-chairmen as faculty advisor, along with the many other faculty members who worked on the activities.

I wish to make a point clear: Homecoming was not a success because of the students alone, or of the faculty alone. It was a success because we are so fortuunate on our campus to have an understanding and friendly relationship between faculty and students. Thanks should be extended to you, the faculty and students, for working together to have made the 1960 Homecoming a most successful occasion.

1. The new ASB office in Hoke is almost completed and the officers will be moving in. Office hours will be set up soon. It is hoped arrangements may be made to have someone in the office most of the time for your convenience.

2. Sabers and IK's have been granted the concessions for the coliseum this year.

3. Faculty Activity Cards are available to supervising teachers as well as the other members of the faculty. There have been 44 purchased thus far.

4. The importance of not using scotch tape for sign and posters in the buildings was stressed.

5. There should be no smoking in the halls, as there is a definite fire hazard. Students are urged to remember this and remind others.

6. The social calendar has been changed to include a concert November 30 when the Grande Rhonde Symphone is presenting Jose Iturbe.

7. Jo, Loretta, and Sue reported on their trip to Linfield College to attend the 1960 OFCL Conference. They all felt it a very profitable and rewarding experience. Information on the conference — discussions and ideas gained will be on file in the ASB office and may be referred to, if anyone is interested.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

The excitement of Homecoming has died down and things at Dorion are running smoothly once again. However, there is still a great deal of pride radiating for Dorion Hall's Homecoming float took third place over the many beautiful floats entered in the parade on Saturday. The float was cheerfully decorated with a large stuffed football being carried to victory by four of Dorion's better football players. Congratulations and a great big thanks to Judy Witherall and her committee for doing a terrifc job!

It seems there may be another reason for the quiet halls here at Dorion. Yes, it is the inevitable blue slips found in the mailboxes Friday evening. Starting Monday those receiving down slips will be required to spend some time in the cafeteria slaving to bring those low grades back up to the required 2.00. For some this job will be relatively easy but for others it may create a difficult problem. Remember girls to make the best of the study table for it has been set up only for your benefit.

Now that the thirlls and excitement of Homecoming have died down and we begin to give serious thought to study we will find the more we study the more we discover our ignorance.

Torrid Tips

By BUNNY MOYER

Our candidate for the year's best quote from a campus queen candidate: "Wouldn't it be terrible if I didn't get a date for the ball."

Duquense University's DUKE, Pittsbugh, Pa., reported the queenly quote.

The elections are over and Jacqueline Kennedy will be the new first lady. This "first Ladyism" can be viewed as eading to either of two possibilties—one will be a great hastening of the day of the first woman president—the other, a constitutional amendment that all aspirants to the presidential post must be bachelors.

Photography is said to be the No. 1 hobby now, with some 50 million Americans snapping pictures more or less regularly, as compared to 20 million persons who bought fishing licenses last year, the 15 million who bought hunting licenses, the five million estimated to play golf, and so on.

Keeping late hours at night doesn't bother the average college student in the least, until it is time to get up in the morning . .

SUCCESS—Homecoming co-chairmen, Hugh Swaney and Karen Sutton are smiling over the success of Friday evening's activities. In the background can be seen the glimmer of the bonfire. (Beacon Photo)

KENNEDY ROLLED UP A SOLID VICTORY—and the Young Democrats are elated! But before we go into the national and state elections I'd like to say congratualtoins to the observing English professor (guess who?) that noted the misspelling of the notation under the Young Democrats' meeting notice in the Ad Building a couple of weeks ago. Didn't the person who left the "i" out of Republicans feel foolish?

In comparison to the mock election held November 3, at EOC and the actual balloting on November 8, here's how we stood:

Nixon Wins

In the mock election Richard Nixon won over John F. Kennedy, which was not the result of the actual election. In both the mock and actual eletcion Maurine Neuberger won over Elmo Smith for both short and long term Oregon Senator; Al Ullman defeated Ron Phair for 2nd District Represeneative; Secretary of State Howell Appling, Jr. beat Treasurer Howard Belton defeated Ward Cook; and Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton won again against Carl Francis.

As we can see, the only race our mock election didn't predict correctly was the of the President of the United States —and by now there are many more professing to be Democrats than there were before November 9 when Nixon conceded.

Isn't it strange how the elections run? Did you notice that although Nixon came out ahead in Oregon, Kennedy's stauch Oregon campaign leader, Edith Green, swamped Republican Wallace Lee. And the electoral votes from Nixon's own state of California were the deciding votes wrapping up the presidency for Kennedy—he even won in Nixon's home county.

Six Passes

In Oregon several measures were of interest too. Our educational building fund passed with a large majority—the "Vote Yes for measure 6" you had heard so much about. Daylight Saving Time, which has long been an argument in the state of Oregon was defeaed by a very small margin. Maybe next time (I'm for it!!).

It was a good election—the first presidential election for most of us, and I'm proud to say I cast my ballot—whether Republican or Democrat (I didn't vote a straight ticket). I'll always remember the words of Vice President Nixon early Wednesday morning before he retired. Defeat was almost certain when he told his television audience that no matter how they had voted and under what party they registered, he sincerely hoped that the pecple would forget now that they were either Republican or Democrat and remember that foremost they were and are Americans!

Word of Thanks

Congratulations to the Homecoming Committee and to Karen and Hugh. It was the best ever. Having worked with Ellen and Ardyce on the coronation, I'd like to say thanks to everyone who stuffed napkins so diligently all day Friday. We used almost 3,000 of them, kids. And a special note to Skip—without you and your persuasive recruiting we'd never have made it (ha).

The entire weekend was really a bang-up job and it'll be hard to top next year (let alone finding a lovelier Queen and Court). And THANKS to those who burned our crown!

See you next issue . . . . .

WINGS — Marcia MacPherson, Union, has recently received her wings as stewardess from American Airlines at Fort Worth, Texas. She is now stationed in Buffalo, New York. Marcia was a sophomore at EOC in 1959-60. She was a member of the 1959 Homecoming Court and was the local and regional I.K. Sweetheart. Marcia was also a member of Sigma Alpha Chi and a Saber pledge.

Mountaineers Tie Knights 13-13 To End Grid Play

Eastern Oregon College, after its first win of the season, combined a single wing attack with a stiff defense to gain a 13-13 tie with Wenatchee Valley College Knights, November 1, on Wenatchee's gridiron

The Mounties pushed across the tying touchdown with 8:43 to play and were threatening at the game's end.

A pass interception by Chuck Becker, EOC halfback, set up a 16 yard touchdown run by Pat Hammond that tied the score. But oJhn Willmarth's place kick was blocked by Wenatchee's Paul Seale.

The Mounties' Ben Houk recovered a fumble with 1:40 to play to give Eastern Oregon a last opportunity to score. A 40-yard pass play from Dick Branaugh to Larry Snook moved EOC deep into Wenatchee territory, but the Mounties were bogged down on the Knights' 15-yard line when the gun sounded.

Ron Robinson played another great puting game as he booted six times for a 38.3 yard per kick average with his first kick going only for six yards.

EOC	7	0	0	6—13
Wenatchee	0	13	0	0—13

Scoring:

EOC — Becker 23-yard pass from Branaugh (Willmarth kick).

Wenatchee—Seale, 60-yard pass from Ohler. (Martin kick).

Wenatchee—Seale 12-yard pass from Ohler. (kick failed).

EOC—Hammond, 16-yard run (kick failed).

SOEA Hosts FTA Convention

The S.O.E.A. hosted the state convention of Oregon Future Teacers of America, November 11 and 12. Twenty-seven schools attended the coinvention with 265 FTA members registered. The weekend activities included registration, a mixer, banquet, buzz sessions, business meeting, election and installation of new state officers, and speeches by Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, Dr. Frank B. Bennett; Eileen Hadley, state FTA president; Jean Coffindaffer, SOEA president; and Dr. Hester Turner, FTA consultant.

Gail Fisher and Fred Kelley were co-chairmen for the convention, assisted by Jan Frank, Val Mitchell, Darlene DeSouza, Wuanita Taylor, Elaine McNaught, and Joanne Alstott, general committee chairman.

Comments suggested that EOC hosted the best convention held in years.

Three EOC Girls Attend Conference

The 1960 Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders' Conference was attended at Linfield College at the first of the month by three EOC students, Sue Switzer, Joann Allstott, and Loretta Herbison. The girls gained a great deal of information and a host of new ideas they would like to intiate on the EOC campus.

The general opinion they expressed was that EOC was certainly fortunate. They said our college has a few and menial problems compared to many of the other Oregon colleges. The conference consisted of several discussion groups, a business meeting, and an election meeting, with time out for fine meals, entertainment, and meeting new people.

Sue, who had been state secretary for OFCL, turned over her position to another Sue from Oregon State College.

The summaries of the information gained at the conference is on file in the ASB office. If there is any topic in which any student is particularly interested, they may talk to any one of the three girls or refer to the files.

OCE Footballer Leads State Race

Bob Pennel of Oregon College of Education took over a commanding lead in the OCC statistical race following his outstanding performance against Oregon Tech.

Pennel picked up 187 yards in 27 carries to raise his season's total to 510 yards; which is 154 yards ahead of PSC's Billy White, who is in second place.

Only one other change took place in the individual statistical column. Doug Olsen, freshman qaurterback from North Eugene, reversed positions with OTI's Dick Olivas in passing. The SOC aerial artist has completed 38 of 63 passes for 555 yards while Olivas has connected 29 times in 68 attempts.

Howard Hartman of SOC caught three touchdown passes, for the Red Raiders, against EOC the past week to forge ahead of Pennel in the scoring race with 48 points. Pennel is second with 42. Hartman continues to pace the pass receiving department. He had caught 24 for 405 yards and five touchdowns.

There were only two major changes in team statistics over the past several weeks. OTI replaced PSC as pass defense leader and OCE jumped from third to first place in rushing offense.

The league coaches voted Pennel as "Back of the Week." "Lineman of the Week" honors went to Jess Muyon, 190 pound sophomore defensive end and offensive tackle from Southern Oregon.

Not Dumb Immature

A lot of average college men ask each other why the women so often whale the tar out of them in racking up better grades.

Now a scientist has come up with an answer.

Dr. James W. Gladden, a University of Kentucky sociologist, became interested in the subject when his college-age son and daughter asked the whys and wherefores.

This is the way Gladden sums up the battle of the IQs:

For the first two years of college, women are about one and a half more years mature than the men.

The men have to wait until their final two years of college before they take a good mental shine.

Gladden says women usually attend college for a general education and take generalized courses.

And, he adds, the men often suffer in their grades because of a tendency to argue with the profs more than the women.

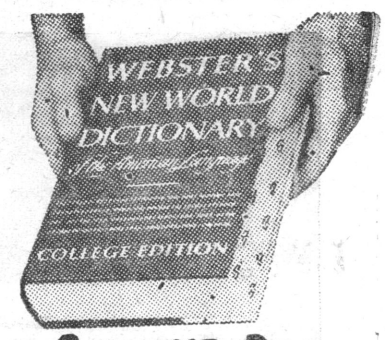
Hamilton Rambles By Mounts 14-7

Hamilton Air Force Base, from California, invaded La Grande on Homecoming Day, November 5, to defeat Eastern Oregon 14-7, before a jam packed crowd at the Mountaineer stadium.

The Mountaineers scored early in the second quarter on a four-yard smash through the middle of the Air Force defensive line, by halfback Pat Hammond. Willmarth added the extra point. The touchdown was set up after a brilliant pass and run play from quarterback Dee Dickenson to halfback Tim Schaffer. The play went from the Air Force 47 to their 4 yard line.

Although outguned throughout the entire game, the Mountaineers showed determination and stopped countless drives by the Air Force. Pat Hammond gained 68 yards on 19 carries and quarterback Dee Dickenson completed 6 of 11 passes for 58 yards.

Hamilton scored their touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters. The combination of Nickles and Small scored on touchdown runs of 25 and 15 yards. Small contributed 97 yards on 12 carries, while teammate Cox added another 50 for 10 carries.



Scoring Summary

HAFB	0	0	7	7—14
EOC	0	7	0	0— 7

HAFB, Small,27 yard run (Corely kick); HAFB—Small, 15 yard run (Corely kick); EOC—Hammond, 4 yard run (Willmarth kick).

SOEA captured first prize for the best float in the Homecoming parade November 5. The float portrayed "The Beginning of Progress" illustrating a modern class of youngsters with a huge book of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs in the background. Seated beside the book were Darlene DeSouza and Jeanie Edwards. The children on the float were from Miss Gossage's kindergarten class. Marilyn Holt portrayed the modern teacher. The float was completed under the planning and work of the co-chairmen, Joyce Westenskow and Ardyth Wilde, along with other members.

Three Floats Win Prizes

SOEA, Hunt, And Dorion Given Honors

Hunt Hall placed second in the parade of floats. The theme was "Roll 'Em", and featured two large dice on a football field with a goal post on one side and a large O on the other side of the dice. The dice were symbolic of EOC's faith in their football team. Bob North was chairman for the float.

Third place winner was Dorian Hall. "Still Progressing?" was the theme. The float carried a big football supported by four girls in football jerseys, and a cheerleader. Judy Wetheral took charge of the committee ont his float, assisted by Marilyn Moss, Linda Rambo, Sharon McCown and Ann Lieuallen.

It has been commented that all float entries are to be congratulated on their orginality, and participation which made the homecoming parade such a success.

Baker Superintendent Speaks To SOEA'ers

Education in Finladn ad France was the topic discussed by Dr. James Evans, superintendent of schools in Baker at the Nov 11, SOEA meeting.

He advised those present that since the world was getting so small that psychology, sociology, social sciences and geography along with the other sciences should be emphasized in school. He stated that in his travels that he realized what a great problem language was in Europe. It is a fallacy that every European knows several languages. Only the few educated people and those working with tourists had this ability.

Dr. Evans also pointed out that often we don't realize how European education differs from ours in their system, methods, and purposes. In the schools he visited, specific material must be covered in order for the students to pass a test which determined whether they would continue in school or attend a specialized vocational school. This greatly limits the teacher's approach to their subjects. Dr. Evans also showed slides which he had taken in the schools that he vsited:

Drive Carefully!

REMINDER!

STUDENTS ARE TO BE REMINDED THAT IN ORDER FOR THEM TO RECEIVE PERMITS TO MAKEUP CLASS WORK FOLLOWING AN ILLNESS THEY MUST CALL MRS. OSTERHOLM, DIRECTOR OF HEALTH SERVICES, AT THE TIME OF THE ILLNESS.

Dr. Strand Speaks At Assembly

Dr. August Strand, president of Oregon State College, spoke November 16th at the 10:30 a.m. assembly. D, Strand received his masters Degree in 1928, specializing in Entomology. From 1938 to 1942, he was a professor of Entomology, head of that department, and then in 1942 became president of Oregon State College. This spring he plans to retire.

Education was his main topic. He said that people don't realize how inportant education is and that the responsibility of education is among the people. Dr. Strand noted that there was little inspiration in the presidential campaign and that this is the time the people mostly need it. He listed books of reference: the most frequently mentioned was written by Sir Charles Snow.

Other topics mentioned were "natural laws" and two existing cultures.

Choir Presents Christmas Concert

"Fantasia on Christmas Carols," by Ralph Vaughan-Williams, was one of the fetures of the Christmas concert presented by the Eastern Oregon College choir December 7, in the EOC auditorium.

The program, under the direction of John L. Cobb, instructor of vocal music, included selections from 15th century motets to 20th century choral numbers.

In addition to the selections by the 48-member choir and the Blue and Gold Singers, the program presented a brass choir, and a special narration of the Christmas story by Richard G. Hiatt, assistant professor of speech and dramatics.

Featured soloists included Warren Good, Elgin; Karen Stewart, Pendleton; Ellen Uesugi, Hawaii; and Howard Anderson, La Grande.

'Silver Bells' Theme Of Christmas Formal

"Silver Bells" was the theme of the annual Christmas formal held Saturday, December 10. The dance was at Hoke Hall. Music was provided by the "Tone Dusters" under the direction of Bob Patterson.

A special guest entertained at intermission.

General chairman of the dance was Elaine McNaught. Co-chairmen were Ellen Uesugi and Willadean Tubbs. Other chairmen included Ardyce Garrett and the Sabers in charge of decorations; Nelda Huber and W.R.A. in charge of posters; Sandy Harriet, Eilene Marshall and Dorion Hall in charge of the programs, and the invitations to faculty members and the inside material of the programs were taken care of by the Sigma Alpha Chi with Beverly Ferguson as chairman.

The Associated Women Students, assisted by the other women organization, sponsored the dance.

14 Students Selected For "Who's Who" Publication

EOC will have fourteen students in the 1960-1961 edition of the annual publication "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." They include Jo Ann Barryman, John Dahlstrum, Gail Fisher, Daisy Good, Oran Hutton, Bill Lovelady, Val Mitchell, Sharon Noyes, Barbara Paris, Sue Switzer, Sandy Thompson, Shirley Walsh, Hill Walker and John Willmarth. These students are chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, cooperation in educational and extracurricular activities, general citizenship and promise of future service. They were chosen by an anonymous faculty-student committee. To be eligible for tnis honor a student must be a junior, senior or enrolled in graduate courses.

Each of these students participate in outside activities. The ones centioned are only a few of these. Jo Ann Berryman, senior, was secretary-treasurer of her junior class, on the Junior Prom court, and had the lead in the "Diary of Anne Frank," and was selected IRC Girl of the Year. John Darlstrom, senior, is very busy this year as ASB President. Included in Gail Fisher's (a junior) responsibilities are being vice president of AWS, Beacon editor, last years' Homecoming Queen and co-chairman of Parents' Weekend. Daisy Good, junior is active as a member of Blue and Gold and last year's secretary of Sigma Alpha Chi, a member of the choir and appeared in The Medium.

Oran Hutton, senior, also has contributed much of his time to the school by being a co-chairman of Parent's Weekend, serving on the rally squad, being a Junior Prom chairman, and a member of Theta Delta Phi. He also appeared in Who's Who last year. Bill Lovelady, senior, was junior class president, IK's Chancellor, on the Hunt Hall Council, and a member of Theta Delta Phi. Val Mitchell, junior, has contributed much of her time by serving as secretary of Sigma Alpha Chi in S. O. E. A., Sock and Buskin, and on the annual staff. Sharon Noyes was secretary-treasurer of AWS, is treasurer of Sabers, Sock and Buskin, and a council member of the Collegians.

Barbara Paris is also active as President of Sigma Alpha Chi, a member of the EOC Flute Sextette and a member of the annual staff. Sue Switzer, junior, last year's Beacon editor is also a couicilor, a past OFCL State secretary and ASB Secretary. Sandy Thompson, senior, is this year's Dorion Hall president and last year's ASB secretary, Junior Miss and Sweetheart Princess.

Shirely Walsh, senior, Dorion Hall secretary is a councilor, a member of Sigma Alpha Chi and Sabers. Hill Walker, keeps busy a President of Theta Delta Phi and being a member of IK's. John Willmarth, no less busy than the others, is SOEA President, a member of Theta Delta Phi and was selected to appear in last year's publication of "Who's Who."

Candlelite Hour Opens Christmas Season

Sigma Alpha Chi presented the annual Yule Candlelight Hour Sunday afternoon, Dec. 4th, in Hoke Hall. Former Sigma Alphi Chi member, Janice Robertson Keffer began the candlelighting ceremony by lighting the large candle used traditionally since 1940. President Barbara Paris, after lighting her candle continued the ritual by lighting the flames of all other members of the honorary.

Howard Anderson entertained by singing "Oh Holy Night" and Mr. John Cob, accompanied by the auto harp, sang "Sweet Little Jesus Boy." Dr. Bishop, Virginia Mansfield, and Nancy Wilson presented a flute trio. The Blue and Gold singers also entertained. Children of the EOC faculty hilghlighted the program by singing the traditional 'Away in the Manger."

A social hour followed with group singing.

Danforth Grants Announced

John Miller, EOC Oirector of Education, who is Liaison Officer to the Danforth Foundation, may nominate fro mtwo to three candidates for the 1961 fellowships.

The Danforth Foundation is an educational Foundation located in St. Louis, Missouri, and invites applications for the tenth class (1961) of Danforthh Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recnt gradautes who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1951, for their first year of graduate study.

These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" throughout the years of graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. Students with or without financial aid are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrentcly with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship. The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and charater, including serious inquiry within the Chritian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 15, 1961. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Mr. Miller.

An Editorial

Recently, a rather peculiar problem arose on campus. A certain "club" did not know if it was an actual club or not. This may appear to be rather ridiculous, but it WAS not. For this group did not have a constitution specifying particulars necessary for an organization to function properly. Fortunately, this was realized and a constitution was developed and accepted.

This was a constitution that had to be completely drawn up. Yet, there are others which are in need of revision—some of which now are in that process. One such being worked on is the Associated Students Constitution, for some of the passages presently appearing in its content appear utterly ridiculous, as their use is outdated. Serious consideration has been done on adopting the senate system in revision for the present Associated Students Constitution. Most of the Oregon colleges and universities are using or considering this senate system as it appears to be quite satisfactory.

The Sabers' Constitution is another one that needs altering within certain passages in order that it may function for its present usefullness. It might be noted, though, that it is also another which is being worked upon.

Other samples could be cited. However, the important thing would be for you to investigate the various constitutions of which you are concerned, to see if you can discover any need for revision or redoing. However, if your research uncovers no problems, at least you will have been made aware of the contents of those constitutions.

The Worth Of A College

Consider, for a moment, what you have done during the past quarter. Your education has been broadened by the activities in which you have participated, and by the classes you have attended. You have renewed old friendships and made new acquaintances that will be remembered for the rest of your lives.

Surely it is important to complete the assignments of each class, and to try to get as much from these classes as possible. It is also an important part of your elucation to take part in the many activities that are a part of campus life

These activities cover the span from organized activities, such as dances or assemblies, to the informal "bull" session over coffee or cokes. The education derived from a good discussion of politics or an evaluation of one of the classes is as valuable as any of your studies.

Do not let your evaluative powers become stagnant. Broaden your appreciation to include all aspects of the campus, for never will you have a greater opportunity to associate with as many diversified, educated people as you do in college.

It has been said that "life is just a bowl of cherries" but college life left the "pits" in these cherries. The term papers, reports, weekly themes, and the quizzes that were assignd and hopefully completed are these "pits." Using what knowledge we have and could gather, these projects were completed; one removed the "pits" as best one could. You now look on these "pits' as the valueless part of the fruit, but in actuality, these are the seeds of the future.

—John Dahlstrom,
S. B. President.

For the optimists who believe they made it this term, there are only a few days left to pre-register for next term. The info is posted on the bulletin boards and you can pick up the sheets and schedules in the registrar's office. Also make notice of the time schedules for registering next term. Juniors and Seniors at 9:00 a.m., Sophomore at 10:30 a.m., Freshmen at 1:00 p.m., and those who can't make these times at 2:30 p.m. This should eliminate much of the confusion if all abide by it.

Complaints have been voiced recently as to the hours of the Bookstore and Hoke. Many wonder if it would be possible for the Bookstore to stay open until 12:30 facilitating those students with classes through the noon hour. And the cry "Why doesn't Hoke open at 8:00 instead of 8:15?" is common. You see, these poor solks (opps, 'scuse me. Got my S's mixed up), STUDENTS can't make it to class without all that raw coffee — then there are those who can't make it even with it ! ! !

Bob Patterson's "Tone Dusters" will play at the Christmas formal Saturday, December 10th in Hoke. Sponsoring is the Associated Women Students with Ellen and Willadean as co-chairmen. They have chosen as the theme "Silver Bells" and to quote Ellen, "At intermission we will have as guest a well known personality, so you fellows get on the ball and make sure not one girl sits home that evening. It's free, you know."

I didn't attend but heard that the Johnny Reitz dance was "Good," "Fabulous," and "Real Cool"; the lighting effects were "Neat." Everyone raved about the jazz. And speaking of jazz, for you lovers, have you discovered Amahd Jamal yet? Just recently I herd "Amahd's Blues," and liked it so well I've a couple of his albums now. For anyone who hasn't heard him, DO!!! He's terrific.

Had a hilarious time at the Sock and Buskin initiation last week — especially enjoyed the card presented to Mr. Hiatt along with a gift certificate. Went something like this: "We like you more than aybody else . . . Of course, we don't know how much anybody else likes you."

Before I close, there are two announcements to make. Although Miss Noyes never fails to read this column, Sharon wishes it to be known that she doesn't write —and I don't know whether that's a compliment or an insult!!

Also—have you heard of the new campus club "The Watch and Ward Society"? They meet regularly each morning in the coffee shop discussing what their objects (or objections) will be. Today, they decided to abolish sin, but reconsidered, feeling that it was here to stay. Tomorrow —who knocks? To learn more, contact the table where you find the members—Dick, Norm, Hugh, Bill, and Gina Lollalollalolla . . .

P.S. How are the EOC ALL-STARS???

Fall Marks End Of Freedom For Many

Rings . . .

Judy Young and Dick Garner of Burns, who became engaged November 4, plan their wedding sometime after the first of the year in Hawaii, home of Judy's parents.

Linda Larson and Ben Simonton plan an August wedding. She is a Secretarial Science major and he is majoring in Elementary Education.

Karen Stewart and Bob Howard became engaged October 4. No date has been set for the wedding yet.

Bill Johnson and Martha Streit became engaged October 2. Even though no positive date has been set, they plan to be married before the beginning of the next school year.

Marilee Meppen and Fred Goodwin, a La Grande serviceman, plan to be married December 25, Christmas Day.

Jean Erickson and Butch Whiteman became engaged at the begininng of the term. No definite date has ben set, but they plan to be married after Butch graduates.

Irene Yharzabal and Gene Bates, who became engaged this term, plan to be married December 31.

Craig Larison and Beverly Bridges became engaged at the beginning of the term. They plan to be married in March.

Weddings . . .

Micker Faver and Albert Brown exchanged wedding vows October 17 in Hillsoboro, Oregon. She was quit school and they are living in Portland.

Bunny Moyer and Ron Hunt exchanged their wedding vows November 19 in Hermiston. They are now living in La Grande and going to school.

Barbara Boyle and Earl Torris were married November 23 in Huntington. He is being sent to Japan for a year and she is finishing school.

Beverly Wilkening and John Willmarth exchanged their wedding vows in Milton-Freewater on November 23, also. He is continuing school.

Five Students At Newman Meet

Five students from EOC were among the 160 delegates attending the 1960 Province Newman Convention November 23-26 at Montana State University in Missoula, Mont.

They were Sue Switzer, president, and Theresa Rauwolf, secretary of the EOC Newman Club, Kriss Tomjack, Dave Curtis, and Jim Voyles. The delegates represented some 9,000 Catholic students attending universities in Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. The group included delegates whose homes are in California, New York, Iowa,, Canada, Lebanon, Italy, Japan, and South America.

Through the facilities of Newman, Catholic students are encouraged along intellectual, religious and social paths while stdying on Northwestern campuses.

OSU Paper Aids In Exposing Of Writing Racket

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPS)—The Ohio State University Lantern has uncovered a national ghost writing firm operating in part on the campus, writing student reports and term papers at $1.10 member apply for a 2000 word Lantern said they had a staff to $1.40 a page.

In revealing the business, the Lantern said they had a staff member apply for a 2000 word paper on the Quemoy-Matsu issue between President-elect (then Senator) John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

They received word from the firm that the paper could be done in two or three days at a total cost of $12.50. The firm required half payment in advance and the rest upon receipt of the paper.

The paper arrived after e week's wait, with a letter explining the delay. It was complete with footnotes, bibliography, two maps of the Far East area, and several spelling errors.

A member of the political science department judged the paper to "take about an hour's research. I would return it to the student to be re-written," he said. "One would expect such quality from a junior in high school. There are several misspellings; it is carelessly written, the retoric is poor; quote marks are missused."

The firm's circular claims that the ghost writers are professionals and that the researchers are "Ph D trained."

Council Corner

By SUE SWITZER

1. A new constitution of the Senate-type is being considered for adoption. It will be further discussed winter term.

2. The new social committee will print their own social calendars which will come out at the first of winter term.

3. Notebooks of the ASB minutes are on file in the library and in the ASB office.

4. The ASB office will be open afternoons for the rest of this term. A permanent schedule of hours will be set up winter term.

5. New systems for handling staff activity cards are being considered for next year.

6. After drawing up a new constitution, the Outing Club has been officially recognized as a new organization. They plan on sponsoring a winter carnival.

7. There will be a Whiskerno this year sponsored preferably by a woman's organization.

8. Funds collected through campus chest this year will be divided as follows: 75 per cent of the funds will be given to Cal Poly for the families of the deceased and disabled workers as a result of the plane accident concerning the football players. WUS will receive 25 per cent of the campus chest funds.

9. The rally squad is considering various means of improving the squad through evaluations and a code or constitution.

10. The organizational meeting room is finished to the point of being able to hold meetings there.

Merry Christmas from your EOC student council!

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

"The stockings were hung on the curtains with care, in hopes that Saint Nicholas soon would be there"—and so began the Christmas party for Dorion Hall. Costumes ranging from bums to angels trooped into the cafeteria for an evening of entertainment and gifts.

Festivities got off to a "jog-gin" good start with first floor south presenting a skit depicting a bus ride with fleas. Second south followed and were cleverly made up as Santa Claus and his hepers. Mrs. Santa read letters from some of the "good" girls of Dorion Hall, revealing their pranks. (Now we can pay them back).

Beatniks and bums from half of third south entertained with a bum's version of 'Twas the Night Before Christmas," while the remaining half portrayed sheepherders and their flock representing a Biblical sketch.

Jake, George and Hector, tramps from first floor north, showed the audience just how a tramp gets what he wants for Christmas.

"Show and tell" at a PTA meeting was the theme for second south floor girls as "little kiddies" put on a form of talent show.

Third north girls concluded the skits with a more serious side as Sandy Kriner sang "O Holy Night" joined by the girls on the second verse.

Credit should be given also to Sue Switzer and Judy Young, the 'angels" that acted as mistresses of ceremony. It was cute—yes?

Sandi Thompson, Dorion Hall president, presented Mrs. Muncey and Mrs. Tollefson, housemothers, gifts from the girls and Mrs. T in turn gave the girls a gift of flower vases.

Gifts were then exchanged, refreshments were served, and it was a "Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night!"

OCC All-Conference Teams Announced

Oregon Tech's Roy Johnson won acclaim for the third straight season as he led the 1960 Oregon Collegiate Conference all-star team, as selected by the coaches of the various schools of the conference.

In the OCC coaches' selections, Johnson quarterbacks an all-star backfield completed by halfbacks Ardell Hamilton of OTI, Oregon College's Bob Pennel and fullback Frank McCormick of Portland State.

The OCC offensive forward wall consisted of ends, Dennis Farsted OTI, and Howard Hartman, SOC; tackles Herb Hermann, OCE and Jess Munyon, SOC; guards, Andy Cook, OTI and Willie Garner, SOC; and center Francis Tresler of Oregon College.

Oregon College end Don Habel and halfback Ron Jolma paced the OCC's defensive selections. The other end spot went to Portland State's Mickey Gray, while the two tackles went to Jim Madden of OTI, and Southern Oregon's Tom Morris. Dave Roberts, of PSC, and Ron Robinson of EOC captured the guard spots. John Buck, SOC, and Gordon Meyers, of EOC were named as linebackers, while Charlie Wilson, OTI, and Gordie Carrigan of Southern Oregon completed the 11 man team as the deep backs.

On the OCC's list of stars, Hamilton and Martman are repeaters from the 1958 team, while Carrigan, Garner, Roberts, Gray, McCormick, Wilson and Jolma were first eselections last year. Hermann, Tresler, Madden and Carrigan were unanimous choices by the coaches.

HONORABLE MENTION

Ends—Ten Morris, OTI, Tackles—Bob Williams, PSC, and Bob Salter, EOC. Guards—Butch Corcy, EOC; Wendell Winterbottom, OTI; Jerry Williams, OCE, Jerry Gilman, OCE. Center—Don Anderson, OTI. Quarterbacks — Doug Olsen, SOC; Bob Grant, PSC. Halfbacks—Pat Hammond, EOC; Doyle Branson, SOC; Bill White, PSC. Fullbacks—Al Barnes, SOC; Frank Colburn, OCE.

Merry Christmas

'Newest Club' Sets Ski Carnival Plans

Recently, the newly established Outing Club of Eastern Oregon College traveled to Wallowa Lake for a weekend outing. Friday Nov. 18, a preliminary scouting party went up and set up things at the cabins which were used for the cooking and overnight sleeping quarters. Saturday morning the rest of the adventurers left EOC and journeyed up to Wallowa Lake. Immediately a few of the bravest started for Aneroid Lake. Aneroid lies high in the Wallowa mountains. and is about a six mile hike. The party turned back because of four foot snow drifts. That night the group sang songs, told yarns, and had plenty to eat. Snowshoes were obtained and Sunday morning the hardy crew again set out for Aneroid Lake, and this time, success! While this group was hiking the rest of the club members were enjoying the beautiful scenery at Wallowa Lake and took several hikes to scenic site near the lake. The group returned to school Sunday evening. The Outing Club is now working on the Winter Ski Carnival and they would like to invite everyone to their next meeting which will be early next quarter.

Neveda Takes Two From EOC Quint

RENO, Nev. — Sharp-shooting Craig Hall proved too much for the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers as he led the University of Nevada Wolfpack to their first two victories of the 1960-61 campaign. Friday night, December 2, the Wolfpack scored a 88-66 victory and Saturday night Nevada rolled to a 98-73 victory.

Hall, the Wolfpacks classy guard, scored 35 points in the first game and tossed in 30 points in Saturdays tilt.

The visiting Mountaineers stayed fairly even with the Wolfpack during the first half of both games but lost a considerable amount of ground in the second half. Plagued by numerous fouls the Mountaineer's Coach Bob Quinn had to send in his reserves. Larry Applegate was high point man for the Mounties as he tossed in 24 and 23 points in both ball games. Tom Neel, starting forward, added another 29 points total for both games.

Nixon Would Have Won This Year But For The "If" Factor

By JAMES RESTON

If only President Eisenhower started campaigning hard for Vice President Nixon a week or two earlier . . .

If Nixon had refused to go on those television debates with Kennedy . . . .

If only Martin Luther had gone fishing . . .

If the extreme right-wing Republicans hadn't got involved in that ugly last-minute demonstration against Lyndon Johnson and his lady in Dallas . . .

If over 120,000 pro-Democratic Negroes hadn't moved into the South Side of Chicago in the last four years . . .

If Kennedy had only had Stu Symington or Hubert Humphrey as his Vice-Presidential running mate instead of Lyndon Johnson . . .

If Henry Cabot Lodge had not made made a big issue out of putting a Negro in the Cabinet and giving Federal Aid to parochial schools . . .

If the Republicans hadn't insisted on passing the Twenty-second Amendment that prevented Eisenhower from running again.

If the make-up man in Chicago hadn't put too much make-up on Nixon before that first television debate . . .

If the cops in Georgia hadn't tossed Martin Luther King in the clink just before the voting . . .

If Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York had been nominated instead of Nixon, or even if he had agreed to take the Republican Vice-Presidential nomination . . .

If Norman Vincent Peale had done a little "positive thinking" instead of getting himself involved in an attack on Kennedy in Washington . . .

If Harry Truman had only stayed home and gone on wondering whether or not Kenendy was "ready" for the Presidency . . .

If all female "jumpers" and "squealers" hadn't voted for Kennedy "because he's so cute" . . .

If that U-2 spy plan had not flown over Russia and been shot down just at the wrong time . . .

If Castro and his bearded comrades had not dramatized the movement of Communist power into the Caribbean during the campaign . . .

If it had rained in the Democratic big cities on Election Day instead of in Republican downstate Illinois and in other Republican areas . . .

If most of the Catholics didn't just happen to live in the big decisive electoral state of the Union insead of being spread out more evenly through all the fifty states . . .

If wishes were horses, beggars would ride. And besides, even if Nixon had had all these "if's" going with him, "the luck of the Irish" would probably have beaten him anyway.

WRA Volleyball Draws To Close

The W.R.A. girls have spent the fall term playing intermural volleyball. There were four teams which participated, a town team, an upper class team, a freshman number one and a freshman number two team.

The freshman number one team was the only unbeaten team.

The rest of the girls voted on an All Star Team to play these girls. The game was played on December 1, 1960, with the freshmen winning again after a hard battle.

For the winter term, they are planning on having intermurals in basketball, ping pong and bad mitten.

Clarke Represents State In Chicago

Dr. Gordon W. Clarke, professor of English and literature at Eastern Oregon College and president of the Oregon Chapter of the National Council of Teachers of English, attended the 50th annual conference of the NCTE in Chicago, Nov. 24-26.

Featured in the conference sessions was John Boynton Priestley, English author, and Mark Van Doren, American author.

Night Of The Auk In Production

Now in production is the play, "Night of the Auk," to be presented at EOC February 9, 10 and 11. Heading the cast of five men, under the direction of Dr. Kaiser, is David Slabaugh as Doctor Bruner. Others in the play include Dick Domey as Colonel Tom Russell, David Obert as Lt. Mac Hartman, Le Roy Mobley as Lewis Rohnen, and Gary Van Gaasbeck as Lt. Jan Kephart.

"Night of the Auk," by Arch Oboler, is the story of five American scientists and army personnell making a return trip to earth from the first successful flight to the moon. While the play has an element of science fiction it is considered to be a serious dramatic presentation.

Spout Springs Will Be Scene Of Winter Carnival

EOC's Outing Club is sponsoring the annual Winter Carnival to be held February 10th and 11th at Spout Springs.

Each organization at EOC has been asked to submit their candidate for queen of the Winter Carnival. Each club will have two voting delegates and each delegate will have three votes for three different girls. Three girls will be selected to reign on the court. A general election will be held in the latter part of January for the queen. The lucky girl who will be honored by being queen will get a seventy-five dollar ski outfit and she will be EOC's delegate to the Mount Hood Ski Carnival.

The following activities will take place at the Winter Carnival. On February 10th, there will be night skiing under lights, a dance, a ski movie, and the coronation of the queen. On February 11th, there will be skiing, a snow shoe hike, an organized snow ball fight, and an organized snow sculpture contest.

Tickets will go on sale at the end of this month. Free ski lessons are available with the ten dollar ticket. The ten dollar ticket consists of dinner, night skiing, rental of skies, boots, and poles, evening snack, lodging, breakfast, use of the T Bar lift, rope tow, lunch, and all the other activities offered. Beds are provided with the lodging but one must bring their own sleeping bags or bed roll. Prices are less if one does not want to rent equipment or use the T Bar lift. For non skiers and people who do not want to learn to ski, there is a special rate.

The Committee Chairmen for this event are: General Chairman — Eilleen Turney; Snow Shoe Hike — Gaylein Searles; Queen Coronation — Adrienne Hansen; Queen Selection — Margaret Cunningham; Snow Sculpture — Janet Johnson; Publicity — Jody Sproul; Programs — Sandi Kriner; Finance — Dick Domey.

General Chairman Eileen Turney says, "The Outing Club invites anyone who likes to ski or is just looking for a weekend of fun to come to Spout Springs. There will be something for everyone. If there are any questions, please contact either myself or Dr. Van Vechten."

Miss Nicoloff and Dr. Van Vechten are two of the chaperones for the Winter Carnival.

There are two ways of spreading light: to be the candle or the mirror that reflects it.

'Ballet Russe' Civic Music To Sponsor

Program To Be Held In Pendleton

Students who have civic music memberships can get reservations for transportation to attend the performance of Ballet Russe at Pendleton, Jan. 23. Arrangements have been made to use the college bus (32 passengers). It will leave the campus at 6 p.m. Transportation cost: $1.25. See Don Nelson, EOC librarian.

The performance of Ballet Russee is scheduled for Vert Auditorium.

According to Nelson, students new to the EOC campus may obtain Civic Music membership for $2.

Other Civic Music programs slated this term include:

March 11—"The Serenaders," a male quartet who will appear at the La Grande High School.

Feb. 13—Robert Schrade, a pianist who will appear in Pendleton.

FLOYD V. PUMPHREY

Second Phase Of Ag. Program Inaugurated

The second phase of the Eastern Oregon College revised agriculture program will be inaugurated winter term with the addition of a new course, Crop Production.

The course will be conducted by Floyd Vance Pumphrey, Oregon State College assistant professor, who is assistant soil scientist and agronomist at the Eastern Oregon Branch Experiment station in Union.

Crop Production is one of the requirements in the special program begun at Eastern Oregon College this year in cooperation with OSC.

Students completing the two-year lower division agriculture program at EOC with satisfactory grades will be accepted with junior standing in agriculture at Oregon State College. Requirements for the bachelor's degree can then be completed in two additional years in any agriculture program except Fish and Game Management and Food Technology. The latter two require three additional years.

Pumphrey, who has been on the OSC staff since 1957, has his bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Nebraska.

LOOKING OVER SCRIPTS are the leading characters for Winter term's musical, "Anything Goes", to be presented February 1-4, are Ellen Uesugi (left), Hawaii, acting as Reno Sweey, Fred Everett from Milton-Freewater, as Billy Crocker, and Ruth Combs, La Grande, as Hope Harcoupy.

THE MIDDLE R To Be Published Again

Magazine Resumes After Five-Year Lapse

EOC's own literary magazine, THE MIDDLE R, will be published again in 1961. In an interview with THE BEACON, Mr. Ronald Bayes, the magazine's advisor, said that the publication would take place during spring term. He added that the editors will invite submission of manuscripts of poetry, short stories and essays "around the middle of winter quarter."

Robert Phifer, La Grande, will serve as MIDDLE R editor, and Mrs. Eunice Munsey of Enterprise as associate editor. Phifer has studied creative writing under Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser. Mrs. Munsey is a member of the creative writing class now in progress.

THE MIDDLE R (formerly THE OREGON COLLEGIATE REVIEW) was last published five years ago with Dr. Gordon Clarke as advisor. The magazine was initially organized by Dr. Geraldine Hammond, then a member of the EOC English Department. The 1961 issue will mark the magazine's seventh publication.

Jazz-Poetry Night Will Feature Professors

Friday, February 3 at eight p. m. will see several volunteer faculty members joining student musicians in Hoke Hall in an "avant garde" night sponsored by the student little magazine, The Middle R. Among those reading poetry to jazz and/or bongo accompaniment wll be Doctors Alvin Kaiser and Gordon Clarke and Mr. Ronald Bayes. THE BEACON will have further news on the event in its next issue. The affair is planned to honor the work of Kenneth Patchen, California poet who has been seriously ill for a number of years and who is now in critical condition, and without means, in a Palo Alto hospital. A 25 cent admission fee will be collected for forwarding to help Patchen and his wife meet their crisis. (Mrs. Patchen suffers from multiple scelrosis.)

Middle R editors Bob Phifer and Eunice Munsey will MC the entertainment.

EOC Professor Author Of Published Poem

Ronald H. Bayes, Eastern Oregon College instructor in English, is author of a poem, "Coin Side," included in POETRY OF 1960, an anthology just published by Arthur Stockwell, Ltd., Devon, England.

Let's Keep Hoke Opened!

Last Friday a trial night was held at Hoke Hall to find out if it would be feasible to have Hoke open on Friday nights during the term. Although the crowd started as a small one, it soon developed to a considerable size, with general consensus being that it would be a solution to some weekend activity problems in having Hoke open.

It has also been mentioned that an activity such as this might help in the age old problem of "suitcase students," as it does give the assurance of having some activity available during the weekend.

However, the question has been asked as to what can be done for those who don't dance. Why not incorporate the games held at the Dorms with the dance? This would give the students a more diversified program. And it perhaps would create an atmosphere in which the fellows and girls would mix easier—possibly eliminating the amusing, but awkward cluster of fellows standing, with the girls seated immediately behind them.

In all, perhaps the favorable results of the Friday night dance, along with the even more successful Saturday dance, will be an incentive to have Hoke remain open on week ends.

Impression About EOC

By ALI ZUBI

When a person writes his own impressions about a certain thing, this would arise from his own emotions and feelings toward that thing and at the same time, these reactions will accommodate with the impressons. Experience is the main factor to create an "idea" about a special point.

Our college is small in size, but it is large in importance to me. I realized this since my first step in La Grande, last September, when I suddenly felt a highly respected man shaking my hand. I was surprised about that man, and I imagined myself at Boston Train Station in Londan when four men rushed and encircled me. That moment I figured myself like an "Algerian in Paris," but those men were porters who came to carry my suitcase. Without going so far in my imagination, the man said, "Hi Ali, I'm Dr. Quaintance and I've come to meet you." I was familiar wth that name and again I returned to my imagination about the university I attended in my country.

Dr. Quaintance took me to his house, where we took our lunch together, and then I moved to campus.

The first week of my arrival, I was unable to fomulate a complete opinion about the situation on campus, because I was very tired as a result of my long journey.

The most important thing which attracted by attention in this college is "the true human society" relationship of student to student and of teacher to student. This is beside the active routine work of the personnel staff.

I am under the Foreign Student Regulation, but for sure, it seems to me that I live with my family.

How nice it is to join my teachers for a cup of coffee or go to their offices to hold a free discussion on varoious themes.

I am fond of the social living in Hunt Hall—in that we form a big student family.

Last month I wrote an article to my magazine in Nazareth about EOC. I started with these words . . . 'What do you expect for me to write to you about the U.S. and this college? Indeed, I do not know from where to start and where to end, because everything seems to me fine . . ."

But I have no impressions about the cold which holds me in the dorm, and the snow upon which I once fell down in town.

I wrote the above statements not for the sake of special aim or interest, but this is what I have in mind. Sincerely, I would like not to feel satisfied toward ths duty and to say "We have reached the top," but I would like you to look more to the future and to build a true prestige for your country and for other people to share with you this feeling.

Drive Carefully!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I wonder how much effect, if any, this letter will actually have on the student body of Eastern Oregon College, but I feel it is a topic which must be discussed.

Always having been interested and active in school publications, possibility in my mind that all it was not within the realm of thoughts did not coincide with mine. I have been, therefore, shocked by comments such as "What's the matter with this school—it doesn't even have a column? In What? What's Tht Beacon?" "I didn't even know there was such a thin!"

Being a member of The Beacon staff, to some I might seem partial, but I believe not. It is disgusting that much of the enrollment does not even realize that the Beacon exists, let alone read it.

Most do not comprehend, I am sure, the work that is involved in publishing this paper. Many do not even received credit for the work that they do—it is done out of dedication to journalism and not to EOC. They should be complimented for the fine job done, and this may be accomplished by reading The Beacon and showing an interest in it. This is not printed for the benefit of the staff—it is for the ENTIRE student body.

Quiz yourself on your knowledge—without reference to this issue or any other, can you name only FIVE members of the staff? Possibly you should watch the Ad building, Hoke Hall, and the lbrary every other week for THE BEACON, our central means of communication with each other.

—A student.

Dear Editor:

There is at present some controversy on the campus as to whether or not the cafeteria and lounge at Hoke Hall should remain open on Saturday and Sunday. It is my own contention that the student union would more fully serve its purpose were those facilities made available during weekends. This opinion is justified by a number of obviously practical reasons.

The primary reason lies within the fact that "on campus" students have more leisure time on the weekend than during the week; consequently, they have more opportunity to take advantage of the cafeteria's relaxing atmosphere on weeknds. In addition, since the on weekends. In addition, since the for students to attend movies downtown, Hoke's cafeteria and lounge would provide an area in which to occupy the time between the close of the movie and the closing hours at Dorion Hall. Having grown up in a small town where the hours kept are late and the "things to do" few, I can easily see the advantage this factor would offer in occupying idle hours.

Also sustaining this argument would be the elimination of confusion concerning weekend dances in Hunt and Dorion Hall cafeterias. With the dance floor at Hoke Hall open on weekends there would not be the chaos associated with the moving of dining room chairs and tables and procuring dance records. In addition, the dance area and surroundings at Hoke are a great deal more pleasant.

Subordinating these reasons is the advantage of the additional money resulting from such an increase in the open hours of these facilities. It stands to reason that with "hours-open" on days when student free time is at a maximum the amount of money spent in the cafeteria would correspondingly increase.

In conclusion, the preceding reasons stand together as an effective argument for the opening of leisure facilities of Hoke Holl on weekends.

A STUDENT

Sharin' With Sharon

Welcome back to the new term—those of you who are back! Did you make many resolutions for this term? I did—minue was to make better grades. In fact, I was rather forced into it. Not that I was disappointed in my G.P.A. last term but, well this is a long story . . . I 've mentioned the "Watch and Ward Society" before—remember? The group that meets in Hoke each day discussing the problems of life??? The first meeting of the new year was held the first day of school — the officers were elected with Laird as president. I was late, well actually I was "coffeeing" at another table — and before I came some member suggested that the one with the lowest G.P.A. this term will buy steak dinners for the rest—price $4.00 per dinner. I didn't complain too much as I was only second lowest until the lowest decided to drop out—you chicken, Bill! It'll only amount to about $25.00—and I have to compete with Pat, Sharon, Hugh, Dick—on second thought, Bill, you might have had the right idea. I may join you. But above all, members, don't forget the Daily Devotions to Dillius.

Many unhappy people had various comments on the "Mish Mash" column appearing in The La Grande Observer just prior to finals last term. Compliments should be paid to Hugh who had the gumption to write a few choice words back. The other letter that appeared in protest was written by Eula Jones (who happens to be my sister-in-law). Her letter was on varous protests brought to a head by the "Mish Mash," and she really let go with both barrels.

SCHOOL SPIRIT??? I've been asked to expound on this topic. Comments seem to agree that it is simply "Blah"! Main gripes center around the largest class—the Freshmen. Usually they are "gun-ho" but this year they are apparently so uninterested that one wonders why they even attend EOC. It's a shame that enthusiasm for EOC, scholastically and socially, is not as great as the enthusiasm for inventing coffee breaks and meeting at Hoke Hall—no dirct referral to personalities . . . Well, what else is there to say? But . . . in conclusion, let's get on the ball and stamp out these vulgar rumors. P.S. Welcome to the Allstars. Pete!

Alpha Pi Epsilon Initiates New Members

Fall term nine students were initiated into Alpha Epsilon chapter of Alpha Pi Epsilon, National honorary secretarial science sorority. Initiates include Karen Holmes, Carolyn Hilliard, Barbara Evans, Nancy Miller, La Grande; Rosalee Cannon, Eugene; Loretta Jordan, Beaverton; Marcy May, Pilot Rock; Shirley Watkins, Wasco; and Sharon Hinton, Homedale, Idaho.

The initiation ceremony, held at the home of the organization sponsor, Dr. Sarah C. Stein, was conducted by the president, Connie Roe of La Grande. Other members assisting Miss Roe were Joyce Chandler, Judy Patterson, and Patricia Emmons. Pledges and members were honored at a dinner preceding the ceremony.

To be eligible for Alpha Pi Epsilon, a student must have shown an above average scholarship in general academic courses and in secretarial skill courses, and have personal qualities of leadership and character.

Dr. Leonard F. Good, chairman of the Secretarial Science Department at EOC, is the National president of the Alpha Pi Epsilon soority. He has held this position since 1958.

EOC Professor Authors Textbook

Dr. Sarah C. Stein, associate professor of secretarial science at Eastern Oregon College, is one of the authors of College Typewriting, a textbook just released by Pitman Publishing Corporation of New York.

Dr. Stein prepared a special section, "Statistical Typewriting," for the text designed for a first-year college course.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Talk of Good Old Saint Nick and the presents which he distributed over the holidays seems to be the main conversation piece of the girls in Dorion. However, there were a few girls with eyes which glistened with a brighter gleam for Santa turned out to be that certain Prince Charming with a diamond ring in his pack. Among those girls which found Santa especially attractive this Christmas are Nancy Decker, Darlene Desouza and Judy Savage.

Upon returning from vacation a few girls found their roommates were no longer planning to be E.O.C. students. This caused a great deal of chaos in Dorion as the shuffling of roommates began. Girls were moving in rooms and others were moving out but finally all were satisfied and peace prevailed.

That just about winds up the news from Dorion this week but let us all do our best to help make Winter Term the Winning Term!

Passing the candle to announce her engagement Wednesday night, Jan. 11, was our housemother, Mrs. Tolafson who plans to marry Mr. John Rwsgood this Spring vacation. We will all hate to have her leave us next year, but we wish her much happiness.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Mary Jane Laso, assistant professor of English, attended the North West Honors Conference January 2 and 3. The conference was held at Seattle, with Seattle University acting as host.

Dr. Loso is studying suggestions and recommendations for the introduction of an honors program, for the superior student, here on the E.O.C. campus.

"Coin Side," a poem written by Mr. Ronald Bayes was entered in Poetry of 1960, an anthology publication in Devon, England. Mr. Bayes, an instructor of English, joined the E.O.C. faculty this year.

Mr. Wilson Merrill, assistant professor of social studies on campus attended a meeting of the Northwest Science Association at the University of Idaho the weekend of Dec. 31.

Schedule was an interdisciplinary symposium on the term "Palouse" and the ecology of the area.

Admission will be 50c for students, 75c for college students, and 1.00 for adults.

Al Carr, Charles Becker, and Charles LaKamp are general chairmen for the I.K. Smoker; Bill Ward, Wayne Sword and Bill Cason head the publicity committee.

Ashland Edges EOC

ASHLAND (Special)—The Southern Oregon College Red Raiders bounced back from a one-point deficit at halftime to score their second consecutive win over Eastern Oregon College, of La Grande, 57-53. The win enabled Southern Oregon to maintain its lead in the 1961 Oregon Collegiate Conference Basketball Association.

The Mountaineers stopped a Southern Oregon rally late in the first half when Ron Hunt dropped in a field goal and Mel Holmes hit a free throw for a 32-31 halftime lead. The Red Raiders managed to take back the lead with 5:30 minutes remaining to be played in the game.

Pasco Arritola led all scorers with 17 points. Dave Hughes scored 11 for the losers.

'Good' GPA Acquired By Basketball Squad

Coach Bob Quinn is particularly impressed with one important average compiled by his Eastern Oregon College basketball squad: the grade point average.

The ten members of the varsity squad who made the recent Alaska jaunt compiled an overall GPA of 2.85 for the term just completed, which, in the words of an EOC spokesman, "is breathing on a 'B'". All 12 on the squad have above a 2.00 or "C," according to registrar records.

Mel Holmes, La Grande senior, topped all the Mounties in the academic department by making the honor roll with a 3.53. Walt Wolfe was a close second with a 3.25. Both Tom Neel and Pasco Arritola, who have started all games in EOC's 4-5 season, tied a 3.06. Larry Applegate, leading in Mountie scoring, made a 2.71 average, and Quinn's other regular starter, Bob Olinger, earned a 2.89.

All this has led the veteran Mountie mentor to quip "You see there's nothing wrong in our 'passing' game!"

SET FOR RAIDERS—Guard Ron Hunt will be in starting EOC lineup tonight when Mounties tangle with OTI at the college coliseum. (EOC Photo)

Basketball Featured At Assembly

School spirit was emphasized at the Rally Squad Assembly held Wednesday, January 11th, at 10:30 a.m. The coach of EOC's basketball squad, Mr. Quinn, introduced the members of the team, and several ballplayers told of their trip to Alaska. A pantomime, "The Average Basketball Players," was presented by Deanna Talbott. Ruth Combs, rally leader, informed the student body of coming events, new trends, and new yells and chants. The Rally Squad then portrayed these new yells and chants. The members of the entire Rally Squad for winter term include: Diane Holloway, Vickie Cooper, Judy Head, Donna Postlewait, Ruth Combs, Larry Blais, Earl Miller (Zorch), Fred Kelly, and Charlie La Kamp.

Red Raider Topple Mounties

Southern Oregon College, co-champion of the Oregon Collegiate conference last year, opened its 1961 campaign with a victory 78-59 over Eastern Oregon College of La Grande, Friday night.

The Red Raiders of Southern Oregon moved ahead of the Mountaineers early in the first quarter on a field goal by Gordie Carrigan, with 13:45 minutes remaining to be played in the first half. At the intermission, Southern Oregon was leading Eastern Oregon by a 39-27 margin.

Larry Applegate, the high scoring guard from EOC, was held to a mere six points, far off his average of over twenty points a ball game. This defeat snapped a three-game winning streak for Eastern Oregon.

Mounties Defeat Missionaries

Eastern Oregon College fired baskets at a sizzling clip of .583 to defeat Whitman College 85-76 in a non-conference basketball tilt Monday night, January 2, the night before registration at Eastern Oregon.

The defeat cost the Missionaries the services of starting forward Ronnie Beck. Beck either suffered a dislocated or separated shoulder in a collision with EOC's Tom Neel.

Coach Bob Quinn's Mountaineers, in rolling to their third straight victory, led throughout the entire ball game. They held a 45-32 halftime lead and built that to 60-30 shortly after the second half started.

Larry Applegate and Pasco Arritola led Eastern Oregon scorers with 25 and 15 points respectively. Gary Bogle tallied 22 points for the defeated Missionaries.

EOC Scores Victories In Alaska

Eastern Oregon College of La Grande left Alaska after scoring its third victory in five games with the University of Alaska.

The Mountaineers scored a 75-73 victory in a hard-fought, action-picked game, when Larry Applegate netted two field shots with just seconds to be played in the game.

The game was marked by roughness, disputed calls and several technical fouls. Pasco Arritola, the big Eastern Oregon center, fouled out in less than 10 minutes. Tom Neel, starting forward, also fouled out late in the game.

Larry Applegate was high point man for the evening with 18 points. Don Shore and Dick Turley, both of Eastern Oregon, scored 13 and 14 points respectively Gabriel and Stauffer each had 17 for the losers.

"CHECKMATE"

By AL CARR

Otto examined the board intently for a clever move. His receding chin rested heavily on hand and elbow through a pair of thick, gold rim glasses, the type that was worn in the "Our Gang" series, he shifted his chin to the other hand and elbow, pondering on his next move. His long black hair was plastered down with half a jab of vaseline. An open mouth exaggerated the fullness of his lower lip, which was chapped and peeling.

Good lord, I thought, if there's anything I cannot tolerate, it's someone who sits and studies the chessmen for twenty minutes then makes an injudicious move anyway. I don't know why I waste my valuable time playing chess with someone who is so inferior to my skill. Just look at that button nose of his twitching like a nerve ending. Why that's a face only a mother gorilla could love. Maybe I should call the Humane Society. LOOK! LOOK! By jove, I think he is going to move that one, stupid, only an idiot would . . . Well! I was beginning to wonder if he would recognize such an obviously foolish move that would have been. Now isn't that cute, he's scratching his head in deep concentration. I wonder if I could get him to co-star with Lassie. If Otto would comb his hair once in a while, put on a decent tie, and shine his shoes, I could get him a date with the ugliest girl on the campus. That is if I slipped her a few bucks under the table. Oh, hurry up and do something. Maybe I should have made my defense a little more scattered for him, at least we could get this over with.

Otto scratched his bulbous lower lip and fingered the chessmen. He mumbled to himself and picked his nose, wiping his fingers on his shorts. My stomach began to roll in abomnation and the tension of waiting seemed unbearable. Otto ran his fingers through his greasy hair, picked at his nose again and began to move.

At last, I thought, that simple fool is going to move! Maybe we'll get out of here before dawn after all!

Otto moved, slowly and determinedly I smirked at his obviously insipid error in judgment and waited for him to say something.

He smiled up at me through his thick glasses, picked his nose, muttered, and said, "Checkmate."

A scholar who is passive to life in a time when vitality is integrally necessary to the preservation of democratic ideals is one to whom the navigation of the ship of state must not be intrusted. The day of the rudimentally educated statesman is past. In the future America will of necessity draw its leaders almost soley from the increasing ranks of college graduates and we must be prepared to offer our outstanding people to that end.

The question arises as to whether we can fulfill this obligation, whether we can develop individuals with the qualifications needed for such a calling. Too many of us today are pacifists, characterized by lethargy rather than vitality and unfortunately this situation is not abating.. The primary danger here is the stifling of our initiative to the point that we are becoming ultra-conservatives, accepting our lot without question and avoiding completely the discomfiture of any challege.

This trend toward conformity may prove our nemesis if allowed to continue unchecked, for, a people who reduce themselves to mental gregarity are retrograding and are sacrificing their right to self rule. God help us if America should ever have to turn to this quarter for inspiration in time of need. Rather, she must seek out the individualist for her purpose, the person who knows his own mind and is not afraid to challenge life. We must be prepared to furnish such people and we must begin such preparations here in our educational institutions.

We should be ineffably thankful for having been born Americans and we should stand ever vigilant to protect this heritage and purge it of any insidious corruption. We must awake from our infirmity and again assume the countenance of truly free Americans.

Successful recovery depends upon each individual who must strive to achieve this goal by his own methods. I should however, like to suggest a cardinal precept of the freedom we enjoy and hope to continue to enjoy: "Think for yourself!"

EOC Professor Attends Confab

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Joe College Woe Song Of

By BOB BARON

I alone am Captain
Of my grades
And Master of My Fate.

Imagine if you can
Me as the type of man
Who could live his life freely
Without a care in this world
So greedy.
That is, until one gloomy morning
In early November when an English Composition class required
My attending.

In the front the instructor
Trips back and forth,
Talking of J. Alfred Prufrock

With skies overcast
And lightning dancing about
The assignment was made
So glancing at a babe . . . in the next row
I gingerly dotted it down.

In front the instructor
Trips back and forth,
Talking of J. Alfred Prufrock.

And I said to myself,
There will be time, there
Will be time. Time enough
To do this assignment. Time even
For a hundred revisions.
Even as the morning mist mystically
Disappeared so did my thoughts
Of J. Alfred Prufrock.

Time flew by though I knew
Not why,
Until the assignments completion
Became hard pressing.

So with gallant pen
I started to begin,
On the dissection of
"The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock."
But as the questions kept coming
I fet as though I was the patient
And it the doctor.

Why did the instructor
Trip back and forth
Talking of J. Alfred Prufrock?

To this day I know not why.
So I with my dying voice
Can only say
I enjoyed the poem
Though I know not why.

Enrollment Up From A Year Ago

Incoming figures on the third day of registration shows an enrollment of 750 students. This is an approximate 7.2% increase over the enrollment of winter term last year.

Of this number 247 are registered in Elementary Education, 185 in Secondary Education, 140 in General Studies, and 178 in Pre-Professional.

Several new night classes have been added to the curriculum, "Recent Developments in Math Education" an upper division semnar taught by Howard Wilson and "Junior High School Curriculum" taught by Dr. Hill. Another addition is a geology class taught each Monday evening by Dr. Bolen.

To Mrs. T.

When a girls leaves home,
She leaves her mother,
And just then she feels
That there is no other.

However, upon arrival
She meets some one quite dear,
It is her "new" mother,
At least for a year.

News has reached us now,
That she'll be leaving soon
But she'll go with us in our hearts
As we depart in June.

When we were sick
Or burdened with care,
We could always find
A friend or a solace there.

We know that she'll be happy
As she's taking a new name
But to us she'll be remembered
Our "Mrs. T"—just the same.

Drama Society Brings In 12 New Members

Sock and Buskin initiates came in in grand style fall term when their initiation was held in the college auditorium. Antics of the evening were rather "unwillingly" performed by this group which consisted of LeRoy Mobley, Earl Miller, Shirlee Hulst, Donna Postlewait, Margaret Cunningham, Celeste Wayne, Martha Vance, Jody Sproul, Dave Obert, Deanna Talbott, Dave Slabaugh, and Carol Woodell.

After the new members were accepted "Keep Talking" was staged with the new members against the old. Refreshments were then served by the officers, and a gift was presented to Mr. Hiatt, the advisor, from the group.

Sock and Buskin is the campus dramatic soociety which assists in all drama productions during the year.

Rings . . . And Weddings

Among the festivities of the holidays, was the marriage and announcements of engagements of students on campus.

Rings . . .

No wedding date has been set for Nancy Decker, a junior from Kent and Don Verstratee from Takima, Washington.

Judy Savage, a sophomore from Baker and Bob Vancil, a senior from North Powder, are planning a summer wedding.

Connie Jepson, a freshman, and David Baker, both of La Grande are also planning a summer wedding.

Darlene DaSouza, a junior from Mt. Vernon and Wally Muzzy, John Day, are planning to wed after they graduate.

Midge Smith, a sophomore from Baker and Loyd Cole, a sophomore at OCE, also from Baker, are planning their wedding, but no definite date has been set.

Weddings . . .

Irene Ybarzabal, Ontario, and Gene Bates, Vale, exchanged vows January 1. They are living in La Grande and are continuing school.

Dorion's Housemother, Mrs. Tolafson became engaged to Mr. John Rwsgaard, a postmoster in Lakewood, Washington. They are planning a wedding during Spring vacation.

Service Work Continued By Sabers

Sabers, the women's service organization on campus, sent a box full of Christmas gifts to Hillcrest School for Girls. The gifts were given to girls who have no families. A very sincere and gracious thank-you letter was received from Marjorie G. McBride, superintendent of the school.

This is the second year Sabers have sent Christmas gifts to the girls. This is just one of the many worthwhile services members of this organization perform throughout the year.

'Anything Goes' In Production

Cole Porters' musical "Anything Goes" will be presented at EOC March 1, 2, 3, and 4. Signing leades went to Ellen Ugisugi, Fred Everett, Ruth Combs and Merlene Teasley. David Slabaugh, Le Roy Mobley and Diana Talbet were assignet the important nonsinging roles.

Seventy students will be under the direction of Mr. Hiatt, with Mr. Cobb as musical director and Miss Nicoloff n charge of choregraphy, for this production. It will be put on through the cooperation of Sock and Buskin, the music deparemnt and the modern dance department.

EOC Adds Geology Study

A course in Geology has been added to the program of evening courses at Eastern Oregon College for the winter term, according to Dr. Roy L. Skeen, director of instruction.

Geology is scheduled for Mondays, 7-19 p.m., with registration set for Jan. 9. Dr. Skeen noted, however, that registration for evening classes meeting Tuesdays and Wednesdays is scheduled for the week of Jan. 3.

The schedule of campus evening courses includes: Monday—Geology, Weaving, Seminar: Junior High School Curriculum, Seminar: Recent Developments in Math Education, and Orchestra. Tuesday—Organization of Library Materials, Wood Craft, School Law and Organization, and Painting.

Wednesday — Advanced Speech, and Ideologies of the 20th Century.

The EOC winter term registration for the regular session is Jan. 3, with first classes getting underway Wednesday at 7:30 a.m.

EOC To Present Special Seminar In Mathematics

A special seminar in mathematics will be one of the courses featured in the Eastern Oregon College program of campus evening classes winter term.

According to Dr. Roy L. Skeen, director of instruction, the seminar, Recent Developments in Math Education, will begin Jan. 9, and will be offered for both graduate and undergraduate credit.

Other evening classes scheduled includes: Monday — Weaving, Seminar; Junior High School Curriculum, Orchestra. Tuesday—Organization of Library Materials Wood Craft, Crafts, School Law and Organization, and Painting.

Wednesday — Advanced Speech, and Ideologies of the 20th century.

Registration for all courses is scheduled for the first class meeting the week of Jan. 3. Monday classes will register Jan. 9.

'Night Of Auk'

If you are looking for a change of pace in your daily life mark this date on your calendar—February 9, 10 and 11. Why? These are the nights that the play, "Night of the Auk" will be presented. The play, written by Arch Oboler, concerns the experiences of five men in a rocket ship that has made a flight to the moon.

The unusual bit of scenery is called space staging and should create exactly that feeling. The play begins in total blackness and all that is heard is the roar of jets. As this roar rises to a great crescendo lights focus on three discs each eight fet in diameter.

A ramp runs the full length of these discs and they serve as a communication center, command center, and control center for navigation. The cast of five men will be controlling panels using actual radar equipment from World War II.

The entire play will be done behind a sky blue net and total blackness with the exception of the centers. Through this blackness the cast, under the direction of Dr. Kaiser, will attempt to create a feeling of non-support and give the impression of people confined in space.

John C. Merrifield Scheduled For Lincoln Day Speech

Commander John C. Merrifield, former State Senator and President of the Insurance Company of Oregon, will be the key speaker at the Sixth Annual Lincoln Day Banquet in Hoke Hall at 6:30 p.m., Feb. 14.

Merrifield phoned his acceptance of the invitation Tuesday to Hugh Swaney, Chairman of the college Young Republican Club.

Swaney said that the public and students of all political parties are invited to this important celebration. Tickets may be obtained from any club member after January 26th.

Bennett To Speak At Ground-Hog Luncheon, Feb. 2

Dr. Bennett, President of Eastern Oregon College, will be guest speaker at the Ground-Hog Luncheon to be held in Hoke Hall February 2, 1961, from 12:00 noon until 1:00. This event is the kick-off luncheon for Religious Emphasis Week on the Eastern Oregon College campus. It is sponsored by the Interfaith Council under the leadership of JoAnn Berryman and Bill McCleary.

Tickets will be sold by members of the Interfaith Council in the Administration Building during January 31 and February 1.The price for each person is only 25c. All student body and faculty members are cordially invited.

ASB Headquarters Set Office Hours

The new Student Body office is now opened for the convenience of the student body and is available to anyone who wishes to make use of the materials. The hours it will be open are ten until twelve o'clock on weekdays except Wednesday, and from two until four o'clock on the afternoons of Monday through Thursday. A schedule will be posted with the names of the executive council who will be working in the office at these hours. The executive officers include John Dahlstrom, Greg Baker, Larry Snook, Sue Switzer, Dan Yturraspe and Ruth Combs.

A duplicating machine and a paper cutter will be available for use in student body or individual organizational businesses. Five cents will be charged for each master sheet used and one cent for each final copy will be charged.

The Student Body Office, in a new location in the basement of Hoke and around the corner from the bookstore, is a great improvement over the previous one. New furniture and facilities are available to the student body.

Court Contains Three Lovelies

Today, one of three charming girls will be chosen to be queen of our Winter Carnival at Spout Springs February 10 and 11. The queen at our carnival will be a princess at the carnival at Mt. Hood, the weekend of February 25, where she will again vie for the honor of Queen. The three candidates are Vicki Cooper, Sharon Noyes and Karen Sutton.

Vicki Cooper is a freshman, majoring in General Studies. Brown-haired, dark-eyed Vicki is from Stanfield. She is a Rally Squad member and she is on the annual staff. Vicki is sponsored by the I.K.'s.

Another member of the court is Karen Sutton, a bright-eyed junior from Hermiston. She is majoring in Elementary Education. Karen is active in Sabers and was co-chairman of Homecoming this fall. Karen is being sponsored by Hunt Hall.

Blond-headed Sharon Noyes, a junior majoring in Secondary Education is from La Grande. She is active in Sabers, and Sigma Alpha Chi. Sigma Alphi Chi is sponsoring Sharon.

These girls were selected Tuesday, January 17, from seven entries. Each girl had to give a three minute talk about any aspect of the Winter Carnival. They were judged by their speaking ability, poise, and beauty. Judges were representatives from each organization.

The Winter Carnival is sponsored by the Outing Club.

Fred Kelly Heads Campus Demos

Fred Kelly, a sophomore from Milton-Freewater, has been elected president of the campus Young Democrats. Other officers are: Bev Furgason, vice president, and Leah Church, secretary.

The club has been active the past year, having democrat speakers on campus. One speaker was President Kennedy, who appeared here a year ago.

New Student Body Constitution Pending

Senate System Proposed

Within the next month a new constitution will be presented to the students of Eastern Oregon College for ratification. It is almost an entire change from the present Associated Student Constitution and we of the constitution committee and student council feel it is the right of all students to know some of the history and thought that evolved into the drafting of a new constitution.

This constitution is not the work of overnight politicians but had its beginning spring term of 1959 when a change was expressed. The factors that brought the new constitution into existence are those that any college experiences as it expands.

As the enrollment at Eastern Oregon College increases in the rapid manner as it is doing, so increases the influence and diversified duties of student government. Eastern Oregon has outgrown her present constitution and a new guiding constitution rather than an awkward limiting one is needed.

Following are some prominent needs for a new constitution.

1. A constitution in any government is a foundation from which to work, and the many unwarranted specifies of the present constitution does not permit itself to be used as a guide but rather is a narrow blockade through or around which student government must work.

2. With provision for a Senate, Finance Committee Social Assembly, etc. many more people will be drawn into student government and representation will be on a much broader, equal basis.

3. Our student government under the proposed constitution, with factious such as Cabinet, Senate and so forth, will carry many aspects of National Government and therefore will serve as a valuable learning process for both officers of student government and the student body.

4. With much time, knowledge and collected ideas underlying the framing of this constitution, it does fit the needs of Eastern Oregon College, which is its purpose.

We sincerely hope you will read this constitution and support it in the coming election.

Greg Baker
A.S.B. 1st V.P.
Chairman Constitution Committee.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTION
Constitution of the Associated Students of Eastern Oregon College

PREAMBLE:

We the students of Eastern Oregon College, La Grande, Oregon, in order to promote the general welfare of this institution; to provide for the conduct and support of student activity; to insure equality and opportunity; and to encourage a high standard of student participation and of service to college and state, do ordain and establish the following constitution:

ARTICLE I—ORGANIZATION

Section I—This organization shall be known as the Associated Students of Eastern Oregon College and shall function during school years with the exclusion of summer sessions.

Section II — All registered students on payment of their Associated Student fes shall be considered active members of this organization.

Section III—The business meeting of the Associated Students shall be held during any regular assembly hour, and at such times as the President of the Associated Students deems advisable.

Section IV—Meetings of the Associated Students shall be held upon the call of the President on his own initiative, upon request of the Senate, or upon petition of fifty members of the Associated Students, in which they state the object of the desired meeting. The President, upon receiving a petition or upon Senate request, shall make arrangements for the meeting at the earliest date possible.

ARTICLE II—EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

Section I—The executive officers of this organization shall be President, First and Second Vice-Presidents, Business Manager, and Secretary. These five officers shall be known as the Cabinet and shall be responsible for the duties of the Cabinet.

Section II—The Associated Students President shall preside at the meeting of the Associated Students and the Cabinet and shall be responsible for the meetings of the Cabinet. The President shall be the official representative of the Associated Students and shall maintain official correspondence for this Association. The President, after consultation with the Cabinet, shall have veto power over general enactments of the Senate.

The President shall have the power to propose legislation. If the Senate does not act on this legislation within seven school days the proposed legislation will become effective.

Section III—The Associated Students First Vice-President shall discharge the duties of the President in case of the latter's absence, resignation, or forfeiture of office. The First Vice President shall arrange for and preside over the meetings of the Senate, and shall be responsible for its organization and operation. The First Vice President shall have charge of all arrangements for elections, subject to the authority of the Cabinet.

Section IV—The Associated Students Second Vice-President shall serve as chairman of the Social Assembly. The Second Vice President shall be responsible for a report on the proceedings of this Assembly at each meeting of the Cabinet and at each meeting of the Senate.

In Our Country . . .

Recently, I pleased myself by taking a walk along the low mountains below Mt. Emily (that mountain framed by the windows in the reading room at the library). From some clearings I could observe a magnificant view of the valley below. The sky was a vivid blue, the air held a nip of crispness, and the smell and soft whispers of the pines were present.

As I climbed upward, occasionally looking back, I felt that need for freedom which is a basic desire in each of us—and I felt so thankful to be living in a great country which upholds this desire. We must keep our freedom. We can't be lax, expecting it to merely stay. Today we must strive to keep it as much alive, as did our founding fathers strive to secure it.

We are constantly being tried with our freedom by outside forces mingled among us. It is up to each of us to value our freedom eminently, not letting those forces intermingle among each of us anywhere we go.

Freedom to us today may seem as natural as living itself—and it should. But we follow prescriptions to keep alive, so we must also follow prescriptions to keep freedom alive . . . how wonderful it was to stand on the hillside and to view the "purple mountains majesty across the fruited plains" here in our own valley and to know that we are Free.

Education In Focus

By ALI ZUBI

In every co untry, the word "education" has the same meaning, but it differs in action and methods of teaching. By education we mean—to get knowledge of certain things — but how do we get this education? A A student in Central Africa will be sitting on the floor to gain knowledge, while at the same time we are familiar with the situation of a studetn at UCLA or for more approach, a student at EOC. All are students and all are looking for education. Now, a question will be raised as to whether the purpose of education is to bear a name or to be performed in real actions.

I would like to give a general idea about the English and American systems of education. By English, I mean countries of Great Britain, some of the Commonwealth and Middle East countries.

1) Transfer stage from secondary School; Secondary stands as high school and is 12 years. The last year at secondary is a year of studying hard and it is of great importance. When a student graduates from secondary school, his work or grades are not of consideration to attend a college. The government, under the auspices of the Ministry of Education, give a general examination with the same long-essay questions to all graduates in that country. A student may select a science or humanities section. English and at least one foreign language are necessary for both groups. The student has to sit for six subjects. The examinations are held twice a year—in June and in the fall. After a couple of months, each student receives a note from the ministry of education to notify him about the results of the tests. There are no grades, but they mention "pass" or "fail".

2) If a student is luck and quite smart, having survived from the "Ark of Noah," by passing in all the tests, he then may look for the way to knock at the doors of the university, crossing the shore of "Noah" after staying 12 years. The student comes to the university holding that sheet of paper as his banner of liberty and life and it might be that he was lucky in his "lottery" tests—here we go. This building. The student feels as he is the university administration building. The student feels as if he got rid of troubles in secondary school and has the feeling toward some kind of dignity. But a former student at the university may say, "Wait and you will see." Without discourse he finishes filling his application forms and paying fee for the whole year—and see your money next year. Having the receipt, a special card is issued for the student bearing his number. This number stands for his full name to fill every action in the university. Then this student informs his family or his girl friend that he has changed his name to a number.

(This comparison of the English and American Education systems will be continued in the next issue of the Beacon, February 10.)

(Edtor's Note: Before coming to EOC, Ali Zubi toured Europe with an international group of students. Ali is from Nazareth and this is his first time in the U.S. He is a senior majoring in Political Science and plans to do graduate work at UCLA after he graduates.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

In the last issue of the Beacon a certain columnist brought the subject of school spirit into focus by stating that the school spirit of EOC was simply "Blah." The column then went on to imply this deficiency was due to the lack of enthusiasm within the freshman class. "Usually (the column read), they, the freshmen, are gun-ho but this year they are apparently so uninterested that one wonders why they even attend EOC." It seems to me that when the upper classmen start blaming barely second term freshmen for shortcomings that have taken years to form, the school itself is in pretty bad shape. School spirit doesn't die suddenly, it smolders on until it is finally stamped out, not by anyone freshmen class, but by the neglect of several classes in succession.

When freshmen come to college they want to admire, respect and look up to the upper classmen—this is as it should be—but to our disappointment the "upper classmen" have turned out to be superior in class standing only. We find that they have little enthusiasm, validity, and display very little interest to us as a class. This does not apply to all of the upper classmen. However, there are some that are really "tops" and without these few the school would be nothing. But neither do ALL of the freshmen show animation only for going to Hoke. Remember we are following the example that you, the upper classmen, are setting for us.

I'd like to point out to you—that so far this year we have had three send-offs for the team as they left town—Who was there? Not very many but they were ALL freshmen with the exception of the Yell Queen and Rally Dukes. Take a look at the rally squad. Out of five girls, four of them are freshmen. On the rally executive board there are eight members, six of which are frshmen. Why is this? It is only logical that the upperclassmen girls are more familiar with the yells and rally obligations than incoming freshmen. And you say the lack of school spirit is our fault? Not hardly. I feel certain that eventually you will realize the freshmen are not uninterested and we are attending EOC for the same reason you are—to gain a good higher education.

We all know that school spirit is lack so why don't we "stop trying to blame someone" and join together to do something about it?

Torrid Tips

It is winter carnival time again and many schools in the Pacific Northwest are selecting candidates for queen of carnival held at Mount Hood. Karen Sutton, Sharon Noyes and Vickie Cooper are candidates for Eastern Oregon's snow queen. Congratulations!

On the University off Southern California campus the administration is trying to slowly eliminate fraternities and sororities by inducing students to live in dormitories. The elimination, however, will be done by the local Greek houses themselves.

Congrtulations to the Mountaineer squad for their two victories last weekend. EOC is now in second place in the OCC.

Judging from a study of disciplinary action over a period of six years it was found that college students, as a group, are extremely well behaved.

Thought for the week . . .

The man who is not afraid of failure seldom has to face it.

Sharin' With Sharon

Back for More??? Well, here we go . . .

As the year continues, do you students that are practice teaching feel you'll never make the nearly two more terms?

TO THE STUDENT TEACHER

A dedication to those "poor" souls
Night after night they struggle with themselves,
Day by day they struggle with others

Harassed, weary, they plod ahead
Every reaching for the future;
A future of utter chaos with those whose future they mold.

Puppets in the hands of the "little people."
Some realizing —some questioning—
Some happy in their love for others.
As thoughts of what lies beyond come to their minds . . .
To those allowing themselves to wonder . . .
Anxieties mount in a never-ending stream.

To those I say . . .

Look ahead across the lake of life,
Look ahead to the freshness of spring,
Look ahead—not behind at the days or years gone by.

For you will find your satisfaction in these young ones,
A way of life never to be equaled.
And you will find peace of mind —happiness.

Seems I've missed mentioning several VIP's on campus — sorry I overlooked you, but here goes: Hello to Ellen, Flip, Merlene, Dee, and last but REALLY not least, Willie!!! Sorry I couldn't write about you. And to Willie, welcome as the new member of the "Watch and Ward Society."

Let it be herby resolved that all interested parties be notified as to the change of the "Watch and Ward Society" affliction. It has been unanimously decided to become an honored chapter of the B.I.T.O.A. (those who don't "dig" the abrief's must not "dig" Woody Woodbury either!!).

Puzzles: Why do napkins disappear when Hughs' around?

Where are the Allstars?

Have you noticed all the "fun" activities coming up? Let's get that school spirit and attend: Jazz Poetry Night, "Night of the Awk," and make future plans for "Anything Goes"—sounds terrific!!

I've had a few slight complaits well really — they were more like lots of big gripes, from my "readers" that they just plaint don't understand my contribution? to the BEACON—Let's face it—nobody does! No, really there is a formula. You have to follow it each and every issue, read carefully, remember what you've read, and then let your imagination go wild—if it follows the same path as mine you'll understand . . . poor fool!!

'Anything Goes'

More EOC students have been added to the cast of "Anything Goes." Sue Switzer as Mrs. Harcourt is one of the principal players. Recently chosen suporting actors include Dave Obert, Judy Sproul, Margaret Cunningham and Ron Munkries. Leading players announced earlier were Ellen Uesugi as Reno Sweeney, Fred Everett as Billy Crocker, Ruth Combs as Hope Harcourt, LeRoy Mobley as Sir Evelyn Oakleigh, Dave Slabaugh as Monnie, Deanna Talbott as Bonnie and Merlene Teasley. There are a few parts still to be cast.

"Anything Goes," a musical written by Cole Porter, will be presented at EOC March 1, 2 ,3, and 4. Rehearsals are now in progress under the direction of Mr. Hiatt, Mr. Cobb and Miss Nicoloff. It will be put on through the cooperation of Sock and Buskin, the music department and the modern dance department.

Could This Be You?

Occasionally while walking through the lounge or into the coffee shop at Hoke, one will observe a pair of feet—or more—casually propped upon the upholstered chairs or on the coffee tables. Most of this furniture is new and it must last for a long time, so it is important that it be respected. Thus it would be appreciated if the concerned parties would not place their feet on the furniture.

Council Confab

by Sue Switzer

1. The biggest thing in council at present is the approval of a new Associated Students Constituton. The constitution, which is printed in this paper, was presented to council and discussed in full detail before approval of its acceptance. It will be brought before the student body for a vote in the near futre.

2. The student body office will be open from 10-12 Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday; and from 2-4 Monday, Tuesday, Wednesay and Thursday.

3. Numbers have been assigned for ASB events for the convenience of punching student body cards.

4. The installation of the new sound system will take place in Hoke within two months. There will be one turntable of background music and a turntable of music for dances. They are interchangeable, however. The music may be heard in the coffee shop and in the lounge.

5. Question has been raised as to the existence of the ski club. Had it officially been merged with the Outing Club, and if so how? John said that the council had taken no position on this, and as far as he knew, as long as the constitution was on file the club could resume activity at any time. This will be investigated and it will be further discussed at the next meeting.

6 A complete up-to-date balance sheet has been presented to council of fall term's activities.

7. Hoke is available for use by individual organizations. Arrangements may be made for its use by individaul organizations. Arrangements may be made for its use through Mrs. Cater in the registrar's office.

8. As it now stands, student council meetings will be 6:30 Tuesday evenings.

SOEA Doings

A mock interview was presented January 11 at the SOEA meeting by Harold Mc Abee, superintendent of the La Grande school system. He interviewed Joanne Berryamn, a senior in elementary education. Mr. Mc Abee questioned her about her philosophy of education, her planned procedure for the first day of school, what kind of principal she would like and why she had chosen the town in which to live.

A question and answer period followed the interview. Mr. Mc Abee then said that a future teacher being interviewed should ask a principal about available facilities, and about the principal's own philosophy of teaching. Also discussed were applications and teaching credentials. He suggested that candidates apply at several schools. Finally, he stressed the importance of belonging to OEA and raising the standards of the teaching profession

Sport Talk— By Denery

The Eastern Oregon basketball team will be the most traveled small college club in the Northwest this year, thanks to the planing of Coach Bob Quinn and EOC President Frank Bennett. The biggest mileage maker was the recent holiday trip to Alaska. The team logged approximately 7500 miles on this trip alone. Add another 5000 for conference games, and you will come up with a group that's been around.

NORTH TO ALASKA

"Big Bob" and his boys left Seattle in the year of "60" on a Boeing 707 Pan Am. jetliner. Four hours later they were in Fairbanks, hub of the arctic and only 13 miles from the North Pole, Alaska, population 5. "Big Sam" couldn't say the same!

After splitting a pair of games, going dog sledding, and freezing in 25 degree below weather, the team boarded a DC 7 Alaska Airlines plane for Anchorage, the banana belt of Alaska. Here it was warm — only 10 degrees above!! In Anchorage, the quint from the "lower 48" fared better, winning two very exciting and close ball games.

In general, the people of Alaska were pleased with the four-game series between the Mounties and the home Polar Bears. As one Alaska fan said: "This is my kind of basketball. I haven't seen anything like this since I left the States and I loved every minute of it! I'll be mad as heck if the University doesn't invite another good team next year!!"

AND WE'LL SAY THIS:

Never have we seen people so happy and friendly. Good luck to all of Alaska!

Fairbanks television viewers got a bang out of the guest appearance made by Coaches Quinn, Don Campbell, and player Tom Neel. Seems the sportscaster asked the Mountie men if the first game (won by EOC 72-66) was typical of Eastern Oregon basketball. Naturally being a little partial, the three answered "No!", and told fans that they would definately see a better brand of ball on our part than the poorly played game on Friday night. So, what happened? Alaska won 98-76. The people loved it.

At this writing, Eastern Oregon is just barely in second place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference. However, they hope to solidify their position with a pair of victories over the Wolves of Oregon College.

The Monmouth quint has lost the services of three of their top performers due to lack of ability in the classroom. According to Coach Bob McCullough, losing these boys may be what he needs to come up with a winning combo. Sound funny? Indeed it does, but most coaches will tell you this: Basketball is a game of psychology. Over a long season very few teams can go undefeated. The home court will usually give a visiting team a 10 point handicap. Couple all these factors with the fact that OCE (on paper) has a weak team, and the visiting club, aware of this, puts the Wolves in the driver's seat as the team most likely to upset the contenders for conference honors.

EOC — Beware of a wolf in sheep's clothing! Don't let down for even a second, for if you do someone else will take over your spot in the dash for the district play-offs. This not only goes for OCE, but for all teams. Remember the mental attitude — think of winning at all times.

The battle for first place is billed for the College Coliseum and is only a few hours away.

Sharky Nelson will bring his defensive minded PSC club to town with hopes of stopping the high-scoring, fast-moving Mountie attack.

Frank Chase, a former student at our fair school, will be wearing the green and white spangles of the Vikings when the two teams square off in their hoop fiesta at 8:00 p.m. If previous battles are any indication of what's in store for the weekend series, it should be a ding-dong doozy!!!

In 1958 PSC and EOC divided a pair of one point divisions; the Mountaineers winning the first game 40-39 as Pasco Arritola popped in a lay-in just as the horn sounded. Portland State took the cue and returned the compliment the next night, the Viks winning 41-40 on Johnny Fredericks' long one-hander from the corner. The buzzer blew just as the ball snapped through the cords.

SCENE AND HEARD

Oregon Tech may have the most colorful team in the Northwest if they so choose to start Leon and Charlie Wilson, "Sweet" Sammy Smith, and Hulit Nash. All four are Negroes. This, along with their ability to put the ball through the hoop, could give OTI an excellent drawing card.

WALLY PALMBERG, Oregon Tech coach, must have quite a pipe line into the Tulsa, Oklahoma, area. Both the Wilson boys and Nash are from Tulsa. Word is that Truman Williams, a former all-conference star at OTI who lives in Tulsa, is sending Wally the "makin's".

The loudest cry heard out of OTI is, "Wait 'till next year". They have good reason as they only lose Charlie Wilson via the graduation route. If Palmberg can pick up a replacement and two good front line reserves, the Owls will have something to "hoot" about come next winter.

Also from the Owl campus comes word that Head Football Coach Rex Hunsaker is under consideration for the vacant Brigham Young University football post.

Swede Halbrook, former Oregon State All-American during the Bill Russell era of basketball, has switched from the N.I.B.L. to the Syrcus Nationals of the stronger N.B.A. He is making quite an impression on pro fans.

Last Saturday, in the quarter he played, he held Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain to one field goal and a free throw. Coach Alex Hannun of the Nats credited his team's victory to the great defense played by Swede, all 7' 3" of him.

WORD TO THE WISE — Turn out and support the Mounties in their battle for conference and district laurels.

Remember, IT'S FUN TO BE A FAN!!!

CBJC Edges JV'ees

Columbia Basin Junior College junior varsity edged out the Eastern Oregon freshmen last Friday night in Pasco, Wash., 68-66.

The JV's, led by the scoring of Jerry Crouser and Bob Meyers, forged ahead at halftime, 36-28. The CBJC JV's under the 20 points output by George Wachee managed to keep up with the freshmen throughout most of the third quarter. But with Steve Smith and Howard Laughury each scoring 10 points in the second half, the EOC freshmen moved ahead by 11 points with 3:07 minutes remaining in the game, 63-52. However, CBJC JV's fought hard and when the final buzzer sounded were victorious by 2 points.

Eastern Oregon Freshmen were led by Steve Smith with 17 points, Jerry Crouser had 15, and, Bob Meyers and Howard Laughorey each had 11 points. The team sank 22 of 29 free throw shots for a .758 average. Columbia Basin high scorer was George Wachtee with 20 points, followed by Sharp with 11 points.

EOC Trims OCE

OREGON COLLEGE OF EDUCATION — Eastern Oregon captured its fourth straight victory last Saturday afternoon over winless Oregon College, 63-55, on the Monmouth Wolves home court.

EOC was paced by the future All-Conference center Pasco Arritola who netted 16 points and Mel Holmes who scored 12 points. Larry Applegate, the high scoring guard of the Mountaineers, was held down to 7 points while Tom Neel only netted 8 points. Arritola hit 7 of 9 attempts from the floor as the Mounts blistered the nets at a .519 pace on sinking 27 of 52 shots. The winners also connected on nine out of nine charity shots.

OCE led at halftime 26-25 but the Mounties fought back with a scoring binge that put them in front by eight points with eight minutes remaining in the game.

JV's Squeeze Out Victory

LA GRANDE — Eastern Oregon College Freshmen edged past Baker Air Force, in a non-conference basketball tilt Monday night in La Grande, 62-28, before a jam packed crowd on the Mountaineer floor.

The game was filled with excitement from the opening seconds until the final buzzer sounded. The Freshmen, although under physical handicap, managed to squeek out their fourth victory with three defeats.

The JV's fired in field goals at a sizzling .608 average, 42-69. The scoring column was headed by starting forward Jerry Crouser with 16 points. Dick Branaugh scored 14, while Bob Meyers and Ron Makin tallied 11 points each. Steve Smith, starting guard, added another 10 points to the Freshman cause. The JV's also sank 18-26 free throw shots for a .692 average.

At halftime the Fresmen led by the rather uneven score of 54-14. The second half of play was much the same but the team suffered greatly without the services of such lettermen as Dan Simmons, Dave Moore, Dennis Naughton, Bud Gent, and the California flash Jim Shell.

EOC Rips Wolves

MONMOUTH — Larry Applegate, the highscoring guard from Eastern Oregon College in La Grande, led the Mountaineers to their third consecutive victory by downing the Oregon College of Education, 73-64, last Friday night in another Oregon Collegiate Conference tilt.

The scrappy EOC five stuck with OCE during most of the first period but remained one point behind, 29-28, at the halfway mark. Then the Mounties cut loose a scoring barrage with 15 straight points and Applegate scored eight of those himself. From there on out it was Eastern Oregon all the way and when the final buzzer sounded the Mounts were 9 points up on their foes.

Eastern Oregon, using its superiority in both height and weight to its advantage, completely dominated the backboards by doubling OCE's production, 37-17.

Both teams shot well, EOC hitting on 27 of 63 shots for .429 and OCE connecting at a .410 clip on 25-61.

Student Body Constitution Pending

Section V—The Associated Students Secretary shall keep a complete record of the proceedings of the Associated Students and of the Cabinet. The Secretary shall also be responsible for duplicating copies of the minutes of the meetings of the Associated Students and the Cabinet and making them available to each member of the Student Government.

Section VI—The Associated Students Business Manager shall be in charge of the finances of the Associated Students. The Business Manager shall be responsible for a financial report at each meeting of the Cabinet and the Senate. He shall prepare a budget for the Senate and shall serve as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Section VII—The position of Rally Squad Leader shall be an honorary one. The Rally Squad leader shall be resopnsible for organization and administration of the Rally Squad and for school spirit. The Rally Squad leader may create such student committees as may be deemed necessary and may delegate duties as desirable, subject to the approval of the Cabinet, but remains responsible for actions resulting. Election to this position of Rally Squad leader must concur with the necessary requirements and regulations of the officers of student government.

Section VIII—To be eligible for the offices of President and First Vice-President, the candidate must have been in attendance at Eastern Oregon College for at least five terms prior to election. To be eligible for membership on the Cabine or the Senate, (with the exception of the two afore mentioned officers and freshman Senators), the candidates must have been in attendance at Eastern Oregon College for at least two terms prior to election.

Section IX—To be eligible for election to the offices of President and First Vice-President, the candidate must have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.50. To be eligible for election to all other offices of Student Government, the candidate must have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.00. Cumulative grades must be maintained.

Section X—No officer of the Associated Student Government shall hold more than one Student Government office at one time.

Section XI—The members of the Cabinet and the Rally Squad Leader shall be nominated by direct primary system during the third week following the opening of the springterm. The two candidates for each respective office receiving the greatest number of votes shall be candidates in the final election.

Section XII—The officers shall be elected by the Australian Ballot system within seven days after the primary elections have been held.

Section III—Executive officers

Section XIII—Executive officers and the Rally Squad Leader of the Student Government shall hold office for one year beginning May 1 following election.

