Colorful to the Core

Cheryl Guess, RScP

I would rather see a student of this Science prove its Principle than to have them repeat all the words of wisdom that have ever been uttered.

Ernest Holmes, The Science of Mind, p423

In the stillness of this moment, I open my heart to the power, to the presence of the One Creative Force. This Force may be known by many names: God, Spirit, Higher Power, Love. It is Love in its purest form.

I turn my awareness to this Divine Energy and I allow it to move through me, as me. I know I am one with Spirit; there can be no separation. And I express Its qualities to the degree that I open myself.

So, I align my intentions with actions to be a co-creator of the highest and best outcomes for my community and for the world. I bring into form the transformation that manifests kindness, compassion, and love.

I am guided by an inner knowing and remain open to the influence of my higher self as it reveals insights into Spirit's Grand Design for humanity. I am Divinely supported as I move out onto those skinny branches to act courageously, creatively. I perform outrageous acts of kindness, sharing the richness of God's Grace.

I am so grateful for this philosophy that frees me to be a unique expression of the Divine. I am thankful for the Freedom to bring these dreams into form and for the assurance that I am an instrument for peace and unity and the highest good for all.

I release my word to the Law, knowing it is done as spoken and through Grace, so much more.

And so it is.
Cheryl Ostrander, RScP

Holy Boldness Our Theme for June

Our participation is needed in life. Obviously we must participate in our own life. And we are also part of the lives of others. Family, friends, the groups we belong to, including this Center function best when we participate actively. Our workplaces, the towns in which we live, even the county and the state we depend on our participation, think voting. All are opportunities to express ourselves. And they call for our highest and best.

We may be called to be shockingly bold or rambunctious at times. Never do we want to harm ourselves or another. Yet we have a deep desire to show up as who and what each of us truly is, a unique expression of the divine.

Look for opportunities to show up as you this month. Ask the question, say what you feel is appropriate. Be authentic. Be kind. Try it. It may become a habit. Enjoy the start of summer!

Blessings and Love Always,
Rev Maur
