May

Volume 30, Number 5

May is such a beautiful month. The milder temperatures, bright sunshine, new growth, blossoms, and vibrant life remind us of the wonder we share with all living things.

Our interior lives, too, can burst with new life. Excellent talks by our talented speakers, discussions after the Sunday Celebrations, and the time to visit with our fellow congregants will help tune our minds to Spirit's inspiration and warm our hearts with a sense of community.

I encourage us to act kindly and extend compassion to everyone, including ourselves. Reinvigorating our daily spiritual practices of prayer, meditation, and service will deepen our sense of oneness. These practices will lead to a more purposeful, satisfying life.

Let's invite the people we meet to celebrate the joys of spiritual living. We have room for all. Let's burst with new life!

Love and Blessings Always,

Rev Maur

Updates

Building Security

Over the sixty-seven years of its existence, Woodland Chapel has not needed to install a security system. The only exception was for a short period, when a minister felt threatened while staying in the building alone at night, and we installed Brinks.

We have experienced four incursions into our Chapel building in the past few months. Since we installed new locks for all the deadbolts and one security camera, entry was attempted at least once, but the person did not gain entry.

A committee of three is investigating a more robust security system. Sandy Maghan, Cheryl Ostrander, and Rev. Maur have narrowed the options to Simplisafe, Ring, and Arlo.

Community Outreach

We are reaching out to the larger community with improvements to our Facebook and Meetup pages. Thanks to the efforts of the Woodland Rising team, we are seeing more activity on social media and some visitors. The team comprises Art Jones, Cathy Daniles, Michele Giammatteo, Suzan Naslund, Camille Lockling, and Rev Maur.

The Woodland Rising team is considering revising our website's home or landing page and giving our webmaster, Carolyn Tiebes, some new material.

This team is fluid in makeup and is also open to suggestions.