Section XIV—The election of all officers of the Student Government shall be determined by a simple majority vote.

Section XV—Elected Associated Students Executive Officers and Senators shall be known as officers of Student Government.

Section XVI—Any officer elected to a Student Government office may be recalled by the Associated Students, provided that a recall petition be signed by at least fifteen per cent of the students and filed with the Senate. This recall shall become valid upon the concurrence of three-fifths of the vote of the Associated Students voting by written ballot. No officer shall be subject to recall until at least six weeks after his election to office.

Section XVII—The outgoing President shall administer the oath of office to the incoming President, who in turn shall administer it to the new student government officers upon their taking office.

Section XVIII—The oath of office of the Student Government officers at Eastern Oregon College shall be as follows:

"I do solemnly affirm that I will faithfully support the Constitution of the Associated Students of Eastern Oregon College, discharge my responsibility to the State of Oregon, and fulfill the duties of my office to the best of my knowledge and ability."

ARTICLE III—SENATE

Section I—The Senate shall consist of twenty elected Senators and the following three officers: the First Vice-President, who will serve as chairman; the Second Vice-President; and the Business Manager. The elected Senators shall be prorated as follows: Five shall have less than 48 term hours, five shall have 48 to 96 term hours, five shall have 96 to 144 term hours, and five shall have more than 144 term hours at the time of election.

Section II—The Senate shall have general supervision of all Associated Students financial matters, all matters regarding the establishment of student policy, and all other forms of legislative responsibility not otherwise delegated. It shall approve administrative action by the President or Cabinet on such matters as may be deemed necessary by either body. The Senate shall work, unless otherwise stated, with a majority vote, except that presidential veto may be overrridden by a two-thirds vote.

Section III—The Senate shall have at least two committees: the Finance Committee, with the Business Manager as chairman; and the Social Assembly, with the Second Vice-President as chairman. The Chairman of the Senate shall appoint all permanent and special committees that the Senate deems necessary for its operation.

Section IV—The Senate shall meet at least once each term and as many more times as it dems necessary. Any five Senators or the Executive Cabinet or the First Vice-President can call a meeting of the Senate at any time.

Section V—The Senate may create any student committees it deems necessary for the execution of any duties it may assign but remains responsible for the actions taken by any such committee.

Section VI—Robert's Rules of Order shall be the final authority on parliamentary order and fifty per cent of the membership of the Senate shall constitute a quorum. The Senate shall enact such rules and regulations for its own procedure as it may deem necessary.

Section VII—The Senate shall have the power to refer issues to the Associated Students for referendum.

Section VIII—The Senate, upon majority vote and with Cabinet approval, may declare any part or all of any general election null and void and require a new election to be held.

Section IX—Senators shall be elected by direct vote by the end of the second week following the opening of fall term, and shall serve one school year. Five Senators shall be elected from each class according to Article III, Section I, by the members of the same class.

ARTICLE IV—CABINET

Section I—The Cabinet headed by the President shall be responsible for the administration of the policy and legislation of the Senate.

Section II—The Cabinet shall make such appointments as it deems necessary, i.e. committees for administration, representatives to conferences, social committees, etc., with the approval of the Senate. These appointees shall be responsible to the Cabinet. The Cabinet shall assume responsibility for such decisions as must be made before the Senate can make a ruling.

Section III—The Cabinet shall have the responsibility of administering all elections according to the Constitution and accordingto such regulations as the Senate may make. The present officers shall be the officers of the Associated Students and the present Student Council will be the Senate until the next general election of officers.

Section IV—The Cabinet shall determine all student policy for the official school publications.

ARTICLE V—SOCIAL ASSEMBLY

Section I—The Social Assembly shall consist of five Senators, appointed by the second Vice President and approved by the Cabinet. These senators shall not serve on the Finance Committee. The Second Vice-President shall act as chairman.

Section II—The Social Assembly shall be responsible for the coordination of all social events and shall arrange and publish a social calendar. It shall have all original jurisdiction on all social affairs of all student organizations and, together with the Finance Committee, shall have all original jurisdiction on all requests for funds for student organization expenditures. Decisions mentioned above may be appealed to the Senate.

Section III—The Social Assembly may create any student committees that it may deem necessary and may delegate such duties as it may wish but will remain responsible for the actions and effects resulting.

ARTICLE VI—FINANCE COMMITTEE

Section I—The Finance Committee will consist of five of the Senators, appointed by the Business Manager and approved by the Cabinet. These individuals may not serve on the Social Assembly. The Business Manager shall serve as chairman of the committee. This committee shall be responsible for composing a budget, reporting financial standings, administering finances, and making recommendations on requests for money.

ARTICLE VII—STUDENT COURT

Section I—The Senate shall set up a Student Court to carry out the provisions of a student code.

Section II—The Student Court shall be a body of competent judges to whom appeals for arbitration, reprimands and other such appeals commonly handled by a judiciary system would be made. These judges shall be appointed by the Senate and approved by the Cabinet.

Section III—The Judges of the Student Court shall at all times uphold this Constitution, the Administrative Code of Eastern Oregon College and the laws of the State of Oregon.

ARTICLE VIII—AWARDS

Section I— Special permission shall be requested for the awarding of letters and/or any other awards by the department or advisor desiring such awards. These awards may be made with the approval of the Senate regarding the requirements or standards set for the award and the proposed recipients.

Section II—The Cabinet shall be responsible for administration of the awards to those whom the Senate approves.

ARTICLE IX—AMENDMENTS

Section I—Amendments to this Constitution shall be presented to the Associated Students by a two-thirds majority of the Senate or by a petition signed by five per cent of the Associated Students, at least seven days prior to a proposed general election.

Section II— This Constitution shall be duly amended by a simple majority of the votes cast by the Associated Students.

ARTICLE X—RATIFICATION

Section I—This Constitution shall become effective when passed by a simple majority of the Associated Students voting in a special election.

Section II—This Constituion shall become null and void if not again approved by a majority vote of the Associated Students voting at an election held during November following the first ratification.

Section III—Ratification of this Constitution nullifies any and all previous constitutions.

EOC Takes Two From OTI Owls 82-78, 73-64

Trailing by two points going into the final minute of play, coach Bob Quinn's unpredictable Mountaineers squelched an OTI bid for victory in an overtime tussle studded with penalties, and romped to the first of a two game winning streak over the Oregon Tech Owls, 82-78.

Mountaineer seige gun Pasco Arritola, flung the hotly contested battle into a deadlock with a field goal in the final minute of play. OTI, smarting from the loss of Sammie Smith and Jack Peterson via the personal foul route, could not muster sufficient strength to contain the Mountaineer hoop machine in overtime action.

The lead changed hands rapidly and constantly between trips to the charity stripe which numbered 57 before the final buzzer.

Larry Applegate paced the Mountaineer's offensive attack with a total of 27 points in maple court action.

EOC-OTI Game Saturday

Mountaineer hoop men fought an OTI point advantage to a standstill and surged into the lead to even up the Mountie's OCC record at 2-2 with a 73-64 win over the Owls from Klamath Falls.

The Owls, inspired from an earlier victory against Portland State, a strong contender for the OCC hoop crown, led the Mounties into the critical late stages of the game, but failed to stave off a late Mountaineer offensive tide which put the Quinn-led squad over the top.

Penalties sapped Mountaineer strentgh before the final buzzer with ace rebounder Pasco Arritola, Tom Neel and finally Dick Turley barred from action on personal fouls.

Tom Neel and Larry Applegate sparkplugged the Mounties offensive drive Saturday night. Neel collected 17 points and Mountaineer mainstay Larry Applegate garnared 23.

Music For Hoke

It is certainly correct to say that American youth are dependent on good music. The students of EOC can back up this statement, but up until now nothing has been done about providing Hoke with any music other than for the dances. We are now in the process of acquiring special system of piped-inmusic which will provide background music for any part of the coffee shop or lounge in Hoke. For orchestras, banquets, etc, an amplifier will be used. Our present juke boxes will be used. Our presnt juke boxes will be removed but unde our nw system the music will be selective a well as free.

The exact date date for comnot been made but it is estimated to be within the next two months

Assembly Agenda

Assemblies scheduled for winter term include a variety of interesting topics. The committee hopes to present an assembly on meteorology sometime in February, but no definite date is set as yet.

The support of all students is desired by the assembly committee, as they plan the assemblies with the interests of the students in mind.

Assemblies scheduled thus far are:

Feb. 1—Mr. Don Hunter, A.V. Dept., U. of O. presents stereo-sound and colored slides of Oregon—one to embellish the other.

Feb. 8—Mr. Harold Chaney, Prof. of Organ, U. of O., presents the harpsicord.

Feb. 21—Religion in Life, 10:30.
Feb. 22—Religion in Life,—10:30.
Feb. 23—Religion in Life—9:00.

JAZZ-POETRY—Presenting poetry is Mr. Ron Bayes with the accompaniment of Ron Cooper on the bongos, Friday, February 3, at the Jazz-Poetry night. The entertainment was sponsored by the "Middle R", the college's re-established literary magazine. (Beacon Photo)

Noland, Willmarth Receive Awards

Gene Noland and John Willmarth have been named recipients of the First Union County Conservation District awards for outstanding scholarship.

The awards, initiated by William Cooper, Union. district secretary and member of the state conservation committee, and Oscar Howell, Imbler, district chairman, are designated for the EOC junior and senior with the highest cumulative grade point average.

John Willmarth is a senior in secondary education and Gene Noland is a junior in pre-law.

Sabers Sponsor Whiskerino

Attention all fellas! Here's an easy way to win yourself a nice prize for simply doing nothing on your part. You can take this literally, for all you have to do is sit back and watch that old bothersome beard grow.. This year one month is being set aside to allow the fellas to have a contest seeing who can grow the longest, scraggliest, or most unusual beard. It will last from February 4, until March 3. The event, entitled the Whiskerino, is being sponsored by the SABERS.

Registration for this event will be open until Friday, Feb. 10. Any male student or faculty member desiring to register for this event should contact Ardyce Garret, Sue Switzer, or Gail Fisher.

The only requirement is a clean Gillette shave before registration. A selected committee will choose the best qualified beard for each of thre categories and prizes will be awrarded to each of the winners. The Sabers say they need al lth support you can offer . . . so fellows, start growing your beards today. You may be a top winner.

Drive Carefully!

Jazz-Poetry Night Deemed Successful

"Avant Garde" was the theme of the Jazz-Poetry night sponsored by the student magazine, The Middle R, Friday evening at Hoke Hall. Participating in the session were Dr. Kaiser, Dr. Clark, Mr. Bayes reading poetry with the accompaniment of Ron Cooper, of the local dance band group, the "Torqueys." Miss Nicoloff, dance instructor, presented an appropriate modern dance. Bob Phifer, editor of the magazine, acted as master of ceremonies.

The purpose of the evening's fun was to earn money to contribute toward the medical expenses of Californian poet, Kenneth Patchen, who has been seriously ill for several years and is again undergoing a serious back operation at a Palo Alto hospital. As a result of the program $57 is being forwarded to Mr. and Mrs. Patchen to help meet this crisis.

Immediately following theh program there was a dance to the live music of the Torqueys.

Merrifield To Speak At Lincoln Day Dinner

John C. F. Merrifield, former state senator, will be the speaker at the Lincoln Day Dinner, Feb. 14, sponsored by the Eastern Oregon College Young Republicans, according to Hugh Swaney, chairman.

The dinner is scheduled for 6 p.m. in Hoke Hall.

Merrifield, a Republican state senator from 1952-56, is preseident of four organizations: Insurance Company of Oregon, Cascade General Agencies, Empire Agencies, and Insurance Company of Washington. He is also chairman of the board of American Humanics Foundation.

Described as a key figure in Oregon politics, the former senator is now chairman of the GOP State Candidates Assistance Committee.

Three Chosen To Sweetheart Court

The "Sweetheart's Ball," presented annually by Dorion Hall, will be held Saturday, February 18 from 10:00 until 1:30. The dance will be semi-formal.

Princesses chosen by the girls of Dorion for the royal court of the Sweetheart's Ball are: Sue Switzer, Ellen Uesugi, and Maralee Croissant. The girls and their dates will vote for the sweetheart the night of the dance. She will be crowned during the evening.

The "Swetheart's Ball" is traditionally put on by the members of Dorion Hall and attended by them and their escorts.

Tickets are on sale for $2.00 per couple and can be purchased from representatives on each floor of Dorion.

Mardi Gras Set For Feb. 24

The annual costume Mardi Gras dance will be held in Hoke Hall, February 24. It will last from 7:00 until 12:00. Rhythm will be provided by the "Tone Dusters," Bob Patterson's combo. Gay decorations will provide the Mardi Gras motif. Those with originality are urged to put it to work as prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

The Mardi Gras dance is sponsored by the Theta Delta Phi, for couples or stags. No admission will be charged. Hill Walker is the chairman for the dance, with Hugh Swaney in charge of publicity and Charles LaCamp in charge of decorations.

New Wing Set For Hunt Hall

Preliminary plans for an addition to Hunt Hall, men's dormitory on the Eastern Oregon College Campus, were approved in recent action by the State Board of Higher Education, according to Dr. Frank B. Bennett, EOC president.

In making the announcement, President Bennett noted authorization was given to prepare final plans with construction scheduled to be completed by the fall of 1962.

The plans call for the addition of a wing to the north-west corner of the present structure. The new unit will accommodate 90 more men.

Mrs. Tollefson Leaves

New Housemother Coming Soon

Good-byes were said to Mrs. Tollefson Saturday morning, February 4, when Dorion Hall girls were hostesses for a coffee hour. Mrs. T left for her new home in Washington where she will be married February 14.

Dorian Hall housemother will be Mrs. Barnes from Vancouver, Washington and she will begin her new position in a week.

Meanwhile the girls are under the supervision of Mrs. Melba Cater and Mrs. Ransom who are exchanging evenings.

Dr. Lyle Johnson Returns From Sabatic Leave

Dr. Lyle Johnson, EOC registrar, has just returned from a four month sabbatic leave. During this time he and Mrs. Johnson traveled 15,260 miles by automobile around the United States, through parts of Ontaio and Quebec, Canada. Dr. Johnson indicated that the two main reasons for taking this trip were to see the United States and to discover new ideas that might be put to use at EOC.

At each of the thirty-three campuses Dr. Johnson visited he asked the Deans of students two questions. The first question concerned having dorm counselors. The second question he asked was what part do students play in student discipline. As a result of the answers received to these questions, Dr. Johnson will suggest that EOC might profit from following certain procedures now followed by other schools throughout the country.

Besides talking to the deans of each school he visited, Dr. Johnson also talked with the students to gain their impressions of college life and their schoio. He found one attitude to be common to all the students he talked to . . . that no mater what school they attended each student felt that his was the best.

Flu Flees 100

According to health statistics recently compiled, 100 Eastern Oregon College Students have received both of their flu shots. A reminder comes from the health department that two shots are necessary for adequate immuntiy for the winter. If postponement of these shots is delayed much longer students will not have the necessary immunity if and when the Asian flu might "hit."

Flu shots are still availble for 50 cents.

Anyone allergic to eggs or having a cold at the present cannot be immunized.

TO THE MOON!

See "The Night of the Auk" tonight or tomorrow night, EOC Theatre; Activity tickets may be exchanged for reserved seats!

On Assemblies

It seems that on the Wednesday of an assembly, the few who are making their way to the assembly are almost turned about by a current of people heading in the opposite direction—many under the pretext of studying. Yet, Hoke, I've heard, is generally overcrowded at this hour . . . studying? And for those who do study, why don't they take a break and enjoy an hour of enrichment? Many professors haven't helped the situation, either, by scheduling appointments for this hour.

Granted, there have been assemblies not worth mentioning. Must we have President Kennedy, Phillip Hansen (Moby Dick), or even Wayne Morse here again to fill the little theater to capacity?

Many say they don't attend assemblies because they don't know about them. Yes, the publicity can be improved. However, if these same people should be confronted or the day of an assembly, many will hastily excuse themselves and be on their way to a more important (?) calling.

Others have mentioned the solution of having an assembly every week, so that people would automatically go, should publicity be slack. However, the assemblies are spaced so that the "not-worth-mentioning" ones have been omitted as much as possible, in favor of scheduling only good ones.

The assembly committee has had enrichment in mind in planning the assemblies. This can be illustrated by the splendid presentation by Mr. Hunter of the A.V. Department at the U. of O., in which he so expertly presented slides accompanied by stereo sound, which created a mood for each segment. Too bad so few had the pleasure of enjoying this assembly.

Remember! These assemblies are planned for your benefit and interest. It is up to your attendance to determine their future existence and success.

Council Corner

by Sue Switzer

The biggest news council-wise is the proposed constitution. It has been the topic of discussion at many an organizational meeting and at several informal gatherings over cups of black coffee. Hoke Hall has turned into a Greek stadium where all the great gladiators groupe in their gray matter for fancy phrases fitting the flairs up in their faculties.

For months student government officers complained of the lack of interest in student government . . . never again. They are so overwhelmed with this sudden display of enthusiasm, it has changed heir whole appearance. Well, I think it has changed—when they build up courage and venture from behind their shields, they appear changed.

Only a few more rounds to go—a couple more Tuesday evenings shot study-wise, a few more cups of black coffee, a few more reprintings of the revisions, some posters to make, and then the spectators will have their chance to say "thumbs up" or "thumbs downs."

Faculty Notes

Mr. Wilson E. Merrill, Assistant professor of Social Studies, delivered an address at a meeting of the Oregon Geography Council in Monmouth on January 28.

Mr. Merrill's topic was "The Geographic Regional Concept in Achieving International Understanding."

Also on his agenda was a speech Tuesday at Cricket Flat Grange hall for the Farm Bureau. "A Plea for Planning," was his subject.

"Junior and Senior Secretary as a Career" was the theme of Dr. Sarah C. Stein, Associate Professor of Secretarial Science, when she gave an address at Baker Senior High on January 26.

Thre members of the department of music servied as adjudicators for a regional youth contest in Caldwell, Ida., on January 28.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Sharon was asked to expound in her column upon "School Spirit"—it was directed at the Freshman Class; there are a few of us lowly freshmen who would like to reply as to what we think of "those vulgar rumors."

To begin with, what did we come to college for? For Education—first and foremost. A balance of social life is essential for happiness, but neither should be stressed more than the other. It is no one else's business what each of us choose to do with our time and personal thoughts. We're supposed to have freedom—if this or any other college provides this in the true spirit (practiced with respect towards everyone and anyone) then a natural school spirit arises because students are happy.

Can't Be 'Crammed'

Social life and enthusiasm cannot be crammed down people's throats. Resentment only ccame from that sort of juvenile attitude. As far as this small group can see, our college has wonderful fellowship and unity. We are proud to go to school here, to have fun here, and to be learning so much—and we don't believe that the accusations are fair at all. Evidently no one seems to mind that the upper classmen participate only in those affairs that interest them. Fine example—but then naturally the "green rooks" are supposed to overlook this and provide all the spirit themselves. Look, this isn't high school anymore; we're supposed to be adult about everything, so let's not pass the blame onto the freshmen just because it happens to be the largest class. And actually there's no seems to us that there is really no problem.

Enioy Hoke Too

As for "inventing" coffee-breaks—well, we notice (no personal insult intended) that in Sharon's column the cute little antics of their cute little crew have been mentioned in at least the last three issues of the BEACON. Odd, though, that the freshmen be persecuted because we happen to enjoy our times at Hoke, too.

Please, EOC, don't be the kind of school that produces students full of childish notions and ignorant prejudices by pushing and pulling at them to be this way and that way. The students who have enthusiasm over everything, no matter what, are the ones to go right on being that way, and those who prefer to d things at their own rate and interest should be allowed to do that. Don't draw any lines—and don't make ridiculous statements about what we have to do. One of the finest qualities of this school is that none of us are exactly alike, so why spoil that by trying to push us into a mold? We're here learning mostly about who we are and what we want from life; we can only learn from making our own decisions and by developing our own individual personalities. Studies and fun must be balanced, but we're just now learning how to do that—and if those who think we're wrong would think about it, perhaps they would realize that they wouldn't like to be shoved into false feelings, either.

We believe that most everyone here has plenty of school sprit and pride—but let's be allowed the freedom to express it as we please.

Sincerely

K. W., C. S., B. D., D. H., J. H.

To the Editor:

May I compliment EOC students for their tremendous upsurge of enthusiasm at the recent basketball games? A winning team does wonders for school spirit and number of people turning out for games.

However, do we have to have a winning basketball game to draw people from their many duties at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday? Maybe we should put on a smash hit broadway musical? I declare, I do not understand those people who are so involved with studies (girls), meditation (over coffee), and research (who can sleep through the most classes) that they can not take a welcomed break from the dull, monotonous, drag of life for an hour of enrichmen. Yes, I mean the assemblies.

Was Terrific

Those of you that missed the last assembly should stick your head in a barrel of books and conferences and stay there. It was terrific!

At this point, may I compliment those girls in their "little white coats" for being very brave and attending every assebly. (I have heard that they actually enjoyed them) I must say their attendance has saved a few assemblies from flopping completely. By the way, where are those that are to set exampls for EOC students—namely the faculty. Are they too busy scheduling conferences for his hour of the week that they forget that it was originally set aside for assemblies? (Do as they say, not as they do).

Poor Publicity

I have heard that publicity is the cause of poor attendance at assemblie. Actually, this is not it because people are too content to sit on their—chair in Hoke and not waste energy walking to the Ad building to sit for an hour. Perhaps more advance publicity would help but one or two people can not do it all. I some of the service clubs on campus would like to contribute their services to a worthy cause maybe they could put out a little energy toward school assemblies instead of spending all time, energy, members, etc. on just their own activities. Is there only one such service club on campus? I have not seen or heard of any others.

Publicity could be a solution for EOC's ailment. I suggest it, others have suggested it, any other suggestions?

I'M OUT—you tell me!

Lycosa Tarentula

Letter to the Editor:

Ordianarily, I am a very patient person but this morning I received a parking ticket for parking in an unmarked area which I thought was good enough to accommodate my car.

It would seem that it would only make good sense if the street directly in front of Hoke Hall and the street opposite was marked off with yellow lines so that a person could tell where parking is and is not permitted. If these lines were placed, it would certainly save wear and tear on many tempers, my own included.

Nothing burns me up more than to ride aroud trying to find a parking place and see three cars park where four cars could easily park. Those people who take up two parking spaces to park one car had better turn their licenses in if they can't do better than that.

An irate fine-payer.

NOW YOU KNOW

Nothing irks the hard-pressed college student more than shaking out an envelope from home and finding nothing in it but news and love . . .

The professor who comes in 15 minutes late is rare — in fact, he's in a class by himself . . .

The college basketball coaches are all interested in higher education, and the closer they come to seven feet the better they like it . . .

Nowadays many college men live by the sweat of their frau.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

A combination of sorrow and happiness was felt by the Dorion girls Saturday at an infromal coffee hour held for Mrs. T. After being Dorion's housemother for four terms, Mrs. Tollefson, who is loved by everyone who knows her, said her last good-bye. She told the girls she had really enjoyed being their "mother" but now this chapter was finished in her life and it was time to turn the page.

The Dorion girls will find an empty place as Mrs. T. leaves the dorm but the happiness she will now be able to have should be enough for us to realize it is the best for Mrs. T. The girls of happiness and success in her new role as housewife.

As we turn to the future of Dorion we see Pat Blackburne rushing around as she tries to organize her committees for Dorion's Sweetheart Ball. The dance is a Dorion girl's invitational to be held in Hoke Hall Saturday, February 18. The Swingin' Sweethearts will be able to dance to the music of Bill Howell from 10:30 to 1:30 for late leaves have been given until 2 a.m. Everyone is urged to buy their tickets and attend, for it is the only formal dance Dorion Hall sponsors during the year.

Speaking of fun times, it seems a few girls on third floor decided a water fight would provide some extra excitement. It started with two or three girls but as the water began to flow some 15 girls had joined the fun. When, at least, the mop buckets and waste baskets were put away the water was running down to second and first floors through the walls and ceiling. It is doubtful that another water fight such as this will be staged in Dorion for some time. Those girls who participated are finding that waxing a hallway is not the most pleasant pastime!

Staid English College Will 'Raffle' Girls

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Birmingham College of Advanced Technology went ahead today with plans to raffle off a date with one of its coeds despite charges of "slave-trading" and "vice-mongering" from some of the male students.

The girls were all for it. College officials agreed after some long thought. But, even though the proceeds will be used for athletics, the boys were against it.

One of the male students, 23 year-old Beverly Glover, said "The whole idea is immoral and not in keeping with the dignity of the college."

He was one of the students who signed a petition saying "It seems an affront to the standard of morals to which some of us aspire."

Raffle chairman Jille Teague, 18, said that if the boys on the campus were not interested, "we will find other males interested in winning a girl for the night."

"It's all good clean fun," said Wendy Dutton, 18, another member of the raffle committee. "The only immoral thing about it is the thoughts of some of the dowdy male objectors."

K.I. Stretch, vice principal of the college, said he gave his approval after the girls convinced him "they will not go beyond bounds of propriety."

Former Student in D.C.

Larry Fuller, EOC junior and former president of the campus young Democrats, has transferred to George Washington University, Wasington, D.C.

After completing three semesters at G.W.U., Fuller plans to return to Eastern Oregon.

The former EOC junior will be employed part time in Washington while continuing his studies in business.

Sport Talk By Henery

By TOM NEEL

If Eastern Oregon can keep their grip on first place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference, it now appears as if they will play Lewis and Clark or Pacific at our College Coliseum sometime the first week in March. The winner of this game will then advance to the finals to be played in Portland's beautiful new "Glass Palace."

The district tournament schedule is set up in this manner: Winner of OCC versus second place team of the Northwest Conference on the first place team's home court. Winner of the Northwest Conference versus the second place team of the OCC on the winner's home court. Then all four teams go to the "Glass Palace" for the right to represent District Two in the national play-off in Kansas City.

Winners will play winners; losers versus losers.

Two teams in the Northwest Con ference, College of Idaho and Whitman, and one team in the Oregon Collegiate Conference, Oregon Tech., are not eligible to compete in this tournament. C. of I. and Whitman are in a different district, and OTI is is not recognized by the NAIA as a four year college.

Alpenrose Dairy of Portland is guaranteeing $1,000 on the rent of the "Glass Palace." The rent on this wonderful new sports arena is between $1,600 and $2,000 a night, depending upon the event. The district committee deserves a solid pat on the back for their efforts in securiy Alpenrose to underwrite the tournament.

Jim Goddard, the basketball coach at Lewis and Clark is the one who"married the ball" to be the tournament into this fine arena. Sharkey Nelson, Portland State coach, also pitched in with ment's success.

Nelson thinks this is a step forward in the future of small college basketball in this area. Sharkey, a native of Oklahoma, thinks that the member schools of the NAIA in the Northwest don't get the recognition that they rigtfully deserve. He also believes with the right publicity that Portland and Oregon could become the national capitol of small college basetball, now that the "Rose City" has a suitable place for outside teams to come and show their wares. The "Glass Palace" wil seat 12,000 to 14,000 people for basketbal. All seats are a theatre type loge seat.

With Portland State, the OCC can boast that they have the largest school in the state. PSC has an enrollment couting day and night school students of over 9,000. Oregon State ranks second with a student body of 8,500, Oregon University is third with slightly more than 7,600. Eastern Oregon is the smallest school in the OCC with an enrolment of 850 students. Behind Portland State in the Oregon Collegiate Conference comes Southern Oregon College, Oregon College, Oregon Tech, and Eastern Oregon.

Salute to Area Basketball

As one fan said, Eastern Oregon may be the smallest, but they always seem to come up with a good ball club.

All the boys on the Mountie squad hail from Eastern Oregon. Rundown on team and their homes: Dick Turley and Mel Holmes, La Grande; Larry Applegate and Dennis Bagnall, Pendleton; Ron Hunt, Baker; Bob Olinger, Milton-Freewater; Pasco Arritola, Jordan Valley; Don Shore, Enterprise; Walt Wolfe, Stanfield; and Tom Neel, from Condon. These boys are a tribute to the excellent coaching now prevailing east of the Cascades.

The Mounts travel to the "Mile High" campus of the Oregon Tech "Owls" this weekend in a very crucial series. Coach Quinn says, "We must at least split with OTI to stay in the race for the conference championship."

Gene Branson, fine Owl player of last year has returned to the squad. He's been out most of the seasn with a knee injury. The 6' 4" forward beat Portland State last week with his last second shot.

No less than six of Quinn's warriors have been laid up with an injury this year. Tom Neel hurt a knee before the Southern Oregon series at Ashland and sprained his anle and foot at OCE. Then Ron Hunt sprained his foot before the Alaska U games. Pasco Arritola and Bob Olinger pulled up lame in the second game with Portland State. Dick Turley injured his back so bad he now wears a back support during the games. Then last Saturday against Southern Oregan Larry Applegate sprained his ankle. However, all the boys have responded well to treatment, and are looking forward to the Oregon Tech games. If they can stay healthy the Mounties should bring back a few feathers with them wen they return from Klamath Falls.

See you in two weeks.

Applegate Sets Record

Larry Applegate, Eastern Oregon College's high-scoring guard from Pendleton, had a very easy week-end as he played the hero's role in the two victories the Mounties scored over the Southern Oregon Red Raiders.

Applegate set a home court scoring record when he chalked up 36 points Friday night in the 96-71 victory and Saturday night he provided the final packet with just three seconds remaining for a 76-74 victory. He added another 21 points for a total of 23 points or 59 total points for both ball games.

The week-end scoring splurge raised Larry's point average in the Collegiate standings to 20.6 points in 22 ball games. He has hit 171 field goals and 113 free throw shots for a grand total of 455 points. Applegate ranks second only to Gonzagas Frank Burgeses, in the Greater Northweset Scoring Race. Neel, starting forward, ranks seventh in scoring with 267 points.

Four Teams Tied In Intramurals

An additional team has moved to the top position in the EOC basketball intramurals. There is now a four way tie resulting from the games played January 20, 25 and 31. This means that the Alkies, Floor Burns and Jets are sharing first place with the Mad Haters. The scores of these games and the present team standings are a sfollows.

Friday and Saturday:
Eastern Oregon at OTI.
Portland State at Southern Oregon.

Eastern Oregon tightened its hold on the Oregon Collegiate Conference title hope with two victories over Southern Oregon. Friday night EOC won 96-71 and Saturday nights victory was 76-74.

Larry Applegate, the sensational Mountaineer guard, led his teammates to victory over Southern Oregon. Friday night Applegate set a new Coleseum record when he sank 14 field goals and 8 out of 12 charity shots for a total of 36 points. Saturday night he sank 23 points for a total of 59 points for botth ball gamees. Tom Neel, the Mounties starting forward, scored 29 points in Fridays game and 14 in Saturdays tilt.

Eastern Oregon took control of both ball games early in the first period. Friday they led by 47-30 at halftime, and in Saturday nights game EOC led 43-31 at the half way point.

Southern Oregon was paced by guard Gordie Carrigan and center John Payne. Carrigan scored 26 points in both ball games and Payne scored 10 points Friday night and 22 points in Saturdays ball game.

Eastern Oregon now has an 8-2 Oregon Collegiate Conference score and a 14-8 record for the year. The Mountaineers led the Conference by 2 full games over second place Portland State. Friday and Saturday of the week EOC plays OTI in Klamath Falls.

Staff Writer Lauds Rally Squad

By Judy Patterson

Congratulations to the Rally Squad! They have done a fabulous job in building school spirit this year. A portion of the success of our wonderful basketball team goes to the Rally for their lasting energy and their faith in the team.

The Rally Squad, who is in charge of school spirit, consists of Ruth Combs, Rally Leader, Diane Holloway, Judy Head, Donna Postlewait, and Vicki Cooper. The Rally Dukes are Earl Miller, head Duke, Fred Kelly, Charlie La Kamp, and Larry Blais.

A few of the duties of the Rally are to be in charge of the Rally and Bonfire during Homecoming, to provide part of the half-time entertainment for the basketball games, and to be in charge of the Rook Rally Rousers white shirt section.

Many campus activities are sponsored by the Rally Squad such as pep assemblies, dances, Frosh auction sales, seeing the team off on road games, and being hosts to other Rally Squad members that visit our campus.

The Rally Squad is at the present time writing a constitution or handbook for this year and the future. It will be used, not only for methods used by Rally, but also to settle any discrepancies which may arise. For this constitution they are incorporating ideas and suggestions from other colleges. This information has been received by an 85 per cent return from questionnaires mailed.

Anyone wishing to use one of the unused numbers on the student body card for any other student body function than the home games and the plays, contact Larry Snook for his okay.

Numbers available range from 13-29.

A note may be dropped in Larry Snook's box in Hoke Hall prior to the date of the event.

Assembly Termed 'Remarkable'

Editors Note: An interested student voiced her deseire to expound on the assembly of February 1. It is certaing that most of those who saw this assembly are in agreement with her.

Words alone cannot describe the assembly Wednesday, February 1, From the first BLAST OFF WITH STEREOPHONIC SOUND to the finale the audience was held spellbound. The wonders of modern science intensified the beauty of Oregon scenery and of stereo phonic music.

Using two slide projectors Mr. Hunter from the University of Oregon achieved special effects with superimposed slides and fade outs. The theme and mood of each picture was brought out by the accompanying stereo soundtrack.

In the first section entitled "Sounds of Yesterday" the illusion of hearing a train approaching from the right of the stage and leaving to the left was emphasized, for you also saw a train approaching from the right, then with the pictures and sound coordinated the train roared by and into the distance.

"Campus Scenes," the title of the second section, contrasted beautiful peaceful scenes of ivy covered buildings accompanied by dreamy music with the wierd effects of modern photography and fantastic music.

There were stupendous scenes of a deeply cratered moon, Saturn rising over the horizon and a rocket ship blast off. And before you could recover an onrush of drums would bring a splash of color to the screen.

Parise Be! It's time for a column again, and this issue it's the next thing to miraculous that this columnist turned one in, let alone on time. At the time of this writing we're in the middle of midtermer... s, it 9p.m., I'm sitting in the Beacon room AND wishing I this done already. I think weary is the word for it. I had two hours' sleep last night and no hopes of even hitting the sack tonight. TGIF tomorrow!!! But I should complain. Funny the sad stories you hear during midterms and finals, isn't it.

One I hear and have said myself this week is "What'll my folks say when I get a downslip in Bowling?" Why? How could anyone? Our instructor, whom we dearly love except during midterm week, pulled an unannounced test on us, and about forty students are bemoaning the fact that they didn't study the pamphlets passed out. I say forty for there were a few of "we dumb dopes" who missed class that day when they were handed out and didn't have sense enough to ask what was one in there were even pamphlets passclass so we would have found out ed out! ! !

Seems I'm always hearing complaints—ones I've had thrown at me lately are concerning letters to he editor. I talked to Mr. Dorn, the Beacon advisor, about the policy of such letters and here's the info. The first and foremost thing to remember is the deadline—Friay before the issue comes out. In other words, the BEACON is out every other Friday, and the deadline is the Friday between. GET IT IN ON TIME. Secondly, it is to be typewritten, double-paced, on regular typing paper. Last, but equally important, be sure to sign your name. It will be withheld if you request it, but should appear on your copy turned in. NOW—you know, so let's have no excuses, no gripes, and no reasons for not having MANY letters appear each issue.

Talking of letters to the editor, one appeared in rebuttal of my last column in which I "expounded" on school spirit. In reply I'd first like to say that the "interested rook" had some excellent ideas and his letter showed thought on this problem; it was very well written. However, as he implied himself, he hasn't been on campus long enough, especially to know the background of this problem—nor that of the upperclassmen.

I feel it is necessary to establish the class ratio at EOC. The freshmen make up nearly one-half of the student body. Of the upperclassmen, many are married and many are inactive because of outside responsibilities.

Department Of Education Drafts Project For Teacher Education

Details of a project for improvin geducation in Oregon through a new design of teacher education are now being drafted by the State Department of Education in cooperation with teacher education institutions and local school districts. When completed the plan will be submitted to a Foundation as part of a State Board of Education request for a substantial grant to finance the project.

The State Board of Education has been negotiating for a grant with which to carry on a project for the improvement of education in Oregon for some time and has committed itself to a project which focuses on teacher education. The Board believes important changes in teacher education are needed and is desirous that Oregon educators contribute and develop new ideas which may help resolve some of the current problems in education.

The new design in teacher education to which the Board has committed itself encompasses the following five points:

1. A five-year period of preparation and the basic teaching certificate for both elementary and secondary teachers.
2. Structures of liberal arts education, at least one of which each prospective teacher must be expected to follow.
3. Lon-term, full-time, practical experience (sometimes referrd to as internship) during the training period which would involve both the teacher education institutions and the school districts in which the teachers in training are assigned.
4. Experience with new equipment and new designs for learning which would relate professional preparation to practical field experience.
5. Assumption of some of the costs of teacher trainee salaries by the participating school districts during the time the practical field experience is being obtained.

Sub-proposals are being prepared by each of the colleges and universities in the State System of Higher Education in cooperation with two or more local school systems and the State Department of Education. These groups met December 19 and presented drafts of proposed plans and budgets from which the state level proposal will be perpared.

The state proposal for the project, to be known as the Oregon Project in Teacher Education, is to be completed by March, 1961. If the proposal is implemented, the project will get under way in the fall of 1961 and extend over an eight-year period. (Education News)

Marilyn Moss Appointed To College Board

Marilyn Moss, an art major, has been appointed to MADEMOISELLE'S College Board. She is among the 842 students at 339 colleges who will report to this fashion magazine this year on college life and the college scene.

As a College Board member, Marilyn will complete an assignment of writing, editing, fashion, advertising or art, in competition for a title as one of the twenty Guest Editorships to be awarded at theh end of May.

The Guest Editors will be brought to New York for four weeks next June to help write, edit and illustrate MADEMOISELL'S 1969 August College issue.

Religious Emphasis Week, February 21-23

The Twentieth annual Religion in Life, scheduled for National Brotherhood Week, gets underway Tuesday, February 21. The three day conference is sponsored by the College Interfaith Fellowship. Bill McCleary and Joan Ann Berryman are the co-chairmen. Dr. Bolen is the advisor.

In addition to the special banquet Wednesday at 5:30 p.m., three major assemblies will be held.

The assemblies scheduled are:

Tuesday, February 21—10:30 - 11:50 a.m.

Wednesday, February 22—10:30-11:20 a.m.

Thursday, February 23—9:00 - 10:20 a.m.

Presently is Juvenile Judge of Deschutes County.

Led the county community of Powell Butte in erecting and paying for an $85,000 brick chiurch for worship and fellowship in the open country. Church has a membership of near 300.

Library Gets Mammoth Tooth

One of the most interesting items in the college museum, and surely one of the oldest, is the pre-historic mammoth tooth. This tooth, along with another tooth and also part of a skull, was found in 1939, by Howard Fager, while excavating the area around Ackerman School.

The mammoth remnants were discovered one-hundred yards due south from the entrance to Ackerman School. They were eighteen inches below the surface, imbedded in the cement-gravel soil, which characterizes the upper bench of La Grande.

Realizes Importance

Mr. Fager, upon finding these pieces, called to his fellow workers. They believed the tooth to be part of a rotting stump, but, much to the college's benefit, Mr. Fager believed them too hard and thought they were something more important. He then took them to Mr. Elmo Stevenson, the EOC biology instructor at that time.

Together they went through many books and finally came to the conclusion that the remnants were two teeth and part of the skull of a hairy mammoth, that lived from 20,000 to 50,000 years ago. The mammoth was about the size of the present day elephant.

Ellen Uesurii I.K. Sweetheart

Ellen Uesugi, a junior from Hawai, has been chosen as IK Sweetheart. She is an elementary education major and she plans to teach in California. Ellen will reign over the annual IK Ball, which is to be held in April. She will also represent EOC at the Regional IK Convention which is to be held jointly at Washington and Idaho State Colleges. Ellen will enter both the beauty and talent contests. The winner of the Regional Convention will then vie for National IK Sweetheart.

Symphony Concert Presented

The Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra's performance, under the direction of Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis, performed the second concert of the season before an overflow crowd in the EOC Theatre February 19. The featured solo artist of the evening was Gordon Finlay, Cornet Soloist.

The achievements of Mr. Finlay as a clinician, conductor, composer, educator and featured soloist have marked him as one of our country's outstanding professional musicians.

The Grande Ronde Symphony is made up of men and women from around Eastern Oregon. According to President Roy Bell, many of these men and women travel more than a hundred miles every Monday night for rehearsal, which helps to re-emphasize the statement once said "that music is the very heart and soul of culture in its highest form."

Dr. Bennett Heads National Panel

Dr. Frank B. Bennett, Eastern Oregon College president, will serve as accreditation clinic discussion leader at the national meeting of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, according to Edward C. Pomeray, Washington, D. C., executive secretary.

The A.A.C.T.E. conference is scheduled for February 23 in Chicago.

'Anything Goes' To Be Staged This Week

If you are a person who enjoys music and comedy, you will want to mark the following dates on your calender—March 2, 3 & 4. These are the nights that the musical comedy, "Anything Goes" will be presented.

"Anything Goes" concerns the experiences between Reno Sweeney and Billy Crocker. Reno was an Evangelist who turned into a nightclub singer. Most of the scenes take place on a ship. Reno had known Billy before, but she had not known that he was on ship. Billy is in disguise all of the time because he didn't have a ticket and Reno discovers who he is, then decides to help him. Billy wants to get Hope for his own but Evelyn is in the way so Reno yplas for Evelyn so Billy can get Hope. Are you really mixed up, new? In order to unmix this mess, be sure to see this dazzling and amusing musical comedy.

The lead parts are taken by Ellen Uesugi, a Junior from Hawaii, who plays Reno, and Fred Everett, a Sophomore from Milton-Freewater who plays Billy. Ruth Combs plays the part of Hope and Leroy Mobley plays the part of Evelyn. Other principle subjects are Dave Slaubaugh, Sue Switzer, and Deanna Talbott. Dancers are Peggy Elder, Karen Sutton, Ann Lieuallen, Adrian Hansen, Kay Borge, Fred Kelly, Bill Johnson, Bob Johnson, and John Fager.

Some of the relaxing and enjoyable songs you will here are: "Gypsy and Me", "Anything Goes", "You're the Top", "All Through the Night", "Blow Gabriel Blow", and "I Get A Kick Out Of You."

"Anything Goes" is under the direction of Mr. Hiatt. Mr. Cobb is musical director and Miss Nicoloff is in charge of Choregraphy.

Sue Switzer Dorion 'Sweetheart'

Crowned Queen of the Dorion Hall Sweethearts Ball, Feb. 18, was Sue Switzer. Her attendants were, Princesses Maralee Croisant and Ellen Versugi. Each girl on the court received a bracelet with the theme, her name and the date. Queen Sue was also given a beautiful bouquet of red roses.

The theme, "Swinging Sweethearts", was carried out with red cupids and hearts hanging from the ceiling, red and white balloons, and a huge red taffeta heart-shaped throne at one end of the dance floor in Hoke Hall. These and the other decorations resulted from the work of Chairman Pat Blackburn, her committees, and the girls from Dorion Hall. These girls also did all the other work on the dance such as providing refreshments, securing the music of Bill Howell and his band and the entertainment.

Entertainment during intermission was provided by a male quartet, Jim Boatman, Jim Lee, Warren Good and Jim Cornett, under the direction of Mr. Cobb. Karen Stewart sang a solo and Daisy Good accompanied the singers on the piano.

The chaperones for the dance were Mrs. Edna Barnes, Mrs. Gladys Marlar, Dr. Lyle Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Quinn.

Six Attend Seminar

Four students and two faculty members attended the Oregon Citizenship Clearinghouse Legislative Seminar held February 9 and 10 in Salem.

The group included: Terry Edvalson, Don Bird, Greg Baker, Hugh Swaney, Dr. Spear, and Mr. Merril.

Interfaith Week Highlight of Year

Five Members On Team

National Brotherhood Week, this year from February 19-25, holds a special significance to the students of EOC, for this is the week that the Campus Religion in Life Conference is held. This is better known as Interfaith week. The College Interfaith Fellowship at Eastern Oregon College was organized in 1947. Its purpose is to cultivate the spirit of appreciation and understanding of all religious faiths and to encourage cooperation of all men of good will toward the common goals of human dignity and freedom.

The Interfaith Team that visited the College for Interfaith Week consited of representatives of four religions: Protestant, Catholic, Jew, and Mormon. One of the two members of the team representing the Protestants was Dr. Bruce Wood, professor of Religion and Philosophy and Chaplain at Pacific University, Forest Grove, Oregon. He was director of the school of religion at the University of Montana for five years. The other was Judge D. L. Penhollow, Judge of the Juvenile Court, Deschutes County, Redmond, Oregon. He has been pastor of the Powell Butte community Christian Church, a rural community near Redmond, for eighteen years.

The Catholic representative was Father Louis H. Sohler, Pastor of the St. Alice Catholic Church, Springfield, Oregon. He was Chaplain of Newman Club, the Catholic youth group, for six years at the University of Oregon.

Rabbi Jack Segal from the Congregation Neveh Zedek in Portland, Oregon, was the Jewish representative. He came to EOC under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society.

The representative of the Mormon Religion, The Latter Day Saints, was Dr. Campbell, Professor of History, Brigham Young University.

Interfaith Week started Tuesday, February 21, at 8:30 a.m. with a breakfast at Hoke Hall for the Interfaith Team and the students and faculty.

At 10:30 a.m., a general assembly was held in the college theater. The College Choir sang and John Dahlstrom, EOC Student Body President, gave a welcome and the Interfaith Team was introduced. The address of the assembly was "Honesty or Hypocrisy" given by Rabbi Jack Segal. This address was also broadcasted.

An informal reception for the Interfaith Team, the city clergymen, the students and the faculty was sponsored by the AWS from 3:30-5:00 p.m.

Tuesday evening firesides were held at Hunt and Dorion Halls. Dr. Wood and Judge Penhollow were invited to have dinner with the students at Dorion Hall and Rabbi Segal, Dr. Campbell and Father Sohler were invited to dinner at Hunt Hall. After dinner the members of the Interfaith Team met with the students in the lounges and held informal question and answer periods. The students found these very informative and had a chance to discuss the different phases of the various religions.

The fireside at Hunt Hall lasted from after dinner until midnight. Rabbi Segal was heard to say on the radio broadcast the next night, concerning the fireside, "The students kept us more than on our toes. I might say on our TIPtoes." Father Sohler said "I talked so much last night that I feel as if I now have cotton in my mouth."

Wednesday, Judge Penhollow and Dr. Wood were speakers at the assembly. In the evening, a banquet was held at Hoke Hall. Entertainment was provided by the Blue and Gold Singers, Dr. Skeen, and Mr. Dunsmoor and Dr. Bolen. Each member of the team spoke, with the key address by Judge Penhollow.

At the concluding assembly Thursday, Father Sohler and Dr. Campbell presented addresses.

YR Club To Send 10 Delegates To State Meet

The Young Republican Club of EOC will send ten delegates to the State Convention to be held in Eugene, Oregon, March 3, 4, and 5. Miss Sharon Noyes of La Grande will be the candidate from Eastern Oregon College for the position of State College League Secretary.

Representative Edwin R. Durno (Rep.-Ore.) has placed the Young Republicans Club on his mailing list to receive the Congressional Record. This is available to all club members at any time.

On January 26, 1961, at the regular meeting, the following appontments were made to the four committees:

Nominating—Anita Judd, chairman, Virginia Mansfield, Chuck Betts, Jim Sisemore, Joe Jarvis; membership—Joe Jarvis, chairman, Hersh Fullerton, Bob Black, Janet Bond, Barbara Jean Olinger; resolutions — Sharon Noyes, chairman, Sylvia Courtney, Ron Munkres, Hugh Swaney; publicity —Jim Sisemore, chairman, Jennie Rose Kerr, Barbara Jean Olinger, Anita Judd, Virginia Mansfield, Hersh Fullerton.

Dorion's New House Mother Arrives

St. Valentines Day brought to Dorion Hall a new house mother, Mrs. Edna Barnes. Mrs. Barnes originally of Vancouver, Washington, was formally employed as secretary to the Rev. Edward Hastings. Upon arrival Dorion girls presented her with a bouquet of flowers.

Collegian Dance Deemed Success

"A lot of fun" was the comment about the Collegian dance held last Saturday night, February 18. The dance was attended by students living off campus and their dates. Fifteen couples or more danced to the music of stereo at the no-admission, impromptu dance.

The dance was held at the armory and refreshments of cookies and punch were provided by those attending. Instigators were Linda Long and Joanne Kaufman.

First Snow Carnival

History was made on the weekend of February 10 and 11. This was the date for the first winter Snow Carnival, sponsored by the Out Club. Spout Springs Ski Lodge was the scene of the coronation of the Snow Carnival queen, Vicki Cooper.

Perhaps the most spectacular of the special events that took place during Carnival weekend was the torchlight procession from High. After dark, the lights on the run were turned off to better show the skiers, bearing torches, slowly wending their way down the slope.

The ski races were another of the special events, and Gene Hand received a silver bowl trophy for winning the Giant Slalom. The snowshoe race was won by Ron Munkers, the Snow Sculpture contest by Phyllis Burnett and Marlo Kurper. They also received trophies. The Outing Club challenged the Ski Club to a tug-of-war, in which the Outing Club proved to be the victor. Ski movies and a record dance were also featured.

Eileen Turney, chaiman of the carnival, says: "We feel that the winter carnival was a real success, and next year we are looking forward to enlarging our carnival, and perhaps inviting another school."

As Finals Approach . . .

Two more weeks until finals. Not long, is it? It generally seems that the professors begin to "crack-down" about this time, overloading each of us with term projects—that seemingly can't get done in two weeks.

Yet, if we check back in our notes, we're apt to find a notation about a term project assigned to us early in the term. However, we can't regain lost time, so we are faced with handing in poor work or staying up much too late (5:30 a.m.) to finish the projects—by deadline, we hope.

Being through with the projects we are tired, yet it is stunningly realized that finals are upon us. The notes we've taken in classes are cold by now, for we haven't been keeping up on our reveiwing.

So during final week one will usually find us with books and notes in one hand and a box of No-Doz in the other, all prepared for cramming (this lasting until one moment before the test paper is placed before us).

Yet what do these demons No-Doz and no-sleep do for us? By exam time we are not as mentally alert, or as awake, or as capable of reasoning as the student who has properly studied in advance and who has had a night of sleep. We know what the consequences generally are for those forementioned unfortunates.

P.S. Don't cheat on the finals (or other tests). Just as you would not want to patronize a doctor who had cheated his way through college, one would not want to entrust faith in your services, had you cheated your way through college.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"COME ON NOW—WHICH ONE OF YOU GUYS HAVE OUR 'CLASSIC COMICS'?—WE GOTTA STUDY FOR A LIT TEST TOMORROW."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To: JUDY PATTERSON — Staff writer . . . BEACON

Come, come now. Let's face the facts!!! Let's not gild the lily. You know as well as I know the job the Rally Squad is doing this year stinks to high heaven.

Their yells are terrible and no two members of the squad do anything together. They engender about as much enthusiasm as a wet dish rag. Instead of writing a constitution they should write some good yells and then practice until they can do them together.

My idea of a rally squad has always been that they were to lead the students in yells, not just attempt to lok "pretty" while holding up the ball game.

My girl friend and I would like to encourage the team to victory but without leadership we can't seem to yell together. We don't know whether to yell when they go up or when they come down. Maybe when they go out would be the best time.

LET'S FACE IT.

Sophomore Miss.

To The Editor:

EOC has a problem apparently not recognized by the majority of the student body because they have lived with it so long. We are bad sports! You can't deny it if you take time to look at our conduct at games. Last weekend at our game with OCE, the crowd rose in a fury of "boos" when steps were called on Tom Neel. Anyone who had been watching the game could have seen Neel take steps.

Nothing can be done with our sportsmanship unless YOU try. You say, "What can I do." This is what you can do: If you don't like it, you can express yourself loud and clear. Voice your opinion. Don't let the next fellow do it for you, because he won't. I am only a frosh and maybe some people fee I didn't have the right. But, maybe this letter will get the ball rolling. If you don't express your views, you are just as bad as the person yelling, "Give him an elbow, Bob." I fell the best way to be heard is in a Letter to the Editor.

I am not just including the spectators in this. Some people on the rally and on the team are just as bad. It is our school that is caught in the section caused by the prevailing attitude.

Well, are you as EOC students going to ... do anything about this problem? Or are you going to sit back and say, "So what." To me it doesn't matter whether we have a winning team; it's the school behind that team.

Eileen Turney

Faculty Notes

Dr. Joseph H. Gaiser, as a member of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher School evaluation, is visiting Olympic College, Bremerton, Wash. and Grays Harbor College in Aberdeen, Wash. this week.

State certification of teachers was the topic of two meetings which Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser attended in Salem. Dr. Kaiser is a member of the Teaching Norms Committee which met Feb. 16, and the Advisory Committee to the State Board of Education which met yesterday.

Dr. Roy L. Skeen was one of the discussion leaders at the State Conference on College Teaching at Oregon State College last Saturday. Also attending was Dr. Ralph E.Badgley . The theme of the two-day conference was "Experiments in College Teaching."

Burns was the scene of a two-day workshop conducted by Leona C. Golz, Feb. 16-17. This special art workshop was held for more than ninety Harney County teachers and emphasized the correlation of art with other subjects in elementary and secondary schools.

Frank G. Nelson, instructor in audio-visual aids, attended a meeting of the Northwest College Audio-Visual Association this week at the University of Portland.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Hoke Hall was gaily decorated Saturday night as hearts, streamers and sparkling balloons covered the walls and ceiling. The occasion was Dorion's annual Sweethears Ball. The numerous couples found themselves having a wonderful time as they danced to the music of Bill Howell's Orchestra. But the highligh of the evening came when Sue Switzer was seated on the lovely heart- shaped throne as Dorion's Sweetheart. Marilee Croisant and Ellen Uesugi were placed on either side of Sue to compise a beautifully radiant court.

Another happening with which Dorion is very pleased is the arrival of Mrs. Barns, our new housemother. She will have the assistance of Mrs. Fansom, who will be here one night a week or whenever needed. The Dorion girls sincerely wish both our new "mothers" a pleasant stay.

The flu bug has caused some disturbance in Dorion. Last week about ten girls were ill and were sent to bed by Mrs. Osterholme. It seems though, that the girls increasily got better as the date of the Sweetheart's Ball approached!

That winds up the news for this week, so stay well, study hard and remember . . . if you don't improve today, you will grow worse tomorrow.

Council Quotes

By SUE SWITZER

1. The final and revised Consittution, including a supplementary sheet of Dr. Bennett's on the Sanction of and Source of Authority for the Associated Student Body at Eastern Oregon College, is ready for presentation. As of now, no official date has been set for the election.

2. Chairmen are being decided upon for Parent's Weekend, and Evensong.

3. Joann Allstott and Tony Keller are co-chairmen for Campus Chest.

4. There will be no all-school spring picnic this year.

5. Dr. Bennett has said there will be two strings of lights on in Hoke main lounge at all times. When there are dances with no chaperones, these lights will be left on. When there are chaperones, two lights on either side of the band stand will be on, along with three spots—the main lights may be turned out. Either the chaperone or Larry Snook will chaperone or Larry Snook will manage the lights.

6. The ski club and the outing club were allotted $75 to be spent on EOC's Snow Carnival.

7. A definite policy has been set up concerning staff activity cards. These may be found in the student body office.

8. There has been a suggestion to revise the Pathfinder, and also to publish a student directory next year.

Thanks Received

As a result of the voiced success of the Jazz-Poetry Night held February 3, a letter was recently received expressing the gratitude of California poet, Kenneth Patchen, to whom the proceeds of the night were sent. Patchen had been in a Palo Alto hospital undergoing a serious back operation.

The letter stated that he is now home from the hospital, and that all indications are positive.

Dentict to patient: "Do you want gas?"

Absent-minded professor: "Yes, and you'd better check the oil, too."

Education In Focus

By ALI UBI

Sometimes, in the English system the student is advisor for himself in selecting his courses from two groups. One is compulsory and the other—optional. This situation brings confusion and the academic year will prove that some students fail to know the name of certain professors as I did in statistics last year. This is because there is no relations between students and teachers and they are absolutely forbidden to get in touch with each other. Students are not obliged to attend classes but this is up to their wishes and a man from the street or peddlers at campus can listen to lectures. Entering and leaving the class is the same when you go to a movie—you leave any time you want.

If you like to enjoy yourself you can smoke in class or listen to a football game and you have a good time to exchange romantic diologue with your girl-friend. This sometimes causes lots of noises and disturbances and the only solution for the teacher is to leave the class without continuing his lecture.

Some universities have modern equipment as in England and Holland and others are under balance. I entered a class at the University of Amsterdam. I found all the walls covered with big colored pictures of Queen Juliana and other Dutch heroes. I found this at the University of Athens also, — but I wondered if this is a class or a museum of arts, and I doubt for the student to listen to his teacher or look at these nice pictures.

Examinations are held twice a year in the bi-semester system or once a year. The University supports the students with special answer books and the student writes his number and the name of the course on the front page. Questions are long essay questions, because, as they told me at the University of London, these questions create knowledge and make the student think in activation of the mind. After a few weeks the results of these examinations will be delivered by lists on the bulletin boards indicating that number so and so passed or failed.

The big campus at the University of London, and the underground transportation are for foreign students a big problem and they have to work according to a verse in the Bible "Seek and ye shall find." Foreign students are 50 per cent of alumni in London.

At the University of Belgrade, communist doctrines are major principals of teaching. When I asked "If this is a university or a party propaganda office" then all the students showered me with unpolite assults.

First Term Grades More Significant Than H.S. Record

CORVALLIS, Ore. (I.P.) — High school seniors with good grades may now be admitted to Oregon State College anytime during their senior year instead of having to wait for graduation as most institutions require. The new early "honors admission" policy will permit students and their parents to make definite college plans well in advance, President A. L. Strand noted in announcing the new OSC program.

It will also avoid an end-of-the-year rush for both students and the college admissions office and will permit faster processing of both early and summer applicants, President Strand added. In the crowded years of the late 1960's, the policy will also "assure" capable students of attendance at the college of their first choice, he pointed out.

Any high school student who has earned a "B" or better grade average through his junior year may apply for the honors admission. The new policy will go into effect immediately, Dallas Norton, acting director of admissions said. Early admission assumes that the graduating grades will be consistent with the record as reported at the time of application, he noted.

Sports Talk

By HENRY

It is now apparent that the Oregon Tech "Owls" have the top small college basketball team in the Northwest. Wally Palmberg's charges have finished strong to win their third conference championship since 1957.

It's really a shame the Tech school isn't recognized by the N.A.I.A. as a four year accredited institution. I'm sure O.T.I. would prove a worthy opponent for any small college five. The "Owls" are much improved over their play in their first encounter with the Mounties here in La Grande. Down at Klamath Falls they just ran Eastern Oregon out of the gym. And the Mounts aren't the only ones to fall victim to Tech's vaunted rebounding and running game. On February 21, they blew Southern Oregon right back to Ashland with a 93-60 win.

At this writing second place hasn't been settled in the O.C.C. but I'm going out on a limb and predict that Eastern Oregon and Portland State will wind up in a tie both with 10 and 6 records. Southern Oregon is a cinch for fourth and the Wolves of O.C.E. will wind up in the cellar for the fourth straight year.

Last week O.C.E. came to the Grande Ronde Valley free and easy. Their's was an "everything to gain, nothing to lose" attitude. The situation was loaded with upset possibilities. Any time a tailender such as O.C.E. is knocked out of contention they truly glory in knocking over one of the top dogs. This is exactly what happened to Eastern Oregon. After Friday night's squeaker the Mounties just didn't seem to have the determination to beat the invaders. E.O.C. had their backs to the wall; the players were tense, trying too hard. They hurried their shots, made mistakes and lost the game.

Eastern Oregon will play either Linfield or Lewis and Clark for the right to represent the conference in the district 2 N.A.I.A playoff in Portland on Tuesday night, March 7. This game will either be played here or at Linfield or Lewis and Clark on Saturday night, March 4th.

There will be no tomorrow for the Mountaineers if they lose this crucial game. Their season will be over.

Originally all four teams were to go to the Glass Palace on March 7, to determine the first, second, third and fourth place teams in this district. However, through some difficulty due to distance and travel the athletic department has decided that if E.O.C. loses their first game the Mounts will not get to return to play in the Glass Palace. Members of the team are hoping this ruling is susceptible to change and are in hopes of getting to play in the "Madison Square Garden of the Northwest" even if they do lose their first game.

The team has worked hard all season long because they were in hopes of getting into the playoffs regardless of the place they were to play for whether it be first or third. Now that their dream has come true it is possible that it may be stamped out for no reason at all.

None of the members of this year's team have ever been to the district play-offs, let alone play in the Glass Palace and to them this would be the most fitting way to wind up their season and for the seniors their college basketball careers.

This article has been written by a request of the team and they are in high hopes that you (the student body) will stand behind them, win or lose, and help them get to the Glass Palace.

Coach Quinn has come up with an "ace in the hole" in the form of Bob Meyers. Meyers was plucked off the junior varsity only two weeks ago to fill in for the injured Applegate. Even though Bob saw limited action he proved that next year he will be a competent running mate for Applegate. The two of them should be a formidable duo next year.

EOC Takes OCE, 66-62

Eastern Oregon College held on to a tight 28-25 halftime margin and nipped cellar-dwelling Oregon College of Education, 66-62. However, Saturday night OCE turned the tables and gained a victory over the Mountaineers, 78-70. It was OCE's second victory of the '60 campaign.

In Friday night's tilt the Mounties found themselves behind in the ballgame but with less than three minutes Tom Neel put EOC ahead 60-58, and the Mounties stayed ahead for the victory. Tom Neel was high point man for EOC with 20 points and following him was Pasco Arritola with 18 points.

In Saturday's ball game the Mounties suffered greatly without their regular guard Larry Applegate and came out on the losing end to OCE, 78-70. The game was plagued throughout with fouls of various natures. EOC wound up with 29 personals and the starting five all had four fouls and Walt Wolfe fouled out late in the second half. Pasco Arritola led the Mountaineers with 22 points while Tom Neel scored 11 and Walter Wolfe scored 10 points.

Oregon College was paced by guard Goldman who scored 27 points and by Ron Wolf who added another 17 points. OCE was given 45 attempts from the foul line and connected on 36 shots, which in the long run enabled them to assure victory.

EOC led in field goals 27-21, but it was the points from the charity line that added up for the victorious OCE Wolves. Eastern Oregon is now 9-5 in OCC Conference and 15-9 for the overall seasonal record. This weekend EOC plays two games with Portland State, which will round out their '60 OCC campaign.

JV's Lose Two In Idaho

The Eastern Oregon Junior Varsity lost two ball games last weekend over in Idaho against College of Idaho and Northwestern Nazarene College. Friday night the JV's lost to N.N.C. J.V's, 72-63 and Saturday night to C. of I., 61-58.

In Friday night's tilt the EOC Freshmen were led by their great all-conference center Dick Willems, who scored 25 points, and their great forward from Elgin, Jerry Crouser, who scored 16 points.

The half-time score was 42-32 in favor of the N.N.C. JV's. They were led throughout the ball game by center Ron Markers and guards Glenn Thompson and Leon Powers. Markers scored 18 points in the ball game and Thompson and Powers each added 12 points to the cause.

N.N.C. out rebounded the EOC Freshmen 53 to 48. From the field it was also NNC. They hit on 29-80 shots for a .362 average. EOC connected on 25-71 for a .352 game average.

Saturday night the Eastern Oregon Freshman took on the College of Idaho JV's and were beaten 61-58. The Freshmen were pushed by guard Boy Meyers, who poured in 14 points. Willems and Smith each added 9 points and Crouser and Cupper scored 8 points.

The C. of I. was led by center George Barnett, who scored 15 points, while Scanlon and Van Ruban each scored 12 points.

Eastern Oregon hit on 24 of 73 field goals for a .318 average while C. of I. connected for 24-73 for a .329. At the halftime it was Eastern Oregon 30 and College of Idaho 36.

Owls Topple EOC

Oregon Technical Institute took over the top position in the Oregon Collegiate Conference basketball standings two weekends ago by defeating the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers, 106-63, 74-56.

The double win put the Owls atop in the OCC and moved EOC into second place just ahead of Portland State.

Coach Wally Palmberg's Owls picked up balanced scoring both nights from Leon Wilson, Bob Peterson, Sammy Smith, and Hubert Nash. Both Peterson and Smith provided the spark on the back boards for the Owls. Friday and Saturday night they picked off a total of 78 rebounds. EOC managed to get about 50 rebounds.

Tom Neel was the high scoring Mounty both nights. He scored 20 points Friday night, and 15 Saturday night. Ron Hunt and Larry Applegate also contributed to the scoring. Hunt scored 12 and 11 points and Applegate scored 12 and 11 points.

Applegate Improves

Mrs. Applegate also involved in the accident, suffered from broken ribs and facial lacerations. She has been released from the hospital and has returned to her home in Pendleton for rest.

Sharin' With Sharon

First, an apology to Bob Cash of The La Grande Observer for the thoughts I was thinking when I read my column last issue and found it cut in the middle of a thought. Now I don't mind having my nonsense eliminated, but not in the one important part of the etntire "contribution". Then I found that it was not his fault and was a matter of necessity, so please forgive me, Bob.

This brings up the problem of the cut part, however. It was, in case you failed to read it, at the very beginning of my reply to the "Interested Rook's" letter to the editor in answer to my criticism of school spirit. Last issue there was another letter on the same topic appearing in the Beacon. I will combine my remarks to both of these rebuttals. May I straighten the readers of this column out on a few points I made which evidently have been misunderstood and misinterpreted? In referral to the time spent in Hoke Hall, time which could be put to a much more advantageous use, I did not intentionally direct this to the Freshman class exclusively. This was for the entire, or a large part, of the Student Body of EOC of which I am a guilty member. My wording was as follows: "It's a shame that enthusiasm for EOC, scholastically and socially, is not as great as the enthusiasm for inventing coffee breaks and meeting at Hoke Hall—no direct referral to personalities." If the Freshmen felt I directed this against them, I am sorry, but may I use the old cliche "If the shoe fits, wear it!" !

Both the rook and Karen, Diane, Judy, and the others signing the second reply, (my sources have not informed me of the name of the "Interested Rook"), referred to their attendance at EOC for the intellectual education they hope to gain. Agreed this is the prime aspiration for attending college, but may I point out that the social education one receives, although secondary, is vitally important to the future of a well-adjusted adult. A very active Freshman remarked to me that this class felt they should be led, as beginners in this game, and not the leaders. This is a very good point as was the remark of a junior, who was equally as active his first two years, when he said, "One is looked down upon for being a Freshman all four years. As a Freshman and Sophomore, it's okey, but when you become a Junior and Senior, your aspirations are directed to the more serious vein." One must also realize that a large percentage of the upperclassmen are married, many with children, and a good deal more have outside responsibilities which limits their opportunity for participation in activities.

It has been gratifying to see rise of this controversy, and I feel safe in saying that there is a general concensus of opinion. That is, the responsibility is there, the need is there, and perhaps now the participants will be there. I feel a definite show of school spirit has been shown in conversation on the campus as well as the letters written. Here, I would like to pat the back of those rooks who wrote in—I saw none from the upperclassmen. Does this show where the interest lies?

A BIG PLUG FOR "ANYTHING GOES" to be seen this weekend. These kids have worked terribly hard to make this a big success and have taken on a real hard job. Let's all show up in support and in appreciation of the many many hours they have spent at practice. A word must be said also to Mr. Hiatt who has spent until midnight and later each night working on this. His wife must know how it would feel to be married to a doctor! (Have you had time to check lately and see if she's still around, Mr. Hiatt?).

As long as congratulations and compliments seem to be in order, I'd like to take this space to thank Dr. Bolen for the beautiful job done on the Interfaith Council. This is a thankless job done well for Dr. Bolen as well as those who helped him.

TO THE MOUNTIES — at this writing the outcome of the conference is in the future, but whatever it may be, we're all behind you. There will be elation if we go to the play-offs, but if we don't, we're still every bit as proud of our team for a fabulous and exciting season.

Lo and behold, La Grande is having a public dance! Epsilon Sigma Alpha International Sorority is sponsoring a big one Saturday night, March 4th at the Sac ballroom, proceeds to further the activities of our well-known Blue Mountain Boys, who will be in attendance. Plan to attend—it should be loads of fun; it was last year. Of course, my reasons are not entirely unselfish in mentioning this —must admit I have a special reason for I've belonged to ESA for several years and hold the office of President of our City Council, the Eastern Oregon District Council, and am a member of the Oregon State Executive Board. I'm not blowing my own horn, just want to qualify myself as one who knows the good cause and good fun involved. See you next issue —Good luck, Vickie.

P.S. To the person or persons who stole Dennis Oliver's lighter from his overcoat pocket, then his overcoat, and then the radio from his car—Was this fair?

Dr. Hester Turner Addresses SOEA

Raising the standards of the teaching profession was the message of Dr. Hester Turner, chairman of the state Teacher Education Professional Standards commission of the OEA, when she visited the EOC campus Wednesday, February 8. Dr. Turner, who is a lawyer, also a mother of four and an active worker in the field of education, spoke to several classes. Later in the afternoon the SOEA sponsored a coffee hour in her honor.

Wednesday evening the SOEA visited the OEA at Willow school where Dr. Turner explained the purpose and function of the Teacher Education Professional Standards Commission. She discussed several bills which the commission is now sponsoring for Oregon legislation. One bill was to initiate a new method of revoking teachers' certificates. The present way of taking away a certification is only by a written complaint of the coounty school superintendent. The commission is proposing a bill in which a state teachers' organiation may complain to the superintendent who will then ask for a board composed of five educators to investigate the situation. The board makes recommendations to the superintendent but he alone makes the final decision.

Another impending bill drawn up by the commission is requiring five years of college preparation for teaching in the elementary schools. After obtaining a bachelor's degree for four years' training a provisional certificate would be issued. After this, a length of time is allowed for the teacher to obtain his additional year of preparation. After the talk there was a question and answer period.

It is not the Communists who are destroying America. America is being destroyed by citizens who will not listen, are not informed, and will not think. The uninformed are easily misinformed. Americans are misinformed today to an extent that is unbelievable.

Sign seen on the back of an auto in October: "I' going to vote for WHOM I DAMN PLEASE — You can do the same." — (So you did. Now what?)

Let George do it. George is not big enough. In order to preserve America it is going to take the devote efforts of each and every loyal American AND NOW. The hour is very, very late.

A.W.S. Officers Attend State Convention

On February 17, the AWS Officers and their advisor from Eastern Oregon College left for Portland to attend the state AWS Convention held Saturday on the campus of Lewis and Clark College. Those officers attending were: President, Elaine McNaught; Vice-President, Gail Fisher; Secretary-Treasurer, Louise Young; and Representative, Bev Trimble. Mrs. Winters, AWS Advisor, also accompanied the girls on their trip.

Approximately 200 delegates from 13 Oregon colleges were present for the meetings and workshops held throughout the day. The theme for the 1961 Convention was "Help Wanted: Women For Tomorrow." Beginning at 9:30 a.m., Registration and a Coffee Hour were held at Paletine Manor, where greetings were extended to the girls from Lewis and Clark College President, John R. Howard, and Dean of Women, Freeda O. Hartzfeld. Keynote speaker was Dr. Hester Turner, Director of Professional Services for O.E.A. who gave a talk on "Today's Woman in Tomorrow's World."

Four workshops were held immediately following and each of the officers from Eastern Oregon attended a different workshop. Mrs. Winters and Elaine McNaught served as consultants to help summarize the findings of the workshop on "Maturity—What? How?"

During the luncheon meeting in Templeton Commons, Mrs. Cleo Maletis, Mrs. America of 1955, discussed "The Challenge of Being a Woman."

Newt To Be In "Anything Goes"

EOC does not have Alfred Hitchcock but it does have "Newt". Who is "Newt"? If you have attended any of Mr. Hiatt's productions you have probably seen "Newt" because he has been in every one of them. No, he isn't a star actor. As a matter of fact he doesn't even have a minor role. Need more clues? Actually "Newt" isn't a person. He is an attractive statue awarded to only six or seven dramatics students a year at the University of Oregon. Mr. Hiatt won his as a contribution award for business managing.

Maybe you noticed "Newt" on the book shelf in "Tall Story" or as a center piece or on the fire place in some of his other productions. The problem of finding a place to work "Newt" in "Anything Goes", to be presented March 2-4, at the College theater, is more difficult than usual, but Mr. Hiatt says he has found a spot. When you attend "Anything Goes" see if you can spot "Newt."

Who's Dong What

The International Relations Club presented a three-panel discussion February 7 at the Neighborhood Club. The same panel presented the topic "Moral Inaction" at a regular meeting of the club in Hoke Lounge.

They had an informal luncheon with Father Sohler and Dr. Madsen yesterday.

Alpha Pi Epsilon, honorary secretarial science society, is making plans for a field trip to Portland during Spring term. Finances for the trip were obtained from the dance sponsored this term at which Arnie Mason from KLBM played records. For transportation, the girls plan to use a school station wagon. Plans are being made to tour some business organizations to see how they operate. The girls who will be getting their degres this year hope to place applications with several business firms while there.

"Night Of The Auk" Plays To The Mind

New Thrust for the Thinker

"Night of the Auk", which played at the EOC theater last weekend, was no fare for the frivolous. Sock and Buskin players, directed by Dr. Alvin Kaiser, skillfully brought out the serious overtones of Arch Obler's thought-provoking play. It was entertainment on the cerebral plane.

Because "Auk" did not depend on action for effect, the players were free to express their thoughts without distraction. The set consisted of three drum-like areas alternately lighted to focus the attention on the players of the moment. A challenging limitation of the play was the fact that all the players remained on the stage and lights were used to isolate the speaker. The poetic "free-prose" of the play emphasized the intellectual intent of Mr. Obler who could not have achieved this success with the grunt and mumble of the modern school.

Heading the all male cast were David Slabaugh as the troubled scientist and Le Roy Mobley as Lewis Rohnen, a self-centered 'ugly American" of tomorrow. Ably assisting them were David Obert as the lively communications man, Richard Domey as the Colonel who discovered too late the value of thought, and Gary Van Gaasbeck as the young lieutenant who sowed the dragon's teeth of doubt and fear in the minds of the crew.

The actors showed few signs of first-night jitters and projected the audience into their rocket world with few props or tricks. Lighting, and the lack of it, were their most valuable devices and the curtain of theatrical guaze added an eerie emphasis.

Dr. Kaiser's direction kept the play from bogging down in talk.

As a play "Auk" will not gain world acclaim but it did stimulate thought. Many of "Auk's hard-hitting questions can tease idle minds. Are we becoming "blobs of flesh grown under bell jars?" Are we giving pity to the "psycho" and scorn to the brave? Behind our "chrome-plated curtain" is our spirit corroded with rust? Have the eyes of God been burned out by the flames of our greedy passions? Does life end at physical death or is it continued in another "world"? Will the burden of our guilt be carried beyond the grave? Unfortunately "Auk" did not, or rather could not, present answers to its urgent and perplexing problems. For solutions to such deep problems can only be found in the heart.

Only in "Auk's" final scene does the driving psychological action slow down. The anticlimatic final scene seems an unconnected after thought on the part of Mr. Obler. Or it may be that Obler intended the rocket's descent into the unknown as a symbol of man's journey through the darkness of his life.

To the action seeking playgoer who expected to see Buck Rogers defeat the Moon Men, "Night of the Auk" was a letdown. But to the serious playgoer it gave a little extra thrust to the mind.

'A Look At Clouds' Presented At Assembly

"A New Look At Clouds" was given students of Eastern Oregon College in an address by Dr. Fred W. Decker, assistant professor of physics at Oregon State College.

Missiles, radar and weather were discussed in turn during Decker's address to students. Decker used slides to illustrate the various causes and types of clouds and explained the effect of coastal water temperatures, wind currents, and atmospheric temperature ranges on the formation of clouds and precipitation.

A photograph taken from the peak of Mount Saint Helens showed a disk shaped cloud formation caused by air currents swirling over the summit of the mountains which could easily be mistaken to be a flying saucer. Decker and a number of meteorologists feel that similiar cloud formations ars largely responsible for a number of U.F.O. reports.

Decker then presented a motion picture shot from the nose cone of a rocket which hose to a height of 700 miles from the sands of Cape Canaveral. The 700 mile high view of terra firma, provided a complete picture of cloud formations from the polar fronts to the equatorial convergents.

Decker stated that the 700 mile shot was a prelude to a meterorological milestone; the orbiting of the weather observation satellite Tyros.

Dr. Decker is currently involved in radar-weather studies in connection with the atmospheric research branch of Oregon State College.

YoungRepublicans Attend Convention

The Young Republican State Convention was held March 3, 4, and 5 in Eugene, Oregon. Seven delegates attended the convention from Eastern Oregon College. These delegates were: Barbara Jean Olinger, Anita Judd, Sylvia Courtney, Ron Munkres, Jim Sisemore, Joe Jarvis, and Hugh Swaney.

The Eastern Oregon College delegation controlled the vote between the two candidates for election as State Chairman. The group cast a 4-3 vote for Rodger K. Jones of the University of Oregon. As a result, Jones won by a margin of one vote over his opponent.

E.O.C.'s candidate, Sharon Noyes, Junior from La Grande, was elected to one of the four positions as Vice-Chairman. She will serve as the only representative from the Second Congressional District on the State Executive Board and will be chairman of one of the four important State committees. It has been a number of years since Eastern Oregon College has had a representative on the State Board.

In its own caucus, the Eastern Oregon group voted to support State Senator Anthony Yturri for Governor in the 1962 election, instead of the present Governor, Mark Hatfield. This action was done to support Yturri's proposals on reapportionment of legislative representation.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Bolen were chaperones for the Eastern Oregon College delegates.

McCleary Heads S.O.E.A.

New officers for S.O.E.A. were elected Wednesday, March 8 at a regular meeting. They are: president, Bill McCleary; secretary, Pat Blackburn; treasurer, Jo Alstott. John Clark and Bill Jackson tied for vice president and a revote will be taken.

Educational, vocational and personal problems are the major considerations in school counseling according to Don O'Neil, director of the guidance and counseling department for city schools, who was guest speaker for SOEA last Wednesday night. He said that such counselors aid the students to think for themselves and help them to plan their education in terms of their interests and abilities.

Choir Plans Tour

The Eastern Oregon College Choir is planning a choir tour April 17, 18 and 19, throughout various cities. These cities are: Baker, Prairie City, John Day, Dayville, Fossil, Condon, Arlington, and Pendleton.

The choir consists of forty singers. The Blue and Gold singers are included in this group.

To open the program, the choir is going to present a sacred nature theme and to end the program with a lighter nature with a Broadway theme. This program will last one hour.

The Middle 'R' Solicits Manuscripts

The Middle "R", formerly The Oregon Collegiate Review, invites all students and faculty to contribute manuscripts to its 1961 edition. Qualifications for manuscripts: 1500 words should be the maximum length for prose. This incudes short stories and criticism. Any number of poems may be submitted. The deadline for submitting matrial wil lbe May 5. Manuscripts may be mailed to The Editor, Middle "R", in care of Eastern Oregon College, La Granrde, Oregon or left in the Mddle "R" box, faculty mail room in the administration building. Manuscripts may also be left in the office of cither Mr. Ronald Bayes or Dr. Gordon W. Clarke in Hoke Hall. Those writers who desire return of manuscripts must attack a self addressed, stamped envelope.

The Middle "R" will go to press about May 15 It will be it sseventh edition.

Staff Members Named

Robert L. Phifer, editor of EOC's literary magazine, the "Middle "R" today announced the staff for the seventh annual edition of the publication.

The staff, in addition to Phifer, editor-in-chief, will include: Assistant Editors Al Carr and Gene Noland; Business Manager, Ron Cooper; Art Editor, Dick Kaiser; Editorial Consultants, John Hall, Bill Lovelady, Fred Park, Oran Hutton, Judy Hockett, Dave Slabaugh, and faculty consultant, R. H. Bayes.

The Junior Prom, schduled for this month has been canceled until spring term.

The annual Junior prom is held in honor of the senior class.

Kaiser Does It Again

"Grande Ronde Romance," an original drama by Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, professor of English, speech and drama, is scheduled for production as part of the Union County Centennial celebration this summer.

The play, a comedy dealing with the first marriage performed in the Grande Ronde valley, is historical fiction based upon fact as recorded in the diary of Ben Brown, an early pioneer in this area.

The production is scheduled for outdoor presentation and will include a square dance festival. And according to the drama, . . . "it was at one of these dances that romance became known to the people of Brown Fort," the first valley settlement.

Production for "Grande Ronde Romance" will begin the first week in August.

Well's Speaks On Russia

Charles Wells, a widely traveled journalist spoke on Russia at an assembly March 8 in the college theater. His stated purpose was not to recite what newspapers generally print, but to tell of that which has often been left unsaid.

Through many examples, Wells illustrated that the U.S. does have allies within the Russian people, in those who resist Communist control. Although the number of anti-Communist youth in Russia is small. he contended that the U.S. must work with these youths and the other anti-Communists.

Among his examples, Wells voiced an incident in which one hundred and sixty-six engineering students were slaughtered beca use they resisted the Control. He also illustrated how the youths opened a black market on jazz, because they loved it, and because they were forbidden to listen to it.

In the question-answer period that followed his talk, Wells discussed the Cuban situation and the Peace Corps of the Kennedy Administration.

CIVIC MUSIC

Civic Music will present The Serenaders Quartet at the high school auditorium Saturday, March 11 at 8:00 p.m. Those attending are reminded that they must have their Civic Music Cards with them.

Tour To Take Band To California

Friday, March 23, the Eastern Oregon College Band will depart for Sacramento, California, for the annual band concert tour. In California, the band will perform for schools, veterans' hospitals, and the Travis Air Force Base. On their return trip, the band will visit Monmouth College, high schools along the coast, and entertain at WyEast High School, Hood River High School, The Dalles High School, Hermiston, and Echo. The tour will end as the band will return to Eastern Oregon Thursday, March 30. The band will have presented fifteen concerts.

The tour will include 56 studens, traveling in the school bus and private cars. Dr. Lewis, Associate Professor of Music, will accompany the students. The musical numbers presented will feature songs from Broadway musical shows, and some vocal numbers as well as the regular band literature.

Blue & Gold Faces Busy Schedule

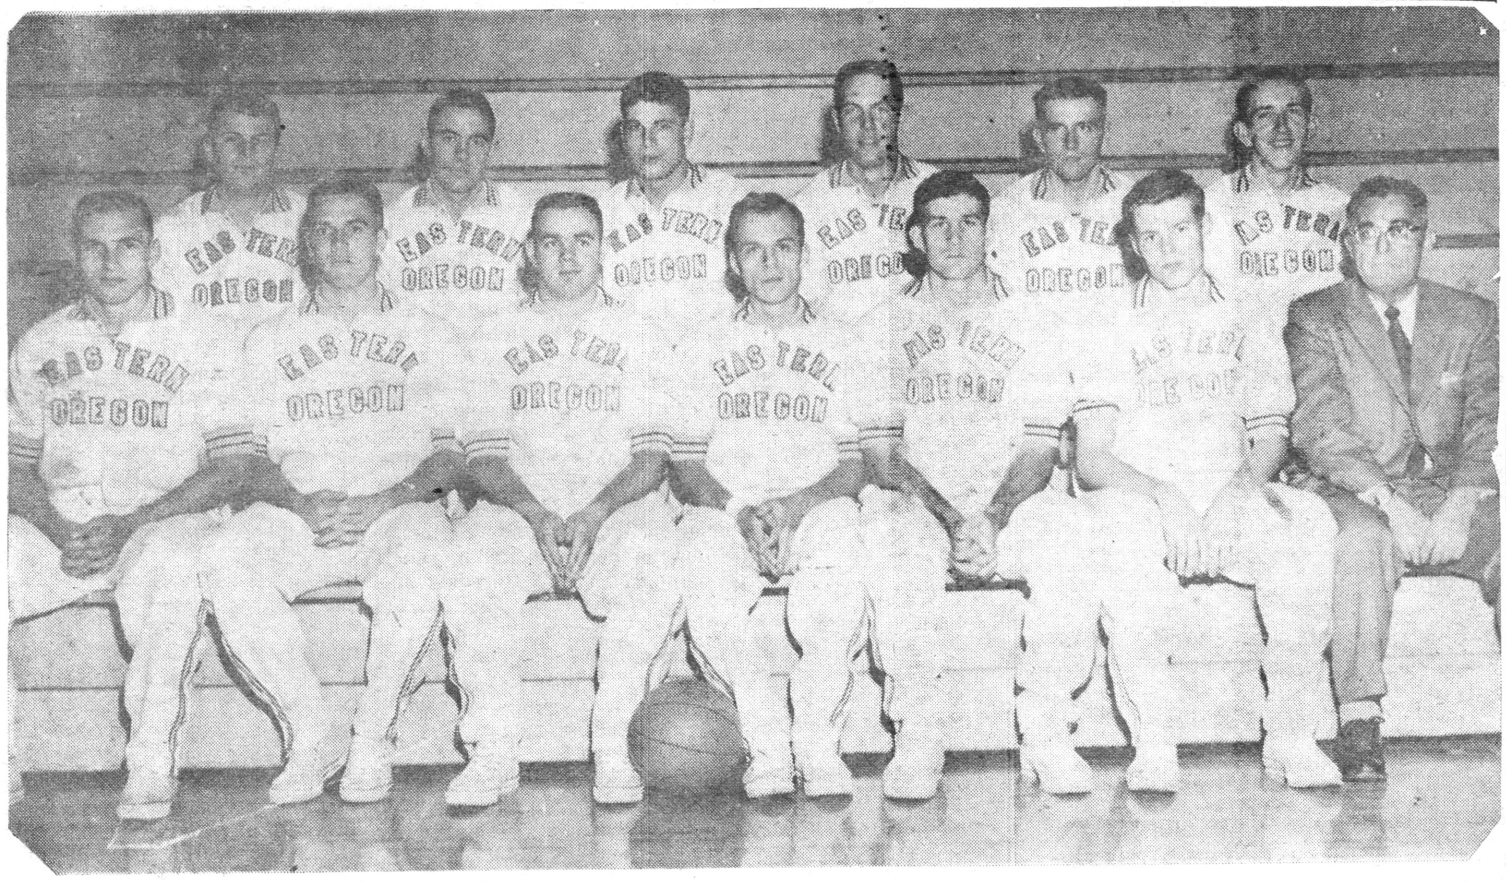
Recent engagements for Blue and Gold members have kept them on the go and the students are now settling down and working on the music that will be sung on the choir tour spring term.

The group recently has sung for the Elks, Lions Club, Rotary Annual Banquet, the Christian Church and regular school assemblies. They also presented numbers throughout National Brotherhood Week—Feb. 21-23.

Several individual members have soloed for past events. Among those are Karin Stewart, who sang for the "Sweetheart's Ball February 18. She was accompanied by Daisy Good. A quartet consisting of Jim Boatman, Jim Cornett, Jim Lee, and Warren Good also entertained at the dance.

All Blue and Gold members performed in the musical "Anything Goes." The quartet had a special number.

Pre-Register Now!



It is pre-registration time again and all students are asked to make an appointment with their advisers to pre-regsiter for courses to be taken spring term.

At the regular registration during the first day of spring term the advisor will check the student's registration card against the trial sheet. If everything is in order he will sign the students registration card, and the student will then proceed through the regular registration process.

Any student who may be uncertain as to who his adviser is may check the list posted on the bulletin board in the Administration Building. In the event that the student has not been assigned an adviser he should see the chairman of his division and ask that an adviser be assigned.

Registration for the spring term will again be held in the library and a registration order is established to eliminate congestion. Juniors and seniors will register at 9:00 a.m., sophomores at 10:30, and freshmen at 1:30 p.m.

Any student not able to register at the scheduled time is requested not to come for registration until 2:30 p.m.

Finals, Final Week?

Some faculty members are opposing the recent suggestion by the Scholastic Standards Committee to hold final tests final week, rather than the preceding week in the midst of regular classes. The main reason appears to follow the vein that a student may then evaluate his learning by checking over that test if given early.

On the other hand, students have been upset because some important final exams have been administered during the week preceding finals. During this week, students are attending regular classes, handing in weekly assignments and term projects, besides trying to sufficiently prepare for a final exam if it is to be given this week.

However, students do want to know how they did on a final. While taking the exam, they generally come across questions on which they want more knowledge, or on which they have specific questions. Sometimes these questions are too lengthy to be taken up with the examining professor during the exam period. This writer has even approached a professor who would not go over an objective final exam with her. Here, the value of an exam—any exam—was dissolved. The professor had little purpose in administering an exam, except to issue a grade as a result of the test.

Two ideas have been stated. One. Some professors have the learning process in mind when they give exams a week before finals, so that the students may evaluate their work. And two. Students find it difficuult to squeeze in final tests the week before finals, during a regular class time. Still, the students do want to evaluate their tests.

It may seem reasonable to have tests the final week of the term, with projects being handed in the week earlier. The students could then consult their professors the next term to review their tests. However, some students do not return to school, especially summer term. Others just neglect to go to the professor's office. And sometimes, the professors do not wish to be bothered.

Finals could be held the week before regular finals—the term projects, etc. being handed in earlier. Then the last week of the term could again resume in regular classes. Within these classes, the tests could be evaluated and specific questions could be reviewed for the benefit of the students.

Perhaps a written rule can not be filed to improve the present situation. However, a gentleman's agreement might be successful.

STUDENTS ADVISED TO SUBMIT SSCQT APPLICATIONS NOW!

Applications for the April 27, 1961 administration of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMING SECTION, Educational Testing Service, P.O. Box 586, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications for the April 27 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 6, 1961.

According to the Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualifications Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. Test results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor

Since the last issue of the Beacon there has been another club on campus. People who like the outdoors have their Outing Club, the baseball team has their Inning Club, but this is a new one. It is called the Out Club, and its major activity to this time is the sponsoring of the first winter Snow Carnival. (Check the last issue of the Beacon, all you Doubting Thomas'!) I wish in this letter to give recognition to all those people who are responsible for the founding of this new club: however, most of these people seem to want to remain anonymous.

A Believer in P.J.

To the Editor:

Compliments seem to be few and far between in this column of the paper. Gratitude is apparently a thing of the past and complaint has replaced constructive criticism. School spirit has been run through the meat grinder and then lost in a labyrinth of moaning and groaning. Anyone can complain but complaint without positive action is as useless as an icepick in Dantes Inferno.

I am compelled to give a reply to the attack upon the rally squad by the anonymous Sophomore Miss. As a member of the JV basketball team, I have had the opportunity to observe rally squads in action from a variety of colleges. In my opinion, with the possible exception of College of Idaho, not a single one can compare to our own in originality and execution of yells. If the job done by our rally squad "stinks to high heaven" I undoubtedly would have been driven out of many coliseums by the odor created by many of the other college's rally squads. However, I survived with little damage to my olfactory senses.

I would like to compliment the rally squad on a job well done and I have every confidence that you will continue to give us superior quality of leadership. I am sure the great majority of the student body of EOC joins me in expressing a sincere thanks for your time and efforts. Perhaps the "perfectionists" will someday learn to recognize a good thing when they see it and join in the fun.

Tom Driscoll

To: Sophomore Miss

Congratulations! Personal opinions are appreciated in the paper. But you have had almost two terms in which to voice your opinions about the Rally, why did you wait until the end of the season to state your gripes?

You stated you cannot follow their yells, why? You must have been too busy looking around and gossiping with your neighbor. If you were really interested in Rally and what they are doing, you could very easily learn the yells and thus be able to follow them.

As a sophomore you must remember last year's Rally and the student participation engendered them. Even though the Rally tried, they were not given as much assistance from the crowd as this year's Rally has received. This year's Rally seems to be able to draw the crowd into the spirit of the game.

You must realize that as college students, we all have to study, including the Rally. The Rally has quite a few other duties to attend to besides all their school work and other campus activities. After all, the Rally cannot be expected to spend all their time practicing.

In closing, I just want to repeat —"Congratulations to the Rally Squad. They have done a fabulous job in building school spirit this year."

Judy Peterson

'Anything Goes'

REMINDER OF 'ROARING 20's'

"Standing room only" crowds watch Cole Porter's lively musical "Anything Goes" at the EOC theater last weekend. True to its name, everything went in this no-holds-barred comedy.

Like any musical, the plot in "Anything Goes" was highly improbable. But the improbability only heightened the merriment. The main action took place aboard an ocean liner bound for England. In the story of the society girl, Hope Harcourt (Ruth Combs) is to be married to a very proper Englishman, Sir Evelyn Oakleigh (LeRoy Mobley). How Hope's booyfriend, Bill Crocker (Fred Everett) manages to wrest her from Sir "Eve" with the help of Reno Sweeney (Ellen Uesugi) and the Reverend Moon (David Slabaugh) is the basis for this zany comedy. Director Richard Hiatt did a terrific job in coordinating players, dancers, and musicians into a play of the 'roaring '20's" that is great fun in '61.

Opening night the players had a hard time loosening up but once they found themselves the fast paced action never stopped till the final curtain.

The orchestra lacked depth and showed some signs of first night stiffness but by the first number, "I Get a Kick Out of You," they were playing in swinging style. Cole Porter's on beat tunes came as a welcome relief from Elvis and Fabian. Director John Cobb's handling of the orchestra always supported and never smothered the action.

Ellen Usegui, as Reno Sweeney the leader of a troupe of dancing girls, belted out her numbers like a professional. Her throaty rendition of "Blow Gabriel, Blow" brought down the house. Miss Uesugi's vocal versatility was also seen in "You're the Top" and "Anything Goes."

Never was there a funnier or more loveable gangaster than David Slabaugh's "Moonie) (alias Rev. Dr. Moon). His roguish performance as 'Moonie" was a surprising contrast to his serious role in "Night of the Auk." His mock seriousness in the song "Bluebird" turned it into a hit.

Uesugi and Slabaugh carried the performance with their natural ability to project a role and to draw a response from the audience. Without them the play might easily have fallen flat in spite of the able but less experienced performances of some of the others.

The sweet and moody character of Ruth Combs' voice was brought out in her interpretations of "All Through the Night" and "The Gypsy in Me."

The mad complications of Fred Everett's role as Bill Crocker are typical of P. G. Wodehouse. Everett's hilarious nature was in constant evidence throughout the performance. His singing in "All Through the Night" and "You're the Top" was capable.

LeRoy Mobley, as Sir Evelyn Oakleigh, Hope's fiance, was a very proper Englishman. Mobley's British accent never slipped and his typically English manner was the source of jolly good sport.

Sue Switzer, in a shrill portrayal of the affected society snob. Mrs. Wadsworth T. Harcourt, and Deanna Talbott, in the role of Bonnie, a very believable broad, played strong supporting parts.

But it remained for Ching and Ling, a pair of cool Coolies who learned to play craps from the bishop, to make possible the play's happy ending by losing their pants in a strip poker game which mercifully ended in the dark.

The fast-stepping pace of the dancing, set by choreographer Christine Nicoloff, built up the pitch of the play and was never a distraction. The antics of the male quartette and the saliors' mop dance were pure farce. Outstanding in the more serious dance numbers were Steve and Shari McCowan, specialty tappers.

