

Full Time Faculty: Assistant Professor of Biochemistry

Review of applications will begin on January 25, 2023

Position Description:

The Multnomah University Department of Natural Sciences invites applications for a full-time Assistant Professor of Biochemistry with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2023. This is a full-time faculty position with a course load of 24 credit hours per year in the traditional, on-campus undergraduate environment. The candidate will be expected to teach a two-semester General Chemistry sequence, along with upper-level courses in the biology area, which may include Organic Chemistry I, Biochemistry, Genetics, Molecular Biology, and other courses of interest. The ability to teach physics is a plus. The candidate should also be a practicing Christian with an interest in integrating their faith with their course teaching. Additional responsibilities include academic advising, mentoring, and university service.

Minimum Requirements:

A doctorate-level degree (ABD will be considered) in biochemistry, molecular biology in biochemistry, molecular biology, or a related field, with documented teaching experience at the college level. Support of the University mission and doctrinal statement is required. The preferred candidate will have a strong interest in faith integration. Diverse candidates are encouraged to apply.

Institutional Information:

Multnomah University includes undergraduate and graduate programs as well as Multnomah Biblical Seminary located in Portland, OR. All programs are coeducational and interdenominational. Founded in 1936, the college, graduate school, and seminary have established a heritage of excellence in biblical education equipping Christian men and women to transform our culture and the world. The university offers B.A. and B.S. degrees in 19 majors as well as five university M.A. programs and one M.S. program. The seminary offers M.A., M.Div., and D.Min. degrees. Multnomah University is accredited with the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities (NWCCU). Multnomah Biblical Seminary is accredited with the Association of Theological Schools (ATS). In addition, Multnomah University is a member of the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities (CCCU).

Compensation:

Compensation commensurate with education and experience. Compensation includes Full time benefits, including medical & dental options, vision, life, short and long-term disability policies beginning the first day of the month following one month of employment. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.
Find the online application here: Careers | Multnomah University

Contact:

Sarah Gall,
sgall@multnomah.edu
Phone (503) 251-6431

MULTNOMAH UNIVERSITY

8435 NORTHEAST GLISAN STREET PORTLAND, OREGON 97220 PHONE: 503.255.0332 TOLL FREE: 800.275.4672 WEB: WWW.MULTNOMAH.EDU
