Passkey Partner IHS Markit is now part of S&P Global

As of March 2022, S&P Global and IHS Markit (a long-time Passkey Partner) have merged. As a combined company, S&P Global will be able to do more for customers by combining their data, technology, and expertise to accelerate progress. The essential intelligence S&P Global provides will go beyond rich data sources to include powerful software, advanced tools, and the ability to harness insights within a highly efficient workflow. The essential intelligence provided isn't just about getting the right data—it's about the actions that can be empowered by that data.

Farm Credit entities previously working with IHS Markit will now work with a division known as S&P Global Market Intelligence.