The girls' chorus and the dancers shone in "Bon Voyage" and "Where Are the Men?" But on "Bloow Gabriel, Blow" and the finale, "Anything Goes," the entire company really outdid themselves.

On the whole, the performance of the cast must be complimented. By their easy movement in the limited space of the stage they added a dimension of reality to the simplicity of the set. They avoided the awkward groupings that so often affect amateur productions.

"Anything Goes" had no deep meanings but as a happy reminder of the carefree old days it was quite a delectable little "plum tart."

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

As Winter term is quickly coming to a close the girls in Dorion Hall are finding they must finish term projects, complete the work which is unfinished, and study for finals. Therefore, the halls have been comparatively quiet during these last two weeks except for a few personal shouts when someone finds they have accomplished an assignment.

Another exception to the "before final lull" came after the girls attended the tremendous performance of "Anything Goes." A person walking down the halls possible would have had the feeling of being at the production itself except, of course, for the poor quality in most of the voices. Eastern Oregon's victory over Lewis and Clark caused another burst of enthusiasm in Dorion with the song this time being "Kansas City."

Since most of the Dorion action has been silenced by the threat of finals this winds up the news from the girls dorm for this term.

Torrid Tips

By Bunny Hunt

A new course being offered at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn., for coeds is judo. All of the twenty-four girls enrolled have floored the two male instructors, and a doubting T.V. reporter who came to do a story on the class found himself on the mat.

The Canadian bed push saga goes on. The University of British Columbia record was broken by neighboring Alberta U. who pushed a bed seventy miles. Anyone want to try to bring the record to the U.S.?

Interesting. A recent menu at a Colorado State College sorority house featured everything from orders of steak to orders of bread and water. The catch—coeds were fed according to their last quarter's grade point.

It seems as though the Junior class at E.O.C. is having prom difficulties: date, money, lack of class participation .. . need I say more?

Faculty Notes

"Teaching Is Our Profession" was the theme of the Northwest Regional Conference, Department of Classroom Teachers of the N.E.A., which was held March 2-4 at Tacoma, Washington. Representing E.O.C. was Betty M. Ryan, Associate Professor of Education and Supervisor of Teaching.

Mrs. Ryan participated in two special sessions of the conference, "Television School" and "Ethics."

Another Eastern Oregon College Ryan is also in the news. Bruce P. Ryan is attending a meeting of the Orefon Speech and Hearing Association, today and tomorrow at Ocean Lake.

Mr. Ryan, Speech pathologist and Director of Eastern Oregon Cooperative Speech and Hearing Center, has indicated that cleft palate and other organic speech disorders will be topics highlighting the meeting.

EOC Spilts With Vikings

Portland State dealt the Eastern Oregon Mounties a crucial blow when they defeated them 62-46 two weeks ago.

Eastern Oregon lost the services of starting guard Ron Hunt, who suffered a badly sprained ankle. He was later taken to St. Vincent Hospital overnight for x-rays. Hunt was also forced to miss the opening game in the NAIA playoffs last week against Lewis and Clark. He will also probably miss the game between the Mounties and Linfield at the "Glass Palace" in Portland.

Don Bridges, senior forward, paved the way for the Staters with 23 points. Frank Chase added another 13 points to the Viking cause.

Tom Neel was the leader for the Mounts. Tom scored 20 points. Mel Holmes contributed 12 points to the Mounties' total.

Portland State led at the half way mark, 29-20. During the second period of play they managed to up their lead to almost 20 points. The Mountaineers were hardly ever in a threatening position.

MOUNTIES WIN

Eastern Oregon's fired up Mountaineers came from behind and defeated the PSC's Vikings Saturday night, 58-56.

Mel Holmes led the EOC attack with 21 points, with Tom Neel and Pasco Arritola adding 13 and 11 points respectively. Eastern Oregon compiled a .391 field goal shooting percentage on 25 of 64 attempts. The defeat left the Mounts and the Vikings in a tie for second place in the final OCC basketball standings. A Story From Nazreth

By ALI ZUBI
(A Student from Nazreth)

Once, I was sitting in a car waiting for my brother who said he would be back in a few minutes. A man came. Through the window of the car he whispered in my ear and said, "I need help."

I smiled and said, "That's fine." I thought that I alone needed help . . . but I found a fellow like me.

I opened the door of the car and let him in.

The man was surprised and sair, "But pardon me, sir, you are a gentleman . . ."

I interrupted him and said, "What gentleman! Can you confirm your statement and how do you know that I am a gentleman. How much money do you guess I have in my purse?"

The man thought for a while and said, "Oh! we are now at the beginning of the month — I guess you have $10."

I decided to follow this argument and to know what this man needed, I said, "If I have $10, be sure I will ask for help as you do . . . but look, I have $48."

The man thought that I am dumb and said, "You see that I am right."

"No, you are wrong." I showed him a receipts for $9 to pay for the cloth store.

"Fine . . . but you will have $39 then . . ."

"Here is another receipt of $6 for the Y.M.C.A."

"O.K., you still have $39."

Then I understood that he is a shrew man and I said, "Do you know, smart man, what model our car is? Do you know how much gas this car burns a month?"

"You need about -10 for gas . . . then you have $23."

"But you want me to go to college without books. It will be $13."

"You still have $10 left in your pocket."

"But there is a good play tonight and would you like to take my girl friend. Do you want me to take you with me and leave my girlfriend?"

"Take your girlfriend. But how much will it cost you?"

I said, "Let us say $8 at least, because at the play there will be all kinds of people . . . and you know . . ."

"Now, what will you do with the remaining $2?"

I answered, "Oh yes, I am hungry now. You see that restaurant . . . I am waiting for you to leave, then I go eat my lunch."

"This will not cost you so much . . . a couple of dimes."

"What, you think I eat beans? No . . . I have to eat a steak and other good drink. This might cost me a dollar and three quarters, so that I will only one quarter." I noticed the man was shocked and changed colors of his face. Then, "Do you like to have this quarter and leave me without a candy bar?"

The man opened the car door and ran away.

I shouted, "Come back, what's wrong with you?"

"No, no, I afraid if you continue in your accounting, then you will have the money I have in my pocket."

EOC Wrestlers Go To Conference

Roger Jenson, heavyweight class, placed third in the OCC Wrestling Conference at Southern Oregon. He was the only member of the EOC wrestling team to place in the conference. The other members of the team, coached by Mr. Dunsmoore, include Jerry Campbell 177 pound class, Darold Good 191 pound class, Lynn Harris 167 pound clss, Charles La Kamp 167 pound class, Bob North 147 pound class, Dave Curtis 137 pound class, and Sam Wellenbrock 137 pound class.

This was the first year which EOC has participated in intercollege wrestling. As a result of this, the schedule has been informal. EOC has competed agaist Boise Junior College, Columbia Basin Junior College and Whitman. Mr. Dunsmoor feels that the school has made a successful start in this sport considering that only two boys on the team had any previous experience. He hopes that the interest and enthusiasm will continue and that wrestling can be made a major lettered sport. Next year a full schedue is planned and a wrestling coach may be hired to help relieve Mr. Dunsmoore.

The only thing we have to fear is fear itself—F.D.R.

TECH ACE TOPS LEAGUE SCORING

Sophomore Sammy Smith collected both the scoring and rebound crowns as he paced the Oregon Tech's Owls to a first place finish in the Oregon Collegiate Conference basketball race.

Smith accounted for 296 points in 16 games for an 18.5 average. He also pulled down 256 rebounds for an average of 16 per game.

Tom Neel, Eastern Oregon's star forward claimed second place behind Smith. Neel poured in 235 points for a 14.8 game average. Larry Applegate, EOC's great all-conference guard, who missed the last four ball games because of a serious auto accident, placed third with 234 points.

Bob Petedson, an OTI freshman, was second to his teammate Smith in rebound efficiency and led the Conference in the field goal accuracy with a .480 mark.

Teamwise Eastern Oregon was the big gun from the floor with a .400 mark and Portland State took it from the free throw line with a .654 clip.

Mounties Whip L-C; Gain Dist. Berth

The Eastern Oregon Mountaineers moved one step closer to gaining a final berth selection to the NAIA finals in Kansas City, March 13-18.

Eastern Oregon was able to slow down the Lewis and Clark Pioneers and chalk up a 82-77 win. They gained the chance to play Linfield College, in the Glass Palace, for the right to represent the Northwest small colleges at the NAIA finals.

The two teams were deadlocked 41-41 at the intermission. However, the Mounties broke away in the second period and forged ahead to stay. EOC at one time led 76-63. They maintained board control and evaded the Pioneers full court press.

Tom Neel led the Mounts scoring with 30 points, his highest output of the season. Mel Holmes added another 17 points to the Mounties' cause. Bill Maurer and Bert Lundmark led the way for the Pioneers with 19 and 14 points respectively.

Sharin' With Sharon

The Eastern Oregon Mounties are furiously fighting right at this moment as I am writing. Fighting desperately to win against Linfield for the right to go to Kansas City. The score is 72-69 Linfield's favor. They are at the foul line . . . how does someone express the mixed emotions he feels? Neel just layed in a beautiful basket from 22 feet—score now 76-70. Pasco tips in, 76-72. It's now 80-72 with 2 minutes. It looks impossible for us to win—sadness? Sure we're sad. But we're happy too, for we had a winning team this year—a team to be terrifically proud of . . . So we lost! ! But we won in my estimation. With a season plagued with injuries and the loss of Applegate, and Hunt later on, our boys played far beyond anyone's imagination. They showed teamwork—they showed us the best year we've seen for many a year. Our thanks to you Mounties and our regrets that we're losing Pasco Arritola and Tom Neel. This season is a tribute to these two fellows who played such terrific games. We'll never forget you boys on the team . . . and our thanks to Coach Quinn! ! -

I mentioned above that, although we lost this game, we still won. For the past few weeks we've had quite a turmoil about school spirit. Can anyone deny that underclassmen and upperclassmen showed themselves up by their attendance at the games in Portland two weeks ago, and tonight? Maybe the debates in the BEACON had a small part, but no matter what brought it about, (or maybe it was there under the surface all the time just waiting for the chance to come out), we've GOT IT! ! LET'S KEEP IT NOW ! !

I'm not going to comment too much on the letters to the editor in the last issue, except that I'm not alone in feeling that they were way out of bounds. My first gripe is to the "Sophomore Miss" who had the audacity to point her letter by name to a BEACON staff writer, and to the Rally Squad, yet lacked the courteousness, or should I crudely say the "GUTS", to sign her own name. I'm afraid that I hold no respect for someone using such tactics! ! One must take into consideration her evident immaturity, however, seen so clearly in her statement. "My girl friend and I." Gee, honey, how do you stand it away from home without "Mommy"? I would like to say, that from all comments heard about campus, it's a good thing she didn't sign her name, for she'd probably be burned in effigy. Just consider the source, Rally Squad. WE THINK YOU'RE DOING A BANG-UP JOB! ! Could this "college high-schooler" be so conceited to think that she could do better? To be as small and trite as she, to her I say BOOOOO ! ! !

Speaking of boos, may I remind Eileen Turney, who wrote on our bad sportsmanship at games, that this is a part of the "excitement" shown by any crowd, in any type of sport, in any situation. Certainly we boo,—the other team, the refs, and I've seen us boo calls on our own team as well. I've also witnessed our crowd booing the team opposing us while we were clapping in ovation for one of their players taken out of the game. This is audience reaction, Eileen. We mean no harm—this shouldn't be taken literally Oftentimes it is encouraged. This builds up an audience-player relationship as comparable to the yells. If booing labels the audience as bad sports, then why are baseball umpires sent to a special school to learn techniques which will rile the crowd to a point of throwing overripe tomatoes, pop bottles ,and several variations of "unpleasant" words? No sermons, please; this is all in fun and GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP. If actual harm were meant by it then you'd have a gripe coming—but when the crowd is interested enough to boo and clap both for the same team, I say that's a pretty great crowd.

A couple of comments from a junior fellow on campus who requested that they be put in this column. One was about those informed members" on our campus who feel justified in criticizing those on campus doing their job to the utmost and won't even sign their name. (Boy, is our "Girl Friend Girl" getting the old razz). Second concerned the cancelled Junior-Senior Prom. Guess I should say postponed until spring term. He, and many other irate upperclassmen want to know "why?" Rumor has it that one student had the responsibility of organizing this thing and realllilly goofed!

CLUB NEWS

Five new members were invited into Sigma Alpha Chi this past term. The initiates were Susan Beauchamp, Elilzabeth Dallman, Janice Gipson, Sandra McDowell, Connie Massey. The Sigma Alpha Chi is the women's honorary organization and in order to qualify a girl must obtain a 3. G.P.A. for two consecutive terms. During February this organization also sponsored their annual dance in Hoke. The theme of this year's dance was entitled the "Smarti Parti."

Ellen Uesugi will be crowned I. K. Sweetheart during intermission of the I. K. semi-formal Ball to be held the weekend of April 15.

CAMPUS CHEST

This year the Campus Chest Drive is being headed by Jo Allstott and Tony Keller. It will run from March 27 through April 8. All the proceeds will go to the Applegates to help pay their hospital expenses. At least $200 is hoped to be raised, of which $70 has been collected by passing a blanket at two ballgames. Be sure and support this drive, it is the least you can do as members of this student body and friends of Karen and Larry.

You will be told that marks are not important. But they are a meager indication of student's worth.

Record Vote Ratifies New Constitution

A record shattering 87% of all eligible voters turned out to cast their ballots for ratification or rejection of the newly drafted Eastern Oregon College student constitution in a special on campus poll.

Of the record breaking 87% voter response, 72% voted in favor of ratifying the new constitution while 15% cast their ballots for rejection of the measure.

In compliance with requirements specified in the old constitption, a two-thirds vote of the student body was required before ratification of the new constitption could be effected.

The 87% response of voters to the ratification poll was in excess of two-thirds voting requirement, and surpassed all existing records of eligible voter participation in any previously held election. The highest previously recorded percentage of election has been recorded as be- voter participation in a campus ing slightly above 60% response.

The constitutional committee, has expressed its satisfaction for student body approval of the new constitution and their gratification for the record breaking voter turn out.

The committee also expressed the desire that the approval of the new constitution will enable a larger and more active student government program within the framework of the new constitution.

EOC Student Fatally Injured

Curt Hiatt, a freshmant at EOC, was fatally injured the night of March 17 when the car in which he was riding failed to negotiate a turn and rolled over a 23-foot embankment. The accident occurred a half-mile from the Grande Ronde hospital.

Two other occupants of the car, Dale Hamilton, who attends La Grande High School, and Tom Bowman, EOC, were injured. All the boys were from La Grande.

Don't Forget the 'MIDDLE R' Deadline

Band Returns From Tour

The Eastern Oregon College band has retuned after presenting 11 concerts throughout California and Southern Oregon. The concert schedule included high schools, hospitals, veterans' homes, Travis Air Force Base and Hamilton Air Force Base.

On their return trip the band visited Monmouth College, and entertained WyEast High School, Hood River High School, The Dalles High School and Echo.

The tour included 56 students traveling by the school bus and by private car. Dr. Lewis, Associate Professor of Music and director of the band, Mrs. Larry Winters, and Howard Anderson were official chaperones. John Cobb assisted.

The musical numbers presented featured songs from Broadway Musical shows. Ellen Uesugi was featured soloist and served as mistress of ceremonies. Vocal numbers included a duet by Ruth and Beth Combs, a solo by Warren Good and a quintet of Ellen Uesugi, Ruth and Beth Combs, Warren Good and John Cobb.

Student Body Assemblies Set

Variety is shown in the assembly schedule for this term. These assemblies are scheduled with the student's interest in mind; thus, large attendance is desired at each one.

Dr. Mynear, state superintendent of instruction, has been contacted to visit sometime this term but no date has been set.

Those scheduled assemblies are as follows:

April 12—Student Body Elections Assembly — Greg Baker in charge.
April 19—Student Body Elections Continued.
April 26—Tana Bawden—pianist.
May 3—Possibly a movie on Africa.
May 10—Jane Staver from Lewis and Clark — Lecture on her trip to Albert Schweitzer.
May 17—Evensong—Dr. Bishop in charge.
May 24—Evensong—Dr. Bishop inc harge
May 31—Evensong—Dr. Bishop in charge.

The 'Middle R' Writers Face Deadline

The R in Middle "R" stands for 'ritin' (as in readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic) and students and faculty who plan to write for the 1961 edition of the EOC literary magazine are faced with a writing deadline at this time. Middle R editor Bob Phifer, following two staff meetings at which staff organization met completion, has asked that students and faculty try to have their MSS prepared and in the hands of the Middle R staff by April 15. He stated that the final Middle R deadline has been advanced to April 20, indicating that MSS received by the 15th would receive priority "if space is tight." The magazine prints poetry, prose, fiction, and critical articles.

The Middle "R" will publish some time in May. Its board of editors includes Phifer, Al Carr, Gene Noland, Dick Kaiser and business manager Ron Cooper.

Typists To Aid

Dr. Sarah Stein's advanced typing class will aid in the preparation of the magazine's stencils and the office of the Coordinator of Instruction is also aiding the production effort, according to magazine adviser R. H. Bayes.

Contributions to the Middle R should be placed in the Middle R mail box in the faculty mail room, or left with either Mr. Bayes or Dr. Gordon W. Clarke whose offices are Hoke 9 and Hoke 31, respectively.

EOC Receives $59,527 In Gifts, Grants

Eastern Oregon College here was one of such state institutions participating in gifts and grants totaling more than $18 million during the current biennium.

Chancellor John R. Richards of the State System of Higher Education today announced funds totaling $59,527 to EOC.

The gifts given the nine state-supported colleges included more than $14 million from federal sources.

Beacon Editorship Application

Those wishing to make application for the BEACON Editorship for 1961-1962 should write a letter of application before April 18. Applicants must have a grade average of 2.5.

The letter should include: present year in school, major field of study, and the hours tentatively planned to be carried each term next year. If the applicant has worked on any newspaper previously, the areas worked on should be noted. If the applicant has any additional remarks they may be included.

The typed letter must be directed to the Publications Board, to Mr. Harold Dorn, and placed in his box in the Faculty Mail Room in the Administration Building.

Daughter Of Galilee

By ALI ZUBI

In that part of the Holy Land, the attractive plain of Galilee lies between Jordan River and the Mediterranean Sea. Spring of each year is the best season to watch the beauty of nature and the beauty of Eve's daughters and the ancestors of Virgin Mary on that region in the world, after these angels of the earth had dis-appeared for a while and were far away from the sun-shine. At this time, these marvellous youngsters of Galilee arise to glorify and praise the Lord for this bounty.

Some of old traditions are still acted in order to keep this unique inheritance from our fathers of old times. The girl in Galillee participates in most farming work, and besides that she rides the Arabian horses like the American cowboys leading the cattle to green pastures, climbing on the high hills with her flute playing and singing her folks music amusing herself and the cattle. The national guard for this region is the dog —guarding the cattle day and night. The voice of this inspired girl echoes on the mountains ranges as she is calling for peace to the hearts of people.

This attractive girl of Galilee enjoys her work at school and in the fields. She accomplishes both of them in spite of some difficulties, like transportation and the weather. The beauty of nature and the environment are the essential factors to encourage this girl to be a smart, active one. However, the girl rules at her home in which she bears the responsibility of taking care of her folks and represents them in certain ceremonies. Most of the girls prefer to have long hair as long as their arms, and they do not use the lipsticks and shoes of high heels before they are married. At the village of Cana in Galilee, you watch these girls carrying the water on their heads as a symbol and memory for Virgin Mary who did that before in the same place. This season is a fun one for these girls to swim and fish in the Sea of Galilee. The Bible mentions some of the famous women of Galilee, like Virgin Mary; Shunemite of Shunem, the wife of king David; and Mary Magdelina of Magdel near Nazareth. All these women they were examples of charming beauty.

The girl participates in free discussion on political and social affairs. She receives the guests and serves the coffee. The parents in some cases decide at the time of birth, who will be the husband of their daughter in the future. No wonder, then the girl grows up and steady with one boy only and without having any date with other fellows. The girl is offender and constructor of the prestige of her family. The woman is so obedient to her husband and cannot do anything without consulting and having the permission of her husband. The parents teach their children to love their country and respect other people in order other people respect them.

Seniors Notice

All those planning to receive degrees this June must file "intention to graduate" notice with the registrar's office immediately.

CAMPUS BLOOD DRAWING

The Boise Blood Bank of the American Red Cross has scheduled a blood drawing for the EOC campus, Hoke Hall, on April 26, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Students are reminded that those under 21 years of age who wish to donate blood are required to secure signed parental-permission slips. These slips may be secured from the Student Health Office.

Rings And Weddings

Spring has been blossoming out all over the campus, both in flowers and engagement rings. On March 24, Delmar Oberg and Nancy Luton were engaged but no definite wedding date has been set. On March 28 Ann Lieuallen and Larry Christman were engaged, with plans for a fall wedding. Others engaged this month were Norma Dowd and Jerry Scott, Donna Dodge and Ron Sater, and Barbara Pinkerton and Dan Tucker.

Weddings

Russell Snodgrass and Janice Young were married over Spring vacation.

Bob Johnson and Lu Ann Lee will be married April 8 in Baker.

Fashion Goodies You Can't Live Without

By Marilyyn Moss

The natural look in makeup large eyes, pale lips and bangs. The new Vamp hair-do soft and natural.

The KOOKY LOOK which includes the LONG LOOK in tee shirts and jackets that reach to your knees in bright clashing colors. The corduroy tenny boots also in bright colors to wear with your matching or clashing outfits. Pants of all lengths, styles and colors, bathing suits to go swooping down your back. Crazy straw hats and thongs and don't forget the Mu Mu's to give the island look.

Skirts are getting shorter and shorter and in some colleges way above the knees. Never fear the soft fluffy cotton candy cotton dresses are still right up on top. With new ever more yummy styles.

The relaxed look seems to be creeping in again. The toes seem to be getting pointer, I didn't think that was possible. In colors the newest, hot pink, orange fizz and pink-cinnimon.

Have you read the top tips in Madamoiselle as to how to dress to score with a man?

Library Installs Audio System

Mr. DonHunter, director of the Audio Visual Aids at the University of Oregon, introduced a recording system for our college library last spring. The man responsible or the planning and directing of this system's installation was William Wells.

The purpose of this remote control recording system is to provide high quality listening with a minimum of wear on the equipment and recordings. With this new system twice as many students as before can be served at any one time.

The equipment includes four turn tables, two tape recordings, intercom units to each of the listening stations and each of the other rooms. There are eight listening stations equipped with stereophonic ear phones, and two listening rooms equipped with two speakers each.

Procedure for Students

The procedure for students to follow is to ask for the tape or recording desired for listening, at the desk in the work room. The attendant there explains the operation of volume control and intercom system and then assigns the students to a station. She operates the controls and plays the recording enabling the student to hear it through the ear phones at whatever station assigned.

These facilities have been installed mostly for the students studying languages, music appreciation, education, psychology, and literature; other students may enjoy the usage of it also. Anyone using the rooms for studying purposes will be expected to give them up on a minute's notice when someone requests a room for listening to recordings.

Council Quotes

By SUE SWITZER

1. Yea! The new Associated Students Constitution passed and is now in effect.

2. Petitions are now available for candidates for AS executive officers. Elections will be here soon and new officers will be sworn in May 1.

3. Dr. Loso and Dr. Skeen explained to student council about the Honors System starting on this campus next year. This program will be available to honor students selected at the end of their freshman years. It will be a three-year program consisting of an Inter-disciplinary Seminar, some independent study and a project with a scholarly paper. The program will vary with individuals and departments. More information about this program may be obtained from Dr. Skeen, Dr. Easly, Dr. Davidson, Dr. Loso, Dr. E. Anderson, Miss Golz, D. Nelson. Some information may also be obtained from members of student council.

4. Chairmen have been appointed for Parents' Weekend, Evensong, and a Handbook revision committee. A committee has also been selected to work on a Fusser's Guide for next year.

5. Campus Chest has accumulated $125 for the Applegates and expect to reach the $200 mark before the drive is over. Rumor is there will be an Ugliest Professor Contest with a 1 cent a vote for this cause.

6 The Red Cross Blood Mobile will be on campus April 26.

7. Plans are being made for a spring council retreat, where the old and new officers meet to cuss and discuss a program for the following year.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Spring is in the air! Dorion girls find themselves singing gay songs, playing tennis, going swimming, and doing any thing as long as it is not studying. The halls are filling with sports equipment ranging from golf clubs to swim fins and snorkles. The styles have taken on a new look also as the hair is shorter and the clothes are crisp Spring cottons to go along with the gay moods.

Dorion Halls has some girls that will not be enjoying the fun and excitement of Spring term. some have transferred, some have moved downtown, and others have dropped out of school completely. Some of the girls Dorion Hall will miss this term are Loretta Jordan, Mary Lou Jones, Donna Postlewait, Carol Smith, and Pat Rowe.

To fill some of the vancies Dorion gained three new girls. Two of them are freshmen transfers, Darlene Gochnauer from OSC and Yvonne Stuwe from the University of Oregon. Kay Knee is also living in Dorion this term. Kay is a sophomore transfer from the University.

Everyone have a gay Spring term, don't forget to study, but most of all have a good all-around time.

School Nurse Issues Warning

Mrs. Osterholme, the school nurse, issued a warning to all students who go on field trips to be sure and check their bodies carefully after their trips for ticks.

All students who are expecting to teach or practice teach next year should keep an eye open for posters telling when the x-ray unit will be in La Grande. A chest x-ray is mandatory if the students expect to teach.

Our progress as a nation can be no swifter than our progress in education. President Kennedy

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Students and Faculty,

It is so very difficult to express our sincere feelings of gratitude to all you. A simple "thank you" seems hardly enough in expressing our feelings for all of the consideration, well wishes, and flowers we have received.

It has been a tremendous uplift to us to know how many wonderful and thoughtful friends we have. We would like to thank you all for your encouragement and help in our rapid recovery.

Most sincerely,
Karen and Larry Applegate

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor may be placed in the Beacon box in the Faculty Mail Room in the Administration Building or in the Beacon Box immediately inside the front east entrance of Hoke.

Letters should be limited to 200 words if possible. They should be placed in the box the Monday preceding the publication date. These dates are tentatively April 21, May and 19, and June 2.

Faculty Notes

Two EOC professors have received National Science Foundation grants to attend summer institutes this year. They are Howard L. Bailey, assistant professor of mathematics and Robert M. McCroskey, assistant professor of engineering.

Bailey will attend the summer institute at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine. This six-week NSF Institute, especially for college teachers preparing teachers of mathematics, will begin June 26.

McCroskey will attend the institute at the University of Missouri which will begin June 11. Here, he will concentrate on engineering mechanics and thermodynamics.

Rose B. Pointon, assistant professor of languages at Eastern Oregon College, will represent EOC at the Northwest oCnference of Foreign Language Teachers in Spokane, April 6-8.

The theme of the conference, scheduled for Gongaza University, is "Teaching Techniques."

EOC PROF GIVEN LEAVE

Dr. William D. Spear, associate professor of political science at Eastern Oregon College, has been granted a leave during spring term for study and research in urban planning, according to college officials.

Dr. Spear's research will include study at the University of Illinois until June. During June he will be at the University of Wisconsin and Iowa State University observing planning being done on the metropolitan and town levels.

In addition, the EOC professor will conduct research projects in Phoenix, Ariz., during July, on the retirement communities of Youngtown and Sun City. Dr. Spear indicated study will be done on the tax structure of these communities which need not provide school facilities since they have established a minimum age of 50 for residents.

Dr. Spear will return to La Grande in August to compile and conclude the research.

ART DISPLAYS

All students, faculty and visitors are invited to view the art display in the library basement, provided by the Traveling Salon which is sponsored by the Oregon State College M.U. Photography Club, and the display in the art gallery, also in the basement of the library.

EOC Loses First Game To C of I

CALDWELL (Special) — Eastern Oregon College suffered their first defeat of the baseball season to College of Idaho here March 31, 8-7, after leading most of the game.

The Coyotes took the lead in the seventh inning after the game was tied in the fifth inning, 7-7, on two runs off pitcher Dennis Bagnall.

It was the first game of the season for Eastern Oregon and Coach Bob Quinn was quite satisfied with the Mountie effort. The Mountaineers had been limited to practice prior to the game. Eastern Oregon committed two errors while the Coyotes bungled the ball four times.

The big inning for College of Idaho came in the fourth when Bagnall walked the first three men facing him and scored a run when Bagnall hit the fourth batter. Before the inning was over, the Coyotes had scored four runs.

Eastern Oregon scored two runs in the second and third innings to take a 4-1 lead. Don Nelson collected two hits at five times at bat and Dick Murrell got two hits on three trips to the plate to lead the Mountie hitting. Nelson collected three RBI's.

The next game for Eastern Oregon will be a doubleheader at Northwest Nazarene Tuesday.

MSU Forges Ahead

ROCHESTER, Mich. (I.P.) — Starting next fall, Michigan State University Oakland's freshmen will graduate in two and two-thirds years instead of four. They will do so because they will be attending classes the year-round under a plan voted by the faculty recently and approved by the Board of Trustees. The plan provides for three 15-week trimesters, compared with the normal college year of two 16-week semesters.

The three trimesters would run from September 5, the day after Labor Day, to December 20; from January 3 to April 13, and from April 23 to August 5. This will mean seven weeks of vacation annually instead of twenty. The university would be closed during the remainder of August.

A trimester plan, Chancellor D. B. Varner said, will make it possible to accommodate one-third more students with the same size plant and the same size faculty. A trimester plan, rather than four quarters or some other plan was chosen, said Chancellor Varner, to avoid any chance that the extra term would be regarded as a summer program, and therefore less important or less rigorous.

Faculty members would be paid ofr the extra term at a usual summer-session rate of three per cent of their annual salary per week. This would mean a 45 per cent boost in income for the 16-week period. No professor would be compelled to participate, and none would be permitted to teach more than five consecutive terms. The other term would be spent in professional development of some kind.

Requirements Tightened

WAVERLY, Ia. (I.P)—A general tightening of requirements for candidates entering teacher education at Wartburg College has been announced by education department head Dr. Herbert Max. Two major steps, "designated to emphasize quality in the teacher education program," have been taken by the Teacher Education Committee. One provides a triple screening process for candidates, and the second increases the number of major-field hours required to get a job recommendation from the college.

The screening process, set up to provide more effective guidance, comes during the student's fourth and fifth semester. An earlier process takes place when the student arrives here for enrollment. The candidate then has to be in the upper 50 per cent of his high school graduating class to be admitted in good standing.

A later process is also completed when the Teacher Education Committee interviews the prospective teacher, and decides whether the candidate meets four stipulations, including an ability to show proficiency in communication skills; a C average in scholarship; favorable ratings in such qualifications as health, personality, willingness to work, sense punctuality, courtesy and cooperation; and professional interest.

The new screening process takes place midway between the two earlier tests and gives the student a chance to deermine his progress. Now the following eight requirements must be met before the prospect is admitted to a curriculum in teacher education. The requirements are:

1. Complete English 101 and 102 with at least a 2:00 average. Students failing to meet this criterion may satisfy the requiremenst by passing English 209 with at least a grade of C.

2. Complete satisfactory the course in American Foundations of Education.

3. Successfully complete Speech 110 or 201 and in addition obtain a statement from his speech instructor indicating no serious speech deficiencies which may interfere with his eventual teaching effectiveness.

4. State clearly defined professional goals.

5. Indicate a preferred level of preparation in the areas of concentration to be followed.

6. Earn an overall 2:00 average in courses in which he was enrolled and in which he received a grade.

7. Be of good moral character.

8. Have a personal interview with a member or members of the department of education and have a statement of approval for admission to teacher education from his major advisor.

A second change has also been effected by the Teacher Education Committee. After studying the requirements for certification, they decided to put more emphasis on the Student's major field. As a result, prospective teachers must now take more semester hours in their area of concentration before they can get a job recommendation from the college.

For example, the State Department of Education in Iowa requires that a student must have at least 15 hours of English before he may teach in that field. Wartburg now requires a minimum of 22 hours before a recom- increase of required hours is mendation will be given, and this true of all fields.

Eastern Oregon Drops Two Games

NAMPA (Special) — Eastern Oregon College dropped a baseball doubleheader to Northwest Nazarene here Tuesday, 5-1 and 5-4.

The pitching of Jerry Isaacson and Bill Manley stopped the Mountie hitting. The two posted 24 strikeouts in the games. Isaacson collected 10 and Manley 14.

In the first game, EOC took an early 1-0 lead in the third inning but NNC came back in the fourth to collect two runs and in the sixth added three more.

The Mounties trailed in the second game, 3-0, when they came to bat in the fourth inning. Earl Bostwick got on base through an error and was advanced on a single by Phil Miller to right field. Jim Veal hit Bostwick home with a single to left, making the score 3-1. Lee Derrick stepped to the plate and hit a home run. At the end of the inning the score was 4-3, Eastern Oregon.

In the bottom half of the fifth, Northwest Nazarene collected two more runs to assure themselves the victory.

Saturday, the Mountaineers travel to Boise for a doubleheader with Boise Junior College. Eastern Oregon will begin conference play next week when they travel to Klamath Falls for a series with Oregon Tech.

Golf Team Scores Victory

EOC's golf team defeated College of Idaho Friday afternoon on Boise's Plantation Golf Course. The Mounties turned the trick despite the fact that they had to forfeit 3 points to the Coyotes. The Mounties went into the match with three men instead of the required four which gave the Caldwell linksters the 3 point edge.

Eastern Oregon's Dick Cook took medalist honors, touring the distance in a 2 under par 70. Tom Pierson carded a 75 to pace the Coyotes as did Eastern's Paul Olson.

The Mounties will attempt to repeat their performance gainst the Coyotes in their next match Friday, April 14, at Boise.

This year, OCC action will be played at the La Grande Country Club May 19 and 20, with the Mountaineers as host.

Golf Coach Archie Dunsmoor encourages anyone interested to try out for the team so the four man quota can be filled.

Individual scores and team results:

Dick Cook, (EOC, (70)—def. Loren Foye, C of I, (78) 3-0.

Paul Olson, EOC, (75)—tied Tom Pierson, C of I ((75) 1½-1½.

Pat Elgin, EOC ((79) — def. Glen Hoss, C of I, ((80) 2½-½.

EO Library Association Holds Annual Meet

Helen Francis, Pendleton High School librarian, was elected president of the Eastern Oregon Library Association, at the annual meeting of the organization at Eastern Oregon College, March 25.

Kittie May Crockett, EOC assistant librarian, is outgoing president.

The day-long session of the association featured a discussion of the Library Demonstration Center in La Grande, by Mary Rutherford, Field Service Librarian, Oregon State Library. Helen Cummings, assistant at the Center presented information on National Library Week, scheduler April 16-22, and its slogan, "For a Richer, Fuller Life."

Donald Nelson, EOC librarian and chairman of the library development committee for Oregon, spoke about library development in Eastern Oregon and the need for "friends of the library" organizations and activities. In addition, a report on progress made in Joseph was presented by Mrs. Olive Coppin, library board member.

Also presented were special addresses by Eloise Ebert, State Librarian, and Irene Sigler, supervisor of libraries, Portland public schools.

Special book displays were provided for the meetings, by the La Grande Public Library, and Ackerman Library.

Edvalson, Baker, Bird Win Fellowships

Senior Terry Edvalson and juniors Greg Baker and Don Bird won Oregon Citizenship Clearinghouse fellowships to attend a week's session of the Oregon Legislature, March 20-24.

The fellowships enabled them to continue the close-up study of the legislative processes, following their participation in February's legislative seminar.

In addition to attending the regular session they sat in on committee meetings and also met with Sen. Dwight Hopkins and Rep. Don McKinnis.

Campus Chest Earnings Go To Applegates

Activities have been under way for the past two months for contributions to the Applegate family. This Saturday night will be the wind up dance where several interesting happenings will take place. Don Shore will act as auctioneer for the auction and such things as car washes and slaves will be auctioned. The crowning of the ugliest professor will highlight the dance and voting is in the form of a penny a vote.

Since the Campus Chest started their drive for the Applegates they have had blanket tosses at the basketball games which netted approximaately $70 and a dance Monday night which brought in about $55. Students paid a penny for every inch of their waist measurements for an admission fee.

A box will remain at the Administration building for anyone wishing to contribute.

So, students, what do you say? Let's make that dance go over in a big way!

S.U. Sponsors Films

The Student Union is sponsoring four excellent films to be shown at the College Theatre of Eastern Oregon College.

The schedule of these films are as follows:

April 12 — "The Egyptian" starring Jean Simmons, Edmund Purdom, Victor Mature, Gene Tierney, Michael Wilding, Peter Ustinov, and Bella Darvi.

April 26 — "Silk Stockings" starring Fred Astaire, Cyd Charisse, and Peter Lorre.

May 10 "The Barbarian and the Geisha" starring John Wayne, Sam Jaffe, and Eiko Ando.

May 24 — "I'll See You in My Dreams" starring Doris Day, Danny Thomas, Patrice Wymore and Frank Lovejoy.

Admission is 25c a person.

Easter Assembly Held March 30

The La Grande High School Girls Chorus under the direction of Betty Faulkner began the Easter assembly, March 31. Songs featured "In the Beginning Was The Word" (Mainville) "Grant Me Deep Peace, Dear Lord" (Stickles) and "Sing Praises" (Glarum).

Following the Easter Prayer, led by Dr. Bishop, Dr. Alvin Kaiser presented the ancient story of Easter, which was then dramatized in a Lenten color film entitled "Defeat and Triumph." Barbara Evans at the organ, played the prelude and postlude of the Eastern assembly sponsored by the College Interfaith Fellowship.

Me or You??

The fellow:

"Between the senility of second lethargy of the teens, we find a loathsome creature called the college boy. College boys come in assorted sizes, weights and states of sobriety.

"College boys are found everywhere—breaking train windows, tearing down goal posts, inciting riots, or jumping bail.

"Mothers love them, big girls love them, and Satan protects them. A college boy is laziiness with peach-fuzz on its face, idiocy with lanolin on its hair, and the 'Hope of the Future' with an overdrawn bank book in its pocket.

"A college boy is a composite—he has the energy of Rip Van Winkle, the praciticality of a Don Quixote, the appetite of a gargantua, and the aspirations of a Casanova and when he wants something, it is usually money.

"He likes good liquor, bad liquor, cancelled classes, high school girls, double features, Playtex ads and Al. He is not much for hopeful mothers, irate fathers, sharp-eyed ushers, campus policemen, alarm clocks, and letters from the dean.

"Nobody else can cram into one pocket, a slide rule, a Playboy calendar, Lan's 'Critique of Pure Reason,' a collapsible pool cue, and the latest issue of Mad.

"A college boy is a magical creature—you can lock him out of your heart, but you can't lock him out of your liquor chest. You can get him off your mind, but you can't get him off your expense account.

"Might as well give up, he is your jailer, your boss and your albatross—a bleary-eyed, no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry. But when you come home at nights with only the shattered piece of hope and dreams, he can make them seem insignificant with four magic words: 'I flunked out, Dad'."

The girl:

The college woman is a unique creature.

"No" is her favorite word although she frequently means "Yes". Not a few college men have found themselves in difficult circumstances by translating her "No" to "Yes" at a time when her "No" actually meant "No!"

She wears Bermuda shorts that put 25 pounds right on her . . . appearance—and then cannot understand why her diet doesn't make her look slimmer.

She is avowed patron of the Arts—because she is supposed to be an avowed patron of the Arts.

She often dresses in an unladylike manner—because she is not supposed to dress in an unladylike manner.

In the winter she wears a warm sweater because the weather is cold.

In the summer she wears a warm sewater because everyone else does.

Love for her is as perennial as the winter—it buds in the Fall, blossoms in December, and wilts in June, only to begin this cycle again in September.

She lives for—a date with "Saturday's Hero," her name in the paper, a man with a convertible, a new dress, Toreador pants and pizza pie.

At a party — she goes with George, flirts all night with Al, and leaves with John.

In the classroom—she dreams of the professor, forgets the book, passes the course with a "C" (this is a compassionate professor), and fumes for days because she did not get an "A" (he is not that compassionate).

She spends $5,000 of "Daddy's" money on her education—graduates—marries—and then spends 25 cents for a book on babycare, her career.

So, Dad, don't pay her next tuition fee. Instead, say, "Get thee to a nunnery."

EOC Spring Enrollment Climbs Again

Enrollment figures for spring term show a seven per cent increase over last year's totals, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

During the first week of the term, 710 students had registered, compared with 663 for the same period last year. Final figures will not be available until the last day for registration, April 8.

Men continue to outnumber the women on the EOC campus, with the current ratio 414 to 296.

In addition, the report notes a percentage increase in all curricula, led by secondary education with 14.4 per cent. Other percentages include general studies or liberal arts, 7.3; pre-professional, 4.1, and elementary education, 3.4.

Landscaping On Campus Begins

A series of campus construction and renovation projects are going on at the present time.

The removal of the resident house, 1309 J Avenue, started the project. Landscaping, curbing and sidewalk replacement adjacent to Hoke Hall are under construction. Grass will be planted on the west side, a sprinkling system installed and a parking lot will be established on the south side of Hoke.

Simultaneously, a new sprinkling system will be installed on the land adjacent to the Coliseum.

OCE Sponsors European Tour

The Oregon College of Education's tenth summer tour to Europe is available to students of Eastern Oregon who wish to make the trip for five hours of undergraduate or graduate credit in Social Science, or it may be taken without credit.

The itinerary includes 13 countries: England, Wales, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France, Liechtenstein, Italy, Austria, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Germany. The cost from Portland to Portland, all -expense, June 25 to Sept. 1 is $1299 or Montreal to Montreal, $1144.

Tickets will be furnished to 10 daramtic and musical performances throughout Europe including a Shakespearean play in Stratford and the Folie Bergere in Paris. There will be several excursions into the "by-ways" to visit points of interest not seen by the usual traveler, as, for instance, the 20,000 year old Cro-Magnon Cave Paintings near Perigueux, France, and the town of Middleburg, Holland, scene of the disastrous 1953 flood. The group will spend one whole week in London in a hotel located on Piccadilly Circus.

Whom Cheated?

(from the New York Times)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 28 (AP) — An unidentified number of Rutgers University students have been penalized for stealing midterm examinations, Cornelius R. Boocock, dean of men, announced.

The penalties ranged from indefinite suspension for one to probation and loss of credits for others.

Mr. Boocock said an honor student reported the theft of the questions on January 17. An investigation followed, he said, and the students were brought before the University Committee on Academic Honesty, a faculty-student committee. The board and Mr. Boocock imposed the penalties.

The questions, which were to be used in art and music examinations, were stolen from the university's duplicating shop, where the examinations are mimeographed.

The dean said the questions had been offered for sale to students in the two courses.

Comments On The New Constitution

Since the ratification of the new constitution, some questions have come up at to the operation and function of the new Student Government it provides. As you know, it is a complete separation from the previous constitution and is, we hope, very similar to the national constitution and to constitutions of other colleges.

The constitution provides for a senate type government with twenty senators, five being elected from each class. Within the Senate body, a Finance Committee, headed by the Business Manager will be responsible for the financial affairs of the Associated Students. Another Senate committee, the Social Assembly, headed by the Second Vice President, will be responsible for the social functions of the campus.

We have tried to design this constitution so that minor points of policy can be established by the senate and can be changed more easily when they are no longer effective. The senate will have to establish some policy concerning elections, as can readily be seen from the difficulties encountered this year, and many other types of policy must be established so that the student government can function smoothly and efficiently. The Senate's main function will be legislation and finance and should make an interesting challenge to potential senators.

The cabinet will function as administrative body and shall be responsible for much of the coordination of student government affairs. The President will have the power to propose legislation and will also have veto power over over the Senate, this can, however, be overridden by a ⅔ majolity vote of the Senate. The cabinet will be elected spring term, and will serve a term of one year, with the senate being elected in the fall and also serving one year. Provisions have been made for a Student Court should the time arise that one would be needed. It would function in much the same way as the U.S. Supreme Court on such matters as would involve students, yet would be outside the realm of college administration policy. Any affair that concerns primarily students would be subject to the Student Court.

It is known that this consttiution is not perfect as no new constitution ever is, but with work and energy the difficulties can be worked-out to make it a well working document.

It is the hope of the constitution committee that this will be a constitution that the student government wil lbe able to work with rather than around and that it will better serve the Associated Students of Eastern Oregon College.

DON SHORE
Write-In Winner

President Chosen In Run-Off

Write-in candidate Don Shore, will serve EOC next year as the new Associated Body President.

Shore, a junior from Enterprize Oregon, majoring in Elementary Education, was elected here Wednesday in a run-off election. Other candidates for president were Greg Baker, of La Grande, and Jim Grooms, of Huntington. Under the new constitution, now in effect, all student body officers in order to gain office must receive a majority vote. Because all three presidential candidates received an approximate equal per cent of votes in the first election, April 21, a referendum was issued stating—in a run-off election the candidate receiving the most votes would take office. In the run-off election, April 26, Shore received 228, Baker 138, and Grooms 105 votes.

With approximately 66% of the student body voting, the voting tabulation was pasted as follows:

Larry Caleman 265; Jim Cornett 249; Sharon Myers 257; Carol Woodell 338; Peggy Elder 251; Al Carr 216; Dick Oleen 224; Jo Alstott 214; Darrell White 136; Judy Head 220.

Outing Club To Pan Gold

On April Fools Day E.O.C. Outing Club greeted the new month from the snow covered peaks at Anthony lake. A group from the club hiked the 13 miles to the lake on skiis and snowshoes. Dinner was cooked and wet feet were dryed in the open pavillion beside the frozen lake. Due to the fact that the fishing season did not open until the twenty-second of April and that the ice was 60 inches thick the fish were left in peace.

The next planned outing will be to the Virtue Flat gold mine area on May 6 where the club will spend the day panning gold and inspecting the old mine shafts in the area.

Sound System Installed At Hoke

Eastern Oregon College has purchased a new sound system to use in the Student Union. This system was installed April 15.

The sound system has an automatic record changer. It plays the first side completely and then it turns over and plays the second side. This is done continually. It has the capability of sending music throughout the coffee shop and the lounge. Pleasant music may be played in the coffee shop while at the same time, music for dancing may be played in the lounge.

Provisions are going to be made for a tape recorder. . . . One will be able to play and record. All of the practical purposes of the system are completed now and the other features that will soon be added are minor.

The President's office is going to put out a policy for using this machine. No one will be able to use this machine unless they have permission from the president's office or from the library office.

Stop in at Hoke Hall and sit down, relax, and listen to the pleasant music that surrounds you.

Manuscripts Pour In To Middle R

The staff of the Middle R was more than pleased by the number of prose and poetry manuscripts contributed by the students and faculty for the May publication of its magazine. While many of the manuscripts being considered were written by the winter term creative writing class, there has been a large enough contribution of new material to reflect the storng interest in the success in the publican of a campus little magazine.

Each manuscript turned in to the Middle R receives careful consideration before being accepted or rejected. Before a final selection is made, each piece of work is reviewed three times by the Middle R editors, Phifer, Carr, Noland, and Kaiser as well as being reviewed by two members of the general staff. Each member of the reviewing board clasifies the manuscript as Must, Recommend, Deserves Consideration, Unlikely, or No.

On Thursday, April 20th, the editorial board made a semi-final selection of material and in the following week the manufscripts to be included in the May publication will be chosen. At this time Art editor Kaiser will choose the manuscripts that wil llend themselves to being illustrated. Distribution date of the Middle R has not yet been decided but there will be notices posted when the advance copies are expected to be put on sale.

DON'T FORGET!

The final Civil Music program of the season: "An Evening with Basil Rathbone, Thursday, May 4, 8 .m., High school auditorium.

Honors Program Installed For 1961-62

The Honors Program is to be offered here at Eastern Oregon College fall term, 1961 for the 1960-61 freshmen who are being selected at this time by the Honors Committee on the basis of the review of faculty recommendations made last winter term and data of high school performance, entrance test scores and college record.

A formal announcement will be sent to the honor students selected and an orientation session will be held shortly thereafter. The student may accept or refuse entrance into the Honors Program which offers a weekly three-credit-hour seminar during the sophomore year.

This program is offered three terms and will operate on a seminar basis under the supervision of a three-man team representing the three broad areas of study.

The subject of each term's seminar will be a theme requiring the study of primary source material, and will provide the student an opportunity to relate ideas by class discussion with other honor members who obtained the required grade point aevarge and other requirements.

A cumulative grade point average of 3.00 outside of the Honors Program, and a B grade in honors work will be required by the individual to remain in the Honors Program. If the student does not maintain there requirements, he will be dropped by the Honors Committee action.

If the student wishes to drop the Program, he may withdraw upon his request.

Susan Christman Crowned Junior Miss

Miss Susan Chrisman was crowned Junior Miss by last year's Miss, Sandi Thompson, at the Junior Prom, held April 29 at Hoke. The other members of the court were: Pat Blackburn, Karen Sutton, Lorretta Herison, and Barbara Paris.

Susan was presented with a bouquet of red roses and a crown which is handed down to each Junior Miss. She also received a plaque from Sandi to keep for the year and to hand on to the next Junior Miss to have her name inscribed upon it. All members of the court received a bracelet.

The theme of this year's Prom was "Pink Champaign," which was carried out with a night club's effect. The color scheme was primarily pink and silver. Chairman of the Prom was Al Carr.

Ball Rolling For Parents Weekend

Many activities are scheduled for EOC's Parent's Weekend, May 13 and 14. Beginning with registration Friday there will be two coffee hours, 3 luncheons and the May Breakfast. One luncheon will be for the band members and their parents, one for Sigma Alpha Chi members, Theta Delta Phi members and their parents, and one for dorm students and parents.

There will also be a double header baseball game, a barbeque with entertainment, the play "Charlie's Aunt" and a dance in Hoke. Displays will include a rocks and minerals exhibit, a biology exhibit, a physical science science exhibit and posisbly an are exhibit.

Concerts will be given by the band and choir. Churches throughout La Grande will hold services honoring the parents.

The dorms will hold open house Saturday afternoon. Beforehand there wil lbe a room check by members of the faculty.

Committees organized by Dee Duus and Bill Donahue, co-chairmen of parents weekend, are working on the different phases of the wekend. These committees and their heads are as follows:

Registration and Invitations—Judy Patterson.

Barbecue—IK's and Sabers.

Entertainment—Ellen Uesugi and Don Shore.

Coffee hour—Dorion Hal land Alpha Rho Tau.

May Breakfast—Nelda Huber.

Programs and name tags—Eilene Marshall.

Publicity—Paul Rice.

Information Booth—Hill Walker.

Dorion sign of site for parents—Phyllis Burnett and Vicki Cooper.

There will be no cost to the parents for the many events except for play tickets and the May Breakfast. There will also be some adidtional cost if more than two members of a family attend the barbecue.

Gov. Hatfield To Speak Here At Graduation

Dr. Frank B. Bennett, EOC President has announced that Governor Mark O. Hatfield will deliver the Eastern Oregon College commencement address June 9.

The June 4 baccalaureate speaker will be Dr. Robert Bonthius, Portland, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

In addition, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, University of Oregon president elect, is scheruled for the EOC summer commencement address, August 11.

Choir Takes Annual Tour

The 40 voice choir of Eastern Oregon College, just returned from a tour through eastern and central Oregon. The choir and Blue and Gold singers, under the direction of John Cobb, left early Monday the 17th, and were gone three days performing three concerts each day.

The first stop on Monday was at Baker, after the concert there, the choir traveled to Prairie City and John Day, where they an eventful day also on which the choir presented programs at Dayville and Fossil and a night concert at Condon. The night was spent in Condon at individual homes. Wednesday the choir left for Arlington, after the program there they presented one at Boardman and then left for Pendleton where a night concert was held at the State Mental Hospital.

Movie To Be Shown On Africa

"Come Back Africa," a film acclaimed by both the Saturday Review and the New York Times, will be shown at EOC 10:30 a.m., May 3. This movie had to be filmed undercover and smuggled out of Africa. It received the best picture of the year award by Time Magazine.

'Middle R' Review

"The Middle R", a college literary magazine, will be published on the Eastern Oregon College campus towards the end of this term. This magazine will contain work done by college students in creative writing of various types—poetry, short stories, essays, etc. The interest in creative writing as an activity on our campus in past years has not been what might be expected or desired. This is illustrated by the fact that no student publication of creative writing has appeared at EOC since 1956.

Many colleges and universities across the country publish worthy literary magazines on a frequent and regular basis. A number of the so-called "little" magazines are sponsored by colleges. With adequate interest and support these publications can become the center of campus activities in the creative arts. The better magazines contain not only writing but student accomplishments in other creative areas such as drawing and photography.

The college campus provides an excellent environment for the development of creative talent. Here the subject matter of the poet and short story writer is constantly at hand in the literature, social and political science courses. An outlet for student writing gives every individual an immediate opportunity to apply many of his new ideas and techniques. From such an environment may grow the ideals and accomplishments of a newa generation.

If adequate facilities are provided for the independent exchange of ideas through the medium of creative writing the result will be an enhancement of the school's traditions and the development of a more distinctive college atmosphere. It is the goal of the "Middle R" staff to provide such a vehicle for the encouragement of those interested in publishing their writing and for the enjoyment of those members of the faculty and student body who are interested in creative achievement on our campus.

Future Librarians Invited To Apply For Scholarships

Graduating seniors and graduate students from this campus who may be interested in becoming librarians are invited to apply for the $300.00 Oregon Library Association's 1961-62 Marcia M. Hill Memorial Scholarship and one of the two Bryon Company's $100.00 Scholarships.

Applicants must have been accepted as candidates for the Master's Degree at a library school accredited by the American Library Association, and must be an Oregon resident.

May 15th is the deadline for completed applications, which should be filed with the Scholarship Committee Chairman, Miss Helen Farrens, 3956 S. W. Condor Avenue, Portland 1, Oregon.

Forms are available in the campus scholarship office, or may be secured from the committee chairman.

SOEA Reports

Experiences of a teacher in his freshman year was presented by Dave Walch at the SOEA meeting April 12, who has been teaching at the La Grande Junior High School this year. He stated that each teacher will have his own individual experiences. Problems such as discipline, individual differences and homework as he felt they should be handled, were discussed. After the talk Mr. Walch answered many of the members questions.

Following the spaker, Mrs. Kerr told about the state SOEA convention where she represnted the Eastern Oregon College Chapter of SOEA. Then a revote was taken in which John Clark was elected vice president for next year. The pictures for the annual were also taken at the meeting.

Mr. Harold Dorn will offer a $5.00 reward to the person who finds and returns his raincoat which was recently lost at Hunt Hall.

Peacé Corps Information

What is the Peace Corps looking for in a Volunteer?

A specific "needed skill" is the first requirement. The Peace Corps was established to respond to requests from host nations.

The range of needed skills is great. Most nations requesting Volunteers will be industrially less developed than the U.S.A. They will want engineers, technicians, teachers, craftsmen and administrators.

Other countries will seek to improve their agricultural system, creating a need for farmers who understand the land and the use of modern implements and for agricultural specialists with college degrees.

Government and political science majors may be in demand by a newly formed nation anxious to establish an effective administration.

Teachers are in short supply in South Asia, Latin America and Africa. Some wil lbe called upon to teach English, others to work in secondary schools. Some nations will want college-level teachers in a wide variety of subjects.

Those with laboratory or sanitation skills will be needed in tropical areas where the threat of disease and pestilence is great.

Construction talents, electrical abilities, civil engineering skills and the like are also in extremely short supply.

Second, the Volunteer must understand that he is not trying to remake the world in our image. He must sincerely appreciate the values, mores and traditions of the society in which he works.

Third, the volunteer must be "adaptable" enough to undertake a difficult and sometimes frustrating assignment. A Volunteer's individual contribution will be small and may go unappreciated or unrecognized. Inner stamina and security are essentials if frustration and disillusionment are to be avoided. The Volunteer must not go abroad seeking to solve personal problems he cannot solve at home.

Fourth, the Volunteer should appreciate that the Peace Corps is a "two way street," that the Volunteer will learn as much as he teaches. His own horizons will be expanded and broadened while he works in harmony with his host nation counterpart.

Fifth, the Volunter must understand the strengths of democracy and how our system functions. He must be able to answer both the questions put to him by the sincere doubter and the professional agitator.

Sixth, the Volunteer must have a grasp of the host nation's language. Intensive language training will be part of the Peace Corps training program.

Seventh, the Volunteer must be in excellent physical condition. Living for two or three years in an underdeveloped rural tropical condition wil lrequire Volunteers to be in tiptop physical shape.

Eighth, the Volunteer must understand what he is doing and why he is serving in his country in the cause of world peace.

"Men and women over 18 meeting these standards will be welcomed into the Peace Corps," Sergeant Shriver, the program's Director said.

"At a critical point in history," Shriver said, "The President has placed an important and difficult task in the hands of our nation's young people. The success of the Peace Corps depends on how well they meet the standards set for them."

Faculty Notes

According to director John M. Miller, Dr. Harry V. McPhail, principal of Lee Elementary School Tulsa, Okla., has been named visiting professor for Eastern Oregon College summer session which is scheduled from June 19-August 11.

Dr. McPhail has his B.A. and M.A. from Kansas State Teachers and his Ed. D from Oklahoma State University.

Eugene M. McHugh, instructor at Idaho's Lewis and Clark Normal will conduct a special workshop in social studies which will be offered at Eastern Oregon College this summer, acoording to John M. Miller, summer session director.

The two-week workshop, emphasizing currently accepted methods of teaching in the social studies area is scheduled July 31-August 11.

The visiting instructor, formerly elementary supervisor and instructor at Dickenson State Teachers College, North Dakota, has his bachelors and masters degrees from Mankato (Minnesota) State College.

Four Eastern Oregon College faculty members have been named to the Elks Scholarship Committee, acoording to V. J. Courtney, exalted ruler of La Grande Lodge No. 433.

The four include Chairman Ronald H. Bayes, Archie C. Dunsmoor, E. Lyle McMullem, and Frank G. Nelson.

Kendall W. Baxter, instructor in physical science, and Dr. Ralph E. Bagdley, professor of science, at Eastern Oregon College, have been invited to participate in a National Science Foundation seminar at the University of Washington, May 4-5.

The three-day session in Seattle, involving teachers of college physics from northwest states, will emphasize programs for first-year college students.

The seminar will be the third science session sponsored by the NSF at the University of Washington in recent weeks. Other EOC faculty who have participated include Dr. Carlos Easley and Howard Bailey, mathematics; and Gerald Young and Glenn Slabaugh, chemistry.

Glenn W. Slabaugh, assistant professor in chemistry and Gerald E. Young, instructor in physical science at Eastern Oregon College, have been named recipients of National Science Foundation grants for summer study at Oregon State University.

Young will attend the six-weeks session, beginning June 25, for colege teachers of chemistry.

Slabaugh, one of 13 selected from seven western states, will spend eight weks in the NSF research participation project.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Dorion Hall has been in chaos the past few weeks as the halls lounges and cafeteria were brightly decorated with campaign signs of the many candidates. Nearly every nook and cranny had a sign pleading, asking and simply naming the candidates of the studeents' choices. However, the campaign is now over and the signs have been thrown to the fire; once more the light has an opportunity to come through the doors and windows.

Sunday evening, April 23, the boys from Hunt came to Dorion to have dinner and after dinner the tables in the caftertia were pushed aside for dancing. The affair was impromptu which often is much more fun than those events which take place after days of planning have been done. At any rate the boys and girls seemed to be having a great time for it gave many of them a chance to spend an enjoyable Sunday evening.

The excitement of the Junior Prom, campaigns, and events such as those Sunday evening have rather scattered the usual silence that overcomes the dorm during mid-term week. Perhaps the cafeteria will find it has been infested with girls on study table when the blue slips have been distributed. Oh well, it is Spring, isn't it?

As a closing note a freshman girl has requested a reminder to the boys that Dorion is "Where the Girls Are!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Writing letters to editors is not my favorite pastime but an incident has occurred which has mightily increased my pride in our college.

We "won" our playoff game with Linfield College . . . yes, contrary to how the newspapers wrote it . . . we "won" that contest. No . . . I'm not speaking of the numbers on the scoreboard at the final buzzer' . . . I'm speaking of the gentlemen (and ladies) in the coliseum representing Eastern Oregon College. I must honestly say, in my tenure at EOC I have never before been as proud of our basketball team as I was that night in the "Glass Palace."

In the face of tremendous disadvantages our boys were perfect gentlemen. When the opposing player remained fully four or five seconds with his foot obviously out-of-bounds . . . the referee staring ignoringly at him, the unpartisan crowd pointing it out to the official . . . our boys were gentlemen. When two Linfield lpayers fought with each other fully three seconds for possession of the ball, and the official whistled for a "jump" ball . . . our boys were gentlemen.

When the Linfield student body used organized yells to upset our players as they attempted to make bonus shots . . . our boys were gentlemen. (Incidentally, it's the first time in hundreds of basketball games I have attended that I have ever heard an institution of any kind . . . high school or college . . . use organized yells directed at an individual player of an opposing team) . . . and even at EOC (where an editorial told us we were notoriously bad) players leaving the floor are given applause for their efforts. Not so when playing Linfield. You can expect to be on the receiving end of an embarrassing organized yell.

At the game it was extremely obvious who were the gentlemen. When a Linfield played "fouled out" each EOC player walked over to shake his hand for a job well done. When an EOC player "fouled out" he was "yelled at." Our coach . . . though surely disturbed by the inept officiating . . . remained in his appointed seat while the mentor of our opopnents was on his feet yelling at player or official most of the time.

Yes, our basketball team, in the face of great odds, was by far the "winner" of the basketball game. If they must display poor manners and poor sportsmanship such as our opponents displayed in order to win ball games . . . then I much prefer we "win" through decency.

My heartiest congratulations to our basketbal lheroes . . . every one of them . . . for a wonderfully successful season (I don't know how you did it) but the finest part is how you did it . . . as gentlemen! ! !

Thanks.

Dr. Rhodes Lewis

Golf Team Rank Wins Losses

EOC's golf team ran their season record to five wins and two losses during the past weeks.

The local linksters bounced the Whitman Missionaries twice and Columbia Basin once, while losing a close decision to College of Idaho.

A three way match at Boise saw the Mounties dro pa squeaker to the Coyotes 6½ to 5. while registering their first win over Whitman 8 to 4.

In their next outing, Eastern forfeited 3 points to Columbia Basin. Despite this handicap, EOC toured the Pasco layout coming out on top with the final verdict being 7½ to 4½.

In their latest match, the Mounties continued their domination over Whitman by the identical score of 8 to 4, this time at Walla Walla.

Tuesday, April 25, EOC played its first match at the La Grande Country Club. The Mountaineers hosted Whitman. The Mounties one match and won one.

EOC Edges Wolves In 10 Innings, 8-7

A single by pinch-hitter John DeBoie in the 10th inning scored Bob Myers from third base to give Eastern Oregon an 8-7 win over the Oregon College Wolves here yesterday in a game slated for nine innings.

The Mountaineers jumped off to an early lead, scoring two runs in the first inning and adding a pair in the second.

Oregon College, getting single runs in both the first and second innings, tied the game in the fifth with a pair of runs and took the lead in the sixth with two more. The Wolves added a run in the seventh but it wasn't enough as the Mounties came back in the bottom half of the seventh.

Gary Betts led off the rally with a single to left field and Don Nelson got aboard via an error on the second baseman. On a wild throw to third base, Betts scored and Nelson advanced to third. Jerry Haguewood singled and scored Nelson and was brought home on a single by Lee Derrick.

Winning pitcher was Dennis Bagnall who struck out seven and walked three. At the plate, Bagnall banged out two hits for five times at bat, including a double.

The two teams meet today in a doubleheader.

COACH TABBED FOR COLLEGE

Kenneth M. Cox, native of Pennsylvania and now enrolled at the University of Washington where he is completing his masters degree in physical education, was mentioned today for an athletic post at EOC.

United Press International today said that Cox would take over as head wrestling coach at Eastern Oregon College this fall as well as assisting in other sports. He would also teach physical education.

Before his appointment can become official, however, approval must come from the State Board of Higher Education. Spokesmen at the college verified the announcement but had no other details for release at this time.

Rifle Team Scores In Competition

BURNS, Ore. — On Sunday, April 16 the E.O.C. rifle team traveled to Burns to shoot in the Harney County's First Annual Smallbore Rifle Match. The team consisting of Gaylen Searles, George White, Don Curtis, and Dick Domey won four first place medals. Gaylen Searles shot a 100x10 to win the prone match in the Marksman division. Don Curtis fired 172 to take the standing match in the Expert division. Dick Domey scored a 195 out of 200 to win the medal in the Expert kneeling match and had an aggregate score of 757 to win the Aggregate Match in the Expert Division. The rifle team was invited to shoot at the Bend Annual Indoor & Outdoor Match held on April 23 and to the Blue Mountain League Annual Match to be held in La Grande on May 7.

Tennis Team Takes Meet

Saturday, April 21, Miss Neely and the EOC tennis team arrived at the Northwest Nazarene Bible College, for the first meet of the season. The team consisted of Nelda Huber, Mary Gray, Char Williams, Shirley Walsh, and Darling Johnson. Our girls took the meet by winning 3 out of 5 games as shown by the following scores: 6-3, 6-3 was the score of a doubles match won by Nelda Huber and Mary Gary; 6-3, 6-4 was the result of another doubles match won by Char Williams and Shirley Walsh. Char Williams also played in a singles match with the winning score being 7-5, 1-6, 6-4; Shirley Walsh met defeat in her singles game 6-1, 6-2 along with Darling Johnson who also lost her game. Although the exact date isn't known we are to expect a return meet from N.N.B.C. some time this Spring. The schedule reads that the next meet was held at Coluumbia Pasin Jr. College in Pasco, Saturday, April 29.

Mounts Slate Eight-Game Grid Schedule

Applegates Honored

Saturday, April 1, the Rally Squad gave a dance in honor of the Applegates. The dance proceeds were presented to them.

At the intermission of the dance, Coach Dunsmore gave a talk, complimenting the basketball boys on the season, despite the trouble the team has has had. Then the basketball coach, Mr. Quinn gave a trophy to Pasco Arritola who then presented it to "the most Valuable player" — Larry Applegate. The rest of the players received blue garters signifying the successful basketball season.

Special Social Studies Session Scheduled

A special workshop in social studies, conducted by Eugene M. McHugh, instructor in education at Idaho's Lewis and Clark Normal, will be offered at Eastern Oregon College this summer, according to John M. Miller, summer session director.

The two-week workshop, emphasizing the currently accepted methods of teaching in the social studies area, is scheduled July 31-August 11. Summer session will begin June 19.

'61 Spring Enrollment Sets School Record

Enrollment this term showed a 13.2 per cent increase as tabulated following the last day for registration, April 8, reported Dr. Lyle Johnson, registrar. The final tabulation was 787 as compared to 695 for spring term last year. This figure is te hlargest spring term enrollment since the founding of the college in 1929.

The enrollment by classes is—freshmen 292; sophomores 178; juniors 143; seniors 112; and graduate and special 62.

Indiana Prep Teams Rated High

It can be said without much fear of contradiction that the Hoosier state produces more top filght material than any other state in the nation. For years, Indiana has spawned high school basketball talent that makes coaches swoon and collegiate fans marvel at the clever magic of the Houdinies from the Hoosier's hardwoods.

Pro players like Oscar Robertson, Clyde Lovelette, Bobby Leonard, and Dick Barnett developed their talents in the competitive mills of Indiana prep basketball.

College players such as Terry Dischinger of Purdue, Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State, Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech, and Ted Luckenbill of Houston, also matured their ability in the Hoosier state. Today more than 200 Hoosiers are playing basketball for approximately 100 out-of-state colleges!

Why do these Hoosiers excel?

"There are at least three reasons," points out Robert Hinshaw, assistant commissioner of the Indiana High School Athletic Association. "Tradition, more good coaching and excellent high school facilities."

Indiana's state tourney ballooned to proportions now called "Hoosier Hysteria." It draws more than 1,500,000 paid attendance and grossed slightly more than $1,000,000 last year. Yes, the figures are correct!

Hoosierland contains 21 high school gymnasiums which seat from 4500 to 9000 fans! Thirty-one of sixty-four sectional play-off sites have more than 4000 seats each.

Amazing, isn't it? ?

EOC Library Group Attends State Meeting

Three members of the Eastern Oregon College library staff attended the Oregon Library Association meeting in Medford this past weekend.

They included Donald K. Nelson, Kittie May Crockett, and Helen Bliss. Nelson, who is chairman of the OLA development and legislation committee, participated in a special panel presentation at the conference.

News Note

Two great historical movements —slavery and imperialism—shattered Africa's isolation, and linked her peoples to those of the Western world. Thus began the unequal relation which led to the present African revolution. . . African nationalist sages contend that the present political independence movement is a sham because it entails economic dependence; that until an economic revolution ensues only a token concession will have been won. The prospect of an economic revolution is dim for most of the newly independent African states. The struggle, therefore, will be for a degree of economic independence — i.e., participation in the control of the economy — Williams Babatunde, "The African Revolution."

Student Workers Need Social Security Cards

Students who plan to work during summer vacation must have social security cards the same as other workers, according to Vernon A. Welo, district Social Security manager at La Grande, Oregon.

"If a student has lost his card, he should apply for a duplicate card which will have the same number as the lost card. Persons who have name changes because of marriage, or any other reason, should file a change of name form in order to get a new card with the new name, but with the same social security number," Welo said.

Application forms for new cards, duplicate cards, and change of name can be obtained at post offices or the Social Security office at 1108 J Avenue, La Grande, Oregon.

Dr. Bishop Judges Northwest Chorus

Dr. Lynn Bishop, head of the Eastern Oregon College music department, served as one of the judges Saturday night at the first competitive Northwest Chorus Festival held at Pendleton.

Participating in the program was the Wallowa Valley Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Donald Swart.

Coleman Heads I.K.'s

The campus organization of the I.K.'s recently elected a host of new officers to head their club during the coming year. Gale Coleman is the new duke (president), Bill Ward the scribe (secretary). Vaughn Folkman is the new chancellor of the exchequer (treasurer), and Bob Blanchard presently holds the position of combination page master and expansion officer.

Returning from the National Convention, which was held from April 19 through the 22nd at Moscow, Idaho, were Wayne Soward, Bill Ward, Gale Coleman, Dan Uturrespe, Bill Cason, Vaughn Folkman, Bill Johnson, Earl (Zorch) Miller, Leon Severin, and Gaylen Searles, who acompanied the group as chaperone. Their presence saw many decisions made and awards presented, among which was the Knight of Knights award given to Leon Severin (past duqe) as the outstanding knight of the year from the Mountaineer chapter.

According to reliable sources, next year's convention wil lbe held in McAllen, Texas, which is located approximately 8 miles from the Mexican border in the Rio Grande valley.

It might be timely for this reporter to warn the E.O.C. campus of the next initiation of the I.K.'s. May 19 will see many strange carricatures of cardboard variety "knights of old" striding across the campus. Woe betide the unsuspecting!

Book Review Given To I.R.C.

Listen Yankee, a controversal book by C. Wright Mills dealing with the Cuban situation, was the subject of a book review presented by Lieutenant Commander Bill Gross, retired, to the International Relations Club at their April 18 meeting. According to Alan Frazier, IRC president, Mr. Gross' review of the book proved to be very interesting. A discussion among IRC members followed his prsentattion.

Biology Project Exhibits

EOC Biology students will display their spring term projects May 12 through May 19. The projects will be displayed in Hoke Rooms 1 and 2, and in the Walter Pierce Library basement. These projects will include taxidemy work, wild animal displays, skeleton reconstruction, inutritional experiments, and plant projects. During the week of May 15 through the 19 the exhibit will be reviewed by students of La Grande schools and schools of the surrounding areas.

A student Steering Committee has been chosen to organize and arrange for the exhibit. General Chairman of the Steering Committee is Jim Grooms. A grading committee and chairmen of the planning committees have been selected from the larger Steering Committee. These committees are under the guidance of the Biology Department faculty members, Dr. C. Qlaintance, Dr. Van Vechten, and Dr. E. Anderson.

All EOC students are encouraged to visit the display. A special invitation is extended to the parents to visit the exhibit during Parent's Weekend.

Attention A.W.S.! Election Near!

Attention all members of A.W.S.! Elections of officers is coming soon. Petitions for any position will be due in to Elaine McNaught, President of A.W.S., no later than Monday May 15. Elections are tentatively scheduled for Thursday, May 18. A coffee hour will be held earlier in the week to introduce the petitioners.

Rock Collection Donated To EOC

Henry Derr, of Vale, Oregon, recently donated his valuable rock collection to EOC. Because Mr Derry wanted the collection kept intact and wanted it in a place where it wolud be enjoyed, it was given to EOC.

Mr. Derry spent many hours working with these rocks and minerals. What is now in the library basement is not quite half of the entire collection. Most of the stones represent what can be found in Eastern Oregon and throughout the remainder of the state. There is, though, petrified palm wood from Arizona.

Also included in the collection are specimens of agates, quartz, thunder eggs, amethyst, mica, copper, obsiden and various other types.

Some of the rocks are cut in slabs and lights are placed behind them so that their formations may be more easily seen. Others are in the form of polished spheres. Mr. Derry had various individuals cut and polish them.

When Mr. Derry was deciding to give the collection away some EOC students saw it and suggested that he consider EOC. Upon his request Dr. Bennett and Dr Easley inspected and the three agreed that EOC should have the colection.

Piano Recital

Features Dual Pianos

by Judy Hockett

A Piano recital by the college and high school pupils of Lyle McMullen was presented Wednesday May 3, by the Music Department. This reporter feels that the selections presented by the student were exceptionally well done.

Mary Jane Conley of Cove was first on the program presenting "Andante from Sonata, Op. 14, No. 2" by Beethoven and two others by Grieg, "Album—leaf in F major", and "Papillon."

Jeff McMillan of La Grande presented Chopin's Polonaise in A Major" and Sous bois" by Staub.

College students who participated were, Nancy Wilson from The Dalles, playing "Song Without Words in D major" by Mendelssohn and Bartok's "Four Roumanian Folk Dances." Wanda Johnson of Prairie City presented "Etude in E. Major" by Heller and "Six Pieces Gaies" by Tcherepnine. Warren Good of Elgin played "Sonata in E minor" by Grieg. Daisy Good from Elgin presented "Andante in F" by Beethoven, "Sonatina No. 2" by Leighton and "From the Carnival" by Grieg.

The highlight of the evening was the selections presented on the dual pianos. Donna Dodge and Wanda Johnson presented "Suite for two pianos" by Gliere. The final part of the program was Daisy and Warren Good who played, "Fantasy on a Familiar Theme (1952)" by their instructor Lyle McMullen and "Andante" by Chaminade and "The Queen of Hearts (Gigue), from Alice in Wonderland Suite" composed by Simmons.

Saber Dance 'Under The Sea'

"Under the Sea" was the theme of the Sabers dance May 5. The Avery Millering Band presided from 9-12 in the small ballroom of the Sacajawea Hotel. Chaperones were Mr. & Mrs. Oesterling, Mr. & Mrs. Cobb and Miss. Neely. This dance in honor of Saber pledges was preceded by a buffet dinner. The pledges for the year are: Susan Beachamp, Pattie Blackburn, Pat Charles, Nancy Choate, Jeanie Edwards, Adrienne Hansen, Sandy Harriett, Loretta Herbison, Eileen Marshall, Sharon Myers, Linda Rodgers, Kriss Tomjack, Willadeen Tubbs, and Ellen Uesugi. These girls will help serve at the barbecue tomorrow as one of their jobs during their pledge period.

P.S.P.A. Report

Recently three officers of student government attended a convention at San Francisco called Pacific Student President's Association. They were, past A.S. President John. 1st Vice President Larry Coleman and myself (Don Shore). The purpose of this convention was to promote friendly and cordial institutional relations among member colleges and universities of the asosciation. The convention, however, did more than this; it between different colleges and uniprovided for an exchange of ideas verities. This exchange of ideas and problems was the real theme for the convention.

In order for this exchange of ideas to occur the delegates divided into small discussion groups. There were four discussion groups Thursday and five Friday. The topics for the first day were very broad and philosophic in nature. They covered such things as: purpose and responsibility of student government, what is the scope of student government, role of the student body president in school government, role of the student body president in student government and relationship of the student body president to his particular student government organization. The purpose of these general topics was merely to start the ball rolling and get the delegates thinking about student govment. The following day the discussion groups were quite specific and dealt with problems such as: financial operation of student orientation programs, campus judiciary and student government interest and action in academic work. In such groups as these a person formulates his own ideas and organizes the things he wants to bring back to his campus.

In my own case I have listed three things which I would like to see put into effect on our campus. The first is a student evaluation system of Professors. The second is reallocation of student body fees The final one is a complete change of Freshman orientation week.

I give credit to PSPA for these ideas because this convention gave me the background needed in order to put such plans into effect. In fact the convention offered me the opportunity to find out how other colleges worked such plans and how we might start them in our college. This is actually the most valuable part of the convention because it gives one the opportunity to speak with delegates from all the colleges on the west coast and learn from their part experiences

Evensong . . . Everyone

The seniors are bustling. They're sending out graduation announcements; practicing etiquette for the various teas and receptions; wondering how mature and scholarly they'll appear in cap and gown—and they're, at last, the group to stand honorably at the top of the Grand Staircase during the Evensong ceremonies.

Perhaps some of these seniors who will be proudly participating in Evensong are those who refused to participate as freshmen, sophomores or juniors. Yet now—as has been indicated by previous seniors—they want the students from all classes to help make this ceremony as beautiful and impressive as possible. The seniors are not alone in their feelings here, as there are many students and faculty who want to climax the year with an impressive pageant.

In years past, the problem of only a few participants brought up the question of continuing Evensong. But interested people have worked on the ceremony and have made some revisions so that now a more meaningful ceremony has resulted.

Practice for Evensong starts May 17 at a 10:30 assembly. It is hoped that the students will WANT to start practicing then, so that by the evening of June 2, they may stand on the Grand Staircase—fellows in white shirts and slacks, girls in pastel dresses—knowing that the pageant they are presenting is of beauty and inspiration to those who watch below.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"FLOSSY CALLED OFF THEIR MARRIAGE AND WRECKED HIS ENTIRE FUTURE—SHE WAS GOING TO GET A JOB AN' PAY FOR HIS NEXT 3 YEARS OF COLLEGE!"

Dorm Counselors Selected

New counselors have been chosen for Hunt Hall and Dorion Hall for next year. The new counselors are all juniors and have been active in many school and outside functions.

Hunt Hall will put up with these three gentlemen: Gordon Meyers, Jim Grooms, and Don Shore.

Gordon is from Joseph and is majoring in Social Science. He plays football and is a two year letterman and was named on the All Conference team. Next year he will be vice-president of Hunt Hall.

From Weiser Idaho comes Jim Grooms who is majoring in Secondary Education. He is an I.K. and was vice-president of Hunt Hall. He is active in track and he is president of Hunt for next year.

A.S.B.O.C. president for next year, Don Shore is the third counselor. Don is from Enterprise and he is majoring in Elementary Education. He was sec- and vice-president of the student body in 1959-60. He played J.V. basketball and last year he received his first letter in Varsity basketball. President Shore is also active in I.K.s.

Dorion Hall will be graced by these three lovely ladies for their counselors: Sue Switzer, Pat Blackburne, and Gail Fisher.

Miss Sue Switzer is from Condon and she is majoring in Elementary Education. She was a counselor this year. Also she was Dorion Sweetheart, A.S.E.O.C. secretary, secretary of O.E.C.I. and president of Newman Club. She was Beacon editor last year. Sue is active in Sigma Alpha Chi, Sock and Buskin, and Sabers of which she is vice-president. You may also read about Sue in "Who's Who."

Elementary Education is the major of Pat Blackburne from Rufus. She is in Sigma Alpha Chi and is a Saber pledge. She was chairman of the Sweetheart Ball and graced the court of the Jr.-Sr. Prom. For next year, Pat will be secretary of S.O.E.A.

Gail Fisher, editor of Beacon, is from Haines and is majoring in Elementary Education. She was HMomecoming qyueen of 1959 and was co-chairman of parents weekend for last year. She is active in S.O.E.A., Sigma Alpha Chi, and she is secretary of Sabers. Gail is also in "Who's Who."

Sigma Alpha Chi Congratulates New Members

Congratulations are in store for the new members of Sigma Alpha Chi, the women's honorary on EOC's campuls. Those initiated April 30th were: Alice Beery, Trudy Birkenfeld, Kay Bolen, Rosa Lee Cannon, Mona Casey, Joanne Chapman, Jean Collins, Pat Fisk, Connie Jepson, Randi Johnson, Wanda Johnson, Myrna Jones, Donna Kay Kuhn, Darcia Landers, Nancy Luton, Carol McClure, Marcie May, Marilyn Melton, Nancy Miller, Sharon Myers, Betsy Owens, Judy Pidcock, Joanna Renken, Edna Rush, Patsy Schuster, Sharon Severns, Karen Sutton, Kriss Tomjack, and Shirley Watkins.

Hunt Officers Elected for '62-'63

The men of Hunt Hall elected their officers for the coming year April 26th. Jim Grooms, a junior from Weizer, Idaho ascended the top rung of the dorm political ladder as President. Gordon Meyers, a returning senior from Joseph, Oregon will handle the vice-presidential duties. Dick Oleen, a freshman from Pendleton was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Last years officers were, President Butch Corey, vice-president Jim Grooms, and secertary-treasurer, Gordon Northrup.

Senate Snatches

1. Due to the short time left for spring term, the new Student Body officers will not have regular office hours. However, the officers will be available so that students will be able to obtain ditto sheets duplicating paper, and use the duplicator in the Student Body office. Ditto sheets are $.05 each and duplicating paper is $.01.

2. Although there were not enough students present at the May 9 meting to constitute a quorum, the motion that the money for the Pathfinder be placed in the Second Vice President's social committee fund was carried. This would facilitate our having a social calendar as well as a student directory, and both of these would include more material and information than in the present Pathfinder.

3. A new record system whereby the college would pay $.73 per record and in which there would be a turnover of new records about every two weeks, was suggested by Jim Cornett. This proposition was discussed but a decision was forestalled until Jim could check the prices further.

4. There was a discussion of the band and choic allotment fund. President Don Shore wil look into this matter and it will be discussed at a later date.

5. Joe Jarvis reported that new Young Republicans officers are Jim Sisemore, Chairman; Adrienne Hansen, Vice Chairman; Suedean Dunn, Secrtary-Treasurer; and Sharon Noyes, State Vice Chairman.

6. Bill Donahue, Co-chairman of Parents' Weekend reviewed briefly the schedule for this event. Be sure that you and your parents attend the activities; they will be worth your time!

Family System In The Holy Land

by Ali Zubi

The family system holds a major part in directing and functioning the society of the inhabitants of this region of the Middle East. A family may count hundreds of persons or sometimes thousands. All the members of a certain family have the same blood and belong to one grandfather which may be several centuries ago. The family name is an essential factor to unite all persons who belong to this family and under this name. Members build the prestige of their family trying to be superior over other families.

For each family, there is a chieftain representing his family in all circumstances. He offers his suggestions to solve internal and external problems. Usually this leader is supported and sponsored by his family. This family bears a full responsibility to execute orders of their chief. However, there is some kind of mutual or collective responsibility towards the family and the members. In case the family leadership approved a marriage of a certain member, all the family members contribute to cover all the expenses to build a house with all necessary furniture and other allowances concerning the marriage expenses. If a person from his family is attacked by foreigners without tangible or previous reasons—the whole family bears the responsibility to protect this person. In this case, a chance for good and strong standing is given to big families. Disputes among families are solved in reconciliation taken by a mediator of a third family and usually by peaceful means, most of the problems are solved. Every person is proud of his family and works to promote the cultural and economical standard of his family. Majority vote only can bring into action, otherwise nothing is done.

Big families hold a strong standing which in certain cases protect weak families that the latter asks for help on conditions to be loyal to the strong family. The family has the right to punish any of its members who is disobeying the regulations and doing something contrary to his family's conduct. In such occasion, the government will not interfere, because these are rights of the family.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor—EOC Beacon
Eastern Oregon College
La Grande, Oregon
Dear Editor:

I'm sure it must be very gratifying to the students at Eastern Oregon College, as it is to me, to have reached the goal of 125 pints in the blood drawing held at Hoke Hall on April 26. To my knowledge, this is the first time that this has been done at Eastern Oregon College and the Union County Chapter of the American Red Cross is both pleased and proud of your achievement.

It would be very difficult to personally thank each person who contributed blood or who gave of his time and effort in setting up this drawing. As a result, I would like to take this opoprtunity to thank all those who helped to make this drawing a real success.

Sincerely,
Ken Lillard, Chairman

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

Wednesday evening Dorion Hall was the site of a dinner honoring the outgoing officers of the dorm and the inauguration of the newly elected officers for next year. The program started with the introductions of our guests, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Rudishauser, and Dr. and Mrs. Virgil Bolen. Following the introductions Frances Gianelli entertained the group with a modern dance number.

The presentation of the new officers began with Sandra Thompson, the outgoing president, condent, congratulating the new members of the Standards Committee. Those girls receiving Sandra's congratulations were Pat Blackburne, Darlene Desouza, Char Williams, Jean Edward, Barbara Johnson and Wanda Josnson.

Excitement rose as the officers for this year announced the executive officers of the next year. The new officers which will govern Dorion Hall next year are Lorretta Herbison, President; Ellen Uesugi, Vice President; Sandra Harriett, Secretary; Lynn Sato, Treasurer. Both tears and cries of happiness were heard as the new officers were announced.

Another reason for tears was the parting of the present President, Sandra Thompson. Dorion will missSandi for she and the entire officers this year have done a wonderful job. Good luck and congratulations to the officers of 1960-61—it was a job well done! ! ! !

Hunt Dinner Dance Slated For May 20

HUNT DINNER DANCE

Time for the Hunt Hall dinner dance is fast approaching. The theme of this year's dance, to be held May 20, is "Where The Boys Are." The dance will be for residents of Hunt Hall and their dates.

Dinner will begin at 7:00 p. m. followed by the dance at 9:00 p.m. and ending at 12:00 p.m. Music will be provided by Bob Patterson and the "Tone Dusters."

Admission will be $.25 for singles and $.50 for couples.

Sports Talk

By HENRY

Eastern Oregon's version of "Sports Spectacular" is all set for the week-end of May 19 and 20. All of the spring sports will be represented here by the schools of the Oregon Collegiate Conference.

The golf matches will be held Portland State with long driving at the La Grande Country Club. Portland State with long driving Dick Smith will be rated as the team to beat. Eastern Oregon is in the dark horse roll and if all the members of the team can jell they should offer the Staters a real contest. In Paul Olsen, the Mounties have one of the best putters around the Northwest, however, Paul has been having a little trouble getting to the green so he can take advantage of his tremendous putting game. Dick Cook, playing as the number one man on the team this spring will offer Smith of P.S.C. a real challenge in that he has almost as long a drive as the latter.

BASEBALL MOUNTIES HAVE TROUBLES

The Mounties plagued by bad weather all spring are getting more than the lions share of being kicked around by their opponents.

Outside of the inclement weather Coach Quinn's biggest problem has been in finding a pitching mate to go along with his ace hurler, Dennis Bagnall. Bagnall, the three sport star from Pendleton has been doing a fine job on the hill for Quinn and his charges, but one pitcher can't win the league title when all three games are played in the space of two days. Although, the team hitting hasn't been overpowering it has been adequate to win games providing that Quinn could have found a pitcher that could blow that ball by the hitter. Oh well there will always be next year. The Mounties finished conference play with a 3 won and six lost record. They finish their season Saturday here in an encounter against Northwest Nazarene.

In conference track the Mounties don't hold much water along side such small college track as Portland State or Southern Oregon, but you can bet track coach A. C. Dunsmoor will be preparing his thinclads for an all out effort in an attempt to pull off a few upsets and gain valuable points towards the coveted first place trophy. That would look nice in the trophy case—c'mon boys give them hell.

Southern Oregon has produced the number one track star of the small college circuit in Doyle Bransom. He is a brillian sprinter and he seems to get better each meet. His top effort in the 100 yard dash is a 9.7 acocmplished at a meet in Chico, California. If he keeps improving with age—look out since he is only a freshman now.

'Gold Fever' Captures Five

by Dick Domey

"Tha's gold in them thar hills." This was the opinion of the E.O.C. Outing Club as they prowled the twenty-two miles of tunnels in the Old Virtue Mine Saturday morning.

The group consisting of Eileen Turney, Steve Sayre, Doug Bright, Bill Hickey, and Dick Domey visited several deep mines in the Virtue Flat area. Among the mines visited were the White Swan, the Old Soldier, and the Old Virtue. This is the first time in 29 years that the Virtue Mine has been open to outsiders. Ususally the entrance is sealed with a steel door.

EOC Drops Doubleheader

The no-hit pitching of Claude Henry led Boise Junior College to a 4-0 victory over Eastern Oregon College in the opener of a baseball doubleheader here yesterday afternoon at the College field. Henry struck out six batters and walked three. Six EOC batters reached base during the game and only two Mounties were allowed on second base.

Bernie Bishop collected two hits for three times to the plate off Mountie pitcher Dennis Bagnall including a home run and a triple to account for all four BJC runs. The homer came in the fourth inning with one man on base and the triple came in the sixth inning with two aboard.

The visitors collected six runs on six hits to take the second game from EOC, 6-4. The Mounties went ahead in the fifth inning on a two-run homer by John DeBoie, only to see BJC go ahead in the sixth. De Boie was accredited with three RBI's for the game. Henry Mendazona of BJC also collected three RBI's in the second game.

Eastern Oregon closes out season baseball play this weekend when they play host to Northwest Nazarene in a doubleheader Saturday.

SOC Takes Two Wins One Loss

LA GRANDE — Southern Oregon College defeated Eastern Oregon twice Saturday lost one in three Oregon Collegiate Conference baseball games. One of the games had been postponed from Friday because of rain.

EOC took the first game by the score of 5-3 behind the steady pitching of Dennis Bagnell. Bagnell also collected three hits att hree times at bat for the first game.

SOC copped the second and third game by the scores of 13-2 and 4-0.

Top slugger of the day was John DeBoie of Eastern Oregon. He collected three hits, all triples, at nine times at bat.

Alpha Pi Epsilon Takes Annual Trip

Alpha Pi Epsilon, National Honorary Secretarial Science Society, took their annual field trip May 5-6. This year they traveled to Portland, Oregon. While in Portland, those girls who will be graduating this spring spent Friday afternoon looking for employment. The other girls made a tour of the D. C. Wax Company. While at the company, the girls were shown different business operations, business machines, how to save money in the office, etc.

The girls, who enjoyed a weeknd in Portland, were Connie Roe, President, Karen Holmes, Carolyn Hiliard, Judy Patterson, Nancy Miller, Marcy May, RosaLee Cannon, and Barbara Evans. Dr. Sarah C. Stein accompanied the girls on this trip.

Golf Team Victors

A pair of victories coupled with one defeat, enabled Eastern Oregon's golf team to run their season record to 7 wins and 3 losses during the past two weeks.

On April 25, EOC hosted College of Idaho and Columbia Basin in a three team dual match. The Mountaineers picked up one win while suffering their first defeat of the season on their home course. The Mounties emerged victorious over the Coyotes from Caldwell, registering a 6½ to 5½ triumph. They, however, came out on the shorter end of an identical score to the Pasco linksters in suffering their loss. Eastern's Dick Cook was medalist for the day with a 74.

Off to Salem

On Saturday, April 29, the Mounties traveled to Salem to tangle with OCE's Wolves. Paced by Cook who was once again medalist, EOC registered its first shutout of the season, 9 to 0.

EOC once again hosts Columbia Basin on May 16 in their final warmup before the OCC playoffs at the La Grande Country Club, May 19 and 20.

On the strength of their season record and a previous win over Southern Oregon, Portland State is given the best chance to dethone the defending champion Red Raiders. The Vikings knocked off SOC 8 to 7 on Portland's Eastmoreland Golf Club, May 4. PSC now has a 9-1 season record. Bob Smith and Bruce Weaver who placed first and third in the amateur division of the Oregon Open lead the Portland linksters.

SOC has a couple of even par shooters themselves in the persons of Gordy Marlatt and Phil Mongrain and will rest their hopes on these two.

Familiarity of the layout, along with past performances has placed EOC in the darkhorse role. Besides Cook, Eastern's Paul Olson and Pat Elgin are capable of shooting in the low 70's and frequently do so.

The champion will be determined by medalist play. Each school will have five men competing, taking the best four scores. OTI and OCE will round out the five team field.

OCE match results:

Dick Cook (EOC), def. Del Squires (OCE3 3-0; Paul Olson (EOC), def. Ron Gentry (OCE) 3-0; Pat Elgin (EOC), defeated Ron Jolma (OCE) 3-0). Score 9-0.

Co-Editors Of Beacon Appointed

Something new has been added for next year—Co-editors of the BEACON!! Appointed were Sharon Hickey and Linda Rodgers, in an announcement made late Tuesday by Mr. Harold Dorn, advisor.

Linda is a freshman majoring in elementary education. From Pendleton, she graduated from Helix High School where she served on the news staff for four years and was editor two years. In 1958 she attended summer sessions at the School of Journalism at the University of Oregon. On campus Linda is active in A.W.S., SOEA, the BEACON staff, Sabers, and is president of the Rally Executive Committee.

Sharon, a native of La Grande, and a junior in secondary education, is majoring in the Humanities. She served three years on the La Grande Tiger Hi-Lights and was associate editor her senior year. She then moved to Spokane, Washington, where she was employed on the Spokesman-Review, working in the advertising department. Since entering EOC she has served on the BEACON staff three years, writing a column and serving one year as business manager. Campus organizations she is affiliated with are A.W.S., S.O.E.A., BEACON staff, Sock and Buskin, and Collegians.

Evensong

Queen Sandi Thompson will reign over the traditional Evensong ceremony as Queen of Knowledge tonight. Her court includes Shirley Walsh, Thayle Romine, Jo Ann Berryman, Barbara Wheeler West, Yvonne Bannister Graham, and Virginia Wellington Mansfield. These are senior girls elected by an all student body vote from among the top of their class academically.

Beginning at 7:20 tonight the seniors will march down the Grand Staircase lighting their candles from the symbolic torch of knowledge held by Queen Sandi. The rest of the student body will be lined up on either side of the stairway singing school songs. At the close of the ceremony the seniors will continue marching down the stairs while the underclassmen will march into the Administration building symbolizing their desire to continue to gain more knowledge.

After Evensong there will be a Queen's Ball held at the coliseum from 9:00 to 12:00. Music will be provided by Avery Millering.

NOTICE

To All Interested Journalists!

We need your help. If you're interested in becoming a member of the BEACON staff next year why not contact Linda Rodgers or Sharon Hickey. We'd love to put you on our team. If you forget before finals then write to Sharon this summer and tell her you'd like to help. Her address is 1204 First Street, La Grande, Oregon.

Experience

The college year is coming to a close. Each of us have an experience to add to our scrapbook of time—and a new experience to look forward to.

We all have experienced a new President coming to the head of the U.S. We are wondering what might result from the Peace Corp program. We're concerned about national and international affairs. And we're concerned about our indiiidual lives. We wonder, "What effect will today's situautions be upon my life?" or even question, "What effect will my life have upon these situations?"

