

Planned Giving

Leave Your Legacy

How can you help to ensure governments at all levels improve operations and achieve greater effectiveness, accountability, and transparency?

WHY THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION?

Since its establishment in 1967, the National Academy of Public Administration has worked to help maintain a just, fair, and inclusive government that strengthens communities and protects democracy. The Academy embodies its mission by producing for public agencies independent research and studies that advance the field of public administration and facilitates the development, adoption, and implementation of solutions to government's most significant challenges.

Perhaps you're like many Academy supporters who say, "I wish I could do more." Leaving a gift to the National Academy of Public Administration through your will, trust, or by beneficiary designation is an opportunity to do so. This can help ensure that your support for promoting good government and producing equitable and positive results for all citizens will continue through the Academy's activities in the years to come.

The Power of Planned Giving

You know how crucial effective and equitable government is to our world, but how can you do more to help?

Even a modest-sized gift can make an enormous difference in creating more effective, accountable, and transparent government and ensuring that public administrators and good governance continue to be an integral part of our government systems at all levels.

Planned giving supports the Academy's long-term organizational sustainability and new initiatives launched by the Academy addressing the most important challenges in the field of public administration.

The National Academy of Public Administration

www.napawash.org/leave-a-legacy

How to Give

Retirement funds, insurance policies, stocks, and more are the tools of charitable gift planning. These tools allow you to create a legacy reflecting your support for efforts to improve government operations at all levels. Planned gifts can also provide you with valuable tax benefits. The Academy accepts equities, bonds, and cash gifts as planned gifts. All other potential gifts, such as tangible assets or cryptocurrency, should be discussed with the Academy before any commitment is finalized.

It's easy to designate the National Academy of Public Administration or any of its programs as a recipient of your planned gift. Simply email us at development@napawash.org to speak confidentially with a development officer.

You can also visit our planned giving website, www.napawash.org/leave-a-legacy, to learn more about your options.

Hear from Our Donors!

Planned giving donors leave a legacy of supporting strong government at all levels. Hear more from our donors about why they chose to leave a planned gift.

"I'm delighted to be able to support NAPA in its important work, helping agencies improve their operations as well as drawing attention to the 12 Grand Challenges facing public management. In addition to annual contributions, I have found planned giving an easy and comfortable way to join those working to secure NAPA's future."

- John Koskinen
Academy Fellow Class of 1997

Questions?

Contact the National Academy of Public Administration's Development and Philanthropy Office for more information about your options. We can provide sample language for bequests or show you how to structure specific gifts. Naturally, we will treat any discussions of this sort in strict confidence.

---

Development@napawash.org

---

Have you already named the Academy in a planned gift?

We want to ensure we recognize you as one of our generous legacy supporters! Contact our Business Development and Philanthropy team to confirm your gift.

---

The information provided here is not intended by The National Academy of Public Administration to constitute legal advice, nor should it be construed as or relied upon for legal or tax advice in any particular circumstance. Before making a gift, we recommend you consult a qualified legal or financial advisor.