Your Voice Counts

Wake County needs your voice. Your unique ideas, background and experiences can help plan for a future that benefits everyone.

There are many ways to get engaged—from joining a committee or volunteering for a board to providing feedback on a project or sharing information with your network. Regardless of which you choose, you'll play an important role in improving the quality of life in your community.

Community is much more than belonging to something; it's about doing something together.

- Brian Solis

When residents are engaged, everyone benefits. Help Wake County define the decade and create the equitable community we want to live in together.

How Do I Get Involved?

Wake County created the East Wake Counts initiative to share information, showcase opportunities to interact and collect feedback from residents.