Granted, tthere are those who amble part way through college, not questioning what their goals are — mainly seeking a vacation (paid by their parents). On the other exttreme, there are those students who literally sit through college, so "intellectualized" that they can't carry on an intelligent social conversation. (Haven't some of us met one?)

The balance? To live in our smaller world and expanding universe, not only must a college student be aware of the intellect he must try to achieve; but he must try to achieve a standard of public relations. There may not be a special class fir it here, but it should be integrated into nearly all classes. To question, to try to understand different views, tto uphold what you believe, yet change if it is clearly seen it is best to, are all intended outtcomes of this "course."

Day after day we come across situations which will demand the use of our intellect and public relation abilitties. One without the other could be detrimental.

Perhaps in our scrapbooks, along with all the memories of the first moonlit walk on campus, the prom, the secrets shared, are the memories of how the intellect and public relation abilities we'ie gained have helped us to become more able to successfully deal with others.

W. Thompson Annual Editor

The 1961-62 annual editor was elected by the annual staff. Next year's editor will be Walda Thompson, a junior. Walda has been a member of the annual staff for the last three years.

At the award assembly, Mary Gray, this year's editor, presented Miss Thompson to the student body.

Sneak Preview, Fall Fashions

Summer is upon us but there's nothing to equal a sneak preview of the new fall fashions and colors.

New fall skirts and sweaters can already be seen in some shops. In died to match and mix match combinations as last fall, but the colors are new such as Hawaiian Coral, Persian Blue, Killarny green, Italian pink, Magenta, and many others.

The biggest changes in styling are in coats. They are new and unusual. Short full sleeves with a flared cape look. Some have just a slight fullness and others are real full giving the cape look. Huge pockets and many unusual collars. The colors for coats are magenta, turquoise, green, gold, copper and, of course, basic colors.

The tweeds are also into the same color themes. You will see many coats and suits this year worn with fur collars, mainly small furs which add true elegance to your costume.

Transitional cotton dresses are also carrying out the same colors combinations.

New Officers Are Elected

S.O.E.A.

Installation of Officers for the coming year took place at the SOEA meeting Wednesday, May 24. The new officers are: Bill McCleary, President; John Clark, Vice-President; Pat Blackburne, Secretary; Joe Allstott, Treasurer. Following the installation of officers, pictures were taken for the SOEA handbook.

To conclude the meeting a film was shown on creative writing in the second grade. Following the meeting, the new and old officers discussed plans for the coming year.

Alpha Pi Epsilon

Cathy Nice, Barbara Olinger, and Lynne Sato were initiated into Alpha Pi Epsilon, National Secretarial Honor Society, May 23 at Dr. Sarah C. Stein's.

Preceding the initiation was a dinner held in the Sacajawea Hotel in honor of the three initiates. All members including Dr. Stein, the advisor and Dr. Leonard F. Good, National Alpha Pi Epsilon President, were present.

After the dinner and initiation, a regular meeting was held for election of new officers for the 1961-62 school year. Those elected were: Barbara Evans of La Grande, president; Nancy Miller of La Grande, vice president; Lynne Sato of Hawaii, secretary-treasurer; and Shirley Watkins of Wasco, Historian.

Sabers

Sabers was among those chosing new officers. Their new President is Sue Switzer, Vice Pres. Bev Trimble, Secretary Barbara Paris, and Treasurer Linda Long. Installation was held May 21. At the same time the new pledges were initiated.

Sigma Alpha Chi

Sigma Alpha Chi now has new officers also. Theirs is a "red headed" administration. Janet Bond is President, Valerie Eisminger is Vice Pres., and Bev Trimble is Secretary-Treasurer.

Five new members were initiated at the meeting also. They are: Ruth Everson, Valerie Eisiminger, Edna Courtney, Nancy Decker, and Connie Roe.

AWS

At an election held Thurs. May 18, A.W.S. chose their new officers The new President is Gail Fisher, Vice Pres. is Bev Trimble, Secretary-treasurer is Wanda Johnson, and Historian is Pat Charles.

Installation of these new officers was held June 1 at 7:30 p.m. in Hoke Hall. All senior girls from the La Grande, Imbler, and Elgin high schools were invited to attend, along with their mothers. After the installation a short meting was held by the Parent's Club to explain life at E.O.C. to them. Also invited to attend were al lthe faculty women of E.O.C.

Theta Delta Phi

Theta Delta Phi, men's honorary on the Eastern Oregon College campus, recently held an election of new officers. Elected as the new president was Larry Snook. Roger Holm took office as the vice-president for the coming year, the new secretary-treasurer is John Clark, historian is Steve Sayre, and publicity chairman is Charles La Kamp.

Also, Theta Delta Phi formally initiated into their ranks 16 new members on the same night.

I.R.C.

The International Relations Club elected officers for the coming year at their regular meeting May 14. Dick Roth was chosen to lead the club as president; Mike Andrews was elected to serve as the new vice-president. The office of secretary-treasurer is being held open until next fall in order that incoming freshmen will be eligible to fill the position.

It was also decided at this meeting to send letters to various high schools, asking if seniors would be interested in joining I. R. C., if they attend E. O. C. The letters should serve to acquaint the high school seniors with the club and create interest to join next year.

Alpha Rho Tau

The installation of new officers was the highlight of Alpha Rho Tau's meeting on May 22, in the art room. New officers installed were Eilene Marshall, president; Reba Carter, vice-president; and Willadean Tubbs, secretary-treasurer.

The art club also held its initiation of new members this same evening. Other business included the taking of pictures for the Mountaineer and making plans for decorating the Coronation Ball.

W.R.A.

W.R.A., Women's Recreational Association, went to Cove Wednesday evening the 24th. for their annual picnic and swimming party.

After the picnic the election of officers for the coming year was held. Charlene Williams holds the office of President for the year of 1961 and 62. Acting as Vice President will be Myrna Jones and Dina Stirewalt as Secretary-Treasurer.

Dorion Doodles

by SUE CHRISTMAN

The backyard of Dorion has been the scene of some very interesting and outstanding figures for the past few days. It seems the sun has brought the bathing suit beauties out of their rooms into the bright rays of sunshine to deepen the skin and many times causing some rather rare shades of red. It is rather comical to see a girl heading for the backyard with books, pens, notebooks, blankets, sunglasses, suntan oils, pillows, and sun hats. Many give up half way down the hall and come back for the things they have dropped or leave them there, usually the books, until their party on the lawn is finished.

With the joys of Spring term we also find there must be a little sadness. This sadness was expressed at a tea given in Mrs. Barnes' apartment Saturday afternoon in honor of the senior girls. These girls will be leaving Dorion Hall, their home for the last four years. Even though the senior girls are few they will leave a large space which will never be filled. They have given a great deal to the success which the dorm has had and all the girls wish them much happiness and success in their new roles.

This closes the Dorion Hall news for this year but next year the Dorm is looking foward to another happy and eventful year. We sincerely hope all the girls return to Eastern Oregon to break in another new group of freshmen. Have a fun-time summer! ! !

Faculty Notes

Dr. William Douglas Spear, associate professor of political science at Eastern Oregon College, has been invited to attend a special seminar at the University of NUevada, Aug. 26-28, on Political Science for the Sixties."

The announcement was made by Evron M. Kirkpatrick, Washington, D.C., executive director of the American Political Science Association.

The Western Reigonal seminar, sponsored jointly with the Ford Foundation, will place emphasis on problems in courses of American government, constitutional law, international relations, and state and local governments.

Dr. Spear is on leave during spring term doing study and research in urban planning at Illinois, Iowa State, and Wisconsin universities.

Senate Snatches

BY SHARON MYERS

1. Jim Cornett, after talking with Bob Fallow from the Contemporary Shop, described Fallow's proposition as this: $.73 per record and liberty of the Student Body to sell each record back to Mr. Fallow after usiing. Burton's proposition was this: $.70 per record and the stipulation that all records be kept. The problem in this case is getting rid of the accumulated records.

2. Although we do have a bid on the proposed stereo tape which might replace records Bill Donahue said the tape would probably be more trouble than it is worth in terms of facilities involved and time spent in establishing and operating the new system.

3. Larry Coleman proposed that the election of Senators not involve posters. He felt that the election of the five Senators per class should be through class meetings. A 2.00 G.P.A. for Senators and a 2.50 G.P.A. for Cabinet officers was suggested. This suggestion will be given further consideration when there are enough members present to constitute a quorum.

In order to avoid an excessive number of amendments to the Constitution, it was suggested that a provisional Senate election policy be set up this year. Future Senates might later amend this policy if they so desire, but this way, the Constitution would not have to be amended this year and possibly not for many years to come.

The following was voted upon and passed at the May 31 Senate-Cabinet meeting.

SENATE POLICY FOR ELECTION AND REQUIREMENTS OF SENATORS:

I. Senators will be elected by direct vote by the end of the second week following registration of all students. (This will be determined at the beginning of fall term.)

II. Five Senators will be elected from each class by the members of the same class. The standing of Senators will be considered by hours at the beginning of fall term each year.)

III. Twenty Senators shall be elected in all:

1. Five will have less than 47 term hours.
2. Five will have from 48-95 term hours.
3. Five will have from 96-127 term hours.
4. Five will have more than 128 term hours.

IV. Senators shall be determined by a simple majority vote Each person voting shall vote for individuals on the ballot and the five individuals receiving a majority of the votes shall be the new Senators.

V. Those people running for Senator of their section shall have their names turned into the First Vice President, along with a petition signed by 15 people of the same section (or class), three days before the scheduled class meeting for election of Senators. (The First Vice President with the help of the Cabinet shall handle the elections for each section.)

VI. Class meetings for the purpose of such an election will be held two days before the two-week deadline.

VII. The G.P.A. requirement will be 2.00 for all students, inincluding Freshmen.

VIII. Any Senator missing THREE consecutive meetings will immediately be removed and replaced by next high man on the election ballot.

IX. A (1) voting record on issues and (2) attendance record of each Senator will appear in each issue of the college newspaper, the Beacon.

If a tree dies, plant another in its place.—Linnaeus.

Sports Talk

By HENRY

With the year nearly gone I find myself fighting my mind for something worthy of being publishe din this fine column.

The equipment of the various have ben packed away — awaiting a new year and wondering if next year will be brighter or dimmer for the fearless gladiators that dare to don the blue and gold of the mighty Mountaineers. Only time will tell.

Probably the biggest question going around campus during this last hectic week of school is: Can Dunsmoor come up with enough brawn to make his single wing offense move? (Amazing — even during finals students find time to ta lkabout sports.)

However, from this writer's standpoint anything will be an improvement over last year. — DON'T GET ME WRONG. I'm not condemning the coach or his squad. Coach Dunsmoor was in a building year nearly all of his players were underclassmen. So anything could happen this fall when the first whistle is blown and a kicker's toe meets the ball to send it downfield into enemy territory. My opinion is that the Mounties — football type — should have their best year since the glory days of 1956. Although, this will only happen if the players put forth with all their honest ability and that good old college try.

I can't see for the life of me how they can miss with such potential stars as Ron Robinson, Gordon Myers, Dennis Bagnall, and Dick Brannaugh. Right there is a nucleus to build a better than average "country ball club." Enough said! !

Congratulations to Dennis Bagnall for his selection on the O.C.C. All Star Baseball team; and to Don Nelson, honorable mention selection.

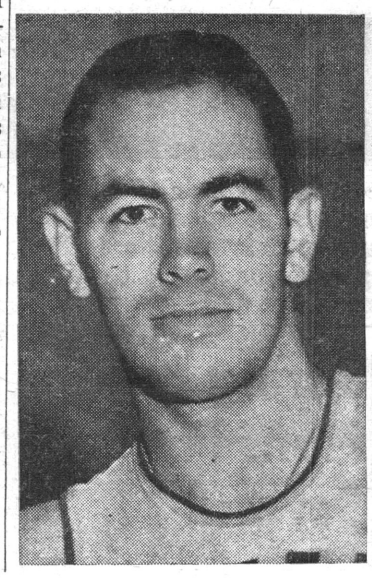
Shades of Bill Bowerman

Also a word of praise to Arch Dunsmoor, Don Campbell, and their staff for the manner in which they ran the O.C.C. track meet. A real professional job. Nice going men!

Looking back on it all this has been a year of success for the "Marvelous Mounts." The football team may have had its ups and downs, but the round ball boys more than made up for their misfortunes.

Bob Quinn's boys surprised everyone includuing themselves when they whipped every team they opposed but two, and swept into the "Glass Palace" in Portland for a show down with Linfield for the N.A.I.A. district two championship and a shot at the nationals in Kansas City. Here disaster struck as the "Mounties" went down at the hands of a clawing pack of "wildcats" in one of the most vicious games played all year.

Disaster struck the team in another form when Larry Applegate and his lovely wife were involved in a terrible two car accident after the O.T.I. series in Klamath Falls. However, they pulled through in good condition and Larry can hardly wait until next year to give his ankle the test to see if he will once again be able to bomb the hoop the Applegate way.



Until another day — Happy Hunting to all E.O.C. students, faculty, and supporters.

Former Mountie Hoopster Honored

Ernest Lawrence Rostock, a former Eastern Oregon College star basketball player and a 1938 graduate of La Grande High School was inducted into the District 2 NAIA Hall of Fame at a banquet in Portland last Saturday night. Rostock now is a resident of Pendleton where he teaches.

For a period of time in 1942, Rostock held the National Collegiate four-year scoring record, breaking the then existing record of 1597 points set by Hank Luisetti of Stanford.

Rostock went "over the hump"

PASCO ARRITOLA
Student-Athlete Of The Year.

on the night of February 17, 1942 when Eastern Oregon College entertained Oregon College of Education. He scored 14 points setting a record breaking performance of 1602 total, besting Luisetti's mark.

According to the news story of the event, Rostock had fouled out of the game, marking only the second time during the season. His per game average for four years at this point was 15.2.

Rostock closed out the season, scoring 16 points as EOC defeated Boise, 59-53, and bringing his four-year total to 1688 points.

Following time in the service, Rostock returned to Eastern Oregon College and received a B.S. degree in 1946.

While attending EOC, Ernie also participated in football and baseball.

Pascual "Pasco" Arritola was also honored by the NAIA. Arritola has been selected as student-athlete from Oregon Collegiate Conference.

Pasco, who receives his degree from EOC June 9, is a four-year basketball letterman for the Mountaineers and has maintained a 3.-03 grade point average over the four-year period.

A 1956 graduate of Jordan Valley High School, Arritola is a math-science major in secondary education and will teach at The Dalles this coming fall.

In addition to his participation in athletics, Pasco took an active part in student body affairs. He is a member af Theta Delta Phi, a men's scholastic honorary; Lettermen's Club; Student Oregon Education Association and Intercollegiate Knights, a service organization.

For Coach Bob Quinn's Mountaineers, Arritola has been a regular for three years and as a freshman was moved up from the junior varsity squad for reserve duty. He scored a total of 849 points, with 338 coming in his senior year. In addition, Pasco has ranked at the top in both rebounding and field goal percentage for the Mountie.

This is the second year that former players and coaches have been inducted into the District 2 Hall of Fame. Last year, E.R. "Bob" Quinn, EOC athletic director and head basketball coach, was inducted to the select fraternity.

Others to be honored tonight are Bernard Martyn, Linfield College; Loran Douglas, Pacific University; John Kolb, Willamette University; Jim Davis, Lewis and Clark College; Arba Ager, Portland State College and Lestle Sparks, of Willamette.

Golf Talk

Paced by Medalist Bob Smith Portland State's Vikings captured the Oregon Collegiate Conference golf championship held at the La Grande Country Club May 19 and 20. Smith toured the local layout in a two day total of 73-70—143, one under par. Southern Oregon's Gordy Marlatt was runnerup, six strokes behind the pace setting Smith. The Red Raider fashioned rounds of 73-77—150.

The Viks were 6 strokes up on defending champion SOC at the half-way point and then came on the second day to win in a breeze over the Ashland squad, 611-633. Eastern Oregon's host Mountaineers finished in 3rd place with a two day total of 668.

After the first 18 holes it appeared that a five-way battle for medalist honors might ensue. Smith, along with teammate Bruce Weaver and Marlatt all had 73s. Two EOC Linksters, Dick Cook and Pat Elgin, were only two strokes behind, carding 75's. The final day, however, Smith, riding a hot putter and booming out long drives, displayed why he finished 2nd in the national NAIA tournament last year as he nabbed top honors.

Selected to the All Conference Tteam were Smith, Weaver, Marlatt, Cook and SOC's Phil Mongrain.

Team Scorers: 1 PSC(611); 2 SOC(633); 3. EOC(668); 4. OCE(734); 5. OTI(817).

We have the newspaper, which does its best to make every square acre of land and sea give an account of itself at your breakfast table. —Emerson.

EOC'S LEWIS THORNE SETS TWO NEW MARKS

Portland State College scored heavily in all events to take the Oregon Collegiate Conference track and field team title held here Saturday at the college field. Southern Oregon finished second followed by Eastern Oregon, Oregon College and Oregon Tech in that order.

Only two of last year's winners repeated as OCC champions in track. Stan Miller (PSC) defended his 440 yard dash title by establishing a new conference record. Miller's time in the finals of the event was good enough to set a new mark but he had a better time in the preliminaries that will be put into the record book.

The other repeater was Tom Lee (PSC) who equaled his 1960 jump in the highjump of 6 feet.

Ten records fell during competition in 15 events. Doyle Bransom of SOC set two new record marks in the 100 and 220 sprints. Bransom's times were :9.5 in the 100 and :22 in the 220. EOC's Lewis Thorne also erased two conference records. Thorne's efforts in the high and low hurdles earned him entries in the record book.

Other records set were by Art Morland (PSC) in the pole vault with a jump of 12 feet 9½ inches, Tim Small (PSC) ran the mile in 4:29.5, Loren Remy (PSC) in the shotput with a shot of 48' 4¾", Toby Wolf (OCE) who broadjumped 22 feet 11¾" and the Southern Oregon relay team.

High Point Man

SOC's Doyle Bransom won the high point man trophy for the meet scoring 13¼ points. Besides winning the two sprints, Bransom placed third in the broadjump and ran a leg of the mile relay that placed first.

Those placing in the meet from Eastern Oregon were Thorne, high and low hurdles; John Clark, first in the javelin; Jerry Behm, fourth in the two-mile run; Dennis Naughton, third in the 880; Ted Miller, third in the highjump; Ron Robinson, third in the shotput and Warren Good, fourth in the discus.

High Hurdles — Lewis Thorne, EOC; Hartman, SOC; Cannell, PSC; Cutsforth, OCE. Time :14.8 (New Meet Record).

Low Hurdles — Lewis Thorne, EOC; Hartman, SOC; Cannell, PSC; Conley, SOC. Time :24.5 (New Meet Record).

Congratulations To Girls Tenn Team

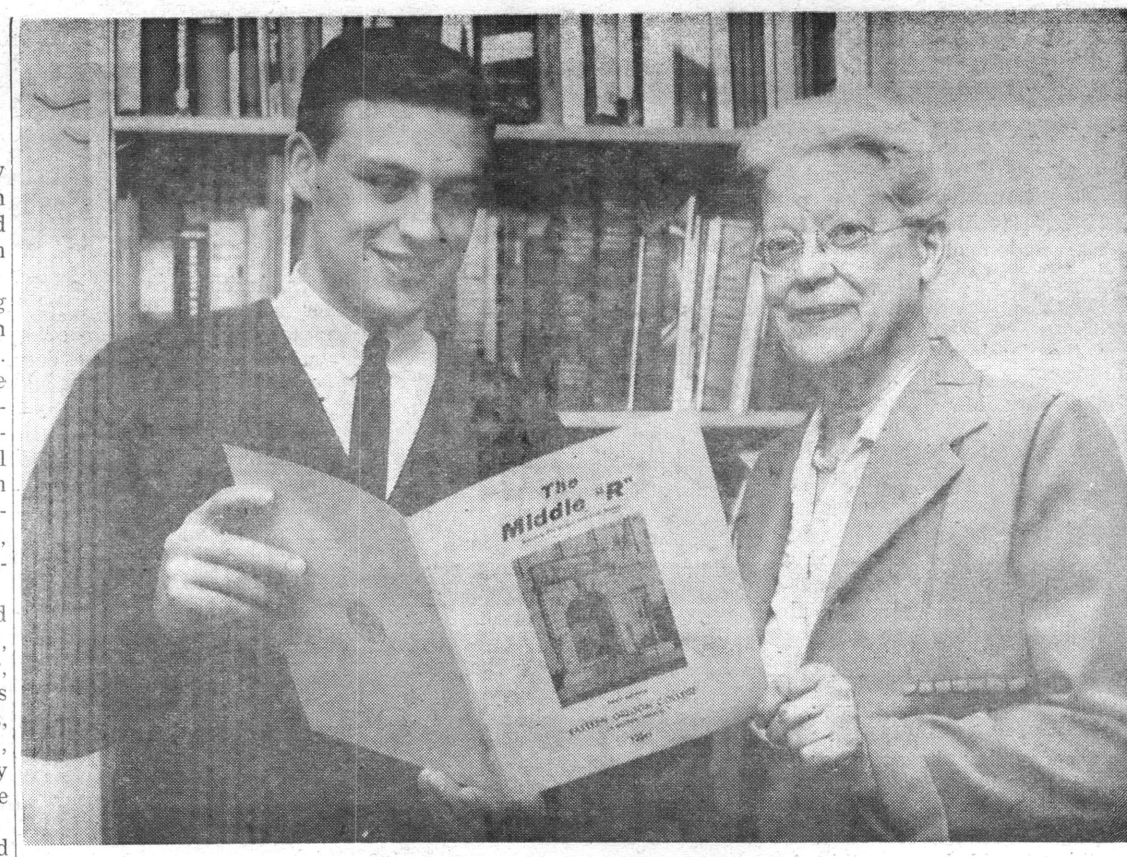
Don presented John with a gift in appreciation for his outstanding service to the college as well as the other outgoing officers; Greg Baker, Larry Snook, Sue Switzer, Dan Yturraspe, and Ruth Combs.



Club Notes

May 28 & 29 the Outing Club held their last outing of the year at Wallowa Lake. Miss Nicoloff's Camp Guidance class also spent the weekend enjoying the mountains and the lake. Saturday the Outing Club had a class in rope climbing and in the afternoon a party of six climbed the face of the west moraine.

Members of the club not interested in climbing spent the day fishing and hiking. Several of the Camp class wiled away the time by sun-bathing thus providing the lodge with some very attractive scenery.

Saturday night the Camp class treated the entire group to an excellent meal of braised duck and baked potatoes.

We wish to thank all the members who gave their support to the club this year and hope to see many more members next year.

DEDICATION — Robert Lee Phifer, editor of the 1961 edition of the Middle R and Miss Eva Wear, professor emeritis of Education, look over the pre-realease copy of the Middle R soon to be put on sale. This years edition of the Middle R is to be dedicated to Miss Wear in recognition for her past contributions and support of earlier issues of the campus literary magazine.

'Middle R' Completed For Year

The first publication of the Middle R in five years, by the results of its phenominal sale, was an instant success with faculty and students alike. On Thursday, May 26th, the two-hundred and fifty copies of the Middle R put together by the staff were placed on sale at the college book store and within an hour and a half all copies were sold out. The book store reported that a line was formed before opening hours and that many people were disappointed that they were unable to acquire a copy.

After the editorial staff of the Middle R selected and approved the selections to be included in this years publication, the proofs were typed and mimeographed by a group of girls selected by Dr. Stein. On Saturday, May 20th, the entire staff of the Middle R assembled to put together the individual copies. These were then tawen to Palmer Printing where members of the Middle R stapled and covered the issues. Advance publicity was given and the sale of college literary magazine met its planned deadline.

The entire staff of the Middle R wishes to express its gratitude and thanks to the many students and faculty helped by their preparation, contribution, and support. With the success of this years Middle R it appears that the students and faculty can expect to see this literary effort become an established tradition on the E.O.C. campus.

Faculty Reception Held Wednesday

All teachers seemed to be sporting bandaged hands the Thursday morning, following the Faculty Reception; not because of the regular Wednesday night fight, but because of the long reception line in which they greeted the students attending the event, with a hearty handshake.

There was a large number of new students as well as upper classmen who attended the "Faculty Reception," which was held Wednesday, September 27th in the coliseum.

Students proceeded through the reception line meeting all faculty members and their wives.

SOCIAL SHEET

I assume that most of you, by now, have received your mimeographed sheet of the social calendar. As you probably have noticed, this shee only contains dates up to the last week of October. By the end of October, we hope to have the full school year's social calendar back from the printer.

Some of the most important dates and activities for you to remember during the next two weeks are as follows:

Saturday, September 30 — Whitman, there. Junior class dance, here, 8:30.

Wednesday, October 4—A. W.S. Fashion Show.

Saturday, October 7 —OCE, there. Young Republican Dance, here, 8:30.

Where The Girls Are

Well, where are they, Looking at the halls of Dorion there shouldn't be any question concerning the female inhabitants of Eastern Oregon's campus. However, upon careful observation one may notice the shortage of some fifty-nine co-eds. Eleven of these girls are housed in the community in approved housing. The remaining forty-eight may be located in what is commonly known as the Eocene Courts. The first row of this section of campus has been renovated and each apartment houses five girls. Can you imagine five girls in an apartment originally intended for just one family? Each unit has been furnished comfortably and Good News, fellows! You will soon be able to reach the co-ed of your choice on the private telephone in her apartment.

The reason for this "drastic" move is simply that EOC is "Still Progressin' "! Dorion Hall has facilities for one-hundred-seventy-four girls; at the present time there are one-hundred-seventy-nine girls in the dorm. We are a growing school and one of which each and every student and alum may be proud.

'60-'61 Annual To Arrive Soon

According to the 1960-61 Mountaineer editor, Mary Gray, students can look forward to receiving their annuals near the end of October. The publishing company has not yet set a definite date of delivery.

The yearbooks will probably be distributed somewhere in Hoke Hall. Information as to arrival and distribution of the Mountaineer will be posted at that time.

Nine New Members Join EOC Faculty

At the beginning of Eastern Oregon College's thirty-third academic year nine new facult membesr have been added to the previous staff. They are, in alphabetical order;

Kenneth M. Cox — Instructor in physical education. Mr. Cox is a graduate of East Strandsberg College (now Penn State) with a B.S. degree in Health and Physical Education. He is a holder of an M.A. degree from San Fernando College and was a graduate assistant the University of Washington and coach of Freshman wrestling In the past Mr. Cox has instructed football, wrestling, and track.

Austin E. Haddock — Associate professor of education and principal of Ackerman elementary school. Dr. Haddock is a native of Cassville, Missouri and a graduate in teacher education from Southern Oregon. He is a holder of a B.S. degree from Oregon State and a M.S. degree and doctorate from the University of Oregon. He has some seventeen years of teaching and administrative experience behind him including nine years as elementary principal in Corvallis.

John W. Jambura — Assistant professor of social studies, holds a B.S. degree in economics from the University of Wisconsin and a M.S. degree from Eastern Oregon College. He has been doing graduate work at the University of Oregon. Two years of his life was spent in the Army, eighteen months of which was in Germany. Previously he has taught at Pendleton Senior High school.

Lorna Jean Johannaber — Instructor of art education. Miss Johannaber. originally comes from Grand Rapids, Minnesota and has taught both Senior and Junior high schools. She has spent two years in Germany and is a holder of a B.A. and an M.A. degree from Willamette University.

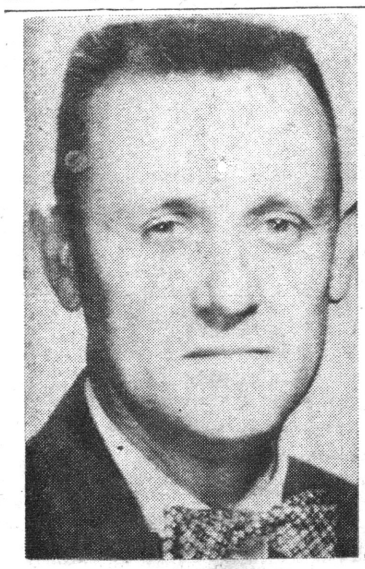
Paul W. Kelly — Associate professor and director of library. As an under graduate from Xavier University in Cincinnati, Iowa, a possessor of an M.A. degree in library science from Columbia University in New York, Mr. Kelly has had employment at the University of Delaware and Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti before arriving at EOC.

Norman N. Nelson — Instructor of math and engineering. Perhaps the youngest instructor at EOC, Mr. Nelson, a native of Illinois, graduated in 1959 with a B.S. in secondary education from EOC. Aside from teaching at Baker Senior High school, he has done summer graduate work at Purdue University. At present Mr. Nelson plans to pursue this at Oregon State.

Carol E. Rathe — Instructor in music. Before teaching Ackerman and Central grade schools, Miss Rathe has taught public schools for four years in Nebraska where she graduated from Kearney State College with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree. She received a Master of Music at the University of Nebraska and has done graduate work at the University of Michigan.

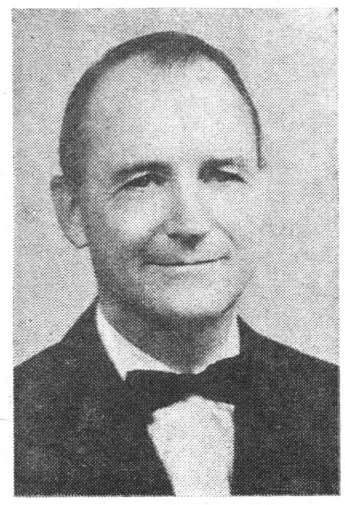
Marvin A. Rummells — Assistant professor of English, speech, and drama. Mr. Rummells, an English, speech, and drama major from the University of Iowa, has twenty-five years of teaching experience most of it centering in Iowa City. He is also a veteran of numerous musical and dramatic play productions, both as an actor and director.

William T. Stafford, Jr. — Assistant professor of philosophy and English. Besides a B.A. degree from the University of Kentucky, an M.A. from the University of Chicago, and three years a graduate assistant at the University of California, Mr. Stafford has studied at the University of Maryland, Los Angeles State College and Whittenberg College in Ohio. He received his junior college credentials at Berkeley and has spent his teaching experience mainly in California.

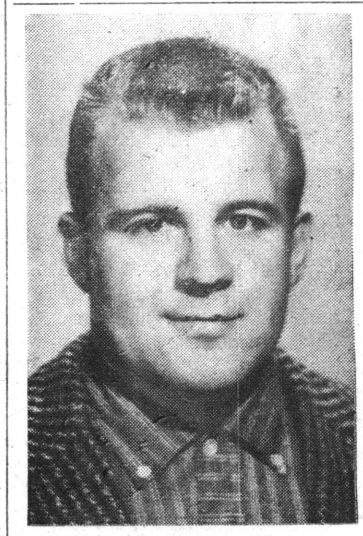


The outstanding quality of the new faculty members will undoubtedly add to the progress of Eastern Oregon College. The campus is proud to welcome them.

ENROLLMENT UP AT EOC



The first day of classes at Eastern Oregon College showed a 21.3 per cent increase over enrollment figures for last fall, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.



Registered students number 948 compared with 781 for the same period in 1960. Of this figure, 552 are men and 396 women.

Dr. Johnson emphasized that students are still enrolling and that the final official tabulation will not be made until Oct. 7, the last day of registration.

Your Paper

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR SCHOOL PUBLICATION? ? ? In fact, are you interested in your school? It has been amazing to find that many students don't realize that the BEACON is their paper and that all EOC students are encouraged to participate in its publication.

How can you participate? There are numerous ways! ! If you're interested in writing, or in any phase of journalism, become a member of the BEACON Staff. There are various jobs keyed to the taste of many—reporting, proof-reading, circulation, advertising. BUT—if you aren't interested in working as a member of the staff, or don't have the time, you may still voice opinions through submitting Letters to the Editor.

Submitting a Letter to the Editor is as easy as this: when you have something to say simply type it on paper, double spaced, sign your name, and drop it in the BEACON box at Hoke or in the Faculty Mail Room. WARNING: all letters must be signed, but the signature will be withheld if requested.

REMEMBER! ! ! The quality of YOUR BEACON is dependent upon the quality of the articles from you, and the interest you show in this paper and EOC.

'A Frosh'

Freshman Week was officially opened at 8:45, Monday, Sept. 18, with Dr. Bennett speaking to us briefly, and introducing the instructors.

Each morning we had an assembly where we heard about the Associated Student Body and it's various programs, student services such as the health program and the library, and on Wednesday morning the dean of men and the dean of women spoke to us. Friday morning we were divided according to our major and spent the morning in pre-registration.

Monday afternoon and part of Tuesday afternoon were spent taking guidance tests. Tuesday afternoon there was a picnic for us at Riverside Park followed by a songfest sponsored by the Interfaith Council. Monday evening everyone at the student mixer participated in games, folk dances and social dancing later on. Tuesday evening we saw the movie "Where The Boys Are" shown for us in the college theater.

Wednesday afternon all the girls enjoyed the Associated Women Students' tea where we met the officers of Associated Women Students, and heard from officers of Sabers, Sigma Alpha Chi, Dorion Hall, and Women's Recreation Association. At the recreation night Wednesday there was volleyball, and dancing to the newly-organized Freshman band.

For many, the high point of the week was the presentation of the first class-sponsored activity —the Freshman Talent Show. The chairmen, Sharon Beickel and Lonnie Myers, did an excellent job, and the result was an evening of laughs for everyone present.

Friday was one of the most hectic days any of us had ever seen. We went through pre-registration that morning and spent much of the afternoon standing in one line and then another—often to find that we were in the wrong line. After registering and paying fees Friday afternoon, many students attended the suppers or parties the churches of La Grande had planned for them.

All in all it was a successful week, due to the efforts of the faculty and the "Ask Me" committee. To them the new students say "Thank You."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We feel that a special word should be said giving a GREAT BIG CONGRATULATIONS to the "ASK ME" committee, for without their hard work and efforts, plus coming on campus a week early, Freshman Week couldn't have been the success it was. Members of the committee are: Don Shore, Larry Coleman, Jim Cornett, Carol Woodell, Sharon Myers, Peggy Elder, Jim Grooms, Loretta Herbison, Pat Fisk, Sandi Harritt, Al Carr, Adrienne Hansen, Willie Tubbs, Sharon Hickey, Margo Cunningham, Barbara Olinger, Merlene Teasley, Pat Blackburne, Al Duby, Bev Trimble, Jim Lee, Dennis Bagnell, Bob Blanchard, Gale Coleman, Pat Charles, Linda Rodgers, Linda Long, Eilene Marshall, Dale Klitz, Carol McClure, Bill Donahue, Walda Thompson, Allen McKee, Larry Snook, Bill McCleary, Gordon Meyers, Val Eisiminger, Dee McCall, Bill Johnson, Herb Miller, Barbara Paris, and Ellen Uesugi.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor

I'm taking this opportunity to air my views concerning EOC's social activities. In years previous I have heard much complaining and griping concerning the lack of bigname bands and big activvities for the student body as a whole. This year we tried to present you, the student, with a big name band for a "kick-off" dance. What did the majority of you do? I don't know, personally, BUT YOU, the majority, weren't there! ! I have heard very few legitimate excuses for not attending. — One of them being studying. But how much studying does one actually have after the first day of classes? The excuse most prevalent was that concerning dress. But in this instance one must always remember that a well-dressed persons is never out of place.

Since this dance lacked many in attendance, this will mean a decrease in our plans for the coming year to the lack of funds in our budget to make up the difference for the money we lost on this dance.

Thanks to those who attended; here's hoping to see more of you at our student body functions. good year socially.

Only through you can we have a

Very truly yours,
Jim B. Cornett

Outing Club To Elect Officers

Tuesday night the Outing Club officially started it's year with a collection of slides outlining the activities of past years.

Joe Jarvis, last year's vice president, is the acting president until elections on October 3. Joe led the discussion on this year's activities and on the forthcoming elections.

Later in the evening Dick Domey showed slides of a winter trip into the Aneroid Lake Basin high in the Wallowa Mountains.

A note to Outing Club members: Election of officers on October 3. Be sure to turn out in force to support your candidate.

Students Show Keen Interest In Middle R

Faculty and students will have an opportunity to see their creative efforts in print when THE MIDDLE 'R' is published for the second consecutive year. This revived literary magazine is edited by Dave Slabaugh and Jo Thurston. It adviser is Mr. R. H. Bayes.

THE MIDDLE 'R' resumed publication last spring term after a five-year silence. The date of this year's publication will be announced before the end of next month.

Associate editors of the magazine are Ron Cooper and Fred Park. Dick Kaiser is art editor. The posts of business manager and assistant editor have yet to be filled.

The magazine features prose and poetry in varied forms. Literary criticisms and short stories are prominent, and many poetic forms are represented. The magazine includes apporximately 60 pages of contributions.

Co-editors Jo Thurston and Dave Slabaugh are both natives of La Grande. Jo is in secondary education with a humanities major. Dave is majoring in English and literature and plans to teach college. He was a member of the creative writing class last year as his co-editor is this term. Dave had some of his work published in the 1961 edition of THE MIDDLE 'R'. Both editors are interested in dramatics and have participated in college plays. This year Dave is vice-president and Jo secretary of Sock & Buskin.

The staff looks forward to a magazine of both quality and quantity. Dave commented that students who had creative writing last year and who are taking it this year should contribute a variety of material.

If you are interested in submitting some of your writing to THE MIDDLE 'R', you can do so now. The rules for contribution are very simple. Type all manuscripts; double space prose. Be sure your name and address are in the upper right hand corner of each page. Length of a manuscript is limited to eight pages double spaced faterial. The number of manuscripts each contributor may enter is unlimited. Deposit your mansucripts in THE MIDDLE 'R' box in the faculty mail room. If you wish your manuscripts to be returned, each must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Interest in last year's edition indicates an even more successful magazine this year. Two hundred and fifty copies were sold last year within two and a half hours. This year 350 copies will be on sale to meet the anticipated demand. Would-be contributors are urged to take pen in hand and support this valuable effort with the hope that some of EOC's finest writing will find its place in the pages of THE MIDDLE 'R'.

EOC Evening Classes Many

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, La Grande — A full program of Eastern Oregon College evening courses will again be available on the campus for area residents this fall, according to Dr. Roy L. Skeen, director of instruction.

Eight courses, which may be taken with or without college credit, are scheduled. They include:

Monday — Astronomy, Orchestra, Principles and Techniques of Speech Correction, and Stenography.

Tuesday — Elementary Bibliography and Reference Material, Constructive Accounting, and Metal Craft.

Wednesday — Beginning Drawing,

Classes will meet from 7-10 p.m., with registration scheduled for the first class meeting the week of Sept. 25. Stenography, which also mets on Thursdays, is scheduled for two class meetings per week.

Faculty Notes

MR. RON BAYES, of the English Department, has completed another book of poetry, as of this summer. His three months "reprive" from EOC was spent studying at Eugene.

Doing research on his Ph.D., was MR. GLEN SLABAUGH, of the Science-Math Dept., on the Oregon State campus for eight weeks. The latter part of his summer was spent visiting relatives and attending an American Chemical Society meeting in Chicago, Labor Day week.

MR. YOUNG, of the same dept., attended a six week institute at Oregon State for college chemistry teachers and felt that the "experience was very profitable."

Brunswick, Maine, was the site where MR. BAILEY, Science-Math department, spent six weeks at Bowdoin College, along with fifty other professors representing the entire country. They attended an institute for college math teachers to teach math teachers (WHEW)!!!

From the above summer sketches, it looks as if our Science-Math department at EOC was well traveled this summer, but happy to be back and, quote Mr. Slabaugh, "happy about the increased enrollment in science and math courses" this year.

Dear Sam . . .

Dear Sam,

I would have written sooner but I couldn't get in to the bookstore to buy a box of stationery. There were too many lost Freshmen cluttering up the halls here at EOC. It is really a panic to sit and watch these poor students as they break into the routine of college life.

We have a very fine group of Freshmen here, Sam. They are a group that any college would be proud to claim. They sponsored a very fine talent show the other night. It was well done and enjoyed by all in attendance. The only bad part of the whole evening was the group of jokers in the audience who insisted on making noise and disturbing the rest of the audience and the performers. I wonder if they will ever realize that they are not in high school any longer?

I really had a swinging time at the Ernie Fields dance Monday night. The music was great and the girls were divine, even if some of them were Freshmen.

There isn't much cooking here at Hunt Hall. I think the only problem anyone has is whose girl is going out with whom. Oh well, love makes the world go around, but so does alcohol.

Well Sam, I have to sign off for now. I see a group of upperclassmen painting some rooks who forgot to wear their beanies. I don't want to miss out on the fun.

Your Pal,
Jimmy.

Young Republican Activities Planned

Young Republicans will be extremely active this year on campus, and are starting out with a bang, according to Dr. Douglas Spear and Mr. Ron Bayes, advisors of the group.

The Honorable Fred Scribner, Jr., former Undersecretary of the Treasury, and currently General Counsel of the Republican National Committee, will be hosted by the Young Republicans on Monday, October 16th. This coffee hour will be held in the Hunt Hall Lounge at 2:15 p.m. with all faculty and students invited and urged to attend. Co-chairmen are Jim Sisemore (Y.R. Chairman) and Dr. Spear (member of the Union County Control Com.). This will last only about one hour, they announced, as Mr. Scribner then goes on to meetings in Baker. He is accompanied by Mr. Robert Davis, State Chairman of the G.O.P.

It has also been announced that Jim Sisemore, campus chairman of Y.R., and Sharon Noyes, State Vice-Chairman of the Y.R., have been appointed to honorary positions on the Union County G.O.P. board.

Eastern Oregon Drops Football Opener To College Of Idaho

Mounties Die By Coyotes

By DAVID HAUN
Sports Editor

Eastern Oregon College Mountaineer's fought a gallant but losing battle to first game jitters. A big crowd filled the outdoor arena, despairingly watched the tension loaded game in which EOC gave way only to a 80 yard punt return and a C of I march on a questionable bit of offensive strategy on the Mounties' part.

Gary Matlock's punt return of 80 yards, behind excellent blocking, seemed to spark the College of Idaho to victory. The small halfback received one of Ron Robinson's tremendous kicks on the 20 yard line and gave a eye-popping picture of grid greatness when he threaded his way through the entire Mountaineer team for 08 yards.

Although the Mounties' were never able to camp back of the Coyotes' goal they displayed a brilliant part in defensive maneuvers the rest of the game. It seemed that every time the Mountaineers' had promising drives, the gods of the football wars were looking the other way. It it wasn't because of fumbles, frustrating penalties of the game would turn back the play.

The defeat, while tough to accept, was anything but a disgrace for the men of gold and blue.

Showers, a freshman from Elgin who played earlier this fall in the A-2 and B Shrine grid classic, put on a good show in his passing skills. With a little more experience EOC could have a potent passing and running game required of a single wing.

Although the Mounties completed only three of 12 passes, the pass protection offered Showers by the EOC forward line was outstanding, but a crack defense put up by the Coyotes liimted completions.

The defensive skills of the Mountaineers is something to be marveled at because of the massive beef the C of I had to deploy against their opponents. Ron Robinson, playing a defensive linebacker slot, was outstanding for the Mounties. Also Freshman Fred Sayre is to be commended for his outstanding defensive play in the secondary. All in all the whole team is to be commended for their tremendous defensive play, desire and spirit.

Next Saturday night Eastern Oregon travels to Walla Walla to play in the annual Shrine benefit game. This also promises to be a bruising game played on a field where men try to outfan and manuever each other.

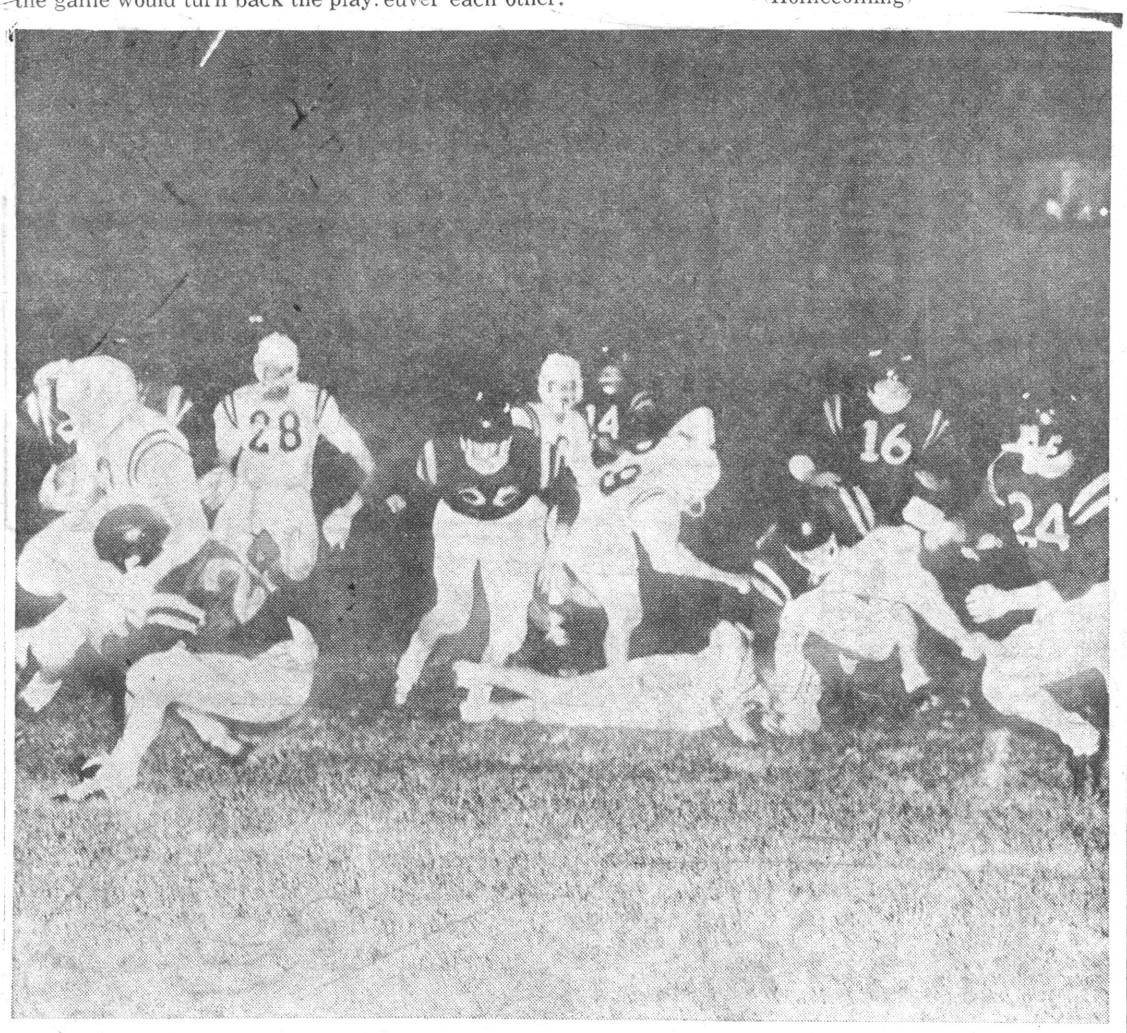
EOC ROSTER:

Head coach Archie Dunsmoor greeted forty-nine football players. This is by far one of the largest turn outs in the history of the school. Many of the players being freshman, the team seems to lack only experience. However, the spirit and desire to play the great sport of football makes every man on the squad a potential starter. Those turning out for football include:

ENDS—Larry Snook, 175, 5-10 junior from Wallowa, two-year letterman; Dennis Oliver, 175, 6-0 sophomore from Halfway, one-year letterman; Lee Wick, 185, 6-1 sophomore from Redmond, one-year letterman; John Ross, 175, 5-10 freshman from Ontario; Ron Makin, 185, 6-3 sophomore from Joseph; Lynn Harris, 173, 5-11 sophomore from Grandview, Ida.; Dick White, 185, 6-3 freshman from Oregon City; Terry Kaseberg, 185, 6-3 sophomore from Wasco.

TACKLES—Bob Salter, 220, 5-11 senior from Ione, three-year letterman; John Clark, 185, 6-1 senior from La Grande, three - year letterman; Jerry Campbell, 180, 5-11 sophomore from Redmond, one-year letterman; Keippe May, 200, 6-0 sophomore from Pilot Rock, one-year letterman; Steve Straughan, 235, 6-0 freshman from Prineville; Darold Good, 185, 6-0 junior from Weston; Michael Be-Bout, 180, 6-2 freshman from Springfield; Emil Wirth, 205, 5-11 junior from Vale, transfer from Boise JC.

GUARDS—Gordon Myers, 180, 6-0 senior from Joseph, two-year letterman; Dick Barr, 190, 6-0 junior from Union, one-year letterman; Paul Rice, 180, 5-11 sophomore from Athena; Delford Sharp, 160, 5-8 freshman from Fruitland, Ida.; John Steele, 165, 5-7 freshman from Joseph; Bob Sewell, 170, 5-10 freshman from Pendleton; Don Graham, 185, 6-0 freshman from La Grande; Larry Longbrake, 175, 5-10 freshman from Sutherlin; Ken Miller, 212, 5-10 sophomore from Dufur, transfer from Dickinson, N.D.; Jim Stievers, 210, 6-0 freshman from Corbett.



CENTERS—Henry Thew, 215, 6-0 junior from Cove, one-year letterman; Bill Jackson, 230, 6-1 senior from Prineville; Dennis Kincaid, 170, 5-8 freshman from Hines; Charles Champman, 205, 5-11 freshman from Banks.

QUARTERBACKS—Ron Robinson, 190, 5-10 junior from Union, two - year letterman; Bob Bates, 185, 5-11 junior from Vale, transfer from Boise JC; Dick Green, 170, 5-10 freshman from Umatilla; John Fields, 150, 5-10 freshman from Wasco.

WINGBACKS—Charles Becker, 175, 5-11 junior from Vale, two-year letterman; Steve Everitt, 170, 5-10 senior from Caldwell, Ida., two-year letterman; Herbert Forbes, 180, 5-11 sophomore from Redmond; Dale Keithwood, 165, 5-11 freshman from Ely, Nev.; Hal Williams, 175, 5-10 freshman from Seneca; Gerald Getchell, 165, 5-10 freshman from Hermiston; Ted Miller, 165, 5-11 senior from Elgin.

TAILBACKS — Fred Sayre, 165, 5-10 freshman from Elgin; Bill Showers, 180, 5-10 freshman from Elgin; Gary Moe, 160, 5-10 freshman from Madras.

FULLBACKS—Ladd McGowan, 190, 6-0 senior from Pilot Rock, transfer from Oregon State; Gilbert Daniels, 180, 5-10 freshman from Sisters; Jim Foster, 163, 6-0 freshman from Sutherlin; Jim Morris, 196, 6-0 junior from Heppner.

CARRY ME AWHILE

Gary Matlock, College of Idaho speedster, appears to be picked up by Eastern Oregon's Charles Becker for a piggy-back ride during Saturday night action at the Mountaineer field. Matlock ran for 80-yard touchdown earlier in the game and Becker is seeing to it that Matlock doesn't do it again. Other Mountie players coming in to help Becker are Ron Robinson (16), Fred Sayre (24) and Henry Thew. C of I won game 14-0. (Photo by Bill Donahue)

EOC LINEUP JUGGLED FOR WHITMAN GAME

Coach Arch Dunsmoor juggled his Eastern Oregon College lineup in preparation for Saturday night's football encounter with Whitman at Walla Walla.

The Mountie mentor moved Ron Robinson from the blocking back position to fullback, replacing Ladd McGowan.

Dorion Hall Hosts NewHousemothers

With the opening of the fall term this week and the returning of students to their respective living groups the head residents also resume housekeeping at Hunt and Dorion Hall.

At Dorion Hall for the first time this fall is Mrs. Belle Chandler, a former substitute housemother from the University of Oregon and a longtime Baker County resident. Herself a mother of four grown children, Mrs. Chandler believes that the new students at EOC have made a quick adjustment to college life and dormitory living. Having had an opportunity to observe various women's living groups Mrs. Chandler believes that at Dorion the girls have all the conveniences available to make dormitory life comfortable. Mrs. Marie Sass is assisting Mrs. Chandler this year for the first time while she attends classes at EOC.

Returning for her second year at Hunt Hall is head resident, Mrs. Gladys Marler, or simply Gladys to her 235 boys. A native of Nebraska and a La Grande resident for the past 18 years she first came to the EOC campus in 1948. Before taking on the duties of house mother she served as a cook at Hunt hall. Like Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Marler also has children of her own, a son and a daughter.

Assisting Mrs. Marler in her duties at Hunt is Mr. and Mrs. Gayland Searles. Mr. Searles is a student at EOC.

Reminiscing over the past year Mrs. Marler hopes that there will be as much brotherliness and togetherness among the boys as shown in the past. This is one trait among most all of the Hunt hall boys that is particularly outstanding.

Student Attendance Urged For Fall Assembly Programs

Notice the coming Fall Assemblies Program which has been planned for your enjoyment and entertainment. There is such a variety in programs consisting of elections—great musicians — and many others.

You, as students of EOC are very fortunate this year to have such a fine program planned especially for you, and each of you should take advantage of this great opportunity to see very talented groups as well as take part in the elections and holiday assemblies.

Every assembly has something valuable for you in it and we urge you to attend every one of the following Fall Term Assemblies:

September 27—Opening Assembly
October 4—Student Senate Elections
October 18—Hazelle Mazee, Soprano
October 25, November 1—Homecoming Assemblies
November 15 — Alard String Assembly
November 22 —Thanksgiving Assembly
November 29—Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee, vocalists with Belafonte's troup.

See you there!

We have the newspaper, which does its best to make every square acre of land and seagives an account of itself at the breakfast table.

NOTICE

ALL STUDENTS SHOULD MAKE CERTAIN THAT INFORMATION CARDS HAVE BEEN TURNED IN TO THE DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION'S OFFICE. THESE CARDS, FOR THE COLLEGE NEWS BUREAU, WERE TO BE TURNED IN FOLLOWING REGISTRATION.

I.R.C. Hears Col. Baum

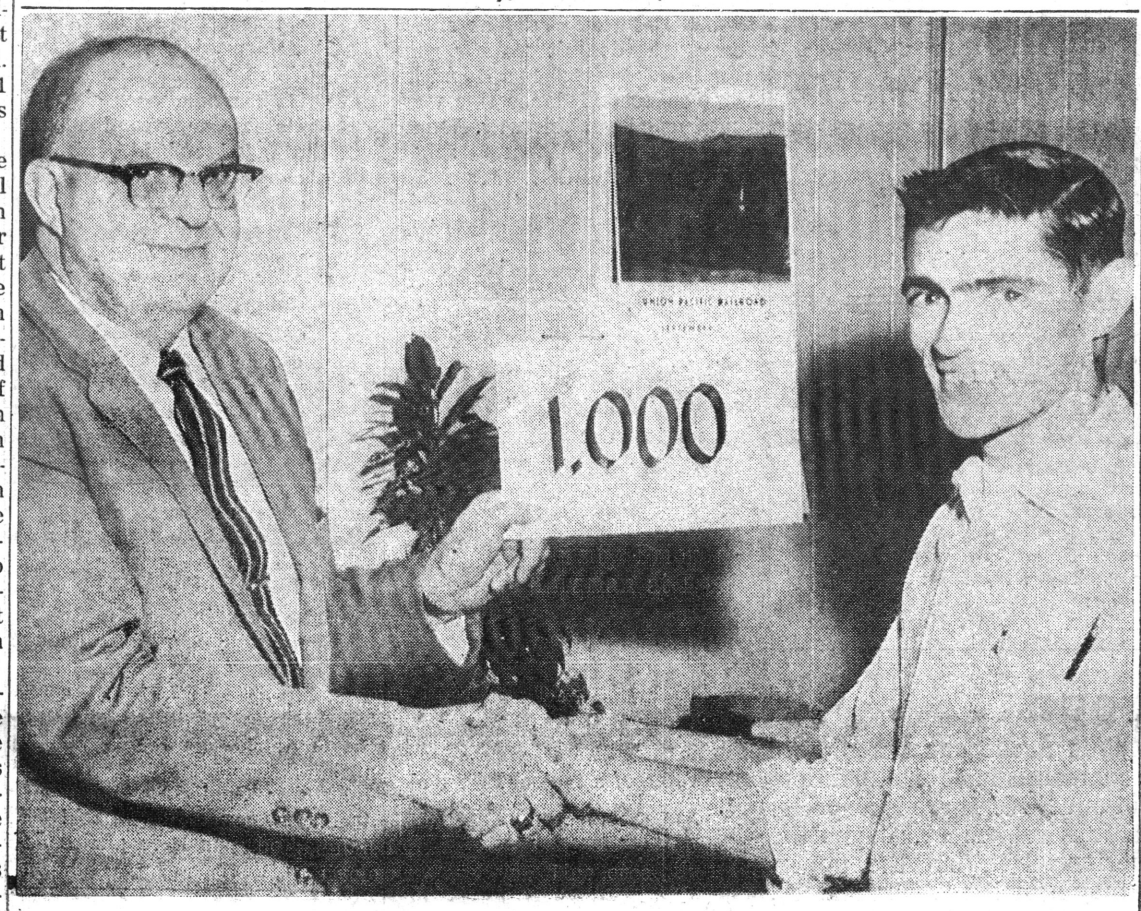
Tuesday noon the International Relations Club heard Col. David C. Baum, Battle Group Commander of the 1st. Battle Group, 186th Infantry, speak on "Military Preparedness and the Effect it has on World Affairs." Col. Baum recently returned from 11 weeks of active duty at various Army Posts around the nation.

Col. Baum spoke briefly of the League of Nations as a symbol of man's trying to do away with armed conflict after World War I. World War II reaffirmed what we already knew, that people would fight to the death for an ideal whether religion, communism or nazism. "War," said Baum, "is basically a clash of ideologies." Since the Korean "Conflict" we have been through a series of 17 different international affairs any one of which could have led to WWIII. The situation is determined by a balance of power. ILf one or a group of nations actually gets the balance of power or even think that they do then the world situation will probably change.

Col. Baum said that U.S. military advisors expect that if we go to war this year it will be by December 1. This date is when over a ¼ million Russian draftees will move up to the front lines to replace the veterans now in position. If Russia is going to push the Berlin situation, on or about December 1 will be the date.

A question raised by Col. Baum was, "Who will suffer most from an Atomic war?" He then went on to explain that the average Russian has 40 hours of civil defense training and receives 40 hours more each year. This training also takes in chemical warfare and bacteriaological warfare which most of our people don't even know exist.

After the colonel's speech the floor was opened for questions. One of the questions asked was: "Why would Russia use A-bombs when gas and bacterial warfare would leave the natural resources and production lines intact?" Col. Baum answered that the Russians would probably use a combination of both to demoralize the civilian population. Another question brought up the subject of medical attention. This subject received much attention in that the answer is brutally frank. Personal receiving a fatal does of radioactivity will be told "to go into the woods and die."



The International Relations Club was given food for thought for many weeks to come. All members expresed thanks to the colonel for the facts and views that he expressed.

Rally Squad For '61-'62 Elected

The EOC rally squad will have a new look beginning next home game with the addition of four new members which were added to the peppy quintet of girls Monday night, October 2.

Before the critical eyes of a committee of student leaders the campus twelve aspirants did their yells, dances, and songs.

Of the twelve hopefuls Fran Walker '65, Dee Holloway '64, Barbara Evans '64, and Cathey Anderson '65, tallied the deciding votes.

In addition to these Peggy Elder '63 will be returning as rally squad leader.

Working with the new rally this year for the first time will be the newly organized rally committee which will be in charge of publicity, help with the pre-game pep rally for homecoming, and other chores for which the rally itself has limited time. Their first job will be the making of pompoms for homecoming and attendance at the bonfire and game during homecoming festivities.

New Language Club Organized

The Modern Language Club held its first meetinf of the year on Sept. 28. Programs for the year ere discussed, but nothing was decided upon. Judy Pidcock, Faye Jasa and Donna Rounsville are officers Pro Tem until the elections are held on Monday, October 9. At the forthcoming meeting the program for the year will be outlined. Mrs. Pointon, the club advisor, urges all Modern Language students to join the club.

Suggestions for a theme were discussed and tabled until the next meeting.

The following people are members of the Homecoming Committee and chairmen of tha respective committees: Alumni business meeting, Miss Neva Neill; Alumnia registration, Janet Bond; Bonfire, Freshman Class President; Coffee hours, Gail Fisher and Char Williams; Coronation, Ardienne Hansen and Dennis Bagnell; Elections Barbara Torris; Football Game (UPshers), Lettermen's Club;; Half-time War, Alan Duby; Homecoming Ball, Bill Ward; Homecoming Parade, Deanna Talbot; Homecoming Secretary, Lynne Sato; Mums, Bill McCleary; Pep Rall and Parade, Peg Elder; Pom-Poms, Rally Squad; Publicity and Signs, Jim Morris; Record Dance, Jim Cornett; Stuffing Party, Publicity Committee and Freshman Class President.

Campus Wear To Be Shown

Guys and gals attention! Are you interested in proper campus wear? If so, come to the style show Wednesday, October eighteenth, sponsored by the Associated Women Students. This will take place at 7:00 p.m. in Hoke Hall.

Attire for both male and female will be featured so, fellows, you are urged to attend. This includes casual, best, semi-formal and formal. Dress for Homecoming will be the center of interest with clothes to suit the many different attractions of this exciting week.

Sandy Harrintt, chairman, and her committes have been working hard to make this show a success. Credit should be given to Carol Woodell, decorations, Adrienne Hansen, publicity, Linda Rogers, entertainment, and other A. W. S. members helping in this event.

Special entertainment has been planned to make the evening complete so everyone come and see how the well dressed E.O.C. student looks on the various campus occasions.

We Goofed

It has been brought to our attention that the Young Democrats and Young Republicans were left off the "Campus Who's Who" in our last issue. They are: Young Republicans—Jim Sisemore.

Young Democrats — Fred Kelly.

For this — our sincere apologies. If we left out any other organization, let us know so that we might make this list current.

EOC Goes Over 1000 Mark

Fall term enrollment at Eastern Oregon College went over the magic 1000 mark yesterday.

Frank Currie, resident of Pendleton and a pre-engineering junior, was the 1000th student to register for classes.

EOC's record enrollment now stands at 1002 compared with 812 last year, representing a 22.1 per cent increase.

Transfer Student

Currie, married, is back to school "on a full time basis." The EOC junior transferred from Portland State, where he had attended evening sessions while holding down a job with the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

This past summer he worked in Washington and Oregon for the Bureau of Public Roads. "But now I'm going to devote full time to study," he says.

According to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, EOC registrar, final tabulation of enrollment figures will be Oct. 7, the last day for official registration.

Sophomores Win Honors

There are fifteen sophomres students participating in the Honors Program. The faculty team is made up of Dr. Spear, Mr. Kimbrell and Dr. Badgley. Students and teachers meet in a colloquim each Wednesday afternoon.

The topic chosen for the year is on the Art of Knowing. Through this they will try to develop or discover how man learned to kno from very early history to the present time.

A dozen books have been selected for the group to read. Other texts can be referred to. The study should result in a general pooling of knowldege.

EOC Drama Season Begins Here Nov. 2

"Light Up the Sky" will open the Eastern Oregon College drama season Nov. 2, according to Marvin A. Rummells, assistant professor of speech and drama.

The show is one of Moss Hart's funniest pieces. From his long association with show people he has written a satire on theatre personalities that is both piercing and hilarious.

CAST

Miss Lowell—Margo Cunningham
Carleton Fitzgerald — Dave Slabaugh
Frances Black—Joannie Thurston
Owen Turner—Ed Plass
Stella Livingston—Sharon Hickey
Peter Sloan——Tom Strand
Sidney Black—Leroy Mobley
Sven—Dick Domey
Irene Livingson—Deanna Talbott
Tyler Rayburn—Doug Bashaw
William H. Gallegher—Joe Ston

"Light Up The Sky" is a delightful comedy by Moss Hart. In this show about show people the worst happens. Through a misunderstanding, the cast, director, producer, and playwright think that the show has flopped. This misunderstanding brings out the worst in everyone until the only sober Shriner in town corrects the mistake.

The show within a show takes place in Boston in the cold month of December. When you come to see the show bring a handkerchief, you'll laugh so hard you will cry.

Be Proud

Oftentimes we voice complaints about our school—we all do it! And oftentimes these compaints have a foundation, yet we really should be proud of our EOC. There is a special grand feeling which we will always remember. Maybe the freshmen haven't as yet experienced it, but the upperclassmen will agree that when they hear the "Alma Mater", a choking sensation comes—one of which they will never be free.

There is, at EOC, a graduate student who has been on several campuses in the West—some as a student and some as a visitor. And he related the other day that he had never seen a campus like EOC. He said that we have a certain something which he has found in no other college. When I tried to pin him down as to just what it was that we had, he said he couldn't explain it—it was just there. He could pinpoint this fact, however! ! ! He said that he had never seen such enthusiasm by the students anywhere. This is something that we should all think about.

Certainly we all agree that there are advantages in attending larger colleges. But these must be catagorized into social advantages, for there are few which can compare with our academic program—glance at the list of professors on our campus and notice how many of them hold their doctorates! ! Lack of social advantages seems large when we are here reading of the activities that students enjoy at Oregon or Oregon State. Yet, how many of us could afford to attend the big dances at $5.00 a person? And anyone who has attended a larger school cannot deny that the number of students who do attend these functions is small in comparison to their enrollment.

So, let's all get behind EOC and stay behind her. Let's be proud to say that we are alumni of EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, La Grande, Oregon.

Officers Retreat At Wallowa Lake

The 1961 officers retreat was held at Wallowa Lake on Sept. 14 and 15.

This year's group consisted of Dean Winters, Dean Anderson, ASB president Don Shore and Mrs. Shore; vice president, Larry Coleman; 2nd vice president, Jim Cornett; secretary, Sharon Myers, business manager, Carol Woodell; and rally squad leader, Peggy Elder.

After arriving at the lake and getting situated in one of the available cabins, Dean Winters, Dean Anderson, and Don and Mrs. Shore tried their luck at some fishing while Larry, Jim, and the girls took a hike to the falls above the lake. That evening Dean Anderson charcoal broiled steaks for everyone.

A business meeting was then conducted in order to discuss plans for the coming New Student Week. This was followed by the traditional gab session which lasted until everyone was so sleepy they couldn't keep their eyes open.

Friday morning everyone was up bright and early and went to the lake. Dean Winters, Dan Anderson, and Don andMrs. Shore did some more fishing. Larry, Jim, and the girls got themselves a speedboat and went out for some water skiing and general fooling around.

That afternoon after dinner, all pitched in and cleaned up the cabin. All last minute details were taken care of and everyone headed for home about two o'clock.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Say—what's the matter, boys? than the dears this weekend? You all know that there was a dance put on by the junior class Saturday night. How many of you were there? The girls won't wait forever, you know. A dance with about four couples and a few extra doesn't make a good dance—it only makes a flop. This was the second dance this week that turned out this way. What's the matter? Is there no school spirit around EOC? It's really disgusting to have these social events take place and have so few students take part. Tell you what—I'll be seeing you at the next dance.

We, EOCene girls would like to say "Thank You" for inviting us to your swinging dance last Friday night. We enjoyed every minute of it and are sincerely looking forward to more just like it in the future.

Thanks again, boys!

Faculty Notes

Eastern Oregon's enrollment has reached a new peak again this year. This is particularly noticable in the math-scence department.

The increased enrollment in all phases of EOC's math-science department this year emphasizes the need of the proposed new science building.

The calculus class this year has an enrollment of approximately 40 which almost triples last year's figure of 14. The highest previous regitration in this class was in the post-war era when 32 to 35 mathematicians explored the world of calculus.

There is also a record enrollment of freshmen taking mathematics this year with four sections of the new college alegbra sequence being taught. This replaces the previously entitled elementary analysis sequence.

The new program this year emphasizes the modern trend in mathematics. Significant of this is that EOC is the only school in the state offering Recent Developments in Math Education, a fact we can be proud of. This has been initiated into math education programs in some school districts throughout the country and is a complete revision of the present traditional program.

Also, offered for the first time at EOC is differential equations, a sequence which follows calculus.

A new professor has been added in the presence of Mr. Norman Nelson. Mr. Nelson is a graduate of Eastern Oregon and has done graduate work at Purdue University. He joins the faculty after having previously taught at Baker High School.

On the program of the Social Science department, which operates through such campus organizations as the International Relations Club, there is a Seminar program slated for October 20th with its theme entitled "Economic Potential of Eastern Oregon." The Seminar, sponsored jointly by Eastern Oregon College and the Oregon State Department of Employment, offers during the course of the day a series of talks by very distinguished guests, discussion periods, and a luncheon at noon in the Hoke hall student center.

Dear Sam . . .

Dear Sam . . .

I'm almost ready to flick it in and come home! The college seems to be in bad shape at the present! ! !

We've had three dances so far and hardly anyone showed up for them. I guess the majority of students here think that their feet are just for the purposes of walking. Maybe they should have a class entitled "The Feet and Their Many Uses." Those brave souls who did show for the dances should be given a medal.

Next in line of silliness, we have a group of clods in Hunt Hall who get the largest thrill imaginable out of throwing fire crackers in the halls. If they'd go to History class once-in-awhile they might learn that the fire crackers are used chiefly to celebrate Independence Day. I doubt if they have that capability in their minute minds.

AND, our student government is going to be about as successful as the maiden voyage of the Titanic if more people don't petition for various senatorial seats.

One bright spot in this wek's muddle is EOC's 19-13 victory over Whitman last Saturday night. The team showed that they are to be reckoned with this season.

Well, it's time to paint rooks again so I'll be seeing you.

Your Discouraged Pal,
Jimmy

Mounties Post Victory Over Missionaries

The Mounties captured their first football win in two seasons at Walla Walla Saturday night by defeating Whitman College 19-13. Not only did this victory snap a losing streak, but also added laurels to the record book as a victory against an opponent dating back to 1929. The Missionaries now lead in the series 15 games to 6 for the Mountaineers.

The running and passing of Bill Showers gave the Mounties the needed punch to out man the Whitman team. Showers, about as fast as the hands of a pickpocket on a New York subway, snaked his way through the Missionaries to set up two of the Mountie scores. The third score coming from his rifle arm which is as true as the rifle shot from a skilled hunter stalking a deer.

Whitman hit paydirt first in the game recovering a Mountaineer fumble on their own two yard following a pass interception by Fred Sayre. Four plays after recovering the fumble, Bill Higler scored on a two-yard run. Roger Weber kicked the extra point and Whitman led 7-0.

EOC, not to be denied, came right back to score in the second stanza. Showers ran for 36-yards three plays later putting the ball deep in Missionary territory. Showers went over the goal line from three yards out and Ron Robinson kicked the extra point to tie the game 7-7.

Later in the second quarter Showers once again slashed over the goal line to put the Mounties in front at halftime 13-7.

The Mountaineers scored again in the third period when Ladd McGowan recovered a Whitman fumble on the Whits 18 yardline. Six plays later, Showers passed to Bob Bates in the end zone. The score was now 19-7 in favor of EOC.

The game, never over until the final whistle is blown, the Missionaries put on a display that would be in form with the Sunday afternoon pros. After scoring on a drive starting on their own 27-yard line to make the score read 19-13 the Missionaries put another scare into the Mounties by threatning late in the fourth quarter. However EOC playing even more like the pros came through when the chips were down. Fred Sayre once again was the lifesaver when he intercepted a Whitman pass which might have otherwise made the score read different.

This victory by the Mountaineers may mean they are no longer a pigskin punching bag in the Oregon Collegiate Conference. However they will get an acid test this weekend when they play Oregon College of Education. OCE lost to supposedly tough Linfield 13-7.

Other scores in the OCC teams include: Oregon Tech blanked Grays Harbor Junior College 14-0, Lewis and Clark edged Southern Oregon 28-26, and Portland State lost to Nevada 40-20.

ATHELETES FEATS

By DAVID HAUN

Congratulations to the Mountie football team for their victory last Saturday night . . . . . Looking at the size of the crowd for the first home game the football team played this year brings many memories to me. I can remember when I was a student at Ackerman grade school the Mountaineer football team, when they played at the high school field, drew a crowd about the size of the first grade class now in Ackerman. The C of I and EOC crowd is a far cry from what it used to be. I only hope the students and town keep up the support of the team. . . . . By printing time the World will have been in progress. I can't help from reflecting on the feats of Roger Maris. His home runs are truly something to be marveled. But to hear some of the old timers talk about the ball, pitching, ball parks, and the and players themselves you might think Maris was playing in the American Legion League. Almost every day you pick up the sports page you can read where some old Hall of Famer discredits Maris's feat. I guess the old saying, "it is easier to live in the past then in the present" has some food for thought. However, we the public, are partially to blame because we ask for the comparison which is only natural to man's nature. But it still gulls me to see somebody compare the none real with the real. Meaning here to see somebody compare Ruth with Maris. In my own mind I can't see how anybody can make this comparison since Ruth is not able to play in the present with Maris. It seems that we are dealing with an old frontier against a new frontier.

Since I have been on EOC campus I have heard various complaints. One that seems to stick out like a sore thumb is the lack of activities. An activity that might be of interest in sports is intramural football. I have noticed not one intramural football team on campus. Why doesn't somebody start up a touch football league? I know Mr. Jack Kennedy would back me on this point.

Last Saturday was the opening of deer season. Many of the students and faculty members were able to bag their deer. However from many reports I heard there were as many hunters as there were deer.

Last Saturday marked the opening football season for many schools. The scores of some of the games were erratic as the bounce of the football. To me it is always interesting to compare the scores and teams with the pre-season crystal ball gazers. Many of them must have had their mind on something else. But that is the way the ball bounces . . . Good luck, Mountie's, against OCE.

World Series Prophesied

Leaves fall, brisk winds arrive, footballs fill the air, and eager faces, old and new, crowd the campuses throughout the nation. This spells out one thing —fall is here! And this once again brings forth the intellecon campus: rooks, WIMMEN, tual discussion of the little men graduation, booze, WIMMEN, classes, booze, profits, WIMEN, and the World Series.

Every October sports fans take time out from the gridiron wars to bestow valuable knowledge onto the unknowing —who will win the series.

Hence, after gazing into the murky crystal ball and now that I have dug a hole and found a place to hide, I give my million of readers my predictions on the 1961 Fall Classic. So—106 tees off—I consulted with my old baseball associate, Itsa Balk, who by the way, played ball with Babe Ruth. (Actually, Ole Balkey was not on the roster. but he caught a ball that the Bambino hit over Yankee Stadium's left field wall in 1928.) Balkey gives his gilt-edged guarantee that one thing is certain. The Philadelphia Phillies will not win the 1961 World Series. It seems Mgr. Gene Mauch and crew had a slight mixup on scheduling and will not be present this year.

This is as far as he would commit himself so it appears that I will have to face the guillotine alone. While I'm sawing off the limb I sit on, I predict that the New York Yankees will win the 1961 series. I make this forecast on the basis of a few insignificant faces on the present Yankee roster—Mantle, Maris, Ford, Skowron, Berra, Howard—The pitching an power of the N.Y. men seem too much for the inspired Reds to handle. As of Frilday, Sept. 29, M-M and crew held a HR edge on Fred Hutchinson's National League entry 239 to 157. Of this total Maris has contributed 60 and Mantle, cannot rest in peace after getting by this pair. The entire Yankee lineup has swingers that can break up the game in one blow. What other team can have a .350 hitter (Elston Howard) batting 6th?

The N.Y. mound corps is paced by left Whitey Ford (25-4) who undoubtly is one of the best pressure pitchers in World Series history. To back him up they have such hurlers as Ralph Terry (16-3), Roland Seldon, Bill Stafford, Bud Daley and Jim Coates. If this array should falter they have the little fireballer, Luis Arroyo, who has been Ford's "stopper" all year.

Of course, the Reds have some fine players who should make it an interesting series. To their credit they have Frank Robinson (.323, 37 HRs, 123 rbis.) aand Vada Pinson (.343 and a terror on the base paths). Looking at the pitching, Jim O'Toole (19-9), who should start in the opener against For, Joey Jay (21-10) and Bob Purkey form a formidable trio.

Despite the fact that this writer hates the Yankees with a passion, I forecast that Yankee power, pitching an depth will prevail over the tremendous desire and spirit of the Reds. Har-umph!

Mountie JV's Drop Contest

PASCO—Eastern Oregon College junior varsity dropped a 19-6 gridiron tilt here to the Columbia Basin JC JV's here Monday.

Columbia Basin scored twice in the third period to gain a 13-6 lead over EOC. The lone Mountie touchdown also came in the third stanza on a pass play. Tailback Jim Foster threw to wingback Herb Forbes for the touchdown that covered 70-yards.

Coach Ken Cox played all 27 EOC players suited down for the contest.

Next Monday, the Mountaineer JV's will tangle with the College of Idaho junior varsity on the Mountie field. Game time is 4 p.m.

A DESCENT TO INTELLECT

And the day of mystery
Beginning.
The sun JUMPS from Oregon mountains
Like Achillius pulling the heel-arrow.
ALL students arise clear-eyed
To face the day full face,
Shunning the sloth of sleep.
The Registrar's office floods
With transfer requests into Philosophy, and requests for
NEW COURSES . . .
(The Meaning of Meaning)
(Life, Death, and Pinchme)
Mickey Mouse is hung,
Effigy and otherwise.
Prayers are said for those
Crushed in the crush
At the library door, and After a long flight, the glowing
EYE of the box is destroyed.
By popular reaction the basketball
Team returns from Alaska, and (8$ back to each student body)
The student senate adjournes
To attend a performance of Shakespeare (S.R.O. ovation).
Students treat with respect
The professors, swooned with awe.
As the flag (starred, reverential)
Ascends, the crack in the Earth wid ens
The gulf deepens
And EOC crashes into The bottom less pit.

Dr. M. T. RIFLE,
State Game Reserve

Observers of fauna can note extraordinary specimens within the confines of the state game reserve better known as College Hill. The habits of these animals are peculiar. Individuals may migrate during the summer months, but all band together each fall for the September-June mating season.

The nature lover who goes to College Hill will need a key of identification to distinguish the mutations of collegiates. The following brief descriptions are

Bicepts Brawnus: This male presented for his enlightenment. animal is prompted to his college habitat by a football scholarship. Though his skull may be one of the largest on campus his brain is comparable in size to that of the Jama Man. He will fight fiercely to protect from any rival his steady girl (a Prancer Clamorous, if instinct prevails), has letterman's sweater, and his fine library of comic books.

Prancer Clamorous: This female is on occasion found leading a chorus of gutttural noises in support of a corps of Biceps Brawni when they attack an enemy. It is an intense experience to watch the tirbal dances which she may go through during such a battle.

Activity Franticus: Both sexes of this creature belong to majority of organizations. His attempt to have a finger in every pie is limited only by the fact that he possesses but ten fingers. When demanded to cut down on activities, he willingly gives up studying.

Farmer Transplantus: This curious beast of the wilds has great difficulty in adjusting to community life. He is most easily identified by the bits of dung clinging to his cowboy boots.

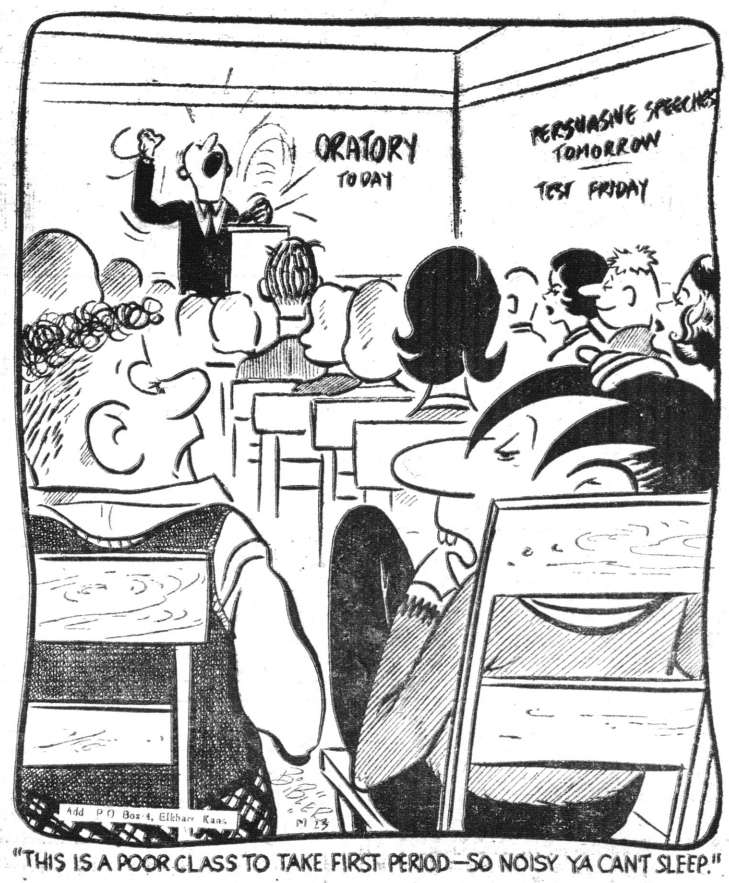
Newman Plasticus: This individual is most interesting. Either male or female, it is the first time he has come to the reserve. He is identifiable either by a blue-and-gold war bonnet or painted face.

Eyebrow Gorgeous: This creature possesses all traits desirable in a feminine College Hill resident. She is attractive, charming, and expensively attired. Her previous migrations have ranged as far as Europe in some instances. Her carefully cultivate talents include mating overtures. Caution in observing this exquisite creature is wise, for on Wednesdays, atavis calls her to take on the aspect of a saber-tooth tiger.

Leader Innocuous: This chap is a counterpart to the Eyebrow Gorgeour. His favorite pasttime is listening to his own voice; besides his spaking responsibilities, he often prowls in the campus choruses. He is firm and resolute; he can pass up anything but a mirror. He has his own high standards, including criteria for telling jokes.

Spectacles Studious: An interesting symbol, the honor role, is the ruling passion of this soul. Fellows see little of him, as his nose is always buried in books. Both sexes of this kind are proud of not belonging to any time-wasting clubs.

Coffee Conversus: This type, of both sexes, on occasion is found to have the largest brain prevalent. Research is now being carried out to determine just how empty it is. This animal is easily recognizable by his casual attire and raucous laugh. His pasttime is arguing with a fellow on sex, religion, politics, or any other brilliantly unique topic. His artistic vent in dramatics or writing is an interesting quirk in his nature. The distaste of other collegians has yet to break his bones. Like the Activity Franticus specimen, he has his fingers in many pies, the only difference being that these are chiefly of mud.



REMEMBER!!!! It is only though YOUR active participation that Homecoming for 1961 can be a bang-up success, so — Enter and support floats, support your candidate for Homecoming queen and, best of all, participate from the word "go."

Dorion Hall Alarms Firemen

Fire rising out of an incinerator flue at Dorion Hall Sunday night resulted in the arrival of the city fire truck and eager crewk.

The La Grande fire department responded at 11:03 Sunday night to a call from a woman who gave her address as 804 4th. She was reported to have said that there was fire "coming out of the chimney" at Dorion Hall.

When the fire truck arrived Assistant Fire Chief Earl Edwards was admitted cautiously through the front door which was then relocked behind him. Informed sources reported that Chief Edwards was required to wear a blindfold through the dorm halls, but this was denied by college authorities.

Edwards said that he found one of the halls buried with shredded newspaper, "a space approximately 30 feet long and 2 feet deep, about enough to fill a room, was covered with newspaper." Upon reaching the roof Edwards found that the screen covering the flue was missing and that the paper being burned in the incinerator was rising out of the flu. After inspecting the roof and seeing that the newspaper was carried outt, the fire truck left, leaving the Dorion girls something to talk about as they helped Dusty and Robin clean the rest of the newspaper out of the room.

Hail Students! Get Mug Shots!!

Notice to all students who want their pictures taken. The photographer will be here October 25 and the morning of October 26 for freshman, sophomore, and junior pictures. Senior pictures will be taken in the afternoon of October 26 and all day October 27.

The pictures will be taken in the art gallery in the library basement. Every one who did not have his picture taken during registration is encouraged to do so sometime next Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday.

If your picture is not taken at this time, it will not be included in the annual.

NOTICE!!

Attention all students who are interested in the Humanities! The Junior Affiilates of the National Council of Teachers of English are again being organized on this campus. This is YOUR organization for YOUR benefit. Please contact Mr. Hartig or any member of the English department for further information.

Remember, as a member of this prpofession, you should belong to its most important organization!

Applications For Fellowships Being Taken At EOC

Applications for Danforth Graduate Fellowships worth up to $12,000 are now being received according to John M. Miller, Eastern Oregon College director of graduate study.

The fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., are open to male college seniors or recent graduates preparing for a career of teaching, counseling, or administrative work at the college level.

Applicants may be planning to major in any recognized field at the American graduate school of their choice, but should not have already undertaken graduate work.

Further information concerning the program may be obtained from Miller, who may nominate up to three candidates. Nominations must be submitted to the foundation by Nov. 1.

S.O.E.A. Hosts Guest Speakers

The Student Oregon Education Association held its first meeting of the school year October 4 in Ackerman Auditorium. The meeting was attended by over 100 students who are in either elementary or secondary education.

The group was privileged to have for speakers for the evening Miss Gertrude Geraets of the Ackerman Elementary School and Mr. Jack Rye of the La Grande Junior High School. Miss Geraets spoke on taching as a profession and the importance of every future teacher to participate to the fullest while in college in professional education organization. Br. Rye spoke to the group on the organization of SOEA, OEA, and NEA and told of the many advantages offered by these groups for teachers.

The next meeting of the Student Oregon Education Association will be on November 1 at 7 p.m. in Ackerman Auditorium. At this meeting Mr. J. B. Connoway from Linfield College, who is the state EOEA advisor and Mrs. Regina Ewalt, who is consultant for SOEA, will speak to the group.

SOEA meets the first Wednesday evening of every month at 7 p.m. in Ackerman Auditorium. Anyone interested in furtherin their knowledge of education and professional advance is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The advisors of SOEA are Dr. Martha Addy and Dr. Carlos Easley. President of SOEA is Bill McCleary.

ASB Prexy Don Shore

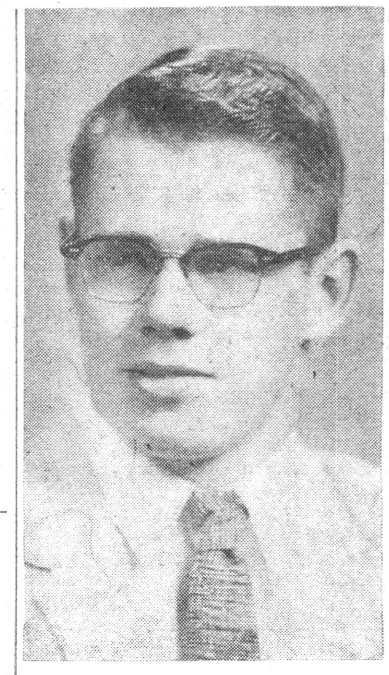
By Tom Strand

Don Shore, the student body president of Eastern Oregon College, is a twenty-one year old Senior holding the most important office on campus. Originally from Boise, Idaho, Mr. Shore has lived in various towns in the Northwest, and graduated in 1958 from Enterprise High School, Enterprise, Oregon. He majors in elementary education and lacks nine credit hours from having a minor in secondary education. Recently he and his wife are the winter custodians for the Island City Country Club.

The duties of the student body president deal essentially with the managing of the school budget and coordinating of student committees. In the future, however, the student government hopes to promote an aministrative evaluation of professors by the students and so-called "grant-in-aide" for student body officers. These are salaries for student body officers which goes toward furthering their educational fund. Both ideas are to be placed before the Senate for discussion.

Mr. Shore's plans for the future are uncertain. The most predominate arrangement at present is to go to San Francisco State to continue his education or to work in California. Which ever he decides the journalism staff wishes him the best of luck and congratulates him on a job thus far well done as student body president.

17 EOC Students In Singing Group



A total of 17 students have been named to the Eastern Oregon College Blue and Gold Singers, select vocal group, according to John L. Cobb, instructor in music and director.

They include Shirley Smurthwaite, Marta Murphy, Carol Hansen, Randi Johnson, Jim Boatman, Jim Cornett, Joe Jarvis, Dave Slabaugh, Dick Clark, and Elizabeth Easley, all of La Grande.

Also Daisy Good, Elgin; Merlene Teasley and Stan Case, both of Pendleton; Frank Conley, Cove; Tom Foreman, Hermiston; Sue Harris, Union; and Peggy Reckman, Grass Valley.

The Blue and Gold Singers are the top student vocalists and are selected to be featured with the EOC Choir.

College Hill Alive With Hunters

Oct 8, 1947 Beacon Reprint:

Campus conversation will soon be filled with campus stories of huge bucks which managed to escape, though mortally wounded. And of 500 yard shots which brought down their fast moving targets. Yes, this is the season when the well dressed men will be 'wearing red hats and rifles, while the popular model of auto will have a buck on each fender.

The La Grande area has unlimited hunting possibilities so we're told, and undoubtedly we shall find many collegiate nimrods pounding the pine needles in search of the wily buck. Reports have already been received that several of the EOC deadeyes have brought home the bacoln and many others know exactly where abuck is hiding, but haveni't had the time to go after him, (so they say.)

The facility rate among the antlered denisens of our forests will seem slight indeed when compared to the death rate of the Saturday classes (Friday afteroon) which will inevitably fall before the onslaught of the hunter: however it has been rumored that some Saturday (Friday) skips may be overlooked if the instructor's frying pans are suitably supplied. (Ed. note; Mr. Johnson please don't flunk Roy Klinghammer for forgetting that venison steak.) (1961 Ed. Note: Dr. Johnson same applies for George White.)

Now Is The Time Get Your Shots

Immunization against smallpox, tetanus and diphtheria. All freshmen are required to have their immunization up to date by the State Board of Higher Education. The uuperclassmen who have not been immunized are asked to please attend to this as soon as possible. The price is $.50 per shot, diphtheria and tetanus being combined. Payments may be made either at the business office or at the office of Mrs. Osterholme (preferably in the afternoon). The three polio shots plus booster shot are available and highly urged.: the oral vaccine is, as yet, not available to the public. Mrs. Osterholme is in her office on Saturdays, 9 - 12:00.

Would the presidents of each organization urge each member to obtain immunization 100%. In this way the entire campus could be immunized with a minimum effort.

Flu shots are available at the nurses office for $.50 per shot. On campus this year we are warned against both strains of the Asiatic flu. Get your shots early and avoid the real thing! !

If anyone notices a sign of infection, colds, sore throat, or stomach distress you are urged to see Mrs. Osterholme at the first sign.

In addition, all returning and transfer students are urged to get their immunization shots. They are to be up to date before leaving campus. You may do this much in behalf of Civil Defense. If there are no Doctors available, you are protected against smallpox, diphtheria and tetanus if you have received proper immunization.

The mobile unit for chest X-ray will be downtown November 1, 2, and 4. See you there.

The Whirlpool facilities have arrived but, as yet, have not been installed: It will be in operation soon.

EOC Now Has 1068 Enrollment

Final official tabulation of Eastern Oregon College fall enrollment Saturday stood at 1068, an increase of 28.5 per cent over last year, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

The figure, compared with 831 for 1960, marks an all-time record for registration at EOC. Of the 1068 students, 605 are men and 463 women.

Dr. Johnson indicated the greatest percentage increase was noted in the pre-professional curriculum with a 40.1 per cent jump. This year 276 are registered in the program compared with 197 for the same period last year.

Oother curricula, with the number of students and percentage increase, include: Secondary Education—274, 35.6 per cent; General Studies (Liberal Arts)—202, 29.4 per cent; and Elementary Education—316, 14.4 per cent.

Help Make Homecoming A Success . . . Work!

Do you realize that Homecoming is only three weeks away? By this time most of the organizations on campus are busily planning and preparing for the various activities that soon will be coming up. All of us are anxiously looking forward to participating in the gala frills of Homecoming but fail to realize the key word to their success is WORK—diligent work, on the part of each member of every organization on campus. What can you do to make this year's Homecoming a success?

First of all, if your organization is sponsoring a foat, find out who is in charge, where it is being built, and when you can help. Support your organization by giving as much of your time as possible.

Second, there are a number of Homecoming committees that are badly in need of help. The Publicity Committee, for one, is carrying a bulk of responsibility and would appreciate help from anyone who is particularly interested in making posters, signs, or lettering. Also, the freshman class, in itself, is responsible for stuffing the Mountie, making the "O", the bonfire, and the organization of the Sandbag War.It is obvious then, that each of us should ask ourselves "Am I doing my part?"

Our responsibility, however, does not end even with the completion of th floats or committee duties. For th final touch of success depends in ous enthusiastic participation in the planned activities. Why not start now to make this the best Homecoming yet?

dorion duz

dorion women were fortunate to have as their guest at the last guest dinner mrs samson wife of reverend samson of the presbyterian church in la grande mrs samson gave the girls some pointers on etiquette and social conduct homecoming is of course on the minds of all Berdine landis and joanna chapman are co-chairmen for the dorion float to be in the homecoming parade the girls from the eocene courts will work together with dorion on this another event under surveillance this time of year is the coffee hour for the alums plans for which are being made by ellen uesugi and bev trimble third floor south elected mary ann turley as their floor representative and not any too soon as house meetings floor meetings and handbook tests are in style at this time the girls should definitely be commended for their contribution to fire prevention week bring it in with an abundance of water and send it out with a comparable amount of fire the civicmindedness of this group astounds me if the enthusiasm for and participation at such activities is indicative we should most assuredly cheer our mountaineers to victory at all the home football games.

EOC Researcher Talks To Nurses

Don Campbell of Eastern Oregon College talked on the effects of exercise on the cholesterol level at the monthly meeting of the Oregon Nurses Assn., district 13, at St. Joseph hospital.

Campbell presented the results of an experiment performed last year at Eastern Oregon College. He had run the experiment on over 100 students who were engaged in different physical activities. It was found that after running, the greatest decrease in blood cholesterol was shown, while wrestling and weight-lifting, even though perhaps more calories were consumed, showed practically no decrease in blood cholesterol.

Mrs. Jane Garrison, R.N., district 13 president, reported that the meeting was well attended.

An organizational meeting was held to begin organizing the nurses for civil defense. Miss Jane Turner, R.N., Hot Lake, became the head of the nursing branch of civil defense. She will help in organizing the nursing service of the county for civil defense.

The love-struck collegian was trying to reason with his father. "But,Dad," he persisted, "don't you believe two can live as cheaply as one?"

"Certainly," growled Dad. "Right now your mother and I are living as cheaply as you."

—THE LION, quoted in THE READER'S DIGEST

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

The administration has, in the past, made considerable effort to regulate, if not accomodate, student parking on campus. Regulation of parking has now assumed a proportion that is more than unreasonable.

For nearly two weeks, the entire block in front of Hoke Hall has been "off limits" to all parking, for no apparent reason. No work has been done, no noisy equipment moved in, not even a few men characteristically leaning on their shovels to lend hope of progress!.

Can't we students hope for something? Please, ed., push for some action here. I can walk to class—I live only a mile away—but some of us town students would like to park nearer the college.

Robert L. Good.

