

THE BRIDGING TIMES

Being a Developer Is Cool, Until...

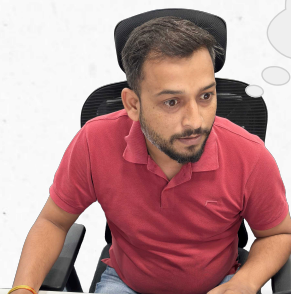

...the manager says "bas ek chhota sa change hai", and it's a whole new feature

...there are 8 P1 tasks to complete by EOD

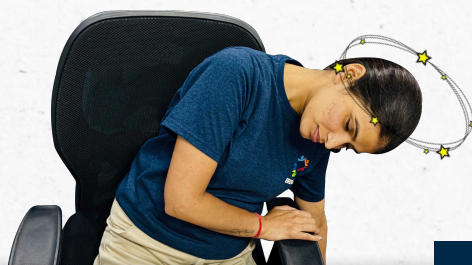

...you push to master instead of staging

...you realize the API doc was last updated in 2022

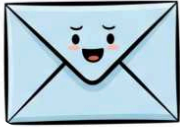

...the code "works on my machine" but not on prod

...QA finds 99 bugs right before launch

Emails

Meetings

Email

Why talk in person when we can type it out and avoid eye contact?

-Nupur Sharma

Email

Kijiye meeting meeting.
Kariye meeting meeting...

-Shivalik Kashyap

Email person

-Sehajpreet Kaur

Meetings

Human Interactions are always better than mails and mails many time skips and when it's meeting things are taken seriously.

-Vivek Chaudhary

Email

First, an exact, non-GPT-generated email with requirements should be provided. Then, if both parties find it necessary, they should schedule a meeting with prior notice.

-Amandeep Walia

Meetings

Because we can't hit someone in email!

-Gagandeep Singh

Email

Emails. They let me suffer in silence instead of in a conference room.

-Nikhil

Email

Email doesn't require me to make a fake smile!!!

-Ankush Sharma

In-person meetings

In-person meetings are great for complex discussions, brainstorming, and resolving conflicts.

-Harjinder Singh

I prefer emails because they're quick and to the point.

I prefer emails, because they save time and keep things clear without unnecessary discussions.

-Dinesh Kumar

Meetings

I chose meetings over emails because emails don't come with coffee, awkward silences, or the thrill of figuring out who accidentally left themselves unmuted. Where's the fun in that?

-Sukhbir Singh

In-person meetings

Where else can I pass an hour just to hear what could've been a two-line email.

-Sankalp Parmar

It depends.

If it is conveyable simple information - email. If it requires human connection to move the project forward - meeting.

-Sonam Kainthla

None

ईमेल से कॉन्फ्यूजन बढ़ता है, मीटिंग से कॉफी का खर्चा

-Jagdeep Singh (Designer)

Email

In case anyone wants to make cute lil claims like 'Maine kab bola' or 'Maine bola tha' later.

-Prakrati

Meetings

Meetings nothing beats real conversations, instant clarity, and the human connection that emails just can't match.

-Shivam Panchal

This could've been an email, always!

Because you can type an email and erase it before sending it out, but you can't say something out loud in a meeting and take it back! :D

-Sakshi Aneja

Meetings

It's the only time I feel like part of a secret society. You log in. Everyone's staring. No one knows why we're here. But we all nod.

-Riha

I'm all for in-person meetings!

Emails can tell you what needs to be done, but in-person meetings give you the facial expressions, the laughs, and sometimes even snacks.

Priorities, right? 🍕

-Madhu Chauhan

Na hi email, Na hi meeting

Tang mat kro bhai mujhe!

-Anirudh

E-Mail

No one can see that eye-roll while reading them.

-Tanya

Depends

I like in-person meetings as long as there's coffee ☕, snacks 🍩, and a dramatic plot twist every 15 minutes. Otherwise, I'm firmly in the 'this could've been an email' camp—preferably one with gifs. 🤔🤔

-Kavita Sohal

In-Person meetings.

Meetings make it easier to clarify details in real time, avoid misunderstandings, and reach decisions more quickly than long email exchanges. We are open for more discussions and in email it would just be a piece of information passed on.

-Nalini Dass

Big fan of meetings. Especially the ones where nothing gets decided. "This could've been an email", yeah, but where's the drama in that? Why email when you can summon a council?

Email gives me clarity, mostly on why I avoid opening emails.

-Richit Sharma

Meetings

I prefer meetings over long emails as conversations feel clearer and more personal. They save time, cut down on back-and-forth, reduce miscommunication, and ensure everyone leaves with the same understanding.

Standing Strong With Flood-Affected Families

Our thoughts and prayers are with the people affected by the devastating floods in Punjab, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir, Uttarakhand, and other areas. The floods have disrupted daily life, damaging homes, livelihoods, crops, and essential infrastructure. Behind every number recorded is a family that has lost not just a home but a sense of normalcy.

In these difficult times, volunteers, NGOs, and locals are coming together to bring food, medicine, and relief to those in need. Communities are showing resilience and unity, yet much more support is urgently required.

We stand in solidarity with those affected. We encourage everyone to come together in this time of need and extend support through verified organizations. Together, even small acts of kindness can create ripples of relief and hope.
