

Los Angeles Jewish Health is the largest non-profit, single-source provider of comprehensive senior healthcare services in the Los Angeles area. We serve nearly 4,000 people each year, 1,000 of whom reside on campus. We offer a wide spectrum of in-residence and community-based programs and services. We support older adults' physical and mental health – while also fostering creative expression – whether they are living in their own homes and participating in day programs, or residing on one of our beautiful campuses.

The largest single-source provider of comprehensive senior healthcare services in the Los Angeles area.

Offering a holistic approach to healthy aging, our numerous programs meet seniors where they are in life and provide services tailored to meet their individual needs, with a focus on mind, body, and spirit.

Here, residents are like family—beloved, well cared for, and treated with the honor and respect they so richly deserve.

Feels Like Family

Our staff are dedicated to ensuring the health and well-being of the older adults in our care. Our team of physicians, nurse practitioners, pharmacists, rehabilitation therapists, dieticians, clergy, and others make us unique. Here, residents are like family – beloved, well cared for, and treated with the honor and respect they so richly deserve.

Training The Future

Los Angeles Jewish Health even has a nursing school, the Annenberg School of Nursing. Located on the Hirsch Family Campus, we prepare students for successful and rewarding careers as licensed vocational nurses, certified nurse assistants, and home health aides. Approximately 50 percent of our graduates go on to work here at Los Angeles Jewish Health – ensuring a talented cadre of health professionals eager to provide our residents with leading-edge care.