To the Editor:

As I listen to conversation around the campus, I hear the same thing over and over, "I wish the library was open so I could study." It seems to me that this is a reasonable request for a college student to make.

Most students will agree that the library is open enough during the week for daily assignments, but the long term work such as term papers and research must be done on weekends when the student has time to slow down and concentrate.

The time that the library is not open, but should be, is Friday night, 8:00 to 5:00 on Saturadys and 1:00 to 5:00 on Sundays. In discussing this problem with Mr. Kelly it was suggested that only one girl would be necessary for the desk as the library use could be restricted to reference and study work thus eliminating the need for a full staff of workers. Mr. Kelly stated that this would be entirely reasonable and the cost of the extra hours could be held down to about $10 a week or $100 a term.

One man's opinion is not enough to start the ball rolling. If you think that the libarry should be open more on weekends, stop by and tell Mr. Kelly. He will be glad to receive your comments.

Sincerely
Dick Domey.

P.S. Next issue: "Longer Hours for Hoke."

LADIES!!!

I do not know, as I am a new student on this campus, whether or not you will accept a letter of criticism for publication. However, I feel my case is just so I will take my chances.

If I am not misplaced or sadly mistaken, this college is for the purpose of training the future teachers of our state and nation. I also understand that most of the students here are majoring in education.

My point is this: why haven't the first two issues of the BEACON been devoted, in even a minor way, to this field of learning? I'm sure I'm not the only student who would like to know what's going on in my chosen profession.

Hoping for information, I am,
"A ROOK"

(Editor's Note: Yes, "Rook," we will gladly publish any helpful criticism, and we are happy to do so. If you will take special notice of the column, NOTES FROM UNDERGROUND, appearing for the first time in this issue, I'm sure you will be pleased to note that this is an educational column. Watch it each issue—and you will learn more about your profession.)

'Court Capers'

By ANNA WITT

"The Wrong Side of the Tracks, Skid Row, Dorothy's Mistake, East Side, Hunt Hall Annex, The Village, Merlene Courts and Colleen Courts", are just a few of the names that have been attached to the ten apartments in EOCene Courts which house the overflow of girls from Dorion Hall. It is also known as just plain "down the hill." Which one is the right name? The answer is none of them. So far, this unique group of girls is nameless. But they are soon to be organized and a name will be chosen. Watch the next issue of the Beacon for the revelation.

In case any of you are planning to live in an apartment soon, here is some advice gathered from the experiences of the past month. Apartments 12 and 15 advise against feeding the cats, even watermelon and baked potatoes. The felines seem to return the compliment by tipping over the garbage cans very, very early in the morning. Apartment 14 recommends a fire extinguisher instead of water to put out a gas fire.

Apartment 15 does not recommend drying sheets by haning them in front of the stove. They also warned against leaving plastic purses on them. Apartment 16 highly praised Flora's burnt sugar candy. The girls from apartment 11 also enjoyed it, they said. The girls from apartment 14 teil me that "you can't get a man with a Broom." The girls in apartment 2 turned one bedroom into a real "beat's pad" when the springs and mattress crashed to the floor. They gave it up when the bunk beds arrived.

The girls as a whole asked me to remind you that there will be "open-house" hours during Homecoming weekend. They also want everyone to know that they regard these apartments as their "Home away from home," and the Mrs. Winter's experiment as a whole has thus far been a success.

Campus Cutouts

By PHYLLIS BURNETT

Starting with this issue of the Beacon, an attempt will be made to inform the students of EOC what is happening on other campuses in the rather near vicinity.

For instance, the University of Oregon, better known as the Oregon Country Club, must have recently set some sort of record. Only two students of T.O.C.C. were arrested for drinking in a whole weekend.

The class of "65" at S.O.C. proved their superior brawn over the class of "64", by winning the traditional "pull for freedom." This "pull" is held every year after the orientation week. Had the Frosh lost, another week of servitude would have been inflicted on them.

A sleeping bag, a tooth brush, a pair of bermudas, and a sweat shirt were the only possessions of Dale Lowe, Linfield freshman, as he bicycled 500 miles to school. It took two weeks of hard pedaling from Reno to McMinnville for this dilligent student to finally reach his destination.

Oregon State University has a new organization on which was probably devised by the football team. It is a welcoming committee of nine vivacious O.S.U. coeds, who call themselves the Beaver Belles. This organization's goal is to further the school's hospitality. However, it sems someone has suggested that they also welcome their own team home.

! As we all know, the U.S. has been competing for supremacy in space flight. B.J.C. reported in the B.J.C. Roundup that a lady from Payette, Idaho did her best to help out. It seems her pressure cooker, armed with an eight-pound ham, exploded and ejected its cargo almost 20 feet out into the yard. Its course was directly through the ceiling and roof.

O well, as has always been said, "It takes all kinds to make the world go round."

Senate Snatches

by SHARON MYERS

With Senate President, Larry CSoleman, presiding over the new senate body, the year's first Cabinet-Senate meeting got under way Tuesday evening.

Newly elected senators present at the meeting were:

Freshmen—Lynne Vancil, Jim Garrett, Phil Gray, Bill Showers, Tim Johnson;

Sophomores—Jim Morris, Margaret Cunningham, Adrienne Hansen, Jim Johnston, Ron Cooper;

Juniors—Barbara Olinger, Janet Bond, Dennis Bagnall, Annabelle Tidwell, Karen Rothrock;

Seniors—Bill Ward, Bill Jackson, Jim Grooms, Roger Holm and Greg Baker.

I—Carol Woodell presented the 1961-62 Educational Activity Budget and explained the procedure used in obtaining and filling out requisition forms.

II—Larry Coleman listed some rules to be followed while in senate meetings:

1. No smoking is permitted in the Senate Room during meetings.
2. Each senator will have an assigned seat.
3. Each senator will have to get a substitute and turn in the name of this substitute to Larry for Cabinet approval.
4. Each senator will be given a copy of our new Constitution and will be expected to read it.
5. Each senator will be required to bring a notebook, pencil, or pen for purpose of writing in Senate meetings.
6. Senators will be required to rise when the Cabinet enters the Senate Room.
7. Senators are not permitted in the Cabinet room before Senate meetings.
8. Any issues require roll call vote.
9. A senator wishing to speak will raise his hand and state "Mr. President." In turn, he will be recognized by the President of the Senate.

III—Al Carr reported that Rod Esselton's band will play at our Homecoming Dance and approximate total expenses for Homecoming activities will be $477.50.

It was decided during the meeting that admission to the dance would be increased 50 cents this year—$1.50 singles; $2.00 couples.

After a unanimous roll call vote, it was also decided that a trophy, purchased by the Student Body, be presented to a representative of the alumni class showing greatest attendance at the Homecoming registration.

The theme of the 1961 Homecoming is "Moments to Remember", and an invitation to attend the activities was extended by co-chairmen, Merlene Teasley and Al Carr.

IV—The policy on the cost of typing papers was changed. $.01 will now be charged for every two sheets of typing paper used in the Student Body ofifce.

V—Since there are no rules on Senate policy under the new Constitution, it is necessary, among other things, to organize a system whereby a non-member of the Senate might present his issue to the senate body. Some possible solutions to this problem were suggested:

1. Speaking through a senator;
2. Reserving space near the end of the meeting where non-members might speak;
3. Having privileged speakers and also an order in which they might speak. e.g., 1. Cabinet 2. Advisors 3. Committees.

Larry suggested that rather than making a specific motion on Senate Policy action at this meeting, he would give senators a week to consider and discuss; then this Senate Policy could be taken care of at the next meeting.

Student Suspended By Committee Action

A student has been suspended from EOC by action of the Faculty Committee on Student Personnel, according to an announcement made this week.

The student, Mike O'Meara, Condon freshman, was charged with disorderly conduct and possession of alcoholic beverages.

OTI Defeats Mounts 25-13

Eastern Oregon suffered their second straight OCC football loss at the hands of the Oregon Tech Owls in Klamath Falls Oct. 14, 1961.

A 19-point second quarter splurge gave the Owls the impetus it needed to down the Mounties. This gave them a 19 to 6 first half lead nd they had the game well in hand after the third quarter, leading 26 to 6.

Fred Sayre's 19 yard pass to Lee Wick in the first quarter gave the Mounties a 6 to 0 lead and it appeared for a while that EOC might get their second victory of the season.

However, the Owls were not to be denied and after 10 plays in the second quarter they tied the score at 6 to 6. The drive started on their own 26 yard line with Harvey Graham scoring from the 4.

On the second touchdown for the Owls, OTI went 70 yards in 10 plays with Graham once again crossing the line, this time from the 1. Extra point—good. Owls, 13, Mounties, 6.

Stan Glass added the third touchdown following an intercepted pass from the 3. The victors added one more score in the third stanza on a 15 yard pass play. OTI 25, EOC 6.

Eastern Oregon scored in the final stanza on a 15 yard pass play, Sayre to Bob Bates. Robinson's kick for the extra point was good. OTI 25, EOC 13.

This Saturday, EOC will begin a four-game stand, hosting Olympic College in a non-conference tilt.

Hoopers Set For NAIA Tipoff, Nov. 30-Dec. 2

LINFIELD COLLEGE, McMinnville (Special)—Eastern Oregon will replace Southern Oregon in the third annual NAIA Tipoff basketball tournament Nov. 30-Dec. 2, it was announced by District 2 chairman, Bob Livingston, following a meeting Oct. 10.

Again Willamette and Lewis and Clark will host this eight-team event, with the championship game, Dec. 2, to be held at the Bearcat gym.

At the same time, district NAIA officials indicated that the annual Leadoff baseball tournament, held in the spring, may be abandoned. Last year's diamond fest was rained out, while rain also interfered with part of the 1959 playoff.

EOC and SOC will alternate as entries in the Tipoff basketball tournament. Last year the Raidiers participated and this time it will be the Moutaineers.

Roy Helser, head of the basketball committee, announced the following plans for this opening cage action: First night pairings at Lewis and Clark will be EOC vs. Pacific at 7:30 p.m., and the Pioneers vs. Portland State at 9 p.m. First night pairings at Willamette will be Linfield vs OCE at 7 p.m., and Oregon Tech vs. Willamette at 8:30 p.m.

The finals will be Dec. 2 at Willamette with the Sponsoring Salem Exchange Club to present the championship trophy. Helser announced ticket prices for this event at $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students at each session, and $3 for a tournament ducat.

Fred Wilson of the baseball committee indicated the Leadoff tourney will be abandoned, particularly after OCE said it would not participate next spring.

It was also announced that Willamette will be the host for the annual District 2 NAIA awards banquet. This event, which honors all-star teams for the school year as well as iiducting members into the district Hall of Fame, was held at Lewis and Clark this spring and at Portland State in 1960.

Livingston, who heads up the local NAIA organization, also announced the committee heads for the 1961-62 year. They are Linfield's Paul Durham, football; ball; Linfield's Roy Helser, basketball; Lewis and Clark's Eldon Fix, track and cross country. Portland State's Howard Westcott, wrestling; OCE's Bill McArthur, swimming; Lewis and Clark's Fred Wilson, baseball; Lewis and Clark's Jim Goddard, golf; Southern Oregon's Alex Petersen, tennis; Willamette's John Lewis, awards; Portland State's Joe Holland, eligibility; Willamette's Dr. G. Herbert Smith, Presidents' Adviosry Council and Don Fair, publicity.

Dicks Predict

Trying to pick a winner in a football game in this area of high-geared offenses and depth-loaded squads is about as hard to do as trying to hunt alligators in the Paicfic Northwest. However, while I'm looking for another meens of existence, I give you the dope:

EOC 19, Olympic JC 7.

Another win for Archie and crew . Give 'em hell, Mounties!

OCE Defeats Mounts 34-14

MONMOUTH — Oregon College scored three touchdowns in the second quarter to go on to defeat Eastern Oregon College 34-14 in the opening game of Oregon Collegiate Conference play for both teams here Saturday afternoon.

Each team collected one tally in the first quarter. The Mountaineers scored on a 17-yard run by Bill Showers and Ron Robinson kicked the PAT.

Fumbles were costly to EOC throughout the ballgame and a fumble set up the first Wolf score The Mounties fumbled the opening kickoff and OCE recovered on the Mounts 20 yardline. Clayton Ladd went over the goalline from one-yard out and Chuck Carpenter kicked the extra point.

In the second period, the Wolves managed 21 points on three touchdowns. Ladd collected six points for OCE on a one-yard plunge through the center of the line and Carpenter kicked the extra point.

It was now Carpenters turn to score and a nine-yard pass from Chuck Burns to Carpenter provided the tally. Carpenter's extra point was good and OCE led 21-7.

Don Habel plunged through the line from one-yard out to provide the Wolves with their third score of the second quarter. Carpenter's kick was again good and OCE led 28-7 at the end of the half.

EOC Scores

Eastern Oregon came back in the third stanza to score. Robinson gained the score on a dive from one-yard out and kicked the extra point to make the score 28-14.

Oregon College picked up their final score in the fourth period on an eight-yard pass play from Burns to Bob Pennell. The kick by Carpenter for the PAT failed.

The Mounties were without the services of veteran tackle Bob Salter and his absence from the game was sorely missed.

OCE capitalized on three Mountie fumbles and intercepted four EOC passes during the contest to turn several breaks into Wolve touchdowns.

Showers Leads Rushing

Pennell, last season's league leading ground gainer led his teammates to victory, gaining 169 yards in 25 carries for a 6.8 yard average per carry.

Showers led the Mountaineers in rushing collecting 133 yards in 20 attempts for a 6.6 yard average per carry. Robinson carried the ball 13 times for EOC gaining 57 yards for 4.3 yards per carry.

In the passing department for the Mounties, Showers threw 12 times completing three of those attempts, Fred Sayre threw the ball twice and Bob Bates threw once with neither Sayer or Bates completing an attempt.

ADDED TO EOC—Kenneth M. Cox family, new to La Grande, lives at 802 Lake St. From left, Kenneth, Debbie, David, wife Glenda and Larry. Cox, instructor in physical education and assistant football coach, will coach college wrestling. He has B.S. from Pennsylvania State College and M.A. from University of Washington. Ken, who coached U of W freshmen wrestling team to a 11-1-1 record last year, was All Army heavyweight wrestling champion in 1956. (EOC Photo)

A returning Harvard aluminus stopped in Cambridge long enough to visit with a favorite professor at his alma mater—the only Republican professor, he believes, in the Harvard government department. Naturally, he asked the professor what he thought about the depletion of the staff by the Kennedy administration. His professor harumphed and showed the other side of the coin: "Best damned thing that's ever happened to Harvard," he said.

Notes From Underground

By Dusty Yevski

I have just returned from a tour of the various vaulted halls of higher education in the state of Oregon, and am pleased to note that the lamp of learning is burning brighter, yet brighter in spite of our learned statesmen and their budget. This situation may singe a few undergraduates in a tender spot (the G.P.A.) but growth always necessitates the burning of dead wood.

Students are prone to grintch about the increased hours and requirements for graduation without realizing that the future excellence of teachers demands that today's students be well prepared. One who desires to join the ranks of a profession of which he can be proud does not cease to study upon the receipt of a degree.

A case in point for the growth of EOC and the dedication of our professors can be illustrated with Mr. Hartig and his new class to be offered winter term. The class, Ed 469 — Reading in High School, 7:30, M-W-F may be taken for graduate credit. Our Mr. Hartig spent his summer vacation studying the teaching of readings at the University of Minnesota.

The purpose of the course is to help make secondary teachers is to help make secondary teachers more aware of the complex nature of reading skills and to acquaint them with the different levels in reading. The premise of the course is that, irrespective of their field, all teachers need background in this discipline in order to help them understand the student's problem.

Well, that's the latest from the education department. I'll try to keep you posted in future issues on advancements in other fields. It's surprising what one can discover when prowling Underground. . . .

The Radioactive Quill

WELCOME, FESHMEN! Thus far, you have, I trust, been welcomed with open arms and readied lipstick. (The former only when the opposite sex is present, the latter only when the beanie is not present.) Speaking of that noble chapeau, do you remember how much your beanie cost you? Do you realize that there was a profit made on that beanie? And that the profit went not to the Student Body, but to the Letterman's Club, which is making a profit from your misery at having to wear that abomniable bit of blue or black upon your bottom's other end?

Seriously, however, it's a good bit of fun. Besides, how else could some of us upper-class-men get close to the sweet freshmen ladies who despise us for our insipid inanities?

Upper-class-men are in a few respects not as much like orges as a few freshmen girls would make out (sic). At the next meeting of the student senate (if you can get in), watch our courtesy, dignity, poise, seriousnesss, and guillibility. Notice that each of us will sit in our assigned seat, that since smoking is forbidden we will forswear that evil comfort (even if the dean won't come to meetings), that we will solemnly eat our ration of Pablum (special formula for advanced kiddie), and that we will, as required by a single officer without our permission, "rise when the Cabinet enters the Senate Room." (Memo to SB Secretary: what happened to the sedan chairs and ermine robes which the Cabinet has, because of its own importance, requested . . . pardon me, required?)

(Note: The author of "The adioactive Quill" will answer all serious questions or challenges directed to him in care of The Beacon. Memo: EWARD to anyone who identifies the author incorrectly.)

Club Notes

The Young Democrats held a meeting on October 10th, and decided to sponsor a queen candidate and build a float for Homecoming. New officers for the club have not yet been nominated, and interested students are urged to attend the next meeting on November 14th at 7 p.m. in Hoke 4 to vote their opinions in this matter of elections.

EOC Homecoming Crowns Peggy

E.O.C. HOMECOMING COURT — Peggy Elders, junior from Pendleton was crowned Homecoming Queen here tonight. Peggy and her lovely court, left, Ellen Uesugi, Wahiawa, Hawaii; and right, Adrienne Hansen, Hermiston, will reign over this weekend's festivities. The trophy Queen Peggy holds will go to the organization having the winning float in the downtown parade preceding Saturday's football game.

Coronation And Dance Festivities Set Tonight

Pretty little, blue-eyed, Peggy Elder, sponsored by the campus I.K's was crowned 1961 Homecoming queen here tonight. Peggy, also this year's Rally Queen, smiled her gracious thanks to her realm as she was seated on her throne. Following the coronation, Queen Peggy was driven through the downtown area. Queen Peggy will begin her rule tomorrow over the traditional parade and football game, EOC vs. SOC.

Homecoming Court Finalists Named

Three lovely young ladies on the EOC campus are finalists in the election for the 1961 Homecoming Queen. The following are the remaining contestants.

Peggy Elder is a twenty-year-old Junior from Pendleton, Oregon and is in elementary education. During her Freshman year, Peggy was elected Sweetheart Princess. She was sponsored by the I. K.'s.

Adrienne Hansen is an eighteen-year-old Sophomre is secondary education. She is also a Sophomore representative to the student senate and vice-chairman of the Young Republicans. Ardienne comes from an army family and has attended school on military bases in Germany. She was sponsored by the Hunt Hall Outing Club.

Insert Homecoming Queen Ellen

Ellen Uesugi comes to us from Iahiawa Oahu, Hawaii. She is in elementary education and a senior at EOC. Ellen is vice president of Dorion Hall and a member of the Sabers. In her Junior year she was chosen I.K. sweetheart. Ellen's campaign was permoted by the Ski Club.

The seven other candidates eleminated during the first election are as follows:

Patty Blackburn of Rufus, backed by Kappa Pi Alpha Rho Tau; Wanda Johnson, Praire City, sponsored by the Young Democrats; Sharon Noyes, native of La Grande and supported by the Young Republicans; Barbara Paris, also of La Grande, backed by Sigma Alpha Chi, Theta Delta Phi; Sue Switzer from Condon and supported by the Sabers; Merlene Teasley, backed by EOCene Courts and native of Pendleton; and Ardythe Wilde from neighboring Union and sponsored by SOEA.

L. Coleman Leads Re-organization of Senate, Cabinet

A senior secondary education major in social science, Larry Coleman, holds the second most important studetn office at Eastern Oregon College. As first vice president of the student body his responsibilities are mainly centered around the senate of which he is president. At the present times having control over all operations of the senate he is working on the reorganizing of the senate and cabinet.

A graduate of Pendleton high school Larry was junior class vice president of '60-'61 before election to his present office.

Future plans include a teaching and coaching position, possibly the service, and eventually work on a masters degree.

Sigma Alpha Chi Initiations Held

Sigma Alpha Chi initiated eight new members in an impressive ceremony Sunday afternoon, October 22, at 2:00 in Ackerman Auditorium. Those initiated were: Clara Barrett, Lynne Brinton, Lynne Sato, Karin Stewart, Joanne Thurston, Martha Vance, Judy Ward and Dianne Whitnaugh. Each initiate was charged with the creed of Sigma Alpha Chi, recited her favorite poem and was presented a lovely corsage. Miss Neva Neill and Miss Helen Bliss, advisors, were introduced.

The initiation ceremony was followed by a brief business meeting with Janet Bond, president, presiding; Val Eisminger is vice president; and Barbara Paris, Homecoming Queen candidate, was acting secretary in Bev Trimble's absence. Refreshments were served by Donna Kay Khun and Gwen Calvert.

AWS Presents Style Show

AWS presented their first style show of the year, Oct. 18, Wednesday evening at 7:00 p.m. The clothes modeled were from the various La Grande stores: Penney's Rosanna's, Top Shop, Ann Johnson, Wards. We should give thanks to these stores for the lending of their articles. Models were various students in AWS, and our credit to the fellows for their help.

Sandy, head chairman, was responsible for the style show presentation. Others who helped make this show possible were: Carol Woodell, decorations chairman; Bill Donahue, sound effects (music); Bev Trimble and Gail Fisher, narration.

It is this organization's hope that this show aided the students in recognizing the "do's and don't" of campus apparel.

1960-'61 Annuals To Arrive Soon

Last year's Annuals are scheduled to arrive here sometime this week or next week. Mary Gray, last year's editor, hopes they will be here by Homecoming.

There might be a very few annuals left over after distributing them to the students who already have purchased an annual. Those wondering about buying annuals should check at the distribution point concerning this.

Policy Committee Meeting Held

There will be a meeting of the Coordinating and Policy Committee on Tuesday, October 31, at 3:30 p.m. in the conference room.

John M. Miller, Chairman.

Social Notes to ASB

By The Social Assembly

If any of you have not as yet picked up your social calendars, you may get one in the registrars' office. As you will notice, the entire year's social activities listed is not complete. We tried to list, as best we could, the activities that were known before er, in any endeavor of this type, school started his fall. Howevthere will always be last-minute changes. You will be notified of these changes via a mimeographed sheet as often as the changes necessitate.

You will also, in the future, be asked to fill out a student survey on the type of activities you, as a student of EOC, desire. In this way, we hope to complete a list of the interests of students on campus before they are voiced in the . . . shall we say ambiguous? . . . column "The Radioinactive Quill".

These are our plans—we hope that they meet with your approval!

'Hey, Look Us Over!'

Hey, look us over
We've got a team;
We've got some rovers,
They're really on the beam.

Don't break their legs, Boys,
Don't kick their shins;
You just don't mess with the Mountaineers
For they have lots of kin—

And they will fight 'til it's over,
Fight for the right;
They'll knock those Raiders
Completely out of sight:

So, just give us a little elbow room
And you will hear us say,
"EOC, we're on our way!"

Mr. Rummells: "That fellow spells atrociously."

Mr. Dorn: "Really, well, that's more than I can do."

Art Exhibit In Library

For those who are interested, there is an exhibit in the college library where there are prints of modern artists such as, Renoic, Degas, Reault¼ Picasso and others. Each prints is representative of the style of the artist and includes wood engraving, methography, and etchings. The college permanent collection was added to by the purchase of several of the prints from this exhibit. The art gallery is open during the day only, the hours being the same as the libaries.

Lorna Johnnaber, who is taking Miss Golzes' place, is teaching in a country workshop at The Dalles. Her particular activities are for the fourth grade.

Miss Golz, former EOC art teacher on sabbatical leave, is in the Art Department at the University of Washington studying advanced weaving techniques, metal design, and ceramics.

Last Chance For Pictures

One last chance!! Because the photographer's equipment broke down Friday afternoon, he will return November 7 and 8 for class pictures. This includes all seniors who could not make it before.

Last week's turn out for pictures was fairly good. Altogether, nearly half of the student body has been photographer. What about the other half?

Don't forget—November 7 and 8 from 9 to 4 in the Beacon-Mountaineer room.

Drive Carefully!

From Our President . . . .

Dear Alumni:

Again we greet our alumni. Both students and faculty join in this cordial welcome. Again you will find pleasant and exciting changes even though you were here as recently as last year. We invite you to explore the new and the changed and to re-visit your old haunts. More particularly, we invite you to renew old acquaintances and cultivate new ones.

You will be interested to know also of our enrollment growth. We now have 1070 students as compared to 834 last year or a 28.3% growth in one year. This gives us twice the percentage growth of the Oregon State System of Higher Education and by far the largest enrollment in EOC history.

As you return, we invite you to enjoy the activities prepared for your pleasure and to have a wonderful time. We are happy you can be with us today.

Cordially,
FRANK B. BENNETT,
President

Hunters Are Here—Are The Elk?

By DICK DOMEY

The elk is a FABULOUS animal. At least that's the impression of the hundreds of hunters who have been hunting him (and her) over the woods and valley of Eastern Oregon. As each one of those eager sportsmen knows, there are many more elk hunters than elk. Anone who was out the first day saw at least 36¼ hunters per section of land.

For about an hour that first day we sat on a comfortable rock along the side of the road and watched the eager chaps driving along the road looking for a camp. Almost every car that passed stopped to ask if we had seen any elk. We always replied that we had seen game, but neglected to add that the game we had seen consisted of one cow elk, four does, 11 blue jays, and 14 squirrels and chipmunks of which 14 got away unharmed.

The fact that we were local residents stimulated some of the western Oregonians, particularly those from that (notorious) metropolis at the junction of the Willamette and Colubia rivers, to ask where was good hunting. With a straight face we consistently told a lugubrious tale of lack of game in the Sped Springs area (where we were hunting) and spoke in glowing terms of the fine hunting in the Ontario area (rabbits.) It may have been unsportsmanlike to send elk hunters on a wild-goose (rabbit) chase, but we referred all western Oregonions to the sage bushes of the Ontario area. By the way, does anyone know if there are any elk over there?

Utterly convinced that the elk exists only in the minds of a game commission that sells tags to gullible seekers of a substitute for expensive beef, we shouldered our elderly Sharps buffalo gun and wandered slowly into the setting sun muttering incoherently about the cold, the snow, and silly fools who try to get something for nothing.

Grande Ronde Symphony Tours Europe

The Grande Ronde Symphony Orchestra has just accomplished one of the most far-reaching ambassadorial and publicity activities of any American visitor to Europe in recent years.

The orchestra departed from La Grande on Saturday, August 19 for Washington, D. C. via Union Pacific Railroad. While in Washington, D. C., the group performed a concert at the U. S. Soldiers' Home and was briefed by the State Department, followed by sightseeing around the nation's capitol.

On Wednesdayo, August 23, the orchestro departed, via BOAC for Brussels, Belgium. via London. Upon arrival in Brussels, the orchestra was met by the European tour manager and the the courier.

Many people both Europe and America have indicated that the success of this tour has been a perfect example of the People-to-People effort suggested by ex-President Eisenhower.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR'S NOTE: May we again state the regulations for turning in a Letter to the Editor for publication in the BEACON. They MUST BE TYPEWRITTEN, double-spaced, and signed, the name to be withheld upon request. Each issue we have received letters in longhand—three this issue. This is to serve as OFFICIAL NOTICE that in no further issues will a letter be printed unless it feets the above requirements.
Letters To The Editor col ed ---

To the Editor:

In the last issue I discussed the possibility of longer hours for the library on weekends. This isssue I would like to look into the question of longer hours for the coffee shop.

During my two years here at EOC I have heard many times the fact bemoaned that the majority of our students are "suitcasers," here five days a week and gone every weekend. Although I have heard many complaints about this fact, I have heard little of anything being done to help alleviate this situation. The excuse most students give is that there is nothing to do on campus over the weekend. This is in my estimation a legitimate excuse (reason). Friday afternoon at 4:00 everything on campus is closed down tight. Now I have a suggestion.

Why couldn't Hoke Hall stay open on Friday nights, Saturday afternoon and evening, and Sunday afternoon and evening? Granted when we have a ballgame or dance the coffee shop is open from 9:00 to 12:00 — that is WHEN we have an activity. The reason most people give for closing Hoke is "the help has to have a day off." I will agree this is only reasonable, BUT, what stops the Business Office from hiring student help to run the fountain? The money taken in would certainly off-set the expense. Who knows, Maybe some of the students will stay on campus and study if we can get the library and Hoke to stay open on week-ends.

It's worth a try, anyway.
Signed, Dick Domey.

Editors:

Re: longer library hours. Am in full agreement. As a one-time commuter I know whereof I speak. If they could be extended, particularly on weekends, it would be a great help to outof-town students who can't always be there at the right time. It's worth giving serious consideration, and I say "three salaams" to D. Domey for his astuteness in calling attention to this condition.

Ladies:

The BEACON should be a vital part of campus life. It should serve to educate those wno work on it. It should stimulate vigorous discussion among all of us who are just beginning to learn the obligations of responsibility. From the issues I have setn this year, the BEACON's content ranges from coed dorm gossip to academic news. I assume it will feature campus politics prominently —also campus controversy. But the paper can have still another function—it can act as a sort safety valve in situations of student excitement, il such situations ever arise. (Do they? As a freshman, I don't know.)

I suppose that the power and independence of a college paper varies with the caliber of the editorial staff and the amount of money it controls. Since papers are usually student-suported, they feel they have a captive audience, and are inclined to become perfunctory, easy-going, even sloppy in their news coverage. From the large list of reporters on your editorial page, you should be able to produce some first-rate reporting. I hope that with the evolution of good news coverage you can really do something in shaping, or at least touching campus views.

(Please Withhold Name)

Letter to the Editor—

I would like to place the following ad in the BEACON. ATTENTION! - Contributions are now being taken to bring Elliott Ness to EOC to investigate the Student Senate. Interested parties are urged to send their checks to the John Barf Society, in care of the BEACON. Please advise me on your policy—

Signed:
Pseudo Joe College.

Dear Editors:

One of the things I'd like to see (among several) in THE BEACON would be a column on world affairs — significance of particular not, how about expanded coverage events, if it is at all feasible. If not, how about expanded coverage of politics with a newsy column for YR's and YD's. Dorion has their "duz", Court has their "Capers"; why not a couple of columns for the Republicans and Democrats? I am aware you already carry their meeting news, but I'd like to see some news from each body, say, on the next Oregon gubernatorial race. I've heard all kinds of people proclaimed to be staunch members of one or the other, so maybe it would be of interest.

'Court Capers'

By ANNA WITT

Things have really been hopping on college campuses lately. For instance, it seems one of the men's dormitories at Lewis and Clark College was missing a phone. The dorm reported that its phone service was ended rather abruptly one evening. Someone "lifted" this handy communication piece! The only clue left behind was the ominous-clipped cord. Odd—some people really have vivid imaginations.

This advice was given freshmen at Western Washington College on "how not to look like a freshman."

"Drink coffee in the coffee shop, not coke, and don't make faces. If you must drink coke, pour it into your coffee cup. As long as you squelch its foam and bubbles and keep your hand over it, no one will notice." Wonder how effective this advice was? Most upperclassmen like to think they can always tell the rookie.

SOC recently made a review of past fashions in the college paper The Siskiyou. Here is the report: "Skirts were worn two inches above the ankle. Wool long underwear was worn all year long. A bathing suit was accepted only if it covered the whole body and had a short skirt. A party dress was a long sleeved, full length, and high collared boufant gown. Bloomers were worn for everyday. A face-hiding bonnet with a heavy net was used to complete Sunday-go-to-meeting outfits."

Compared to today's short skirts, sheer nylons, revealing swimming suits, "figure grabbing" evening dresses, bermudas and sawed off jeans, one can notice quite a contrast. However everyone will probably agree that along with the fast changing ages, a well needed advancement in women's dress has been made.

An unfortunate transfer student at the U. of O. was nonchalantly riding his bicycle around campus when he ran into an obstacle—THE CURB! ! It seems that at his previous "institute of higher learning" asphalt ramps were provided for such mechanical pieces of motivation. The poor fellow was quite indignantly pictured on the front page of the Emerald. His sprawling body seemed to be in a state of mortal embarrassment. But then, who wouldn't be mortified to know he was finally going to "hit" fame in such a manner?!!

Well, so much for this week's chatter. Heaven only knows what will happen next! !

Primaries are just around the corner. Many times this is obvious, through the unfortunate fact that politicians are notorious for increasing and enlarging their opinions when they feel the time is right. A golden rule of election winning is exposure, and some sly politicians develop opinions on all issues regardless of what he knows about them or how much he is actually interested.

It seems our hold over from boy's state convention, Governor Hatfield, is politically hotter than a two dollar pistol. Most of the voices this writer hears predict an easy victory of his re-election and some go so far as to foresee tickets such as Rockefeller for President and Hatfield for president in '64. In the unorthodox world of getting the vote nothing is completely predictable and not to be discounted are the strength of Hatfield's opposition. One of the impressive candidates who will struggle for the democratic nomination will be Robert Y. Thornton who announced his candidacy recently. Thornton hails from his present office of Attorney General and with a good ring to his name can show some power. His first shot at Hatfield was fired in the following statement: "It is no secret," he declared, "that for the past three years our present governor and his state-paid campaign manager Travis Cross have concentrated their time and attention not on the governor's job here in Oregon, but of devising stunts designed to produce a steady flow of publicity to glamorize Mr. Hatfield and elevate him to higher political office."

Other democratic hopefuls are State Sen. Walter J. Pearson, Portland, and Howard Morgan, a member of the Federal Power Commission and ex-Oregon Democratic state chairman. One potential candidate who with the right amount of exposure and public appearance could come booming up is Robert Duncan, Salem's speaker of the House. Duncan is governmentally smart and quite articulate. His problem rests mainly in lack of public knowledge of whom he is and what he is doing.

It seems we will always wonder about a senatorial race between the young handsome governor and the proud veteran of many political wars, Wayne Morse. Actually no one envisioned Hatfield making this move any way. The Republican who did get bamboozled into this race is Sig Unander, Portland attorney. Unander is the kind of a Republican who can afford a Cadillac, but drives a Chevrolet to show constituents that he is one of the common herd. (note EOC will host both More and Unander in the near future). This phychology of Unander's is very poor. People of moderate means do not look down on wealth, in fact they often times respect the man who has such and does not deny the fact for votes of the middle class. Illustration: Secretary of State Howell Appling who drives an Eldorado and doesn't give a damn who wnows it. At any rate Morse can leave his suitcase packed for a return trip to the Senate. More slants next time, right now I'm a Democrat who is looking for the Republican who said the New Frontier is, "out where the waste begins."

Overhead in Mr. Bailey's Math III class:

Mr. Bailey: "What is ratio?"

Dusty H. "Ratio is proportation."

"Well, what is proportation?"

"Proportation is ratio."

"Then what are ratio and proportation?"

"I can only answer one question at a time."

Olympic J.C. Dumps EOC 18-7

Eastern Oregon College suffered their second consecutive football loss two Saturdays ago to Olympic Junior College of Bremerton, Wash., 18-7, in a non-conference game.

Both teams were plagued by the weather and mistakes. However, the Rangers from up north seemed to capitalize on every break. The Mountaineer's on the other hand seemed to be as cold as the weather was outside. Once again fumbles and penalties were costly to the Mounties. Two EOC fumbles resulted in Olympic touchdowns and penalties halted any serious Mountie offensive attack during the second half of play.

Jumping off to an early 7-0 lead in the opening minute of play of the second quarter, Eastern Oregon appeared to be on the way to a victory. But, a cold, snowy night proved to make the difference between victory and defeat.

The Mountaineers were given the first scoring opportunity but failed to capitalize on it. Kicking-off to open the contest, an EOC gridder recovered an Olympic fumble on the visitor's 20 yard line.

On the first play from scrimmage, Bill Showers moved the ball down to the 15 yardline but on the next play, EOC fumbled and the Rangers of Olympic College took possession of the ball.

Neither squad was able to move the ball effectively until late in the period when the Mounts took over on their own 43 yardmark. With the running of Showers, Steve Everitt and Ladd McGowan, the Mounts were able to move down to Olympic's 33. There a Mountie fumble gave the ball to the Rangers but immediately Olympic fumbled and Gordon Meyers recovered for the Mounts on the Ranger 10 yardline.

Two plays later, Showers raced into the endzone on a five-yard run to give EOC a 6-0 lead. Ron Robinson's kick for the PAT was good. The score came with 2:31 gone in the second quarter.

However it wasn't long before the Rangers struck back to come within one point of the Mountie's. Once again it was a fumble that gave the men from the North the ball on their own fifteen yard line. They marched from here to score. The scoring being climaxed by a forty yard pass play. The PAT failed leaving the Mountaineer's out in front at intermission.

During the second half the football playing was completely dominated by the Rangers. They were able to score in each of the last two periods.

Dicks Predicts

Once again it's time to give my faithful (?) readers the hot dope right off the wire. From the looks of this week's battles, I'll probably be head stick man in the popsicle factory when it's once again time for this column to appear.

Oct. 21 results: 33 right, 6 wrong — 85%! (Pretty lucky, but I'm letting the banner fly high while I can!)

MIDWEST

Michigan State 23, Minnesota 20—could be an upset.

Iowa 17, Ohio State 10—another tough one, but look for the Hawkeyes to bounce back.

Purdue 21, Illinois 0—Boilermakers are always tough.

Northwestern 31, Indiana 0—Hoosiers strictly outclassed.

Michigan 22, Duke 12 — Bernie Macrae leads Wolverines.

Colorado 21, Missouri 13 — Buffs are quite a crew at Boulder.

Kansas 35, Nebraska 6—walkathon.

Oklahoma 19, Kansas At. 7 — First win of the season for Bud Wilkinson.

Notre Dame 27, Navy 19 — Fighting Irish hit the win column again.

SOUTHWEST

Texas 37, SMU 0 — a breather for the Longhorns.

Rice 14, Texas Tech 0 — Owls bounce back.

Arkansas 15, Texas A & M 8—Alworth the difference.

Baylor 7, TCU 6 — back on the winning track.

SOUTH

Alabama 34, Mississippi St. 3—Crimson Tide is one of the best.

Mississippi 17, LSU 9 — Blueplate Special.

Georgia Tech 13, Florida 3 — biggest line in college.

Auburn 7, Wake Forest 0—tough defense.

Penn St. 22, Maryland 21—State will get this one by their ole grind it out method.

Clemson 17, Tulane 6 — Green Wave has no offense.

West Virginia 27, George Washington 8 — Mounties are rebuilding.

Kentucky 13, Florida St. 3 — all State has is a field goal kicker.

N. Carolina St. 27, Mississippi Southern 0 — Gabriel, blow that horn!

Tennessee 14, North aCrolina 7—Vols single wing clicks.

South Carolina 16, Virginia 6 — stimulated by win over Maryland.

Miami 14, Georgia 6 — Bulldogs not used to lights.

EAST

Army 31, Detroit 13 — and the Caissons go rolling along.

Iowa St. 19, Boston College 6—trip not in vain.

Princeton 27, Brown 0 — Tigers just too much.

Columbia 20, Cornell 7 — Lions move along.

Harvard 13, Penn 12 — watch out here.

Yale 28, Dartmouth 20 — could be a letdown.

FAR WEST

Oregon 13, Stanford 0 — could be worse if Renfro is back in action.

Oregon State 33, Washington St. 13 — Beaver's Homecoming and Terry Baker runs wild.

Washington 13, USC 12 — Owens' teams never give up.

UCLA 20, California 12—Bruins can smell roses.

Wyoming 15, Arizona 8 — best in the west.

Utah State 45, BYU 13—second best.

Utah 26, New Mexico 7 — still alive.

Arizona St. 19, San Jose St. 6—must stop Gallegos.

Colorado St. 13, Air Force 9 — Upset Special of the Week.

SOC 19, EOC 13 — Watch out, Red Raiders, the Mounties are always fired up for Homecoming!

Vikings Tromp Mounties, 27-7

Portland State's Vikins, led by their little speedster, Billy (Bye-Bye) White, defeated EOC 27-7 on the Mountaineer Field Saturday, Oct. 20.

White, a dazzling sophomore halfback from Roseburg, was virtually unstoppable, gaining 189 yards in 23 carries. Just when the Mounties had taken command in the game on a 25 yard run by Hal Williams early in the game, Bye-Bye broke loose for 55 yards and the score read 7-7 with less than 4 minutes gone in the game.

The Mounts touchdown came on the old famous statue of liberty play. Bill Showers giving the ball to Williams. Ron Robinson kicked the extra point.

With just 45 seconds remaining in the first half, the Viks scored on an 11-yard gallop by Jerry Humphries. Halftime score: PSC 14, EOC 7.

In the third quarter, Bob Grant hurled a 15 yard pass to Gary Weber, good for another TD. The PAT failed, but the Viks had a commanding 20-7 lead.

The final PSC tally came on another Grant pass, once again 15 yards, this time to Hamblet. The PAT was good, final score: PSC 27, EOC 7.

The Mounties put together several other scoring drives, but it seemed just when their running game was clicking, a PSC interception would halt the drive. No less than 4 EOC aerials ended up in PSC hands. Enough Said!

EOC JV's Stage Defensive Battle; Play To 7-7- Tie

EOC J.V.'s played to a 7-7 tie against the Columbia Basin Junior College Reserves last week. The game, more of a defensive battle than an offensive show, was played to a standstill. Both teams playing to a scoreless first half broke loose to score in the last half. EOC J.V.'s scored first in the third quarter. Jim Fosters threw 20 yards to Bob White for the score. However, Columbia Basin came right back in the fourth quarter to tie up the score.

The EOC J.V.'s to date have won 1, lost 2 and tied 2. They complete their schedule today against the Washington State Penitentiary. The Washington State boys have a couple of Little All-Americans who have received "scholarships" from the state of Washington for their type of work in that state. The competition against the Pen boys should develop into "riotless" ballgame.

MAKE-UP FOR "LIGHT-UP"—Deanna Talbott (left) anl LeRoy Mobley get set for lead roles in Eastern Oregon College production of Moss Hart drama, "Light Up The Sky." Production begins three-night run in EOC theatre, Thursday, with curtain time at 8 p.m. (EOC Photo)

Sock And Buskin Presents...

"Light Up the Sky" now playing at College Theatre.

"Light Up the Sky' 'is the name of the 3-act comedy written by Moss Hart, currently being played at the College Theatre by the Socking and Buskn.

The comedy revolves around a group o f New York theatre folk who attend the opening of a new play in Boston. The leading actress, the backer, and several others, are in seventh heaven at the prospect oof a tremendous success which they hope for in the work of a young unknown writer. Gathered in a hotel room, these people go through their paces with tremendous gusto and many exhibitions of temperament. The opening of the play, which is a very earnest and experimental work, is such as to lead the cast, director, and backer to believe it a flop. Instantly they turn against themselves, the production, the author, and proceed in an attempt to destroy themselves and all their former hopes. It turns out, however, that in spite of the curious reception by the first audience, the play has made a deep impression and when news spread that the reviews are on the whole favorable, the tables are turned. But the playwright who has suffered from all this decides to leave the theatre. After much persuasion, though, he is still disgusted with the shenanigans of these people, he turns on them and lays down the law.

The EOC cast is as follows: Miss Lowell, Roberta Rowe; Carleton Fitzgerald, Dave Slabaugh; Fances Black, Toanne Thurston; Owen Turner, Ed Plass; Stella Livingston, Sharon Hickey; Peter Sloan, Tom Strand; Sidney Black, Le Roy Mobley; Sven, Dick Domey; Irene Livingston, Deanna Talbott; Tyler Rayburn, Doug Bashaw; William H. Gallengher, Jon Ston; a plain clothes man, Gus Boyd; Shrines, Bill Moragne, Steve Straughn, Clifford Drew.

The curtain is rising at 8:00 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night do attend this play and see fellow studetns in action.

The next game will be between the Question Marks and the Cheetahs.

The Radioactive Quill

Pseudo Joe College

The Radioinactive Quill has received some comment on last issue's column most of which centered about two themes. The first was that since our present form of student government is in a developmental stage, we all need to work together towards a great goal: perfect government. So let's all neglect the trivia of college (e.g. studying) and get to work! (Let's not forget to have fun, though: our highest hope is hedonism!)

The second theme was a personal attack (to the effect that I take my own ration of pablum, so that after a few years of the regular I might advance to the kiddies' formula). This is probably a fine thought. If everyone on campus was on a steady diet of intellectual pablum, there would be none of this nasty nonconformism or disagreement. Wouldn't that be peachy keen? In fact, let's put the whole world on Metrecal-for-the-Mind, and we can all return to our Brave New Womb.

It is the policy of The Radioinactive Quill to refer its readers to interesting literature. Thus, I urge you to consult EOC's new college humor periodical known as the Student Senate Meeting Minutes (last uproarious issue published October 17). In the "corrections," note that "the profit on two sheets of typing paper for $.01 is $1.63 instead of $1.73." Now that is just too bad. The profit is only 16,300 percent. . (Memo: does this profit help pay for the Cabinet's robes and sedan chairs?) Note also in the section on Old Business that although the Nine Ultimatums of the Ultramodern Ultracabinet were spoken of, there was little apparent challenge to them. (Senators have learned a principle of college students: accept authority unquestionably.) Also, that the Senators have agreed not to allow the horrendeously evil habit of smoking in meetings, since such corruptness might indicate a lack of respect for the Ultracabinet. (Of course, they have to have some kind of respect. They cannot speak in meetings unless asked a direct question, so they won't cofe to meetings unless they are handled with kid or perhaps kiddie, gloves.) We Student Bodies wish to commend you Senators for your sound thinking and upright living? All Hail!

On the second page of the Senate Scandal Sheet is recorded a discussion of "breaking EOC tradition" by changing or doing away with the sand-bag war of Homecoming half-time. This brings up the question of the whole miserable business of freshman hazing. The purpose of this tradition was supposedly to exclude freshmen from full acceptance for a time. Then, they were to prove themselves in some manner, in order to gain acceptance (which we all obviously need). Now, what do we do at EOC? We haze the GIRLS, and then let the BOYS do class! In short, freshman hazing had been degraded to the point at which its purpose is to get "upper-class" men's hands on freshman cuties, and to work off some excess energy upon the football field (at dire peril to sound bones and untorn clothing and skin). Also, the sand-bag war amuses the spectators at half-time. Right! Who wouldn't laugh? And next year, the whole ludicrous business will appear again, without purpose, without meaning, and without a satisfactory conclusion. So why worry about "breaking EOC tradition," when that tradition is ludicrously meaningless? Freshmen of EOC, unite! Refuse to participate in the sand-bag war and engage in a real class struggle where it belongs—in the classroom.

Let the ruling classes tremble at a Commufreshman revolution. UNITE! You have nothing to lose but your beanies! And the "upper-class" men their childishness. If possible.

THANKSGIVING ASSEMBLY READIED

The 16th Annual Thanksgiving Assembly is scheduled for next Tuesday, 10:30 A.M., November 21st. Taking for its theme, "Be Thankful for Our Northwest Wonderland," the College Band will furnish special music, which will be followed by Dr. Don Hunter, Department of Visual Aids, University of Oregon, and his famous and colorful program of color spectacular in stereophonic sound.

Dr. Hunter has divided his program into several parts among which are: bounties of our earth through the eyes of a visitor from outer space; scenic pictures and moods of Oregon; a visit to ur National Parks; and sounds of the past.

The assembly program is arranged by the College Interfaith Fellowships. Classes which normally meet on Tuesday, November 21, at 10:30 A.M., will meet on Wednesday,, November 22, at 10:30 A.M.

Meet Your ASB Officers of '61-62

Do you, as a part of EOC, know your student body officers? If not, there is no time like the present to get acquainted.

Sharon Meyers, ASB Secretary, hails from Baker, Oregon. She is a sophomore, majoring in Elementary Ed. Sharon has numerous interests and because of this she is an active person on campus, to be found anywhere from the student body office to marching with the band in the Veteran's Day parade or riding on the Saber float in the Homecoming parade.

The ex-Miss Baker is one of the selected few to take part in the Honors program. This is to prove that beauty and brains do go together sometimes.

Sharon is a busy girl and this can be seen by noting a few of her many activities. Sabers, Sigma Alpha Chi, Honors program, ASB Secretary, drum majorette, are a few things which keep her hopping. Even though she is so active, she still has time to keep up the grades and do justice to the job as secretary of the Student Body.

Campus Sister Program Told

All women students are invited to participate in the CAMPUS SISTER PROGRAM which is to be started on campus this term.

The purpose of this program is to promote closer relationship between the women students living on and off campus. Off campus students will have a sister living on campus. Married women students and those students living out of town are included in the program (as indicated by the use of "all women students").

The women living in Dorion and in the Courts comprise the on campus students. All others are considered to be living off campus.

The orientation of this profram will start during the week of November 20, when the women students will have the opportunity to sign up for the program in Hoke coffee shop and the Ad Building. The orientation will be climaxed by a party to be held November 29 at Hoke Lounge at 7:00 in the evening.

Chairmen for the program are Diantha Kelsoe (of campus), Vickie Hickox (Dorion), and Dianne Sullivan (Courts). The program is sponsored by Associated Women Studetnts.

Letter To Students

Thank you—everyone—who made our Homecoming a success. Planning Homecoming is a large responsibility. I think a special thanks, too, should go to the faculty members who also gave their "all" to make our Homecoming a success. And always behind success, there are committees—A special thanks to those countless committee members who worked diligently getting things done.

Speaking for the 1961 Homecoming Court, Adrienne Hansen, Ellen Uesugi, and myself, we are grateful to everyone who made this event so memorable. For myself, I can truly say I was happy and most humble to represent you as your Homecoming Queen.

Sincerely,
Peggy Elder.

Sigma Alpha Chi To Hold Yule Hour

SIGMA ALPHA CHI announces the annual Yuletide Candlelight Hour. It will be held from 4-5 p. m., December 3, 1961, at Hoke Hall.

Members of the faculty, student body, and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Civic Music Features Quitars

A most remarkably talented guitar duo, Ida Presti and Alexandre Lagoya, were featured in the November 15 Civic Music presentation.

Hailed as the most phenomenal husband-and-wife music team in many years after their American debut last January in Town Hall they proved here that guitar playing can be more than precision and sonority. With their skill and musicianship Presti and Lagoye displayed strikiing unity and equality coupled iwth a fine subtleness and dynamic shading equal to the finest violins or pianos.

Music played ranged from Bach, Paganini, and Fernando ors in the earlier periods to Wiesmer and Rodrigo of the modern group. All revealed a variety of moods and styles artistically set in motion in flawless sophistication.

Cornett Elected To State Post

Jim Cornett, EOC Student Body 2nd vice president of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders during its convention on the Lewis & Clark campus Saturday, Nov. 11. Approximately 125 students, representing 13 Oregon colleges, were present for the business meeting and banquet. EOC was the only college to have a resolution prested and passed, concerning further meetings of the OLCL board to plan conventions. These meeings will be held in Portland during the year.

Other state officers are: George Gardner, Linfield, president; and Sue Ellen Zank, OCE treasurer; the secretary will be appointed from Linfield to enable a closer working relationship between the secretary and president. OCE will host the next convntion.

Mrs. O. Urges Quick Action

Date Set For Xmas Formal

The annual Christmas Formal is the most looked-forward to event of the season. This year the dance will be held in Hoke Hall December 1 at 9 p.m. Rod Esselyton's orchestra has been chosen for the music. However, the theme has not been decided as yet.

The sponsor of this fine hoedown i the Associated Women Students (A.W.S.) whose president is Gail Fisher and also general chairman of the formal. Special recognition should be given to Janet Bond, Sue Switzer, Barbara Hunt, Loretta Herbison, and Charl Williams; other committee members of various women's organizations around the campus.

Three Students Suspended

Three students were suspended for possession of alcoholic beverages in the men's dormitory, according to an announcement by he office of student personnel.

The thee include Bill Donahue, Lewiston, Idaho; Larry Hodgen, Pendleton; and Jim Sisemore,, Klamath Falls.

Ross DeBoie, former EOC student from La Grande was fined $25 after being found guilty of "giving alcoholic beverages of over one-half per cent to persons under 21 years of age."

Deboie(according to La Grande Police Chief Oliver Reeve, bought some beer for minors and took it into the men's dormitory.

Suspension of the three is for the remaider of the fall term.

Kornieko Lauds Red Cause

"Know Each Other Better Answer To Joint Effort

Russ diplomat visits campuses.

Today one does not have to possess the knowledge of a scientist to know what will happen of war breaks out, George M. Kornienko, counselaor of the Soviet Embassy, stated in his speech given on Oregon State University and the University of Oregon camuses last week.

A war will break out at any moment if no one wants to stop it, Kornienko remarked. "The Soviet Union has just passed a new 20-year program," Kornienko stated. Included in it are statements that industry will produce twice as much in 20 years and that in the first 14 years they will advocate a six-hour work day, 30 hours a week. "This is in addition to free medicine, free medical treatment, and free accommodation of patients," he said .

Korinko pointed out that when the other people see how the communist countries will benefit from this place that "only he who is his own enemy will oppose communism."

The problem of disarmament must be settled, he continued. The Soviet has advanced a great number of proposals but they have not been realized because because they were not accepted by the Western Powers. "The Western Powers have no desire to discuss seriously on general and complete disarmament," Kornienko stated.

When discussing the nuclear tests, Kornienko stated that in March 1958, after 39 explosions the Soviet Union had discontinued tests. He mentioned that the United States and Great Britain after 119 explosions had responded by carrying out three seies of 71 explosions. While the Soviets refrained from tests recently, France conducted such explosions, he continued. Early this year the United States announced considerable increase in expenditure for nuclear and military power, he pointed out.

After consideration of the situation the USSR had decided to carry out its nuclear tests. It was with a "heavy heart" and "under regret" that it did so ,he stated.

Taken from the "Oregon Daily Emerald"—he displayed a good command of the Englis language and a friendly manner, which helped him achieve his objective.

Korienko closed by emphasizing the importance of improving relations between our two countries. He said the lessening of international tension depended on sincere relationships and that understanding is the best guarantee of world peace.

Questions which included, "How do the East Germans and Soviet Government explain the Berlin wall to their peopple." Kornienko stadted that this was a question for East Germany, not a representative of the Soviet Union. When asked under what conditions friendship could exist between the United States and Russia, Korienko said, "When both sides would recognize the right of the other side to exist as such."

Blame?

There has been a great deal of comment at EOC the last few weeks concerning the expulsion of three students for possession of alcoholic beverages on campus. I feel it is necessary, at this time, to use my priviledge to editorialize because these is a definite need for the student body here to wake up! Th criticisms I have heard are directed mainly toward the decision of the administration to expell these young men. I say to you students—DON'T CRITICIZE OUR ADMINISTRATION FOR ENFORCING AN OREGON STATE LAW—it is your fault and my fault that this decision had to be made! !

We were not shocked by the events leading to this action —we are all aware that this takes place on campus. It is OUR responsibility to see that it DOES NOT take place in the future. Many of you were horrified by this expulsion, however. WHY? ? Because you say, and I have said, that this punishment is too severe for "first offenders"——I do find fault with our peers for starting this "crackdown" so late; why was this not done before, rather than a mere slap on the hands? Had the effects of such an act been stressed previously, possibly THIS could have been prevented. It has been suggested that an effective probation system at EOC would be in order——but if you look at this problem clearly you cannot help but see that the scales of justice are in fayor of our administration! !

The big problem does not lie or die here, however. It lies in our entire attitude of campus life. We are fast joining the ranks of larger colleges—we can no longer consider ourselves a small school. And our modes must broaden as our campus does. When we arrived at college that first day we made a large transition from being a teenager to an adult. Possibly we have been discouraged and even insulted when not treated as adults. Stop and think, please!

Back to my prime example: How many of you fellows at Hunt Hall knew that this drinking was taking place? How many of you tried to stop it before it was discovered by the adminitstration? No, I'm not suggesting that we become sneaky or do things udercover. I AM suggesting that we students be responsible for our own conduct; we should want to set up good standards; we should see that they are followed. If we wish adult treatment we must also accept the responsibilities and consequences in an adult manner. Where was the dorm council when this happened? Why are they elected if not to prevent exactly such instances?

We should all take pride in our school and this can only be accomplished through our behavior. If a fellow gets out of hand and breaks a door down in the dorm, there should be a check at the business office to replace it the next morning, before it is even reported! ! We can rectify our actions immediately if the students want to.

There are so very many cases I could cite—students want longer operating hours for Hoke Hall. Yet . . . students will sit in Hoke and pour an entire container of sugar into a cup and/or mix it with salt. IS THIS MATURITY? ? ? The money saved from this waste could probably pay for the extended hours.

No, fellow students of EOC, we san place NO blame on our administration unless it is for tardiness of their actions —put the blame where it belongs — WITH EACH AND EVERY ONE OF US! ! !

In losing these three we will suffer, for they were definitely students we were proud of and will be anxious to welcome back. But, maybe, through this experience, we have learned a lesson—the administration is here to guide us, NOT RULE US, but the latter will prevail unless we act as we should—AS ADULTS!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editors :

Isn't it wonderful that on our campus we still have a few people who have enough courage to speak out against the artificiality of college life, against the triviality of our traditions, against those social leeches in the student senate who are embezzling from the people's typing paper fund. Join me, my friends, in applauding the people's friend, Pseudo Joe, and in a brief prayer that our little Don Quixote will not run out of windmills.

Peudo Sancho Panca

To Psuedo Joe: ---- -- -- -- ----

Joe, you have displayed Pulitzer potential! Before the scramble for your collected work begins tell me, where are the rest of your treasures? On public toilet walls?

Greg Baker

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Leader of the Third Sex or as known in the paper, Pseudo Joe College: If you have complaints as to what we do in our Senate we would appreciate your appearance at one of the meetings. If you do not have the intestinal fortitude to bring yourself to our next meeting, then why don't you go to a college that would probably serve your talents better? Say Vassar, for instance.

If you think that the senate is putting itself above other people, what about yourself? Who do you think you are, sir — Allah?

Senator Bill Ward

Editor's Note: Because this letter was received immediately after the last issue of the BEACON, there was enough time to submit it to Pseudo Joe College — the answer appears this issue in The RADIOINACTIVE QUILL.

REMEMBER: All letters for publication must be typewritten, double - spaced, and signed. The name will be withheld if requested.

The library staff has considered the request of the student body body for different and or longer library hours as expressed at the meeting of the Coordinating and Policy oCmmittee on Tuesday, October 31. The library staff is not large enough to keep the library open with a professional staff member on duty at all hours over the weekend, nor does it seem likely that any large number of of students would use the library on Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and evening when one considers the rather smaller number of students who now use the library on Saturday morning and Sunday afternoon.

The most that can be offered at this time is a rearrangement of weekend hours. At the October 31 meeting the present weekend hours were discussed. It seemed to most of those present that the 8 a.m. opening on Saturday was too early. Open an hour later and remaining open until 1 p.m. rather than 12 noon seemed better. The opinion was also was expressed that more students would use the library on Sunday evening than now use it on Sunday afternoon since more students are on campus after 7 p.m. For this reason Sunday hours 7 to 10 p.m. rather than 2 to 4 p.m. were requested.

Please note that the library hours will not change Fall Term. New hours will be effective the first weekend in the Winter Term, i.e., January 6 and 7, 1962. The weekend schedule on January 6 and after will be: Saturday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Sunday 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Library hours are determined by the students' need for service and the use made of facilities during the hours the library is open Several hours of a professional staf member's time cannot be taken from other library activities if only a half dozen students are using the library. For this reason the new hours are being introduced as a trial run for the Winter Term. If the library is used regularly by a fairly large number of students, the new schedule will probably be continued. If the proposed schedule seems unsatisfactory, another variation may be considered.

A number of students have asked that the library be open most weekend hours simply as a place for study with only a student assistant on duty. Here the responsibility for the library book collection is, of course, the problem. If the library is open for study, the books are all accessible. Someone must be responsible for the book collection valued at several hundred thousand dollars. It is not reasonable to ask a student assistant to accept this responsibility.

'Court Capers'

By ANNA WITT

After voting and re-voting and re-re-voting, the girls here have finally decided that henceforth the first 10 apartments in EOC-ene Courts will be known on this campus as the Co-Ed Courts. Names such as The Hovels, Winters' Wings, and Sun Way Apartments were considered.

The girls also elected officers for the coming year. President is Barbara Hunt, a junior transfer from Judson Bible College. Vice-president, Kathy Warren, a sophomore from Portland. Secretary, Janet Richardson, a junior from Milton-Freewater. Treasurer, Betty Basche, a freshman from Richland, Oregon. Publicity co-chairmen, Bonnie Osborn, a junion transfer form Oregon State, and Donna Postlewait, a sophomore from Milton-Freewater. Housemother and general shadow at the courts, Merlene Teasley.

To become a resident of Co-Ed Courts, a girl must present a petition signed by her parents to the Dean of Women. After gaining the Dean's approval, each girl pays $50 per term for her apartment. There are cooking facilities in each apartment, or if the girl prefers, arrangements can be made for her to take her meals in the dorm. There are from three to five girls in each apartment.

Each apartment is furnished with bunk beds, tables, chairs, dressers, and a divan. They are heated with gas, and a stove and refrigerator are provided. To these, the girls have added personal touches, such as armchairs, pictures, record players, curtains, and one apartment has lately added a television set.

The college provides telephone service, lights, water, and electricity. The girls need pay only for the heat they use.

Not much capering going on this week, it's too soon after Valentine's Day, I guess.

CLUB NEWS

STUDENTS!! Meet the Rodeo Club! You will have your opportunity Saturday, November 18th, when this organization puts on their dance of the term.

The reason is to raise funds for the blud and give the students a good time. What better way is there to spend a Saturday night than dancing and enjoying yourself?

Help support the Rodeo Club and our school by turning out for the dance at Hoke Hall the 18th of November.

The Alpha Phi Epsilon, the honorary society of Secretarial Science students ,held a coffee hour on November 4 during Homecoming week. Honored guests were ten members who were graduated of EOC, and were members of the honorary society.

Refreshments were served and the social was enjoyed by all.

The Radioactive Quill

By PSEUDO JOE COLLEGE

The Radioinactive Quill is very happy to see some response to the column on campus and in The Beacon. Re your Letter to the Editor, I do not have sufficient experience (as you obviously do) to know the characteristics of the Third Sex. Perhaps you should see me so that I may receive Enlightenment. And thanks for the suggestion. May God be my witness, I just may try thinking I'm Allah!

I am in full agreement with many of the students of the campus, who claim that what our rapidly growing school really needs is to imitate the larger colleges. The Senate already has delusions of gradeur, so why not the whole Student Body? Let's have Big Student Government, Big Entertainment, Big Men on Campus, and Big Athletics. (Why worry about scholastics? We've paid our money—let's have fun!) In fact let's officially name the college Harvard-on-the-Hill, so we can always remain an imitation.

We have no time to do anything which might be original, for we're going to be tied up every night with dances at Hoke (let's extend the hours for the dances, by the way: I want to advance the idea before the Senate does). Originality implies non-conforism, which in turn implies that we may possibly be adjusting to the weather outside our Brave New Womb, and who wants to do that? I propose a new cheer: "Imitate! Imitate! We don't really give a damn about our fate; we IMITATE, IMITATE, IMITATE! (but remember always to call it Growing Up To Be One of the Big Boys)." Why worry about extravagant and obviously unworkable ideas such as starting a Greek theater to work in conjunction with Southern Oregon's Shakesperian Festival? Or giving up our pretentions about being an athletic school? (We can't do that, dearie—look at how many deserving boys who wouldn't otherwise get a chance to come to school get athletic scholarships.) Or ideas like being proud of being a small school and instigating what we would seem to hold as an ideal — true democracy, in which every citizen gets his chance to speak (instead of having the Senate so graciously allow him to speak). Or supporting stiffened academic requirements in order to promote quality, instead of the quantity that any school can have. Or forgetting about dancing Monday through Thursday nights to use our time for studying. (Sorry! I forgot that the last word is considered profanity.)

Perhaps, Senator Ward, you can find more things in this column with which you can lambaste me in The Beacon. Perhaps next time you can even find some specifics to argue about. But you are an upperclassman, Mr. Ward — you are one of the damned. It's the freshmen and sophomores we'd like to save, be it for Allah or for Intellect and Common Sense. For them, I reiterate my invitation to read the minutes of the Senate meetings. There was a mention of lighting (up?) in the last one. Speaking of lights, the Radioinactive Quill hereby offers a challenge to any Pthysics student to use a photometer to meausre the amount of illumination on the football field at night when the lights are on, or the gymnasium under similar circumstances. Then compare them to the amout of light in a few of our classrooms and in the library. Perhaps there might be some interesting results which would cast some light upon our field of interest here at E.O.C.

Again to you, Senator Ward. It happens that I have Tuesday night obligations. Besides, the Senate probably wouldn't let me speak anyway.

ATHELETES FEATS

By DAVE HAUN

Now that the footballer's have hung up their pads until another yetar we turn now to the hardwood sport. Basketball coach Bob Quinn greeted twenty-five hopefuls the opening day of practice Nov. 1. By the end of the first week he had made his initial cut in preparation for the opening NAIA Tournament.

Quinn begins his 33rd year as head basketball mentor at Eastern Oregon. According to the Converse Basketball Yearbook, Quinn is one of the most winningest coaches in the nation. In 29 years Quinn has coached teams in 707 games, won 371, lost 336 for a percentage of .525.

Last year the Mountaineer cagers compiled a 17-13 win-loss record. EOC finished Oregon Collegiate Conference play tied for second with Portland State with a 10-6 record.

Finishing in a tie for second in OCC action behind Oregon Tech, the Mounties were selected as the number one team to represent the conference in the NAIA playoffs. EOC beat Lewis and Clark but lost the final game to Linfield in a game played in Portland's Memorial Coliseum.

Via the graduation route and loss of eligibility the Mounties are now faced with completely rebuilding.

Only three returning lettermen are on the squad. The three are Walt Wolfe, Dennis Bagnall and Dick Turley.

The Mountie's this year are blessed with height. Something that has been missed for the last few years. The team average is a little better than 6-2 with only three players under the six foot mark. The tallest man on the court is Barry Forrest, a freshman from Abbotsford, British Columbia, Canada, at 6-7. He is followed by Dick Turley and George Wachter, both 6-5. Next are Walt Wolfe and Dick Willems at 6-4.

A tiro of hoopsters stand at 6-3 and include Terry Kaseberg, Don McClain and Dennis Bagnall.

The short men on the squad are Duke Feigner and Pat Martin, both of Milton-Frewater, and Bob Myers.

Eastern Oregon opens the '61-62 basketball season November 30 at the NAIA Tip off Tournament to be held at Lewis and Clark College and Willamette University. Oregon Collegiate Conference play gets underway January 5, when the Mounts host Southern Oregon College in a two-game stand.

Homecoming festivities were literally spoiled by a powerful band of football players from Southern Oregon College. The Red Raiders walloped the Mountaineer's 39-0.

Doug Olsen sophomore quarterback, lived up to his billing as the nation's third leading passer among small colleges. He completly snowed under the Mountie secondary with his pin point passing. However his receivers were also handy with the hands in receptions.

Giving credit where credit is due the Mountie's did play good football in the first and fourth quarters. However the second and third quarters were something differnt. A total of 39 points were scored in these two quarters. In fact that was the final score.

Eastern Oregon failed to get any kind of an offensive drive started against the powerful hard-hitting Southern Oregon defense. Not once in the first half of play did the Mountaineers penetrate into Raider territory and not until late in the third period did EOC get across the 50 yard line.

The furthest penetration into SOC territory that Eastern Oregon was able to make came midway in the final period when the Mounties had the ball on the visitors 32. There, EOC was forced with a fourth down and only inches to go for the first down, and failed.

The rest of the story was all SOC. If it wasn't Olsen's passing, the running of Barnes paved the way for the Red Raiders. This win gave the Southern Oregon team the OCC title.

CBC Snows EOC In Final Game

Eastern Oregon's Mountaineers closed their season on a losing note at the hands of Columbia Basin Junior College 40 to 20, Saturday Nov. 11.

Highly rated CBJC found themselves down 13 to 7 to a spirited Mountie team at halftime and it took a 27 point 3rd quarter to pull the contest out of the fire. The Pasco eleven is now under consideration for the Junior Rose Bowl to be played in Pasadena next month and almost saw their unblemished record go by the rocks.

Columbia Basin opened the scoring in the first stanza on a 22 yard pass play from Weiss to Morton and led 7 to 0 as the quarter ended.

The Mounts looked especially sharp in the 2nd quater as they retaliated with a pair of their own TDs. Tailback Bill Showers, who played his usual fine game, rambled 16 yards to start the Mountaineers scoring. Ron Ribinson's kick was good and the ball game was tied up. Fullback Ladd McGowan later plunged over from the 1 and the Mounties had their moment of

However, a 3rd quarter defensive lapse by the Mounts saw CBJC roll up 4 TDs and 27 points to put the game on ice. Columbia Basin's Weise mixing up the plays nicely got the Pasco crew moving as the team they are supposed to be.

Better fortune is seen for the Mountaineers next year. They have the nucleus of a good team returning despite losing ballplayers like Gordon Meyers who has been outstanding all year. Good luck next year, Mounts!

Maybe next year the loyal (?) Mountie fans (?) will give you better support. It seems that despite the fact that the enrollment of our school has been growing by leaps and bounds, attendance at games has not increased accordingly. Come on everybody! Let's get back in the spirit of things by packing the coliseum for the basketball games.

Dicks Predicts

As the grid season creeps closer and closer to finality again, predictions of the outcome of a battle becomes increasingly harder. Some teams have nothing to shoot for and not put out full effort. Others give their bench experience in the hope of a winning season in the forthcoming year. Still, there are some key games left, for bowl bids are clinched now.

Last week was Bad Day at Black Rock for yours truly despite hitting one game on the nose. Better things are seen for the forthcoming week, and I will start by giving you my upset Special of the Week—Georgia Tech 10, Alabama 7!

The season to date: 60 right, 19 wrong, 1 tie, (76 per cent).

SOUTH

Georgia Tech 10, Alabama 7—a hunch and a 200 lb. line.
North Carolina 14, Duke 7 — Tarheels in a close one.
Clemson 27, Furman 6 — tougher than most give credit.
Auburn 13, Georgia 3—Bulldogs will have a letdown after Florida.
Kentcky 23, Xavier 0—Woolun-Hutchinson combo clicks.
LSU, 31, Mississippi St. 0 — Tigers are rollin'.
Maryland 22 Wake Forest 7 — looking for a bowl bid.
North Carolina Et. 13, South Carolina 7—Gabriel's the difference.
Mississippi 24, Tennessee 7 — Ole Miss will stop the single wing.
Indiana 7, West Virginia 6—Big Ten teams are rough, even the cellar dwellers.
Vanderbilt 20, Tulane 8—Vandy is building.

MIDWEST

Michigan St. 21—Northwestern 7—Spartans bounce back.
Iowa 20, Michigan 14—Hawkeyes won't lose four in a row, so chins up—western civ. students!
Minnesota 13, Purdue 7—But watch out! Boilermakers are Big Ten's spoilers.
Missouri 31, Kansas St. 0 — Tigers in win column after two losses.
Colorda 21, Nebraska 7—pressure is off.
Syracuse 29, Notre Dame 17 — Ernie Davis adds more yardage.
Ohio t. 17, Oregon 7—Ferguson vs. Renfro.
Houston 14, Oklahoma St. 13 — Bolen is hard to stop, but still close.
Iowa St. 19, Tulsa 6—Hoppman is great.
Wisconsin 29, Illinois 7—Miller's passes.

SOUTHWEST

Baylor 20, Air Force 3—Bull bulls way.
Rice 16, Aexas A&M 13 —Aggies will be looking past½ this one for Thanksgiving clash with Texas.
Arkansas 17, SMU 6 — Another one for the Razorbacks.
Texas 34, TCU 0—Longhorns are devastating.

EAST

Army 13, Oklahoma 12—don't risk your life savings on this one—Sonners are now moving.
Boston College 20, Boston U. 19—typical close traditional.
Columbia 27, Penn 7—Lions have it, Quakers don't.
Harvard 19, Brown 0—no scoring punch for Brown.
Navy 29, Viginia 0—Middies are too much.
Penn St. 23, Holy Cross 13 — power over passing.
Southern Cal 17, Pittsburgh 14—Pitt has one of the roughest schedules in the country.
Princeton 14, Yale 13—you pick 'em.
Colgate 14, Rutgers 8—Rutgers gets first loss.
Dartmouth 19, Cornell 12—Blueplate Speciaal.

FAR WEST

Arizona St. 22, Detroit 21 — home ground's the difference.
Arizona 22, Texas Western 11—Arizona is unpredictable.
New Mexico St. 35, West Texas St. 19—great offensive.
Oregon St. 23, BYU 0—Beavers even season record.
Stanford 13, Washington St. 12

Showers Leads EOC Football Statistics

Freshman Tailback Bill Showers continues to lead the EOC football statistics as the Mounties go into their final game against Columbia Basin Saturday.

The former Elgin prepper has chalked up 724 yards in seven games, with 490 of the total rushing, and 234 yards on 23 passes of 72 attempted. Fred Sayre ranks second in total offense with 201 yards, 197 of which are on passes. Sayre completed 15 of 31 attempts.

EOC Prof Authors Article In Journal

Hugo Hartig, assistant professor of education at Eastern Oregon College, is author of an article appearing in the current issue of "Improving College and University Teaching," international quarterly journal.

The article, "The Psychology of Bad Teaching," poses the question, "Is bad teaching sometimes caused by not lack of subject knowledge or lack of proper method, but a 'natural' or 'innate' drive to poor teaching?"

In addition, Hartig suggests in his article that in general society applauds the bad teacher,.

EOC Course Well Attended This Year

A great percentage increase in the number of students registered in the Secretarial Science curriculum at Easten Oregon College this year is recorded in a department report issued this week.

The report indicates 33 new students are enrolled in the program which includes a major in secretarial and business courses in addition to work in other subject matter fields.

Dr. Leonard F. Good, department chairman, and Dr. Sarah Stein, program advisor, note the curriculum is designed to meet standards of employers desiring that secretaries have college hours in addition to secretarial training. The EOC secretarial science program includes both the one-year and two-year curricula.

Area students enrolled include Shirley Corwin, Sandi Eckley, Jean Hill, Ruth Hoxie, Sandi Sailer, Maria Schooler, and Charlann Rostock, La Grande; Neda McClellan, Carolyn Vickers, and Joy Turner, Union.

INSTRUCTOR IN MUSIC

Carol E. Rathe, shown using the autoharp for class demonstration, is the new instructor in music at Eastern Oregon College. Miss Rathe, who also teaches music at Central School, has a bachelor of fine arts degree from Nebraska State College at Kearney and her master of music from the University of Nebraska. An instructor in elementary school music at Chappell and Sutton, Neb. before coming to La Grande, the new EOC staff member has done additional graduate work at the University of Michigan. Notes From Underground

By DUSTY YEVESKY

I've been eavesdropping around corners and listening at keyholes again this week, trying to discover what's new that I can pass on to you.

I have heard some rumblings from students on our fair campus about the recently added requirements by the Math department. Hold up there a moment and give a listen.

Do you plan to be an elementary teacher? Do you freeze up when some one mentions mathematics? Unhappily, this is the case all too often. Don't rationalize yourself into believing, "I'm just stupid in Math," lay the blame where it belongs — at the feet of inept teachers and poor methods

In the past, many teacher's colleges have sadly neglected the field of Math, often requiring no more arithmetic than what is required in the eighth grade of public schools. As prospective elementary teachers, the responsibility lies directly on your shoulders to break the chain and stop perpetuating the fear of Math by learning more than 2 plus 2 equals 4 and delving into why 2 plus 2 equals 4. Learning mechanics is not nearly as important as understanding theory.

The Scott, Foresman Experimental Mathematics method is being adopted by many junior high schools and people who plan to teach at this leyel must be grounded in this new approach. (If you don't know about this new method, I suggest you make it your business to become acquainted with it).

The Math dept. at E.O.C. is in the process of planning a new 3 term math sequence nos. 111, 112, 113, which hopes to teach basic theory, give prospective elementary teachers a deeper appreciation of the discipline of mathematics and instruction in practical methods which they can apply when actually in the field.

So you undergraduates, instead of complaining because of added requirements, you should feel fortunate that you are attending a college which has a far-sighted administration and is expanding to give you the best possible education in your chosen field.

I must leave you now to have my sneakers re-soled. I have more snooping to do — will report next issue on the Social Sciences.

P.S.

I have received only a few responses to this column. I am interested to learn your reactions and will honestly attempt to devote future columns to subjects of interest to you.

SOEA Group Hosts Speakers

The second SOEA meeting for this year, was held on November 1 in the Ackerman Auditorium. The meeting was well attended by students in both elementary and secondary education.

Dr. Austin Haddock, Principal of Ackerman Elementary School, spoke to the group about "Principal-teacher" relationships in the school. This is a topic which concerns everyone in education and was presented in an interesting and informative way by Dr. Haddock. SOEA was also privileged to be hosts to Dr. J. B. Conoway from Linfield College. who is State Consultant for SOEA. Mrs. Ewalt spoke to the group briefly concerning "Professional Compentence," and Dr. Conoway, who was a one-time student at EOC, spoke of the changes which have occurred in our college since he was a student. SOEA was also invited to attend the April conference which will be held at Linfield College.

The next meeting of SOEA will be held on December 6. Dr. Bruce Ryan will speak to the group about the "Education of the Handicapped Child."

Physical Science Classes Study the Atom

Due to the unusual interest in the problem of atomic energy, especially as it may be used in a nuclear war, the Physical Science Department has moved this unit of science from the Winter Term to their current classes.

Taking as a point of departure the structure of mater with reference to atoms and molecules, the course moved farward through various historical periods such as the discovery of X-rays in 1895 by Conrad Roentgen; the discovery of natural radioactivity in 1896 by Henry Becquerel; the work of the Curies on radium, and finally to the advent of atomic fission in the early 1940. In early 1952 came the advent of the hydrogen bomb based on fusion of hydrogen, a process going on continually in the sun.

The current use of atomic energy in explosives was studied together with the attendant effects of blast, heat, and radioactive fall-out, with methods of protetcion and survival. Professors Bolen and Baxter feel that the 160 students in their classes have had an opoprtunity to get a a first-hand intelligent explanation of some of these important phenomena.

12 EOC Students In 'Who's Who'

Nine seniors and three juniors at Eastern Oregon College have been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," a national publication.

The seniors include Gregory Baker and Sharon Noyes, La Grande; Allan Carr, The Dalles; Donna Gail Fisher, Haines; Donald Shore, Richland; Lawrence Snook, Wallowa; Suzanne Switzer, Condon; and Hill Walker, Washington, Va.

The juniors are Peggy Elder, Pendleton; Beverly Trimble, Hereford; and Carol Woodell, Beaverton.

Students are nominated on the basis of scholarship, leadership in educational and extracurricular activities, general citizenship, and "promise of future usefulness."

Choir Presents "Magnificent"

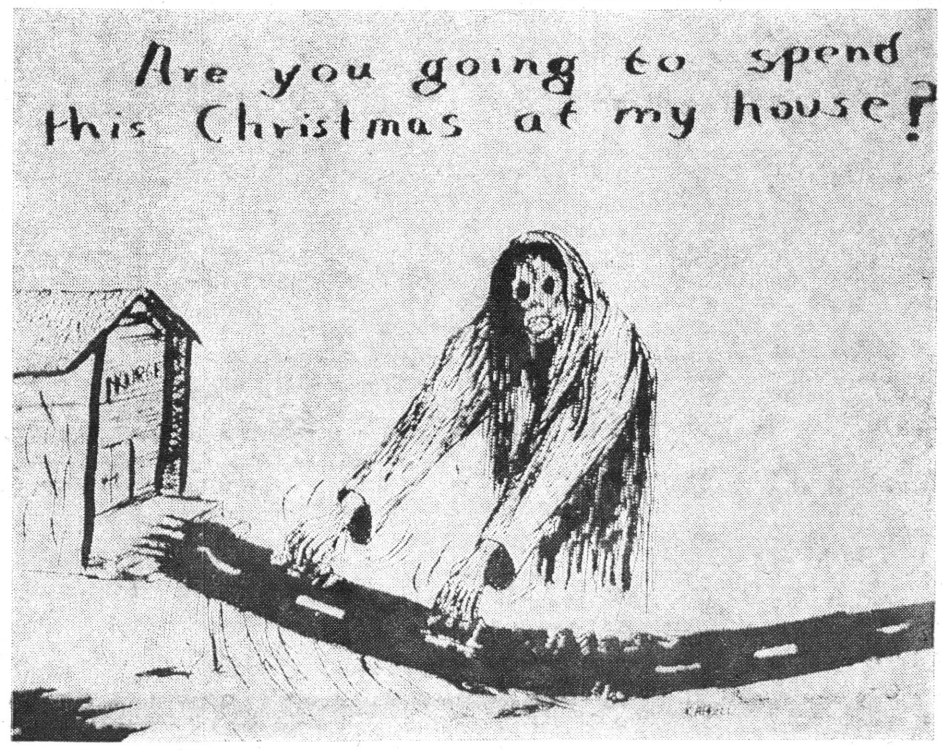
Dear Friend:

May I take this opportunity to call to your personal attention a musical offering at the college in which I am sure you will be interested. Next Wednesday, December 6, the Eastern Oregon College choir, under the direction of John L. Cobb, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. in the college theater. The major work on the program will be the performance of the "Magnificat in D Major" by J. S. Bach. We believe this to be the first performance in La Grande of this magnificent choral work and certainly hope you will avail yourself of the opportunity to hear and enjoy it.

In addition to the "Magnificat," the program will also contain several traditional Christmas songs and carols in various settings performed by the choir and blue and gold singers. There will be no charge for admission.

I sincerely hope that you will be able to make attendance at this concert a special part of your observance of this Christmas season.

Yours truly,
J. Lynn Bishop
Music Dept. Chairman



Christmas Spirit At Co-ed Courts

The Christmas spirit has taken over in Co-ed Courts this week. Christmas trees, Santa Clauses, and Yule candles are to be seen in almost all the apartments. Even the weatherman seems to be dreaming of a white Christmas. Christmas is a time for joy and happiness, final week, peace on earth, grades, but most of all, good will toward all mankind.

Some of the girls here have recently heard a story of courage and faith. It is the story of Pamela Nelson of Palo Alto, California. Pamela is ten, dying of cancer, but her doctors are not as sure as she is that she will live to see another Christmas. We would like to invite you to join us in sending her the Christmas cards she enjoys so much. We realize of course, that there are many thousands of Pamelas, all over the world. We don't know of them. We can only send our cards to Pamela with a hope that someone who does know will do the same for all the others like her. If you would care to join us, just send your cards to Pamela Nelson, care of Dr. Howard Hatcher, 300 Pasteur Drive, Palo Alto, California.

Until next time then, Merry Christmas, happy final week, and may "God bless us, every one."

Featuring Jim Cornett

A sophomre pre-law student from La Grande, Jim Cornett currently holds the office of second vice-president of the Eastern Oregon College student body.

Serving in this office and also as social director, his duties are centered around coordinating all campus social activities, publishing of the social calendar and the student director "Who's Who and Where" which will be distributed during Winter term registration.

In addition to his many duties involving the student government Jim is also an active member of the Young Republican, IK's, Blue and Gold Singers, and was recently elected vice president of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders.

After completion of his junior year here he hopes to enter law school at either Willamette University or the University of Oregon and perhaps even work for his CPA certificate.

Middle 'R' Prints Campus Work

Last year for the first time since 1955 the Middle 'R' published their magazine "The Middle R" because of the enthusiastic reception it received last year, they are going to publish it again this year. The magazine contains poetry and short stories written by students, alumni, and faculty members. Any one interested may submit a manuscript.

According to Mr. Bayes, Middle 'R' advisor, the deadline for manuscripts will be around the middle of winter term, but no definite date has been set yet. They hope to have the magazine ready to sell by the first of spring term.

CO-EDITORS of "Middle R" Joanne Thurston and David Slabaugh are accepting manuscripts for this year's publication.

Annuals Sent To Alumni

The 1961 annuals are now mailed out to all students who are not at EOC this year. Those people here on campus who have not yet received their annual can contact Mary Gray at Dorion Hall. She will be able to give you your annual.

Those students who have made only partial payments cannot receive the Mountaineer until the balance due is paid.

Outing Club Visits Wallowa

The Outing Club spent a cold weekend at Wallowa Lake on the 18 and 19th of November. Although the temperature dropped to the low 20's at night the group spent two lovely days enjoying the snow-covered mountains and the frozen waterfalls.

On Saturday some of the group hiked into the mountains to see the frozen rivers and waterfalls above the lake. The falls provided excellent subject material for the camera fans in the group. Other members of the club went pheasant and duck hunting with fair results.

On Friday and Saturday nights the group listened to hi-fit records around the blazing fireplace. Some even studied for the Civ., World Lit. and U.S. History tests scheduled for Monday morning.

Sunday morning the entire group walked up the Aneroid trail to view the entire valley from a prominent point along the trail.

The members of the group would like to express thanks to Dr. Stein, Mr. Cox, and Dr. Van Vechten for their long suffering patience in chaperoning the group.

Sister Party Held

A most enjoyable campus sister party was held at Hoke Lounge on the evening of November 29.

The names of the girls and their sisters were read, after which there was a fine program provided for the on and off campus sisters. Paula Smith did a baton twirling act, Fran Wolfe and Shirley Smurthwaite gave a dance, and Shirley Hulse did a pantomime. It was planned to have a party every term.

Refreshments were then served during which time the girls found their sister and began to get acquainted. The purpose of the program is to promote a closer relationship between the on campus and off campus women students.

The party was sponsored zq the Associated Women Students. Diantha Kelsoe, Vickie Hickox, and Dianne Sullivan served as charimen.

EOC Backs Janson Lai

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, La Grande — A petition protesting the treatment, by two La Grande barber shops ,of Janson Lai, Eastern Oregon College Negro student from Kenya, East Africa, was circulating the campus Saturday.

Lai, a freshman pre-medical student at EOC, Thursday was refused a haircut at two downtown shops. Lai's fellow residents of Hunt Hall, men's dormitory at EOC, initiated the petition, and began circulating it among the more than one thousand students. The petition reads in part:

"We the men of Hunt Hall and other interested students of Eastern Oregon College wish to protest the manner in which a fellow student has ben treated. Thursday, Nov. 30, Janson Lai, a foreign student from Kenya, British East Africa, was refused service at two La Grande barber shops because he is colored . . . "

Student spokesmen indicated they have made their protest known to the Barbers' Union and the Oregon State Bureau of Labor.

Reportedly, only two of seven La Grande barber shops visited following the incident would "willingly" give a Negro a haircut.

EOC Students' Poems Selected

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE —Poems of four Eastern Oregon College students have been selected for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Peotry, according to Dennis Hartman, secretary, National Poetry Association, Los Angeles, Calif.

The poems include "Sonnet of the Sea," Le Roy Mobley; "Poem," David Slabaugh; "Cloudland," Frances McCall; and "That Fate Were Kind," Frederick Park. The four, all sophomres, are from La Grande.

Yule Candlelight Hour Impressive

Amid a soft candle glow filling the lounge of Hoke Hall Sunday afternoon, December 2, 1961, Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honorary, officially initiated the Christmas season on the campus of EOC. Members of Sigma Alpha Chi opened the Candlelight Hour in the manner traditionally accepted in this, their 27th year. Mary Carnes, an alumnus of Eastern Oregon College and a member of Sigma Alpha Chi lighted the master candle, which is also a traditional reminder of that first candlelighting service 27 years ago. Each girl lighted her small candle from this flame and, in turn, lighted the candles placed about the lounge creating a warm glow throughout the room.

Various numbers in the spirit of Christmas were then presented by faculty andd students alike. Mr. Howard Anderson sang a vocal solo, "Cantique de Noel"; the Blue and Gold Singers on on campus, under the direction of Mr. John Cobb, sang "Fum, Fum, Fum," a traditional carol, and the more modern selection, Norman Luboff's "The Christmas Song."

Barbara Myers presented a violin solo, "Ave Maria," as refreshments were served by members of Sigma Alpha Chi. Sue Switzer performed a modern dance routine as Eillen Uesugi narrated in song "A Little Spruce Tree." Group singing of the traditional carols was led by Dr. Bishop; the rendition of "Away in a Manger" by the children present was enjoyed by all.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL.

Mature Student Action

Eastern Oregon College is faced with a problem, that of racial discrimination in the community. When Janson Lai, Eastern Oregon College Negro student from Kenya, East Africa, was refused service in a downtown barber shop, we, not only as students but as human beings became involved in a dilemma. It is too late now to ignore the issue and it's too pertinent to forget. By signing a petition we have done nothing but create many mixed feelings and cause probably some unfortunate publicity that might well result in more damage than good.

Yet, it seems if it takes an international news release to make a community face up to its hypocrisies, the publicity is good. After all, we should be ashamed of discrimination because it exists, not because others are hearing of it.

Right or wrong in this particular situation within our own community, does not depend upon the public or private nature of the act, nor does it directly relate to the country's loss or gain of prestige. The important loss takes place within the act itself.

All over campus we hear, "Let's do something about it." The petition has been signed, the Barber's Union and State Bureau of Labor have been notified, the incident has been released to the radio and newspapers; now ask yourselves, what else can be done?

First of all, we as students must be sincere in our efforts to do something that will honestly benefit our cause, and as Americans, we must be honest as to our motives. Are we so pleased merely in national publicity that we are willing to run the risk of lessening the prominence of our community? If we are to unite, let us do it as a whole—The Associated Student Body of Eastern Oregon College, and let us operate through the proper channels—our student government.

ASB official action this week at its meeting was to back the petition.

Our purpose is not to decide upon the issue of racial discrimination—this would be hardly practical—but to take a stand as to whether we feel Janson Lai, a student like ourselves, has been treated justly by the community. We must be sincere in our appeal to the community for action.

WE HAVE TAKEN A MATURE STAND BY ISSUING A PROTEST. THE REST IS UP TO OFFICIAL LOCAL COMMUNITY AND STATE ACTION.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

We are approaching that time of year again when traffic safety must be reemphasized. With the Christmas and New Year holidays coming, it is the duty of every driver to be doubly alert in this season of Christmas spirit and traffic accidents.

The old slogans are just as apt now as when they were coined: "The life you save may be your own." Take your time, not your life." Take your time over the Christmas vacation and drive carefully, don't become a statistic.

As an old friend of mine used to say, "one live "D" student is worth two dead "A" students."

The Geiger Counter

One of the basic laws of nature states. "to every force there is an equal and opposite force." This I feel is true in the case of the Radioactive Quill. There seems to be a feeling on campus that this column which appears in the Beacon every issue is a bit one sided in its approach to the problems it feels exist on campus. Therefore the Geiger Counter will try to the best of its ability to bring out the other side of these problems so that the students will be able to decide for themselves what problems they have instead of having someone decide for them.

One of the thorns in the Quill's side seems to be the way he thinks the student government is being run. May I point out that the students voted the present form of student government into effect only last year. This organization is in its building stages and only time will make it the strong and efficient unit that it will eventually be. The Quill seemed to be taken aback by the rules which were presented to the senate in regard to procedure in the senate meetings. These rules were discussed and passed by the senator themselves and while the Quill rattled on about ermine robes and sedan chairs, not to mention the rather childish concept of pablum for the senators, the senate was already beginning to establish itself as an effective organization.

Apparently the Quill doesn't like te idea of tradition on our campus. He almost flipped when the idea of abolishing the sandbag war at the halftime of the annual homecoming football game met its waterloo in the senate. It should have been noted that a random sampling of the students on campus favored the idea of keeping this bit of tardition with us by a ratio of over thirty to one.

Another of his little darts seems to be aimed at the presence of athletics and athletes on campus. He seems to be in favor of junking the athletic program in favor of a Greek theatre. He left the impression that we should quit trying to be an athletic school. May I point out that I do not think the athletes on campus are payed any money for participating in the various sports. Therefore, one would gather that they do it out of sheer desire to participate in the sport of their choosing. It it this caliber of athlete that almost took EOC to the national NAIA basketball tournament last season, not to mention winning the right to represent the conference in District NAIA tournament in that particular sport. I'd say that was a pretty good try. Drama and the theatre are a good thing to have, but how many people turn out for the theatre on this campus and how many turn out for the various sports? It's probably a pretty close race, you be the judge. The students usually express the activities that they want most by their participation. Why not let them decide?

Well, the air doesn't seem as polluted with scandal as some would have us think, so it's time to put the old Geiger Counter on the shelf until we see another mushrooming, and probably harmless, cloud on the horizon.

Notes From Underground

By DUSTY YEVESKY

I had promised to report on the Social Science in this issue, but have found all the keyholes to Dr. Spear's office to be plugged and the replys to questions I have asked of students who profess to be studying in that field have been pretty vague. I will do some more snooping and tell all in a future issue.

My attention was caught by a recent column in the Oregonian (Nite Beat, by Bob Walters) and I would like to pass some of it on to you. It seems that Ashland is not satisfied with its reputation in Shakespearean theatre and is planning to branch out into other phases of the drama.

Angus L. Bowmer, who founded the Shakespearean Festival in 1935, will also be the head of this new group, to be known at the Vining Repertory Theatre. Selections for this season include, "The Boy Friend," "Roshoman," Molire's, "The Miser," and Arch Obler's "Night of the Auk." The new venture is in cooperation with SOC and the Festival.

There has been some talk about starting a Greek Theatre (along the same lines that Ashland got its start) here at EOC. We have the potential within the student body and there are several places in the valley that would do nicely as an outdoor amphitheatre. Why not?

Social Notes to ASB

By Jim Cornett

In reply to the letters and comments, may I say that the Social Assembly is not responsible for the week-night dances in Hoke Hall. We deserve neither compliments nor criticism for these dances. If you wish to present your views to the responsible group you may turn to the Senate. If you think that these dances should be continued, why not Voice this opinion to the Senate? The only way that any group can function efficiently is to know the feelings of its members. You as members of the Student Body of E.O.C. have a direct responsibility to Voice your opinions. What social functions do you desire besides those that are scheduled for the winter term. If you do not voice an opinion then what right do you have to complain? Only through constructive cirticism can any group improve itself.

Next term the Social Assembly will present a Social Directory called, "Who's Who and Where." This publication will be free and will be passed out to you in the registration line.

Caucus Confab

BY GREG BAKER

"Northern East Oregon College," or "Northern Orevada College," or maybe "Northeast College of Negergon."

This, readers, may be your plight as riled Eastern Oregon legislators mumble about plans of succession. "Orevada", "Nevergon, "East Oregon," Nevaorega," or perhaps the "Land of Nevore Nevore." These are all the joking possibilities regarding the re-naming of Eastern Oregon lands after the coupling with Nevada to form a new super state.

This dramatic furvor is a result of Secretary of State Appling's plan of reapportionment of Oregon Legislators. If Appling's plan is adopted it will deprive Eastern Oregon of one Senator and four representatives.

