

7th Annual Savannah Traffick Jam

Emily Puhala

Emily Puhala has been a forensic interviewer for the Coastal Children's Advocacy Center (CCAC) for the past six years, conducting forensic interviews with children from 2 to 17 years old, as well as developmentally challenged adults. These interviews serve to help law enforcement and DFCS to assess risk for children, determine facts, formulate future plans for a child, and collect evidence.

Prior to working with the CCAC, Emily was the Crimes Against Children prosecutor in Chatham County for almost 10 years and handled appellate matters of all serious violent felonies. She has conducted and received trainings with many groups, including the National Child Advocacy Center, Child Advocacy Center of Georgia, University of Georgia, Georgia Bar Association, Savannah Chatham County School System.