In brief: The politicians of Western Oregon contend that Eastern Oregon is unfairly overrepresented in the state legislature. They back their premise with figures showing Eastern Oregon's eighteen counties having 15. 5% of the legislative representation. This figure is much larger than it would be providing legislative apportionment was decided through population spread. The national trend in State legislatures is to apportion the legislators through population distributions; so many senators or representatives per so many people.

But now let us consider the amazing possibilities of the new Super State, "Orevada." This writer can envision the following situations:

1. Of course wide open gambling in "Orevada"; at "Northeran Orevada College," (formerly EOC): one arm bandits in Hoke College Shop, perhaps controlled by Fanny's Syndicate.

2. Any student's coming from Oregon would naturally have to pay out of state tuition to attend Northern Orevada College.

3. "Harold's Club" replacing the friendly saloon on East Adams.

4. The "Evening Observer" evolving into the "Northern Orevadagonian."

5. And the student senate, those naughty scalawags! They will probably gamble away all the typewriter paper money. (36 to 1 odds with $1.73 bets on the roulette wheel.) But maybe it will at least keep them from doing all those unscholarly things to provide that silly and unecessary pastime, fun! The only claim to fame Oregon would have after the merger would be in residing next to Orevada, one of the very largest states in the Union. Oregon, I fear, would soon become "The Rhode Island of The Pacific," clutching to our Western Orevada border for fear of sliding into the bottomless pits of the ocean.

ATHELETES FEATS

By DAVE HAUN

I would like to extend congratulations to Gordon Meyers on being selected to the OCC All-Star first team. Southern Oregon and Oregon College of Education the 1-2 finishers in the Oregon Collegiate Conference football race, paced the annual All-Star selections announced last week.

Al Akins' champion Raiders were rewarded with seven of the 22 berths on the offensive and defensive platoons, while the Wolves gained six berths. Portland State and Oregon Tech were given four spots each and EOC one.

Three other Mounties received honorable mention. They include as follows: Bob Bates, Richard Barr, and Bill Showers.

The Mounties next year can possibly look forward to much better season. That is if and only if the men who turned out this year return next year. The one year of experience will not only strengthen them physically, but also mentally. The trasition froom high school football to the college level is a rude awakening for a frosh. However with hard work and practice the grade can be made.

Speaking of next year if people thought that Southern Oregon was tops this year wait until next fall. They only had one senior on the whole squad. All seven of the All-Star selections from SOC return next year. Their record was five wins and four lost. One of those losses was to Linfield who is going to play in the Camellia Bowl this weekend.

Looking at the things on the surface I would say that the Red Raiders are pressing the big time in small college circles. When they played the Mounties here for Homecoming they brought with them not only a championship team, but a sports announcer, and their own statistician.

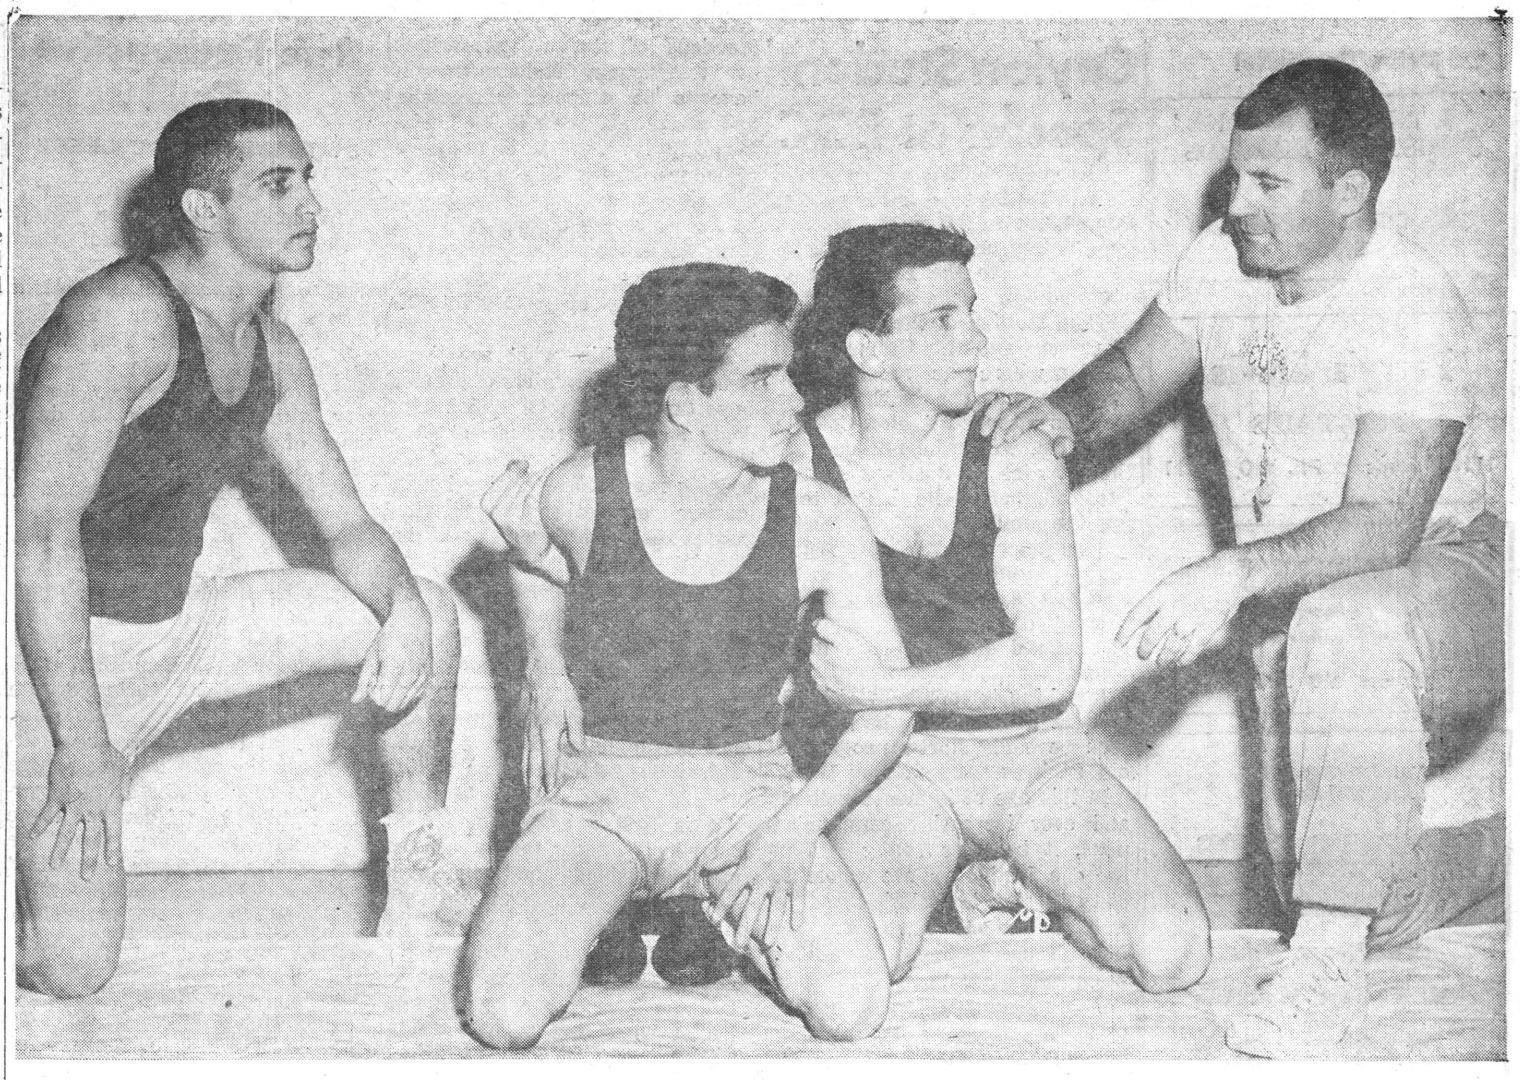
This year EOC is starting wrestling as a major sport. In its first year the Mounties are going to take on a Notre Dame type of schedule. Their opponents include Oregon University, Oregon State University, Portland State, and various other schools who have been at the sport for a few years.

Those of you who have never seen a wrestling match other than the psuedo representation on TV will truly enjoy the new here. It is by far one the fastest growing sports in colleges. This weekend the Mounties have their first match so why don't you drop over and watch the mat men.

Next fall there is a possibility of a bowl game between the OCC champion and either the Evergreen Conference Champion or the Northwest Conference champion. The town of Klamath Falls is trying to get the okay from the NAIA. If approval comes also from the college presidents, next year willbe the first game of the planned annual event.

At least it is consoling to note that some cities of Oregon are energetic enough to pursue something of this nature. It is by far a lote more than conservative La Grande would ever try.

On This Date The Beacon Said:



1931: E.O.C. Second Annual Homecoming.

1932: Twenty Men Out for Basketball.

Last Saturday evening the Freshmen wrestlers on the E.O.C. wrestling team defeated the Upperclassmen by a overwhelming 34 to 4 score, before a good crowd. This was the teams last intrasquad match prior to this Saturdays meet with tough Whitman College, in the E.O.C. Coliseum at 3:00 P.M. According to Coach Cox all the boys wrestled real well, and prospects for a victory over Whitman are very good. This match served as an elimination meet with the winners scheduled to open up against Whitman, unless they are defeated in intrasquad matches during the week. One of the highlights of the meet was the 4-4 draw between sophomore veteran Jerry Campbell of Redmon, and Jerry Christenson of Pendleton. Both boys are hoping for a first string assignment in the 167 pound class. The results:

123 pounds—Bernie Hart, Fr., drew with Lee Derrick, Upp., 7-7.

130 pounds—Rich Hannan, Fr., decisioned Bob Havig, Upp., 4-0.

137 pounds—Jack Eckenrode, Fr., pinned Sam Wellenbrock, Upp., 2.56.

147 pounds—Rich Lipson, Fr., decisioned Ron Dunn, Upp., 8-2.

157 pounds—Larry Longbrake, Fr., decsisioned Dave Wirth, Upp., 2-0.

167 pounds—Jerry Christenson, Fr., drew with Jerry Campbell, Upp., 4-4.

177 pounds—Bob Sewell, Fr., pinned Lynn Harris, Upp., 5:05.

191 pounds—Jim Stivers, Fr., pinned Ken Miller, Upp., 3:28.

Heavyweight—Steve Straughn, Fr., decisioned Roger Jenson, Upp., 4-0.

VICTORY GIVES EOC QUINT SEVENTH PLACE

SALEM—Eastern Oregon College captured seventh place in the District 2 NAIA Tip-Off basketball tourney here Saturday night by defeating Oregon College of Education, 65-59.

Barry Forrest led the Mountie attack with 18 points followed by Don McClain with 16 and George Wachter who added 12.

Coach Bob Quinn described the EOC victory as a difference in height as the Mounties won its first game in the tourney. Eastern Oregon lost to Pacific and Lewis and Clark in the other two games.

Willamette coasted to a 65-57 victory over Pacific for the tourney championship.

Portland State defeated Linfield, 71-66, to capture third place and Oregon Tech topped Lewis and Clark, 80-68, for fourth spot. Oregon College was the only team that failed to win a game.

All-Army Wrestling Champ Heads EOC's First Mat Squad

Starting this year for the first time EOC will have an intercollegiate wrestling squad. Their schedule includes Linfield and Oregon State University. These two schools will give the Mounties stiff competition for their opening season.

Head coach of the wrestlers is Kenneth Cox. Last year he was freshman wrestling coach at the University of Washington, with a season record of 11-1-1.

Cox is a graduate (B.S. 1955) of Pennsylvania State College at East Stroudsburg, and has a M.A. (1961) from the University of Washington. Ken served in the U.S. Army (1955-57) and was All-Army Heavyweight Wrestling Champion in 1956.

Head coach Cox expects twenty-eight out for his first year at EOC. Their schedule includes as follows:

December 9, 1961 (Saturday, 3:00 p.m.) Whitman College, La Grande.

Jan. 12, 1962 (Friday, 4:00 p.m.) Linfield College, Linfield.

Jan. 13, 1962 (Saturday, 8:00 a.m.) University of Ore. Tournament, Eugene.

Ceylon Student Speaks at EOC

Victor Cherubim, of the World University Service, stressed the importance of efficient student government and unity during his recent visit to the EOC campus.

Cherubim, born and raised in Ceylon, studied at the University of Ceylon and the University of London where he received his Bachelor's Degree in Economics. He also attended Albion College, Michigan, where he pursued further studies in Business Administration, before he began touring the world for WUS. During the summer of 1960 he visited India, Indonesia, Hong Kong, the Philippines, and Vietnam. Since coming to the United States he has visited 400 campuses in 42 states.

Speaking to members of EOC's student government, he stressed that we could start a program of aid such as suggested by WUS.

In this age of immense mobility and ever increasing communications, it becomes rather difficult for one faction or one whole society to stay in isolation and yet lead a normal existence. This fact becomes more significant when applied to the student situation. Students can no longer live in isolation and away from the turbulances of the society and the world. National and international crises have been exerting increasing impacts upjon the student population, especially since the last war. Variations in the intensities of these crises, whether political, economic or military, have had clear and direct reflections on our campuses. Moreover, there is no indication that such an interrelationship will in the future decrease in importance.

This interrelationship defines an adidtional dimension to the scope of the student government, and not a new one by any means. With this dimension new responsibilities and demands are placed on student leadership. Such demands are by no means voluntary. Either student leadership acecpts such responsibilities and lives up to the demands of this situation or falls short and hense loses its justification for existence. The decision has to be made and has to be made soon. Avoiding the issue will do nothing but postpone this decision and when the time come sto face us with the problems, it might be to o late.

It is therefore our responsibility, as students, to bring about our awareness of this fundamental transition in the role of student government. Such a task will undoubtedly result in a de-emphasis of some of our long-established social activities. Some of these actiivties still exist for no reason other than that they have been done the year before, and every year before that. Some of the functions of student government has traditionally undertaken will have to be dropped completely, and others will have to be fundamentally revised. It is a choice of values, and we have to make this choice. My argument is not that purely social activities are of no value at all, but rather that we are faced wit hnew tasks and responsibilities of greater importance.

To be specific, what are these issues and other matters of greater importance that with which students should be concerned? Are issues like student parking fees, housing regulations, closing hours, teacher evaluation, registration procedures, student wages and the like, of supreme importance to students? That these issues are important is granted, but that such issues represent the ultimate in student concern is rather doubtful. Then what are the important issues? In general there are ones pertaining to the role of the student in society as an active member of this society. The student is first a citizen, and then a student. Such things as the role of students and teachers, problems pertaining to segregation in education, federal aid to education and its effects, campus national and international awareness, the Peace Corps, youth service at home and abroad and a host of others, would fall within the category I am referring to.

This year we are making some attempt to bring about an awareness among the students of these and similar issues. To some it might seem that we are stepping out of bounds. Are we?

Because American students are not active enough in exercising their rights, they are experiencing an erosion of their freedoms. There is far too much "spectator type of action, today."

Campus Cutouts

Which sex are you?

According to the Central Washington College paper, the students on that campus have been divided into four sexes. The student directory classified them as follows: The unmarried male rates a 1; the married male, 2; the unmarried female is given 3; and the married female is 4. It just wouldn't pay to be a married girl on that campus—talk about low status!!

The BJC Roundup reported that the majority of students on the BJC campus have this motto, "Flunk now and avoid the June rush." (Now there's a good wholesome attitude.)

Homecoming at Oregon has once again passed. However, while skimming through the exchange papers, I happened across an Emerald that had published the ASUO President's, Dan Williams, letter to the OAC student president. As I appreciated this letter very much, (for reasons not being mentioned) I thought I would share it. It is an excellent example of the rivalry between the two schools—the U of O and the OAC—and show the terrific school spirit and dedication.

The Radioactive Quill

By PSEUDO JOE COLLEGE

"Pseudo Joe!" cry the Ultras. "Why don't we ever seen you at a Senate meeting? Come so we can ridicule you in person!" Well, guess who went to the last Senate meeting, on Tuesday night, November 21; Yes, Brother Imitators, Pseudo Joe was there! It was absolutely necessary, after suspecting the delusions of grandeur held by the Ultra Senators, to see just what goes on at one of the meetings. in the first place no challenge was offered to the ultimatums produced by the Senate Prexy at an earlier meeting. These rules were never voted on, if we can believe the Humor Sheet (meeting minutes), save the one dealing with smoking during Senate meetings, (Incidentally, none present at the last meeting dared break the rule, but one or two were nervously fingering cigarette lighters.) Of course these rules are necessary, since the Senate has so much important business which absolutely must be accomplished. So what happened that Tuesday night? Members of the UltraCabinet gave reports which were either customary (e.g. reading of the minutes) or which could have been given at any other time, preferably when the Senators were more than slightly interested. Three (3), yes, only three Senators opened their mouths and did anything except sit and look bored. There were three requests or questions (believe it or not) one Senator spoke more than once), and there was one noncontroversial motion (on appropriations of money) which was passed immediately. The meeting of the UltraSenate lasted for exactly 38 (count them, 38) grand, glorious, and absolutely boring minutes. And for this they get delusions of grandeur?

The author of the Radioactive Quill has been indeed busy these past two weeks. He has talked to people who did not realize that under his deceitful cloak of pseudonymity lay that treacherous figure, Pseudo Joe. He has also talked to several people who have been falsely accused of the sin of authorship, and for their pains have received various insults which ranged from carefully concealed butting cutting remarks to a near 5fist-fight with a student who emerged from the library one evening crocked to the gills (note to the faculty: inebriated to the extent of optimum agressiveness). To those falsely accused, we offer our sincerest apologies. To the accusers, we also have a word. Although I appreciate the attacks (when perpetrated on someone else), I fail to see what good they will do when they are no more than vague generalities. If there are specific points with which you have argument, I am willing to listen. For instance, there was an implication in the last issue that state athletic scholarships are given. This is untrue, for athletes receive their scholarships form Masterminds (no pun intended). Obviously we don't give much money forathletics—merely two thirds (approximately) of our Student Body fees. Which we are required to pay, incidentally, in order to register. So, Brother Imitators, if you are willing to give up your money so easily, feel free to argue with me on this point. I am interested in your attacks on Pseudo Joe because he prefers not to reveal his pen name, and would like to remind you that Pseudo Joe is not a person. Instead, he is a spirit, one whch is contributed to by all who are not about to enter your Brave New Womb. Pseudo Joe might be compared, in fact, to the Spirit of Christmas FUTURE (wherein lies our only hope). With that merry note, Pseudo Joe College wishes you a merry, thoughtful Christmas vacation,

New Science Building May Be Added At EOC

$600,000 PLAN NEEDS LEGISLATIVE APPROVAL

A $600,000 science building was in the works today for Eastern Oregon College here.

The project, recommended by the State Board of Higher Education, would have to receive approval at the next session of the state legislature.

The legislature meets in 1963.

Dr. Frank Bennett, president of Eastern Oregon College, said today that the present science department is overcrowded. Dr. Ralph Badgley heads up the department.

Bennett said that a new science building would enable the present science department classrooms to be returned to normal use.

Ullman's Office

Oregon Congressman Al Ullman's office informed The Observer that $6,000 has been earmarked as an advance planning study for a new science building at EOC.

The study fund was approved by the Community Facilities Administration of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Ullman's office said that the study fund applicant was the Oregon State Board of Higher Education.

The $6,000 project is being assisted under the Program for Advancement for Public Works Planning. This program provides interest-free advances for planning essential to public works and community facilities. The advance (grant) is repayable at start of construction.

Study Approved

Both the Oregon State Board of Higher Education and the legislature approved the planning study here and endorsed the government funds advance for such study, Bennett said.

If the new science building is constructed, then the $6,000 would be tacked onto the architect's fee. Should the building not be approved, the college is under no obligation to cover the $6,000 cost for the study, Bennett added.

Preliminary plans, stemming from the study, will be subject to review by the State Board of Higher Education.

Science Program

Should the building gain approval in the state legislature, then the legislators will appropriate the construction funds.

Bennett said that the new building would adequately house the present EOC science program and the number of science students, plus the future enrollment increase.

Robbers Hit EOC Safe

Approximately $4,000 in cash and stamped checks was stolen from a safe in Mr. Meuli's office, business manager of EOC, in the Administration building of the college between 12 midnight and 4 on the morning of January the fourth.

The entry was apparently made by the basement window in Dr. Badgley's office in the East wing of the building. The safe was opened by "peeling" part of the outer steel plate on the door enough to force the pins locking the safe out of position.

Mr. Garrett and Mrs. Floyd Roe, janitors at EOC, discovered the theft and contacted Robert Oesterling. Mr. Meuli was then called and the police were notified.

Wilde Play Announced

Tryouts for the Sock and Buskin Winter production, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, to be presented March 1, 2, and 3, were held this week. The play is set in the late 1900's, has a cast of five men and four women and is considered to be one of Wilde's best.

The drama is essentially a farcial comedy in which Wilde dramatizes his philosophy of the "usefulness of sin." Well known for comments on the foibles of human nature, Wilde has filled this play with some of his best observations and in his own words, has, "treated the trivial things of life seriously, and all the serious things of life with sincere and studied triviality."

Dates Set For Sno-Carnival

Pull out those warm clothes, fun lovers—EOC's annual Snow-Carnival is coming! February 2 and 3 (Friday and Saturday) are the dates for this activity-packed weekend which will be held at Spout Springs according to the planning committee.

Activity programs will be out soon and some of the fun listed will include coronation of a court, torch light parade, dancing snow-shoe hikes, races, tug-of-war, and night hiking as well as skiing all day.

Campus organizations are asked to select their candidate for Sno-Carnival Queen, according to Adie Hansen. First eliminations will be made by representative of these organizations, with final voting for the queen from a court of three to be made by the student body.

Tickets will be sold to suit the individual's taste and the activities he wishes to attend. They will be on sale soon—get your bid in early, plan what you wish to do, then contact Jim Sisemore, in charge of ticket sales. For no matter what is your pleasure is you'll find it at the Sno-Carnival. Plan to Attend!!

'Jazz And Poetry' Night Scheduled

"The Middle R" will sponsor a poetry-reading session soon this term, in response to the very successful reading of last year. "Jazz and Poetry" will consist of various poems read by students and faculty members, to the background of jazz music furnished by The Torquays dance-band. Although the date is not certain, "Jazz and Poetry" will probably be held within a month, after a home basketball game. A dance will follow the session. A small admission fee will admit to both "Jazz and Poetry" and the following dance.

Y.R.'s To Hear Faculty Panel

Young Republicans at a special meeting Jan. 15 will sponsor a Panel Discussion "Why I am a Republican." Special members of the panel will include Dr. Lee oJhnson. Mr. John Cobb, and Mr. Ron Boyes. All students and faculty are invited to participate. Discussion wll be January 15 at 7:30 in Hoke Lounge.

'Middle R' Sets MarchDeadline

Manuscripts are now being accepted for "The Middle R," co-editors Jo Thurston and Dave Slabaugh have announced. Some early manscipts are already under consideration. Poetry, prose narrative, and literary criticism written by any EOC student or faculty member are eligible. Manuscripts may be left in the Middle R mailbox in the faculty mail room in the Administration building until the deadline, which is March 17, the last day of Winter Term. The submitter should attach to his manuscript a rating sheet, which can be found on a poster on the main bulletin board in the Ad building.

"The Middle R," EOC's literary magazine, is in its second year as a revived publication, having been out of print for several years. The magazine also sponsors "Jazz and Poetry," the first session of which, last year, was a great success. The publication of "The Middle R" will be during the first part of Spring Term.

Dr. Ross Joins Health Staff

Initiation of a new program for Winter term has been announced by the EOC Health Service, which includes visitation on campus by doctors for student appointments. It is hoped that this will better facilitate sudents by eliminating travel to downtown offices.

Also of interest is the notice that Dr. William Kubler, who has been retained on the medical staff at Eastern Oregon College for the past few years, has been called into the service and is presently stationed at Yakima, Washington. He expects to be away from his practice for approximately one year.

During his absence Dr. W. K. Ross is joining the medical staff at the college and will be working with the college health department in caring for the medical needs of students.

Further information concerning medical benefits offered to EOC students can be obtained at the Health office located in the Coliseum.

Action Taken

Action by the Student Personnel Committee on December 7 resulted in the "indefinite suspension" of Dennis Taal, sophomore. Taal was accused of being under the influence of alcoholic beverages and of being disorderly.

DOROTHY COTHRAN

Soprano Next In Civic Music Series

Miss Dorothy Cothran will appear in the High School Auditorium Tuesday, January 30, at 8 p.m.

Dorothy Cothran's sparkling soprano voice has been heard in the capitals of Europe as well as most of the great cities of our country. All who have heard her have thrilled to the sparkling vivacity that she radiates in song and personality.

Her repertoire includes arias from great operas, selections from oratorios of the masters, as well as songs from musical comedy and light comedy opera. As lovely to look at as to listen to, Miss Cothran makes music a joyful experience, never to be forgotten.

New students on the campus may purchase memberships for this series from Dr. Bishop. The price for the remainder of the series is $1.75. The students holding memberships may also attend the concerts in Pendleton.

EOC Offers 12 Evening Class Courses

Twelve courses will be offered in the Eastern Oregon College evening class schedule, according to Dr. Roy L. Skeen, director of instruction.

Included in the program, designed to accommodate area residents, are: Monday — Geology (graduate), Stenography, Drawing, and Women's Physical Education (Conditioning.)

Tuesday—Organization of Library Materials, Constructive Accounting, Crafts, Woodcraft, Painting, School Law and Organization (also graduate).

Wednesday — Orchestra, and Advanced Writing.

Registration is scheduled for the first and second class meeting, with the deadline the week of January 8. Classes, which begin this week, are scheduled for 7-10 p.m. and meet once a week, with the exception of Stenography, Conditioning, and Drawing. Stenography—7:30-9, Monday and Thursday; Conditioning, 7-8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday; and Drawing, 7-9 p.m., Monday and Wednesday.

Plans Made For Student 'Court'

Senate Calls For Student Reaction

The formation and permanent establishment of a student court, designed primarily to deal with displinary problems affecting students at Eastern Oregon College, is currently under study by the Student Senate.

The court will be responsible for hearing cases of student misconduct and deciding what disciplinary action is necessary accordingto the nature of the offense.

Cases in which severe disciplinary action is called for will be heard by a faculty or faculty-student committee.

Since all students enrolled at Eastern Oregon College will be affected by the establishment of the student court, student reaction and suggestions pertaining to the establishment and function of the student court will be extremely valuable.

Anyone wishing to express suggestions or reaction to the student court will be extremly valuable.

Anyone wishing to express suggestions or reaction to the student court should contact a member of the Senate.

Five EOC'ers Top Honor Roll

Five students made a perfect 4.00—straight "A""—grade point average during the fall term at Eastern Oregon College, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

The five from among more than one thousand students, are Jean Cuthbert, Kenneth Hill, Sharon Harn, Valene Mitchell, and Dinah Whitnah.

Others named to the scholastic honor roll wiith a GPA of 3.50 or above are Harry Baeckel, Douglas Bashaw, Janet Bond, Elizabeth Easley, Patricia Fisk, Frona Hoxie, Frigard Johnson, Caroline Koczan, Le Roy Mobley, David Morris, Barbara Myer, Barbara Paris, Bernerd Park, Robert Savage, Ronald Smit, Shirley Smurthwaite, Elvin Taylor, Lorna Tonack, Lynn Trembly, Hill Walker, and John Roberts.

Also included on the EOC Honor Roll were Lynn Brinton, Teddy Douglas, Vaughn Folkman, Ione Furniss, Walter Langlitz, Norman Lewis, Sharon Myers, Judith McGowan, Helen Virgin, Frank Conley, Richard Thew, Jack Daugherty, Kathleen Edvalson, Jaunita Edwards, Gail Fisher, Sandra Fowler, Trudy Kofford, Robert Salter, Fred Sayre, Earl Sherod, Richard Temple, Suzanne Switzer, William Saage, William Taylor, Kathy Ten Eyck, Patricia Wallace, and Patsy Schuster.

Alpha Epsilon Initiates Five

Alpha Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Pi Epsilon, National secretarial science honorary sorority, initiated five new members with an informal initiation ceremony on December 5 at the home of the sponsor, Miss Sarah Stein. The new members are Misses Ruth Hoxie, Barbara Mattes, Donna Miller, Jeanette Schmidt, and Carolyn Vickers. Miss Barbara Evans, president, was assisted by Shirley Watkins and Vicki Hickox.

Preceding the initiation, the members and pledges were honored by a dinner at the Sacajawea Hotel.

Plans for the dance to be sponsored by the sorority in January were discussed at the meeting. President Evans appointed committees for music, publicity and decorations for the dance. The members decided to travel to Seattle for the annual field trip during the spring term.

Our Voices ARE Heard

CONGRATULATIONS, STUDENTS OF EOC! ! You voiced your opinions, your voices were heard, and we now have longer and more convenient weekend operating hours for the Walter M. Pierce Library.

As you may recall, a one-man campaign was initiated last term by Dick Domey for a change in library hours. It began by Domey using his priviledge as a concerned student of our campus to voice his opinion through a Letter to the Editor published in the BEACON. (Through correct procedure, Dick had first consulted the library administrators as to the feasibility of his proposal). Others then took up the idea he presented and the result is that, beginning this term, library hours on Saturday are from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Sunday evenings from 7-10 p.m. In speaking with Mr. Kelly, he informed me that the attendance at the library last weekend, when these hours were first put into operation, was good. The number of students using the library Sunday evening greatly surpassed the number previously seen in the afternoons which was gratifying to the library staff.

This should prove to all, fellow students, that we of EOC CAN request AND receive many things where we see improvement might be made—IF we go about it in an orderly and adult manner. This should also prove to some individuals (who need to take heed, if I may say so) that changes and improvement will not come to the one that yells loudest, or even longest, BUT WILL COME TO THE ONE WHO NOT ONLY YELLS LOUD AND LONG, BUT WHO ALSO DOES SOMETHING CONSTRUCTIVE ABOUT IT! ! ! !

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

The Radioactive Quill

Greetings to those who made it back this term, plus transfers, et cetera. Pseudo Joe feels that this issue should be devoted to the transfer students—to help them become familiar with EOC. First, the transfers from U of O, USU, U of Washington, and other large schools:: consider yourselves very lucky. You see, we here at EOC (the student body led by the student Senate, are resolved that since EOC is growing, we shall imitate the larger schools. In fact, one of our yells is: "Imitate, imitate, we don't really give a damn about our fate, we imitate, Imitate, IMITATE (but remember always to call it Growing Up To Be One of the Big Boys)." So, students from large schools, we look up to you to set our patterns; and if we think it will promote our "prestige" (quote from a student body officer), we'll do it, no matter how ridiculous it is!

This is a college filled with students who are rapidly pursuing the noble truths of Pure Pleasure. This means, simply, that first things come first: nightly dances before studying, beer busts before study, sports before studying, dragging the gut (if the heap will get there) before studying, necking before studying, come first!

Eastern Oregon also has a Student Senate, led by the Ultra-Cabinet. This is a self-styled organization which seems to be leading us by our proverbial noses into the type of thinking which leads to Big Student Government, Big Athletics, Big Men on Campus, Big Pleasure, and Small (if extant) Studying. This type of thinking leads to a willing absorption of Metrecal-for-the-Mind, and an eventual return to the Brave New Womb, which looks so comfortable from the outside. It is comfortable, little people, so you have Pseudo Joe's express permission to climb in .

Although seldom seen and less often listened to, EOC also has a faculty.

COURT CAPERS

BY ANNA WITT

Brrrrrrrrrrrr—6:30. 'It's that time again," thinks Betty Co-ed as she sleepily turns off the alarm and tries to wake her equally sleepy roommate. Forty-five minutes later, after a cup of coffee, they hastily don rain coats, snatch up scattered books, and trudge up the hill in the rain. Some days, just for variety, they walk through the snow or into the wind.

Betty has classes until 10:30, when she may be found in the coffee shop at Hoke, surrounded by boys, roommates, and miscellaneous other people. Then home for lunch, which may consist of nearly anything. Left-over jello salad, soup, or a tuna sandwich and a glass of milk.

Then back up the hill to classes for another few hours. After this, Betty can be found in the library, probably in the reference room. At four back to Hoke, this time just to walk through to see who is there. Betty gets back to the aparment in time to iron a blouse before dinner.

All the roommates gather for dinner, which is generally the most balanced meal of the day. After dinner come the dishes, of course, but there are no arguments. Betty and her roommates are fast becoming adults.

The phone rings and two of the roommates make a headlong dash for—oh! Well, it was only one overturned chair this time. For the next 20 minutes, you dear reader, having been there many time yourselves, can guess where to find Betty Co-ed.

Then quiet prevails for the next couple of hours, give or take a few minutes. Comparative quiet, that is, as the stero plays Johnny Mathis or Ray Coniff softly. At 9:30, the boyfriends begin to arrive. More records are played, some for dancing and some just for listening. One of the roommates and her fellow have gone for a walk, and Betty and her guy have agreed to meet them at Hoke for a coke.

Closing hours are 10:30, and after that it's time for a session with the rest of the roommates. Hair is washed and set, nails done, sometimes that last bit of homework is finished. A bedtime snack, celery or crackers, and then set that alarm for —"groan"—6:30 again. Thus goes a typical day in the life of any one of the Betty's in Co-ed Courts.

Campus Cutouts

By PHYLLIS BURNETT

Someone at Willamette University observed the annual tug-of-war contest and made a "candid camera" shot. Directly in the middle of the picture displayed in The Willamette Collegian is the big shot—some poor fellow, face clearly visible, has a tremendously revealing split in the seat of his pants. More than likely he was in a state of embarrassment for the next few days.

Succumbing to the nonsensical burden of tradition, I shall commence to offer a challenge and a wager on the Civil War re-enactment of Nov. 25th, at Oregon's Great University. Needless to say, there are many channels by which we can release the competitive animosities between our schools.

May I suggest:

* band-hat stealing,

* turf-throwing

* name-calling (with appropriate sneers and dirty looks).

* tractor races (with or without cultivator).

*4 tree-recognition.

But our athletic departments rid us of this responsibility by providing a yearly gridiron contest. Perhaps it is only fair to warn you and your students that we are anticipating an easy lop-sided victory for the "Mighty Webfoots."

It is for this reason that I con..fidently offer this wager. It would seem only reasonable that the Student Body of the losing school should appear at a Friday-at-4, garbed in the colors of the winning schools (undoubtedly green and yellow in this case) to lead the assembled jeering masses in a rousing chorus of the victorious school's fight song. Do you agree?

I invite you and your student body to enter into our Homecoming festivities by attending the Pearl Bailey concert and dance following. T'will be a sad day in Beaverdale—please brace yourself for this traumatic experience.

Facetiously yours,
Dan Williams

Dr. Lyle Johnson Speaks To Senate

First Meeting Of Term Held

Winter's term first Stude Senate meeting was held Tue day, January 9th, with 16 ser tors and three ASB officers pr ent. After preliminary busine was handled, the bulk of t meeting was concerned with t formation of a student judicia committee to handle student d ciplinary problems.

Dr. Lyle Johnson, Registra was present to present the pr and cons of a student "cour acting on student conduct. He formed the senate that stude participation would certair be welcomed but questioned t willingness of such a grou pass judgment on ALL types cases which might arise, especi ly severe action such as su pension. He also stated, howev that any decision made by su a group, in the interest of o college and campus, would g 100 per cent backing from l office. His suggestion was th in lieu of a group composed students only, there be a compr mise in having a faculty-stude committee. Senator Ron Coop questioned there being enou disciplinary problems on ca pus to justify this group. I Johnson explained that even o a year would sufficiently justi such action, but pointed out th there were probably more su pensions this last term than any one term last year.

Plans for obtaining more info mation on the feasibility of th "court" were made with Se ator Greg Baker heading a co mittee to send letters colleges asking their polic Senator Cooper and his comm tee will poll this campus to ga the associated student body views, and the issue will be a ed at the next meeting in tw weeks.

Other business included sena directions to secretary, Shar Myers, to send a memorandum President Bennett suggesting th parking places be marked on a streets on campus where stude parking is permitted.

But, then, of course,
I'm not a bum.
My CREDIT CARD!
A treasure!

I'm eager now to make a deal and satisfy
my hunger.

Why hestitate?
Regret I feel.

Wish I were ten

Have I gone past

Must I, in fact,
admit I'm old?
Sumbit to age

Not on your life!
My fire will burn.
A pill or two

Split One Each Mounties - SOC

EOC's Mountaineers opened OCC action successfully Friday night with a 72-62 triumph over Southern Oregon at the College Coliseum. However, the Red Raiders came bouncing back, 67-55, Saturday night to even the series.

In Friday's contest, five Mounties hit in the double figures and EOC's taller squad dominated the backboards. Barry Forrest paced the attack with 19 points but had to yield scoring honors to SOC's Dave Hughes who collected 23 markers. Hughes, incidently, was the second leading pass receiver in small college statistics over the nation this past year.

The lead changed hands no less than nine times during the first half. Dick Turley's jumper put EOC out front 34-32 at the intermission, a lead they never relinquished. After the half the Mounties caught fire and at one stage of the game built up a 16 point bulge 52-36.

In Saturday night's affair, SOC grabbed a 7-5 lead after 4½ minutes of play and held onto it throughout the contest. The last Mountie rally came right after the intermission and they pulled up to a one-point deficit 33-32. The game was close throughout, although the Red Raiders always seemed to have control.

A better balanced scoring attack and better board work spelled the story of retaliation by SOC. John Payne, showing why he was chosen to the OCC All Star Team last year, paved the way with 21 points. He got strong support from Jerry Schults and Brad Flanary who collected 15 and 14 points respectively. George Wachter was high man for the Mounties with 13.

In other OCC action, Oregon Tech and Portland State split, leaving the race in a four-way tie. OTI captured the first of the low scoring affairs, 38-33, while PSC bounced back Saturday, 46-31. OCE split a pair of non-conference games with St. Martin's, dropping the first 80-70 in overtime while rebounding Saturday to take a 64-59 decision.

This weekend the Mounties travel to Klamath Falls to tangle with defending champ and preseason favorite OTI. The Owls are led by 6-7 Sweet Sammy Smith.

In preliminary action the JVs split a pair, losing the first, 60-57, to Columbia Basin, and winning the second by edging the Baker Independents 44-38 in overtime. Jim Garrett pumped in 17 and Everett Davidson added 14 in a losing effort Friday. Bob Byrd and Keippe May paced Saturday's victory with 9 points each.

Athlete's Feats

By DAVID HAUN

Once again the spot light of sports has cast its light on the three "big" school independents. Oregon, Oregon State, and Washington State are faced with three choices: (1) Return to the Big Five; (2) be counted in the new Western Athletic Conference; or (3) accept athletic independence with all of its go-it-alone problems.

Time is rapidly running out on these three schools, and a decision on which course to pursue is perhaps coming soon.

It is going to be interesting to see just what happens. The Big Five is of need to expand. Their representation in the Rose Bowl this year was beggarly. Perhaps the person who proposed the idea that the Big Ten and the University of Washington sign their own contract to play in the Rose Bowl was right.

The hiring and firing of coaches is once more headline news. I imagine also by the time basketball season is at a end more coaches will be added to the polyandrion.

Most of the coaches who are given their "walking papers" are accused of the worst crime of all. Losing. Is this a sin? I think that Alabama's head coach Paul Bryant hit the nail on the head when he said, "Give me players with 75 per cent desire and 25 per cent ability and I will win."

The Mountaineer's basketball squad is progressing commendably for the amount of inexperience on the team. Starting with only three lettermen as a nucleus the team has developed into a potential title contender. This weekend they will be given a acid test against strong OTI.

DICKS PREDICTS

By RAY DICKS

Defense, defense and more defense. This supposedly is the big news of Pacific Coast basketball according to an annual basketball publication this year. No less than the top 5 and 10 out of the top 14 in the nation last year were Pacific Coast teams.

The big question confronting Mountie fans this year is, if this just applies to major colleges west of the Cascades? Evidently so, after the exhibiition of "take a shot and then it is the opponent's turn" style of basketball displayed at the coliseum this weekend. Granted, Coach Quinn's style of basketball is fast-breaking and free-wheeling, but does this mean that defense should be igored altogether? No less than five straight times, Dave Hughes, Southern Oregon's fine forward, either made a lay-up or was wide open for one while the Mountaineers were ramblin' down the floor gloating over their offensive prowess.

Oddly enough, the Mounties seemed a little more defensive conscious in their Saturday night loss than Friday's victory. They simply became aware of the fact that their offense was not clicking, as it undoubtedly will not be several more times before the season's end.

But then again, when did EOC work for a shot? Some statistics should have been kept comparing the number of screens by EOC with that of the Red Raider's. Ted Schopf advocates more screen than Quinn's style which doesn't necessarily mean that it is a better brand of basketball. But come on, Mounties, set up a few screens and work a shot (even if it is a moving screen such as SOC employs. It means that Eastern Oregon officials overlook such trivial matters!) We hope you realize that it is legal to take a shot from somewhere other than 30 feet out.

This is a young and relatively inexperienced team but we have the material for a fine ball club. If the Mounties make an effort to play the WHOLE game, which includes defense we will overlook a reasonable number of mistakes.

Now that I've got that out of my system, let's take a look at the OCC this year. OTI, of course, is the team to beat. They retain their fearsome duo of Sweet Sammy Smith and Bob Peterson. Also on hand to greet Coach Jim Partlow in his first year are Normn Johns, Hewlett Nash and 9.5 sprinter, Gene Branson. A formidable quintet!

OTI is ineligible to go to the NAIA playoffs which leaves the two spots up for grabs for another four teams. Only SOC seems stronger, retaining Hughes, John Payne and Jerry Schults. Portland State has Bill Turner and Elton Lahti back in the fold, but loses a good pair in Frank Chase (a former Mountie hoopster) and Don Powell. OCE is led by Toby Wolfe and Steve Rankin.

This leaves a wide open race and EOC stands a good chance of gaining a playoff berth. So give 'em hell, Mounties! See ya next issue.

EOC Wrestling Team Victorious

The powerful Eastern Oregon College wrestling team inaugurated the sport last Dec. 10 on the home mats with a crushiing 30-9 victory over Whitman College. An enthusiastic crowd of nearly 400 spectators watched the Mounties win seven of the ten weight classes contested. According to Coach Cox, every wrestler did an excellent job including the three varsity performes who lost their matches. Quickest pin of the day was won by Lee Derrick, EOC's rugged 123 pounder, who pinned Dale Andregg in 34 seconds of the first period.

It was the first meet of the season for both teams, and the future of wrestling at EOC looks very promising with eight of the 10 varsity wrestlers being freshmen.

The EOC Mountie J.V.'s also won their meet, 83-19. The Mounties will travel to Linfield College and the Universiity of Oregon on January 12, 1962 for their next meet.

The varsity results:

115: Bernie Hart,EOC, pinned B. Andregg, Whitman, 2:15 (exhibition)

123:Lee Derrick, EOC, pinned D. Anddregg, Whitman, 34.

130:Rich Hannan, EOC, won forfeit from R. Luthe, Whitman.

137: Jim Lucke, Whitman, decisioned Jack Eckenrode, EOC, 6-5.

147: Dale Harles, Whitman, decisioned Rich Lipson, EOC, 10-3

157—Gary Mulhair, Whitman, decisioned Larry Longbrake, EOC, 3-2.

167: Jerry Campbell, EOC, pinned Dave Mason, Whitman, 2:26

177: Bob Sewell, EOC, pinned Mike Wheatley, Whitman, 2:45

191: Jim Stivers, EOC, pinned George Lefe, Whitman, 2:44

Hwy: Steve Straughn, EOC, pinned Bob Lawrence, 1:45.

EOC Professor Tabs 'Third Cause' That Leads To Sub-Par Teaching

HUGO HARTIG

Often we are inclined to believe and to teach student teachers to believe that much poor teaching, if not the result of inadequate knowledge of subject matter, is the result of inadequate knowledge of teaching method. But it seems likely that there is a third cause for poor teaching that may be more significant than the others. This is what might be identified as the 'natural" or "innate" drive to poor teaching which must be overcome before good teaching becomes possible.

If we accept the basic psychological principle that it is normal human behavior to do those things that tend to give us personal satisfaction, and to avoid doing those things that threaten our self-esteem, or that frustrate us, then it can be demonstrated that there does indeed exist an innate drive to poor teaching. For good teaching by its very nature often results in teacher frustration, at least on a short term basis. Good teaching also tends frequently to reduce the authority status of the teacher, both in the eyes of students and in his own eyes.

We do not have to be told by sociologists and psychologists that in our society prestige and status are important motivations for behavior. All of us wish to 'be somebody," to impress others with our importance, and to exercise power and control over other people. It would be dishonest to deny that most, if not all, teachers gain much personal satisfaction in exercising authority and control over others in the classroom. Yet in this there is a very real threat to good teaching, if it is carried to the point of self-indulgence. The teacher who "uses" his captive audiences to prop up his own ego and to vent his frustrations may be improving his own mental health,, but at the expense of his students. Often, of course, students may ccoperate in being thus used, and in a sense prostitute themselves for the sake of political expediency or a good grade. But if they have any self-respect at all they will also resent being made to play the role of toady or sycophant and will respect neither the teacher nor his motives. The end result, of course, will be the development of a pupil-teacher relationship that will be a great hindrance to effective learning.

Good teaching requires maturity on the part of the teacher. He has to be self-confident enough, secure enough, and "big" enough to be able to teach with humility, thinking not so much of his own ego-needs and satisfactions as of the needs of his pupils. Unfortunately, some teachers on all levels are simply not mature enough to meet the requirement. Particularly on the college level do we find evidences of this kind of intellectual pride and insecurity, possibly because it is so easy to overawe the undergraduate with a powerful but empty display of learning. Public school children, on theother hand, are not so easily impressed.

To the extent that teachers are personally insecure, then, for any reason, they are tempted to teach in an authoritarian manner and will try to build up their self-esteem at the expense of their pupils. But teachers are also tempted to teach badly because of ego-centrism. Good teaching is often frustrating, because it is not pleasant to stand by and watch a pupil do a poor job of explanation or recitation when a teacher could do a much better job. Simply to avoid frustration, then, many teachers prefer to do everything themselves. They want good thinking to take place in their classrooms, so they do the thinking themselves and do not permit any bad thinking. But obviously if a teacher insists on doing all the thinking for a pupil, and will not permit him to think for himself, simply because student thinking may not be up to the teacher's standard, the pupil will not get much opportunity to learn. If pupils learn by making mistakes, then they ought to be given an opoprtunity to make mistakes, even if this seems to lower the intellectual level of the classroom. No doubt some teachers conduct classes which are on an extremely high level of excellence, and which would meet the most exacting subject matter standards. But if this excellence is entirely the teacher's creation, and the students hav littl or nothing to do with it, one may legitimately question what good it is.

Laziness also enters into this picture. Not only can a teacher avoid frustration by doing everything himself; he can also avoid work. For certainly it is much easier to dc a thing yourself (when you know how) than it is to try to get someone else to do it. Pupils, too, will cooperate enthusiastically in this kind of avoidance of work, for from their standpoint it is much less difficult merely to watch a teacher perform than to dig in and do things for themselves. It is sad, but true, that most students would rather be bored than challenged. Challenge produces tension, and tension is unpleasant. Boredom, on the other hand, has a certain tranquillizing effect. And of course one can justify it on the ground that it develops strength of character. A good many teachers and pupils operate on this principle, and will mildly resent any implication that they are wasting their time.

Finally, good teaching requires risk taking. The teacher who teaches his pupils to think critically must himself be capable of this dangerous and unpopular activity. This means that he does not always knuckle under to public opinion nor avoid unsafe or controversial issues. He does not always worry about what people will think. He des not always go out of his way to court the favor either of his pupils or of his superiors. He may even defend a point of view that he himself does not subscribe to if he feels that this will challenge his students. The possibility or probability of being misunderstood does not frighten him, for he knows and accepts the fact that good teaching is bound to be misunderstood by some people. The bad teacher, on the other hand, is satisfied to be safe and secure, and it does not even occur to him that he is engaged in a battle where courage counts.

Society in general applauds the bad teacher. His insecurity is called leadership; his ego-centrism is called enthusiasm; his laziness is called competence; his conformism is called mature judgment. Generations of bad teaching have produced a stereotype of the teacher which he represents perfectly. He makes his kids work . . . he teaches respect and develops character . . . he trains minds . . . his classes are quiet and orderly, and his pupils know that he means business . . . he is consistent, and people know what to expect from him . . . he is fair but firm . . . he covers his subject, and no one doubts that he knows it thoroughly . . . above all he does not upset his pupils with dangerous thoughts nor mislead them with radical opinions . . . his classroom is not an experimental laboratory nor are his pupils guinea pigs . . . he does not need to experiment because he knows what he is doing and what he ought to do.

Yet in the face of many pressures and strains toward bad teaching there are really many good teachers. Most teachers have managed to rise above the temptations to do the easy or the popular thing. Perhaps the most significant thing about the psychology of bad teaching is that it applies only to a minority of teachers.

Snow Carnival Plans Made

Whitman College Invited To Come

EOC's annual Snow Carnival at Spout Springs will be next week end, February 2 & 3. It is put on jointly by the Outing Club and Ski Club under the chairmanship of Adrienne Hansen and Alan Wolfe who announce that two important changes have been made since last year. This is the first year Whitman college has been invited to come. Also, this is the first year that no one will know who the Snow Carnival Queen is until her coronation that Friday night.

The Snow Carnival Court includes: Khris Jacobson, sponsored by Theta Delta Phi; Betty McClure, Hunt Hall's nominee; and Linda Rodgers, Saber's candidate. The queen was selected by the student body at an election held yesterday.

Starting at 4:30 Friday afternoon (departure time from campus) something is planned every minute. That night will open with dinner followed by the Coronation, night skiing, snack, movie and dance.

Saturday's activities begin with an eight o'clock breakfast to open the all day skiing, ski and snow shoe races, snowsculpture and tug-a-war contests, snowshoe hike, free ski lesson, and a noon lunch.

The cost of attending the Snow Carnival ranges from $5.10 up to $10.00 depending on whether the individual plans to ski and how much equipment he has. Tickets may be purchased in Dorion Hall from Adrienne Hansen, in Hunt Hall from Jim Sisemore, or from any other member of the Ski Club or Outing Club.

Transportation will be provided, it is hoped, by private car, and volunteers are needed to take students. If there is not enough response a bus may be chartered.

The faculty sponsors of the carnival are Dr. and Mrs. George Van Vechten and Dr. Sarah C. Stein.

SABERS TAB PLEDGES

Val Eisiminger, Vickie Hicox, Bobby Johnson, Wanda Johnson, D. McCall, and Annabelle Tidwell have been selected by the Sabers as pledges. Their membership will be pending for a period of one term, during which the pledges may be more carefully observed. If all standards are upheld they will be initiated at the end of that time.

Before any woman student may be considered for membership by the Sabers, she must meet such qualifications as: having completed at least two terms of college work; having a cumulative GPA of 2.5; being able to take responsibility and to cooperate; participating in various groups and organizations; having a pleasing personality; and being a reliable person who can carry out an activity once undertaken.

NOTICE

Young Republicans will sponsor a "Last Chance Dance," Saturday night, Jan. 27, at Hoke Hall. Special entertainment will be provided. There will be a small admission charge.

EOC Tops 1000 In Students

Enrollment figures at Eastern Oregon College hit over the 1,000 mark for the second consecutive term, according to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar.

The report, following the final official day for winter term registration, listed 1,002 students enrolled, a 16.9 per cent increase over the same period last year, when 857 were registered. Final figures for fall term stood at 1,069.

More Male Students

Dr. Johnson indicated the number of dropouts after fall term reflected a "normal" pattern, and in general, winter term enrollments do not exceed those of the preceding term.

Of the 1,002 total, 585 are men and 417 are women. Other tabulations, listing number of students by curricula, include: Elementary Education, 287; Secondary Education, 262; General Studies, 186; and Pre-Professional, 267.

The report also noted the greatest percentage of increase was in the Pre-Professional curriculum, jumping from 188 last year to 267, or 42 per cent.

'Middle R' Calls For Manuscripts

Do you write short stories? literary criticsm? poetry? If so, you are cordially invited to submi the products of your creativity to the Middle R, EOC's little "literary magazine." Simply attach your manuscript to a rating sheet which you will find on a poster on the Ad Building main Bulleton Board. Then deposit it in the Middle R mailbox or with editors Dave Slabaugh or Jo Thurston. Deadline for manuscripts is March 17, the last day of winter term. The Middle R will publish during the first part of spring term.

GPA Statistics Fall, 1961

What insures the best grade average in college? Being a woman, living off campus, and being married! At least this is what a compilation of statistics at Eastern Oregon College reveal following grade reports for fall term.

According to Dr. Lyle H. Johnson, registrar, the top group GPA of 2.79 was listed for off campus women, including both married and single. The overall GPA for the EOC student body was 2.54.

Statistically, the 174 farrell men and women, as a group ranked near the top with a 2.75. Single men earned 2.42 and single women 2.65.

The totals, listing number of students and group GPA, include: Men—555. 2.42; Women—397, 2.65. Married—174, 2.75; Single—778,2.46. Men's Dorm—213, 2.25; Women's Dorm—174, 2.50; Women's Other Campus Residence—46, 2.56. Off Campus Men—350, 2.49; Off-Campus Women—169, 2.79.

EOC Students Give Blood

Approximately thirty E.O.C. students made their contribution of a pint of blood to the American Red Cross blood drawing on January 9. The thanks of all those who are connected with this activity and all those who may possibly be recipients of the blood bank go to those students who made this contribution. In addition to the blood donation, several students participated actively in the work of setting up and tearing down the bloodmobile facilities. Included in the group were Jim Thompson, Warren Hallum, Stan Case, Bill Peacock, Jim Cornett, and Dave Hoover. Our sincere thanks to these students (and apologies to any who may have been omitted.)

A Red Cross blood drawing is scheduled for Hoke Hall on the E.O.C. campus soon after spring vacation in March. May you plan now to donate a pint of blood at that time to save a life at some future time.

'Jazz And Poetry' Night Set For February 9th

"Jazz and Poetry" is the name of the poetry-readiing session sponsored by the Middle R. It will be held after a home basketball game on Friday, February 9, in Hoke Hall. The exact starting time will be determined by how long the game lasts.

"Jazz and Poetry" will consist of the works of various established poets, being read by Dr. Gordon Clarke, Mr. Mervin Rummells, and Mr. Leonard Kimbrell. The background jazz will be provided by "The Torquays." The program will also include folk-songs sung by Mr. John Cobb, and modern dance done by Mrs. Chris Van Vechten and/or her students. A Middle R editor will be Master of ceremonies.

An admission of 25c will be charged, which will also be admittance to the dance following the reading, for which live music will be furnished by "The Torquays."

All students and townspeople are invited to attend "Jazz and Poetry" for a stimulating and enriching evening.

New Chess Club Formed At EOC

Several EOC students have recently expressed a desire to have a Chess Club on campus. Dr. George Van Vechten, advisor for the proposed organization, has met with interested students this week and preparations are under way to present a constitution to the Student Council.

Anyone who would like to become a member may contact either Dr. Van Vechten or Jo Thurston.

Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra To Appear Here Feb. 26

The Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra will appear Monday, February 26th, at the La Grande High School auditorium, it was announced today. They are being presented under the auspices of the EOC Social Assembly with arrangements being handled through Jim Cornett, Social Director.

Lee Castle will be present as director and conductor of "The Fabulous Dorsey Orchestra." Lee has been the featured trumpeter for the orchestra for many years, and has been considered a "third son" of the Dorsey family. Also featured will be Letti Luce as vocalist.

8 to 10 p.m. are the hours scheduled for this concert with tickets to be on sale in various stores throughout the La Grande business district and by members of the social assembly. This concert, stressed Cornett, will be open to the public, with tickets selling for $1.50 for all students, and $2.00 for townspeople.

LEE CASTLE

Interfaith Week To Be Feb. 20-22

Religious leaders from various churches in the Northwest are now being invited to come to EOC during Interfaith Week to be held February 20, 21, and 22. The churches represented will include the Catholic, Mormon, Jewish, Bahai and two Protestant churches, according to Dr. Virgil A. Bolen, faculty advisor of the Interfaith Council. These representatives will make up the Conference Interfaith Team.

Through this Conference, held during National Brotherhood Week, EOC hopes to promote brotherhood and interfaith on campus as it will be done throughout the nation at this time. It is put on by the College Interfaith Council headed by Co-chairmen Beverly Trimble and Bill McCleary.

"Kick-off" for the 1962 Interfaith Conference, the Annual Groundhog Luncheon, is scheduled for Hoke Hall on February 1st from 12 to 1 p.f. The Luncheon, which will cost 25 cents a plate, will fe followed by a short program.

The highlight of the Conference will be a Wednesday Evening Banquet at Hoke Hall to be attended by approximately 300 students and faculty. The Week will also include assemblies and lectures presented by members of the Conference Interfaith team.

Oscar Wilde Play To Be Presented

The cast for the Importance of Being Earnest to be presented March 1, 2, and 3 by Sock and Buskin has been tentatively selected, according to Mr. Melvin Rummells, play director.

Written by Oscar Wilde, this period comedy takes place in the latter half of the 19th century. Double castings include Gary Bloomer and John Cowdry, Georgia Davis and Shirley Hulst, and Greg Hodgen and Al Owen. Other members of the cast are Raymond Fuller, Bob Byrd, Gus Boyd, Lula Stirewalt, Trudy Kofford, and Jo Thurston.

The plot of the play revolves around a "manufactured" mistaken identity between a certain young man and the mythical character whom he invented.

—Note this correction on the honor roll listing published in the last issue of the Beacon—

Seven students made a perfect 4.00—straight "A" grade point average during the fall term at Eastern Oregon College. These seven are Jean Cuthbert, Kenneth Hill, and Sharon Noys, La Grande; Jim Applegate, Pendleton; Jerry Harn, Union; Valene Mitchell, Nyssa; and Diane Whitnah, Redmond.

Baillies Visit EOC Campus

Col. and Mrs. Rai Baillie, producers of the Lucy B Players, a summer stock company, of Glenwod Springs, Colorado, were visitors to EOC campus last week. Their group, which presents the old time melodrama type of theatre, was originated two years ago and consists of professional actors as well as amateurs. The Baillies held auditions for their productions for the coming summer. Eight students tried out. The students will be informed sometime during the latter half of February as to whether or not they have been accepted as members of the cast.

Several Sock and Buskin members attended the try-outs as spectators and appeared to be favorably impressed by the professional handling of the applicants. Col. and Mrs. Bailie gave a performance of Chekov's "The Boor," at the high school. Six college students who attended the production reported that they, as well as the high school crowd, were delighted with the production.

Holm Heads EOC Radio Program

EOC publicity has been augmented by a five-minute campus news program over KLBM radio each Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The program will announce scheduled meetings and report recent activities.

Roger Holm is in charge of both programming and announcing. Holm is assisted by several reporters. Any organization with news is asked to contact Holm. All students are reminded to tune 1450 for news of campus activities.

Dorion Plans Annual Function

The Dorion Hall annual Sweetheart's Ball has been set for February 10 in Hoke Hall, according to Karen Rothrock, '63, general chairman of this year's event.

The sefi-formal "girl-ask-boy" affair, which is scheduled from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m., will feature the music of Avery Millering.

The presentation of the court of three princesses and the crowning of the new queen will be the hi-light of the evening.

Dr. W. K. Ross Named To EOC Medical Staff

Dr. W. K. Ross, La Grande physician, has been named to the Eastern Oregon College health service medical staff during the absence of Dr. William Kubler, according to college officials.

A Weekly Beacon?

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION ON HAVING A WEEKLY "BEACON" RATHER THAN ONE PUBLISHED EVERY TWO WEEKS? This idea has been toyed with for several years but nothing constructive has been done about it; as Co-Editors of this year's BEACON we have decided to delve further into the pros and cons of this suggestion.

By the next Student Senate meeting we will have compiled the financial data necessary to present this idea to our governing body—our understanding is that the problem of funds will be the primary concern of the Senate. This, we hope, can be overcome by selling more ads—ads that have not been previously sold because of the lack of space. But this brings about another, and to us, the greatest problem—that of manpower.

We wonder if you have ever stopped to consider the time and responsibility involved in printing the BEACON? Just one issue can be a real headache, let alone nearly forty issues during the year! ! Therefore, our main concern is creating enough interest in the EOC student body as a whole so that we may boast a responsible staff large enough to handle a weekly publication.

News is no problem—with a weekly paper we could more than double the amount of copy we now have. Our problem IS finding people willing to spend, in the majority of cases, only one or two hours a week in reporting, copyreading, proofreading, circulation, AND SELLING ADS! ! ! It has been pointed out to us frequently, since registration last fall term, that we have now entered the category of a larger school. A large school that only prints their paper twice a month? ? ? ? We hope not—the present staff is willing to work even harder to see the BEACON grow just as EOC's enrollment has grown. ARE YOU WILLING TO HELP? WHAT IS YOUR OPINION? ? ?

Dorion Duz

by Sue

one of the finest additions to dorion in a long time is the new electric organ given by dr. and mrs. bolen received just before christmas it has already given the girls so much enjoyment how fortunate we are to know such wonderful people as thoughtful as the bolens.

plans are really moving for the sweetheart ball under the general chairmanship of karen rothrock the annual dance will be held in hoke february 10 where dorionites and their dates will dance to the music of avery millering the candidates will be selected soon speaking of candidates dorion is quite proud that the three girls on the ski carnival court are from their home linda, betty and chris all reside in dorion another gal of which we should be proud is ellen useugi who is eocs ik sweetheart representing them at the regional convocation at monmouth this weekend friday night there is word of a taffy pull type game night in the cafeteria of the fair dorm.

the craze of the whole united states has entered dorion with full force as is seen by the twisting going on in the main lounge however the girls are not to be plagued by conformity as they add some very strenuous participation in the limbo.

COURT CAPERS

BY ANNA WITT

All is quiet on the home front, for a time, at least. There hasn't been much going on lately. As you know, the Co-Ed Courts are a self-governing body, loosely federated, with an operating Standards committee. Thus the Courts are governed by the girls and the rules are made by the girls. This is a challenge and honor, as well as a great responsibility.

Lately there has been some talk of trading "dessert nights" among various apartments. To do this, one apartment invited the neighboring apartment over after dinner for cake and coffee and lots of talk.

The plan is to do this in rotation so that all the girls can become better acquainted with the new co-eds, as well as renew acquaintances with the girls who were here last term.

Geiger Counter

Here it is. Another fast moving term is in progress and many new faces are present on campus. Many of the old faces are missing from our ranks but that is a part of college. I see that the Radio-inactive Quill is still in our midst, carrying on in the manner of a phonograph with its needle stuck in the same groove of a record. This ill quill seems to know only contempt for everything excepting studying.

I wonder if he knows any words besides "ultra" and "womb"? A scrabble board would probably make a wonderful gift and would be a great help for this blighted (or is it slighted) individual. He might enlarge his vocabulary and his mental prowess until someday he could come to the realization that, although studying is indeed the most important phase of college, athletics, social life, and, yes, pleasure, are also important aspects of this life. When these factors are combined and cultivated, the end product is usually a well rounded individual and not a socially-empty, educated shell of a man.

Other words often appearing in Pseudo's satire salute (column) are "senate" and "imitate". He seems to feel EOC is trying to imitate other colleges. If so, I wish he would explain how our student government can be an imitation. How many other schools, large or small, have a similarly constructed framework for student government such as ours at EOC?

Please Joe, come up with some concrete ideas. It will make my job easier. Your vague generalizations are too much on the same uneducated level that you constantly speak against.

Well, students and faculty, the Geiger Counter has depicted no harmful aspects in our midst. The radiation level is on the minus side of the dial so I'll see you next issue with the latest report on the conditions in our atmosphere. Until then, sleep well, your Geiger Counter is.

Jim Morris.

NOTE: It sems that our football team achieved the highest team GPA in the Oregon Collegiate Conference this year.

Neel's Notes

BY DAVE NEEL

Wow! What's college basketball coming to? Eastern Oregon's Mountaineers barely eked out wins last weekend over Oregon College of Education's basketball team, if you could call it a team. And to top that the Mountie JV's got beat in overime by some ramblin, wreched, A.A.U. ball players from Baker If what went on in the College Coliseum last week was typical top flight college basketball, I think I'll turn to slapstick comedy for thrills.

However, the future may not be as bleak as it appears. The low-flying Mountie J.V.'s, although not boasting an admirable won-lost record, have shown some inhibited potential. Even though they are short on all-around basketball ability, they more than make up for it with hustle and desire, which is a trademark of Don Campbell's teams and a tribute to this industrious young coach.

One or possibly two players tn the JV's might someday progress to the varsity. One of mention is "jumping" Jim Garret, a lanky, deceptively fast guard who shoots the ball as fast as the University or Oregon's Charlie Warren termed the "fastest shot in the west." Garret is of potential varsity caliber, a little better than 22 caliber which is more than adequate to make today's Eastern Oregon varsity.

The other boy is "big" Bob Byrd, a 6 ft. 5 inch, 215 pound. enter from Arlington. Bob so far this season has shown only the grace of a newborn moose but under proper guidance, and Coach Campbell offers that, he may someday become a mainstay.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Answer to Pseudo Joe—

I would like to present the following letter along with a large bunch of sour grapes to Pseudo Joe.

Un-dear Joe,

You are becoming slightly less than amusing, little one. I, for one, was sorry to see your last column in the Beacon. You aimed it at new students and painted a picture of this campus that is unfair, obviously uninformed, and, as you forgot to mention, constitutes the sick ravings of only one student (?).

As far as the student Senate is concerned, there may be many students on this campus who do not agree with its operation but your poison pen tactics are certainly not the way to solve any differences of opinion. All you are accomplishing is to destroy faith and confidence in an organization and a group of people who are trying to function in the best interests of everyone concerned.

If you disagree with policy, why don't you do as most sane students do? Go to your Senator and present your complaints in a logical manner. The members of this student body should be thankful that we have some people who are willing to spend time on the thankless jobs of student government and organization instead of listening to creatures who gripe, gripe, gripe, and can't be found when there is work to be done.

Personally, I think you must be a little more than Jealous of the 'BIG' this and that you are always knocking. What is the matter, weren't you invited to join? It also seems that you take particular joy in slamming the athletics program. Didn't you make the team?

Josephine.

Dear Editor:

I have been reading the Beacon faithfully with each publication, and have become increasingly concerned about the "Radioinactive Quill" columnist. Each time a new Beacon is distributed I wonder just what kind of traumatic experience Pseudo Joe has had recently. My comments are not directly toward Pseudo Joe, but toward the attitude he seems to exhibit and the manner in which he expresses it. In his last column he directed very sarcastic remarks (AGAIN) toward our student government and the fact that it was trying to go "big school" in a style known as "imitation."

His welcome to the transfer and new students appeared very cold and unfriendly. This attitude would really make a new student feel a part of the campus, huh?

Most students that attend EOC are proud of it and the education they are receiving here. They are here by choice and want to join in "constructively" to help our school progress in all aspects. Most students make many sacrifices in order to help improve our college in student government, social activities and organizations as well as scholastically.

These students put forth a lot of effort to build spirit and enthusiasm to make our college progress, not just to become "big schoolish." It is too bad that Pseudo Joe cannot be constructive in his criticism rather than cynical. He is destroying enthusiasm and spirit of progress among our students rather than encouraging it. He does not sound as though he is proud of his college choice.

It is a shame to see such a person ashamed of himself without actually knowing it. I once read in the Middle R a comment that went something like this: The art to becoming a nonconformist is to not tell everyone about it. Pseudo Joe might consider this thought for he may have written it himself.

To The Editor . . .

The Young Democrats Club of Eastern Oregon College is organizing an agenda for winter and spring terms which should be interesting and will provide a place for any student attending our meetings. In the Medium of speakers we hope to host such political personalities as Senator Wayne Borse, Senator Maurine Neuberger, Representative Al Ullman, State Senator Walter Pearson, (a primary candidate for governo against Hatfield), State Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton, (also a primary candidate for governor), and other controverisal figures as their schedule provides. Many interesting films are beng sought including one distributed by the John Birch Society .

With the primary election in the near future the air is beginning to fill with the fervor that political campaigns always initiate. Soon the signs will go up and the Senators and Rrepresentative will begin "fire and brimstoning." To participate in the fascinating ground level activities of politics we invite all interested students to attend our meetings where we will try to provide fun, and interest for everyone. Look for our new posters which will be up soon identifying out program and meeting dates.

Alcohol is a fine thing—in its place. The blood-streams of EOC students in a La Grande restaurant is NOT the place. A report comes from a cafe that Saturday night after the game about 15 men arrived for a celebration. Many of them appeared to have been drinking; at least two were in a condition that their companions had to hold them forcibly in their chairs. Various obsenities were directed at other customers. Luckily, no blows were exchanged, though they were certainly threatened. The waitress is to be thanked for not slapping some well-deserving faces when she was sworn at and manhandled. The manager of the cafe was also reserved, as with a rather forced smile, he tried to quiet the students down. The happy ones were neither quet nor patient: "just a few college boys having a little good, clean fun!"

Two of the individuals deserve mention. The first was among the group that had not been drinking, but who did nothing to try to calm the embarrassing spectacle. It seems reasonable to expect that he, as a student body officer, should have at least tried to exert his leadership and preserve what he has expressed to be important — the reputation of EOC. The second was an athlete who has recently taken part in intercollegiate sports. It is not known whether his coach had wanted "his boys" to follow training rules or not.

It is not this writer's intention to moralize about drinking in its place. Rather, to propose that when students—be they athletes, Student Body officers, or otherwise—drink, that a public restaurant is NOT the place. The reputation of EOC in its own community is too important to drink away.

A gum -chewing girl
And the cud-chewing cow
Are somewhat alike
Yet different somehow.
And what is the difference?
I think I know now
It's the clear, thoughtful look
On the face of the cow!

NOMINATED — Larry Applegate, member of last year's Eastern Oregon College hoop squad and seriously injured in an auto accident toward season's end, has been nominated by the Oregon Sportswriters and Sportscasters for "Athlete of the Year." The award along with several others will be presented at the 14th annual Hayward Banquet of Champions Feb. 15 at the University of Portland Commons. (Observer Photo)

Larry Applegate Nominated For Athlete Of Year

Among Eastern Oregon athletes nominated for "Athlete of the Year" at the 14th annual Hayward Banquet of Champions by the Oregon Sportswriters and Sportscasters Assn. is Larry Applegate, high scorer on last year's Eastern Oregon College hoop squad.

Last season, Applegate set a new high individual scoring record for a single game when the Mountie guard garnered 36 points against Southern Oregon College.

The big scoring spree came nine days before a serious automobile accident that put Applegate and his wife, Karen, in the hospital for several weeks. Applegate is still walking around on crutches.

On the night of Feb. 3 when the Mountie ace scored 36 points, the hoopster connected 14 of 23 field goals and 8 of 12 charity tosses.

Played In 24 Games

Applegate played in 24 games during last season, scoring 478 points for a game average of 19.91. Applegate also led in field goal accuracy, hitting at a .449 average. He also led free throw accuracy with a .697 percentage. The former guard was the fifth top rebounder and a top defensive player.

Early last spring, he was selected by United Press International as a small college All-America honorable mention.

Applegate, 23, is from Pendleton as is his wife and graduated from Pendleton High School.

While in high school, he lettered in football, basketball and baseball and made All-Conference in basketball in the old Blue Mountain League.

Applegate, or "Apple" as he is called, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Applegate of Pendleton and has a brother, Jim, also going to school at EOC.

Other Eastern Oregon athletes nominated for the honor are Eddie Davidson, ex-Oregon outfielder who led Premier Gear of Portland to the American Baseball Congress National championship at Battle Creek, Mich., and Lakeview skier, Jean Saubert.

Bend Man Nominted

Vince Genna, recreation director at Bend and a veteran American Legion baseball coach, has been nominated for "Man of the Year" at the banquet. Ole Johnson, who piloted Madras High School to the A-2 basketball championship, is another "Man" nominee.

Approximately 60 have been nominated for "Athlete" honors and 20 for the "Man" award. Announcement of both of these winners plus the winners of the George Bertz Memorial Golf Award and the Rollie Truitt Amateur Baseball Award will be made at the banquet.

Bob Blackburn, general chairman of the 1962 Hayward festivities, announced that some special merit awards would also be given.

Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes is the featured speaker at the banquet, with Barney Keep, president of the sponsoring Oregon Sportswriters and Sportcasters Assn., master of ceremonies. Tickets may be purchased from Rogoway Jewelers in Portland or from Bill Mulfler, ticket chairman, at 3315 N.E. Holladay, Portland.

EOC Takes Second Place In League

Eastern Oregon College moved into second place in the OCC standings by completing a two game sweep of OCE, Saturday night, 55 to 52. This win, fresh on the heels of a 58 to 42 triumph Friday, moved EOC ½ game ahead of Southern Oregon who dumped Portland State twice.

The Mounties were in complete control during Friday night's contest. Barry Forrest and George Wachter dominated the backboards and hit 15 and 14 points respectively to pace the Mountaineers. EOC shot a commendable .407 from the floor while OCE, thanks to the sparkling defensive play of Eastern, could only manage a .269 average. Time after time an OCE player would try to get a shot off only to have it blocked by the Mounties, and no one from the Wolves managed to score in the double figures.

However, Saturday night's contest was a different story. The shorter, but game Wolves were in the contest all the way, although they never managed to grab the lead. Forrest was once again high point man with 17, Bob Myers with 12 and Wachter with 10 helped the Mountie cause. Toby Wolf and Bob Marr led the Monmouth attack with 10 points apiece.

Athlete's Feats

By DAVID HAUN

Do the Mountaineer's have a championship basketball squad? This question sticks out in my mind because I don't beleive that just winning basketball games is the answer. To me, an athlete has to be a dedicated person. Not just in practicing his skills, but also in keeping training rules.

Granted, everybody likes to be an individual. But does a team member have the right to be so narrow minded as to distinguish between what is right and what is wrong? Playing sports is like a carpenter building a house. The carpenter follows certain rules so his house will be built correctly. If he disobeys certain mechanics in structuring his house, then the building will not stand. He is also smart. Smart because if he does make a mistake he is wise enough to correct it.

Some players may feel I am infringing on their moral rights or even their privacy, but just what are their rights or privacy as players? Do they have the privilege to smoke, do the Twist in a nightclub, and keep late hours during the season of play? I say no!

Gentlemen (I am speaking directly to the team), whether you realize it or not, you are not only representing yourselves, but also our college. The least you could do is find a big hole in which to do your boozing and smoking? Stay out of the public eye.

Athletic scholarships here at EOC are hard to come by. We don't give full rides. Lately some people have been blasting your partial One way you could help in setting them straight is by setting a good example.

I, personally think that athletic rides are justified. You work for what you are getting. The time and effort you put in justifies your ride. But at least let's make an honest effort.

Maybe this little added effort can make you a great basketball team and not just a winning team.

EOC Wrestlers Place Fifth

EOC wrestling squad was victorious against Linfield College 27-5 in a dual match Jan. 12. The Mountie squad also placed high in the University of Oregon Invitational Championships Jan. 13.

The wrestlers in their first season of Intercollegiate competition gave a good account of themselves. Stiff competition coming from Oregon State U, Portland State, U of Oregon, Oregon Tech, Lewis and Clark College, SOC, OCE, Pacific & Clark College in the Invitational meet was met handily by the grapplers from La Grande. They showed class in the lower weight divisions by pulling a few upsets. Lee Derrick and Jack Eckenrode ended in fourth place in the stiff competition. In the heavyweight division Steve Straughan defeated Mike Challis, Lewis-Clark College, for third place.

Coach Cox has reason to be pleased with the showing his boys made during the two-day tour, as they placed fifth in the Oregon Invitational.

Results of the Linfield match:

123 — Lee Derrick, EOC, pinned Rod Burrill, 1:30

130 — EOC won by forfeit (Ron Dunn, EOC, decisioned Jack Weeks, Linfield, 4-3, in an exhibition match)

137 — Jack Eckenrode, EOC, pinned Pat Gillespie, Linfield, 6:14

147 — Rick Hoffman, Linfield, pinned Rich Lipson, EOC, 2:18

157 — Jerry Christensen, EOC, decisioned Ken McIntosh, Linfield, 2-1

167 — Larry Longbrake, EOC, decisioned John Peterson, Linfield, 3-1

177 — Bob Sewell, EOC, decisioned Dennis Pekkola, Linfield, 3-1

Hwy — Steve Straughan, EOC, decisioned Barry Fuller, Linfield, 5-3

Results of the Oregon Invitational Championships:

Lee Derrick pinned Bob Wisby in 2:44 in the quarter-finals.

Steve Straughan defeated Mike Challis, Lewis-Clark College, 5-3 for third place.

Jack Eckenrode, 137, lost to Doug Much, University of Oregon, fourth place.

Wrestlers who placed or tied for fifth:

Roger Jensen, Jim Stivers, Bob Sewell, Larry Longbrake, Lee Derrick and Bernie Hart.

The following EOC grapplers won their first match but lost out in the quarter-finals:

Jerry Campbell, Rich Lipson, Ron Dunn and Jerry Christensen.

EOC Takes BJC; Losee OTI

Last weekend the wrestlers managed only a split in a triple header at the College Coliseum.

Pinning a 25-9 loss on Boise Junior College in the opener, the Eastern Oregon wrestlers dropped their first contest of the season to Oregon Technical Institute in the second meet.

OTI emerged victor in the hard-fought contest 19-11.

Expressing only a little disappointment in EOC's loss to the Techmen, coach Cox had nothing but praise for his matmen.

Cox said, "The team looked real good, and if we keep improving, we'll beat OTI in the Oregon Collegiate Conference championships.

Lee Derrick, keeping up with his winning ways, upset highly talented Milo Crumrine, OTI, 7-0. Steve Straughan and Jack Eckenrode also put in good performances against the visitors.

This Saturday the Mountie freshman squad takes on the Oregon State Rooks, and the varsity tangles with Southern Oregon College. The match takes place at the Coliseum.

OTI Drops EOC In Week's Bout

Too much Sammie Smith! This seemed to be the story at Klamath Falls Jan. 12 and 13, as Oregon Tech dumped EOC twice, 59 to 57 and 89 to 75.

"Sweet Sammie" hit the hoop with rhythmic precision as he garnered high point honors both nights, 21 Friday and 34 Saturday. In addition to his scoring rampage, the 6-7 Owl, along with teammate Bob Peterson, completely dominated the backboards. Peterson also provided ample scoring help, pumping in 17 both nights.

The first contest was a nip and tuck affair in which the Mounties could have won at the foul line. EOC shot a mediocre 45% from the charity stripe, hitting 9 out of 20. George Wachter was the big gun in the Mountie attack, garnering 17 points. Barry Forrest added 11.

OTI was in complete command most of the way in the second contest after wiping out an early Eastern lead. Bob Myers led Mountie scoring with 18 and Wachter added 13.

In addition to Smith, experience was the key factor in the OTI victories. This was particularly noticeable in the rebounding edge over the Mounties. Throughout the game EOC had a team comparable in height to the Owls on the floor but their inexperience was a handicap and thus the rebounding statistics.

Dicks' Predicts

By Ray Dicks

This seems an appropriate time to join the bandwagon at EOC. Hence, my note to Psuedo Joe:

If you can ever possibly lower yourself to take a break from deep intellectual concentration, you might evaluate a recent article published in the sports section of the Oregon Journal. The article concerned itself with the comparison of grade point averages of athletes from the schools that comprise the Oregon Collegiate Conference. Anyone but you might possibly guess which school's athletes compiled the highest GPA. Yes, Joe, EOC was at the top of the ladder. The Mountaineer football team had an average over 2.5 which is parallel to the rest of the student body. This list also includes two honor roll students (Fred Sayre, 3.81 and Bob Salter, 3.76). So you see, Joe, brains and brawn can be entwined. Congrats, Mountie gridders, keep up the good work!

Congratulations, also, to the Mountaineer basketball team on their pair of victories this past weekend. And too, on your commendable effort to play the whole game, including defense.

Now, just a few statistics to keep the importance of defense entrenched in your minds. Wittenberg College, last small college NCAA champs, was also the national defensive leader. Gaining the coveted championship was accomplished by captializing on a stingy defense which allowed a fere 43.8 points per game. It was the fourth consecutive year that the Tigers from Springfield, Ohio, were among the top six in the small college defensive table. In 3 of the 5 tourney games, they needed less than 50 points to win. Tiger coach, Ray Mear, has compiled an enviable record (100-18) during his five year tenure.

In contrast, Mississippi College's 94.8 average (second in the nation) was not a sufficient point output to produce a winning season. The Choctaws yielded 95.0 points per game and lost 11 of 20 games. To have a winning season by allowing 95 points a game, a team must itself average over the century mark. The Mississippians did just this in 1960 when they bombarded the hoop for a record 114.2 average.

The Mounties might keep this in mind for while EOC was first in OCC offensive stats prior to the OCE series (64 ppg), they were also last defensively (69 ppg.) This might be indicative of this year's losing record.

Coach Quinn informs us that this year only the top team from the OCC and NWC will participate in the NAIA playoffs. OTI is ineligible, leaving the spot up for grabs, so this weekend series with PSC could be the deciding factor in EOC's basketball fortunes. The Viks are tough customers at home. Fourth in small college defense last year . . . need there be any more said?

EOC Singers Receive Five New Members

Five new members have been named to the Eastern Oregon College Blue and Gold Singers, select vocal group, according to John L. Cobb, director.

Those selected include Nancy Miller and Bruce Shelton, La Grande; Bonnie Best, Hood River; Gordon Northrup, Milton - Freewater; and Steve Straughan, Prineville.

The EOC vocalists are scheduled to perform during the Interfaith Conference, Feb. 20-22, and are also scheduled for a spring tour.

Report Made On Senate Meeting

Senate meeting—January 23, 1962

I. The Jimmy Dorsey Concert will be February 26 from 8:00-10:00 p.m. in the Senior High School auditorium. Students—$1.50; Townspeople—$2.00.

II. The Homecoming report was given by co-chairman, Al Carr. The following improvements for next year's Homecoming were suggested by this year's co-chairmen:

1. Homecoming date should be moved to avoid unnecessary conflicts (e.g., weather, etc.)
2. The alumni business meeting should be after the game.
3. There should be more publicity concerning the trophy.
4. It is necessary to have a different location for the bonfire in order to facilitate guarding it.
5. It might be better to have only one coffee hour next year and this coffee hour would be at Dorion Hall.
6. Coronation should continue to be held inside.
7. Co-chairmen for next year should be notified about the coronation results before this information is released.
8. The sandbag war should be kept as a tradition.
9. Kappa Pi should be in charge of decorations next year instead of Alpha Rho Tau.
10. More efficient method of checking hats and coats should be sought.
11. Homecoming secretary should be chosen from a campus organization.
12. More intelligent appraisal should be made in ordering "mums."
13. In the pep rally, the band should march rather than ride since it can be heard better while marching.
14. All cars should be excluded from the pep rally except official ones.
15. Sale of pom-poms should go to the Rally Squad.
16. The record dance on Friday night will replace the recreation night.
17. Co-chairmen should be appointed preferably at the end of winter term.
18. Faculty Homecoming advisers should be decreased to three—one for alumni, one for the freshmen, and one overall adviser.
19. The Beacon staff should be informed of the proper procedure in informing students of coronation results.
20. The Senate should make an outline of the Senate's duties in Homecoming and should present this outline to next year's Homecoming chairmen.

III. Jim Cornett gave a social committee meeting report. In this he stated that the Junior-Senior prom, at the request of the Junior Class, had been changed from March 3 to April 14. Also, general publicity for the Jimmy Dorsey concert will begin February 1 in La Grande, Baker, and Pendleton.

IV. Carol Woodell gave the financial report. If you are interested in the contents of the report, please see Carol. A note will be written to all faculty members who have not purchased Student Activity tickets, reminding them that in order to attend a Student Body activity, it is necessary to show one of these tickets.

Senators And Officers Neglect

Most frequent in student conversation since September has been our student Senate, its organization and its functioning. Newly organized, it is understandable why so often it falls subject to student criticism and complaint.

How often have you heard or how often have you, yourself, said, "This type of student government will fall short of last year's student council."?

It can and it will if student participation shown, thus far, is an indication of our interest.

The Senate is set up so that each class has five representatives, Senators, that are to act as middlemen between their perspective classes and the Senate. It remains questionable how the Senate can transact favorably when there is no apparent co-operation from the classes. This lack of coordination is due partly to the neglect of the Senators and partly to the class officers. Ask yourself this—how many times has your class met this year? And if so, for what purpose? If you met at all, chances are it was in preparation of the class dance or other like social functions. How many times has any one of your class Senators reported to you on the Senate's actions? Are you aware that you may attend Senate meetings? To present this seems to be the only way you will be accurately and fully informed.

Are your Senators carrying their share of responsibility? From reports posted by the Senate secretary one would suspect that out of the twenty senators only the same few are actually doing their job as it should be done. If this is so—as a class you should not only want to know why but yous is the responsibility of finding out.

The success or failure of the Senate depends on complete co-operation. If you are not able to relay your opinions as a class to the Senate through your Senators you have no voice and therefore must be content to have your student government run as a few see fit.

As a Senator—ask youself honestly, "Am I doing my part?" As a class officer ask yourself, "Am I fullfilling my position dutifully?" And as a student ask youself, "Is my student government serving me as it should?" If not, why? You may be surprised to find out it is due in part to your own neglect.

COURT CAPERS

BY ANNA WITT

The girls from Co-Ed Courts have been invited to be the special guests of the Collegiate Club at their annual Valentine's dance to be held in the small ballroom of the Sacajawea Hotel on February 10. The dance will be held after the basketball game with OTI, and should last from 10:00 to 12:30. So, girls, ask your fellows or if you would prefer to go stag the OTI players have been invited. This is a semi-formal dance, dressy dresses and heels for the girls, sport coats, slacks, or suits for the guys.

Not much midnight oil has been burning lately, a sure sign that mid-terms are finished for another quarter. The single off-campus women have a high scholastic standard to live up to if they attempt to hold their GPA of last term. If they don't, I'm sure it won't be from lack of effort. Keep up the good work, Co-eds!

Open Letter For EOC Student Body

When we come to college it is usually our opinion, and the opinion of others, that we are old enough to conduct ourselves in a mature manner. A manner that should be Independent of any need for supervision.

Recently, on this campus, an "epidemic" has plagued us which makes one wonder just how capable some EOC students are of having and accepting this relatively independent way of life. This "plague" concerns throwing beer bottles in any "convenient" place on campus. Students should be reminded that drinking on campus is against regulations and is punishable by suspension from school. We know that this drinking goes on, but for students to advertise this by throwing bottles away in campus parking lots, and other such inappropriate places, is foolish.!

Geiger Counter

It seems that like most bad things, the ill quill has finally gone into the realms of the past, at least for one issue. This leaves the Geiger Counter in the position of having to ad-lib it for this issue. This I will try to do in an intelligent sort of way.

The dial on the geiger counter seems to indicate a great bit of polution on the basketball scene on campus. This is the way I interpret these readings. What a shameful mess. But I don't think the blame lies in only one place. This aspect of our campus life is as mixed up as a pedestrian in the middle of a traffic jam. I think the three main facets of this activity, the crowd, the team and the coaches are all pulling in a different direction although they all want to win. Here's a breakdown of what I mean::

1. The crowd, like all crowds, wants to back a winner but when things get tough it seems that we, the crowd, gripe about the team and coaching instead of trying to instill some of our spirit in them by yelling and and various other methods o support. Believe me, an athlete needs all the support he can get, especially in the latter stages of the gam e. It's easier to coach and quarterback the game from the stands where the bumps and bruises are not present. Remember, these are the same coaches that took us to within one game of Kansas City last year.

2. There seems to be dissention among the players. At times it looks as though the only thing the five men on the floor have in common is the color of their uniforms. If you expect the crowd to pull with and for you, you have to lead the way and pull together among yourselves. Some people say that some of the team members are in badshape. Show us you aren't and hussle. All the ability in the world is no subsitute for hussle. You don't have to be beholding to anyone if you give it all you have, win or lose.

3. We know the caliber of the coaching. The record of our coach through the years will attest to his ability. I'm no coach, but I'd like to ask a question—what about the subs? When a player gets tired or has a bad night maybe he needs a rest. I think that most of the crowd will agree that our reserves have very good ability and are capable of helping us win. Let's see them once in awhile. Ask them and I'll bank on the fact that they'd give anything to try and show this ability, and it would help the team in doing so. It can be pretty frustrating not to get his chance.

Well, that's it from my point of view. I will admit my part in this whole sorrid situation and although the convictions I have stated in this column may not be completely true, I'll bet that they are pretty close to right.

Why not play it with the togetherness role all the way to the wire wire. Kansas City is still a possibility. If we "give 'em hell" all the way and then lose we don't have to answer to anyone. Somebody has to lose in this game but let's try things the right way and I don't think it will be us. It's a thought. The way it is now we can have about as much pride as Polly Adler at a church social.

Now that I am perhaps the most unliked person on campus I will put the Geiger Counter on the shelf. I'll see you next issue (I hope) with another column of cuss and fuss with blunderbuss.

Drive Carefully!

So, THINK before you drink OR throw. It could mean suspension. But, even more than tnat, take pride in your campus. Who wants a campus that has the appearance of a brewery?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beacon Editor:

I have just read two articles in the Beacon regarding the conduct of certain students and student-athletes. While these were not enjoyable reading it was gratifying to find reproach coming from students themselves. Coaches have asked for team members to abide by certain training rules in regard to tobacco, alcohol, hours, eating habits, etc. Whether or not each individual abides by these depends upon his personal strength, self-discipline, and willingness to sacrifice for the good of the cause. It is impossible to police their actions at all times.

An individual attaching himself to an athletic team should in so doing pledge to observance of these rules. Personal fortitude sometimes does not go this far. With the time, money and effort going into athletics we should insist on these minimal regulations being followed. Athletics and participation are not ends in themselves but merely means to an end. If this value is overlooked it would be difficult to justify the athletic program as educational.

Athletics are often, admittedly or not, the largest single public relations media for a school, community, and student body. This carries great responsibility. Athletes must forfeit some personal liberties and wishes under these conditions for the good of the group. The real and lasting rewards in athletics come only with sacrifice. Participation in athletics will always remain a privilege and an honor and not something for which the student body is indebted other than through deserving respect and support. This must be earned by all individuals of the team.

Sometimes we are forced to separate from a team those members who do not adhere to rules and regulations. However, our total purpose is to help students to establish values and take pride in that which they do. Many athletes need your help in training during a season. It is not all done through negative criticism but needs some degree of encouragement and understanding. We are in need of leadership from players and all students to set examples, honor compliance, and respect those qualities of an individual other than his physical ability or performance.

After this has been done if an athlete or student fails to respond in an acceptable manner he should lose his privileges of participation and representation. Gross disregard for authority and rule exists only where it is fostered and glorified.

As parents, teachers, and coaches we frequently remonstrate students in regard to their conduct. Perhaps the most effective discipline comes from our peers in the final analysis. We all want to be accepted by those of our own group. Encourage, honor, and then demand that those who represent you and urge your support abide by conduct which would be acceptable beyond any doubt. Here is a practical situation to test initiative and leadership. We have plenty of sheep. Let's have more people who are willing to guide and direct.

Too often the bad apple in the box gets the attention. We have a great many athletes who personify their title to the highest. These people I would like to recognize and praise for their performance on and off the field of play. I feel certain that their rewards will be lasting and beneficial when the scores are forgotten.

A. C. Dunsmoor

Mademoiselle Opens Art And Fiction Contest

March 1, 1962, is the deadline set for Mademoiselle's annual Art and College Fiction contest. The contest is open to women students between 18 and 26, and awards prizes of $500 each with national recognition to the winners.

Mademoiselle's Art contest is directed toward the students of fine arts rather than the commercial arts, although work in any media will be accepted. At lease five samples of the artist's work must be submitted for judging.

The college fiction contest is open to students entered in college or junior college. To enter the contest, students must send one or more original stories of 2,500 to 5,000 words to Mademoiselle. All stories must have fictitious characters and situations or will be disqualified.

Entries should be addressed to either the College Fiction Contest or the Art Contest, Mademoiselle, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, N.Y. Additional information and contest rules may be obtained from the same address.

I.K. Convention At Monmouth

Oregon College of Education, January 26 and 27, was the scene of the annual Region Two convention of Intercollegiate Knights as eight chapters convened on the Monmouth campus.

Attending delegates from the EOC chapter of I.K.'s were Gale Coleman, Bob Blanchard, Bill Donahue, Dick Oleen, Johnny Ross, and Al Wolfe.

The participating chapters from Pacific University, Humbolt State, Oregon College, Portland State, Linfield College, Eastern Oregon College, College of Idaho, and Boise Jr. College, met to discuss ways to better their respective chapters, means of finance, selection of members, and services for the campus and community. The hi-lite of the convention was the selection of the regional princess.

Saturday evening a ball was held in honor of the eight representative princesses. The 1962 regional princess was announced and will represent the region at the National Convention. This year's princess, from OCE, was chosen on the basis of beauty, poise, personality, answers given to one serious and one humorous question, and talent. Ellen Uesugi, EOC princess in the court, sang "Bali Hai" with the piano accompaniment of Jo Alstott as her talent selection.

Shutter Bugs Attention!

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN AN EOC PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB??? Mr. Frank Nelson, Audio-Visual Aids instructor, states that several students have expresed an interest in just such an organization and to facilitate this interest, consideration has been given to starting a club on our campus. He announced that he would like to have ANY and ALL interested students contact him in the Audio-Visual Aids Department. If enough enthusiasm is shown, plans to initiate such a group may begin.

Mounties Nip Whits 78-71

WALLA WALLA — Eastern Oregon College got back onto the winning track here last night with a 79-71 non-conference hoop win over the Missionaries of Whitman College.

The Mounties from La Grande led almost the entire ball game after gaining a 42-33 lead at the intermission.

Don McClain led the EOC attack with 19 points while George Wachter garnered 16 and Dennis Bagnall and Bob Myers had 11 each.

Scoring honors, however, went to Tony Embrey with 26. The Whit center collected 10 of 18 field goals and 6 for 7 charity tosses. Jerry Johannes collected 18 for the Missionaries.

The taller EOC crew outrebounded the Whits, 69-42, with Bagnall collecting 14, Wachter 13, Forrest 11 and McClain 10.

Coach Bob Quinn commented after the contest, "Once again we showed we have the potential to win ball games. The boys came back from two bad defeats at the hands of Portland State to win the game. It was a real fine effort."

Eastern Oregon shot at a .359 clip from the field hitting 32 of 89 attempts and at the free throw line, the Mounties connected 15 of 27 tosses for a .555 mark.

Whiteman collected 28 of 71 field goal attempts for a .394 percentage and earned a hot .833 from the charity line on 15 of 18 tries.

Lewis and Clark defeated Portland State, 50-41, in another non-conference game that saw the lead change hands several times.

Bert Lundmark led scoring for the Pioneers with 13 points and Mike Vermillion had 11. Bill Turner of PSC took scoring honers for the game with 19 points.

This weekend, Eastern Oregn goes back down to western Oregon for a pair of Oregon Collegiate Conference contests. Both teams have 3-5 conference records.

The win last night for the Mounties gave the Eastern Oregon hoopsters a 6-12 season record. It was the second win over the Missionaries in two starts.

EOC Given OK To Hike Science Study

Addition of several hundred course hours received informal approval by the State Board of Education, involving some reorganization of majors.

Eastern Oregon College would get the right to offer 40 more hours, strengthening its social science offerings.

At Portland State College, 280 term hours would be added, in addition to master of arts and master of science degrees in teaching, to be added when money is available.

Honor College

Oregon State University would get 113 additional hours, 77 of which would be in graduate course. The University of Oregon would be allowed 156 hours, some of them to implement its honor college.

The Dental School would get the right to offer the master of science in dentistry degree. Oregon College of Education would offer 30 more hours, and Southern Oregon 48 hours.

MOUNTS SLIP BACK INTO TIE WITH SOC

ASHLAND — Southern Oregon College used a tough zone defense and rugged rebounding in defeating Eastern Oregon College, 73-54, here Saturday night in Oregon Collegiate Conference action.

The Mountaineers had an early first half lead but the Red Raiders caught EOC with 10:33 remaining in the half and were in command the rest of the contest.

Dave Hughes and John Payne set the scoring pace for the Raiders as Southern Oregon built up a 35-25 halftime bulge. Hughes ended the game with 19 and Payne garnered 13.

SOC's tough defense limited the Mounties to 57 shots from the field, 20 of which went through the basket for a .351 mark. The Raiders collected 30 of 70 attempts for a .429 mark.

Don McClain led EOC scoring with 18 counters. Dennis Bagnall and Barry Forrest earned 10 each.

The game knotted both teams in third place in OCC standings, each with 4-6 records.

Neel's Notes

By DAVE NEEL

Eastern Oregon College has on its campus a group of virtual unknowns. By this I am referring to Men's Intramural Basketball. Who has heard of intramural basketball? Not many, if any. But there is a voice, "crying in the wilderness," for recognition of this brave group of men who gather every Tuesday evening to partake in a game that can be mildly described, basketball.

The set of rules designed for this game eliminates free throws, and if one commits a foul the opposing team receives the ball out of bounds. So if an opposing player is driving for a lay-up you might as well knock him down for the most he can do is get the ball out of bounds. Consequently the game results in many bloody noses, blacked eyes, and bruised lips, but those same injured players will be right back the next week to do their best, whether it be good or bad.

The teams can boast of many great stars in their own right. For where can you see 60 feet set shots, 40 foot jump shots, and 35 foot hook shots that quite often part the net for two points. One cannot even call it uncommon to see a single player outscore the combined efforts of the opposing team.

Team Standings are as follows:

1. Alkies 5-0
2. Bedbugs 5-0
3. Giants 4-1
4. Floorburns 3-1
5. Loffers 3-1
6. Septoes 3-2
7. No. 10 2-2
8. Beetles 2-3
9. SRV. 1-3
10. Jailbirds 1-4
11. Rebels 0-4
12. Outcasts 0-4

Next week's game of the week:

Alkies VS. Bedbugs in a showdown.

Wrestlers Dropped By PSC 21-10

PORTLAND — Eastern Oregon College's tough wrestling team wasn't quite able to torpedo Portland State's high-ranked mat crew.

Lee Derrick, perhaps the greatest surprise to the wrestling world on the west coast, tore into his Viking opponent with the suddeness of a tornado, and pinned Jim Kurihara in the first round.

Derrick, EOC's 123 pounder, is now perhaps ranked as high as Oregon State's Perez. Currently, they both are considered by many to be the best on the coast in the 123 weight class.

Jack Eckenrode did it again, too. Eckenrode, EOC's Pennsylvania import, decisioned Portland State's Ron Dexter, 7-1. Dexter was runnerup in the Oregon tourney in Eugene.

Leading upset of the evening, however, came in the 167 pound bracket when Larry Longbrake reached a surprising 7-7 draw with Portland State's John Blazier, former N.A.I.A. champion.

Dicks' Predicts

By Ray Dicks

Wrestling fever has hit EOC! Really, not too surprising . . .the Mountie grapplers are batting an even .500 (5 wins, 5 losses, 2 ties) despite the fact that they are relatively inexperienced. The Mountie varsity contains no less than 9 freshmen and one brilliant sophomore, Lee Derrick.

DERRICK —— BEST IN THE WEST?

Derrick, EOC's 123 pounder, is undefeated in dual meet competition this year and is ranked by many the equal of Oregon State's Gerald Perez. In addition to speed, Derrick's main asset is surprise. He tackles his opponent with admirable confidence and often the match is over before his foe knows what hit him.

Derrick is not the only bright spot for the Mountaineers this year. Another is Jack Eckenrode, one of three Mounties imported all the way from Pennsylvania. "Eck" now has a string of 11 straight victories to his credit. He is a shrewd wrestler who builds up a good lead and then goes for the pin if possible and time permits.

While these two have been singled out, EOC has many more fine grapplers who are going all out and doing a great job. Inexperience has cost them more than their share of close decisions. With a little more mat savvy, this team could perhaps become one of the powers on the West coast. OSU and PSC mat coaches believe that EOC has the best freshman mat crew on the coast now! Quite a tribute, considering that there are only two blemishes on the OSU Rook team's record during the past three years . . . two draws with the EOC frosh this year!

The man responsible for all of this? Ken Cox . . . the new EOC mat mentor eats, sleeps and lives the sport. EOC is truly fortunate to have obtained his services . . . Congratulations, Ken Cox, we're proud of you.

A few tidbits here and there:

The Mountie golf team has a good nucleus for another fine team again this year. Dick Cook and Pat Elgin are back in the fold after a good season last year. These two, along with the now departed Paul Olson, provided a formidable trio that led the EOC linksters to a third place finish in the OCC meet last year despite a below average performance. With the addition of even a couple of average swingers EOC should be in the thick of things this year and could even battle

PSC GAINS SECOND PLACE STANDING WITH VICTORY

PORTLAND — Big Bill Turner, collecting 26 points, led his Portland State teammates to a convincing wallopmg of Eastern Oregon College here last night, 72-41, to move the Vikings into sole possession of first place in the Oregon Collegiate Conference standings.

The Mounties from La Grande held a 16-14 first half lead midway through the period but for 9:09 couldn't find the range of the bucket as the Vikings held Eastern Oregon scoreless while Turner got 'hot.'

For the contest, the Mountaineers collected only one free throw and that came with only nine seconds left in the game. Only six fouls were called against EOC and five against the Vikings.

Don McClain and Bob Myers earned 10 points apiece to lead EOC scoring.

EOC Matmen Split Matches

Coach Ken Cox's Mountaineer wrestlers split yesterday in their pair of dual meets in Pasco and Walla Walla, Wash.

The varsity won, and the frosh lost.

At Pasco, a surprising Columbia Basin Junior College mat crew nipped the Eastern Oregon College freshmen 18-16.

Against Whitman at Walla Walla, however, the story was much different. The Mountie matmen had little trouble with the Missionaries, and handed them a humiliating 27-8 defeat, in their second victory over Whitman this year.

When the mat dust of the two

Jack Eckenrode, 137 pounder, former Pennsylvania State high school champion in 1961, won his sixth straight dual meet match when he pinned Robin Luthe of Whitman.

Steve Straughan, 238-pound heavyweight, won his sixth straight to remain undefeated. He pinned Rober Weber of Whitman last night.

Lee Derrick, 123 pounder, and Bernie Hart, 115-pounder, remain undefeated with four straight victories.

favored Portland State down to the wire. We encourage anyone that is interested in playing on the team to contact Coach Dunsmoor.

Louis Thorne, EOC hurdler, placed fourth in his heat at the Oregon Invitational Track Meet in Portland last week. A commendable performance considering that Louis has had little opportunity to get his stride down by going over hurdles and he met such competition as Jerry Tarr, NCAA champ last year, and Mel Renfro.

PORTLAND — Eastern Oregon College, not so fresh from a 72-41 beating Friday night by Portland State, were extended almost to the point of humiliation here Saturday night as coach Sharkey Nelson's crew won, 71-35.

With EOC's freshman loaded starting unit spending most of its playing time getting organized, the Vikings jumped off to a comfortable 40-17 halftime lead and hardly looked at the scoreboard from here on in.

The Mounties were down by only two, 18-16, with 9:45 left in the first half of play.

Loren Remy started the Portland State rally that gave the Vikings the big bulge, PSC scored 20 points while Eastern Oregon offered Dick Willems' free throw as its only score.

The Vikings came right back at Eastern Oregon following the intermission as Gary Morton, high point man for the game with 19, sparked the Portland State drive.

The Mounties had managed only two field goals and a free throw, all by forward Dennis Bagnell by the midway mark.

Gaining buckets on easy layups time and time again, Portland State finished the game on a .466 shooting mark on 27 of 59 attempts Eastern Oregon was forced to accept a .210 percentage.

The win moved the Vikings two games up in the OCC standings for a solid second place position while the loss moved the Mountaineers down to a tie with Southern Oregon College for third place in the standings.

Students Invited To Compete For Place

Oregon college and university seniors and recent graduates are invited to compete foor a year's appoitment as research intern in the Washington, D. C. office of Senator Maurine Neuberger (D-Oregon).

Senator Neuberger's intern program was established in 1954 by the late Senator Richard L. Neuberger. The appointment rnns from September 1 through August 31 of the following year.

The student intern position was established to encourage and assist young men and women to seek public office, to accept appointive positions with the Federal, state or local government, and to participate in the politeal activities of the party of their choice.

Mrs. Neuberger has continued the program as it was originated. The Oregon college graduate selected serves as a regular staff member and receives a salary of approximately $4,400. Political party affiliation of candidates is not considered.

Candidates are nominated by the political science departments of public and private Oregon colleges and universities. Each candidate appears befre Senator Neuberger's Research Intern Selection Committee in Marc. The committee selects the student it deems best qualified.

Dr. John M. Swarthout, Dean of Faculty at Portland State College, is chairman of the Research Intern Selection Committee. Serving with him are Miss May Darling, former member of the State Board of Education, Portland; Mr. J. W. Forrester, Jr., editor of the Pendleton East-Oregonian; and Circuit Judge Edward C. Kelly of Medford.

Dean Swarthout has described the program as "an excellent opportuniity for an Oregon graduate to observe personally the legislative process of our nation." The research intern works directly with Senator Neuberger and members of her staff.

Interested persons should make direct application through their political science or government departments. Early in March Senator Neuberger's selection committee will arrange personal interviews with the students nominated. On the basis of the interview, qualifications of academic background and recommendations, both character and academic, the committee then makes the final selection.

Speed Reading Course Planned Feb. 20 At EOC

A course in Speed Reading, scheduled to begin Tuesday, Feb. 20, will be offered at Eastern Oregon College, according to Dr. Roy L. Skeen, director of instruction.

The non-credit course, through the General Extension Division, will be taught by William P. Wells, director of the EOC audio-visual materials center.

"Speed Reading" is designed to help individuals reduce reading time for given materials and retain a good level of comprehension, he said.

The class will meet from 7-8 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, in the audio-visual aid auditorium in the Walter M. Pierce library.

Enrollment in the program is limited to 30 and area residents who are interested should contact Dr. Skeen at EOC.

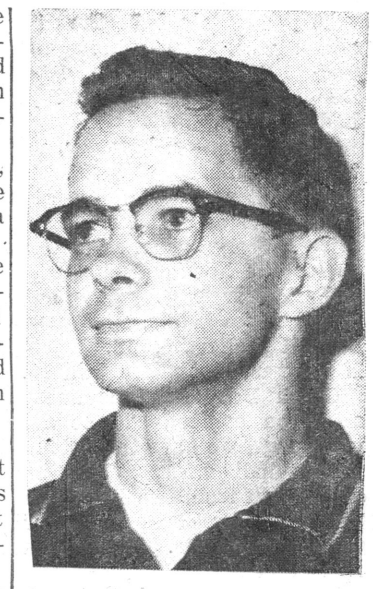
Bay Education Board Decision Is Reversed By Judge Brownton

Union County Circuit Judge W. F. Brownton yesterday reversed a decision by the State Board of Education which denied Dean Bay a five-year teacher's certificate.

Bay, a former La Grande man, was denied a certificate because he had spent some time in a Washington State reformatory.

Judge Brownton found that the board's findings of fact and conclusion of law were not based upon relevant and material evidence and that the board had abused its discretion vested in it by Oregon law.

Moral Fitness



For the reason that it was not related to the present moral status of Bay, the evidence of his past conviction was ruled inadmissable.

Brownton pointed out that he recognized that past convictions do constitute evidence as to a person's moral fitness but in Bay's case there was no showing that his present moral fitness as a teacher is in any way affected by his past record.

Judge Brownton concluded that in basing its decision upon such unrelated evidence, the board had abused its discretion. The decision of the State Board of Education was reversed and the board was ordered to issue Bay a five-year elementary teacher's certificate.

Bay Being Notified

Bay's attorney, Willard Carey, was notified of the reversal, and Bay is being notified by mail.

DEAN BAY
Upheld By Court

He is currently teaching in a private school near Seattle, Wash.

Bay was issued an emergency teaching certificate two years ago at the Weston elementary school in Umatilla County. He had the overwhelming support of Weston patrons and board members in his effort last year to again be certified.

Also solidly behind Bay were dozens of La Grande businessmen, educators, pastors and hundreds of citizens. Petitions bearing the names of hundreds of local residents were dispatched to Dr. Leon Minear, present superintendent of Oregon public instruction.

Hearings Held

Minear and the state board, however, at least twice during hearings denied Bay a certificate. The board's vote was split each time.

Even Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield entered the picture and was given credit for the final board hearing. Bay was represented at the hearing by Carey.

Dorsey Orchestra To Appear Soon

The Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra will appear Monday, February 26, at the La Grande High School auditorium. They are being presented to the public under the auspices of the EOC, Social Assembly with arrangements being handled by Social Director Jim Cornett.

Lee Castle will be present as director and conductor. Castle has been the featured trumpeter for the orchestra for many years. Also featured will be Letti Luce as vocalist.

The concert is schedued for 8 to 10 p.m. with tickets to be on sale in various stores throughout the La Grande business district and by members of the social assembly. Ticketst will be selling for $1.50 for all students and $2.00 for townspeople.

Hunt Hall ,New EOCene Courts Near Finish

Two Buildings In Offing

By Fall term 1962, the new addition to Hunt Hall and 16 new units at the EOCene Courts are expected to be ready for occupancy. The five story addition to Hunt will have a 112 student capacity. The cost of $440,000 includes equipment and furnishings.

The married students quarters at the EOCene courts are being built at an estimated cost of $150,000. Each unit will house two or more families and each family will have an apartment consisting of a living room, kitchen, bath and two bedrooms. The families living in these 16 units will also have the use of laundry facilities in a separate building. It is eventually intended to replace, entirely, the old housing with these new apartments.

Future building plans on the EOC campus include the construction of a science building and an addition to Dorion Hall. Architects have already been appointed for the science building, which is estimated to cost $600,000. The proposed addition to Dorion Hall, at an estimated cost of $665,000, will provide housing for 172 girls.

Religious Confab Termed Success

The 1962 "Religion in Life" meet has been one of the most successful EOC has held. Tuesday morning began with a breakfast at Hoke Hall. By 10:30, which was the designated assembly time, the auditorium was filled to nearly its capacity to hear Rabbi Oles speak. Wednesday was a repeat of the excellent student participation and Mrs. Lawther and Father Nuxall faced a filled auditorium also.

During the afternoon the whole team, comprised of six members, spoke separately to various classes throughout the college. These "question and answer sessions" have proved to be most enlightening. Many of the EOC student body, and also town's people, have gained a greater insight into the Jewish, Bahai, Mormon, Presbyterian, Catholic, and Methodist faiths through these opportunities to discuss various points with the representatives of each sect.

Thursday morning's assembly hosted Dr. Alma Burton — Mormon, Reverend (Dr.) Earl Riddle — Methodist, and Mrs. Kay Chambliss — Bahai as speakers. It was a "standing room only" situation in the auditorium by assembly time at 9:00.

Notice to Seniors

All seniors planning to complete their academic programs at the end of winter term or by the end of spring term must file "an intention to graduate" in the registrar's office immediately.

TO CONDUCT BAND—Lee Castle, trumpet player with the famed Jimmy Dorsey orchestra for many years, will conduct the 15-piece Jimmy Dorsey orchestra here Monday night. The JD event is sponsored by the Eastern Oregon College Social Assembly and takes place at La Grande High School auditorium from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30. Jacki Good will appear as featured vocalist.

GET YOUR TICKETS NOW!! Monday is the date for the concert of the "FABULOUS DORSEY ORCHESTRA," to be held in the La Grande High School Auditorium, at 8:30 p.m. Sponsored by the EOC Social Assembly, tickets may be purchased from the following people: Jim Cornett, Bill Ward, Earl Miller, Jim Morris, Ardienne Hansen, Larry Jones, Carol Lee Cochran, Roger Holm, Sharon Myers, Alan Wolfe, and Don Shore. Tickets are also available downtown in the Contemporary Shop, Town House, Radio and Music Supply, Theaters, Graham Drug and Falk's I. D.

The conductor, Lee Castle, has been called "Mr. Trumpet" and "Prince of the Trumpet." Lee had been with the Dorsey Orchestra for about 18 years before Jimmy Dorsey's death and has since taken over the orchestra and continued with the orchestra in the Dorsey fashion.

For one of the highlights of this year's activities, don't forget Monday night and one of the biggest name bands, 'The Fabulous Dorseys."

Snow Carnival A Success, According To This Report

On February 2 and 3 Spout Springs was host to the annual EOC Winter Carnival. The students began arriving in the middle of the afternoon, many of them with the intent of taking in some "quiet skiing" before the scheduled festvities were to begin. By dnner time at 6:00 the bulk of the weekend populace had arrived and were more-or-less settled in their respective dormatories. After a filling meal of saghetti and accessories nearly everyone donned their skis and at least attempted to control their "foot extensions" on the icy-crusted surface of the hills. For princesses Betty McClure and Linda Rodgers it was their first time on skis and what a time it was.. The darkness of night-skiing was little help in their trying to discern which mogul was where.

At 9:00 the torch-light parade was begun and slowly the light from nine torches was visible over the brow of "High." The nine men came down the Mountain without mishap to illuminate the throne of the unknown Snow Queen in a blaze of torchlight. After a brief period of ominous waiting the 1962 Snow Queen Kris Jocbsen was led to her throne beneath an arch of poles where she was crowned. This was the climax of the evening and the beautful queen and her two equally attractive court members reigned over the remainder of the carnival in a spirit more than equal to the occasion.

Friday night saw a dance with entertainment by Dick Clark and Gordie Northeup who sang folk songs and some terrific group singing.

Bleary-eyed but anxious to get going the "gang" was up for a 'stick to 'he ribs" breakfast by 8:30 and on the slopes by 9:00. Everyone spent the day in simply enjoying themselves, watching races, and getting lost. The race results are as follows:

Jess Belton, 38:35 seconds. Al Wolfe, 40.20 seconds. Jim Sisemore, 42:05 seconds.

Margaret Carson Hubbard To Speak On African Trips

Margaret Carson Hubbard, lecturer and author, will give an account of her nearly 40 years' experience with the peoples and problems of Africa when she appears 10:30 a.m., March 5, in the Eastern Oregon College theater.

Mrs. Hubbard has worked with the U. S. Military Intelligence at the Pentagon, dealing with African problems, and as a Vice-Consul for the U.S. State Department in the Union of South Africa. Mrs. Hubbard has studied the political, social, and economic problems all over the continent.

Her trips to Africa in the past years have included Ghana, the Rhodesias, Uganda, the Union of South Africa, Portuguese West Africa, and Egypt. While there she hunted, photographed, and collected many wild life specimens. In addition to being advisor to several motion pictures about the continent, Mrs. Hubbard has contributed to the Christian Science Monitor, Atlantic Monthly, Natural History Magazine, and written three books, "No one to Blame", "African Gamble," and 'Boss Cannibals."

"R's Poetica" To Be Held March 9th

Because of the success of the February 9th "Jazz and Poetry" night, the 'Middle R' announces a second jazz and poetry evening, "R's Poetica," to be held Friday, March 9th, at 9 p.m. Readings will be given by members of the faculty and students from their own works, with music again furnished by the Torquay's. Admittance fee will be 25c, and a dance will follow .

Jo Thruston and Dave Slabaugh, "Middle R" co-editors, express their thanks to the BEACON and the student body for their support. A standing room audience "of over 350 enthusiastic ically received the poetry selections of "Jazz and Poetry" read by members Dr. Gordon Clarke, Mr. Leonard Kimbrell, Mr. Mervis, Rummells,(and Dr. Alvin Kaiser, (musically accompanied by the Torquay's. An interestingly decorative backdrop enhanced the dim, intimate atmosphere, and the mood was further set with folk music selections by Mr. John Cobb nd interpretive dancing by Adie Hansen.

In the opinion of the "Middle R" staff.

"With such a response to our last effort we are certain that the 'R's' Poetica' will be even more well received, especially because the selections on March 9th will be the readers' own."

Poetry Works Called For

The American College Poetry Society announces its fifth semesterly anthology of outstanding college poetry is now being compiled for publication in May, 1962.

Contributions must be the original work of the student (who shall retain literary rights to the material), submitted to the Society, with the entrant's name, address, and school on each page. Poems, which may reflect any subject, should not exceed 48 lines, nor may any individual submit more than five poems. Entries that are not accepted for publication will be returned if accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The Society, this year, will offer Recognition Awards of Five dollars each, to the five outstanding college poets. All entires must be postmarked not later than Thursday, April 12, 1962, to be considered.

EOC Graduate To Have Art Exhibit Here

The exhibition paintings of Roy K. Flanagan will be shown Sunday, February 25th, it was announced today by Miss Willadean Tubbs, president of Kappa Pi, exhibit sponsors. Mr. Flanagan's works may be seen in the Art Gallery of the Walter M. Pierce Library on the EOC campus from 2:30 - 5:00 p.m.

Of special interest is that Flanagan is from this immediate vicinity and began his formal art education at EOC in 1953, under Dr. Nightengale. In 1956 he studied in Colorado Springs, Colorado, with Mr. Bill Klemm, a graduate from the Art Institute of Chicago. The following year his work was continued in Ulm, Germany, under Siegfried Ries who graduated from Hochschule, and in Stuttgart under Peter Van Buren, described by Flanagan as "a fine artist."

Receiving his B.S. Degree in General Studies from EOC in 1959, he studied water color painting under Joan Johnson of Indianapolis during 1960. Also during this same year he returned to EOC to graduate with a B.S. Degree in Education. He has been continuing his work in La Grande for the past year which has included broadening into the literary field as well as painting.

In talking with Flanagan concerning his coming exhibit, he expressed his appreciation to all who were helping to make this possible and said that he sincerely hoped that his works would appeal to youth as well as the more mature element. When asked for his feelings of today's youth he contributed:

"20th Century Youth"
A soul wandering.
Why?
Well
It wanted to live until it died
Instead of living dead.
And fate!
Funny is not the thing
To live before the beginning,
And die before the end.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Sarah C. Stein(associate professor of secretarial science at Eastern Oregon College, Wednesday (Feb. 14) spoke on "Careers for Secretaries" at Baker High School.

D Glenn W. Slabaugh, assistant professor of chemistry at Eastern Oregon College, has been awarded a research grant by the National Science Foundation for study at Oregon State University this summer.

The award, for the eight-week session beginning June 18, is granted to college chemistry teachers from all parts of the United States.

"Thank You"

To the College Interfaith Council and Faculty Council Members we owe our thanks for the successful completion of this year's 21st Religion in Life Conference.

This past week, as a result of long hours of planning and preparation we have all been a part of the proof that as an individual we can be dedicated to our own religion yet tolerant and compatible to that of our friends.

Although it must seem that the task of both the Student and Faculty Council goes by seemingly unappreciated, the obvious thanks lies in the attendance, participation and apparent interest of so many. Real satisfaction from any such "thankless" job, however, must come as a result of the satisfaction that the job was done well.

Publically we express our appreciation. Personal thanks, of course must be left for each individual. Perhaps if each of us would take one minute of our time to tell these people how much we enjoyed this year's conference, their long hours spent will at last seem worthwhile.

Are You Going?

OK, EOC STUDENTS! ! ! YOU'VE ASKED FOR IT—YOU'VE GOT IT—WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT? ? ? ?

There is a constant gripe on our campus that we do not have enough, or any, "big school" entertainment—that is, the kind that is seen on the larger campuses. Students have voiced their opinions, editorials have appeared in the BEACON, and YOUR Social Assembly did something about it. THEY SCHEDULED THE DORSEY ORCHESTRA TO APPEAR IN LA GRANDE NEXT MONDAY. Everyone was extremely excited when the news got out that the contract had been signed. A few of us who knew negotiations were being made kept in constant contact with Jim Cornett in hopes that he could get them here. As soon as it was definite that they were coming Jim and his committee got the ball rolling and it seemed that this big event for our school and our town would be a huge success.

SO WHAT HAPPENS? ? ? Pre-ticket sales are practically nil! ! And I begin to wonder more and more about the student body of EOC! Honestly, you rant and rave, you scream for improvements (not only in the social schedule, but in nearly every phase of college life), and when someone tries to do something constructive for you, you kick them in the face. AND THEN YOU WONDER WHY YOU AREN'T TREATED AS ADULTS! ! ! ! This college belongs to YOU—individually and collectively. Therefore, it seems that you would take just a little pride in its activities and back them to the fullest.

I talked to Jim today and asked him how things were going. If you could have seen all the time and work, the figuring and the worry, that this student body officer has gone through FOR YOU—to bring this concert to La Grande—then maybe you, too, would have appreciated the downcast look I got. It really makes you wonder if any of you are worth the effort it takes to do something for you! ! !

But you'll keep plugging along, expecting everyone to do something for you—everyone but yourself, that is. Well, nothing in life is handed to you without giving back in return . . . as college students you should know that by now.

Maybe this concert will be a success I certainly hope so. If it is, however, the pre-ticket sales are going to have to boom and the door sales are going to have to go sky-high. THIS IS IT, FELLOW STUDENTS ! ! Either we make a go of this this time or we won't have another chance. To quote Jim, "If this goes over big, then we'll break our necks to bring more big names to campus—there's even a possibility that we can do it again Sring term . . . BUT, this is our only chance! If we goof this, there'll be no more attempts to bring any such talent to EOC! ! !"

THAT'S IT—BLACK AND WHITE! ! WE CAN MAKE A SUCCESS OF ANYTHING. IF WE TRY. So, PLEASE, EOC'ers. Let's dig in and make this a success to end all successes. Talk it up among your friends . . . invite them to go with you. There's only three days left and we've got a lot of work to do—a lot of tickets to sell

HAVE YOU BOUGHT YOURS? ? ?

Results of Experiment No: One, Or: Gram-Mole . . . . Reduced

by Vic Skinsel

It was a hot spring day in the LAB. Outside the GERNANIUMS were gleaming with a METALLIC LUSTRE beneath old SOL, and all was in* EQUILIBRIUM. Little RED LITMUS-HOOD had HEAVILY CONCENTRATED on a way to obtain permission to go out and enjoy the day, but her CATOLYST had just been blessed with four little Kittenlysts and Mother had directed RED LITMUS-HOOD to stay inside and watch over her pets. Really it was boring. Then all of a sudden, there it was, the SOLUTION! High above the pantry was one of Father's ALCOHOL FLASKS, empty (darn the luck) and about it was a small wicker-basket, just large enough to CONTAIN the animals.

"Mother," said little RED LITMUS-HOOD, "Mother, aren't they lovely? I should like to place them in this basket and take them over to GRAM-MOLE'S for her to observe."

Mother's REACTION was quite satisfactory."

". . . But avoid close CONTACT WITH THE REDUCING AGENT, dear, I've heard he's been quite UNSTABLE lately."

LITMUS-HOOD was not dense. If she saw the AGENT, even at long RANGE, her INITIAL REACTION was to turn right around and head for her DOMAIN at a hight RATE. The system worked quite well.

After skipping down AVAGADRO Street (wiith an ION out for the AGENT, of course) she finally reached her house number 6.02, that was GRAM-MOLE'S DOMAIN. LITMUS-HOOD gently stirred the crank-type doorbell, so as not to AGITATE-GRAM-MOLE. But alas! The door was flung open by the REDUCING AGENT . . . And GRAM-MOLE was lying all over the floor, chopped to MULTIPLE PROPORTIONS. WHATAHELLUVA mess:

LITMUS-HOOD thought fast.

". . . Er, GRAM-MOLE. What excess calcium you have."

"All the better to REDUCE you with," came the reply as the agent pointed the Metrecal can squarely at her head. RED LITMUS-HOOD, at this point, was freezing with horror.

Next door two retired lawyers, Mel DULONG and Al PETIT, (both nationally SIGNIFICANT FIGURES) had heard all the ENTROPY, and had come to try and discover the nature of the matter. When they saw poor little RED LITMUS-HOOD about to turn blue at the sight of the REDUCINNG AGENT, they took immediate MASS-ACTION. Mel called for Officer VAN DER WAAL of the FORCE, while Al summoned all of his elderly PHYSICAL PROPERTIES to temporarily NEUTRALIZE the AGENT.

It all turned out that when the AGENT was given the third C he admitted violation of the LAW OF CONSERVATION OF MATTER, and kas given the the ELECTROLYTIC c h a i r. GRAM-MOLE was given the necssary PREPARATION and service. Little RED LITMUS-HOOD was given a spanking on her BASE for the sake of PRINCIPLE, and the kittenlysts mewed as ever for their LITTER of HOMONGENIOUS SOLUTION.

And they lived happily ever after, except GRAM-MOLE.

THE END

COURT CAPERS

BY ANNA WITT

To those of you who are not already aware of the fact, I would like to call your attention to some new landmarks on campus. I am referring in a roundabout way to the two new lights on the far side of the hill behind Hunt Hall. If you have never navigated this hill in the dark of the night, then your gratitude could not possibly be as great as that of the girls from Co-Ed Courts, or others from EOCene Courts who have just recently had their dark walk illuminated by two new floodlights. Even one girl from the dorm, who sprained her ankle at the beginning of the year while on her way to visit the Courts, admits that she is willing to come back again. All in all, the lights are beneficial to all who use that particular walk.

Wild rumors have been flying, running, scampering, growing by leaps and bounds, ect., ect. concerning the fire in the Courts. Since it is considered good journalism to present the reading public with facts, I can't unleash my imagination and still have a factual story, so . . . here they are. Item A. Cold weather, heater turned on to keep apartment habitable. Item B. Too wet to dry clothes outside, so they were hung in front of the heater to dry. Item C. Carelessly left there when ALL the occupants of the cabin went out. Item D. Fire, plus lots of smoke. Item F. Discovery. Ron McNeil is a good man to have around. Always there when he is needed most. Thank you Ron. Item G. Calm and efficient calling of the fire department. Also carrying out burning clothes. Results: lots of smoke and soot, charred clothing, scared people and rumors. It could happen to any of us, but I'd be more than willing to to wager that it won't happen to these people again.

Wachter-McClain Lead Hoop Scores

George Wachter and Don McClain, two Eastern Oregon Mounties Freshmen varsity basketball players, are in a seesaw battle for the scoring honors this season. After 22 games Wachter has accumulated a total of 284 points, while McClain has amassed 278.

Wachter, 6'5" postman from Pendleton, also leads the team in field goal percentage and total rebounds. He is shooting at a rate of 44.1 per cent and has so far picked off 241 rebounds.

Drive Carefully!

Geiger Counter

Another two weeks have passed with no profound utterings from the pen of the ill quill. Maybe the quill realized the futility of his ramblings. Be that as it may I now have to find some new bones to pick.

I was happy to see the use of substitutes in our weekend basketball series with OTI. I think they proved their worth with their commendable performances. The whole team looked very impressive in this series. Next year is indeed one to look to with anticipation.

These two games proved another point in my mind. The crowd can yell and back the team when they want. Now, if they learn to do it all the time instead of just one-half, things should improve. The group of rooters initiated by the IKs should have impressed the fact that it helps to back a team all the way. It was certainly quiet enough during the first half of both games for them to do their job. Their silly costumes at the Friday night games shows that they will go a distance to help the team. It is too bad more people can't "stoop this low" to try and help the school to greater heights.

It is amazing that it costs so much more to stage a dance for the whole student body than for a select group of campus society. This interesting bit of information was brought to light at a recent senate meeting. I'm sure that we are a large enough school for different organizations on campus to sponsor their own private dances but let's get the motives for doing this into a more sensible pitch. Does an orchestra really charge more to play for a small crowd than it does to play for a larger crowd?

I just saw another student get a parking ticket for parking in a restricted area on campus. Most of the tickets I have seen given were to fellows living in the men's dormitory. They are expected to park their cars behind the dorm in the parking lot. I wonder how long it has been since the administration has taken a look at the back parking lot where the men are expected to park their cars? The boulders they have for gravel are bad enough on a car but it's the cavernous chuck holes that are really murder on tires and cars in general. If this parking lot were to be paved it would be a marvelous revelation but just a coating of gravel would be of tremendous value to the men who have cars.

I surely hope there is a good turnout of college students for the Jimmy Dorsey concert that is coming Monday, February 26. One often heard complaint on campus is that we don't ever have any "big time" social events. Here's one now. I wonder how many of the complainers will be there?

Congratulations to the people responsible for this year's interfaith week. I'm sure it was a very enlightening experience for those in attendance. I think the value of this annual activity is gigantic in its scope. Keep up the good work.

Girls' Bowling Activities

Sue Mayberry, with a high series of 479, is currently leading the Dorion Hall girls bowling league. She has a high 188 for a single game.

The four teams in the league are captained by Sue Mayberry, No. 1. Linda Rodgers No. 2, Gloria Curry No. 3, and Bonnie Witt No. 4.

Headed by President Gloria Currey, the league bowls every Wednesday evening at Blue Mountain Lanes. Other officers are: Sue Mayberry, vice president, and Bonnie Witt, league secretary.

SECOND TEAM—Only Eastern Oregon College hoop player to be chosen to either the Oregon Collegiate Conference All-Star first or second team was 5-10 junior guard Bob Myers. Myers was selected to the second team by coaches of the conference. This is complete switch from last year when Mounties dominated all-star selections. Don McClain and George Wachter were named as honorable mentions. (Observer Photo)

Neel's Notes

By DAVE NEEL

Another basketball season has gone by Eastern Oregon College and Coach Bob Quinn has added another year to his illustrious coaching career.

There is not much one can say about this year's Mountaineers. They were never "just overage." They were either sub-par or brilliant. Against Oregon College of Education they were terrible, but just two weeks later against Oregon Technical Institute they were simply magnificent. Not since Eastern Oregon's 1961 District 2 N.A.I.A playoff victory against Lewis and Clark have I witnessed such a superb all-out team effort.

O.T.I., boasting one of the best teams in conference history, came to La Grande with visions of an easy sweep of the two game series. However, Bob Quinn's Mounties had different ideas. I don't know what it was that caused the super-human effort by the Mounties (perhaps a shot of adrenalin in the right place) but whatever it was, credit must be given where credit is due, and they certainly are deserving.

The future is bright for next year's Mountaineers. They lose only one player via graduation and that is Walt Wolfe, former Stanfield High star.

The Mounties have only one team member who can be termed a fine all around ball player. He is Bob Myers, former Fossil High all-stater, who was last year's "ace in the hole" for the injured Larry Applegate. Bob turned out to be this year's "ace up" as he constantly kept the somewhat erratic Mounties from running awry by his steady, confident floor leadership. Bob gets my vote for player of the year.

Another basketball season is coming, so let's hope next year's returning veterans can form a team which will be as great as those Bob Quinn has produced in the past.

this time of the term the socializing section of dear dorion subsides silently and the academic area takes over study table is a big help to those who do and those who must take advantage of it typewriters are clicking all through the night in second floor lounge at breakfast all the bleary-eyed pseudo-nocturnal ones gaze blankly across the tables making mumbling self-promises to never again in the whole college career wait until the last minute the standards council decided a while ago to help the girls not get so many campuses as a direct attack they tightened up the campused girl's priviledges wow, what repercussions, even a whole housemeeting was devoted to it it seems the girls forgot the reason for the tighter campuses was to keep so many from occurring you know, in spite of all said, they seem to have achieved their purposes

EOC Qualifies 5 For Nationals

By Ray Dicks

Coach Ken Cox and his wrestling squad close what has been an extremely successful season by sending Lee Derrick and John Eckenrode to the NAIA meet in Minnesota next week. The Mountie mentor and his two grapplers will travel with Pacific University, pushing off Tuesday, arriving in time (we hope) for Thursday's weigh-in, and will start wrestling Friday.

Actually, five Mounties qualified for the finals, but it was decided by team members that these two should go. Jerry Campbell placed second in the District NAIA meet in Portland last weekend, but has postponed wedding plans twice previously to wrestle and it was felt that it is not of best interest to delay the proceedings again. Bob Sewell and Steve Straughan also placed second, but both have been defeated a number of times during the regular season by conference opponents. At least by sending two wrestlers to Minnesota, EOC has a start. Possibly with a little more hard work and experience, those who did not make the trip this time, along with others, can be sent in the future.

Cox wishes to thank all who ardently supported the team this year and special thanks to those students who offered financial support to help send all five wrestlers to the national meet.

CONGRATULATIONS, KEN COX AND MOUNTIE WRESTLERS!

This is the last time this column will appear in The Beacon and I wish to express my appreciation and gratitude to those who have offered advice and suggestions throughout the year.

PREDICTIONS OF FORTHCOMING EVENTS

I thought it might be appropriate at this time to predict forthcoming events that will occur between March, 1962, and March, 1963. The following may be of particular interest to EOC students and faculty:

(1) Coach Bob Quinn, EOC's baseball and basketball mentor, will succeed Casey Stengel at the helm of the New York Mets.

(2) Football Coach Archie Dunsmoor will gain national acclaim by initiating his new high-geared nuclear offense.

(3) Coach Don Campbell will entitle his doctoral dissertation, "Why We Should Oppose Physical Fitness."

(4) Coach Ken Cox will have a national champion wrestling team composed of the girls of Dorion Hall.

(5) Chess will dominate the athletic program at EOC, pushing football and basketball into the background.

(6) Psuedo Joe wll set a new world record by running the mile in less than 3 minutes (pursued closely by his dedicated readers).

(7) The Math-Science department, under the direction of Dr. Badgeley, will advocate a program of full-ride athletic scholarships to all students who participate in the EOC athletic program (including the girls' badminton team). No scholastic scholarships will be given.

(8) The English department will offer classes teaching basketball fans new phrases of vocal discord and irate mannerisms that will be used to haze referees.

(9) The members of the Social Science department will comprise a national championship soccer team. This feat will be accomplished through their knowledge of methods to gain strength, power and control. Dr. Davidson will be the leading scorer, scoring 1,112 goals, and will gain first team All-American honors.

(10) And finally, the Psychology and Education departments will be awarded a Pulitzer Prize for their study "The Psychological Advantages of a Football Team that Loses Every Game."

EOC Qualifies 5 For Nationals

Eastern Oregon Mounties placed five wrestlers in the NAIA grappling finals to be held in Winona, Minn.

The Mountaineer grapplers surprised fans and opponents alike as EOC placed second among seven schools from the Oregon Collegiate and the Northwest Conference.

Lee Derrick, Mountainetr tornado, won the district 123 pound championship with a 7-3 decision over Ron Hada of Pacific. Derrick got into the finals with a first round win over Stuart Bye, OCE, and defeated Jim Kurihara, PSC 7-2.

In the championship match, Derrick and Hada were tied, 3-3, when the EOC whiz got another take down, and as the match ended, Derrick had is opponent in a pinning combination.

One of the big disappointments for Eastern Oregon was when Jack Eckenrode, 137, was pinned by Portland State's Ron Dexter.

Eckenrode had pinned his opponent but an illegal hold was called against the EOC grappler.

Cox Contests Call

Eastern Oregon coach Ken Cox disputed the call and a decision will be made at the national finals as to whether or not the hold was legal.

Other Mountie wrestlers to reach the district finals were Jerry Campbell, Bob Sewell, and Steve Straughan. Each lost to place second but still qualified for the nationals.

Fourth place finishers for Eastern Oregon were Ron Dun, Jerry Christensen and Larry Longbrake. Rich Hennen was the only Mounti grappler who failed to place.

Portland State again dominated the district meet winning six of the 10 final matches to win the District 2 championship.

Len Pettyjohn of PSC, who won the 130 pound title, was named the meet's outstanding performer. Pettyjohn and teammate Jim Blazier, 167, retained district titles won last year.

Great Job

Coach Cox, commenting about the district meet, said, "We did a great job. We didn't have enough top wrestlers to compete against Portland State but we pulled some upsets and showed the Portland wrestling fans the Portland State's days are numbered.

"Straughan did a real good job of handling PSC's Chuck Cassidy in the finals but Cassidy has had more experience than our heavyweight and it payed off."

Team Standings:

Portland State, 97, Eastern Oregon 61, Southern Oregon 60, Oregon College 32, Lewis and Clark 20, Pacific 17, Linfield, 0.

Exploring Trip Planned For Outing Club

How would you like to tabe a weekend outing at the first of next term and visit a ghost town, explore old gold mines, pan gold, and do some fishing in a high lake? It is possible. The Outing Club it sponsoring a trip to Susanville and the John Day country the first weekend in April. The round trip will be about 400 miles.

Some of the Outing Club members will leave early in the afternoon on Friday, the sixth of April, to set up camp for the rest of the group, who will arrive later that evening. The group will camp at Camp Creek Friday night, visit Susanville Saturday, camp at Magoone lake Saturday night, and arrive at EOC about 4:00 p.m. Sunday.

Food, tents, tarps, and cooking utensils will be supplied by the Outing Club, but anyone having camping equipment may bring it. The campers should supply their own eating utensils, sleeping bags, and warm clothing. The Outing Club has some extra sleeping bags in case someone who wants to go doesn't have one.

The cost of transportation will be $2 per person.

Anyone interested is asked to attend a meeting in Room 4, Hoke Hall, Tuesday, the 27th of March, at 7:30 p.m.

A ten-year old was going on his first real visit away from home, and his mother wanted to be sure she'd hear from him. So she addressed a postal card for each day that he would be gone and told him, "All you need to do is write 'O.K., Marvin.' "

"All right," said Marvin, "But you put the O.K. on—and if I'm not, I'll scratch it out."

Here's To Dorm Life

(With no apologies to Edgar Guest)

It takes a heap o' livin' in
A dorm t' make it home,
A heap o' sun an' shadder,
An' ye sometimes have t' roam,
Afore ye really 'preciate
The things ye lef' behind,
An' hunger fer 'em somehow,
With 'em alus on yer mind.

It don't make any differunce
How rich ye get t' be,
How much yer books and extries
Cost, how great yer luxury;
It ain't home t' ye, though it
Look the palace of a king,
Until somehow yer soul is sort
O' wrapped 'round everything.

Home ain't a place that gold
Can buy, or get up in a minute;
Afore it's home there's got
T' be a heap o' livin' in it;
Within the walls there's got
T' be some parties held,
an then,
Right then ye've got to rouse
Yer sleeping neighbors
once again;
And gradjerly, as time goes on,
Ye find ye wouldn't part
With anything they ever used—
They've grown into yer heart.
The stereo, the records, too,
The pocket books they've read
Ye hoard; an' if ye could ye'd
Keep the icebag on yer head.

Ye've got t' weep t' make it home,
Ye've got t' sit an' sigh,
An' watch beside a roommate's bed,
An' know that failure's nigh;
An' in the stillness o' th' night
T' see the downslips come,
An' close the eyes o' him that
Smiled, an' leave yer big mug dumb.
Fer these are scenes that grip the Heart,
An' when yer tears are dried,
Ye find yer room is quieter than It was, and sanctified;
An' tuggin' at ye always are
The pleasant memories
O' him that was an' now is not—
Ye can't escape from these.

We've got t' sing an' dance four Years, ye've got t' romp an' play
An' learn t' love th' things ye
Have by using 'em each day;
Even the beer sign on yer wall
Must shine forth year by year,
Afore it 'comes a part o' ye,
Suggestin' someone dear
Who used t' live here long ago,
An' got that sign jest so it'd
Be a learnin' BEACON and
Reflect the twilight glow.
Ye've got t' love each friend
'n foe,
From mousehole up to dome,
It takes a heap o' livin'
In a dorm t' make it home.

EOC Rotary Scholarship Group Present

Eastern Oregon College Rotary scholarship recipients appeared at the regular noon luncheon meeting of La Grande Rotary.

Those thanking the Rotary club for their scholarships were Deana Botts, Elgin; Ron Dunn, Hood River; and Ron Smith, La Grande.

Mrs. Janice Masten, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Merle Janice Pitts, entertained the club with a violin solo. They appeared as part of the continuing special music program by Rotarian Wilbur Osterloh.

Also entertaining the club was Miss Sharon Meyer, EOC, with a baton twirling exhibition.

Geiger Counter

Congratulations, students of EOC. The poor quality of your excuses is exceeded only by your seemingly lack of musical taste. Most people who went to the Jimmy Dorsey concert will attest to the quality of music that was heard. It was a distinct pleasure to listen to this fine orchestra. Some of you had good excuses for not attending the concert and hearing the "big time" entertainment that most of you have been wanting.

Others presented excuses that held about as much water as a worn-out sieve. What do you call "big time"? A high school record hop? Oh, well, you can't teach people over night. It looks like guitars and nasal singing are here to stay, at least as far as this campus is concerned. I've got spurs that jingle - jangle - jingle, turn her loose. Head 'em up and move 'em out.

I have been told that I'm losing friends by writing this column. Heavens knows I only have a limited number so I can't afford to lose too many. However, I don't write this column to win friends. I write it to present ideas and facts which I feel should be presented. Sorry, people, but if I have stepped on your toes by what I have just written, I can only hope they bleed.

Going to the play last weekend was indeed a rare pleasure. In fact it was as rare as a hound's tooth. It is seldom that a person has the opportunity to sit through a farcical farce. Unlearned lines, an English butler with a southern drawl, and an actor appearing as though we were advertising for Gleem tooth paste as he continually faced the audience, makes a person appreciate the boredom of study. It was good therapy.

From the True Confessions department I dug up a little bit of my own. The term is now nearly complete and I can honestly say that it has been a pleasure to work on the BEACON and write this column. At times, in fact most of the time, I have griped and moaned about various things I felt were wrong on campus. I realize that for every argument I presented there must have been one in the opposite direction.

However, there had to be hostility from someone and I was it. I hope that I have not offended anyone personally. I think that our school can be proud of its students and the students can, in turn, be rightfully proud of their school.

It has been a pleasure to try and serve you. Thank you for reading my column.

Jim Morris.

An Overdue Requiem:

(NOTE: This poem is NOT by an angry young intellectual, but is guaranteed innocuous reading for all cheerful clods.)

Three a.m.
Lit . . . Biol . . . Civ . . .
Three deadly syllables.
What thirst consumes me!
Whether for Nector or nectar
I am not quite sure.
Should I drown myself?
Under cold water I would be Less febrile.
(Sobriety is a necessity.)
Hey, this oracle at Delphi—
Or is it the ventricle . . .
Left or right, what's the Contest?
Give Achilles' abode—
(Was he really a dirty heel?)
Come again to Carthage.
Cartilage?
Did Rome truly fall
Because Caesar
Had too much Gaul?
Prepare to react immediately
To his foul essay questions
(Mainly with blind planic);
DON'T make hasty
Generalizations.
Hannibal crossed the Alps
With elephants,
But the offspring died.
Just wait until winter term.
No Greek-
Where would Dante consign me?
I alureadv know where I stand
now:
On the eighth circle of
The sveneth layer of
The third balcony—
Hell!

Neel's Notes

By DAVE NEEL

"GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN" Whose epitaph could that be? In the past years the strength and weaknesses of basketball teams in the Oregon Collegiate Conference has run in cyclic patterns. Whenever one team was strong so were the others. Whenever one team was weak so were the others and that has held true with the exception of this year's O.T.I. Owls.

But what made those teams great? Was it the great team play? Or was it the individual stars? In the case of the O.C.C., I would have to say the stars. This year's O.C.C. teams can boast of only two stars and they are "Sweet and Sour" Sammy Smith and Bob Petersen, teammates for the Owls. Consequently, due to the great individual ability of those two, the Owls are the conference champions.

However, last year's O.C.C. teams could boast of many so-called super stars and the result was a tight championship race. Eastern Oregon College had Larry Applegate and Tom Neel. Applegate's 25 foot set shots and Neel's spectacular 20 foot jump shots and driving lay-ins brought many a "gasp" from even the most predjudiced of spectators.

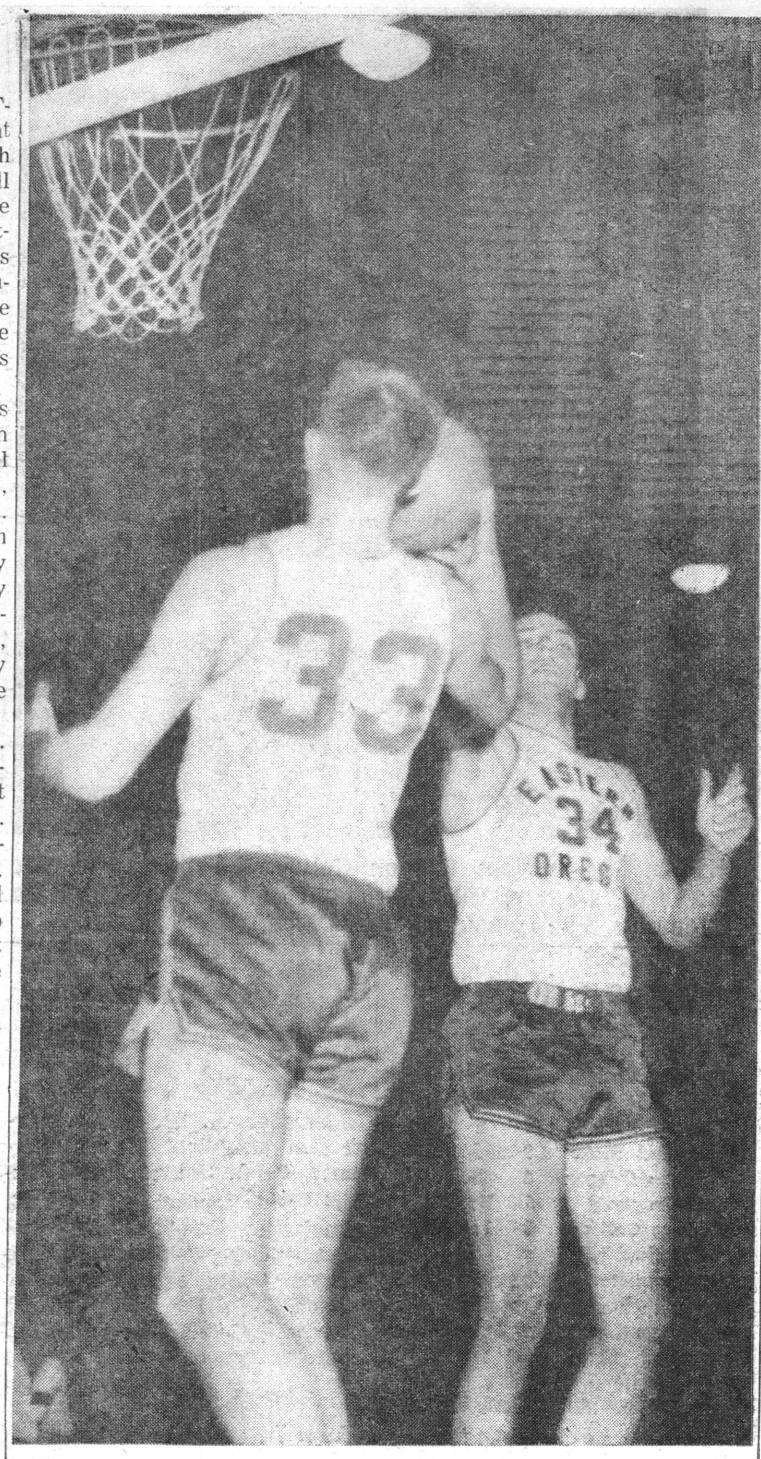
Southern Oregon College had a virtual Bob Cousy in their 5 foot, 10 inch star, Gordy Carrigan. Carrigan's 25 and 30 foot two-handed set shots brought many a fan out of their seats to produce a standing ovation in appreciation of his all-round ability.

Portland State College's "deliberate Offense" could boast of Don Bridges, whose fantastic scoring ability from any position on the floor broke the back of many favored teams.

Oregon Technical Institute had two great stars, Sam Smith and Bob Petersen. They did last year just as they did this year, led the Owls to the conference championship.

And it was only two years ago that Oregon College of Education had possibly the greatest scorer in conference history. He was Ron Jones whose 20 point plus average would have easily broken the conference scoring record for a single season had he not been ejected from school for disciplinary action.

EOC Matmen Take C Of I 34-0



Eastern Oregon College wrestlers ended their dual meet season with a win over College of Idaho. The grapplers from EOC completely overwhelmed their opponent from Idaho by a score of 34-0.

Boosting their season record to 10 wins, 6 losses, and 2 ties, the Mountaineers enter the Oregon Collegiate Conference championships in Portland on Friday, and on Saturday compete in the NAIA playoffs, also in Portland.

HERE, YOU SHOOT — There seems to be some difference in opinion of who should shoot the ball during action Saturday night at EOC coliseum. Both Barry Forrest (33) and George Wachter (34) seem to want the other to shoot. Oregon Tech edged the Mounties, 75-74, in overtime contest.

Mounties Split With OTI

Eastern Oregon College put on their best back to back performance of the season last weekend. The Mountaineers knocked off league-leading OTI, 76-74, Friday night and then dropped a 75-73 overtime tussle to the Owls Saturday. ¼ ¼ ¼¼¼

In Friday's tussle, the Mounts assembled a well-balanced scoring attack, built up a commanding lead in the second half and then held on for the win. Four EOC players scored in the double figures. George Wachter grabbed scoring honors for the game garnering 24 points. He got ample scoring help from Barry Forrest with 18, Bob Myers 17, and Don McClain 13. The Owls were paced by their fearsome front line duo, Bob Peterson with 23 and "Sweet" Sammie Smith 22.

Saturday's contest, a nip and tuck affair all the way, saw the score knotted at 63 all with no time remaining on the clock and "Sweet" Sammie at the foul line. The big Owl stepped up in a one and one situation but missed and an additional five minutes was required to decide the affair. Sammie, however, personally accounted for a Tech victory in the overtime by pumping in 6 of the Techmen's 12 points and controlling both boards. Smith hit 22 points for the second straight night to gain scoring honors. Norm Johns added 18. Three Mounties had a good scoring night but OTI's balanced attack was too much to overcome. Wachter had 20, Myers 18 (16 in the first half), and McClain 19.

EOC-OTI Series Darkens Chance For OCE Berth

Eastern Oregon College split a pair of Oregon Collegiate Conference tilts with Oregon College this past weekend. By losing one, the Mountaineers were virtually eliminated from any possibility of gaining a playoff berth in the NAIA playoffs. Only three straight losses by Portland State would give the Mounties a tie.

Friday night the Mounties wound up on the short end of the score, 70-68, thanks to a tremendous free throw exhibition by Toby Wolf of OCE. Wolf canned 21 free throws in the same number of attempts, just one short of the national collegiate mark. Ron Warner of Gettysburg hit 22 of 22 the previous Tuesday night in a double overtime. Wolf added 4 field goals and his 29 point effort was easily good for scoring honors. Bob Marr added 13 to the Wolves' cause. Dennis Bagnall was high for the Mountaineers with 19. Three other Mounts hit in the double figures, Barry Forrest 13, Don McClain 12, and Bob Myers 10.

Myers pumped in 23 points Saturday afternoon as EOC avenged Friday's loss, 84-71. Steve Rankin was high for the losers with 25. Wolf potted 6 for 6 free throws and with the addition of a 9 for 10 performance against Southern Oregon the previous weekend, he has missed only one attempt in the last 37 times at the foul line.

Athletes' Feats

By DAVE HAUN

With another season of sports almost behind us we can now turn our attention the Spring sports. Coach Archie Dunsmoor has on hand nine returning lettermen for track. The prospects look very bright for a highly successful season.

Lewis Thorne already has participated in one indoor track meet held in Portland. He ran unattached since the NAIA does not permit individuals to compete outside of school invitational competition. Thorne ran the hurdles against some of the best hurdlers the United States has to offer. He was able to gain semi-final qualification. There he lost in order to compete in the finals.

Also out for track is senior John Clark who in the past years has given a good account of himself.

If Dunsmoor can come up with a good middle distance runner he could make things rough for EOC opponents.

I would like to congratulate Coach Cox for his highly succesful season in wrestling. Many schools have tabbed the young Mountie mat crew as a shock to the wrestling world. They have also stated that EOC has the best freshmen grapplers in the Northwest. Quite a mark to make in the first year of competition.

It is interesting to note the fast growing number of sports where an individual can excel on what he personally does. Recently we have had records broken that stood for years.

With desire and practice it is surprising what an individual can do. Just think what a team could do if each member of the team made the same effort as an individual does competing for himself.

Mr. Bayes: "Leroy, what is a synonym?"

LeRoy M. "A Word that means the same thing as a word I can't spell."

Bowlers From EOC Place Eighth In College Tourney

Results of District 11 Intercollegiate Bowling Tournament

Eastern Oregon College placed eighth in team score from a field of 17 schools on Friday, February 16, at Washington State University, Pullman, Washington.

Members of the team were Bob Donaldson, Pendleton; Jim Donaldson, Pendleton; Bill Liwellan, Ontario; Rudy Clements, Warm Springs; Bob Hanel, Hood River; and Dick Oleen, Pendleton.

The team finished with a 5109 for 30 games giving them an average of 170. The University of Washington won the team trophy with a 5608. The University of Oregon placed second with a 5452. Third place was Seattle University, fourth place, Eastern Washington College, fifth place, Oregon State University. Sixth place went to Clark College and Seventh place was University of California.

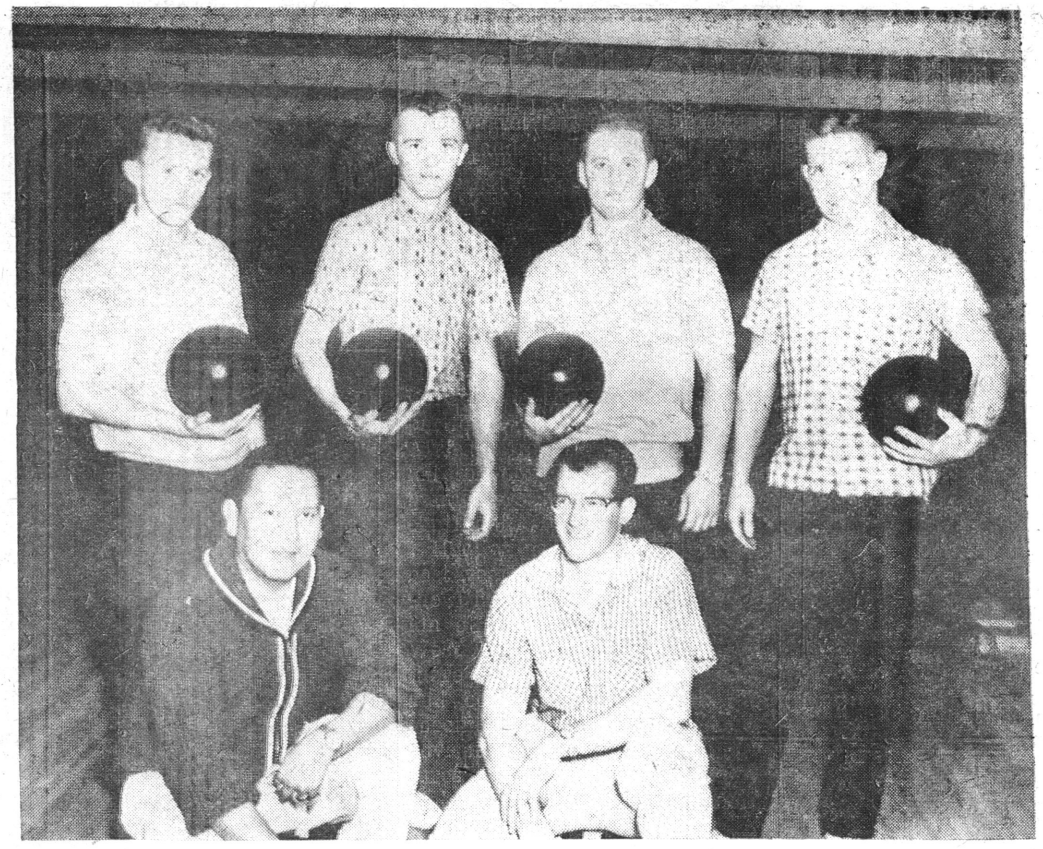
Some of the schools finishing below Eastern Oregon were Gonzaga, Montana State University, Washington State University, Portland State College, University of Idaho, and the University of California, Medical Center.

In the All-Events, Bob Donaldson placed sixth and in so doing will be an Alternate to the National Collegiate Bowling Championship in Iowa during the month of April. Bob was put on the alternate list in the last game as Don Arthurs finished with a 1797 for his 9 game series which moved Donaldson down into sixth place where he finished with a 1743. The All Events was won by Don Lindeen from the University of Oregon with a 1817.

Donaldson was also moved from third to fourth position during the last action of the tournament in the singles division where he had a 598 series. Arthurs of North Idaho won this event with a series of 683.

Doubles championships were won by Eastern Washington College with a 1204. The University of Oregon finished second with 1192.

Eastern Oregon College participation in this tournament was made possible by the contribution of Mr. Cliff Brimm, owner of the Blue Mountain Lanes as well as the AMF Bowling Equipment company.



Nine Trackmen Back This Season

A nucleus of nine lettermen is the number Coach Archie Dunsmoor has on hand for this coming track season. Led by John Clark, Lewis Thorne, Jerry Behm, and Ted Miller, the Mounties have the potential to give a good account of themselves.

The lettermen include: Jim Grooms, discus; Bill Jackson, discus; Jerry Behm, distances; Dennis Naughton, broad jump, mile; Skeet Coorea, sprints; Ron Robinson, shot put; John Clark, shot put, javelin, hurdles; Lewis Thorne, hurdles, sprints; and Ted Miller, pole vault, high jump.

March 17—WSU Indoor, Pullman; 30—U of Idaho Relays, Moscow. April 7—Whitman Relays, Walla Walla; 14—Northwest Nazarene Invitational, Nampa; 21—EOC Invitational; 28—Boise J C Invitational. May 5—Columbia Basin Relays, Pasco; 12—EOC-OCE Dual (a.m.), La Grande and Whitman Invitational (p.m.), Walla Walla; 19—Oregon Collegiate Conference, Monmouth; 26—NAIA District, Portland. June 9—NAIA National, Sioux Falls, S. D.

Californian Will Conduct Seminar At Local College

Margaret H. Denmarsh, curriculum consultant for the Torrance, Calif., Unified School District, will conduct a two-week seminar on the "Ungraded Elementary School" during Eastern Oregon College's 1962 summer session.

According to John M. Miller, summer session director, the seminar is scheduled July 30-August 10.

Mrs. Denmarsh, who was visiting professor at the University of Southern California during the 1961 summer session, has her B.S. from USC and her M.S. from UCLA.

The EOC eight-week session is set for June 18-Aug. 10.

New Course In Speed Reading Set For Spring

It has been announced recently that two sessions of Speed Reading, English 10, will be offered to EOC students spring term. The first session will begin Monday, April 2nd, meeting Monday, Thursday and Friday from 12:00 to 12:30 p.m., and continuing for three weeks. A second session will begin April 23rd, meeting Monday, Thursday and Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 1:00 p.m., also running for three weeks. Students may sign for this course during registration with Mr. Frank Nelson or Mr. William Wells.

It is noted that this is NOT a remedial course in reading and students with remedial reading problems should be counseled into other course work. The course is designed for average or above average readers that they might increase their reading speed and comprehension.

A limit of 25 students has been set for each session. It is, however, a non-credit course.

O.E.A. Confab This Weekend

All students interested in teaching should be aware of the Oregon Education Association Convention to be held March 15-17th, in Portland's Memorial Coliseum. An outstanding program has been planned with several important speakers obtained for this convention. They include Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, Arthur S. Flemming, University of Oregon President and former Secretary of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, and Harold Turner, former Pendleton educator, who is now President of the National Education Association.

Events have been planned to include every educator from kindergarten to college. The proceedings will include workshops, instructional materials clinics and banquets, and in excess of three hundred exhibits and displays.

Further information may be obtained from OEA neighbors.

1960 Yearbooks Will Be Sold

There will be a few 1960 yearbooks on sale during Spring term registration. These books will be sold for $6.00.

If you have made a down payment on a 1960 yearbook, and wish to receive it, please contact D. McCall before March 15th. If this is not done, your annual will be sold, and any previous payment forfeited.

HELP

WANTED!! Anyone with the following description: ambition, imagination, underclass status, a little free time and with many ideas. This is not a request for perfection, but for someone to help work on the annual.

Due to unfortunate circumstances, annual staff meetings have been attended by few. Many people have indicated an interest in helping work on the annual, but when meetings are held, where are they?

If you want to get your money's worth out of the annual, send that person who has shown an interest in helping with college publications to the first annual meeting next term.

This is especially important for freshmen and sophomores. After all, you could be the editor of the Mountaineer next year if you gained a little experience workin on it this year.

The meetings are not closed—anyone with interest in helping with the annual is welcome.

Library Award Set; Entries Due April 16

Local competion for the Amy Loveman National Award, given annually for an outstanding personal library collected by a student, has been announced by Paul Kelly, Eastern Oregon College librarian.

Under sponsorship of the "Saturday Review," "The Book-of-the-Month Club", and "The Women's National Book Association", a gift of $1000 will be made to the National winner.

According to Kelly, all Eastern Oregon College students are eligible for the $15 local award, but the senior judged to have the best personal library will compete for the national award.

Those entering the contest will be judged on the submission of an annotated list of 35 or more books they now own, a list of ten additional books they plan to add to their library, and a brief essay on their ideals of a complete home library. In addition, the local winner will submit his personal library for display at the EOC library the week of April 16.

The EOC award committee includes Chairman Paul Kelly, Ron Bayes, and Howard Anderson.

The Amy Loveman National Award was established in memory of Amy Loveman who was an associate editor of "Saturday Review," a Book-of-the-Month Club judge, and a member of The Women's National Book Association. Miss Loveman was widely known in the publishing world and, throughout her long and distinguished career in literary journalism, was particularly interested in broadening the horizon of young people by introducing them to the universe of books and ideas.

Seniors ! Career Positions Available

VERNON A. WELO, Manager of the La Grande Social Security Administration District Office, will be in Hoke Hall from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. on March 12, 13, and 14, to answer questions of Seniors who are interested in career positions with the Federal Government.

Welo, who is College Liason Representitive for the U.S. Civil Service Commission for this area, reminds Seniors that an applicant must take and pass the Federal Service Entrance Examination, in order to be considered for a Federal Career position. Each year the Federal Government selects a large number of graduating Seniors for a wide variety of career positions. Some of the more popular fields are: Social Security Administration, Personnel Management, Tax Collections, Budget Management, Informational Service, Recreation and Agricultural Economics, etc.

Mr. Welo stated that if Seniors are unable to see him on the above dates, they may contact him, or Mr. Albert Gillesby, Assistant Manager, at the La Grande Social Security District Office, located at 1108 "J" Avenue, located next door to the La Grande Medical Clinic Building.

Blood Drawing Set March 29

The Red Cross Bloodmobile makes an official visit to the Eastern Oregon College Campus, Thursday, March 29, according to Dr. George Nightingale, Chairman.

Dr. Nightingale emphasized that the campus is merely one of the organizational units of the area division; and, therefore, donations are not restricted to campus personnel, but all area residents are eligible.

Quota for the blood drawing, scheduled from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. in Hoke Hall, is set for 125 pints.

Last year the campus unit came within one pint of meeting the 125 quota. The record of the campus blood drawings:

Year	Quota	Actual
1955	150	135
1956	150	89
1957	150	127
1958	150	103
1959	150	94
1960	150	105
1961	125	124
1962	125	?

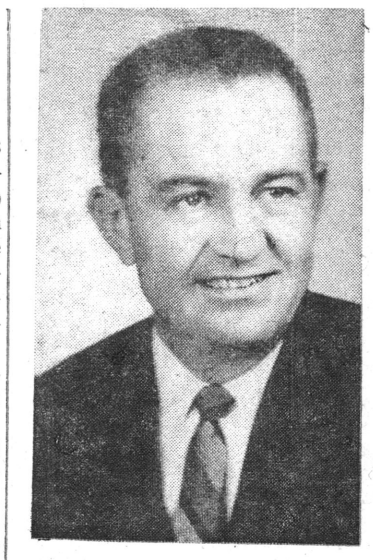
Prom Set April 14

One of the main social events of spring term on the EOC campus will be the Junior - Senior Prom scheduled for April 14th at Hoke Hall. This dance is put on by the members of the junior class with their president, Bill Johnson, in charge.

The various committees and committee heads under him include: decorations—Merlene Teasley and Linda Long, codonition—Bev Trimble, tickets—Carol Woodell, advertising—Allen Duby and Karen Rothrock, refreshments—Jeannie Edwards, fund raising—Bonnie Osborne, clean-up—Larry Snook, Dick Barr and Bill Ferguson, and programs—Annabell Tidwell.

At the dance, last year's Junior Miss, Sue Chrisman, will give her crown to the new Junior Miss selected from a court chosen by a faculty committee.

The dance will be formal and everyone is welcome to attend. Tickets will go on sale in Hoke and the Administration Building April 11, 12, and 13.



The prom theme will be announced at a later date.

Coeds Attend AWS MEET

Representing EOC at the Associated Women Students Convention at the University of Portland were Gail Fisher, president of A. W. S., Wanda Johnson, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Winters. The purpose of the one day convention, held February 17, was to give the girls from various A. W. S. organizations an opportunity to exchange ideas and discuss problems.

Delegates from all the colleges and universities in Oregon attended discussion groups pertaining to the theme "To Give and to Gain." Other convention activities included a coffee hour, luncheon and tour of the campus. The Keynote address was given by Miss Mary DeMartini, a trust officer of the First National Bank of Oregon.

The convention report has not yet been received from the University of Portland, according to Gail Fisher, but notification will be made when it does arrive.

Doctorates Go To Two EOC Teachers

Continued increase in academic achievement and qualification of the Eastern Oregon College faculty was noted in the announcement of the recent granting of doctor's degrees to two more EOC staff members.

According to the announcement, 29 now hold the doctorate, representing 39.2 per cent of the 74 faculty members.

Most recent recipients of the advanced degrees are Rose B. Pointon, assistant professor of languages, and Robert D. Rutherford, associate professor of education and supervisor of teaching.

Dr. Pointon, just recently returned from Spain, received a Ph.D. from the University of Madrid, following research on "Contribution to the Linguistic Study of the Work of Cervantes."

Dr. Rutherford, with a dissertation "Recommendations for Improved Selection and Retention Procedures of Elementary Teacher Candidates," was awarded the Ed.D. by the University of Denver.

EOC Alumni Group Sets Portland Meet

The Eastern Oregon College Alumni Association will meet in Portland, Friday, March 16, according to Neva Neill, EOC alumni secretary.

The luncheon meeting, with an address by Dr. Frank B. Bennett, EOC president, is scheduled for noon in the Willamette Room of the Tunderbird restaurant, 1225 N. Crosby.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Noted Authoress Speaks On Africa At EOC Assembly

By Joanne Slatton

Guest speaker at a 10:30 a.m. general assembly in the auditorium at Eastern Oregon College, Monday, March fifth, was Mrs. Margaret H. Hubbard, lecturer, traveler and author of both books and magazine articles, who spoke on the problem of African independence.

Mrs. Hubbard, who served as Vice Counsel for the Union of South Africa in 1946 was introduced by faculty member, Dr. Douglas Spear.

Mrs. Hubbard began her talk by giving a brief outline of African history and pointed out that modern day Africa did not come into being until World War II. She stated that as late as the 1930's, during the copper mining development in Kenya and Southern Rhodesia, internal slavery was still practiced.

The African, according to Mrs. Hubbard, wants to be independent of white rule. She said one of the reasons behind this is that the African and the white man are much more separated now, due to urbanization and mechanization, than they were 30 years ago when the white colonials had to depend on the natives in order to survive in Africa.

The noted author continued by saying that the African wants the vote. The white man in Africa, according to Mrs. Hubbard, is fearful that they are not ready for self-government; that government efficiency will suffer under African rule; that Western culture in Africa will be destroyed and that the Africans may fall prey to the threat of Communism.

Mrs. Hubbard further stated that the rising young political leaders in Africa seem to have no formal plan for the organization of a self-government. She said she could find no evidence that they have a "Thomas Jefferson or John Adams" to lead them. She said that several years ago the Africans were talking about future indepependence but now they have become very impatient and are using "one man, one vote" as a slogan.

Not all of the native Africans, however, according to Mrs. Hubbard, are in favor of "black rule." They feel, she said, that boundries will not be respected and that they have felt "protected" under the crown.

Mrs. Hubbard spoke briefly about the impact of the Christian mission schools in Africa and said that most Africans are "very keen for education." She said, that the Islam religion is gaining ground in Africa, partly because it accepts, as does the African, the idea of polygamy.

Mrs. Hubbard, who contributed valuable work to the Military Intelligence during the war, concluded her talk by predicting what the world can expect in Africa in the near future if they gain their independence. She said the Africans contend that they want no alliances with any country but she believes that they will "play East against West" for financial aid to develop their new state. She said that it should be expected that the future African government will be based on the old form of tribal rule which places the community above all else in opposition to democracy which revers the individual.

Mrs. Hubbard believes the "big danger" in Africa is the possibility that there will rise a "new black socialism" which will be even more deadly than the philosophy of "white supremecy." She said the world must expect graft, feuds, changing boundaries and much internal strife before Africa arrives at a workable form of self-government.

Different Views Aired On Drama Production

Sorry, Oscar, It Only Hurts For A Little While.

By Bill Ward

On March 1, 1962, at 8:00 in the College Theater an unfortunate few witnessed the opening of "The Importance of Being Earnest" or How to Slaughter Oscar Wilde. In my four years as a student on this campus I have never seen a play that lacked so much; timing was wrong, accents were bad in most cases, parts were overplayed and, above all, something that is inexcusible in any production was that lines were not learned.

According to the back of the program, the cast was primarily a group of persons who had not acted before (with the exception of possibly two or three). Noticing this I expected those who had acted before to pull the show through and help the others. I was mistaken. The show was held together by Raymond Fuller who had never acted before. While Mr. Fuller was attempting to hold the show together, Tom Strand was upstaging him and trying to steal every scene. I would like to ask Mr. Strand if he knew that there were others on the stage with him of whether he thought the audience had come there just to see him.

I do not believe that Oscar Wilde wanted the part of Algernon Moncrieff portrayed as one who was continually posing for cheesecake. The next time you get a part in a play, Mr. Strand, I sincerely hope that you will learn your lines.

Zombie Bob Byrd, playing the part of Merriman the English butler, was a real kill as he tried with little success to imitate his fellow butler in the play, Gus Boyd, who did a fine job in his role of Lane. It is the first time I have ever heard one English butler with a Southern drawl.

Joanne Thurston Slatton's portrayal of Lady Bracknell was far below her portrayal of the old lady in "Solid Gold Cadillac" which won her the Best Actress Award for 1959-1960. Her part was overacted, but she did know her lines fairly well which is one thing in her favor.

The Stranger on stage, Georgia Davis, portraying the flity Gwendoyln Fairfax, had one of the worst English accents that this writer has ever heard. When she attempted to use her accent, she sounded like an Irishman with a cold. Also, it would have been nice if she had of learned her lines.

Lula Stirewalt, as Cecily Cardew, started out like she was going to a fire and that's just the way her lines came—as fast as an arsonist going to a blaze. She could have been a bright spot in the play if she had not given her lines so fast and if she had projected her voice a little more.

Trudy Kofford as Miss Prism could have been another bright spot if she hadn't tried to knock out the back wall of the auditorium. Be careful, Trudy, our auditorium is quite old and can't stand much shaking. You must be complimented on one thing—you were one of the few who knew your lines, but if you didn't, you did a fine job of covering it up.

Mr. Wilde himself probably would have been proud of Greg Hodgen in his role of Rev. Canon Chasuble. Congratulations, Greg.

I would again like to compliment Raymond Fuller on his fine job of acting and his brilliant attempt to hold the play together.

In closing I would like to say that I hope the next play put on by Sock and Buskin, "Journey's End," by Robert Sherrif, meets with better success than its immediate predecessor.

The Friday, March 2, evening performance of Sock and Buskin's, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde was well received by the audience. The play, directed by Mervin Rummels, is set in the latter half of the 19th century and is a satire of high society in England of that period.

The cast, led by Raymond Fuller as John Worthing, Georgia Davis as Gwendolyn Fairfax, Tom Strand as Algernon Moncrieff and Lula Stirewalt as Cecily Cardew was ably supported by Trudy Kofford as Miss Prism, Greg Hodgen as the Rev. Canon Chasuble, Joanne Slatton as Lady Bracknell, Gus Boyd as Lane and Bob Byrd as Merriman.

The four principal characters, two young men and their respective financees, carried the action swiftly along and were believable as young English people of the period. The plot, which envolves a foundling and his subsequent discovery of his true identity is typical Oscar Wilde comedy. The humor is subtle and for the most part is contained in the actor's lines. Very little of the comedy is dependent on stage action or movement.

The English accent necessary to the play was, for the most part, well done. However, the poor enunciation by Lula Stirewalt caused many of her good lines to be lost. In her exhuberance she also unconsciously threw in several 20th century slang terms that rasped the ear. Tom Strand, who displayed exceptional ease of gesture and movement on the stage, also lost some of his audience rapport through poor enunciation of the English accent.

The two gentlemen's gentlemen, Bob Byrd and Gus Boyd, came through their performances with just the right amounts of diffidence and arrogance found in the typical English butler of the period. The funniest performance of the evening was turned out by Greg Hodgen as Chasuble. He made much of a small part by near expert use of body gestures and facial expressions.

Several comments overheard in the audience to the effect that Trudy Kofford and Joanne Slatton were over-playing their parts leads this reviewer to defend them on the basis that the type of humor written by Oscar Wilde lends itself to loudness and bombast.

The show was well directed but its technical aspects left something to be desired. The sets were not up to EOC's usual high standar, the lighting cues were erratic and the scene change much too long and noisy.

One might well question if the theatre-goers in this valley are sophisticated enough in their experience with drama to really appreciate this type of show. The subtle in-line humor of Oscar Wilde is far removed from the usual play seen at EOC. This reviewer feels that kudos should be given director Mervin Rummells in his attempt to bring this kind of theatre to La Grande.

Senate Snatches

By Sharon Myers

February 27, 1962

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Senate President, Larry Coleman, and roll was taken. Senators and members of the Executive Council present were: Larry Coleman, Jim Cornett, Carol Woodell, Sharon Myers, Lynne Vancil, Jim Garrett, Phil Gray, J. Morris, Mona Casey (substitute for Margaret Cunningham), Linda Rogers (substitute for Adrienne Hansen), Jim Johnstan, Dennis Bagnall, Annabelle Tidwell, Karen Rothrock, Bill Ward, Greg Baker.

BUDGET—

Carol Woodell presented the tentative 1962-1963 Educational Activities Budget. A copy of the budget may be obtained at the Student Body Office or from Carol.

REPORTS—

Senate President Coleman announced that a report of each class meeting will be expected from the class senators at the meeting next Tuesday night.

MEETING—

Senator Baker stated that there would be a Student Court Committee meeting at 2:00 p.m. in Dorion Hall March 3.

LIBRARY—

Since there has been some complaint about excess noise in the library, this problem was presented to the Senate. They will in turn take it to their class meetings and will check to find the general feelings of the students on this matter. If a problem of excess noise does exist, further steps will be taken to correct it.

SKI TEAM—

Senator Morris reported that the Ski Team of EOC placed sixth out of fourteen schools at the Snow Carnival. The team has requested $50 in order to make the trip to Mt. Shasta next weekend (March 3 and 4) for the NAIA. Members of the team are Jess Belton, Jim Sisemore, John Gibson and Doug Bonsor.

Senator Baker moved that $50 be taken from the General Reserve and be put into the Snow Carnival fund for the purpose of racing and entry fees and for sending the delegation of skiers to the NAIA. This motion was passed unanimously.

DORSEY—

A full report will be given at the next meeting on the results of the Jimmy Dorsey Concert.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 8:20 p.m.

Faculty Notes

Poems by two EOC faculty members have been accepted for publication in the "National Poetry Anthology," according to D. Hartman, National Poetry Association secretary, Los Angeles.

The poems are "Of Time," by Dr. Sarah C. Stein, associate professor of secretarial science; and "Bermuda April: St. George's Bay," by Ronald H. Bayes, instructor in English.

From the P.E. department, Dr. Margaret Morris, professor of women's phyisical education at EOC, has been named visiting professor for the 1962 summer session at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City, it was announced recently.

Dr. Morris will conduct a graduate seminar and a lower division course in Elementary School Physical Education. The Iowa session extends from June 13 to August 8.

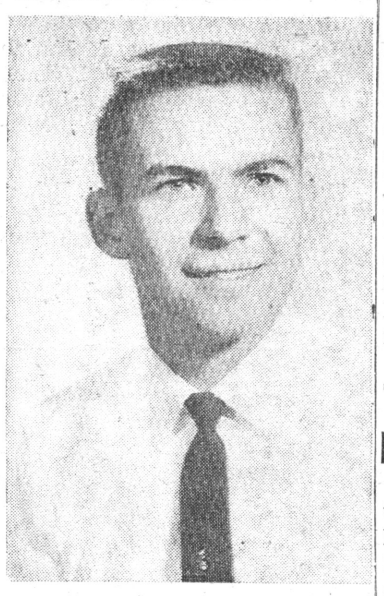
Hartig Has Spelling Study Published

Recordings of a self-study spelling program, designed and written by Hugo Hartig, Eastern Oregon College assistant professor of education, have been published by the Conversaphone Institute of New York, it was announced today.



The program consists of two 12-inch long-playing records, each containing a basic list of 200 college level spelling words, providing a method of practicing spelling. Additional spelling words and information about the college spelling problem are contained in manuals that accompany the records.

The Sound Spelling program, which is now being made nationally available, is believed to be the first recorded spelling program ever to be published.

Another Series

An additional series of spelling records at the elementary level is scheduled for future publication with the word lists compiled by Dr. Robert Rutherford, associate professor of education at EOC.

Thte announcement indicated the complete Sound Spelling program will consist of six records containing spelling words at all all levels, including lower elementary, upper elementary, junior high school, senior high school and college.

BILL DONAHUE, Region II nominee for I.K. Viceroy. Elections are to be held at national convention next week.

EOC Students To Attend I.K. Confab

Talk of the campus so far this term has been centered around the national convention of the I.K's to be held April 8-12 at Edinberg, Texas, Members from the Mountaineer chapter planning to attend the confab are: Bill Donahau, Dick Oleen, Vaughn Kolkman, Bill Ward, Earl Miller, and Jerry McBathe. Bill Donahue, junior from Lewiston, Idaho, has been nominated for Regional ViveRoy for Region II. Donahue, if elected at the convention, will serve as head of the immediate region including Boise Junior College, College of Idaho, Portland State, Linfield College, Pacific University, Oregon College of Education and Humbolt State.

Also at a recent meeting of the I.K.'s new officers were elected Duke: aughn Folkman, a junior from Baker; Scribe, Dick Oleen, sophomore from Pendleton; Chancellor, Jim Johnston, sophomore from The Dalles; Historian, Jim Morris, sophomore from Heppner, and Pledge Master, Bill Johnson, junior from Vale. This year's Duke is Gale Coleman, senior from Nyssa.

The I.K.'s will sponsor a second car wash this Saturday, April 7, Mac's Mobile Station. All earnings will be contributed to the Heart Fund.

Junior-Senior Prom Tomorrow Night

Candidates for Junior Miss, as selected by a five-member faculty committee include Janet Bond, Peggy Elder, Linda Long, Beverly Trimble and Carol Woodell. From these candidates the Junior Miss will be voted on at the door by those who attend the Junior-Senior prom to be held April 14 from 9:00-12:00 at Hoke Hall. That night Sue Chrisman, last years' Junior Miss, will give up her title to one of these five girls and this girl will be presented along with her court.

"Honeysuckle Time" has been chosen as the theme of the prom according to Bill Johnson, junior class president. He also announced that the "Impromtus," a three-piece orchestra from Portland, will play for the dance.

Tickets will go on sale in Hoke and the Administration Building next week, April 11, 12, and 13, for $1.75 each. It is a formal dance and everyone is welcome to attend.

Each of the girls running for Junior Miss are members of the junior class. Janet Bond is from La Grande and is majoring in secondary and elementary education. Peggy Elder, an elementary education major, is from Pendleton. Linda Long, another La Grande girl, plans to be an elementary teacher. Beverly Trimble, Hereford, and Carol Woodell, Beaverton, are also planning to go into elementary education.

Travel Program To HawaiiAnnounced

The 1962 Summer Session Tour to world-famous University of Hawaii, Honolulu, is now accepting reservations, Dr. Robert E. Cralle, Executive Director, University Study Tours to Hawaii, announced today.

Special rates for students and teachers for the 6 week Summer Session Tour Program begin as low as $555.00 he reports. This price includes round-trip jet air travel from the West Coast, accomodations in deluxe Waikiki Beach hotels, a full schedule of 22 planned activities including Island sight-seeing trips and tours, cruises, dinner dances, beach parties and free bus transportation between campus and residences.

For earning extra credits transferable to most Mainland colleges, students and teachers can attend classes at the University of Hawaii's Summer Session where a distinguished visiting faculty from all over the world affers a wide range of subjects and courses.

Air and steamship accomodations to handle the hundreds of Mainland students and teachers matriculating to the Islands for a summer of study and fun have been set on all major steamships and airlines. Dates of departures are June 23 and 24, returning August 4 and 5, 1962.

Full particulars including a 20 page illustrated Bulletin and application forms are available by writing to Dr. Robert E. Cralle, Executive Director, University Study Tours to Hawaii, 2275 Mission Street, San Francisco 10, California. (VAlencia 4-0700)

Dorion Hall Greets Spring With Fashion Review

April 18 is the date for the annual Dorian Hall style show to be held in the Hoke Hall lounge 8 p.m. according to general chairman, Sandi Harrit.

Sponsored by the girls of Dorion Hall fashions will include campus, sports, and dress wear for spring. Modeling fashions from La Grande stores and the girls own wardrobes will be Dorion resident accompanied by Hunt Hall escorts.

The fashion show will be free to all college students who wish to attend with entertainment being furnished by the Dorion Hall girls.

GORDON NORTHRUP and Adrienne Hanen take a break between sets. Both are wearing casual sportswear worn on campus this Spring.

L. Kimbrell To Exhibit

Leonard B. Kimbrell, Eastern Oregon College assistant professor of art, will be represented in the 2nd Pacific Northwest Art Annual exhibition at the Erb Memorial Gallery, University of Oregon.

The international exhibit, consisting of works done in water colors, tempers, and drawn works, is scheduled for April 30 to May 26 and will include a purchase prize for the Erb Memorial Gallery permanent collection.

MARALEE CROISSANT models a rust colored corduroy sports outfit, only one of the many fashions to be shown in the Dorion Hall Style Revue.

SANDI HARRITT makes plans for Sunday afternoon. She is wearing a light wool, two piece suit.

'Journey's End Is Drama Production For Spring Term

Tryouts were completed April 2 for Sock and Buskin's forthcoming production, Journey's End, by Robert Cedric Sherriff, according to Mervin Rummells, director.

May 10-11-12 are the dates set for the production of Sherriff's sometimes sentimental excerpts from World War I. Included in the cast are Gordon Boarse, Raymond Fuller, Bill Watkins and Steve Hodgen.

Also Jim Morris, Bill Ward, Douglas Prosh, Steve Straughan, and Bob Tinker. The first meeting of cast members was held Tuesday evening, March 3.

This English drama was first produced in the 1920's as an amateur production and since that time has achieved world acclaim.

NOTICE!!

The movie posters advertising student movies must be paid for; therefore they should not be taken from the bulletin boards. Any person known to have these signs will be asked to pay for them.

Second Chance

You Are Feathering Your Own Nest

Get your tickets now—the show is only three weeks away. Yes, Jimmie Rodgers and The Fairmont Singers will be on campus Monday, April 30. Here, we are being given another chance to show our enthusiasm and interest in attracting "Big Name Entertainment" to our campus. Here, is our second chance to prove that we are ready for this sort of entertainment.

Surely we are not to be content only with weekend record dances and a biweekly student movie, when it would be so easy for us to be able to look forward to outside name entertainment as well. What most of you fail to realize is that the social calendar is an indication of your interest and the active support you are willing to give. Therefore, it is not fair for you to complain of vacancies if you are not willing to accept your share of responsibilty.

Let April 30th be "Full House Night" and the beginning of a new, more exciting social life future for E.O.C. Remember—everyone is going to the Jimmie Rodgers concert. Why don't you?

Dorion Doings

by sue

dorion started out the term by having 12 less winter term students but gaining six new people for spring term new dormitoriets are sharon craig a freshman from hereford and sharon daily a junior from wallowa and thresa hardwick a freshman from canyon city. the other three are joan o'brian a freshman from umatilla kathleen radcliff a freshman from tierrebone and dian sullivan a fresman from hereford welcome gals to our humble abode big news of course is the dorion fashion show to be held friday under the chairmanship of sandy harritt. eveyone is certainly looking forward ao preview the spring and summer styles in the clever way sandy has arranged them.

spring term brings the girls from behind the sacred walls into the sunlight anyone who has seen the bathing suit brigade behind the dormitory knows what is meant here.

Gerad Young Receives NSF Grant

EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, La Grande — Gerald E. Young, instructor in physical science at Eastern Oregon College, has been named a recipient of a National Science Foundation grant for study at Washington State University for the summer session.

The NSP session consists of an eight-week institute in nuclear science beginning June 18.

Band Returns From Tour

The Eastern Oregon College band has returned following an extensive five day tour of Northern Oregon and Washington which took the 50 piece organization as far as Widbey Island Washington to the North.

The band, conducted by Dr. L. Rhodes Lewis and accompanied by vocalist Ellen Uesugi and the "Mountaineers," the college dance band, played eight concerts as widely scattered as Weston, Oregon and Oak Harbor, Washington.

Overnight stays for the members and chaperone guests who were Mrs. Winters and Mr. Howard Anderson were made in Yakima, Seattle, Ellensburg, and Spokane Washington.

Jimmy Rogers To Appear Apr. 30

EOC's April activities will be climaxed on the final evening of the month when Jimmy Rodgers entertains on campus. The youthful singer will perform April 30 in the college Coliseum at 8 p.m. Appearing with him will be the Fairmonts, four young men who specialize in folk songs and campus entertainment, along with comedian Harrison Baker, who is reputed to be the last of the well comedians.

This evening of entertainment is being sponsored by the Associated Student Body, with arrangements by Jim Cornett. It is important that students plan ahead so attendance will be high. The admission charge for the general public is $2.00. Students presenting an A.S.B. card will be admitted for $1.50. Tickets are on sale at Falks' downtown as well as on campus. Get yours now, and be part of a full house on April 30.

Geiger Counter

Spring has sprung and Spring term, what else, is with us. This is the term for tennis, swimming, sunbathing, baseball, track, etc. and, of course, study. Welcome back students. Don't forget to turn the keg back in to the distributors. You get the five dollar deposit back this way. That is, if the pump is turned back in also.

Seriously, if you can get more serious, this term will, and already has, seen many changing things. Already the parking lot behind Hunt Hall has taken on a new face for spring. It is great not to have to drive your car over huge ruts and boulders to park it.

Just around the corner are the student body elections and campus will take on the appearance of a patchwork quilt as posters spring up on campus like leaves of grass. Poetic isn't it? This blossoming of posters will then be followed by the annual monsoon of hot air, cold air and just plain gas emitted in glorious fashion from the lungs of self-styled politicians as they promise everything short of free love and pizza. Then will come the frustrated, fumbling weeks as the duly elected officials grope their way into the realization that life and service to the student body is a cold, hard fact. The outgoing officers will look at their past year of duty with pride, horror or indifference and fan the spark of hope that their efforts were not in vain but instead enriched our daily campus life in a gigantic or at least a minute way. Vote safely, the sorrow you save may be your own.

A coming attraction on campus will be the Jimmy Rodgers show, April 30. This show is being sponsored by the ASB of EOC for the ASB of EOC and other interested parties. The beauty of it all is that it is being sponsored on a no loss to us basis. That is, if the gate receipts don't cover the cost of the show, the agent makes up the loss from his own pocket. Dont buy any MCA stock. The market may be about to crash if the turnout is as poor as it was for the Jimmy Dorsey show.

How do students feel about dances on campus both Friday and Saturday nights? Do we have enough? Do you want more? I would be happy to receive your written replies on this subject. Any letters should be addressed to me, The Geiger Counter, in care of the Beacon. Let's hear from you. It's your campus.

Jim Morris.

Court Capers

With the coming of spring term, sunshine and soft breezes, the girls in Co-Ed courts have had a spectacular view of the tennis courts. Bermuda shorts, the brighter the better, have blossomed out there on tennis players, male and female alike. With such beautiful weather for a welcome change, who could resist the lure of a game of tennis when the courts are practically in your front yard? Besides that, it's the painless? way to tone muscle's, get a suntan, and meet new people.

There has been some talk of using the tennis courts day and night. They are to be used for playing tennis in the day and for dancing at night. At least I have heard rumors that the girls from Co-Ed Courts are going to sponsor a dance on the tennis courts, with moonlight and soft music and the singing of the brook beside the dance floor. Can't ask for a setting that is much more romantic that that, now can you? So far there has been no announcement of a date, but keep watching for it. See you there, O.K.?

U.S.NavyTeam To Visit Here

The United States Navy Officer Information Team will visit Eastern Oregon College on April 13, 1962 to provide information on opportunities of gaining an Officer Commission in the Navy. Representatives of the Naval Officer Procurement Office, Portland, Oregon will be on the Campus from 9:30 A.M. to 3:30 P.M. with information concerning the following Officer programs: Officer Candidate School, Wave Officer Candidate School, Nurse programs, Reserve Oficer candidate and Officer Specialty programs. All above listed officer programs require the applicant to have a baccalureate degree from an accredited college or University. Senior students are eligible to make application when within six months of graduation.

The Naval Aviation Team from the U.S. Naval Air Station, Seattle will visit Eastern Oregon College on April 23, 1962 with information concerning the Naval Aviation Candidate and Naval Aviation Cadet programs. Applicants for Naval Aviation Officer Candidate program must have a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university. Applicants for Naval Aviation Cadet programs must complete their sophomore year with at least 60 semester or 90 quarter hours. Age and phyisical requirements vary according to the catagory of officer program selected.

Students who are unable to meet with the Navy Officer Information teams may write for detailed information to

Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 520 S. W. Morrison Street, Portland 4, Oregon. or Naval Aviation Information Office, U. S. Naval Air Station, Seattle, 15, Washington.

The team will meet in Hoke Hall.

Neel's Notes

By DAVE NEEL

The first of a series of capsule reports on Major League baseball teams.

The light, fresh aura of spring has settled over our nation and with it, just as the swallows return to Capistrano, baseball (our national game) returns to the American scene.

To most baseball fans the name New York Yankees creates many a prejudiced thought. For some reason many fans despise the Yankees because they win so often. (19 World championships in 26 attempts). As for me, winning may not be everything but it sure beats heck out of anything that comes second. Perhaps that is why I pick the Yankees to win the American League flag and repeat as World champions.

Last year the Yankees displayed the most awesome and devastating home-run attack ever witnessed in the major leagues by hitting 240 for the circuit.

INDIVIDAUL RUN-DOWN ON YANKEE PERSONNEL:

Manager — Ralph Houk a rookie magician, Houk inserted Whitey Ford into his four day pitching program. Casey Stengel used him only in key games) and Whitey won 25 games.

Catchers — Elston Howard — Possibly the best catcher in baseball batted .349 and hit 21 homeruns. Yogi Berra—Switched to the outfield in early season but still managed a .277 average and smacked 22 homers. John Blanchard—He could easily become the greatest cluch home-run hitter in Yankee history. On June 5, 1961 the 60-day scourage of John Blanchard started. His pinch home-run against Minnesota gave the Yankees victory. June 15th—His pinch single beat the Cleveland Indians in the 11th.. June 26th—His two-run home-run beat the Los Angeles Angels. July 21st—His grand slam home-run in the ninth turned and 8-7 defeat into victory. July 22nd—His pinch homer in the ninth tied the score and the Yankees beat Cleveland. July 26th—His two homers (giving him four in four at bats) beat the White Sox. August 4th — His three-run homer beat the Minnesota Twins. August 6th—His home-run tied the score and the Yanks won in the 15th inning. He batted .305 for the season and collected 21 homeruns.

First base—Bill "Moose" Skowron—He managed only a .267 average but smashed 28 homers. Second base—Bobby Richardson —Although not known for his power he hit a grand slam homerun against the Pittsburgh Pirates and established a record for most RBI's in World Series play. A clever lead-off man, Bobby hit 267.

Third base—Tom Tresh — A rookie who hit .316 at Richmond last year. Shortstop—Cletis Boyer—Takes over for Tony Kubek who is in the service at Ft. Lewis, Wash. Boyer could only muster a .225 average but he is a slick fielder. Right-field—Roger Maris—He hit only .269 but drove 61 homers into the stands. Maris had 61 in 61, it could be 62 in 62.

Center field—Mickey Mantle—(Splendor in the outfield grass). A brilliant fielder, Mantle is also fair at the plate. He batted .317 and socked 54 homers. The combination of Mantle and Maris broke the record held by Babe hit 107 and Mickey and Roger Ruth and Lou Gherig and Ruth hit 115. Ironically enough, all four players are Yankees.

Left field—It could be Yogi Berra, John Blanchard, or Bob Cerv who hit only .234 last year.

Pitchers—Whitey Ford—Won 25 and lost 4. His 4 defeats were two by 2-1 scores and two by 1-0. He became the winningest Yankee pitcher since Lefty Gomez won 26 in 1934 and also broke Babe Ruth's record of consecutive scoreless innings ptched in World Series play, 29 2/3.

BOB DONALDSON leaves today for Des Moines, Iowa, to compete in the National Collegiate Bowling Finals.

Bob Donaldson Bowls In Finals

Bob Donaldson, freshman in Business Administration from Pendleton leaves today by plane for Des Moines, Iowa, where he will compete in the National Collegiate Bowling Championship finals next week.

Donaldson qualified with sixth place, as 1st alternate, in Feburary at the District 11 Intercollegiate tournament at WashingtonState University, Pullman, Washington. Eastern Oregon College placed eighth in this meet from a field of 17 schools. Members of the team included Capt. Bob Donaldson, Jim Donaldson, Dick Oleven, Bill Lewellan, Rurdy Clements and Bob Hanel.

Adding to his recent bowling honors, Donaldson won the All-Star Events Championship March 24-25th in the Pendleton All-City Tournament. He also ended his season of College League Bowling with the high individual average, 187.

Lous Arroya—Breathed new life into Yankee pitching by winning 15 and saving twice as many more, Manager Houk cannot expect a repeat performance of last year by Ford and Arroya but youngsters Ralph Terry (16-3), Roland Sheldon (11-5), Bill Stafford (14-9) and Jim Coates, (15-5) will help carry the load.

Fans! Take note of this. The Yankees are often lethargic at the start of the season, but look out in September! Last year they hamstrung Detroilt and Baltimore (the only teams who could catch them in the pennant race) in September and won the pennant by eight games.

Petitions Due Today

Student government is what you make it. If you've been dissatisfied with any phase of yours, now is your chance to do something constructive. Student body officers will be elected in the near future, and you are responsible for whoever they are. Don't shrug and say, "One vote?" Your responsibility begins sooner than that. Today is the day you must get in petitions for your choice of candidates. You can make a decision on who you want for a particular office. Since you have chosen well, you can easily find fifty other students who agree with you.

So get a petition (available at several convenient locations) and have them sign it. Turn it in today. Then you cannot excuse yourself from voting because none of the candidates please you.

Choir To Go On 3-Day Tour

The schedule for the Eastern Oregon College choir, under the direction of John L. Cobb, is a heavy one this term. First on the agenda is a three day tour, April 9, 10 and 11. Concerts will be presented at the Eagle Valley high school, Pine Valley, and Huntington; on the tenth, they will be at Adrian, Vale, and Nyssa; and on the final day of the tour, performances will be in Caldwell at the College of Idaho and in Payette, Idaho.

Selections to be presented on tour this year will depart from the usual format of a program comprised of the folk music of America. The folk music presented will trace the development of American music from the religious hymns of the earliest settlers to the latest in Broadway melodies.

Numbers presented in concert will include, "Come, Come, Ye Saints," "Garden Hymn," "I Can Tell the World," "Free at Last," "Madeleine," "Ol' Joe Clark," "Flower Drum Song," and others. In addition to these selections by the entire 45-voice choir, the Blue and Gold Singers will present, "Ain't'a That Good News," "Widdecombe Fair," "Beautiful Dreamer," "Nelly Bly," various madrigals, and others.

Don't forget the choir concert April 17, 1962, at 8:00 p.m. in the college auditorium. For an enjoyable evening of fine listening, join us then, won't you? Also, the Blue and Gold Singers will appear in concert of Elizabethan and Rennaissance music May 22. See you there!

COMPLETES COURSE—Melburn (Mel) Holmes, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn J. Holmes, La Grande, has completed Aviation Officer Candidate course at Pensacola, Fla. Holmes is Eastern Oregon College graduate and was outstanding athlete in both high school and college. He was former director of summer playground activities in La Grande. He is receiving congratulations from Capt. J. G. Hedrick, CO of Naval School of Pre-Flight. With Holmes is his attractive wife, the former Judith Gray of La Grande.

Dr. Bennett Asked To Stay Past Retirement

EUGENE (UPI) — President Frank B. Bennett of Eastern Oregon College will continue in office past retirement age at the request of the State System of Higher Education.

Chancellor Roy E. Lieuallen said here Wednesday that Dr. Bennett had been invited to remain as head of the La Grande school for at least three more years. Dr. Bennett will be 65 in November.

Board President William E. Walsh said the board could retain administrators past the age of 65 but retirement is mandatory at age 70.

Dr. Bennett has been president of EOC since 1952.

Thorne Takes Second In High Hurdles

PULLMAN, Wash. — Eastern Oregon College collected one second place in the Washington State Indoor track meet held here Saturday afternoon.

Lewis Thorne placed second in the 70-yard high hurdles with a time of 8.8 two-tenths of a second behind Jim Allen of WSU, who captured the event.

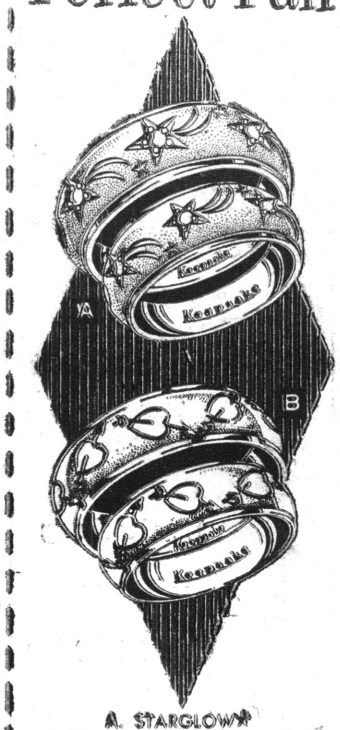
Washington State dominated the 20th annual event held at the Cougar's field house.

Other EOC Mountaineer thinclads in the meet that did quite well were Jerry Behm who ran the mile and a half in 7:10.5, the winning time was 6:48.7; Thorne ran the 300-yard run in 33.2, the winning time being 31.5; Dennis Naughton finished the 1,000-yard run with a time of 2:24, the winning time was 2:17.5.

Increase Shown In Spring Enrollment

When the registrar's office closed Monday, April 2, 887 students had been officially enrolled at Eastern Oregon College. At the same time last year only 760 students had been enrolled. This is an increase of 15.4 per cent over last spring.

Of the students enrolled, 493 are men and 394 are women. To break this down more completely, there are 318 freshmen, 222 sophomores, 151 juniors, 121 seniors and 75 others: graduates, students making up credits and part time students.



Of this list of students, 284 are in elementary education, 228 are in secondary education, 154 are in general studies, and 221 are in pre-professional curriculums.

The total number of students enrolled at EOC for the spring term of 1961 was 798 while the expected enrollment this term is 950. This will be an increase of about 20 per cent. There are 21 new and transfer students on campus this term.

Talent Show Underway

The college theatre Friday evening, April 20, 8 p.m., will be the scene of the All-Campus talent show to be sponsored by the Eastern Oregon College student body.

Preliminary plans for the event are underway under the direction of co-chairmen, Deanna Talbott and Gordon Northrup, with Dorion Hall auditions to be held at 4 p.m., April 12, and Hunt Hall auditions to be held at 8 p.m., the same evening in the college theatre. Off-campus auditions will be held at 8 p.m. Friday, April 13.

The chairmen request that any student who has a talent of any type audition. This will be the first all-campus talent show in several years and there is much co-operation needed to make it an annual affair.

Rifle Team Scores Again

The Eastern Oregon College Rifle team did it again. March 24 and 25, at Boise, Idaho, Jim Patridge, Gary Westcott, Bob Tinker, and Gaylen Searles won four individual match first places and the Idaho State Marksman Teach Championship.

The shooters received sterling silver spoons for the individual first and for the team match they received one large team trophy and four individual trophies

The Rifle team has a match at Burns, Ore., on April 15 and on April 21 at Logan, Utah, they will fire in the National Collegiate Intermountain Invitational.

Candidates Named For Finals Election Set For Today

Polls Close At Four

Voting for next year's ASB officers started at 8 a.m. today and will continue until 4:00 p.m. in the Hoke lounge. Result of the election will be announced tonight following an open count of the votes to be held in conjunction with a coffee hour sometime this evening in Hoke Hall.

In the primary election on April 12, held for the purpose of eliminating all but two candidates for each office,. over 400 students voted. In the presidential race Jim Epley and Sharon Myers won over write-in candidate Bob Blanchard. Dick candidate Ron Cooper for Vice)leen is running against write-in president and in the race for business manager Tom Baxter and Barbara Olinger are running, eliminating D. McCall.

Contending for the office of second vice president, are Steve Smith and Gordon Northrop who won over Jim Morris, another write-in candidate. Janet Bond is runing against Annabelle Tidwell for the office of secretary and Karen Welo and Shirlee Hulst are both seeking the position of rally leader.

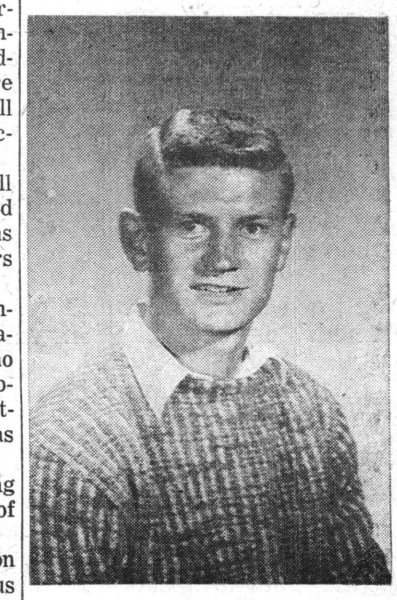
Preceding today's election there has been much campaign activity on the part of the candidates and many students. It was opened with an all school assembly April 11 in the Administration building where each candidate and his campaign manager agve speeches. Because of the IK convention in Texas, the choir tour and other conflicts some of the candidates were unable to appear.

Other evidence of campaign activity has been the many posters placed in various buildings on campus, the handing out of circulars and other information about the candidates and the giving of speeches. Last night in Hoke there was an opportunity for all interested students to question each candidate on his views.

As a result of a suggestion made by the Senate at their April 16 meeting,voting today is being carried on at one central polling place in Hoke lounge. Here booths have been set up and election procedures posted.

I.K.'s Return From Nat. Convention

Bill Donahue Elected Regional Viceroy



Six I.K. members have returned after attending the National Intercollegiate Knights Fraternity Convention in McAllen, Texas. Attending the convention from EOC were Vaughn Folkman, Dick Oleen, Bill Donahue, Earl Miller, Jerry McBathe, and Bill Ward.

While at the convention, Bill Donahue, EOC junior, was elected Regional Viceroy. He will act as the new head of all I.K. chapters in Region II.

Dick Oleen, sophomer from Pendleton, was nominated for the national office of Royal Earl, who is in charge of National I.K. publications. The first voting resulted in a tie, the second, he was defeated by only one vote.

Other Oregon schools attending the meet were Oregon College of Education, and Portland State.

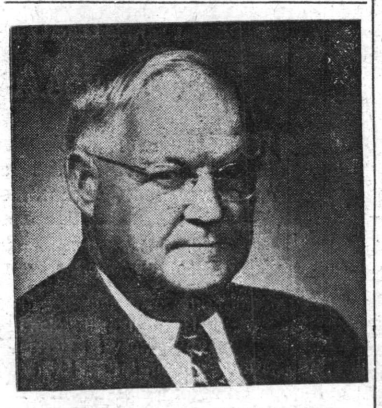
The next Regional Convention will be held on the EOC campus next fall and next year's National Convention will be held in Billings, Montana, next spring.

FRED KELLY

Kelly Gains State Post

Fred Kelly, a —Junior education major at Eastern Oregon, recently elected as President of the J. H. Ackerman Chapter of the Student Oregon Education Association for the coming year, has also been elected Vice-president of the state Student Oregon Education Association. Kelly was elected at the recent state convention of SOEA held at Linfield College April 13 and 14.

Kay Kirkelie from Oregon State University was elected President of the state group. The conference was attended by over sixty students from fifteen Oregon colleges. The theme of the conference was "Making Progress Our Habit."



The convention was very useful in deevloping understanding between the local chapters of the state. An exchange of ideas of the year's work and future goals of the group was the main work of the conference. An outstanding forum was preesnted by Mr. Howard Horner, principal, David Douglas High School near Portland and Mr. Guy Shellenberger, principal, Marshfield High School, who told the delegates some of the basic problems they would be facing as future teachers.

Other Eastern Oregon students attending the convention were Bill McCleary, president of SOEA, John Roberts, Dixie Bowman, and Mildred Peyton. Advisors of SOEA are Dr. Martha Addy and Dr. Carlos Easley.

Snook Elected Hunt Prexy

Larry Snook, junior from Ashland, the elected Hunt Hall President at an election held recently. Other officers elected are Bill Johnson, junior from Vale, Vive president; and Jack Baker, sophomore from Ontario, secretary-treasurer.

The new officers' first official duty will be to organize and plan the annual Hunt Hall Dinner-Dance to be held at Hunt, Saturday, April 28.

KENYON .J SCUDDER
Kenyon J. Scudder, one of America's leading criminologists spoke at EOC Tuesday. Scudder is a well known penologist and Director of Field Services of the Osborne Association, a prisoners' aid organization. Scudder served as superintendent of California's famous Institution for Men at Chino for fifteen years.

Sock And Buskin To Present 'Journeys End'

By TOM STRAND

The lull before the storm. Three days before the attack. What can happen to men under extreme battle conditions is the purpose of R. C. Sherriff's drama, Journey's End, currently in production by Sock and Buskin for presentation for May 10, 11, 12.

The play is set in the Allied trenches during World War I but the insight into the effect of combat on men is an insight which is timeless and universal.

The action revolves about a young captain who is pushed to excessive drinking by the constant walk with death, the remembrance of the horrors of war and the expectations of the horror to come. The play has its young boys filled with excitement and glory not yet fully knowing the tragedy of what is to come.

It has its cowards. And it has the level-headed men who know the art of warfare.

The cast is all male who are listed here in order of their appearance: Captain Hardy—Gordon Boorse, Lieutenant Osborne —Ray Fuller, Private Mason — Bill Moragne, Corporal Broughton — Bill Watkins, 2nd Lieutenant Raleigh — Steve Hodgen, Captain Stanhope — Jim Morris, 2nd Lieutenant Trotter — Bill Ward, 2nd Lieutenant Hibbert—Tom Strand, the Company Sergeant — Steve Straughan, the Colonel — Bill Lewallen.

'Roaring 20's' Hunt Dance Theme

April 28 is the date for this year's annual Hunt Hall dinner-dance. The semi-formal affair, which is sponsored by and for the residents of Hunt Hall and their dates, will be built around the theme of the "Roaring Twenties." The dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. with about a 45 minute break after dinner before the dance begins.

The name of the band which will provide the music has not yet been announced. General chairman of the event is Max Jones, junior from Umatilla.

Sabers Take New Pledges

Thirteen new pledges have been listed as pending members of Sabers, Girls' Service Organization. Pledges are Barbara Olinger, Karen Rothrock, Mona Casey, Donna Gillilan, Sharon Rees, Rita Chrisman, Judi Evans, Janet Bond, Peggy Elder, Mary Francis, Addie Root, Linda Warthen, and Elaine Nakayama.

To become a member of Sabers a girl must show a high scholastic ability and a keen interest in campus activities. Pledges will undergo an extended pledge period and formal initiation will be held after the Saber Dinner Dance which is to be held in May.

Remember the Jimmy Rodgers concert coming up Monday, April 30. Buy your tickets today, $1.50 - $2.00.

Students Form "Sig" Group

A "Students for Sig" committee has been formed at Eastern Oregon College to boost the Senatorial candidacy of former State Treasurer Sig Unander.

Headed by chairman Dick Domey, a junior, the group's vice chairman is Roger Holm, Milton-Freewater, senior. Domey is from La Grande. Kathy Edvaldson of Union is committee secretary.

Although none are currently YR officers, all three of the students have been active in college Young Republicans from time to time. Domey indicated that the Sig committee would concentrate "in helping area Sig Chairmen with leg-work."

Unander is slated to speak at a meeting at Farm Bureau Hall in Island City Thursday, April 19.

SOEA Officers Set For '62-63

At the April meeting of Student Oregon Education Association officers for the coming year were elected. Fred Kelly was elected President; Beverly Trimble, Vice-president; Jeanne Edwards, Secretary; and Karen Rothrock, Treasurer.

These new officers will be installed at the May meeting of the group, May 2. All education majors and others interested are invited to attend.

"Do Your Part"

(The following editorial is reprinted from a recent issue of the Sleepy Eye (Minn.) Herald Dispatch. Also in the Daily Barometer, Oregon State University.)

A friend was explaining the other day why he didn't wish to attend and express his opinion at a meeting pertaining to the public welfare.

"I can just hear the mumbling which would follow if I did speak," he said. So far as the mumbling and grumbling are concerned, he was right. It would be inevitable. Not all would agree with him. Many of those who didn't would do the mumbling. But what of it?

Students of government say "when goood men refuse to act, evil men take over." Truer words were never spoken. The history of civilizations which rose and fell are concrete examples of this truth.

Few men or women have great influence. None is without any. And at the final judgment, none will be held to account because he wasn't influential. He will only be asked "Did you use what you had?"

Most men and women are honest, sincere and fair. Most are also timid. Like the friend quoted above, they hesitate to speak up. Not so, the individuals who have ulterior motives. They are ready to expound their views on the slightest pretext. Frequently they are good speakers. They overwhelm others by what seems to be the weight of argument, if not the weight of logic.

So long as straight-thinking men like our friend refuse to speak, those with other ambition and dubious intentions will continue to hold the floor and convince many who would be kept on the right track if only the sincere but timid individuals would get on their feet and say what is in their hearts.

Don't underestimate your influence—it may be greater than you think.

HAROLD DORN

Harold Dorn Gets Graduate Scholarship

Harold C. Dorn, Eastern Oregon College director of information and assistant professor of journalism, has been named recipient of a graduate scholarship to the State University of Iowa School of Journalism.

The announcement of the appointment, for the 1962-63 academic year, was made by John C. Weaver, SUI vice president for research and dean of the graduate college.

Dorn, who has been granted a year's sabbatical leave from EOC, will continue work on a doctorate in mass communications.

Thata Delta Phi Initiates 15

Theta Delta Phi, men's national scholastic honorary initiated fifteen new members at its annual spring term initiation Thursday, April 12.

Election of new officers were also made at the 8 p.m. meeting in Hoke Hall with Archie Dunsmoor as guest speaker. Steve Larison, junior was elected to fill the post of president with Fred Sayer, freshman, vice president; Lewis Thorne, junior, secretary-treasurer; and Jack Baker, sophomore, historian.

New members initiated were Ken Bork, Jim Donaldson, Clifford Drew, Ray Fuller, Phil Gray, Frigard Johnson, Russell Lester, Steve Martin, Dave Morris, Oran Peterson, Fred Sayre, Dick Temple, Warren Whitnah, Jerry Cupper, and Byron Hadkins.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter To the Editor:

The I.K's would like to thank both the studient body and the faculty for making it possible for the EOC delegation to attend the National Convention in Texas last week. From experience and information gained from the meet it is their hope that the Mountaineer chapter will be able to improve.

Attending this convention was truly a worthwhile and exciting experience for all of us. We traveled 4,800 miles, visited the Arches National Monument in Utah, the Alamo in San Antonio, Texas. We arrived in McAllen, Texas, Sunday afternoon about 5:30, after 48 hours of driving and 2,212 miles. We registered Monday and attended a reception and dance that night.

Tuesday the busy week began. Each day we attended workshops, and committee meetings, one right after another. EOC may be proud of Dick Oleen's being nominated for national office. His losing by only one vote after a second vote, was disappointing but even his recognition should be commended.

Wednesday we attended the Royal Ball (in Tuxs) and learned to dance everything from the Mexican Hat Dance to the Twist, Texas style.

Thursday we took a daytime trip to Renozsa, Mexico, guided by Juan Moreno, public relations chairman for the convention and Duke-elect for the host chapter, camelot.

At 6:00 p.m. on Thursday we left Texas heading north. While in Phoenix, Arizona, on Friday we visited Butch Whiteman and his wife, both former EOC students.

We had car trouble of course. Several hundred miles from Phoenix and right in the middle of the great Arizona desert we had generator trouble. With help from a passing motorist and the usual "car trouble" difficulties, by 12 noon Saturday we were on our way again. We drove through Las Vegas, Winnemuca, and Ontario, finally arriving in La Grande Sunday morning about 6 a.m. We arrived six tired boys, who anxiously looked forward to a new and better I.K. year.

Thank you for your backing.
Region II Viceroy
Bill Donahue

Dear Editor,

I couldn't believe the lack of interest on the part of the students in petitioning for student body office — not until I sat — practically by myself at the primary election assembly last week. Lack of interest is apparently not our only shortcoming as this assembly was a standing example of lack of organization, lack of consideration, and lack of voting stimulation. First of all I ask "Why was the assembly scheduled for a time when almost one third of the runing candidates could not be present? (three out of ten)" Surely a one day delay would not have interferred greatly with election effectiveness. Secondly I ask "Why could not the 11:30 classes have been excused for a half hour in order that ALL candidates be given the opportunity to speak without the consistent interruption of people walking in and out? Third I ask "Why were there so few students and faculty members at the assembly?" Perhaps if we could answer these questions, the answer to the question of — why so few students were interested in petitioning for office—would not be so obvious. All of these things make it clear that there is an apparent lack of interest in our student government on everyone's part — both student and faculty. We have blundered all the way around so far in this election. Our only hope now is to vote in th eelection today and encourage others to do so. My suggestion to those students that feel they might be interested in runing for a student body office next year — Start cultivating this interest now. Learn how our government is set up, its weaknesses and its advantages. Participate actively in its functioning. Look ahead so that next year when petitions are to be signed you will have made your decision and will be erady to have your petition handed in on time with the satisfaction that you have given it thought and are making your interest known in our student body government.

Geiger Counter

With all due respects to the great poets of the past, I would like to present a poetic rendition of my own in this issue. So, without further delay, I will proceed with the slaughter.

THE RAPE OF THE FLOCK

It was in the year of '62.
The candidates were a-blowin'.
The students were about to be
Hoodwinked without a-knowin'.

The ballot box it had no locks,
The ballots were ill-worded.
The students could not speak their piece.
Instead they were all herded

On the afternoon of election day
The ballots were all taken.
Some students could not vote because,
"The committee was mistaken."

When the votes had all been counted
And the count it was recorded.
Some people held the naive view
That the election was discorded.

The senate met in room seven
To call the whole thing off.
The protests that were then brought up
Were discarded with a scoff.

The chosen few of senators
Were taken by the nose
And led to believe the "election safe"
By the mentor in sheep's clothes.

The argument 'gainst calling off
Was "we made a slight mistake."
Let's not call the election off
It's just a nasty break.

So students have and will go on
Under the system Mickey Mouse.
The chosen few will make their choice
And live in an inflated house.

So in the esteemed final vote
Don't vote for yourself.
Your rights will be discarded
And placed upon the shelf.

Now that I have made innumerable friends among the members of the "campus government", I will sign off for now. Jim Morris.

Court Capers

"Spring is bustin' out all over, all over the meadows and the hills, . . ." And that fact has certainly been evident in the courts this past week. Just looking out my window I have seen a preview of fashions worn to the Prom, sunbathers, the first robin, daffodils, dandelions and the boys tennis class at seven-thirty in the morning. In spring, a young man's fancy evidently wakes up earlier than the term before.

Still no word from the planning committee on the dance to be held on the tennis courts. But now that the excitement and suspense of the Prom is behind us, we can begin to plan. I hope to have a date for you by the next issue. I hope, I hope, come on planning committee, don't let me down!

Remember the Jimmy Rodgers concert coming up Monday, April 30. Buy your tickets today, $1.50 - $2.00.

COFFIN'S CORNER

By Bill Coffin

Today, the emphasis in baseball is on the home run. In 1961 there were more balls blasted over the fence than the previous years had produced. What has caused this sudden spurt of power?

Pitching

With the expansion of both the American League and the National League there has steadily been a deadline in the quality of pitchers. New teams such as the L. A. Angels, New York Mets and the Houston Colts have had to depend on rookies and old veterans to handle the pitching chores. So, the sudden output of home runs is not due to better hitters, but to weaker pitching.

More Pay

Who are the two highest paid major league ballplayers — Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris or the so called "M&M Boys." What kind of impression does this this have upon other players and especially the rookies. Instead of concentrating on their batting averages, they are obsessed with the idea of belting the ball out of the park. Even the veterans are seeking to achieve new power at the plate. And you can't blame them; money does talk!

Publicity

In a recent ball game, a hitter went 4 for 5 at the plate and nary a comment was made in the newspapers. However, another player of the same team hit a home run in the top of the ninth to tie the game. Not only did the paper play it up big in the news article, but the head read, "Jones' Homer In Ninth Propels Comets To 4-3 Win." And the truth of the matter is that it was his only hit of the day and his homer was a solo blast.

Yet, at the same time, the other player drove in 3 runs, stole two bases, made 8 put-outs, and had 4 assists. But this evidently is not important. You have to hit the "long ball" before you get noticed!

Ty Cobb

In the old days the emphasis was on the batting average, base running, fielding, and pitching. Ty Cobb was probably the greatest base runner and infielder in the history of baseball with Jackie Robinson of the old Brooklyn Dodgers a distant second. It was not uncommon for Cobb to steal as many as six bases in a single game. Today, it's lucky if there are that many stolen by a whole team.

Though I may be in the minority, I would like to see a game where there was brilliant base running, sparkling fielding, and tight pitching and to H--- with the home run!

Commencement Week Speakers At EOC Named

Speakers for the Eastern Oregon College commencement week activities have been announced by Dr. Frank B. Bennett, president.

Scheduled to give the commencement address, June 8, is Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, president, University of Puget Sound.

The Rev. James W. F. Carman, bishop, Oregon Episcopal Diocese, Portland, will deliver the baccalaureate address on Sunday, June 3.

Neel's Notes

By DAVE NEEL

ANOTHER IN A SERIES OF ARTICLES ON MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS TO WATCH DURING THE 1962 SEASON.

The Dodgers this year move into their new multi-million dollar park at Chavez Ravine and leave behind the mammoth Los Angeles Coliseum which gave their hitters and pitchers nightmares because it was not constructed with major league baseball in mind. The pitchers this year will have no fear of the Chinese pop-fly homers that haunted them in the Coliseum.

Last year it was generally agreed that Los Angeles was the best team in the National League but they failed to respond in clutch situations and ended up in second place 4 games out.

The Dodgers have a lot going for them this year. Their pitching will be stronger than ever, fielding should be superb in the new park, and last years injured players are back in good health.

The National League flag race will be a tight one this year but the Dodgers should win it in late season.

DODGER PERSONNEL — Manager—Walt Alston, an old master at the game; he switched his young and growing stars around with the old hands and came up with a fair team.

FIRST BASE — Frank Howard —This giant in a Dodger uniform should produce needed home run power. Howard stands 6 ft., 7 in., and weighs 245. He batted 296 last year and hit 15 homers.

SECOND BASE — Jim Gilliam —Replaces Charley Neal who was traded to the New York Mets for outfielder Lee Walls and $100,000. Gilliam is known more for his fielding than his batting prowess. He hit only .244 last season.

THIRD BASE — Daryl Spencer —A slick fielder but is not known for power from the plate. He will be backed up by Lee Walls, an outfielder.

SHORTSTOP — Maury Wills— A real punch hitter, he gets on base a lot and last year stole 35 bases.

CATCHER — John Roseboro— One of the best in Dodger history. Last year he could manage only a .251 batting average but hit 18

RIGHT FIELD — Duke Snider —This perennial power hitter will be needed in the new park. Last year he batted .296 and hit 16 homers in 233 appearances at the plate.

CENTER FIELDER — Wally Moon—This steady hitter will be a permanent fixture in the outfield. Last year he led the team in hitting with a .328 average.

LEFT FIELD — Tommie Davis —A rookie last year and a great one. He has the power to reach the 375 ft. wall in left field. He batted .278 last year and collected 15 round trippers.

PITCHERS — Johnny Podres— Possibly the best on the Dodger staff. This curve-balling left hander won 18 and lost 5 with a 3.75 E.R.A. Don Drysdale — A hot tempered pitcher who is known for his "brushback" pitch. Drysdale could become great this year. His blazing speed last year accounted for 181 strikeouts, and a 13-10 won-lost record. Stan Williams — A young man with a lot of heart, he could be the Dodgers answer in the new park. Last year he lost 8 games by one run which was due mostly to the "Chinese Wall" in the Coliseum. Sandy Koufax — Still under 30 years of age and improving. He will add great strength to the staff.

RELIEF PITCHER — Larry Sherry — He managed only four wins for himself but saved 15 others. He will be needed.

ROOKIES — Larry Burright — A second baseman who played for Atlanta, Georgia last year and hit .291. Pete Richert, a pitcher who also played for Atlanta last year and nailed down 18 wins for the Georgia team.

The National League pennant race should go right down to the fire this year and the Dodgers are the team to watch.

Mounties Take Doubleheader

The EOC Moutaineers swept a doubleheader from the OTI Owls 11-0 and 5-4 and moved into sole possession of first place in the confernece standing.

The sweep gives the Mounties a 3-0 record as they had previously defeated the Owls 10-0 in the league opener.

It was homerun hitting that provided the margin of victory for the EOC nine. Feigner, Hart and Bates were the big sticks as each pounded out four-baggers.

It Bates' homer in the last of the seventh of the second game with the score tied 4-4 that decided the contest.

Duke Feigner pitched a brilliant first game giving up only one hit, striking out nine.

Line Scores

1st Game
OTI	000 000 0—	0	1	2
EOC	222 023 x—11	12	1
2nd Game
OTI	000 040 0—4	9	3
EOC	400 000 1—5	8	3

Keller, Culbertson (2), Harmon (5) and Fanorey; Feigner and Coleman. Winner — Feigner. Loser — Keller. HR — Feiguer, EOC; Hart, EOC; Bates, EOC.

BIG STICK — Leading Eastern Oregon College batting statistics is Dallas (Duke) Feigner, a sophomore from Milton-Freewater. Feigner is batting .470 and has 12 runs-batted-in. In addition, Feigner has the best record of any of the Mountaineer mound staff, having won three games against no losses and has the lowest earned run average. This weekend, EOC goes against Portland State on the Mountie field.

Correa-Thorne Establish Record

Eastern Oregon College, weak in the field events but strong in track events placed third in the annual Northwest Nazarene College Invitational Track Meet.

Skeet Correa and Lewis Thorne established three new school records in the meet. Correa raced down the track in the very fast time of 22.4 seconds to break the old mark of 22.8 in the 220 yd. dash.

Lewis Thorne set two new Eastern Oregon College records in the hurdle events. Thorne won the high hurdles in 14.5 seconds and skipped over the lows in 23.4 to establish the new marks.

Jerry Behm, areral marathon run and took first in the two runner, placed second in the mile miles.

Jess Belton, Skeet Correa, Dennis Naughton, and Lewis Thorne combined forces to win firsts in the Medley relay and third in the mile relay.

John Clark, last year's leading scorer for the Mounties, placed four in the javeline throw. Clark usually a real threat in field events, injured his wrist playing intra-mural basketball and has yet to reach last year's peak in performance.

Larry Christian and Les Hiatt placed second and third in the javelin throw while Jack Eckenrode nailed down a fourth place betha in the pole value.

Drive Carefully!

Mountie Golfers Lose To Whitman

Eastern Oregon College suffered their first golf loss of the season here yesterday afternoon by dropping a 9½-2½ decision to the Whitman Missionaries.

A three-way tie developed for medalist honors between Dick Cook and Pat Elgin, both of EOC, and Ward Livingston of Whiteman, all with 71.

Cook tallied the only win for the Mounts by defeating Herm Mize, 2-1.

Individual results: Cook, EOC defeated Mize, W, 2-1; Charles Morrow, W, defeated Jim Donaldson, EOC, 3-0. Livingston, W, defeated Elgin, EOC, 2½-½; Ed Wells, W, defeated Bill Berg, EOC, 3-0.

The next match for the Mounts is next Monday against Columbia Basin College here.

Director Fires Back

A few weeks ago there appeared in the Beacon a vicious attack on a drama production written by one who failed to be cast in the role he wanted. A member of the drama department subsequetly wrote in answer to the unjust criticsm. Accordingly, I have been convinced that I should answer the review of the opening night performance of "The Importance of Being Earnest."

The review was obviously written by a dramatic illiterate, by one who found an opening for an attack on personalization, or by one who combined both "qualifications."

The frustrated writer probably received much therapeutic benefit from his personal attack on Strand, and his use of such crude expressions as Zombie Byrd and Stranger Georgia Davis.

First of all, may I say that two observations made by the reviewer were correct—Fuller's excellence of performance and the obvious difficulty with lines on the part of several in the cast. However, the reviewer was fooled almost completely as to which actors did not know their lines. He even complimented on knowing their lines the two worst offenders. Of course, this difficulty with line inivitably hurt others aspects of the opening night performance. But the ability of the cast to render a good performance was abundantly evident during the second and third nights of production, when lines had been learned. Had the reviewer wanted to be fair with his fellow members of the Sock and Buskin organization, he could have revisited the play. But that would have defeated his purposes.

The greatest blunder of the reviewer came with his attack on the role of Algernon, who never for one instant stole the show or upstaged anyone. Indeed, the first improvement of the production would have been to make Algernon consistently as strong as he was in his best moments. The play is Algernon's just as it is Jack Worthing's. By actual count these two men run parallel in every aspect of the plot.

The only "slaughter of Oscar Wilde" would have come from the misiriterpretation of the Algernon role and that of Dr. Chasuble, on whom the reviewer lavished compliments. Greg's style of acting was completely out of keeping with that of the period. The reason for this is that Greg was present at no more than eight rehearsals. Only two days before opening night did Greg know that he would not be called into the service until after the play. He then set about the task of line-learning. But he did not have the time to develop the proper Chasuabe character. He simply reverted to a familiar, broad-comedy modern type, which was anything but Oscar Wilde. Therefore, Greg was able to deceive those who had no knowledge of the plays of the period, and those who could not discern that his portrayal was inconsistent with the acting style of the rest of the cast.

The criticism of Byrd as an imitator of Boyd was ridiculous. Both were attempting to create the sterotyped English butler. And few characters in the history of drama have been so sterotyped as the English butler. We were aware that Byrd and Boyd were so different physically, providing some degree of variety to a role which has remained so conventionalized. Indeed, the lpays of this period all have these conventional types, the plays,, the social dragon, the prude, etc.

George Davis, accent and all, presnted a nice interpretation of Gwendolyn. The head of our department, who attended the play on Friday night, commended on her performance, and that is gratifying to me. Furthermore, Georgia appeared on stage during the last week under the strain of daily calls from home concerning a serious illness in the family. She drove home after Friday night's performance, leaving us with the probability that she could not return for Saturday night.

I'm wondering if the reviewer is suggesting that Joanne Slatton confine her dramatic interests to the "little old lady" role. Nothing leads to dramatic sterility and suicide so surely as type casting. Joanne has the rare capability of portraying characters of vastly different types. I doubt that many in our audience considered her unsuccessful interpretation of Frances Black or Lady Brackness—a role which was not overdone, but underdone in a few places. The reviewer understands neither farce nor the social dragon of Oscar Wilde's period of writing.

Trudy Kofford has a great gift for character roles. I have heard many comments on her outstanding performance on all three nights. However, I was aware that she was "pushing a little too hard" on the first night. In facet I asker her to tone down her part on both succeeding nights. This she did. "Overplaying" the first performance is common among the inexperienced. This results from actors being "keyed up" for the first night or any other night, he knows his career is ended.

First night performances should never be taken as the measure of the sucess of a production. In spite of all rehearsals, performance before an audience must be part of the learning process of the cast. It is most gratifying to watch the players improve through the series of performances.

Likely every director is his own severist critic. Even the evaluations of a qualified critic only point out what the director already knows. But the evaluations are presented in the spirit of constructive criticism and encouragement. In no case should the columns of the paper be wasted on big words "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing"—but ignorance!

Outing Club Haunts Old Ghost Town

The first weekend trip of the Outing Club this term was a complete success according to reports brought back by the students who attended.

April 6, 7, & 8 the Outing Club visited the old gold mining areas in the vicinity of Susanville on the middle fork of the John Day River. Friday night the Club stayed at the Sunshine Guard Station, then early Saturday morning they visited the old gold mills, gold mines, and dredges scattered throughout the Susanville area. Some gold was panned by the more energetic members.

Late in the afternoon the group traveled to Magone Loke where they set up camp in the dark. When the camp was set up snow was falling quite rapidly. By morning it had accumulated 4 inches. Because of the snow, plans to fish that day were abandoned and the Outing Club returned to La Grande.

The group, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Van Vechten, included Carrie Woodward, Susan Hanley, Mike Hanley, Bob Thomas, Richard Hannan, Jack Moore and Maxwell Jones.

The next trip planned for the Outing Club is a trip into the Looking Glass area for some excellent fishing and hiking. On May 19 the Club plans to explore the Elgin Ice Caves.

'Journey's End' To Be Shown Tonight

Sock and Buskin's production of "Journey's End" by R. C. Sheriff under the direction of Mervin Rummels opened in the College Theater last night and will be presented tonight and Saturday night.

The play is a World War I tragedy, the action centering around a battle weary Captain filled with fear, worry, and liquor in the hope that he can continue his responsibility to his men and himself. Set in the trenches, the play movates rapidly and with power as one by one the men go into the line knowing there is very little chance that they will return.

There is conflict in the story among the men themselves, between the Germans and the British, and, the most important, within themselves. To be or not to be a coward. To fight or not to fight.

The cast includes: Jim Morris, Steve Hodgen, Raymond Fuller, Gordon Boarse, Bill Ward, Steve Straughan, Tom Strand, Bill Lewallen, and Bill Moragne.

EOC COED IS PAGEANT WINNER

Lovely and gracious Janet Burgin, Eastern Oregon College junior, was crowned Miss La Grande last Saturday evening highlighting a week of whirlwind events for the seven finalists.

Janet was crowned Miss La Grande by JoAnne Bourne, Miss Oregon 1961, at the high school auditorium climaxing an evening of competition in swimsuit, talent and evening gown.

Netha Rhodig, La Grande High School senior, was named first runner-up and Adrienne Hansen, EOC sophomore from Hermiston, was second runner-up. Marie Thomas was selected by the contestants as Miss Congeniality. Other contestants in the finals were Connie Jepsen, Netha Rhodig, Wanda Schaures and Gloria Telfair.

The new Miss La Grande, the first since 1959, is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. The daughter of Mrs. Margaret Burgin of Forest Grove, she is an English major and drama minor in secondary education. Janet has sparkly hazel eyes which are fringed by brown curly lashes and her brown hair is fixed in a long sleek page-boy cut. The talent that won the title of Miss La Grande is dramatic reading and singing.

Presentation of the finalists, Adrienne Hansen, Netha Rhodig, and Janet Burgin, was followed by questions asked of the girls, one serious and one humourous, on which they were judged for speaking ability and poise. Bob Empie, master of ceremonies, then announced Adrienne Hansen, second runner-up, Netha Rhodig, first runner-up and Miss La Grande 1961, Janet Burgin. Each was presented a trophy amid the rose covered lattice background as Miss La Grande was awarded a large bouquet of red roses and received her glittering crown from Miss Oregon 1961.

With the title of Miss La Grande went a $250 scholarship and a $100 scholarship to the first runner-up. Janet will be the La Grande representative at Seaside in the Miss Oregon Pageant July 19, 20, 21.

Homecoming Co-Chairmen

PARENTS' WEEKEND—Student co-chairmen Margaret Cunningham, Caldwell, Ida., and Steve Smith, La Grande, check final plans for Eastern Oregon College traditional Parents' Weekend, Saturday and Sunday. More than 500 parents are scheduled to be on hand for the special events which close with a Mothers' Day breakfast. (EOC PHOTO)

Spring Projects On Display

The science and art departments will have projects on display during Parents' Weekend, May 11, 12, and 13 in the Administration building and Hoke hall.

The biology students will have spring projects available to look at in rooms one and two of Hoke Hall and the museum of Walter M. Pierce Library. Physical science projects will be in room two in the basement of the Administration Building, art projects will be seen in the art room and drawings, prints, and paintings will be on display in the art gallery in the library.

At 2:30 Saturday afternoon the choir and band will present a concert summarizing their year's work with a modern dance recital in the College Theatre.

Conducted tours of these projects and the campus will be given by Don Shore and Jim Epley Saturday morning.

NOTICE

All organization presidents — Please encourage your members to attend all rehearsals for the Evensong ceremony, on Wednesdays at 10:30. Since there is much music to be memorized for this occasion it is necessary that there be good attendances and organizational cooperation.

Twi-Light Track Meet Scheduled At Eastern Oregon College on Friday, May 11 at 6:30 P.M.— EOC vs. OCE.

Library To Add Space

Besides the new addition to Hunt Hall and the new apartments in the EOCene courts, which are now under construction, prelimiary plans for a new addition to the Walter M. Pierce Libary are now underway. The Oregon State Board of Higher Education recently authorized architects Wolff and Zimmer of Portland for this job.

The total cost of the addition is $290,000 with approximately $200,000 of this going for direct construction. This will include alterations to the existing building. The addition with be 9,500 feet square.

Tryouts For Rally Near

Tryouts for the 1962-63 Rally Squad will be held Thursday, May 24, at 7:00 p.m. in the Ackerman gym.

Rally Squad petittions are available on the Hoke Hall and the Ad Building bulletin boards. Interested persons should return their completed petitions to the Rally Squad Leader's box in Hoke Hall by 4:00 p.m., Tuesday, May 22. Petitions must be completed and returned in order to try out.

During tryouts the girls will be expected to present a dance routine, a short yell routine, and answer a practical question concerning the cheerleader. The fellows will be expected to present a yell

Area Democrat Guest Speaker

A guest speaker, Representative McKinnis, a democrat, spoke to the Young Republican on reapportionment, Monday night, May 1. At the meeting a joint meeting held with the Young Democrats, McKinnis related some of the problems concerned with reapportionment. He also explained how to combat these obstacles. His ideas were to have a petition circulated and signed so that it could be taken before Congress and reworked for more equal representation.

I.K.'s Pledge 15 Men

Fifteen new I.K. pages are now serving their pledge period. This group includes Jim Garrett, Monty Brown, Ted Leacock, Hal Williams, Steve Straughan, Fred Sayer, Cliff Drew, Bill Calkins, Willard Poulsen, Rod Chandler, Larry Longbrake, Loris "Butch" Ziegenhagen, Aron Buchanan, Gordon Northrup, Don Graham.

To qualify as a member of I.K.'s these students must have attended EOC for two terms and have at least a 2.25 accumulated grade point average.

This weekend the I.K.'s will be busy. Their duties include gathering fire wood for the Saturday afternoon barbecue and guarding the fire tonight. Immediately after the barbecue the pages will have a joust for the students and their parents.

Schedule Set For Parents

An estimated 400 parents are expected on the Eastern Oregon College campus this weekend as the annual Parents' Weekend convenes Saturday and Sunday.

General co-chairmen of the '62 Parents' Weekend are Margo Cunningham, Caldwell Idaho sophomore and Steve Smith, La Grande, sophomore.

Nearly 950 invitations have been mailed for the two day event which will start with a kick-off dance this evening at Hoke Hall with music by the Torquays.

A variety of activities are planned with a play, Journey's End, to be presented Friday and Saturday evenings.

Saturday morning there will be open dorms with a faculty-student inspection, Margo Cunningham inspecting Hunt Hall and Steve Smith at Dorion.

Registration for parents will begin 10 a.m. Saturday in the college library and continuing through 12 a.m. Luncheon will be served at noon at Hunt, Dorion, and Hoke Halls.

Beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday there will be a track meet as the first of several scheduled events for the day when E.O.C. meets O.C.E. on the home track. Then at 1 p.m. the Mountaineers will host N.N.C in a baseball game.

At 2:30 Saturday afternoon a concert will be given in the College Theatre by the E.O.C. concert band and choir with a modern dance recital.

Later in the afternoon following the ball game, an outdoor barbecue is planned in the vicinity of Ackerman to be hosted by the IK's and Sabers and with Steve Smith acting as toastmaster. The highlite of this event is the IK initiation when new pledges meet in a jousting match mounted on donkeys. Tickets for the barbecue will be available in the registration line.

An after-play dance and cof-

A recreation night will be held in the Coliseum following the third and final presentation of Journey's End, Saturday evening.

The annual May Breakfast is planned for 9 a.m. Sunday in Hoke Hall with Margo Cunningham as toastmistress and Dr. Bennett, president of Eastern Oregon College and Don Shore, A.S.B. president, as featured speakers. During the breakfast the Parents' Club will have a short meeting with President, Mrs. Reinecke, LaGrande, presiding. Tickets for this will also be available in the registration line.

After breakfast everyone is encouraged to attend the church of his choice.

Committee chairmen for the events are: entertainment, Gordi Northrup; barbecue, Bill Cason and Rita Chrisman; registration, Suedean Dunn; May Breakfast, Nelda Huber; campus tours, Don Shore and Jim Epley; programs, Willadean Tubbs; and publicity Barbara Olinger and Dee Holloway.

U.S. Marines Want Women

The United States Marine Corps Selection officer will be at La Grande on the 14th and 15th of May for the purpose of interviewing college women for commissions. Interviews will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Hoke Hall, at Eastern Oregon College.

Applicants must be single, 18-28 years of age and be a junior, senir or college graduate.

Welcome Parents

Parents' weekend brings a variety of activities to our campus this year. These activities are primarily for the group. However, there are individual activities that must be taken care of at least for this occasion if never before or never again. This means digging out "the pad" so Mom and Dad can get in the door at open-house.

This may entail taking down some pictures, making the bed and shoveling off the floor and putting the debris in the closet. With these tasks accomplished we are ready for our parents to visit us.

While rummaging through some odds and ends in my study I found a letter typical of many college students—perhaps your son or daughter. I'd like to share it with the Beacon readers:

Dear Mom and Dad,

It has been a great year here at EOC. I've met lots of fellows here at the dorm and we've had some blastin' good times—only on weekends of course, when I haven't much studying. Most of the week nights are spent studyin' topped off with a coke and visiting my friends from Dorion (that's another dorm across the way where more college kids live).

My real purpose for writing home is not just for money this time but to tell you about Parents' Weekend. It promises to be an interesting event if you can come. I might add there is a play Friday and Saturday nights. If you would like to go send $10 and I'll be happy to pick up tickets for us. Hope you can come.

Your son,
Don

(P.S.—I'll keep the change.)

On behalf of the student body I would like to welcome our parents to the campus. I sincerely hope each parent will look further than the phyisical aspects of Eastern Oregon College and will observe the influence of college on his son or daughter. Each year brings the value of education closer to us as we each prepare for our career.

We have a lot of good times and this Parents' Weekend we want to share them with you. Welcome to our home away from home—EOC.

Imprudent or Impudent

College administration should cut the apron strings for freedom of the campus press — says the Xavier University News.

What is freedom of the press? Is it not the right to print personal and controversial opinion? Is it not the right to print that opinion, whether it is right or wrong?

Eastern Oregon College does not share this problem. The Beacon is not under any administration pressure as to what goes into print and what is to be discarded.

This year we have seen the Radioactive Quill and the Geigercounter battle at will, we have had complaints from the public conduct of athletes to the questionable pre-election activities this spring. This is what you have written — This is what we have received—and this is what has been printed. We have felt that it is our duty as newspapermen not to necessarily represent the views of the majority but to bring to the surface well-informed views. But it has not been our intention to become the public battle ground for conflicting personailties. We neither adhere to or necessarily share opinion with what appears on this editorial page. This, you must understand. Along with freedom of the campus press goes a certain responsibility. That responsibility —in expressing your opinion—of learning the difference between imprudence and impudence.

If true freedom of the press exists, some opinions contrary to faculty, administration, student government or student opinion is to be expected. Somebody is going to be embarrassed or upset—publicly. You feel that you can laugh this issue and watch the victim squirm, but laugh while you may — in the next issue it might be you.

On this campus it has become great sport to criticize anyone that stands head above the crowd — student body officers, senators, athletes, etc. After you criticize ask yourself—How do you really feel? Would you not trade places with them? Probably you would if you had been elected or you were capable and most likely you would be making the same understandable mistakes that always seem to be brought to an exaggerated head.

It has gotten to the point that along with admirable responsibilty goes abounding criticism. Is this what we want?

It is our purpose to serve the school the best way we can —by bringing to the surface the voices of some among you.

The Beacon is to be regarded only as a mirror of individual opinion and student action. The Beacon remains an instrument of your good judgement. Its decrial must be understood.

Linda Rodgers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Open Letter to the Students:

The right to vote in federal elections was seriously questioned by our senators from Oregon in January 1961 when the Mansfield-Dirksen Bill, S. 2750 came up for voting.

This bill aimed directly at removing the blocks which are keeping many U.S. citizens from putting their rights as citizens into practice as guaranteed under the Constitution came up for a vote in the Senate on January 30, 1961. This vote was to determine whether the Bill should be sent to the Committee on Rules and Administration for further work or be sent to the Judiciary Committee where it would be relegated to the scrap pile.

The final vote after much debate was 61 yeas, 25 nays and 13 not voting. It would seem from the record that our illustrious Senators from Oregon didn't think this bill of any import or didn't recognize it's importance because Senior Senator W. Morse was absent (business was the report) and Senator Mrs. Neuberger was the eighteenth nay.

I wonder if our Senators think the right to vote is of importance or maybe they just don't care.

An interested citizen
Dick Domey

Open Letter:

My sincere thanks to Jim Cornet and his committee in the production of the Jimmie Rodgers concert on your campus April 30th.

Mr. Cornett and his group did an excellent job of conducting this event and is worthy of appreciation from all students at EOC.

It has now be proven that EOC can be accepted in my circuit of campuses playing such groups as the Limeliters, Kingston Trio, Brothers Four and other such artists.

Again my thanks to Mr. Cornet, his committee and all students at EOC for the splendid reception given the Jimmie Rodgers cast.

Campus Concerts Ltd.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Ernest C. Anderson, professor of biology at Eastern Oregon College and member of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher schools evaluation team, will visit Cascade College, Portland, Thursday and Friday.

The official visitation of the accrediting group includes Dr. Anderson's observation and evaluation of the biological sciences.

COURT CAPERS

By ANNA WITT

Open house for the Co-Ed Courts will be held on Saturday, May 12th, from one o'clock on, during Parents' Weekend. All the visitors on campus are cordially invited to stop in during that time and see us. Especially faculty, many of whom have never, to my knowledge, been inside one of these apartments.

The committee reports that the date for the dance on the tennis courts is May 26. Further plans are to be announced at a later date, and this was all the information I was able to get at this time. So watch for posters giving more of the particulars later. And if anyone knows any anti-rain dances, we would be very grateful for a demonstration at your convenience!

Radioactive Quill

By PSEUDO JOE COLLEGE

Yea in that miraculous past, verily the lord begat a college, and the college begat administrators, and the administrators begat teachers, and the teachers begat students, and the students begat more students, some illegitimate.

The lord of colleges is my shepherd, I shall not want aught but an education; he maketh me to lie down in the dung of many, many other sheep.

He leadeth me beside locked libararies; he restoreth my coat of wool but taketh away my bleat.

He leadeth me in the paths of conformity, for the sake of the nation.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of truth, I shall fear no evil, for thou art with me; they football teams and they alumni fund, they comfort me.

Thou preparest me, a sheep, for the table of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with money and false pride, my cup of culture runneth over. Surely security and a job in any elementary school shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the Brave New Womb forever.

And Begin Again

Thou shalt have school spirit.
Thou shalt do nothing artistic, for thy fellows are jealous and should not be frustrated.
Thou shalt not take the name of any administrator nor professor of this college in vain, for said person shall not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.
Remember final examination week, to keep it for study.
Honor thy big men on campus and thy student body officers.
Thou shalt not kill those who get higher grades than yourself.
Thou shalt not commit adultery except by common consent.
Thou shalt not steal thy buddy's crib sheet, copy it.
Thou shalt not bear true witness against they drunken buddy.
Thou shalt not covet anything that is thy rommate's for very long.

A.S.B. Officers Take Over

The cities of La Grande and Milton-Freewater provided the winning candidates in the election of 1962-63 student body officers. Holding the top position of student body president will be Jim Epley. A graduate of La Grande High School, Epley participated in sports, Hi-Y, Latin Club, IRC, and student council while there. He served as LHS student body president his senior year.

Epley has attended Linfield College and holds membership in Theta Chi fraternity as well as IK's. A junior, he is a pre-professional math-science major. Epley's diversional interests include golf, hunting, swimming, and water skiing.

Ron Cooper, another LHS graduate, will be handling the responsibilities of first vice president. While at La Grande High Cooper was co-editor of the paper, as well as a member of Thespians, chorus, and Hi-Y.

He is a sophomore in general studies, and is participating in the honors program. Cooper served as an associate editor of "The Middle 'R' " this year, and his combo provided music for the magazine's "Jazz and Poetry" evenings.

Gordi Northrup, a junior from Milton-Freewater, will be directing social affairs as second vice president. In high school Northrup was a state FFA officer and served as student body vice president. His major is social science (general studies) and he is a member of the college choir and the Blue and Gold Singers. Singing and fishing are among his preferred activities.

A La Grande girl will serve as student body secretary. She is Janet Bond, a junior in secondary education with a math-science major. Her high school activities included Thespians, Quill and Scroll, music, annual staff, Tri-Hi-Y, National Honor Society, and student council.

At EOC Miss Bond has served on homecoming committee and as a class senator. She is a member of Young Republicans, Interfaith council, and SOEA. Miss Bond is currently president of Sigma Alpha Chi, women's scholastic honorary, and is a Saber pledge. She was a candidate for Junior Miss this year.

A $500 scholarship has recently been awarded to Miss Bond by Inland Machinery. Her hobbies are bowling, bicycling, and puzzles. With Jim Epley she attended the People-to-People Conference May 7 as a representative of the college.

Leading the rally squad will be Karen Welo, a senior from La Grande. Miss Welo was on the rally squad at LHS. She is a member of Collegians and has served on committees for homecoming and Parents' Weekend.

Her experience on the EOC rally squad included her freshman and sophomore years. Miss Welo is in secondary education with a humanities major and French minor. Her favorite recreation includes swimmming and tennis.

Another Milton-Freewater product, Barbara Olinger, will handle financial affairs as business manager for the student body. In high school she was associated with Girls' League, WRA, student council, Pep Club, and Horizon. She has served as advertising manager for her high school paper and as business manager for the BEACON.

Miss Olinger is a member of Alpha Pi Epsilon, Young Republicans, and Ski Club. She is currently a member of the House committee at Dorion Hall and the student senate.

EOC Downed By NNC Coeds

Mountie Nine Defeat Wolves

After dropping three games to PSC, EOC got back into the win column by defeating the OCE Wolves in a tight 2-1 contest.

The win increased the Mounties' Oregon Collegiate Conference record to 4-3.

The Wolves of OCE took an early lead in the contest when a run scored in the first inning on an error and two base hits.

EOC Title Hopes Slip As OCE Takes Double

Any hopes Eastern Oregon College had of winning the OCC baseball title went out the window as the Wolves of OCE downed the Mounties 6-5 and 7-3 in a doubleheader.

Playing four innings of scoreless ball in the opener, EOC got on the scoreboard first with a three-run fifth frame.

Bob Robeson opened by getting struck by a pitched ball and then Don Nelson walked. Duke Feigner doubled to bring in both Robeson and Nelson and then Bob Bates doubled to score Feigner.

Oregon College responded in their half of the inning with three tallies to knot the score.

The Mounties came right back and scored twice in the sixth. Larry Coleman led off with a walk and with two out, Merle Hart singled and Nelson walked. Again Feigner provided the big stick as he singled and drove in two more runs.

EOC failed to score in the seventh but the Wolves came up with three runs and enough for the win. A Mountie error allowed the final and winning run to cross the plate.

In the second game, OCE scored two runs in the opening frame and then went on to lead all the way in posting the victory.

The Coyotes of C of I scored one run in the first, three in the fifth and two more in the ninth to defeat the EOC Mounties 6-1.

The lone EOC run came in the bottom of the ninth. Jerry Haguewood and John DeBoie singled and Ted Lacock walked to load the bases. Haguewood soon scored on a wild pitch.

Larry Coleman walked to fill the bags again but Dennis Bagnall hit into a double play which ended the contest.

This weekend the Mounties complete OCC baseball action with a three-game series with the Red Raiders of Southern Oregon.

E.O.C. Professor Holds Art Exhibit

An exhibit by Leonard Kimbrell, EOC art professor, is currently featured in the art gallery of the library. The showing includes water colors, drawings, and prints. Mr. Kimbrell, who has been at EOC for the past six years, will be leaving for Portland State College. He was honored Sunday afternoon, May 6, with a farewell reception.

Parents may view student art work which is on display this week in the basement of the administration building. Works for viewing are representative of what has been done as classwork throughout the past year.

Besides the art gallery with its Kimbrell exhibit, the library aso is featuring museum items. Displays concerning natural history of the region include stuffed birds and other animals. Most of these are gifts of the Malheur Game Refuge. Throughout past years, several student science projects have been incorporated into the displays. These include fossils and are backgrounds executed to simulate the natural surroundings of the animals.

An impressive rock collection now occupies the center display cases in the library basement. This is the gift of the late Henry F. Derry of Vale to the college. It was made through the effort of a former EOC student. The collection is of Oregon materials, particularly from the Vale area. There are many thunder eggs, ornamental agates, and pieces of petrified wood..

There are also several fossils. Of particular local interest is a bone from the leg of a mammoth which was found near Island City. A tooth believed to be from the same animals, which was discovered on the campus, is also on display.

Displays concerning social history have been arranged from gifts and loans to the college. Among various sources, the Union County Historical Society has been instrumental in procuring many items. A notable gift was a collection from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Levy in Union. This was acquired in 1961.

It is hoped that interest in the museum displays will stimulate donations by interested people. Indian artifacts are of particular scarcity in the college collection. At this time the library has little representation of Indian evidences.

EOC Riflemen Shoot In Utah

The Eastern Oregon College rifle team represented by Gaylen Searles and Dick Domey last weekend fired at Logan, Utah in the Intercollegiate Intermountain Invitational rifle matches. The matches held at Utah State University were fired in by teams from Colorado State, Colorado School of Mines, Montana State University, Montana University, BYU, Idaho State, Nevada State and the University of Idaho.

The two Eastern Oregon riflemen fired in the individual matches on Friday afternoon competing against some of the best shots in the nation. Domey fired a 176 and Searles fired 169 out of a possible 200. These scores placed them in the top five percent.

The rifle team's next match is Sunday, May 20, at the outdoor range in LaGrande. This match is the Blue Mountain Annual Outdoor Match.

EOC Golfers Wallop C Of I

Dick Cook shot a three-under-par 89 at the La Grande Country Club golf course to lead the EOC golfers to a 14-1 walloping over the College of Idaho. Cook combined scores of 36 and 33 to earn medalist honors for the match.

College of Idaho was forced to forfeit one match before play started and conceded two more before the match was over as the Coyote players were way behind the hot Mountaineers.

Cook and Pat Elgin combined to play C of I's first man and each posted a victory although Elgin lost one point, the Coyotes only score.

Initiation Held By Sigma Alpha Chi

Sigma Alpha Chi, the campus women's scholastic honorary, held their initiation of new members May 9. The semiformal ceremony was held in Ackerman auditorium with the officers presiding.

Those elegible for initiation by President Janet Bond were eBtty Anderson, Arliene Judy Bell, Cheryl Day, Elizabeth Easley, Sandra Eckley, Kathleen Edvalson, Rondie Fulleton, Ione Furniss, Maria Furniss, Jean Gordon, Carol Hansen, Loretta Herbison, Darlene Hoover, Violet Hornsby, Bonnie Howard and Ruth Hoxie.

Initiates

Other initiates included Judith Johnson, Carolyn Koczan, Doris Jean Lewis, Marta Murphy, Barbara Myer, Corrine Neiger, Mildred Payton, Roberta Rowe, Polly Joan Smith, Shirley Smurthwaite, Marie Spears, Diane Sullivan, Shirley Tomjack, Helen Virgin, Penny Westfall, Joyce Westenskow, Janet Wheeler, Ardythe Wilde and Barbara Winton.

At the induction ceremony, each initiate shared her favorite poem. All Sigma Alpha Chi members and their parents are invited to attend the Parents' Weekend Luncheon on Saturday, May 12, at noon.

Spring Outing Ends Year

The Outing Club's spring Wallowa Lake trip last weekend was a complete success according to reports received here at the College this week. This overnight trip is made every spring and is the last outing of the year.

VARIED ACTIVITIES

Included in the varied activities of the group last weekend were trips into the Lower Lake Basin, fishing in Wallowa Lake and its tributaries, and mountain climbing on Chief Joseph Mountain.

HIKIN G

Saturday morning the group started up the trail to the Lake Basin high in the Wallowa Mountains. As they passed likely looking fishing holes along the trail some of the members dropped out and started fishing. The remainder of the group under the guidance of Dr. and Mrs. Van Vechten continued into the lower basin where they encountered high snow drifts. The group ate a small snack then returned to the Methodist Church camp where they were staying.

FISHIN G

Sunday morning several members of the club went down to the lake to do some more fishing. After spendiing the whole day on the lake in their rented boat three members filled their limits with 8" to 10" rainbow trout.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

Others of the group spent the day climing on Chief Joseph Mountain where the snow was reported to be 15 feet deep in places. One member was almost caught in a small avalanche when the group tried to descend a chimney in the rocks.

Although this was the last outing of the year for the club the club president, Maxwell Jones, says that plans are already being made for next year's expected crop of hardy freshmen.

Students Suspended

Action by the Student Personnel Committee resulted in the suspension of three men students recently.

Suspended were Gus Boyd, illegal possession of alcoholic beverages in the dormitory; John Eckenrode and Richard Lipson, deliberate vandalism in Hunt Hall.

Poetry Deadline Today

The Lyric Foundation of Traditional Poetry Award of one hundred dollars will be made for the best original and unpublished poem of 32 lines or less, written in the traditional manner by an enrolled undergraduate student in the area. American or Canadian college or university. An added honorarium of one hundred dollars will be made to the library of the college in which the student is enrolled provided that the library is on the list of the subscribers to The Lyric, a magazine of poetry.

Poems should be mailed not later than June 1, 1962, to The Lyric, Bremo Bluff, Virginia. Mark each envelope "College Contest."

The name and address of the contestant and the name and address of his college should be written on each entry.

Contestants should keep a copy as no poems will be returned.

The winner will be announced in the Autumn 1962 issue of The Lyric.

This award is made in memory of Mrs. Virginia Kent Cummins, Founder of The Lyric Foundation and for several years Editor of The Lyric magazine.

Social Security Card Required

Students who plan to work during summer vacation must have social security cards, according to Vernon A. Welo, district Social Security manager at La Grande, Oregon.

"If a student has lost his card, he should apply for a duplicate card which will have the same number as the lost card. Persons who have name changes because of marriage, should get a new card with the new name, but with the same social security number," Welo said.

When applying for a job the student should be sure to show his social security card to the new employer as he must have the student's correct name and social security number on his payroll records.

Application forms for new cards, duplicate cards, and change of name can be obtained at post offices or the Social Security district office at 1108 J Avenue, La Grande, Oregon.

New Editor Of Beacon Appointed

Dick Domey this week was named editor of the Beacon for 1962-63. Dick, a sophomore, is majoring in secondary education. This is his second year on the BEACON staff.

Originally from Boston, Mass. Domey has lived in New York, South Carolina, Georgia, Texas and now makes his home with his wife in La Grande. As a member of the National Guard he he spent winter term in Alaska training with the U.S. Army Mountain School. He is affiliated with the Outing Club, the Rifle Club, Sock and Buskin, and the Young Republicans.

Sabres Install New Officers

Linda Long, junior from La Grande, was installed as president of Sabers in an afternoon installation May 27. Other new officers of the E.O.C. women's service club are Sandy Harritt, vice president; Jeanie Edwards, a secretary; and Jo Alstott, treasurer —historian.

Initiated into the organization at the same meeting were 13 new Saber pledges who included Rita Chrisman, Linda Warthan, Mary Frances, Karen Rothrock, Barbara Olinger, Mona Casey, Sharon Reece, Addies Lou Root, Judy Evans, Janet Bond, Peggy Elder, Donna Gililan, and Elaine Nakayama.

Rita Chrisman was honored as the outstanding pledge. Sue Switzer, outgoing president, was presented with a Saber charm from Bev Trimble. Miss Neely, Saber advisor, and outgoing officers were presented with gifts from Miss Switzer.

Refreshments were served following the installation.

Suedean Dunn A.W.S. Prexy

Suedean Dunn will head the Associated Women Students organization for the coming year. President Suedean is a sophomre from Ontario.

Other A.W.S. officers are Vice President Geri Noyes, from La Grande; secretary-treasurer Frances Kay, Pendleton; and Historian Addie Lou Root, Mosier. Each of these officers is a freshman. At a recent ceremony, they will installed by 1961-62 president Gail Fisher.

Bobbi Johnson IK Sweetheart

Barbara Johnson, 19-year-old Sophomore from Vale, was crowned I. K. Sweetheart at the annual I.K. Ball May 19.

"Bobbi" was one of five candidates chosen to vie for the honor. The Sweetheart is picked for her beauty, charm, poise, and personality. Each candidate was taken before a meeting of the chapter and asked two questions, one serious and one humorous. They were judged on their answers and then voting took place.

"Bobbi" attendants were Maralee Crossant, Kris Jacobson, Sharon Reece and Judy Youngman. The coronation was done by Ellen Uesugi, last years Sweetheart.

Seniors Sign For Positions

As graduation draws near, the big questions among Seniors are, "Have you signed a contract, yet?" Or, "Where will you be teaching next year?" To many, the latter in still a moot question, but approximtely one-fourth of EOC's secondary candidates and one-third of the elementary have accepted positions, according to Dr. Carlos Easley, EOC director of education.

Dr. Easley indicated that "basic salaries range from $4150 to $5290 in Oregon. Alaska has offered $8250 to a graduate.

Those who have signed with the school indicated, include: Castro Valley, Calif.—Gail Fisher and Donald Shore; Concord, Calif. — Joyce Westenskow and Ardythe Wilde; Lompoc, Calif.,—Carolyn Sperling; Aberdeen, Wash. — James Grooms.

Other graduates, with the Oregon position indicated, include: Pendleton — James Applegate; Parkrose—Harry Baeckel; Milton-Freewater—James Boatman; Imbler—Donna Kuhn and Barbara Torris; La Grande—Ronald Smit; Eugene—Elton Sorenson.

Portland—Nancy Choate, Patsy Schuster, Delores Duus, Loretta Herbison (David Douglas) and Nelda Huber (Lynch School); Ontario—Janice Crawford; Halsey—Darlene DeSouza; Blachly —William McCleary; Rufus—Ladd McGowan.

Madras—Glenn Miller; Salem—Lenora Mitchell; Coos Bay — Robert Olinger; Tygh Valley — Theresa Rauwolf; Florence — Willadean Tubbs; and Mt. Vernor—Daniel Tucker.

YR's Elect Officers

Adrienne Hansen, a sophomore from Hermiston, was recently elected chairman of The Young Republicans. Other newly elected officers for the coming year are: Mike Hanley, vice chairman, and Kathleen Edvalson, secretreasurer.

Reigning over the 31st annual Evensong ceremony tonight will be Queen of Knowledge, Gail Fisher. Her court includes Patricia Blackburn, Nancy Choate, Sharon Noyes, Barbara Paris, Suzanne Switzer and Lorna Tonak.

The Evensong Court of seven senior girls is picked by a faculty committee on the basis of their academic record. Queen Gail was elected from this court by those attending the May 24 all school Evensong assembly. At the assembly each girl on the court was presented by last year's Evensong Queen Sandi Thompson Shore and then gave a speech on what Evensong meant to her.

Evensong for 1961-62 will begin at 7:20 tonight on the Grand Staircase. The seniors will first march down the stairway, lighting their candles from the symbolic torch of knowledge held by Queen Gail. The underclassmen will line up on either side of the staircase singing traditional school songs.

At the close of the ceremony the seniors will continue their downward march symbolizing that they are leaving EOC while the underclassmen will march into the Administration building indicating their desire to continue to gain more knowledge.

After the ceremony there will be a formal Queen's Ball held at Hoke Hall from 9:00-12:00. Music will be provided by Bob Patterson's "The Dusters" and there will be no admission charged.

This dance is sponsored by A. W.S. and Alpha Rho Tau. Alpha Rho Tau is taking care of the decorations which according to Eileen Marshall, chairman of this committee, will be black and white. Nancey Miller is in charge of A.W.S.'s preparations for the dance.

Officers Elected At Dorian Hall

New officers of Dorion Hall have been elected for the coming school year. Bev Trimble is the newly elected president succeeding Loretta Herbison, Linda Rodgers is the new vice president with Rita Chrisman, treasurer, and Wanda Johnson secretary.

Floor counselors have also been announced by the dean of women's office. They are Sharon Meyers, Sandy Harritt, and Jo Alstott.

EOC Growth Shows Big Future

During the last 32 years Eastern Oregon College has grown from 263 students to the current fall term enrollment of 1070 students. In the 1929-30 school year there were 43 men and 220 women attending school on our campus. This year there are aver 14 times as many men enrolled and over twice as many women as there were in 1929.

The attendance at EOC has risen steadily every year since the college opened with the exception of the years during World War II. In 1941 the fall term enrollment was 323. In 1942 it had dropped to 246 and in 1943 with the war well under way the enrollment dropped to the lowest in the college history with only 14 men and 97 women for a total of 111.

The big boom in college attendance came directly after World War II with the return of veterans to their studies. In 1946 there were 623 students who signed up to continue their education. Of these 403 were men. This boom continued until the outbreak of the "Korean Conflict" when enrollment again dipped to the point where women outnumbered the men.

When peace returned again to our nation the number of students enrolling in Eastern Oregon College started to climb; 1955—610; 1957—663; 1959—778; and this fall term the all time high of 1070.

During the years EOC has had her ups and downs, but with the trend toward higher education now sweeping the country, Eastern Oregon College can look forward to expansion and growth both in enrollment and in excellence. As this school year draws to a close many will say goodbye, never to return to the campus as students. Many others will be back in the fall to continue with their studies. For those of you who will not return we say a sad farewell and hope that our campus has been enriched by your presence. To you who will be returning we look forward to a bigger and better year here at EOC.

Remember that education isn't all book learning. Have a profitable summer.

EDITOR'S NOTES

It's hard to believe that the salaries of college faculty members, although rising, are not yet up to the level of head football coaches. It seems the average campus football mentor makes $8,500 yearly, and the average faculty salary is only $7,500. A few leading coaches, with salaries in excess of $20,000 make more money than many college presidents!

Parental Philandering

A University of Wisconsin student, making a study of juvenile delinquency, informs that he telephoned 12 homes at 9 p.m. to ask parents if they knew where their children were. The result: seven of the calls were answered by children who had no idea where their parents were.

All Brawn No Brain, They Say?

University officials throughout the country have named the top ten college students in the United States. The competition was based on scholastic achievement, community spirit, and participation in campus activities. The top three choices are Stephen Dickinson, Carleton College. A Rhodes scholar, pursuing his studies in Government and International Relations at Oxford next fall, Steve was captain of last fall's Carleton football team. President of his sophomore class, in his junior year, he led the Midwest Football Conference in scoring.

Rex Adams, Duke University. Standing fifth in a graduating class of 370, Rex was president of his sophomore class and, during the past year, vice-president of the student body. He was guard on Duke's 1961 Conference championship football team.

Michael Henke, Baylor University. During his four years at Baylor, Michael compiled an amazing 3.95 out of a possible 4.00 scholastic average. At the National Debate Tournament at West Point, he finished third. Michael was also a winner in the nationally televised NBC Championship Debates. He was also a letterman in basketball and tennis.

Drive Carefully!

Campus Cutouts

By PHYLLIS BURNETT

Well here it is spring again and many college students all over the country are once again full of vim, vigor and fun. Compared to some campuses, ours seems to be rather quiet. The Oregon State Barometer reported a slight tremor in New York in one of their recent issues. It seems that 2,000 Columbia University male undergraduates raided the campus of Barnard College, Columbia's female branch, early one morning. They were somewhat abruptly cut off, however.

The students assembled along the broad walkway that traverses the campus, attired motly in Bermuda shorts and crew neck sweaters. Some threw firecrackers while others chanted slogans.

Now visualize the scene of 2,000 young men streaming across Barnard campus, blocking traffic for 15 minutes, and young college coeds hanging out of windows clad in night clothes. After much mass rioting, the men were finally herded away from the campus with threats of firehoses and many policemen. This makes EOC's water fights seem pretty mild!

However, not all campuses are destructive. The U. of O. students work dilligently on floats for the annual Canoe Fete. The different houses and organizations of the campus build floats and are pulled by man power down the romantic old millrace. Although this is not the cleanest nor swiftest of waters known to man, it provides a great deal of tradition to the beautiful Oregon campus.

While looking through the Whitman College Pioneer, I found an interesting summary of the Seattle World's Fair in Fred Clark's column "Sundry Subjects." It seemed quite amusing to me, so perhaps you will enjoy it too. At any rate here goes.

This section might have been titled vicarious impressions of the World's Fair as received from an impartial observer. Let's start in downtown Seattle with the monorail—according to our tourist it's no better than any electric bus, only a little bumpier, more difficult to find a seat on and more expensive. 'Anybody who doesn't walk a block north and take a quiet, clean, uncrowded bus which will take them to the heart of the fair is crazy,' says the unopinionated observer.

The gentleman who related these impressions was one of the illustrious first 500 to imbibe the pleasures of the Space Needle —from the breathtakng view, to the space needle cocktail which comes in a huge glass resembling the ginat tower and costs a giant price. Our visitor and his date waited over two hours to ascend the elevator to the top of the tower, but somehow soon forgot how long they had waited, remarking only that the elevator went down awfully fast.

The exhibits were fascinating—if you like to see monkeys being nursed, parrots exemplifying conditioned reaction, etc. The Fine Arts exhibit left our tourist cold—but he admits that he doesn't care much for modern art. There is according to Mr. X an interesting sculpture work—a gold storage crate with a toilet seat in it, among other odds and ends which Mr. X, found daring to the the least.

The food was evidently of spotty quality. Mr. X and his date entered a little French sidewalk cafe type joint that literally reeked with atmosphere — ordered mushroom sandwiches for Mademoieselle and Monsier, but were disappointed with the result—it seems the cook spoke only French and the waitress spoke only English — again the communication problem of the 20th Centry causes conflict.

Mr. X's total impression of the Fair was less than overwhelming. 'It's nice,' said our visitors, 'but it's just about like Disneyland(in fact I like Disneyland better.' Then he added, 'Everyone should see it.' The enthusiasm!"

Grants Available For Foreign Study

More than 800 American students will have an opportunity to pursue graduate study or research in 46 countries in the academic year 1963-64 through scholarships made available under the Fulbright-Hays Act of 1961.

Three types of grants are available. A full grant provides round-trip transportation, maintenance, tuition and books.

A Joint U.S.-Other Government grant provides a travel award from the U.S. Government in conjunction with foreign government grants which provide tuition and full or partial maintenance.

The third type of award, Travel-Only Grants, supplements a scholarship received from a foreign government, university or private donor.

General eligibility requirements for all types of grants are: (1) U.S. Citizenship at time of application; (2) A Bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant; (3) language proficiency sufficient to carry out the proposed study and to communicate with the people of the host country; and (4) good health. A good academic record and a demonstrated capacity for independent study are also necessary. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not previously lived or studied abroad.

Applications for scholarships for 1963-64 will be accepted until Nov. 1, 1962. Requests for applications must be postmarked by Oct. 15. Students enrolled at a college or university should consult their campus Fulbright Program Advisers. Check bulletin boards for further information, or you may write to the Information and Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, 800 Second Avenue, New York 17, New York.

Student Campers To Tour Europe

Anyone interested in joining a camping tour of Europe? A continental camping tour involving 46 days, from June 18 to August 2, is being organized by Dr. and Mrs. Willis B. Morriam of Pullman, Washington. Dr. Merriam is an associate professor of Geography at Washington State University; and Mrs. Merriam is an artist, authoress, and musician in her own right. The couple led a similar tour last summer.

The Merriam group will fly to Europe by S. A. S. jet, visiting Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, England, and Scotland, with several days spent around such centers of particular interest as Copenhagen, the Rhine Valley, Venice, Rome, Paris, London, and Edinburgh.

"The idea of camping out in Europe is new to Americans, but is an established custom in Europe" according to Dr. Merriam. "It really consists of 'caterized" camping with meals provided and with sleeping accomodations that include tents, air mattresses, and sleeping bags, at specially selected public camp sites." Transportation on the continent will be by chartered bus. The tour is designed primarily for college and university students, but non-students are eligible and welcome. Anyone interested should write to Dr. Merriam — Trip to Europe — Washington State University, Pullman, Washington.

Student Travel Made Easy

This summer — like last summer and the summer before — a quarter of a million young people will crisscross Europe, sleeping in student hostels, camps or dormitories, traveling in groups at reduced rates.

Travel minded college students will find it easier — and cheaper — than ever to "see the world" this Summer, according to an article, "Student Travel Made Easy," in the May Reader's Digest.

Author Robert Littell writes that more than 30 countries now have travel organizations that cater exclusively to students. Run by students for students, these agencies operate on a non-profit basis, thus can offer rates that would otherwise be impossible.

Further information on student travel can be obtained from the following organization, among others listed in the May issue of Reader's Digest. Council on Student Travel, 179 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Margaret Morris, professor of physical education and health, was chosen 1962-63 chairman of the Eastern Oregon College faculty this week.

Elected secretary-treasurer was Hugo Hartig, assistant professor of education.

A seven-member advisory committee to the president was selected. Members include Ronald H. Bayes, Donald E. Campbell, Dr. Leonard F. Good, Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, Dr. Mary Jane Loso, Dr. George Nightingale, and Howard L. Wilson.

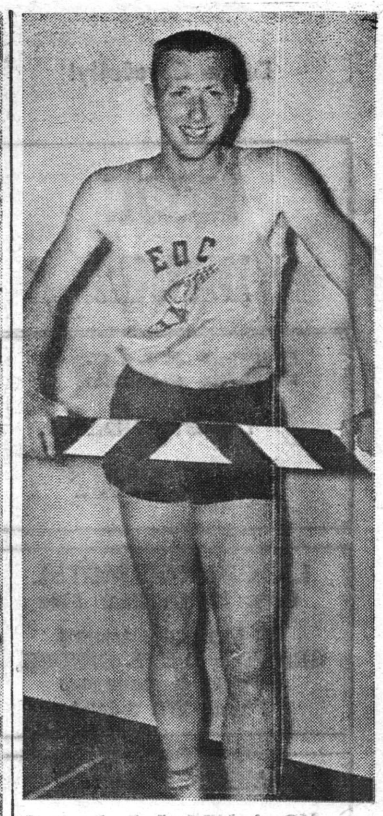
Ronald Bayes, instructor of English at Eastern Oregon College, served as a judge at the recent Grant County Elks Scholarship Presentation in John Day. The $1000.00 scholarship award went to Mike West.

Former Student Receives Grant

Gary R. Dielman, 1961 graduate of Eastern Oregon College, has been awarded the Tumingen Exchange scholarship by the State University of Iowa.

The scholarship pays all tuition and fees, plus $85 per month for 12 months. In addition, a Fulbright travel grant pays the round trip fare. Under the terms of the scholarship, Tubingen University sends a student to SUI in exchange.

Dielman, a graduate student at SUI this year majoring in German and minoring in French — and maintaining a 3.62 GPA during the winter term, will study a year at Tubingen University in Germany.



The winter semester starts in October and ends in January. There is a a two-month recess during February and March, and the spring semester starts in April and ends in July.

Gary will leave for Germany in June or July and be accompanied by his wife, Eloise Reynolds Dielman, '62, and daughter Katrina.

The Seattle World's Fair will draw an estimated ten million visitors to its 74-acre grounds between April 21, and its closing date six months later. Conceived as a 47 million dollar project, the fair actually cost 80 million dollars, will leave Seattle with an unsurpassed civic center when it ends next October 21.

Lewis Thorne

A PLACE IN THE SUN

In the past year Low and High Hurdle records have fallen like dominoes at Eastern Oregon College. The records have been broken by a 6 ft., 3 in., blue-eyed, sandy-haired track star from Pendleton, Ore., by the name of Lewis Thorne.

Thorne, under the guiding hand of head track coach Archie Dunsmoor, has risen from obscurity into the limelight in just one year. Lewis already this year has broken his hurdle marks of last year by winning both the highs and lows in the Northwest Nazarene Invitational Meet at Nampa, Idaho in the times of 14.5 and 23.4 (Both of these marks were school records).

Last week on a snow-swept Eastern Oregon College Track, Lewis set a new school record in the High Hurdles and also broke the old EOC Invitational meet record of 14.6 by finishing in 14.3.

Lewis is also good as a student; he has only been under a 3-point once since enrolling at EOC.

Neel's Notes

By DAVE NEEL

The third in a series of articles on major league teams to watch during the 1962 season.

The Detroit Tigers is one of the few teams in the American League that can be classified as capable of beating the Yankees for the league championship.

The Bengals are loaded with top-flight talent due to the acquisition of Rocky Colavito (former Cleveland star) and Bill Bruton (former Milwaukee Brave great). The combination of these two plus the slugging of outfielder Al Kaline and first baseman Norm Cash should keep the Tigers in title contention for the whole season.

The Tigers have only one problem as far as a pennant championship is concerned. They must beat the Yanks in September, a feat which few teams have accomplished. Last year the Yankees beat the Tigers three straight in New York during the memorable September flag race, and eliminated them from contention.

Detroit Personell

Manager — Paul Scheffing, a master at hidden strategy, he should bring the Tigers on with a "roar".

Catcher — Dick Brown, a fine receiver and fair hitter who last year managed a .267 batting average but smashed 16 homers. Brown, however, could be seriously challenged by $100,000 bonus baby, Bill Freehan. At 20 years of age he is already great. He hit .289 at Knoxville last year.

First Base — Norm Cash. He came out of nowhere last year to lead the American League in batting with a .361 average and smashed 41 homers. Not since the days of the "Georgia Peach" (Ty Cobb) has Detroit had such a dramatic player. The city that roared and bellowed through the awesome era of Cobb, Hank Greenberg, and Charley Gehringer is now doing the same for Cash.

Second Base — Jake Wood — This fleet-footed lad, who can leg it from home plate to first base in 3.1 seconds (the fastest time ever recorded) has but one thing to overcome — strikeouts. Last year he set a new major league record by whiffing 141 times.

Third Base—Steve Boros — A rookie last year, he should be tremendous this year due to experience. He hit .270 in his rookie year which is better than a lot of veterans.

Shortstop—Dick McCauliffe — He hit .256 as a rookie and should be a mainstay at short if he gets out of the Air Force in time.

Right Field — Rocky Colavito—He was acquired last year from Cleveland in a surprising trade for Detroit's Harvey Kuenn. The trade did not seem to affect Rocky for he hit 45 home runs and batted in 140. He is a great fielder and his power will be needed if Detroit is going to win.

Center Field—Al Kaline—A great in the field as he is at bat, Kaline hit 19 home runs and batted .324. As a rookie in 1955 he won the American League batting championship with a .355 average.

Left Field— Bill Bruton — He managed only a .257 batting average but hit 17 homers. The fearsome foursome of Cash, Colavito, Kaline, and Bruton will all be needed if Detroit is to win.

Pitchers—Frank Lary — The "Yankee Killer" (lifetime record against the Yanks) (26-10) who lats year posted a 23-9 won lost record will be needed if the Bengals are to beat New York. Lary beat the "Bombers" last year four times, a feat which none of his teammates could accomplish.

Don Mossi—Last year he won 15 games and posted 2.96 E.R.A. but his arm has been giving him problems.

Jim Bunning— He won 17 and lost 11 last year and has but one fault, a marked inability to beat the Yankees.

The trio of Lary, Mossi, and Bunning will be fine but they will need support in the late season. The Tigers think they have found the support in Howard Koplitz, the Minor League's player of the year at Birmingham, Ala. last season. Koplitz won 23 and lost 3 with a 2.11 E.R.A.

James Prichard Wins Local Library Award

Mr. James Prichard was announced the winner of the local Amy Loveman Award April 20, for his outstanding personal library. His excellent collection of 38 books represented "Weltansichtin: Concept of Man's Relation to His Environment."

Mr. Prichard started purchasing a few interesting books while in high school and he states several reasons in favor of a personal library:

"1. To provide for leisurely reading at my convenience of longer and more difficult works.

"2. To have certain interesting books readily available for reference and re-reading.

"3. To obtain important books not found in public libraries, or books that cannot be read in a short period of time.

"4 To provide a convenient source of reference."

His works now permit him to choose more books to add to his personal library of which he states "There should always be room for growth."

Ken Cox Runner-Up "Rookie" Wrestling Coach Of The Year

KEN COX

EOC wrestling coach, Ken Cox, was recently selected by the American Coaches and Officials Association as runner-up "Rookie College Wrestling Coach of the Year." The announcement was made through the "Amateur Wrestling News."

Cox was selected for the honor by the votes of some 950 coaches and officials throughout the country.

Cox, however, has to share his coveted title with Tom Mc-Intyre of Central Missouri who was also chosen as runner-up. Bob Mancuso, University of Nebraska, was selected as the "Rookie" coach of the year.

Impressive Record

Cox led the EOC mat team to an impressive 10-6-2 season, the first year the Mountie squad faced major competition. EOC finished third in the OCC tournament and then rallied to finish second behind powerful Portland State in District 2 NAIA meet.

EOC qualified five grapplers for the national NAIA finals, but due to finances sent only two, Lee Derrick and Jack Eckenrode.

At the finals the two EOC grapplers more than made a name for themselves and their school. Eckenrode reached the semi-finals in the 137-pound class and Derrick won one match and then was defeated in the quarter-finals.

Cox came to Eastern Oregon from the University of Washington where as the frosh grappling coach, he compiled a remarkable 13-1 won-loss season.

Popular Sport

While attending the NAIA finals in Winona, Minn., Cox learned that the sport of wrestling is now ranked fifth in the country in popularity. Only football, basketball, track and baseball outrank the sport. Cox also stated that interest in the sport is gaining each year.

Besides handling the college program, Cox has participated actively in high school wrestling. This year he was tournament director for two high school meets held at the college. He has also helped Enterprise High School to get a program started.

Vaughn Folkman Named Seasonal Ranger Naturalist DINOSAUR NATIONAL MONUMENT

Vaughn K. Folkman, Eastern Oregon College junior, has been appointed Seasonal Ranger Naturalist for the summer at Dinosaur National Monument, it was announced recently. He will begin duty June 11 at the Utah-Colorado area monument.

Folkman, a 1958 graduate of Baker High School and a biology major, has recently returned from the National I.K. convention in Texas and has been elected Duke of the local I.K. chapter. He is also active in band and orchestra.

Vaughn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Folkman, 1507 3rd., Baker.

Mounts Take Sixth Place At Whitman

Eastern Oregon College, despite strong resistance from the weather, ran off its Invitational meet in fine style. Eastern Oregon finished third behind winner BJC and runner-up Whitman.

The weather man interrupted the meet several times with driving snow, hail and rain, but it failed to dampen the spirits of the track aspirants for four new meet records were set.

Lewis Thorne, EOC, broke the record of 14.6 in the high hurdles set by former Whitman star Dave Klicker in the fast time of 14.3.

Phil Rolfe, Whitman, bettered the meet record of 52.1 in the 440 yard dash and set a new one by finishing in 51.1.

Whitman's Larry Rector finished the 2 mile run in 10:41.8 and broke the old standard of 10:44.1.

The foursome of Pancoast, Green, Mason and Rolfe, all of Whitman, broke Whitman's 1957 meet record of 3:35.2 and set a new record of 3:34.9 in the one mile relay.

....WORKSHOP CREDIT SHALL BE CONSIDERED AS A PURELY ELECTIVE CREDIT, EXCEPT IN UNUSUAL CASES, AND ONLY WITH THE DEPARTMENT CHAIRMAN'S APPROVAL WILL A WORKSHOP BE SUBSTITUTED FOR A REQUIRED COURSE IN ANY PROGRAM. THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE MAY ACCEPT NOT TO EXCEED NINE (9) QUARTER HOURS OF WORKSHOP CREDIT AS ELECTIVE HOURS IN A PROGRAM. ANY EXCEPTION TO THIS RULE WILL REQUIRE THE APPROVAL, BY PETITION, OF THE EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

IT SHOULD BE UNDERSTOOD, HOWEVER, THAT THE COLLEGE PLACES NO LIMIT ON GRADUATE OR UNDERGRADUATE CREDIT FOR WORKSHOPS TAKEN SUBSEQUENT TO THE BACHELOR'S DEGREE AT EASTERN OREGON COLLEGE, EXCEPT WHEN A STUDENT WISHES TO APPLY THE CREDIT TOWARD THE MASTER'S DEGREE.

THIS REGULATION WILL NOT BE RETRO-ACTIVE, BUT ANY STUDENT WHO HAS NINE (9) OR MORE HOURS OF WORKSHOP CREDIT AS OF THIS DATE (APRIL, 1962) WILL NOT BE PERMITTED TO APPLY ADDITIONAL CREDITS EARNED IN WORKSHOPS TOWARD A DEGREE.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE

If your club or organization has not as yet had a group picture taken for the 1962 annual, please contract Mona Casey or Walda Thompson immediately.

Pictures are being scheduled during regular meetings. This is done so as to include active members of the organization in the picture.

If there are notices posted of a forthcoming meeting, club officers will be contacted about picture taking. To avoid being overlooked, it would be much appreciated when these organization heads would notify either of the girls mentioned above.

There are still some students who have not yet received picture proofs from the fall quarter. If you are one who has not claimed his proofs, you can obtain them by contacting Walda Thompson in Dorion Hall.

If the picture proofs remain unclaimed at the end of spring term, the student will not be able to claim them. Please try to pick up your picture proof as soon as possible.

EOC SCHEDULE

Programs scheduled include June 25—Indian Festival of Arts; July 18—Pedal Marionette Theatre; July 25—"Trekking the Tibetan Border," Earl Brink; and Aug. 1—Angelo Pellegrini, lecturer and author.

The EOC eight-week summer session is set for June 18-Aug. 10.

International College To Open In Denmark

A new international college will open in Denmark in the fall of 1962. Student body and faculty will be drawn from all parts of the world. The college will be governed by a joint student-faculty board in cooperation with an international advisory council. This new Experimental College will be a supplementary institution of higher learning offering programs which the student may incorporate into his own graduate or undergraduate work.

On the undergraduate level, subjects will be offered in the following areas: Literature, Philosophy, Modern Language, Fine Arts, History, Sociology, Anthropology, Economics, and World Geography. Initially the graduate school will offer programs in Business Administration, Architecture, Adult Education, Civil Leadership, and Applied Liberal Arts.

Private and non-profit, the college will be directed by Aage Rosendal Nielsen, the founder and for twelve years director of the Scandinavian Seminar. The faculty-student ratio will be one to eight. The fee, including room, board, and tuition, is $735.00 per semester. Students may enroll from one to three semesters with between semester periods being given to research on individual projects on campus, employment, traveling seminars in Europe, or individual endeavors off campus. Semesters begin August 15, 1962 and February 7, 1963.

Interested persons should write to New Experimental College, Office of Admissions, Slotsherrensvej 21, Vanlose, Denmark.

EOC Honors Program Names Trio

Dr. Ralph E. Badgley, professor of physical science, Dr. Alvin R. Kaiser, professor of English, and Wilson E. Merrill, assistant professor of social studies, have been named to the honors program faculty at Eastern Oregon College.

In making the announcement, Dr. Mary Jane Loso, honors committee chairman, indicated the select faculty team would teach an interdisciplinary seminar, covering math-science, humanities, and social science.

10 Sophomores

Involved in the seminar during the 1962-63 academic year will be 10 sophomores.

The students were selected from among the top ranking members of this year's freshman class.

EOC's honors program, now in its second year, is designed to challenge the superior student.
